GENERAL MITCHELL HITS BACK AT CRITICS

TEN MILLIONS FOR TUJUNGA DAM WILL BE URGED

Assemblyman Weller and Others To Lead Fight Before Legislature

An amendment to the state flood control act that will provide a $10,000,000 bond issue for building a high dam at Big Tujunga canyon, and will provide additional funds for flood control purposes and water conservation in other portions of the valley, including Sycamore canyon and Verdugo wash, will be pushed at the state Legislature by Speaker Frank Merriam, Assemblyman Frank C. Weller of Glendale and five other assemblymen, all of whom went on record as favoring such an amendment, at a dinner meeting of the San Fernando Valley association, held Wednesday night at the Hollywood Athletic clubhouse.

The only legislator present who failed to come out for the project was Assemblyman Sidney Graves. The meeting, which had been planned months in advance and represented the culmination of a series of flood control meetings, was presided over by A. Z. Taft, president of the association.

Must Spend Money Under the present flood control act, a flood control district cannot vote additional bonds until all moneys from existing issues have been expended, explains Robert L. Hanley, Los Angeles deputy city attorney, who was present at the meeting. Los Angeles county recently voted $35,000,000 for flood control purposes, he adds. While practically all of this money has been allocated, it will be eight years before it is all actually spent.

The amendment which Speaker Merriam, Assemblyman Weller and other legislators seek to put through at the present session would, according to Mr. Hanley, provide that additional flood control issues could be brought before the voters as soon as prior issues had been allocated.

Urges Enactment Such an amendment was drafted by Assemblyman Weller and introduced before the first session of the present Legislature, according to Mr. Hanley, who states that the proponents of the amendment will whip it into shape and attempt to accomplish its enactment at the present session.

Among those present at the meeting of the San Fernando valley association Wednesday night were: Speaker Frank Merriam, Assemblyman Frank C. Weller, Thomas Dodge, Mark Pierce, Walter Little, Frederick Roberts, George H. Davis and Sidney Graves. J. W. Reagan, Los Angeles county flood control engineer, was also present, as were M. Walters of Glendale, F. H. Woodruff of Hollywood, Fred W. Prince of San Fernando, C. C. Bowerman and O. J. Renfrew, secretary of the association.

CONGRESS FOR INCREASE OF OWN PAY

Notes Salary Boost From $7,500 to $10,000; Veto By Coolidge Looms

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—Congress voted today to raise its own salary.

By a vote of 237 to 93 the House passed the Senate bill under which salaries of members of the House and Senate are raised from $7,500 a year to $10,000.

As the bill has already passed the Senate, it is now up to President Coolidge to decide whether the increases are justified. It has been reported that he will veto such a bill.

The measure also provided for increasing the salaries of cabinet members, the speaker of the House and the vice-president from $12,500 to $15,000 a year.

Opponents of the measure, who described it as a "grab bill," were unable to secure a roll call on the proposition and the vote was taken by a standing count.

TAX REVISION CONTEST IN CONGRESS

Democrats and Some of Republicans To Oppose Coolidge Program

By ROBERT S. THORNBURGH For International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—A sharp clash in the next Congress over tax revision, which will split the Republican majority into two distinct groups, was made virtually certain here today as a result of President Coolidge's flat advocacy of repealing federal inheritance taxes.

Influential Republican members of Congress expressed disapproval today of the president's proposition. Among them were Representative Green of Iowa, chairman of the powerful ways and means committee, which will have charge of framing tax revision.

Democrats Oppose The proposal to get the federal government out of the inheritance tax field, leaving this field to the various states, probably will be included in the Coolidge-Mellon "plan" which is to be presented early in the Sixty-ninth Congress. It will be opposed by the Democrats, generally, and by a considerable section of the Republicans.

"Instead of abolishing the estate taxes," said Green, "I am in favor of increasing it, and reducing income taxes. I believe income taxes should be reduced in the next Congress, but I see no need of reducing estate taxes."

The national tax convention here listened today to another speech against the inheritance tax principle by Charles Dewey, assistant secretary of the treasury, who criticized the inheritance tax as a hindrance to American initiative and endeavor.

EXTRA! DEADLY GAS FILLS PIT WHERE BLAST PRISONS WORKMEN

City Coal Co. Shaft at Sullivan, Ind., Scene of Horror; Rescue Crews Rush To Save Any Who Escape Fumes

SULLIVAN, Ind., Feb. 20.—Fear that between forty-five and fifty miners entombed in an explosion in the City Coal Co. mine had perished was expressed by mine rescue crew leaders this afternoon. Six bodies have been recovered. Veteran mine rescue workers said that if the falling roof of the mine had not killed the men instantly, they probably died within a half hour after the blast from the effects of the mine gas, which permeated the atmosphere in the pit.

SULLIVAN, Ind., Feb. 20.—Fifty miners were entombed, many of whom may have been killed, by an explosion in the mine of the City Coal Co. here this afternoon. All mine rescue crews in the district have been summoned.

Scores of miners in this and nearby counties hastened to the ill fated mine and were organized into rescue crews by officials of the City Coal Co.

Deadly gas filled the mine, following the explosion, delaying rescue work. Gas masks were rushed to the pit where they were donned by a picked crew of twenty men.

Six bodies of miners killed in the blast were recovered shortly after 3 o'clock. Two other miners, trapped by the blast, were rescued from the shaft and taken to the county hospital.

It was said 120 men were at work in the mine when the blast came, causing the mine roof to fall upon them after timbering had given away under the terrific force of the explosion.

Workers said the blast probably was the result of an electric spark from mine machinery igniting an accumulation of mine gas.

Sullivan merchants threw open their stores to be used as emergency hospitals. All physicians here and in neighboring towns were rushed to the mine to administer first aid as soon as the entombed men can be reached.

Rescue workers were working frantically to break through to the fifty miners who were entombed in the northeast corner of the mine.

Because of the limited number of gas masks available only 20 rescue workers at a time could enter the wrecked mine.

At 3:15 o'clock little had been accomplished in clearing away the mass of debris beyond which are the entombed miners.

While 120 men were working in the mine when the blast crumpled the braces, allowing the roof to fall in, only around fifty were employed in the far northeast corner where the blast occurred.

Many of those working in that part of the mine farthest from the explosion were stunned momentarily by the force of the explosion.

International Crooks Steal Art Treasures From Los Angeles Home

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 20.—Nearly half a million dollars' worth of paintings stolen from the home of Martin Weinschenck, former Danzig, Germany, art dealer, were from the world-famous collection of Joan Battiste Dotti, inventor of patent leather, it was learned today.

Weinschenck and his associate, Baron E. R. Von Gersdorff, told the authorities they believed an international band of art crooks stole the paintings.

Weinschenck is president of a firm in Danzig, Germany, and most of his valuable art objects were brought here recently from Germany.

Coella's "Daughter of Phillip II of Spain," valued at $135,000, was stolen, with many other paintings, which were all expertly cut from their frames. Statues and lacers were also removed from the collector's home.

There were prospects that the rainfall would continue for perhaps thirty-six hours or longer.

Glendale Rainfall

The seasonal rain record continues to rise, the storm of the last twenty-four hours adding .20 of an inch and making the season record to date 4.23 inches. One year ago today the seasonal record still stood at 2.48 inches. These figures are furnished by H. E. Bartlett of 333 West Broadway.

EXPERT HOLDS BATTLESHIPS HELPLESS IN AIR ATTACK

Claims No Capital Ship Could Hold Out Under Assault by Bombs

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—Hitting back against his critics, Brigadier-General William Mitchell told the House aircraft investigating committee today that the reason the battleship Washington was not sunk from the air in the recent bombing test was that no real explosive bombs were used.

Only sand-filled projectiles were used, Mitchell said, and even those pierced the armor of the most modern battleship. Naval officers had previously disputed Mitchell's claims of what had been done to the Washington.

"Every nation knows what a real bomb will do to a battleship and we are only deluding our own people when we fail to tell exactly what happened to the Washington," said Mitchell. "Only sand-filled projectiles were dropped on the Washington from the air and even these pierced the armor deck. If real projectiles had been used, they would have gone clear through the ship."

"The test showed nothing new whatever, for the Washington was sent down by charges from the sides. Only three 1,000-pound charges of TNT were used and TNT is not the most effective explosive."

In comparison with the 2,000-pound bombs of the United States, Mitchell said that Great Britain and Japan had bombs weighing 3,200 and 3,000 pounds, respectively.

"In 1921, the joint army and navy board declared that high explosive bombs dropped from the air could sink or seriously damage any naval vessel constructed," said Mitchell. "Nothing has been done since to change that opinion."

"As a matter of fact," Mitchell added, "battleships are even more vulnerable now because they are bigger."

No matter how fully protected, both under and over water, no capital ship could hold out against an attack, Mitchell declared, saying, "we can blow any battleship in the world out of the water."

Mitchell challenged the testimony of coast artillery officers.

Those Were Happy Days

Remember the high wheel with the little wheel in front, and the high wheel with the little wheel behind? FRED ST. ONGE, who will direct the Safety Cycling carnival tomorrow, is seen on his high wheel at the left. The wheel is 40 years old.

"Ask Dad—he knows." The younger generation need not consult an encyclopedia to find out what the wheel meant in outdoor joy and health insurance to the generation past. Just ask father and even mother what the bicycle did for the American people between 25 and 30 years ago, for everybody rode in those days, from 7 years old to 70.

Perhaps the sport was overdone a bit; perhaps the automobile and motorcycle helped to give it a quietus. Whatever the cause, it's an everlasting pity that bicycling declined from its heyday in the nineties and became the well-nigh exclusive property of small youths, of delivery boys and of factory workers.

For some time there have been signs of a revival of interest in bicycling as an all-around sport, a means of health-promoting, open-air recreation. To advance this movement, the local bicycle dealers will stage a bicycle parade and carnival tomorrow, the first decorated-wheel parade to be introduced here.

Everyone who can ride a bicycle, including boys and girls of the present and wheelmen of the past, are invited to participate under the leadership of Fred St. Onge of the cycle trades of America. Get on your wheel and join in the parade tomorrow, starting and ending on Harvard High school grounds. Or come to the school grounds and see the prizes awarded and watch a demonstration along safety-first lines. Forty prizes will be awarded to riders in many divisions. A scooter race for the kiddies will create much amusement and a plank-riding contest for the bikers will hold interest.

From present indications, the affair will attract hundreds of riders and many spectators. Riders are asked to assemble early, as the first event will start at 10:30 o'clock Thursday. Mr. St. Onge, who will direct the carnival, visited Columbus, Central and Glendale schools, where he gave safety demonstrations to the pupils. Tomorrow's cycling carnival is open to everyone with a wheel, there is no charge for anything, and the affair is promoted to help prevent accidents to cyclists and others. Tomorrow will be Bicycle day in Glendale. Let's go.

FROM EAGLE ROCK

EAGLE ROCK, Feb. 20.—The Thursday Morning Music club met yesterday with Miss H. Leora Johnson of Eagle Rock boulevard, first secretary of the well-known local organization, which on the morning of February 5 celebrated its sixth birthday. It was decided at yesterday's session that the club will entertain the whole Junior Music club tomorrow afternoon at the Women's Twentieth Century clubhouse. The party will be a costume affair. A good program is promised.

Plans are now complete for the masquerade ball tomorrow night at the Masonic hall on Chickasaw avenue. It is announced by Mark Lee, high priest of the Eagle Rock chapter, Royal Arch Masons, U. D. Prizes will be awarded for the best costumes. The proceeds will be used to help defray expenses incident to establishment of the new chapter. Reservations may be made through Lieutenant E. W. Welty, head of the local fire department branch.

Alice Harrison Schroeder, recently appointed organist for the First Congregational church, has had an extended experience as organist and accompanist. She studied harmony and ensemble playing with Adolph Weidig of Chicago, and organ with A. E. McCarrell of Chicago, and John Doane of Northwestern university.

A minstrel show and dance, under the auspices of St. Dominic's choir, will be given at the Woman's clubhouse, Monday night, February 23.

Extensive preparations are in progress to make this entertainment unique in the history of local affairs. A popular Los Angeles orchestra, frequently heard over radio, will furnish the music for the dance, which is to follow the show. A general invitation is extended to the public.

The next open forum meeting of the Chamber of Commerce will be held Tuesday, March 10, and it is planned to show the film "The Giant of the Hills," at that time, providing satisfactory arrangements can be made for the use of the Eagle Rock school auditorium.

LACE POPULAR

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—The American may read "Lavender and old lace," but she only wears the lace. Her present evening frocks are covered with that, however. Last designs are distinguished by codets, flounces, frills, flanges, yokes and insets which give lightness to dance frocks without losing the slim boyish silhouette.

STRAIGHT, NARROW

The short coat is piped in black and the small white picot helmet-shaped hat worn with it has a black chin strap.

Nevada Asks Shooting For State Execution

CARSON CITY, Nev., Feb. 20.—Assemblyman John Robbins of Elko today introduced a bill in the Nevada legislature to substitute shooting for lethal gas as a means of state execution. Warden Denver Dickerson of the state prison who conducted the first lethal gas execution recommended the change declaring that shooting was not only more humane but less expensive. The execution by lethal gas of Gee Jon, a year ago cost the state of Nevada over $700, the warden stated.

COMMERCIAL AIR ROUTES PLANNED

Glendale's Aviation Meet Will Seek To Bring About This Result

Commercial air routes between cities of Southern California, with regularly scheduled trips, looms as one of the possibilities to result from the commercial air meet to be held at Glendale Airport, March 14 and 15. One of the main objects of the meet and the banquet at which the Southern California Aeronautical association will be formed, will be to induce chambers of commerce in every city and town south of the Tehachapi to establish and maintain inexpensive landing fields, so that commercial flying will be encouraged. With such fields once provided in a sufficient number of cities, a group of commercial flyers stands ready to inaugurate regular passenger service between different points, Mr. T. C. Young announced today. These flyers will be willing to, at first, operate at a loss in order to blaze the trail of further advancement in commercial aviation in America.

Tentative routes have been laid out between Glendale and San Diego, San Diego and San Bernardino, San Bernardino and Glendale, and Glendale and San Luis Obispo. It has been previously announced that regular service between Glendale and San Francisco will be established within a short time. Passage rates on these trips will be surprisingly low, Dr. Young said, and every encouragement will be given the public to patronize the air mode of travel. Large limousine ships will be used for the purpose.

Prospects Ahead
 Fifty thousand airplanes can be sold to prospective buyers in Southern California once a sufficient number of landing fields are established and practical air maps, similar to the one being issued in connection with the Glendale air meet, can be compiled and turned out, Dr. Young said. One large oil concern stands ready to equip a dozen salesmen with Kinner Airsters, made in Glendale, as soon as landing places are provided in the various cities of the Southland that are visited by these salesmen. This concern is of the belief that many more cities can be covered by one salesman if he does not have to battle slow, congested traffic in getting from place to place, Dr. Young said.

Following a conference between Dr. Young, Secretary Howard L. Wood of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce and J. C. Metzger, president of the Southern California Chamber of Commerce Secretaries' association, the latter has pledged the full support of his organization to the Glendale air meet. Dr. Young will fly to the next meeting of the secretaries, at Ventura, on February 28, where he will explain the purposes of the meet and seek their individual co-operation.

Charles P. Bayer, head of the organization service department of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce; Major Ford A. Carpenter, chairman of the aeronautical department of the Los Angeles chamber, and other officers of that body, have proffered their services to Dr. Young, and will assist in staging the meet.

Favors Recall Cherry Tree

By MRS. MARY MORTON
 Written for The Evening News

It has been definitely established, I believe, that George Washington never was acquainted with the story told since his death and familiar to every child of kindergarten age about his cutting down the famous cherry tree and afterwards confessing to his dad with the famous remark, "I cannot tell a lie." If this is the case he did not have to listen to the facetious remarks of his friends every time his birthday rolled around, so he was spared a good deal.

To those of us who have grown up firmly believing in this myth concerning the Father of his Country it is hard to give it up and when we entertain our friends on George's natal day we are apt to take advantage of the story to trim our tables with symbols of it.

Table Decorations
 Many inexpensive and pretty decorations may be made from crepe paper and cardboard to trim the table and they should be in the patriotic colors, red, white and blue. The favor at the top of the picture at the right, is meant to represent a section of a tree with the hatchet buried in it. The foundation is made of cardboard covered with brown crepe with a ruffle about the bottom of crinkly paper. This may conceal a pretty favor or be used for nuts or candies. The nut cup below is shaped like a calla lily and a cutout Uncle Sam is pasted on one side and appears above the cup.

At the left below is a paper nut cup covered with blue crepe paper. It has a cluster of red cherries pasted on the side and a hatchet is also pasted on the top with its handle in the air. To the right of that is a pasteboard hatchet to be used as a place card. The name may be simply written on the handle of the hatchet or two hatchets may be tied together with ribbon with a pencil between and the card tied to the ribbon on which the name is written.

A patriotic costume would be most appropriate for the hostess. Here is shown a pretty one made of decorated crepe paper with cap and fan to match.

Play Charades
 A good game to play on this occasion is charades arranged as follows. Distribute slips of paper to the guests. The slips might be concealed in red crepe paper cherries if you wish, each slip containing the name of something or some one made famous by the American Revolution.

The guests should be told not to reveal the words on the slips, but that each slip has some distinguishing mark, and that all those who have the same marks on their slips must gather together in a group. When the groups are all formed the hostess may tell them that the words in each group are the same, and that each group is to act a charade for the others to guess, using the words on their slips. Here are the words the hostess had planned for charades:

Cornwallis (Corn-Wall-Is).
 Molly Pitcher (M o l l y a P i t c h e r)
 Brandywine (Brandy-Wine).
 Washington (Washing-Ton).
 Bunker Hill (Bunk-Her-Hill).
 Fort Duquesne (Fort-Duke-Cane).
 Delaware (Dell-Aware).

WOMEN HEAR PATRIOTIC LECTURE

Thursday Afternoon Club In Meeting Honor Birthday of Washington

Mrs. Ella W. Richardson of 317 North Brand boulevard opened her home to the members and friends of the Thursday Afternoon club yesterday for their business meeting and a silver tea. The rooms were decorated with national colors suggestive of Washington's birthday. Tiny hatchets were favors.

She covered events of the month, the celebrating of the birthday anniversaries of the two great Americans, Washington and Lincoln, recalling the days when she saw Lincoln. She spoke of the Bible in the public schools; the importance of letters from clubs or individuals to our congressmen being brief; why our dollars today are worth less than formerly, ascribing the first cause to the government loans to foreign nations; the recent achievement by the California Edison Co. in completion of the great tunnel in the north, and in local events, mentioned the John Brown evangelistic meetings.

The press chairman gave a report of the last meeting of the district press conference. Mrs. F. A. Archer reported for the hospital-ity committee. Mrs. Campbell read excerpts from the president's monthly letter, and announced that, at the next meeting, March 5, Mrs. Henrietta Horton Kapp of Los Angeles would be the speaker, on the subject of "Home Beautifying."

Mrs. E. V. Bacon, Mrs. L. C. Denman and Mrs. J. W. Sharpe were appointed as committee to act for the club in the matter of sending a written protest to the City Council regarding the removal of the trees on Glendale avenue.

Southeast Association Opposes Creamery Co.

Last night, in the Broadway Grammar school auditorium, the Southeast Glendale Home Protective association held an enthusiastic meeting. Discussion centered around the Calla Lily creamery. Only the friendliest of feeling prevailed, personally, in regard to those conducting the plant on Porter street, but every speaker voiced unalterable opposition to an industry being conducted in the midst of homes, and many angles of the situation were covered.

A committee of officers of the association, had called upon Mr. Paggi, president of the corporation, in a long conference on the question of moving. A report of this conference was made to the association. W. R. Kugler read the report of the committee on constitution. Matters of dues and boundaries were discussed at length, and will finally be settled at a later meeting, Thursday, March 5, to which all residents of the district are invited to come.

An aggressive membership campaign is on for the next two weeks. Every home owner and resident of the district will be asked to join the organization. Among those making speeches were Attorney W. D. Baker, E. E. Covert, L. E. Joseph, W. R. Kugler, R. M. Ferguson, B. T. Sherwood, L. M. Fisher, Ed J. Volkman, H. N. Greenwood, J. A. Webber and W. D. Root. The officers of the association are: W. D. Baker, president; E. E. Covert, secretary; W. D. Root, treasurer; R. G. Laas, W. R. Kugler, R. M. Ferguson and L. E. Joseph, committee on constitution.

AUTO CLUB IN FRANK STAND ON ROADS

Officials Predict Referendum If Proposed Highways Measures Pass

Predicting a referendum should the highway taxation measures, now pending before the California Legislature, be enacted into law; and favoring a division of highway funds between the forty-five counties in the north and the thirteen counties in the south of the state, officials of the Automobile club of Southern California last night set forth their reasons for opposing political logrolling to obtain pork-barrel highways.

More than 300 officials, including southern solons, supervisors and city delegates, newsmen and others heard the appeals made in behalf of a more equitable program than that suggested by the California Highway committee of nine, whose report was received in the south as a failure to ameliorate conditions.

The dinner served in the Automobile club's quarters at Figueroa and Adams street was featured by addresses of President W. L. Valentine, Vice-President H. W. Keller, David R. Farjes, their consulting counsel, and others, who recited facts and figures showing where Southern California, because of disproportionate representation in the Legislature, is suffering the penalty of having built highways and con-

BROWN SAYS SET GOOD EXAMPLE

Evangelist Tells Tabernacle Gathering To Give Brother Advice

"The influences you are setting in motion are affecting for good or evil the very souls of those around you," said John Brown, evangelist, last night, when he took as his theme, "Thy Brother's Blood." Members of the Christian Circle club attended the services at the Union tabernacle in a body. A crowd that filled all but a few scattered seats heard Mr. Brown.

"As you drop the pebbles of life, or sift the grains of sand in the man's life, so shall that influence be set in motion and the influence set in motion swing out to the farthest reaches of humanity," the evangelist said. "If you are living every day unselfishly in the light of God you can never know the great influence for good you set in motion. A lot of people seem to think it does not matter how they live, as long as they keep giving good advice. God have mercy on their souls. It isn't what you say, it's what you are. Are you your brother's keeper?"

Example Counts
 Mr. Brown warned his hearers to be careful of their example, their influence. "We must put the church of Jesus Christ up and down the land. If we can commit ourselves to God and get back to

EISTEDDFOD SETS NEW MUSIC DATES

Time For Comparative Work Advanced Two Weeks For Preparation

The dates of the Glendale District Eisteddfod were changed to the week of April 26 to May 2, 1925, in a meeting of the executive committee yesterday, the action being taken to give more time for the contestants to prepare themselves for the many competitions in musical, artistic and dramatic lines. The dates previously set were two weeks earlier.

The committee also made arrangements for the publishing of a forty-page booklet, to be the official publication for this district of the Eisteddfod. All rules and regulations and all contest material in the several departments will be included in this pamphlet, which is expected to be ready for distribution early in March.

Glendale Community Service officials, who are sponsoring the Eisteddfod movement in Glendale, Eagle Rock, Burbank and other adjacent cities of the district, report that much interest is being shown in this community event. Many persons are planning to enter in one or more of the divisions, which embrace many interests.

ICONOCLASTIC WRITERS

This should be known as the destructive age among writers. The one who cannot get recognition any other way never fails if he tears down and destroys something that the world has heretofore thought beautiful. Human nature in its frailty takes such a delight in contemplating the weakness of fellow humans that the writer who points out the faults and foibles of someone is greeted with acclaim. Criticisms that are general always hit someone else, never ourselves. We seem to think these writers are taking the advice of Charlotte Perkins Gilman, who wrote:

Preach about the other man, Preacher!
The man we all can see!
The man of oaths, the man of strife,
The man who drinks and beats his wife,
Who helps his mates to fret and shirk
When all they need is to keep at work—
Preach about the other man, Preacher!
Not about me!

A few self-styled intellectuals have been engaged for some years in destroying ideals and presenting human nature to the world in all its drabness, its weakness and baseness, with never a word as to its beauty and bravery, and they have been so successful that they now have many imitators.

Most of our beautiful legends have been stripped of their charm by these iconoclasts and now they have begun upon the men we have heretofore designated as great.

Don Seitz, manager of the New York World, is the latest who would have us believe there is no such thing as goodness or greatness in the world. In his biography of Joseph Pulitzer no sense of loyalty to an old friend and chief causes him to be charitable to this great man of the newspaper world. In an article in the Forum he writes of our presidents and we find we have been mistaken if we ever thought them possessed of any of the qualities of greatness. He sketches pictures of incompetency, of scheming politicians and adventurers, of ambitious wives and worse. "Lincoln," he says, "could not live up to the civil requirements of his office because of the war and his use of the great powers invested in him is mainly a record of incompetence and disaster." He sneers at Washington, at Roosevelt and Taft. He punctures the "Wilson myth." "Harding's death," he says "gave the people Coolidge, and he is what they want—a 'mean' little Yankee, sharp-eyed, close-fisted, who will cut down taxes, keep 'good fellows' at a distance and stick to his job. He has a chance to meet the needs of a nation as only two or three of his predecessors have done."

Certainly, all of our presidents have been human, they have had faults and no one of them has been a hundred per cent competent. But it does not make us any the worse as a nation to remember the good in our presidents and other great men. Perhaps fulsome praise and platitudes about our friends and our great men and women do not always ring true and sincere, but the one who can remember the good things and forget the evil of another's life is much wiser, saner and happier than the one with a sewer mind who would like to poison the whole human race because he cannot get the attention of the public any other way.

USE OF LEISURE TIME

Workers who sell eight hours or more of their time out of the twenty-four often take the attitude that the remaining hours are strictly their own to do with as they wish. This is true to a certain extent, but the way these hours off duty are spent has a great deal to do with the efficiency of the individual the next day. He may not have had sufficient rest. He is on the job, apparently working as hard as ever, but his mind is not sufficiently alert to grasp and handle the problems that come to him in his daily work as he should. So he bungles the job. Or his leisure time may have been spent in a debauch that makes it all but impossible for him to report for duty at all. When a man sells his services the buyer takes it for granted that a clear head and a steady hand are included in the bargain, and especially should this be true in the case of railroads. Railroads have long had a regulation prohibiting the use of intoxicants by employes when on duty, and making their habitual use or the frequenting places where they were sold as a cause for dismissal. The New York, New Haven & Hartford railway has amplified this ruling to include the use of narcotics and has made an additional regulation to the effect that employes are prohibited from using their time when not at work in a manner which may unfit them for the safe, prompt and efficient performance of their respective duties. "Employes must use their time off duty primarily for obtaining ample and proper rest," says this corporation.

Railroad employes who do not maintain their efficiency by sane living endanger the lives of the public. But any worker who thinks he can burn the candle at both ends and fool his employer by giving him what is left of his energy is harming himself more than anyone else.

FEDERAL AND LOCAL TAXES

It is a little discouraging to think that although federal taxes have been slightly reduced owing to the economy program of the president, our state, county and municipal taxes are increasing, and there has been considerable criticism of local officials all over the country on this count. Indeed, President Coolidge himself in his message to Congress called attention to this "ominous" condition.

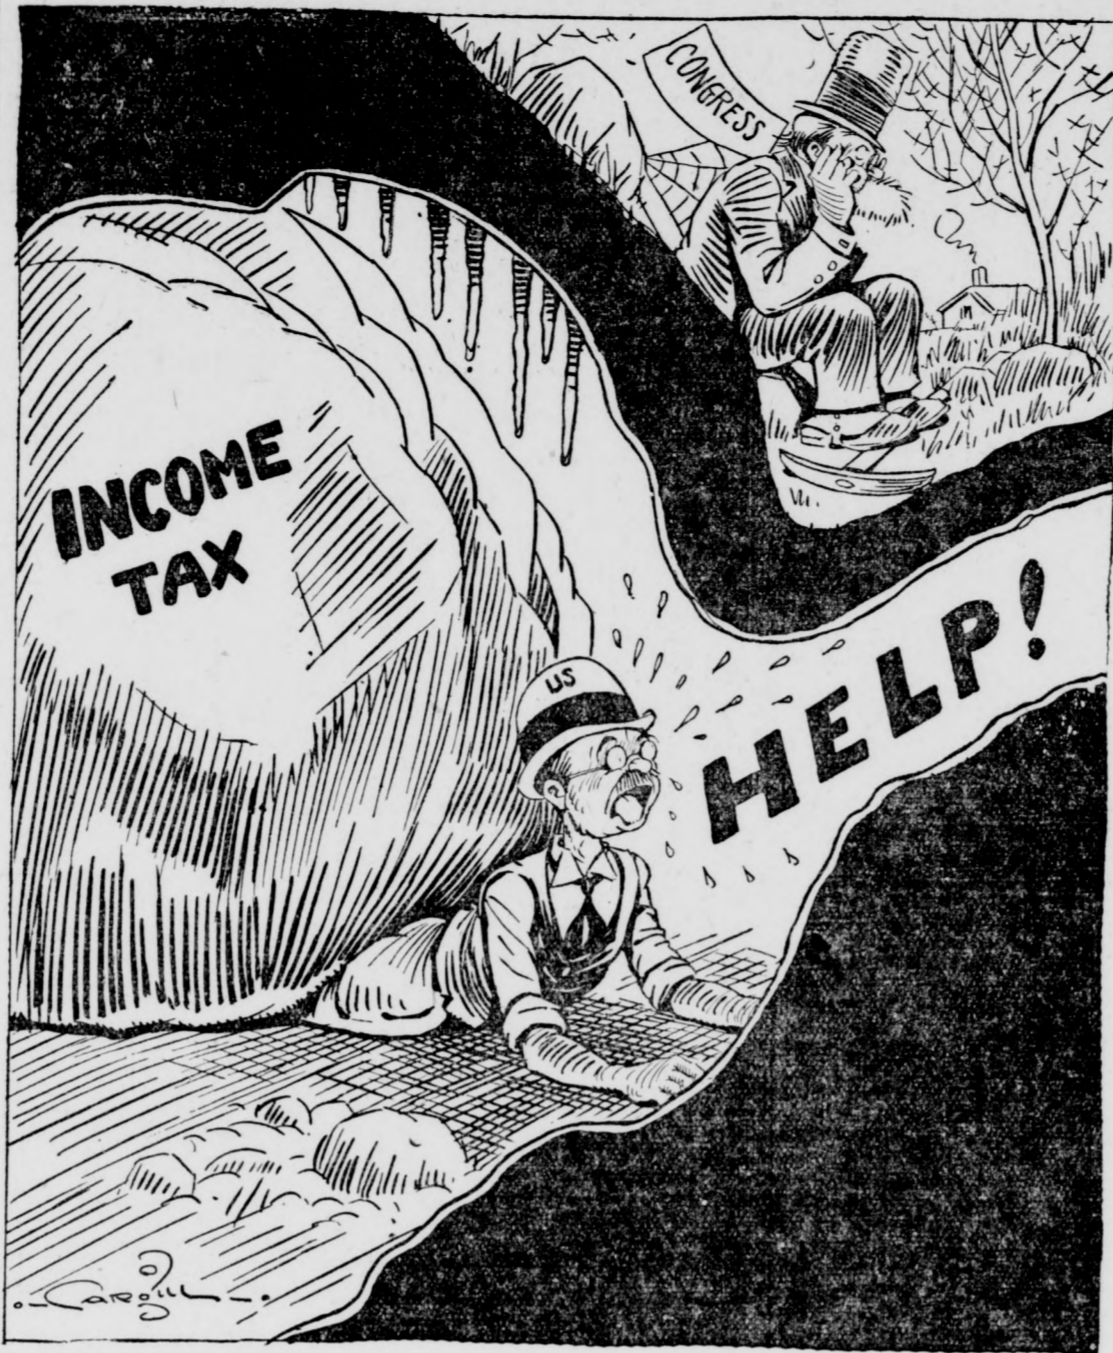

But it is explained that two-thirds of our federal taxes are levied to pay for the cost of the war and not for the ordinary functions of government. Since the war is over and partly paid for, federal taxes may be reduced. But the need for improvements for which state, county and municipal taxes are levied—roads, bridges, schoolhouses, waterworks, sewers, etc.—still goes on. Improvements of this kind all stopped during the war, although the need for them did not stop. Then, with the close of the war, public improvements began to be pushed with redoubled energy.

There is logic in this explanation, but the taxpayer, public-spirited though he be, would like to be assured that waste is being eliminated and efficiency promoted in the prosecution of these public improvements.

Innocent bystanders are not always innocent. They often run at break-neck speed to be on hand at the place of danger.

The fellow who told us to hitch our wagon to a star may have looked ahead and beheld the coming parking problem.

CAUGHT!

The Best of Advice

By CLARK KINNARD

There is an ever-growing tendency among those who inhabit this country to consider that the state can do no wrong; that whoever criticizes it is directly undermining the foundations of the republic. This tendency was given an enormous impetus during the late war, when hundreds of persons were locked up for saying what they believed to be true regarding what was going on in Washington. And the tendency, if somewhat less virulent, is no less apparent today.

In dealing with the state, we ought to remember, with Emerson, that its institutions are not as old as man, though they existed before we were born: That they are not superior to the citizen;

That every one of them was once the act of a single man; That every law and usage was a man's expedient to meet a particular situation; That they are all limited, all alterable;

That we may make as good; That we may make better.

"Society is an illusion to the young man," Emerson observed. "It lies before him in rigid repose, with certain names, men and institutions, rooted like oak trees to the center, round which all arrange themselves best they can."

But the old statesman knows that society is fluid; there are no such roots and centers; but any particle may suddenly become the center of the movement, and compel the system to gyrate round it.

We in America are too prone to take it for granted that the laws make the cities; that grave modifications of the policy and modes of living, and employments of the population; that commerce, education and religion may be voted in or out; and that any measure, if it were absurd, may be imposed on a people, if only you will get sufficient votes to make it a law.

"The wise know that foolish legislation is a rope of sand," Emerson opines. The state must follow, and not lead the character of the citizen.

Who's Who

While the world followed with breathless interest the acts of the recent drama of the northland and the heroic efforts of men and dogs to carry relief to the diphtheria-stricken districts of Alaska, Miss Emily Morgan was playing a heroine's role in the disease-ridden territory. Miss Morgan, for years a member of the Wichita, Kan., Public Health Nurses' association, is now in charge of the Maynard-Columbia hospital, Nome.

Miss Morgan left Wichita two years ago as a missionary among the Eskimos to Unalaska. Later she was transferred to the hospital at Nome, where her experience, part of which was gained in Wichita, gave her the responsible position she now holds.

She is a member of the College Hill Methodist church, and that institution is paying a part of her expenses as a missionary.

Miss Morgan's father, the late Henry Morgan, was one of the pioneer settlers of Butler county. He died two years ago, three years after Miss Morgan's mother died.

The Wichita nurse has two brothers, oil men, living in Eldorado, and two sisters, one married, living in Oklahoma, and the other, Miss Cora Morgan, also a missionary, in Korea.

Miss Emily Morgan served three years as an overseas nurse in the World War, resigning a position as superintendent of the Kingman hospital to enter the army service.

The east loses and the west gains a noted educator in the selection of Dean Roscoe Pound as president of the University of Wisconsin. He will assume his new duties at the beginning of the next school year.

Dean Pound will leave Harvard, where he has headed the law school for many years. Dean Roscoe Pound has long been recognized as one of the leading liberals of the country as well as one of its foremost educators in the field of jurisprudence. He has been a professor at Harvard since 1910 and dean of the law school since 1916.

Dean Pound was born in Lincoln, Neb., fifty-four years ago, and educated at the State university. Recently he has been mentioned as a possibility for attorney general and for one of the judges of the world court.

He opposed former Attorney General Palmer's "Red" prosecutions and has pleaded for amnesty for political prisoners. He was one of the instructors of the Boston Trade College and has been chairman of the American Bar Association's educational committee.

The Best Dressed Woman in Europe

By DR. FRANK CRANE

So passes the glory of this world! Mrs. Edward H. Smith-Wilkinson, the most expensively dressed woman in Europe, died the other day in a London nursing home.

Although she had no beauty, wit, knowledge, charm, connections or scandal, Mrs. Smith-Wilkinson attracted wide attention by sheer display in dress.

One of her gowns was beaded in diamonds, and was reported to be worth $5,000,000.

Mrs. Smith-Wilkinson's money was left her by her first husband. When she was past forty, she married a young man twenty years her junior, who left her, because he said that while she spent plenty of money, he got nothing, and was compelled to do manual labor and to act as his wife's maid for only a few shillings of spending money.

As we pass from the cradle to the grave, some acquire distinction in one way, and some in another. It is Mrs. Smith-Wilkinson's claim to distinction that she spent excessive money on dress. She has gone to a place where people do not dress at all—at least, according to conventional ideas, where they wear only nightgowns.

It is feared that she will be an undistinguished member of that community. To be noted for dress is to be famed for what you can put on, and the common report is that one is famous there for what he has inside of him. Nobody ever accused Mrs. Smith-Wilkinson of knowing anything, or having much adornment to her character. She has had to leave all her clothes behind, and all the money with which they were bought.

Perhaps the grief of those who mourn her will be all the more poignant on account of her death, for she lacked those things that make death beautiful.

Wild is thy lay and loud,
Far in the downy cloud,
Love gives it energy, love gave it birth;
Where, on thy dewy wing,
Where art thou journeying?
Thy lay is in heaven, thy love is on earth.

O'er fell and fountain sheen,
O'er moor and mountain green,
O'er the red streamer that heralds the day.

Over the cloudlet dim,
Over the rainbow's rim
Musical cherub, soar, singing away!

Then when the gloaming comes,
Low in the heather blooms,
Sweet will thy welcome and bed of love be!

Emblem of happiness,
Blest is thy dwelling place—
O to abide in the desert with thee!

—James Hogg.

Everyone is planning to attend the affair to be given under the auspices of the General Richard Gridley chapter, D. A. T. tonight. This is to be held at the home of the regent, Mrs. Mary Howard Gridley Braly and will be somewhat in the nature of a housewarming as Mr. and Mrs. Braly are throwing open the doors of their North Brand home for the first time since it was remodeled.

An eight page patriotic edition of The News will be published tomorrow.

Saturday morning a team of mules hitched to a wagon was seen by Deputy City Marshall E. G. Laurence, standing near Lund's blacksmith shop on Third street. Supposing the owner was somewhat near no more attention was paid to the mules until evening, when they were standing in the same place. They were cared for by the city marshal and up to the present time the owner has not put in his appearance.

COMMENT BY GIL A. COWAN

Politicians, including members of both houses of the Legislature, the lobbying third house and the Fourth Estate, are gathering in Sacramento today for the final half of the 1925 session of the California Legislature. The writer is "among those present." You will get the latest news and views on the lawmakers' activities through the columns of The Glendale Evening News.

It would appear that the majority issue in Los Angeles is pretty well decided in advance. The announcement that Judge Benjamin F. Bledsoe of the federal bench is to be a candidate seems to end the metropolis' quest for a prominent citizen to head the municipal government.

If a council is elected of similar quality to the judge, there will be no more petty political quarrels, no more inefficiency in departments and a heavy hand will smash the vice conditions of which so much is heard and so little done.

Glendale also is going to have a municipal election. From a safe distance, the writer can hope that a strong city council is placed in office to carry forward the progressive program initiated by their predecessors.

The governing of Glendale is just as important as the governing of Los Angeles. Far-seeing, sane, fearless men are necessary. Petty politicians, reactionaries and incompetents should get little consideration.

There should be no cliques, but a truly representative selection, as advocated by The Glendale Evening News, nominated and elected. And the only issue should be "A GREATER GLENDALE."

In naming W. E. Evans for Congress the people of the Ninth district of California will have a man who has had the years' experience in public life, the highest respect of the Republican party, the confidence of Glendale and the ability to take a high place in the ranks of the house of representatives at Washington.

While Mr. Evans is a practicing attorney, he is also a builder and subdivider in Glendale, having large property interests in this city where he has resided for fifteen years. He has NOT been a political office seeker, but he should be highly satisfactory as a worthy successor to Congressman Walter F. Lineberger who is to seek the senatorial toga at the next general election.

HARTMAN MARKET OFFERS BARGAINS

Enterprising Store To Mark Opening of Avenue With Attractive Prices

Commemorating the opening of Central avenue, after an extensive period of widening and repair work, Hartman's market, at 133-135 South Central avenue, has arranged an attractive list of prices on meat specials for Saturday, as announced in a full-page advertisement which appears elsewhere in today's Glendale Evening News.

Several big food demonstrations are planned for the occasion and, as an inducement, the market is giving free carryall bags, lard, ham sandwiches and samples of cottage cheese. Meats of the highest qualities will be offered at special prices, and the market points with pride to the fact that quality reigns, as prime steer beef only is handled. Plenty of parking space is available, it is announced.

Daley's, "the store in partnership with the public," located in the same building, will offer attractive bargains in foodstuffs tomorrow in connection with Hartman's market. Shopping bags for adults and novelties for kiddies will be given, it is announced.

Childless Marriage Most Frequent In Divorce

LONDON, Feb. 20.—Of 2,824 divorce suits brought in Great Britain last year 1,166 of the couples concerned were childless, according to statistics recently issued here. Supporting the argument that childless marriages are more often than not the cause of unhappiness in the home, the statistics show that there were 896 divorce cases brought in which there was one child, 444 cases in which the parties had two children and 219 cases in which there were three to six children. There were 166 divorce cases brought in which the parties had over six children. The statistics also show that most divorces are brought after the parties have been married from five to ten years. There were only sixteen suits brought where the parties had been married under one year and only 321 after twenty years.

AIR BOMBING

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 20.—Admirals Robert Coontz and S. S. Robison of the United States navy, who watched naval aviators smother a target with twenty-five bombs off the coast here today, declared the demonstration was "highly successful." The bombs were dropped from 4,000 and 6,000 feet.

Comical Emblem Typifying Store's Policy Makes Appearance Today

"Officer Save" made his scheduled appearance at the De Luxe Public Market, 214 South Brand today, and was on time to the minute, according to Henry Quastl, proprietor. "Officer Save" in reality is the hero of a comic cartoon which will appear from week to week in the advertisements of this market published every Friday in The Glendale Evening News. This interesting and comical little fellow—"Officer Save"—typifies in looks and spirit the purpose of the market in providing the very best products at the lowest possible prices for the people of Glendale. Windmills Gradually Pass Out of Holland

AMSTERDAM, Feb. 20.—No longer will windmills be symbolical of Holland, for they are gradually disappearing in favor of the modern product—the steam and electrically driven mill. Recent storms have caused considerable damage to the few old-time windmills that still remain, and one of the best-known mills in Holland, De Hoop, is to have its sails removed on the advice of engineers.

Brown evangelistic party spoke to fifty-three young women at the meeting of the Christian Circle club last night at the First Methodist church. The club sang, "Have Thine Own Way, Lord," and Miss E. Maud Soper, Bible instructor for the club, gave a short talk in which she told that the Christian Circle club was organized in Glendale four years ago after the John Brown meeting had closed and that the organization of the club was an outgrowth of that meeting.

Second—Five gallons Premier eastern oil.

Third—Twenty-five gallons Premier Dependable gas.

Fourth—Fifteen gallons Premier Dependable gas.

Fifth—Ten gallons Premier Dependable gas.

Sixth—Five gallons Premier Dependable gas and two quarts oil.

Seventh—Five gallons Premier Dependable gas and one quart oil.

Eighth—Car greased throughout.

Ninth—Car washed and polished.

Tenth—One gallon eastern oil.

Eleventh—For Fords only, a new horn.

Twelfth—For the baby, one quart Crescent Creamery Co. milk delivered free for one month.

"I am a newcomer to Glendale, but I am 100 per cent for this rapidly growing city," says Mr. Coleman. "I got away to a bad start on Central avenue after a large investment, due to the torn-up condition of the street while it was being widened and paved, but I am not one bit discouraged and am now ready for the big business I know I am going to get."

"The Glendale Motor Martre is equipped to offer every variety of automobile service to the public. Each department is in charge of an expert. Chet Martin, who heads the tire department, is an experienced and able man at the business. He is on the job from 8 o'clock in the morning until 10 o'clock at night, every week day, and is also on the job Sundays."

"W. F. Howe, at the pumps, dispenses Premier gas and gives service with a smile. He is well known in Glendale and has many followers. Joe Gardner, the battery and electrical man, was until recently at 106 West Harvard street. He has had many years of experience in the electrical business. His specialty is Presto-O-Lite batteries.

"Bud Pierce heads the auto cleaning department, which does washing, polishing and steam cleaning. This department is also open Sundays, for the benefit of those who cannot spare their cars during the week."

"I am very grateful to the many loyal patrons who have stood by me during the reconstruction period on Central avenue, detouring several blocks in order to trade at the Glendale Motor Martre. Central avenue had to be widened and paved. The importance of the street as a north and south thoroughfare warranted it. Now that the work has been completed, I am confident it has a great business future."

"The city engineering department reports that the Central avenue proceedings have gone through smoother than any proceedings of recent date," says Charles B. Guthrie, president of the Central Avenue Improvement association. "The reason for this is that we tried to thresh out every detail of the project before taking it up with the City Council.

"Our first meeting was in March, 1923, when I was elected president. We decided to widen and improve Central avenue primarily because it was the longest straight street without car tracks in the city of Glendale, connecting the entire Kenneth road and northwest district, including Casa Verdugo, with Los Angeles, via San Fernando road.

"Central avenue at that time was not only too narrow but the paving was in an abominable condition, due to long years of wear and tear. The street was, moreover, poorly lit and was, all in all, so ill an artery that traffic and business went elsewhere. Feeling that it was imperative to correct this situation without delay, and that Glendale was growing at a rate fairly demanding it, we set about to obtain the result now happily at hand—a fine, wide boulevard, lit with beautiful ornamental standards and carrying all service facilities, including sewer connections to every piece of property, vacant and improved, alike.

It was because a few of us with the vision could see in the future a Glendale of 200,000 population, that we decided to improve Central avenue. Following our first meeting in March, 1923, an article appeared in The Glendale Evening News, setting forth in detail the situation existing and the steps that were necessary to correct it. The response was instantaneous and overwhelming, and of it sprang the Central Avenue Improvement association, one of the most powerful and most successful bodies of its kind ever created in Glendale or any other city of like size.

"Those who drive up and down Central avenue may wonder why the sidewalks are so close to the curbs and why a number of buildings are not set back the proper distance. They should know that condemnation proceedings are on to widen the street another ten feet on either side, making a 100-foot boulevard from property line to property line. These proceedings must go through the courts unless a prior agreement is reached. For this reason no steps can be taken to put in sidewalks until the property is pronounced legally condemned. Property owners who so desire may set back their buildings at the present time and this has been done in some instances.

"I am indeed grateful, personally, for the wonderful and wholehearted co-operation lent by the property owners along Central avenue, who have set aside personal feeling and have forgotten personal cost, in joining to make this great project successful. For myself, I have furnished only the idea. The property owners did the work and they are the ones who deserve the credit. They will now profit handsomely by the increased value of their holdings.

"It is to be hoped the work can be carried north to Kenneth road on Central avenue, making it a street of uniform width, uniformly paved and lighted, from one end to the other.

"Judge Albert M. Stephens of Los Angeles, than whom there is no man better posted on real estate values and their response to street improvement, stated to me the other day that Central avenue is destined to be the finest street of any suburban city in Southern California. So say we all of us!"

"Central avenue now takes its rightful position as the Fifth avenue of Glendale," declares J. M. Boland, former president of the Colorado Boulevard Improvement association and an active member of the Central Avenue Improvement association. "It is the outstanding high-class shopping and apartment house street of the city, leading from San Fernando road on the south, one of the chief highways of the state, to Kenneth road on the north, the main artery of Glendale's most exclusive residential section.

"Some people objected to the removal of trees from Central avenue but anyone who will drive up and down this street now and picture what it will be in another year, when the buildings have all been set back and sidewalks have been put in, will realize that trees, while admittedly beautiful, are not everything. You can't conduct high-class business behind trees. There are plenty of sections in Glendale where trees are appropriate and where there will always be trees.

"Now that Central avenue has been made into a superbly paved boulevard, sixty-eight feet wide from curb to curb, and soon will be 100 feet wide from property line to property line, many long-contemplated buildings are soon to rise. H. F. Metcalf is planning to erect a business block at the northwest corner of Central avenue and Ivy street. Edwards & Willey have said they will put up a business block on the site of their realty office at the northeast corner of Broadway and Central avenue. H. E. Hoar of Hollywood has declared his intention of erecting a store and office building on Central avenue between Broadway and Hawthorne street. J. Herbert Smith is planning to remove his grocereria to a new building to be erected on his property just north of Mr. Hoar's lot. The Packer Auto Co. will soon build and remove to the Central avenue is now open to the public. Paved a uniform width of sixty-eight feet from curb to curb, from Broadway on the north to San Fernando road on the south, with Western Metal two-globe ornamental street lighting standards its entire length, this boulevard becomes one of the finest thoroughfares in Southern California and is tendered to the motoring public by the Central Avenue Improvement association as the culmination of a campaign that was months in process of development.

An official celebration in honor of the opening of this boulevard will be held early in March, when electric connections are completed and current can be turned into the lights, it is announced by Charles B. Guthrie, president of the Central Avenue Improvement association. The street is opened at this time for the convenience of the public.

Central avenue from Broadway to San Fernando road is paved with a four-inch asphaltic concrete base and one and one-half inch Warrenite wearing surface, according to resolution of intention No. 2431, adopted by the Glendale City Council June 5, 1924. The contract was awarded to W. F. Hanrahan of San Francisco, July 24, 1924, and was signed August 15, 1924. It expires April 12, 1925.

The contract price was $267,731.60, and includes grading, paving, curbs, sidewalks, ornamental street lights, cast-iron water pipe, vitrified clay sewer pipe, house connections, junction chambers, flush tanks and culverts. Approximately 8 per cent will be added to this cost for engineering, inspection and other expenses in connection with the work, according to John F. Johannsen, Glendale city engineer and street superintendent, under whose supervision the job was done.

Extreme care was taken at every stage of the work, declares Mr. Johannsen, and daily tests were made, samples of the materials being forwarded to the Raymond Osborne laboratories of Los Angeles for analysis.

The Central Avenue Improvement association is well pleased with the prompt manner in which Mr. Hanrahan has executed the job, carrying it to practical completion two months before the expiration of his contract. The fact that this street is open to the public sixty days before the time allowed Mr. Hanrahan is cause for congratulation, declares Mr. Guthrie.

Central avenue is eighty feet wide from property line to property line, at the present time, but condemnation proceedings filed May 23, 1924, will provide another ten feet on either side, from Broadway to San Fernando road,

MORRIS RADIO CO. OPENS CITY STORE

New Concern Is Located On South Brand With All Modern Equipment

Tomorrow will mark the opening of the Morris Radio Co., a new concern, which is located at 217 South Brand boulevard. W. J. Morris is the proprietor, and Carl Pierson, a licensed radio operator, will be connected with the firm.

Mr. Morris comes to Glendale from Los Angeles where, for six years, he was connected with the Everhot Electrical Manufacturing Co. as foreman of its Los Angeles factory. Previous to this time Mr. Morris was engaged in the electrical business in Wales, Great Britain. He stated to The Evening News that, for ten years or more, he has followed every phase of the electrical business.

New Sets Built

A very interesting radio set is being displayed in the show window of the new store. It is a superheterodyne set, and has successfully reached all government station codes in America and all foreign countries. With this set Mr. Pierce, in Kansas City, received the first report of the death of the Pope in Rome, some few years ago. His message came about one hour before the cablegrams were received by the Kansas City papers.

The Morris Radio Co. will build new radio sets, repair radio equipment, etc. It will have the agency for the Pathé and Mohawk radio sets.

88 War Damage Claims Against Germany Fixed

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—Eighty-eight decisions were handed down today by the German-American mixed claims commission, awarding damages ranging from small amounts to thousands of dollars to American citizens who had war damage claims against the German government. The largest single award was $128,000 to the Remington Typewriter Co. of New York. Four claims arising out of the sinking of the Lusitania were decided and awards made totalling $61,000.

southeast corner of Colorado boulevard and Central avenue. These are just a few of the many building projects for which, in all probability, permits will be taken out during 1925.

"H. F. Metcalf, who is planning to build at the northwest corner of Central avenue and Ivy street, has already gone to an expense of $3,500 in setting back and remodeling his store building at 117 South Central avenue, waiting all rights under the condemnation proceedings. This is a commendable act and shows the progressive disposition of Central avenue property owners. It is men such as Mr. Metcalf who, possessed of broad vision, can see the future of Central avenue."

"Mr. Metcalf bought his property at 117 South Central avenue from O. M. Newby, a pioneer Glendale real estate broker, and it is due to the friendship existing between Mr. Newby and himself, Central avenue's eighteen years' standing, that he volunteered to set back his building at his own expense. The Central Avenue Improvement association is deeply appreciative of the co-operation of Mr. Metcalf, Mr. Newby and others, who have overcome the progress of this boulevard."

"I have had a vision of the future of Central avenue for many years," says O. M. Newby, president of the Broadway Improvement association and an active member of the Central Avenue Improvement association. "Today that vision looks bright, indeed, I see Central avenue as a high-class business thoroughfare unparalleled in Southern California."

"There are several reasons why this should be so. First, Central avenue is a long, straight, well-paved and well-lighted, leading from the gateway to the Verdugo hills, on the north, to the gateway of Los Angeles, on the south. Second, Central avenue is the widest boulevard in Glendale without car tracks, yet but two blocks west of and paralleling Brand boulevard, which carries the Pacific Electric line. Third, Central avenue receives twice as many east and west streets from San Fernando road as it passes on to Brand boulevard. Fourth, Central avenue is the closest high-class shopping street to the great industrial district now developing below and tributary to San Fernando road. Fifth, the great northwest residential section is just beginning to come into its own, and in the years ahead will pour an enormous stream of golden traffic down Central avenue."

"There are many other reasons why I prophesy that Central avenue will yield a rich harvest to property owners, merchants and apartment house owners. The north end of Central avenue, particularly, is well adapted to apartment-house construction, being choicely located and in the very center of an area that will become more and more densely populated as the city grows. I predict apartment houses twelve stories high, on North Central avenue, within the next five years. It happened in Hollywood and Long Beach, and it will happen in Glendale."

TUJUNGA NOTES

TUJUNGA, Feb. 20.—Next Tuesday a dinner will be served women of the Methodist Community church by the Men's Brotherhood of the church. The banquet is being planned entirely without feminine aid and the men expect to show their guests a few culinary tricks. Charles Randel is scheduled to give the principal address of the evening.

Rumors, have aroused Tujunga community with hints of a consolidation and incorporation of all the Verdugo hills towns, including Flintridge, La Canada, Montrose, La Crescenta, Verdugo City, Tujunga and Sunland. The rumors point with apprehension to the supposed existence of a band or ring of "Private Interests" that is seeking to deliver the several communities into a state of bondage by controlling the water supply. The rumors hold out fear for the present well supply, which, as a matter of fact, has showed no signs of weakening, according to water company officials and has withstood the ravages of the recent dry season, the worst in many years, with an abundant surplus of water.

The rumors are most particular in secreting the names of the authors of this propaganda. They speak of annexing Tujunga and Sunland to Montrose and La Crescenta and in the next breath declare this not necessary, as Tujunga is independent in the water supply situation. There are also hints of building up the home community and making it the hub of the Verdugo hills, with the alternative of annexing to Los Angeles, altogether, these rumors indicate that there is an abundance of imagination rampant in the Verdugo hills, this proving the contention that the hills are a wonderful source of inspiration.

In spite of the strong rumors in the neighborhood, business and social circles show little alarm. Patterson's market in Daley's store on Sunset has been closed out and another one opened by a new proprietor. Mr. Patterson is a pioneer merchant of Tujunga and operated a store on Michigan avenue for several years. His son Dick recently sold the feed and fuel store he operated on Sunset boulevard.

Dr. Maria W. Norris of Grand Rapids, Mich., has been the guest of Dr. Virginia T. Smith. Mrs. S. E. Royston and Mrs. Mary Hahn of Ocean Park recently rented an apartment of Miss Macfie for a stay in Tujunga.

A Woman's Missionary society has been organized by women of the Methodist Community church. Forty charter members were enrolled by Mrs. M. V. McQuigg of Pasadena, who undertook the organization of the local society.

ANOTHER PLEA TO SAVE CITY TREES

Mrs. L. E. Richardson Joins In Protesting Plan To Destroy Shade

Editor The Evening News—I wish to most emphatically join my protest with that of Mrs. Hartley Shaw, expressed in Wednesday night's News, against the removal of any more of our beautiful trees. The march of progress in Glendale has too often involved the destruction of the trees, our best friends in nature, aids to comfort and beauty and a reminder to us of the wisdom of our founders, who planted those trees that the future generations might enjoy them.

Some of our Glendale folk, with their mistaken ideas of progress, must have moved to Hollywood, and the immediate result was the formation of an association of determined citizens to save the trees in the commercial district. Hollywood has saved her trees and built around them, when necessary, and the result is a national reputation for beauty and artistic planning.

Save Trees

Shall we be behind Hollywood in conserving our natural resources, or shall we leave to our children nothing but wind-swept pavements and staving lamp posts, as a reminder to them of our wisdom and sense of artistic values?

Let us plan wisely and not allow anybody to stampee us into doing away with anything that makes for the future good and beauty of Glendale as much as do the trees. Let us save the trees, and plant more of them. Earnestly for the saving of the trees.

MRS. L. E. RICHARDSON,
1556 South Brand.

Central Avenue Paving Is Big Development

making a 100-foot boulevard leading direct from Los Angeles to the Glendale foothills, the heart of a district of beautiful homes.

North of Broadway and extending to Lexington drive, Central avenue is to be paved ten feet on either side with the same material put in on the portion of the job just completed, according to an order of the City Council dated March 20, 1924.

With the opening of Central avenue, a great surge of business is predicted up and down this street, for the history of street improvements shows that trade follows traffic. From Broadway to Windsor road, and from Park avenue to San Fernando road, Central avenue is zoned for business, records show, while the section between Park avenue and Windsor road is zoned as a residential and apartment-house district.

Several service stations occupy important corners on Central avenue, and all report doing a big business since the street has been opened. Grocery stores, meat markets and many other lines of business located along this thoroughfare report volume of business beyond all expectations, since the opening of this street to automobile travel.

According to H. C. Vandewater, building superintendent, many inquiries regarding substantial construction on undeveloped sites along Central avenue have come to his attention within the past few days, and it appears certain that capital will seek investment here on a large scale, in the months to come.

STEAMER SEIZED

SHANGHAI, Feb. 20.—An American upper Yangtze steamer has been seized by the Chinese military authorities at Kweichowfu, according to a message received here from Ichang, an upper Yangtze port. The captain of the vessel was arrested and the American passengers on board are being detained, the message said.

Officers elected were: Mrs. A. M. Price, president; Mrs. Freda Lutz, first vice-president; Miss Lotta Hicks, second vice-president; Mrs. Blackmore, secretary; Mrs. Abarta, treasurer; Mrs. Freda Lutz, home corresponding secretary; Mrs. E. W. Pasko, foreign corresponding secretary; Dr. Stella Conner, secretary of literature; Mrs. May Taylor, Miss Lotta Hicks and Mrs. Freda Lutz, transportation committee.

Reinforce Glands To Keep Young Says Scientist

Dr. Arnold Lorand of Austria says in his book, "Old Age Deferred," in speaking of the glands: "We must insist upon the reinforcement of their functions if changed by age or disease by means of extracts obtained from the similar organs of healthy young animals."

Glandogen, the new scientific gland tonic, prepared in tablet form, provides a simple method of taking glandular treatment.

Hundreds of men and women who are weak, worn-out and run-down, are taking Glandogen to awaken the de-vitalized glands, so they may continue their normal function of supplying the vital glandular secretions so necessary to physical energy and perfect health.

Glandogen is obtainable at Ahlmann Drug Co., Brand at Harvard. Free booklets on request.—Advertisement.

California's Rainfall May Set New Record

MARIPOSA, Feb. 20.—Emergence of California from a ten-year period in which rainfall has been below the average is indicated, according to weather prophets, in the record kept for thirty years at the courthouse. From 1895 to 1905, the rainfall averaged 34.20 inches annually; from 1905 to 1915 the average was 34 inches, but from 1915 to 1925 the average was but 28.81 inches, according to the courthouse rain gauge. Rainfall for the season of 1923-24 was 12.90 inches, nearly six inches less than the lowest previous record of 19.02 in 1911-12.

Sneakthief Makes Way With Bottle of Blood

MARYSVILLE, Feb. 20.—Somewhere in the vicinity of Marysville a sneak thief is avoiding officers of the law with his sole booty a small bottle of blood and a stethoscope. Dr. P. B. Hoffman had just taken the blood from a patient in order to make a test and placed it beside the stethoscope in his automobile for a moment. When he returned after a short absence, it had disappeared.

Compulsory Labor Is Required in Turkey

CONSTANTINOPLE, Feb. 20.—Turkish citizens will have to work whether they want to or not in the future, according to a new law recently passed by the national assembly at Ankara. The bill imposes on all male inhabitants of Turkey compulsory labor on roads for six to twelve days a year.

Bees Stop Laying by Hens; Rancher Sues

OAKDALE, Feb. 20.—Mayor Wood of this city and City Attorney Reeder are trying to ascertain if a suburban rancher can claim damages from the city because, he alleges, bees living in Oakdale apiaries congregate around the watering places for his poultry with the result that they have stopped laying. City Attorney Reeder evoked the opinion that unless the bees are marked in such manner that they can be identified, the rancher will lack proof to sustain his contention.

Cross-Word Fans Meet Mr. Dadalogirlejoraklas

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, Ohio, Feb. 20.—Cross-word puzzle addicts among Belmont county court attaches closed their dictionaries and then stood aghast at the application of Kistides Dadalogirlejoraklas to become a citizen of the United States. "Dad"—etc., who is forty-two, resides in Martin's Ferry and is a mill worker.

Mariposa Courthouse Seventy-one Years Old

MARIPOSA, Feb. 20.—Seventy-one years ago when Mariposa county included Fresno, Tulare and Kern counties, the courthouse was completed and today it is claimed to be the oldest occupied county building in California. Sixty-five years ago the town clock which surmounts the structure began ticking off the seconds and today it is still an accurate timekeeper. The song which sounds the hours is an old church bell brought here by some pioneer.

Germany Supplies Most American Immigrants

DETROIT, Mich., Feb. 20.—Italy and Russia have supplanted Ireland and England among leading contributors to the foreign-born population of the United States in the last twenty-five years, according to A. W. Frye, supreme commander of the Maccaiees, in an address here. Germany, he said, has maintained first place. Caesar's Villa Found On Lake Nemi Shore

ROME, Feb. 20.—What is thought to be the villa of Julius Caesar has been found on the lower slopes of the shores of Lake Nemi. Several skeletons were found in positions that indicated they had been overtaken by some eruption or earthquake.

Heart on Right Side, Turkish Man Healthy

CONSTANTINOPLE, Feb. 20.—The remarkable case of a young man whose heart and other essential organs are in the right side of his body is engaging the attention of the doctors at the Gulphane hospital in this city. The doctors declare the man is in no way troubled or inconvenienced, and that he will probably live to a ripe old age. Decline in the price of coal in Italy saved the government railways $10,000,000 last year.

CASEY TROPHY PRESENTED TO TEAM

Glendale Championship Club Receives Prize For Diamond Leaders

The official presentation of the $500 trophy, won by the Glendale K. C. baseball team and representing the state championship, took place last night at the Knights of Columbus clubhouse, 330 East Lomita avenue. The trophy was presented to Harry Manush, manager of the ball team which defeated Oakland, 7 to 5, at Oakland last Sunday, and annexed the state title.

Mr. Manush, in accepting the trophy on behalf of the team and the lodge, recounted many amusing incidents of the game. He told of the thrilling ninth inning, when Glendale was one run behind, two men were out and two strikes on Cozington, when Cozington rapped out a hit that started the rally and resulted in three runs.

Members of the championship baseball team were present at the meeting and were introduced by Manager Manush. The trophy was presented by Matt Gallagher, state chairman of the athletic committee. Jesse Smith, who was present at the championship game, told of the fine work of the players and the hard struggle to bring the cup to Glendale.

Bowling Team Plans It was announced the bowling team, with a record of twenty games won and one game lost, would meet the Los Angeles council bowling team tonight at the Glendale Elks' clubhouse.

Past grand knights of the order were in charge of the meeting last night. Among the distinguished visitors present last night were: Joseph Scott, past state deputy; Thomas P. White, present state deputy; Frank Arnold, of Hollywood, district deputy; and Harry Ryan of Santa Clara college.

Mr. White's visit was his official visit to the club. Rev. Ryan spoke on the fund being raised to build an observatory for Father Ricard, the "rain padre," at San Jose, and told of the work being accomplished for the state by Father Ricard.

Peter L. Ferry presided as grand knight, Henry M. Doll officiated as deputy grand knight, Leslie E. Wright was chancellor, Jesse E. Smith was inside guard and Harry Girard had charge of the good of the order. Following the meeting refreshments were served.

Young Folks Demonstrate Dance Number Features At High School

Four special numbers were given during the Community Sing in the Harvard High school auditorium last night including song and dance numbers by pupils of Pearl Keller and vocal solos by A. R. Burton. "O Dry Those Tears" (Teresa Del Rago) and "I Love You Truly" (Bond) and "Kashmiria Song" (Lawrence Hope) were given by Mr. Burton. Miss Jackson, pianist, was called from the audience to sing an attractive folk number.

Little Miss Catherine Jane Bruner gave two readings, "Boy" and "Woes of a Boy," and Miss Ina Clare Fletcher rendered a dainty toe dance. A dance number was given by Miss Marie Louise Brown and John Blades, who appeared in the "Adoration Waltz."

Brown Tells Audience To Set Good Example

Christian living ourselves, we can bring the entire city of Glendale back within one year. The evangelist deplored the fact that, through worldliness and inconsistency, God is hearing the "voice of our brother's blood crying from the ground."

"I am not talking of the brother of your own blood, but of the united people of God in your blood. Go out, each of you, and bring those unsaved men and women in. They cannot hear the teachings of the Gospel unless they come where the Gospel is being taught," the speaker said. This morning Mr. Brown continued his discourse on "Come Unto Me." His special topic was "The Rest Giver." Tonight, it was announced, will be young people's night, with the entire center section of the tabernacle reserved. A large delegation from Monrovia, where Mr. Brown will preach upon leaving Glendale, is expected to attend tonight's service, when the evangelist will preach on "The Heavenly Vision."

NEW YORK CLOSING

By W. S. COITZINS For International News Service

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—Trading in the stock market today centered around a number of the active industrial and railroad stocks, prices of which mounted quickly to the highest levels of the year and in some cases to record high prices. Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific common stock, on a spectacular run up to 50%, an advance of 7 points from the low of the week, sold at the highest price since listing on the stock exchange in 1917. Rumors of a merger with Southern Pacific accompanied the heaviest trading in this stock in many a day. New Haven at 34% was within a fraction of its highest price since 1919.

Urgent buying of Baldwin Locomotive, which soared to 143½, up 16 points from the low of the week, was the feature of the industrial list. Strong forward movements continued in the high-priced industrial and specialty stocks. American Locomotive was up 4 at 124; American Can up 3; Savage Arms 4½; Mack Trucks 2; Sears-Roebuck up 5; General Electric 3; Dupont up 2. Tobacco stocks continued the vigorous rally which has been in progress since the first of the week, with American Tobacco, United Cigars and Tobacco Products in the lead.

RAILROADS IN OPEN FIGHT ON AUTOS

Court Told Motor Car Is Unfair Competition; Business Lost

By WILLIAM PARKER
For International News Service.
NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—The railroads have been running a race with automobiles for supremacy, and the railroads are beginning to lag.

The railroads now have gone to court about it. They contend that the automobile comes under the head of unfair competition. Every sixth person in the United States owns an automobile, according to late statistics. What this means to railroads, especially those carrying interurban, or commuter traffic, is to be seen by what C. L. Harbo, general manager of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad, has to say on the subject.

"In 1914 we sold 33,954,511 local tickets," he said. "In 1923 we sold 24,284,226 local tickets."

The New Haven road figured its loss through passenger traffic alone in 1923 at $13,309,000. The combined loss to the New Haven road through decreased ticket sales and because of freight shipped by auto truck was $21,800,000 in 1923, according to Harbo.

Check of Trucks

A check of auto trucks, loaded with freight, was made on one of the Connecticut highways. It showed that there was an average of one motor truck passing every minute for the twenty-four hours.

With this situation facing it, the New Haven road filed in the superior court at Providence, R. I., application for injunctions against fifteen bus lines operating out of Rhode Island. In a formal statement, the railroad company announced:

"This is the first step to be taken by the New Haven road and the street railways in their efforts to protect their revenues and service from irresponsible competition."

Vice-President A. P. Russell, of the New Haven, said: "The New Haven cannot longer stand by and see its property jeopardized by this sort of competition. The New Haven proposes to protect the public and its property by aggressive action rather than passive submission."

"Save Railroads!" In the thickly settled New England districts it is extremely difficult to make an extended trip by interurban electric cars. An inquiry almost always brings the information that "that line has been abandoned; you'll have to take an auto stage."

The Boston & Maine railroad has just asked the Interstate Commerce commission for authority to abandon three branch lines, giving as its reason "increased use of automobiles has made the further operation of these branches unprofitable."

That noted railroad president who was quoted as saying, "Damn the public!" would be greatly surprised were he to come to New England today, for the people have banded together to aid the railroads. Slogans have been written, one of the most effective being:

"Be patriotic—save the railroads!"

Spanish Is Learned By Tuning In On Havana

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Feb. 20.—A new use for the radio has been discovered by a Syracuse schoolboy. He is Richard Gaggin, who is studying Spanish by "tuning in" on Havana. Through the air, he finds mastery of the language is far less difficult than by learning it by means of text and grammar in the classroom. The innovation is the result of the formation of a radio unit at Nottingham Junior High school under the personal supervision of W. J. Knight, acting principal.

Wax Sweethearts Now Are Fad In England

LONDON, Feb. 20.—Have you a little wax sweetie in your home? Wax models of sweethearts are the latest fad of Europe's lovers. Life-size models, made in wax, of friends, sweethearts and even wives are being sought by the faddists. Instead of oil paintings and sculptures, Louis Tussaud, of the famous Madame Tussaud's Wax works, now is engaged upon wax figures of several theatrical stars.

GRAZING MEASURE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—Ending a two-hour filibuster staged by Senators Cameron, Republican, and Ashurst, Democrat of Arizona, the Senate this afternoon passed the Cameron resolution directing the secretary of agriculture to waive all requirements of grazing fees for use of national forests during 1925.

BETTER BUILT HOMES—Not Merely Houses

Folks who own Pacific Homes are saving money

Neither we nor our parent organization, Pacific Ready-Cut Homes, Inc., solicit business on the strength of the price argument as we have a quality product to offer that is far more important than the price. Yet almost every day the mails carry letters of appreciation to the Pacific mill from satisfied customers. Hundreds of Pacific owners claim they have made savings of $500 or more. A greater number claim savings of from $100 to $300. But all unanimously agree that the quality of materials is far superior to that found in the ordinary type of house.

If you are anxious to build a home that you will be proud of, which embodies the utmost in quality and good workmanship it will pay you to consult us—and our estimates will interest you.

CITY WORKERS DO FARMING ON SIDE

Many Frisco Employees Live Fifty Miles Away on Cultivated Farms

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 20.—Men and women workers in San Francisco earning as low as $40 a week are buying small farms in the Santa Clara, San Joaquin, Sacramento or Napa valleys all reached within a few hours by automobile. Many of these city workers farm their acreages over the week-end, leaving the city Saturday noons and stirring about early Monday morning to streak back over the highways to their jobs in town.

The steady influx of land-buying settlers from east of the Rockies, Canada and Europe has awakened the wage earner of California cities to the fact that he will have to hurry to make his dream come true. He has seen California land values rise steadily for the last fifteen years and has watched the California farmer grow wealthy and he, too, wants a stake in the land before it becomes impossible for him to afford the coveted slice of acreage.

At least three newspapermen working on the staffs of San Francisco newspapers are farming at long distance, one with a pear orchard, another with a chicken acreage and a third with an almond orchard. Some San Francisco business men commute to their farms daily for as much as 50 miles. One man commutes daily to Petaluma in order to live on his chicken ranch. Petaluma being 40 miles travel by ferry and train. Another who owns more than 100 acres in the rich prune district 50 miles south of San Francisco has managed alone and unaided to plant several thousand trees by week-end farming. In the aggregate there are probably several thousand city workers who jump from offices, store or shop to the farm every week-end to help make the farm pay for itself.

Reward Promised For Reliable Servant Girl

LONDON, Feb. 20.—"Wanted. A truthful, happy, willing girl trained as servant. If there is one." "Fifteen dollars reward to anyone finding a really reliable servant."

England's servant problem is going from bad to worse, and the above two "ads" selected at random from the newspapers show how desperately anxious people are to get good servants.

The trouble is not the shortage of servants, but that there are no trained servants. Mistresses are complaining that every servant girl taken on now is either lazy or dirty, or unwilling and thieving, and that it is terribly hard to find a girl who is willing to work hard and who is honest and clean.

They complain that a girl will not stay unless she is addressed as "Miss," and that she demands high wages for little labor.

Fleet Of Autos Tour South Of New England

GLOUCESTER, Mass., Feb. 20.—An unusual advertisement of New England—Gloucester, in particular—as a summer resort, is somewhere between here and Florida today. A fleet of forty automobiles, led by a machine decorated to represent Thatchers Island, has been dispatched to the sunny South by the local chamber of commerce. The duplicate of Thatchers is true in every detail, topographically, and even includes the two beacons well known to navigators in these waters. The local chamber has sent lecturers with the delegation to spread the praises of New England throughout the resorts of the South.

World's Smallest Baby Fed By Fountain Pen

LONDON, Jan. 20.—Mary Waghorn of Hastings, is one of the world's smallest babies. She weighed only three and half pounds at birth, instead of the usual nine, and measured exactly twelve inches from head to toe. A perfectly normal child, she is thriving under special treatment, which includes being fed with a fountain pen filler every two hours. Doctors state that there is no reason why she should not grow up a normal, healthy child of very few women.

EYE'S RAY POWER MOVES THIS ROD

Remarkable Invention Shows Electrical Radiation In Human Glance

LONDON, Feb. 20.—What is probably one of the strangest and most remarkable inventions of the present century, namely, a solenoid rod that will move when looked at, has just been patented by Charles A. Russ, a member of the Royal College of Scientists.

It has been designed primarily to test the theory that the human eye is capable of emitting an invisible form of ray or radiation, and Russ claims that the apparatus can be set in motion and its motion controlled by focusing the eyes, or even one eye, upon it.

In effect the instrument consists of a solenoid (a coil of silk wire wound round in a spiral attached to a metal rod which becomes a magnet when a current is passed through it), suspended near two charged insulated conductors, or near an electro-magnet.

Russ says that the only explanation that can be proffered as to why the rod moves when looked at is that something in the nature of an electrical radiation passes from the eye. British scientists, however, are inclined to be skeptical of this explanation of the phenomenon, and indicate that they will want very exhaustive tests before accepting Russ's theory.

Woman With Flowing Hair Is Man's Ideal

LONDON, Feb. 20.—"Man's ideal woman is still the ideal of the ages—a woman with hair flowing over her shoulders."

Dr. Jacques Brettman, one of the most famous beauty specialists in the world, thus vigorously condemns the modern craze for bobbed and shingled hair.

"Woman is part of our artistic complex," says Dr. Brettman. "She has been painted by great artists and sung by great poets. When she cuts her hair, she cuts just so much from our conception of her. In the eyes of most men, bobbed hair enhances the beauty of very few women."

ANGELENOS HELD AS AUTO THIEVES

Glendale Police Arrest Two Men, Car Recovered By Auto Theft Bureau

Joe Martinez and Gus Ancona of Los Angeles were arrested last night by Los Angeles police officers and brought to Glendale police headquarters, charged with theft Wednesday night of a car belonging to Charles Nelson of 634 North by Juroto street. The car was recovered through the Los Angeles Automobile Theft bureau.

Martinez and Ancona were arraigned this morning before Judge Frank H. Lowe of the Glendale police court on charges of grand larceny, and their hearings were set for 2 o'clock Monday afternoon, March 2. They were taken to the county jail in default of $1000 bail each.

Burton Heinmiller of 1234 East Broadway and Fred Fromm of 1248 Stanley avenue were bound over by Judge Lowe to the Los Angeles juvenile court, on charges growing out of their alleged attempt Wednesday night to burglarize the house of Samuel Scholtzhauser at 1307 Stanley avenue. The youths were released in custody of their parents.

Burglars last night entered the home of Mrs. J. Fuller, 918 East Stocker street, making off with a bundle of bedclothes. Glendale police investigated, but now clues were found.

W. J. Standley of 305 North Cedar street, arrested Wednesday night for possessing and transporting alcoholic liquor, was fined $200 today by Judge Lowe.

Donald Marshall of 125 East Lomita avenue came to the police department and identified a bicycle as one he had reported stolen. The police are holding a number of other wheels, a push-wagon, a scooter, several overcoats, two women's hats, a tennis racket and numerous automobile accessories and other articles, reports Desk Sergeant J. D. Coie. They will be released upon proper identification, he states.

M. Ferguson, W. R. Kugler, H. M. Greenwood and Al Fisher.

STUDENTS ORDER CROSSWORD MEAL

U. of C. Waiters Asked for Dishes In Maze of Puzzle Tricks

BERKELEY, Feb. 20.—"Give me something to drink in six letters which begins with 'C' and is served with cream and sugar," said the customer, and he was therewith served coffee. Such remarks you may hear at the students' co-operative lunch counter in Stevens Union of the University of California, where the waiters are advocating the establishment of a crossword puzzle bureau for the puzzle fans who patronize the counter.

Waiters at this counter are fast becoming experts at solving crossword puzzles because of their practice in fulfilling orders such as these.

"I think it would be a fine plan to establish a crossword bureau in order that the puzzling student may find an answer to an especially hard definition," said one waiter. "As it is, groups of students work together at one puzzle while eating lunch, and after frantic endeavor to solve some difficult word they call upon the waiter for aid."

"A penny a letter should be charged for the correct solution of words," suggested another waiter. "The money taken in for this would soon be enough to pay the funeral expenses of the first poor soul who could not keep up the terrific struggle of solving crossword puzzles."

California Copper Deal Attributed To Watson

SACRAMENTO, Feb. 20.—Though the late Thomas W. Lawson never set foot in California, it was in Shasta county that the frenzied finance author and speculator made one of his greatest speculations. He acquired the Trinity Copper Co., near Kennett in 1901 for $165,000 and reorganized the concern on a basis of $6,000,000 capital stock. An office building costing $20,000 was erected and a manager at a salary of $10,000 per annum was employed with a watchman at $3 per diem. Not a pound of ore was smelted by the company and the $20,000 building was sold for $3000 to a purchaser who later disposed of it for $1500.

Sixty-Year-Old Bride Gives Marriage Ideas

BOYS FALL BEHIND GIRLS IN SCHOOL

Elementary Pupils' Rating Set Forth In Report By Educator

SACRAMENTO, Feb. 20.—Boys in the elementary schools continue to fall behind girls in scholarship, declared Sam H. Cohn, assistant state superintendent of schools, in his annual report to the state board of education, in which he urged investigation to ascertain whether "this may be due to a tendency to adapt the schools more directly to the needs of girls than of boys."

Athletics are not a factor in this intellectual lagging on the part of boy students, said Cohn, since "these marked differences appear in the first grade before children become interested in sports."

Statistics for 1924 show that while 35.02 per cent of the boys lagged in studies, but 28.42 per cent of the girls were so classified. Of 69,163 pupils required to recite work, the girls contributed but 8.94 per cent of their number, while the boys are listed as 11.55 per cent of their total enrollment.

"The cost feature of this situation is important," said Cohn. "Actual financial expenditure for teaching a grade the second time to 60,163 pupils equates the cost of all the elementary schools in San Francisco and Santa Clara counties and exceeds the cost of the state teachers' colleges more than five times."

Radio Interference Is Problem In Tippecanoe

INDIANAPOLIS, Feb. 20.—Indiana's public service commission was called upon to defer temporarily consideration of an intricate motor bus problem to provide relief for static-stricken Tippecanoe, Ind. "There are thirteen radios in this town," Claude Rhodes, of Tippecanoe, Ind., protested in a letter to the commission, "and all of them are complaining about interference. From 6 a. m. to 9 p. m. we cannot get a thing because of a rattling noise."

ELMIRA, N. Y., Feb. 20.—A dictionary 147 years old, printed August 16, 1777, when the thirteen original United States were still struggling for existence, is the prized possession of Mrs. Sophia M. Runion. Browned with age and unique in its simplicity, the old book makes an interesting appeal. For crossword puzzles it would be of little value.

STATE'S MINERAL OUTPUT FIGURED

Last Two Years Realize $589,208,504 for California

SACRAMENTO, Feb. 20.—California's mineral output for the past two years is valued at $589,208,504, with continued increases in production of petroleum, cement, copper, lead, natural gas, brick, tile and crushed rock and decrease in gold and silver output, according to State Mineral Geologist Lloyd E. Root, in his biennial report submitted to Governor Richardson.

Petroleum, with an increased production of 124,000,000 barrels, shows a financial return of $59,350,044 in excess of the preceding biennium, although the price has lowered. Though gold output decreased from $14,670,346 to $13,379,013, California still accounts for thirty per cent of the gold products of the United States.

Cement products totaled 10,825,405 barrels valued at $25,999,203. Copper output totaled 28,346,860 pounds valued at $4,166,989; lead, 9,354,522 pounds worth $695,416; quicksilver, 5458 flasks with a market rating of $32,851.

Miscellaneous stone to the value of $15,395,652 is recorded and brick and hollow building blocks to the value of $9,738,082 was made. Sulphur again appears on the list of California products for the first time in many years.

Fifty-seven of the state contributed counties in the state contributed counties in the fifty-four different mineral substances mined during the biennium. Lloyd pointed out, and California led every other state in the production of platinum, quicksilver and gold.

Radio apparatus made in America is popular in Rome.

REMBRANDT WORK IN COUNTRY BANK

Three Hundred Etchings by Famous Painter Found Hidden Away

LONDON, Feb. 20.—A sensation has been created in the English art world by the discovery in a small country bank at Evesham, Worcestershire, of 300 Rembrandt etchings.

The property of John E. Rudge, the etchings were collected by his ancestors and deposited some time ago in the bank, where they have lain dormant until recently discovered. At a modest estimate art experts put the value of the etchings at nearly $100,000.

Several etchings in the collection are in various stages of completion. Half a dozen of them are considered by experts to be in the front rank, including "Christ Healing the Sick," "The Presentation in the Temple," inscribed 1794, which is thought the date of an earlier ownership; "Christ Crucified Between the Two Thieves," "The Three Trees" and "The Mill," which is an etching of the mill in Rembrandt's famous painting, but done from a different angle.

In addition there are several etchings of the artist, some of them bearing amusing titles, such as "Rembrandt with bushy hair," "Rembrandt with a large nose," and "Rembrandt with a grimace."

Slickers Take Place Of 'Umbies' In College

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., Feb. 20.—Evidently the modern college co-ed places more confidence in the bright-colored slicker than in the umbrella. At Smith college custodians of the "lost and found" room report that some 300 "umbies" have been turned over to them and have been unclaimed.

Once a year all unclaimed articles in the "morgue" are sold at the annual Christmas sale of the college. The few which are not purchased are sent to a charity organization. The last sale of unclaimed articles sold for more than $350.

Plans for connecting London with continental docks call for an expenditure of $32,000,000.

PAIR MARRIED FIFTY-NINE YEARS AGO

Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Pearson To Mark Anniversary By Dinner Today

Life has filled more than half a century with the greatest happiness for Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Pearson of 644 East Harvard street, who celebrated their fifty-ninth wedding anniversary today by moving to Pasadena for dinner with Mr. and Mrs. William Booth of Ann Arbor, Mich.

The informal dinner party recalls a romance that began in Missouri when Mr. Pearson was 17 and his little sweetheart but 9. She was the daughter of an Episcopal clergyman, whose duties called him south, where the family resided. The daughter was educated in New Jersey and when she was 19 years old her Missouri sweetheart claimed her as his bride, February 20, 1866, in Wilmington, N. C.

With their relatives and friends wishing them Godspeed and happiness, the young couple left for their wedding journey, which took them by way of New York to their new home in Fayette, Mo. One of the features of the honeymoon was the presentation of the young bride to the fifty-four cousins of Mr. Pearson living in Springfield, Ill.

Here Eleven Years

There are many treasured memories associated with the forty-eight years' residence in the home in Fayette, where their ten children were born. Of the ten children, five sons are living: James Pearson of 700 North Louise street, Glendale; Julian, Guy and Isaac, Jr., of Imperial valley, and Benjamin Pearson of St. Louis. The Pearsons also proudly claim thirteen grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren. Mr. and Mrs. Pearson have lived in Glendale eleven years.

Art and music have been cultural pursuits of Mrs. Pearson. For forty-eight years she was organist in the Episcopal church at Fayette. A most valued reminder of their old home in Missouri is a beautiful old rosewood Hazelton Brothers square piano, a wedding gift from her husband's father. The piano has a prominent place in their little California home and intimate friends are often privileged to hear Mrs. Pearson softly play, while her sweetheart of more than fifty years stands by her side to sing with her some song of long ago.

Oil Painting

Another treasure is an oil painting by Mrs. Pearson of the old home in Fayette, Mo. There also hangs in the Pearson home a large oil painting by Mrs. Pearson of Mr. Pearson's mother and sister, and a copy of a Stuart picture made over 100 years ago. In addition to her music and art Mrs. Pearson also wrote verse.

Chess is one of Mrs. Pearson's favorite pastimes, and his worn chess table is given a place of prominence in their little home. For seven years poor health has kept Mrs. Pearson from many of the pleasures she would enjoy, but in their little home on East Harvard street these sweethearts of 58 and 78 are living out in devoted tenderness the romantic sequel to their marriage years ago.

Investigates Conditions

RIVERSIDE, Feb. 20.—Investigation of Indian welfare conditions on the reservations of Riverside county was said to be the purpose of a visit here of John Collier, executive secretary of the Indian Defense association and a group of state officials interested in Indian work. Collier, it is understood, plans a report on conditions on southwestern Indian reservations for presentation to congressional committees in support of Indian defense legislation.

Next winter in New York will find Broadway theatres packed with "Pollyannas," "Peg o' My Hearts" and "Lightnins."

The result has been that even blase New York which heretofore no situation or no realism, no matter how bold could make blush, has rebelled from the very force of numbers. One or two was all right. "Fit" Gotham but when a dozen was piled on its Broadway—that was too much.

Opinions

By JOSEPH L. KELLEY
Of The Evening News Staff.
That "Flying General" is a persistent cuss. Washington and the American public have to give him credit for one thing—if they condemn him for others—he has the courage of his convictions. General Mitchell has had worlds of experience. It is to be presumed that his opinion is worth something. Only a short time ago he circled the globe, making particular study of the foreign nations' aircraft facilities. He returns from this world cruise and tells Washington that Japan alone could easily take Hawaii and the Philippines "by air." We doubt if the Japs would care to demonstrate the truth or falseness of the general's statement.

Joseph L. Kelley

Jack Dempsey says Kid McCoy is "goofy." Jack explains that that he was going to try a "come back" in the ring, proves his goofiness. Not such a bad explanation. Better than lots of our "expert" alienists could give, methinks.

Ten hold-ups were reported within one hour yesterday to Los Angeles police. That would indicate that others besides eastern millionaires winter in the sunny end of California. These bandits must eat and sleep.

The Warners brothers over in Hollywood get credit for offering Gloria Swanson de la Palaise $17,000 a week for her services at the expiration of her contract with Famous Players-Lasky. That's just about $15,558 more than President Coolidge gets every week and $2000 more than Tom Mix receives. Mix with his yearly bonus is the highest salaried movie star in captivity today.

Both Gloria Swanson and Mix are worth every cent they get, basing the conclusion on the profit made by their employers. Both are drawing cards, Gloria in the cosmopolitan centers, Mix in the tall and uncult.

Norma Talmadge, Mary Pickford, Harold Lloyd, Douglas Fairbanks probably net more per week than either Gloria or Tom but none of the quartette is on salary. They work for themselves. Harold Lloyd probably is the biggest individual money-maker on the screen today.

All of which means that despite aircraft investigations, swoopings of the crack of doom, and failure of the allies to pay their debts, entertainment holds a front seat in American life.

Speaking of entertainment reminds that New Yorkers are witnessing something new in the way of entertainment. For the first time in Gotham's history a general clean-up campaign has been started on Broadway and Times Square theatres. Something like a dozen current stage plays have been unofficially condemned.

The present craze for risque plays under the White Lights was started about four or five years ago when Eugene O'Neill's play "Emperor Jones" was shown in New York. Charles Gilpin, a negro actor and a good one, was in the title role. This play wasn't particularly risque but it opened the way for some that were.

Among these may be mentioned O'Neill's "Annie Christie" and "The Hairy Ape." Al Woods helped the "good cause" along with a series of bedroom farces, "Twin Beds" and "Up In Mable's Room" being pioneers. Then came the revues with their "living curtains" and burlesque sketches patterned after "Annie Christie" and "The Hairy Ape."

Then came "O'Neill's "Rain" which still runs to capacity business in New York after three years continuous showing. If the playwrights all had had the same sense of realistic drama as O'Neill, nothing would have happened. But they didn't.

Avery Hopwood, one of America's prolific playwrights and one of America's best before commercialism gouged him of his sense of decency, spurred on by O'Neill's success with realistic drama, started turning out his idea of "dirt." Instead of actually showing the dirt on the stage Hopwood made his characters talk it.

That marked the wide difference between Hopwood as the commercial artist and O'Neill as the true artist.

DARKENED WINDOWS

By CORNELIA KANE RATHBONE

Copyright, D. Appleton & Co. Serialized by Ledger Syndicate

The light from the street came faintly in behind him and made dimly visible the shadowy beginning of a stair rail which reached down toward him like an armless hand. Something, he could not say what, suddenly sent his heart into his mouth. Instinctively he backed toward the entrance. In his haste he struck the door and pushed it to, leaving himself in total darkness. As he groped for the handle of the door, the sound which had startled him—he realized now that it had been a sound—was repeated more loudly, more recognizably. It was a muffled cry rising into an agonizing wail. It came from somewhere overhead out of palpating darkness.

The house then was not empty as Graham had been beginning to think; somebody was there, somebody, moreover, in terrible distress. Without waiting for the sober second thought which sometimes saves a man from disaster and sometimes loses him his soul, Graham groped his way toward the staircase, felt and found the handrail and mounted cautiously, listening as he went. He had nearly reached the top when the cry which had startled him rang out again. He placed it as coming from the story above. For an instant he hesitated. To penetrate further in the intricacies of this unknown house struck him suddenly as unwarranted. And yet, he reasoned, he would be actually no more flagrant an intruder on the second floor than on the first. He found himself easy to convince; the spirit of adventure had gripped him; it was impelling him to discover what was happening in that upper room.

Keeping his hand on the highly polished wood of the baluster, he felt his way along the thickly carpeted upper hall. He had just encountered the rounded top of a newel post, and was about to feel for the first step of the second flight, when his eye was caught by a streak of light outlining a door a little further along the hall. He came to a sudden stand, motionless as a startled rabbit, his eyes glued to that faintly luminous line at the bottom of the door. Then again the muffled door arose. He expected each instant to see the door open in response to the cry, and to find himself ignominiously discovered. But, the door remained shut. Gradually he recovered his equanimity and, as nothing happened, grew bolder. Stealing toward the ray of light that marked the door, he listened. From within came no sound. Was the room empty? Impulsively he felt for the knob and softly turned it. But, before the streak of light had perceptibly widened he realized what he was doing and loosened his hold. It was one thing to answer a cry of distress; he could plead some excuse for that, but it was quite another thing to pry behind the closed doors of another man's house. He retreated to the head of the stairs and went warily up the second flight. He had located the cry as coming from some room near the top of the stairs. It rose again as he reached the landing. Guided by the sound he felt for and found a door, opened it in haste and found himself still in darkness. He thought he heard a movement but could not be sure. Groping for the electric switch he turned on the light. The room was empty. It gave the impression, however, of having been recently vacated, for bureau drawers stood open and articles of feminine attire were scattered about in wild confusion.

Graham was about to withdraw in haste, thinking he had opened the wrong door, when a low, whimpering sound caught his ear. It seemed to come from behind a door on the further side of the room. As he listened it rose into the now familiar cry. Heard close at hand it had a less human note. Graham crossed the room at a bound and flung open the door. Out of the closet, for such he saw it was, a small shaggy dog hurled itself. It dashed past him, a swift flash of white, and went scurrying down the stairs. For the second time that night John Graham swore.

As a rule Graham was not devoid of a sense of humor, but for the moment he failed to see the comic side of the affair. That he, a man till now scrupulously correct in his behavior, born, as it were, to a silk hat and immaculate gloves, junior partner in a firm of almost mid-Victorian respectability, should find himself at night in the second story of a strange house, lured there by the howl of a dog confined in a closet of an oddly disordered room, did not strike him as laughable. The situation was too ignominious.

STAGE AND SCREEN

VIEWS AND PREVIEWS—NEWS NOTES FROM STUDIOS

Compiled By Members of The Glendale Evening News Staff

THE GATEWAY

Theodore Roberts found playing the part of a retired admiral in "Forty Winks," the Paramount screen version of the stage comedy success, "Lord Chumley," just as interesting if not quite as thrilling as the work which claimed his time for more than a year, that of captaining a schooner engaged in transporting dynamite in San Francisco bay.

Mr. Roberts, then a young man scarcely old enough to vote, had given up the stage, temporarily it proved, and had gone to sea in accordance with the wishes of his father, himself a retired sea captain. The chief cargo of the schooner navigated by the younger Captain Roberts was dynamite, the young skipper having entered into an agreement with a bay city explosive manufacturing company.

He was just 21, one of the youngest captains on the coast, and it gave him a feeling of importance to exercise his privilege of right of way over the largest steamers. There never was a dispute about this point when the schooner flew the red flag with a white ball because ocean liners had no wish to run down a few tons of dynamite.

As the admiral in "Forty Winks," adapted by Bertram Millhauser, now showing at the Gateway theatre today and Saturday, Mr. Roberts took orders from the director team of Paul Fribe and Frank Urson. Other featured players in the picture include Viola Dana and Raymond Griffith. Anna May Wong, Cyril Chadwick and William Boyd play in support.

THE T. D. & L.
"Inez from Hollywood" opens today at the T. D. & L. theatre, with Anna Q. Nilsson in the title role.

UNCLE WIGGILY

By HOWARD R. GARIS

Copyright, 1925, By The McClure Newspaper Syndicate

UNCLE WIGGILY'S ROCKING SLED
Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy, rocking in her easy chair near the window in the hollow stump bungalow one day heard a hammering and pounding noise out in the woodshed.

"Goodness! I hope that isn't the Fox or Bob Cat trying to get in to nibble Uncle Wiggily," said the muskrat lady housekeeper in a whispering voice.

Then, being a brave little person, Nurse Jane went softly to the woodshed intending, if she saw any of the bad chaps, to tickle them with one of her knitting needles. But all Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy saw was Uncle Wiggily himself, hammering and pounding away at some pieces of wood.

"What are you making?" asked Nurse Jane glad to know it wasn't the Fox nor Bob Cat trying to get in.

"I am making a rocking sled," answered Mr. Longears.

"What in the world is a rocking sled?" asked Nurse Jane.

"It is a sled with a rocking chair fastened on it," said the bunny uncle. "I am making it for you. I have noticed how much you like to sit in your rocking chair. Often, when I ask you to come out and let me give you a ride on the sled, you say you like it much better to sit in the bungalow and rock."

"Now I am going to change all that. I am going to make a rocking sled so you will have just as good a time out in the snow as you can have by staying in. My rocking sled is almost finished. Will you let me give you a ride on it?"

"Oh, yes, I guess so, if you promise not to spill me off," laughed the muskrat lady.

So a little later, when Uncle Wiggily had fastened a rocking chair on a sled, he called for Nurse Jane to put on her warm shawl and come out where he waited for her in front of the bungalow.

"Now sit down and make yourself comfortable, Nurse Jane," said the bunny, and when Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy was in the chair, Uncle Wiggily started off. "Isn't this nice?" he asked, turning around to look at Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy as he hopped along the snow path.

"Yes, it is very fine," answered the muskrat lady. "But pay attention where you are going, Uncle Wiggily. Don't run me into a snow bank and dump me off."

"I'd never do that," said Mr. Longears. So along he hopped, pulling the sled, and Nurse Jane sat in her chair, on it, rocking to and fro, as easily as though in front of the fire at home.

Then, all of a sudden, before he knew it, Uncle Wiggily came to a rough place in the road. He ran a little faster to pull Nurse Jane over the bad place, but, all at once, the sled turned on one side, the chair tilted over and Nurse Jane was spilled out in a bank of snow.

"There, I told you not to do that and you promised you wouldn't, but you did," she cried to Uncle Wiggily.

"I didn't mean to," answered the bunny. "It was an accident."

"Well, this isn't going to be an accident," laughed Nurse Jane, and, picking up some snow she made a round ball of it and threw it at Uncle Wiggily. "I'm doing this on purpose," said said, hoping to hit the bunny.

But you know how it is when ladies or girls throw—they never do it straight. And so, instead of hitting Uncle Wiggily with the snowball she threw, Nurse Jane banded the Fox on the nose. For just then the Fox jumped out from behind a snow drift trying to catch Uncle Wiggily. "Biff," the ball Nurse Jane threw hit him on the nose.

"Oh, wowzie wow," howled the Fox, holding his paw to his nose, and away he ran. Then Nurse Jane laughed and Uncle Wiggily laughed and when the bunny had righted the sled Nurse Jane sat in the rocking chair again and was given a fine ride.

And if jam tart doesn't roll off the table, trying to show the butter plate how to roller skate with the cream pitcher, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and Buddy's whistle.

ANSWERS TO MOTHERS

Mrs. M.—It is quite normal for a baby's navel to have a little button effect. That doesn't mean there is a hernia. If there is a hernia there is a separation of the abdominal muscles so that the intestines can be felt under the skin and there is a good sized bulge, especially when the baby cries. Naval hernias usually correct themselves as the child develops and his muscles grow. If they do not do so by the time the child begins to play games, an operation has to be performed. Meanwhile, it is advisable to have an adhesive strap across the abdomen. Don't put a button over the navel under the strap, for it has the effect of preventing the opening from closing. That is just contrary to the result you want, of course.

It is best to have a physician show you how to do the strapping, but in case you cannot do that, take an adhesive strap about one inch wide, and long enough to cross the abdomen. Attach it to one side, push the muscles together and then attach it to the other side. This strap can remain on for four or five days and need not hinder the baby from having his usual tub bath. At this time it can usually be pulled off quickly without any discomfort. The next time it is applied, put it on a little diagonally so that it covers a different surface. The center of the strap right over the navel can be oiled to prevent its sticking.

For hernias in the groins, trusses must be worn. Your physician must prescribe them to see that they fit. These groin hernias sometimes become obliterated also as the child grows and develops. No, it won't hurt your baby if you let him cry. Of course see that he is comfortable. A baby is supposed to cry a certain amount every day in order to exercise his lungs. That is his privilege. Nor will it hurt him to be active. In fact, the more active he is, the sooner his muscles will develop.

ECZEMA
It has been found that eczema is often caused by protein sensitization. This means that some protein is not being properly digested and used in the body and it irritates. Egg whites are the most frequent offenders, although certain meats, such as veal and pork, and sometimes the protein of cereals, will be the offenders.

Laboratories are now giving protein tests to determine which protein is the culprit, when it is suspected that the eczema is due to the protein.

Nursing babies who are eczematous have to be treated through the mothers.

Many eczematous babies are either overfat or undernourished, and both these conditions have to be corrected before the disease will clear up. The undernourished baby has to be fed more, and sometimes the condition will be aggravated when you do this, but you should persist until he gains. (Undernourished babies should be under the care of a children's specialist.)

Eczema most often affects the neck and cheeks. Soothing ointments can be applied. The ointment known as Lassara's paste is good, although plain lanoline or plain oil will also help if it is kept on thick enough.

Babies may have to have masks put on to hold the ointments, and they may have to have their arms put in splints so that they cannot scratch. We have an article under the title of "Eczema and Cradle Caps for Babies," which you may have by observing the rules of the column (sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request).

Mrs. C.—We have a list of modern books on infant and child feeding which you may have.

Tomorrow—Answers to Correspondents

My Dear Followers:—When sending me letters, please remember to enclose a stamped envelope bearing your full name and address. The stamps are for reducing and gaining. It is the only one for which you must enclose four cents in stamps. Address your letters to me in care of this paper. Make them as brief as possible, but over 200 words and type or write them legibly with ink. Please sign your name as evidence of good faith—we will not use it in any way. Remember it is impossible for me to diagnose for you or to answer you personally. I appreciate very much the beautiful letters you send me and regret it is not possible to answer them all. The questions you ask will be answered in the column as soon as possible; if they are of general interest. Don't forget the s.a.s.e. if you expect me to send you the information I have offered.

M. S.: "My Corn Muffins"
Cream one-fourth cup of butter with one-half cup of granulated sugar; add two beaten egg yolks and one cup of sweet milk. Now sift together two cups of ordinary flour, one cup of yellow cornmeal, four teaspoons of baking powder and one-half teaspoon of salt, then stir this dry mixture into the wet mixture and fold in two stiffly-whipped egg whites. Turn into a buttered muffin pan and bake for twenty minutes in a hot oven. Here is another good recipe:

My Fruit Cake: Cream together one and one-half cups of shortening and two cups of granulated sugar; add one small cup of molasses, three beaten eggs, one cup of either sour or sweet milk, and five cups of bread flour sifted with six teaspoons of baking powder and one teaspoon of soda. Beat the butter well, then add two teaspoons of seedless raisins (flour them before adding), as much finely-shaved citron peel, orange peel and lemon peel as you desire, turn all into a greased cake pan, and bake about fifty minutes in a moderate oven. Here is still another good recipe:

Sugar Cookies: Cream together one cup of granulated sugar and one cup of butter; add two beaten eggs, one-half cup of sour milk in which one teaspoon of soda has been dissolved, and three cups of bread flour sifted with a pinch of salt and two teaspoons of cream of tartar. Flavor with one-half teaspoon of vanilla and a few drops of lemon extract. Drop on a buttered pan and bake eight minutes in a hot oven.

Chats On Beauty

By EDNA KENT FORBES

MAKE-UP

Some fortunate people are so beautifully healthy that they need nothing in the way of make-up or cosmetics. I even knew one woman who had no use for face powder, but somehow her dainty nose never was shiny. Few people, however, in these restless, over-worked times, are really healthy, and few get either

Learn how to make-up or leave it alone

Therefore cold cream comes along to remove the grime of the dust stirred up by the multitude of autos on country roads—we have nearly one auto to every family here in the U. S. And face powder serves the purpose of keeping out much dust and of holding it on the surface, so the powder puff can take it off. Rouge takes the place unfortunately, of the fresh color a woman ought to have.

I believe in make-up when it really improves a woman's looks, as I believe in any legitimate way of acquiring beauty. But half the women who use rouge don't need it as many faces look best with slight pallor or a very slight natural flush. And of the other half, a large proportion shouldn't use make-up because they don't know how.

The rules are simple to learn. Never use too much rouge, only enough to give a delicate tint to the eyes, over the face is hollow, spread the color towards the ears, giving the least bit to the hollow part as the red emphasizes the thinness. If the face is too fat, rouge toward the nose. If it is square, spread the color nearer the eyes, over the cheek bones.

If you use rouge use a pinkish powder, for the woman with natural color in her cheeks has a certain almost invisible pinkness all over her face, never lily white and rose red, in spite of the writers of verse. Use lip rouge now and then if it really improves your appearance. Some very smart gowns seem to demand a little artificiality, a little tinting the cheeks and a slight emphasizing of the bow of the lips.

Daisy B. G.—Face towels are soft, and so are the "Beauty chats" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question. GAME ARRANGED
WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—Harold J. Stonier, of the University of Southern California athletic board, made the positive announcement that Stanford and U. S. C. football teams will meet here November 14.

LAWRENCE PERRY SAYS

Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925
NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—Willie Plant advises the writer that he is not yet through breaking records in the walk. Before the present indoor season is ended he expected to improve upon some of his recent world's records.

Asked why it is that he has made better time on indoor tracks than outdoors—whereas in almost all athletic features times made on the cinder are better—Plant said it was because the footing afforded by the pine boards is more conducive to speedy pedestrianism.

The little pedal king has done a great deal to revive interest in walking in competition. It was a popular feature of track meets in the eighties and early nineties and then languished for one reason or another.

Kecene Fitzpatrick, the Princeton athletic coach and trainer, points out that absolutely a different set of muscles and organs are involved in running and walking, and that he regards the heel and toe branch of athletics as a big subject for study.

It would appear to be. For instance, if pine boards are better adapted to record-breaking walks, why is not a track of the sort suited above all other tracks to runners? Here is a subject for scientific investigation that might bring forth interesting as well as valuable information.

Again, why is Loren Murchison better indoors than out? He certainly seems to be one man who would testify that boards suit him better than cinders.

For this king of the indoor track has shown poorly in his latest outdoor flights. He made no marked showing in the Olympic trials nor in the Paris Olympics. In fact about the best performance he turned in was in running Charles Paddock a close second in the A. A. U. national championships.

Sprinters of the past and present just now are occupying themselves with the popular pursuit of rating athletes. Paddock has come out with a list of the ten best sprinters, in which he places Murchison at the head and does not name himself.

This is modest, and yet at the same time Paddock, in view of his performance in the national amateur, is so clearly entitled to stand on the top rung of the ladder that the Californian may safely leave his ranking to popular choice.

Perhaps this spring Murchison will go out and show that he can take his blazing board-track speed with him, but until he does Paddock's selection of him as top flyer will not be subscribed to generally. For after all the real criterion of a sprinter's ability is what he does outdoors.

The way in which distance running records have fallen under the feet of Nurmi and Ritola this season indicates that here, rather than in the sprints, lies the field for lowering world's records.

Some Nurmi of the sprints may eventually appear, but trainers doubt it. They believe that while the human animal is able to accomplish through a high burst of speed over a short distance has been accomplished—at least with—dock was reported to have run the hundred yards in nine seconds. But this was not generally credited and has not been listed upon and is not in the official record books.

In the last 48 years the sprint record has improved only ten per cent, which is about the lowest ratio of advance in any of the track and field specialties. The shot put leads in this respect, the improvement being nearly sixty per cent.

DEPOSITION READ
LOS ANGELES, Feb. 20.—Jack Kearns, manager of Jack Dempsey, drank highballs with Mrs. Mary C. Tenney, film "extra girl"; then the girl drank highballs with a Filipino boy in a Hollywood residence last May. That was charged in a deposition read to the jurors hearing Mrs. Tenney's $200,000 suit against Kearns, who, she claimed, drugged and then attacked her.

Fifty Years In Sports

Ketchel Almost Changed Heavyweight History

By NORMAN E. BROWN
Written For The Evening News
The outstanding fighter of the early part of the 1900's was Stanley Ketchel, without a doubt.

He ranks as one of the greatest fighters of the modern sport era. A middleweight himself he all but carved himself a niche in the heavyweight hall of fame. For a few fleeting moments in the ring on a fall day in 1903 Ketchel of the Lion Heart all but became heavyweight champion of the world. Had he beaten Jack Johnson, negro heavy, in that battle the Jeffries-Johnson tragedy would not have happened.

Johnson would not have had the opportunity to write a chapter of dissipation and disgrace in the fight game. The long search for a white hope would not have been necessary. Johnson would not have climbed into a ring in Havana nine years hence to "take it" for money to entertain a white wife.

Ketchel's untimely death a year after his fleeting date with fame was one of the tragedies of the early part of the century. The battle with Johnson will live in history as one of the bitterest of the game. Johnson's adherents figured that with his weight, his speed, his body punches and his cleverness, he would lower the little man's colors in a few rounds. Some even called the battle a "murder" and argued against a good little man throwing his life away against the big black.

Outweighed 40 Pounds
Ketchel weighed just 165 pounds—an ideal weight for a middleweight, Johnson, in perfect trim in those days, weighed just 205 pounds. Johnson had it on him in reach by inches.

Imagine the amazement of the ringside crowd, for eleven rounds he outgeneraled, outboxed, and outgamed Johnson. The negro's rapier-like left, struck at Ketchel like an adder's head, only to find the mark missing.

There was talk before the fight that Johnson was to string it out for the benefit of the fight pictures. If that were true he proved a good actor. The opening of the twelfth round found him seeing red—one of the few times he ever lost his head. He rushed at Ketchel, head down and with murder in his heart. Ketchel neatly sidestepped him and hit him a glancing blow on the head which knocked Jack off his balance. He fell "all over the ring." He came up fighting like a lion at bay.

Three blows, any one of which would have ended the ordinary man, landed on Ketchel's jaw, stomach and head. The last two blows came as he was falling from the first. Johnson could not stop himself, so fierce had been his attack. The two fell almost together. Ketchel did not get up.

That battle with Johnson was but one of several heroic ones Stanley had. His fights with Papke, which cost him and then regained him the middleweight title, were spectacular affairs.

Ketchel had outpointed Papke once in a 10-round bout when the pair met in Los Angeles in a title go. Ketchel, always courteous and sportsmanlike, started to go through the usual formula of shaking hands when the first bell sounded. Papke ignored the offered courtesy and sent a shower of blows to Ketchel's head and body. Ketchel was on the floor before the fans really knew the fight was on. He had been knocked down three other times before the round ended. Despite this trickery and the calamity it brought he fought gamely on for 12 rounds. From the second round on he was blinded from blows to his eyes and the blood oozing from them. In the eleventh he was knocked out of the ring, filed with the House today by the special investigating committee of the House Indian affairs committee.

INDIAN AFFAIRS
WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—Commissioner of Indian Affairs Charles H. Burke, and other officials of his office were exonerated of charges of corruption in their administration of Indian affairs in Oklahoma in a majority report filed with the House today by the special investigating committee of the House Indian affairs committee.

A few months later Ketchel got another chance at Papke and oh.

DYNAMITERS LOSE HOOP LOOP FLAG

Alhambra Fleaweights Win 12 to 10 In Game To Decide Pennant

By ROSS M. RUSSELL, JR.
Of The Evening News Staff.
Although they had things all their way in the first half and led by a two-point margin at the end of the third quarter Coach "Hairbreadth" Harry Hicks' Glendale Firecrackers lost its crucial game yesterday with Alhambra on the South Pasadena court, 12 to 10. Along with Alhambra's victory went the right to represent the Central league in the Southern California class C play-off as well as the loop pennant.

The Firecrackers scored four markers in each period of the first half and held their opponents down to three digits, but in the third period the Moors came forward with five points making the score 10 to 8 in Glendale's favor.

At the start of the final period Nye knotted the count with a shot from under the Glendale basket. Near the end Mata got a personal foul and made good both throws, topping off Alhambra's score. The locals fought in the last half, but although they had several golden opportunities they failed to make the most of them.

The score:
GLENDALE (10)	ALHAMBRA (12)
Osler	R.F. Nye (6)
(7) Reed	L.F.R. Green
(1) Lovell	C. burg (3)

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—Willie Hoppe, world's balkline champion, defeated Bob Cannetax three-cushion title holder, 600 to 564, in their 600-point three-cushion contest, which ended last night. The match went 709 innings. Hoppe won seven of the ten blocks and took tonight's game, 60 to 51, in 61 innings. Hoppe will now be regarded as the unofficial world's champion at the angle game.

Edith Cummings and Glenna Collett Play Spanish and French Taught at Clubhouse

These two girls are Glenna Collett and Edith Cummings. In the five matches played to date, Miss Collett has the edge, having won three times.

GOING TO WOULD BE PUNISHED BY COUNCIL

New York Town Asks That Tongue-Wagging Be Barred by Law

ENDICOTT, N. Y., Feb. 20.—If the common council grants a petition received by officials today, one will have to stop talking about one's neighbors—or go to jail—for the petition asks that the aldermen enact an ordinance similar to one which is working out successfully in several other cities, making it a misdemeanor to gossip.

The petition, signed by "A Group of E. J. Workers," makes the specific request that the council follow the lead taken by the town of Owensboro, Ky., and enact a law which would provide a penalty of imprisonment or both, for conviction upon a charge of "scattering false rumors, or spreading lies about people both in public and private life."

The law is being enforced in the Kentucky town, the petition says, and Judge Emmet Watkins recently fined a woman $10 for saying that she could bribe any policeman with a dram of "white mule."

The petition for the anti-gossip law, sent to Mayor John A. Giles and to aldermen, reads: "It is our belief that there is a real need for a new ordinance in this city similar to ordinances in effect in a number of other cities, making it a misdemeanor to gossip about one's neighbors—or, for that matter, about anybody."

"We respectfully petition you to take this matter up for discussion at the next meeting of the common council and to pass an ordinance which would provide a fine, or a jail sentence, for a person convicted of telling either to individuals or to business concerns."

"As you probably are aware, there is much gossip here, founded on nothing more truthful than wild rumor. The result is that very often people's reputations are injured, sometimes ruined, when they are perfectly innocent of the acts ascribed to them."

Woman Fined
Police Judge Emmet Watkins, of Owensboro, Ky., has explained how the law was enforced, in a case recently before him, as follows: "The first person tried in my court under this law was a woman who came from the country on a morning train. She was carrying a sack."

"A man who knew her asked her what she had in the sack. She said she had 'white mule.' "The man told her she had better be careful, or the officers would get her, and she foolishly replied that she was not uneasy, that anyone could take any of the Owensboro policemen around the corner, give him a dram and get by. "Police go fifty-fifty with the bootleggers here," she said.

A policeman heard her, swore out a warrant for her under the Anti-Gossip law, and I fined her ten dollars. "A GROUP OF E. J. WORKERS."

Conscience Penny To England's Chair King

This was a penny which an unknown American forgot to pay for the rent of a Hyde Park chair ten years ago.

General Mitchell Hits Back at His Critics

"Overseas our casualties from anti-aircraft guns were only one-tenth of one per cent," said Mitchell. "No fire from the ground can beat back an air attack, the only way to fight airplanes is from the air," he said. "And no fleet can get away from a gas attack from the air."

Presents Example
Mitchell presented a hypothetical example of an air attack upon New York. "We would come over with light, fast planes and drop gases and parachute flares, thus putting the anti-aircraft gunners out of commission so they couldn't see when our heavy ships came over for destruction work," said Mitchell.

"What lesson are we to draw from all your testimony?" interjected Representative Reid, Republican of Illinois. "Just this: No battleship can exist against air attack and no American city can stand out against air attack unless that city is defended by airplanes."

"The navy is in error when it gives out information based on the Washington tests, that battleships can't be sunk from the air. Battleships can only exist under the loving care of airplanes and submarines."

"How can you explain the discrepancy between the testimony you give your flyers and that of men who stayed at home and say that the records showed that anti-aircraft fire were responsible for 20 per cent of the German planes brought down?" asked Representative Perkins, Republican of New Jersey.

"Lots of things were done at home that didn't happen on the front," said Tipton. "I don't think that any aviator with two weeks' experience at the front would fear to fly over the front anti-aircraft battery in the world," said Mitchell.

Fastest Porpoise Dies After Life Masquerade
LONDON, Feb. 20.—The "fastest and longest-traveled porpoise in the world" has just died in Brighton aquarium at a ripe old age. Known familiarly to the aquarium's visitors as "Peter," the porpoise was caught some years ago by local fishermen who deposited it in a tank in the aquarium. From the day he was found captured to the day he was found dead "Peter" never ceased swimming. He never ever rested for meals, but took his ration of fish while swimming. The officials estimated that he had swum over 25,000 miles during the time he had been in captivity. The strangest part of "his" history, however, was that "he" had been living under a mistaken identity for at the inquest on "his" remains it was found that "he" was a female.

The plaintiff accused the defendant of taking a ring from her home. A woman acted as interpreter.

WOMAN MINER TAKES LAST LONG HIKE

Smiling Nellie Cashman Is Dead, Pioneer In Alaskan Fields

By CHAS. SHAW
Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925
VICTORIA, B. C., Feb. 20.—Smiling Nellie Cashman, pioneer of the gold fields of the southwest and the north, has gone on the long trail. They buried her here recently in Ross Bay cemetery.

No woman was better known in the mining camps of Arizona and the Yukon than Nellie Cashman, the little woman with the sunny smile and the cheery voice who for nearly half a century followed a life of adventure in the frontier towns, and during her eighty years made a fortune for herself and millions for her friends.

Probably no woman ever won more friends during the course of a career among the mining fraternity, yet she died among strangers, although she had several times visited Victoria, which in the early days was one of the distributing centers for the Klondike. She was little known here, and even the priest who officiated at the funeral services was unfamiliar with her past. She had been in a hospital here for several months, and while many pioneers of the Klondike live here, they did not know of her presence until they read of her passing in the newspapers.

"Sour Dough" Bearers
The pall bearers were all "sour dough," one of them being Frank Slavin, one time heavy weight boxer, who first met Nellie Cashman when she ran a little grocery and produce store on Mill street, Dawson City.

Grizzled trail blazers of the northern creeks and dance hall girls, everyone with a hard luck story, who needed sympathy and sometimes cash, almost invariably found what they sought from the little dark haired store keeper in the blue apron. She was one of the first women to seek a fortune in the Yukon, and she went in with the first tide of adventurers in 1897. She grubstaked many miners on a 50-50 basis and some of them struck it rich. She became heavily interested in the Gold Run, Dominion and Hunker claims, three of the most famous properties in the Klondike, but it was 20 years before the rush to the northland that Miss Cashman first followed the lure of the gold camps.

Started in Arizona
She drove her first stakes in the Arizona field, and more than one of that state's wealthy men today owe their start to the helping hand of Nellie Cashman when they first tried their luck in the mining game. She was successful there, as in the north, and with her earnings she financed her journey to the Klondike.

Before establishing her store in Dawson City she was a nurse in several of the camps, and while serving in that capacity she made the most of her opportunity to stake claims where the prospects were best. She stayed in the north long after the excitement of the gold rush days had become a memory.

Several years ago Miss Cashman sought a gentler climate and revisited Arizona. But the frozen wilderness had been kind to her and last year smiling Nellie Cashman, a gray haired woman of eighty years, made the long journey from Koyukuk to Seward over 750 miles of snow, winning for herself the undisputed claim to being the champion woman "musher" of the world. Nothing is known here of Miss Cashman's family connections.

Mother Dying In Vain Effort To Save Boy

NAMPA, Idaho, Feb. 20.—Mrs. Roy Parker is in a critical condition here today following her heroic but unsuccessful effort to save her year-old child from burner to death at the Parker home near Nampa yesterday. Nothing is known here of Miss Cashman's family connections.

FIRE ZONE RULING MADE IN ATWATER

Wood Frame Construction Is Prohibited On Los Feliz Road by Action of Los Angeles City Council

The last building of wood frame construction on Los Feliz road from the Glendale city limits to the Los Angeles river has been built. All further construction of wooden buildings on the thoroughfare was halted by the Los Angeles City Council when it voted to place the territory in the third fire zone.

Only buildings of fireproof construction, brick, concrete or hollow tile are permitted within this zone. Action of the council in rezoning the business property along Los Feliz road will necessitate radical changes in plans for several buildings soon to be erected. It is halted by property owners and residents of the district, however, as one of the most important forward steps taken in recent months.

Object To Motorcycles

Residents of Hollydale Gardens announced today that they planned to file protests with the Los Angeles City Council against the use of property at Acresite and Hollydale avenues as a motorcycle race course. Noise and commotion caused by the motorcycles has become a grave source of annoyance to residents of the district, it is declared.

BUILDING BEE IS EXPECTED TO PASS

Measure Is Before Senate At Present Time; Will Rush It Through

By DAVID LAWRENCE
Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—Although there will be much waiting and gnashing of teeth when the casualty list of dead legislation becomes known at noon on March 4, nothing will perhaps cause greater inconvenience to the government than a failure of the public buildings program.

Postmaster General New is confident the measure which has already passed the House, will get through the Senate, but the list of important measures being affected by filibusters and other tactics of opponents is growing. The postal pay bill, Muscle Shoals, the District of Columbia rent bill, agricultural legislation and the public buildings bill are interwoven in the controversies of the House and Senate. To defeat one of the opponents may insist on lengthy consideration of something else till the time left is too short to get the measures passed.

Bill Has Chance

But the public buildings bill has a fair chance of riding triumphantly through the legislative gam. It appropriates $25,000,000 a year for the next six years, or a total of $150,000,000 for public buildings. The measure provides that the sites and cities which shall be selected will be determined by the postmaster-general in agreement with the secretary of the treasury. President Coolidge will sign the bill if passed. It also has the hearty approval of the director of the budget.

The situation which prompts this widespread support is an unprecedented one. Usually the building of postoffices is regarded as so much "pork" and it is the objective of individual members of the Senate and House to get certain buildings constructed to beautify their own business districts or to put work into the constituencies for contractors and employees, especially during a lull in business.

While this may enter here and there into the problem, the public buildings bill is really an emergency measure. Virtually no building has been done since the war. Federal buildings and postoffices are crowded to the doors and in many instances the government is in effect doing business on the streets or has been compelled to rent extra space in expensive locations.

Need for Space

The efficiency of the postoffice department depends upon adequate housing facilities. Mail cannot be handled as effectively in cramped quarters as in spacious distributing rooms. And the mail handled by the postoffice department has naturally increased immensely in the last six years.

Some of the southern Democrats are reported to be opposed to the public buildings because they think most of the money will be spent in sections of the country which vote the Republican ticket, due to the influence of Republican senators and members of the House. The postoffice department, on the other hand, will be in a position in some cases to show favoritism, but the space problem knows no section and the over-crowded condition of government buildings will compel a uniform distribution of the funds.
