Close City's Plunge for Winter Season

"Swimmin' hole" days are over until next spring, according to an announcement made this morning by M. R. James, custodian of the city swimming pool. This announcement comes following a conference yesterday among Dr. Gerard Kaemmerling, city health officer, City Manager W. H. Reeves and Mr. James. Although the warm weather is over and the cool fall days predict the approach of winter, Glendadians haven't lost their enthusiasm for taking a dip and the result is numerous colds. Consequently, it has been decided that the pool will be closed until the spring, except in case of some special event when Mr. James will open it.

In the meantime the pool will be thoroughly scraped and cleaned and additions made for the next season.

White Shrine Enjoys 'Evening of Smiles'

An "evening of smiles" followed the regular meeting last night of Omar chapter of the White Shrine of Jerusalem held at Masonic Temple with Mrs. George Peirce acting as worthy high priestess in the absence of Mrs. Orma V. Naudain. During the business session plans were completed for a Halloween carnival, dance and card party for members of the White Shrine and their friends to be given at the temple Saturday night, October 28, with Mrs. James Wyvell as chairman in charge.

After the regular lodge session the chairs were arranged in a large semi-circle. Those present were then given slips of paper containing jokes and funny stories, which they were required to read aloud, many of them, however, substituting original stories.

A musical program was also given, including several splendid vocal selections by D. Ripley Jackson, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Nana Custer; readings by Mrs. Pearl Chambers, vocal selections by Mrs. Maude Smith, musical readings by Mrs. George Peirce, accompanied at the piano by Miss Lila Litch.

To the music of "Smiles" the members of the Shrine, and their friends who were invited to join in the fun, marched down to the banquet room where lunch was served. The tables were decorated with a profusion of dahlias and greenery.

Mrs. Margaret Pennant, assisted by Mrs. J. Jurgensen, had charge of the refreshments, and the program of Smiles was in charge of Mrs. Sarah Carroll.

Find New Evidence In Double Slaying

National Education Week Is Endorsed

National Education Week, December 3 to 9, was endorsed yesterday afternoon at a meeting in the office of the grammar school board of education by the principals of the city school system.

Supt. Richardson D. White has received a communication on this subject from John J. Tigert, commissioner of education of the department of the interior:

"The object of this week is to focus the attention of the entire nation upon education," he states, "and to make national sentiment for the improvement of our new schools and the furtherance of our educational aims."

"It seems wise that we should all co-operate in this movement because of its national aspect and because it has the active and earnest support of the American legion and many other national organizations."

"Every national organization has been invited to co-operate. This includes all men's clubs, women's clubs and organizations of every type regardless of their interests. The facilities of the motion picture houses are to be used. Every leading newspaper in the United States will be invited to co-operate and there will be many special educational issues for that week."

To make plans for the observance of this week in Glendale, the following committee has been appointed: Miss Ida M. Waite, principal of the Colorado school; Miss Carrie M. Noble, principal of the Wilson Avenue Intermediate school; Miss Elsa Breneman, supervisor of the music; A. T. Blanford, director of physical education; and Mrs. Luella M. Bullis of the Acacia school.

High School Teachers Make Banquet Plans

The High School Teachers' club will hold its monthly meeting tomorrow night at 637 East Broadway in the Broadway Inn.

Owing to the length of the high school day this term and the impossibility of having satisfactory afternoon meetings, a plan will be tried of having evening meetings.

A banquet will be served at 6:30 o'clock. A brief business meeting will be followed by a debate on the water power act. The affirmative will be supported by Attorney Ray C. Eberhard of the city attorney's office, Los Angeles. The negative will be taken by Miss Marie Brehm of Los Angeles, representative of People's Economy league.

LOCAL ATTORNEYS WILL FORM BAR ASSOCIATION

Meet Last Night and Make Preparations to Launch Organization Here

Preliminary steps were taken last night toward the organization of a bar association in Glendale. The meeting, held in the Central building, was attended by most of the attorneys of the city.

Bert P. Woodard was elected temporary chairman with W. Claire Anspaeh as secretary. All of the members of the new organization are practicing attorneys with offices in Glendale, it is announced.

A committee of constitution and by-laws was appointed as follows: Owen C. Emery, G. H. King and C. M. Frazier. The membership committee will consist of James F. McBryde, Eugene J. Wix and Bert P. Woodard.

Meet Again Wednesday
The organization committee will meet and make a report at a meeting next Wednesday night, and will also confer with members of the Los Angeles County Bar association in regard to the activities of the local organization.

Candidates up for election November 7 were briefly discussed, and among others support was pledged for the election of Judge Victor R. McLucas to the Superior court.

The object of the organization as outlined by Mr. Woodard this morning is to keep before the people of the city the fact that it is not necessary to go to Los Angeles for legal advice, and to properly shape the activities of members of the profession in this city.

Caustic Resolutions Smothered by Legion

NEW ORLEANS, La., Oct. 19.—Further condemnation of the policy pursued by Brigadier-General Sawyer, President Harding's personal physician, as head of the federal hospitalization board, was throtted this morning by the "conservative element" in the American Legion convention.

On the heels of the departure of Colonel C. R. Forbes, director of the federal veterans' bureau, the sudden cancellation of the address he was to make to the convention, fourteen different resolutions from as many different state delegations, all of which embodied caustic criticisms of Sawyer, were smothered at a stormy night session of the interstate hospitalization committee.

Continuation of attacks upon the administration were strongly opposed by the same group which was largely responsible for the "softening" of the criticisms of President Harding in the separate soldiers' bonus resolution adopted by the convention.

In discarding the fourteen anti-Sawyer resolutions the committee decided to present a report to the committee recommending settlement of the legion's controversy with Sawyer over the government's treatment of sick and disabled veterans on the terms Sawyer agreed to.

These terms were previously announced by Colonel A. A. Sprague, chairman of the past year of the national hospitalization board, as "satisfactory and harmonious" because they involved recognition by Sawyer of the legion's rehabilitation program.

Sawyer was declared to have "signed on the dotted line" an endorsement of this program and to have committed himself to full co-operation with the legion in national rehabilitation work.

It is disclosed that the committee decided to present a report to the committee recommending settlement of the legion's controversy with Sawyer over the government's treatment of sick and disabled veterans on the terms Sawyer agreed to.

SOARING TAXES WILL DEFEAT BONDS, CLAIM

Doubt that the Glendale Union High school bonds will carry tomorrow was expressed this morning at the city hall by Judge F. H. Love.

"There seems to be a prevailing sentiment in the community here against bond issues," he remarked. "It seems a shame that all of the things contemplated are highly essential. No one will deny the necessity for having adequate school facilities.

"The tax raise so horizontal that it has created a sort of panic in the minds of the voters. People who had made estimates based on last year's tax bill are suddenly confronted with double the amount with no provision to meet it."

REALY MEN HEAR OF ADVANCEMENT IN INDUSTRIES

Other Important Matters Are Discussed at Weekly Meeting of Board

The industrial growth of Southern California was told to members of the Glendale Realty Board at their meeting Wednesday noon. The speaker was Morris M. Rathbun, publicity manager of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce.

The real industrial program of Los Angeles and Southern California started in 1914, according to Mr. Rathbun. At that time a survey was made which disclosed the fact that California was turning out young men and women from its colleges that found it necessary to go to other parts of the country to take up their life work.

At that time, although ranking tenth in population, the City of Los Angeles was said to rank twenty-sixth in the matter of industries.

Today the city, with the cities nearby, is declared to be instances of industrial growth of cities besides Los Angeles were cited. Cities mentioned included Pasadena, Glendale and Van Nuys.

Have Industrial Committee
At the conclusion of Mr. Rathbun's talk, President C. D. Thom stated that the Glendale Realty Board also has an industrial committee, which is working for the good of the city.

Plans were also made at the meeting for the welcoming of real estate men of the state who will attend a meeting at Santa Ana on December 6, 7, 8 and 9. A committee is to be appointed in the near future to work out a plan of welcome. As most of the members will motor to the meeting, it is planned to welcome them as they motor into the vicinity on the San Fernando road.

The annual meeting of the local board is to be held on November 3. It was announced a meeting is also to be held on next Tuesday night at 7 o'clock.

John R. Powers and C. T. Tryon, who are starting a new subdivision in Scholl canyon, were present at yesterday's meeting, and spoke of the proposed improvement in that section.

The soldiers were nearby awaiting another street car. An officer, realizing the seriousness of the situation ordered them into action and held Buckley prisoner until police arrived. Buckley is charged with manslaughter.

L. A. MAN DENIES 'KING OF DIVINE HEALERS' DEAD

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 19.—Local authorities were busy today checking up on the story told by a local man who claims he is the original Francis Schlatter, "divine healer," who is reported dead in St. Louis. The local man who says he is the only "king of divine healers," is said to have been convicted here in 1917 of using the mails to defraud and was sentenced to eighteen months in prison at McNeil's island. The Francis Schlatter of Los Angeles says it is a case of dual identity and is reported to have expressed some doubts as to the authenticity of the St. Louis case. He also denied that he had a wife, and added he was not dead as reported, but in poor circumstances.

SEEK INSIDE STORY OF HOW HERB WILSON ESCAPED

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 19.—Herb Wilson, "millionaire bandit" and slayer, was grilled at the district attorney's office today by officials who sought to get from him the "inside story" of his escape from the county jail with Guido Spingola, alias "the mouse," gangster and payroll bandit, and Adam Ward, murderer. Handcuffed to two deputy sheriffs, Wilson was taken from his solitary cell at the jail to be questioned by Chief Deputy District Attorney Asa Keyes and Under Sheriff Biscailuz. As he left the jail for the district attorney's office he assumed his "pious preacher" pose, affecting the mannerisms that characterized him when he was a minister. Intimations by Wilson that he might reveal the "inside story" of the jail break encouraged Keyes and Biscailuz when they began interrogating him. Wilson was said to have resented an opprobrious epithet hurled at him by Elmer Condon, jail guard, suspended because of the jail break.

LLOYD GEORGE AND COALITION GOVERNMENT QUIT

LONDON, Oct. 19.—The last of the great war statesmen went into eclipse today when Premier David Lloyd George of England resigned, together with the rest of the coalition government. Lloyd George had been in power six years lacking a few weeks. He succeeded Herbert Asquith in December, 1916, when the great war was raging. The premier presented his own resignation and that of the other members of the cabinet to King George this evening. After buffeting the grave crisis of the great war and the troublesome "peace" era which followed, and passing through the storms and strife of Ireland, the ministry succumbed at last to its enemies in the unionist, or conservative party. It fell under the blows of Tories supported by labor. Political events moved with dramatic rapidity today. The Tory members of parliament, under leadership of the "die hards," met at the Carlton club and voted in favor of an immediate general election to create a new government and a new house of commons. All the eloquence of Austen Chamberlain, the old government spokesman in command, and Earl Balfour, former premier and former foreign secretary, could not stem the tide of hostility against the little Welsh statesman, whose wizardry and magnetism had pulled him through many a hard fought political battle. After the Tory conference today the cabinet hastily met at 10 Downing street, where about half a dozen under secretaries and ministers—all members of the unionist party—handed in their resignations. It was evident that the government had begun to crumble and was going fast. The general resignation was drawn up and signed and shortly thereafter Lloyd George started to hold a historic interview with King George. Word was conveyed to Andrew Bonar Law, former chancellor of the exchequer, to hold himself in readiness to be summoned to the palace. This indicated that Mr. Law was to be Lloyd George's successor. In the meantime it was announced from semi-official circles that Sir Robert Horne, chancellor of the exchequer; Earl Balfour and Austen Chamberlain—all unionists—had retired from their government posts. Lloyd George plans a long rest and will do considerable writing. He has long wished to visit the United States and may do so later on. Lloyd George's career has been similar to that of many self-made American statesmen. He was a poor boy and had a hard struggle to get an education. He studied law and entered politics. He was one of the most eloquent premiers that ever addressed the public, and in pleading the cause of compromise in disputes, he has no peers.

C. OF C. PLANS ON DRIVE FOR MANY NEW MEMBERS

Aim Is for 500 Boosters to Join Organization and Help Eagle Rock

At the joint meeting of the publicity committees from the Eagle Rock Realty Board and Chamber of Commerce Tuesday night, in addition to plans for the booklet to advertise the attractions of Eagle Rock as a place to live, as reported in The News yesterday, a concentrated drive for new members to the Chamber of Commerce was launched when the following resolution was made by H. G. Warren, seconded by J. B. Brown and passed by the members of the committee.

"Since it is imperative that we increase the membership of the Chamber of Commerce, we recommend that we give our moral support to the tentative chairman of the membership committee to go ahead and procure applications from new members immediately, and to report progress at the next open meeting."

George Van Sands is chairman of the membership committee and the following were named on the committee: M. T. Hancock, Milton H. Berry, Jr.; W. R. Johnson, L. B. Wilson, George C. Jewett, J. H. Harper and E. C. Jones.

Will Divide City

The chairman announces that immediate steps will be taken to increase the membership at least 500. "We are to divide the city into sections, and we are going to put this over on the order of a Liberty Loan campaign. Everyone in the city will be urged to join," he states.

"If a little enterprising community like Montrose, which already has 100 members to its Chamber of Commerce, can do it, there is no question but what Eagle Rock should get ten times that many," declared H. G. Warren.

"There couldn't have possibly been a better committee chosen for the work, and I feel absolutely confident they will put the membership drive over big," declared J. B. Brown, president of the realty board.

"Meets with my hearty approval," states O. J. Root, president of the Chamber of Commerce, when advised of the action taken by the committee Tuesday night.

Asserts Jugo-Slavs Help to World Peace

If the Jugo-Slavs are not worried over a Turkish menace in Europe, the rest of the world need not be, according to Lupton A. Wilkinson, author and publicist, who has just returned from the Balkans.

"When the Serbs were weak and divided," Mr. Wilkinson said, "they were slaves to the Turks for centuries. Now they are the most solid and powerful influence for peace in southeastern Europe. The Jugo-Slavs' forbearance with Italy in the Fiume dispute and their quiescence now shows their peaceful intent. But, if necessity arose, they could drive the Turks out of Europe single-handed. They are the best bet in the Balkans."

BUILDING PERMITS STILL CLIMBING IN EAGLE ROCK

Month of October Will Set New Record at Present Rate of Activity

With almost half of October yet to go, the building permits in Eagle Rock passed the $75,000 mark yesterday when ten building permits were issued.

CHURCH MEETING WELL ATTENDED

Brain, Mind, Personality, Subject of Lecture by Rev. E. Morgan Isaacs

"The largest attendance we have ever had," says Rev. E. Morgan Isaacs, in referring to the gathering last night at the Congregational church in Eagle Rock, to hear a lecture on "Brain, Mind and Personality."

Rev. Isaacs is the author of "The Golden Key to Success," a most attractive and every day philosophy.

"These were the night meetings are in the nature of church meetings," declares Rev. Isaacs. "They are for everybody, with subjects such as psychology, modern philosophy, and other problems confronting us today."

Foresters of Eagle Rock Meet Tonight

The Eagle Rock Court of the Foresters of America will hold an important meeting tonight at 7:30 in the Masonic hall.

It is understood that the matter of the raffling of the beautiful pastel painting that occurred at the last social event held in the lodge rooms at which time a number of tickets were sold for the picture will come up for attention of the officers, and that an award of the painting will be made.

There are also several other important matters to be brought before the court, and all members are urged to attend, states Ray Rees, financial secretary.

Seek Location for Big Electric Sign

Milton H. Berry, Jr., who is on the committee in charge of the big electric sign that is to be placed on the hillside at the head of Eddy avenue, Eagle Rock, was up on the hill yesterday afternoon seeking a suitable location for the big sign that will spell "Eagle Rock."

A number of citizens stood on Colorado boulevard and watched Berry climb the hill, and as he today as being the author of such wholesome, modern and every day philosophy.

Berry himself appeared about the size of the head of a pin at that distance, and a number of curious onlookers were heard to express that the letters on the sign would have to be at least twenty-five feet tall to be seen at that distance.

Berry maintains they are all wrong and that the sign will be readily read from the business district of the city, and backs up his statement by drawing attention to the fact that when he was on the hill he could easily read a much smaller sign that is located almost opposite Bird Rock, a distance much further away.

Improved Parachute Brings Grief to Boy

URBANA, Ohio.—Strapping an ordinary umbrella to his body, 12-year-old Ralph Ammon leaped off the top of a twenty-five foot building here.

Hitting the ground with a heavy thud, the child lay in a heap with the wrecked improvised parachute on top of him.

He was carried to the home of his mother, Mrs. Frank Ammon, North Russel street, where it was found that, apparently, his only injury consisted of a temporary loss of speech, due to his breath being knocked out of him.

Warrant Is Issued On Driving Charge

A warrant for the arrest of Richard P. Sims, manager of the Pasadena theatre in Pasadena, charging reckless driving, was issued this morning by Judge Harold Ide Cruzan of Eagle Rock.

The complaint is sworn to by J. H. Harper, an Eagle Rock real estate man with offices at 1100 East Colorado boulevard, who charges that as he and his wife were driving in their sedan at the intersection of Colorado boulevard and Satsuma avenue about 6:30 last evening, their machine was struck by a big automobile being driven west on Colorado boulevard by Sims.

Mr. Harper also charges that just a few seconds before his car was struck by the Sims machine, a car being driven by F. E. Wilkenson, of 421 Pacific Finance Building, Los Angeles, was also struck by Sims.

Two wheels on the Harper sedan were broken and other damage resulted from the collision, it is claimed.

After Harper had made the complaint, the judge issued the warrant and instructed Claude Bramble, city marshal, to immediately make the arrest.

LONDON—Nervous passengers on the London subways are a nuisance, company officials agree. SAY NEW THEATRE READY IN WEEK AT EAGLE ROCK

Report Slight Delay for Opening Movie Palace; Few Details Yet

It will be another week before the new United theatre in Eagle Rock will open, states E. A. Hanger, one of the officials.

Mr. Hanger gives assurance, however, that the new theatre will positively be thrown open to the public by the end of next week.

The carpets were laid yesterday, and all the draperies have been installed, and today the lighting fixtures are being put in.

The projection room is completed and equipment installed. The electricians have just completed the installation of an inter-communicating telephone system that connects the several departments throughout the theatre.

"There are so many little details, nothing big in itself, but taken together it means considerable time, and we want to be assured that each and every detail, no matter how minor a nature is absolutely correct and in perfect working order before we throw open the doors, and it's these details that take the time," declares Mr. Hanger.

The Whittier school, with 283 inmates, spent $254,734.89, a monthly per capita cost of $72.07.

Southland Lowest

The lowest in per capita cost of all the institutions is the Southern California state hospital. The hospital has 2442 inmates. Its total expenditure for the past year was $575,750.61, a monthly per capita cost of $19.75. The per capita cost at Napa and Stockton is slightly higher.

Bulgarian Frontier Is Closed to Greeks

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 19.—The Bulgarian frontier was closed today to prevent panic-stricken hordes of Greek Christian refugees from swarming into that country from Thrace.

Nearly half a million Greek and Armenian fugitives have taken refuge in Macedonia. All are without food, clothing, shelter or funds. They are dependent upon the bounty of the Greek government and outside charity.

A quarter of a million refugees are still to be deported from Eastern Thrace. They are being rounded up and "herded" by Greek cavalry. The scenes remind one of a cattle round-up in Texas or some other American western state.

Owing to the cold weather and the shortage of railway cars and steamships the work of evacuation of the Christians is proceeding more slowly than the allies wish. Some of the concentration camps have been turned into mud holes by the rain and the brilliant clothing of the Thracian peasants is being stained to a muddy brown.

The flight of the Greeks from their farms in Eastern Thrace presents a tragic picture. For twenty miles the fugitives are spread over the countryside. The roads are cluttered with carts drawn by bullocks, donkeys and horses. Even cows have been utilized to assist in carrying off what household effects could be saved.

The roads have been turned into gutta serena by the rain which has been falling continuously for three days and three nights. The mud is being churned into swamps by the thousands of feet plodding over it.

Tame Tiger Cat Is Reported Poisoned

DENVER.—"Tigre Gatico," the "tame tiger cat" from Colombia, South America, that recently created a sensation in one of New York's leading hotels, is dead here, from mysterious ailment. She is believed by her mistress to have been poisoned maliciously.

Gatico, according to Miss Eulah Harlan, in whose home the tiger cat was a household pet, became suddenly and mysteriously ill following a playful romp with a neighbor Angora cat during which the latter was fatally injured.

According to Miss Harlan, however, Gatico was a most amiable and gentle creature, and played much after the manner of the ordinary variety of cat. Although Gatico was a little more rugged in her romps, she was never malicious, Miss Harlan said.

Gatico was captured by James B. Ballinger in the jungles of the Magdalena river, in South America, and brought to the United States with a view of training her for motion picture work. She was half tiger and half leopard, and measured four feet from the tip of her nose to the tip of her tail. She weighed thirty pounds.

Murder Committed for $37.50, Is Claim

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 19.—District Attorney Franklin Swart left here today for Seattle with requisition papers for Peter J. McHale, under arrest there in connection with the killing recently at Daly City of Karl Ersetke, a Southern Pacific machinist. Three are under arrest in San Mateo county and Swart is said to have the confession of one that the killing was plotted by two "higher ups" who paid $37.50 for the "job." The murder was an outgrowth of railroad labor trouble, according to the confession.

To the Voters of Glendale Union High School District:

—At tomorrow's election we are offering you an opportunity to secure a High School Site in the Northwest Section that is worthy of the Glendale Union High School District; at a price $1500.00 per acre less than is asked for the Gardner site, located just across the boulevard.

—The property which we offer is located on Glenwood Road, at the Northeast end of the PELANCONI ranch, and consists of 20 acres, having a frontage of 1000 feet on Glenwood Road, a paved boulevard. The location is ideal, being close to the Glendale-Burbank car line and near the center of the Northwest District.

—The PELANCONI site, as everyone knows, lies high, dry and sightly, and is far out of the menace of storm floods. You realize that a site for a school building should be selected with a view to permanency—one that will not in the future be subjected to the hazards of the elements nor hemmed in by industrial plants.

—The voters will undoubtedly choose between the two desirable sites—the GARDNER site of 20 acres at $90,000, and the PELANCONI site of 20 acres at $60,000. These two sites are of equal merit—neither one better than the other—except that by voting for the PELANCONI site you SAVE the district $30,000. Which do you want?

—Do not make the mistake of selecting a site for your future High School that is menaced by flood waters, nor one that is a prohibitive distance from the car line—therefore, VOTE for either the Gardner site or the PELANCONI site, bearing in mind that the PELANCONI site is costing you $30,000 LESS than the Gardner site, just across the street.

Vote for the Pelanconi Site and You Will Make No Mistake

GOOD START FOR FROSH OF U. S. C.

Members of Squad Show Class With Every Man Said to Be Real Star

That this year's University of Southern California freshman football team is as good as any Peagreen squad ever to represent the Cardinal and Gold temple of learning was evidenced last Saturday on Bovard field when several thousand fans saw the frosh defeat Jimmy Smith's Loyola college eleven in the preliminary to the U. S. C.-Arizona conflict. Man for man the team is but a few pounds lighter than the varsity, the line averaging around 180 pounds.

In Johnny Loustalot, phenomenal quarterback of last year's championship Bakersfield eleven, U. S. C. has obtained the services of a signal barker who will take a back seat to nobody in the state for all-around ability. Besides handling his team in an irreproachable manner, this 160-pound bundle of nerve and muscle tissue is far above the average in any method of advancing the oval—whether it be bucking the line, end runs, off-tackle advances, throwing and receiving passes or running interference. Chet Dolley, present varsity quarter, will have a man's sized job on his hands to hold on to his position next fall.

Dorsey, the husky right end, who was formerly the outstanding star of Hollywood high, is also scheduled for a berth on the first squad next year. The line-up of the frosh, all of whom are stars, is as follows: Ends, Dorsey and Stark; tackles, Thompson and Earle; guards, Rlee and Hicks; center, Smutz; quarter, Loustalot; halves, Scott and Nason; full, Torkelson.

Refuse to Play
A considerable amount of comment has been going the rounds during the past week regarding the announcement that Cort Majors and "Fat" Latham, former captains of the two greatest football creations which the University of California has ever produced, and who are now playing with the Olympic team of San Francisco, will not appear in the clubmen's lineup against the Bears in Saturday's game.

Both have refused to face their former team-mates on the grounds that practically all of California's tricks and methods are thoroughly known to them and that there would be little or no sportsmanship in a contest of that sort. The "flow down" on the proposition probably lies in the fact that both Majors and Latham re-

Explains Refusal of Jack Curley's Offer

PARIS, Oct. 19. — Francois Descamps explained today when interviewed by International News Service that his refusal of Jack Curley's offer of $75,000 for Georges Carpentier to meet Harry Greb in America was merely a postponement of the match. He declared that Georges meant to recover his title in a return bout with Siki and then go to America.

Wife of Babe Ruth Hurt In Auto Crash

NEW YORK, Oct. 19. — Mrs. Helen Ruth, wife of Babe Ruth, suffered abrasions of the left hand early today when her husband's automobile skidded near the New Haven railroad bridge and crashed into a tree. She was attended by her doctor and concussed her journey in the car which was only slightly damaged.

alize that there is a chance of a California defeat if they are in the opposing line, while if weaker men are in their places Andy Smith will be at ease to hold his men down in preparation for the following week's game with the University of Southern California.

This year's Olympic team is probably the strongest that has ever been put on the field and the game with California promises to be a scrap, in spite of Latham and Majors. The San Franciscans' recent 27 to 9 victory over Stanford shows that they are not to be underestimated.

Upset of Dope
From the recent outlook in Southern California college conference circles it is evident that the 1922 gridiron championship laurels will go to one of the two former weakest squads in the circuit—Caltek or the Southern Branch of U. C.

Rated as under dogs as late as last Saturday these two squads "snapped out of it" and opened their respective seasons with victories against five to one odds. The Engineer's triumph over Whittier, last year's conference champs, was the bigger upset of the two. "Fox" Stanton's line surprised themselves when they outdid themselves in stopping "Big Ed" Suggett, often referred to as one of the best backfield men in the west.

Harry Trotter's Cubs turned the Redlands affair into a walk-off game when the Bulldogs were turned back to the tune of 35 to 0. It was the first time in the history of the institution that the "Junior Bears" won a conference football contest and was, therefore, a notable occasion for the school's followers. Jack Frost, diminutive backfield flash, is the outstanding star of the squad.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19. — Harvard men here were laying 3 to 2 against Centre college as the outfit from the Kentucky hills passed through here early today, en route for Boston, and the third clash between the mastiff and the terrier of collegiate football. There is an old saying that you can always tell a Harvard man, but you cannot tell him much.

This time, however, he seems to have the right of it. Centre caught the Crimson off balance last year and pulled out a six to nothing victory, but no team figures to beat Harvard twice in successive years in the Cambridge stadium.

Within the kindly influences of its own field, Harvard is the hardest team in the country to beat. You may outplay, out-guess and outrush her, but you will never outgame her. With two minutes to play in the Centre game last year, Harvard carried the ball to the four-yard line on a forward pass only to have the play recalled because a Harvard man, not at all connected with the play, was off side.

Barring that penalty, Harvard would have crossed the goal line. And a Harvard man would have kicked the winning goal where Centre failed. The Crimson never falls in a pinch. Much is said about the Haughton system, but you can describe it in one line, to-wit: Harvard never overlooks a bet.

That is why odds are being offered at the Harvard club today and Charley Moran declined to be interviewed about the game even to the extent of explaining why Centre was so hard pressed to dispose of Virginia Poly, 10 to 6, a week ago.

Is there a charm attached to the knowledge of a boxer that he is opposing a world champion? There are many hundreds of instances where the champion has had an easy time winning his match even against men who were accredited as able to give the champion a real fight, and whose records have easily shown that the "underdog" was a worthy opponent for the champion. The poor showing made in such instances is many times unexplainable, but there seems little doubt that in many cases the "underdog" is beaten before he starts, simply due to the knowledge that he is going against a world champion.

Only there are exceptions. All champions eventually give way to someone else. The latest instance of this is the victory of Battling Siki, who was the short end of 10 to 1 and 7 to 1 in the betting —against Carpentier. The usual dread of the title champion had little or no fear for the colored man from Senegal.

There are, however, more examples opposite to the Siki one. A couple of years ago Jimmie Wilde of England was called on to defend his world title against the flyweight Mickie Russel.

LOCALS TO MEET GOVINA PLAYERS

Glendale Football Team Will Have Hard Game With Lemon Growers

With the opening of the Central league race tomorrow afternoon, Coach Hayhurst's varsity meets the strong Covina team, which dopsters claim is one of the strongest bunch of beef in the league.

Whittier high, which has defeated some of the strongest teams in the "minor" leagues of Southern California, met defeat at the hands of the Covina Lemons, which means an extra hard argument to be settled there tomorrow.

With Captain Stoff, Ryan, "Bullet" Butts, and the little Japanese marvel, Horii Masaru in the backfield, the locals should have but little trouble in skirting the flanks, and breaking through the line for long gains. Butts and Horii do most of the open field work, while Ryan and Stoff hit the line "like a shot."

The loss of Russell Eiffer, who starred on last year's outfit, at right tackle, will greatly cripple the team. He was declared ineligible by the C. I. F. His place will probably be taken by Angelo Brucker.

This year finds Ronnie West, star backfield man of last year, holding down the position of right end. He is proving to be one of the fastest and cleverest men ever seen in this position on the local team.

On the other end there are three men who are all in about the same class. They are Thayer, Lavelle and Ross. Lavelle seems to have a slight edge on his rivals, and will probably start. "Dicky" Kelsey, regular lightweight end, who was unable to play in Tuesday's game due to two pounds of excess beef, will probably be given a chance at this much sought for position.

Whitely Hawkes of the Central Athletic club gained a hair line decision over Ted Southland of the Columbia Athletic club in one of the best bouts of the evening. The boys were well matched and fought even for the first three rounds, but Hawkes opened up in the fourth and won the decision by a burst of speed and hitting which had his opponent dazed. The verdict was popular with the crowd.

Price and Watson Battle Is Draw; Eyrand-Sellis Offer Best Bout

Jack Price of the Columbia club, and Chick Watson of Glendale fought a four-round draw at the weekly boxing show given by the Modern Woodmen of America at Yeoman hall last night. Both boys were very fast on their feet and displayed a great deal of science, but were very cautious and did not seem anxious to swap punches. The decision was well received by the crowd.

The best bout of the evening was between Joe Eyrand of Glendale and Kid Sellis of Columbia Athletic club. These boys weigh 115 pounds and fought every inch of the way. At the tap of the bell they came to the center of the ring and swapped punches, with the local boy having the best of the exchange. The second round was even, each scoring a knockdown, and again trading punches for punch. The third round opened with Eyrand landing two left hooks flush to the jaw, which dazed Kid Sellis. A volley of lefts finished him and he went down for the count. This was easily the best bout of the card and had the crowd on its feet during the whole four rounds.

Scores Knockout
Kid Nelson of Los Angeles carried too many guns for Chick West in the semi-windup and scored a knockout over the game lightweight in the third round. Both boys fought hard and each scored a knockdown in the first round. In the second the superior weight and speed of Kid Nelson began to show and he floored West three times with the right hooks to the jaw. The third round opened with Chick tired and groggy and it was an easy matter for Nelson to put him away for the count of ten.

Whitely Hawkes of the Central Athletic club gained a hair line decision over Ted Southland of the Columbia Athletic club in one of the best bouts of the evening. The boys were well matched and fought even for the first three rounds, but Hawkes opened up in the fourth and won the decision by a burst of speed and hitting which had his opponent dazed. "We would have more swimmers in the championship class, if those who take up this form of athletic sport would concentrate their attention to getting the crawl stroke with their arms." This is the opinion of Sid Cavill, swimming instructor at the Olympic club of San Francisco, and one of the famous Cavill brothers of Australia, who invented and perfected the crawl stroke. Athletes who have ambitions to star in the water will be interested to read what Cavill has to say further in this connection. He said:

"We have gotten away from the old idea that there is any particular value to the kick as a forward propelling force. The idea of the push from behind has been entirely supplanted by the pull from in front.

"If you will note the actions of such swimmers as Weismuller, Ross, Langer and Kahanamoku you will observe the tremendous power they get out of their arms and shoulders. The legs are kept perfectly straight and the slight upward and downward movement of the feet act more as a stabilizer for the body than anything else. The slight foot kick keeps the body up parallel with the surface of the water, and does but little more.

"There is no need of any particular stress being placed on the action of the legs and feet other than to keep them straight. The waterman gradually will find that they will look after themselves without giving them any thought. The swimmer should concentrate all his thoughts on the action of his arms.

"There also is a general tendency to continue the arm stroke through too far. As soon as the arms are brought down to a position perpendicular to the body, the stroke should end, and the recovery begun for the next stroke. Carrying the stroke along further than the perpendicular merely means that the swimmer is bringing his arm upward toward the surface, which has a tendency to pull the body down into the water, and is in no way contributing to the forward movement.

"The fact that the feet cut comparatively little figure in speed swimming has been proved beyond

LONDON, Oct. 19.—Immediate resignation of all the Tory members of the government is anticipated as a result of the action of the Tory members of Parliament today voting in favor of a general election at once. HARDING NOT TO BLAME
WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—Official denial was made at the White House today that President Harding was in any way responsible for Colonel Charles R. Forbes abruptly leaving the American Legion convention at New Orleans and returning to Washington. Considering the annoyances of life, a patient man or woman is entitled to a great deal of credit.

Woman's Page

A PERVERSIVE PERSON

"She has such a pervasive personality."

So a friend of mine describes a woman who is not a friend of his.

It is an excellent description. She is a very kind-hearted woman, a capable woman, a generous woman. She has a very cheerful, courageous disposition. And yet, in spite of all these virtues she is a very tiresome person to have around. Why? Well, that one word of his explains it all. She is absolutely and always pervasive.

She Always Dominates

If she is in the house with you, you can seldom be unconscious of the fact for five minutes. She talks a great deal and in a loud voice. She takes a kindly but sometimes intrusive interest in your affairs. She loves to help you—sometimes when you don't really want to be helped. She is so full of energy that she is always doing something. Even when she rests she seems to make her presence felt. In any group, around the table, or about the fire, or on the porch, she is always the dominant figure in the conversation.

I like that woman but I like her best when I don't have to see too much of her.

Isn't that the effect pervasive personalities generally have on us?

How To Avoid Being One

I wonder if it is possible to recognize in oneself a tendency like that and to control it. Doubtless one could not altogether change oneself, but to a certain extent one could surely modulate such a tendency if one were aware of it.

How? Well, listen to your voice and make sure it is not too loud and too frequently heard. After this woman had gone out of a house where this man who does not like her was staying, I heard him quote from Dr. Holmes' poem on the organ grinder: "Silence like a politician comes to heal the blows of sound." Cruel, perhaps, but no one in the group she had left could help feeling the appropriateness of it.

Avoid a loud, tiresome laugh.

What Serenity Means

Don't always be trying to get the center of the stage. The pervasive person is often generous but at the same time selfish with that form of selfishness that always wants the center of the stage.

Try to sense the meaning and the beauty of such words as reticence, reserve, serenity, poise and the qualities that stand behind them.

Bryn Mawr College Bars Girl for Theft; She Brings Court Action, Asking $10,000

PHILADELPHIA — Suit for $50,000 damages is being pressed against Bryn Mawr College trustees and Dr. M. Carey Thomas, former president, by Marjorie Barker, of Michigan City, Ind., who was expelled from the college April 2, 1921, after she had been accused of petty thefts in the dormitories.

Miss Barker, who is 20 years old, sought vindication at the hands of the college authorities immediately after her suspension and claims she was given no opportunity to clear herself of the charges brought against her. She then brought action in the Montgomery County Courts at Norristown, Pennsylvania, to compel Bryn Mawr authorities to reinstate her, but the Court ruled it had "no jurisdiction" over a privately endowed institution such as Bryn Mawr and was forced to recognize the right of the college to drop a student any time, without explanation.

In the opinion rendered by Judges Swartz and Miller there was a strong intimation that while the Court could not force reinstatement of Miss Barker she had grounds for a damage suit against her. She then brought Miss Barker was expelled from the college because of charge that she took small articles belonging to other girls. She has filed suit for damages against the school.

- Codfish Balls—Wash one cup of salt codfish in cold water, and pick into small pieces. Wash, pare and cut four medium sized potatoes in one-quarter inch slices. Put codfish and potatoes in saucepan and cover with boiling water, cook until soft. Drain off every drop of water, return to saucepan, mash; add one tablespoon butter, one egg well beaten, and one-eighth teaspoon pepper. Beat with a fork for two minutes. Drop by spoonful into hot fat; drain. If preferred, the balls may be saute'd in hot butter (sauteing is cooking in dry fat—browning on one side and then turning and browning the other side).
- Welsh Rabbit—Mix one-half pound of American cheese, grated, one-fourth teaspoon dry mustard, one-half teaspoon salt, a few grains of cayenne, one-eighth teaspoon soda and one-half cup sweet milk; cook in double boiler until cheese is melted; pour this in two slightly beaten eggs, add one tablespoon butter and continue cooking in double boiler, stirring constantly, until mixture is thick and smooth. Pour over slices of hot toast or crisp crackers and serve at once.
- Broiled Fish—Clean and wipe fish as dry as possible, sprinkle with salt and pepper, and place on a well-greased broiler or baking sheet. Whole fish should be broiled first on the flesh side, then turned and broiled on skin side long enough to brown and crisp skin. Slices of fish should be turned often during broiling. Remove to hot serving platter, pour over drawn butter sauce, and garnish with parsley and lemon.

Drawn Butter Sauce—Melt two and one-half tablespoons butter, add two and one-half tablespoons flour mixed with one-half teaspoon salt and a few grains of paprika and pour on, gradually, one and one-half cups hot water. Bring to boiling point and let boil three minutes; then add another two and one-half tablespoons butter in small pieces.

Potatoes a la Goldenrod—Separate the yolks from the whites of four hard-boiled eggs. Chop the whites and force the yolks through a strainer. Add two cups of cold boiled and diced potatoes and chopped whites to one and one-half cups of white sauce, let stand ten minutes to thoroughly heat potatoes; turn into a hot serving dish, sprinkle with yolks and garnish with parsley.

Almond Pudding—Cream four tablespoons butter, add one-third cup sugar, gradually, one-half cup molasses and two well-beaten eggs. Mix and sift one and one-half cups flour, one-half teaspoon soda, one-fourth teaspoon cinnamon, one-fourth teaspoon salt and add alternately with one-half cup milk to first mixture; then add three-fourths cup almonds blanched, roasted and finely chopped. Turn into a buttered mold and steam two and one-half hours, never allowing the water to go below the boiling point. (If steamed in the fireless cooker cook three and one-half hours or longer). Serve with whipped cream, or any preferred pudding sauce.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS

My Dear Followers: When seeking for materials which will offer you, please remember to enclose a stamped envelope bearing your full name and address. The pamphlet on reducing and gaining is the only one for which you must enclose four cents in stamps extra. Address your letters to more in care of this paper and please remember that, on account of the hundreds of letters received in every mail, I cannot make personal replies. I appreciate very much the beautiful personal letters you send me and regret it is impossible to give you individual advice. The questions you ask will be answered in the column as soon as possible, if they are of general interest; for the rest you must consult your personal physicians.

I. M. W.—I am glad to know that you have lost 22 pounds in two months. That's a little bit too rapid for continuous reduction, I believe. Although I have had letters from many of our followers stating that they have reduced as rapidly as you have without any symptoms of discomfort at all.

But your complaint now is that though you are still on the same diet you are not reducing and you are unhappy about it. This is common. In fact, it is the usual result of a reduction even less food is needed for a further reduction. This is because you are not feeding and keeping up the nourishment on the fat that you have lost. You will either have to go on a low calorie, 500 or 600 C. day once a week, or else cut down your daily consumption of calories.

It is only when one gets down to normal that the diet can be increased to any degree without causing a gain. On points of excess fat seems to act as leaven to manufacture of more fat. I don't know how else to think of it.

A muskmelon 4 1/2 inches is approximately 100 C's.

Mrs. V. T.—The number of calories needed for a baby of 21 months depends upon the size and weight of the baby. In general, the child of two years needs approximately 1000-2000 calories a day, depending upon its activities, its size and its weight.

Reader—Thank you for the suggestion that whole wheat grain is good for constipation.

N. P.—So you think you have watched and suffered with our huge sisters reducing long enough and that I ought to pay a little attention to small women who are slightly overweight, say ten pounds or so. My dear, that is easy. Go on three low-calorie days and your troubles are over—if you watch your weight, afterwards. For your pudgy hips behind, do the floor stunts that I gave you last week and the kicking exercises and the brisk walking and rope skipping. Write me again.

Mrs. M.—Your bust will develop if you increase your weight and develop your chest muscles by exercise. I know of no other method. You never heard of fat women complaining of undeveloped busts. Usually the reverse.

L. R.—Your ankles probably look too thin because you are so much overweight. Doesn't this give you an indication of what you should do?

L. S.—Yes, a milk diet is wonderful for a reducing diet or a gaining diet, either. All depending upon the number of calories you take a day. A glass of milk is 160 calories. To lose, take under your maintenance diet. To gain, take over.

Mrs. D. S.—You are too ambitious! Six pounds in two weeks is a better reduction than six pounds in a week. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope and four cents in stamps for our instructions, if you are interested.

HOME MADE WATER WAVES

The woman who has had her hair permanently waved will be told that every time it is shampooed afterward she should have what is called a water wave. These cost two to three times the price of an ordinary shampoo, and as they are almost too difficult to do by oneself, the woman will probably decide the upkeep on permanently waved hair is so great that, considered in with its initial expense, she cannot afford to repeat her first experiment.

It is possible to give yourself a water wave at home, though it is not particularly easy, and you may not succeed as well as a professional. If you happen to be one of those fortunate beings who possess a drying machine at home it is much easier, although sitting in front of a hot stove or fire or outdoors in the hot sun will do very well.

Shampoo your hair as usual, taking the usual care to rinse around the head and wring out the hair in it. Do not dry further with the towel but pat it as you do when you dress it, or comb it back from the face. Next take a comb and form the hair into waves. This is difficult until you are used to it. Hold the waves in place by pinning them with invisible hairpins, or bind the head round and round with a narrow ribbon, pulling the hair loose between the bindings with the comb.

Put in side combs so the weight of the hair will not pull the waves out of place. Pin a hair pin over the head and keep it on while the hair dries. When it is dry the waves will be very solidly in place and should last for a long time—if the hair has been permanently waved, until the next shampooing.

Book Reviews

The leading article in the October "Yale Review," Frederick J. Turner's "Sections and Nation," contrasts "The American Section" with the European state, presenting the rise of sectionalism in American history and politics from a fresh and striking standpoint. R. T. Fingwell, assistant secretary of the treasury during the latter part of the World War, brings out of the confusion surrounding the inter-allied debts in a singularly clear and cogent article on "War Debts" and our policy on international finance. Emma Ponnaldine, who recently escaped from Russia, presents a graphic indictment of soviet Russia in "The Famine and the Bolshevik," an essay based upon four years of personal experience.

Among the contributions of especial interest are Zona Gale's "The Novel and the Spirit," a criticism and a prophecy as to American fiction; Henry van Dyke's notable essay on "The Prings of Words," which will be welcomed by lovers of poetry; Frederick E. Pierce's powerful study in irony, "The Destructibility of Literary Genius," and a charming series of "Persian Portraits," done from life by Clara Cary Edwards, which give us close-ups of a remote and little-known corner of the east. Five young American poets—Edna St. Vincent Millay, John Hall Wheelock, William Alexander Percy, Henry Ballman and Raymond Holden—contribute verse of characteristic quality showing the various tendencies now vitalizing our poetry.

From the age of 14, when a lad in high school, he has been a devoted student of Lincoln's life and a collector of Lincolniana. For nearly ten years Mr. Starr has been working toward the writing of his book, "Lincoln's Last Day," which is a simple, vivid and absolutely authentic account of April 14, 1865, as Lincoln lived it.

They Say That

Building of good roads in the United States is to proceed upon an enormous scale during the next twenty years. The federal good roads bureau has planned the construction, through financial aid by the national government, of 150,000 miles of improved highways throughout the country. It is estimated that states and counties will build equally as much mileage so that the grand total mileage of good highways will run far beyond 300,000. This, if completed as contemplated, will give the United States the most extensive and the finest system of highways to be found in any country in the world.

It is estimated that the federal government, during the next twenty years, will expend some $2,000,000,000 as its part in construction of better highways. This will be money well spent. That mileage of permanently improved highways will be worth to the country far more than $2,000,000,000. Indeed, improved highways are of value inestimable to the country. Their value to business and industry is stupendous. Their value as contributing to the comfort and pleasure of the people, and making possible more advantageous marketing of farm and orchard products, is huge.

The MUCKER

by Edgar Rice Burroughs

Copyright 1921 by Edgar Rice Burroughs

"Then I may partially repay you at once," exclaimed the girl with a smile, "for I can assure you that you possess my friendship to the fullest, and with it, of course, my entire confidence. It is true that I doubted you at first—I doubted everyone connected with the Halfmoon. Why shouldn't I? But now I think that I am able to draw a very clear line between my friends and my enemies. There is but one upon the right side of that line—you, my friend," and with an impulsive little gesture Barbara Harding extended her hand to Theriere. It was with almost a sheepish expression that the Frenchman took the proffered fingers, for there had been that in the frank avowal of confidence and friendship which smote upon a chord of honor in the man's soul that had not vibrated in response to a chivalrous impulse for so many long years that it had near atrophied from disuse.

Then, of a sudden, the second officer of the Halfmoon straightened to his full height. His head went high, and he took the small hand of the girl in his own strong, brown one.

"Miss Harding," he said, "I have led a hard, bitter life. I have not always done those things of which I might be most proud; but there have been times when I have remembered that I am the grandson of one of Napoleon's greatest field marshals, and that I bear a name that has been honored by a mighty nation. What you have just said to me recalls these facts most vividly to my mind—I hope, Miss Harding, that you will never regret having spoken them."

He turned to the bottom of his heart the man meant what he said, at the moment; for inherent chivalry is as difficult to suppress or uproot as is inherent viciousness.

The girl let her hand rest in his for a moment, and as their eyes met she saw in his a truth and honesty and cleanness which revealed what Theriere might have been had Fate ordained his young manhood to different channels. And in that moment a question sprang, all unbidden and unforeseen to her mind; a question which caused her to withdraw her hand quickly from his, and which sent a slow crimson to her cheek.

Billy Byrne, slouching by, cast a bitter look of hatred upon the two. The fact that he had saved Theriere's life had not increased his love for that gentleman. He was still much puzzled to account for the strange idiosyncrasy that prompted him to that act; and two of his fellows had felt the weight of his mighty fist when they had spoken words of rough praise for his heroism—Billy had thought that they were kidding him.

To Billy the knocking out of Theriere, and the subsequent kick which he had planted in the unconscious man's face, were true indications of manliness. He gauged such matters by standards purely Grand Avenue, and now it enraged him to see that the girl before whose very eyes he had demonstrated his superiority over Theriere should still look with favor upon the officer.

It did not occur to Billy that he would care to have the girl look with favor upon him. Such a thought would have sent him into a berserker rage; but the fact remained that Billy felt a strong desire to cut out Theriere's heart when he saw him now in close converse with Barbara Harding—just why he felt so Billy could not have said. The truth of the matter is that Billy was far from introspective; in fact, he did very little thinking. His mind had never been trained to it, as his muscles had been trained to fighting. Billy reacted more quickly to instinct than to the processes of reasoning, and on this account it was difficult for him to explain any great number of his acts or moods—it is to be doubted, however, that Billy Byrne had ever attempted to get at the bottom of his soul, if he possessed one.

Be that as it may, had Theriere known it he was very near death that moment when a summons from Skipper Simms called him and saved his life. Then the mucker, unseen by the officer, approached the girl, and as she was rage and hatred, and as the girl turned at the sound of his step behind her she saw them mirrored in his dark, scowling face.

CHAPTER VIII.

Wreck of the "Halfmoon"

Instantly Barbara Harding looked into the face of the mucker she read her danger. Why the man should hate her so she could not guess; but that he did was evidenced by the malevolent expression of his surly countenance. For a moment he stood glaring at her, and then he spoke.

"I'm wise to not wouse an' dat guy was chinnin' about," he growled, "an' I'm right here to tell you dat you don't wanta try an' put nothin' over on me, see? Youse a-a-goin' to double-cross me, youse a-goin' to do a good notion to han' yourse wot com' to you. If it hadn't been fer youse I wouldn't have been here now on dis Gawd-forsaken wreck. Youse is de cause of all de trouble. Wot youse ought to get is croaked an' den dere wouldn't be nothin' to bother any of us. You an' yer bunch of kale, dey give me a swif' pain. Fer half a cent I'd soak youse a wollop to de solar plexus dat wot you put youse to sleep for de long count, youse—" but here words failed Billy.

To his surprise the girl showed not the slightest indication of fear. Her head was high, and her level gaze never wavered from his own eyes. Presently a sneer of contempt curled her lip.

"You coward!" she said quietly. "To insult and threaten a woman! You are nothing but an insufferable bully, and cowardly murderer. You murdered a man on the Lotus whose little finger held more true manhood, bravery, and worth than the whole of your great, hulking carcass. You are only fit to strike from behind, or when your victim is unsuspecting, as you did Mr. Theriere the other day. Do you think I fear a thing such as you—a beast without honor or that kicks an unconscious man in the face? I know that you can kill me. I know that you can kill me. I know that you are cowardly enough to do it because I am a defenseless woman; and though you may kill me, you never can make me show fear for you. That is what you wish to do—that is your idea of manliness. I have never imagined that such a thing as you lived in the guise of man; but I have read you, Mr. Byrne, since I have had occasion to notice you, and I know now that you are what is known in the great cities as a mucker. The term never meant much to me before, but I see now that it fits your kind perfectly, for in it is all the loathing and contempt that a real man—a gentleman—must feel for such as you."

WHY THE MILK WAS LATE

"Why are you so late with your milk this morning?" an old lady inquired of her milkman.

"Well, you see, mum," he answered, "it's like this. The law allows us 25,000 bacteria to the gallon, and you wouldn't believe how long it takes to count the little beggars."

NATIONAL GUARD MUST BE CUT; SECRETARY WEEKS IN CONTEST

Reorganization Plan Cause of Considerable Difference of Opinion, Is Declared

By HARRY L. ROGERS
For International News Service

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Having succeeded in reducing the regular army establishment to the size demanded by Congress, Secretary of War Weeks is now confronted with the task of cutting down the national guard to a proportion satisfactory to the various states.

It promises to prove a considerable job, for there apparently is a vast difference of opinion among guard officials. In order that consideration may be given to all these views, the secretary has named an expert commission, consisting mainly of officers prominent in national guard work, which will attempt to work out a satisfactory plan.

The guard officers selected for this committee are Brigadier General Milton A. Reckord, adjutant general of Maryland; Brigadier General J. Leslie Kincaid, adjutant general of New York; Colonel F. M. Runbold, Missouri National Guard; Major General Milton F. Foreman, Illinois National Guard, and Lieutenant Colonel F. Schoonmaker, Pennsylvania National Guard. This committee, in co-operation with the militia bureau and the regular army, will make a comprehensive study of national guard problems. The military bureau has sent questionnaires to all state adjutants general for their advice and opinion, and Weeks has asked for the views of corps area commanders.

Conforms to Law

Secretary Weeks holds that the National guard plans as now worked out by the war department conform to existing law, and if a majority of the states don't agree upon something different and report to the war department, which will then make necessary recommendations to congress.

The present law, enacted in 1916 and retained in the National Defense Act, provides for 800 guardsmen to every senator and representative, giving a total guard strength of 427,200. As a result of this law such states as Delaware and Nevada would be forced to have eventually a larger guard in proportion to population than such states as New York and Pennsylvania. In some National guard quarters it is suggested that the total strength of the guard should not exceed 250,000.

Given an authorized strength of approximately 450,000 men, Secretary Weeks took the attitude that it was the duty of the war department to work out plans of organization upon that basis and that the war department did, in the plans they prepared they provided for armies, corps, divisions and smaller units, with the full complements of auxiliary organizations, such as air service, tank corps, chemical warfare sections, etc.

Some States Object

In general the states have not objected to the organization plans up to and including divisions, but some have objected to the corps and army organization, while a number have protested against the expense of maintaining such auxiliary organizations as air service and tank corps. It has even been suggested, notably by Congressman Anthony of Kansas, that the National guard should be limited strictly to infantry.

On these points Secretary Weeks has definite ideas. "In my opinion," he said, "the basis for the National guard organization is eighteen infantry divisions and three cavalry divisions. With such units intact and organized the National guard will be able to function efficiently in any emergency. I am unalterably opposed to such suggestions as having only infantry in the National guard, as has been proposed from sources, as that would make the National guard useless until artillery could be trained and its effectiveness in any war delayed by approximately a year. In other words, with our regular army skeletonized and the National guard unorganized, any country would have no first line defense."

"The present actual strength of the National guard is approximately 160,000. There is no doubt that the number is too small. The eighteen infantry and three cavalry divisions are not completely organized. The question is merely as to the ultimate minimum requirement in strength and organization and the progressive steps by which it should be reached."

Uncle Wiggily Bedtime Stories

— BY HOWARD R. GARIS —

UNCLE WIGGILY AND SUSIE'S TRIPPER

Some of you, I fancy, after reading, or having had read to you, the name of this story, may exclaim:

"Oh, he's made a mistake! It should be Susie's slipper!"

But, no, it shouldn't be a slipper at all. Tripper is what I mean and you'll see for yourself before the story is finished.

Now to start off. One day, Uncle Wiggily gave his pink nose two twinks instead of one, as it was rather cold, and down the steps of his hollow stump bungalow he hopped.

"I am going out to seek an adventure, Nurse Jane," he said. "I may have to go farther away than usual on account of nearly all the leaves being off the trees."

"What has that to do with adventures?" asked the muskrat lady housekeeper.

"Well, with leaves off the trees the adventures have not such good places to hide," laughed the bunny, "and sometimes they go into the deepest of the woods to keep away from me. But I'll be home sooner or later."

"Please don't be too late," begged Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy. "I am going to make cabbage turnovers for supper, and you like them hot."

"I'll be back in time for the cabbage turnovers, and I could also eat some carrot flipups if you would make them," laughed Uncle Wiggily.

"I'll try," said Nurse Jane. Then the bunny rabbit went the hippy-hop down the path that led to the woods where many adventures might be found. Uncle one might get tangled in it and that's what it is. I shall leave it here, and get Susie and bring her back here to show her the tripper. I'll tell her not to be careless again!"

"Picking himself up, for he was not hurt, Uncle Wiggily left Susie's "tripper" where he was and hopped on again down the path. Soon he saw Susie just ahead of him, gathering late wild flowers.

"Susie!" called Uncle Wiggily. "I want you!"

"Yes! And I want you, Uncle Wiggily!" suddenly growled a most unpleasant voice. "I want your ears to nibble!"

"Oh, it's popped the Bob Cat, growling and snarling.

"Oh, Susie! Come with me, quickly!" cried Uncle Wiggily, and, taking Susie by the paw he ran with her along the path, ahead of the Bob Cat. "There is just one chance that we may be saved," said the bunny.

"How?" asked Susie.

"By your tripper," whispered the rabbit gentleman. "I mean your jumping rope. I left it where you dropped it. Maybe the Bob Cat will catch his paw in it and trip as I did."

And that's just what happened. When Uncle Wiggily and Susie reached the tripper in the grass they jumped over it safely. But the Bob Cat, leaping along behind them a moment later, knew nothing of the tangling loop of grapevine rope. Into it he set his paw.

Then—

"Bing! Bang!" Tripped to the ground with a heavy fall was the Bob Cat. He turned a somersault, slid on one ear, bunched his nose and banged one eye.

"Oh, what a tumble!" laughed Uncle Wiggily as he ran safely on with the little rabbit girl.

"Your tripper did us a good turn after all, Susie. But never leave jumping ropes like that any more."

"No, Uncle Wiggily," spoke Susie. "I'll not!"

And if the alarm clock doesn't take the top off the cocoanut cake and use it for an umbrella in a snow storm, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the rustling leaves.

He ran with her along the path

Wiggily was wondering what would happen him and he was being jolly when, all of a sudden, down in the dried leaves near his paws, the bunny heard:

"Hiss! Hiss! Hiss!"

"Oh, hello, Mr. Snake!" greeted Uncle Wiggily, and the crawling snake raised his head, stuck out his forked tongue and said: "Hello, Uncle Wiggily! For this snake is friends with the rabbit gentleman. I'm glad you stopped, Mr. Longears," went on the snake, talking like a steam radiator on a cold morning. "I hissed at you to tell you that, not long ago, I saw your niece, Susie Littletail, running through the woods with her grape vine jumping rope. She was running very fast, Susie was. I called to her, but she wouldn't stop!"

"Oh! So Susie was running very fast with her grape vine jumping rope, was she?" repeated Uncle Wiggily. "Well, perhaps the Bob Cat or the Skillery Scallery Alligator might have been chasing her. Which way did Susie go? I'll hop after her and maybe I can save her ears from being nibbled."

"She went that way," and the snake pointed with his tail to a path that led through the woods and bushes.

"Thank you!" called back Uncle Wiggily, as he quickly hopped along the path.

The rabbit gentleman hopped very fast, looking on all sides for Susie, and he was thinking how sad it would be if the little rabbit girl should be caught by the Bob Cat or the Skillery Scallery Alligator when, all of a sudden, Uncle Wiggily felt something catch him around one leg and throw him to the ground.

"I'm caught! It's a trap!" cried the bunny. "The Bob Cat must have set a trap here! First he caught Susie, and now he's caught me!"

But as Uncle Wiggily looked around he saw no Bob Cat and no trap. Then, looking at his tail that was caught, the bunny saw it was twisted in the loop of a grape vine jumping rope.

"It's Susie's!" exclaimed Mr. Longears. "It was rather careless of her to drop her jumping rope here in the path where any

MUST ENDURE NOISE

The rights of saxophone players have been upheld by a Chicago judge. A man named Wenzler, while learning to play that instrument was greatly humiliated by catcalls, howls of derision, threats of bodily harm and finally missiles by enraged neighbors. He told his troubles to the judge and the neighbors were enjoined from interfering. The judge held that as music is indispensable, musicians must be privileged to acquire the art.

No pretty girl has yellow teeth

How often you have heard the comment, "She would be a pretty girl if her teeth were not so discolored."

Society accepts no excuse or apology for yellow teeth. White face powders or a naturally light complexion only accentuates such a beauty blemish.

Thousands of people who formerly paid regular and frequent visits to their dentists to have their discolored teeth whitened and polished are now saving time and money by doing it themselves at home with no other aid than a bottle of the new Lemon Juice dentifrice.

DENTOMEL

Nature's Own Bleach and Antiseptic

If stained or yellow teeth are your misfortune, if you have pyorrhea or if your gums are sore, don't fail to get a bottle of DENTOMEL and try it. Delightful to use and quick in results, yet absolutely harmless to the most delicate teeth or tenderest gums. (Simply rub the dentifrice you want your money back if not perfectly pleased with DENTOMEL.)

VARIABLE CONDENSERS

The reader may imagine that we are giving too much attention to the above subject, but it must be remembered that those who build their own sets are much like people who build houses. They require different designs, although the aggregate accomplishes the same result.

The illustration shows a condenser that may be utilized for either table or panel mounting. It is provided with a counter weight which, balanced as it is, enables the operator to obtain ready and accurate adjustments. In addition it has a special locking arrangement which permits fine tuning.

SOURCES OF ELECTROMOTIVE FORCE

There are a number of ways, in which electric energy can be derived from other sources of energy. Each one of these energy transformations sets up a condition which causes current to flow, that is, produce an electromotive force. The two most important methods for producing electrical energy are "static" or "frictional" electricity, and that produced by "batteries," which means by "chemical action."

We will first discuss "static" or "frictional" sources.

When a piece of hard rubber is brought in close contact with a piece of say, cat's fur, and then separated from it two things will be noticed:

1. The bodies have both acquired new properties, and are said to be electrified.

2. A force is required to separate the bodies and work is done if they are moved apart.

Both bodies now have the power of attracting light bits of chaff or tissue paper. The rubber is said to have a negative charge and the fur a positive charge. These charges exist in equal amounts and taken together they neutralize each other. An uncharged body is said to be neutral. When these charges are on rest upon conductors they are called electrostatic charges.

Electric charges may be communicated to light bodies, like pith balls, and if these are suspended from silk threads, the effects and properties of the charges may be studied in terms of the motion and behavior of the pith balls.

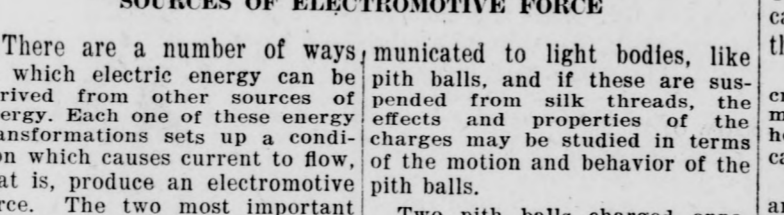

Two pith balls charged oppositely are found to attract each other, and two with like charges repel each other. The force between them in either case is proportional to the product of the charges and inversely proportional to the square of the distance between them. The force is also proportional directly to the value of the dielectric constant.

If two bodies carrying opposite charges are connected by a conductor, a momentary flow of current takes place, and the two bodies come to the same electrical condition. If the original charges were equal, both bodies would be discharged.

Electrostatic experiments can be best performed on a cold day, when the air is dry.

Education Slogan of Georgia Woman

By DOLLY GRAY For International News Service. ATLANTA—Liberal education in the broader sense is the real need of the people of Georgia. Reforms are effective only through education, not legislation, and upon this theory will be based the incumbency of one of Georgia's first women representatives to the Legislature—Miss Bessie Kempton, of Fulton county. One other woman legislator, Mrs. Viola Napier, of Macon, was elected at the same time as Miss Kempton.

Decides to Sell Realty

"Now here I am," continued Rev. Preston, "a preacher to sell real estate. Why do I sell it?—simply for the money that's in it? True, I do get a commission as do all realtors and salesmen, but that is not my primary reason for my selling it. I sell real estate because I will be property which I have investigated personally and which I really believe to be a good investment or homesite."

Prince Umberto Is Becoming Popular

ROME—Prince Umberto, eldest son of the King of Italy, who has just reached his majority, is the Italian counterpart of the Prince of Wales. Many believe that Prince Umberto is the most handsome of all Europe's heirs-apparent; certainly he is popular with his people. Very tall and dark, like his Montenegrin mother, and with her large, expressive brown eyes, the prince has a smile which is charming.

Atlanta School Is 'Opportunity' Aid

ATLANTA—Where, in the days of Ben Franklin 160 years ago, 'opportunity knocked only once at one's door, there are hundreds now not waiting for the guest to come but have gone after him. They are knocking daily and by the hundreds at the door of Opportunity.

All of which is a way of saying that more than 500 Atlanta people have enrolled in Atlanta's opportunity school, hunting for the opportunity, and getting prepared for it before they find it. The public school system and the first of its kind in the history of education, was conceived by Willis A. Suttow, superintendent of Atlanta public schools, and was put into operation by the school board, with the aid of State and Federal school funds, and with the hearty co-operation of business men and employers of the city. It aims to train those who are at work and have no time to attend full-time schools.

The twenty families now selected for settlement on the lower lands of Kalamaula by the Hawaiian Homes Commission have a grand total of 163 persons—parents and children—and the average number of children in each family is slightly more than six.

U. S. Physicians in War on Old Disease

ALEPPO, Syria.—American scientists have again proven the Nemesis of disease-carrying mosquitoes. The annual report of the medical officers of the Near East Relief association notes the disappearance of a mysterious disease known as the "Aleppo Boil." For five centuries this disease has been a scourge upon the people of North Syria and has been known nowhere else in the world. American physicians studied the disease for two years and declared that the germ was carried by an obscure species of local mosquitoes. An insect plague wiped out the mosquitoes, and during the past year virtually no new cases have been reported.

SERVICE PROJECT, BONDS ENDORSED

P.-T. A. of High School In Session; Hears Talks On Two Projects

Mrs. Moore also extended greetings from the Glendale Federation of Parent-Teacher associations, of which she is president, and urged the co-operation of the parents and teachers in working out for the young people of Glendale the highest ideals.

Community Service
Mrs. Moore introduced the subject of community service, which she stated would carry on beyond the high school age the training received in the arts, drama, music, etc., as well as the athletic activities and urged the members of the high school parent-teacher association to co-operate. Miss Marjorie Day of the drama department of National Community Service was introduced and outlined the scope of community service work. She explained how, according to scientists, people have four big needs in the period between work and retiring, and told how community service would meet physical rehabilitation, social contact, creative expression in music, handicraft, dramatics, etc.; and of giving of one's talents to someone else.

School Teacher Is Missing 4 Months

GIRARD, Kan.—Miss Lulu E. Thompson, 30-year-old high school teacher and leading church worker, who mysteriously disappeared about four months ago, still is missing, and the authorities admit the case has completely baffled them.

No word of any kind has been received by either the police or friends since the young woman disappeared.

Before leaving, Miss Thompson drew all her savings from the bank. It was said that a day or two before her departure Miss Thompson received a mysterious telephone call from a friend, a former Girard minister. Miss Thompson was of a quiet nature, and was prominently identified with church activities.

She had contracted to teach school again this fall. Her place was filled recently, however.

Miss Helen Sherwood, president of the Girls' league of the high school, read a letter from the high school board relative to the bond election for October 20, and urged the co-operation of all of the members of the association.

George U. Moyses, principal of the high school, announced that the polling places would be as follows:
For residents north of the center line of Doran street, at Central avenue; for residents south of the center line of Windsor road, at Cerritos avenue school; for residents between Doran and Windsor road, at the high school. He stated that owing to the school laws of the state the polling places would not be open until 8 o'clock and would close at 6 p. m. Mr. Moyses stated that if the proposed $350,000 bond issue carried that it would mean a tax of about 90 cents for each $1000 assessed valuation for the first year.

After endorsing the bond issue and also community service work for Glendale the meeting adjourned.

NUMEROUS IDEAS FOR PEDESTRIANS

One Angeleno Suggests Four Paths Along Sidewalks; Many Suggestions

LOS ANGELES.—Many startling suggestions in connection with the proposed ordinance whereby pedestrian traffic would be regulated the same as vehicular are being received daily at the traffic bureau at central police station. Authors of some of the suggestions are inclined to be humorous and others offer their plans with all seriousness.

Although suggestions that are expected to help the traffic question in Los Angeles are always welcome, such drastic propositions as making every pedestrian wear a tail-light at night cannot reasonably be acted upon.

Among the many ideas that come in with every delivery of mail to Captain Cleveland Heath from budding inventors, practical jokers and others, are the following:

Suggestions Made
"Make every person desirous of passing another on a crowded sidewalk do so from the right hand side, at the same time warning the one about to be passed by blowing upon a whistle carried for that purpose."

"Persons about to slow down or stop should violently wave the right arm as a means of signifying their intentions."

Nothing was said, however, about violently coming in contact with a lady's hat or perhaps somebody's nose.

Another one, and one that Captain Heath is inclined to term the winner of 'em all, was this:

Sidewalk Speed Limits
"Grade the sidewalks, making four strips with a certain speed limit to be allowed on each. For instance, allow a two-mile per hour gait in close to the store windows for the shoppers, the next to be the five-mile, the next seven, and the outside ten." This Captain Heath pointed out dazedly, would require unfortunate commuters waiting for a street car to keep at a ten-mile trot until the car overtook them or they died of exertion.

"Make 'em signal every move they make," said a missive from a blunt individual living in Inglewood. The captain discarded this one after the inventor had moved, back, forward, sideways and all ways, that only an old lady out shopping can make, without losing her equilibrium or half a dozen packages.

"We would be forced to make a set of signals that would make a shorthand lesson look silly," Captain Heath exclaimed, as he slipped the last one into the waste basket. "If the general public has any real suggestions, send them in, but remember that we cannot be radical, especially with something as new as regulated pedestrian traffic will be."

Objects to Remarks By Judge Bledsoe

Editor The Evening News—That the Federated Brotherhoods of the churches of Glendale should take care as to the speaker they select, or at least the subject upon which he speaks, was evidenced by the attitude of a large majority of those who attended the Brotherhood banquet at the Christian church Tuesday night.

Many were the expressions of disgust at the way Judge Bledsoe took unfair advantage of the situation. Presumably, at least, because of his position as a federal prosecutor of government liquor criminals, he would have been expected to speak upon the Wright bill or some other moral issue upon which church brotherhoods might be interested, but instead spent most of his time venting his spleen in a tirade against the chiropractic and osteopathic bills, Nos. 16 and 20.

Although he admitted he knew nothing about either osteopathy or chiropractic, he presumed to tell the audience of the efficiency and right of authority of the medical board to examine and regulate these professions.

Notwithstanding his attempt to camouflage the issue by stating he was in no way prejudiced, those of us who are familiar with the last minute tactics of the medical association know better and were not surprised.

We have anticipated just such things for the final three weeks of the campaign and are prepared. However, we did not think their speaker would take advantage of a religious organization, united in an effort to carry on Christian work concerned with the moral issues of the community, and thereby split up a unity and effort at a time when so much of a moral nature is at stake.

Why could he not, with his knowledge of political issues, have taken advantage of such an opportunity to crystallize and solidify the influence of those present in a campaign in favor of the Wright Bill? Had those present wished to know about other issues they would have invited someone who at least professed to know something about them.

Both the osteopaths and chiropractors sought opportunity on the program to speak for their bills, but courteously refrained from insisting when informed that other issues of a moral nature were paramount.

If the gentleman wishes to be fair, let him debate these issues with the proponents of the bills. We each welcome the opportunity.

Air Trespass Case Again Up in Court

PUNXSUTAWNEY, Pa.—The most unusual trespass suit in the history of the state of Pennsylvania was recently concluded in its initial stages in the office of Justice of the Peace C. C. Rowan here. It since went to a higher court on appeal.

Lieutenant Harold O. Nevin and Leon Smith, conducting aviation flights in this vicinity, passed over the farm of O. P. Grube, near town. Farmer Grube objected to the men flying over his premises and he went before Justice Rowan, swore out information against the two named above and "Daredevil Hank" Cole and had the three arrested on a charge of trespass. The informations were based on the Act of 1905, a game act, forbidding trespassing on land that is posted.

The fliers admitted in court they had flown over Grube's farm, but denied having set foot on it, and they pleaded not guilty to the trespass charge. But Farmer Grube and his eminent counsel insisted that the farm property included the air above, and that the aviators had no business in flying through Grube's air, and that by doing so the aviators trespassed just as much, under the law, as though they had marched across the place. Counsel for Grube insisted that the game law had been violated and insisted on a conviction.

That was a poser for the rural justice, a brand new one on him. But he played safe and fined Nevin and Smith $1 each. Cole was discharged. An appeal was immediately

Zion Cop Can Make Shoes Last 10 Years

ZION, Ill.—Don't throw your old shoes into the ash can! Policeman Isaac Parry, of Zion, Ill., has discovered a method of restoring worn-out soles and making them like new. Even if your soles are almost on the ground and the bottoms of your toes are beginning to show through like young potatoes, Parry can fix 'em. He has invented a simple method of making shoes practically everlasting, so far as the soles are concerned. Just so long as the uppers will hold together Parry can make them last ten years.

Here is his formula. Just get a nickel's worth of sawdust and a dime's worth of glue. Apply the glue in liquid form to the soles of your shoes and cover the glue with a rich coating of sawdust. Then let the shoes stand over night, so that the glue will dry. When you walk on them the sawdust will pack as hard as bricks. If you use waterproof glue, it will stand wet weather. When they wear out, just repeat.

In Prospect
"Have you any marriageable daughters, Mrs. Widowhood?"
"Not today, but I expect to have a full line next week. I have three whose divorces are pending."

taken to Judge Corbett in common pleas court.

This action raises the unusual question of whether the old legal principle that "the tail goes with the hide" still holds good as to whether the man who owns a farm also owns the air above.
