NIHON KEIZAI, 5 Apr - The political activities of political parties or bodies and individuals have heretofore been controlled by Imperial Ordinance No 101. But since the ordinance did not cover details, the Government promulgated a new ordinance and related regulations on 4 April to become effective at once.

Ordinance No 101 covered secret, militaristic, ultra-nationalistic, anti-democratic and terroristic organizations or individuals. The new ordinance more explicitly and comprehensively covers anti-Occupation Force activities, aggressive, militaristic and other terroristic acts, and persecution of foreigners engaged here in foreign trade, commerce, and other professions. It also clearly defines the attorney general's power of enforcement. The old ordinance stipulated that only the executive director, for example, the chief secretary, was responsible for reports to the government, but the new ordinance stipulates that the executive director and the party or organizational representative, in other words, the president or chairman and chief secretary or secretary general will both have to be responsible for reports.

The new ordinance also obligates the above officers to report the publication of every issue of their organ periodicals.

MEMORANDUM FOR ~~THE RECORD~~ PSQP

SUBJECT: Conference with Home Ministry on the Enforcement of SCAPIN 548.

DATE : 18 October 1947.

Persons Attending: Mr. Nishimura, Chief, Investigation Bureau, Home Ministry.
Mr. Ogura, 3d Section, Home Ministry.
Mr. Honda, 3d Section, Home Ministry.
Major Napier, Government Section, Public Service Qualification Division.
Mr. Kawano, Government Section, Public Service Qualification Division.

1. In fulfilling provisions in SCAPIN 548, Section 3, Paragraph 6, Home Ministry was requested to bring in immediately a list of all dissolved organizations, their officers, members, addresses and positions.

2. Home Ministry was informed that Shin Ei Taisyu-Too will be dissolved as an undesirable organization falling in the category of "terroristic organization" as defined in SCAPIN 548. Home Ministry was requested to bring in all evidences and information on Shin Ei Taisyu-Too, and all police records of the members of the party. The real reason for the dissolution of Shin Ei Taisyu-Too is not because of its importance as a political party, but to prevent setting up a precedent for a political party to use terrorism as a political weapon.

3. Home Ministry reported that a special investigator had been sent to Kyushu to find out about the Nippon Kokumei Kikukata Doshi Kai (Japan Revolutionary Chrysanthemum Flag Comrade Society). Home Ministry further reported that the party has been registered, and in analyzing their official magazine "Kikukata" (Chrysanthemum Flag), there is no evidence of ultra-nationalism, anti-democracy or anti-occupational forces policies. Home Ministry officials feel that it would be difficult to dissolve the organization just on its anti-Communist and pro-Emperor system position. Home Ministry is also investigating the police liaison officer who warned this group that the Occupation Forces are closely watching their activities. Full report will be submitted as soon as the special investigator returns from Kyushu.

4. In regard to the Pretender Emperor Kumazawa's Seiko To (True Imperial Party) Home Ministry reports that they had just registered yesterday, 17 October 1947. All available information on this party will be forwarded to Government Section. Home Ministry was asked to check on the report that this party had previously been approved by SCAP.

DECLASSIFIED: AUTH: SCAP LTR 5(c) AND 5(d) OR (e) AND # 179072

5. Nippon Yuki Kai (Japan Air Friends Society) having a number of former Air Cadets as its members, has not registered because it is not a political party.

6. Home Ministry Investigation officials explained that because of personnel and budget appropriation shortages, they have not been able to carry out effectively the enforcement of SCAPIN 548. They admitted that their previous plan for enlarging the personnel had been abstract and idealistic. Government Section suggested that they draw up a practical and workable plan based on their present needs rather than a new elaborate paper plan.

7. Home Ministry Investigation Bureau officials also wanted clarification on the use of police system to carry out their investigation. They were told that the police may not be used to investigate projects undertaken by the Bureau, but the evidences and records already gathered by the police in pursuit of their official duties may be utilized in finding out about the suspect organizations and their members.

8. Home Ministry reported that they are unable to carry out effective investigation on secret societies, due mainly to lack of personnel, but they have been analyzing periodicals and magazines on these unregistered groups. Home Ministry was asked to bring in all available information and data on all organizations which can possibly fall within the purview of SCAPIN 548.

9. Regular weekly or bi-weekly liaison will be established between the Investigation Bureau, Home Ministry, and Government Section, Public Service Qualifications Division.

Memo to Chief, GS/PSQD
Subject: Approach to the investigation of secret, ultranationalistic and terroristic societies.

1. As per suggestion, the pattern of investigation will be in three general phases.
   a. To what extent has an investigation been conducted by various interested SCAP sections, Military Government teams, Japanese Government and other agencies to implement SCAPIN 548?
   b. To determine what additional authorities, policies and agencies both in SCAP and the Japanese Government, are necessary to execute successfully SCAPIN 548?
   c. To develope supervisory policies and method with the Japanese Government agency responsible for carrying out SCAPIN 548.

2. In regards to the first phase, following approach will be used.
   a. To hold conferences with various SCAP sections to gather all available information and data pertinent to this problem. Sections to be consulted will be ESS, CIS, CI&E and CPC.
   b. Home Ministry will be asked to submit a complete report on all ultra-nationalistic societies. Report will contain information on disposition of property and money, list of their officers and members, and present activities of their officers and leading members.
      Home Ministry will be asked to submit to Government Section all records and documents belonging to such societies.
      Direct liaison will be established with a responsible Home Ministry Bureau to inquire, check and to take action on concrete cases as arising within the purview of SCAPIN 548, from time to time.
   c. Representatives of such organizations as the labor unions, farmers union, fishermen's union, consumers, producers, and industrial coops, Socialist and Communist parties, Liberal and Progressive parties, and Association of Manufacturers, will be interviewed. Individual persons such as writers, newspapermen, artists, Liberals, etc., will also be interviewed.

3. The second and third phases of this project will depend largely on the development of the first phase.

MEMORANDUM FOR: PUBLIC SERVICE QUALIFICATIONS DIVISION

SUBJECT: ADMINISTRATION OF SCAPIN 548.

1. In view of the present status of the enforcement of the provisions of SCAPIN 548 and its implementing ordinances, it is considered imperative that certain measures be taken to force the Japanese Government into taking positive and continuing action in compliance with the subject directive. The measures recommended are outlined in general, as follows:

a. Set up in the Ministry of Justice a section which is responsible for [redacted] enforcement of SCAPIN 548 in a manner similar to the section proposed in the Procurator General's Office for insuring continued enforcement of SCAPIN 550.

b. Give this section responsibility for investigating into societies, organizations, etc., old and new, in order to determine their status under the provisions of the implementing ordinances.

c. Review the activities of the Japanese Government in the discharge of these responsibilities and maintain a comprehensive check on the extent and thoroughness of action taken in a manner similar to the manner in which the Japanese Government's administration of SCAPIN 550 has been reviewed and checked.

2. In order that Government Section can discharge its responsibility in reviewing the action taken by the Japanese Government and in maintaining a comprehensive check on this action, it will be necessary to establish an Undesirable Organizations Branch in the Public Service Qualifications Division. This branch, in order to discharge its functions, even utilizing the aid of existing agencies, must be staffed by a chief and a minimum of two properly qualified research analysts.

3. The function of this branch will be as follows:

a. To require detailed reports from Japanese Government as to what has been done to date in the way of collection of documentary evidence and relevant information, extent of Japanese Government files, and subsequent reports on activities and progress.

b. To utilize Military Government, CIS, CPC, Government Section files and Japanese sources as a means for obtaining information necessary to maintain a check on Japanese Government compliance with the subject division. The extent to which these sources will be useful is at present not ascertained. The assumption, on which all recommendations contained herein are based, is that the occupation agencies, Military Government and CIS, will be able to conduct prompt investigation and report of cases referred to them. In the event such is not the case, it will be necessary for Government Section to obtain additional qualified personnel and establish an investigation and enforcement branch; this, however, is not a problem of immediate concern, inasmuch as such a step may not prove necessary.

4. The initial operating procedure to be employed by the proposed Undesirable Organizations Branch should consist primarily of collecting appropriate information from all available sources relative to all societies, organizations, etc., for which there is any reasonable indication as falling within SCAPIN 548 and its implementing ordinances, correlating and compiling such information, initiating requests for investigation and report, analyzing of such reports, conducting liaison with competent Japanese Government officials, issuing necessary routine instructions thereto, and recommending action to be taken by Government Section, if necessary, to insure adequate compliance and enforcement of SCAPIN 548 by the Japanese Government.

5. The sources from which ~~initial~~ information regarding suspect societies, organizations, etc., is believed to be available, with explanation and evaluation thereof, are as follows:

a. Japanese Government - Under the provisions of SCAPIN 548, the Home Affairs

Ministry has been authorized to obtain reports on all dissolved organizations. The Investigation Bureau of the Home Affairs Ministry is known to have had lists of members and other pertinent data on these and other secret patriotic, militaristic and ultra-nationalistic societies. This is substantiated by a statement of the acting chief of that bureau to the effect that such records were once on hand, but that they were turned over to CIS. Furthermore, the Investigation Bureau has been conducting a considerable amount of research for CPC with regard to new organizations and the property of dissolved organizations; the files established in connection with this work should be available. By transferring certain competent personnel and the pertinent records of this bureau to the proposed section in the Justice Ministry, the fruits of this past labor could be preserved and utilized.

b. CIS - A conference with Colonel Homan, Chief of Operations, CIS, revealed that that agency would be willing (if G-2 concurred) to make available any information in their files on societies, etc. to Government Section. He indicated that CIS was at the present time very busy in the prosecution of their primary mission which is the investigation of subversive activities; but stated that if the information contained in CIS files was not adequate and if Government Section requested an investigation, which indicates subversive activity, supplying any leads, etc., available, that he would take the matter up with G-2 for approval. He stated that if he could obtain approval to conduct such investigation, he would do so, but expressed the desire that the volume of such requests be kept to a reasonably small number. The value of this source cannot accurately be assessed because so much depends on whether or not G-2 will approve this type of investigation. However, the value of CIS files can be considered good for basic information on a large number of societies, ~~etc~~., fairly complete for comprehension on old better known societies, and ~~for~~ lesser known old societies, and unknown for new societies.

c. CPC - Records contained in this section parallel to a large extent a part of the records on hand in the Investigation Bureau of the Home Affairs Ministry, plus the results of their own investigation. The information contained in these files should prove exceptionally valuable for checking the extent to which the Japanese Government is complying insofar as they are able by the use of Home Ministry files and should also prove valuable as a source of basic data required for decision as to the advisability of continued investigation.

d. CCD report and ATIS translations of letters of allegation - This source will be of great value in compiling lists of societies, organizations, etc., and in building up a compilation of assorted data on which further action may be based.

e. Military Government - With proper indoctrination on the needs of Government Section, the Military Government Teams should prove valuable as a source of initial information. The potentiality of Military Government as an investigative agency is unknown, but will probably very considerably vary depending upon the area in which investigation is requested due to the difference in work-load, composition, and nature of the teams. ~~A general overall evaluation of this agency for investigation would at best have to be evaluated as only fair~~ Because of the fact that Military Government teams do not have regular investigative functions, it is believed that their contribution in this field could at best be evaluated as only fair. The utility of this agency could greatly be enhanced if the Public Service Qualifications Division had investigators which could utilize Military Government facilities; this would also remove from consideration the element of work-load of the various teams, for such investigators would actually conduct investigations and prepare the necessary reports.

f. Government Section Files - Relatively positive information is on hand regarding a number of societies which have been dissolved. Other wise the extent of these files is relatively limited except for the recently ~~re~~acquired photostatic copies of documents on hand in CIS and which were originally taken from the Metropolitan Police Board. These photostats, however, are in Japanese and difficult to read; the amount of work required to translate and utilize them is considered to be out of proportion to the useful information which they contain. The method which has been followed to date with regard to utilizing these photostats and which it is recommended we pursue in the future is that of providing the Japanese Government with copies thereof and spot-checking our copies to insure their utilization by the Government.

6. This memorandum does not contain recommendations of the liaison which must be maintained with CPC insofar as the activities of this Section and Government Section overlap due to CPC's responsibility for the property of dissolved organizations. A conference is arranged for Friday, 10 October 1947 at which time discussion on this matter will be held.
