

AT THE HIGH SCHOOL

BIOLOGY CLASSES BECOME GARDENERS—SALESMANSHIP CLASS HEAR LECTURES

In response to the nation-wide call for gardeners, both of the biology classes have volunteered the last few days to spend an hour each day in tilling the soil. All of the available ground around the school yard has been utilized by the young farmers, the total area approximating half an acre. Miss Fish, who is the biology teacher and the supervisor of the new proposition, says that all are taking their parts willingly and that a banner crop is expected. A new variety of "stringless" string beans will constitute the entire crop.

Accompanied by their teacher, Mr. H. C. Joy, the members of the salesmanship class started out on a knowledge-seeking expedition Monday at 12:30 o'clock. They first visited the Chevrolet Automobile Agency on Brand boulevard, where they were permitted to listen to a very interesting talk on the salesmanship of the Chevrolet. After the lecture the entire class climbed into one automobile, where their picture was taken.

The excursionists then motored to Los Angeles, where they visited the Pathfinder Automobile Agency on South Olive street. After being shown around the building for an hour, they were given the second speech on the subject of salesmanship, the speaker this time being the manager of the Pathfinder Agency.

Those who went on the excursion were Olin Wilson, Russell Tummell, Paul Smith, William Balthis, Frank Tullar, George Lameraux, Miller Fischel, Fred Wilson, Curley Williams, Jessie Tipps, Daphne Burlingham, Mary Ellen O'Leary, Lila Whitehead and Audrey Hall.

The members of the baseball team will travel over to South Pasadena this afternoon to play them in the third league game of the season. The boys are going good now and should come home victorious. South Pasadena has always been Glendale's closest rival in baseball, and the game promises to be a fight from start to finish.

MAKING THE LIBRARY VALUABLE

An effort is being made by those in charge to make the Glendale library of intense service to all who are entitled to its privileges. Mrs. Danford is making a specialty of grouping all books on a certain subject and those who are pursuing some certain line of study have found this an invaluable convenience when consulting the reference books. All theological works have been assembled and a list mailed to the ministers of the city. When the poet, James W. Foley appeared in Glendale on the Tuesday afternoon club program there was a great demand for his works and literature pertaining to his life, and it was a great convenience to find this matter grouped. Mrs. Danford states that of any club or organization is interested in any particular personage or any particular subject and will phone the library she will be glad to collect all material on that subject so that it will be easy of access.

Dr. J. P. Luccock, for the past ten years practicing dentistry at Bishop, Cal., has decided to locate in Glendale and has secured a suite of rooms in the Bank of Glendale building. He is now engaged in making some changes and improvements in his rooms and expects to be ready to receive patients in a few days. Dr. Luccock is a dentist of long experience and will no doubt soon build up a large patronage here. He will have a reception room, in common with Dr. Harrower. Dr. Luccock is living at the Gray hotel.

SOCIAL TEA

The Rector's Guild of St. Mark's Episcopal church gave a Social Tea at the home of Mrs. Le Roy W. Bosserman, 814 Central Avenue on Monday afternoon. About forty ladies were in attendance. Tea was served in two courses and the guests were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Lowinsky, local artists of note and Mrs. Coral Harrison Sloan, dramatic reader and Miss Doris Packer, reader. The St. Mark's apportionment fund was met by the proceeds of the affair.

ATTENDED EBELL CLUB SESSION

The following ladies from Glendale went to Los Angeles Monday morning to attend a Parliamentary session of the Ebell club; Mesdames F. L. Church, Harry Greenwalt, P. S. McNutt and Helen Campbell.

GLENDALE RED CROSS

COMMITTEE CHAIRMEN GIVE REPORTS AT MEETING AT BRALY HOME

By Walt. LeNoir Church, Publicity Com.

At the meeting last evening of the Glendale Auxiliary Red Cross, in the home of the President Mr. John Hyde Braly, 205 N. Brand Boulevard, the President announced that Rev. C. Irving Mills had telephoned that other duties prevented him from attending. So did Dr. R. E. Chase, and Mrs. Chase, chairman of the Membership committee, who had reported 195 members in Glendale, not counting the number who had joined in Los Angeles.

It seems that several of Glendale and vicinity joined the Red Cross by sending name and membership fee to Mr. C. H. Toll, who is not a member of the Glendale Auxiliary; but is President of the Los Angeles Chapter. He would naturally have them entered as members of that chapter, and not of the Glendale Auxiliary; so their names would not appear in the published Glendale list. All who joined in Los Angeles may be transferred to Glendale, by requesting same through Mrs. R. E. Chase, chairman of the Glendale Membership Committee. That is optional. The President, Mr. John Hyde Braly, the secretary, Mrs. Mabel Ocker, and Dr. McCrea all had joined in Los Angeles, but wish to be transferred to Glendale.

Those present were President and Mrs. Braly, Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Beamon, Mrs. W. E. Evans, Mrs. C. E. Hutchinson, Mrs. H. E. Bartlett, Mrs. J. R. White, Mrs. Carter, Mrs. Nanno Woods, Mrs. A. S. Chase, and Mrs. Ocker; A. T. Cowan, Dr. H. R. Harrower, W. L. Church; besides several visitors, among whom was Mrs. Bartlett's friend, Mrs. Patterson of New York, Chicago, Washington, and other Red Cross centers, where she had so imbibed the practical spirit of the movement, she spent the meeting hours busily knitting for the needy, the while attentively listening to the interesting proceedings.

Mrs. Evans had been at headquarters in Los Angeles to get information about the work of her committee. She purchased material; and arranged with 12 ladies to work at the Glendale First Christian Church ("The Homelike Church") Thursday afternoon. What is most needed as a preliminary to sewing garments is the raw material, in the purchase of which a little money does not go very far. She said there is no need for more workers till she gets money to purchase material.

On the suggestion of Mr. McCrea, a committee was appointed to get donations. Mrs. Woods and Mr. Braly said all money needed for immediate use would be advanced, there being over $100. due from the Los Angeles Chapter as soon as we comply with the formalities for receiving it; being the one half of what this auxiliary had paid in to the Los Angeles headquarters.

The chairman of that new donation committee is Mrs. A. M. Beamon, whose other occupation, like Othello's, was suddenly gone. She was the chairman on "Comfort Bags." She declared she had vigorously investigated four days last week besides most of the week previous, but could get no definite idea of what a comfort bag is. Some said "it is round and deep, 10x13, with numerous compartments." The dimensions given supposed to be in inches; but when she found out what multitudinous contents are scheduled for one of those bags, she concluded perhaps the size was 11x13 feet; and that a Saratoga trunk would be more suitable. She did not say exactly that; but the Committee on publicity caught that idea. As a matter of fact, of course we do not expect to see each of our dear soldier boys rushing, double quick, into battle holding his mauser or Krag-Jorgenson in one hand, and with the other balancing his Saratoga on his manly shoulders. But, certainly the Saratoga might be armour plated and, in emergency, used as a fortress, after emptying out the multifarious contents. Those containers must be built to contain almost everything for man's personal delectation, from a mirror (not necessarily a peer-glass) to safety pins (medium size), talcum powder, thimble, (large), cigar lighter; also and likewise playing cards and tobacco—unless going to France; but if to Paris, alcohol may be substituted, in the guise most affected by the individual hero. However, all doubts and further discussions were removed by the ruling at headquarters that the uncertain, coy and hard-to-fill Comfort Bag, is only for men in the trenches; and as no

TRADES COMMISSION REPORTS

DECLARES STANDARD OIL INTERESTS DOMINATE THE GASOLINE INDUSTRY, NO COMPETITION EXISTS

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

WASHINGTON, April 24.—The Federal Trades commission's report in the Senate to-day declares that the Standard Oil interests substantially dominate the gasoline industry. The report states that the refining, transportation and distribution of gasoline is so controlled that real competition does not exist owing to interlocking ownership. It declares this has a fundamental bearing on gasoline prices which are arbitrarily increased, and also that as a result of this combination the quality of gasoline is deteriorating. Legislation to abolish common stock ownership in corporations dissolved by the courts under the anti-trust laws was urged by the commission.

GLENDALE'S SONS

RESPOND NOBLY TO CALL OF THEIR COUNTRY AND HUMANITY

Glendale has proven that she is a city teeming with patriotism, patriotism that is making a name for her in the military and naval world. If anyone doubts this statement we bid them look upon the muster rolls of the 21st company, Coast artillery federal reserve, or Battery A, 1st Battalion Field Artillery National Guard, or the U. S. National Guard cavalry company stationed in Los Angeles, or the naval rolls and there he will find the names of many of our young men who have shown their true colors.

Glendale has a wonderful showing in the 21st company, Coast Artillery of the Federal Reserve: D. W. Nicoles is second lieutenant of the company, H. A. McElroy and W. Jackson are sergeants, A. Knight and Milton Newton are corporals and George Grist and Ralph Carmichael are buglers. Other Glendale boys in this company are Earl Brown, F. Budway, H. Chandler, W. M. Crawford, R. Dodsworth, Clarence Edwards, J. Flower, Logan Fairchild, L. V. Gibbs, George Grist, Ellsworth Heald, Edwin Heacock, L. G. Jones, Oliver Keese, Otto Miller, Milton Newton, Norman Otis, J. C. Padelford, Howard Anderson, Homer Plannette, A. M. Moniott, Louis Roberts, Howard McGillis, Miller Fischel, John Sharpe and Maxwell Sheriger, while Joe Fischel is a member of the 20th Company.

In that distinguished branch of the service, Battery A, of the Field Artillery appear the names of Harry Spink, William Bode, George Garner and Merle Eckles while Roland Dimmick is a cavalry man with the U. S. National Guard.

Eddie Wood, Chancellor Livingston, Ben Durham, Anson Pitcher, Henry Dreyer and others represent our city in the navy.

Our Home Guard of between 200 and 300 members is another organization worthy of commendation and support. The city is backing this noteworthy movement and all patriotic citizens should show as these boys have done that they are patriotic Americans with the honor of America first in their hearts and their duty to their country uppermost.

SEVEN HILLS RIFLE CLUB

The Seven Hills Rifle and Revolver Club held their weekly practice shoot Sunday in which more than a hundred members participated. Some fine scores were recorded, which proves that much good is being accomplished in the way of rifle practice. The Hon. F. T. Woodman, Mayor of Los Angeles, holds highest score, shooting at the 300-yard target. Mr. Woodman ran in a score of 150 points, which entitles him to the decoration as a sharpshooter. John L. Butler, Chief of Police of Los Angeles, was his close second, getting beaten by only three points. The Mayor proves his skill as a six-shooter operator, shooting 50 shots at 50 yards against an expert, Dr. G. Irwin Royce of Glendale—Mr. Woodman scored 405 points while Dr. Royce made 435. A number took part Sunday in the trap-shooting which has lately been installed, this being a preliminary arrangement made for lovers of this sport, as automatic traps will be installed this week. W. E. Palmer, the secretary and manager of the club, announces that he will arrange a beginners' shoot which will be held the early part of next month. He is corresponding with the E. I. Dupont Powder Co., also the Winchester Co., who will furnish trophies for this event. Some good prizes will be offered for the highest score.

FUNERAL SERVICES

Funeral services will be held this morning at 10:30 o'clock for little Marjorie Stone, whose death occurred in her home Monday morning. The services will be in the family home, 341 N. Brand Boulevard at 10:30 o'clock. Rev. C. H. Cole, officiating. Special music will be furnished by the Christian church choir and interment will be made in the Forest Lawn cemetery at Tropic. The Pulliam Undertaking Co. is in charge.

PATRIOTIC CONCERT

GLENDALE TALENT TO HELP RED CROSS IN GATHERING FUNDS FOR WORK

At the weekly meeting of the Directors of the Glendale Auxiliary of the American Red Cross last evening, it was decided to arrange a series of patriotic concerts so that much needed funds may be gathered for the furtherance of the altruistic objects of this organization.

The chairman, Mr. J. H. Braly, placed the arrangements of these concerts in the hands of Dr. Henry R. Harrower, who thereupon outlined some skeleton plans in an interesting way. It is expected that the first of these concerts will be given on Monday evening, May seventh; and it is desired to get in touch with those who would be willing to assist in these concerts. Not merely are artists invited to offer their services, but others to cooperate in the successful carrying out of this undertaking.

Such volunteers are requested to communicate with Doctor Harrower at the Bank of Glendale Building (Sunset Phone Glendale 43) as soon as possible.

The Board of Trustees of the Glendale Union High School, because of the national and emergency character of these anticipated entertainments has agreed to waive the rule prohibiting entertainments in the High School Auditorium for money; and at least the first concert will be held there. Remember the date—Monday, May 7th.

Tickets will be ready shortly; and will be sold by your tradesmen and friends. Workers are needed. How can you help? How much will you help?

"GREAT THINGS FOR GLENDALE"

Under this heading, in yesterday's News, was told the glad fact that Mr. Douglas White, Industrial (Not Passenger) Agent of the Salt Lake Route, would have the magnificent National Preparedness train come to Glendale on May 26th.

Mr. Clarence Redmond, District Passenger Agent of the Salt Lake Route, visited the Glendale Chamber of Commerce yesterday afternoon, and stated that arrangements are rapidly being perfected; and that the Salt Lake Route will give Glendale the very best, there is.

He took away with him a copy of the Monday News which had just been delivered, to give it to Mr. Douglas White; and was greatly pleased that Glendale had so quickly begun to advertise the National Preparedness Train.

City Manager Watson also called at the Chamber of Commerce, and said preliminary arrangements are being planned to have a great throng of people here to greet that extraordinary train. This will be formally acted on at the meeting of the Board of City Trustees, Thursday night. The wheels are turning, and will soon be merrily humming. Glendale will likely see the largest crowd of people on May 26, that ever gathered in the City Beautiful.

FREE DISTRIBUTION OF SEEDS

There will be free distribution of garden seeds at the City Hall between the hours of 3 and 5 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, Wednesday, April 25. This distribution will be made under the direction of the city's agricultural committee. Only those having ground ready for planting will be given seeds at this time. Those applying for seeds will be required to fill out blanks giving name of applicant and number of lot to be planted.

Committee.

GLENDALE, CALIFORNIA, TUESDAY, APRIL 24, 1917

AMERICAN AMBULANCE CORPS ORGANIZED LIKE FIELD ARMY

PARIS, April 24.—When Americans return to Paris, after the war, they will probably have pointed out to them the former headquarters of the American Ambulance army during the big war. Today these headquarters are extremely active and busy.

It is the American Ambulance Field Service. The "Commander in Chief," directing the work of hundreds of American youths who drive small swift American ambulances on all French battle fronts, is A. Piatt Andrew, formerly of La Porte, Ind., late of Gloucester, Mass., and former Assistant-Secretary of the U. S. Treasury in Washington.

None of the commanders-in-chief of the big armies in the field know more about their forces every minute of the day than does the former Hoosier about his little American army. He knows, by daily reports, every important move made by the hundreds of cars in the field; how many cars are in and out of commission; how many have been wrecked or destroyed by shells; how many care are en route from America and how much help the American service can give the French army next week or next month.

Almost every part of America is represented somewhere in the rambling old Eighteenth Century mansion which houses Andrew's headquarters. Aside from contributions from many sources, more than seventy American universities and colleges have sent their students to save French life on the battle fields. Never less than 300 ambulances are engaged in active service but over 600 have crossed the Atlantic and have been put into commission since the war began. Between seventy and eighty have been destroyed. The first car to leave headquarters for the front is still partly in commission.

Two big garages and workshops attached to the Paris headquarters repair and re-equip the American cars when the damage is bad. If it is trivial, the work is done by moving repair shops on the field.

A few hours before the United Press correspondent called at headquarters a message had arrived that three cars had been destroyed by a single shell on the Somme. Within a short time three newly repaired cars were on their way to replace the wrecks.

The young American college men who enlisted in America for the ambulance service have to date received 78 citations in French army orders for valor. The decorations include two Military Medals and 76 Croix de Guerre. Two drivers have been killed by shells, some have died of pneumonia and many have been wounded. Among the latter is William Barber of Toledo, O., who has recovered and returned to the front.

The American cars are known in almost every scene of campaign on the French front—on the Yser, Aisne, Somme, in Champagne, at Verdun, in the Argonne, Woevre, Lorraine, Alsace and in the Balkans.

There is an American atmosphere about the headquarters of the Service in Paris. Located in Passy, one of the oldest parts of the city, on the Seine and within shouting distance of the famous Eiffel tower, the building is surrounded by ten acre park in which Benjamin Franklin first made his tests with the lightning rod. The structure contains the offices of the executives of the service in the upper portion and below typical college dormitories where the young Americans rest and sleep while in training for sterner duty at the front. Notwithstanding the German submarine blockade more of these young Americans and more cars arrived here in February than during any other month. The number of men was 112, from states as far west as California, and the cars were 140.

The work of the Ambulance Service is carried on by American funds. But all contributions to date have been small though numerous, it was learned to-day. To face the big campaigns in which the French army will soon be involved the Service will need great help from the American people.

RECRUITING STIMULATED

That recruiting of California National Guardsmen has received a big stimulus all over the State as a result of Governor Stephens' stand against the use of militiamen in labor disputes and strikes is the information contained in reports received from many localities by the State Council of Defense.

In addressing a patriotic mass meeting at San Francisco last Tuesday night, Governor Stephens not only declared that he had always been a strong advocate of keeping the California National Guard out of all labor disputes, but that the present State Legislature should enact a law which would prevent its use for strike duty. In part he said:

"The main reason why our National Guard was not long ago filled up to its full strength was because the guardsman might be compelled to take up arms against his brother in case of industrial labor dispute. The 'strike duty' provision, to my mind, has been a bar to many of the strongest, bravest and most patriotic men in our State and Nation.

"The State Council of Defense last week, by unanimous vote, adopted a resolution urging the State Legislature to eliminate this objectionable 'strike duty' obligation of National Guardsmen. I sincerely trust that our State lawmakers will act upon this recommendation, making it immediately operative. If such an act comes before me, I will sign it immediately."

ILLINOIS MOBILIZES FOOD FORCES

Illinois, one of the middle western states which will be asked to bear the brunt of supplying the European as well as the American armies with foodstuffs, is mobilizing for duty.

The state board of agriculture urges Illinois farmers to raise 20 per cent. more corn this year than in former years. They also will be urged to employ only that class of laborers not of military age or having a defect that would make them unavailable for service.

NEW THOUGHT

The subject for the evening lecture was "Non-Resistance or America's Opportunity."

Have we a clear understanding of what non-resistance means? Christ said, "Resist not evil," yet he drove the money changers out of the temple.

We can be passive and allow an untrue condition to come into our lives or we can resist and fight. In this national crisis it would be nothing but outrageous to stand and do nothing—to be indifferent.

We must do things. We must use our powers constructively. The industrial work of the world must be carried on by people at home. This food problem is one which the whole U. S. must help to solve.

Europe is facing anarchy, France and England have grave industrial problems, Russia is facing critical transportation difficulties. The Germans must be taught that they cannot rule the world yet they, too, must be fed.

America must come to the front. This is our chance to rise to a Christian opportunity. Use poise and do not argue. Everyone who has ability to use mental laws must let his light shine now, but no more than think; do.

Garden, can, conserve and save. The world will need it all. The world is richly endowed, there is no lack. But the policy of grab as much as you can for yourself and make the other fellow pay is the reason for the world's suffering. Give the very best you can but not from a greedy standpoint. There is too much commercialism, too much human greed.

It would be foolish to sit down and allow an evil to come in and destroy us. Yet America can be so busy feeding the world that she will not have time to fight.

Out of all this God will manifest good. Great changes will take place, the new will be established for the old. A different relationship between the sexes will result. Women have risen to their opportunity and equal suffrage will be given them.

This is especially America's opportunity. How much of love are we going to use? Love is understanding. Let us do all we can to the best of our ability not in revenge but simply to quell, to help the world to right the wrong.

HORSESHOE CLUB NOTES

How did it happen? How did what happen? Why, the game on the home grounds last Saturday with the Long Beach club. Say, ask me something easy. Also, I don't care to hold a post mortem. Please let the dead past bury its dead. You might find about ten men at Long Beach qualified to give you the proper information.

But to save you a trip to the Beach I will say it happened mostly because the Beachites won a majority of the games, but it was a fine game and there was a good crowd to see it. At the close of the first series of 25 games it was nip and tuck, and hard to say which would win. Nip or Tuck. Long Beach scored 13 out of the 25 to 12 for Glendale. Don't tell me that 13 is an unlucky number (for Long Beach).

In the second series of 25 games the home club got the hooks good and proper. Don't know, but possibly the 13 got their goat. Something did, at least, for Long Beach scored 15 games out of the 25, winning the contest 28 games to 22 for Glendale.

No. 5 lost the first series of games for the home club by losing all five of their games played, but took a brace in the second series and won 3 out of the 5 played, and but for the losses by Nos. 1, 3 and 4 over their scores in the first series, the home club would have won 27 to 23. But forget it get even the next time.

I know many think the horseshoe game is an easy, old-fashioned game that any one can play, requiring no science or study to make a pitcher. Not so. The way it is played to-day it has as many fine points as any other outdoor game. A pitcher must be able to correctly locate the pin 40 feet distant from him, else he is no good, same as the batter in a ball game in correctly judging the ball to be a successful batter, or the football player in handling the ball and kicking goal.

Take the game last Saturday. Team one, for instance, for Glendale, Stuart and Porter. Stuart made 74 ringers in 10 games. Glen Porter made 82 ringers in the 10 games. Total for the team, 166.

Mr. Warren, Long Beach, made 77 in the 10 games; Mr. McAlvey made 73 in the 10 games. Total of 150 ringers, or 306 for both teams. A wonderful 10 games and not often done. It took a thorough knowledge of the game and scientific pitching to do it.

Glendale made 778 points and 543 ringers. Long Beach made 755 points and 542 ringers.

We expect Pomona to be with us ten cracker jack players for a match of 50 games next Saturday, the 28th. Come early and get a free front seat on the bleachers. Please remember what happened to us at Pomona February 3d. Next Saturday is a good time to wipe out those smudge spots, so proceed to limber up your joints, cut out high living, spit on your hands and get even. If you don't, we will move you west on the grounds and let No. 5 experts try out No. 1.

Mr. Murphy, Mr. Miller and several others from the Pomona club saw the game Saturday. In fact, there must have been 40 or more out of town people to see the boys perform and, sorry to say, get walloped. But brace, up; you have licked them and can again.

Glen Porter scored the high number of ringers for Glendale, 82 in 10 games, an average of 41 to the series. Hard to beat.

Stuart was second best for Glendale with 74 ringers. This is not often done.

Mr. Anderson made the high score for Long Beach, 82 ringers in 10 games, duplicating Mr. Porter's score for Glendale.

NICOLES.

MEETING OF ART AND TRAVEL SECTION

The Art and Travel section of the Tuesday afternoon club met on Monday afternoon at the home of the curator, Mrs. Charles Turck, 521 N. Glendale Avenue.

There was not a dull minute from start to finish. The afternoon was spent in visiting fascinating Venice. Mrs. Turck, who has lived in Venice, gave a brief history of the city which was made more interesting through the use of a map. In part Mrs. Turck said: "In its physical aspect it may be summed up by saying that Venice stands on 117 islands formed by something like 150 canals and joined by numerous bridges. The city is divided into two parts by the Grand Canal, which is nearly two and one half miles long and is in the shape of the letter N. This displays to great advantage the magnificent palaces that line it on either side.

Gondolas and auto boats take the place of our street cars and a vivid description of this means of transportation with many little incidents which occurred during her residence in the city made Mrs. Turck's talk on Venice unusually interesting.

Miss Eula Richardson, who has also visited Venice took the Doges' Palaces as her topic and while her talk was brief and concise it was made doubly interesting by familiarity with her topic and the use of many photographic views.

The Doges' Palace is the home of the Doges and is virtually an art museum. Days could be spent straying through the halls studying the treasures of art and history to be found there. The two bronze wells in the court yards and many other places of interest were displayed during the afternoon by illustrations.

Miss Myrtle Stedman gave a carefully prepared paper on St. Mark's Cathedral. This church was begun in 830 A. D. and a few years before that the bones of St. Mark, the saint of Venice were brought from Alexandria and now lie in the church which bears his name. This marvelous building is Romanesque in style and during the eleventh and twelfth century was remodeled and redecorated with most lavish magnificence. In the 15th century Gothic additions were added and enhanced its effects. The effect of St. Mark's depends not only on the most delicate sculpture but imminently, on its color also. This color is the most subtle, variable and inexpressible in the world; it is the color of glass, transparent alabaster, of polished marble and lustrous gold scintillating to the rays of the sun.

The building is in the form of a Greek cross with mosaics covering over 4,500 square feet.

Miss Pulliam described the interior with the nude screen, altar, pulpit, desk and frescos in a charming manner.

One of the pleasant features of the afternoon was the presence of Miss Jeanette Jewel of Washington, D. C., who is a law student at the George Washington University and is now the house guest of Mrs. Turck. After the social session the meeting adjourned to meet in two weeks at which time Mrs. Turck has promised a trip up the Grand Canal.

THE MINERAL PRODUCTS

The value of the mineral production of the United States now reaches $2,500,000,000 a year. Though this value falls far below that of the country's farm products, the magnitude and scope of our mineral industry may be best measured by comparing our own mineral production with that of other countries, no one of which can compete with us in abundance or variety of mineral resources. The United States mines nearly 40 per cent of the world's output of coal and produced 65 per cent of the petroleum in 1913. Of the more essential metals, 40 per cent of the world's output of iron ore is raised from American mines, and the smelters of the United States furnish the world with 55 per cent of its copper and at least 30 per cent of its lead and zinc. These are the raw materials on which has been founded a great metallurgical industry, but on which can be built much more extensive chemical and metal-working industries.

The table of production published each year by the Geological Survey contains no less than 72 items. For present purposes only a relatively small number of these items need to be mentioned, and for convenience these may be grouped under three general headings—mineral fuels, metals, and miscellaneous minerals, the last heading including principally structural materials, fertilizers, and crude chemicals. In each of these groups there are several minerals which already enter largely into the world's commerce, and their consideration is therefore pertinent to the present discussion. The country's reserves of certain of these minerals are great enough to stimulate larger exports and the interference with the importation of others enforces the utilization of reserves as yet relatively untouched. Of a few other mineral products unfortunately the domestic resources are inadequate, or at least undiscovered, and the problem they present is one of exploration and thorough investigation.

A glance at the statistics of mineral imports affords a means of comprehending in a broad way how great and complex is the task of attaining national independence in the mining, metallurgical, and chemical industries. Last year the imports of mineral products, both crude and manufactured, exceeded $270,000,000. Of this total probably $200,000,000 represents raw materials and crude metals, the value of these imports being only 8 per cent that of the domestic output. In this list of imports the larger items named in the order of value are unmanufactured copper, precious stones, nitrate of soda, copper ore and matte, nickel, tin, iron ore, pig iron and steel, petroleum products, manganese ores and alloys, platinum, aluminum, pyrite, graphite, stone, potash, and magnesite. In the discussion which follows it will be shown that this country has an abundant supply of most of these mineral products that are now imported in large amounts, and that as to them it can be independent of foreign countries. The only essential minerals of the first rank of which the United States has no known supply at all commensur-

SPECIAL TREAT TOMORROW NIGHT

Owing to the unavoidable absence of Evangelist Catherwood who has to perform a marriage ceremony in Van Nuys at the meeting hour here, Dr. John Snape of Hollywood has kindly consented to come over and fill in the breach, that the pastor's hands may continue to be free in the increased duties occasioned by the special interest aroused in the meetings.

The large number who heard Dr. Snape at the recent Brotherhood meeting will know what a great treat is in store for those fortunate enough to be present. He will bring a message thoroughly adapted to the evangelistic effort now meeting with such success, and one which his hearers will carry away with them for helpful meditation.

Mr. Catherwood will be on hand the following night to resume his helpful addresses which have met with so large and favorable a response. In the meantime let everybody plan to hear Dr. Snape on Wednesday night.

Personals

Mrs. Charles Foul of Los Angeles was the luncheon guest of Mrs. H. R. Boyer on Tuesday.

Miss Gertrude Rillick who has been spending the past month with friends in Pasadena is expected home in a few days.

Mrs. Flora M. Pixley and family have recently moved from 509 Columbus avenue and are now located at 1216 Lomita avenue.

Don Pidgin, who leaves for a visit in the east next week and Harold Venner of Los Angeles will be the dinner guests of Robert Carmack this evening.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Tompkins and Mrs. George Frost and daughter, Mary of Clear Lake, Ia., were week end guests of the families of J. K. Hill, V. M. Hollister and R. M. Brown.

Mrs. George H. Wallace of Toledo, Ohio is again visiting her friends the Pearsons on West Fifth street. The lure of California has caused her to revisit the land of flowers and sunshine.

The ever and all the time patriotic Jesse E. Smith, proprietor of the Ford Agency at the corner of Broadway and Kenwood is arranging to have a United States flag to float from the top of his building.

Mr. A. H. Godbold, formerly of Dallas, Texas and late of Fresno, California, is planning to make his future home in Glendale. He is stopping at present at the Flower Apartments where his wife and baby will doubtless join him in a few weeks. He is engaged in the insurance business in which he has had great success.

Robert Carmack, president of the Sophomore Class of the Glendale High School accompanied by Paul Richardson, Sophomore, and John and Gordon Richardson spent Saturday at Santa Monica. The Sophomore class is planning on a picnic to be given at Echo Park in the near future as a means of celebrating their victory of Friday night.

Major J. J. Weiler has returned from a month's visit in Santa Cruz and Los Robles. Major Weiler enjoyed his visit immensely and while in Santa Cruz met a comrade that served in the same regiment in '65. Major Weiler says that as far as the eye can reach, in every direction, the vicinity of Santa Cruz is a mass of prune blossoms. While he was in Los Robles the naval militia was called to mobilize.

Mrs. Alma J. Danford, city librarian, and her assistant, Miss Laura Roberts are keeping in touch with the latest library methods by attending a course of library lectures given in connection with a training school in Los Angeles. These lectures are especially adapted for those who have had library work. They are along literary lines and invaluable suggestions are given. Mrs. Danford and Miss Roberts attend these lectures twice a week.

The Aliso Apiary company of Glendale has been requested by the Department of Agriculture to aid and assist in the conservation and production of honey in this locality. The department has formulated a system of procedure and actuated by patriotic motives this company states that it will be exceedingly glad to impart information, advise, suggest, recommend or aid any person interested in honey production along the lines laid down by the government. There is no expense connected with this except a postage stamp for reply. Write your bee troubles to the Aliso Apiary company and the same will have the attention of experts in that line.

It is with much satisfaction we find the name of Miss Carol Harriet Willisford, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. E. H. Willisford, and a graduate of Glendale Union High School in a list issued by Pomona college in recognition of scholarship. Miss Willisford's name appears among those who received general honors, those who earned within at least three of twice as many credits as hours taken and did not fall below B grade in any course. She also received special departmental honors having attained AA grade in one course. Pomona college faculty expresses its appreciation of the excellent preparatory training that contributed so largely to the success of these honor students.

CALL MEETING OF GARMENT COMMITTEE

The ladies of the Hospital Garment Committee of the Glendale Red Cross association are requested to meet at the Christian Church Bungalow at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon, April 26th, 1917.

Signed,
 Mrs. W. E. Evans,
 Chairman of the Garment Committee.

MEETING POSTPONED

The Boys' Leading Circle, which meets at the home of Mrs. Frank W. Chambers every Tuesday evening will be postponed until Wednesday evening this week in order that the members may attend the entertainment to be given by W. H. Head, Dramatic Interpreter, at the Glendale High School.

DO NOT MISS IT

Free Stereopticon Lecture, Glendale Chamber of Commerce, Thursday, April 26, 8 p. m.

At that time and place, Mrs. Nanno Woods will give a free lecture on "Patriotism and Home Gardening." Besides being so well qualified to talk on such a vitally interesting subject, because of her scientific, practical knowledge of flowers and of garden vegetables, Mrs. Woods will illustrate her lecture with numerous stereopticon views, which alone would make it worth your while to come to the Glendale Chamber of Commerce, 1010 West Broadway, between Maryland and Louise streets, at 8 o'clock on Thursday evening this week, April 26th.

To avert a famine, President Wilson urges all who can to cultivate as much vacant ground as possible, raising the staple vegetables at any rate. Many patriotic people are willing to try to comply with the President's very wise request, but are unfamiliar with the details of gardening in a practical way. They can learn how by coming to hear Mrs. Woods and seeing her stereopticon illustrations.

Mrs. Woods is president of the Glendale Garden Society, which has done a great deal to stimulate plant study and cultivation in Glendale. Part of their work for civic betterment has been to keep a show window in the Chamber of Commerce beautifully decorated with choice flowers, changing and watering them daily. This has given pleasure to hundreds of Glendale's citizens and visitors, who stop to look at that artistic window, many coming into the Chamber of Commerce to get Glendale literature to send to friends in other places, who would not otherwise have done so. Last Saturday the Garden Society ladies distributed hundreds of packages of seed FREE in the Chamber of Commerce. These seeds were applied for to the Government by the Glendale Garden Society and sent in care of the Chamber of Commerce. That will stimulate many boys and girls to plant vegetables who might not have done so but for the free seeds and suggestions thus given to them.

trenches are in sight, the C. B. may for the nonce be relegated to innocuous desuetude, or words to that effect. Mrs. Beamon is almost hysterically happy over this easy solution of her night-mare problem; and is receiving the hearty congratulations of her numerous friends of the Rosy Cross. So, as Chairman of the Donation Committee, something will be doing in the matter of rapidly assembling the sinews of war, as soon as Mrs. Beamon can get the machinery in motion. Mrs. Braly hinted that it might be a good thing to retain our fifty-fifty—to save time of re-remittance and for Mrs. Beamon to present one of those capacious containers to each chairman of committees, to hold all the suggestions that happen. But the President ruled that we must follow all Red Cross regulations however like red tape they may seem to our unaccustomed eyes. There was interesting discussion whether it is best for Glendale to become a real Chapter, like Fullerton, and other places no larger, or remain as we are, or make some other arrangement.

As Pasadena is one of the best organized Red Cross Chapters, as well as one of the largest and most efficient, on motion of Mr. Church, the President appointed a committee of three consisting of Mrs. Evans, Mrs. Beamon and Mrs. A. S. Chase to visit the Los Angeles Red Cross Chapter, get all necessary facts that will help us decide what to do, and report at our next meeting.

Dr. Chase, (as Mrs. Hutchinson Chairman of Instruction Committee reports), has not yet received his credentials from Washington. But Pasadena also offers to give our ladies all needed instruction free of charge. There was a momentary lull. Mr. Cowan, Editor of The Glendale Evening News, promptly arose and said he had been waiting all evening, with more or less patience, to get a chance to state that several people had mentioned to him that their names were not mentioned in the printed lists of members. The reason is that they also had sent their names and money to Mr. C. H. Toll; hence their failure to appear in the list of patriots published in the News. The path to glory is through Glendale only. Mrs. Chase said she had no committee report to make; but she had individually secured a dozen new members. (Appreciative applause.) Mrs. Evans advocated formal invitations to Tropic, Casa Verdugo and other neighboring places to join our work. The Secretary was requested to write such invitations, then follow up with a personal visit, reaching the ladies best through the prominent clubs. (Note. All such places have been invited in 3 published notices to join Glendale.) Several communications proposing entertainments were received, and the Secretary requested to thank them all, telling them such offers would be considered later. For the present, Dr. Harrower was appointed Chairman of the committee on entertainments; with full authority to act, and select his associates on that committee. The things done by that committee will be reported to the Publicity Committee for publication when desirable before the next meeting of this Red Cross Auxiliary.

Mrs. Carter reported that Mr. and Mrs. Guthrie of East Ninth street offer their beautiful and spacious residence and grounds at any time for entertainments given by or for the Red Cross. The President stated that any persons had the right to raise money on their own responsibility for the Red Cross, without endorsement by the Red Cross, who would thankfully receive any donations offered in cash, without any other liability in the matter. Mrs. White said children in West Glendale are raising money by selling papers, and in other ways, to give to the Red Cross.

At the next meeting, Mrs. Bartlett will give estimates of cost of all things needed to start the work, and the President said the money would be forthcoming.

The meeting adjourned till next Monday evening at same place.

COLONIAL TEA

All arrangements are complete for the Colonial Tea which will be given by the music section of the Tuesday Afternoon club at the home of Mrs. E. W. Kinney, 1223 West Seventh street, on Friday afternoon, April 27th, from two until five o'clock. The tea will be given for the benefit of the Music House Settlement and with a reputation for having charming hostesses among the section doubtless the affair will be as successful as its predecessors. It is a custom among the ladies of the music section to try and accomplish something in a philanthropic way each year and the tea will be given that this aim may be realized. During the afternoon several celebrities will entertain the guests. Gloria Mayne, the grand opera prima donna, will give a costume program. Kimbler, violinist, and Cadman, the composer, are expected to be in attendance. The committees for the Colonial Tea are: Program, Mesdames Kinney, LeRoy Bosserman, D. L. Gibson; Chairman

THE SPECIAL EVANGELISTIC MEETINGS

Another full house was the order at the Baptist church last night when Evangelist Catherwood gave a striking talk on "What I saw and heard at the skating rink." He proved himself to be in the true Shakespearean line in that he sees "tongues in trees, books in the running brooks, sermons in stones, and good in everything."

The sermon of last night he first saw on an excursion with his young people to the skating rink in Pomona. After expressing his hearty approval of good, wholesome and helpful amusement for our young people, he proceeded to show the great spiritual lessons to be drawn from one's experiences in learning the art of skating; and these he applied with great force and appropriateness. A feature of the evening was the presence of the Covina choir, together with a number of Mr. Catherwood's flock who came over to lend their help in their pastor's special efforts. They not only aided by rendering some beautiful music, but also in testimony and personal work, in all of which they revealed the helpful results of their pastor's wise and careful training.

The visitors were given a cordial welcome by both pastor and people, and a hearty invitation was extended to them to repeat the visit on a subsequent night. This they will doubtless do ere the meetings cease. As a special compliment to them, Prof. Lowinsky rendered a beautiful violin solo in his usual artistic style, all of which was much appreciated by the large audience.

Special music is being planned for the meetings each night this week, Mr. and Mrs. Cunningham rendering a selected duet this evening. Mr. Catherwood has another plain, practical but powerful message prepared for this evening, and those who fail to hear him will miss a rich, rare treat. Everybody is cordially invited.

THIRD DEGREE TO BE CONFERRER

The third degree will be conferred upon two new members at the Masonic Temple to-night at a meeting commencing at 6:30 o'clock. A good attendance is desired.

WHERE BEELZEBUB DREW THE LINE

Beelzebub was making his matutinal round of the Infernal Regions and casting an appreciative eye over the automatic brimstone-kindlers, the molten lava shower baths, the electrically heated sidewalks, and all the other innovations which he had recently installed in order to make Hades the most completely equipped Hell in existence.

Suddenly his glance was arrested by a recumbent figure at the edge of a tiny purling stream of white-hot iron, which gurgled merrily around picturesque heaps of volcanic tufa, and splashed musically into a pool beneath an overhanging crag of sulphur. Removing his cigar from his mouth, he stuck it carefully on the middle prong of his trident, after which he pricked the recumbent figure in the leg with the tip of his barbed tail.

"Suffering, eh?" inquired Beelzebub with a cruel sneer, as the recumbent figure started to its feet. "You're a newcomer, aren't you? I don't seem to recall your face. I suppose you find it uncomfortably warm down here; but you must try not to mind it too much. You've got a long stretch of it ahead of you."

"Oh, sir!" expostulated the stranger, "you misjudge my attitude! I wasn't suffering at all! In fact, I have been revelling in the peace and quiet and warmth! This place is simply perfect by comparison with the conditions which I have just left!"

"Indeed!" exclaimed Beelzebub sardonically. "And where was that, if I may ask?"

"I have just come from the Somme district," explained the stranger, drawing a deep, appreciative breath of the sulphur-tainted atmosphere. "For months we have been fighting waist-deep in freezing mud. Until I got here, it had been so long since I had been dry that I had quite forgotten what it was like."

Beelzebub gritted his teeth in rage. "But surely you don't mean to tell me," he objected, "that there was anything in the Somme district that could compare with our brimstone fumes and the periodic explosions of boiling lava! Nobody has ever dared to insinuate that Hades could be outdone in such matters!"

The stranger snorted. "Your sulphur fumes are incense in my nostrils," said he. "Up on the Somme they're using poison gas and liquid flame several times a week; and between times we had to endure the stench of dead horses and—and other things. Why, the odors of this place seem like those of Araby the Blest by comparison."

"As for the periodic explosions of boiling lava, really, old chap, you've never lived through a bombardment to cover an infantry attack, or you'd be ashamed to mention any sort of explosion in the same breath. Lava explosions indeed! For hours on end I have lain exposed to a shrieking, howling, crashing storm of shells of every calibre, that churned the ground into a chaos of pulverized earth and shattered the eardrums as though they were tissue paper. The very noise of it deprived me of the power of speech and the sense of touch, and turned them into blind, helpless, unreasoning beasts. Bring on your explosions of boiling lava! I'll catch one and take it home for a pet!"

Beelzebub lashed himself with his tail in a frenzy of wrath. "Can it be," he shrieked, "that the thousands of years of labor which I have devoted to inventing and perfecting schemes for torturing lost souls have been outdone in a few months by mere mortals? If you're telling me the truth—"

"I certainly am," replied the stranger. "The only trouble with what I tell you is the impossibility of making you realize how frightful it all is."

Beelzebub placed his fingers in his mouth and whistled shrilly. Instantly a number of lesser demons hastened to him from all points of the compass, dropping their pitchforks as they ran.

"Quick!" shouted Beelzebub, as the demons approached, "pack my satchel for a trip to earth. Nobody can outdo me in frightfulness! I'll steal their inventions and have them installed down here before you can say 'Von Hindenburg.'" And with a deep, resonant oath Beelzebub disappeared up the road in a cloud of brimstone.

The stranger sank back with a sigh and gazed moodily into the stream of white-hot iron. "I knew this was too good to last," he murmured, "but while I can, I might as well enjoy it to the full."

Two days passed. The stranger was still reclining beside the brooklet of molten iron. Suddenly, aware that he was no longer alone, he opened his eyes and sat up. Before him stood Beelzebub, with a satisfied sneer on his saturnal features.

"Well," said the stranger, "did you visit the Somme front?"

"I did," replied Beelzebub. "Pretty bad, isn't it?"

"It certainly is a hell of a place," replied the stranger. "When are you going to install the improvements you saw up there?"

"Look here," snarled Beelzebub, "be a little more guarded in your remarks, will you? I don't care to have my home mentioned in the same sentence with the Somme front; and I'm not going to allow any of those horrors down here, I've got to draw the line somewhere. I can't have that in hell!"

CORN MEAL IN THE DIET

One way to reduce the cost of food for the family, say the specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture, is to use more corn meal, where this is low in price as compared with other cereals. Corn meal at present prices, when bought at retail stores, costs about half as much per pound as wheat flour, one-third as much as rolled oats, one-fourth as much as rolled wheat, and about half as much as broken rice. That is, it costs much less per pound than any of the other popular cereal foods, yet even the bolted corn meal usually sold, from which the germ of the grain has been removed to make the meal keep longer, has a food value which compares favorably with that of wheat flour. It does not supply quite so much protein or mineral matter for building the tissues of the body, but, on the other hand, it gives more fat and starch, pound for pound, and its value as fuel for the body is fully as high.

The old-fashioned unbolted corn meal made from the whole grain, which can often be obtained by the farmer who will take his grain to mill, and can often be purchased in shops and markets, contains more of the tissue-building material and has what many consider even a better flavor than the bolted meal and is much liked for making some forms of corn bread.

Any family in town or country can have the best of corn meal by grinding it at home in a hand gristmill. The city man can buy corn by the bushel at a grain store. He can grind it coarse or fine, to suit the taste of the family, and in quantities to last a day or a week, or longer. Most people will agree that this meal containing the germ is very palatable and compares well in this respect with that ordinarily purchased ready ground. Prices of hand mills of substantial make run from $2 to $5. A small mill can be had for as little as $1.50, though this probably would prove too tedious to use, except for small quantities.

Whether obtained at the retail store, brought from a mill, or ground at home, corn meal can be used in several ways to give inexpensive variety to the diet.

A dish of mush and milk has made the greater part of many a supper on the farm, and children thrive on it, though they may rebel at cleaning the kettle and the "pudding spoon" afterwards, if the old-time methods of cooking it are followed. It is a simple dish to make—just 3 1/2 cups of water and a teaspoon of salt to every cup of meal. The water can be put in cold and the vessel heated gradually. A double boiler is very convenient in cooking corn-meal mush, as well as all other cereals, and is easier to clean. The great secret of good mush is long slow cooking—the longer the better. A fireless cooker, in which the cooking can go on all day or all night, is very useful for this purpose.

For "quick action" in getting breakfast in the city flat, the corn meal and salt may be put in the double boiler, mixed with a little cold water, and then hot water may be added up to the required amount. If clean hot water is to be had from the spigot, a good corn-meal mush can be made in three-quarters of an hour. But corn meal can hardly be cooked properly in less time.

Corn-meal mush can be used in many other ways besides as a breakfast or supper dish. Fried mush, mush with fruit, and mush with cheese are in the list of recipes. Fish cakes with corn meal are good, and corn meal and meat of different kinds may be cooked together, "scrapple" being a favorite in some parts of the country.

Corn bread and corn griddle cakes are made in many ways, all good. Bread may be made of wheat flour and corn meal half-and-half. Puddings and even doughnuts and cakes are made with corn meal as the basis.

Recipes for using corn meal in all these ways and others may be had from the United States Department of Agriculture upon request.

GOING SOBERLY TO WAR

(From the New York World)

Those who think they see apathy in the sober and undemonstrative way in which the people accept a state of war are mistaken. There is no enthusiasm for war, which at best is a disagreeable business, but it will be found presently that when a great democracy takes arms as a last resort, it counts it all as part of the day's work; it follows grimly the paths of duty, no matter how fiery; it adheres with terrible tenacity to an idea whose time at last has come.

For nearly two years the republic has been making ready physically and financially for war. During all of that period there has been also a mental and moral preparation for war, the results of which are now witnessed in the steadiness of the men and women who are to bear the burden of this strife.

BE SQUARE WITH GERMANY

(From the Auburn Citizen)

No improper influences should be brought to bear upon American public opinion in the existing crisis. Germany has committed enough offenses for which she must answer without having the American people inflamed and embittered by unconfirmed news printed as it originates for what it is worth. We therefore counsel readers to examine each item of news from day to day, and to suspend judgment in each reported outrage somewhat in the patient manner in which President Wilson has acted through these nerve-racking months. As he said in his temperate arraignment of Germany: "We must put excited feeling away." He has been sifting the wheat from the chaff; his critics have been working themselves into a frenzy regarding the truth. Germany is entitled to a square deal no matter what the circumstances.

SUNLAND

Mrs. Frank Carey went to Los Angeles Wednesday to see her son David off to the navy. David is the lightest weight and smallest of stature in the U. S. navy. He had to get his permit from Washington, D. C., before he could be accepted.

Mr. Getter and wife from Oregon are occupying one of Mr. Rowley's tents for a while. Mr. Getter is in poor health and hopes the balmy Sunland air will soon restore him to health.

The fever of war which is burning the people of Europe has touched America and unheeding the tears of mothers and the pleadings of sisters and fathers, six of our Sunland boys have answered the call of the president and enlisted in the army and navy. The following boys left this week for San Francisco: Eustace Rowley, Paul Lancaster, Martin Spencer, Percy Du Willo, David Corey. Robert Rowley has received the appointment of sergeant in the ambulance corps of the army and will be stationed in camp at Pasadena.

Mr. Speer of Los Angeles has moved to Sunland and rented the blacksmith shop of J. O. Allen. His family will live in John Miller's house on First street. At the recent meeting of the Monte Vista School Improvement club a committee was appointed to see Mr. A. Adams, Jr., and has him call a special meeting to find out the wishes of the people in regard to the building of a school house. Whether it is more practical to build an addition to the present school house or build a new one. The committee reported that the ten dollars taken in from the Dolls Theatre entertainment with five dollars more added to it was sent as a payment on the school piano, leaving a balance indebtedness of $30.00.

Miss Hazel Huse accompanied her father on his trip to Madera county and will visit in Fresno and Raymond for a few weeks.

The committee on the right of way for the electric R. R. have made full arrangements and over $2000 have been subscribed. It is hoped the road will be completed in about ninety days.

The Hanson bungalow on Mr. Frank Mears place is nearing completion and makes a fine showing from the street. Mr. Van Bantum is the contractor doing the work.

Mrs. Branstetter has the carpenters at work fitting up housekeeping rooms in her store building, also in her hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. Malonie of Tujunga were Sunland callers Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Hay spent Wednesday in Los Angeles.

So many of the band boys left for the navy Mr. Maygrove is talking of organizing a girls' band to fill up the gap.

The Christian Endeavor of the Sunland Baptist church is planning a Rally Wednesday evening, April 25th, at the church. Paul C. Brown, Christian Endeavors beloved field secretary, will be present and give a message. They will have a picnic supper in the park at six o'clock. Bring your basket lunch and join their happy crowd. All young people cordially invited, especially the Tujunga C. E. society.

A SCOTCHMAN'S PREFERENCE

Lord Strathcona was fond of stories of his Scottish countrymen. One that pleased him highly I have heard him often repeat, says Beckles Willson in "The Life of Lord Strathcona and Mount Royal."

A Scot was once boasting that Scotch apples were far better than the Canadian variety.

"Really," exclaimed his friend, "you can't mean that!"

"I do mean it," was the response. "But I must preface that for my ain taste I prefer them soor and hard."

One story told of his native town delighted him, although he professed incredulity. The superintendent of the Forbes Sabbath school had prepared a list of questions for the junior class—name the strongest man, the wisest man, the meekest man. Only one child—a cynical little elf she was—answered correctly, "Samson, Solomon, Moses." All the others wrote or printed opposite the queries the name of the hero of their hearts—Lord Strathcona. There might be stronger and wiser and meeker men, but the junior class was not "acquainted wi' em."

RUBBER IMPORTANT IN WAR

It is interesting to note that without rubber the submarine and the airplane, two of the most important military agencies of modern times, would not be possible. In submarines, battery cells, separators, insulators, gaskets on doors, hatch covers, torpedo tube covers and valves for water tightness are among the items of equipment in which rubber plays an important part.

On airplanes, rubberized fabric for the wings, radiator hose, shock absorbers, axle cushions, speedometer, shaft guards and tires are among the products in rubber which are indispensable.—San Antonio Light.

Succulent vegetables of all sorts contribute bulk to the diet, and so are valuable from the standpoint of hygiene, because within limits bulkiness is a favorable condition for normal digestion and also of importance in overcoming a tendency to constipation. They are also among the important sources of necessary mineral matters in the ordinary diet.

THE (?)TH COMMANDMENT

"Thou shalt not kill," the (?)th commandment, wandered from its proper place the other day in Pittsburg newspaper headlines.

It was generally conceded that it was either the fifth, sixth or seventh commandment by the afternoon papers.

One scribe noticed the difference of opinion and thought he would set the public right and so proceeded to call up authorities to get the thing straight.

He asked the Rt. Rev. Bishop Courtlandt Whitehead the number of the commandment and was told that it occupies the eighth place among the ten.

The Carnegie Library stated that it is the fifth.

The Rev. Charles R. Zhaniser claimed sixth place for it.

Someone at the telephone at the Duquesne University assured him it holds seventh position.

Rabbi A. M. Ashinsky was not so arbitrary, but he relegated it to either fifth or sixth place—he wasn't certain which.

The discussion arose from the story of the shooting of 17-year-old Gertrude Bradley by her fiancé, Carl Gearhart. Just before Gearhart shot the girl she is said to have reminded him that one of the Ten Commandments is "Thou shalt not kill." Several afternoon papers each spoke of the commandment by a different number.

The difference resulted from the different versions of the Bible which were consulted. The forty-odd English versions of the Bible place the commandment in any position from the fourth to the eighth.—Pittsburg Leader.

TRANSLATION OF "LA FOLLETTIE"

(From the New York Herald)
In the observance of editorial truth, fearlessness and courtesy it becomes necessary to answer in this public manner the timely inquiry of a "Yankee Subscriber," who telegraphed to the Herald office yesterday. His communication was as follows:

Please expose La Follette by giving literal translation of his name.

The natural desire to do anything possible for a Yankee and the unfeeling enthusiasm aroused by the word subscriber led to an immediate investigation, which in turn led to this translation:

La Follette in French means, literally, "the little foolish one," and frequently is used to describe a woman who is half witted.

Ooo! La! La!

LIGHT AND MIST

The glamour of the city is calling with its lure,

It is calling with its clamor and its light.

But the mist that's lying softly o'er a lonely Irish moor

Seems nearer than the city's call tonight.

The brilliance of the city is shining like a star,

It is shining bright as incense at a shrine.

But the glimmer of the peat-fire, in an island land afar,

Shines deeper far within this soul of mine.
