PRIEST CONFESSES TO MURDER OF WOMAN WHOSE BODY WAS FOUND IN HUDSON RIVER SEPTEMBER SECOND

Rev. Hans Schmidt Was Priest and Bridegroom at Marriage Without Witnesses; is Now Confined in Tombs Prison After Relating Details of Horrible Crime to New York Parish Rector and Police

Vicar-General of Archdiocese of New York Commences Investigation Into Credentials of Accused Who Possessed Medical Skill

New York, Sept. 15.—With the arrest yesterday of the Rev. Hans Schmidt, assistant rector of St. Joseph's Roman Catholic church, charged with the murder of Anna Amuller, a domestic, the mystery surrounding the finding 13 days ago of parts of the dismembered body of a girl in the Hudson river was solved. Schmidt, according to the police report, has confessed, and at the time of his arrest attempted to commit suicide by cutting his throat with a safety razor blade.

"I killed her because I loved her so much," Schmidt is alleged to have told his captors. He had married her through a ceremony of his own performing, without witnesses.

Makes Full Confession.
According to the police and the district attorney's office, Schmidt's confession was full and absolute. In it he is quoted as saying that he killed the woman with a butcher knife and cut up the body with the knife and a saw. The deed was committed, the police say, while the woman slept, shortly after midnight on September 2.

A gayly colored pillow of unusual pattern led to Schmidt's apprehension. This pillow, stained with blood and soiled with the filth of the river, was wrapped around a portion of the torso. The detectives traced the pillow to its manufacturer; the manufacturer traced it to the dealer; the dealer traced it to Schmidt.

The priest was dressed in full clerical garb when the detective entered in the parish room of his church in West One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street. The inspector had discovered a photograph of Miss Amuller and asked Schmidt if he knew the girl.

Accused Awaiting Arrest.
Schmidt, after a moment of hesitation inquired whether his visitors were police officers. His actions indicated that he was expecting arrest. He then asked permission to change his clothes, and it was when he left the room that Inspector Faurot claims he tried to cut his throat with a small razor blade.

Early yesterday Schmidt said to the Rev. Mr. Huntmann, rector of St. Joseph's church, that he had no more confessions, and when asked for his reason, said, "I have something of importance to tell you." Schmidt then told all that had transpired in the Bradhurst avenue flat where his alleged confession to the police says he murdered the girl. Father Huntmann conferred with his other assistants, and it was agreed that the authorities should be notified. The police, however, say they were then about to arrest him.

Schmidt was taken to the Tombs. According to the police he made a full confession, after which he was committed to the Tombs until the inquest is held.

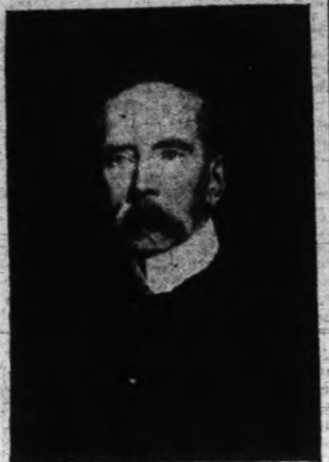

Church Investigating.
In the hope of branding Schmidt as an impostor, the church authorities began to-day a sweeping investigation of Schmidt's record and his pretensions to ordination.

"We hope, of course, to be able to prove that this unrepentant monster was an impostor, and that he had been using forged papers," declared the vicar-general of New York. "That is something which we are trying to clear up now. He came to this diocese with credentials which apparently in every way were authentic and genuine, but we know practically nothing of him. His crime is too horrible to conceive. We can only hope that he may prove to have been a pseudo priest."

Killed as Sacrifice.

In his cell in the Tombs, with coat as a pillow, Schmidt slept soundly and arose this morning to partake of a hearty breakfast. He had to add to his alleged confession of last night in which he is said to have told the police that he killed his victim as she lay in bed, cut up her body in the bathtub of the apartment where he had established her, wrapped it in five bundles and dropped the bundles in the Hudson river. To the Rev. L. J. Evers, the Tombs chaplain, Schmidt was said to have made the following declaration: "I was directed to kill her by St. Elizabeth, who is my patron, as a sacrifice."

LATE FRANK I. CLARKE

FRANK I. CLARKE DIED YESTERDAY

Well Known Provincial Official and Former Newspaperman Passes to His Rest

A faithful public servant, a good citizen and a man who was an honor to his old profession as a newspaperman, has passed away in the person of Frank I. Clarke, a quarter of a mile from the rooms of the association bearing his name, where it had lain in state since Saturday afternoon. Tens of thousands of men and women gazed on his features there and a throng such as only the East Side can furnish followed the body to-day to the cathedral, and to its last resting place in Calvary cemetery, Brooklyn.

A year ago Mr. Clarke had to seek the milder climate of the prairie and returned much improved in health. Since then he had seemed to be much better than he had been for some years and attended to his public duties as faithfully as he had done in all the years since he entered the service of the province. For the last couple of days of last week he was rather unwell than he had been for some time, and his physician diagnosed the immediate trouble as acute peritonitis. Everything possible was done for him, but he sank gradually during yesterday, and died came at 5 o'clock at his home, 115 Colinton street.

The remains were removed this afternoon to the residence of the late Mr. Clarke's son-in-law, H. E. Canavan, 100 St. Charles street. The funeral will leave there to-morrow morning at half-past eight o'clock and at nine o'clock a solemn requiem service will be held in St. Andrew's cathedral. Interment will take place in Ross Bay cemetery. Mr. Clarke is survived by his wife and five children, Harry Clarke, Mrs. H. E. Canavan, Mrs. W. H. P. Sweeney, Louis Clarke and Miss Mollie Clarke.

Francis Ignatius Clarke was born in Montreal in 1848, to which city his parents had emigrated a short time before the period of a great influx of Irish people to the Canadian metropolis. His father was Francis Clarke, a native of county Monaghan, and his mother before her marriage had been Ann Connellan, whose home was in county Armagh. Mr. Clarke was educated by the Jesuit fathers in St. Mary's college in his native city.

After leaving the college Mr. Clarke entered the old Royal Military school in Montreal, and graduated from that institution before he was of age in 1870. He served in the Victoria Rifles for a time as a youth, and when trouble broke out on the Red river and an expedition was planned under the late Lord Wolseley, then Sir Garnet Wolseley, he joined the Quebec Rifles in order to go to the front. After the trouble was over he remained in the west, in which he saw great opportunities for a young man, and in the future of which he always had the fullest confidence.

Studying law Mr. Clarke was admitted to the Manitoba bar in 1871, and practiced in Winnipeg for some years. He was clerk of the county court for the judicial county of Selkirk, and deputy prothonotary at Winnipeg from 1872 until 1878. Meanwhile his literary talent was finding a channel in the early papers in the then small town west of which was nothing but trackless plains, on which he already saw great communities of people, although many of his friends thought he was unduly optimistic.

Finally newspaper friends prevailed upon Mr. Clarke to embark on a journalistic career, and for over thirty years he did an immense amount of work in behalf of the west, and became one of the leading newspapermen of western Canada. He was connected at one time or another with the Manitoba, the Northwest Review, the Manitoba Free Press, the Northwest, the Winnipeg Telegram and Town Topics. In 1899 he came to Victoria to join the editorial staff of the Globe and he also did work on the Vancouver World and the Province and the Nanaimo Herald and other provincial papers. At the same time he was contributing poems and sketches to many magazines and eastern papers, and he did much to make this province known in the East by his correspondence with the chief papers in Montreal and Toronto.

About seven years ago Mr. Clarke was offered the post of secretary of the provincial bureau of information,

BOWERY MOURNS AT LOSS OF SULLIVAN

Throng Such as East Side Only Can Furnish Attended Funeral

SOCIETY AND SLUMS JOIN IN MOURNING

With Gaynor and "Big Tim" Gone Cup of Sorrow Among Poor Overflows

NEWSPAPER COMMENT ON POLICE NEGLIGENCE

New York, Sept. 15.—"Big Tim" Sullivan passed through the streets of the East Side for the last time to-day. His body was taken to the old cathedral of St. Patrick, a quarter of a mile from the rooms of the association bearing his name, where it had lain in state since Saturday afternoon. Tens of thousands of men and women gazed on his features there and a throng such as only the East Side can furnish followed the body to-day to the cathedral, and to its last resting place in Calvary cemetery, Brooklyn.

Seldom has the East Side mourned more eloquently. In the army that passed by the body lay the poorest of the poor, and women in silks and furs mingled with their poorly-dressed sisters from the tenements. During yesterday the Bowery was full of grief when the news spread to the uttermost alleys and remotest tenements that "Big Tim" Sullivan was dead. The funeral, which furnished them free shoes in winter and clam bakes in the summer was no more, and when the word went around that a mass meeting out of respect to the congressman was to be held in the Timothy D. Sullivan Club on the East Side, the district flooded there with thousands of men and women who were overflowing with friends of Timothy D. Sullivan as well as those who knew him only through his benefactions, and crowds trying to get into the place blocked the sidewalks.

With Mayor Gaynor dead at sea and "Big Tim" Sullivan by a railroad train, the East Side felt that their cups of sorrow were brimming over. Timothy D. Sullivan, member of congress, aged 52, was reputed to be worth $2,500,000.

Perhaps no man in all New York was known personally or by sight to more people than "Big Tim," politician, the best known sportsman, and philanthropist. Yet, for twelve days his body lay in a morgue unrecognized, while the man was missing and a hue and cry was sent broadcast throughout the city and vicinity.

Commenting on this feature, the New York Evening World says: "Big Tim" Sullivan was one of the best known men in New York, and if his body was allowed to rest in a public morgue for two weeks without identification, the inquiry arises: How many sons who disappear are allowed to drift to the potter's field through the negligence and inefficiency of the police?"

which antedated any of the other public organizations of the west. It was felt by the government of that day that no one better fitted could be found than Mr. Clarke to organize the new office and his work in that position in the years since have justified the choice they made.

Mr. Clarke was one of the founders of the Canadian Club in this city and was its first secretary, his earnest work to that connection having much to do with putting the club on a solid footing. He was continued in the position until he insisted on giving it up owing to his health. In politics Mr. Clarke was a Conservative and for twelve years he was honorary secretary of the Liberal-Conservative Association in Winnipeg. On coming to this city he became a prominent figure in the councils of that party here and remained so until he joined the public service.

One of Mr. Clarke's literary works was his collaboration with the late Alex. Begg in the authorship of the well-known and valuable work, "The History of the Northwest." He was a member of the Imperial Federation League, a strong believer in imperial unity and preferential trade, and in his newspaper he made a specialty of articles dealing with the progress and development of the Canadian west.

As a veteran Mr. Clarke was well-known. He naturally took part in the Northwest rebellion, in which he fought as a member of the Winnipeg Light Infantry. The burial to-morrow will be with military honors as far as practicable. The Fifth Regiment will furnish a gun carriage on which the body will be borne from the house to the cathedral, and from there to the grave. It is expected that there will be a large attendance of military men.

UNIONIST LEADERS VISIT KING GEORGE AT BALMORAL. NEW SIGNIFICANCE GIVEN LORD LOREBURN'S HOME RULE PROPOSAL

Statesmen and Press Fail to See Conference Between Parties Brought About; Lord Curzon, Also King's Guest, Declares It Impracticable; O'Brien Believes Parties Will Meet If His Majesty Issues Invitation

Outside Party Politics Opinion Increases That Opposing Sides Should Meet; Clergy State Convictions in Print Supporting Appeal

ANDREW BONAR LAW

London, Sept. 15.—Though the cabinet ministers have so far made no response to Lord Loreburn's appeal for a conference on Home Rule, the week-end visits of Unionist statesmen including Bonar Law, Lord Curzon and Lord Revelstoke, with King George at Balmoral, have given a new significance to the appeal, and it is beyond doubt that the question is now engaging the serious attention of leaders on both sides. It cannot be said, however, that to-day's comments by politicians and party newspapers afford much ground for believing that the proposed conference will be brought about.

Lord Curzon on Saturday flatly declared the proposal to be impracticable and declared that the gulf between him and Mr. Redmond would not be bridged. Joseph Devlin, Nationalist M. P. for West Belfast, yesterday suggested the same thing more indirectly, although he would heartily welcome a Home Rule bill based on a universal franchise. The only wholehearted support of the conference from any Irish quarter comes from William O'Brien, who thinks that neither the Liberals nor the Unionists can, or will refuse to participate in one if the invitation comes from the King.

The suggestion that King George should call such a conference is regarded with considerable misgivings. It has been the part of the anti-home rulers, according to the government press, to say that the King's Majesty from the outset in the Home Rule controversy, regardless of the consequences to the royal prerogative, which must be gravely affected should the proposed conference fail.

The sympathetic speech of Ellis Jones Griffith, under secretary for the home department and member for Anglesey, and who describes himself as a Christian Liberal, made a great impression all round. Mr. Griffith was speaking in Scotland on the proposed conference and though he was careful to explain that he was only expressing his individual opinion there were three principles which he thought should be accepted as the basis: First, that there must be a change in the existing government of Ireland; second, that the change must place a greater share of the government of Ireland in the hands of Irishmen in Ireland; third, that there should be a parliament or assembly or council voicing the views of Ireland as a whole.

Outside the confines of party politics a strong and increasing volume of opinion favors the proposed conference. In to-day's Times such widely differing public men as Canon Sandy, of Christ Church, Oxford; Rev. Stanley Rogers, son of the late Dr. Guinness Rogers, and Henry Mayers Hyndman, the veteran chairman of the Socialist party, all support Lord Loreburn's appeal.

Before going to Balmoral, Mr. Law conferred with Lord Lansdowne and Arthur J. Balfour, the former leader of the opposition, who is spending the week in Scotland. It is therefore evident that the Conservative leaders are in consultation.

The newspapers of both parties are evidently anxious for some settlement which will prevent the civil war threatened by Ulstermen if Home Rule becomes law.

The present manoeuvres have raised public hopes in England, but even if a conference of the parties is arranged, any agreement seems hopeless. The English party might get together, but the gulf separating the Irish factions is far too deep.

Premier Asquith is pledged to give the Irish leaders complete home rule. They will accept nothing else. On the other hand, the Protestant Ulsterites refuse to consider any change in their present status in the United Kingdom which might place them under a government controlled by the Catholics.

CHANGES PROBABLE ON RAILWAY COMMISSION

Broder May Succeed Mills and Bergeron in Place of Deputy Bernier.

Ottawa, Sept. 15.—Rumor has it that two changes are to be made in the personnel of the board of railway commissioners. James Mills, who was appointed in January, 1904, it is said, will be succeeded by Andrew Broder, M. P. for Dundas since 1896, and one of the government whips. He went west with Premier Borden in the pre-election tour of 1911.

The deputy chief commissioner, Hon. M. E. Bernier, it is said, will be succeeded by J. G. H. Bergeron, former member for Beauharnois. Hon. Mr. Bernier was minister of inland revenue in the Laurier government of 1900, and was appointed to the railway board in 1904 at the same time as Commissioner Mills. The appointment of Andrew Broder would mean a vacancy in the Dundas seat.

STAMPEDE ON FOR NEW PLACER FIELD

Ranch Houses Between Francois and Ootsa Lakes Deserted by Male Population

JOURNEY FROM TELKWA OCCUPIES FIVE DAYS

Construction on Grand Trunk May Cease If Railway Men Join the Rush

GOLD-SEEKERS MUST CARRY ALL SUPPLIES

Telkwa, B. C., Sept. 15.—Men who went south from here over a week ago to investigate the discovery of placer gold reported by Price, Eckley and Pearson, have returned to Telkwa satisfied with the richness of the field. The men who have returned, Colla Munro, Ira McLean and King, state that in no instance where panning operations have been carried on by men on the ground has a single barren pan been found. All showed coarse gold in varying quantities.

The new find is on Sibbald Creek, one of the tributaries of Tahsta river, about 110 miles to a southeasterly direction from Telkwa, and about fifty miles from the headwaters of Kemano river, which empties into Gardner Channel. The men who have gone in from here have taken the Morrice river trail.

The latest arrivals from the field to reach Telkwa were B. N. M. Hopps and George Aisy. Two days were spent by them on the creek, and they also state that in every pan washed more or less gold was found, and that this was also the case with other prospectors. One man who was washing his gravel on a shoveler found a piece of gold about the size of a five-cent piece. All the gold at present discovered has been found before bedrock was reached. The shortage of provisions was the only reason why bedrock had not been reached prior to leaving.

Every man in this district holding a miner's license is either represented by power of attorney or is on his way in to the new field. Ranch houses between Francois and Ootsa Lakes, into which the Tahsta river empties, are inhabited by women and children only.

All the men are off to the goldfields. Lack of provisions and the necessity of recording their claims are given as the reason why more prospectors have not brought in samples of their find. The Sibbald Creek has been covered for its entire length by locations, and the tributaries are now being prospected by new arrivals.

Billy George, of Aldermore, who is now on his way in, told Mr. Hopps he had discovered coarse gold on one tributary.

The extent of the field is unknown. Tahsta river valley is, at its widest part, approximately thirty miles wide, and the party who came in with Colla Munro and Ira McLean state that in a considerable portion of the country the rock, as far as the prospectors noticed, is slate.

The most favorable route into the country after leaving Telkwa and Aldermore is by way of Francois lake. No supplies can be obtained after leaving this vicinity. The journey takes five days in.

It is hardly necessary to state that the stampede is on in full blast in this locality. In fact, construction work on the G. T. P. may be serious impeded, as five thousand men are now employed within a radius of 125 miles of the new find. The field can be reached from the outside by boat up Gardner's Channel, thence up Sibbald Creek, but there is a most difficult country to traverse for over fifty miles. Outside expeditions would have to carry all supplies from the point of embarkation. The lack of provisions for men in the field is causing not a little anxiety here, as every pack horse is on the trail coming out.

FACTS SUPPRESSED IN SIBOLLA STRIKE

Coarse Gold Panned in Nearly Every Instance but Bed-rock Not Reached

Telkwa, B. C., Sept. 15.—New light has been shed on the recent discovery of gold made by Messrs. Price, Goodwill, Askey and Pearson by the arrival here of Colin Munro and Ira McLean, of the King party, who confirm the rumors that the original discoverers tried to suppress the facts. Coarse gold has been panned in nearly every instance by the parties named.

B. N. M. Hoops and George Askey came in on Friday and confirmed this statement, deprecating the sensational stories which have been spread regarding the find. According to the latest advices, owing to the depth of gravel, bedrock has not yet been reached. On No. 9, just below the first discovery, coarse gold shows in varying quantities in every pan.

The five days' journey which is necessary even with light equipment to get within civilization and record the find, is claimed as the reason for the short stay made on the ground.

Sibolla creek is already staked and all the tributaries are being prospected. Billy George, of Aldermere, is finding gold on No Name creek. About 100 men are on the ground at Sibolla creek and the tributary known as the Tahsta river. This is 100 miles southeast of Telkwa and there is a good trail through the Franciscan Lake country from the Grand Trunk right-of-way.

There has been no stampede of the railway construction workers as yet, but Telkwa and Aldermere are denuded of men, as also are the ranches which are anywhere near the trail.

SUFFRAGETTE WAYS BARRED IN NANAIMO

Magistrate Has Screaming Woman Banished From Courtroom

Nanaimo, B. C., Sept. 15.—Fighting and screaming a woman disturber was dragged out of court here Saturday afternoon by three policemen. The woman, Mrs. D. Hynd, took a prominent part in the disturbances yesterday near the railway station, when her husband was arrested. He was arraigned with five others in the police court, and when his case was called, the woman arose in the gallery and started to abuse Chief Constable Stephenson, who was conducting the prosecution for the crown.

"He wanted to arrest me, too," screamed the woman pointing at the chief. Chief Stephenson and the magistrate both ordered her to be quiet or leave the courtroom, but she continued her uproar, calling on the police to take her to jail, and taunting them with being afraid to do so.

"Put that woman out," ordered the magistrate, adding that he would stand for no suffragette tactics in his court, and three constables approached her. Springing from her seat the woman rushed to the end of the gallery and placing her back against the wall scratched and fought the officers, who at first attempted to have her leave the court peacefully. When she would not listen to reason they dragged her out of the room and down the stairs to the courtyard, where they released her.

D. Hynd, Chris Pattinson and Hector Guggis were arraigned on charges for the part they are alleged to have taken in the demonstration Friday. John Vineck appeared on a charge of picketing and intimidation, and John Quigley and James Wallace were charged with taking part in riotous destruction of property at Extension. They were all remanded without bail for eight days.

B. C. FREIGHT RATES BEFORE COMMISSION

Canadian Pacific and Eastern Millers Called on to Show Cause

Ottawa, Sept. 15.—An important sitting of the railway board will be held in Ottawa on Thursday, when a number of cases of more than general interest will be heard. Among them is the case arising out of the action of the board in suspending the new tariffs proposed by the railway companies on grain and grain-products in less than carload lots.

The new rates, which were to have come into effect on September 1, were objected to by the Dominion Millers' Association, which maintained that they involved an increase in charges from five to six cents per hundred-weight on all shipments of less than carload lots between points east of the head of the Great Lakes.

In view of the protest of the millers, the board suspended the new tariffs and on Thursday the railway companies will be asked to justify the proposed increase.

Other cases to be heard by the board on Tuesday include the following: The C. P. R. will be required to show cause why the supplement of the new tariff increasing the rate on lumber, shingles, etc., from the British Columbia coast and interior mills to points on its 800 division, should not be disallowed.

The railway companies, through the Canadian freight association, will be required to present to the board the basis of joint class and commodity tariffs that are already published and filed in accordance with the undertaking given the late chief commissioner of the railway companies by MacInnes and Hayes on April 10, 1912.

GOLDFIELD DINES BY ELECTRIC LIGHT AGAIN

Wreck by Cloudburst Estimated at $100,000, and Causes Two Deaths.

Goldfield, Nev., Sept. 15.—The hotels of Goldfield last night served dinner by candle light. In the middle of the meal the electric lights unexpectedly were turned on. The diners stood up and cheered as the orchestra played lively tunes.

It was the beginning of the second night of Goldfield's darkness. The turning on of the lights marked the end of the flood, which resulted from Saturday's cloudburst.

The cloudburst caused the wreck of about fifty cabins and cottages. The total property loss is still estimated at $100,000. About $20,000 was lost by damage to flooded mines, and the loss of power during thirty hours.

As far as searchers could learn, no more were killed than the two women whose bodies were found Saturday. They were Mrs. B. P. Degarmo and Mrs. Eulalia Robles. The Elks' lodge and the Women's Club cared for the homeless. Flooded homes were put in habitable shape when the waters receded. Trains are promised to-day with their double burden of passengers and mail.

FRIENDS BUY THAW TICKET TO ENGLAND

If Released He Would at Once Follow Plan of Pugnill Johnson.

Montreal, Sept. 15.—Immigration officials have heard that Harry K. Thaw's friends had procured for him a through ticket from Colebrook, N. H., to England by way of Montreal. This ticket was to be used, they heard, in case Thaw should be released by habeas corpus proceedings or otherwise at Colebrook.

According to the report Thaw was convinced that the immigration officials could not touch him were he to pass through the Dominion on a through ticket, basing his belief on the case of Johnson, the negro pugilist.

This report gave color to the rumors of kidnapping Thaw at Colebrook already strengthened in the officials' opinion, by the presence there of a group of Thaw's Conspicuous partisans, and by the heavy guard placed around the prisoner. Thaw's ticket to England was purchased within an hour or so after Thaw had been arrested at Colebrook.

INDIANS ARE SHOT IN BRAWL NEAR KIMSQUIT

Vancouver, Sept. 15.—Word reached this city Saturday when the steamship Cheloshin arrived from the north that in a drunken brawl near Kimsquit cannery on Wednesday night, three Indians were shot to death and a fourth was fatally wounded. The dead are Charles Wilson, his wife and Watebe Goss. George Paul, the wounded man, is now in the Bellin hospital. Fishermen from the cannery found Wilson and his koochman lying dead in an open drifting boat. Goss was in another boat near by. The provincial police are investigating and may make an arrest upon arrival at the scene.

BOTHA WAS HELD BY MINERS' REVOLVERS

Sensational Stories Current of How Rand Strike Ended on July 5.

Johannesburg, Sept. 15.—Sensational stories are current regarding the conference between the government officials and miners leaders, which resulted in a settlement of the gold mine strike on the Rand on July 5 last. Some of the labor leaders assert that General Louis Botha, ex-premier of the Union of South Africa, minister of the interior, and defence, were compelled at the point of a revolver to sign the agreement, but General Smuts has issued a denial.

After the settlement was signed at the Carlton hotel, according to Secretary Bain, of the trades federation, and Secretary Matthews of the miners' association, all the conferees stood on the balcony of the hotel, and observed soldiers with rifles levelled, ready to fire at the crowd of demonstrators in the street.

Two of the labor leaders covered General Botha and General Smuts with revolvers.

"One shot and you are dead," said one of them. The ministers thereupon commanded the soldiers not to shoot.

MAN IS RELEASED AFTER TWENTY YEARS IN JAIL

Salem, Ore., Sept. 15.—"Good-bye, boys; I'm going; good luck to you," said Charles Slegie, for years known by keepers and prisoners alike as Oregon's "model convict," as he left the mess hall and walked into the office of Superintendent Lawson, of the state penitentiary, a free man.

Slegie had been confined in the penitentiary for 20 years for killing a man in Josephine county, and not once in the entire time had he caused the management the slightest trouble.

The man was given a conditional pardon by the governor and Superintendent Lawson announced that he had obtained employment for him.

A laxative to-day saves a sick child to-morrow. Children simply will not take the time from play to empty their bowels, which become clogged up with waste, liver gets sluggish; stomach sour.

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, or your child is listless, cross, feverish, breath bad, restless, doesn't eat heartily, full of cold or has sore throat or any other children's ailment, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," then don't worry, because it is perfectly harmless, and in a few hours all this constipation poison, sour bile and fermenting waste will gently move out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. A thorough "inside cleansing" is oftentimes all that is necessary. It should be the first treatment given in "icky sickness."

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the bottle. Look carefully and see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." Don't be fooled!

KING OF BULGARIA MIXES WITH SUBJECTS

Twenty-Five Thousand Cheer for Ferdinand at Sofia
Outside Cathedral

Sofia, Sept. 15.—Peace is again nominally restored in the Balkans. Bulgaria has subscribed to the terms dictated to her by her fourfold foe, while her eyes are upon the proposed European conference to right her wrongs, partially at least, by providing a more equitable and satisfactory solution of the vexed problems.

At the services held in the cathedral of St. Kral in recognition of the newly-made peace, there were in attendance King Ferdinand, accompanied by the minister of war, Vazoff, the Queen, ministers, members of foreign legations, and a throng of citizens. The service lasted two hours.

Upon leaving the church the King, instead of entering his auto as usual, in conversation with Gen. Radko Dimitroff, who walked by his side, stepped out among the people. When the great crowd caught sight of their sovereign a deafening shout went up of "Hurrah, long live the Czar." It was repeated and prolonged at every step by the 25,000 voices till the King reached the main thoroughfare.

As his intention of returning to the palace on foot had not been known, no bodyguard or police force was in attendance, and the King came into direct contact with the populace. It was an interesting crowd. Weather-beaten, swarthy soldiers, wounded men, trembling refugees who had fled before the Servians, Greeks or Turks, women deeply veiled and the sober faces of the sons of the fatherland, chafing under the galling "peace."

The King turned up Boulevard Doudoukoff, walking upon the shady side of the street still in conversation with General Dimitroff. On the way he met a sister of the German Red Cross Mission, stopped and greeted her. Farther on he espied a wounded officer with his arm in a sling. He stopped him and addressed him cordially. "Health and prosperity, my brave man." "Health and prosperity to your majesty," warmly replied the officer, whose words were drowned in the loud hurrahs of the crowd.

Then the King threw up his military cap and shouted, "Long live Bulgaria!" and again the crowd, "Long live the King, long live the army." His majesty then turned to the officer and added, "The vigilance of my officers and wounded men gives me great comfort. Long live the Bulgarian army." The words of the King were met with the loud and uncontrolled exclamations of the people whose enthusiasm reached its climax at the square before the palace.

Here with unaffected emotion he passed the hand of a soldier whose other hand was bandaged in white muslin. Then he laid his hand upon the shoulder of the wounded man and wished him health. "Long live our fatherland," cried the soldier. The crowd looked on with moistened eyes, and when the King started again, again wildly cheered, till entering the palace gate, he parted company with his devoted subject friends.

LESSARD WILL JUDGE WESTMINSTER HORSES

Indian Work to Be Displayed at Provincial Fair September 30.

New Westminster, B. C., Sept. 15.—Major-General F. L. Lessard, C. H., of Toronto, will act as judge at the third annual New Westminster horse show which will be held in connection with the provincial exhibition. The horse show opens on September 30, and will continue five days of the fair. It will be held in the new horse show building, opened last year.

Major-General Lessard is the officer commanding of the Toronto division of the Canadian militia. The display of Indian work and the Indians has always been a feature of the exhibition, and will be even more interesting at this year's fair.

WON $1,000 LEADING ROUND A BOAR

New York, Sept. 15.—Jack Stafford, cotton broker and horse fancier, won a $1,000 bet from Reginald Vanderbilt by leading his prize wild boar around the horse show arena at the Southern New England cattle fair at Lincoln Park Saturday. Vanderbilt jollied Stafford about his "prize pig," and finally said: "I'll bet you a thousand you haven't nerve enough to lead him around the arena for the crowd to see."

Stafford had the boar brought to the arena door, and, taking a good grip on the halter, he led the boar around the arena while 15,000 spectators applauded.

CHICAGO MILWAUKEE BUYS ON SEA ISLAND

One and Half Millions Paid for
270 Acres for Railway Purposes

Eburne, Point Grey, Sept. 15.—Rejecting as not feasible the acquisition in Vancouver city of a large tract of land for terminal purposes, the Chicago, Milwaukee & Puget Sound railway has, according to an apparently reliable report in circulation in Eburne, acquired at an outlay of $1,500,000, the 270 acres owned by Jacob Grauer, at the north-west corner of Sea Island, where terminals will be established. The move is in line with harbor improvements to be begun at the mouth of the North Fraser.

For some time it has been known among Sea Island farmers that something was happening among them. The smaller holdings adjoining Mr. Grauer's ranch changed hands some time ago, and although times have been hard all payments were made promptly. One farm was bought outright at $1,500 an acre. In all instances the name of the purchaser was withheld.

The strategic tract, which by common consent was declared the key to the situation, was that owned by Mr. Grauer. Situated at the corner of Sea Island, it has over a mile of water-frontage. The railroad company is also said to have purchased a tract on the mainland opposite Mr. Grauer's ranch.

OKLAHOMA HAS PEANUT CROP WORTH $4,000,000

Oklahoma City, Okla., Sept. 15.—The raising of peanuts has become a substantial industry in Oklahoma, the acreage having jumped from 40,000 in 1912 to more than 100,000 this year. Peanuts in Oklahoma yield from 40 to 200 bushels an acre, and in addition produce from one to two tons of excellent hay. The hay is almost the equal of alfalfa, and it is estimated that the crop this year should be worth considerably more than $4,000,000.

FRANK I. CLARKE.

Frank I. Clarke, whose death is announced in the Times this evening, was a quiet, unassuming and retiring man. Yet working within that serene personality was a force that probably had a strong influence upon the course of public events in the earlier days of this Dominion. Mr. Clarke had been a newspaper man all his days up to the time he joined the civil service of British Columbia. In his capacity as a journalist he became acquainted with and enjoyed the confidence of a great many of the leading public men of the country. He was not the stamp of man to boast of either his acquaintances or his achievements. But it is well known that Mr. Clarke, by reason of his long connection with Conservative newspapers and because there never was any doubt as to the sincerity of his political convictions, was an intimate friend of Sir John Macdonald and other leaders of a later day. He was one of the pioneers of Winnipeg, and probably because of his intimate associations with public men had more to do with making history in the Northwest than the public is aware of. His history will give him credit for. During his residence in Victoria Mr. Clarke had a large number of friends, who will sincerely sympathize with the surviving members of his family in their bereavement. Mr. Clarke had the reputation of being a very conscientious, painstaking official, and it will be no easy matter to fill his post in the public service.

THE DRYDOCK.

The announcement, reiterated weekly for the last few months, that the government intends to construct a drydock at Esquimalt, seems to have divided the local Conservative magnates into two schools of thought. The grave question upon which they are at odds is the selection of the site. One insists that it shall be near the old dock and the other argues that the most desirable location is in the cove on the right of the town. Each, of course, maintains that it is wholly disinterested, that it is actuated solely by a desire to have the dock built on the site best adapted for it and the advancement of the public interest.

There are two organs of the federal government flourishing in this city. One announces that the government engineers have already recommended the site. The other declares that they have not. Obviously one of them is not in the confidence of the administration on this subject, which, in a small way, is a calamity. Even a map has been published by one faction, purporting to show precisely the location upon which the trained eyes of the engineers have fastened.

The difference between the factions has been rendered acute by the announcement that considerable land adjoining the dock site proper would be required for a yard. This has impressed upon the vigilant faithful the possibilities of a speedy break into affluence which easily discounts such insignificant requisites as coal supplies for the dredges and the like. But the dock cannot be constructed in two places at the same time, so that one faction is bound to suffer unquenchable sorrow whichever site is selected. Each school of drydock thought, therefore, is endeavoring to swing the dock into the haven which will most directly benefit its peculiar fortunes.

The actual construction of the dock, to the extent of these amusing manoeuvres, at least, becomes a secondary matter. What is the use of an institution of this kind if the boys are not to be given an opportunity to make something out of it as early and often as possible? Why should they not be permitted to turn over a few real estate deals at a large profit, thus receiving a tangible reward for their life-long championship of the eternal principles of the Grand Old Party? The Minister of Public Works veteran of many a similar manoeuvre, will scarcely appreciate the situation. He himself in the salad days of his career in Manitoba had never endured the agonies of the uncertainty which the two factions of the party in this city are now suffering. He always knew where the various sites were to be.

It is time this jockeying was brought to an end. It is now five months since the deputation from the city extracted from the government the promise of a drydock at Esquimalt. There has been plenty of time for the engineers to report upon a site. The contract for a much larger work, the improvement of Toronto harbor, which will cost fifteen million dollars before it is finished, has already been awarded. The dock should be built on the site which in the opinion of the engineers is best adapted for it. They know more about it than either of the warring factions in the party ranks. Moreover, it should not be dangled up and down for the sake of making political capital.

"BIG TIM."

"Big Tim" Sullivan is dead, and many hearts in the great American metropolis will ache with sincere sorrow over the news, for the big, genial Irish politician was a true friend of the East Side. It was there he was born and there, like many another ragged urchin, he developed that mental attitude towards life and its problems that no other school can form. He earned his own living from the days of his earliest recollections. He was familiar with the misery and trials of the submerged tenth, and as he rose to affluence he never forgot the people of that lower stratum from which he came. Every year the waifs of the East Side received "unmistakable proof" of this fact. Shoes, clothing and other necessities he dispensed among them with a generous hand, and if the actual amount of his philanthropies could be estimated it would be found to reach a total that would shame the plutocrats of the more exalted levels of life who scorned "Big Tim" and his kind.

It was his kindness to the poor of the East Side which covered a multitude of failings. Sullivan was a Tammany chief, rising from the lowest ranks. His methods were Tammany methods, devious and often times unscrupulous. He was a man of ability and force, otherwise he would never have become a big sachem in the wigwam, and no doubt was largely responsible with others for the tremendous influence of this unwelcome organization on the political life of New York. He was also an astute business man and amassed considerable wealth, being heavily interested in the theatrical business and owning a large amount of property. Much of his wealth, no doubt, was made through those operations with which the reputation of Tammany is unfavorably associated, but much of it he gave to the poor and needy, the outcast and the suffering, in the congested slum districts of the city. Perhaps when the final judgment is given "Big Tim" will not fare so badly after all.

SHIPBUILDING.

When the Minister of Marine and Fisheries was here he discussed with the board of trade the various ways in which shipbuilding might be encouraged in Canada. One was to impose a duty on British built boats; the other was to remove the tariff from the materials which enter into the construction of a ship, and the third was to grant a bounty. It is unnecessary to cite the difficulties in the path of the first suggestion. Protectionist though Mr. Borden and his followers are, they will never erect a tariff wall against the importation of British-built ships.

They might slightly reduce the duty on raw materials, but in doing so they would arouse the antagonism of some of the interests which placed them in power. Besides, we question if such aid would be very effective. Even if we were permitted to import materials free of duty, the British shipbuilder still would enjoy an immense advantage in the cost of labor and other particulars. The third suggestion mentioned by Mr. Hazen was to grant a bounty, but this, he pointed out, was unpopular in many quarters.

All that the Minister could promise was that the government, as far as his department was concerned, would construct the vessels required for its service in Canada. It is a pity he did not come to this decision a year earlier. In that event the Canadian shipbuilders would have had an opportunity to lay down the fishery protection cruisers now being built in Old Country yards. Even admitting that it would have cost considerably more to have them built here, Canadian workmen would have had the benefit of the expenditure.

But, unconsciously we think, Mr. Hazen outlined the best way in which the Canadian shipbuilders can be assisted. It is to give them ships to build. At present the needs of the government service are so limited that the assistance embodied in confining the construction of its ships to Canadian yards would be negligible. A fishery cruiser or lighthouse tender once a year would be next to nothing at all. To induce men of capital to engage in the industry on a large scale there must be an assurance of continuous work which will act as a guarantee of interest on their investment, and enable them to cater to commercial shipbuilding with some prospect of success.

An excellent opportunity for affording assistance of this kind awaits Mr. Borden, if he will only break through the net in which he is entangled on the naval question. If he will follow out the permanent policy embodied in the naval law of 1910, elaborating it if he wishes, shipbuilding in Canada will receive the desired stimulus. We know for a fact that a local firm can arrange with a big British enterprise to establish an extensive plant at Esquimalt if given an assurance of continuity of work such as would be provided in the adoption of a permanent naval programme in Canada. Australia already has a shipbuilding industry of growing proportions, employing thousands of men, in consequence of the adoption of a naval policy such as we desire for this country. She also intends to promote the establishment of steel works so that she will not have to import the necessary materials.

It is this economic phase of the naval question we have repeatedly urged for consideration. It more than meets the argument of excessive cost, which Mr. Borden has so often advanced against the policy of constructing ships in Canada. No other form of aid could be half so effective, and if Mr. Borden will forget that presumptuous memorandum of Mr. Churchill about Canadian incapacity and join with Australia and New Zealand in carrying out a real logical permanent policy, he will have done something worth while for Canadian industrial development.

Having been defeated both in the country and in Congress, and the tariff bill being practically ready for the president's signature, the Big Interests of the United States have now commenced an agitation for the creation of a tariff commission. The duties of the commissioners will be to "take the tariff out of politics and adjust the scale of duties scientifically from time to time." Just like our Canadian high protectionists. Don't by any means give the people who pay the taxes a chance to say a word about the rate of taxation. Everybody knows how unreasonable the people are, sometimes. Also occasionally they are dreadfully unscientific and display a great deal of common sense in their treatment of politicians who think they can make gods of them all the time. We would not be surprised if the Big Interests which put Premier Borden in are worrying not a little just now as to whether this mania for tariff reduction may not cross the border and help in putting Borden out. At any rate the cry now is for tariff stability, not for duties as high as Haman's gallowes. That in itself is considerable of a revision.

The Kaiser must fear for the future of his magnificent empire. A high official of the Krupp company challenged a member of the Reichstag to fight a duel. The member, being a confessed Socialist, refused to accept mortal combat as a possible means of determining whether he was justified in proving that the big gun makers had deliberately and systematically created war scares in order to make work and profit for the Krupps, besides bribing officials to give the Krupps tips on tenders submitted by competing firms for the construction of guns and armaments. It is hard to say what fate may have in store for Herr Fiebknecht after that.

Mrs. Pankhurst, it appears, is not coming to America for the purpose of carrying on the propaganda that has gained her fame of a certain kind. She is crossing the ocean on a business mission. That is, we think it is entirely a business mission, as she is going to deliver a series of lectures on a subject that is seldom mentioned in the family circle. So we apprehend that the suffragette leader, in whatever long-due she may happen to be, steers such a course as is calculated to bring her the greatest profit. In Britain she gains notoriety, then she crosses to America and gathers the harvest that follows judicious advertising.

It is interesting to note on the day of the opening of the shooting season in British Columbia that British sportsmen are complaining because American plutocrats are alleged to have leased all the best shootings in the United Kingdom. We wonder why the big landowners over there will condescend to have "truck and trade with the Yankees." What is a little thing like seven thousand pounds (the amount paid for one shooting) when weighed in the balance against a great principle? We are almost sure that none of our Canadian Tory patriots would be tempted to a fall by any such paltry consideration. What?

The American man is losing his gallantry, his chivalry and all other qualities that go with these two. A whole car load of lower berthers on a train recently refused to a man to yield a place to the president's daughter, and that young lady was compelled to attempt to sleep all night in a bumpy, swaying, sweetening, upper section. And the worst of it is that the men all knew it was Miss Wilson who had to make the ascension. They were told of it, and rudely said the president's daughter was no better than anybody else's daughter.

Perhaps it would have been just as well had Mr. Sinnott, whose letter we published, let the Dowler matter rest. As the question has been disposed of we shall refuse to publish any more letters on the subject. This intimation is necessary, inasmuch as we detect an inclination on the part of a certain section of municipal politicians to take their prolific pens in hand and write long communications on the subject.

THE UNREASONABLE (?) JAPS.

Philadelphia Record.
Was there ever a more unreasonable nation than the Japanese? They continue to "smart" under that California kick and will not be appeased by the offer of an indemnity and the additional privilege of giving us a kick in return. The suggestion that Japan adopt a measure, similar to the California land bill, excluding Americans from land ownership entirely, or restricting their rights to the express provisions of the treaty, does not meet with an enthusiastic welcome at Tokio. Possibly the Japanese have heard something of the maxim that two wrongs do not make a right; but what business has a heathen nation to quote the Golden Rule or any similar principle of Christian ethics?

THE INDEPENDENT ELECTORS.

London Advertiser.
The independent men can really control an election. The strength of parties in the great majority of the constituencies is not so very uneven, and a few independent men can hold the balance of power. Unfortunately these few independents are practically unknown. They are not among the leaders, as a rule. They are not in the limelight; their votes are cast silently, and they influence only that particular election. They have no effect in raising the standard of the independent political thought of the whole country.

A Terrific Train Wreck, an actual one, showing the clash of engines, the smashing of machinery, the overturning of coaches, the flare, smoke and grim hideousness of such an accident, from a point of view that must have been extremely perilous for the camera men, is the high value of "The Call," a two part Vitagraph special feature. It is one of the strongest photo-plays of its kind that has been produced, telling the story of a man's revenge upon a false friend and showing the manner in which his unruly passions finally recoil upon himself. The manner in which the plot of the play has been worked out deserves special comment for its originality of treatment. This great picture will be presented at Metchoan theatre Monday and Tuesday with a full supporting programme.

Y. W. C. A. Board Meets.—Mrs. Frank Adams, the president, occupied the chair at the annual meeting of the Y. W. C. A. held on Friday afternoon, when the general secretary reported a membership of 235. The Travellers' Aid secretary reported having met 165 boats and 27 trains, the total number of people to whom assistance had been given being 161, including a number of small children. The Sunday services had had an average attendance of 27, and addresses had been given by Dean Dault, Miss Craig, a Chinese missionary, Miss Bowden, of Winnipeg; Miss Rogers, also of Winnipeg; and Mrs. Vickery, of New York. The winter classes were also planned, and all departments were reported to be progressing favorably.

"OFFICER 666" "A riot of clean fun" exactly describes Augustus MacHugh's famous melodramatic farce, "Officer 666," which appears at the Victoria Theatre two nights commencing Sept. 19, and which ran for nearly a year at the Gaiety Theatre in New York, and when Gothamites continue to laugh and applaud a comedy for that length of time, it must be "some play." "Officer 666" is a sure enough play. In construction it is absolutely novel, and its many scenes are so full of action, its climaxes so tense, in unexpected surprises, that its audiences are treated to thrill after thrill in a perfect maze of mystery. If you want to laugh without interruption for two mortal hours see "Officer 666."

Desertion Charge Adjudged.—The case of Charles Southworth, who is accused of deserting his children, was again before the police magistrate this morning and was remanded until to-morrow.

Need Retaining Wall.—Engineer just reported to the city council that a retaining wall at the foot of the Dallas road slope would cost $4,000, while a retaining wall to protect the sidewalk would cost $1200. Alderman Porter's opposition to any expenditure at this place occasioned an adjournment of the matter to Monday and in the meantime Alderman Cuthbert proposed to show the necessity for the wall to Alderman Porter.

Seek the Missing.—More missing people are being sought by their friends and the aid of the Victoria police is asked in the search. Mrs. Jane Meyers is being looked for by her brother, Joseph S. Nicholson, Colton, Cal. Mrs. Meyers and her husband, Charles Meyers, moved to Vancouver in 1889 and are believed to have moved to this city subsequently. Harry Haagen, Adelaide, Wash., is trying to get information as to the whereabouts of John Unbricht, a lumber-camp worker, who was last heard of at Pender Harbor.

Good Harvesting Conditions.—Edward Fortescue, of London, England, is staying at the Empress hotel for a week or so after travelling through Canada and stopping over for a couple of months in Alberta. He states that the grain harvest in the prairies is particularly good, and excellent weather was experienced during harvest time so that the greater part of the grain has been gathered in without mishap. Mr. Fortescue reports a period of unusual dryness at Medicine Hat where he stayed for several weeks.

SPEAKS OF UNITARIANISM Rev. W. Copeland Bowles, of London, Declares It Opens Way for Larger Conceptions.

That the frequent charging of Unitarians as enemies of Christianity was an entire misrepresentation, as their true desire was not to destroy anything true, noble and helpful, but to preserve and enlarge the religious thought and life of men, was the declaration made by Rev. W. Copeland Bowles, of London, England, who preached yesterday evening from the text, "I came not to destroy, but to fulfill," St. Matthew v. 17. His address dealt with the "Message of Unitarianism," the hall being well filled.

People how were living in an age of grave doubt and unrest in regard to many religious problems which had not disturbed their forefathers. The progress of physical science, biblical criticism and comparative religion, along with a new sense of brotherhood, had shaken the foundations on which the theologians had built their creeds and ceremonial observances. Some advised stopping the ears and eyes to shut out the sounds of modern knowledge in its relation to religion. Others urged the putting of religion aside altogether in favor of complete immersion in secular affairs. These were counsels of despair. Against all such Unitarianism urged men to deny and defy error and superstition. They should follow reason and obey conscience forcibly and fearlessly. In removing narrow, obsolete conceptions a way was opened for the acceptance of larger, nobler, more inspiring conceptions which added strength, dignity and beauty to religion and human life.

Unitarians had no quarrel with the serious and devout adherents of other religious faiths. If men found in Roman Catholicism, Anglicanism, Methodism, Presbyterianism or any other form that which satisfied them and made them better citizens, Unitarians wished them Godspeed. There were, however, large and increasing numbers of men and women in all countries to whom the older theology had ceased to appeal, its doctrines no longer ringing true. To these people Unitarians had a special message, faith and freedom.

On Wednesday evening Mr. Bowles will give an address at 8 o'clock on religious thought and life in England.

A meeting of the Ithorian football club will be held in Appleby's rooms, Government street, on Tuesday night. All players are asked to attend, and anyone interested is invited.

THE MANUFACTURER WHO HELPS YOU

Mutual is the interest of the retailer and manufacturer.

They both live through service—the better the service the more they prosper.

Service consists not only in having what the people want, but in letting them know you have it.

Consumers are newspaper readers. Every reader of to-day's TIMES is a possible consumer.

They may want the very thing you have—but if they don't know you have it—the want is unmet.

The short cut from factory to consumer is through consistent, definite newspaper advertising in which the name of a reputable manufacturer and a reputable retailer is linked.

Such advertising reaches the people at once. It reaches them at the psychological moment when they want the goods.

It sells the goods, profits manufacturer, retailer and consumer.

Merchants and manufacturers interested in local advertising for nationally distributed articles are invited to write to the Bureau of Advertising, American Newspaper Publishers' Association, World Building, New York.

SHOWS LUMBER INDUSTRY

Moving Picture Films of Forests and Logging Industry of B. C. Have Just Been Completed.

A series of moving picture films dealing with the forest and timber wealth of British Columbia has just been completed by W. Stentich, the operator in charge, at the instigation of the Provincial government.

These pictures will be shown throughout the empire and in many European countries besides, and will also be shown in schools where special facilities are afforded as part of the instruction in geography.

During last week scenes were taken in the bush around Campbell river and Timber Inspector George D. McKay assisted in arranging some of the scenes. The officials of the Canadian Western Lumber Company, owners of the Fraser River Mills, placed an automobile at the disposal of the party for a trip into the woods and the last few miles were made on a hand car.

The whole series will cover the entire history of the timber and lumber business of British Columbia. They will show miles of standing timber, the operator being busy while the hand car was progressing through the woods. Then the whole business of lumbering from the time that the first notch is made in the trees until the forest giants fall to the ground and are sawed into logs is shown. One tree thus exhibited is a huge fir, fifteen feet in diameter. The life of the shantymen, the work on the skid roads and logging lines, the construction of the great log booms and all the multiplicity of phases of life in the great lumbering camps are faithfully recorded on the films.

Mr. Stentich declares that the series of pictures will rank among the most powerful in the whole annals of the moving picture business.

EARL OF DENBIGH HERE

Is Ninth Successor to the Title Accompanied by Lady Marjorie Fielding.

The Earl of Denbigh, now a guest in this city with Lady Marjorie Fielding, his twenty-one-year-old daughter, is the ninth of his line which was founded in 1822 when Sir William Fielding, who fought on the Royalist side in the Civil War, was awarded the title. Henry Fielding, the great novelist was a nephew of the third earl. The sixth earl collected the Cottonian library.

The present earl, until lately a lord-in-waiting to His Majesty, is colonel commanding the honorable artillery company which is now a part of the territorial forces. He was formerly A. D. C. to the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland and captain of the Royal Artillery. He served in Egypt in 1882. The earl is the son of the eighth of the line, was born in 1859 and succeeded to the title in 1892.

Lady Marjorie Mary Winifred Fielding is the fourth of seven daughters of the earl and countess and was born in 1892.

WORK AT FRENCH CREEK

Building of Steel Viaduct on Courtenay Extension Going on Apace.

Steel is now being assembled very rapidly for the construction of the bridges on the Courtenay extension of the Esquimalt and Nanaimo Railway and gangs of men are now actually at work on the construction of the bridge over French creek which is one of the most important viaducts in the line.

The stone piers for the bridge were completed practically to the end of the line some months ago, and only the nonarrival of the necessary steel retarded the putting up of the bridges. However carloads of steel are now arriving regularly and it will not be long before work on all the new bridges is well under way.

With the arrival of four or five carloads at French creek no time was lost and gangs of men immediately set to work on the preliminaries for construction.

The work is now continuing apace and before many weeks are gone it is expected the creek will be spanned by one of the modern structures which are rapidly replacing the old wooden trestles on all the ravines and gulches along the line of the Esquimalt and Nanaimo railway and extensions.

HUNTING SEASON OPENS

Numbers of Enthusiasts Are in the Field To-day on the Island.

There was a large exodus from the city yesterday of hunters, who desired to be on their favorite hunting grounds by daybreak to-day, when the season opened for grouse, duck, antelope and deer.

Carrying hunters who shoot over lands adjacent to the Esquimalt & Nanaimo line the trains on that road yesterday were filled with men, dogs and hunting outfits. On the roads leading out of the city there was a constant procession of motor cars and rigs of every description bringing parties of nimrods out to the scene of their annual onslaught upon the island's game.

Advance reports as to the feathered game are to the effect that they are in great abundance and in good shape. On the other hand there are more hunters than ever, and there will be no more per gun to be had than formerly.

Striking evidence of the large place hunting holds in the interest of the

"NOBODY'S WIDOW." The delightfully absurd and child-like things that supposedly staid and sane people do where they are verging on the sea of matrimony or have just embarked thereon is the motive that prompted the construction of the comedy "Nobody's Widow," by Avery Hopwood, which will be presented by Miss Vera Felton and the Allen Players this evening. As the title significantly implies the heroine is a widow with limitations and therein arises the incessant laughter that begins at the rise of the curtain and develops into a veritable cyclone at the final fall.

MAQUINNA STRUCK IN ALASKA; WAS DAMAGED

Princess Hauled Out To-day for Examination; Cause of Faulty Survey Work

What is held to be another illustration of faulty survey work on the part of the United States government resulted in the C. P. R. steamer Princess Maquinna bumping her hull against an uncharted rock near Yakutat, Alaska, while she was on her cruise with the members of the International Geological Congress on board.

The Maquinna was proceeding up a channel which is seldom frequented by steamers, but which was supposed to have been thoroughly surveyed by a party of United States hydrographers. The Princess was steaming slowly along between icebergs and the course she was taking showed no rocks on charts. When the steamer brought up suddenly there was considerable surprise.

It was understood that the Maquinna would sail for Clayoquot and other west coast ports to-night, but owing to the fact that she had to go on dry-dock the steamer Tees has once again been pressed into service.

The C. P. R. steamer Princess Beatrice was ashore on mud flats at Salmon River for a few hours the other day, but escaped off without damage and proceeded on her run north.

WORLD'S CHAMPIONS INTACT WITH EXCEPTION OF PRODDERS

Lester Patrick Returns From Successful Tour of East; Coast Hockey Outlook

Delighted with the treatment that he received while in the east, Lester Patrick, manager of the Victoria Hockey Club, returned to the city yesterday afternoon, bringing with him definite news of Victoria's probable hockey line-up this season, and also the information that hockey "wars" are a thing of the past, the Pacific Coast Hockey Association having thrown in its lot with the National Association in the formation of a hockey commission that will tend to place the game upon a more stable basis than the sport has enjoyed in the past. In other words, the hatchet has been buried between the east and west, and all is peace once more.

Goldie Prodders' Case.
"There will be at least one change in the line-up of the world's champions," stated Manager Patrick to the Times this morning, "and we are now negotiating for a player who will replace Goldie Prodders, who has been sold to Quebec. Prodders was released because of the fact that the London boy has a splendid chance offered him in Quebec of opening up a clothing establishment, and we would not stand in the way of his advancement. In business, it was a surprise to me when I learned that Prodders wished to remain in the east, as he had promised me before I left for the east that he would come out here. However, I will not rest until I have secured a defence player who will fill Prodders' shoes."

Rest of Team Signed.
The remainder of the team will be the same. Manager Patrick stopped off at Winnipeg and had a word with the star who once more wear the Capital Jersey, Skinner Poulton. Bobby Rowe and Walter Small are residents of this city, while Bert Lindsay was signed before he went back east. Bob Genge is sure to be on deck and Silent Ulrich will also be given a tryout. In addition, there are several promising amateurs who will be signed by the Victoria club on trial, and when the first practice is called, the latter part of November, the fans will be given a chance of looking over some of the best amateur talent that can be procured.

Gardner Released.
Of the players who were secured by the coast clubs from the N. H. A., Newey Lalonde and Frank Neighbors will play for Vancouver, while Art Throop will go to New Westminster. Frank Patrick, manager of the Terminal City seven, has decided not to play this year, and Lalonde will play point for the Vancouver club. Neighbors will play on the forward line of the maroon seven, while St. Grims will round out the defence. Vancouver will have a new goal tend, Manager Frank Patrick having several in view. There will be a couple of changes on the New Westminster team, Manager Jimmy Gardner remaining in the east. The Royals figured that they wanted a change of managers and Jimmy was declared a free agent by the coast league. Hugh Lhman is the probable choice of leaders for the Salmon

Coast League Annual.
As to the agreement between the two leagues, the coast magnates state that everything is in tip-top shape. The annual meeting of the P. C. H. A. will be held at Vancouver about October 15, when the agreement will be ratified by the coast league. Frank Patrick will likely be chosen head of the coast organization at this meeting, and he will confer with President Emmet Quinn upon some minor details. Several changes in the present rules of the P. C. H. A., including the off-side rule, will come up for consideration.

Not Slavery.
That the commission is a real one may be judged from the fact that there is a maximum fine of $2,500 for infraction of the rules of that body by any club, player or league. Post season games are assured and the coast champions will travel eastwards next spring. Six-man hockey will prevail in the east, while the coast clubs will stick to the seven-man game. Salaries will be reduced because of the agreement, but this will affect only four or five of the coast stars. The Patricks state that they will not force any man to leave the east who does not want to come to the coast, but will enforce the rules of the commission to the minute as regards training rules, suspensions and fines.

It is proposed to open the Victoria and Vancouver Arenas about the latter part of October, or at least on Thanksgiving Day. The teams will start practicing the first week in November with the men who are already here, and the first game is to be played the first week in December.

MAJORS WILL HELP THE WEAKER CLUBS
Cincinnati, Ohio, Sept. 15.—Major league clubs are helping minor league clubs in the drafting of players by major league clubs from minor leagues were present when the national baseball commission began its annual meeting here to-day. The members of the commission are: August Herrman, chairman; President Thomas Lynch, of the National League, and President Ban Johnson, of the American League. When the members of the commission went into session more drafts had entered than in any year since the national agreement went into effect. It was reported that the commission would discuss a new plan for drafting players which would give the advantage to the second teams in the major leagues and help build them up.

LOOKS FOR ANOTHER WINNER

Lester Patrick, manager of the Victoria Hockey Club, World's Champions, who states that he will again have a team that will be capable of defending the Pacific Coast hockey title. Prodders will be the only local player who will not play for the Capital City septette this year. In addition, a number of crack amateur stars will be brought to Victoria and there will be a big fight for places on the coast squad.

Tacoma, Wash., Sept. 15.—Tacoma took two games of a double-header from Victoria yesterday afternoon, the first by a score of 4 to 3, and the second 3 to 2. VICTORIA HOME FOR FINAL WEEK

Bees Broke Even on Their Road Series; New Material Looks Good

Bert Delmas and his bees arrived this morning from Seattle, and are prepared to make a clean sweep of the final week against the Indians. The bees dropped both games to the Tigers yesterday afternoon in a brace of stinging contests, but just broke even on their road series, trimming the Indians at Spokane, while they lost the odd game to the Tigers yesterday. The team has been hitting the ball right on the seam throughout the tour, and while bad fielding put the pitchers in bad luck yesterday, the team was traveling at top speed all the way, and dropped a couple of extra inning games through the toughest kind of luck.

Changes on Team.
Several new faces appeared with the team, Brown, the Moose Jaw twirler, having joined the club at Spokane. He will work this week, as well as Bobbie Steele, the Victoria port-sider. Jack Fitzgerald, the veteran right-hander was let go at Tacoma last week. Manager Delmas evidently figuring that he can take a chance on making the season with the younger talent. He has a big raft of new material to break in, and will work Steele, Barham, Slaton, Brown and Fitchner right along. Harry Meek is playing again, his leg having mended nicely. Charlie Brooks is once more playing first base, while Zimmerman is ready for duty in right field again.

Presentation to Swain.
All games this week will start at 2:30 p. m. with Tuesday as Ladies Day. A double header will probably be staged on Thursday as the team will leave Friday night for Tacoma. A presentation to Charlie Swain for his home run record will feature one of the games here, and Lester Patrick, the local sporting mogul, will do the honors. Sufficient funds have been collected to give Swain a very valuable diamond studded jacket, suitably inscribed.

Harry Meek, of the Victoria club, hit the Bull sign in Seattle, August 10. A letter from the Baseball Publishing Company of Boston, Mass., states that the $50 check for Meek has been issued and will be presented to him at Tacoma on September 21. From the letter it would appear that the check will be sent direct to Tacoma.

Outfielder Martin, of the Western Tri-State League, the player who was given a tryout by Seattle several weeks ago and was turned back to the Walla Walla club because the price asked for him was considered too high, obtained his release from Walla Walla and signed with the Seattle Northwestern team.

WELLS POPULAR DESPITE DEFEATS

Bombardier Wells, the English heavyweight, will celebrate his twenty-sixth birthday Sunday, having been born on the last day of August in 1887. No other pugilist has ever retained so large a measure of popularity in the face of frequent and decisive defeats as the clever Englishman. In 1911 he was knocked out by Gunner Moir in the third round at London. In 1912 he came to America and was laid low by Al Palzer in the third round of a New York bout. The fans paid $18,000 to see the English champion in action against the Iowa farmer, and such was Bombardier's popularity, they cheered him quite as heartily as the victor. Another big New York crowd turned out to see Wells in his fight with Gunboat Smith. The Englishman was put to sleep in the second round. Despite these decisive defeats, the English followers of the game did not lose faith in their champion. Wells was matched against Carpentier, the French champion. It was another Waterloo, but with the victory reversed, for Wells was knocked out, although he had an advantage of 25 pounds in weight and half a foot in height. That was a terrible blow to British pride, for it had always been held and firmly believed that no Latin could stand against an Anglo-Saxon in a fair fist fight. One would think, after that, that Bombardier would quit the game, but he didn't. Since then he has engaged in several battles, mostly with smaller men, and he continues to be a drawing card. One of his last bouts was with Pat O'Keefe, the Irish welterweight champion, and the Bombardier knocked him out in the fifteenth round.

Wells has everything a fighter should have, except the ability to assimilate punishment. That does not mean that he isn't game, for he is. It is simply that his body is too weak to stand much punishment, and a punch that most fighters could take with a smile crumples him up.

The secret of Bombardier's continued popularity is that he is a thorough gentleman. He has been called, and with good reason, "the Adonis of the prize ring." When whipped he does not whine nor offer alibis. He never lasts long, when pitted against a slugger, but while he lasts he gives an exhibition of clever boxing that inevitably arouses the admiration of the fans.

THE NEW BOWLER.

A new fast bowler was being tried for the village club. He stood seven feet high, had a pair of Sandow arms, and a face like a gargoyle. Whisker came the first ball, like a bullet from a rifle; there was a crash, and one of the stumps was sent back to the pavilion with a requi-t for a new one. Three other stumps were wrecked in the first over, but although the spectators cheered the captain of the fielding side wore a very worried look. "Don't put 'em in so fast, if you can help it," he remarked to the new man. "Not so fast?" queried the bowler with a ten-home scowl. "Why?" "Cos it's like a hard-up club you're playing for," snapped the skipper, "not a firewood factory."

RUGBY OPENING.

San Francisco, Sept. 15.—Stanford University and the University of California opened the Rugby season Saturday with games in which Stanford was defeated by a score of 5 to 3 by the San Francisco Olympic club, and the University of California played a scoreless game with the Barbarians of San Francisco.

REMARKED ON THE SIDE

Bees Cannot Hope For Better Than Fourth Place. Victoria's brace of defeats yesterday at the hands of the Indians just about squelched the aspirations of our Bees for a first division berth. It would have been really bright had the Bees been able to carry off both of these games, but the Fates were unkind and superior twirling beat them in both contests. The Bees can hardly be beaten for fourth place, but at that they will have to hustle if the Tacoma club keep up their good work. Victoria has shown a complete recovery of hitting powers, while the young twirlers have been delivering the goods in large packages. Seattle has taken a new lease on life and will climb from now on, while Vancouver will not find the Indians such a cinch. Fielder Jones' circuit has proved a big success this year and the close finish for the different berths in the league will help the clubs quite a bit as regards gate money.

Patrick's Return From Their Eastern Tour. There is no doubt that hockey will once more experience success on the coast as it did during last season. The Patrick's have always taken care to see that they give the coast fans the very best hockey that money can supply and they have not slipped up on this point this year. In their negotiations with the N. H. A. magnates, the Patrick's had the welfare of the coast clubs before them in all their dealings with Sammy Lichtenhein and Company, and they did not take a step that would weaken their stand before the public. The coast magnates were conceded all their demands by the N. H. A., and while Victoria loses Progress it was only because of the latter's wishes that the champions sold him to Quebec. Vancouver and Westminster have been strengthened, while there will be a number of new faces on the Victoria team. Looking the prospects over, everything points towards a bumper year for the "Ice Dogs."

Racing Will Open the Last of This Week. After all that has been said and done about racing, the public fully expected that some changes would be made in the plans for the coming nineteenth-century meet at the Willows. The Country Club management, however, are proceeding with their arrangements along exactly the same lines that were mapped out some months ago, and they expect that there will not be one change from the present card. The racing is set to open on Saturday, with over two hundred horses on the grounds, continuing without a break for nineteen days. One hundred and thirty-three races are on the entire card and many thousands of dollars will be distributed as purses and stakes during the local meet. Probably the most important announcement by the Country Club was that of the erection of a new race track in the suburbs of Victoria next spring.

EIGHTEEN COLTS SELECTED SO FAR

Eighteen Colts so far have stated their willingness to play in the Australian test games. The committee are anxious to have a list of between thirty or forty to select from, and will publish the name of those who are certain on the team so that they may prepare themselves.

The practice game next Saturday is for all applicants, the purpose being to see some of the unknown in action before final selection is made.

The following Colts have so far been selected:

- Mr. Haywood (captain)—Cowichan C.C.
- D. Carr—Hilltop-Cowichan C.C.
- Rupert Stevens—Cowichan C.C.
- M. H. Finlayson—Cowichan C.C.
- Chas. L. Price—Cowichan Bay.
- Geo. W. Liffon—Saahich C.C.
- D. W. Milne—Albion C.C.
- D. Fletcher—Albion C.C.
- A. F. Hudson—University School.
- H. Hudson—University School.
- E. H. Finlayson—University School.
- A. V. Forriston—High School.
- Albert Lea—Merrill Owen C.C.

All the foregoing are requested to notify by letter Crawford Coates, Winch building, of their willingness to play.

There are many more cricketers under 21 years of age, who would be a decided acquisition, who have not sent in their names. The request is that they do so as soon as possible.

Acceptances were received Saturday from the following: H. L. Robinson, Oak Bay; Waddington, Garrison; A. L. Men's Owen; D. N. Milne, Albion; W. H. Finlayson, Cowichan Bay; A. Carrier, Saahich.

BOLTON WANDERERS PURCHASE NEW STAR

The English soccer season is now well under way. The biggest surprise of the last few days of the close season was the announcement that Bolton Wanderers had secured the transfer of George Lillycrop.

George Lillycrop, who is a native of Gosport, in the Sheldes district, has been with Burnley since the end of the season of 1907. He is 5 feet 9 inches and weighs 11 stone 7 pounds.

He is 24 years of age, and is a centre forward of the daring and intensely earnest type, fast, and a clever shot.

The transfer fee is stated to be £1,200, a record paid by the Wanderers for any player. Their new centre forward commenced his career as a member of the South Shields Albion, and came into greater prominence with North Shields Athletic. His record:

League	Appearances	Goals
1908-9	32	18
1909-10	32	22
1910-11	34	11
1911-12	33	9
1912-13	38	22

In the season Burnley won the F. A. Cup, Lillycrop played in every tie and scored six of the 10 goals which won the greatest of all football trophies for the Yorkshiremen. Last season he appeared twice at inside right, against Stockport County and Preston North End, and in 1911-12 he played 14 games at inside right, whilst in 1910-11 he occupied all three inside forward positions.

LEADERS BROKE EVEN AT PORTLAND

Portland, Ore., Sept. 15.—Vancouver and Portland divided honors here yesterday and the Northwestern league season was ended so far as Portland is concerned, this being the final appearance of the teams here. Vancouver took the first game 5 to 2. The second, a five-inning affair, went to Portland 7 to 1.

Two close decisions by Umpire Toman brought a storm of protests from the Portlanders. With two strikes and two balls on Konnick in the fifth inning of the first game, Toman called a ball, although it was counted by Portland that Konnick struck at it. Clark followed with a double scoring two. In the tenth Helster was called safe at third in a close throw and this decision, too, was disputed hotly, the crowd threatening to attack the umpire.

Seattle, Wash., Sept. 15.—Seattle won both games of a double header yesterday, taking the first two to one, and the second three to two. Seattle outplayed Spokane in the field and made both games. The locals won the first game in the fourth inning on a base on balls and three hits after Spokane had scored one run on two hits and a wild pitch. In the second game with the score tied in the fifth Nil walked, and went to second on Jamer's hit and scored when Glie, batting for Martin, hit a long single.

AS SEEN FROM THE PRESS BOX

Tacoma took the series from the Bees. Kantlehner won a nice game on Saturday, beating Kaufman.

Vancouver cannot now be pulled out of first place. Those two defeats yesterday about killed Victoria's first division chances.

Victoria will have a chance to grab a few wins at the expense of the Tigers this week. It is likely that Bobby Steele will pitch to-morrow's game against the Bengals.

Narveson has not been very successful in his last few starts. He dropped two at Tacoma. That Prince club in the Coast League has now won seven straight games, and is rapidly climbing.

McGraw and his Giants may not be going as smoothly as a month ago, but they are sure plucky winners. Pat Callahan allowed but two hits yesterday at Portland, giving the Beavers but one run.

Brown was unable to score a win over the Indians; Blaton doing well when he replaced the Moose Jaw relief.

Jimmy Clark is about the one best bet that Bob Brown has on his staff for the past month.

McGinnity's crew is taking both games grabbed off twenty hits, while the Bees belted out fourteen safe drives.

COOMBS IS NOW IN THE HOSPITAL

Philadelphia, Sept. 15.—Jack Coombs, star pitcher of the Athletics baseball club and her of the world's series, is in the University hospital.

Muscles of the giant pitcher's back, weakened by a recent attack of typhoid fever, physicians say, were unable to stand the strain in his attempt to work into condition, and it is believed he may be placed in a plaster of paris cast for several weeks.

Physicians say that in rare instances following a severe attack of typhoid fever muscles of the body have been known to stretch. An X-ray photograph of the injured muscles will be taken to-morrow and a final decision made as to the need for the cast.

EMMONS CHOSEN. Bristol, R. I., Sept. 15.—Robert W. Emmons, Jr., of Boston, formally was chosen yesterday by the so-called Vanderbilt syndicate, to manage their candidate for the America cup honors next year.

Mr. Emmons, if the syndicate is selected to meet Sir Thomas Lipton's challenge, will be the first amateur in many years to handle a defender of the blue ribbon of the seas. It is understood that the yacht will be designed to spread 15,000 square feet of sail.

DECISION UNPOPULAR. Fonthill, Ont., Sept. 15.—The contest between Ed. Hagen and Larry Madden, of Portland, for the heavy weight championship of the northwest, decided in this city Saturday night, went the full limit of 15 rounds and at the end was declared a draw by Referee Charley Jost.

The decision was unpopular, for 6000 of the audience thinking Hagen had won by a wide margin.

Central Americans Celebrate Independence Day To-day.

In miniature capitals blistered by the tropic sun and washed clean by tropical rains; in little plazas gay with the brilliant colorings of flags and flowers, all Central Americans will congratulate to-day for the celebration of independence day.
While to-day is the actual anniversary of the overthrow of Spanish authority in all Central America, the fiesta usually covers four days. The municipal and national governments spend hundreds of thousands of dollars on these annual outbursts of patriotic enthusiasm.
Central America may be impoverished by continual revolutions; it may face the fearsome fate of being swallowed up by the giant "Yankee of the North"; it may be too poor to pay its debts, to construct highways, to support public schools, but—
Central America is not, and never has been, too poor to lavish public funds on public fiestas.

"The glorious fifteenth"—oh, so glorious—they call the fifteenth of September in the little one-horse nations ruled by pure patriots who fill their pockets from the public exchequer and then engage passage to Europe.
The festa of independence is observed by everybody in Central America, except the few "Yankee" Europeans who serve as agents for United Fruit and other corporations. For four days there are band concerts, parades by day and torchlight processions by night, banquets, fireworks, cocking mains, bull fights, and general and universal drunkenness. Everybody gets drunk except the babes in arms, the dark and often pretty nines who have not yet attained freedom through matrimony, and the "Yankee Figs," who are slaves.
Central Americans begin their annual orgy on the fifteenth, because it is their own independence anniversary; they continue it over the sixteenth, because that is Mexico's day of freedom; they extend it over the seventeenth on general principles, and they wind it up on the eighteenth because that is Chile's national festival. And in addition to those good and sufficient reasons, the Central American enjoys the sensation of being drunk.

Having fun with "Yankee swine" is one of the pastimes of independence day. Hatred of Americans has been a creed of the Central American religion ever since Walker's filibustering expedition. A few years ago the Guatemalan government was forced to pay $5,000 indemnity to an American hotel-keeper named Shibe in Zacapa, Guatemala, who had been almost killed by a commandante engaged in celebrating the national festival.
Central America, called by the Spanish the Kingdom of Guatemala, achieved its freedom on Sept. 15, 1821.
The Spanish governor, Gabriel Galins, favored the revolutionists, and thus made the provisional president of the junta. In the following year the federation was disrupted by turbulence, who annexed the country to his Mexican empire. The Congress of Salvador, opposing turbulence's rule, passed an act annexing the country to the United States, and appointed commissioners to go to Washington to bring about the incorporation with the great republic. Before definite action was taken, however, turbulence abdicated, and Salvador joined with the remainder of Central America in forming a confederacy. The attempted union was a failure, and the various states formed independent republics of their own. Many attempts have been made to revive the Central American Union, but, owing to petty jealousies, all have failed. Within the last few years large parts of Central America have been developed by American and European capital, and the governments of some of the countries are now practically controlled by these corporations.

An English treasury official was once sent over to Dublin to inquire into the expenditure of fuel in the courts. He was received politely by the late Lord Morris, the famous Irish law lord and wit, who said he would put him into communication with the proper person, and rang the bell. When the elderly female who acted as court-keeper appeared, he remarked, as he left the room: "Mary, this is the young man that's come about the coals."

THE HUMAN PROCESSION

Two eminent ex-presidents, William Howard Taft and Porfirio Diaz, will be the recipients of birthday congratulations to-day. Prof. Taft, who passes his fifty-sixth milestone, has been enjoying a pleasant summer in Canada, and has greatly increased his "batting average" as a golfer since he threw off the cares of state and returned to the ranks. Mr. Taft, however, did not leave his country because of any desire of his countrymen to be rid of him; as was the case with Porfirio Diaz, the grizzled old Spanish-Indian statesman and despot who will to-day celebrate his eighty-third anniversary. After ruling Mexico for over thirty years, Diaz is spending his old age in Europe, an exile from his native land. He has had whatever melancholy satisfaction he may be able to derive from the fact that Mexico has gone from bad to worse, and he has lived to see his successor in office overthrown and assassinated, in accordance with the peasant custom of the country. And he has seen his nephew, Felix Diaz, who was carefully educated under his supervision, triumph over his enemies, and again put the name of Diaz on the front page of the newspapers. Since leaving his country for what Mexicans at the time considered the country's good, General Diaz has lived principally in France, and he has recently taken up his residence in a magnificent villa at Biarritz. He has spent money freely in Europe, and it is alleged that he has several millions safely invested. Mr. Taft, on the contrary, left the White House financially poorer than when he entered it.

FIRST THINGS

The first serious railway accident in history occurred 83 years ago to-day, when William Huskisson, M. P., was killed at the opening of the Liverpool & Manchester railway in England. The first great railway disaster in which many lives were lost occurred on a French line at Versailles in 1842. The carriage, with the passengers locked in, were burned, and 53 people, including Admiral D'Urville, were victims of this gross carelessness. One of the most terrible of early railway disasters in America was at Burlington, Pa., in 1862, when over a hundred were killed in a collision. Canada's first great disaster occurred in 1864, when a train ran off a bridge at St. Hilaire, and 83 were killed and 200 injured. The railroads of the United States lead the world in railroad fatalities. During 1911 only 14 passengers were killed on British railways, as compared with 318 in the United States.

VACCINATION HUMOR.

Mrs. Will Crooks, talking to a Daily Mail representative about her husband's vaccination in Australia, recalled an example of Poplar humor, when she and the six children were vaccinated.
"At that time," she said, "every one who was vaccinated wore a piece of ribbon on the bad arm to warn people not to knock against it. We had to tie the ribbon on the wrong arm, for people about here used to make a point of banging into us."

American society women have taken up the fad of wearing after-dinner rings with such a rush that it promises to be one of the most successful fads of the coming winter season. The ring is made in various designs, comes anywhere from $500 up. The setting in some instances is 1 1/2 inches long, so that when worn it keeps the finger joint perfectly stiff.

MR. SINNOTT'S REPORT.

To the Editor:—I have no doubt the statements made in Mr. Wellington J. Dowler's communication to the city council have been read by many who, however indifferent to what transpires in the city hall or how the business of the city is carried on, nevertheless may be inclined to give credence to the statements he makes in endeavoring to refute the facts in my letter to the mayor of 11th instant.

This letter was written in reply to a request by the mayor for a report on the working of the office, practically the whole clerical work of which devolved upon me during the absence of Mr. Braulley on vacation and of Miss Cameron. I take it that, when this request was made, a truthful report was expected. Now, as I had or have nothing to gain by misrepresenting facts, the truth and only the truth was given, and I abide by every word of my report.

Mr. Dowler says, "I have seen a good many letters in my time, but I do not remember ever having seen or read a letter so completely crammed with misrepresentation and falsehood as this letter is from beginning to end," and also in an interview with the Times he is reported to have said that "these letters," meaning the one from the mayor containing his suspension and my report, "are obviously the work of one inspiring mind." I do not know the tactics usually employed in this country in civic matters, but an insinuation of this kind leveled by one civic official against another would lead me to suppose that in such cases the truth is expected to be withheld and all veracious scruples laid aside.

Mr. Dowler knows, as well as I do, and also the aldermen—or at least they should—that the state of affairs existing in the city clerk's office, instead of being exaggerated by me, or falsified in any way, are, in the contrary, reported conservatively, and would not be tolerated for one day were matters dealt with as they ought to be. Mr. Dowler knows better than any other person that my report is true, and while he has my sympathy for being in such an unfortunate position more or less all the time, I cannot pass over a statement of this kind. So far as his insinuation that my report was "inspired" is concerned, I submit that the ability to state facts does not rest alone with Mr. Wellington J. Dowler.

Although the press emphasizes the fact that Mr. Dowler has had a long connection with the city, I cannot see that this should justify matters being passed over without any inquiry by the representatives of the people. Of course, as I have already said, it matters little to me, but what does matter is that the public should be allowed to infer that while Mr. Dowler cannot err, my truthfulness is questionable. I invite Mr. Dowler, on the strength of my assertion, to obtain the report of any independent business man on the work done and being done in his office, and I know that my statements will be borne out by documentary evidence and the testimony of Mr. E. W. Bradley, assistant city clerk and other members of the clerical staff. Until this is done, I can only say that the city clerk is endeavoring to hide the true state of affairs in his office, by throwing aspersions on those who, without fear or favor, state facts exactly as they are.

B. J. SINNOTT, Secretary.

THE VERSATILES.

To the Editor: There is much disappointment among the people living in the immediate vicinity of Stadacona park over the action of the parks committee in recommending a renewal of the contract with the Versatiles people for next year. They had hoped that their earnest protest against a continuance of this nuisance would not be completely ignored by the committee.

That this performance is a nuisance to the people living near the park scarcely needs proof. Fancy having a constant "racket," such as is produced by the shouting, the loud singing and the piano-playing, under one's window for four or five hours a day, every day in the week, during the long summer months. That kind of thing may have oceans of amusement in it for some people, especially if they live a mile or two away from it, and go to hear it for a few minutes at a time, once or twice a week, but it becomes an intolerable nuisance when one has this noise ringing through his house morning, afternoon and evening every day for months. I fancy the members of the parks committee would not enjoy having an organ-grinder operating his instrument under their windows four or five hours a day for two or three months at a time.

"But we have to legislate to meet the wishes of the majority," says a member of the committee. In other words, in the opinion of this gentleman, the minority have no rights which need to be considered for a moment, even when that minority is seeking to be protected against a nuisance. People who have established homes on a quiet street in a respectable neighborhood are treated with scant courtesy when they present a respectful protest against having the quietness of their homes disturbed. "We have heard a great deal here to-day that we haven't heard for some time," said a member of this committee to the delegation which waited upon it to protest against a renewal of this contract. Such is a specimen of the aldermanic courtesy, to say nothing of its elegant English, to which the delegation was treated during the interview.

"We didn't buy this park for that purpose," was another of this gentleman's remarks. Some of the speakers, supposing one of the speakers, some of us were foolish enough to believe that it was the taxpayers and not the aldermen that bought the park, and we wondered how he discovered the exact purpose for which it was bought. But look at the financial side of the case. The people have paid $85,000 for this park, and the parks committee, who know exactly why "we" bought it, have given what practically amounts to a monopoly of the use of it, to one man, to utilize for money-making purposes, for $300 a season. In the loss of taxation and the interest on the purchase price, to say nothing of any direct expenditure thereon, the park is costing the taxpayers about $5,000 a year, and we are getting $300 for the use of it. And our wardens of finance consider this so good a bargain that they hasten to usurp the functions of next year's council by renewing the contract for 1914. And several of these men are aspirants for the mayor's chair. They aspire to be put in a position where they will have to supervise the expenditure of millions on our water, sewer and other public services.

Perhaps these gentlemen think that the people are getting the benefit of the park by attending the entertainments. That is a childish idea. The people pay for all they get at these entertainments, to as full an extent as do the patrons of any of the cheap amusement houses down town. The Versatiles management looks out for that end of it. Stories are told of patrons of this performance paying a good price for seats and then having a collection hat held before their face three different times in an evening. If the people have to pay full value for what they get there, and they certainly do, where is the difference between an entertainment there and one at a down town amusement house. Why discriminate in favor of one management over all others. It cost the down town managers a lot of money to provide their theatres and a lot more for taxes and maintenance. Why should the city provide $85,000 worth of property, practically free, for a counter attraction?

In all other places where such entertainments are given they are confined to the beaches or piers. This is the case at English summer resorts, in eastern United States cities, and in Vancouver. This is evidently the only place in the world where an aggressive like that would be planted down in the midst of a residential district, and kept there in the face of such an objection as was raised against it. And our parks committee is the only body in the world that do it.

This is the other side of the question, which the objectors would like to lay before the public.

OBJECTOR.

Victoria, Sept. 12.

BLASTING AT MT. TOLMIE.

To the Editor:—I am most anxious to draw the attention of the residents of Mount Tolmie and of the city of Victoria to the recent action of the Saanich council. It was decided at a meeting of the Saanich council to give permission to the Worswick Paving Company to blast rock on Mount Tolmie.

I understand that this paving company has contracted to pave the roads in this municipality, and that the company intends to form a rock quarry on the slopes of Mount Tolmie, and that this blasting and quarrying shall continue until the work of paving the roads is completed.

When I heard all this I confess that I was disinclined to believe it, for I thought this matter had been settled for all time. The Saanich council two years ago was strongly opposed to blasting being carried on on this mountain; they took the case to the courts and were successful. The Worswick Paving Company, our wardens at that time, took up the case strongly and was instrumental in preventing the further spoliation of the rocky eminence.

Our present reeve was then determined that no blasting should ever take place on Mount Tolmie. Now he has agreed to grant permission to blast there. I am wondering how he and the council have changed their views. The same beautiful view is obtainable; blasting is much more a public annoyance, for the public, feeling sure, have built more houses, and have bought property with the intention of making their homes in this locality.

What has got possession of our reeve? Does he not appreciate the beautiful view? Does he not grasp as clearly as before what a public annoyance it is? Has he forgotten that he is the guardian of the interests, and rights of the people he represents? Perhaps he has been mesmerized by this paving magnate! It is incomprehensible.

Now, Mr. Editor, I am hoping through your columns to induce the residents and property owners of Mount Tolmie and the citizens of Greater Victoria to rise up and protest against this monstrous injustice and most lamentable act of vandalism. I am absolutely certain that anyone who has ever stood on the summit of Mount Tolmie and gazed on the view spread before them will be shocked to hear that such a thing could be contemplated. Mount Tolmie and the surroundings should be preserved for the people of Greater Victoria at all costs. It is only twenty minutes' ride from the centre of the city, and now that a regular car service is operating I am sure that this spot will be one of the most frequented by lovers of the beautiful, and by men and women who want to get away from the city and the almighty dollar.

When the university commission visited Victoria in their efforts to select the best site for our university they were taken to the top of Mount Tolmie. On reaching the summit the chairman turned to the company and said: "Gentlemen, I take off my hat to this view; it is worth coming 3,000 miles to see."

Are the people of Victoria going to sit idle and watch this desecration? Will they not petition their city representatives to take a hand in preventing such work? Our people of Mount Tolmie, I am sure, will petition, will protest, will go to any length rather than endure our mountain to be further despoiled.

Again, Mr. Editor, I want to make a further plea, as I am sure you will, for our university school. We have within our walls some 200 pupils, and are responsible for their education, and this education means to us something more than what we can learn in the school-room. We have our class-teaching, we have our playing fields, and we supplement these by our beautiful surroundings. The pleasure and profit that our boys get from being able to take walks up Mount Tolmie is undoubtedly of the greatest value as an educational factor. We, that is the school, are highly indignant, and deeply resent the thought of being prevented from enjoying our Mount Tolmie and angrily protest against the shortsighted policy of the Saanich council.

Apart from all this, the blasting itself is dangerous to our boys, who are naturally nature lovers, and who wander all over the mountain. I suggest that the people who have bought property in the neighborhood with the object of making this a first-class residential district should write and show the gross injustice of the action. I suggest that the residents

PLAYGROUNDS DAY IS ATTENDED BY MANY

Mayor Presents Prizes to Winners; Supervisor and Trainers Congratulated

An interested crowd of spectators gathered at the North Ward park on Saturday afternoon to witness the annual playground and field day sports held there under the direction of H. G. Beall, of the Y. M. C. A., who has had the supervision of the playgrounds of the city for the past summer.

The proceedings were opened by Alderman Dilworth, chairman of the parks committee, who showed the keenest interest in the programme of events, and his worship the mayor, who was also present, gave away the prizes at the conclusion of the afternoon, congratulating the children on the excellent character of their work, and their instructors, Miss Jarvis, and W. Small, for the splendid system of training which they had adopted.

Notable improvement was seen in all departments, and some of the children made remarkable records during the afternoon, among the girls the broad jump by Hilda Hinder (aged 14) in the A division; doing 12 ft. 9 in.; Mary Preston, aged 13, doing 1 ft. 9 in. high jump; and Vera Boynton, aged 9, doing 3 ft. 10 1/2 in. broad jump. The boys had also done well. H. McIntyre, aged 15, made a record in a high jump of 4 ft. 9 in.; Peter Joseph "pulled up" 14 times; Howard Watson, aged 11, jumped 14 ft. in the broad jump; Thomas Moffatt, aged 8, jumped 9 ft. 11 in. broad jump; and R. Livingston, aged 12, jumped 16 ft. 7 in.

BACKACHE IS A DANGER SIGNAL

Kidney Troubles, Bladder Disorders, Rheumatism, and Serious Diseases Follow

There are other symptoms, such as pain in the region of the kidneys, nervousness, dizziness, tired and worn-out feeling, weak bladder, or urinary troubles, which are just as dangerous, for the slightest kidney derangement if neglected may develop into the deadly Bright's disease, dropsy or diabetes. It is not only dangerous, but needless, for you to suffer and endure the tortures of these troubles, for Croxone promptly ends all such misery. There is no more effective remedy for kidney, bladder trouble and rheumatism, than Croxone, because it reaches the cause. It soaks right into the kidneys, through the walls and linings, cleans out the clogged up pores, neutralizes and dissolves the poisonous uric acid and waste matter, that lodge in the joints and muscles and cause those terrible rheumatic pains, and makes the kidneys filter the poison from the blood and drives it out of the system.

Three doses of Croxone a day for a few days is often all that is ever needed to relieve the worst backache or overcome disagreeable urinary disorders. You will find Croxone different from other remedies. It is so prepared that it is practically impossible to take it without results. An original package of Croxone costs but a trifle, and all druggists are authorized to return the purchase price if it should fail in a single case.

THOUSANDS DISREGARD CHARLES' SUNDAY LAW

In Obedience to Federal Act All Stores Were Closed Yesterday but That Was All

On the social side the act of Charles II and that of Charles I for the better observation of Sunday were no more regarded yesterday than they have ever been or than they have been for long years in England, where they are a dead letter in practice. On the business side the law was obeyed but that was the federal law and not the provincial legislation declaring the old English law to be in effect here. So far as Charles was concerned thousands failed to observe the day according to the form prescribed by his lawmakers in the year 1676. There were as many empty pews in the churches as ever, the fine provided for neglect to exercise oneself in the duties of piety and true religion not having the slightest influence in improving the observance of duty in that regard.

In the parks hundreds of children were at play in the playgrounds while their elders, in Beacon Hill park, listened to what may be classed with the interludes of an earlier day in the form of an excellent band concert. Travel was indulged in to the utter disregard of the command of Charles that no one should travel except upon some extraordinary occasion, and at the lowest estimate one-half of the people of Victoria went outside their own parish during the day. The trains on the Esquimalt & Nanaimo and the Victoria & Sidney were crowded, the outgoing steamers had their quota of motors on land and sea carried away, and every other means of locomotion was availed of without any thought of the injunctions of a dead monarch.

It was impossible yesterday to obtain an icecream, a cigar, a newspaper, fruit, confectionary or any of the little things of that kind that Victorians have been accustomed to get, if they needed them on Sunday, ever since the city has been a place of habitation for the white man. In view of the legal decision of last week, which was brought about through the sale of a couple of cigars, every tobacconist had his place of business tight shut, and in order not to inconvenience patrons too much most of them had displayed notices prominently on Saturday that they would not be open the next day. The confectioners were all closed up and 85,000 stands were as silent as if there was

FIRST SERVICES HELD

Dr. Eber Crummy Preaches Morning and Evening Sermons at New Methodist Church.

Dr. Eber Crummy, of Wesley Church, Vancouver, preached at the inaugural Sabbath services at the Wesley Methodist Church, Esquimalt, both morning and evening yesterday. The subject of the morning service was "Life and How to Get It." This Dr. Crummy answered in the brief text: "Grow in grace." The word "grace," he said, suggested that life was the gift of God, who, in His very nature, is pouring out His life and expressing it through all His creatures.

Growth suggested the mode of reaching its fuller form, and made the experience of the body the symbol of the life of the soul as food replaced the elements of the body.

The three-fold food for the several elements of the spiritual being were: (1) Intellect; (2) the emotions; and (3) the will. These were the necessary conditions of growth. The highest food of the emotions of prayer; of the intellect, scripture; and of the will, duty. When the highest was sought, it imparted a capacity to the spirit to seek the best in all complex forms. In the evening Dr. Crummy preached on "The Function of Manhood," the text chosen to answer this being: "A man shall be as the shadow of a great rock in a weary land." The text was read to illustrate the idea of a great rock beating back the perennial drifts of the desert, and protecting a garden spot in its shadow. This metaphor might be used, he said, to illustrate the philosophy of life, duty, and prophecy. The philosophy of life taught that the individual was God's unit. The effectiveness of the several units might be increased by organization, but it was through the individual life that one discovered the will of God, and became an exponent of that will. If this were the philosophy of life, the greatest manifestations of life would have to be based on the same principle, and the greater man Christ be overshadowed. But what was true of the greatest was true of the least, and it was a characteristic function of Jesus to be the protector and saviour of His followers.

Homosacks: WATCH THE WANT ADS for light on the "where to buy" puzzle.

Not a busy world all around in which news was being made every minute. The smoker who had forgotten to provide himself with the weed in advance found himself an abstainer, perforce for the day unless he could find a friend with enough for two. Arrivals at the hotels were the most inconvenient, and the remarks that some of them are reported to have made would have made Miss Victoria's ears burn when they found that they could not get a paper or a smoke. Their impression that the place was dead is really undeserved, but even Victorians themselves had to admit that never has there been such a quiet time in the business sections of the city.

EASTERN CANADIAN LETTER

BY B. B. COOKE

Toronto, Sept. 12.—The Imperialists and the Nationalists in Eastern Canada are alike interested in the story which comes from Ottawa to the effect that the anomalies in the Canadian naturalization laws are finally about to be wiped out and Canadian naturalization will become a really desirable and advantageous thing to a man living in Canada. In place of being a serious disadvantage as it has in the past been proven in certain circumstances to be. The fact that Hon. George Perley is not really a British subject as the law now stands, has been known for a long time. Thousands of men who are entitled to vote in Canadian elections, and who might even become prime minister at Ottawa, were and still are in the same position until this new law comes into force, as if probably will at the next session of the Dominion House of Commons. To many of them the present law is quite good enough, and they would live and die enjoying all the privileges of citizenship that they could think of. But to any one of them who goes travelling in foreign lands, the omissions of the Naturalization Act as it exists at present are serious, and the corrections which are now to be made in it are accordingly important.

For instance if a Canadian, born in the United States, but having taken out his papers in say Winnipeg, goes to France or to Germany, or any other country for that matter outside of the British Empire, and is injured by a falling elevator or an automobile, or a sidewalk out of repair, or if he makes a contract with a person resident in that country and the other party breaks his part of the contract, the naturalized Canadian would have no redress. He could not sue the owner of the elevator or of the motor or the city that maintained the sidewalk in bad repair because as a naturalized Canadian he has absolutely no civil standing in that country, except by courtesy of the authorities. The native-born Canadian can go to the British consul and start his lawsuit or his criminal action—whatever it is—through that office, but the naturalization of the other man does not entitle him to the assistance of the British consuls or of any of the machinery of the British government existing in that place. He is much worse off as a naturalized Canadian than if he had never taken out his papers in Canada, for then he could have gone to the American consul if he was a native-born American, or to a naturalized American—and his interests would have been looked after. Much confusion followed the first announcement from Ottawa that this old state of affairs was to be done away with. It was at first stated that a man must live four years in Canada and one year in England in order to qualify for "Imperial" citizenship, that is, before he would be entitled to the protection of the British foreign service or any branch of it. This announcement roused the ire of the Nationalist element, who pointed out how ridiculous it would be to expect for one moment that a naturalized Canadian would ordinarily be able to leave his interests in Canada to go to England for a year. Lord was the scorn of the supposed measure. Recently, however, your correspondent was able to learn from the highest authority that such is not the proposal. Five years spent in any part of the British Empire, with one out of the five years spent in whatever part of the Empire the application for citizenship is made, entitles anyone to Imperial citizenship. A man may live in New Zealand six months, South Africa six months, Canada nine months, Newfoundland one month—it does not matter how he puts in the five years so long as it is within the British Empire, and one year of the five is spent in the place where he makes application for his papers. This puts him on the same footing exactly with any of His Majesty's subjects. The new proposal has not, indeed, become law, but an unofficial agreement has been arrived at between the department of justice at Ottawa and the authorities in London, which will become law after ratification in the British houses of parliament and the Canadian houses. One of the great anomalies of Canadian citizenship will thus have been cleared up.

Lord Haldane in the East. A gigantic figure of a man, with enormous head, gargantuan limbs, an intellect to match—and a high labored voice—has been absorbing the attention of Eastern Canadians recently. Montreal "hid him" for two days and a little more, during all of which time Toronto, Ottawa, Hamilton and the little towns and cities of Ontario were agog with curiosity. He was Lord Haldane, ex-head of the British war office and now Lord Chancellor, Keeper of the King's Conscience and the Great Seal of State. Lord Haldane's visit to Canada did not extend farther than Montreal. He saw no more of the country than lies along the York to Montreal. But his presence at the American Bar Association meeting in that city was looked upon not only as important from the standpoint of English interest in Canada, but as an opportunity for the Canadian people of at least part of the country to observe at close range one of the most interesting figures in the whole Empire.

Toronto was especially interested because the chancellor is also head of the judicial committee of the Privy Council, and so is at least officially connected with certain unfavorable judgments which the city remembers having had at the hands of that distinguished body. Ottawa was interested because it is said that Lord Haldane when he was minister of war was practically responsible for the Duke of Connaught's coming to Canada, in that he arranged to relieve His Royal Highness from certain military duties which would otherwise have prevented his coming. Students of foreign affairs are interested in the chancellor of the man who attempted, without the special authority of the British cabinet, to bring Germany and England together, with the result that Germany's overtures made through him on his invitation received no official recognition in England, and the minister of war was transferred to a higher but less discretionary post for his pains.

A gaily-faced man who takes no exercise, for months at a time, and who goes in for all sorts of excess in work, Lord Haldane is probably the healthiest man in the British House of Commons. In Montreal no amount of demand upon his time and energy seemed to trouble him. He was up early and to bed late, sight-seeing, reading speeches, and attending to his ordinary ordinary work promptly, and take no exercise perhaps for months, when he may, for all anyone can tell of his habits, take a fifty mile walking trip, and end it up as little fatigued as when he started out. "Why," said one of the members of his party, "Lord Haldane can sit up till five in the morning at some important debate in the House of Commons and then, after two or three hours' sleep, appear at the office by ten, looking as though nothing had ever happened."

The London Commissioner. The presence of the venerable Canadian high commissioner, Lord Strathcona, in Canada has revived all the rumors of his impending resignation, and questions are rife as to who shall succeed him. Premier Borden, who was in Toronto when word came that Lord Strathcona was sailing on the same vessel with Lord Haldane, declared he had not even known the high commissioner was coming, and that so far as he knew it had nothing to do with his retirement or resignation from his post.

Tumor continues to play with the names of Hon. Clifford Sifton and Sir Richard McBride, of British Columbia. Officialdom continues to say nothing. Meantime the high commissioner does not by any means look ready to retire, but able to fulfil his important duties for a good while to come.

Ontario Catastrophes. The city of London and the city of Peterboro both experienced ill-luck recently. Peterboro was shocked and horrified by the collapse of a departmental store, which caused the death of several young girls who were in the building at the time. In a comparatively small city like Peterboro the event was like a personal shock to most of the inhabitants. It turns out that the city had no building inspector, and the repairs which were going on at the time of the collapse had not been planned under official supervision or license. London's loss was not a loss of life, but a loss of public property. One-half of its exhibition buildings were wiped out owing to the carelessness of a vagrant smoker who tossed his cigar butt, still glowing, into some inflammable material. The exhibition had just recently secured federal aid, and it had been expected that the western fair, as it calls itself, would be a bigger success than ever.

Thaw in Canada. Toronto and Montreal newspapers are strong in condemning the practices which permit the long delay in dealing with Harry K. Thaw's detention at Sherbrooke, P. Q.

"Just watch," said one familiar with legal processes in Canada, "there'll be a big effort made by some, if not all, the lawyers that get mixed up with that case to delay it as long as possible with technicalities and red tape. They know the Thaws have plenty of money, and they are going to prolong the agony just as long as they possibly can. It means fees for them whether they do Thaw any good or not."

While this is the view which is generally accepted, there is nevertheless a feeling that it is regrettable that Canadian law, which is so often held up as being better than American law processes, should lend itself to technicalities which, if they were a poor man, would never be dreamed of, and possibly would not even be listened to.

PROFESSOR MILNE WAS FIRST SEISMOLOGIST

Eminent Scientist Was Indirectly Responsible for Establishment of Station Here

The late Professor John Milne, F.R.S., the eminent seismologist who passed away on July 31 at his home at Newport, Isle of Wight, was, together with others, indirectly responsible for the establishment of Victoria's seismological instruments, and in view of this fact and his fame as a scientist whose original work has proved one of the discoveries of the century, the story of his life is of more than usual interest to Victorians.

The late professor was 63 years of age at the time of his death, which followed an acute attack of bronchitis. By profession a mining engineer, he worked in that capacity in Newfoundland and Labrador, afterwards going as a geologist into North-western Arabia with Dr. Peke's expedition. It was a mere chance that he took up the study of earthquakes seriously. He was still quite a young man when Field, the famous American cable-layer, sent to the School of Mines for a man to go out to Japan. Young Milne was selected for the post, and although demurring somewhat at the short notice, went to the land of "chrysanthemums." And it there that he invented the seismograph that revolutionized the study of earthquakes.

The best years of his life were spent in Japan. He accepted the professorship of Tokyo University, and after the death of his first wife, married the daughter of Kerikawa Noritsune, the Japanese Abbot of Ganjo-ji, Hakodate. A charming, diminutive lady, she was always much admired by those who knew her in the professor's home at the Isle of Wight. She added picturesque to her husband's work in his home, surrounding him with beautiful eastern relics, and burning incense before the chief of them—an impressive, majestic Buddha.

It was a serious earthquake at Yokohama in 1880 that led to the institution of the Seismological Society of Japan and caused the Japanese government to depute Professor Milne to make a special and systematic study of seismology. As a result of this he established the seismic survey of Japan, with 368 stations, and, subsequently, a seismic survey of the world for the British Association.

For the purpose of his investigation, he designed a seismograph of remarkable delicacy and ingenuity, which not only recorded the occurrence of an earthquake, but enabled a rapid and fairly accurate calculation to be made as to the place at which it occurred, the exact moment of its commencement, and its duration.

It was at the Portsmouth meeting of the British Association in 1911 that the professor referred in complimentary terms to the work that was carried on in Victoria by Napier Denison, and indirectly, through bringing this research work of the far western island to the notice of the society, was responsible for the establishment of a station here. Four years before this, however, at the meeting of the British Association held in Toronto, the professor had given an incentive to the advancement of the work in the Dominion by giving a powerful address on the subject before an audience of over four thousand people who were all immensely impressed with the importance of the work.

In Japan the professor's apparent indifference to danger when earthquakes occurred even the stolid inhabitants of the little country in that far Pacific region. During one terrible disturbance he was so intent on the movements of his seismograph that he was quite oblivious of his personal danger. In consequence of this he was given the nickname in Japanese equivalent to "Professor-stick-to-his-post-through-the-earthquake."

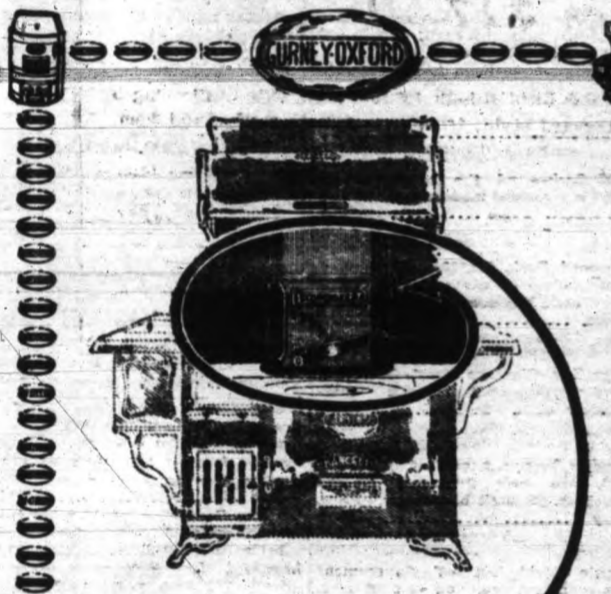

Like other students of seismology he endeavored to devise means of predicting earthquakes, and was often successful. A few hours prior to the severe earthquake of 1880 he warned his friends in Yokohama of the fact and asked them to see that their recording instruments were in good order. As long ago as 1863 he prophesied that laws would be formulated for foretelling earthquakes, and that an arrangement would be devised for warning the inhabitants of impending danger.

As a public speaker he was perhaps one of the most popular men of science in England, as he had the remarkable talent of being able to place a sometimes quite involved subject before his audience with such clarity that the simplest mind could comprehend. He also possessed a quaint dry humor which punctuated his talks and provided an element which is too often lacking in straight scientific discourses. One of the last great tributes paid to this most eminent of seismologists during his lifetime was that by Prince Galitzin, of St. Petersburg, the president of the Seismological Congress which met at Manchester in July, 1911, the prince eloquently referring to Professor Milne as the pioneer, who had broken the way for all later students. The professor, who replied with characteristic modesty, was even then in ill health, but those who heard him little realized that he would not be among them at the next meeting of the society in 1914 at St. Petersburg.

TO FIGHT CENTRALIZATION.

Canadian League Revived for Non-Partisan Advocacy of Canadianism.

Mr. J. A. Cooper, of the Canadian Courier, and Mr. Arthur Hawkes, of the Canadian and British News of Canada, have evidently decided to revive the Canadian League for the purpose of making a fight against centralization and for the autonomy of Canada in the matter of naval defence. It is understood that a series of meetings will be held throughout Ontario this fall by them and their associates

Save One Ton of Coal in Every Six

The Economizer will do it.

While the cost of living has undoubtedly been growing greater, at the same time it is true there are some inventions that will offset this increased cost of living, and the careful housewife takes advantage of these inventions.

On every Gurney-Oxford range there is an Economizer which controls not only the drafts but also the entire combustion or burning of fuel to create heat.

This Economizer will save 1 ton of coal in every 6 that you would use with the ordinary range.

The Economizer is a simple device, absolute in its control. By merely moving the lever you can obtain any degree of even heat in the oven. This insures the satisfaction of always having light, delicately crusted bread and biscuits.

The kitchen fire ceases to be a worry if the Economizer is on your stove.

The Gurney-Oxford is the final result of experimental thought. Science has given it a Divided Flue, a new Special Grate, and a Broiler attachment.

This Gurney-Oxford range is primarily a saver of money, time, and energy.

to discuss the naval issue from a non-partisan standpoint. No definite programme has been laid down as yet, but the two editors are not likely to confine their campaign to their respective journals.

Mr. Hawkes in a statement issued, said: "Beyond all question the position developing is the old one of autonomy against centralized government. We are in for the old fight against a centralized form of government, and in a more subtle form. The policy of naval contribution is one that, if carried into effect, must be subversive of Canadian nationality. It is the policy dear to the centralizers in Great Britain and in Canada alike. In Canada the centralizers are to be found, I think, solely among the Tories. In the British Isles there are centralizers in both parties. For there what I may call the 'head office' view—the view that Canada is in a certain position of inferiority to the Old Country, that, as is often said, there is a debt owing by her to the latter which she can never repay—is widely prevalent. "There is an idea in the Old Country that the old countryman who comes to Canada and gets on in, in some way, the inferior of his brother who remains at home—that he is an Englishman minus. The truth is that, getting away from grooves and getting a wider outlook, he is really an Englishman plus. Look at the personal side. By coming to this country I have been of service to the Old Country by helping to relieve the congestion of population, and I have also been of assistance to my brother in the shipping industry. Why am I, living in Canada, to consider myself an inferior and debtor to him living in England? I love him very much, but I don't want to love him on quite those terms. Now when he understands my feeling, will he want me to?"

"As a Canadian born in England I protest against the Old Country notion of keeping the 'colonies' in leading strings—of fostering a spirit of reverent attachment on their part (to quote Lord John Russell's words) towards the Old Country. That notion curiously persists in official circles to-day.

"A party of British parliamentarians was recently in Canada. On their departure Lord Emmott, Colonial Under Secretary, issued a statement saying that they had been touched at the evidence of loyalty to the Throne they had witnessed. I don't know who gave him authority to speak for the King. But what is most illuminating is the element of patronizing surmise—surprise that Canadians should be loyal. He would not have used any language of surprise if he had visited Denison or Somerset and found loyalty there. That is simply symptomatic of the Old Country view of 'colonial' inferiority. The place in which a sane Imperialism needs to be preached most is the Old Country itself, and the men to whom it most needs to be preached are those (of both parties) of the governing class.

"Of course, some Canadians are ready enough to acquiesce in the idea of Canadian inferiority to Great Britain, and they encourage the idea by their actions. For instance, men who have never thought it worth while to take any part in Canadian public life will strain every nerve to get into public life in Great Britain. "Well, the time has come to wake up the public to what is going on. The navy question does not seem to have been well handled by either party—it has been made too much of a party football. It needs handling on national, not on party, lines. Mr. Borden has not fulfilled his pledge to go to the country, and the country should now go to itself—in other words, discuss the whole question along the lines of Canadian nationhood."—Toronto Globe.

TO-DAY IN CANADIAN HISTORY

Upon this date in 1963 there landed at Quebec a new governor, Safray de Mezy, practically the nominee of the famous prelate, Laval. De Mezy, formerly mayor of Caen, had been dissolute in youth, but was now a religious zealot, noted for humility and charity. However, when in Canada he found himself in authority over a region far larger than old France, he showed unexpected determination, insisted in judging of matters of duty for himself, and refused to be subservient to his former patron. In fact he was so determined that he caused the bishop, on one occasion, annoyed by the behavior of certain councillors appointed by Laval, to be desired the latter to assist in their expulsion and to join in "calling an assembly of the people to choose others in their place." This suggestion of a popular election, sure to displease the king, gave Laval the advantage in the struggle. Moreover he alarmed, though unable to coerce, the pious governor with threats of closing the churches against him and refusing him the sacraments. Finally he obtained an order for the recall of De Mezy and for an inquiry into his conduct; but the governor died suddenly before he could sail, making his peace with Laval on his deathbed.

Jumbo, the world-famous elephant, whose name has been incorporated in colloquial English as a synonym for anything of unusual and extraordinary size, was killed near St. Thomas, Ont., twenty-eight years ago to-day. The mastodontic beast was being loaded on a train of a circus then touring Canada, when a freight train backed into it and inflicted such severe injuries that it died in half an hour. Jumbo was of the African species of elephant and was declared to be the largest in captivity. This claim, although denied by rival menagerie owners, was probably true, and Jumbo was the centre of attraction wherever he went, and was Barnum's greatest drawing card. The animal was about twenty-five years old at the time of his death. Jumbo was captured when a baby in the African jungles and taken to the London Zoological Gardens. His tremendous size and his unflinching good nature made him a favorite, and the English press and people made vigorous protests when Jumbo's sad fate was mourned all over North America and in England. Other circus owners have secured other elephants of mighty size, but in the affection of the people there was only one Jumbo, as there was only one Barnum.

Distinct Signs of Strength Apparent
Bare Changes Only for Monday Prices

Restoration of Confidence Amongst Large Interests; Steel Sentiment Good
 Victoria, Sept. 15.—Sufficient interest pertained to local prices this morning to sustain Saturday's levels but generally speaking there were only bare changes.

(By F. W. Stevenson & Co.)
 New York, Sept. 15.—In view of the rapid advances, scored Saturday throughout the list, to-day's reactions were easily understood. Such were only slight, however, with distinct signs of strength apparent.
 Recent action of the market has been taken as a reflection of the restoration of confidence amongst large interests and timely efforts to force a higher range of prices have been put forth by strong factors.
 Improved sentiment in steel circles compares well with the pessimism reigning a month ago. The better feeling is attributable in no small measure to the fact that money conditions throughout the country have eased somewhat, which has been felt in this trade.

AMERICANS ACTIVE IN BUYING WHEAT
 Winnipeg, Sept. 15.—Under the pressure of heavy receipts, weaker cables and a weaker tone in American markets, wheat opened a lower, but the market has strong support elsewhere and the bulk of trade was at 82. Americans are reported to be active buyers of May wheat. Oats and flax were weaker. The weather is ideal for threshing and delivery, and receipts for Saturday and Sunday totalled 1,177 cars, being of contract grade. Cars were received for Saturday and Sunday totalled 1,177 cars, being of contract grade. Cars were received for Saturday and Sunday totalled 1,177 cars, being of contract grade.

ACTION IN WHEAT WAS DULL AFFAIR
 (By F. W. Stevenson & Co.)
 Chicago, Sept. 15.—Action in wheat trade was dull affair with fluctuations confined to narrow limits and noticeable selling on each slight bulge. Both December and May closed on an eight above the low point of the day. Liverpool was 1/4-1/8 lower on freer continental offerings. Temper of the trade all day ruled bearish in expectancy of the big movement of wheat in the Northwest, due both sides of the line.
 Corn, after spasmodic rallies, closed with large elevator concerns figuring as big sellers.

TOO MUCH EFFORT TO AMUSE ON SUNDAY
 People Robbed of Necessity of Being Self-Resourceful Says Rev. Dr. Crummy
 Once when Dr. Crummy was making a trip through the Kilmarnock Lake district, the skipper of the little boat overheard one of the other passengers remark that the doctor was a Scotchman. "Faith!" said the skipper, "then if he is, he's got a great many things to explain!" For the eminent Methodist, although born at Brockville, Ontario, has a full complement of characteristic Irish traits, which, in all fairness, he came by quite honestly through his parents, and it would take a very discerning native of "The Emerald Isle" to know that he was not born and fostered in the lap of that "troubled country."

INDIGESTION, GAS OR SICK, SOUR STOMACH
 Time "Pape's Diapiesin!" in Five Minutes All Stomach Misery is Gone
 "Really does" put bad stomachs in order—"really does" overcome indigestion, dyspepsia, gas, heartburn and sourness in five minutes—that just makes Pape's Diapiesin the largest selling stomach regulator in the world. If what you eat ferments into stubborn lumps, you belch gas and eructate sour, indigested food and acid, then you need Pape's Diapiesin with bile and indigestible waste. Remember the moment "Pape's Diapiesin" comes in contact with the stomach all such distress vanishes. It's truly astonishing—almost marvellous, and the joy is its harmlessness. A large fifty-cent case of Pape's Diapiesin will give you a hundred dollars' worth of satisfaction or your druggist hands you your money back. It's worth its weight in gold to men and women who can't get their stomachs regulated. It belongs in your home—should always be kept handy in case of a sick, sour, upset stomach during the day or at night. It's the quickest, surest and most harmless stomach doctor in the world.

ACCUSED OF OLD GAME
 James Murray Alleged to Have Got Five Dollars by the Short-Change Method.
 It is alleged that what is commonly known as "film-flaming" was practiced on J. W. Fullbrook, of the Fullbrook-Sayers Stationery Company, by James Murray, with the result that Murray got away with $5 of the firm's money.
 On the raising of a hue-and-cry he was apprehended a few minutes later by Detectives Heather and Edens, and this morning he appeared in the police court. He asked for time to get a lawyer and was remanded until tomorrow.
 About half past seven o'clock, when customers Murray entered in a hurry and asked Mr. Fullbrook to give him a five-dollar bill for two twos and a one. Mr. Fullbrook went to the cash drawer to get the bill and gave it to Murray, receiving the smaller bills in exchange. He had gone to the register to put these in the drawer when the man called out that he would take a ten-dollar bill instead of a five. Mr. Fullbrook came back to get the other five dollars, as it appeared to him, and was handed the one he had just given out in exchange for the small bills in his hand. For these and the five he gave Murray a ten, another five dollars coming to him. Anyone who has ever made change can see how readily the most careful person will get caught on this trick and how a moment's reflection will show the fact that one has been "short-changed."

WORKMAN LOST WAGES
 Retieved of $163 While Unable to Look After Himself—Two Youths Accused.
 To lost $163 was the misfortune of J. Knudson, a workman on the Sooke Lake works, who came into town on Thursday for a holiday. In the evening, after he had spent some time with friends and become so much exhilarated, he was rapidly getting fed-up, he turned his steps towards the Victoria hotel, where he had a room. On the way two men met him and kindly assisted him to his room, helped him to undress and get between the sheets and then, as a reward for their good actions, they went through his clothes and relieved him of $163. At least he believes he had that much money left and when he wakened up on Friday he found himself penniless. A complaint was made to the police and two men described by Knudson were looked for.
 Detectives Turner and Siciliano on Saturday afternoon arrested Donald Cameron and Frederick Casey on suspicion that they were the culprits, after a good deal of investigation. They found that the youths had been having a gay time, driving out towards Colwood, opening bottles of wine at various hotels on the way and spending more money than their circumstances appeared to warrant, and more than they could convince the detectives they were honestly in possession of.
 Cameron and Casey were brought up in police court to-day. The former gave his age as 21 and the latter as 16 last March. They both wanted a lawyer and were allowed a remand until tomorrow without election or pleading.
 Prisoners were once upon a time regarded as the "lucky" ones who had more than in all cases save those of high treason.

But this is not his only claim to fame, for he is also known all over the world as the head and shoulders of the Esperantists—speakers of the new international language which is a combination of all of them. FINE POULTRY SHOWN AT COBBLE HILL FAIR

Second Show of Association Brings Out Excellent Display of Birds

The advance made in the Cobble Hill district in the industry of poultry raising was demonstrated by the number and quality of the birds shown at the second annual poultry show there, which is just over. There was keen competition in some of the classes, particularly in Rhode Island Reds and White Leghorns.

In every class the quality of the exhibits was of a high average, and it was apparent that the breeders of the district are paying close attention to the improvement of their stock.

In opening the show, which lasted for two days, the president and vice-president of the Cobble Hill Poultry Association, John J. Dougan and J. Dunkley, referred to the conditions for the raising of poultry for the market in that district, these being ideal, and the great strides being made by the industry.

Henry D. Reid, Victoria, was the judge, and he gave perfect satisfaction. In addition to the judging of the exhibits he gave the exhibitors a great deal of information on various points in connection with their work.

The handsome cup presented by F. M. Garland for the best exhibit of White Leghorns was won by J. J. Dougan. When won twice in succession it becomes the property of the holder.

FIFTY YEARS HERE

Mrs. R. B. McMicking Yesterday Celebrated Anniversary of Her Arrival in Victoria.

Fifty years is a long time in the history of Victoria, and those who came here so long ago must have seen many changes in the provincial capital. Yesterday was the fiftieth anniversary of the arrival in the city of one of the best known of the earlier residents, Mrs. R. B. McMicking, then a small girl, who has spent the intervening years almost entirely in Victoria. She, in company with her three brothers, came here with her mother, Mrs. Leighton, from California, on the steamer "Sierra Nevada," the party later being joined by Thomas Bute, Mrs. Leighton's brother.

Mrs. McMicking's early school days were spent at Angela College, and among the teachers were Mrs. Penrice, Mrs. Reese, and Miss Penrice. Later, when she was old enough to attend such functions, she took part in the legislative chamber, which were popular with the officers from the navy stationed at Esquimalt and the American ships stationed at San Juan, were the keenly looked-forward to social events of the season, although in all the social and philanthropic activities of the city Mrs. McMicking has been one of the keenest participants from the very beginning. Even to-day, when the city is hardly at times, large enough to contain its activities along these lines, Mrs. McMicking is one of the most energetic and enterprising of the workers.
