INTRODUCTION

REPORT TO CONGRESS ON

VOTING PRACTICES IN THE UNITED NATIONS

INTRODUCTION

This is the third annual report on the "comparison of the overall voting practices in the principal bodies of the United Nations," submitted to the Congress pursuant to PL 98-151 and PL 98-164. The main purpose of this report is to highlight those parts of a country's performance in multilateral fora which most directly affect its bilateral relationship with the United States. Preparation of the report therefore entails close collaboration between the Secretary of State and the Permanent Representative to the United Nations.

This report covers all recorded plenary votes cast at the regular session of the 40th United Nations General Assembly (UNGA) in the fall of 1985, and the votes of the 15 states which were members of the United Nations Security Council (UNSC) in 1985. At the 40th UNGA the 159 member states debated a wide variety of issues. They adopted a record number (353) of resolutions and decisions, more than half of which (198) were decided without a vote or by consensus. Some 201 issues were decided by vote; in a number of cases, votes were held on separate paragraphs as well as on the entire resolution.

The resolutions adopted by the 40th UNGA covered a wide range: terrorism, the Soviet invasion and continued occupation of Afghanistan, the Vietnamese occupation of Cambodia, the Arab-Israel conflict, apartheid, Namibia, arms control, outer space, human rights in various countries, economic development, the UN's biennial budget, and other topics.

Votes on some issues, discussed later in this report, had particular importance for American interests and were singled out for special attention. One group of such resolutions concerns the issue of name-calling, meaning criticism of the United States or its policies by name. At the 40th UNGA we worked hard to defeat name-calling paragraphs in resolutions on Namibia, the Middle East, and Palestine.

WHAT UN VOTES MEAN

The annual review of UN voting patterns and practices provides a benchmark for assessing the attitudes, policies, and decisions of UN member states on questions that come before the General Assembly and the Security Council. In this sense, the data in this report provide a fairly accurate picture of a country's general orientation in multilateral fora, and on the degree to which, on issues of importance to the United States, it supports the U.S. position. These data do not, however, give the full picture. For example, they cannot include any quantifiable measurement of behind-the-scenes support for, or opposition to, United States policies in UN fora.

To the extent that United Nations actions involve central issues which frequently affect major U.S. interests, the actions of member states in the UN are important to us. Although they are not legally binding on member states, UNGA decisions determine the policies of UN bodies; focus world attention on some problems and away from others; define for many societies what constitutes a problem; and help shape the context in which the United States must operate with regard to important matters. Consequently, votes in the UN are often regarded, rightly or wrongly, as expressions of world opinion on major issues.

In examining the voting record of UN member states, it should be borne in mind that behavior in the United Nations is but one dimension of a country's relations with the United States. Economic, strategic, and political factors can be -and often are -- more important to U.S. interests and policies. But even when this is in fact the case, no country's behavior inside the UN is irrelevant to its bilateral relations with the United States. Because decisions and policies reached in key UN bodies have relevance, so do the votes and actions of member states in those fora.

THE SCORE SHEET

The United States made progress at the 40th UNGA in overcoming the bloc voting which characterizes UN decision-making. There were slight upward shifts in the level of vote coincidence between the United States and major regional groupings, as well as upward shifts by individual countries. These trends reflect to a large degree the results of our continuing efforts to get member states to take seriously the precise language in resolutions, rather than merely endorse resolutions whose packaging is deceptively attractive but whose contents are seriously flawed.

The 40th UNGA took important affirmative steps that support U.S. policy goals. We obtained passage of resolutions condemning hostage-taking and terrorism by the Security Council and the General Assembly, respectively. As noted, we took strong exception to debate remarks and language in resolutions containing attacks on the United States, its friends and allies. We succeeded in deleting six invidious references to the U.S. in draft resolutions on Namibia. The UNGA demanded, by record majorities, the withdrawal of Soviet troops from Afghanistan and Vietnamese troops from Cambodia. In votes culminating nearly two years of work in the Human Rights Commission, the 40th UNGA passed for the first time, with the support of countries from all regional groups, resolutions which criticized human rights abuses in Afghanistan and Iran.

KEY VOTES

Not all votes cast in the General Assembly have the same weight or importance to the United States. Well before the start of the UNGA, the United States identified issues on the UNGA agenda which directly affect American national interests, and made clear to other UN members its positions on those issues. This process of intensive consultation began in the summer, continued during the General Assembly, and shifted as needed to take account of new issues which arose.

Using as a criterion the votes on issues of particular importance and on which we lobbied other governments, we can measure with some accuracy a country's level of support for the U.S. in the UNGA. It must be noted, though, that in some cases the resulting resolutions were adopted by consensus. For example, the resolutions on terrorism and hostage-taking -top-priority issues for the United States -- were adopted by consensus in the UNGA plenary and the UNSC. Similarly, the U.S. joined unanimous decisions to support the UN Secretary General's initiative for a World Conference on Drug Abuse Control in 1987, and to endorse an OAU initiative for a special session of the General Assembly in April 1986 on the critical economic situation in Africa. The list of key issues also excludes the Antarctica item. Although this issue is an important one for us, because we wish to preserve the Antarctic Treaty -- which has furthered environmental protection, scientific research, and cooperation in a peaceful environment for a quarter century -- it was not included in the list of key issues for methodological reasons, since the U.S. and other Treaty partners did not participate in any of the votes on the unsatisfactory resolutions put forward.

Of the 353 resolutions and decisions adopted by the 40th UNGA, the United States joined consensus on 198, abstained on 37, did not participate on 3, and cast yes or no votes on 115. From all 201 recorded votes (including procedural and paragraph votes), the U.S. chose ten key items because of their special importance to U.S. values and interests. These were issues on which we lobbied intensively in the United Nations and in capitals. These votes were:

- The resolution calling for the withdrawal of foreign forces from Cambodia.
- 2. The resolution calling for the withdrawal of foreign forces from Afghanistan.
- 3. A resolution on human rights in Afghanistan, the first to be adopted by the UNGA.
- 4. A resolution on human rights in Iran.
- 5. The challenge to Israel's credentials, which has become the annual climax of the effort to bar Israel from participating in UN bodies. Administration policy and Congressional legislation require that the United States withdraw from, and withhold funding to, the United Nations General Assembly or any specialized agency of the United Nations system that excludes Israel or denies it full rights of membership.
- 6. A U.S.-sponsored resolution on chemical and bacteriological weapons.
- 7. A U.S. proposal to delete criticism of U.S. policy from a resolution on Namibia.
- 8. A U.S. proposal to delete criticism of U.S. policy from a resolution on the Middle East.
- 9. A resolution criticizing the U.S. trade embargo against Nicaragua.
- 10. A resolution on the 1986-87 biennium budget. This was the most important vote in the budget and fiscal area.

NAME-CALLING

Before and during the 40th General Assembly, the U.S. made clear that deletion of clauses in resolutions criticizing the United States by name was a top priority. This policy was developed to counter the unacceptable UN practice of selective condemnation of the U.S. by name, a practice not applied to the Soviet Union in the resolution on Afghanistan or to Vietnam in the resolution on Cambodia. Votes on name-calling clauses can properly be used to measure a country's attitude toward the United States. These votes were separate from votes taken on substantive resolutions into which the name-calling references had been inserted. In other words, in asking countries to oppose name-calling, the U.S. was not asking them to change their positions on the broader issues in the resolutions, such as apartheid, Namibia, or the Arab-Israel conflict.

The United States lobbied hard against the introduction of such discriminatory references into these resolutions when they were in the drafting stage. For the first time in years, the drafts presented to the 40th UNGA on apartheid and decolonization contained no hostile references to the U.S., because of our success during the 39th UNGA in securing elimination of such references from draft resolutions on this item and because of successful U.S. lobbying against their reinsertion at the 40th UNGA. At the 40th UNGA, there were only nine hostile references to the U.S. by name in draft resolutions (six in Namibia texts and three in Middle East-related texts). The U.S. asked that separate votes be conducted on all nine references, and succeeded in deleting the six in the Namibia texts. The three in the Middle East-related texts were retained.

OVERALL VOTING COINCIDENCE

During the 40th UNGA, the average voting coincidence of all other United Nations members with the United States was 22.5 percent. Despite modest upward shifts by some countries compared to the 39th UNGA, the overall pattern of voting coincidence remained essentially unchanged. The highest levels of voting agreement were registered by Israel (91.5 percent), which is not a member of a regional group, and by our NATO allies; the lowest levels were registered by the Arab group, by the Warsaw Pact, and by other countries not members of the Warsaw Pact but closely associated with the Soviet Union.

REGIONAL PATTERNS

Western Countries

As in previous UNGAs, Western countries registered higher voting coincidence with the United States than did other groups. For example: the United Kingdom (86.6%), the FRG (84.4%), France (82.7%), Belgium (82.3%), Italy (81.9%), Luxembourg (80.2%), The Netherlands (76.3%), and Portugal (75.0%). Western countries' overall voting coincidence on Middle East and African issues was 53.7 and 78.8 percent respectively.

Latin America

In Latin America (which includes all states in Central America, South America, and the Caribbean), the highest degrees of voting coincidence were registered by Grenada (71.7%), St. Christopher (50.0%), Belize (37.8%), Paraguay (35.4%), St. Vincent (32.7%), Chile (31.4%) and El Salvador (30.2%); the lowest, by Cuba (6.2%), Nicaragua (8.4%), Guyana (13.9%), and Mexico (14.5%). On Middle East issues, the overall voting coincidence with the United States was 23.0 percent; on African issues, 24.1 percent.

Africa

In Africa, the highest levels of voting coincidence with the U.S. were reached by the Ivory Coast (27.3%), Malawi (26.9%), Liberia (23.7%), and Zaire (23.1%); the lowest, by Angola (3.5%), Algeria (5.1%), and Mozambique (5.9%). The generally lower voting coincidences with the U.S. of this group reflected, in part, sharp differences of view on African and Middle East issues. On those subjects, voting coincidence averaged 6.6 percent and 13.5 percent respectively. The magnitude of the impact of voting differences on these issues is accentuated by the fact that votes on these subjects comprised almost 39% of all votes taken by the 40th UNGA.

Asia and the Pacific

In Asia, the highest levels of coincidence with the U.S. were held by Japan (66.3%), Australia (60.2%), and New Zealand (55.3%); the lowest, by South Yemen (5.7%), Laos (5.9%), Afghanistan (6.2%), and Vietnam (6.5%). Although the overall group average was 17.0 percent, the level of coincidence for the Arab group, most of whose members are simultaneously members of the Asian group, was 12.2 percent. On Middle East issues, Arab voting coincidence with the United States was 12.0 percent, while for the entire Asian group it was 15.8 percent. The Arab group's level of voting coincidence on African issues was 1.7 percent; for the entire Asian group the level was 11.7 percent.

Eastern Europe

The level of voting coincidence with the United States was universally low, with an overall average of 12.4 percent. On Middle East issues, the coincidence was 11.7 percent; on African issues, the coincidence percentage was zero.

SOME CONCLUSIONS

There was some progress in persuading others to vote with the U.S. at the UN, though the overall figures of voting coincidence remain low. In several cases, the group averages of voting coincidence were higher than those of the previous year. The African group went from a coincidence level of 12.8 percent in 1984 to 15.1 percent in 1985. Similarly, Western Europe went from 55.4 percent in 1984 to 59.2 percent in 1985; Asia and the Pacific, from 14.9 percent to 17.0 percent. The Americas Group, at 23.7 percent, remained roughly the same as in 1984.

On name-calling, the record was positive in terms of our success in reducing the number of explicit critical references to the United States, as well as in persuading a majority of the UNGA to expunge six of the nine references actually introduced. In approving only three such references, the 40th UNGA marked a sharp reduction from preceding years -- an important step toward elimination of the double standard applied over the last decade by many member states. It was significant that the nine resolutions on apartheid did not contain any explicit attacks against the United States. This was an important accomplishment in making countries aware of their accountability on name-calling, an issue of central concern to the United States.

Despite some weakening of the practice, bloc politics continue to be an important factor in UN voting. On issues where regional or other groups can successfully impose on a member positions which conflict with U.S. interests, the U.S. often finds itself in the minority and the member's voting coincidence with the U.S. is naturally lower. For example, as noted earlier, almost 39 percent of plenary votes in the 40th UNGA dealt with southern African and Middle East issues. These issues often commanded automatic support from virtually every member of the African and Arab groups, regardless of the merits of the texts. On such votes the United States position is almost always in the minority and rarely gains majority support except when the focus of attention is on an extraneous issue such as name-calling and a specific clause in a resolution is put to a separate vote. A similar situation exists with regard to budgetary questions. At the 40th UNGA, the U.S. position of opposing budget increases was consistently rejected by the majority of UN members, mainly developing countries.

The overall low coincidence of voting behavior between the U.S. and the majority of UN members reflects these structural factors. This phenomenon of bloc voting, however, cannot justify any lessening of the scrutiny which the U.S. gives to the voting performance of individual countries. The U.S. must continue to make clear that it cannot accept from a nation with which it enjoys good bilateral relations the excuse that group solidarity required it to vote in favor of resolutions critical of the U.S. or harmful to U.S. interests. If we were to adopt an approach that discounted opposition where bloc positions are strong, we would in effect be tacitly accepting the bloc system.

On disarmament issues, bloc dynamics do not always govern voting patterns. The United States therefore has a better chance of seeing its positions endorsed by a majority of members, particularly since there is a divergence of views among developing countries on many aspects of disarmament.

A NOTE ON METHODOLOGY

The tables in this report reflect country voting coincidence with the United States in the 40th UNGA plenary. The percentage figure is computed on the basis of all recorded plenary votes, including procedural motions and paragraph votes. The computation excludes issues approved without vote, by consensus, or on which either the U.S. or the country with which it is being compared abstained.

Member states of the 40th UNGA approved, without vote, 198 resolutions and decisions. This included resolutions on such important issues as terrorism, the Secretary General's initiative for a World Conference on Drug Abuse Control in 1987, and the OAU request for a special session of the General Assembly on the critical economic situation in Africa. Recorded votes produced 156 resolutions and decisions.

The percentage of voting coincidence is calculated on the basis of Yes/No votes only: the number of times in which identical votes (yes/yes or no/no) were cast by the United States and a given country, divided by the total number of times in which the United States and the other country voted yes or no. Abstentions and absences are excluded from the tally of identical votes, but are taken into account because they lower the denominator of the fraction.

This is the same method as that used in the reports on the 38th and 39th UNGAs, and the results of the 40th UNGA can thus be compared with those of the two General Assemblies which preceded it. However, both the subjects and contents of resolutions vary from year to year, and statistical comparisons cannot be precise.

Table 1 is subdivided by geographic regions. Tables 2 through 8 provide information on voting coincidence according to significant regional or political groupings.

The Ten Key Votes Affecting Important U.S. Interests During the 40th United Nations General Assembly Fall 1985

The ten votes describe below were judged by the U.S. Mission to the UN as the most significant votes which affected U.S. interests during the 40th UN General Assembly.

The ten votes selected also reflect regional and functional distribution of issues. There are two votes on the Middle East (Israel's credentials and a resolution criticizing U.S. policy in the region); two on Asia (Kampuchea and Afghanistan); two on human rights (Afghanistan and Iran); one on arms control (prohibition on use of chemical and bacteriological weapons); one on Africa (Namibia); one on Central America (Nicaragua); and one on the budget (appropriations for biennium 1986-1987).

Vote totals shown for each vote are Yes, No, Abstain/Absent (Y - N - A/A), with the U.S. vote shown in parentheses.

1. Kampuchea. Resolution 40/7. Expresses conviction that the principal components of a just resolution of the Kampuchean question are the withdrawal of all foreign troops, the restoration of Kampuchea's independence, sovereignty, and territorial integrity, and the right of the Kampuchean people to determine their own destiny free of foreign interference.

Vote: 114 (U.S.) - 21 - 16.

2. Afghanistan. Resolution 40/12. Reaffirms right of Afghan people to determine their own form of government free from outside intervention, reiterates that the preservation of the sovereignty, territorial integrity, and non-aligned character of Afghanistan is essential for a peaceful solution to the problem, and calls for immediate withdrawal of foreign troops from Afghanistan.

Vote: 122 (U.S.) - 19 - 12.

40/7. The situation in Kampuchea

Date:5 Movember 1985Meeting:63Vote:114-21-16 (recorded)Draft:A/40/L.4 and Corr.1 and Add.1

The General Assembly.

Recalling its resolutions 34/22 of 14 November 1979, 35/6 of 22 October 1980, 36/5 of 21 October 1981, 37/6 of 28 October 1982, 38/3 of 27 October 1983 and 39/5 of 30 October 1984,

Recalling further the Declaration on Kampuchea 14/ and resolution 1 (I) 15/ adopted by the International Conference on Kampuchea, which offer the negotiating framework for a comprehensive political settlement of the Kampuchean problem,

Taking note of the report of the Secretary-General on the implementation of General Assembly resolution 39/5, 16/

Deploring that foreign armed intervention and occupation continue and that foreign forces have not been withdrawn from Kampuchea, thus causing continuing hostilities in that country and seriously threatening international peace and security,

Noting the continued and effective struggle waged against foreign occupation by the Coalition with Sandech Norddom Sihanouk as President of Democratic Kampuchea,

Taking note of Economic and Social Council decision 1985/155 of 30 May 1985 on the right of peoples to self-determination and its application to peoples under colonial or alien domination or foreign occupation,

Greatly disturbed that the continued fighting and instability in Kampuchea have forced an additional large number of Kampucheans to flee to the Thai-Kampuchean border in search of food and safety,

Recognizing that the assistance extended by the international community has continued to reduce the food shortages and health problems of the Kampuchean people,

Emphasizing that it is the inalienable right of the Kampuchean people who have sought refuge in neighbouring countries to return safely to their homeland,

Emphasizing further that no effective solution to the humanitarian problems can be achieved without a comprehensive political settlement of the Kampuchean conflict,

Seriously concerned about reported demographic changes being imposed in Kampuchea by foreign occupation forces,

16/ A/40/759.

Later advised the Secretariat that it had intended to vote in favour.

<sup>14/</sup> Report of the International Conference on Kampuchea, New York, 13-17 July 1981 (United Mations publication, Sales No. E.81.I.20), annex I.

Convinced that, to bring about lasting peace in South-East Asia and reduce the threat to international peace and security, there is an urgent need for the international community to find a comprehensive political solution to the Kampuchean problem that will provide for the withdrawal of all foreign forces and ensure respect for the sovereignty, independence, territorial integrity and neutral and non-aligned status of Kampuchea, as well as the right of the Kampuchean people to self-determination free from outside interference,

Reiterating its conviction that, after the comprehensive political settlement of the Kampuchean question through peaceful means, the countries of the South-East Asian region can pursue efforts to establish a zone of peace, freedom and neutrality in South-East Asia so as to lessen international tensions and to achieve lasting peace in the region,

Reaffirming the need for all States to adhere strictly to the principles of the Charter of the United Nations, which call for respect for the national independence, sovereignty and territorial integrity of all States, non-intervention and non-interference in the internal affairs of States, non-recourse to the threat or use of force and peaceful settlement of disputes,

1. Reaffirms its resolutions 34/22, 35/6, 36/5, 37/6, 38/3 and 39/5 and calls for their full implementation;

2. Reiterates its conviction that the withdrawal of all foreign forces from Kampuchea, the restoration and preservation of its independence, sovereignty and territorial integrity, the right of the Kampuchean people to determine their own destiny and the commitment by all States to non-interference and non-intervention in the internal affairs of Kampuchea are the principal components of any just and lasting resolution of the Kampuchean problem;

3. Takes note with appreciation of the report of the Ad Hoc Committee of the International Conference on Kampuchea 17 and requests that the Committee continue its work, pending the reconvening of the Conference;

4. Authorizes the Ad Hoc Committee to convene when necessary and to carry out the tasks entrusted to it in its mandate;

5. Reaffirms its decision to reconvene the Conference at an appropriate time, in accordance with Conference resolution 1 (I);  $\frac{18}{2}$

6. Renews its appeal to all States of South-East Asia and others concerned to attend future sessions of the Conference;

7. Requests the Conference to report to the General Assembly on its future sessions;

8. Requests the Secretary-General to continue to consult with and assist the Conference and the Ad Hoc Committee and to provide them on a regular basis with the necessary facilities to carry out their functions;

9. Expresses its appreciation once again to the Secretary-General for taking appropriate steps in following the situation closely and requests him to continue to do so and to exercise his good offices in order to contribute to a comprehensive political settlement;

10. Expresses its deep appreciation once again to donor countries, the United Nations and its agencies and other national and international humanitarian organizations that have rendered relief assistance to the Kampuchean people, and appeals to them to continue to provide emergency assistance to those Kampucheans who are still in need, especially along the Thai-Kampuchean border and in the holding centres in Thailand;

11. Reiterates its deep appreciation to the Secretary-General for his efforts in co-ordinating humanitarian relief assistance and in monitoring its distribution, and requests him to intensify such efforts as are necessary;

12. Urges the countries of South-East Asia, once a comprehensive political solution to the Kampuchean conflict is achieved, to exert renewed efforts to establish a zone of peace, freedom and neutrality in South-East Asia;

<sup>18/ &</sup>lt;u>Report of the International Conference on Kampuchea, New York, 13-17 July 1981 (United Nations publication, Sales No. E.81.I.20), annex II.

13. Reiterates the hope that, following a comprehensive political solution, an intergovernmental committee will be established to consider a programme of assistance to Kampuchea for the reconstruction of its economy and for the economic and social development of all States in the region;

14. Requests the Secretary-General to report to the General Assembly at its forty-first session on the implementation of the present resolution;

15. Decides to include in the provisional agenda of its forty-first session the item entitled "The situation in Kampuchea".

Recalling Commission on Human Rights resolution 1984/55 of 15 March 1984, 353/ by which the Commission expressed its concern and anxiety at the continuing presence of foreign forces in Afghanistan, as well as Beconomic and Social Council resolution 1984/37 of 24 May 1984, by which the Chairman of the Commission on Human Rights was requested to appoint a Special Rapporteur to examine the situation of human rights in Afghanistan,

Recalling Commission on Human Rights resolution 1985/38 of 13 March 1985, by which the Commission expressed its profound concern at the grave and massive human rights violations in Afghanistan and urged the authorities in that country to put a stop to these violations, in particular the military repression being conducted against the civilian population of Afghanistan,

Recalling also Economic and Social Council decision 1985/147 of 30 May 1985, by which the Council decided to extend the mandate of the Special Rapporteur and requested him to report to the General Assembly at its fortieth session and to the Commission on Human Rights at its forty-second session on the human rights situation in Afghanistan, including the human and material losses resulting from the bombardments of the civilian population,

Having carefully examined the interim report of the Special Rapporteur on the question of human rights and fundamental freedoms in Afghanistan, 355/ which reveals continuing grave and massive violations of fundamental human rights in that country,

6. Expresses its profound distress and alarm, in particular, at the widespread violations of the right to life, liberty and security of person, including the commonplace practice of torture and summary executions of the régime's opponents, as well as increasing evidence of a policy of religious intolerance;

KEY ISSUE NUMBER 8: CRITICISM OF U.S. IN MIDDLE EAST RESOLUTION

On December 16, 1985, the UNGA was considering a draft text on the Middle East. One of its operative paragraphs read as follows:

Considers that the agreements on strategic cooperation between the United States of America and Israel, signed on 30 November 1981, and the continued supply of modern arms and matériel to Israel, augmented by substantial economic aid, including the recently concluded Agreement on the Establishment of a Free Trade Area between the two Governments, have encouraged Israel to pursue its agressive and expansionist policies and practices in the Palestinian and other Arab territories occupied since 1967, including Jerusalem, and have had adverse effects on efforts for the establishment of a comprehensive, just and lasting peace in the Middle East and would threaten the security of the region;

The U.S. requested a separate vote on this operative paragraph.

THE SECURITY COUNCIL, 1985

THE SECURITY COUNCIL IN 1985:

INTRODUCTION

The Security Council held 74 meetings in 1985. Thirty-seven of these dealt with southern Africa (17 on Namibia, 6 on the situation in South Africa, and 14 on complaints from South Africa's neighbors). The Middle East was the subject of 16 meetings (5 on Lebanon, 2 on the situation in the territories occupied by Israel since the 1967 war, 4 on Israel's attack on PLO headquarters in Tunis, and 5 on the Middle East situation in general).

The Council adopted 21 resolutions; 16 were adopted unanimously (four of these after separate paragraph votes had been taken). Three draft resolutions were vetoed: two on the Middle East (by the United States), and one on Namibia (by the United States along with the United Kingdom). The U.S. also exercised its veto power to delete three hostile paragraphs from a resolution sponsored by Nicaragua which condemned the U.S. trade embargo against that country, as well as to delete a paragraph calling for comprehensive sanctions from a resolution on South Africa (the United Kingdom also vetoed that paragraph).

The Council took a number of steps to combat terrorism. The most significant was the unanimous adoption of a U.S.-sponsored resolution condemning hostage-taking. In related actions in 1985, the President of the Council twice made statements expressing the full Council's condemnation of terrorist attacks: on October 9, in response to the "Achille Lauro" hijacking (Ambassador Walters); and on December 30, in Connection with the attacks at the Rome and Vienna airports (the Permanent Representative of Burkina Faso).
