At a meeting of the new directors of the chamber of commerce last night in the chamber's new quarters in the Citizen's building, the organization for the coming year was perfected and the officers elected for the year. V. M. Hollister was elected president to succeed C. C. Cooper. Roy Kent was elected first vice-president.

Following is a complete list of officers elected: V. M. Hollister, president; Roy L. Kent, first vice-president; Jesse E. Smith, 2nd vice-president; A. R. Eastman, treasurer and J. M. Rhoades was retained as secretary for another year. E. F. Sanders was also retained for the coming year to act as assistant secretary. C. E. Kimlin and Owen Emery were chosen as directors at large. J. A. Newton was elected to the board of directors to fill the place made vacant by the election of Mr. Eastman to the post of treasurer.

TUESDAY CLUB WILL HAVE BAZAAR ON DECEMBER 7TH

Big Affair Will Be Held in Masonic Temple, Many Holiday Gifts

The bazaar to be held by the Tuesday Afternoon Club at the Masonic Temple, December 7, is likely to prove a big temptation to the public if all the attractions outlined by those who have it in charge are put on. A hot lunch will be served at noon and in addition, sandwiches, coffee and dessert will be served a la carte.

Responsibility for the various booths has been divided as follows: Aprons and holders, literary and legislative sections and the calling committee, composed of Mrs. F. L. Hollingsworth, Mrs. Annie Williams and Mrs. Stephen Packer.

The "sandkerchief" booth will be in charge of the parliamentary law section and members of the patriotic committee, headed by Mrs. Harry Greenwalt and Miss Ida Myers.

Dolls will be in charge of the drama and arts and crafts sections, with Mrs. Ray Galvin, Mrs. John Dunn and Mrs. R. W. Meeker in general supervision.

Cooked foods are under the courtesy and civics committees, headed

SHOPPERS READ GLENDALE PRESS

Do Glendaleans read the Glendale Daily Press? We'll say they do. This morning when the first of the ten-day series of special sales was started at Neale & Gregg's Hardware store on North Brand, over 300 people assembled at 9 o'clock. Not all could gain entrance to the store and in 20 minutes, the stock of aluminum ware consisting of teakettles, rice boilers, large stew pans, etc., for 85c each, was sold. Tomorrow's special morning sale will consist of fancy baskets for needlework, candy, nuts, etc., priced at 45c to $1.25, which ordinarily sell for double the figures which they will be offered. The sale is advertised exclusively in the Glendale Daily Press.

Disarmament Is Not Moral Question Says Dr. Crane Tonight

Disarmament is not at all a moral question, asserts Dr. Frank Crane on the editorial page this evening. Nor is it a matter of altering the nature of human beings, he continues. It is simply, he says, a question of management.

And in his able manner, Dr. Crane illustrates his point with a force and insight that is quite remarkable. This paper feels that it fortunate in having a man of the mind of Dr. Crane contributing to its columns.

This paper is also proud to have on its staff such men as James W. Foley and Henry James. Mr. Foley tonight in "The Listening Post" writes of a conversation between a philosopher and a man sitting by the wayside. Like all of Mr. Foley's writings, this one is well worth careful consideration.

Mr. James answers a correspondent who disagrees with him. It is something about Hearst and his "greatest thinker." Mr. James has decided opinions. Not everyone agrees with him. Perhaps you do not. But what he says is from the shoulder and therefore worth reading.

Other writers add to the value of the editorial page and make it well worth your while reading it.

RED BLUFF TRAGEDY VICTIMS REACHES TWELVE TODAY

Elks Throw Open Their Clubhouse to Parents of All Victims

RED BLUFF, Cal., Dec. 1.—The list of victims of the auto bus train wreck here yesterday was swelled to twelve with the death today of Charles Bosworth, a student, and driver of the high school bus. Opal McNaughton, who was seriously injured, was reported to be a little better today. The other three pupils who were injured are not expected to live.

The Elks' club here was thrown open to the parents and relatives of the victims, who all lived in the outlying district of Dairyville. The Red Cross has established headquarters in the club and is aiding the stricken parents. An inquest will be held tomorrow at 1:30 p. m.

According to present indications, the train crew will be exonerated. The crossing where the accident occurred is not rated a bad one. Another high school bus, empty, was preceding the wrecked one. The first bus just crossed the track about 20 feet ahead of the train. The driver of the second bus, it is believed, was merely watching the first bus and was not looking for the train. The weather was foggy. The wrecked bus had side-curtains on.

THIRTEENTH VICTIM

RED BLUFF, Calif., Dec. 1.—Marjorie Day, thirteenth victim of the high school auto bus crash with a Southern Pacific train here yesterday, died in a local hospital at 10:30 this morning.

Finishing Touch Needed In Picture of Glendale

By JOHN H. GERRIE
Prosperity Editor Glendale Daily Press

When an artist paints a great canvas, always something is left to be put in at the last. The picture may be strikingly beautiful but it will not be complete until that last something is added. It is the finishing touch.

So, with the beautiful painting of Glendale. It is a royal picture on nature's canvas and at first view it seems complete. The enfolding hills with their changing tints for every movement of the sun and the enfolding Garden of Eden with its dormer roofs poking between the trees, lack nothing in charming detail. The broad boulevards and smooth paved streets and splendid lighting system are traced in pleasing lines. The handsome bank buildings and fine business houses show well in the ensemble.

It is an exceptional example of the City Beautiful. You look at it again and again, lost in admiration as you compare it with inferior paintings on either side. Then, as you look, perhaps for the twentieth time, you become conscious that something is lacking. You may not at first discern just what it is, but as you gaze more keenly you become convinced the picture is not quite complete. Then, suddenly, it dawns upon you:

THE GLENDALE CANVAS LACKS THE FINISHING TOUCH!

The mountain background is there, the park in the floor of the valley is there, the homes with their smiling gardens are there, the avenues through which to reach them are there, the shops to supply them are there. Then, what can be missing?

You may need to study the picture carefully to ascertain exactly what is missing. Then you'll wonder why you hadn't noticed it before.

For Glendale is like a beautiful body without a heart. From any angle you view it, from every avenue you approach it, Glendale is a city of loveliness. You drive across it, from mountain base to mountain base and around it, in the shadows of the hills and that sense of loveliness grows upon you. But you discover the lack of a deeper touch, the lack of a heart-beat—for the beautiful body is without a heart.

In a city so majestic in its main arteries and otherwise so well planned, one would be justified in expecting to find a central, dominating, public plaza or park, grouped around with splendid buildings, the main-spring of civic life, the heart of the city.

Without a Civic Center Glendale will continue to be a beautiful city of homes, but will lack the air of virility and individuality that would be given it by the presence of an impressive group of centrally located buildings, from which development and welfare of city and citizens might be directed.

I make the statement without disparagement but rather in compliment to the growth of the community when I say that neither the local city hall or postoffice is big enough or fine enough for a city such as Glendale is today, to say nothing of what it may be tomorrow.

In a Civic Center might be grouped city hall, post-office, library building and public auditorium, each individual in style but conforming to a general architectural plan. Close by might be a fine office building, still conforming to style and, not far away, an up-to-date palatial hotel.

I don't know but of the lot the hotel would be most essential. I do know that lack of a spacious, high class hotel here prevents the sojourn among us of men of means who, if they could be charmed into stopping long enough might take considerable part in the development of the city. Two hotels are now planned for East Broadway but still there will be room for a super-hotel on the order of the Pasadena hostleries.

But, harking back to the Civic Center, if Glendale ever is to acquire a heart from which the life-blood of her whole organization will flow, NOW IS THE TIME TO ACT, before land values become prohibitive, even for a great community to acquire a heart. That would complete the picture and give the finishing touch to Glendale the Beautiful.

Jails Are Made for Poor Says Prosecutor Brady

Declares He Meets Stone Wall Everywhere in Trying to Convict Roscoe Arbuckle of Causing Virginia Rappe's Death Last Labor Day in San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 1.—"If Roscoe Arbuckle goes free, it will be proof that jails are built for the poor," District Attorney Matthew Brady declared here today as the trial of the movie comedian for manslaughter in the death of Virginia Rappe drew near a close.

"If this man was a poor man he would go to jail," Brady said. "But he is 'Fatty' Arbuckle, backed by his own money and all the money of the motion picture industry."

"It is easy to convict a poor man—but the rich—well, that's different."

"Arbuckle committed his crime in a big 'shack' on Powell street—a fashionable hotel," the prosecutor charged. "Men who committed assault in a little shack on Howard street here 'south of Market' now are in San Quentin penitentiary. Everywhere we have turned in this case we have hit a stone wall, and it has certainly taken the heart out of me," the attorney said. Brady seemed plainly discouraged over his fight to punish Arbuckle.

MUST PAY WIDOW

TOMBSTONE, Ariz., Dec. 1.—Hale Cheowith, convicted in 1919 of slaying Claude McDowell and pardoned after serving a year in the penitentiary, was directed by a jury to pay $15,000 damages to Mrs. Edna McDowell, widow of the slain man. Mrs. McDowell had filed suit for $50,000.

HERE'S A MODEL TOWN

WELLINGTON, Ohio, Dec. 1.—This community of 3,000 inhabitants is thinking of abandoning the jail and giving the marshal a vacation. A survey shows only two arrests were made during the past ten months and that both prisoners, men, later were discharged.

BRAND CASTLE VIEW IS PUBLISHED IN LONDON PAPER

Illustrated News of October 29th, Has Fine Picture of Glendale Mansion

A copy of the London Illustrated News of October 29 has reached the office of The Glendale Press and is of special interest because of the very beautiful full page illustration in sepia of L. C. Brand's castle, his double hangar and aeroplanes, one upon the ground, the other in flight.

In the left-hand corner is a perspective view of the castle, showing the approach by Grand View avenue. Mr. Brand has also received a copy of the London periodical and it was as great a surprise to him to view the picture as to anyone else because he had no previous knowledge of it. Notes in connection with the illustration state it is a drawing by C. E. Turner "after an illustration in 'The Aeroplane,' by courtesy of an aeroplane club."

The article comments on the fact that while aviation has been carried on by the services and by large commercial companies, in England, it has been left to the United States to take it up as the sport of wealthy men. "In the United States, as our illustrations show," it states, "it is coming to be regarded as an appropriate adjunct to the attractions of large country estates. The drawing and photograph show the airframe with its aeroplane hangar, constructed by Mr. Leslie C. Brand of the Title Guarantee and Trust Co., Inc., of Los Angeles, on his estate among the Verdugo hills of California. The hangar, it will be noted, has been built in a style in harmony with that of the castle. Mr. Brand keeps a private aeroplane and pilot and takes his friends for trips over the magnificent country around. Recently he gave a party for aeroplanes only at which there were over 20 machines. The inset photograph was taken from an aeroplane."

It is not surprising that so beautiful an example of a rich man's pastime in the air should be coveted by this great London paper, which is probably the most celebrated illustrated journal printed in the English text. Not often does an aviation field have such a picturesque setting, and Glendale is indebted to Mr. Brand for being the innocent occasion of such world-wide publicity of the beauty of the Verdugo hills, though heaven knows we do not want them to become so greatly desired that only millionaires can afford to live within their shadows.

NOLAN EXONERATED BY CORONER JURY INVESTIGATING

Venice Man Turned Over to Federal Agent Charge of Transporting

A coroner's jury Wednesday failed to hold G. W. Nolan of Venice responsible for the death of Loren Prescott, who died Tuesday night at the Glendale hospital and sanitarium of injuries received when he was struck by the automobile driven by Nolan. Nolan, who is an employe of the Ship Cafe at Venice, said that he did not see the boy on the bicycle and did not know that he had run over him until he heard the bicycle under his machine. At the time of the accident, Nolan had in his possession a gallon of wine, and while he was not intoxicated he apparently had been drinking, according to the police.

The coroner's jury was of the opinion that Nolan was not to blame for the accident. Chief of Police Martin turned Nolan over to federal prohibition agents in Los Angeles on the charge of transporting intoxicating liquor.

GIRLS ARE BARRED FROM BURCH TRIAL

Court Instructs All to Be Removed During Sensational Trial

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 1.—A hint of sensational testimony to come in the Burch-Oberchain murder trials developed at the opening of court today, when several young girls were dismissed from the courtroom upon order of Superior Judge Reeve. Deputy Sheriff Joseph Nolan conducted the young women from the building. Girls will be excluded from remaining sessions of Arthur C. Burch's trial, under the court order. J. M. Musselman, undertaker, and R. J. Sanderson, Pullman porter, were the first witnesses called by the prosecution. Sanderson identified Burch as one of the passengers on Santa Fe train No. 3, which left Chicago on July 21 and arrived at Los Angeles July 24.

BREA MARSHAL IS IN "COOLER" TODAY

SANTA ANA, Dec. 1.—Charged with accepting a bribe of $100 to quash a charge of bootlegging, J. E. Stone, city marshal of Brea, was arraigned here today. Bail was fixed at $2000 and Marshal Stone is in the county jail in default of that sum. J. M. Chavez charges that Stone accused him of bootlegging, stating that he, the marshal, had a marked bill valid Chavez for booze. Stone is then accused of having offered to compromise the case. The complainant further states he borrowed money to make up the $100 paid to the city marshal and then swore to the complaint charging acceptance of a bribe.

Alice Gentle Will Present Varied Program Here

Concert on Friday Night Promises to Be Feast of Song

Friday night, the great musical event to which Glendale has been looking forward, the concert by Alice Gentle, opera star, will be presented in the high school auditorium. With a fine spirit of enterprise and ambition to place Glendale in the front rank of cities that cultivate the arts and appreciate the best, the Glendale Music Club secured this soprano, "Eleanor Duse of the Musical World," by a special arrangement with her manager, L. E. Belymer, for a recital full of variety, which will include Italian arias, old English melodies, French songs, German and Scandinavian lyrics, and the works of American composers.

No singer on the operatic stage has achieved greater popularity than Alice Gentle, not alone for her voice, which is wonderful, but also for her powers of dramatic interpretation and her versatility.

The music lovers of Glendale who are not members of the club should encourage the organization, which has shown such public spirit, by controlling under its banner, without delay. They will have opportunity to do so Friday night at the concert by going early, or through officers of the club—Mrs. Mattison B. Jones, president; Mrs. Spencer Robinson, vice-president; Mrs. E. W. Kinney or Mrs. Warren Roberts, who is also an officer. The few tickets available for the public for this special concert are on sale at the Brunswick Shoppe on South Brand boulevard, next to the Glendale theater.

Following is the program which will be given by Miss Gentle, with Frank Moss at the piano, and under the direction of Catherine A. Baman of New York city:

- I.
- "Vissi d'Arte" (La Tosca).....Puccini
- Old English melodies—
- (a) "Ah, Willow"
- (b) "A Pastoral"
- (c) "When Dull Care"
- III.
- "Plaisir D'Amour".....Martini
- "L'Esclave".....Lalo
- "L'heure exquise".....Poldowski
- "Impression Basque".....Fourdrain
- IV.
- "From Out of My Great Sorrow".....Schumann
- "Dedication".....Schumann
- "Soft Footed Snow".....Lie
- "Fom Monte Pincio".....Grieg

DEPARTMENT STORE STARTED IN GLENDALE

Pendroy Dry Goods Company Breaks Ground for New Building

BE FINISHED BY SPRING

Three Story Store Will Employ Sixty Local People at Start

Ground will be broken today for a three-story and basement building at the northeast corner of Brand boulevard and Harvard street, where it is expected before the day is over a mammoth steam shovel will be removing dirt to mark the place for what promises to be the largest business establishment in Glendale.

This building will be occupied solely by the Pendroy Dry Goods company.

THREE FLOORS.

On the ground floor the structure will be 52x120 feet, continuing back to the alley. On the three floors and basement there will be more than 25,000 square feet of floor space. It will be a steel frame and solid concrete building and will have an exterior of old gold brick, with elaborate terra cotta trim. There will be two main entrances, one on Brand and the other on Harvard. On both streets there will be large plate glass windows.

CITY SCHOOLS WILL HAVE TRACK MEET IN JANUARY

Director Blanford Has Outlined Schedule for Grade Schools Here

An ambitious program for track work in the Glendale city schools has been prepared by Physical Director Blanford, who announced that he will start track work in the third grades and continue it to the seventh and at the time of the city track meet, the last week in January, each of the schools will compete with its best track contestants. Before that event, however, each school will have two or three dual meets to select the best talent.

Every boy in the third and fourth grades under 11 years is eligible to compete in third and fourth grade classes.

Boys under 13 years and under 4 feet six inches in height are eligible to compete in fifth and sixth and junior classes.

Boys under 13 years and over 4 feet six inches, are eligible to compete in fifth and sixth grade senior classes.

Every boy over 13 in the fifth and sixth grades is eligible to fifth and sixth grade special classes. In the seventh and eighth grades,

CAT CLUB SHOW HERE GREAT SUCCESS JUST CLOSED

Some of the Finest Cats on Pacific Coast on Display Take Prizes

The highly successful cat show put on Tuesday and Wednesday by the Glendale Cat Club, came to an end last night with everybody happy, including the pussies, who were a blue-blooded lot for the most part, although a few short-haired good-looking had been admitted who found favor with the judges and carried off prizes. Of these were the "Gold Dust Twins," black and white, who work for their living at Sebastian's Grocery.

It was a double show. In the silver specialty show, the premium for best cat in the show went to Verdugo Northern Silver Lion, entered by Dr. Libbie Ashcroft of the Verdugo Cattery. He has been shown without meeting defeat to win the championship, and can now rest on his laurels. He was also given the premium for the best sire and best male in the show. The prize for the best novice in the silver specialty show was given to Joy Fife, owned by Miss Claribel Grim. The best kitten in the show was "Bubbles," entered by Mrs. W. Hopkins. Miss Grim's "Vincent" was pronounced the best neuter, and Dr. Ashcroft's "Michelorena" the best short-haired tabby. This award gives her a cham-

PATROLMAN HERDA PROMOTED TODAY

Acting Desk Sergeant Is Law Student With World War Record

Patrolman George Herda of the Glendale police department was today promoted to detective sergeant, to work in connection with Detective Sergeant John Scates. Taking the place of Patrolman Herda, Desk Sergeant Carl Blix, at his own request, was relieved of desk duty and assigned a beat. The vacancy at the desk was filled by Qu Balthasar. Acting Sergeant Balthasar, who is a student in the University of Southern California law school, is a former veteran of the World War, having served with company D of the 214th engineers. He was also connected with several law firms as a translator and interpreter of Spanish. He has also had law experience as clerk in the offices of United States Commissioner D. H. Hammack, A. Fraeger, Judge Levi McGee and William Sumner.

SIX KILLED IN RAIL COLLISION

THE DALLES, Ore., Dec. 1.—Six were killed, four were fatally injured and thirty suffered serious injuries, when train No. 12 and No. 17, of the Oregon-Washington Railroad company, crashed in a head-on collision a mile east of Celilo at 12:14 this morning.

'FULLNESS OF TIME' WILL BRING ABOUT SETTLEMENT

Bryan Sees Success of Arms Parley When Men Offer and Do Not Ask

By WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN (Copyright 1921 by the United Press)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—The Bible phrase, "the fullness of time" extends into the field of politics and conveys a very important idea. Reforms do not come until the time is ripe for them, just as fruit cannot be gathered until it is matured. The question may be asked "why did not the Paris conference do the work that this conference is doing?"

Simply because it was held in the midst of the war harvest. The fruits of peace were not then ripe. One side was victorious and the minds of those who led the triumphant hosts were laboring under the pressure of the memories of that awful struggle. Blood stains could be seen everywhere and tears were still flowing. The gaping wounds made by the great conflict still stirred the hearts of those who participated in the conference and the vanquished were in no better mood for the consideration of the problems that came with peace. Even in America, the war left an aftermath of militarism that found expression in an attempt to fasten upon this nation a system of universal compulsory military training that would have cost seven hundred millions of dollars a year.

But all is changed now; the reaction against war is in full swing. Those who breathe the threatenings and slaughter have retired into the background and the evangel of a better day are appearing in all lands. When men are excited they talk about what they can do and they often overestimate their strength. When men are calm they talk about what they ought to do.

Now is the time to make a Sabbath day's journey toward peace and the scrapping of the implements of war has commenced. It is reported that Ford has offered to buy all the old iron that the demobilized fleet will yield and we have a new prophecy—said they shall beat their battleships into automobiles—a mightier change even than "beating swords into plowshares." What difference does it make whether Japan accepts a 60 per cent basis or is given 70 per cent? In this conference and in the days to come the victory goes to those who give in the interest of peace, not to those who withhold. Japan has given much and will continue to give.

TWO AGED MEN SHOW STRAIN ANXIETY

Burch Trial Holds Pathos as Two Men Follow Cause of Justice

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 1.—Two fathers sit in Superior Judge Reeve's courtroom each day as the final chapter in the tragic romance of Madalynne Obenchain and John Belton Kennedy is unfolded.

They sit close—so close they could almost touch each other. Yet never does one look directly in the other's eyes.

They are Rev. William A. Burch, father of the man accused of murdering young Kennedy, and John D. Kennedy, father of the murdered man.

Rev. Burch, the elder of the two, a big man slightly bent, his last year's suit a little shiny around the shoulders, blue eyes heavy with the weight of unshed tears, sits with his arm about his son.

Occasionally he whispers in his ear. The son smiles. The other father, immaculately groomed, very erect, follows each word and gesture in the trial intently. His eyes, hard and bright, dart everywhere in the courtroom—except to the big, almost pathetic figure of Rev. Burch. His brokerage business neglected, Kennedy is centering his energies and fortune to aid the law in avenging the murderer of his son. Rev. Burch also is giving all his time and financial resources—even to the mortgaging of his home—to the trial, but his sacrifice is to the end that his boy may be freed of the charge hanging over him.

MRS. WIGGS The Eagle Rock Community Players have decided to give only two performances of Mrs. Alice Hegan Rice's comedy, "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch." They will be Friday and Saturday evenings, December 9 and 10, cutting out the one previously scheduled for the 8th. The characters are already letter-perfect in their parts.

Being unable to do everything you plan unfits you for doing anything.

PREPARE HOLIDAY DISPLAYS EARLY

Neale & Gregg Have Increased Space to Care for Big Xmas Stock

When the annual rush of Christmas shoppers starts, the hardware firm of Neale & Gregg will be well prepared to care for its customers and give them the same courtesy and service during the rush season that they give throughout the year. The regular staff of clerks has been augmented by two, and six extra clerks have been engaged for the holiday rush.

Sales space in the store has been increased, as has the warehouse space. The cashier's and bookkeeping department has been removed from the first floor to a balcony at the rear of the store, and the Lampson cash-carrying system will be installed the early part of next week. This system of overhead carriers from the sales department to the cashier will greatly facilitate the handling of the holiday business.

Already the store has the largest display of toys in the valley and more have been ordered. Numerous gifts that are useful and appreciated by every member of the family are on display in the store, while the windows will, during the week preceding Christmas, be filled with gift suggestions for the entire family.

According to Mr. Gregg, Santa Claus has sent word that he will visit the store sometime before Christmas and will spend considerable time there interviewing the boys and girls of Glendale.

BEN SHERWOOD HAS A UNIQUE SIGN

Ben Sherwood, the successful young designer and builder, with offices at 313 South Brand, installed Tuesday a unique lighting effect that is quite attractive. A hooded light has been placed just above the ground, so focused that its rays shine full upon the ornate sign in front of the office. This light is fed by a wire laid in an underground conduit from the back of the building.

MEDICAL EXPERTS TO REPORT TODAY

Arbuckle Trial Is Near End, Verdict May Be Returned Friday

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 1.—The last evidence will be laid against Roscoe Arbuckle today. Arbuckle was not as early coming to court today as usual. For him it was the time of the greatest strain. Two days ago he played his biggest card when he told his own story. Since then it has been just a long, hard wait to see who would take the trick—he or those whom he feels are against him.

Attracted by the promise of seeing the final scenes of Arbuckle's great tragedy, the crowds braved rain and had the corridors filled long before the doors of the courtroom opened. The More men, perhaps anxious to hear lawyers argue, were in the crowd today. The chief evidence remaining was the testimony of the board of three medical experts appointed to examine under the microscope, organs from Virginia Rappe's body, and to make their report to the court. While technical and probably uninteresting, their report may have the greatest bearing on the final outcome.

REJECT MONUMENT MADE IN GERMANY

PARIS, Dec. 1.—The people of the little village of Varangeville have indignantly refused to permit the erection of a monument to their war dead which was made in Germany. After the monument was practically ready for erection the committee was horrified to learn that the granite of the monument was quarried in Bavarian quarries. The sculptor asserts that he made all the designs and the finishing touches were put on in Nancy, but admits that the stone was roughly shaped in Germany. He urged the acceptance of the statue. But the people of Varangeville will have none of it.

HUNDREDS THROUGH T.D.&L. WEDNESDAY

Pictures of Glendale People Shown Last Time Here Tonight

It is hardly necessary to comment on the presentation of the local movies at the T. D. L. theatre last night as one would think from the crowds that packed the theatre that about everybody in town was there. Yet for those who were turned away and others who found it impossible to attend the initial performances it will be gratifying to know the pictures will be shown again today. The scenes shown covered many subjects and were enjoyed to a degree of much personal interest. The school children of all schools were represented as were many places of business and local people. The Armistice day parade received much applause. City officials, police and public men were also shown. The boys' Charlie Chaplin contest pictures were a scream of laughter and after the showing these young actors were put upon the stage and awarded prizes for their work. In addition to the local pictures the feature attraction, "Enchantment," featuring Marion Davies, was presented. This picture is indeed a delightful comedy drama, beautifully done and gave much real entertainment. As a whole the show was exceptionally good.

If you were not one of the hundreds who crowded the T. D. L. theatre last night to witness the showing of these local movies then you had better plan to attend today or this evening, as these are to be the last times these pictures will be shown. The entire house was sold out by Manager Allan for both performances and everyone in attendance thoroughly enjoyed the show.

MARIE DRESSLER'S HUSBAND IS DEAD J. H. Dalton, husband of Marie Dressler, the actress, is dead here, from a complication of diseases. Mrs. Dalton, playing a vaudeville engagement in St. Louis, is en route to Chicago.

ANYTHING MIGHT HAPPEN SAYS LOIS

COLUMBUS, Dec. 1.—That divorcees should not remarry for at least six months after the decree of divorce has been granted, is the belief voiced by Common Pleas Judge Tarbell, of Brown county, now holding court here.

The judge expressed his opinion while hearing the suit of Mrs. Lois Thomas, 18, for divorce from her husband. Judge Tarbell's suggestion for a six-month interval was preceded by a lecture in which he touched upon the evil of youthful marriages and the bigger wrong of obtaining divorces, only to remarry hastily.

Exception, however, was taken by Mrs. Thomas to the six-month proposal. "Anything may happen in six months," she said. Mrs. Thomas was allowed a divorce.

EDITORIALS BY THE PEOPLE

Editor Glendale Press: The Glendale Horse and Tourist Club wish to thank you for the publicity you gave us of our state tournament last week; also the high school officers for the use of their athletic field, and all those that helped us finance the event; last but not least, Secretary Rhoades and the chamber of commerce for their hearty endorsement. The event was a perfect success.

Yours,
WALT H. NICHOLS,
Secretary-treasurer of Glendale Club.

MISS DECKER OPENS SCHOOL OF MUSIC IN GLENDALE

Talented Instructor Specializes Teaching Children Piano and Violin

A new school of music is being opened at 417 East Palmer avenue, under the personal direction of Miss Mary E. Decker. Miss Decker has taken full courses on the piano and violin at the Los Angeles Conservatory of Music. The "Barrowes Course of Music Study," which is the oldest of the special systems made for children, is the one she will specialize in.

In a most interesting way, it leads the child, step by step, to grasp the meaning of all symbols used in music. The originator has proved that she knew how to reach the child mind, and has invented many wonderful things to give a picture of problems hard to understand. The eye, the mind, the hand and the ear receive development. Up to his grade of ability every child is expected to play artistically.

Miss Decker makes a specialty of children's work, and she will accept young pupils for violin as well as piano. A similar foundation in many details is needed for both instruments.

WICHITA DIDN'T UNDERSTAND "ART"

WICHITA, Kan., Dec. 1.—Art is art, but nude is nude—out here on the prairies of Kansas. A regular hornet's nest has been stirred up over the recent showing in an art exhibition here of a canvas by Richard E. Miller, the Provincetown artist.

"Nude" was its title, and to the untutored Kansas eye it might be said that it was all that and then some.

Those of the artistic temperament proclaimed it "art." Others admitted that it might be classified as art according to the Provincetown colony standards, but that the exhibition of "Nude" in the collection of paintings here was "working too fast" in introducing art to the people of this section.

The painting was one of a number of expensive canvases. One group of paintings alone represented a value of $50,000.

EARLY MORNING IS TIME TO GO FIRST

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Dec. 1.—C. O. Heilman was restless about 3 o'clock on a recent morning. As he rolled and tossed from one side to the other, he awoke from his dream to gaze at a fishing pole protruding through his window.

Before Heilman was sufficiently awake to realize what was transpiring, the fishing pole was dangling a line over his coat, trousers and vest. Then the fisherman "yanked" and presto—the clothes had disappeared. Heilman admits the fisherman made a "catch" of his best Sunday suit.

CHAFFEE STORE HAS FINE HOLIDAY OFFERING NOW

Boxes of California Nuts, Fruits, etc., Ready to Ship Anywhere

Candies galore and California goodies, such as raisins, dates and fruits, raised in this state, form the chief feature of the Christmas display at Chaffee's store, No. 30 on North Brand boulevard. Manager Tapman has arranged an attractive booth in the middle of the floor on which he has arranged all samples of his stock of Christmas candies and boxes of California products packed in attractive boxes, ready for shipping. The usual stock of Christmas goodies will be on sale at the store during the weeks preceding Christmas, but the boxes of fruit and candies will be the big feature.

In preparation for the holiday rush of buying, the management has engaged three additional clerks to wait on the trade and give the best service possible under the rushed conditions on the holiday season. The Chaffee motto "has always been 'cash and carry,' but in order to assist the buying public in every way possible the management has arranged with a local grocery company to deliver all grocery orders at a nominal cost to the purchaser. This will be done during the holiday rush.

LOTS OF RYE FOR EVERYBODY'S BREAD

CALGARY, Alta., Dec. 1.—Canada's rye harvest this year will be 12,000,000 bushels, representing an increase of 500 per cent in five years. This phenomenal increase is due to the government's encouragement of rye growing.

When prohibition began sweeping the American continent some economists foresaw smaller profits in rye production through curtailment of its use in manufacture of alcoholic beverages. But these statisticians failed to reckon the increased and widespread use of rye in Europe. One-third of the European population lives on rye bread. It is the principal cereal in Belgium, Holland, Germany, Austria and Russia.

With this situation in mind, the government opened a systematic campaign for increased acreage.

FOUGHT AT NIGHT WITH HUGE BIRD

SARANAC LAKE, N. Y., Dec. 1.—As the result of one of the most unusual battles on record in the Adirondacks, William Reyell, of Redford, may lose the sight of an eye. Entering his barn at night without a light, he was struck by a huge bird. He seized it by the leg and attempted to drag it down. The bird fought furiously, beating him with its powerful wings and pecking at his head and face. A blow in the eye blinded him and he fell to the floor. He was taken to a Plattsburg hospital. Investigation showed the bird to be a great blue heron, the largest and strongest bird in the Adirondacks, which had evidently taken up winter quarters in the barn.

MARTIN WARNS BOYS DISPLAY LIGHTS ON BIKE

Points to Death Loren Prescott as Warning to Equip Wheels

"The death of Loren Prescott from injuries received while riding a bicycle should be a warning to every boy and girl in Glendale," said Chief of Police Martin Wednesday. "Numerous warnings have been issued from this office to the boys and girls of Glendale about riding their bicycles at night without lights. These warnings have been issued and apparently have received little, if any, attention from the children. They continue to ride without lights. There is a section of the California Vehicle Act which says it is unlawful to ride a bicycle without lights after dark, and the police departments of every city and town in California are expected to enforce all parts of this act. The section regarding riding bicycles without lights is intended to protect the boys and girls and not to stop their fun in any way, but I do want to protect them from injury and possible death.

"All officers have been instructed to cite every boy caught riding without lights to appear in court. The first appearance in court will call for a severe lecture, unless conditions of the case warrant other action, but the second appearance by any boy or girl in court for this offense will be met with severe punishment."

Neale & Gregg Hardware Co. is having a special sale of bicycles and accessories. They have a large stock of new bicycles, including the popular "Racer" and "Tourer" models. They also have a complete line of bicycle lamps, horns, and repair tools. All goods are sold at special prices to celebrate the anniversary.

SENATOR BORAH TO THE FORE

Senator Borah says: "I see no difference in joining the present league and joining another league under a new name."

As a rule the country loses little by failing to agree with Borah. What he sees or may not see is a matter of small consequence. On numerous occasions when his voice has been raised in protest, he has been in the wrong.

The fact that Borah opposed the League of Nations was proclaimed widely. Doubtless it had effect. The standing of a senator, quite regardless of his ability, or the soundness of his logic, is bound to carry some weight. Knowledge of the circumstance that he was playing into the hands of men disloyal to their own country seemed to escape him.

Doubtless in principle the conference agreement, if such should be the fruitage of the present gathering, would be in consonance with that formerly rejected. It would differ in detail; probably have far less detail. As it is taking on shape, it seems to be an agreement among nations to preserve a rational peace, to discourage war, to lessen the burden of armament, to check the spirit of aggression.

There cannot be any grave wrong pointed to among these purposes. The Borahs of the land seem to hold that it is the duty of the United States to look out for itself alone. But supposing that the influence of the United States may prevent Europe from military waste, and remembering that Europe owes billions to this country, would it not be clear that it was conserving its own interests, anyhow? Clear to all but the Borahs, that is to say.

SOME OTHER MAN

In applying for divorce a plaintiff stated that her husband "was not the man she thought he was." How the error occurred, in what manner a substitute was tossed into the marital bark, did not appear from her statement. The course of the court has not been related. Probably the fact of having intended to marry one man, and having discovered later that she had married another, would be regarded as fair grounds for irritation.

Very likely this was not a case of mistaken identity as the complaint seems to specify. Love, although habitually blind, usually is observant enough to be aware of the person upon whom it bestows favors. However, it is not strange that a wife should awaken to the truth that she has said "I will," not exactly to a strange individual, but to one she was not acquainted with. Many marriages that come into court for dissolution have been entered into between parties who knew of each other only that which could be learned by casual contact, compressed within a few hours. Each during that brief term naturally had been on best behavior.

When a man, happening to see a pretty girl at the next table at lunch, inquires who she is, and conducts a rapid wooing that leads to wedding before the dinner hour of the same day, of course both are taking chances. It is not surprising that he should turn out to be another man than the ideal, or even that she, as an element of the domestic establishment, turn out to lack perfection.

THE HEELS OF COMMUNISM

Dr. Orbison, lately from Russia, where he did much splendid and appreciated charity work, brought back some interesting facts. He told of a communist messenger who was caught trying to get out to the United States. In one hollow heel of the messenger's shoe was a letter of instruction to American communists as to how to start a revolution in this country. The other heel was stuffed with diamonds to pay the expense of propaganda.

From this incident may be learned much of the reason that Russia is regarded as a world problem. It is not so regarded merely that it has adopted theories repugnant to accepted beliefs. If it could work these theories to a conclusion within its own confines, the spectacle might be viewed with pity rather than with apprehension. Neither is it so regarded because it happens to be hungry, and in need of the bread of peoples whose prosperity it would be glad to destroy.

Russia is a problem for the reason that it is not content with self-experiment. It wants to drag all society down to the wretched level at which it abides. It calls to mind the drug addict, who, not satisfied to set the poison coursing in his own veins, seeks to corrupt the pure blood of others with similar dosage.

The more enlightened powers are bent upon establishing peace. As to themselves and their dependents they may succeed in this. There must remain, however, one vast area to which peace will be a stranger, until Russia, subdued by bitter experience, has ceased to try to drag others down, and begun the effort to pull itself up.

WHO WANTS TO FIGHT?

George Bernard Shaw has upset precedent as established by his own recent output. He has said something sensible. It is to be hoped that this was more than accident. He said this: "The world will not make peace until it really wants to stop fighting." Nobody ever held otherwise.

But he adds: "That time has not yet come." So he spoils the effect of the preceding flash of intelligence.

If Shaw thinks the world desires to fight, he should take a fresh view of the situation. It might show him his error. The world is made up of people, not merely of agents of secret diplomacy. They do not want to fight. They look with horror upon the occasional indication that contrary opinion exists. If there are leaders who wish to promote a fight, they are reckoning without the hosts that would be asked to do the fighting in case of war.

Provided that the world is to make peace when it wants to quit fighting, the present would seem an auspicious time for peoples to be drawing up articles of agreement. Even the nation fully aware that it does not want to fight, must have assurance that its neighbors is in kindred mood.

Lindendorff, von Tirpitz and their ilk are pugnacious still. The mass of Germans do not sustain them. To the world outside of Germany they appear as grotesque relics of an ancient savagery. That they still breathe fire is of interest as a spectacle rather than as a portent.

Probably the nation most war-like in aspect is the Japanese. From that far land comes a petition against war signed by thousands of women. Whenever an expression can be had from the common folk of Japan it is in exact agreement with the petition. The will to war is in the minds of a military clique there.

Shaw may not know it, but the fact is that the people of the world have a realizing sense of having had too much war already, and cannot be dissuaded from belief that theirs is the correct view.

BEING DRAGGED INTO WAR

"Another war is coming. . . . It will not drag in this country, however, if our government keeps the last election in mind."

It is pity to have to touch so often on the subject of war. Just at this time the topic is not to be avoided. The world is full of discussion of it, happily devoted mostly to absolute condemnation. Nations conceive their duty to be not proficiency in fighting, and in truculency of mental attitude, but in devising methods of a just and pervasive peace.

The quotation above is an excerpt from a series of comments. It is a foolish assertion primarily. The appended opinion that the memory of the last election would keep this country from being dragged in, reaches close to the depths of puerility. If another world war were to eventuate, nothing could keep this country from being dragged in. Neither prayer, nor politics, nor cowardice nor principle could keep it out. It would be drawn in despite the repugnance the thought would stir.

In the article from which the excerpt was taken, from the pen of a proponent of the German cause in the late conflict, runs the intimation that the United States had no business in that affair. As though the whole globe, with the exception of the American area could become a battlefield, and all America hold aloof unalarmed and unconcerned! Because of the count of votes at a past election, at that!

The trouble with writers who look forward to a war to rage on two continents and the seven seas without in any manner being the concern of America, is that they neglect to think.

But even if they took thought, each according to his capacity, and still clung to their opinions, the theory that it is the duty of this country to keep away from all activities designed to encourage universal peace, still must lack defense.

HUMAN NATURE AGAIN

By DR. FRANK CRANE

In thinking about disarmament we should constantly attack the argument that in order to get it we must change human nature.

This is a much reiterated delusion. Disarmament is not at all a moral question nor a matter of altering the nature of human beings. It is simply and purely a question of management.

Human beings always have quarreled and probably always will quarrel. And to get peace you do not have to change their dispositions, but you simply have to establish rules and make them quarrel in a way that will not be destructive to communal life.

For instance, children are naturally quarrelsome and you don't keep peace in the family by changing their natures. You maintain peace by making them refer their quarrels to parental authority. School children are quarrelsome, but the school yard and schoolroom are not full of fights, for the simple reason that the children understand that their disputes must be referred to the teacher.

The essence of every game is a contest. Baseball is a contest, but the two baseball nines do not slug each other. They play the rules of the game whereby they are required to slug the ball until they can pour out all their natural competitiveness according to the rules.

A game of poker is a contest, but the participants in the game do not break the furniture, for the simple reason that the contest must be played according to the rules. All the violence there is in poker is directed to the man who cheats—that is, the member of the party who will not obey the regulations.

This is the gist of the meaning of the Scriptures, "Vengeance is mine; I will avenge saith the Lord." The point is that there can be no community life unless the vengeance business is referred to some one else than the individual wronged.

The basis of civilization is not that we should cease to quarrel, but that we should relegate the settlement of our disputes to arbitration.

All that is necessary is to make nations carry on their natural competition in a decent way. We have been playing the game without rules like a lot of savages, the great game of national competition. And the result has been murder, devastation and bankruptcy.

What we need is not to change human nature among nations, but to teach the rules of the game that we are all playing.

Citizens have an inalienable right to fight. Law does not prohibit their fighting. Law simply says when they want to fight they must come into court and oppose each other in a regular manner. There they can exercise their bad blood all they please. But if they go to settling their disputes with revolvers in the street, shooting up the bystanders, such method of fighting is not tolerated.

It is very necessary to see that the question of disarmament is merely one of playing the game intelligently. It is not at all a question of bringing around the millennium and making angels out of human beings.

THE LISTENING POST

A philosopher came upon a man sitting by the wayside.

And being a philosopher he gained knowledge from all sources.

And he knew that every human being was a source of knowledge.

And again, being a philosopher he valued knowledge.

And never despised it for its source.

And he knew it was to be found in the marsh as well as on the mountain top.

He knew that it was to be found in failure as well as in success.

In hatred as well as in love.

In all of the highways and byways of the human spirit knowledge is to be found.

And so he despised no man.

Passed no human beings heedlessly by.

Spoke unkindly to no man.

And lent no deaf ear to any man's voice.

For so he knew that knowledge came.

And the man by the wayside was an idler.

And of course there was a cause for that.

If the philosopher could find it out.

And he knew that if he could find causes it might be possible to prevent evil consequences.

By removing causes.

That is a kind of spiritual diagnosis.

A great many persons continue to suffer from spiritual ailments because nobody has diagnosed the ailment properly.

With a view to removing the cause.

A man limped along on the street.

With an obvious hurt and discomfort.

And kindly friends offered sympathy.

Made suggestions.

And one looked at his foot and saw an angry bruise.

He washed and bandaged the foot and sent the man on his way.

But still he limped.

Until at last he went into a shoemaker's shop.

And the shoemaker looked, not at the foot, but at the shoe.

And then he thrust a device inside the shoe and kept it there.

Until he had ironed a harsh crease out of the leather.

And the man went on his way.

The bruise was healed and the man no longer limped.

And the philosopher said: "There is one thing between regret and hope that you have not mentioned."

And the man said: "What is that?"

And the philosopher said: "Action."

And the man said: "What has action to do with regret for instance?"

And the philosopher said: "Action is the great solvent of regret."

And the man said: "I thank you. You put it well."

And then the man said: "And as to hope?"

And the philosopher said: "Hope is the child of dreaming. Fulfillment is the child of action."

And the man said: "I have been spending my days in regretting and hoping. And I seem to be getting nowhere."

And the philosopher said: "Many persons are suspended in life between a regret and a hope. They fluctuate between a disappointment and a promise. And they find that regrets are unavailing and that hopes bring no fulfillment without action."

And the man said: "What kind of action do you suggest?"

And the philosopher said: "Any kind almost except twirling your thumbs."

Of the Last Verses in the Book—By Edmund Waller (1606-1687)

When we for age could neither read nor write,
The subject made us able to indite;
The soul, with nobler resolutions decked,
The body stooping does herself erect.
No mortal parts are requisite to raise
Her that, unbodied, can her Maker praise.

The seas are quiet when the winds give o'er;
So calm are we when passions are no more.
For then we know how vain it was to boast

Of fleeting things, so certain to be lost.
Clouds of affection from our younger eyes
Conceal that emptiness which age descries.

The soul's dark cottage, battered and decayed,
Lets in new light through chinks that Time has made:
Stronger by weakness, wiser men become
As they draw near to their eternal home.
Leaving the old, both worlds at once they view
That stand upon the threshold of the new.

NO CRIME TO CRITICISE
[New York Evening Post]

Dismissal of the libel suit for $10,000,000 brought by Mayor Thompson and other officials in the name of the city of Chicago against the Chicago Tribune rebukes as impudent an attempt as has ever been made to silence criticism of public officials in this country.

If Mayor Thompson felt himself wronged by the comment of Chicago newspapers upon his administration of affairs, why did he not bring suit in his own name? Judge Fisher was severe upon the point. "The honest official," he said, "seldom fears criticism. He answers argument by argument and only in extreme cases resorts to law. The dishonest official is often restrained by the fear of laying his character open to a searching judicial inquiry. But if he can hide his own infirmities by labelling his action in the name of a municipality, the number of suits would be governed only by political expediency."

Massachusetts, dear old Massachusetts, looked pitifully upon the status of the women employed in her vast and varied industries, and benevolently decreed a "minimum wage," to be fixed justly by a commission. And the man said: "What has action to do with regret for instance?"

And the philosopher said: "Action is the great solvent of regret."

And the man said: "I thank you. You put it well."

And then the man said: "And as to hope?"

And the man said: "I have been spending my days in regretting and hoping. And I seem to be getting nowhere."

And the philosopher said: "Many persons are suspended in life between a regret and a hope. They fluctuate between a disappointment and a promise. And they find that regrets are unavailing and that hopes bring no fulfillment without action."

And the man said: "What kind of action do you suggest?"

And the philosopher said: "Any kind almost except twirling your thumbs."

Of the Last Verses in the Book—By Edmund Waller (1606-1687)

When we for age could neither read nor write,
The subject made us able to indite;
The soul, with nobler resolutions decked,
The body stooping does herself erect.
No mortal parts are requisite to raise
Her that, unbodied, can her Maker praise.

The seas are quiet when the winds give o'er;
So calm are we when passions are no more.
For then we know how vain it was to boast

Of fleeting things, so certain to be lost.
Clouds of affection from our younger eyes
Conceal that emptiness which age descries.

The soul's dark cottage, battered and decayed,
Lets in new light through chinks that Time has made:
Stronger by weakness, wiser men become
As they draw near to their eternal home.
Leaving the old, both worlds at once they view
That stand upon the threshold of the new.

Comment on the News By HENRY JAMES

A correspondent, writing to express approval of an estimate placed in this page upon the activity of Hearst and his "greatest thinker in the world" reaches a conclusion to which it does not seem logical to follow him.

It is averts to the fact that Hearst threw his influence to the election of the present administration. From this he concludes that the administration is exactly as subject to condemnation as the Hearst agencies.

Hearst fought the League of Nations, and was one of the instruments of deception, as to the real character of the compact. He was inspired by his pro-German and his anti-English sentiment. His campaign was not on principle. It was the campaign of an embittered and prejudiced individual, utterly without conscience as to the method of winning.

The correspondent mentions the "perfidy of politics." Many have been the illustrations. No party can assert its innocence. Republican leaders in some instances, although it embodied policy they had favored. They changed because they would not give approval to a plan formulated by a democratic President. Now they favor a plan of similar intent. They have the hostility of Hearst. For once the man is more consistent than the politicians

Listening in on Eve

Adventures by Night

"Well, I'll be hanged for an imbecile!" muttered Graystone as he turned away from the telephone. "I'm several kinds of an idiot. You might call me a miscellaneous sort of a fool."
"Quite likely," said the friend, who had just then entered the office. "Were you absent-minded again?"

"Abscent-minded is not the word for it. Last night I took a charming young woman to the theatre. I have known her only a short time—met her up in the country, where I was golfing for a couple of weeks. Come to think of it, I guess I was pretty enthusiastic about her coming to town, and she arrived a day or two ago. She is staying with some elderly cousins, and it was from their house that we started for the theatre last night. When we got back to that house about 12:30 we couldn't get in, though we rang the doorbell until the battery was exhausted."

"Are your cousins deaf?" I asked, and the young lady said she believed they were a little hard of hearing. The fact is, she doesn't know them very well, so the relationship is not close.
"I'm afraid we shall have to give up," I said, after more and more violent efforts to arouse some one. They should have given you a latch-key."
"Och, but Cousin Jane did!" I forgot it. You see, we never use latch-keys in our town, for no one ever locks up at night."

"With much relief I inserted the key into the latch. And what do you think? That doggoned key wouldn't turn!"
"I fear Cousin Jane gave me the wrong one. She had an awful hunt to find it," remarked Margery.
"Och, I guess she found a misfit all right," I said, returning the key to her. "I'll wager a month's profits that no honest man can turn the lock with this bit of steel. You'll have to come home with me. My mother and aunt will be delighted to see you, and first thing in the morning you can 'phone your friends so they won't worry long about you. They surely aren't feeling any anxiety tonight. They must be lineal descendants of Rip Van Winkle."

"Margery consented to go to our house. It was so late that she sweetly insisted that I should not disturb my mother, so I told her where the guest room is on the third floor of the shack, and she went up there alone, after I had switched on the light from the main hall. I suppose I should have taken her to the room, but she felt a little shy and seemed to prefer going up by herself. Of course, I supposed that everything was all right."

"Mother has just informed me by telephone," said Graystone, "that that room had scarcely a stick of furniture in it, because house cleaning has begun at our place, dingy, old, poor little Margery had to wrap herself in a portiere and lie on the floor all night."
"Och, I'll wager she was a good sport about it."
"Och, she was, I'm sure, but the worst of my crimes is that I forgot to mention to my early breakfast that she was up there. I had a lot of business on my mind and, well, I didn't remember anything about her guest."

"Mother said she came timidly downstairs about 8:30 and frightened my old aunt almost out of her senses because she knew positively there was no one upstairs when she went to bed at 10 o'clock last night. She didn't know whether Margery was a ghost or a house breaker!"

"That poor girl had to explain how she happened to be in the house, and then when she telephoned her elderly cousins she learned that they had sat up nearly all night for her in the house across the street from the empty one where she tried to raise the dead with our racket. Can you tie that? Of course, it was all my fault. Margery isn't used to cities and long rows of houses, but I—"
"This looks serious. You must have been extremely absorbed in your conversation or something, old dear, to—"
"Och, cut it! What in the dickens can I do? That girl must think me less than human. How can I ever square myself?"

"All you can do is to invest your surplus in candy and flowers and send me as an emissary to make the peace. Leave your case in my hands. I'll pull you out if it can be done."
"Not on your life! If peace can be made with candy and flowers I'll be on the job myself, thank you!"

REV. ROBERT SHULER TO GIVE ADDRESS FRIDAY NIGHT

Brilliant Speaker Will Address Big Meeting at City Church

Rev. Robert Shuler, known as "Fighting Bob Shuler," who will be the orator at the banquet for fathers and sons of the West Glendale Methodist Sunday school and community Friday night, will take as the theme of his after-dinner speech "Conservation of Man Power."

The banquet will be held at the church at 6:30 o'clock and will be followed by a larger mixed meeting in the auditorium of the church at 8 o'clock, at which time Mr. Shuler will talk on "The Heroic in Our Religion." He is said to be a brilliant speaker who has sometimes been termed "sensational," and Dr. Harley Preston, pastor of the church, guarantees that there will not be a dull moment while Fighting Bob occupies the rostrum.

There is always room for one more oyster in the soup.

COULD CHIPS BEAVER FIND THE SECRET POND?

By JOHN BARTON

Yes, Chips Beaver was thinking. He was lonesome. And that was very, very queer. He'd been alone when he built his brand-new house and made his brand-new pond. But he hadn't been lonesome then. Now all the Woodfolk from Tom's Backwoods and Field had come to his house-warming he was the lonesomest beast in a furry skin. For at moon-set they'd all go scampering home. And he didn't want them to go. Indeed he didn't.

He thought and thought. Then he sadly shook his head. "They're right," he sighed. "They're perfectly right. This is no place for them just as Dr. Muskrat's cunning little pond-lily puddle is no place for me. This is a Beaver Pond. Beavers should live here. Only not just one beaver."
Then he exclaimed, "Ripple! I forgot all about her. I'll go after her. Then I'll never be lonesome any more."
Do you remember the young beaver who followed Chips the day he left home? When he followed Whisk Whippoorwill into the dangerous Deep Woods he left her sitting by the broken sapling near the wonderful Secret Pond where they both were born. And he'd promised to come back and get her when he had a home of his own. "Now that I have one," he grinned, "I'll go for her tomorrow evening."
Then—the grin faded from his face; he took on a worried look; he started his company by exclaiming, "Whisk! Whisk Whippoorwill! Has anyone seen him? Why didn't he come?"
"Seen Whisk?" echoed Nibble Raddit. "Not in ever so long!"
"Whisk?" spoke up Chaik Jay. "Why, he's gone. He flew off on the Long Trail before leaf-fall."

GLENDALE WOMAN'S CLEVER RESPONSE

Eastern Clergyman Recalls Conversation Held 20 Years Ago

In a series of short narratives headed "Reminiscences by Ministers of Incidents of Early Days," run in the "Christian Standard," Cincinnati, Ohio, the following by S. S. Lappin, now pastor of the Christian church of Bedford, Ind., was noted in last week's issue:

"Efficiency in the local church has ever been a source of irritation to me. When I went from Eureka college to Atlanta, Ill., in 1900, I was suffering from neurasthenia, and particularly susceptible to annoyance. In the service of the first day there I noticed that two lame deacons waited on the audience (Hardin Hawes and Frank Mountjoy, to be accurate), while ten others with sound legs sat in their pews.

"Later on, when I had accepted a call to the good church there, I was voting my first impressions of the place to one of the good sisters, Miss Eva Wright, a sister of J. H. Wright. I was saying something like this:

"Why, Miss Wright, this church has the only two lame men in the whole congregation to do all the walking. According to this you should have dumb men to do the talking, penniless men to do the giving, godless men to pray, fingerless women to do the quilting at aid meetings—why, you should have called an imbecile to be your minister." And at this last she broke in with a plaintive protest: "Well, you see, Brother Lappin, we have done the best we could."

I noted well the twinkle in her keen eye, and have wondered ever since just how much she meant her words to convey."

The Miss Eva Wright referred to is now Mrs. Eva Hutton of 326 East Colorado, a resident of Glendale for the past 12 years and a constant reader of the Daily Press. Her brother, J. H. Wright, also mentioned, is now a very prominent minister in Illinois.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Cave of 338 West Harvard street entertained at cards last evening, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Warlop of Los Angeles, Mrs. Mabel Judd and Tom Noble.

FUND DRIVE STARTS FOR FLOAT ENTER ROSE FESTIVAL

Citizens Will Be Asked to Give Freely for This Big Publicity Plan

A campaign has been started by the chamber of commerce to raise funds for the decoration of the float to be entered in the Tournament of Roses at Pasadena on New Year's day. A committee has been appointed and the drive to raise funds for the float is on.

The matter of financing the production of the float was taken up by the city council and the chamber of commerce learned that financially the city is unable to assist to any great extent. The advertising fund has been depleted by contributions to other propositions.

J. M. Rhoades, secretary of the chamber of commerce, said: "This year the city is unable to give a great deal of assistance to the chamber in the matter of financing the New Year's day float. This city has won first prize in the parade for the past two years and is advertised throughout the nation as the winner of the prize. Money spent to enter a float in the parade is money well spent toward advertising the city, as pictures of the winning floats are published in numerous magazines and papers, as well as being circulated by moving pictures. This year it will be necessary to make an appeal to the loyal citizens of Glendale who are willing to do their share in boosting their home town. I and the chamber of commerce, through the committee appointed to secure funds for the float, are making a particular appeal to the people of Glendale who are not members of the chamber of commerce to contribute to the fund for the decoration of the float.

Members of the chamber of commerce pay $25 annually per member. This money is spent by the chamber in advertising Glendale in various ways. To call upon the members of the organization to pay the expenses of the float which will advertise the entire city and benefit the non-member as well as the member of the organization, is not just. The non-member, who has the interest of the city at heart, will be asked to contribute sums from a dollar upward to the fund. The drive has started and an intensive fund-raising campaign will be conducted until the required amount has been raised."

The Packer Auto company, corner Colorado street and Brand boulevard, is conducting a regular "sure-enough" history-making used car sale. Everyone in Glendale has heard of used car sales, but this one, the Packer company says, is something different. "All of the cars we are offering to the public in this sale," said Mr. Packer, "are honest buys. When a resident of Glendale goes to Los Angeles and purchases a used machine, he runs a big chance of coming home with a pile of junk. After he discovers he has bought a wreck he goes back to the seller and finds there is very little in the way of consolation coming his way. He is told that the car was in good condition when it was sold to him and therefore it was his fault that it went to the bad. That's what a person gets for dealing with a merchant."

The sale that is being conducted by the Packer Auto company is a real sale. It starts this morning and will continue the remainder of the week. All of the standard makes of cars will be on sale including Fords, Dodges, Buicks, Maxwells, Studebakers and many others. The cars will be divided into four lots. Lot No. 1 will sell at $205, lot No. 2 will range from $225 to $400, lot No. 3 will range from $400 to $700 and lot No. 4 will be from $700 up. Every car will be worth every cent that is being asked for it, and many are being greatly underpriced. In fact, it is claimed that these machines are being sold for prices far below any ever asked for similar machines in Glendale.

The Packer Auto company is the distributor in the San Fernando Valley for the Studebaker pleasure cars, and is one of the most reputable concerns in Glendale. The buyer of a car at this sale may feel assured that every promise that is made to him will be fulfilled to the letter. The Packer company has made a record in Glendale for fair dealing, and it is too late for that concern to do anything that would injure that reputation.

"IT SHALL NOT BE AGAIN"—SIMONS

BERLIN, Dec. 1.—Germany is entirely in sympathy with the Harding association of nations plan, Dr. Von Simons, former foreign minister, declared in an interview with the United Press here today.

"The new slogan of the majority of German people is 'it shall not be again,'" Von Simons said. "For this reason Germany could not mobilize her forces for another war even if she wished."

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Cave of 338 West Harvard street will attend a concert at the Gamut club in Los Angeles this evening.

WHICH WILL BE A MILLIONAIRE'S BRIDE?

Rumor has it that either Yansci Dolly or her twin sister, Roszika, will soon become the bride of a prominent American millionaire. The Dolly sisters are now in London. Roszika recently divorced Jean Schwartz, song writer, and Yansci is on the verge, she hopes, of obtaining a decree of divorce from her comedian husband, Harry Fox. One of their more persistent admirers, her comedian husband, Harry Fox, is Alexander Smith Cochrane, seeking according to reports Ganna Walska, opera singer. Mr. Cochrane is suing to divorce his wife. Dispatches from London quote Yansci Dolly as saying: "When I marry, Broadway will get the surprise of its life."

THE EVENING STORY

MOTHER TO MOTHER

(Copyright, 1921, by W. Werner)

The moment she took the letter out of the rural delivery box at the roadside Lizzie Andrews felt instinctively that it bore bad tidings. "Mother is worse," she said to herself, tearing the envelope open as she went up the drive to the ranch house. Yet the news of her mother's death that it contained was as great a shock as though she had not been expecting it any time for the last three months.

"We know you couldn't come on," her sister Ella wrote, "so we did not telegraph." She had not even written until the day after the funeral. "Everything was so upset with folks coming and going and all," explained Ella, "and there was so much I had to see to that I just didn't have a spare minute."

Sorrow-stricken, but fearless, Lizzie Andrews sat on the step of the back porch, where she had limply dropped the open letter in her shaking hand. Her mother dead and everything going on as if nothing had happened, the sky as blue, the flowers as blooming, and the birds twittering as happily as before she heard the creak of the mail wagon climbing the hill and had gone out to the gate so early for her letter. Her mother only dead, but buried! In the darkness of the thought of her mind groped back to the date of the funeral. Thursday, the day of the Sunday school picnic, her mother was being buried—and she was on a picnic!

A noisy spluttering broke upon the sacred silence of her grief. Automatically Lizzie Andrews sprang to her feet and automatically attended the boilerful of clothes on the kitchen stove. As she put them through the rinsing water and hung them on the line every sound seemed a torturing cry from her heart—"Mother is gone! I'll never see her again!"

If only she had got back east on a visit two years before, or even a year before, she would have been getting ready for the winter. But just as she was getting ready for the winter when she began to make her preparations again Diana had trouble with her eyes and she had to go with her to the city for a long course of treatment at the oculist's. Then the new baby came.

It always had been that way. Whenever she planned a visit home, as she still called it, something had happened to prevent. Only twice during the fourteen years they had been out west had she succeeded in making a flying trip east. And now the gates of opportunity had shut in her face, for always it would be too late, and nobody really cared.

When she told him, Ed tried to be kind and sympathetic, of course. But she knew he was only sorry because of her pain. That he did not share her grief. For when a year after their marriage Ed had decided upon coming out to California to live, her mother had strongly opposed the move, and he had never quite forgiven some of the things she had said—things that had stung the deeper because the event proved her mother's judgment better than his own.

And to Billy and Diana, who had been left on the ranch with their father on her last visit home, seven years before, their grandmother was little more than a name and at most a pictured face hung by their bed, which as kiddies they had been taught to kiss every night after saying their prayers.

Nor did her sister Ellie really share with Lizzie Andrews in her sorrow. Instead, the letters were all about what Ellie had suffered—Ellie's nervousness, Ellie's sleeplessness, Ellie's worn-outness from the long weeks of nursing her mother in her last illness.

If only she could have worn herself out taking care of her, yearningly thought Lizzie Andrews, the little mother, who in the years since she had lost so much sleep and had given so much of her strength taking care of her, for Lizzie had been a sickly baby, delicate throughout her childhood. But she had not sat up with her mother a single night; had not even had a trival part in the day's little ministrations of a sickroom. Nor was it merely in her mother's last illness that she had failed her. In the past long stretch of years had she been with her, as Ellie has been; there were a hundred and one little things in which she could have given her mother—love and sympathy and understanding—the understanding that had come only when she became a mother herself. Instead, the summer after she left high school, in spite of all her mother could say against marrying so young, she had lived in the past, how she had married a year later gone a whole continent away from her.

In the weeks that followed Lizzie Andrews went about her work as usual—except for the white, haggard look on her face, the infinite sadness in her eyes. But no matter how busy she kept her hands, no present task could hold her thoughts. They did not let her rest. And constantly she recalled some self-sacrifice on her mother's part—some act of mother love and devotion—not with the sweetness of treasured memories, but as bitter self-accusations of morbid brooding. Her mother had given everything. She had given nothing in return. And now it was too late. Besides her usual busy day, Lizzie Andrews discovered her cake box was empty and had made a fresh batch of cookies. In the midst of her baking Billy had come into the kitchen and, perching on a corner of the table, began to munch cookies by the whole. It always gave her a peculiar satisfaction to see Billy eat cookies. His appreciation was so complete. Not that he ever said anything. He did not even give one of his dear grins. Grins were too superficial. When Billy was most ecstatic he only scowled. He scowled now and moved his jaws with a masterfulness beautiful to watch.

After Lizzie did up the noonday dishes she tried on the new party dress she had been making for Diana. She'd had a lot of trouble over it. But Di'd looked lovely in it and took such girlish pleasure in her appearance that Lizzie Andrews' heart felt a warm glow for the rest of the afternoon. Tired and hot, she was in the midst of getting supper when the new baby woke up and cried. Drooping everything, she ran up the stairs to the nursery, where she had put it to sleep. The cry stopped the instant she entered the room and when she hung over the bed the new baby looked up and smiled at her. It was her fifth baby, for two children had died, but Lizzie Andrews never failed to thrill at that sweetest of miracles in all a mother's experience; the first time that her baby looks smilingly up at her with real recognition in its love-lighted eyes. And suddenly it came to her in a tremendous flood of tender comfort. Her mother had not given all and received nothing in return. From the beginning she had given back. The stir at heart and the thrill, such as her baby's smile and love-lighted look had given her. The warm glow she had received from Diana's happiness, the satisfaction that had been hers in Billy's gratification over the homely trifle of the cookies.

The act of loving is its own reward. We mothers need no pity. With tears set free for the first time since Ellie's letter brought its bad news, Lizzie Andrews stood before the dear picture the children had been taught to kiss, mother to mother, without agony of spirit or morbid self-blame.

DEPARTMENT STORE STARTS HERE TODAY

dows, which will afford ample display space for the many lines of goods to be carried.

BIG BASEMENT.

The basement will be 10 feet in depth and will be under the entire building, with extensions under the sidewalks on both the Brand and Harvard street sides. The spaces under the sidewalks will be occupied by the sample rooms and the rooms for the traveling salesmen, these to receive daylight through the sidewalk lights. The remainder of the basement will be used temporarily as a reserve stock room.

FINE FINISH.

The first floor of the building will be finished in eucalyptus gum, to which an extremely high polish will be given. On this floor will be carried the silks, woolsens, wash goods, domestics, heading, shoes, knit underwear, hosiery, gloves, ribbons, patterns, drug sundries, laces, trimmings, notions, etc. All departments will be complete in every detail.

READY TO WEAR.

On the second floor will be carried the ready-to-wear garments as well as furs, millinery, corsets, infants' departments, muslin and silk underwear, etc. On this floor will also be a ladies' rest room. The fixtures will be furnished in gray enamel with old rose trimmings.

CARPETS, RUGS, ETC.

Carpets, rugs and draperies will occupy the third floor, along with an art department and the general offices of the company. The fixtures will be in solid mahogany.

COST $75,000.

This building will cost about $75,000. It will have a passenger elevator sufficiently large to take care of the large patronage. Freight will be received through an intake in the sidewalk on the Harvard street side.

PRIEST ARCHITECT.

The architectural work was done by Alfred F. Priest of this city, whose work in designing this building is a distinct credit to him. He was provided a modern department store building designed to meet the needs of the city for years to come. The Roy L. Kent company, which has erected some of the largest buildings in Glendale, has the contract for the construction, which fact assures it being erected in a first-class manner and on scheduled time.

The owners of the building are John G. Huntley and W. E. Evans, both well known men of this city, to whom goes the credit of bringing this large department store to Glendale. It is expected that the store will be ready for occupancy by early spring.

The Pendroy Dry Goods company will occupy the entire building and has been incorporated for $200,000. E. C. Pendroy of 332 North Brand boulevard, will be general manager and associated with him will be Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Ransford of Hollywood, who although financially interested, will not be active in the business, but will serve in an advisory capacity. Mr. and Mrs. Ransford are owners of the Garden City apartments in Hollywood. Mr. Ransford was formerly with Marshall Field of Chicago.

Mrs. Pendroy will be connected actively with the affairs of the company and the conduct of the business, being personally in charge of the second floor. Mrs. Pendroy is an experienced ready-to-wear buyer.

Identified also with the corporation will be John Swearingen of Newton, Kansas, former director of merchandise and manager in one of the Pendroy string of stores in Kansas.

EMPLOY MANY.

In addition to those mentioned, a number of local people will be connected with the concern in an executive manner, but for various reasons the names will be withheld for the present.

Mr. and Mrs. Pendroy are comparatively new arrivals in Glendale and have had about 20 years' experience in the dry goods and department store business. They are still interested in a chain of stores of Kansas and Oklahoma. At this time they maintain their own permanent buying office in New York. This new establishment will conduct a general dry goods and department store business, which will be conducted on a regular city basis.

Mr. Pendroy and a corps of buyers will leave within a few days for a tour of San Francisco, St. Louis, Chicago and New York, to purchase the opening stock of merchandise for the new establishment. This trip will last between four and six weeks and Mr. Pendroy will take with him four of those who will be associated with him in this business. To take care of the immediate needs of the corporation an office will be opened within a few days in the Citizens' building.

LOCAL EMPLOYEES.

Mr. Pendroy desires to emphasize the fact that in the operation of the business of the new corporation local people, so far as possible, will be employed. Mr. Swearingen, so far as is known, will be the only out-of-town man employed at the new establishment. At the opening of the store about 60 people will be employed.

Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Wyman of 1328 North Maryland avenue will attend the dinner-dance given tonight at the Jonathan club. They will take as their guests, Mr. Curtis, Miss Frances Wyman, and Mr. and Mrs. Ford of Los Angeles.

FRATERNAL BODIES ASKED TO GIVE CO-OPERATION

N. C. Hayhurst, Chairman of Fraternal Organization Issues an Appeal

The following notice is being sent to every fraternal organization and club in Glendale asking for co-operation in the celebration of American Education Week, December 4 to December 10 under the big program that has been laid out by the high school and grade schools of our city:

Clubs, Fraternal Organizations, and other Organizations.—At the request of the National Education Association and the American Legion the week beginning December 4th will be observed as American Education Week.

At your next meeting you are requested to devote at least five minutes to the subject, "The Value of Our Schools." During this American Education Week the members of your organization are urged to visit the schools in order to become more familiar with the work which is being done.

N. C. HAYHURST, Chairman Committee of Fraternal Organizations. "The American Legion is distinctly a patriotic organization formed for the purpose of fostering 100 per cent Americanism and for that reason it stands squarely behind and beside the American public school in teaching the pure principles of patriotism as handed down by our forefathers."

To the People of Glendale.—The American Legion is distinctly a patriotic organization formed for the purpose of fostering 100 per cent Americanism and for that reason it stands squarely behind and beside the American public school in teaching the pure principles of patriotism as handed down by our forefathers. As an organization, therefore, we approve and endorse American Education Week to be celebrated Dec. 4 to 10 and we pledge to the public schools of our city our moral support and the assistance of our organization in securing for them the recognition which they deserve and in helping to call the attention of the public to the work they are doing.

During the convention of the National Education Association held at Des Moines, Iowa, on July 4 to 8, a joint committee of that organization and the American Legion formulated the following platform which both organizations pledge themselves to support and which the Glendale post, No. 127 of the American Legion unreservedly endorses:

(1) All teachers in public, private and parochial schools must be American citizens and must take the oath of allegiance to the United States government; (2) English must be the basic language in all schools whether public, private or parochial; (3) Great emphasis must be laid on patriotic exercises and the teaching of history and civics in the schools; (4) School attendance for nine months of the year must be made compulsory through the high school age.

Feeling that the public school is the cornerstone of democracy and that without it our republic could not endure beyond the present generation, as commander of the local post of the American Legion, I urge upon every member and upon the people of Glendale the wisdom and necessity of giving their whole-hearted support to the American public school and I suggest particularly that they give a little time during American Education Week to learn what our schools are doing toward the accomplishment of their great task of turning out American citizens.

ASSOCIATIONS TO DISCUSS TWO SITES

Various Delegations Will Assemble to Take Up Further Arguments

At the meeting of the South Glendale Avenue Improvement association, tonight in the branch library building, corner Los Feliz and Brand, delegations are expected to be present from the West Glendale Improvement association and the East Glendale Improvement association, to present arguments for the two high school sites upon which citizens will vote at the coming bond election.

A report from City Manager Reeves relative to the widening of Los Feliz road is expected, and there will be discussion of the municipal Christmas tree which is to be provided in the south part of the city.

Sacrifices you are glad to make may be the real article, just the same.

Foley's Friendly Fancies

SLEEPYTIME She crawls in my lap, just the sweetest of girls. She perches herself on my knee, Her hair is a mass of adorable curls, And her years are a little past three. "Now make me a boat!" and my arms open wide. As safely their cargo to keep, And she closes her eyes as she snuggles inside, For a voyage way out on the deep.

"Now make me some waves!" and the unruffled sea Is broken with white-caps out there, And the boat bobs and dances, as light as can be, For the sea is the old rocking chair As it tilts forth and back, and the waves roll up high, And the white-caps grow foamier yet.

And, Oh, if the captain's keen old weather eye Should fail and the craft should upset!

"Now make me a storm!" and the wind starts to blow From my lips in a whistle grown shrill, You'd scarce think a boat could be danced about so, And the great waves roll up with a will, But there isn't a fear or the sign of a cry, Till the storm is quite over and through, And she says with the tiniest peep of her eye: "It's not any storm—it's just you!"

"Now make it be still!" and the sea is like glass, And the little boat moves scarce at all, And little lids flutter and little sighs pass, And down, down the little curls fall, Till laid on my shoulder—one moment she laughed, Then breath came so gently and deep, And the bold little captain of my willing craft Is snug in the harbor of sleep.

And now for the haven of pillow and bed, Where sheets are so downy and white, We'll turn down the top of the snowy-white spread And we'll anchor the craft for the night, We'll put her in care of the Captain of Dreams, For the happiest cruise that may be— Here's a kiss, little sailor, and merry moon-beams, And a safe journey home from the sea.

Town Topics

Remember Heroes—The eighth grade of the 61st street school of Los Angeles sent to the disabled veterans at Thornycroft individual Thanksgiving cakes.

Finds Bike—A bicycle recovered several weeks ago by Glendale police officers was this morning identified by Jack King, a Pasadena schoolboy, as his property.

Meet Friday—The literary section of the Tuesday afternoon club will meet Friday afternoon at a sewing bed at the home of Mrs. S. L. Hollingsworth, 462 West Riverdale drive.

Outdoor Camp—Sunday, December 4, the Glendale Presbyterian Dynamis club will have its first annual outdoor camp at Big Tujuanga, to which all young men of high school and college age are invited. The party will leave at 3 o'clock.

Reception—The Glendale W. C. T. U. will hold a reception for the new and jubilee members Friday at 2:30 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Eva Walter, 343 West Broadway. A good program has been arranged and they are anxious that all members who joined since 1919 attend.

Glendale Won—The Glendale Presbyterian Dynamis club lightweight basketball team played one of the fastest games of the season a few nights ago at Normal Hill, winning by three points. Both heavy and lightweight teams are in prime condition and are ready to meet any team in Glendale.

Welfare Association—Friday night, the East Glendale Welfare association will assemble for its adjourned meeting at the Broadway school to continue the consideration of the high school sites. Good speakers from outlying parts of the district will make talks, and an interesting session is promised.

Joins Chapter—Mrs. Arnil, State War Mother from Missouari, who is spending the winter in Glendale and living on West Elk street, has joined the Lester Meyer chapter in Glendale.

Card Club—The Milford Street Card club will meet at the home of Mrs. W. N. Rathbun of 319 Pioneer drive Friday afternoon.

Cerritos P. T. A.—The Cerritos Avenue Parent-Teacher association is meeting this afternoon at the school, the social hour being held from 2:30 to 3:30. After the business meeting at 3:30, a program will be given. Miss Wilhelmina Van de Goorberg is the speaker. Miss Van de Goorberg is associated with the Los Angeles Teachers' association.

Behymer Be Here—Mrs. Mattison B. Jones was delighted to receive word from Mr. Behymer, the Los Angeles musical and theatrical manager, that he will accompany Miss Alice Gentle to Glendale. But for Mr. Behymer's courtesy and generosity, this city would not have been able to secure Miss Gentle in advance of her Los Angeles engagements. Mrs. Jones will probably ask Mr. Behymer to present the artist to the audience.

Enjoy Lecture—A large audience gathered at the First Methodist church Wednesday evening to enjoy the lecture by Dr. G. Bromley Oxnam, who made a fine and sympathetic presentation of the labor question. He tried to make his hearers realize that only by a study of the labor situation from the viewpoint of the laboring man can we reach a fair outlook. His talk was suggestive and calculated to bring the laborer and consumer into closer relations.

Purely Personal

J. M. Lovell and son, David, made a trip to Bellflower Sunday.

Karl Gardner, Jr. of 211 East Palmer avenue, who has been sick the past week, is much better now.

Mrs. P. H. Blong of Lindsay, Calif., is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. D. Kenyon of 347 Ivy street, this week.

Mr. and Mrs. W. McCullam of Oregon are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Bales, of 323 North Jackson street.

Miss Guila Darling of South Everett street is working in the escrow department of the First Savings bank.

Mrs. Joseph Walsh of North Maryland avenue has been confined to her home the past few days with an attack of pleurisy.

Mrs. E. S. McKee of 130 West Chestnut street has been confined to her home for the past three weeks on account of illness.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Sauer and son, of Bartlesville, Okla. are now living in Glendale and making their home at 735 East Wilson avenue.

Mrs. Cecil Forges and small son, Martin, of North Dakota is visiting at the home of Mrs. H. Lennox, 323 North Maryland avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Sargent of 448 West California avenue will move the first of next week to their new home at 717 North Louise street.

Oscar Robinson of Sawtelle, of the firm of Robinson's Men's Shop, 116-A South Brand, is spending the day in Glendale at his place of business.

Eugene Wilson of North Carolina has come to Glendale to make his home and is living at 420 Oak street with a cousin. Mr. Wilson will probably locate in business here.

Miss Goldie Feldman of New York was the guest on Tuesday of Miss Annette Nussbaum of 416 West Lexington drive. Miss Feldman will make her home in Los Angeles.

Mrs. Hattie M. Johnston, who has been visiting her son in Colorado, has returned to her home with Mr. and Mrs. Henry Johnston, 111 North Everett street.

Mrs. W. R. Alexander of 1214 South Maryland avenue is entertaining in her home Mrs. Mary Quick, a former neighbor and friend from Illinois. Mrs. Quick now resides in Los Angeles.

Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Furst of 505 North Jackson street moved today to 903 South Central avenue, where they will live until their new home on the corner of Glendale avenue and Lexington drive is finished.

Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Shiffer of 520 North Isabel street are building a new garage at 809 East Elk avenue. The Shiffers came to Glendale last January from Jefferson, Ia., and expect to build a home in the near future.

D. B. Taylor and daughter, Miss May, from Boston, Mass., are guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Tolman, 461 West Windsor road. They will spend the winter here, and may decide to locate in California. Mr. Taylor is the father of Mrs. Tolman.

Perry Beauchamp, son of Mrs. Mary Beauchamp of 1210 South Glendale avenue, arrived in Glendale Monday night from Alva, Okla. Mr. Beauchamp is going to look for a home here and if he finds a suitable one he will go east in the spring to bring his family here.

Mr. and Mrs. David Black and daughter, Esther, of 1415 Kenneth road, returned today from a six weeks' trip through the East, having visited in Washington, D. C., and Chicago. They were in Washington, D. C., on Armistice Day and saw several of the foreign delegates to the peace conference.

Mr. and Mrs. George Schmidt and family, Mr. and Mrs. William Cameron Richardson, arrived in Glendale Tuesday afternoon from Seaside, Ore. They drove through in a seven-passenger Nash and will spend the winter in Los Angeles and Glendale. Mr. Richardson is a brother of Mrs. Henry Johnston of 111 North Everett street. They visited here four years ago and liked Glendale so well they decided to come again. Mrs. E. U. Emery and Mrs. A. L. Bryant are nieces of Mrs. Richardson.

CERRITOS SCHOOL MOURNS FOR BOY

There is mourning in Cerritos school, in which Loren Prescott, who died as the result of an auto accident Monday night, was a pupil. For the past two seasons he had been on the soccer team of the school. In every respect he was a fine lad and one of the most popular in the school. Pupils of the eighth grade in which he was enrolled, will attend funeral services at Forest Lawn in a body, and some of the girls in the grade will sing. They will be attended by their class teacher and the room mother, also by Mrs. Eustace B. Moore, who was room mother of the grade last year.

Tailor Here—Robinson's Men's Shop at 116A South Brand has completed arrangements with a high class tailor who will be at their establishment today, Friday and Saturday with a large new line of imported and domestic wools for suits and overcoats. These will be offered at reduced prices because of an overstock, which will enable buyers to make a big saving on the cost of a suit or overcoat.

E. S. Hutchinson and Mrs. Edwin Dodd. So many short-haired cats are available that the club is tentatively considering a summer show for cats of that kind alone.

CITY SCHOOLS TO HAVE TRACK MEET

classifications are made according to height. The juniors are boys under 4 feet 9 inches, the intermediates between 4 feet 9 inches and 5 feet 2 inches, and the seniors over 5 feet 2 inches.

Classification for girls will correspond with those made for the boys. Each school will be entitled to enter three contestants in each event. It is planned to have all contestants wear regulation track suits adorned with the insignia of the various schools. The meet will probably consume the afternoons of a full week.

The athletic leagues of the schools is planning to raise the money needed for banners and ribbons by a sale of some kind at the track meet. It was felt by all concerned that last year's track meet was very successful and this one is being planned on a much more ambitious scale.

This work will be carried along with the basketball season so as to end the season for basketball in the seventh and eighth grades by the end of January.

The track meet season for the fifth and sixth grades will end in time to usher in the track season for the seventh and eighth grades.

Following are the events outlined for track work:

FOR BOYS. Third and fourth, unlimited: 40 yard dash; broad jump standing; high jump.

Fifth and sixth, junior: 50-yard dash; 80-yard dash; broad jump, running; high jump; soccer kick distance; baseball distance throw.

Fifth and sixth seniors: 60-yard dash; 80-yard dash; broad jump, running; high jump.

Seventh and eighth juniors (4 feet 9 inches): 60-yard dash; 220-yard run; running broad jump; high jump; 4-man relay.

Fifth and sixth special: 75-yard dash; broad jump.

FOR GIRLS. Third and fourth, unlimited: 40 yard dash; volley ball serve for distance; fango hit, distance; 4-girl relay.

Fifth and sixth juniors: 40-yard dash; potato race; volley ball serve, accuracy; baseball throw, distance.

Fifth and sixth seniors: Baseball, distance; 50-yard dash; volley ball serve, accuracy; 4-girl relay.

Seventh and eighth juniors: 40-yard dash; 75-yard dash; volley ball serve; baseball, accuracy; 4-girl relay.

Seventh and eighth seniors: 50-yard dash; 80-yard dash; volley ball serve, accuracy; baseball for accuracy; 4-girl relay.

Fifth and sixth special: 50-yard dash; volley ball serve.

DOUBLE-CROSSED HELPFUL FRIENDS

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo., Nov. 30.—The joke is on the gang. Friends of William Regenhardt told "Bill" they'd buy the license and pay the preacher if he'd let them witness his marriage. Regenhardt agreed. The details were arranged. The license was purchased. "Well, boys," said Regenhardt when his friends came to carry out their part of the bargain, "the joke is on you. We were married last night. And he smiled at his wife.
