

New York, 3 Dec. 1859.

Dear Mrs. Chapman,

I thank you for your note just received, and I am especially gratified by the freedom with which on this, as on other occasions, you ~~offer~~ give me your judgment as an aid in forming my own. I wish that other leading friends of the cause would imitate your example in this particular. In regard to local matters, I must rely almost solely upon my own judgment, but in regard to questions of a larger kind, I often feel the need of suggestion or advice. Except Mr. Gay, who is now ^{here} very busy with other matters, there is almost nobody ^{who is qualified, &} ~~whose~~ thorough acquaintance with the cause, to aid me in a pinch. If only once a ^{month} ~~month~~ I could see our Boston friends familiarly, as they see each other, I should be in less danger of losing "concert pitch;" but I do the best I can in my circumstances, and ~~leave~~ ^{am} leaving more and more to depend on my own "light within."

In regard to Dr. Pomroy, I was balaning between ~~an~~ entire silence and just such a mention of his fall as you suggest. If the precedence of John Brown matter did not compel me to omit the column of news items altogether, I might state the facts in half a dozen lines, as from another paper; but, as it is, I think I shall not mention it at all. I cannot wonder at your apprehensiveness lest I should act unwisely in the matter, but I assure you I was in no danger of speaking an unfit word respecting it.

We had a good meeting at Dr. Cheever's Church last evening. Many noble words were spoken, and the feeling just what was most to be desired.

As for Emerson, I have always thought him vastly overrated. He falls a great way below my estimate of a genuine great man.

Yours faithfully,

Otho Johnson.
