County Commission Promises Flood Control

PLAN SURVEY TO PREVENT CONTINUED DAMAGE

Engineers to Outline Way To Halt Run-Off In Sycamore Canyon

A resolution introduced this week by Supervisor Henry W. Wright and adopted unanimously by the Los Angeles County Flood Control Commission assures, at last, that immediate action will be taken to control the flood waters in Sycamore canyon.

The resolution read as follows: "That the flood control engineer be directed to make an immediate investigation of Sycamore Canyon wash, in the light of developments evident as a result of the recent run-off, and that he report at the earliest possible date any feasible plan that will assist in protecting the city of Glendale from damage by flood waters."

Stone "Stays With It" The matter was forced to an issue by V. B. Stone, city manager, who was instructed by the City Council to "stay with it" until something was done. He presented the need for immediate action to Supervisor Wright, who, in turn, took it up with the county flood control commission. As J. W. Reagan, chief engineer, is familiar with the conditions existing, a report is looked for in a short time.

According to City Manager Stone, the original scheme of the county flood control commission for the construction of a sand trap at the corner of Sinclair avenue and Sycamore Canyon road. For this work, $28,925 was allotted out of the original bond issue of 1917, with an additional $5,000 for the purpose of securing adjacent rights-of-way. This leaves somewhere near $30,000 that is immediately available for flood control work in Sycamore Canyon, but which can only be expended by the county flood control commission.

Form Best Channel The rights-of-way obtained for the original project are still available and form the best channel for the run of flood water and can be used in any scheme that is laid out for the future. The city has agreed to take care of the water through the city limits, and undoubtedly will co-operate with the county authorities, Mr. Stone says. The city plan, now under way, calls for a spillway in the form of a concave paved street with 10-inch curb, that it is thought would handle all the water which normally runs down this channel.

Mr. Wright has promised that Sycamore Canyon will receive his full attention, and the hope of the council that the whole matter can be treated as a whole and not in a piecemeal manner is about to be realized, said Mr. Stone.

British Envoy In Washington Captures Cornelia Vanderbilt

Miss Cornelia Vanderbilt and (inset) the Hon. John F. A. Cecil.

ASHEVILLE, N. C., March 14.—Shortly after Easter the Biltmore House, millionaire estate here, will be the scene of the wedding of one of the world's richest young women to an attache of the British embassy in Washington.

The girl is Miss Cornelia Vanderbilt, daughter of the late George W. Vanderbilt of New York. The man is John Francis Amherst Cecil, first secretary to Great Britain's ambassador to the United States.

Tell Engagement The engagement of the couple was announced recently, and while no definite date for the wedding was named, it is believed that it will be in the early summer.

When George W. Vanderbilt died in 1914 he left the bulk of his estate, valued at $20,000,000, to Miss Cornelia. She is to come into absolute possession of the wealth when she attains her 25th birthday in 1928. Until that time the income from her fortune gives her $1,000,000 annually to spend as she chooses. She also became owner of the Biltmore estate here, worth more than $10,000,000.

Charles A. Barlow, former congressman from the Seventh district, who has led the Democratic revolt against the state committee's endorsement of McAdoo, heads the delegates at large, who number eight.

Mrs. Marie A. Larkey of Glendale, vice-president of the Democratic Club of Glendale, is named as one of the delegates at large.

Glendale friends of W. B. Kirk and family, who have followed the Kirks' journeyings abroad by the travel letters appearing in The Glendale Evening News, will be interested to know that Mr. and Mrs. Kirk and their daughter arrived in New York on March 9.

In a letter received this morning at The Evening News office, Mr. Kirk states that after a few days' rest in New York they will start their trans-continental trip to California and home.

CHANGE IN GLEN INN OWNERSHIP

Pagone & Boulais Sell Out Popular Restaurant on South Brand Blvd.

Negotiations that have been pending for some time for the sale of the Glen Inn, 152 South Brand boulevard, were closed yesterday, the establishment passing from Pagone & Boulais, the present owners, to A. L. Thompson of Pasadena and S. L. Rice of Ontario, who will take possession on Friday, March 21, and who will conduct the business under the firm name of Rice & Thompson.

Mr. Thompson, who was for eleven years connected with Pettifils of Los Angeles, will be associated with the firm in the conduct of the Glen Inn, which will be remodeled extensively after the style that marks all of the Pettifils establishments.

Built Up Business C. J. and David J. Pagone, with L. R. Boulais, have been at the head of the Glen Inn for the past two years, and have built it up until it is one of the leading restaurants in Glendale.

C. J. Pagone has been active manager of the establishment, with David J. Pagone acting as chef. The former has been associated with his brother, N. J. Pagone, head of the Mutual Exchange Realty company of Los Angeles, and, besides the holdings that the brothers own in that city they also own a large amount of property in Glendale, where they intend to remain, as they are convinced of the immense possibilities that the future holds for this city.

Mr. Boulais has also borne an important share in building up the patronage of the Glen Inn to its present proportions.

Plan Candy Factory It is the plan of the new owners to furnish Glendale with confections of the highest class, and another specialty that will be featured will be Creme-Frost, a product of the Creme-Frost corporation of Los Angeles, of which Mr. Rice is president.

The catering will receive the close attention of both partners, who will endeavor to maintain it at the highest possible standard.

SOCIETY TO THROG TO OPENING

Many Reservations Made by Oakmont Club Members for Tomorrow

Formal opening of the Oakmont Country club tomorrow night, March 15, will be one of the gayest social affairs Glendale has ever seen, with hundreds of members and guests present, numbering prominent people from all over Southern California.

Harry E. Hall, president of the club, will act as master of ceremonies and during the progress of the elaborate dinner will introduce the officers and directors of the institution, who will talk briefly, stressing various angles of the great project, now consummated.

Dinner and Dance Dinner will start promptly at 7 o'clock, announces H. M. Parker, general manager of the Oakmont Country club. A dinner dance will punctuate the various courses, with music by a special club orchestra. Practically all of the 500 reservations have already been taken, Mr. Parker states.

Decorations will be in pink and green, carrying out the St. Patrick's day motif, according to Harry Ellison, house manager. This spirit will be carried to the table and will animate the occasion. A corps of fifteen cooks and helpers will function in the splendidly appointed kitchen, in charge of Head Chef Cheley, a culinary expert, who comes highly recommended from some of the best country clubs in the east.

The program will continue until midnight, Mr. Parker states, and it is believed will be without one dull moment. Sunday afternoon the Oakmont Country club will be open to inspection by the general public.

Bring People To Glendale And They Will Be Anxious To Make City Their Home

As pointed out in an editorial in The Glendale Evening News yesterday, this city "sells" itself to those who visit it. People come here, "fall in love" with the surroundings and become Glendalians. They, in turn, write to eastern friends, who come to see for themselves and become residents. Thus Glendale grows.

We who have lived here for a comparatively long time are glad to have the newcomers join in singing Glendale's praises. We know we have a wonder city; we know that it is an ideal home community; we know that its rolling hills provide charming residential sites; we know that our churches, banks, schools and business houses are worthy of being displayed with pride. And we must continue our efforts to enlist our eastern friends as Glendalians.

The tourist lifts up his eyes onto the hills and calls Glendale the wonder city. He rides out over our tens of miles of beautiful boulevards, visits our contiguous territory—La Crescenta, Montrose, La Canada, Verdugo Woodlands, Sparr Heights, Burbank, Eagle Rock and suburban Los Angeles—walks down our busy streets in the business districts, surveys some of the large buildings of which we are justly proud, sees our churches, clubs and lodges costing hundreds of thousands of dollars, and is thrilled. We have the "goods," as the saying goes. Our "customers," who are the visitors, are easily "sold" on sight. They see that our claims are not extravagant. So, then, it is simply a question of bringing people to Glendale in order to make them Glendalians.

A continuous praise of Glendale should be wafted eastward by all of us. A city that does not progress goes back. Glendale is progressing—let's keep it at the head of the parade as the "fastest growing city in America."

Twins Are Born at Local Hospital By Aid of Operation

What is regarded by medical men as one of the most remarkable Caesarean operations of recent years was that performed on Mrs. H. W. Hedger, 322 1/2 West Colorado street, Glendale, by Dr. H. R. Boyer at the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital yesterday afternoon, when she gave birth to twins, a boy and a girl. The boy was born first, at 5:31 o'clock, and the girl immediately afterward. Dr. Boyer was assisted by Dr. B. S. Frary of Highland Park. The anesthetic was administered by Dr. C. M. Taylor of Glendale. The birth of twins as the result of a Caesarean operation is not as uncommon as some people imagine, yet it requires a great deal of skill on the part of the attending surgeon, says Miss Steen, head nurse at the Glendale hospital. The local hospital records include a similar case some two years ago.

REFUSE NEW STILLMAN HEARING

Victory for Banker's Wife Seen In Decision of Appellate Court

NEW YORK, March 14.—Mrs. Anne U. Stillman today won her long legal battle to prevent her husband, James A. Stillman, from reopening his suit to have baby Guy Stillman declared illegitimate and seeking to establish grounds on which to sue for divorce.

The victory came in the decision of the appellate division in Brooklyn not to set aside the decision of the supreme court which had accepted the report of a special referee declaring Guy legitimate and declining to accept the accusations Stillman had made involving his wife and Fred Beauvais, Indian guide, Stillman had alleged was the father of the child.

Plans Another Appeal Stillman, former president of the National City bank, sought to re-open the case on the ground of the famous "confession" letter which he alleged Mrs. Stillman wrote to her husband from Buffalo after returning from a trip to Canada.

The referee who heard the case refused to admit this letter as evidence and Stillman held that its rejection was illegal, and that the failure of the referee to admit it justified re-opening all the issues.

The decision was unanimous. Stillman's only recourse now is to appeal to the court of appeals, which can be done only with the consent of the appellate division. Despite this, the banker's attorneys announced he would endeavor to carry the case to the higher court.

WITNESS LINKS JAPANESE IN PAYMENT OF $100,000 ON AIRCRAFT SUIT DEAL

Gaston B. Means, Former Operative For U. S. Department of Justice, Causes Series of Sensations With His Testimony

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON For International News Service

WASHINGTON, March 14.—The most amazing story of bribery, corruption and intrigue that was ever spread upon public records concerning people high in government life was divulged to the Senate committee investigating Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty today by Gaston B. Means, a former operative of the department of justice, whose checkered career has led him in and out of many spectacular criminal cases.

Means testified today before the Brookhart-Wheeler investigating committee that he received $100,000 from a Japanese representing the Mitsui Aircraft company under orders from the late Jesse Smith, friend and confidant of Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty, and delivered the money to Smith.

Means also testified that he had collected some thousands of dollars in connection with the exhibition of the Dempsey-Carpentier fight pictures and turned it over to Smith, and that he had collected around $35,000 or $40,000 "in liquor transactions" and also turned it over to Smith.

The fight pictures, Means said, were first shown at the home of E. B. McLean here, a private showing attended by the president and Mrs. Harding, Daugherty and others high in public life.

Series of Sensations Sensation tumbled over sensation so fast that the grave senators and startled spectators could hardly follow the significance of Means' lurid allegations—but the high point came when he declared that in February, 1922, he collected $100,000 in cash from a Japanese aircraft representative here and turned the money over to Jesse W. Smith, close friend of the attorney general. Smith committed suicide in Daugherty's apartment here a year ago.

The money—in new one thousand-dollar bills, a full hundred of them—Means said—was delivered to him in the Bellevue hotel here, near the department of justice. It came from the representative of the Mitsui company, a Japanese concern, which was the financial backer of the Standard Aircraft corporation, against which corporation the government at that time had a war fraud suit involving several million dollars.

Subsequently it developed the government's suit against the Standard company was withdrawn at the request of the war department.

Where Did Money Go? What became of this money, who got it and what it was for were questions that Means said he could not answer. He simply said that, as an agent of the department of justice, at Smith's orders, he met the Japanese gentleman in the Bellevue hotel, collected the cash and turned it over to Smith.

Only a few moments before he had calmly related this startling story, Means had declared that he had taken orders from Attorney Daugherty himself or William J. Burns, for, he declared, he had always "understood" that Smith was the "go-between" for the attorney general, that Smith was the attorney general's right hand man, and that when Daugherty was out of town, Smith occupied his desk.

Means himself is under indictment in New York for an alleged attempt to bribe Daugherty, and he waived all immunity this morning when he took the stand before the senatorial committee.

Sold to Japanese Means created another sensation in the crowded and breathless committee room when he declared that the Standard Aircraft corporation, through its president, a Mr. Mingle, sold to the Japanese government the models of aircraft.

WILBUR NEW SECRETARY OF NAVY

Chief Justice of Supreme Court of California Accepts Post

Thirteen! SAN FRANCISCO, March 14.—Thirteen has figured largely and luckily in the life of Justice Curtis D. Wilbur, who was named by President Coolidge as secretary of the navy on that date.

Justice Wilbur was married on the 13th of the month, took his bride to live at No. 1313 Winfred street, Los Angeles, was admitted to the bar on the jinx date and inducted into the chief justiceship on that date.

WASHINGTON, March 14.—Curtis D. Wilbur, chief justice of the California supreme court, will be the new secretary of the navy, succeeding Edwin Denby, who resigned on March 10 because of the investigation into naval oil leases.

President Coolidge prevailed upon the California jurist to accept the post after Judge William S. Kenyon of Iowa had declined to be "drafted" to serve. Acceptance of Justice Wilbur was received at the White House early this morning by telegraph.

Annapolis Graduate Justice Wilbur will be one of the few graduates of the United States naval academy who has occupied the naval post in the cabinet. He graduated at Annapolis in 1888, but forsook a naval career almost immediately and took up law, starting practice at Los Angeles two years later. He became a deputy district attorney in 1899 and in 1903 went to the bench where he has remained since. Wilbur was born in Boonesboro, Iowa, and is 56 years old.

FAMOUS WAR DOG WEARING MEDALS WILL VISIT CITY

Wounded In Action, to Give Street Demonstration
Of His Ability

Glendale will have the opportunity Saturday afternoon of seeing for the first time the internationally famous war dog, Wolf, wearer of the Croix de Guerre, presented to him by no less a person than Marshal Foch, for "heroic and meritorious service rendered under fire while wounded."

Wolf comes to Glendale to appear in person and demonstrate his remarkable intelligence for the benefit of the American Legion. He will appear in person in the American Legion show, as will thirty of the greatest stars of stage and screen.

Wolf has the distinction of being the only dog alive that wears the Croix de Guerre. It was awarded to him by Marshal Foch when Wolf was serving as a message bearer in the firing lines for the French. The dog was captured by an English aviator from the Germans, whom he was serving as a message bearer and was used in the Cambrai sector. When the French took it over he was inherited by them.

Pierces Enemy Lines
He took the message through that brought rescue to a detachment of French about to be incinerated by German flame throwers who had surrounded them. While the dog was creeping through the surrounding enemy, a Verlie light showed him and he was severely wounded by enemy rifle fire. Faithful to his trust he continued running until he dropped from loss of blood, and then managed to crawl on all fours to the French lines where the message was taken from his saddle and rescue quickly effected.

For this the dog was awarded the Croix de Guerre and later he was awarded a star for another feat of heroism, continuing with his message after he had been wounded by a burst of shrapnel.

When the A. E. F. took over the sector, Wolf remained with the American army and served with them. He is, perhaps, the only dog that understands three languages.

He takes and obeys commands equally well in these three languages. He will demonstrate this among other great feats at the Legion show.

The Legion will hold an informal reception for Wolf to meet everyone in Glendale, at Broadway and Brand, Saturday afternoon, between 2 and 3 o'clock. Souvenir cards having the war history of the dog on one side and a beautiful engraving of him on the other will be given to the first thousand people applying for them.

The meeting of the board next Thursday afternoon will be held at the Pattersons avenue park, where plans for the improvements to be made the coming year will be discussed.

Wants List of Rooms For Club Delegates

Glendale's need for adequate hotel accommodations is being emphasized by the many requests for reservations that are being received daily by Mrs. E. W. W. Hayward, chairman of housing for the annual convention of the Los Angeles district, California Federation of Women's clubs, April 8, 9 and 10 in Glendale.

The delegates from the clubs throughout the district are to be housed in Glendale homes and Mrs. Hayward is urging club women to list available rooms with her at Glendale 1948 or with Mrs. A. A. Barton at the Tuesday Afternoon club office.

Houston, regent, Mrs. S. C. Leppelman and Miss Ida D. Myers, official delegates from General Richard Gridley chapter of Glendale, tell of a wonderful opening meeting and banquet yesterday and last night.

The sessions of the conference are being held in the First Presbyterian church, and Mrs. Houston states that it was filled to capacity yesterday morning and afternoon. Mrs. Lyman B. The annual election of officers is to take place tomorrow morning and a keen contest is anticipated between the two candidates for the presidency, Mrs. Manhart and Mrs. Vance, both from Northern California.

HONOR IOWANS AT COMMUNITY SING

Highland Park Guests Are Greeted By Officials of Local Body

The Hawkeye state was honored last night at the community "sing" at the Harvard High school, where, with former Iowans as members of the reception committee, Glendale Community Service had as special guests 100 members of the Arroyo Seco community chorus from Highland Park.

Heading the visiting delegation were D. W. Loot, president, and J. A. Lewis, director of the chorus. Val M. Hollister, chairman of the music committee, introduced the visitors and A. L. Baird, president of Community Service, greeted them in behalf of Glendale.

Special songs and features were directed by Mr. Lewis, who took charge of the meeting soon after his arrival, following a short sing led by Alexander Stewart.

Visitors Sing
The Highland Park people sang several songs and special numbers by them included selections on the marimbaphone by Miss Sheridina B. Ashton and piano numbers by Miss Irene Robertson.

The reception committee included Mrs. Alice Anderson, Miss Jean Barlow, W. D. MacGregor and O. A. Larson.

At the next "sing," March 22, Nebraska people will be hosts. Among those already listed for the committee are Mr. and Mrs. Francis Morlon of 421 West Cypress street.

EVANS' ADDRESS ON PRAYER HAS STRONG APPEAL

Crowds Fill Presbyterian Church to Hear Sermon By Noted Divine

Dr. William Evans, who is conducting Bible conferences at the Glendale Presbyterian church, was greeted last night by the largest crowd that has listened to him this week. His subject was "Prayer, Is It a Fact or a Farce?"

He made an appeal for Christians to lay hold of God in prayer, for the heavenly Father had promised that if His people would pray, He would hear and answer their prayers. He said in part:

Bring Power, Blessings
"Prayer is a reality. It is the means which God has appointed by which His people are to bring divine blessing and power down upon the earth. Prayer is a possible thing. It would be almost foolish to say that anything is outside of the realm of possibility these days.

"Some see difficulty in the matter of prayer because of the absence of any visible means of communication. Surely such an objection should not maintain in this day of wireless and radio communication.

"The closet into which the Christian enters to pray is not only an oratory; it is a place of speech: it is an observatory and a place of vision. Prayer is not simply a wish turned Godward. Of course every prayer is a wish, but every wish is not a prayer.

Ask God for Needs
"In the heart of every prayer is a sense of need, but a sense of need is not prayer. Prayer is asking for a felt need and asking God, not the universe, for it. Prayer is more than an asking, it is a receiving, a hearing, a learning of God, a converse and communion in which He has much to say and we have much to hear and learn."

There will be no service Saturday, but on Sunday Dr. Evans will speak both morning and evening.

LENDALE SHOWN IN MOVIE STORY

'Buy in Glendale' Featured in Film Now Showing at T. D. & L. Theater

A romantic love story, with sufficient comedy woven into the plot to keep the audience in good spirits, yet above all, holding in the foreground the spirit of "Buy in Glendale," characterizes the film "Love's a Funny Proposition," now being shown at the T. D. & L. theater.

The film was made entirely in this city by the Minjon studios of 1160 North Western avenue, Hollywood, under the supervision of Robert Cavanagh. Glendale is the first city in which the plan has been tried out, and according to Mr. Cavanagh its success at the premiere last evening warrants its adoption by other southern California cities.

Local Talent Used
With the exception of a very few professional actors in the leading parts, all roles are played by Glendale people, most of them prominent merchants. The street scenes were all taken in Glendale, and show the leading stores of the city.

The story unfolded is that of a young man who is a woman hater and a young woman, vice-versa. Eventually, however, after many trials and tribulations, they are married and settle down in a typical Glendale bungalow. One store of each line of business in the city is included in the film, and the camera work has been done exceptionally well.

Pilling on Screen
As an extra attraction, Frank H. Pilling, secretary of the Glendale Merchants' association, appears on the screen and gives the audience some advice regarding their future actions. To the person who reads his lips and turns in the first correct answer a prize of $50 will be given. Answers may be placed in boxes at Gregg's Hardware store, 107 North Brand; Robinson's Men's store, 114 South Brand; and Hatz's Ladies' Wear, 132 South Brand.

The picture is being shown today and tomorrow. Crowded houses greeted the first performance last night. The last showing is on Saturday.

As another print of this film is being taken for demonstration in other cities where adoption of the scheme is under consideration, Glendale thereby receives quite a good deal of favorable publicity.

Hoxie and Vaudeville at Glendale Theater

Horseback riding on a big scale furnishes one of the big punches of "The Red Warning," Jack Hoxie's latest Universal western thriller, showing today and tomorrow at the Glendale Theatre. Plot synopsis:

To save the rancher's daughter from poverty, the younger prospector borrowed a poke of real nuggets from a rich friend, and told the girl that her dad had found the lost mine. That act established a friendship between the two that eventually culminated into love, although the girl had to follow the bashful swain into the desert to make him admit his affection for her.

Five acts of good vaudeville are also on the boards at the Glendale Theatre today and tomorrow, including Art Fletcher, Charles Carson & Company, May, June & Miles, Reno & Willoughby and Frank Work & Company.

CIDER'S AGE IS QUESTION THAT PUZZLES JURIES

Cumulative Effect of Juice of Apple Is Problem, for Experts

Twelve good men and true, one judge, several court retainers and one whole day were recently required to determine that witching hour when soft cider becomes hard. And according to the federal jury men sitting on the federal jury so occupied, a great deal of the evidence was introduced during the course of the proceedings. All agree it was a hard case to decide.

The jury were out an hour and a half. Certain people in the court thought they had passed out altogether, overpowered by the strength of the testimony, which all admit was powerful. When they came two—that is, when they came in two by two—they reported unanimously for conviction.

Burning Question

After serving his term, the manufacturer involved contemplates learning another trade. It seems, according to the testimony of prohibition officers, that a few months ago there were altogether too many places selling cider with a kick. The burning question became, how does sweet cider get hard so quick?

Sleuthing revealed that certain chemically minded individuals were delivering this sweet and innocent cider to a Los Angeles cold storage plant, and there freezing it, a process which allowed the alcohol—which will not freeze at ordinary low temperatures—to collect into a concentrated drink of high volume.

Natural Results

The barrels were then delivered to the cider emporiums, where this "barbed wire" was withdrawn into pint flasks and small kegs, whereupon it was vended in divers ways. One drink, it was said, would produce two, two would produce two more, and that many would produce two more.

Guthrie On Committee To Study Problems Of Water And Power Development

By RALPH A. LYND
 Of The Evening News Staff

Charles B. Guthrie, Glendale realtor and vice-president of the seventh regional district of the California Real Estate Association, has been notified by President Henry P. Barbour of Long Beach of his appointment as a member of the joint committee of the association that has been appointed to investigate the Colorado river and San Juan Basin situations, and has already signified his acceptance of the honor that has been conferred on him by President Barbour.

Mr. Guthrie will meet with the other members of the joint committee, chosen from among the leading realtors of the entire state, and, after a careful study of the conditions attaching to both projects, will report at the next meeting of the California Real Estate Association as to what is believed to be the best solution of the two great development projects that mean so much to the Southwest.

Favors Boulder Dam

In his letter to Mr. Guthrie, President Barbour points out the Boulder dam should be pushed to a successful conclusion as rapidly as possible, and that the Swing-Johnson bill, in his opinion and in that of other men who have made an intensive study of the matter, should be passed, with some slight modifications.

Dealing with the San Juan basin, President Barbour points out that the coking coal to be found in that region is of immense and vital importance to California if steel is to be manufactured here and if a sound basis is to be furnished for other industries that will inevitably come in the wake of the steel factories, and he also emphasizes the fact that the Colorado river must be developed at once for irrigation and power purposes.

Mr. Guthrie will shortly join the other members of the joint committee and will make a personal inspection of the Colorado river system in the Imperial Valley region, in order that the members may be in a position to make recommendations that will be authoritative in every respect.

The California Real Estate Association, through its state-wide organization and through its connections in adjoining states, is making an exhaustive study of the entire Colorado river subject and also of the proposed development in the San Juan basin, and this data is being summarized in such a fashion that it will cover every phase of the question that is agitating the entire Southwest at present.

WASHINGTON, Mar. 14.—Two large navy yards or bases on San Francisco bay would lead to abandonment in part of or at least one of the yards and would increase overhead charges on each, Captain M. E. Reed, former industrial manager at Mare Island navy yard, told the House naval affairs committee.

RADIO STATION WHERE OXCARTS ONCE TRAVELED

From Obscure Prairie Town to Important City Is Hasting's Jump

By "OLD TIMER"
 Of The Evening News Staff

The little city of Hastings, Nebraska, has recently acquired a somewhat enviable notoriety. The notoriety is of the desirable kind, not that of a shocking murder, a sensational divorce case or a lurid tale of bank robbery or bootlegging.

This little Western city, situated midway between the Atlantic and Pacific coasts, is the point selected to be the scene of the development of a great idea in the radio world. Not long since, a relay station, a powerful receiving and broadcasting station, was established there, and the hitherto obscure little prairie city, just like a thousand others in the Middle West, emerged from its obscurity into the limelight.

Relays Messages

This station takes the messages from the Atlantic coast stations and broadcasts them over the entire western half of the continent. The plan to be perfected during the national conventions in June is that of relaying the proceedings on the convention floor, nominating speeches and result of ballots, just as they occur.

The inauguration speech by the next president, on March 4, 1925, can be heard by all the citizens of the United States by the perfecting of this radio station, was the statement of a radio expert in a recent article on this subject.

As Hastings is the "old home town" of a number of Glendale people, including the writer, the chronicle of this recent achievement is of interest. Deputy Superintendent J. B. Monlux of the Los Angeles city schools was for—

Kirk Hastens Over Final Stages Of European Trip Ere Setting Out For U. S.

Writing from Paris, W. B. Kirk states that he and his family are on the final stretch of their foreign travel and will shortly leave for the trip "across the pond" to the United States, and then across the continent and home.

He writes on February 26 from Paris, France: "On our way from Nice to Marseilles we came through other places in the French Riviera, which are well known to you, such as Cannes and Toulon. Cannes is a large city and is about as much of a society resort as is Nice.

"The scenery along the coast continued to be very picturesque, with the semi-tropic vegetation as our own. We really stopped in Marseilles only because we had to come through it, but instead of coming on to Paris the next morning we decided to spend a full day there, and are mighty glad we did.

"Although the weather was colder than at Nice, we were able to get out, and we saw a fine city. I had not realized that Marseilles is the second city of France. As in Los Angeles, its population is variously stated at from 700,000 to a million.

"It is one of the great ports of the world. The old harbor is small and close in, but the new, like Los Angeles' outer harbor, is being extended along the coast for miles and is the home of many large liners which radiate to every country.

"The first thing we looked up was the ferryboat running out to 'Chateau d'If,' the prison built on the little rock of an island from which Mome Christo was thrown into the sea, as you will recall.

After spending half an hour in going out there, our captain decided that the sea was too rough for us to land so we had to be satisfied with sailing around it, thence going back to port. I couldn't see where the roughness came in as it wasn't half as much so as is frequently the case when boats land at Long Beach pier. An old fort or prison is built on the rock of which we have a picture.

"The coast on which Marseilles is located is all solid rock and we had a fine view of it from the sea.

AMENDMENTS TO INSURANCE BILL FOR VETS FILED

Resolutions Adopted Last October by Legion Men Form Groundwork

Thirty proposed amendments to the existing war risk insurance act, the most sweeping ever offered in connection with laws affecting the last war's disabled, have been introduced in Congress by Congressman Royal Johnson of South Dakota.

The amendments are based on resolutions adopted by the recent San Francisco national convention of the American Legion.

Perhaps most far-reaching in its effects is the amendment that would allow veterans of all wars, including the last, to receive treatment in veterans' bureau hospitals for disabilities that are not traceable to war service. Men benefiting herein would receive no compensation but treatment so long as necessary.

May Lengthen Time

Of almost equal importance is the amendment that would increase the "presumptive period" of service connection for men suffering with tuberculosis, nervous diseases or organic diseases. The present law provides that if a man develops one of these diseases within three years after date of discharge from service and existence of the disease also is discovered during that period, then he is presumed to have contracted the disease in service and no further proof is required.

The amendment would increase the period for development of the disease to five years after discharge, but would make it unnecessary for the existence of the disease to be discovered during this period.

Another liberalization clause is that which permits rating of disabilities of claimants in sub-offices and in the field by special

Need More Farms

"I have contended all along that the present drift of the people from the farms to the cities tends to cut down agricultural production and to raise the cost of foodstuffs to everyone. As Southern California becomes more thickly settled we are faced with the problem of feeding the people, and this can only be done through an increase in the area under cultivation and by the adoption of the most modern ideas in agriculture. For this reason the irrigation of areas that are at present uncultivated is essential, and this can only be done on anything like the required scale by the scientific distribution of the waters of the Colorado river.

"Those who have watched the San Juan basin and know its possibilities know that, when it is developed as it is susceptible of being, it will open up a vast wealth that will pour untold wealth through the Southland cities on its way to the sea. The San Juan river carries an immense share of the waters that flow through New Mexico, it is a region of fertile lands where agriculture will flourish, and it offers the logical route for penetration in the immense coal fields of No. 1 west New Mexico, among the richest in the world.

Sees Vast Empire

"A railroad that would penetrate the San Juan basin would not be allowed to stop there. It would logically follow on down the western side of New Mexico, linking the present railway systems on the north or New Mexico with those that tap the wealth

KIRK TURNS FACE TOWARD AMERICA

Long Trip to Old World Is Nearing End; Glendale Beckons Party

and served in a plate with bread, over which this liquid has been poured. Of course it has a flavor all its own, but this flavor was not particularly pleasing to us. I got away with mine, but the family who had read a lot about stuff and wanted to try it had enough before they had fairly started.

"Our train to Paris left at 9 a. m. and it was a long ride of twelve and a half hours, but proved to be not so tiresome as we had feared as we had dining car for both meals. The track was good and stops few.

Arrive at Avignon
"We had a daylight view of the country through the heart of France. After we had left the sea we soon reached the old city of Avignon, where it would have been pleasant to stop had the weather been warmer.

"It is a medieval town. The principal sight in it is the old papal palace. Napoleon confined the Pope, when the former was in his ascendancy. Another stop, was at the city of Lyons, the seat of the silk industry of France.

"We met some interesting types of people on the train, and so the time passed. Some Americans had recommended the Hotel Moderne to us as a good place to stop in the typically French section, and as we wanted to see some of that, having formerly stopped in the section more frequented by tourists and foreigners, we decided to come here, and have found it all right.

"I like the Place de la Republique and its convenient to French restaurants, where we can get all the changes in fare we want. I have no trouble with the fare over here, except that all hotel fare grows tiresome, as it consists so largely of meats. There are few vegetables this time of year, and the desserts are not equal to ours, even if they are French. However, the markets in France are very superior to those in England, in my opinion.

Bitter Winter Weather
"The winter weather in Paris is surely bad. It could hardly be more changeable. When we arrived the mercury was ranging down below freezing, then it rose to about 35 to 45, with gray skies and occasional spitting rain or snow. Yesterday it moderated, and rained for twenty-four hours. Today is cold again, with a penetrating wind, and alternating sun and snow. We can get some idea of what our boys had to endure over here when they were living in huts and mud trenches.

"No northern city can be very attractive externally in the winter time, and Paris is no exception. The discoloration of the buildings in all old cities does not enhance their beauty when the weather is dull. The bare trees and absence of life in the boulevards and Bois gives them a deserted, forbidding appearance, in marked contrast to that of the summer and fall seasons.

"The shops are advertising and trying to start their campaigns of spring merchandising. Although many of the best shops and stores have salespeople and interpreters, through whom Americans and English can make purchases, many of them in the French quarter have very few, and it is impossible to do any trading with them except with great difficulty.

"It is hard to understand the lack of any knowledge of English at all, on the part of the rank and file of the people here, when only the English channel separates the two countries, and there is so much intercourse between them.

"I have had a chance to wander about the town and get into its life a little. I find small difference between it and any large American city. How it has ever become the world leader in fashions for women, is more than I can understand. Its women don't begin to compare with our American women in beauty and style, so far as I can see. And in men's wear, such as shirts (which they call "chemises"), neckwear, hats, shoes, etc., they are far behind the times. Some of them, shown in windows of goods stores, look like American styles twenty years ago. In art, music, etc., of course, the French occupy a prominent position.

Another Kirk letter will appear at an early date in The Glendale Evening News.

Phelan Charges Japs Violated Agreement

WASHINGTON, March 14.—Charging Japan with laying the foundations for permanent colonies on the Pacific coast, former Senator James D. Phelan, of California, is urging the Senate immigration committee to renew the Japanese exclusion clause in the new immigration law.

Phelan opposed the suggestion of Secretary of State Hughes to admit Japanese under a 2 per cent quota, declaring Japan broke the existing "gentleman's agreement" by surreptitiously sending her natives into the United States by way of Mexico and Peru. He charged the "subversive character of our government" in dealing with the Japanese problem was due to "fear of Japan."

RATIFY RUM TREATY

WASHINGTON, Mar. 14.—The senate late yesterday ratified the treaty between the United States and Great Britain giving American prohibition agents authority to search and seize alleged British rum ships within an hour's sailing distance of shore. This, in effect, extends the three-mile limit to twelve miles.

BICYCLE'S OWNER LOCATED BY NEWS

Stolen Machine, Recovered By Police, Is Restored To Rev. C. H. Tilden

Rev. C. H. Tilden, assistant pastor of the First Baptist church has recovered his bicycle, lost some time ago, through the efforts of the local police and The Glendale Evening News.

Some time ago he reported his bicycle as stolen. Later it was found by Officer Baugh, but the record of theft had been misplaced at headquarters. So Desk Sergeant John D. Cole had the bicycle but did not know to whom it belonged.

At his request The Evening News asked that the owner call at the police station for the bicycle. Rev. Tilden read the notice and now has his property.

Fake Collector
Reports came into police headquarters yesterday afternoon that a man purporting to be dog license collector was calling on Glendale citizens.

Chief Fraser wishes to warn all people against giving this man any money. All officers of the force who are empowered to collect money for dog licenses will be in uniform or have proper credentials from the chief's office, he states.

Two Are Arrested
Chief Fraser, accompanied by Officer J. J. Claxton, broke up a little "party" at a local cafe shortly after midnight last night when they arrested J. D. Clark of 809 South New Hampshire avenue, and C. E. Pigger of the Trinity hotel, both of Los Angeles.

Clark is charged with the possession of liquor and Pigger is booked with having too much refreshment aboard.

TEN ARE INDICTED
LOS ANGELES, Mar. 14.—Ten secret indictments have been returned by the grand jury in the investigation of the Arcadia bank robbery "frame-up." Only one of the ten named in the indictments is in custody. It is believed the returning of the indictments will result in the freeing of the three Mexicans now serving penitentiary terms for the robbery.

Takes pills for years—finds first permanent relief in Kellogg's Bran

Have you found permanent relief from that terrible disease—constipation? The woman whose letter follows discovered—as thousands have discovered—that Kellogg's Bran succeeds when all else fails. This is because Kellogg's Bran is ALL bran. Nothing but ALL bran can be so effective. This is what she wrote:

"Gentlemen: I am so wonderfully happy over my discovery, I feel I must tell the world about it. For years I have been ill continually from constipation, always resorting to pills or the like, never having any permanent relief until I heard of your Krumbed Bran.

Every morning I take two table-spoonfuls before my breakfast—and since the latter part of August I must admit have not experienced one sick spell which I have had for years. I have started my little girl of four years on your Bran, and already I have noticed a change in her. I thank you."

Name and address furnished on request. Write the Kellogg Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

If eaten regularly, Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbed, is guaranteed to relieve permanently the most chronic cases of constipation. Eat at least two table-spoonfuls daily—in chronic cases, with every meal. Money returned if not effective.

Notice the wonderful nut-like flavor. This flavor is delicious—so different from ordinary, unpalatable brans.

Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbed, made in Battle Creek, is served by America's leading hotels and clubs. Demand Kellogg's Bran. It will bring back your health. Start eating it today. Sold by all grocers.

CITY PLANNERS HAVE BIG TASK AHEAD OF THEM

Newly Appointed Commission Asked to Function Soon as Possible

Following a conference with city officials, T. W. Watson, chairman of the city planning commission, called a meeting for 7:30 o'clock tonight at the City Hall when a permanent organization will be effected.

By AL DIX
Of The Evening News Staff.

The members of the newly-appointed city planning commission will be very busy for the next few weeks if they consider all the matters that have been referred to them by the City Council.

Even before his appointment was confirmed by the council, Chairman Thomas W. Watson, former city manager and well known real estate broker, interested himself in several local problems, notably the opening of West Broadway between Central and Pacific.

Some time ago the residents of San Fernando road who have advocated the widening of that thoroughfare for a long time were promised by the council that the first matter to be taken up by the city planning commission would be San Fernando road.

Request Early Action
The council has referred to them the widening of West Broadway with the request that they report within a week if possible. And, according to City Manager V. B. Stone, they will be asked to lead the fight for a sub-grade crossing under the Southern Pacific tracks on Los Feliz road.

The limits of the activities of this new commission are almost unbounded. Not only must they settle, it appears, matters of vital importance to residents of particular sections of the city, but they must make recommendations on projects which concern the entire municipality.

Under the ordinance there are but five members of the commission endowed with power to vote. But it was the recommendation of the city planning commission committee of the Chamber of Commerce, of which V. B. Stone was chairman, that twenty additional members be appointed in an advisory capacity. It was not included in the ordinance who would have the power to appoint these additional members. That will probably lie within the power of the council, or the five commissioners appointed by the council.

Will Divide Work
As the commission has not held a meeting as yet, organization has not been complete. It seems logical, so city officials say, that the work will be divided, so that while one may have charge of the opening and widening of streets, another will have bridges, resurfacing roads, and so on.

"There seems to be some thought," said V. B. Stone, city manager, this morning, "that the principal duties of the commission will be along the problems involved by new sub-divisions. While this will require some of their time, it is true, it will only be a small portion of it."

"The matter of the classifying and zoning of property in the city is of grave importance. At every meeting of the council there is some argument over a business district, set-back line or something of that nature. With a planning commission functioning much of this would be obviated."

Parks Are Problem
"To my mind one of the gravest problems confronting the commission is that of parks and playgrounds for the city. We have a chance to plan now for the future. We are suffering now for the mistakes made twenty-five years ago, and it is up to us to see that our children are not handicapped as we are. Glendale needs more parks and playgrounds. Now is the time to arrange for these."

"Los Angeles is paying millions to provide playgrounds for the ever-increasing population. Glendale must look into this matter at once."

Malicious Libel of Pastor Is Alleged

SACRAMENTO, March 14.—Charging "malicious libel," Rev. William McCart, formerly pastor of the Baptist Church at Ceres and now in charge of a pastorate at Fallon, Nev., has filed a suit in Federal court here asking $50,000 damages of Jerome B. Tupper of Ceres.

Rev. McCart alleges Tupper accused him of immoral conduct with three young women of Ceres, wrote "scandalous letters" concerning him and falsely accused him to such an extent that he was forced to leave the state to secure a charge.

Crops Reported Still in Need of Rain

SACRAMENTO, Mar. 14.—Conditions have improved somewhat during the week ending March 10, it is stated in the recent report of the California Crop Reporting Service. "More rain is needed immediately to hold the improvement and relieve the serious situation facing stockmen. The rainfall of March 1-4 while not ample was of vast benefit to the southern half of the state, where the drought was most severe, it reported."

TUJUNGA SCHOOL GROUNDS CLEAR OF ROCKS

Mothers, Tired of Mending Torn Pants, Lure Kids To Move Stones

Ice cream and cake have once again demonstrated their superior influence over boys and girls and accomplished for Tujunga mothers what no other medium could have achieved. The mothers have been relieved of much anxiety, despair, and miscellaneous mending, and the boys and girls are relieved of much painful repairing, both personal and to their wardrobes.

Mrs. Hartranft, wife of M. V. Hartranft, ran the gauntlet of anxiety and despair every day until their son, Buddy, was safely checked in after school. After that it was frequently a case of mending, not only torn cloth, but disrupted articles on personal and intimate portions of Buddy's active body. Mrs. Hartranft found that her troubles were synonymous with those of other mothers, and decided to find a remedy.

Tujunga's Rocks
The cause of all the mending and surgical work was rocks. The school grounds were populated by rocks of all descriptions, ranging from pebbles to boulders. The rising generation, in galloping about its various business, often let a foot slip and knees came in damaging contact with stones. Quite as often the rising generation was not rising, and would come in contact with sharp stones by being seated unexpectedly and violently, resulting in abrasions, contusions and other casualties. Mothers of active boys know all about those things, so the painful details are passed over for something more pleasant.

Mrs. Hartranft and the school staff called a field meet on the school grounds Saturday. Only one competitive event was scheduled, that of "Putting the Rock," the object being to put the rocks anywhere except where they were. Competition in this event was open to everyone, age no bar. A casual mention was made of ice cream and cake to follow the field meet, and this seemed to make competition very keen. Either that or else the boys who took part are extremely fond of putting the rock. As a result the school grounds are free of rocks, and the boys and several older boys are noticeably plump about the middle.

The church board of the Tujunga community church gave a banquet to Mr. Axe and his class of boys in the Sunday school Saturday evening as a reward for winning a contest in some special work they have been doing.

Members of the Tujunga Valley Realty Board and real estate operators of the district who are interested will meet at the Monte Vista Boulevard Inn next Monday to discuss matters of importance to the business.

Pipe Organ Bought
A pipe organ has been purchased by the Tujunga Valley theater and the manager, Paul Perronett, expects to have it installed and operating about the first of April. Motors and blowers will be installed beneath the stage and the stage itself will be improved. This will be one of the few theaters of this size in the country to have a pipe organ of the unit type. The management hopes to have the organ ready to furnish music for the showing of "Little Old New York," which comes to the Tujunga the latter part of this month.

Mr. and Mrs. French of New Hampshire are the latest newcomers in the Tujunga valley artist's colony. Mr. French expects to paint several landscapes of the Verdugo hills while stopping here. They intend to stay in Tujunga several weeks.

Post 250 and the Auxiliary of the American Legion will give a St. Patrick's dance Monday evening, March 17, at Legion hall, corner of El Centro and Sunset boulevards.

280 Guardians Listed As Having 'Wild' Deer

SACRAMENTO, Mar. 14.—No less than 280 residents of California hold "guardianship papers" for wild deer which have succumbed to attractions of domestication and are kept as pets, it was stated today by George Neale, secretary of the State Fish and Game commission.

"Once the deer has become accustomed to the ease of comparative captivity, they prefer it to the struggle for existence in the wilderness," said Neale.

The animals remain state property and are under control of citizens so long as they are given proper care.

Fully 5,000 men have been added to mine payrolls during the last year, making the total number of men engaged in the mining industry approximate 40,000, according to Root.

During his two weeks' stay, the King of Hoboes will address parent-teachers' organizations and school children on the dangers of the wanderlust and the necessity for making the home attractive.

On finishing his present world tour, which is the sixth since he began his career as a hobo, Davis will return to his home in Cincinnati, where his wife and two children reside.

SACRAMENTO, Mar. 14.—Governor Richardson today forwarded a request to the federal authorities at Washington that T. J. S. Skinner, alias Thomas Searle, charged with a statutory offense against Mrs. Thomas Searle, San Mateo society matron, be extradited from British Columbia.

An affidavit from Mrs. Searle accompanied the request in which the California woman alleged that she was tricked into a false marriage with Skinner in Spokane. Mrs. Searle also sets forth that she did not realize she was the victim of a fake marriage until Skinner sold her property and disappeared.

The answer is, just as many as the suckers will buy as originals.

REPORT ALLEGES DILATORY TACTICS IN FLOOD CONTROL

Advancement Association Committee Criticises County Authorities

The paving of Sycamore canyon beyond the city limits, the placing of small check dams in streams emptying into the canyon, and reforesting the San Rafael hills are only a few of the recommendations made by the flood control committee of the Glendale Advancement Association.

The report of the committee, composed of Dr. Henry R. Harrower, C. A. Fischer and R. M. Brown, was read by Dr. Harrower at the meeting of the association yesterday at the Harriett Mae Tea room.

Parts of the report follow: "Except for the report 'The flood and the damage that it caused was the inevitable result of the denudation of the San Rafael hills by fire a number of months ago. No record can be found of any effort made either by the city or county authorities to forestall just such a condition as came upon us recently."

"An airplane investigation trip made by County Supervisor H. W. Wright, and some discussion of the matter was made shortly after the fire, but so far as we are able to trace, nothing has been done."

"It is true that certain minor protective measures were discussed and an appropriation of $2,500 was made from county funds to be spent by the city engineering department of Glendale. The county attorney advised that such use of county funds was illegal and, therefore, they were not spent. We have no record that when this information was passed on to the county board that another method of accomplishing the same end was suggested and the county authorities asked to do the work which the Glendale authorities would have been willing to do, but could not because of the technicalities of the law; in other words, in this respect we feel that the county authorities have been negligent."

Funds Available?

"The matter of flood control in Sycamore canyon has been under consideration for a number of years. We understand from a conversation with Councilman C. E. Kimlin that approximately $27,000 has accumulated in the county funds for flood protection in Glendale. It may not be correct that this money is waiting to be used here, but at least it seems that this amount has been collected from residents of Glendale in the form of the flood control tax and, therefore, certainly should be available for the protection of those who have thus paid for it."

"The matter of the paving of Sycamore Canyon boulevard has been a thorn of contention in this city for six or seven years. Much delay has been caused by misunderstandings and opposition on the part of those whose property would be assessed for a result of the decisions of the city council to extend the area to be assessed into portions of the city that were not likely to be influenced in the slightest by the investment, and it is our opinion that the opposition of those in Verdugo Woodlands to this assessment was well founded and that the city fathers were at fault in extending the area to include this territory."

"Another source of delay was a flaw in a construction contract made, we believe, with Peter I. Perry, which necessitated the throwing out of the contract and the re-advertising of the whole proposition. We feel that this flaw was the result of either carelessness or ignorance and that the delay resulting from it properly should be credited to the city authorities."

Danger Continues

"So far as we can see, if we have another rain as heavy as the last one, we may expect a repetition of the same experience. If the rain happens to be a little harder and a little longer, we may expect very considerably more trouble and it is very clear why residents in that section of the city are not now praying for rain but are trusting that it may never rain again until flood protection is complete in this particular vicinity."

"The committee requested certain information from the engineer in charge of flood control in Los Angeles county, J. W. Reagan, but his letter was not answered. It is understood that Mr. Reagan has investigated this matter and made recommendations of a rather extended and sweeping character, which he knows perfectly well cannot be materialized in time to do any good immediately."

"Finally, the only way out of this difficulty is to secure the cooperation of not merely the city authorities but the county authorities and to build a large number of small check dams in the various canyons draining into the Sycamore canyon; to re-forest the entire area as thoroughly and as quickly as possible; to facilitate the exit of flood water as completely as possible, which latter should include the paving of Sycamore canyon not merely to the city limits of Glendale but clear into the canyon, and the completion of the proposed Sycamore canyon boulevard just as soon as possible."

That's All
Adjusted Compensation American Legion Show Are Boys Neglected? The Art of Silence

By Gil A. Cowan

Thirty words in a dispatch late yesterday told briefly that the soldiers' bonus bill had been reported out of a house committee and once again sent on its way. Not a very encouraging message. The chances of adjusted compensation do not merit the attention of the news writers.

It is not because a settlement with the service men in the world war is not desirable, for almost everyone approves of it in some manner or form. But there are those interests who make "loans" to politicians who deny that those who offered their lives in the great struggle of five short years ago have a right to collect that which is due them.

Opposition to adjusted compensation comes from three sources, we believe, and they are:

First, those who are paid to oppose it, such as political and propaganda agencies.

Second, those who are misled by the political and propaganda agencies paid to oppose it.

And third, those who are forced to oppose it through affiliation to the political or economic interests seeking the defeat of any compensation measure.

Outside of these three classes there may be a few who are ignorant of the facts, but they are an inconsequential minority.

Be it understood that the former service men, through the American Legion and similar organizations, are not anxious for a cash settlement. They do not seek to burden the nation with an unjust obligation. All they ask is recognition of a righteous claim, particularly in view of the fact that it is denied them by the very ones who did not serve, who profited at their expense and who have since the war willfully abused the confidence placed in them by the disabled, as well as the rank and file of former service men.

It is a sad commentary that such should be the case, but final victory on the part of the American Legion in its campaign is just as sure as the sunrise in the east. Right and truth and justice will prevail.

Glendale's post of the American Legion is staging a monster benefit performance the night of March 19 for the disabled veterans—a variety show worthy of the support of every citizen.

Thanks to the work of Virginia Pearson and other members of the film colony in the southland plenty of talent will be present to make the program equal to any seen in Glendale.

So it is that your support is solicited for a good show for a good cause.

The San Francisco Journal editorially asks: "Are We Neglecting Our Boys?" and goes on to say:

"The boys of today are the men of tomorrow. It depends upon the men of today whether their successors are to be great men, capable of holding American traditions and maintaining the ideals of our forefathers. A noted man in a recent address deplored that 'this is the only country in the world where men won't teach boys.' He says they are too absorbed in the struggle for self to turn to the all important duty of developing and molding the mind of young America."

"To an extent these comments are true. Undoubtedly fathers do not undertake to guide their sons to the extent they should. One reason is that fathers themselves take too much for granted. They assume their sons will develop patriotism and leadership as they progress through school and college. They believe these are characteristics natural to every American and that they will take root and thrive without parental encouragement and guidance. Sometimes they do, but more often they do not.

"This belief is more prevalent among the men of means than in the circles where the struggle for existence entails toil and plenty of it. The rich are inclined to pamper and pet their sons, until the boys have no sense of responsibility and reach manhood with little conception of their civic duties and but a slight understanding of the significance of patriotism. The poor boy has that ambition which makes for leadership and, in following it, he naturally develops the qualifications of the substantial citizen and the true American."

"It is a condition that has grown upon us gradually—so gradually that we did not foresee the danger. We are beginning to see it now. There is evidence of it. The speaker quoted is not the only man in public life who has sounded a warning."

"If the ideals and faith of our forefathers are to be maintained the youth of today must not be overlooked."

Silence is golden, it is said, and the San Bernardino Sun editor claims it to be an art in the following comment:

"In the world's literature a place of no mean distinction must be assigned to the more personal and intimate communications which, in ordinary life, we call 'letters.' Many a writer has revealed himself in his letters in a way which throws much light on his more impersonal contributions to literature. In other walks of life great personalities have become better known for these epistolary intimacies. But there are letters to which neither the historian nor the literary critic has done justice, the letters which were never written."

Acres of library shelves could be filled with these unpenned messages. Who among us is so inarticulate or so unresponsive that he has not had in his head a dozen or more of these missives which never saw the light of day? Who has not meditated eloquently in anticipation of writing a letter of condolence—a soothing message that was never expressed?

"Who has not burned passionately over an injustice to himself or someone else, and in his mind constructed a letter that would make 'the stones of Rome to rise and mutiny'; and who has not found, when a few days afterward, this incident came again to mind, that this eloquence had never found expression on paper and that the fires of passion had just naturally gone out as other fires do in time?"

"Perhaps in that inscrutable way which memory has we are reminded one day of a dear but now far-off friend. Instantly comes the resolve that we must write to him; in a reminiscent way, we shall go over some of the gay times we had long years ago; we shall let him know that more than ever we value his friendship."

We know exactly what we are going to say; we know what will make Bill feel good. But Bill never gets the letter. This one, too, goes to make up the untold millions of unwritten letters. "What wonderful letters are those that were never written!"

PROTEST SHIP LABEL

WASHINGTON, Mar. 14.—The British embassy has taken up with the state department the question of the seizure of the British passenger liner Orduna by American customs and prohibition agents. No protest was filed against the seizure itself, but the British officials thought that the $3,000,000 label fixed for the Orduna was too high.

CINCHES POSITION

WINTER HAVEN, Fla., March 14.—Harvey McClellan, who was spiked on the foot and retired for several days by Third Baseman Miller on McClellan's first day in camp, probably will have no real competition for the White Sox shortstop position. The Kentuckian was very brisk prior to his injury.

Plan Program to Add To Improvement Fund

The Glendale Academy auditorium in Sycamore canyon will be the scene tomorrow night of a program given by Marvel Beem reader. The affair will begin at 7:30 o'clock and will be a benefit towards a fund for improving the academy grounds.

Mr. Beem is a most entertaining reader and has many friends in Glendale, where he has appeared before. In addition to the readings there will be musical entertainment.

KILL FARM AID BILL

WASHINGTON, Mar. 14.—The senate by a vote of 41 to 32 last Thursday defeated the Norbeck-Burness farm aid bill appropriating $50,000,000 to loan to farmers of the wheat regions and purchase livestock and to diversify crops. The bill would have authorized the secretary of agriculture to make loans to farmers not exceeding $1,000 each.

FIVE BOUTS HAVE AS MANY ENDINGS

Three Events Fail to Get Beyond Opening Round; Anderson Wins

Variety marked the card given last night by the local athletic club, when five bouts had five kinds of endings, and the evening's entertainment terminated rather suddenly. Three of the five battles progressed no farther than the opening session, while one went the full route to a draw, and the other resulted in a decision.

The main event furnished the most excitement of the evening from, and not for the fans. Eddie Byrd, lanky local heavyweight, and Ad Anderson, of Oakland, started the fight but the spectators and referee finished it when Anderson was given the decision on a foul.

After several warnings from the referee as to holding and failing to break clean after clinches, Byrd planted his knee in Anderson's stomach in a close set-off. Officials of the club announced Byrd would be barred from the local ring hereafter.

Out on Feet
The semi-final was short and sudden when Cecil Taylor was counted out on his feet less than a minute after the battle started. Taylor, off balance, was tapped on the chin by George Leary, and went down, his head hitting the floor with a bang. He was up at the count of two, but the fall had knocked him silly.

Jimmy Racer and Jimmy Gordon supplied one of the two interesting bouts of the evening, the fight going the full four rounds to a decision for Racer. Racer forced the fight all the way and slugged his way to victory.

Young Calhoun, substituting for Eddie Kelly, put Jack Turner to sleep 40 seconds after the opening bell with a right across to the jaw, and a pair of unbelieved youngsters, a little slow and uncertain, but ambitious, battled to a draw in the curtain raiser.

Rumors, Denials, Alibis

By F. A. GRAHAM

Great gozzle-eyed goozle-fish! Some reporter quoted Ed Maier, owner of the Vernon Tigers, as saying that they would not win the pennant this year. It ain't reasonable. That reporter will please come forward now and admit that his Underwood slipped.

Fred Clark, former manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates, was offered the job of coach and assistant manager to Miller Huggins of the Yankees. He is reported to have declined on the grounds that he would not be worth the salary offered because he has been out of baseball so long. What's matter, is the whole world going nutty?

Jack Renault is said to be going around with a chip on his shoulder, daring Luis Firpo to knock it off. If Jack would use a bale of currency in place of the chip, he would get immediate and violent results.

If Firpo keeps on fooling around with those so-called setups down there in Buenos Aires, he is bound to ruin a perfectly good chance to harvest another crop of Dempsey money. Ernie Spauld, who has had just as much chance with Firpo as a pedestrian during the rush here, stayed fourteen rounds with the Wild Bull of the Pampas and made him like it. A couple more of those showings and Firpo will be going back to his part-time job in the Greasy Ladle.

English speaking people invariably pronounce it "Bonus" Afres, which should explain why Firpo has such an affection for the town.

"Will Display Form." Tut, tut, now boys don't crowd! That is only a headline announcing that the Boston Braves will soon show their skill in exhibition games.

Sam Crawford, late of the Angel team and one of the famous sluggers of other days, is now professor of errors at U. S. C., as most baseball fans know. He is one for the Jawbone league: One morning when Sam entered the locker room he saw written on the black board this inscription: "The rooky said the professor was just another hunk of animated ivory." Professor Sam gave it the speculative eye and without saying a word, took the chalk and put two commas in the sentence, one after rooky and one following the professor, which made it read: "The rooky said the professor was just another hunk of animated ivory." Education is wonderful, is she not?

Sam, as the professor of errors, teaches the young the theory of the Elimination of Errors. This theory, like all its brothers and sisters, is a good little theory on paper, but hard to apply in practical circles.

Indians resist mental fatigue to a greater extent than other people, according to Professor Thomas Garth of Denver uni-

Young Mr. Yarrison Captures Spotlight In Early Training Sessions Of Dodgers

By NORMAN E. BROWN

Written for The Evening News CLEARWATER, Fla., March 14.—The man attracting the most attention in the Brooklyn Dodger workouts these days—unless it be "Dazzy" Vance, the strikeout wizard of the National League—is "Rube" Yarrison, who brings into the league a submarine ball. The Dodger, you may recall, paid $25,000 for him.

Of course, he's dubbed a second Carl Mays, but he gives one the impression of having a more weird shoot than the ex-Yank. He's a right-hander, but his delivery differs considerably from Mays'.

Mays bends over so that he is apparently trying to look upside down at the batter when he throws the ball. Yarrison has a much easier style. He stoops just enough to start the ball a bit below his knee. He whips it with an easy, free swing. This swing adds to the deceptiveness of it. "One can't tell just when he is starting the under-jaw ball.

This motion also gives a mean cross-fire slant to the ball. He shoots it across the plate against a right-hander, so that it comes to the catcher high on the outside of the plate. The batter must reach for it if he wants it. By the same token it comes around the neck of a left-hand batter.

What control Yarrison has over the deep-sea ball remains to be seen. He ranked fourth in earned runs allowed in the Pacific Coast League last season, allowing just three a game. He was wild, however, walking just as many as he fanned—47. He pitched, starting March 21, and lost 8 games for the Portland outfit.

Owner Ebbets and Manager Robinson had the likeliest looking bunch of pitchers in camp this year the club has boasted of in many a season. Vance, Dutch Ruerher, Bureleigh Grimes, Paul Schreiber, Leo Dickerman and Dutch Henry have the call for the regular berths, but there are two or three up and coming gents who will argue it out with them.

Tommy Long, a leftie, comes up after six years in the American and Southern Associations. If he's going to make the grade he ought to be ready now. Ollie Olinger, with the St. Pete club in the Florida State League, is being given a thorough tryout. Nelson Green, from the Richmond club in the Virginia League, another leftie, comes highly recommended.

Then there are Harry Shriver, called from the Albany club, and Danny McPhee, sandlot star from St. Thomas, Canada. George Smith, obtained from the Phils last year, may surprise Robbie also.

Robinson has asked Dazzy Vance to quit breaking catchers' chumps long enough so Hank DeBerry and Jim Taylor can work the rookie pitchers into shape and slip them the fine points of hurling from a catcher's viewpoint.

DeBerry, Dazzy's regular battery-mate, was the strikeout king's first victim last season. One of Vance's hoppers caught Hank's unguarded digit and made it point toward his elbow. Jim Taylor got a chance to receive the Dazzying one and retired from the trenches with a busted member.

All the same, DeBerry likes the job of holding Vance. "Any catcher likes to work with a pitcher who has a world of stuff and can use it," avers Hank.

VETERAN PLAYERS DEFYING OLD AGE

Johnson, Quinn, Adams and Alexander Invincible to Father Time

By DAVIS J. WALSH

For International News Service. NEW YORK, Mar. 14.—Age has its dignity, youth its charm and seldom the twain has both. Notable exceptions are the old-oaken, moss-covered bucket, the fine old ruins along the Rhine and Walter Johnson, Grover Cleveland Alexander, Babe Adams and Jack Quinn.

Good friends wear well, to commit another bromide, and the four gentlemen mentioned and major league baseball have been friends these many years. Like a hoop, they have no end, seemingly. And? Merely this:

Johnson, 36 years old. Has been since 1907 and still is the leading pitcher of the Washington Senators.

Alexander, 37 years old. Has been the leading pitcher of the Phils and Cubs since breaking into the major leagues thirteen years ago.

Adams, 41 years old. Still desired by the Pittsburgh Pirates, although a bit passe. Was the club's best pitcher until last season.

Quinn, 38 years old, yet leading pitcher of the Boston Red Sox. Was veteran of the old Yankees in the days of Hal Chase, Jack Warhop and Russell Ford.

Strangely enough, Johnson and Alexander, the only members of the quartet who have seen continuous service in the majors, are the most effective at this late date.

Adams, in fact, is almost through. He may last out the impending campaign, but it is very doubtful that he will return for the 1925 season, even if he wanted, which is doubtful also. He can pitch about one good game every ten days and is getting by on what he knows.

Quinn's case is unique. When traded by the Yankees several years ago he notified the Red Sox management that he considered himself over and done with and would not report. He was persuaded to return, however, and has been a more or less consistent winner for two seasons, notably against the Yankees. Quinn's salivary gland is the answer. Spit-balls are so few these days that Jack's delivery is a novelty to most hitters.

After several indifferent seasons, Johnson's effectiveness returned last season, and, while his fast ball is not what it was, the speed king might easily last for three or four years longer if he cared to. The tip now is that Johnson pines for the berth of minor league manager.

BARGAIN BILL IN BASEBALL SUNDAY

Fans Can See Two Games for Price of One at Big Double Event

The bargain matinee to be staged by Frank Kerwin at the White Sox home on San Fernando road Sunday ought to give the fans their money's worth. With the Tom Mix Wildcats and the Studabaker Autos clashing in the preliminary and the Sox playing the Pasadena Merchants in the big game, the double event ought to draw well in spite of other star attractions.

The Merchants are rated as one of the fastest semi-pro teams in this part of the country and have played a good brand of ball during the winter. Although the Sox have been going well the past month, they will have to extend themselves on Sunday to get a decision.

Hall to Pitch
Benny Hall will do the twirling for the locals, with Pete Lapan receiving. Lefty Thomas, formerly of Vernon, will hurl for the visitors. Lefty refuses to go to Shreveport, where he was shipped by Ed Maier, and says that he will play independent ball in California this summer rather than perform in the swamps.

Thomas pitched several times for the Sox and went well for a few innings, but weakened along toward the latter part of the game and had to be relieved. He says now that his arm is in good shape and that he can stay the distance.

Paddock Training For Olympic Test

PASADENA, March 14.—Confident that an official announcement of his reinstatement will be made by the A. A. U. today, Charles W. Paddock, world's champion sprinter, has started light training for the far western Olympic tryouts, which will be held here within the next few months.

Paddock declares he does not believe his ankle, which was injured some time ago playing basketball, will trouble him to any great extent. Paddock reached his home here Wednesday night and believes he has already been reinstated by the A. A. U. and that President W. C. Prout, of the national organization, will make such an announcement tonight.

Paddock laughed at eastern reports that several sprinters in that section stated they would beat him for a place on the Yankee team.

Garden Sold Out for Berlenbach's Battle

NEW YORK, Mar. 14.—With the Garden completely sold out of reserved seats for the first time since the Dempsey-Brennan fight, Paul Berlenbach ruled a 7 to 5 favorite to beat Jack Delaney, of Bridgeport, Conn., in their 12-round engagement tonight. It will mark Berlenbach's attempt to score his twenty-seventh successive knockout and his first appearance against a ring man worthy of his punch.

FIGHT RESULTS

At Brooklyn—Lou Bogash, Bridgeport, won decision over Andy (Kid) Palmer, Philadelphia, twelve rounds.

At New York—Billy Defoe, St. Paul, stopped Louis Caputo, New York, five rounds.

At New York—Eddie (Kid) Wagner, Philadelphia, won popular decision over Joe Reno, Trenton, ten rounds.

At McKeesport—Young Pennock, McKeesport, knocked out Buck Weaver of Huntington, W. Va., eight rounds; Frank Monsey, Buffalo, outpointed Ray Schauers, McKeesport.

At Columbus—Jock Malone, St. Paul, defeated Jack Stone, New York, ten rounds.

PORTLAND, Ore., Mar. 14.—Young Dudley, colored boxer of Oakland, Cal., won all the way in a ten-round decision over Marty Summers here last night.

JOHNSON IN TRIM

TAMPA, Fla., March 14.—Joy prevailed in the camp of the Senators today. Walter Johnson, breaking loose with an avalanche of speed and curves, gives evidence that he will again be able to carry the pitching burden, this, his 17th season—under the big tent.

REDS LOSE GAME

ORLANDO, Fla., March 14.—Although Carl Mays, former Yankee pitcher, showed great form in the three innings he worked for the Cincinnati Reds yesterday, blanking the opposition, Indianapolis won the game, 3 to 2.

CUBS PLAY VERNON

LONG BEACH, Cal., March 14.—Bill Killifer brought his Cubs to the mainland to wrangle with Vernon again. Elmer Jacobs, veteran Seattle pitcher, probably will start for the Cubs.

FILE AMENDMENTS TO VETERANS' ACT

Resolutions Adopted Last October by Legion Men Form Groundwork

boards, instead of only in regional offices, as at present. Allowances for dependents of deceased disabled men is increased by the amendments.

Homes Are Bought

More than 400 homes and 20 farms, scattered throughout the state, have been purchased for California veterans of the World War under the direction of the Veterans' Welfare Board handling the $10,000,000 farm and loan bond fund voted by the people in 1922.

George Stout, secretary of the board, has just compiled figures showing that $2,073,120 has been loaned to the veterans. A copy of this report has been filed with James F. Collins, department commander of California.

Applications to the number of 13,668 have been received from California ex-service men and women for home and farm aid. The Veterans' Board, according to Stout, has approved 1,283 applications, in addition to 430 purchases, for financial aid in the purchase of homes and has turned down 915 for a variety of reasons.

Must Know Farming

The greatest number to have their applications refused are classed as those "veterans without dependents." Nearly 500 have been turned down for this reason.

Veterans without sufficient training, experience or ability to satisfy the board that they can reasonably be expected to succeed at farming are not approved for farm purchases under the act.

The average cost of the homes purchased is $4,571, for which the war veterans made an average payment of $30.17 per month. The average cost of the farms, is $5,770, and the cost to the veteran is $438 per year.

Urge Filing Claims

Another appeal urging disabled World War veterans to present their claims for compensation immediately, as the time limit for filing these claims will soon expire, has been received by Morgan Keaton, state adjutant, from Frank T. Hines of the Veterans' Bureau in Washington.

In his statement, sent broadcast over the United States to American Legion officials, Gen. Hines quoted the war risk insurance act, which states: "That no compensation shall be payable unless a claim therefor be filed in case of disability within five years after discharge, or resignation from the service, or, in case of death during the service, within five years after such death is officially recorded in the department under

Examinations Best of School Tests, Claim

SACRAMENTO, Mar. 14.—California will never tolerate a school program minus the examination system, today declared Will C. Wood, state superintendent of public instruction, discussing the movement by some Chicago educators to do away with the test method of ascertaining what progress has been made by students.

"The examination is the oven in which half-baked ideas are burned to a crisp," said Wood.

"I do not favor the type of examination which is nerve-racking or the type which is a mere test of memory. The examination, however, which tests the powers of the child to think and do, as well as the power to remember things worth while is of the utmost value," concluded the department chief.

500,000 Orphans to Have Legion's Care

SAN FRANCISCO, Mar. 14.—More than 500,000 orphans of World War veterans will receive proper institutional and home care in the definite program of legislation as well as relief which the American Legion has committed to the National Commander John R. Quinn has notified officials of the organization in California.

The Legion, said Adjutant Keaton, already has accepted the sponsorship of two institutional projects for world war orphans. One at Otter Lake, Michigan, now is in operation and a second, near Independence, Kansas, is to be located on a tract of land donated to the Legion.

LOW HIGHWAY BIDDER

SACRAMENTO, Mar. 14.—Contractor Sam Hunter of Santa Barbara was the low bidder for the grading of 13.5 miles of Coast Highway between the southern boundary of Ventura county and Camarillo with a bid of $319,145.40 as compared with the state engineer's estimate of $369,002.

which he may be serving; provided, however, that where compensation is payable for death or disability occurring after discharge or resignation from the service, claim must be made within five years after such death or the beginning of such disability.

"The time herein provided may be extended by the director, not to exceed one year, for good cause shown. If at any time any right accrues to any person under the provisions of this article, and such person is a minor or physically unable to make a claim, the time herein provided shall run until such disability ceases."

Most of the men were discharged from the service in 1919 and this will be the last year when many can file claims except in extreme cases, where an appeal must be made.

merly superintendent of schools in this prosperous midwest city. C. C. Rittenhouse, well-known Glendale architect, was one of the early residents there who planned a number of the public buildings.

Hastings Pioneers

Others from Hastings were the late Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Myers and their daughters, Miss Ida D. Myers and Miss Harriet Myers, who still reside in the old home on Central avenue; Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Von Oven, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Blackburn, the Creeths, and no doubt many others.

The writer was a pioneer in Hastings as well as in Glendale. Having spent school and college days there, a little about pioneering on the Nebraska prairies might be interesting, even in California.

The thriving town on the then new Burlington route was laid out just where the route crossed a line running up from St. Joseph, Mo., to the northwest, about 90 miles west of Lincoln, the state capital. It was a typical prairie town—treeless, few wells, and in those days without gas or lights. Great freight trains carried huge loads of freight into Southern Nebraska and Northern Kansas from the junction, before cross-country railroads were built.

Water was scarce, as windmills pumped the water 150 feet to the surface, where it was distributed by itinerant water wagons from door to door at 10 cents a barrel. Later a fine water system was established with a modern city pumping plant and distribution system.

One of the exciting occasions to our youthful minds was burning a fire guard about the town. All the water wagons were assembled. The boys and men gathered with shovels, and just at dusk the short prairie grass was burned off at the edge of the town.

In the years that followed, fine schools, churches and a Presbyterian College were established. Streets and wide avenues were bordered with elms, and the once bare little prairie town is a beautiful city with magnificent elms, fine public buildings, churches and schools and is evidently very enterprising, as evidenced by this great broadcasting station.

There is a vast, virgin empire lying right at our doors, waiting for us to come in and develop its resources, an empire that will pour through our trade channels a wealth that is beyond computation, an empire that is only waiting the magic touch of water and of electricity to start it on its way to becoming one of the wonderful regions in the entire world."

WHITNALL TALKS AT VALLEY MEET

First Open Forum Session of Year Attracts Many to Van Nuys

The first open forum meeting of the year, sponsored by the Van Nuys Chamber of Commerce, brought an attendance from all sections of the San Fernando valley to the high school auditorium the night of March 10, when the Kiwanis band furnished the music, John Sayre at the console of the great organ did yeoman service and Dr. Wilbur Graham, who led the community singing, got a great deal of harmony out of the crowd.

James R. Goldsworthy, vice-president of Van Nuys Chamber of Commerce presided in the absence of President C. T. Wardlaw, and with a few well chosen remarks introduced G. Gordon Whitnall of the City Planning Commission to speak upon the proposed extension of the town-site, one-half mile to the north, east, south and west.

Mr. Whitnall prefaced his remarks by saying that every city has a reason for existing, and that in the case of Van Nuys, the fertility of the soil is not exceeded by the silt-laden Imperial valley, where the constant menace of a break in the Colorado river hangs like a sword of Damocles, a potential element of destruction, of which there is nothing similar in San Fernando valley.

Hasten Great Highway

The Mulholland "skyline" highway is fast developing into a reality. Bids will be received up to March 17 by the board of public works for furnishing portable gas engine driven air compressor units mounted on steel wheels, same to have a capacity of from 150 to 250 cubic feet of free air per minute.

H. E. Huntington and Charles E. Toll and many such men are at the head of the drive and 333 of these busy citizens will take part in the drive. Great interest is being shown in this work for it has become a necessity.

The valley scouts have a camp to be put in shape and among the first things to be undertaken is the building of a swimming pool. Help will be needed in a financial way for these improvements outside of the funds raised for maintenance last spring.

"White Magic" Films

Very interesting pictures of the Los Angeles water and electricity sources were shown at the Community church on Wednesday night.

The picture presented was called "White Magic," a picture of the aqueduct. Another was "Taming the Giant of the Southwest," a picture dealing with the Boulder Canyon dam, the great Colorado river and the Grand canyon. A very fine lecture went with the pictures.

Voters especially obtained an object lesson from these pictures because their votes will soon be required to connect up Lankershim with the great water system, and voting on the subject will now be done more intelligently after seeing these pictures and having visualized the magnitude and necessity of the project.

BATTLE AGAINST POLYGAMY SPLITS
 TURKISH SOCIETY

Educated Women Backing
 Family Rights Bill in Ottoman Empire

CONSTANTINOPLE, March 14.—Turkish society threatens to be torn asunder over the ever-growing problem of polygamy.

The press is evincing more and more interest in the matter, and long articles for and against its continuance are appearing periodically.

The whole question seems to have been brought to a head by the so-called Family Rights bill, which is soon to come up for discussion in the Assembly and is expected to produce some heated debates. Its passage and the abolishment of polygamy at present seem very doubtful, many deputies being frankly against it.

Women of the educated classes are stated to be almost solid for the bill and against the continuance of a practice which, they say, has been abolished by every right-thinking country in the world; and meetings to urge its discontinuance have been held in various towns throughout the country.

Opinion Divided
 Opinions are divided among the men, one of the great arguments put forward by advocates for the continuance being that it diminishes prostitution, while others declare that this is not so, arguing that if need and poverty are the main causes driving women into immorality it would be better to find such women work rather than increase by polygamy the number of those women who live upon somebody else and consume, without doing any useful work in exchange.

A desire to increase the population seems to be at the back of much of the support for polygamy, which, in point of fact, has been discontinued by many liberal-minded Turks for years past; but even this is challenged by people who advocate that greater attention should be paid to the very high rate of infant mortality before increasing the population.

Sheffield Working Girl's Creed Advises 'Blow Thine Own Horn'

By F. A. WRAY
 For International News Service
 SHEFFIELD, Mar. 14.—A stenographer in one of the biggest Sheffield steel works has framed "The Office Girl's Ten Commandments." She is too modest to attach her name to her injunctions. They begin:

"Thus spake the Goddess of Business to her humble devotee, the Office Girl: 'Wouldst thou, o my disciple, gain much respect and many shekels? Then fail not to keep the commandments which thy goddess, in her wisdom now layeth before thee.'

"Thou shalt not wait for something to turn up, but thou shalt take off thy jacket and thy hat and get busy right away, that thou mayst prosper exceedingly in thine affairs.

"Thou shalt not be content to go about thy business looking like a ragpicker. For thou shouldst know that one good personal appearance is worth ten letters of recommendation.

"Thou shalt not try to make excuses, nor shalt thou say unto them that chide thee: 'I did not think.'

"Thou shalt not covet the other stenographer's job, nor the kind of dress that is given to her, and which she, perhaps, hath gained by the skill of her fingers, but thou shalt strive hard and earnest to gain the same kindnesses for thyself.

"Thou shalt not be afraid to blow thy own horn. She that fails to do so on proper occasion findeth nobody standing by to blow it for her."

'Intermezzo' Based On Episode From Strauss' Own Life

Actual Experience Basis of Play to Start In Vienna Soon

VIENNA, Mar. 14.—Richard Strauss' new three-act comic opera "Intermezzo," due to be produced in Vienna next season, is said to be based upon a comic incident in the famous composer's life.

According to the story, one day Strauss was playing cards with three friends when he received a telegram announcing his wife's intention to sue for divorce.

Being unconscious of any guilt, he immediately made haste to Berlin to clear the matter up, where on arrival the news was confirmed to him by his wife's lawyer, who alleged infidelity on Strauss' part as the cause of the proceedings.

Frau Strauss, it appeared, had opened a letter addressed to her husband, which showed clearly that the sender was on intimate terms with him. Strauss protested to the lawyer that he did not know anyone of the name of the signatory, whereupon the legal advisers of wife and husband called upon the lady, a pretty girl, who said her relations with Strauss could not be more cordial, and, indeed, she had an appointment to lunch with him that afternoon.

The two lawyers thereupon decided to be at the luncheon rendezvous at the appointed hour, and were just in time to see a man arrive and take a seat at the young lady's table.

When the man, a musical conductor, was confronted, he at once confessed to misusing the name of Strauss and asked the lawyers to convey his sincerest apologies to Strauss, who willingly accepted them, being glad that the whole affair had been cleared up.

This subject has been used by Herr Bahr, the librettist of the opera, for the book of "Intermezzo," which opens with an ingenious quartet sung by the card players.

Krupps Secure Plant In Spain for Ships

BARCELONA, March 14.—Spain's oldest engineering works, La Marquista Terrestre y Maritima, together with the well known Cardona Dockyard, have been acquired by Messrs. Krupp, the famous German engineering and armaments firm.

The La Marquista Works was established in 1855 and is situated in Barcelona alongside the port. The works employ 900 men and has a capital of approximately $5,000,000.

Under the new order, Krupp's will supply the technical staff, and Spanish banks will find the necessary capital for the proposed extensions of the works and the dockyard.

Krupp's will place immediately large orders for construction work which cannot be undertaken in Germany under the terms of the Versailles treaty. They will also build steamers here for the German-South American lines and construct locomotives for the Spanish railways.

The change is very favorably received here, prominent business men believing it will do much to relieve the unemployment situation.

SPAIN SUCCEEDS IN PASSING CRISIS

Failure of Principal Bank Fails to Worry Happy Nationality

MADRID, March 14.—Madrid, in spite of the prevailing difficulties of earning a living, always presents a cheerful aspect. For the Spaniard, generally speaking, seldom worries about the future, but is content to carelessly phrase it: "Today I am happy; we need not bother about tomorrow—that is in the hands of God."

This peculiar idiosyncrasy of the Spanish people prevents anyone from realizing their anxieties. The Spaniard is, however, inclined to conceal his pecuniary anxieties owing to his abiding sense of self-respect, and this trait provides every government with a ready weapon upon which it can rely.

They Should Worry
 This explains why it would be difficult to realize from external evidence that Madrid is passing through an economic crisis. Farmers and traders are all, nevertheless, working feverishly.

There has never been more money in Spain than today. As a result of the war fortunes have been accumulated, and side by side with penury we see the new rich ostentatiously parading their wealth. There were many Germanophiles in Spain as we all know, who were convinced of the final victory of Germany and who would not allow discussion on the point at all. They invested their money in marks, and such was their confidence that they refused to realize their holdings, and only now that they have lost their fortunes are they willing to admit their mistake.

This was the principal cause of the failure of the Banco de Castilla, which suspended payment last month. It was a bank of high credit but it bought German securities in excessive proportion, and their clients had to suffer. Small depositors in small private banks were able to withdraw their money without any great loss. In the Bank of Spain and the Banco Hipotecario (Mortgage State Bank) the deposits have lately been actually increased.

Rail Issues Active
 The government, a few years ago, granted the railways an important subsidy. The directorate have not, in fact, expended any real loss. Railway shares have changed hands, and there is an upward tendency for the investment of Spanish capital in such public undertakings.

The authorities are at the moment busy with a solution of the problem of foodstuffs. The Food Board has, for instance, decided to control wheat and flour production. Should the wheat shortage persist in the main markets, drastic measures provided by the food regulations are to be applied in order to put an embargo on wheat and flour.

Films in Prison Please Princetown Convicts

LONDON, March 14.—For the first time in England the authorities have allowed "the movies" to be shown in a convict prison, and as a result eight hundred convicts of the Princetown Jail laughed themselves hoarse over the adventures of brother convicts in an American prison, wept when the heroine wept and cheered over the happy ending.

The show was given in the prison chapel, the windows of which were heavily curtained, and during the interval selections were played by the prison band, composed, except for the conductor, entirely of convicts.

Several men who were serving life terms had never seen a film before, and the unraveling of the plot was watched with breathless interest, punctuated with hilarious scenes when prison episodes were depicted.

Spain Has Speedway For Auto Race Events

MADRID, March 14.—With the opening of the National Automobile motor-racing track by the Infante Don Alfonso at Sitges, twenty miles from Barcelona, Spain at last becomes possessed of an "Indianapolis Speedway."

The track—situated in a beautiful country on the shore of the Mediterranean—is one and a quarter miles long and from nine to ten and a half to twenty-four yards wide, and the turnings are banked to allow speeds up to 125 miles per hour. It is of cement, and when finished, with grandstands, etc., will have cost about $1,000,000.

Inside the automobile track is a horse-racing ground and a motorcycle track, while adjoining there are tennis courts and football fields.

FICKLE JEAN NASH JILTS BARON
 Love For Mate Number Three Flames Anew

Mrs. Jean Kerwin-Sifton-Nash and one of her former loves, Prince Mohammed Sabit Bey.

PARIS, March 14.—The old love was too strong. Mrs. Jean Kerwin-Sifton-Nash, who three marriages ago was plain Miss Jean Donaldson of New York, has jilted Baron Lederman von Warburg.

"Sweet memories of her honeymoon," with a former husband, disrupted the romance.

Jean, etc., accidentally saw her third venture walking along a Paris boulevard and the "sweet memories" aroused in her breast proved too strong for her attachment to the Baron.

She pleaded in excuse, "It's a woman's right to change her mind."

Mrs. Nash is called "the best dressed woman in Europe." Tall, fair, slender, still far on the sunny side of 30, the American-born belle is surrounded by admirers at whatever fashionable resort she graces; in every capital where she takes up residence.

One of her suitors, Alfredo Ortega, a wealthy Argentine, was so ardent last season that, when she rejected his offer of marriage, he attempted his life by shooting himself in the head.

Mrs. Nash, who was Jean Donaldson, daughter of the late Andrew Donaldson of New York, is an exotic figure even on the French Riviera. She disdain to wear twice the same gown and even her jewels have to be augmented regularly if she is to remain happy. Four ropes of pearls usually adorn her. In Paris two years ago her arms were wrapped in precious stones. Since then the successive tiers of gems mount almost to her elbows.

Thrice has Mrs. Nash set sail on the matrimonial sea; thrice were her hopes of happiness wrecked. When she was 17 years old she eloped with John S. Kerwin, 18 years old, of New York. This union was dissolved because of the adolescence of the pair. After this brief and sad experience with an American husband, the young woman sought happiness with a Canadian, marrying Lieut. Winfield Burroughs Sifton, son of the Hon. Clifford Sifton, formerly Canadian minister of the interior. Soon they found they were not well matched; she developed a love for beautiful gowns, her idea of the value of

Despite Trade Depression
 Empire Will Spend
 Ninety Millions

By LUTHER A. HUSTON
 For International News Service

LONDON, Mar. 14.—Great Britain will spend $100,000,000 this summer to show the world the glories of her empire.

A monster pageant, to be known as the British Empire Exhibition, is now driving forward to completion and will be opened to the public next month. The exhibition will continue for six months and it is the belief of the backers of the enterprise that 25,000,000 people will come from all parts of the world to see their show.

The exhibition will cost the British Empire ten times as much as it will bring in. If the expectations of the managers are fulfilled and 25,000,000 people spin the turnstiles, receipts from admissions will not amount to more than $10,000,000. That leaves approximately $90,000,000 which the empire must pay for the privilege of displaying to the world a composite picture of its resources.

The British government, the governments of the various dominions, colonies and dependencies of the empire and the business men of all countries that fly the British flag will put up that $90,000,000. It is necessary to make the show a success they will put up added millions.

DECLARES BELIEF SHAKEN BY WAR

Bars Son From Christus Role He Renounced

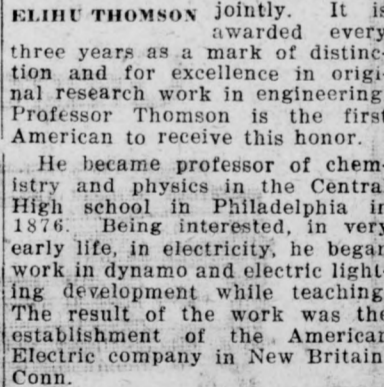

Anton Lang representing Jesus wearing the crown of thorns in the Passion Play; a photo of his son (left) Karl, and a view of him as he is today.

"The war has worked havoc with my spiritual conception of the part. I have become almost a skeptic, not in dogma, but in the world's acceptance of Christ's supreme doctrine of love." Thus spoke Anton Lang, world famous as the interpreter of the Christus in the Oberammergau Passion Play in explaining why he will never again essay the part. Nor will he permit his son, Karl, to enact the role in which his father has appeared three times, at 25, at 35, and two years ago at 47. The statement was made in Chicago where he is with some of the Passion Players on a tour of exhibition of wood-carving.

Uncle Wiggily Bedtime Stories

— BY HOWARD R. GARIS —

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE OATMEAL
"Dear me," exclaimed Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy in the hollow stump bungalow one morning. "I don't know what I'm going to do."
"What's the matter?" asked Uncle Wiggily, who was just sliding down the stair banister railing to get down to his breakfast more quickly, for he was very hungry. "What's wrong, Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy?" he wanted to know. "Did you see the Fox or Wolf?"
"No, but I almost wish I had seen them," spoke the muskrat lady housekeeper.
"What a strange wish!" cried the bunny gentleman. "Why should you say anything like that? Oh, you almost frighten me!"
"Well, I'd like the Fox or Wolf to come in to frighten Baby Bunty; that's what I'd like!" went on Nurse Jane.
"Why should Baby Bunty be frightened?" inquired Mr. Longears.

"To make her eat her breakfast oatmeal," spoke Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy. "You have no idea, Uncle Wiggily, you haven't the slightest idea what a bad little rabbit girl Bunty is when it comes to eating her oatmeal at breakfast! I don't know what I'm going to do with her!"
"Doesn't she eat her oatmeal?" asked Uncle Wiggily.
"Of course she doesn't!" cried Nurse Jane. "And, what is more—but there—I won't say another word. You go out in the dining room and see for yourself. I'm through! I can't manage her! Suppose you try!"
"I will!" declared Mr. Longears, bravely and firmly. "It ought to be easy to make a little rabbit girl eat her breakfast oatmeal."
"Just try! That's all I have to say!" murmured Nurse Jane.

For International News Service
LOS ANGELES, Mar. 14.—The ultra-modern gland operation, where an incision is not necessary, to get the same, if not better, results than after the old fashion, as performed by Dr. Clayton E. Wheeler, is simple, inexpensive and nothing to fear, the physician declares.

Dr. Wheeler, who operates a free gland clinic both in Los Angeles and San Francisco, claims after several months' work in which time he has performed innumerable gland operations in a manner conceived by himself, he has found the method for life extension as well as relief from many common ailments.

Recently Dr. Wheeler invited the correspondent to witness a gland operation at his clinic that "he might see for himself," and the invitation was accepted.

Before starting the operation—which was to be performed on a portly gentleman of perhaps 60 years who was suffering from high blood pressure—Dr. Wheeler explained with emphasis that he made no claims toward rejuvenation.

"I do not claim to rejuvenate my patients," Dr. Wheeler stated. "If they have some ailment such as paralysis, asthma, or the like, I claim I can give them relief and perhaps an entire cure."

But the operation, it really is not an operation, as the layman sees it. In reality it is an "injection" of glands.

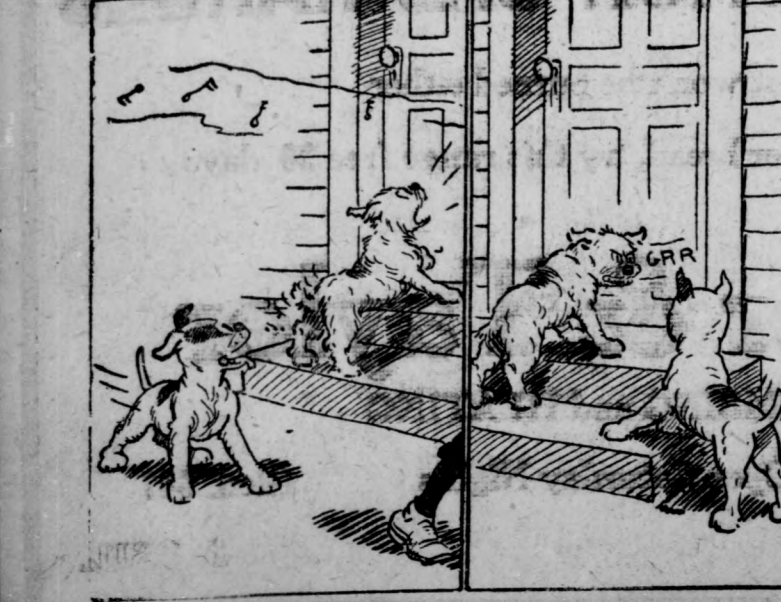

A local anesthetic was administered in the abdomen. While this was taking effect Dr. Wheeler took a fresh gland, which was still warm, and, separating the part he wanted, cut it into small bits. This he later "loaded" into a high-pressure syringe. On the end of the syringe was a long and hollow needle.

With the anesthetic having taken the desired effect and the syringe filled with the precious gland, Dr. Wheeler then inserts the needle of the syringe into the patient at the location where the anesthetic was administered. The needle was inserted beneath the abdominal muscles, where the instrument was worked about in a clock-wise manner until it had completed a circle, giving a "shot."

10 Years Ago Today

From Evening News Files

There was no little excitement last night at the Odd Fellows hall, where the Giants, comprising eighteen excellent spellers selected from the Chamber of Commerce, contested against the White Sox, comprising eighteen brag spellers selected from the Tuesday Afternoon Club. J. C. Sherer captained the Giants and Mrs. John Robert White led the White Sox. The women suggested that since they won the contest their name should be changed to Blue Sox.

While making his usual rounds this morning one of The News staff was handed a lemon—not a joke, but a real lemon weighing twenty ounces and measuring fifteen inches in circumference. It came from a tree in the garden of Mrs. Shields at 246 East Broadway.

Dinner Stories

The bazaar was in full swing when a young man strolled around the stalls. He had no intention of buying anything. As he passed a tastefully decorated stall the pretty saleswoman detained him. "Won't you buy a cigarette holder?" she asked.

"No, thank you; I don't smoke," was the curt reply. "Or a penwiper worked by my own hands?"
"I don't write."
"Then do have this nice box of chocolates."
"I don't eat sweets."
The young woman's patience was exhausted.

"Sir," she said, grimly, "will you buy this box of soap?"
The young man paid up.

Mrs. Hostess admonished Hilda to be very careful in washing up the best tea things. A few minutes later she happened to overhear the servant girl soliloquizing while in the act of wiping the sugar basin: "If I was to drop this 'ere basin, and was to catch it, I s'pose I shouldn't catch it; but if I was to drop it and wasn't to catch it, I reckon I should catch it."

Down in Kentucky they tell about a fire-eating colonel who received a letter which consumed him with rage. This was his reply: "Sir: My stenographer, being a lady, cannot transcribe what I think of you. I, being a gentleman, cannot write it. But you, being neither, will doubtless understand what I mean."

Diet and Health

By Lulu Hunt Peters, M.D.
Author of "Diet and Health with Key to the Calories"

ANSWERS TO MOTHERS

Mrs. W.—Your dear little baby girl is four and a half months old, in perfect health and normal weight, but she acts as if she wanted to eat and you ask her you do not have enough milk for her. You also want to know if you should begin to feed her.

The fact that she is in perfect health and normal weight shows that your milk is all right—that she is getting sufficient. It is permissible and desirable to give one bottle feeding about the third month. This is desirable from two standpoints. It gives the mother a long period of rest from nursing, during which time she can get some much needed recreation, and it accustoms the child to cow's milk. This is an advantage in case sudden weaning is necessary.

Take about four ounces of boiling water, add about two ounces of milk and boil together three or four minutes, stirring constantly. Use no sugar at first. Increase the amount of milk one tablespoonful every other day and decrease the water, until about two-thirds milk and one-third water are used. You can add a fourth of a level teaspoonful of cane sugar to this after the baby is used to the milk and water; then gradually increase it to one teaspoonful. Healthy babies can usually digest cane sugar in their formulas, but if it seems to disagree, use malt sugar.

I would not begin to give the baby anything more to eat until she is six months old. If you feed her every four hours—beginning at 6 o'clock, then 10, 2, 6 and 10—begin to give at the 10 o'clock morning feeding one-half level teaspoonful of any very well cooked and strained cereal before the nursing or bottle. Increase the same amount every other day until about two level tablespoonfuls are taken. After she is used to the 10 o'clock feeding, you can give her a little cereal at 6 p. m. also.

Is she getting orange juice? If not, you should begin that. Begin with a small teaspoonful well diluted with water, and increase one-fourth of a teaspoonful every other day until at least two tablespoonfuls are taken.

My articles on infant feeding and diet for children are now in book form. We have other books on the subject we recommend also! Send for the list.

Mrs. R.—I should judge that the trouble at birth of your babies was caused largely by their enormous size. Seven or eight pounds is a good sized baby, and you say yours weighed 13 and 15 pounds at birth. The weight of a baby can be controlled to a measure through the mother's diet before he comes, and it should be so controlled, not only for the sake of the baby but for the mother. It often happens that mothers overeat during this period, under the impression that it is necessary, and very grave results, in the form of eclampsia (convulsions of pregnancy) and difficult childbirth, may result. Fifteen or twenty pounds is enough increase in weight to allow the expectant mother.

Obstetricians are now watching the weight of their patients as often and carefully as they have examined the urine and blood pressure and taken other precautionary measures to prevent trouble. Women who are very much overweight can reduce at this period. Special precautions have to be taken, however, that only the concentrated energy foods—candies, rich desserts, bread and fats—are cut down. Milk must be taken for its calcium and its complete protein. Liberal quantities of vegetables, especially the green leaf vegetables and fruit, should be taken. Nuts are also very wholesome at this time (or any time).

We have an article on Diet in Pregnancy and Nursing which you may have by following the rules.

Mrs. B.—We have an article on rickets and one on bed wetting, which you may have by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope to me in care of this paper, and requesting them.

Tomorrow—Answers to Correspondents.

My Dear Followers—When sending for material which we offer you, please remember to enclose a stamped envelope bearing your full name and address. The pamphlet on reducing and gaining is the only one for which you must enclose four cents in stamps extra. Address your letters to me in care of this paper. Make them brief as possible, not over 200 words, and type or write them legibly with ink. Please sign your name as evidence of good faith—we will not use it in any way. Remember it is impossible for me to diagnose for you or answer you personally. I appreciate very much the beautiful letters you send me and will do what is possible to give you individual advice. The questions you ask will be answered in the column as soon as possible, if they are of general interest. Don't forget the s. a. s. if you expect me to send you the information I have offered.

TYPICAL AMERICAN WOMAN BEAUTY CHATS

Sculptor Picks Her As Model for Statue

Mrs. R. E. Barrett, and (inset) W. J. Noble working on a bust of her.

The "typical American woman" is often referred to. What does she look like? W. J. Noble, the American sculptor, believes that Mrs. R. E. Barrett of Warrenton, Ore., is the personification of the typical American woman, and he has chosen her as a model for the monument he is now engaged in creating, "American Womanhood." Mrs. Barrett is city manager of Warrenton, the only woman in the United States to hold such a position.

Heart and Home Problems

By MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

ALWAYS IN TROUBLE

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl 19 years of age and I am very happy but always in trouble. I am keeping company with a young man who is 21 years of age. There are a lot of girls and also boys who try to tell things to make trouble. He really does love me. I guess, because he is very jealous of me. He does a lot of nice things for me and whatever I ask him to do. But whenever I go anywhere without him it seems to trouble him. He hardly speaks to me afterward, but he makes up in a short while and never leaves me angry. There are married people who tell me he is a very nice young man, but they say I should not become engaged to him. I love him dearly.

BLUE-EYED BLONDE

Probably you are too confidential and tell your affairs to your friends. When what you say is repeated, trouble starts. Try to decide your own problems and do not talk things over so much. Your married friends are not in a position to decide for you whether or not to become engaged to the young man. That is a matter which concerns you and him. Since you are not engaged, you are free to go with other young men, too. But if you do become engaged, go only with your fiancé.

NOT COMPATIBLE

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl in my teens and have been going with a man ten years my senior for two years. I live on a farm and he lives in a city. We have been corresponding with each other right along. He doesn't associate with boys or girls. He just likes to stay home and come out on Sundays to see me. I like to go out and have fun, but when

I do he gets angry. He is very jealous of me and we quarrel every time we go out together. He gets angry when I dance with my boy friends.

He thinks a great deal of me and at times I am crazy about him, but at other times I think I hate him. I have tried many times to quit going with him. But when he doesn't come to see me it seems as though I can't stand it. Then we make up and go together again. But the same story begins again.

I would appreciate your advice. PAULINE W.

You and the man are not suited to each other. He is old for you and your tastes are not congenial. Besides, his jealousy would make you most unhappy. Continue to go with boys of your own age. If he objects, let him go. The hurt of not seeing him will wear off after a time and you will find yourself much happier.

AB—4: Your boy friend has no adequate excuse when he and another boy disappoint you. It must be very embarrassing to invite another girl to your home and then have the boys fail to appear when they have suggested coming. Do not let your friend blame the affair on the other boy. Regardless of the other boy's inclination, your friend could at least telephone you and ask to be excused from coming. Tell him you will not put up with that sort of thing again. Do not call up your friend and ask him if he has anything to do on a certain evening. Even if he has told you to do so, it would not be advisable.

P. J. M.: The only thing for you to do is to keep advertising for a housekeeper and try one after another until at last you are satisfied. It is not an easy matter to get a good housekeeper.

NEW STYLES OF BOBBING

Bobbed hair has come to stay, at least for a great many years. It was spoken of as a passing craze, and, like all new fashions, it was strongly disapproved of at first, and is still disapproved of by very conservative people. It is, however, a healthy and harmless fashion, and a godsend to a woman whose hair is anything but a crowning glory, and for the woman who is not clever enough to dress her hair becomingly, or for the unfortunate possessor of limp hair that no one can dress becomingly.

There are so many ways of bobbing the hair now that there is a style for every face. The newest way is shingling, which gives a line exactly like hair that is dressed with a high knot at the back, and which is therefore becoming to the mature or sophisticated face. The hair is cut any becoming way in front, but preferably with a parting quite far on one side and the hair brushed to the side and back from the face. The hair will be quite short on one side of the part, quite long on the other, and it should be held to the side of the head with a simple, becoming comb.

At the very back the hair is cut with a graduated shortness like a man's, the hair at the neck being scarcely an inch long, increasing to about six inches at the top. This makes it fluff at the top and cling closely to the head at the back of the neck exactly as well combed hair would do. Shingling, it can be fluffed over the ears, and even made into a slight pompadour over the forehead.

For straight hair and an oval face, part in the middle and comb smoothly down the back and each side and cut a deep fringe across the forehead almost to the eyebrows. Even the straightest hair can be trained to curve forward the least little bit over each cheek, which gives a becoming line at the side. Wavy hair would probably look best parted at the side and brushed back lightly.

Sub Deb:—You would certainly risk your health in trying to reduce your weight through drugs. You are about six pounds overweight, and while this is a great

Bobbed Hair Has a New Lease On Fashion

Bobbed hair continues in favor; but, since you have such thick, long and wavy blonde hair, which must be beautiful just as it is, I do not think you would improve your appearance by cutting it off. Tomorrow—Preserving a Youthful Figure

All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes, in care of the "Beauty Chats" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So, if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question.—The Editor.

With the Women of Today

By MRS. LILIAN CAMPBELL

MRS. IZETTA JEWEL BROWN, announcing the candidacy for the Senate of Mrs. Izetta Jewel Brown on the Democratic ticket again centers the interest of women leaders on the chance of winning a seat in the Senate for a woman—and a Southern woman at that—a resident of West Virginia, stronghold of the "Old South."

Mrs. Brown, who is the first woman to throw her hat into the senatorial ring in this campaign, blazed the trail for herself in 1922, when she was defeated for the Senate after a valiant contest. Reports from West Virginia are to the effect that her chances in the coming election are much better than in 1922, when newspapers did not take kindly to the idea of a woman senator representing their state. Shortly after her recent announcement of her candidacy she was referred to as "senatorial timber," and at Democratic headquarters in Washington it was said she was planning a campaign calculated to give some concern to the opposition.

Her platform, briefly stated, is prohibitionist, agricultural and feminist—feminist in so far as she is a supporter of the National Woman's party and is an advocate of their equal rights bill. Prohibitionist she has always been. It is, she said in a recent statement, "traditional" with her. Her activities in behalf of agriculture are counted upon by her friends to win her the vote of the rural population. For years she has been affiliated with the American Farm Bureau Federation, and is a member of the federation's national committee of five women.

Mrs. Brown first came into public notice at the Democratic convention in San Francisco, to which she went to make the speech seconding the nomination of John W. Davis for president. In the ensuing campaign she traversed from Maine to Kentucky in the vanguard of speakers for Governor Cox.

He was supine in his deck-chair, solemnly avowing to himself that he'd stay in Europe until they built a bridge across the Atlantic.

"Can I do anything for you, sir?" inquired a steward.

"You might present my compliments to the chief engineer," the passenger managed to reply, faintly, "and ask him if there is any hope of the boilers blowing up."

"What is the matter with my leather upholstery?" writes a Column Reader. "It is beginning to crack. I have always been careful to keep it well dusted and keep it out of the sun. Should it be a pity that furniture dealers do not instruct their salesmen to inform purchasers of the care of leather upholstery, after buying it. For it requires constant care if it is to resist wear and be kept from cracking. Indoor heat dries leather and for this reason the leather should be gone over once a month with oil, to prevent parching. As any oil will darken leather, in time, use as light an oil as possible—such as paraffin, lemon oil, neatfoot oil or linseed oil.

Do not oil the leather, however, unless you are sure it is clean. Otherwise the dust, mixed with the oil, will form a sticky film. To clean it, use the following home-made solution: Cleaning Solution for Leather Upholstery.—Put one bar of white soap into a bowl with one cup of water; when the soap has dissolved, add one cup of alcohol and two cups of paraffin oil (or any other light oil). This solution will not only clean the leather, but will also supply some of the oil it requires. After rubbing it on with a soft cloth, (as you would wash paint) then rub with a dry cloth, let the leather dry for an hour or two before oiling as follows:

Four a little light oil onto a soft cloth (worn-out cotton stockings are excellent for this use) and rub this cloth over a small portion of the leather, taking care to remove all excess oil, as it will catch dirt. Polish at once with a piece of silk, before going on to oil another portion.

Some housekeepers clean their leather upholstery with liquid shoe cleaners, which is also an excellent way but a little more expensive than the home-made solution. Imitation leathers are also renewed by oiling. Most imitation oil finish, and this has not the leathers are cloth with an emulsion of absorption that real leather has, but it is nevertheless brightened and preserved by an occasional oiling (not quite as frequently as the real leather).

All inquiries addressed to Miss Kirkman in care of the "Efficient Housekeeping" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So, if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question. Be sure to use your full name, street number, and the name of your city and state.—The Editor.

EAGLE ROCK

MENTAL TEST FOR SCHOOL CHILDREN

Classify Students According to Possibilities of Mind and Body

In spite of the generally accepted statement that "all men are created equal," Miss Georgia C. Shane, counselor of the Eagle Rock school, declares that no two men, women or children are really equal, either mentally, physically, financially or morally, nor do they have an equal opportunity.

"We consequently find," she says, "that at an early age the child exhibits widely diversified tendencies. Physical, moral and financial inequality may be overcome. Mental inequalities, according to the psychologist, seem to be relatively a mixed condition—a condition predetermined by the forces of heredity.

"As applied to the school child, this means for the educator, that as soon as a child reaches his mental limitations, or before, he begins to lag behind the child who has better mental equipment.

Classify Children
"It is obvious, therefore, that a proper placing of the child with those of equal mental status will enable him to do capacity work and will eliminate the wasted effort resulting from the attempt to compete with children who are mentally older.

"Nor is it lamentable that children are found to be of unequal mental capacity. As in the athletic world—two children of exactly the same age chronologically may differ widely in their ability to run a race, to throw a ball, or to accomplish any physical feat of like degree—so in the mental field, two children of exactly the same chronological age will differ in their ability to comprehend or to reason or to discriminate."

It is for the purpose of classifying Eagle Rock children, as regards their mental capacities, that Miss Shane is conducting a series of standard psychological tests, such as have been developed by the department of psychology of the Los Angeles city schools. The results of her tests are awaited with interest by local parents, who wish to see how the brain power of their children will compare with that of their neighbors' children.

Good Speaker at Club
Mrs. Caroline B. Eager addressed the Women's Twentieth Century Club at yesterday afternoon's session. Her topic was "The American Influence Around the World." It included the result of her twenty-four years' experience as a teacher in the Philippines.

Mrs. Harriet W. Meyers spoke during the luncheon, her topic being "Birds and Flowers." She is chairman of the birds and flowers department in the General and District Federations of Women's Clubs.

Mrs. Paul Elderkin rendered a group of selected songs, accompanied by Mrs. Vardaman Bailey. Plans are being made by Principal C. W. Preston of the Eagle Rock school for a fathers' night of the Parent-Teacher Association, the night of March 28.

Fickle Jean Nash Jilts Latest Suitor

money remained puerile, his income could not meet her bills, the law parted them.

So ended the second brief voyage toward the port of happiness. Then this charming woman wed Capt. John Victor Nash of the British army. Captain Nash's army pay was $2,000 a year, but he had some $90,000 worth of property in South America; his wife had inherited much more money.

Adorned Like Sheba

A famous Paris dressmaker sued the gallant captain for the amount of bills his wife had run up in his name. The husband testified, in brief, that the desire of his spouse to adorn herself like the Queen of Sheba in all her glory had precious well ruined him. Without going into details, the court decided that Captain Nash was not responsible, in any way, for his wife's extravagance, so he did not have to pay the bills.

An American, a Canadian, an Englishman—then engaged to a German; certainly Mrs. Nash has no racial or political prejudice in her choice of a husband. Not long ago her name was linked with that of an Egyptian. It was reported that she had become a convert to Islam; that she might marry Prince Mohammed Sabit Bey. They were often in each other's society at Deauville, in Paris, where Mrs. Nash makes her home at the Villa Majestic, and at those fashionable resorts where the "die-hards" of Parisian night life disport themselves.

But the tenuous thread of this romance was cut quickly. The impertinent Paris police had the temerity to accuse Prince Mohammed with fraud in connection with a pendant which he gave Mrs. Nash. They even questioned her, but, of course, accepted her indignant protestations.

Exhibition to Display Wares of Britain

come back manifold through expanded trade channels.

"We are proceeding on the theory that when business is bad is the best time to advertise," one of the officials of the exhibition said. "This show is intended to advertise the business of the British empire. We think we will get our money back many times over."

Backed By Colonies

The British government, despite complaints of high taxation, already has guaranteed approximately $1,000,000 for the exposition. Efforts are now being made, with apparent prospects of success, to obtain an additional government appropriation of $5,000,000.

In addition to appropriations from the home government, huge sums are being spent by the various dominion and colonial governments to insure that their particular part of the empire is adequately represented. India, Canada and Australia have made appropriations of approximately $1,000,000 each, and the high commissioners of these countries in London are planning soon to ask their home governments for additional appropriations, without which enterprises already undertaken cannot be completed. The Union of South Africa, Newfoundland, Burmah, Malay, Sarawak, Ceylon, Bermuda, Fiji, Hong Kong, British Guiana, Malta, Palestine, Cyprus and various other countries and groups of countries under the Union Jack have made appropriations ranging from $15,000 to $500,000, many of which probably will have to be doubled before work now under way is finished.
