GHOUL'S CONFESSION.

Tells of Six Murders and the Sale of Bodies of Victims,

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. S .- Most barbarous of all the disclosures made in the wholesale grave robbing cases which shocked this community last spring, is trell, leader of the band of ghouls, that a score of murders were committed order to meet the demand for dead

Cantrell declares six people were mu dered in cold blood and delivered up, with no questions asked, to the colleges that were trafficking with the body-catchers. Some were beaten to death, others shot and stabbed, and a couple died of poison, ingepiously administered by members of the Cantrell gang.

Cantrell explains in his confession that they could not get bodies of persons who had died natural deaths.

In his cell in the prison the confessed ghoul and murderer is in a deplorable state. Conscience-stricken, he spends his days and nights pecing up and down and muttering to himself about his erimes.

"I wanted to tell all and relieve my dence," he said to Superintendent Byers, formerly warden of the Ohio "When it is all over, I will put myself out of the way."

Because of this threat of snicide, a close watch is being kept on the prisoner, from whom, it is hoped later on to obtain an even more complete statement than he has yet made.

who have lately been a source of anxiety to the city police and lock-up jailers, have been identified as E. Dodds and Peter Hansen, who escaped from the Victoria Reformatory on June 20th last. The boys gave the local police the names of Dick Thomas and Thomas Johnson, and stated that they had come from Seattle. Prior to their recent escape and return to the city lock-up, arrangements had been made with the United States coused for their return to Seattle, and Paris, Aug. 8 .- The trial of the Humbert family opened here to day. Mine, aumbert frequently interrupted the reading of the indictment with scornful exclamations which could be heard throughout the court room. When asked where she lived, she answered: "In

The interrogation of Mme, Humbert turnished the chief incident of the day, but failed to develop any surprising testimony or bring out the whereabouts of the mysterions Crawford brothers, here statements consisting mainly of vague declarations of her henesty.

Questioned about various early inheritances which she claimed to have received. Therese answered with apparent frankness, saying she had received large presents. When the court demanded the exact details regarding the presents, she replied: "All will be explained," and she warmly explained that the details cently. He interviewed the boys, who at first stoutly dedied ever having been in the reformatory, but finally admitted their identity as Dodds and Hansen. "They escaped from the reformatory with the boys Emery, Gillard and several others on June 26th. Three of them stowed away on the Charmer and came to Vancouver. The mate of the Charmor caught them abourd and locked them up in a cabin and sent for the police when the steamer arrived here. When the vessel tied up at the wharf, however, one of the ropes passed close to the porthole of the cabin in which the boys porthole of the cabin in which the boys were confined, and by the aid of this they all got ashore. When the police arrived the cabin was empty. Dodds and Hansen got clear away, but Gillard, the third boy, was caught on the wharf and returned to Victoria. Where the other two have been since, and what they were doing prior to being arrested as vagrants, is hard to say, but they will be on their way back to the juvenile escape house in Victoria this afternoon." Crawfords exist."

"Where are they?" inquired the judge.

"Their presence will be made known in due time," she replied, amid another outburst of laughter.

Judge Bonnet remarked that she had given the same answer before and now was the time to produce the Crawfords. At the afternoon session while Judge Bennet was critically reviewing the were numerous cases of smastrike, six of which proved fatal.

LITTLE CHANGE IN FISHING CONDITIONS

Salmon Are No More Plentiful on Puget Sound Than in British Columbia

A Port Townsend dispatch of Thursday last says: "Collector Ide is on a trip to Point Roberts as a result of the recent decision of the treaury department allowing a rebate of 90 per cent. ment allowing a rebate of 99 per cent, in duty on all fish imported into this country to be canned for export. Fish are brought in whole, but in the process of cauning there is a great loss in weight through the fact that part of the fish is discarded. As a consequence when canned for export the product in being weighed out would not give the manufacturer his 99 per cent. rebate.

"Collector Ide will try to determine what proportion of the fish is discarded, so that it can be added to the weight canned. By doing this he will be able to figure the 59 per cent rebate on the proper rate when reported. When an exporter sends out so many pounds of canned almon upon which duty was replied: "All will be explained," and she warmly explained that the details would be supplied at the opportune time. Later her calmness in putting off her disclosures excited outburts of laughter, in which juages and spectators joined.

Questioned as to the Crawford brothers, she exclaimed: "I repeat that the law the supplied at the opportune time. The calm has been as well as was lost to that number of salmon in canning."

"Patti is coming, and it will be for the lest time. One may be disinclined to believe it, but the diva herself is the person who pronounces this to be her

Itembert complained of being suddenly taken with a violent illness. The judge, however, insisted on proceeding with the case, initinating his belief that her sickness was feigned. He then went into the details of the alleged Crawford operations and their fleeting residence at New York, whereupon Mme. Humbert revived sufficiently to exclaim: "I will prove everything. I will show my good faith, but not to day. Not while I am sick."

Judge Bonnet asked if any one ever saw the bonds she claimed to have deposited within the famous safe, and Mme. Therese replied: "Yes, many persons saw and actually counted them."

The examination of Frederic Humbert (Therese's chushand) followed. Questioned as to the whereabouts of the Crawford millions, he replied that he knew nothing about them.

"But I know about them," exclaimed Mme. Therese, rousing herself from hersupposed sick condition.

The hearing was then adjourned to Monday.

LOSS OF NORTH PACIFIC.

The License of Capt. Soderman Has Been Suspended For Nine Months.

The board of inquiry composed of Bion B. Whitney, United States inspector of hulls, and Robert A. Turner, United States inspector of marine boilers, has rendered its decision in the investigation concerning the loss of the steamer North Pacific, which went on the rocks, in a fog. off Marrowstone point July 1990, and was a total loss. Capt. Gus Soderman, master of the vessel, is found guilty of handling the steamer in an unseamantike manner, in violation of rule seamanlike manner, in violation of rule four of the pilot rules, and his license as master is suspended for a period of nine months.

The board addressed the following letter to Capt. Soderman:
"In the hatter of the wreck of the steamer North Pacific on July 19th, 1903, investigated August 6th, 1903, we find that you violated the fourth paragraph of rule four of the pilot rules regulating the navigation of recessless.

Waters.

Reports from the different canneries on the Fraser river on Saturday were to the effect that conditions showed little change. The average for the main river or. Friday was 45 fish, and the North Arm 25. Advices from New Westminster placed the average up river, at about 24. The highest catch was 167. Stemmers arriving in the river from the Gulf reported that they had zighted large numbers of fish, so that better returns may be tooked for. On Saturday very few of the boats had returned when the results were made up, and thus the result of the catch was not known.

Fish are no more plentiful on Puget Sound at the present than in British Columbia waters. One cannery at Anacortees got 20,000 fish, 3,500 of them being humpbacks. Five thussand of this humber were received from the Jopez Island traps, the remainder being obtained at Point Roberts. A buyer who had just rezeked Abacortes from the Salmoh Banks reported that there were large numbers of fish in that locality. According to advices from Stevestom an American steamer has been purchasing fish in British Columbia waters for an independent cannery on the Sound, which cannery is also sail to have been guilty of buying fish from men under contract to the Fraser fiver canneries. The purchase of fish by an American boat within the limit is a violation of the law.

The ship floated from five to twenty minutes before the boats were lowered, and the passengers were put in and sent away. Now, during this time there was plenty of steam in the beilers, and yet he made no effort to beach the ship. This is unskiffed navigation. COULD' NOT MAKE THE VICTORIAS PLAY BALL

Long Drawn-Out Game Full of Superb Errors-Lacrosse at Vancouver.

It was not a large crowd that gathered at Oak Bay on Saturday to witness the match announced to take place between the Victoria and Majestic teams. The game was one of the slowest of the season, and both teams put ap one of the poorest exhibitions ever seen on local diamonds. The score and the error column tell the story. Victoria won by 17 runs to S, and 13 errors are recorded against the visitors and 9 against the home team. Another unsatisfactory feature was the slow delivery of Glison, the Majestic's pitcher. Each ball was thrown with a deliberation which made the spectators nervous.

There were, however, some redeeming the state of the season and G. Coldwell. Intermediate League Standing.

Of the match at Vancouver on Saturday the News-Advertiser says;
"After lagging for the first half, the Vancouver team woke up in the third quarter of their match with the Victoria twelve at Brockton Foint on Saturday, and won by 12 goals to 12 The match was without a doubt one of the slowest ever witnessed in the history of lacrosse, in this province, and was none other. in this province, and was none other than a good practice for the Vancouver

"At no time during the progress of the match were the Victorians aggressive, and it is hard to see how such a home and it is pard to see how such a home could score one goal against the home team's defence. They are a small-sized team, fair stick handlers, and have plenty of speedy fielders, but after the first half there seemed to be absolutely no difficulty in keeping them away from the poles. Had it not been for Calhoun, who played junior in this city last season for the Crescents, and was in the flags for the visitors, it is hard to say how many only a youngster, and his rematation is already known by the good work he has done, both in junior and intermediate company. Weak lungs are made strong by the use of Dr. Rierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It cures obstinate and stubborn coughs, bronchitis, bleeding of the lungs and other symptoms which, if neglected or unskillfully treated, terminate fatally in consumption. The action of Golden Medical Discovery in the curing of wasting diseases is entirely philosophic, Emaciation, and consequent loss of weight, are among the most striking symptoms of what are known as wasting diseases. The body is not being adequately nourished, and the cause of this lack of nourishment is not lack of food but lack of ability in the stomach and the other organs of digestion and nutrition of the body. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and the organs of digestion and nutrition, and so enables the body to be nourished back to strength in the only way by which strength can come; that is, by food perfectly digested and assimilated.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is a temperance medicine. It contains no alcohol, neither opium, cocaine or any other narcotic.

Accept no substitute for "Discovery." There is nothing " just as good "for you, though many things may pay the dealer a larger profit.

The speaker prefaced his remarks by alluding to the wonderful growth of trades unions in Victoria, and held it to be a step in the direction of Socialism. It was the aim of the Socialist party, through legitimate means, to substitute the existing economic condition for one of cooperation in industry where the rule would be each for all, and all for each, and from every man according to his ability to every man according to his ability to every man according to his need. PRINCESS VICTORIA ARRIVED YESTERDAY

The Ferry Presented Fine Appearance as It Entered the Harbor-General Shipping News.

The steamer Princess Victoria arrived in port from Vancouver yesterday after-She was brought down by Capt Troup, superintendent of the C. P. R coast fleet, and her chief engineer T. G. Mitchell, who has watched over the installation of all the machinery from the time when she was launched at New-castleon Tyne.

The Princes Victoria has been fitted up according to the original plans, and will, when completed, be by far the best equipped steamer plying on the Pacific coast.

As the steamer entered the harbor ves-terday about 4.30 o'clock she presented a beautiful sight. She resembled an ocean liner more than a coasting ferry. Un-loaded she stood somewhat higher out of the water than she will when in com-mission. The vessel, however, will even, when lower in the water, present a very majestic appearance under steam.

The trip down was made with only two of her engines in use. No attempt was made to test her speed, which, it is expected, will exceed eightrous knots an hour. The additional deck for the accommodation of travellers gives the Princess Victoria a unique appearance among the vessels plying in these waters, and adds very materially to the proud appearance of the ferry.

to the attractiveness of the transcontinental trip. This palacial steamer will make the Vancouver-Victoria run the most enjoyable part of the trip from the cast to this city.

During the time on has has a transourer she has become fouled. This afternoon she will be taken is sandy at the point where the boat went to the ways to be scapped.

The delay in beinging her down will result in the vessel being somewhat later than was expected in going on her ways this afternoon it will probably be Wednesday before she comes off, and will, therefore, not go on the route until next week. She will harve a few days on the regular run before the time of the Native Sons' exheled the marine inspectors that several possess on the boat were under the mission to Tracoma on the 22nd, All the emission to Tracoma on the 22nd, and the regular run before with the completed until sense time after the Princess has been discharging raw sugar at Vancouver the probably finish to-day. THE DESTROYERS STRAINED.

The trip across the Pacific to the China station seems to have tried the destroyers Sparrowhawk and Virago which left here. The Naval and Military Record publishes the following from its correspondent, at Wéi-hai-wei: "The destroyers Sparrowhawk and Virago had a very good passage from the Pacific station, but the long voyage has strained them very much. The Virago had to be docked at Kobe, and on her arrival here the Sparrowhawk was leaking badly. She is now alongside the pier with artificers on board from the fleet, making good her defects."

FINALS OF TOURNEY.

On Saturday afterneon the open tournament of the Victoria clawn Tennis Club. Which has been in progress during the past week, was brought to a close, the finals and championships attracting a large crowd of speciators. Undoubtedly the game which was looked forward to with the greatst interest was the championship in gentiemen's singles between A. T. Goward and R. B. Powell. The former was the defender of the cup. As expected, the game proved most exciting, and Powell captured the coveted trophy by three sets to one, the score being 7-5, 6-0, 6-3. The style of the two players is entirely different and their work or Saturday clicited considerable applause. Powell proved to have the better defence and more accuracy in placing. Goward made his opponent work for honors from the second control of the contr placing. Goward made his opponent work for honors from the start.

The tadles' championship round was won by Miss'M. Goward, who has now captured feated all contestants in the ladles open singles, was entitled to play Miss Goward for the championship. The match between Miss Goward and Miss Bell was closely contested, the latter giving the champion a hard fight from the first game. L. R. Freeman and D. M. Rogers were defeated in the men's doubles by A. T. Goward and R. H. Pooley by a score of three sets to two. Play was most exciting, both couples working together well. In the mixed double finals, R. B. Powell and Miss Bickford were victorious. They defeated Lieut. Knox and Miss Burton. Mrs. Hardy and Mrs. Burton won the ladies' doubles, defeating Mrs. Langley and Miss Bell by two sets to nothing. Following are the results of Saturday's play:

"L. R. Freeman is relied upon to furnish some of his best playing. This crack player has for the last two years had nothing but victories to his credit until the terms ment just closed in Victoria. There he was outplayed and badly beaten by R. B. Powell, of Victoria. Powell has entered here, and it is probable that, if he and Freeman should meet in the finals, that the spectators will see some wonderful playing. S. L. Russell has been playing in such form that he will probably furnish some exciting work for both Freeman and Powell. Russell is the exchampion tennis player of Yale, and his form this season is regarded by competent judges to be the best he has ever displayed.

From Victoria the following promising players have been entered: R. H. Pooley, J. A. Bithet, R. B. Powell, E. Langworths, Lieut. White, Lieut. Knox. Vancouver will be well represented by Fred. Beecher.

Hewitt and Arthur Remington, of Tacoma, should be able to present creditable exhibitions. The Seattle players depend upon Joe Tyler, F. C. Newton and 8. L. Russell to hold up the local prestige.

The following practical poulity advice is given by F. C. Hare, chief of the poultry division of the Dominion department of agriculture:

It is most profitable to dispose of old heus before the moulting period. There is then a ready market for fowls on account of the scarcity of chickens. If the hens are held until fall they will not realize as great a profit as they will this month, owing to the reduction of the market price for fowls and the loss of flesh in moulting. All male binds should be sold in the summer and cockerels used for breeding the following season.

The advantages of retaining the early pullets for fall and winger egg-production have been repeatedly stated. Early pullets will lay in their first year five times as many eggs as old hens. The cost of feed will be practically the same for the pullets as for the hens. The profit from the pullets will be correspondingly greater. The most promising utility-type pullets should be selected now, fed liberally so that early winterlaying may be encouraged, and later on placed in comfortable winter quarters. Transferring mature pullets to a strange pen defers, egg-production.

For poultry farming the utility type of breeding fowl should be selected. This type of fowl can be had in the proper breeds, Plymouth Rocks and Wyandottes. Utility-type fowls should be broad, blocky and of medium size and weight (nature weight, cock, seven to eight and a half pounds; hen, five and a half to seven pounds). The breast should be full, broad and carried well forward. The legs should be set well apart, short, The legs should be set well apart, short, white or yellow in color, and without leg or foot feathering. The photograph is that of a girl so lovely that Breakspear feels irresistibly compelled to follow up the mystery in the hope of finding her.

The Key and the Label.

"Miss Oakley!" Jim exclaimed, springing from his chair and going towards her, more conscious of the photograph among the lilies and the lock of glittering copper hair on the white tablecloth than of the lady's charms.

Yet she was charming, and had never been more so, perhaps, than now as she stood hesitating on the threshold, the hardness which was the one defect of her

She was in evening dress, white and gold, under a long cloak of primrose yellow. Her hair, piled high on her small head and elaborately waved, was primrose yellow, too; and her large eyes, under long lashes which her enemies declared to be artificially darkened, were yellow-brown as topazes. Her skin was chared to be artificially darkened, were yellow-brown as topaxes. Her skin was marble white, save for the thin corai thread of her lips (some people-women, of course, doubted that nature alone was to be thanked for that perfect complexion); and alfogether, she was, this evening a symphony in yellow and white from the crown of her pale gold head to the brighter gold of a slipper which showed a pointed gleam under the folds of her trailing dress. After her striking beauty, one noticed next about Vivien Oakley what essentially "good form" she was; how correct every detail that makes all the difference between a woman of the "smart" world and one who only tries to copy such women. She did not look at all the sort of girl to call upon young men in their lodgings, yet here she was, this exquisite creature who was supposed at this moment to be amusing herself and others in a gay country house near Brighton. But It would only embarrass her the more to betray how much her visit had surprised him, and Jim con-trolled the astonishment in face and voice after his first ejaculation. once after his first ejaculation.

She saw the change, and understood.

"Oh, it is no use to pretend you are of surprised!" she exclaimed. "But on't be more shocked than you can help, am paying you a great convillent."

on the more snocked than you can supplied in paying you a great compliment."

"Don't you think I appreciate that?" retorted Breakspear. He would have been at his case and rather enjoying the unusual situation, if he had had time to hide away the curl of hair and the photograph. But as he drew Miss Oakley into the groot his quickend self-conscious. graph. But as he drew Miss Oakley into the room, his quickened self-conscious-ness told him that a swift glance of hers had stopped at the pictured face among the lilles. At this, he rated himself for a fool because the blood would rush up to his forehead as if he had been a schoolboy; yet the more he tried the less he could prevent the flush from spread-ing and he knew that the lady's gaze had transferred itself from the photo-graph to him. Each could read the other's ght; yet nothing could be said of it

Miss Oakley ignored the chair which her host offered tout of sight of what the lilies framed), and moved across the room to the fireplace. Whether of not this fact had been in her mind, from the chosen place of vantage the photograph could be plainly seen, the extraordimry could be plainly seen, the extraordimry beauty of the face which might have been missed at a greater distance, offering its own explanation of its presence on a young man's dinner table. Matters would, however, only have been rendered worse by removing the picture now, and it had to remain where it was; also the part of heir which could be add hours to it had to remain where it was; also the curl of hair which could hardly hope to pass unnoticed.

"I came to you because I felt so sure I might depend upon your friendship," Miss Onkley went on, in a slightly changed voice. "I knew you wouldn't misunderstand me, and I thought you would be ready to help me. There aren't many men a woman could come to, in such a way as this; but I was sure you were—the only one among all the men I know."

were—the only one among all the men I know."

"You say you thought all this of me," echoed Jim. "Don't you think it still?"

"Oh, I suppose so!" she exclaimed.

"Only—it seems so much worse than I had imagined, now that I'm actually here. It was most audacious of me to come, I know. But you are audacious. Do you sympathize with the same quality in others?"

"I like courage, whether in men, or women," said Breakspear. "But tell me what I can do for you, I promise you that you mas depend upon me, whatever it is."

"You promise me that, without even knowing what I mean to ask?"

"Yes." Jim looked straight into her eyes. It was a reckless promise; but it was from a man to a woman who had taken an unusual step in applying to him for help.

"Thank you, thank you!" She spoke warmly, yet her voice was ourlously strained, and the expression of her topaz eyes matched it. "I must go to a house where I dare not go alone. It is only to leave a letter, but—I must take the letter myself. You see, it is for a friend—a friend whom I could not refuse when I heard that it was almost a question of life or death, I came from Brighton on purpose to do this thing—"

"Then I very nearly passed you on the way." impulsively broke in Jim.
"To his surprise, she gave a quick start, her yellow eyes opening wide and diating, their look fixed on him, as if in challenge. "What do you mean?" she cried.

"Yet you came near going, you say,

this afternoon?"
"Yes. That was before I er knew about the business which will keep me in town."

"Oh, I see!" She spoke drily. "But suppose your going to Brighton was included in the promise you've allowed me to exact from you?"

"In that case, I should lay aside my business and go. But I haven't flattered myself that it could make any difference to you, Miss Oakley, whether I went or stopped at some."

"And mow that I've come here to your rooms—alone—to ask a favor of you I'd.

"And now that I've come here to your rooms—alone ato ask a favor of you I'd ask of no other man, do you still think yout comings and goings are so completely indifferent to me?"
Vivien Oakley's voice was soft and seductive as she asked this question, which would have thrilled through the same blood in Brokenson's voice only warm blood in Breakspear's, veins only hast night; but flow another face seemed to have come between him and her, fad-ing her beauty into cold insignificance for one man at least.

"Now, I hope that you really think of me as a friend," he said.

According to the report of the United States Commissioner of Education, the Republic spends on elementary education the Immense sum of $226,043,236 annually. Europe spent for the same purpose $246,500,000, although the population far exceeds the population of the United States. The enrollment in the elementary schools of Europe is, however, in the neighborhood of 45,000,000, while in the United States it is not much more than 16,000,000—although it not much more than 16,000,000—aithough it is estimated that there were, in 1901, al-most 22,000,000 children of school going age to that country. The United States yearly expenditure per pupil averages $22.

for permission to double up the classes in some of the schools next term, owing to the lack of accommodation. It was explained to Mr. Wilson that with over 4,000 attending the city public schools, combined with the large attendance at the High and Normal schools, the present accommodation was inadequate. It was proposed to double up the classes, i.e., hold one class in the morning and another in the afternoon in each room in the Lord Roberts and possibly the Frirview school, and elsewhere if needed, till the new High school was built. Outline of Programme for Their Entertainment - A Distinguished Novelist Among Them.

The touring party of British journal ts will arrive in this city on to-night's Yosemite, and will spend two days here ans, who understood that owing to pressure on their itinerary the visitors would only have one day in British Columbia's capital. They will now have an opportunity of seeing more of Vancouver Island than was originally contemplated,

Island than was originally contemplated, as arrangements have been made for a run up the E. & N. railway line, where they can inspect the many interesting scenes when aroused the enthusiasm of their colleagues of the British press who came here a year or so ago. To a Times reporter this morning Mayor McCaimless outlined the programme of entertainment prepared for the visitors. They will be officially welcomed on their arrival this evening and excorted to their hotel, after which they will be surrended to their friends. It has been deemed advisable to leave to night open, as it is thought that the party who have been constantly on the move during their journey across the continent will be somewhat fatigued, and will therefore they desire to be tied down to any set arrangement. To morrow morning at - To-morrow trip up the E. & N. line. They will ar-ive at Ladysmith at 11.45 o'clock or rive at Ladysmith at 11.45 o'clock or thereabouts, and inspect the town and the Tyce smelter. From there, after lunch, they will proceed to Chemainus, which they will reache about 2.15 p.m. The sawmili will coupe in for inspection, after which the lumbering camps will be visited. They will dine at Duncans and return to the city about 9 o'clock. On Wednesday they will, be shown the sights of the city, taking in the heach drive, Esquinnalt, the Gorge, the partia-

LONDON BARMAIDS.

Question of Abolition Will Probably Soon Come to Front.

There is every indication that the question of the employment of barmaids is about to come to the front in London. The authorities concerned in London with the employment of barmaids are the licensing magistrates, who control licensed premises, and the theatres and music balls committee of the London country council.

The former body has been memorialized against the employment of barmaids by the National Union of Wome. Workers. The latter has been similarly approached by the British Women's Tem-and displayed a markedly sympathetic attitude towards the proposed abolition of barmaids. "We shall not act precipitately," said a prominent member of the council afterwards. "We shall try, to avoid the mistakes made in Glasgow. when a similar scheme was adopted there. I expect that an intimation will at first be issued to theatrical and m hall proprietors stating that we cons the abolition of barmaids desirable.
