11. Servants is also taken for a min that lead-cates himself to the service of another, by the choice of his own will and inclination. Thus, Joshua was the servant of Moses, Elisha of Elijah, Gehazi of Elisha, and the Apostlos were servants of Jesus Christ. III. Servant is put for the subjects of a prince. The servant of Pharaoh, the servants of Saul, and those of David, are their subjects in gene-ral, and their domestics in particular, 2 Saoi 11. 11, 12, 10, 1 Chron, 21, 3. In like man-ner also the Philistines, the Syrians, and several other nations, were servants of David; they obeyed him, they were his subjects, they paid him tribute, 2 Sam. 8. 6. IV. Servants or slaves, at opposed to those that are free, and to the children of the promises, represent the Jews in contradistinction to the Christians; or those that were under the yoke of ceremonies, to those that are under the gospel of ceremonies, in those that are mader the gospel dispensation. The Jews were the slaves expressed by Hagar and Ishmael; the Christians are the children of liberty, represented by Sarah and by Isaac, Gul. 4, 3, 7, 12, 23, 36.

Servant or servants of God. As all things are subject to the power and pleasure of God, and as none can resist his will or word; in this sense all eventures are God's servants, Psal. 119.91. all cientures are 1003 s servaint, 1 sai, 119-91.

But more particularly by this name are called,
[1] All faithful and godly persons, who being bunght and redeemed from the boundage of sin and botton, do serve and obey God in rightentiness and holiness, Rom, 6, 22, [2] One this serveth and obeyeth God not only in a common profession of religion, but also in some particular function and calling: Thus the apostle Paul calls himself the servant of God, Rom. 1.1 And in this cense, Christ Jesus is termed the Father's servant to execute his will as Mediator, in working man's redemption, Isa, 53, 11. My righteons servant, [3] One whom God makes use at as an instrument to effect and perform his will in the work of some particular mercy or sudgment: Thus may Cyrus be called the serrudgment: I has may Cyrus be called the servant of God, his shepherd and anointed, lev. 44 28. 45.1. And Nebuchadnezzar, Jer. 25.0 loses is often by way of eminence, called the servant of the Lord, Deut. 34. 5. Moses the servant of the Lord died, Jorh. 1. 2. Moses my servant is dead. This title is often given him, not only to reflect honour upon him. In also to give authority to his laws and pritings in publishing of which he only acted at God! Servant, in his name and steads. And it foul. in publishing of which he only acted at God? Sevent, whis name and stead; chad there that the Irraelites might not think of Moses above what was meet, remembering that he may not the Lord himself, but only his servant; and therefore not to be worshipped, nor yet too pertucularly followed in all his institutions, when the Lord himself should come and abolish part of the Mosaical dispensation; it being but rea-sonable that the servant should give place to the Son and Heir, Heb. 3. 3, 5, 6.

servant is also taken for a person of a service ignoble condition and aprixi, who is allogether until for places of dignity, Eccl. 10, 7. I have seen servants upon horses. The appointe Paul rays, 1 Cor. 9, 49. I have made myself servant unto all, that I might gain the more. I have complied with their weaknesses and innr-mittes, so far as they were not sinful; I have denied myself in my liberty, and determined myself to that part in my actions, which I sau would most oblige, profit, and engage them to me would most oblige, with the gospel. The have complied with their weaknesses and so as to bring them in love with the gaspel. The servant of sin, John 8. 34. is one who is in spiritual bondage, and under the power of sin and Psal, 65, 10, thou s, farrows thereof, makest soft SLVEN.

Besides the known signification of this word, it is also used in scripture as a number of perfection. In the sacred banks, and in the religion of the Jews, a great number of events and mysterious circumstances are set forth by the number of se ven. God vonsecrated the seventh day, on which he ceased from his works of ereation, as a day of rest and repose. This rest of the seventh day, according to the dipostle, intimates eternal of rest and repose. This rest day, according to the choosile, intimates eternal day, according to the choosile, intimates eternal rest, Heb. 4.4.9. And not only the seventh day is honoured among the Jews, by the test of the sabbath, but every seventh year is also consecrated to the rest of the earth, by the name of a subbatical year; as also the seven times seventh year, or forty-nine years, is the year of Jubiles. In the prophetic style, a neck often that for seven years, Dan. 9, 24, 25. Jacob stands for seven years, Dan. 9. 24, 25. Jacob served his father-in-law Lahun seven years for each of his daughters. Pharaoh's mysterious dream represented to his emugination seven fat dream represented to his imagination seven full ears of oven, and seven lean ones; seven full ears of even, and as many that were blasted: Three stood for seven years of plenty, and seven of searcity. The golden candicatic had seven branches: seven trumputs, seven priests that branches: seven trumputs, seven priests that sounded them; seven days to surround the walls of Jericho, Jush. 6. 4, 6, 8, 8, 15. Is the representation which any thing makes of the representation which any thing makes of taself, being interposed between the sun or a light and any solid body, Isa. 38. 8. Acts 5. 15. Also a place sheltered from the sun, Job 7. 2. As a servant desireth the shadow. The law is called a shadow of good things to come, Heb. 10. 1. that is, the Mosaical econoory was only a durk obscure representation of Christ, who was the substance of the legal types Christ, two was the substance of the legal types and shadows. Some are of opinion that the alpost he here alludes to the custom of l'ainters, who first make a rude draught, and from it draw a perfect and lively picture; then the sense of the words is this. The old circular did contain only dark resemblances and types of heavenly things, no lively representations of them; this being reserved with the time of the gospel, wherein Christ and all spiritual blessings is him are clearly and plainty manifested. Others think that the Aposte alludes to the shadow of a body, and makes this the sense; That the old convent had only types, wherein Christ and heavenly things through him were darkly represented, not the substance and truth of the things themselves. of the things themselves. Shadow being made by the sun, follows its mo trons, and is in perpetual variation, until at last it quite vanish and disappear; in this sense tast it quite vanish and a sappear; in this sense the tife of man is compared to a shadow, 1 Chroni, 29, 15, Our days on earth are as a shadow, and there is now abiding. Job says, chap. 17. 7. All my members are as a shadow; that is, I am shrunk to nothing, and become a mere ana-tony or ghost-he shadow of death. Job says, Let the shadow of death stain the day wherein I was born, Joh, 3. 3. that is such a dismal darkness as is Joh, 3, 3, that is such a dismal darkness as it in the place of the dead; or, so gross and pall public darkness, that by its horrors and damps may take away men's spirits and lives. The shadow of death; that is, terrible and kaietyal, because it both discovers them and their works of darkness, and hinders their practices. Joh 24, 17, The valley of the shadow of death: that is, the depth of the most terrible and affrighting dangers, Psal, 23, 4.

Is taken, (1) For that uffection which ariseth by reason of some criti dishonesty or filthiness, and appears in the countenance by blushing. Geo. 2. 25, They were naked, and were not ashamed. There was neither deformity in their bodies, nor guilt in their souls, the cause of thems. (2) Exception of authorism of thems. (2) For trouble and perturbation of shame. (2) For trouble and pertubation of mind and conscience, being grieved and cast down at the remembrance of sin against God; Rom. 6, 21, What fruit had ye in those things whereof ye are now ashamed? And in Ezra 9, 6, I am ashamed and blush to lift up my face to thee, my God, for our iniquities are This is shame of our head. increased over conscience, which in wicked men is an evil af conscience, unies in wiesca men is an evi aj-fection, and part of the torment of hell; but in the godly it is a good affection, a sign and fruit of their repentance. Jer. 31. 19, Eph-raim smote upon his thigh, and was ashamed. which would bring (3) For a shameful idol. (3) For a shameful idot, which would bring the worshippers of it to shame at last. Hos. 9. 10, They went to Baal-peor, and separated themselves unto that shame. (4) For scorn, derision, and contempt. Ezek. 36. 6, Ye have burne the shame of the heatheo.

To uncover the shame, or nakedness of a person o uncover the shame, or nakedness of a person, are synonimous terms. Isain threatens the Egyptians, that they should be led away captive stark naked, without any thing to cover their shame or their nakedness, Isa. 20. 4. And the same prophet tays, Thy nakedness shall be uncovered, yea thy shame shall be seed. Isa. 47. 3. It is said, Prov. 3. 35, Shame shall be the promotion of fools; Their promotion shall be their own shams, and the disgrace of those that promote them. And in Prov. 9. 7, He that reproveth a scorner, getteth to himself shame: He loseth his labour, and shall only get discredit by it. The apos tle says, Rom. 5. 5, Hope maketh ashamed. Such hope, which is the fru faith, patience, and experience, shall n ashamed. Such hope, which is the fruit of faith, patience, and experience, shall not be disappointed, but shall certainly obtain the good things hoped for, and so bring matter of rejoicing, and not of shame.

Luke 1.80, was in deserts till day of his s. to Israel SHIELD

SHIELD

Is a piece of defensive armour: The common materials of a shield were wood: It was covered with leather, with plates of gold, or braws. Sometimes they were made all of gold, or braws. Those that Solomon made were of massy gold, I Kings to. 17. Shishak king of Egyt took these away, and Rehobuam made others of brass to serve in their stead, I Kings 14. 06 07.

In scripture God is often called the shield of his people: I am thy shield, says God to Abraham, Gen. 15. 1. I will protect and defend thee. people: I am thy shield, says God to Abraham, Gen. 15. 1. I will protect and defend thee. The Psalmist, says, Thon, Lord, wilt bless the righteons; with favour wilt thou compass him as with a shield, Psal. 5 12. With thy love and gracious providence thou wilt keep him safe on every side. Princes and great men are also called the shield of the people, because by their office they are, or should be, the common unions and protectors of their necause by their opter they are, or should be, the common parents and protectors of their people, to defend them from all oppressions and injuries. Psal. 47, 9, The shields of the earth belong unto God, are dependent upon him. Faith in scripture is likevise called a shield, Lyh, 6, 10, because it derives strength from Christ for overcoming the temptations of Satan.

They hung up their shields upon towers for or naments, or as trophies of victory, to make use of them upon occasion. The tower of David was adoined with a thousand shields. Cant. 4. cas adorned with a thousand shields. Cant. 4. 4, thy neck is like the lower of Daria, builded for an armoury, whereou there hang a thousand hucklers, all shields of mighty useo. By neck, Commentators understand the grace of faith, which, as is suit, is called a shield; and this shews that by faith the church is strong and vic-sness that by just the chart is strong that the toriout over all her enemies. Gen. 15.1. I am thy s. and exceeding great reward Deut. 33. 29. saved by the Lord, the s. of thy help Judg. 5.8. I Deborah arose a mother in Israel, was

This word is found in the title of Psal. 7. It cometh from another Hebrew word which signifies to stray or wander; whence some conjecture, that it was a tarious song, running from one kind of tune into another; and that it from one kind of time into amone; and individual was used in great anguishes of heart, when us the thoughts and stirrings of the heart, through the greatness of trouble, do vary and fall from one strain to another in a straying and scatter

Some think it is an instrument of Music; others ome think it is an instrument of Misic; others translate it. The errors of David; others, The secret of David; others, The delight of David; and others again, The disquiet of David. Some think it ought to be translated, A song of trouble, or A song of consolation of David: The Arabic word Schaga signifies, to be in trouble; and the Hebrew word Schagah, or Shagah, to rejoice, to be comforted.

SHLOH

One of the glorious names of the Messias, denoting him to be the only procurer of our happines; and one alone prace-maker with Ood 1 for 11 timporteth a Sation, or happy, blessed, peaceable, or partein and tour, or nappy, viessed, peaceane, or a peace-maker, &c. from the root Shalah, he was queet, and in peace; he was safe and happy. It is found Geo. 49. 10, The sceptre shall not depart from Judah, nor a lawgiver from between his feet, until SHILOH come, and unto between his 'set, until SHILOH come, and unto him shall the gathering of the people be. III Christiao commentaturs agree, that this word ought to be understood of the Messah; of Jesus Christ. Jerom translates it by Qui mittendus est. He who is to be sent, and manifestly rends Shiloach, sent, instead of Shiloh. The Septuagint translate it, Until the coning of him to whom it is reserved; or, till we see arrive that which is reserved for him.

rive that which is reserved for him. owne translate, The sceptre shall not depart from Judah, till be comes to whom it belongs: Others, till the coming of the Peace-maker, or the Pacific; or nof prosperity: Others, till the birth of him who shall be born of a woman, who shall conceive without the knowledge of a man. Otherwise, the sceptre shall not depart from Judah, till its end, till its ruin, till the downfal of the kingdom of the Jews: At certain author derives Shiloh from shalah, which sometimes signifies to be weary, to suffer; till his labours, his sufferings, his pass on, should come to pass. come to pass.

To go barefoot was a sign of mourning and humilation: David went up by the ascent of mount Divet barefoot, 2 Sam. 15. 30. See Isa. 20. 2, 4. Ezek. 24. 17. The man that refused to raise up seed unto his brother deceased, had his shoe taken off by his brother's wife in presence of the elders. Deut. 25. 9. This was done of the elders. of the etters, Deut. 23. 9. Ints was aone partly as a sign of his resignation of his right to the woman, and her husband's inheritance, as the plucking off the shoe signifies in Ruth 4. 7. and partly, as a note of infamy; to signify that he deserved to be treated like a servant or captive, who in token of submission and obedience went bare-foot, Isa. 20. 4. It is said, Psal. 60. 8, Over Edom will I cast my said, Psal. 60. 8, Over Edom will I cast my shoe. I will take possession of them, I will trample upon them, and use them like slaves. A pair of shoes io Amos 2. 6. denotes a small inconsiderable britle. To bear one's shoes, or untie the latchet of one's shoes, is to perform the meanest services for him. See Mat. 3. 11. Mark 1. 7. SHOULDER

Is a part of the body well known. To give or lend his shoulder, for bearing of a burden, signifies to rubmit to servitude, Issachar howed his shoulder to bear, and became a servant unto tribute, Gen. 49. 15. The Messiah has delivered his people from the rod, or from the woke, to which they were mbject. Isa. 9. 4. Thou hast broken the staff of his shoulder, and in Issaiah, 10. 27, the prophet conforting Israel with the promite of deliverance from Assyria, says, His burden shall be taken away from off thy shoulder. The scripture calls that a rebellious shoulder, a withdrawing shoulder, that will not submit to the yoke, Neh. der, that will not submit to the yoke, Neh. 9.+29. and those that bear it together with joint consent, serving with one shoulder, Zeph. 3. +0.

Heretofore they were the marks of honour and com-mond upon their shoulders. Joh desires of God to decide his cause; Surely I would take it upon to decede his cause; Surely I would take it upon my shoulder, as a trophy or badge of honour, and hind it as a crown to me, Job 31, 36, Isaiah says that the Messiah shull bear the mark of his government upon his shoulder. Isa, 9, 6, The government shall be upon his shoulder, field promises Eliakim the son of Illikiah, to give him the key of the house of David, and to give him the key of the house of David, and to hay it upon his shoulder; so he shall open, and unone shall shut; and he shall shut, and none shall open.

To be horne upon shoulders, sometimes stands for o be horne upon shoulders, sometimes stands Jor a kind of honour and distinction. God says that he would lift up his hand to the Genules, and set up his standard to the people; and they shall bring thy sons in their arms, and thy daughters shall be carried upon their shoulders, Isa. 49. 22. Sometimes this denotes great weak ness, or some great disgrace. God commanded Ezekiel to make a breach in the woll, and Exercise to make a breach in the work, and carry out thereby on his shoulders in the night time, to represent the taking of Jerosalem, and the capitisty of the hing and his people. Exek. 12. 6, 7, In their sight bear upon thy shoulders, &c. is said, Deut. 33, 12. That the Lord shall between Benjamin's shoulders; that fived netween regiminity shoulders, that is, food's temple, wherein he dwelt should be built upon mount. Moriah, which is in the tribe of Benjamin; shoulder being elsewhere put for border, or side, as in Num. 34, +11. To fly upon the shoulders, Isa. 11, 14, is to rize up against one, to attack him, to offer vuolence to him.

This word does not only signify the ordinary silence, or refraining from speaking; but also, in the style of the Hehrews, it is taken for to be quiet, to remain innovemble. Josh. 10, 12, 13, Sun, stand thou still upon Gibeon: Hebrew, silent. And the sun stood still, and the moon stayed, or were silent at the command-ment of Joshua. And in Prov. 26, 20, Where there is no tale-hearer, the strife ceaseth, or is there is no tale-nearer, the strike ceased, or is silent. Silence is taken for an entire rain or destruction, for a total subjection, Isa. 15. 1. Ar of Moab is laid waste, and brought to silence, or, is nately destroyed. Also in Jer. 8. 14. The Lord our God hath put us to silence. ar, has brought great calamities upon us. Si-lence is also taken for death and the grave. Psal. 94. 17, Unless the Lord had been my help, my soul had almost dwelt in silence.

And in Psal. 115. 17, The dead praise not the Lord, neither any that go down into silence. The prophet Jeremiah says, Let us enter into the defenced cities, and let us be silent there. Jer. 8. 14. SIMILITUDES Hot. 12. 10 I have used s. by ministry of prophets SIMPLE

Is taken [1] For our who is harmless, innocent, and free from decrit. Rom. 16, 19. Sr. Paul would have the Romans be wise unto that which is good, and simple concerning evil, which is good, and simple concerning evil, that is, discerning in the choice of good, to distinguish the good from the bad doctrine; but they must avoid whatever has the appearance of evil as children who, without much easining, fly from every thing that does but seem huriful to them; He would have them so seen huriful to them: He would have them so innocent as not to deceive, and yet so prudent as not to be deceived. [2] for such as are ignorent, weak, and subject to delusion, yet sincrea and willing to be taught; such simple ones are invited to Wisdom's feast; and are opposed to such as a eproud and self-conecited, Prov. 9, 4, Whoso is simple, let him turn in hither. [3] Simple is taken for a sillo, foolish, crodulous man, who its easily deceived with the smooth words and fuir pretences of false and decetiful men, Prov. 14. 15. The simple believeth every word; and this simple man in opposed to the prudent man, who looketh well to his goings; who net only orders his conversatwon and dealings in the world with due circumspection, but also judges of the words and processions of others by their conversations. [4] It is taken for ignorant, easy, and credulous presons, who are soon cheated by the world and the devil, and who do not understand their own interest, but persist in their sinful courses. Prov. 22, 3, But the simple pass on, and are punished. Simple here is opposed to the wise and prudent man, who foreseeing the calamity or judgment of God threatened, does by prayer and repentance put himself under the protection of the Almichty. [5] Simplicity is sometimes taken for fidelity and liberality. Rom. 12, 3, 11e that giveth, let him do it with simplicity. He that distributes the church's stock tion and dealings in the world with due circumplicity. He that distributes the church's stock to the poor, let him do it faithfully, without fraud; impartially, not for favour or affection; gently, without fierceness; and liberally, according to every one's necessity.

Is any thought, word, action, omission, or detire, contrary to the law of God. Sin is any want of conformity to, or transgression of, the law, I John 3. 4. It is taken [1] For original corruption, or the depravity and naughtiness of our corrupt nature, which is prone to allevil. Psal. 51. 5, Behold, I was shapen to iniquity, and in sin did my mother conceive me. Kom. 7. 8. Jam. 1. 15, Wheo lust hath conceived, it bringeth forth sin. [3] It is taken for the guilt and defilement of sin. Psal. 51. 2, Wash me thoroughly from mine iniquity, and cleanse me from my sin. And in Heb. 10. 2, The worshippers once purged, should have had no more conscience of sins.] For the punishment of sin, Gen. 4. 7. And thou doest not well, sin lieth at the door: Be sure thy sin will find thee out; thou shall not long enjoy the fruits of thy wickedness, but dreadful judgment shall tread upon the heels f thy sin. And in Gen. 19, 15, Lest thou be a dreadful juagment state recta up-a for thy sin. And in Gen. 19, 15, Lest thou be consumed in the iniquity or punishment of the city. [5] Sin is taken both for the guilt and punishment of sin. Psal. 32. 1, Blessed is he whose sin is covered. And in Mat. 9. 2, Son, thy sins be forgiven thee: The guilt of them is thy sins be forgiven thee: The quite of them is pardoned, and so the punishment shall be removed. [6] The name of sin is often given to the sacrifice of expation, or to the sacrifice for sin, Lev. 4. 3, 25, 29. What is there rendered sin-offering, is in Hebrew, sin. St. Paul says, that God was pleased that Jesus Christ, who knew no sin, should be our victim of expiation, 2 Cor. 5, 21. For he hath made him to be sin 2 Cor. 5. 21. For he hath made him to be sin for us who knew no sin, that we might he made the righteousness of God in him. [7] made the righteousness of God in him. [7] Sin is taken for any fault, either in doctrine or lefe. Joha 8. 46. Which of you convinceth me of sin? [8] Ior infidelity and mbetief, John 16. 9. The Spirit will convince the world of sin, because they believe not on me. world of sin, because they believe not on me. [9] for a single conces of life. John 15, 22, 24, 1f 1 had not come and spoken to them, they had not had sin: They had not been quity of this particular sin of infidelity and rejecting me; or, their sin had not been so hemous as now it is; or, they had had more to say in ex-cuse for their sin. But sin and death entered tuto be tempted to evil, neither tempts he any man Jam. 1. 13. But sin and death entered into the world by the maitee of the devil; and Adam, by his disobedience, and yielding to the tempration of Satan, hos made us all guilty in the eyes of God. See DEVIL, FALL. Jesus Christ, by his death, hath restored life to us; by his obedience, he has reconciled us to God the lather; instead of children of wrath, as we were he has merited for us the character of children of God. The aposite Paul, in several places, speaks of the missery which the first Adam brought on himself and his vosterity, and of the blesson himself and his posterity, and of the blessings which Christ the second Adam has purchased for his children. See Rom. 3, 23, 5, 12, | 6, 23, 1 Cor. 15, 21, 22, Though sin be permitted of God, he can no more be the author light is the author of darkness,
Sin is not a creature, or a being of st, than 1 John 1. 5. but rather the privation of a being; as light is the privation of darknesss, so is sin a privation of holinesss.

Presumptuous sins. David prays that God would keep him back from presumptuous sins, Peal, 19, 13. From known and evident sins, such as proceed from the choice of the perverse will against the enlightened mind, which are committed with deliberation, with design, resources committed with deliberation, with design, reso-lution, and eagerness, against the checks of conscience, and the motions of God's Spiris: such sins are direct rebellion against God, a despising of his command, and they provoke his pure eyes.

Original sin was the rebellion of the first man Adam against his Creator, which was a sin of universal efficacy, which derives a guilt and stain nniversal epicacy, anten acrees guide unitary to mankind in all ages of the world. The ac-count the scripture gives of it, is grounded on the relation which all men have to Adam as their rate relation and men have to Avam as their natural and moral principle or head. Their natural. God created one man in the beginning, from whom all others derive their beings: And that the unity might be the more beings: And that the unity might be the mor-entire, he formed him that aid which was neces sary for communicating his kind to the norld. He hath made of one blood all nations of men, He hath made of one blood at hatfolis of hield, for to dwell on all the face of the earth, Acts 17.26. And as the whole race of mankind was virtually in Adam's boins, so it was presumed to give virtual consent to what he did eat; when he broke, all suffered shipwreck that were contained in him as their natural. rat original.

I. He was the moral principle of mankind. In the first treaty between God and man, Adam was considered, not as a single person, but as the Representative of a nation, and contracted for all his descendants by ordinary generation. for all his aescendants of theirs, and his will the representative of theirs. From house this vast progeny became a party in the contenent, and had a title to the benefits contained in it and had a title to the benefits contained in it upon his obedience, and was liable to the curse upon his violalation of it. Upon this ground the Apostle institutes a parallel between Adam and Christ. Rom. 5, 19, that as by one onai's disobedience many were made sinners; so by the obedience of one shall many be made right the obsculence of one small many or make tight teous. As Christ in his death on the cross did not suffer as a private person, but as a sucrey and sponsor representing the whole church, as it is said, 2 Cor. 5. 14. If one died for all, then and spotson representing in these constitutions is said, 2 Cor. 5. 14. If one died for all, then were all dead: So the first Adam, who was the figure of him that was to come, Rom. 5. 14. In his disobedience was escened a public person representing the whole race of mankind; and by a just law it was not restrained to him to Seripture proves in many places that the sin of Adam was communicated to all his pusterity, and that it has infected and corrupted it. Eph. 2. 3, We were by nature the children o. 2. 3. We were by nature the children of wrath; that is, liable to punishment, and that hath relation to guilt. And in Rum. 5. 12, by one man sin entered into the world, and death by sin; and so death passed upon all men, as a just sentence upon the guilty for that all have smooth. Job describes this sin. Who can bring smaed. Job describes this sin, Who cao bring a clean thing out of an unclean? not one, Joh 4. It is the universal law of nature, that y thing produces its like, not only in regard of the same nature, that is propagated from one individual to another, without a change of the species, but in respect of the qualities with which that nature is eminently affected. The Psalmist David likewise speaks of this sin, Psal. 51. 5, Behold, I was shapen in iniquity, Fail, 31, 3, Behold, I was shapen in finiquity, and in sin did my mother conceive me.

The sin against the Holy Ghost. Our Saviour says in Mat. 12, 31, 32, Wherefore I say unto you, All manner of sin and blasphemy shall be forgiven unto men, but the blasphemy against the Holy Ghost shall not be forgiven unto men the Holy Ghost shall not be forgiven unto men, And whoever shall speak a word against the Son of man, it shall be forgiven him: but who soever speaketh against the Holy Ghost, it shall not be forgiven him, neither in this world, neither in the world to come. Interpreters have differently explained the sin against the Holy Ghost. St. Ambrose in one place makes it to consist in denying the deity of the Son: In anyther place he way it converse in decrease. it to consist in denying the deity of the Son; In another place he saws, it consists in denying the dismity of the Holy Ghost, and in imputing his works to the power of the devil: And in his book of Repentance he extends it to heresy and schism. Hermas says, that the sin against the Holy Ghost is the Machaning of Gest. and schism. Hermas says, that the sin against the Holy Ghost is the blaspheming of God; and another author says, that it is the renouncing of God: Others think the irremissible sin, ing of God: Others canne the elementation of a to be that of a hardened, impenitent, and inso-lent sinner: Grotius espouses this opinion, and gives for examples of this erime, the sin of Korah, Pharaoh, Simon Mague, Ananias, and

Sapphira. Sappara.

As generality of interpreters place the sin against the Holy Ghost, mentioned by our Sarvium, in the wilful malice of those that with stand the evidence of truth, and who will not acknowledge the miracles of Christ to be wronged with the state of the stat by the finger of God, but malicimusty, and against oy the Inger of God, but malicimusly, and against the conniction of their own consciences, unpute them to the prince of darkness. This was certainly the crime of the Pharisees, to whom Christ applied his discourse; and those also become guilty of the same crime, who oppose, or persecute the doctrine, ways, and servants of Christ, because they are spiritual, or have any thing of the Spirit appearing in them, and that southern to their own convictions. Such as the thing of the Spirit appearing in them, and that contrary to their own convictions. Such as are guilty of this sin, are excepted from pardon, he cause the death of Christ was not appointed for the expiation of it: And there heing no sacrifice, there can be no satisfaction, and couse-quently no pardon. For if we wilfully sinafter we have received the knowledge of the truth there remaineth no more sacrifice for there remaineth no more sacrifice for Heb 10, 26, 27, &c. The wisdom and sins, Heb 10.26, 27. &c. The wisdom justice of God require this severity ag such sinners: For if he that despised A. Mases law, died without mercy, of how much sorer punishment shall be be thought worthy, who hath trodden under foot the Son of God, and hath counted the blood of the covenant wherehath counted the blood of the covenant wherewith he was sanctified, an unholy thing, and hath done despite to the Spirit of grace! that is, They renounce their Redeemer as if he were not the Son of God, and virtually consent to the errel sentence passed against him, no if he had blashbemed when he declared himself to be so; and thereby unt-sin his sufferings. How reasonable is it therefore that they should be for ever deprived of the benefits, who obstinately reject the means that purchased them. The same apostle speaks also of this sin in Heb. 6, 4, 5, 6, For it is impossible for those who were once enlightened, and have tasted of the heavenly enlightened, and have tasted of the heavenly gift, and were made partakers of the Holy Ghost; and have tasted the good word of God and the powers of the world to come, if they shall fall away, to renew them again unto repentance: seeing they crucify to themselves the Son of God afresh, and put him to an open shame: that is, Such as have attained to some acquaintance with the doctrine of the gaspel, and have had some experience of the power and efficacy of the Holy Ghost from heaven in gos-fred administrations and worship; yea, even time of the extraordinary gifts of the Spirit; who have liberies reliefed on the contractions. the have likewise relished comfort and sweetnes. in the doctrine and promises of the gospel; and particularly having heard that the Redeemer particularly having nears that the treueemer saves them from wrath, and instates them in happiness beyond what is attainable here on earsh; their self-lave has externally closed with the revelution, and made application of it to it-self. Now, says t'e Apostle, if such shall turn -548

Apostates, it is impossible, in regard of any John 10. 9. of s. because they believe not on mo law, rule, or constitution of God, to bring them 19. 11. ne that delivered me hath the greater s to reportance, whereby they should be restored Acts 7, to. Lord, lay not this s. to their charge to their former condition; and this because they Kom. 3,9 proved Jews and Greutles are all under despise the means of salvation, they show them. deepise the means of sativation, they shew them-selves to be of the same opinion with those that did crucify Christ, and they would do it again, ata crucity Christ, and they would do it again, were it in their power; and actually do it as much as they can by persecuting his members. The great unpardonable sin against the Holy Chost, appears to be a presumptions sin against Ohost, appears to be a personner on against some more than ordinary illuminations, convictions, and taste of gospel grace, whereby a mandoth knowingly and studiusly rebel against the doth knowingly and studi usly rebel against the truth, and maliciously per-ecute it in himself and others from an universal hatred of it for itself, Mat. 12, 31, 32. Heb. 6, 4, 5, Job. 24, 13. Heb. 10, 19. Acts 13, 41, 1 John 5, 16.

1 John 5, 10. room the above-mentioned passage, in Heb. 6. it appears [1] That it cannot be any sin that is committed ignorantly. St. Paul was a blasphemer, but was forgiren, because he did it ignorantly. [2] It must be a sin knowingly committed against the operations of the Holy Ghost, and the ampletion of constituents.] and the convictions of conscience; it is a sinning wilfully after having received the knowledge of the truth, and having been made partakers of the Holy Ghost. [3] Apostasy seems to he an ingredient in it. If they fall away, says the apostle. [4] It takes in radice and persecution; the Pharisees did not only impute the miracles of our Saviour to the decil, tempate the manner of an invariant to the active, but they spake it out of malice designing to de-stroy him. [5] Though impenitency cannot be called that sin, yet it comes into the number of its ingredients; and therefore the Aposite says of such sinners, It is impossible to renew them again to repentance.

SINCERE. Or Sincerity. This word properly signifies truth and uprightness, when the heart and tongue agree together. Sincerity is opposed to double-mudedness or deceit, when the sentiments of mudedness or deceit, when the sentiments of the heart are contrary to the longuage of the mouth. The Latin nord, sincerus, is derived from sine and cera, without war, honey separated from the war, or pure honey. In the scripture sincere signifies pure, or without mixture, 1 Pet. 2.1. Desire the sincere oilk of the word; that is, unmixed with errors, traditions, and heresies, free from deceits. St. Paul would have the Philippians to be pure, impartial, and unbiassed in their choice; that the behaviour may be innocent, and give no offence to any body. Phil. 1. 10, that ye may be sincere and without offence till the day of Christ. The same Apostle speaks of sincerity and truth, to printly and struth, which he sets in apposition to the leavened bread of impurity representation to the leavened breud of impurity and filthiness, I Cor. 5. 8. Let us keep the feast, not with old leaven, meither with the leaven of malice and wickedness; but the un leavened bread of sincerity and truth. That is, Let the whole of our lines be like the Jowish feast of the Passover and unleavened bread; let us not spend them with the leaven of malice and wickedness, allowing ourselves the theory of the leaven of the l of malice and wickedness, allowing ourselves follows. his name has much the same latitude as that of brother. It is used, not only for sister by father and mother, but also for her who is a sister only by fat er or mother, or is only a near relation. Thus Surah is called sister to Alvaham, though she was only his niece occording to some, or his sister by the father's side only, according to others, Gen. 12, 13, 20, 12. In the gospel, the brothers and sisters of Jesus Christ ere no other than his consists the sous Christ are no other than his consins, the sons and daughters of the sister of the Fingin Mary, Mat, 13, 56, Mark 6, 3, In Lev. 18, 18, it is forbidden to take a wife to her sister; that is, according to some, to mairy two sisters, or, according to the generality of interpreters, or, according to the generality of interpreters, to marry a second wife when one has one before; so that this passage founds polygamy. Sometimes the word sister thows a resemblance of conditions and inclinations. The prophets call Jerusalem the sister of Sodom and Samaria, because it delighted in the imitation of their idelatity and iniquity, Jer. 3. 8, 10. Ezek. 16, 46.

their tastatiy and intiquity, Ser. 3. 6, to.

Ezek. 16. 46.

In the Song of Solomon, the name of sister given to the spouse, is a name of tenderness, love, and affection, and shews the great affection which Christ has for his church, which cannot be sufficiently expressed by any one relation, but must borrow the perfections and affections of all, to describe it: this name may likewise shew that Christ and his church have but one lather, to wit, God, so that the church is every way royal; the daughter of a king, the sister of a king, Cant. 4, 9, 10, 12. In Cant. 8. 8. the spouse speaking to her beloved, says, We have a little sister, and she hath no breasts, what shall we do for our sister in the day where size shall be spoken for? The beday where size shall be spoken for? The beday when she shall be spoken for? The belevers of the Jewish church, who here consult with Christ, as it were, tell him that they had little sister, meaning the Gentile church, which as yet was not tipe for marriage with Christ; have shall we promote their conversion, say they, when the tenders of reconciliation are made to them?

Our Lord Jesus Christ says, Mat. 12, 50, Whosoever shall do the will of my Father who is in heaven, the same is my brother, and sister, and mother: that is, Whosever shall gue real evidence of tive faith by sincere obedience, shall be as dear to me as my nearest natural relations, or, as the marest relations are to any person. Joh, in his afflictions, exclaims, I have said to the worm, thou art my mother, and my sister; thou art near akin to me, we are of the same original, and thou art continually with me, Job 17.14. The wise man advises his pupil to say to Bisdom, thou art my sister; that is, acquaint and delight thyself.

Steeping, slumbering, is taken either for the sleep, or repose of the body, or for the sleep of the soul, which is supineness, indolence, stupidity, son, which is suprimers, inducence, sequency, or fir the sleep of death.

Ahasuerus could not sleep, Esth. 6. 1 I will both lay me down in peace, and sleep, says David, Psal. 4. 8, Awake thou that sleepest, and arise from the dead, and Christ shall give the latter than the state of the stat thee light. He speaks to those that were dead thee light. He speaks to those that were dead m sin and infidelty, who were going on securely in sin, without sense of danger. I sleep, but my heart waketh, says the spouse, Caul. 5. 2. that is, The flesh, the nurseward part, prevals to make me slothful and secure, and to lay usude to make me sluthful and secure, and to lay usule the exercise of grace at present; but the renewed part is sensitle of and strues against, this distemper. This is a sleep of sloth, eate, and security, which even the gulfy may fall into. There is also the sleep of death. You shall sleep with your fathers, some shall die as they are used, 1 kmgs 1.21. That they may sleep in the dust of the earth shall awake. Dan. 12.2. And in John 11.11. Isaiah speaks of a superstitions practice among the Pagaus, who next to sleep in the temples of their agains, who neut to steep in the temples of their idols, to obtain prophetic dreams. Isa, 65.4, Which remain among the graves, and lodge in the monuments. The word monuments signifies places kept, or observed: Some interpret it of idol temples; some of cares and dens, in which the heathers used to worship their idolerate. dens, in which the heathens used to worship their idols, and some of tumbs, or manuments for dead persons. The prophets speak of the superstitions and idolations Jews, who, in contempt of the prophets of the temple of the Lord, and in institution of the heathen, we tuto the tombs and temples of idols, to sleep there, and to have dreams that might discover-tume energy to them.

Is the black exhalation which ascends from fire. (ien. 19.28, The smoke of the city went up as the smoke of a furnace. Solomon observes, that as smoke is hartful and offensive to the eyes, so is a sluggish messenger unserviveable and verations to them that send him, Prov. 10. The anger and wrath of God are signified moke. Psal. 18. 8. There went up a by smoke. Psal. 18. 8, There went up a smoke ont of his nostrils: God manifested his smoke ont of his postrils; God manifested his great displeasure against my adversaries. It is spoken after the manner of men; it being usual for persons transported with great anger to shew their rage by their breathing. Smoke denotes a grievous judgment or calamity; either aenotes a greeous magnetic to entimety, etnos-because smoke is generally accompanted with fire, or because it causeth a great darkness in the air. Isa. 14, 31, There shall come from the north a smoke. To create a cloud and the north a smoke. To create a cloud smoke upon Mount Zion, denotes that would not only direct his people, as he did the Israelites by a pillar of cloud, but that he would also be their protector and their glory, Isa 4. 5

Isa, 4. 5.
The smoking flax shall he not quench, Isa, 42.
3. Mat, 12, 20. Christ will not deal roughly and rigorously with those that come to him, but will use all gentleness and kindness to them, passing by their greatest sins, bearing with their present infirmities, cherishing and encouraging the smallest beginnings of grace; and comforting and healing wanneled consciences. In the Revelation the perpetuity and eternity of the torments of the damned is thus expressed, The smoke of their torment asceodeth up for ever and ever, Rev. 14. 11.

We find in Scripture several songs composed upor

16, s. of man, take ther one stick, and write on it

Ve find in Scripture several sougs composed upon important occasions; for example, Muses made one after the passage through the Ked sea, to thank God for the deliverance of his prople, and celebrate the greatness of this miracle, Exod. 15. 1, 2, &c. David composed a mountful song upon the death of Saul and Jonathan, and another upon the death of Muse, 2 Sam. 1, 18, 19, | 3, 33. Jeremish wrote his Lamertations, which are a song, wherem he deplotes the calamities and rain of divusalem; and he made another upon the death of losiah king of Judah, 2 Chrot., 35, 25. Deborah and Bark made a triumphant hymn after the defeat of Sisera, Judg.

THE SONG OF SONGS, in Hebrew, Schir Has the SONG or SONGS, in Treaten, and the chirim, the most excellent of all songs. The Christian church, as well as the symogogue, has always received this book of Canticles among the swiptures as generally owned to be canons the wriptures as generally owned to be canon-cal. The form of it is dramatical, wherein several parts of it are intered by, or in the name of several persons; which are chiefly four, the bridegroom and bride, and the friend or companions of the one, and of the other The design of the book in general, is to describ-the passionate lives and happy marriage of two persons, their mutual satisfaction therein, and the blessed fruits and effects thereof. But then the oversea fruits and effects thereof. But then it is not to be understood carnally, concerning Solomon and Pharaoh's daughter, although the imported author may allude to that; but they who wealth penetrate the meaning, and comprehend the whole mystery of it, must cause prehend the whole mystery of it, must taise their conceptions above things reluting to flesh their conceptions above things retaining to fices and blood, and contemplate in it the expossals of Christ with the church, and with every believer. So that this book is a continued allegory, wherein, under the terms of a common wedding, a divine and supernatural marriage is expressed.

Hebrews, apprehending is might be under he Hebrews, apprehending it might be under stood in a gross and cainal manner, forbase the reading of it before the age of thirty; and videed nothing is more dangerous than to rend it with carnal thoughts and uspositions; pospie net only heing liable to the hazard of losing thereby all the esteem thich they night to have for this book, but of even wounding the soul infor this book, but up even-stead of edifying it. inch as deny this spiritual book to be carienteal, say, that neither Christ, nor his Apostles, hore ever cited it, and that the name of God is not to be found in it. To this it is replied, inch as ever creed st, and that the name of God is not once to be found in it. To this it is replied, that there are several other sacred books, when our Saviour has not expressly quoted; and that in an allegory, wherein the som of God is concealed under the jegue of an Ihuband, it is not necessary that he should be expressed by his proper name. If he were by name mentioned, it would cease to be an altegory.

Diviner or Magician. Some derive this word from Haanan, which signifes a cloud; because this kind of diviners raised their conjectures from the various figures and motions of the clouds and sky; or from the firsh and chattering of birds and forly in the air. Others derive the word from Haajin, an eye, to signify apstrolegers, who forcet future confineent things, ing of birds and forth in the air. Others de-tive the word from Haajin, an eye, to signify astrologers, who foreted future contingent things, by the impersitions observation of the sars and planets. Others think, that the word as nifies such magiciant, who, by playing hocks-poeus tricks, endeavour thereby to impose up. a the eyes and understanding of the spectators: making things, by their matical skill, appear otherwise than in truth they are. Others again understand by it such as give answers to those that repair to them for advice and direction in that repair to them for advice and direction in their affairs, deriving it from a wood that signifies to answer. Lustly, some suppose it may be derived from a word which signifies a sectime, and by it understand such as observe days and times, as good or bad, lucky or unlucky; such ni those that did cast lots before Haman, Esth. 3.7.

In Exod. 7.11, there is mention made of Phanach's sorcerers or magicians, who acted by the power of the devil, whom by certain rites and ceremonies they engaged to their assistance, resisted Moses, and by their enchantments counterfield.

and more like terpent; or by a sudden and terret conveyance of real serpents thither, and termining the rod. Moars hungers extresses recret conceyance of real serpens intimer, and removing the rods. Moses however expresses himself throughout in such a manner as might persuade one, that Pharaoh's magicians really operated the same effects as he himself produced; so that Pharaoh and his whole court were perso that I hat also power of their magicians was equal to thot of Moses, till the Egyptians, no being able to produce lice, as Moses had dors, were constrained to own, that the finger of God was concerned in it, Frod. 8, 18, 19. Till then they had acknowledged nothing divine or supernatural in any thing he did. agreed, that magic and juggling tricks, evil ungels and sorcerers, muy sometimes imitate very nearly true miracles and the operations of the Almighty. Moses's manner of expressing himself is a great evidence of the truth of scripaimsety is a great evidence of the truth of scrip-ture story, and that it was not written by fic-tion and design. For if Moses had written there books to deceive the world, and to advance his own reputation, as some take the liberty to say, it is ridiculous to think that he would have put in this, and many other passages, which might seem so much to eclipse his honour, and the might seem so much to eclipse his honour, and the slowy of his works.

Dauiel also speaks of magicians, and the diviners that were in Chalden under king Nebuchad nezzar. He names four sorts of them, Dan. 2.

2. I. Chartumin, which, according to Theodotion, signifies eurhanters; according to the Septuagent, sophists according to St. Jerom, Ariolos, diviners, fortune-tellers, casters of nativities. II. Asaphim. This word has a great tivities. II. Asaphim. This ward has a great resemblance to the Greek word sophoi, wise-Grotius thinks it is derived from the . Theodotion and Jerom have rendered men. Grotius thinks it is derived from the Greek. Theodotion and Jerom have rendered to by magicians, and the Septuagint by philosophers. III. Micasphini, which by St. Jerom, and the Greeks is translated bialifici, enchanters: such people as make use of nosious herbs and drugs, the blood of victimi, and the bones of the dead, for their superstitions operations. IV. Casdim, or Chaldeans. This word has two different significations. The firs, intimates the Chaldean people, who had then Nebuchadnezzar for their monarch. The second expresses a sort of philosophers called also Chaldeans, who dwell in a separate part of the city, and were exemply from all public offices and employments. Their study was physic, astrology, divination, the foretelling of fiture events by the observation of the stars, the interpretation of dreams, the science of auguries, the worship of the gods, &c.

All these inquisitive and superstitious arts are strictly forbidden by the law of God, all wherein any conjurations, or invocations of the

in any conjurations, or inpocations of the devil are used; in a word, all the black art, and all superstitions exementes made use of by magicians, sorcetest, enchanters, witches, witards, necromancers, exorcists, astrologers, soothsayers, interpreters of dreams, fortune-tellers, casters of nativities, &c. in practising their diabolical arts, whether it be to hut mankind, or to procure them health, or any other advantages. God has forbidden to consult such advantages. God has forbidden to consult such advantages. Od has forbidden to consult such persons upon pain of death, Lev. 20. 6. Saul did what he could to drive them out of the country of Israel, 1 Sam. 28. 3. But, for ult this, many were still to be found; and the Israelites were always much addicted to these sorts of superstitions. And the same prince who had been so eager in driving them out of his dimminious at less went to convilt our huntel? duminions, at last went to consult one himself, 1 Said. 28. 7, 8, &c. Heb. 10.29, of how much s. publishment suppose ye SORROW

Is a passion that contencts the heart sinks the spirits, and spoils the health of the body. Paul advises the Thessalomans, not to si themselves to be overcome with sorrow for suffer. godly that are dead, not to sorrow offer a hea thenish manner, as these that had no hope of a future resurrection, 1 Thess. 4. 13. The Apostle here does not condemn their sorrow, but only the excess of it. Grace destroys not nature, only the excess of it. Grace destroys not nature, but regulates it; not takes it away the affections, but moderates them. For to mourn for the dead, especially those that doe in the Lord, is a duty that both nature, grace, and the practice of godly men, teach, and which God requireth. Abraham mourned and weeps for Sarah his wife, Gen. 23. 2. Jacob for his son Joseph supposing he had been turn by wild beasts, Greo. 37, 34. And Joseph and his biethren for their turber Jacob, Gen. 50, 10. The convigue Geo, 37, 34. And Joseph and his bechiren for their father Jacob, Gen. 50, 10. The contrary is reproved by God himself. Isa. 57, 1, The righteons perisheth, and no man layeth it to heart; and merciful men are taken away, notice considering that the rightrons is taken away Considering that the rightenins is taken away from the evil to come: And to die tailmented is reckned as a curse. Jer. 22. 18, They shall not lament for Jeholakim, saying, ah my brother, or ah my sister, &c. It is only then immoderate sorrow the Apostle here means, which is likewise forbidden in the Old Tesis ment, Lev. 19, 28. Drut. 11. 1, Ye shall not make any cuttings in your flesh for the dead; which was a practice among the heathen, both in the worship of their solem.

mournings. he Apostle in 2 Cov. 7, 10, distinguishes two The Apostle in 2 Cor. 7. 10. distinguishes two sorts of sorrow, one a guilty, and the other a worldly sorrow. Godly sorrow is that which is wrought in the soul by the Spirit of God which arises from a sense of sm; the root of it is a love to God, and the manner of it such as was agreeable to the will of God. The alpostle in the following verse makes it appear that this sorrow of the Corinthians was godly, by the excellent fruits and effects off it. Bo h. ld, says he, what carefulness it wrought in you to amend what had been amis? What cleaving of yourselves. I on shewed that won the medium of the world work world wor ing of yourselves. You showed that you did not approve of the jault of other members of your church. Yea, what indignation? namely, against caurch. Yea, what intignation manners, against the offender, and yourselves for your neglect. Yea, what fear? namely, of divine rengeance if you should persist in that neglect, or of transgressing again. Yea, what vehement desire To take away the scandal, and to give every good man satisfaction. Yea, what zeal! Lor good man satisfaction. Yea, what zeal! For the glory of God, and to perform what I had commanded in my some perform what I had commanded in my some perform what I had commanded in My some against the offender, by punishing of him? Worldly sorrow is a sorrow occasioned by worldle vorlidy sorrow is a sorrow occasioned by worldly roublets, and cannot considerations, which, the Apostle says, workeln death; while men have down under their burdens, and through impa-tience destroy themselves, as Ahithophel, Jadas &c. Or when men fix their thoughts upon said objects, and so afficit themselves with them, that they bring themselves into discases which issue in death.

SOUL.

This word in scripture, especially in the style of the Hebrews, is very equivocal. It is taken, For that spiritual, reasonable, and immortal substance in man, which is the origin of our thoughts, of our desires, of our reasonings, which distinguishes us from the brute creation, and a hich bears some resemblance to evention, and a hich bears some resemblance to its duving Maker. Mat. 10. 28, Fear him which is able to destroy both soul and body. This substance must be spiritual, because it thinks; it must be immort, l, because it is spiritual. The scripture indeed ascribes to beasts a soul, a spirit, life, and respiration, which may be a second acceptation of the word, as in Gen. 1. 22, Let the earth bring forth the living creature, The time earth bring forth the fiving retailing, in Hebrew, the living soul. So in Lev. 17, 14, The life, in Hebrew, the soul of the flesh is in the blood. And in Ecd. 3, 21, Who knoweth the spirit of the beast that goeth downward? This soul is the spirit, the goeth donoward? This soul is the spirit, the breath, whith is the principle of animal lefe, and which is common to men and brutes: But the scripture allows to man along the privileges of understanding, the hope of future happiness, and of eternal life. It only threatens men with the punishment of another life and the pains of hell.

Soul is taken for the whole person, both suil and body; Give me the persons, in Hebrew, souls, and take the cools to thysels, says, the Soul is taken for the whote person, our stand body; Give me the persons, in Ilebrew, souls, and take the goods to thysels, says the king of Sodom to Abraham, Gen. 14. 21. India in Gen. 12. 5. Abram took Sarah his wife, and Lot his brother's son, and all their substance that they had gathered, and the souls that they had gotten in Ilaran; that is, the servants they had purchased, or the children that had been born to them.

19. To deliver the soul from death; to save them alive, And in Psal. 7. 5, Let the enemy persecute my soul, and take it, let him take away my life. And often in the Psalms.

11. It is taken sometimes for death, or a dead body. Num. 9. 6, Sonie were defiled by the dead body of a man, in Hebrew, by the soul of a man. And in Num. 6. 6, he shall come at no dead body, in Hebrew, dead soul. Alto in Psal. 16. 10, Thou wilt not leave my soul in hell; that is thou wilt not suffer my body to continue long in the grave, or in a state of th hear; that is, that the grave, or in a state of death. Sometimes it is taken for a living body-Psal, 105, 18, He was laid in iron, in Hebrew, his soul came into iron.

SPIRIT,

In Hehrew, Ruach; on Greek, Pneuma. In scripture the word Spirit is taken, [1] for the Holy Ghost, the third person of the hely Transity, who invented the remarks arisingte and though Chost, the tatted person of the half rithing, who inspired the prophets, animates good men, pours his grace into our hearts, imparts to us light and comfort, in whose Name we are baptized, as well as in those of the Father and Son; that enlivening Spirit who proceeds from the lather and Son, Mat. 3, 16. John and Son; that entireing Solit and processing from the Pather and Son, Mat. 3. 10. John 3 8. 15.26. The Holy Ghost is called Spirit, being, as it were, breathed, and proceeding from the Father and Son, who inspire and more our hearts by him; or, because he breatherh more our hearts by him; or, because he oreatheth where he listeth; stirring up spiritual metous in the hearts of believers, purifying and quickening them; or because he is a spiritual, visible, and incorporeal essence. He is called holy, both because he is must holy in himself and the Sanctifier, the Worker of huliness in the creative. He walled a purson hearts and the Sanctifier, the Worker of huliness in the creature. He is ealled a person, because whatsoever belongs to a person, as to understand, to will, to give, to call, to do, to subsist of himself, doth agree to the Spirit; who appeared in a risible shape, Luke 3. 22. Acts 2. 3, gave the Apostles sundry longues, Acts 2. 4. 8. hath power to confer and bestone on the church the gift of longues, of miracles, of faith, of healing, of prophecy, &c. 1 Cor. 12, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12. which cannot be attributed to any quality or motion created. Lastly, he is called the third person, not in order of time, or dignity of nature, but in order and manner of subsisting. of nature, but in order and manner of subsisting.

[2] Spirit is taken for the immediate inspiration, and estraordinary help of the Spirit of God. Matt. 22, 43, llow then doth David io spirit Matt. 22. 43, 16w then doth Davin to Spirit call him L-rd, that is, by the inspiration of the Holy Chest. 1 Cor. 14. 15, 1 will pray with the Spirit, that is, by the immediate gyf and extraordinary help of the Spirit. [3] for walk not after the Besh, but after the Spirit. 5] Spirit is taken for the renewed nature, or privitual part in man. Mat. 26. 41, The Spirit is willing, but the flesh is weak. [6] For intribute teal. 1 Tim. 4. 12, Be thou an example of helievers in spirit. [7] For judgment, authority, and consent. 1 Cor. 5. 4. [8] It signifies pure, holy, and spiritual. John 3. 6, I hat which is born of the Spirit, is spirit; that is, that which is wrought by the Spirit of God is of a spiritual nature, and so, suitable to the kinedom of God. [9] It is taken for the gospel, which is the ministration of the Spirit, and by whose influence it becomes effectual to change the hearts of sin-ness, to turn them from the power of Satan unnory, 2 Cor, 3, 6, 8, Who hath made us able unnisters of the new testament, not of the letter, but the spirit. [11] For the thoughts, affection, and care. Col. 2, 5, Though I be absent in the flesh, yet I am with you in the spirit. [11] For a temper, frame, or disposition of soul or spirit. Psal. 51, 10, Renew a right spirit within me [12] Spirit significs the to God, and to make them truly spiritual and holy, 2 Cor. 3, 6, 8, Who hath made us able continues in being even after the death of the body; That spiritual, reusoning, and choosing body: That spiritual, reasoning, and choosing substance, capable of eternal happiness. Acts 7.59, Lord Jesos, receive my spirit, or, my soul. [13] Good angels are called spirits, material and intelligent, but created and dependent beings. Heb. 1, 14, Are they oot all ministering spirits? [14] The devils are often called unclean spirits, evil spirits, Mark 5, 13. Luke 7, 21, So in 1 Sam. 18, 10, The evil spirit from God came upon Saul. [15] Spirit signifies an appartion or ghost. Mat. 11, 26, When the disciples Saw jesus walking in the sea, they were troubled, saying, it is a spirit. And our Saviour, after his recurrection, appearing to his disciplet, they were affirelyted, and supposed they had seen a spirit, reg, ghost; but he said to them, handle me, and or, ghost; but he said to them, handle me, and see, for a spirit hath not flesh and bones as ye see, for a spirit hath not flesh and bones as ye see me have, Lnke 24 37, 39. [16] It is taken for a person that pretended to be inspired, or for a doctrine offered as the immediate revenue of the Spirit. 1 John 4. 1, Believe not every spirit. [17] For passion, wrath, or anger. Eccl. 10. 4, If the spirit of the ruler rise up against thee. [18] For the breath, the repiration, the animal life that is in beasts. Eccl. 3. 21. The spirit of the beast that goeth downward. [19] Spirit is also taken for the wind. Amus 4, 13, He that createth the wind, or spirit. These are the four spirits of the heavens, in Hebrew, winds, Zech. 6. 5. And in John 3. 8, The wind bloweth where it listeth, in Greek, pneuma, the spirit. the spirit.

spirit of a sound mind; the spirit of wisdom

the spirit. The spirit of a sound mind; the spirit of wisdom and understanding; the spirit of knowledge; the spirit of grace and prayer; the spirit of prophecy, and the like, signify several effects, works, and gjits, together with the author and cause, which is the Holy Spirit infusing them. On the contrary, the spirit of pride, covetousness, fury, uncleanness, do signify these vices, and the devil, that wicked spirit, the author of them. Grieve oot the Holy Spirit, Eph. 4, 30. Men may be said to grieve the Spirit of God, by withstanding his holy inspirations, the motions of his grace, or by living in a lukewarm and negligent manner. Also by despising his gifts, or neglecting them; by abusing his favours, either out of vanity, curiosity, or neglegence. And in a contrary sense, we stir up the Spirit of God which is in us (as St. Paul advises Timothy, 2 Tim. 1, 6.) by the practice of godliness, by our exactness in complying with his motions, by fervour in his service, by renewing our gratitude, &c. In Hebrew Chochab. Under the name of stars, the ancient Hebrews comprehended all the learning that the stars of the stars of the stars. the ancient Hebrews comprehended all the heavenly bodies, constellations, planets, and all the luminaries, except the sun and moon. The dollar land laterous Israelites called the sun and moon, the king and gueen of heaven; and the stars were as it were, their army or militia, Deat. 4. 19 [17, 3. Jer. 7. 18. The beauty and spleudous that men have observed in the stars, and the great advantages that they derive from thence the wonderful order that they have discovered witheir courses; the influence that has been accribed to them in the production und p seix vation of animals, of fruit, plants, and mine rals, have prevailed with a great number of people in the world to impute to them life, knowledge, power, and to pay them a sovereign wer ship and adoration. To give the Hebrews a cantiev against the idolaty that prevailed through almost all the East, of worshipping the sins, moon, and stars; Moses informs them, that God gave them their being, and that he separated them from that mass of matter which he had produced out of nothing, Gen. 1. 14, 15, 16. And in Deut. 4. 19, he tells them that they were not made fur the worthip, but for the nee of men, even of the measest and most barbarous vente under hea. meanest and most barbarous people under hea tou; which the Lord hath divided to all na tions under the whole heaven.

tions under the whole neaven. The number of the stars was looked upon as infinite: And the Psalmist, to exalt the power, magnificence, and infinite knowledge of God, says, that he numbers the stars, and calls them says, that he numbers the stars, and caus them, by their names. He is described as a king, taking a review of his army, and gives every when of his soldiers such a name as he thinks fit. When the scripture would express a very fit. When the scripture would express a very estraordinary increase and multiplication, it uses the similitude of the stars of heaven, or of the sand of the vea; I will multiply thy seed as the stars of heaven, and as the sand which is upon the sea shore, Gen. 15. 5. 122. 17. 126. 2. Bildad, Joh's frieud, says, that in the ayes of God the stars themselves are impure; that he can discern many spots and hlemishes in them which we cannot see. Joh that in the eggs of are impure; that he can discern many spots and blemishes in them which we cannot see, Job 25, 5. And in chap, 9, ver, 7, it is said, that, he had not hinders 25.5. And in chap. 9. ver. 7, it is said, that, tool locks them up as with a key, and hinders them from appearing, but when he pleases. When the strapure describes a time of public calamity, of sorrows, fears, troubles, and perplexities, it is said, the stars withhold their light, and are covered with darkness, that they fall from heaven and disappear, Ezak. 32. 7. To obey the voice of Joshua, Josh. 10. 12.
That the sun swyped its course, at the command of this General of God's people: That the sun is seen as a bridgeroom, that comes out of his niprial chamber, Psal. 19. 5. Moses seems to future their volunte, who immit withences to farmer their opinion, who impute influence: to the sun and meon, when he promises to Joseph the precious fruits brought forth by the Joseph the precious truits prought forth by the sun, and the precious things put forth by the moon, Deut. 33. 14. The Psalmist says, that the sun knows the time and place of his sitting, Psal, 104. 19. And Solomon, that the sun also ariseth, and the sun goeth down, and betteth to his alone where he was the state. hasteth to his place where he arose, Eccl. 1 boundar, are not to be understood literally; for then it must be said, that the earth, the trees and the waters are unimuted, there being exand the waters are unimitien, there ocing ex-pressions in scripture that would institute as much. All the creatures glorify God, bless the Lord, and whey him, each in its way. If any thing more be allowed to the sin, the moon, or the stars; it is because they are creatures of greater perfection, and by which the glory and majesty of God shine forth in a more eminent and conspicuous manner. mos, speaking of the idolatry of the Israelites thins, speaking of the idoidity of the Israelites in the wilderness, informs no, that they carried along with them the star of their God, Amos 5. 20. St. Stephen, in Acts 7. 43, quoting this passage of Anos according to the Septuagint, says, Ye took up the tabernacle of Molech and the characterists. this passage up took up the tabernacle of anu-loch, and the star of your god Remphan. This last word has given occasion to a great number of conjectures. Grotus thinks it to have been the same deity as Rimmon, an idot of the people of Damascus. Rimmon significase of the people of Damascus. Rimmon, an idof of the people of Damascus. Rimmon signifies high, which Grotius takes for Saturo, hecause this planet is the most electrated of all; but others take it for the sun. Some derive Remphan from the Hehrew word Rapha, to be negligent, soft, or slothful; because Saturn is the slowess or most slothful of all the planets. The Arabic or most slothful of all the planets. The Arabic word Rtph, signifies voracily, a quality very well agricing to Saturn, who, according to the fable, devoured his own children. Vossius believes Rephan, or, as Aonos has it, Chium, was the moon. Others think Remphan to be the name of a king of Egypt, who was placed by his people in the rank of the gods. Diodorus Siculus, lib. 1. page 39. says that king Remplis succeeded Proteus. But this author does not say that he eter had been deified, and speaks of him as a prince very unworthy of having direct homost common is, that it was a representation of the planet Saturn. the planet Saturn. he star foresold by Boloam in Num 24, 17, 576

There shall come a star out of Jacoh, and a sceptre shall arise out of Israel, and shall smite the corners of Moah, and destroy all the children of Sheth. By this star is meant a ruler, a conqueror, a great prince, which according to some was king David, who conquered the Moahites; but it primarily and chiefly points at Jesus Christ the Moesiah, who is of the seed and posterity of Jacob, who is the true star which fills the world with its brightness, and who is rathed the bright and morning star, Rev. 22. 16. Some have thought, that in this place Balaam foretold the appearance of that real star, which arose at that dren of Sheth. By this star is meant a ruler. in this place Balaam joretoid incurposi-e of that real star, which arose at the e of our Savione's birth, and which guided Magi into Judea, to see the person whose h was declared by that star. But this star ance of that 22.12 birth was declared by that star. But this star did not come out of Jacob; and that cannot be applied to this star, which is said there; be applied to this star, which is said there; which plainly points at a ruler, a hing, a con-

The star that appeared to the Magi, or wise-men them to Beth-lelien, where our and conducted Saviour was born, has furnished matter for many conjectures. Some ancient authors have asserted, that it was a new star purposely created to declare to men the birth of the Messiah Others take it for a kind of comet, which ap-neared preternaturally in the cir. Lightfoor peared preternaturally in the cir. Lightfoor thinks, that the same light which appeared to thinks, that the same light which appeared to the shepherds near Beth-lehen, might also be visible afar off to the Magi, hanging over Judea, and so be their guide to find our ba-viour. Others have pretended that it was an angel cluthed with a luminous body in form of a star, which taking his course towards Judes determined the Magi to follow him: They foun They found their opinion upon this; that this star appeared to be rational and intelligent, appearing and disoppearing, stopping, and going forward, in swelp manner as was necessary for the conduct of the Magi, to the proper place. It is said, that some writers believed this star was the Huly Ghost, which appeared to the Magi under they chost, which appeared to the Magi under the form of a star, as he appeared at the hip-tism of Christ under the form of a doc-lastly, Calmet says, that this star was inflamed meteor, in the middle region of the air, which having been observed by the Magi with miraculous and extraordinary circumwith miraculous and extraordinary circum-stances, was taken by them for the star so long furetold by Balaam; and that afterwards they resolved to follow it, and to seek the new-horn king, whose coming it declared. It was three fore, says he, a light that moved in the air before them, something like the pillar of cloud coming in the desert. Inward inspiration, the light of the Holy Ghost, the solicitation of grace, were the motives which engaged them to follow this phenomenon.

The time which the Magi tool up in their journey to Judea, is a point that has much exercised the Chronologies. Those who sippose they came from the remotest part of Persia, allow them two years for their journey; supposing that the stax appeared to them two years before the birth of our Saviour. In this the text of the ground some resulting translations. the gospel seems something favourable to them saying that Herod put to death the children of the gospet seems sometime, saying that Herod put to death the children of Beth-leh in, from two years old and under, according to the time that the Magi had shived him, Mat. 2. 16. Uthers will have it, that the star did not arise till the moment of our Saviour's birth; and these are yet divided; for some think that the Magi did not arive at Beth-lehem till two years offer the birth of our Saviour. Others make them arrive there thirteen days offer his birth; and that they much make the greater haste, they assign them might make the greater haste, they assign the dromedaries to ride upon. There are the that think that the star appeared from the m ment of Christ's incarnation, or even from the mo-ment of Christ's incarnation, or even from the conception of John the Baptist. But the ex-act time of their departure is not fixed; thungh most have agreed that the day of their arrival at Beth-lehem should be on the thirteenth day from our Lord's hirth.

from our Lord's birth.
there are still some difficulties started, whether this star was seen by every body, or only by the Magi. Some wink thus every body saw it, that all people were witnesses of this phenomenon; that were, not knowing the mystery of it, contented themselves to wonder at it; and that it was to the Magi only that God revealed the signification of it, and gave them an inclination to follow it. Others, on the contrary, believe that few people saw it; that the Magi themselves only saw it by fits, and from

Among the Hebrews theft was not punished with death. Prot. 6, 30, 31, Men do not despise a third, if he steal to satisfy his soul when he is hungry. But if he be found, he shall restore hungry. But if he he found, ne snan seven-fold; he shall give all the substance of his house. The law allowed the killing of a hungry suppose his house. The law allowed the kitting of a night robber, Exod, 22, 2, because it was sup-posed his intention was to murder as well as to rab: It condemned a common thief to make dauble restitution, if the benst he stole were found in his hand alive, Exod, 22, 4. If he jound in his hand alive, Exod. 22.4. If he state an or and killed it, he was to retire it five-fold, if a sheep, only four-fold, Exod. 22.1. It is thought that the theft of an ox, or of any of that kind, was punished the more severely because this animal is of more use than others, and likewise because it argued a greater boldness and customariness in the thief to steach that which more easily might be discovered if the thief did not make restruction, they seized what was in his house, put it up to sale, and even sold himself, if he had not where withal to make satisfaction, Exod. 22.3. In the passage just quoted, Prov. 6.3. the wisethe passage just quoted, Prov. 6. 3, the wise-man says, that the thief was to restore sevenfold the value of the thing stolen. But seven fold may here be put for many-fold, he shall make abundant satisfaction.

Though there was no penalty annexed to the law furbidding theft, except restitution; yes to stea. away a freeman, or an Hehrew, and to reduce forbidding theft, except restitution; yet to stea. away a freeman, or an Ilehrew, and to reduce him to the state of servitude, was punished with death. Exod. 21. 16, Ile that stealeth a man and selleth him, or if he he found in his hand, he shall surely be put to death. The Jews do not think that the stealing of a man of any where nation deserves death, but only the theft of a free Ilebrew. If it be a stranger that is stole, they were only condemned to restitution. They found this distinction upon a law in Deut. 24. 7. which timets this law concernin man-stealing. If a man be found stealing any of his brethern of the children of Israel; which exception the Septuagint and Onkelos have inserted in the text of Exod. 21. 16. This crime is called Plagium. See Sell.. Some have thought that never theft among the Ilebrews had no particular mark of infamy annexed to it in some cases. Solonon eays, Prov. 6. 30, Men do not despise a thief, if he steal to satisfy his soul when he is hungry: The law inflacts no peculiar punishment on him, and he is not made to undergo any shameful or igno minions penalty: If he is found, he shall restore seven-fold, he shall give all the substance of his house. This is all the danger he is expoved to in stealing, except he had not where withal to make restitution, in which case he nd his house. This is all the danger he is exproved to in stealing, except he had not wherewithal to make restitution, in which case he was reduced to bondage. Many people inhuhiring round about Judea, seem to have made robbety a kind of profession. Isaac facetuld is

His posterity the Ishmaelites followed the example of their father, and, as some affirm, mude no scruple to rob upon the high-way. When the Israelites were just upon the point of departing out of Egypt, they burrowed of their Egyptian neighbours, valuable garments, vessels of gold and sitter, and carried them along with them into the wilderness. Exod. 11. 2, 3 Speak now in the ears of the people and let every man borrow of his neighbour, and every woman of her neighbour, jewels of silver, and jewels of gold. And the Lord gave the people favour in the sight of the Egyptians. It is riquired, whether the Hebrews could lawfully 2.5 am. 19.3. the people gat then by s. into the ci., STEALTH. barrow these things of the Egyptians, which then had no intention to restore to them again? and whether this was not to commit a manifest theft and injustice? Commentators give several ouswers to this question. Some soy, that upon this occasion, God plainly dispensed with that law; by which he had obliged the Hobrews not to commit any theft; or rather, that being the absolute Master of every thing, he transferred to the Hebrews that right that the ferred to the Hebrews that right that the Layptians had to these things. Others insimate another reason, which is, that God would recompense the Hebrews for the labours that they had suffered in Egypt, and allowed them to pay themselves by their own hands, by detaining what they borrowed of the Egyptians. This way of paying one's self cannot be allowed regularly; but in these circumstances, having no other way of doing themselves justice, and being unthorized by the express command of God, they might have recourse to this expedient. Class look upon this, not as a theft, but as a fair booty got in a just war. The Egyptians were enemies to the Hebrews; they had minutly presecuted them for a long time, and took from persecuted them for a long time, and took from them the means of defending themselves, and of recovering their liberty: They might therethem the means of verening intensities, and of recovering their liberty: They might there for elayfully deputive them of their goods by a wile, and a kind of stratagem, by pretending to horrow of them what they sever intended to ome here distinguish between such Israelites who acted in the simplicity of their hearts, and sincerely obeyed the commands of God, and those that follawed the mutions of their own rovetous desires. The first are excused from sin those that followed the motions of their war rovetions devices. The first ore excused from sin by the aprightness of their intentions, but not the second, who were ready enough to rob the Egyptians, if they endly do it with impunity, even though God had not allowed them to borow any thing from them row any thing from them.

Others observe, that the Egyptians were indebted to the Hebrews, not only for their goods, but for their live also, because of the benefits they had received from the Patriarch Joseph, when they were under the greatest necessity. The Israelites were unjustly oppressed by a cruel slavery in Egypt: The Egyptians exertived all kinds of violences against them, and oretwhelmed them with calamities, even to the readering their lives unear to them. The rendering their lives uneasy to them. The Hebrews had built them cities, and had very nuch improved the riches of these inhuman masters; who, instead of acknowledging these services, intended even to take away their lives from them. What unjustice therefore could services, intended even to take away their lives from them. What injustice threfore could there be, if the Israelities should take again a small part of that which they had procured for the Expytians? And if they should receive a small recompence for so many services they had done them! They came poor ant of Egypt, whereas they ought to have got much riches together, if they had not been reduced into an lugether, if they had not been reduced into an impirit servitude: And, just as a freeman, who had been stolen away and sold for a slave might, without injustice, set himself at liberty and pay himself for his labour, by taking from his master a small reward for his service: So might receive something as a recompense, since might receive something as a recompense, since a great deal was the to them.

Were a sort of heathen philosophers, who took their name from the Greek word STon, their name from the Greek word $\times 10\times, ive utfying a porch or entry, because Zeno, the head of the Stoics, kept his school in a porch of the city of Athens. They held, that a wise man ought to he free from all passions, never to be moved either with juy or grief, esteeming all things to be ordered by an inevitable necessity and fate. Josephus says, that the Pharisevs approach very near to the sentiments of the Stoics. They affected the same stiffness, patience, opining, austerity, and inensibility. The sect of the Stoics was stiff considerable at Athens, when St. Paul came thither, since he had conferences with them, Acts 17, 18. had conferences with them, Acts 17. 18. STOLE.

Is a mineral well known, of which there are di-pers kinds. As to the precious stones, or gems, of which mention is made in Scripture, all that of wine found concerning them in the Commen-can be found concerning them in the Commen-tators, is not much to be relied on, since neither the lews, nor even the ancient Greek Inter-preters, seem to have had a sufficient know-preters, seem to have had a sufficient knowledge of the proper signification of the original terms.

The corner-stone, or the head-stone of the corner. Psal. 118. 22. This is that which is put as the angle of a building, whether at the foundation, or of the top of the wall. Jesus Christ is that corner-stone which was rejected by the Jews, but is become the corner-stone of the church, and the stone that binds and unites the Jews and Gentiles in the union of the same faith, Mat. 21, 42. Iph. 2, 15, 20. And as corner-stones and foundation-stones in buildings use to be chosen with care, and to be thoroughly examined by the builder; so to be thoroughly examined by the outlater; so Christ is called a tried stone, a sure foundation. Isa, 28, 16, I lay in Zion, a tried stone, a sure foundation. I have tried, I have approved of him as every way sufficient to be the foundation and head of the church. And because this stone is not set up by man, but sens the mountaio without hands, Dan. 2. 45.
And because unbelievers refuse to be laid upon this stone and so perish, therefore it is called a stone of stumbling, a rock of offence, that is, an occasion of sin and rain, at whom is, an occasion of sin and rith, at a unant have will take offence and stumble, so as so foll and be broken, Isa. 8. 14, 15, 1 Pot. 2, 8. This was accomplished at the coming of the Messiah, when the Jews rejected to their own destruction, as not answering their caval expecsions. tations, not suiting with their way of building; that is, not to be made use of for promoting and carrying on their worldly projects and in-terest. Christ is likewise called a precious stone, because of his excellency, glory, and beauty; he is called a chosen, an elect stone beauty; he is called a chosen, an elect stone, because he was chosen and appointed by the Father to the work of redemption before the fundation of the world, I Pet. 1, 20, [2, 4, 6]. He is likewise termed a living stone, I Pet. 2, 4. He communicates spiritual life to those that the with him, and are built upon that that the seth him, and are built upon that as Christ the Head is culled a stone, so also his s Christ the Head is called a stone, so also his members, true believers, who are built upon and derive sprimal life from the foundation, Christ, are called stones, 1 Pct. 2. 5, Ye also as lively stones are built up a spritual house. As the law was engraven on two tables of stones, so believers have the law written in their laws. stones, so between have the law uniter in their hearts. They are stumes for their constant, strength, and unmovableness in all the storm, by life. They are stones for continuance and durableness, als stones are dug out if a quarry, so believers are scleeted and choven from the rest of markind. They are united with Christich and the state of of mankind. They are united with Christ true Christians in one body; like the stones of a house, compact among themselves, and upon the foundation.

and upon the journation. heart of stone. Joh, speaking of the Letra-than, says, that his beart is as firm as a stone, yea, as hard as a piece of the nether millstone, Job 41. 24. That is, he is of a stone, yea, as hard as a piece of the hether millstone, Job 41. 24. That is, he is of a very extraordinary strength, buldness, and con-rage. It is said, 1 Sam, 25, 37, that Nabal's rage. It is said, I Sam, 20, 51, that as a heart died within him, and he became as a stone, when he was told of the danger he had the his immundence. His heart become stone, when he was total of the stages he made incurred by his imprudence. His heart become immovable like a stone, it was contracted, or consulsed, and this consultion was the occasion of his death. Ezekiel says, that the Lord will of his death. Ezekiel says, that the Lott will take away from his people their heart of stone, and give them a heart of flesh, Ezek. 30, 20, that he will take away the stubburn senseless, and untractable disposition of the heart, that receives no kindly impressions from the word, providence, or Spirit of God in his the word, providence, or Spirit of God in his ordinary operations and influences; that had only itself in a day of provocation, that is hordened by the deceifulness of sin; he will take this away, and give a tender, tractable temper and disposition. Much to the same sense is that which John the Baptist said, Mat. 3, 9, that God is able to raise up children unto Abraham even of stoust their form. Abraham even of stones; that is, from among the heathen; or even of the stones of the de-sert, God was able to raise up a spiritual seed to Abraham.

The white stone, Rev. 2. 17. I will give him as white stone; I will give him a full and pub-lic pardon and absolution. It is spoken in al-lusion to an ancient custom of delivering a white stone to such as they acquitted in judgment. They used likewise to give a white stone as a

They used likewise to give a white stone as a recard to such as conquered in their games; such as allude to this, make this the sense; I will give him a full and ample reward.

Solomon says in Proverbs 20. 8, As he that bindeth a stone io a sling, so is he that giveth honour to a fool. When a stone is fastened to the sling, the slinger hinders his own design of throwing it, he loses his labors is observed man who gives honour to a fool. But the words may be otherwise rendered, as he that putteth a precious stone in an heap of stones, where it is obscured and lost: And as this little stone does not augment the heap, nor it so ome has seen upon scured and last: And as unitties some abes not augment the heap, nor it so much as seen upon it; so honour heuped upon a food, does not render him more worthy of consideration. Others translate it, to tie a stone in a piece of purple, is to give honour to a fool. As working can be so ill placed as a stone in a piece of fine clost; so are however all placed upon a fool.

They for ordinary make their nests upon some high toner, or the top of an house; but in Palestine, where the coverings of their houses were flat, they built in the highest trees.
The stork has its beak and its legs long and yea; it feels upon secrents and force and inverse.

it feeds upon serpents and frogs, and insects.

Its plumage would he quits white, if it want that the extremity of its wings are black. not that the extremity of its newgy are black, and also some small part of its head ond thighs: It sits for the space of thirty days, and lays but four eggs. Formely they would not eat the stork, but at present it is much exteemed for the deliciousness of its flesh. They go away in the midst of August, ond return at Sprinz. Bellonins says, that when they go away, the stork that comes last to the place of rendezons is killed upon the spot. They go away in the night to the southern countries.

The chief study of the Hebrews was always the law of the Lord. The practice of this is recommended throughout the whole Old Testament.
Moses commanded, that the law of the Lord should always be in their months day and night; that it should be as a memorial before their eyes, and a signal in their hands: He would have them cugrave it on their hearts; that they should the chief their children that the should have them currave it on their hearts; that they should teach it their children: that they should always meditate upon it, whether sitting in their houses, walking in the fields, in the night time, whale they slept, and when they arcoke in the morning; that they should wear it as a bracelet to their arm, and write it upon their doorposts. This was the study of the prophets, the pairiarchs, and all good Israelites, Exod. 13, 9. Deut, 6, 7.

phus relates, they were accustomed to study the laws of God, to learn them by heart, to prac-tise them, and they were so addicted to them, laws of God, to learn them by heart, to practise them, and they were so addicted to them, that they were ready to lay down their lives for their observation. After they had the writings of the prophets, they applied themselves very carnestly to know the sense of the prophecies, and to study the hidden meaning of them. We see it by Daniel, who applied himself with so much care to infold the meaning of the so were regulations, and of these of the ing of his own revelations, and of those of the prophet Jeremiah, who fixed the time for the completing the captivity of the people of God, Dan. 7, 28, [9, 2, 3, 22, 23, 24. And the Apostle Peter informs us, what was the study of the prophets. They searched what times and Apostle Peter informs us, what was the study of the prophets. They searched what times and what other circumstances the Spirit of Christ, who spok in them had marked ont, when they predicted the sufferings of our Saviour, and the glory that was to follow, 1 Pet. 1. Jews, who were mingled with the Grecians, in the greatest part of the provinces of the East, began to have a taste for their lunguage and their studies. In imitation of the Grecian their studies. In imitation of the Grecian philosophers, they divided themselves into different sects. ent sects. Some of them, as the Pharisees, espoused some of the opinions of the Stoics and Platonicians; others, as the Sadducees, en-braced some of the notions of the Epicureans; others, as the Essenians, says Philo, had a contempt for logic, physics, and metaphysics, which they thought useless, and matter of mere curiosity. They only applied themselves to morality and the laws of God, which they exa sublime and allegorical plained after manuer.

In our Saviour's time it appears, that the main n our Saviour's time it appears, that the main study of the Jewish doctors was chiefly the traditions of their fathers. Christ upbraids them frequently with having forsaken the lux uf God and its true meaning, to ascribe meanings and applications to it, contrary to the sense of the lux and the intention of the lawguer. St. Paul, who had been bred up in these principles, shows also the absurdity of them, in the Epistles, always calling hack the laws to their environmental of the transitional and so their time sense. But all the Epsites, atways eating nack the laws to their original and to their true sense. But all this was not able to cure the spirit of the Jews upon this article; at this day they are more bigotted to their traditions than ever, and they make them the greatest part of their stud v the people of the East. the sun that the Phenicians worshipped under the name of Baal, the Moabites under the name of Chemosh, the Anmonites by that the loch, and the Israelites by the name of and by the king of the host of heaven. loch, and the Israelites of the name of isant, and by the king of the host of heaven. They did not separate his worship from that of the moon, whom they called Astrita and the queen of heaven. They paid this worship topon high places, in groves, and upon the roofs queen of heaven. They paid this worship upon high places, in groves, and upon the roofs of their houses. The las reluces had a caution against this worship. Deut. 4, 15, 19. Take we therefore good heed unto yourselves,—lest thou lift up thine eyes unto heaven and when thou sees, the sun, and the moon, and the stars, even all the host of heaven, shoulds be driven to worship them, and serve them. the stars, even all the host of heaven, shouldst be driven to worship them, and serve them, which the Lord thy God hath divided unto all nations under the whole heaven. And in Deut. 17.3, 4, 5. such are condemned to death, as shall be perverted to the worship of strange gods, of the sun, or of the moon. Josiah King of Judah took away out of the temple of the Lord the howes, and hunt the character. Lord, the horses, and burnt the chariots, that the kings his predecessors had consecrated to the sun, 2 Kings 23, 11. Job says, that he to the sun, 2 Kings 23.11. Job says, that he looked upon it as a very great crime, and as remouncing the God that is above, to kiss his hand as a token of udoration, when he saw the sun in all its glory and spleudour, Joh 31. 26, 27, 24. Etekiel saw in the Spirit, in the temple of the Lord, five and twenty men of Judah, who twued their backs upon the sauctvary, and had their faces towards the East, vorshipping the sun at his rising, Ezek. 8. 16. The sun is frequently alluded to in a great part he sun is frequently alluded to in a great part of the noble similitudes that the sacred authors uf. To represent a very great cala-say, the sun was obscured, and the make use of. mity, they say, the sun was obsented, and the moon withdrew her light, Isa. 13. 10. [24.23, Jer. 15.9. Exek, 32.7. Amos 8.9. To express a long continuance of any thing that is glorious and illustrious, in scripture style it is said, It shall continue as long as the sun endures, Psal. 72. 5. 17. The compass of the whole earth is marked out by those words, from the rising of the sun to the going down of the same, Psal. 50. 1. [113. 3. To be hung upon a gibbet in the face of the sun, to be exposed in the fields to the hids of the air, and to the heat of the sun, expresses a particular degree of ignoming, Num. 25. 4. Jer. 8.9. Under the sun; that is to say, in the mity, they and to the need of the same, Spinson, Picture degree of ignominy, Num. 25. 4. Jer. 8. 2. Under the sun; that is to say, in the world, Eccl. 1. 9, 14, &c. Jesus Christ is called the sun of righteousness, Nal. 4. 2. he word, ECCI. 1. 9, 14, CC. Jesus Christ, scalled the sun of righteousness, Mal. 4. 2. he enlightens, quickens, and comforts his people. A woman clothed with the sun, and the moon under her feet, signifies the church clothed with the righteousness of Christ, parity of doctrine, and a holy conversation; condemning and undervaluing worldly things, and the Mosancal worship, Rev. 12. 1.

The scripture acquaints us with three very extraordinary and miraculous things relating to the sun. The first was, when it stond still at the command of Joshua, Josh. 10. 12, 13. The second, when it returned back in the time of king Herektah, 2 kings 21. 11. And the chird, when it was involved in darkness, thoug's the moon was then at the full, at the time of our Saviour's crucificion, Mat. 27. 45.

Is one who undertukes to pay another man's debt, in case the principal debtor, either through unfaithfulness or powerty should prove insolvent, It was an ancient custom in suretiship for the surety to give his hand to, or strike hands It was an ancient custom in surctiship for the surcty to give his hand to, or strike hands with the creditor, thereby obliging himself to the payment af the debt, in case of the surctivency of the present debtor. Thus it is said in Job 17. 3, Who is he that will strike, hands with me? And in Prov. 6, 1, 2, My soo, if thou be surcely for thy friend; if thou hast stricken thy hand with a stranger; thou hast of the mouth. Solomon in this passage does not condemn sure-tishly, which in some cases is not only lawful, but even as an act of justice, of prudence, and charity; thus Judah became surety to his father for his brother Benjamin, Geo. 42. 37. 44. 32. and Paul to Philemon for Onesimus, Philem. 8. 19. Solomon only forbide his disciple to become surety rashly, without considering for whom, or how far he does oblige himself, or how he could discharge the debt, if occasion should require it.

In Heb, 7. 20. Jesus Christ is called the surety of a better testament, Sins are by analogy called debts: For as a debt obliges the debtor payment, so sin dold the sinner to praishment. Christ, according to the covenant of redemption, or agreement between the Father and him, interposed as our surety; and entering into this relation, he sustained the persons of sinners (for in the estimate of the law, the surety and debtor are but one person) and being judicially one with them, according to the order of justice, he was liable to sherr panishment, For though the displeasure of God was primarily and directly against the sinner, yet the effects of it fell upon Christ, who undertook the effects of it fell upon Christ, who undertook the effects of it fell upon Christ, who undertook the effects of it fell upon Christ, who undertook the effects of it fell upon Christ, who undertook the effects of it fell upon Christ, who undertook the effects of it fell upon Christ, who under to the content of the cone primarily and alrectly agolust the sinner, yet the effects of it fell upon Christ, who undertook for him. And according to this undertaking, Christ as our sweety, fulfilled the preceptive part of the moral law, by the innocency and holiness of his life; and he undersuent the penalty of the law when he offered up himreelf a sacrifice to satisfy divine justice, and reconcile us to God. And in consequence of the atonement made by this racrifice, the Holy Spirit is given, to enable man to perform what is required of him in the gospel; namely, to repent, to believe, and obey the Redeemer, and wholly to rely upon his secrifice for obtaining the favour of God; and Christ, by his inter-cession, secures to behievers all the blessings of God's covenant for time and eternity. To which the Psalmirs alludes, Psal, 119, 122. Be surety for thy servant for good; Do thou the surety for the servant for good; Do thow undertake and plead my cause against als mine enemies, as a surety rescues the poor per-secuted debtor from the hands of a severe and merciless ereditor. ien. 43.9.1 will be s. for him shalt require him of 3 Helbrew, Sis, is n plaintive bird, and a hird of passage. Mentium is made of the swallow in 1sa. 38. 14, Like a crane or a swallow, so did 1 chatter. My complaint and cry were the to the noise of a swallow, quick and frequent, and like that of a crane, loud and frightful. And in 19-r. 8, 7, The stork in the heaven knoweth her appointed tiones, and the turtle, and the crane, and the swallow, observe the and the crane, and the swallow, observe the time of their coming.

and the crane, and the wallow, observe the time of their coming.

The swallow is of a black colour, with some spots of a dity black under her belly; its flight is trey unequal, and its sight is very quick. It appears in spring and summer, and goes away, an autumn. It is thought that it pastes the sen, and withdraws into hotter climates, where it either hides itself in holes in the earth, orene in marshes, and under the water, wherein sometimes great lumps of swallows have been fished up, freed one to another by the class and beak; and when they are laid in a warm place they move and recover, though before they seemed to be dead. It is called Chelidon in Greek, whence comes the name of the herb Chelidon, in English, Celandine, or swallow-wort, because it is preceded, that with this herb the swallow opens the eyes of her young ones, though the swallow opens the eyes of her young ones, though they should even be blinded on purpose. It is said that the flesh of these hirds, burnt to askes, is excellent for distempers of the eyes. The swallow is said to breed twice a year, ones in the climate to which she transports herself while our winter last: and again in those six months she continues in this country. Their chief food our winter lasts; and again in those six months she continues in this country. Their chief food are the fires that they eatch as they fly. They

Isa. 25, 11, as he that s. spreadeth forth his hands

Is an animal well known, the use of which was jobbal to the Hebrews, Lev. 11. 7. It is said, they had the fleth of this animal in such detestation, that they would not so much as pronounce its name, but instead of it said, that beast, That thing, In 2 Macc. 6. 18. &c. when old Eleazar was taken by the servants of Antiochus Epiphanes, he was vehemently urged Anticonus Epiphanes, he was venemently urges to taste swine's fiesh, or at least to pretend to taste 1t. They opened his mouth by force, to compel him to eat of it; but he chose rather to suffer death than to break the law of God, and to give offence to the weaker people of his nation.

Porphyry afterns, that the Hebrews and Pheorphyry affirms, that the Heorews and The-nicious abstained from pork, because there was none in their country. He might rather have said, there was none, or but very little, besaid, there was none, or out very little, over cause they bred no hogs, by reason of that ab-horrence they had conceived for them: For it is certain they might have had them if they had pleased; and that there were herds of swine in our Saviour's time, is evident from Mat. 8, 30, our Saviour's time, is eccuent from 3.1. Mark 5. 11.

Our Saviour, in Mat. 7. 5. forbids his disciples to cast their pearls before swine, lest they trample them under their feet and turn again and rend you. He would have them to use discretion in dispensing holy things, especially by assertion in dispensing holy things, especially by way of admonition, or reproof. Preach not the gospel to those that persecute you for your message, neither apply the promises to the profane. The prodigal son, in Luke 15, 15, when he had spent all, was reduced to such distress as to be glad to feed swine; this denotes the base work and distalers that supers and of the hard the things and the former than the supersection. to jeea while; this denotes the outse work and drudgery that sinners employ themselves about. It is said, in Prov. 11, 22, As a jewel of gold in a swine's stout, so is a fair woman who is without discretion. Both the Jewish and Arabian women sometimes used to wear rings in their nostrils to adorn themselves. But nothing can be more ridiculous than to put gold ring or a jewel in a swine's snout. Peter compares those sinuers that frequently relapse into their former sus, to a sow that as soon as the is uashed, goes again to wallow in the mire, 2 Pet. 2, 22. SWORD.

The sword in scripture is often used for war.

Lev. 26, 2. I will bring a sword upon you; I will come a set to come. By the sword shalt thou live, Gen. 27, 40. Thou shalt support thyself by war and rapme. By sword are understood the vengeance and judgments which God nightest upon sinners. Deut. 3, 41, 42, If I whet my glittering sword: My sword shall devour flesh. Also the instrument which God uses to employ for executing his judgments, Psal. 17, 13, Deliver my soul from the wicked, which is thy sword. Sword is figuratively put for power and authority. Rom. 13, 4, life beareth not the sword in vain.

The magistrate hath not received his power to The magistrate hath not received his power The magistrate hath not received his power to no purpose, but that he may punish affenders, and defend the good. The aportle alludes to the existom of princes, who had certain officers going before them, bearing the ensigns of their authority. All they that take the sword, shall perish with the sword, Mat. 60. 52. They that take up the sword by their own authority, and would do justice to themselvest, deserve to be put to death by the sword of authority: Or, those that take the sword to sinite another, eventally suffer by it themselves. The work Or, those that take the sword to state automory, generally suffer by it themselves. The word of God is called the sword of the Spirit, 19th. 6, 17. It is a spiritual sword, or a means provided by the Spirit of God, and made effectual by him to cut the sineus of the strongest temptations, to kill or moretyly the inward lusts and corruptions of the heart, to subduce the mind, and the most fixed obstituacy of the mind, and the most resolute purposes of the will, lleb. 4.12. Moses calls God the sword of Israel's excellency, Deut. 33. 29. He is their strength, the author of all their past or appropriate. excellency, Deut, 33, 29. SYCAMORE

Is a tree called the Egyptian fig-tree; its name is composed of sycos, a fig-tree, and moros, a mulberry-tree. It partakes of the nature of each of these trees; of the mulberry-tree in its fruit, which is pretty like a fig in its shape and bigness. This fruit grown neither in clusters, nor at the end, of the brenches, but sticking to the trunk of the tree. Its taste is pretty much the a wild fig. Amos suys, I was no prophet, neither was I a prophet's son, but I was an herdman, and a gatherer of sycamore-fruit, or wild fies, Amos 7. 14. Pliny and other naturalists observe that this fruit does not graw ripe till it is rubbed with iron combs, after which tubbing it ripens in four days. And Jerom upon Amos says, that without this management the bitterness. hitterness.

To make this tree fruitful, they made clinks and clefts in the bark, through which a kind of milky liquor continually distrils. This, they say, causes a little bough to be formed, sometimes having six or seven figs upon it. They are hollow, without a title bought one formed, sometimes, nearly ser seven figs upon it. They are hollow, without trains, and there is found a little yellow matter which is generally a nest of grubs. These figs are sweet, but not good for the stomach they weaken it, and create a lathing, but at the same time meisten and refresh. A great many of these sycamores grow in Egypt; and some of them are said to be of such substance, that three men can hardly grasp them. There were also some in Judea, as appears from Luke 19. 4. where Zaccheus is said to have climbed up into a sycamore-tree to see Jesus pass by, being of so low a stature that he could not otherwise see him because of the multitude.

This word is taken for the agreement of several voices, and a concert of several instruments, or for a particular sort of instrument. St. Linke takes it in the first sense, when he says, that the brother of the prodigal son, returning out of the field, heard in his father's hours a concert of instruments, and the rejoicing of those that danced, or the voices of those that ηκυσε συμφωνίας και χορών, Luke

SYNAGOGUE.

In Greek συνάγοιγη, of συνάγοιν to gather in Greek συνάγοιγη, of συνάγειν in gather together, signifies an assembly, as in Rev. 2. 9. [3. 9, where St. John calls the faise and hypocritical professors in Smyrna and Philadelphia, the synagogue of Satan, a congregation or assembly of men, who worship and serve the detail by errors and profaments, and yet pretend they are the only true church of God. But most commonly the word synagogue is used to denate the place where the Jeus assembled to pray, to read, and to hear the reading of the holy books, and other instructions. It is often mentioned in the Gospels and the Acts because Christ and his apostles generally went to preach in the Synagogues. in the synagogues.

Authors are not agreed about the time when the Jews first began to have synagogues : Some will it that they are as ancient as the ceremo have it that they are as ancient as the ceremo-nial law. It cannot be denied, say they, that the Jews did worship God publicly every sabbath, and an other holy occasions, even then when they neither did, nor could go up to Jerusalem; it is therefore very presumable that both conscience and prudence did direct themta appoint convenient places for that purpose. Some jootsteps of them were to be seen so carly as in the time of Elisha. Devont versus, in the time of this prophet as. Devout persons, in the time of this prophet as-sembled themselves to him on the sabbath day, to sembled themselves to him on the sabbath-day, to hear the law read to them, 2 Kings 4, 23. And the author of Psal, 74th, describing the have that the army of Nebuchadnezzar had made in Jerusalem, says, they have burned up all the synapogues of God in the land, Psal, 74. 8, m the contrary, many learned men have thought them of but a late institution. Dr. Priécaux af-them of hit o late institution. Dr. Priedaux af-firms, that they had no synagogues before the Bahylenish capitipity, for the main service of the synagogue, saus he, being the reading of the law into the people, where there was no book of the law to be read, there certainly could be no synagogue. But how are the book of the law was through all Judea before the Babylonish capitivity, many texts of scripture tell us. When Jehoshaphat sent teachers through all Judea, to nustruct the neonle in the law of God, they carinstruct the people in the law of Gad, they car ried a book of the law with them, 2 Chron. 17 9. which they needed not have done, if there had been any copies of the law in those cities to which chey went; which certainly there would have been, and there been any synagogues in them. And when Hilkiah from the law in the temple, 2 Kings 22. B. unither he nor king Josiah needed 598 to have been so surprised at it, had books of the law been common in those times. Their behaviour on that ogeasion sufficiently proves, they had never seen it before, which could not be the case, had there then been any other copies of it to be found among the people. And if there were no copies of the law at that time among them, there could then be most certainly no syoagogues for them to then be most certainty no synagogues for them to resort to, for the hearing of it read unto them. From whence he concludes, there could be no synagogues among the Jews, till after the Ba-synanogues among the Jews, the dier the Da-bylonish captivity. This learned author says, that if it be examined into, how it came to pass that the Jews were to prone to idolatry before the Babylonish captivity, and so strongly and cautiously, even to superstition, fixed against it after that coptivity, the true reason hereof will appear to be, that they had the law and the prophets every week constantly read unto them after that captivity, which they had not before. For before that captivity, they having no syoagogues for public worship, or public instruction, nor any places to reseat to for either makes the captivity. to resort to for either, unless the temple at Jeru salem, or the cities of the Levites, or to the pro satem, or the cities of the Levites, or to the pro-phets, when God was pleased to send such among them, for want hereuf great ignorance grew among the people: God was little known among them, and his laws in a manner wholly forgotten. And therefore as accasion offered, they were easily drawn into all the superstitious and idolatrous usages of the neighbouring nations; till at length, for the punshmen hereof, God gave them up to a dismal destruction in the Isabulouish captivity: But after that cuptivity, and the return of the Jews from it, synagogues being erected among them in every city, it which they constantly resorted for public worship, and where every week they had the law from the first, and after that from the time of Antwokus' persecution, the prophets also read unta them, and were by sermons and exhortations there delirered, at least every sabbath, instructed drawn into all the superstitious and idolatrous there delivered, at least every sabbath, instructed in their duty, and excited to the obedience of it: This kept them in a thorough knowledge of and his laws. And the threats they found in the prophets against the breakers of them, after these also came to be read among them, detered them from transgressing against them. So that them from transgressing against them. So that the law of Moies was never more strictly ob-served by them than from the time of Exra (when syoagogues first came into use among them) to the time of our Saviour; and they would have been unblamable herein, had they nouse nate been unnamente meet, must mee not overdone it, by a deing corrupt traditions of their own derising whereby, at length, they made the law itself if none effect, as our Suriour chargeth them, Mat. 15.6.

As to Psal, 74, 8, They have burned up all the synagogues of God in the land; In the original, Col woodhe El, that is, all the assembles of God, by which, says Dr. Prideaux, I acknowledge must be understood the places where the control of the third state of the places where the people did assemble to warship God. But this doth not infer, that those pluces nere synagogues; doth not enjer, that those pluces nere synangenes, and there are none of the ancient versions, excepting that of Aquila, that so render this passage. The enref place where the Israelites assembled for the worship of God, was the temple at Jerusalem, and before that was built, the the at sensatem, and organe that no some interaction takernacle; and the open court before the after was that part, in both of them, where the people assembled to offer up their prayers unto God. But those that lived at a distance from the tabernacle, while that was in being, and afterwards from the temple, when that was built, not being able at all times to resort thither, they being able at all times to resort littler, they built courts, like those in which they prayed at the tabernucle and at the temple, therein to offer up their prayers unto God, which in aftersumes we find called by the name of proseucha. Into one of them our Saviour is said to have gone to proy, and to have continued therein a whole night, linke 6, 12. What our English translation there renders, and continued all night in prayer to God, is in the original xai ην διανυκθερεύων εν τη Προσευγη του Θεού, that is, And he continued all night in a proseucha of God. In another of them. St. proseucha of God. In another of them, St. Paul taught the people at Philippi, Acts 16. 13, 6. In these two terses, what we render in our Emplish regions by

[2] The synagogues were covered houses; but the pto seuchæ nere open courts; they had se covering except perhaps the shade of some trees, or some covered galleries. [3] The synagogues were all built on elevated places, within the cities to which they did belong; but the proseuchæ were without the cities, in the fields, especially near rivers. So this author concludes, those when So this author concludes, that rivers. rivers. So this author concludes, that when the Psalmitt says, that they burnt up the synagogues of God, he may be understood of the proseuchar, or of the schools of the prophets or the places where the Levites taught the yeu ple in their cities.

After the time of the Maccabees, synagogues bester the time of the Naccabees, synagogues be-came frequent in Israel. It is afirmed, that in the city of Jerusalem alone, were no less than four hundred and sirty, or even four him dred and eighty; but herein they are supposed to have spoken hyperbolically, and to hure ex-pressed an uncertain large number by a certain Every trading frater with had a synagogue of their own, and even st angers but some to-those of their own nation. Hence it is, that in Acis 6, 9, mention is made of the synagogues of the Libertines, Cyrenians, Alexandrians, Cilicians, and Asiatics; which were appointed for the use of such of the inhabitants of these cities, or of these nations, as should at any time etities, or of these nations, as shown any time be at Jerusalem. The Jewish authors give this general rule for the construction of synagogues. Wherever there are ten batelnim, a synagogue ought to be built. The signification of the word butlenion has been much controverted. Buttof thinks them to be much controverted. Buxtorf thinks them to be persons receiving a stipend for duly assisting of divine service, that there may be always ten persons, at least, to assemble together. Light foot imagines them to have been ministers and officers of the synagogue. Others think this the most prohable opinion, namely, that they were persons of a mature age, free, and in a condition to assist constantly at the service, on all days of assembling, which were, at least, two days a week, beside the Sabbath: So that always must be a days there were present that days a week, oeside the Savoath; So that di-ways upon these days there were present that number of assistants, without which the set were could not be performed. When there were ten such persons in a town or city, they called It a great city, and here they might hadd a sy-

As the synagogue-service was to be on three anys every week, for the sake of hearing the law; so it was to be thrice on those days, for the sake of their prayers. For it was a constant rule a-mong them, that all were to pray unto God three times every day, that is, in the morning, at the times every day, that is, in the morning, at the time of the morning sucrifice; and in the evening, at the time of the evening sacrifice; and at the beginning of the night, because till then the evening sacrifice was still left burning upon the altar. It was anciently among God's people the steady practice of good and religing persons, to after up their prayers to God three every day. This we find David did. Isal. 55.
17. Evening, morning, and at noon, will pray. And Daviel, noticithistanding the king's decree to the contrary, says, that he koveled upon his knees three times a day, and prayed, and gave thanks unto his God, Pan. 6. 10. By rhich it is implied, that he did not only at By which it is implied, that he did not only at that time thus pray, but that it was always his constant custom so to do.

constant custom so to do.
Then syoagogues were erected among the Jews,
the hours of public detection in them on their synagogue days, were, as to morning and evening prayers, the same hours in which the morning prayers, the same nours in which the morning and evining socrifices were offered up at the temple. And the same hours were also not served in their private prayers wherever performed. For the offering of the incense on the served in their printing of the incense on the golden alter in the holy place, at every morning and evening sacrifice in the temple, was instituted on purpose to after up units Gold the prayers of the people, who were then without, graying unto him. Hence it was, that St. Luke tells us, that while Zacharias went into the temple to burn incense, the whole multitude of the peoto burn inceuse, the whole multitude of the people were praying without at the true of incense, Luke 1.9, 10. And for the same reason it is that David prayed. Let my prayer be set forth before thee as incense, and the lifting up of my hands as the evering sacrifice, Pral. 141.2. And according to this stage to the explained what we find an incense. what we find in Rev. 8. 3, 4, 5, where it is said, that an angel came and stood at the altar, having a golden censer, and there was given unto him much incense, that he should offer it up with the prayers of all saints, upon the golden altar, which was before the Urone: and the smoke of the incense which came with the prayers of the saints ascended up before God out of the angel's hano. The angel before God out of the angel's hano. The angel, here mentioned, is the angel of the covenant. Christ our Lord, who intercedes for us with God, and, as our Mediator, constantly offers up our prayers unto him. And the manner of his doing this is set forth by the manner of the typical representation of it in the temple. For as there, at every morning and evening sacrifice, the priest, in virtue of that sacrifice, entering into the holy place, and presenting himself at the golden altar, which stood directly before the mercy-seat, (the throne of God's visible presence among them during the tahernacle and the first temple) did burn incemse thereou, while the people were at their prayers without. and the first temple) did burn incense thereon, while the people were at their prayers without, thereby, as an intercessor to God for them, to offer up their prayers to him for his gracious acteptance, and to make them ascend up before him from out of his hands us a sweet-smelling tayour in his presence; so Christ, out true of that one sacrifice of himself once offered up, that one sacrifice of himself once offered up, being entered into the holy place, the heaten abute, is there continually present before the throne of mercy, to be a constant intercessor for us unto God; and while we are here in the outer court of his church in this world, offering up our prayers unto God; he there presents them unto him for us, and through his hands they are accepted as a sweet-smelling savour in his presence.

And it being well understood among the Jews that the offering up of the daily sacrifices, and the burning of incense upon the altar of incense, at the time of those sacrifices, was for the rendering of God propitious to them, and making their propers to be acceptable in his presence, they were very careful to make the times of these offerings, and the times of their prayers, both at the temple, and every where else, to be exactly the same.

prayers, both at the temple, and every where else, to be exactly the same.

The most pions and devout persons that were at Jerusalem, chose on those times to go up into the temple, and there to offer up their prayers unto God; thus Peter and John are said to go unto God; thus Peter and John are said to go up into the temple at the hnur of prayer, being the ninth hour of the day, which was at three in the afternoon, the time of the offering up the evening sacrifice, Acts 3. 1. Those who were in other places, or being at Jeruselem, had not himse for a contract of the contract the other places, or being at Senderen, had his leisnie to go up to the temple, performed their derotions elsewhere: If it were a synagogue-day, they went into the synagogue, and there prayed with the congregation: and if it were not a synagogue-day they then prayed in prinot a synagogue-day they then prayed in private by theuselves; and if they had leisure to go to the synagogue, they chose that for the place to do it in, thinking such a holy place the properest for such a holy exercise, though performed there in their private persons only; but if they had not leisure to go to such a holy place, then they prayed wherever they were at the hour of prayer, though it were in the street or market-place. And for this it was that our Saviour found fault with them, when he told them, Mat, 6, 5, that they loved to pray standing in the synagogues, and in the corners of the streets, thereby affecting more to be standing in the synagogues, and in the corners of the streets, thereby affecting more to be seen of men, than to be accepted of by God. But many of them had upper rooms in their houses, which were as chapels, particularly set apart, and consecrated for this purpose. In such an one Cornelins was praying at the ninth hour of the day, that is, at the time of the etening sucrifice, when the angel appeared unto him, Acts 10, 30. And such an one Peter went up into to pray about the sixth hour of the day, that 10, 30. And such an one Peter went up into to pray about the sixth hour of the day, that 10, 30. When he had the vision of the great Acts 10. 9. when he had the vision of the grea. sheet, that is, at half an hour past twelve or sheet, that is, at half an hour past tweete or thereabout; for then the evening socrifice did begin on great and sulemn days, and such an one it seems hereby that was. And in such an upper room where the apostles assembled together in prayer, when the Holy Ghost descended upon them. Acts 1. 13.

In the synagogue was the ark or chest, wherein lay the book of the law, that is, the Penta-teuch, or five books of Moses. This chest, they say, was made after the model of the ark or the covenant, and always placed in that part of the synagogue which looked towards the Holy Land, if the synagogue was ont of it; but if it was within it, then the chest was placed if it was within it, then the enert was placed flowards derwalen; could if the synagogue stood in this city, the chest was set towards the holy of holies. Out of this ark it was they trok, with a great deal of ceremony, and before the whole congregation, the book of the law.

when they were to read to. In the mast of the synagogue was x desk or pulpit, upon which the book or roll of the law was read very solennity. There likewise he stood who intended to harangue the people.

As to the seats or pews whereon the people sat to hear the law read and expounded; of these some were more honourable than others. The former were more honourable than others. The former were for those who were valide Elders, not so much upon the account of their age as of their gravity, prudence, and authority. These Elders sat with their backs towards the forementioned chest, and their faces towards the congregation, who looked towards the ark. These seats of the Elders are those which are called in Mat. 23. 6, the chief seats, and which our Saviour or detect his disciplier was to contend for an affect. dered his disciples not to contend for, or affect, as the Pharisees did. The women were therem distinct from the men, and seated in a gallery included with lattices, so that they might see and hear, but not be seen.

regulate and take care of all things helonging to the synagogue service, there was appointed a council, or assembly of grave and wise persons a conneil, or assembly of glave and wise persons, well versed in the law, over whom was set a president, who is called the ruler of the synagogue, Luke 8. 41. He presided in the assemblies and in judicial affairs that was sometimes decided there, against those who had given any scandal, and transgressed the law in given any scandal, and transgressed the law in any important matter. As for scourging, some are of opinion, that it was a punishment not falling under the jurisdiction of the rulers of the synagogues, but belonging to the civil courts, which they take to be meant by the synagogues, where our Saviour tells his disciples they should be scourged, Mat. 10. 17. Others on the con-trary, maintain, that by the word synagogues in the place here quoted, we are to understand synagogues properly so called. As to the manscourging, see Scounce.

The same presidents invited those to speak in the he same presidents invited those to speak in the synagogue, whom they thought copable of it, and offered that honour to strangers, if there were any that seemed to have the gift of speaking. St. Paul being at Antoch of Pisidia, was invited by the rulers if the synagogue to make a discourse to them for their editaction, Acts 13. 14, 15. And it is very probable, that whenever our Saviour preached in the synagogues it was not without the permission of the president, or chief ruler, though it be not expressly said so in the gospel, because it was a known ensum.

not expressly said so it the gospet, octuber in was a known ensom. The rulers of the synagogue were likevise bound to take care of the poor. There were in every synagogue two treasury chests, one for poor strangers, and the other for their own poor. Those who were charitably inclined, put then alms into these chests at their coming into the synagogue to pray. Upon extraordanary occasions they sometimes made public collections; in which cases, the rulers of the synagogue ordered the person whose business it was to collect the alms, to ask every body for his charity. Every one promised according as he was disposed, and afterwards they gathered from home to house what had been promised, for the Jews meddled not with money on their substabledge. sabbath-day.
These rulers likewise taught the people. This they

All these different ways of teaching they called by the general name of searching; the discourse they styled name of scarcing; the assence they affect a search, or inquisition, and him that made it, a searcher. The synagogue of the Libertines, or freed men, he synagogue of the Linerthues, or freed then, Acts 6, 9, was, according to many interpreters, that of those Jews, who having been led away captive by Pompey and by Sosias, had afterwards recovered their liberty, and vere retired wards recovered their thority, and were retired to Jerusalem, when Tiberias drove away the Jews out of Italy. Others will have it, that St. Inke wrote Lihystinorum, and not Libertinorum; and that the Libystini were people of Lybia, joining to Egypt. Signifies, A house or dwelling of God, a building erected and set apart for the worship of the trne God. It is spoken, First, Of that magnificent building erected by Solomon at Jerusalem, the foundations whereof were laid in the year of the world 2002, before Christ 1008, before the vulgar are 1012; and it was finished in the year of the world 3000, and dedicated in 3001; before Christ 1909, before the vulgar ara, 1003. The glory of this temple was not in the bigness of it; for that alone was but a small pile of building, as containing no more than an hundred and fifty feet in length, and an hundred and five and fifty feet in length, and an hundred and five in breadth, taking the sanctuary, the sanctum, and the porch or entrance, from out to out. The main grandeur and excellency of it consisted, [1] In its ornaments; its workmanship being every where exceeding curious, and its overlayings rich and costly. [2] In its materials; being built of new large stones, how out in the consistency of a right manner. [3] In its nost curious and artful manner. [3] In its not-huildings; which were large, beautiful, and sumptuous. But what still was the main glory his temple, were those extraordinary marks of this temple, were those extraoramary marks of the divine favour with which it was, ho-noured, namely, [1] The ark of the covenan, in which were put the tables of the law, and the mercy-seat which was upon it, from whence the divine oracles were given out by an audible voice, as often as God was consulted in behalf of voice, as often in the day and obstitute of this people. [2] The Shechinah, or the divine presence, manifested by a visible cloud resting over the mercy-seat. [3] The Urim and Thummim, by which the high-priest consulted God in

2 Cor. 4. 18, for the things which are seen are c. TEMPT Is spoken [1] Of God, Gen, 22, 1, who does not tempt or try men in order to know their tem-pers and dispositions, as if he were ignorant of them; but to exercise their graces, to prove their faith, love, and ohedience; to confirm and strengthen them by such trials, and to give sucstrengthen them by such triats, and to give suc-ceeding ages patterns of obedience, to shew the his sotisfaction with such as obey, and his displea-sure at such as do not. [11] Of men, who are said to tempt the Lord, [1] When they unseasonahly require of him sensible proofs of his divine presence, of his power, or of his goodness: Thus the Israclites in the desert often tempted the presentee, of this power, or on his goodness: Innis

the Israclities in the desert often tempted the Lord, Exod, 17, 2, 7, as if they had had reaton to have doubted of his presence among them, of his goodness or power, after all he had done in their favour. [2] When men expose themselves to such dangers, from which they cannot escape but by the miraculous interposition of his providence; for Cod requires of men the performance only of such actions as are within the ordinary measures of their strength, being under no obligation to work miracles in their favour, Mat. 4.7. [3] When men set themselves to commit sin so impudently, as if they did it on purpose to try whether God was just or powerful enough to punish them for it, Mal. 3. 15. [111] Of Satan, who tecopits us to bring us to crif, to sin, to distrust, to a contempt of God and his law, thorns that Gideon chastised the men of Sucthorns that Graeon chastists the many Society, who refused to refueve his army, when they were pursuing Zeba and Zalminna, two kings of Midian, Judg. 8, 7, 16. Lather he chastised, or beat their naked bodies with thorny chastised, or need their nanea contestion thermy reds till they died; or, he hird them down upon thorns, on the ground, and brought the cart-wheel upon them, which did both tear their flesh, and brusse them to death. Thorns their fiesh, and brusse them to death. Thoras are pmt for great difficulties and impediments, Job 5. 5, Whose harvest the hungry eateth up, and taketh it even out of the thorns. And in Hos. 2, 6, 1 will hedge up thy way with thorns; I will bring thee into straits and difficulties. It is likewise pmt for the heat of a fire kindled by thorns. The Lord told the Israelites, that such of the inhabitants of Canaan, as they should let remain in the land, would be pricks in their eyes and thorns in their sides; that is, they would be very hurtful and pernicious to them, Num, 33, 55. The wicked are compared to thorns, not only because of their barrenniss, and nunot only because of their barrenniss, and nu-profitableness in any thing that is good. Mat. 7. 16, 19, Do men gather grapes of thorn? But also because of their pernicious hurtful disposition towards the church and people of God, Josh. 23. 13. Ezek. 28. 24. 11 sow among thorns, is to preach the word to worldly and carnal hearts, Mat. 13. 7, 22. Many are deluded, and betrayed to a neglect of their keeping, and managing their estates: so the souls, through an excessive care about getting heeping, and managing their estates: 30 that prosperity is their snare. The soldiers, to must our Seviour, and to despise his royalty, platted a crown of thorns, and put it upon his head, Mat. 27, 29. Thorns were the fruit of the curse for man's sin, Gen. 3, 18. Psal. 50, 21, thou t. I was such a one as thyself THOUGHT,

Or thinking, is not always taken for the pure operation of the mind while it thinks, without operation of the mind while it thinks, without passing a judgment, or taking any resolution. The thought often includes a formed design of oding something, as in Psal. 56. 5, All their thoughts are against me for evil: Their purposes and resolutions are to do me mischief. So in Prov. 12. 5, The thoughts of the right eous are right: His constant purpose is to deal justily and tridy. And Psal. 33. 11, The counsel of the Lord standeth for ever, the thoughts of his heart to all coperations: All his mersel of the Lord standeth for ever, the thoughts of his heart to all generations: All his purposes, designs, and undertakings, are successful and irresistible. And Fsal. 116. 4. In that very day his thoughts perish: All his designs and endeavours, either for himself or for others. St. Paul sugs, Rom. C. 15, Their thoughts the mean while accusing, or else excusing, one another; when their conscience bears testimony to them, either for good or evil. Thought is put for inward reasoning. Luke 9, 46. 47. There arose a reasoning among them: And Jesus perceiving the thought of their heart. Also for immoderate or auxious care. Mal. 10. Also for immoderate or anxious care. Mat. 10.
19, Take no thought what ye shall speak, It is taken for the opinion. Job 12. 5. He that is ready to slip with his feet, is as a lamp despised in the thought of him that is at ease; or, in the opinion of such as are in a plentiful condition.

Is used for that magnificent seat whereon sovereign princes usually sit, to receive the homoge of their subjects, or to give audience to ambassadors; where they appear with pomp and cere many, and from whence they dispense justice. The scripture describes the throne of Solomou. as the finest and richest throne in the world, as the finest and richest throne in the world, as the finest and richest throne in the world in hings 10.20, Three was not the like made io any kingdom. It was all of ivory, and plated with pure gold. The ascent was six steps; the back was round, and two arms supported the seat. Twelve golden lions, one on each side of every step, made a principal part of its ornament. Throne is also put for sovereign power and dignity, it being the symbol royalty and regal authority; thus Pharaoh tells, Joseph, Gen. 41, 40, Only in the throne will! Is used for that magnificent seat whereon sovereign be greater than thou.

Beauen is the throne of God. Isa. 66. 1, The highest heavens are the place where he most munifests his power and glory, and shews himself in his majesty. Justice and judgment are the habitation of the shrone of the Lord, Psal. 39. 14. Instruction of the transfer of the Loring is 39. 14. Instruction of all his proceedings, and the stability of his throne and government. Christ Jesus is set down at the right hand of the throne of God, Heb. 12, 2, and from thence he discovers himself in his state and glory, as the great Ruler of the world, the King of kings, and Lord of lords. Our Sa-vious, to express the rest and satisfaction, the clover homogen, and discovers the second satisfaction, the Flour, to express the rest and satisfaction, the glavy, honour, and dignity, which the saints of God shail be possessed of in heaven, tells his disciples, Luke 92. 30, 'that ye may sit on thrones, judging the twelve tribes of Israel.

Urm and Thummin; According to the Hebrews, Exod. 28, 30. the literal signification of these two words is, light and perfection, or the shining and the perfect. According to St. Jerome, doctrine and judgment. According to the LXX, declaration or manifestation, and truth. Some will have it, that the Urim and Thummin are with away it, that the Urim and information of the stones of the stones of the breast-plate of the high-priest; as if it were said, Thou shalt put therein stones that are shining and perfect. Others, to prove that the Urim and Thummim were not the same thing with the transfer of the these states of the transfer of th Urin and Thummin were not the same thing with the twelve stone in the heast-plate, give the following reasons. (1) Because the stones were set and engagen in the breast-plate, Fxod. 28. 17, 21. the Urim and Thummin only put into it, which is a word of quite different and more louse and large signification, and tierefore probably does not design the same ching. (2) It is not likely, that in such a 6.31 there, change to brief account of the sacred utensils, the same command would be repeated again; especially in more dark and general words than it was mentioned before. And how could Moses put it mentionen before. And how could Moses put it in, when the workmen had fustened it there before? Or, why should he be required to put before? Or, why should he be required to put it in the breast-place, when it was fastened to it already, and could not, without violence, be taken from it? (3) Because the stones were put in it by the worknen, Exod. 3). 10. the Urim and Thummim hy Moses himself, Lev. 8. 8. It is objected, that where the stones are mentioned, there is no mention of Urim and Thummim, as in Exod. 39. 10. And that where the Urim and Thummim, are mentioned. Thunmim, as in Exod. 39. 10. 2110. Where the Urim and Thunmim are mentioned, where the stones, as in there is no mention made of the stones, as in Lev. 8, 8, which seems to shew they were one and the same thing. To which they answer, Lev. 8. B. which seems to show they arise on and the some thing. To which they answer, that there is an evident reason for both these omissions; of the former in Exodus, because Moses mentions only those things which were made by the workmen, whereas the Urion and Thummim seems to have been made immediately thinmin seems to have been made immediately by God, or by bloses with God's direction: Of the latter in Leviticus, because the stones are implied in the breast-plate as a past of it, and fastened to it, whereast there bloses only mentions what reas put in by himself. Some say, that the Union and Shamman that the Urim and Thummim were two little that the trum and insuming were two trues golden pigners which gave responses, which were shut up in the breast-plate as in a purse, and which answered, with an articulate voice, to all such questions as were put to them by the high-priest. Others think, that the name JEHOVAH written upon a plate of gold, was that the scrip-ture calls Urim and Thummim. There are various other conjectures concerning the Urim and Thummim, but nothing certain, because the scripture is silent in this master. It may sufscripture is sitent in this matter. It may suf-fice us to hume, that this was a singular piece of divine workmanship, which the high-priest was obliged to wear upon solemn occasions, as one of the conditions upon which God engaged to give him auswers.

There is a great diversity of opmions likewise concerning the manner in which God was consulted by Urim and Thummim. It is agreed, that this way of consultation was used only in affairs of very great importance: that the high-press was the only officiating minister in this ceremony; and that for this he was to be clothed in all his pointifical habits; particularly he was to have on his breast-ulate, to n hich the Urim to have on his breast-plate, to which the Urim and Thumnim was affixed; and lastly, that he was not allowed to perform this solemn consulta-tion for a private person, but only for the king, for the president of the Sankedim, for the general of the army of Israel, or for other pub-lic persons: And even then, not upon any affair of a private nature, but for things that relate to the public welfare of church or state. When the Urim and Thummin was to be con-sulted, the high writer and an income. was not allowed to perform this solemn consulta-

When the Urim and Thummim was to be consulted, the high priest put on his robes, and presented himself, not in the sanctuary, where he could not enter but once a year, but in the holy place, before the curtain that parted the most holy from the holy place. There standing upright, and turning his face toward the ark of the coverant, upon which the drivine presence reposed, he proposed the matter for which he had been consulted. Behind him, at some distance out of the holy place, stood the person for a hom. God was consulted, expecting, with hamility and reverence, the answer that it some alstance out of the most place ting, with hamility and reverence, the answer that it should please the Lord te give him. The Robbins, who are followed by Josephus, Philo, and several of the ancient fathers, are of opinion, that the high-priest having then his eyes fixed upon the stunes of the breast-plate, which was before him, he there read the answer of the Lord. The letters that raised themselves out of their places, and that shined with more than ordinary lustre, were formed into the answer desired. Ior example, when David inquired of God, whether he should go up to one of the cities of Judah, 2 Sam. 2. 1. it was answered him, Alah, go up. The three letters Ain, Lamed, and Ile, came out of their places, as it were, and raised themselves above the rest, to compose that word which contained the answer.

But there are some difficulties in this opinion.

which contained the answer.

In there are some difficulties in this opinion.

All the letters of the Hebrew alphabet were not found in the broast-plate: there were four wanning, Rich, Teth, Zade, and Koph. To supply these, the Rabbins pretend that the names of Albrahem, Isaac, and Jacob, were also upon the breast-plate: but for all that, Teth would be still wanting. Therefore they say, that this title also was read there, Colelle-schibte Israel.— See were all the tribes of Israel. But all this is advanced without of Israel. But all this is advanced rethrus proof, and without the least probability. A second difficulty is this that though one should admit all that the Hebrew doctors suggests in this affair, yet by what rules did the high-priest make a combination of these letters, and how put he them together? For it is not said then they came out of their places, but that they only raised themselves above the rest. Suppose, for compule that any six of the letters, hould only raised themselves above the rest. Suppose, for example, that any six of the letters should have swelled and shined with more than ordinary have swelled and shined with more than or dunory lustre; how must the high-priest dispose them which must be first or last? It is answered, that in this circumstance, he was always tu spired and piled with the spirit of prophecy, but if it were so, then the Urm and Thummin would have been unnecessary: For why must miracles be multiplied without any occasion? The high-priest needed only speak himself. And perhaps the whole use of the Urim and Thumperhaps the whole use of the Urim and Thum. the high-priest needed only speak ministy, perhaps the whole use of the Urim and Thum min was this, to be a sign to the high-priest that the Lord would repleated him with an internat and supernatural light, and make him know his will in what was inquired after.

know his witt in and was sugared after.

thers it ink, with a great deal of probability, that God then gave his answers in articulate voices, which were heard within the sanctuary, and from between the cherubims, which covered and from between the transfer and notice the ark or the preprintatory. When the Israel-ttes made peace with the Gibeonites, they were blamed for not having inquired at the mouth of the Lord, Josh 9, 11. which insinuates that he had been used to make his voice heard when he was consulted

it be inquired how long the custom of consulting God by Urim and Thummim subsisted in It be inquired now long in the third is continued in good by Urim and Thummim subsisted in Israel; the Rubbins think, that it continued no longer than under the tabernacle. It is a maxim among them, that the Holy Spirit spake to the children of Israel by Urim and Thummim while the tabernacle remained; and under the tabernacle remained, of Salmann.

to the children of Israel by Urim and Thumim while the tabernucle remained; and under the first temple, that is, the temple of Solomon, by the prophets; and under the second temple, or after the captivity of Babylon, by the Bathkol, or the daughter of the voice. By this they mean a voice sent from heaven, as that which was heard at the bapitsm of Christ, and at his transfiguration, Mat. 3. 17. 17. 5.

Spencer has anopted this opinion, and endeavoured to support it by these two arguments. The first is, that the Urim and Thummim were a consequence of the divine government, or of the Theocravy of the Hebrews. While the Lorimmediately governed his people, it was necessary that there should always be a means at hand to consult him, and to have recourse to him. Secondly, that this method was established to consult God upon affairs that concerned the common interest of the whole nation. But the Theocravy cassed, says he, when the kingdom became hereditary in the person and family of Solomon. The interests of the nation ceased to be common, after the division kingdom became hereditary in the person and family of Solomon. The interests of the nation ceased to be common, after the division of Israel into two monarchies; one governed by Rehoboam, and the other by Jeroboam. Lastly, what seems to be more convincing than any reasons drawn from a conformity of things, it does not appear from the sacred history, that there are any firsteps of consulting the Lord by Urim and Thummin, after the construction of the temple of Solomon to the time of its destruction; and after its destruction, all are agreed, that this was never restored to them again. xod. 28, 30, thou shall put on the breast-plate of

This term is commonly taken for the measure a motion, or for the duration of any thing. It is also taken for opportunity, or the favourable moment of doing or omitting any thing. Evel, 8. 5, A wise man's heart discerneth both time and judgment; He knows both what he works to be a market of the control of time and judgment: He knows own when and ought to do, and what are the fittest scasous for doing it. Our Sariom says, in Joho 7. 6, B wishich some w oright to do, who were the doing 11. Our Saviour says, in Joho 7. 0, 8 My time is not yet come; by which some an derstand, the time of his death; others, the season of his appearing publicly in the world; and others, the time of his going up to the feast of tabernacles: that is, I know my time to go, when it will be most saye and proper for me. I shall be there some time during the feast, had my time is not yet come. The time of the had my time is not yet come. The time of the but my time is not yet come. The time of the vengeance of God is sometimes called the time of the Lord, the time of his visting. Jer. 50. 27, 31, Woe unto them, for their day is come, the time of their visitation.

To gain the time, is mentioned in Dan, 2, 8

I know of certainty that ye would gain the time. The magicinar required a length of time from the king to explain his dream, hoping that his desire of knowing night have pursed away, from the king to explain his aream, noting that his desire of knowing might have pussed away, or that the dream might have come into his memory. St. Paul advises the faithful to re-deem the time, because the days are evil, Eph. 5. 16. Time is redecord, when we carefully 5. 10. Time is redecoved, when we carefully embrace and improve all the occarions and opportunities which the Lord presents unto us for his glory, and the good of ourselves and others; not suffering these seasons to be stolen from us, and lost by cures and thoughts about the world:

and lost by care and thoughts about the world; And whereas we have lost and misimproved much time, we ought theirfore to double our diligence, and do the more good in time to come. King Abasicrus consulted with the uses men who knew the times, Esth. 1. 13. That is, he advited with his counsellost that understood time history, the customs, and the laws of the Persians. The knowledge of history is one of the principal qualifications of a Statesman. For how should his know the interest of his country, if he is invarious for its times, resolutions, if he is ignorant of its times, revolutions, and remarkable occurrences? St. Jerom har it in his translation, he consulted the Sages that were his translation, he consided the Sages that were always near his person, according to the custom of Sangs. The Chaldee paraphrast with thie si, that he consided the children of Issachur, who were skilled in the knowledge of times and seasons. This tribe was noted for their knowledge of the times. I Chron. 12. 32, Of the children of Issachar, which were men that had understanding of the times, to know what Israel ought to do. Sayes he this values and their Investigation. to do. Some by this understand their knowledge of the stars, and of the several seasons and changes of the arr; which might be uf good use changes of the art; which might be good has in husbandry, to which this tribe has addicted. Others think, that by this is to be understood their political prudence in discerning and en-bracing the fit season for all their actions. Christ Jesus soys to A.s. Apostles, who asked him if he was won to restore the kingdom to Israel, It is not for you to know the times and seasons, which the Father hath put io his own power, Acts 1 7. They still thought that the kingdom of the Messiah was to be a temporal kingdom: of the Messian was to be a temporal kingdom? But afterwards they were undereived, and the Holy Chost, which they received at the time of Pentecost, instructed them, that the complete kingdom of the Messiah, the renewing of all things, was not to take place before the end of the world. Acts 3, 29, 21, where 8t. Peter speaking to the Lews, calls this time, a time of reference and the time of the restitution of efreshing, and the times of the restitution a ll things. St. Paul, 1 Thess. 5. 1, 2. makes all things. use of almost the same terms, in which our Suviour expressed himself to his Apostles, con-cerning his last coming. But of the times and seasons ye have no need that I write unto you For ye know that the day of the Lord comete as a thicf in the night.

TITHE.

We practice of paying tithes is very ancient; for we find, Gen. 14. 20. that Abraham gave tithes to Metchivedek, king of Salem, at his return from his expedition against Chedrolachmer, and the four kings in confederacy with him. Abraham gave him the tithe of all the booty taken from the enemy. Jacob imitated this piety of his grandfather when he vowed to the Lord the tithe of all the substance he might acquire in Mesopotamia. Gen. 28. 22, Of all that thou shalt give me, i will surple yield that thou shalt give me, i will surple yield that thou shalt give me, i will surple yield the tenth unto thee; for the maintenance of thy worthip, and enter pious west. Under the law, Moses ordained, Lev. 27. 30, 31, 32, All the tithe of the land, whether of the seed of the land, or of the fruit of the seed of the land, or of the fruit of the seed of the land, or of the fruit of the seed of the land, or of the fruit of the seed of the land, or of the fruit of the seed of the land, or of the fruit of the seed of the land, or of the fruit of the seed of the land, or of the fruit of the seed of the land, or of the fruit of the seed of the land, or of the fruit of the seed of the land, or of the fruit of the seed of the land, or of the fruit of the seed of the land, or of the fruit of the seed of the land, or of the fruit of the seed of the land, or of the fruit of the seed of the land, or of the fruit of the seed of the land, or of the fruit of the seed of the land, or of the fruit of the seed of the land, whether of the seed of the land, or of the fruit of the land the land the land the like the land the the priests.) Num. 28. 26, 27, &c. (1) To the Levites, for their maintenance, Num. 18. 21, 24. (2) For the Lord's feasts and sacrifices, to be eaten in the place which the Lord should choose to put his name there; to wit, where the ark should be, the tabernacle or temple. This tenth part was either sent to Jerusalem in kind, or, if it was too far, they sent the value in money which was to to Jerusalem in kind, or, if it was too far, they sent the value in money, which was to be laid out for oxen, sheep, wine, or what else they pleased, Deut, 14, 22, 23, 24, 3c, (3) Besides these two, there was to be, every third year, a tithe for the poor, to be eaten at their own dwellings. Deut, 14, 28, 29. Some are of opinion that this third tithe was not different from the second before taken notice of except that in the third year it was not brought ferent from the second before taken notice of except that in the third year it was not brought to the temple, but was used upon the spot by every one in the city of his habitation: So that there were only, according to them, two sorts of titnes, that which was eyeve to the Levies and priests, and that which was opplied to making feasts of charity, either in the temple of Jerusalem, or in other cities, and gratitude: thus Abraham's groung titnes, of the spoil to Melchizedek, was a token that he owned his victory and success to be from the priests, the Lord complained that he was robbed, Mal. 3. 8. The paying of them was no honouring of God, Prov. 3. 9. Hence the Apostle proves the superiority of Melchizedek and his presthood above the patriatch Abraham, and the priesthood of Levi, because Abraham, and Levi in his loins, paid tithes unto him, as the lesser unto the greater, Heb. 7. 4, 5, 6, &c.

n the New Testament, neutre our saviour, nor his apostless have commanded any thing in this affair of tithes: only when our Lord sent his Apostles to preach in the cities of Israel, he forhad them to carry their purse or provisions along with them, but to enter into the houses along with them, but to enter into the houses of those that were willing to receive them, and to eat what should be set before them; for the labourer, says he, is worthy of his hire, and of his maintenance, Mat. 10. 10. Luke 10. 7, 8. St. Paul would have it, that he that receives instruction, should administer some of his good things to him that gives it him, Gal. 6, 6. It is agreeable to name and server. 6. 6. It is agreeable to nature and reason, that they which wait at the altar should live by the altar, 1 Cor. 9. 13. And as Cod, under by the altar, 1 Cor. 9. 13. And as Cod, under the law ordained and appointed a living or maintenance for his ministers, so as they needed not, as other men, to labour with their hands to get bread to eat; so under the New Testament, God has ordained, that those who are taken off from worldly employments, and spend their time in the study and preaching of the gospel, should have a livelihood for their labour. 1 Cor. 9. 14, Even so hath the Lord ordained, that they which preach the gospel, should live of the gospel. And in the 7th verse, Who of the gospel. And in the 7th verse, Who goeth a warfare at his own charges?

The most barbarous nations, and the heathen Greeks and Romans, out of a principle of reli-gion common to all men, have often dedicated their tithes to their gods. Some have made it a standing obligation, others have done it upon a standing obligation, others have done it upon particular occasions, and by the impulse of a transient devotion. Laertius says, that when Pisistrains, trant at Athens, wrote to Solon, opersuade him to return to Athens, he tells him, "that every one there pays the tithe of "his goods for the offering of sacrifices to the "gods," Laert, Lib. 1. Pliny says that the gods," Laert, Lib. 1. Pliny says that the gots, Laert, Lib. 1. Pliny says that the Arabian merchants who traded in spices, durst not sell any till they had paid the tithe to their god Sabis: And Plutarch, in more places their one, mentions a custom of the Romans, of offer-

This word is taken in three different senses. For the material tougue, or organ of speech.

Jam. 3. 5, The tongue is a little member. (?) Jam. 3. 3, The longue is a little member. (2) For the tongue or language that is spoken in any country. Deut. 28. 49, The Lord shall bring a nation against thee, whose tongue thou shalt not understand. (3) For good or bad discourse. Prov. 12. 18, But the tongue of the wise is health: His discourse is sound and machine the state of the state wholesome in itself, and tends to the comfort and benefit of others. On the contrary, He that hath a perverse tongue falleth into mischief, Prov. 17. 20, that is, He that speaks decenyfully Many questions are proposed about tongues, taken in the second sense, or for lan-guage. It is asked, (1) If God was the author giage. It is asked, (1) it Goa was ine austor of the first tongue? and if he gave it to Adam by infusion? or if Adam invented it, and ac-quired it by industry and lubour? (2) If this language is still in being? And, (3) If so, then which is it?

then which is it?

Projane authors, and such as had no knowledge of the holy scriptures, or of the history of the cteation of the world, imagined that men were produced by chance in different parts of the world, and came out of the ground, as also all other animals bessees; that at first they had no language, nor any notions of things;

that first of all mere necessity, and afterwards cuncering tasks them to invent creation conveniency taught them to invent certain sounds, or words, by which to communicate their notions to one another: that hence languages were formed, which became different from each other: that hence languages other, becouse they were invented separately, and their authors had no communication with one another. But the knowledge we have now of the origin of mankind does not leave us any room to doubt, but as God creuted Adam perfect, so he endued one as Goa created Adam perfect, so he enduced him with language to express his thoughts and conceptions. Therefore we find, that the first man presently after his creation, returns answers to God, speaks to his wife, and gives names to the brute creatures. His children and successors probably spake the same language as himself, down to the deluge; and after the delimself, down to the deluge; and after the deluge, till the confusion of tougues that happen ed at. Babel.

Men are not agreed as to the manner in which this famous confugiou was brought about. It is doubted whether all of a sudden God might not make all men forget their own language, and give them a new one, entirely different from the former: or, whether by confounding their ideas, and disturbing their imaginations, their ideas, and disturbing their imaginations, he put into their mounts different dialects of the first language: So that the primitive tongue remaining uncorrupt in some families, became of once a foreign tongue to those that spoke it before; as also that the dialects of the primitive language became barbarous and unknown to the primitive language became barbarous and unknown to these who were the depostaries, as it were, of the arcient language. Or, whether God might not permit that men should be perplexed, and become unintelligible to each other, and therefore separate, and that their separation should give occasion to this change of language, by the necessary consequence of distance of place, and want of communication with each other, These several opinious have each had their pa

As to the first longue which God communicated to Adam at his creation, there have been but few nations in the world, which have not had the ambition of having it for their own tongue; but the goweralty of critics have declared for the Hebrew wague, and given it the pre-Jor the Heorew tongue, and getter it me po-ference before all others. The conciseness, simplicity, energy, and Jertishty of it, and the relation it has to the most ancient oriental lan-guages, which seem to derive their origin from et, the etymology of the names whereby the first of mankind were called, which naturally occurs in this language: the names of animals which are all significant in the Hebrew tongue, and describe the nature and property of these very animals, particulars which are not to be observed in any other language; all these chararters meeting together, raise a prejudice very natives meeting together, raise a prejudice very much in favour of its primacy and excellency. It has further another privilege, namely, that the most ancient and venerable books in the norld are written in Hebrew.

world are written in Hebrew. Nevertheless several other very able critics are of opinion, that the Hebrew tongue, such as we see it at present in the bible, and as it was in the time of Moses, is not the primitive language, pure, and uncorrupted; they obserte many words in the Bible, the originals whereof are not to be found in Hebrew. They are willing to allow, that there are more jootsteps of Adam's language preserved in the Hebrew than in any other tongue; but thus, they say, has undergone divers changes and alterations, and in the divers changes and alterations, and in the series of so many ages, from Adam down to Moses, many roots of this language were lost, and others of a foreign extraction received.

o geaw one's tongue, is a token of fury, despair,

16, 10. A tongue of the sea, a tongue of land are terms used in scripture for the extremity or point of the Dead sea; as in Josh. 15. + 2, Their south horder was from the shore of the salt sea, from the tongue that looketh south salt sea, from the tongue that tooken south-ward. Or, for a pennisula, a cape, a promontory of land, itretching out into the sea, Josh, 18.+19. The scourge of the tongue, Joh 5. 21. By this are to be understood, malicious dis-courses, scandal, calumny, insulting, and offensive speeches.

The gift of tongues, which God granted to the Apostles and disciples assembled at Jerusalem, on the day of Pentecost, Acts 2.3, 4, &c. was on the day of Penteeost, Acts 2, 3, 4, &c. was communicated to the faithful, as may be seen by the epistles of St. Paul, which regulate the manner in which this great privilege was to be made use of in their assemblies, 1 Cor. 12, 10, 14, 2, &c. It continued in the church as log as God thought it necessary, for the conversion of the heathen, and the confirming of believers. In I Cor. 13. 1, St. Paul says, Though I speak with the tongues of nen and of angels, and have not charty, I am become as sounding brass, or a tinkling cymbal. By which is not to be understood that the angels have any sensible tungue, either common or pro per: the Apostle intends to use a kind of hyper bole; that is, I would have every one see per: the apostic victual to use a single polic; that is, I would have every one set a due value upon the gift of tongues; out though a man should have all the eloquence that can be man stoodd have all the stoylence that can be smagned, could he speak as well as angels themselves, this inestimable gift would be of little use to him as to salvation, if he is without charity, or a principle of true love to God and man in his heart.

In Hebrew, Pitdath. The seventy, St. Jerom, Junius, and the greatest part of the modern interpreters, translate Pitdath by Topaz; the interpreters, translate Pittlath by Topaz; the Paraphrasts, Onkelos, and Jonathan, by a green stone; which agrees perjectly well with the Topaz, of which the finest are green, as Pliny observes, lib. 37, cap. 8. Yet others maintain, that the most beautiful Topazes are of the colour of gold. It is presented this stone took its name of Topaz from an island in the Redssea, which has the same name. Pliny will have Juba, hing of Mauritania, to have been the first that found them: But it was known to Moses, it must be much more ancient thou Juba. Job speaks of the Pitdath of Cush, or Pihopia, Job 28, 19, which may confirm their opinion who make the Topaz to come from the Redssea; because there was a country of Cush, Juing upon the eastern shore of this sea. This stone was the second of the first in the breast-plate, and had the name of Si meon upon it, Exod, 28. 17. It is thought that Tophet was the butchery, or place of slanghter at Jerusalem, lying to the south of the city, in the valley of the children of Hinnom. It is also said, that a constant fire used to be kept there, for hurning the carcases, and other filthines, that were brought thither from the city. It was in the same place that they cast away the askee and remains of the impose of false rooks when they mains of the images of false gods, when they demolished their attars, and hroke down their statues. Lainh seems to allude to this custom, of burning dead carcases in Tophet, when speaking of the defeat of the army of Semacherib, he says; For Tophet is ordained of old; yea, for the king it is prepared; he hath made it deep and large. The pile thereof is fire and much wood; the breath of their Lord, like a stream of brimstone, doth kindle it Though this may be figuratively understood of hell. mains of the images of fulse gods, when they demolished their altars, and broke down of hell.

Others think the name of Tophet is given to the valley of Hinnom, because of the sucrifices that were offered there to the god Moloch, by beat of drum, which in Hebrew is called Toph. It was drum, which in Hebrew is called Toph. It was Ita. 22.18, he will turn and I, thee like a ball in this manner that their sacrifices were affected. cremiah upbraids the Israclites with having built temples to Moloch, in the valley of Hisnom in Tophet, to burn their children there in the fire, ler. 7. 31. The same prophet shews, the Tophet was a polluted and unclean place, where Tophet was a politited and unclean place, where they used to throw the careases to which they refused burial. Some refer this to the tower of Edar, which was in the neighbourhood of Beth-lehem, Gen. 35. 21. enes to the tower of Edar, which was in the neighbourhood of Beth-lehem, Gen. 35. 21. They say likewise, that the shepherds, to whom the angel revealed the birth of our Savimar, were near to this tower, Luke 2. 8, 15. Many interpreters assert that the passage of Micah, wherein mention is made of the tower of the flock, stood for the city of Beth-lehem, out of which mur Saviour was to come. Others maintain, that the prophet intended it for the city of Jerusalem, in which there was a tower of this name, through which the flocks of sheep were driven into the sheep ma her.

The tower of the watchman, 2 Kings 17 he tower of the watchman, & Nings 17 C. From the tower of the watchman to the fence of city; this form of speaking expresses in gener l, all the places of the country, from the least to the greatest. The towers of the watchmen, of the shepherds, stood alone in the midst of the of the Incipierus, 5000 alone in the miss of the plain, to ledge the shepherds and herdmen, who looked after the fucks, or to set watchmen in to keep the fruits of the earth, or to give notice of the approach of enemies. hing Uzztań causea several towers to be hull for the shepherds in the desert, and made many cisterns there, be cause he had a great number of flocks, 2 Chron cause he had a great number of flocks, 2 Curon 26, 10. The tower Edar mentioned before, and that which Isaah takes notice of, which was built in the most of the trieyard, 18a, 5 2 were of the same kind.

tower was as a citadelor fortress, standing upon higher ground than the rest of the city, and capaciaus enough to receive above a thousand per-sons. After Absmelech had taken and rosed sons. After Abometica had taken and rosed the city of Shechim, he endeavored to take possession of this tower, to which a great part of the inhabitants of the city had retired; but as he could not take it, because it was exceedingle. as he could not take it, because it was exceedingle strong, he resolted to set it on fire. To this purpose he uent up to mount Zalmon, cut down an arm of a t.ee, and lind it upon his shoulders, and commanded all his people to follow his example. They therefore brought usth them a great quantity of fuel, filled the ditch with it, and set it on fire: So that all those who had taken refuge in the tower, either perished by the flames, or were stilled bu the smoke. the flames, or were stifled by the sm

TRADITION,

[1] Is put for a ductrine first delivered by speech from God and afterwards wit in his book for the use of the church. This is an object of our faith, 1 Cor. 11.+2. 2 Thess. 2. 15. [2] A human ordinane or ceremony, handed down from one to another, as the Jewt' oral Law. These are good or bad, according as they agree with, or deviate from the word of God, which is our only rule of faith and pactice.

Our Serviour in the gospel has often declared against the traditions of the Pharitees, Mat. 15. 2. 3, The Scribes and Pharisees said to Jesos, Why do thy disciples transgress the tradition of the elders? for they wash not their hands when they eat bread, This washing was a ceremony not contrary to the law of God.

their hands when they eat bread. This reast-ing was a ceremony not contrary to the law of God, but rather a matter of decency, which they might freely use, in a civil way, so long as they placed nothing of religion on it; but in this they were to be condemend, because they where declining it would had In It: hut in this they beere to be condemied, because they placed religion in it, and had no divine warrant for it. Our Saviour ausers them by another question; Why do ye also transgress the commandment of God by your tradition? And though Christ does not your tradition? And though Christ does not say that this tradition of washing, was contary to the command (though others were) yet by an instance which he gives in the following verses, he show that none of their traditions were kinding; for otherwise his reply would be taxalid. The law he instances in, is the fifth mmandment, Honour thy father and moth commanament, industry in latter and mother, which includes maintenance and relief; but by your traditions, says he, we warrant children to glve this answer to their parents who are poor, and seek relief and support from them, It is, a gift by whatsoever thou mightest he profited by me; that is, I have consecrated all the overplus of my estate, more than will serve for my puts of my estate, more tunn with verte for my even mantenance, as a religious offering or effit to God, and therefore you must excuse me; this yn think frees them from any obligation to relieve their parents, and consequently from any transgretsion of the law; but I tell you, that thus ye have made the commandment of God of convendent has well as the commandment.

you, that into ye have made the commandment of God of none effect by your tradition. The Jew call their traditions the Oral Law, pre-tending that God delivered them to Moses by word of mouth upon Mount Sinai, at the same word of mouth upon stount stant, at the same time that he gave him the written law: That this lawgiver taught them to the elders of the people, and committed them to them at a trust, which they were to convey down to their succeswhich they were to convey anon to near mean to sort and so on.

The church of Rome is very near akin to the Jews in this matter. She holds, that, besides what we have in the New Testament, the Apostles delivered many things to the primitive church only by word of mouth, which have since that time been imported to succeeding churches; it the absence of which Christians are; to the observation of which, Christians are as much obliged as to the written word. The council of Trent says concerning traditions, "That the truth and discipline of the Catholic Church "the truth and discipline of the Catholic Church "are comprehended both in the sacred books and "in the traditions, which have been received "from the mouth of Jesus Christ himself, or of "his Apostles, and which have been preserved "and transmitted to us, by an uninterrupted "chain and succession."

The doctrine of the reformed churches concerning traditions is, "That the holy scripture contained the relations is, "That the holy scripture contained the relations is that the second three to salvation; so that "waterever is not read therein, nor may be proted thereby, is not to be required of any Mat. 17. 2. and he was t. before them, Mark 9. 2.

" man, that it should be believed as an article " of faith, or be thought requisite, or necessary " to salvation."

1 Cor. 4.6.these things I have in figure t. to myself TRANSFIGURED.

The history of Christ's transfiguration is recorded by St. Maithew, Mark, and Luke. All three ogree that this transfiguration was celebrated agree that this transhguration was celebrated npon a mountain, which most interpreters think to be mount Tabor. Matthew, chap. 17, 1, says, but six days; Luke 9, 28. mentions eight day, after the promise our Sations made, that some of them should not taste of death, till they saw the son of uan coming in his kingdom. Some think it probable, that St. Luke counted inclusively, recouning the day of the promise, (taking the Son of man's coming in his kingdom, to mean his transformation) and the day of the reconstitutions. his transfiguration) and the day of the execu-tion: Whereas St. Matthew had regard only to the six intermediate duys.

It is thought that this transfiguration happened in t is thought that this transfiguration happened in the night; and from thence proceeded the sleep, with which the apostles vero oppressed. Moreover, St. Linke observes, that the next day they came down from the mountain, Linke 37, therefore they had passed the preceding night there. The fathers say, that the design of this transfiguration was, to fulfil the promise which Christ had made some days before, that he would be designed to the contraction that the design of the state of t let some of his disciples see a glimpse of his glory before their death; and to fortify them against the scandal of the cross, and of the death against the scandal of the cross, and of the death he was to suffer, by giving them this convincing proof that he was the Messiah. It is observed, that the condition in which Jesus Christ appeared among men, humble, poor, despised, was a true and continual transfiguration; whereas the transfiguration itself, in which he shewed himself in the real splendows of his glory, was his true and natural condition. As to the appearing of Moses and Elnas, it is asked how the Apostler could know them? To which it is answered, that our Lord Jesus Christ aught call them by their names, or that he might tell them afterwards, that they were he might tell them afternards, that they were the fight test them afterwards, when the those two great men; or they knew them by immediate relation. It is observed in this apparition, that the law represented by Moses, Preasure is often used to express any thing whatever in great abundance; as in Col. 2. 3, In Jesus Christ are hid all the treusnres of wis-Jesus Christ are hid all the treames of wisdom and knowledge. St. Paul says, Rom. 2. 5, Thou treasures to pwent against the day of wrath: that is, Thou provokest more and more the wrath of God against thee; by heaping up sins, thou heapist up the judgments of God upon thyself: As men add to they treasure of punishment. It is put for the knowledge of the gaped, and the ministry thereof. 2 Cor. 4. 7. We have this treasure in earth or vessels. Both good and wicked men are compared to trees. The godly, says the Psalmist, shall be like a tree planted by the rivers of water, that bring. eth forth his fruit in his season, Psal em orthins trut in his season, Psal 1, 3. His send shall be plentifully fed from heaven with the never-failing influences of grace and consolation, whereby he shall be made fruitful in every good word and work. John the Baptist says, Mat. 3, 10, The axe is laid to the root of the trees; therefore every tree which bringest not forth coal feature. eth not forth good fruit, is hewo dowo and casi into the fire; that is, "The judgment of Goo "hangs over your heads, ready to seize upon nangs over your nears, reany to settle upon you, if you be either barren, or do not bring forth good fruit: Vengeauce is as nigh unto you, as the tree is to falling, to whose reconstitute are is already applied." Our Saviene "the are is already applied." Our Savion speaks to the same purpose in the latter part of his servious upon the mount, Mat. 7, 19. The godly are called trees of righteousness, that is, persons bringing forth the first of righteoniess, 1sa. 61, 3. The wicked are called trees whose fruit withereth; whise lives are full of all wickedness, Jude 12. The king of Asyrui's army are called trees. In 10, 19, The rest of the tree of his forms shall be four these whose true wherein; whose twes are just in all wickedness, Jude 12. The king of Assyrus's army are valled trees. I.a. 10. 19, The rest of the trees of his forest shall be few, that a child may write them; The remainder of his mighty host shall be so few, that the meanest accomptant may be their mister-master.

Jacob having twelve sons, who were the heads of son many great families, which altogether formed, a great nation; every one of these families was called a tribe. But Jacob on his death had adopted Ephraim and Munassch, the sons of Ioseph, and would have them also to constitute two tribes of Israel, Gen. 43. 5. Instead of twelve tribes, there were now thirteen, that of Joseph being divided into two. However, the distribution of lands to the people made hy Joshua, hy the command of God, they counted but twelve tribes, and made but twelve tribes, and made but twelve to the twelve of Leve, which was appointed to the service of the tabernacle of the Lord, had no share in the distribution of the inad, but only some civies to dwell in, and the first fruits, tithes and whations of the people, which was all their substance, Num. 35. 2. Josh, 13. 7, 8, 14, 33. The twelve tribes, while they were in the desert.

lations of the proposed that the description of the twelve tribus, while they were in the description of the twelve tribus, while they were in the description of the covenant, every one according to its order. To the east were those of Judah, Zebulun, and Issachar. To the west were Epincaim, Manussch, and Benjamin. To the south, Renken, Simeon, and Oad. And to the north were Dan, Asher, and Naphiali. The Levies were distributed round about the tabernacle, nearer the holy place that the other tribes, Nime. 2, 2, 3, 6, 10 the matches of the army of Israel the twelve.

tribes were divided the four great bodies, each composed of three tribes. The first body, which was the front of the army, was made up of the tribes of Judoh, Issachar, and Zebulun. The second was composed of Reuben Simeon, and Gad. Between the second and third body of troops, came the Levites and priests, with the ark of the Lord, the cuttain, the plants, the pillars, and all the other furniture of the tibernacle. The third body of the army was composed of the tribes of J pha im, Manasseh, and Benjamin. The fourth and last, which frought up the rear was made up of the tribes of Ough, where, and Naphtali, Num. 10.5, 6, 14, &c. We have an account of the division of the land of Canaan among the twelve tribes in the book of Joshna.

The tierlve tribes continued united under one heady, till ofter the death of Solomon: Then ten of the tribes of Israel revolted from the house of David, and received for their king Jeroboam, the son of Nebat; and only the tribes of Judah and Bevjamin continued under the government of Rehoboam, I Kings 12. 16, 20. This separation may be looked upon as the check cause of those great colamicies that afterwards happened to those two kingdoms, and to the whole Hebrew nation. For it was the cause of the afterotion and change of the old religion, and of the anterest workingdoms, and to the whole Hebrew nation. For it was the cause of the afterotion and change of the old religion, and of the nation worship of the Lord; which was the occasion of the two worship of golden calves instead of the worship of the Lord; which was the occasion of the ten tribes for saking the temple of the Lord; It kings 12. 26, 27, &c. This schirm likewise caused an irraconcileable hatred between the ten tribes and those of Judah and Benjamin, and created a great number of wars and disputes between them. The Lord being provoked, edivered them up to their enemies. Tiglath-pileser first carried them. The Lord being provoked, edivered them up to their enemies. Tiglath-pileser first carried away captives the tribes of Newbon, tied, Napahali, and the half tribe of Manusseh, which were beyond Jordan, and carried them beyond the half tribe of Statoyed it, took was yet he rest of the unhabitants of Israel, this been a gre t question among the lathers took the city of Samuria, destroyed it, took away the rest of the unhabitants of Israel, It has been a gre t question among the Lathers and Interpretess, which ther these ien tribes still continued in their settlement beyond the Euphrates or whether they teru med again in a the same time acknowledge, that this return; but at the same time acknowledge, that this return is not clearly made out by history, because it was the same time acknowledge, that this return is not clearly made out by history, because

As withe tribes of Judah and Benjamin, who re mained under the government of the kings of the family of David, they continued a much longer time in their own country: But at law, ofter they had fulfilled the measure of their vii quity, God delivered them into the hands of their enemies. Nebuchadnerzar took the city of Jerusalem, entirely ruined it, and burnt the temple, and took away all the inhabitants of Judah and Benjamin to Baylom, and to the other provinces of his empire. This captivity continued for seventy years, as the prophet had foresturn from this captivity is plainly assigned in 2 Chron. 30, 20, 21, 22, 23, and in the books of Exa and Nehemiah.

Chronologers fix the end of the kingdom of the ten tribes in the year of the world 3283, before Christ 717. And the captivity of Judah and Benjamin in the year of the world 3416, before Christ 584.

Intervention of their own children, or of strangers? Man, of the earth take custom, or tribute? What the hearth which is detired from the verb Massa, to nelt, or liquely. The Hehrews achowledged none for sovereign over them, but God alime? Whence Jurephius calls their government a Theocracy, or divine government. They acknowledged the soverzign dominion of God by a tribute, or capitation, of half a shekel a head, which every Israelite paid him yearly, Exod, 30, 13. Our Saviour, in Mat, 17, 25, thus reasons with Peter; What thinkest thon, Simon? Of whom do the kings of the earth take custom, or tribute? of their own children, or of strangers? Meaning, that as he was the Sin of God, he ought to be exempt from the capitation. TRIBUTE,

Tribute is a sum of money paid to princes, ribute is a sum of money paid to princes, or tulers, in token of the duty and subjection which subjects one into them, and as a recompene for their care and protection, and in order to support them in their authority and dignity. After the least were conquered by the Romans, they still continued very tenucious of their liberty, and gloried much in the right they had to it; as appears from John 8.33. They made it a question, whether it was agreeable to the law of God, to pay trace to a lagan conqueror, and tarefere they ask our Savieur, Mat. 92.17, What thinkest thoo? Is it lawful to give tribute anno Cesar or not? Christ in his anseer plainly

Solomon, at the beginning of his reign, compelled the Cannamites, who were left in the country, to pay him tribute, and to perform the drudgery of the public works he had undertaken: And as to the children of Israel, he would not suffer them to be employed therein, but made them his soldiers, his ministers, his chief officers, to command his armies, his chariots, and his horse men, 1 Kings 9. 21, 22, 23, 2 Chron. B. Yet however, towards the end of his reign, he impased a tribute upon them and made them work at the public buildings; which much alterated their minds from him, and sowed the veeds work at the phonic outlaintys; which much attin-ated their minds from him, and sowed the veeds of that discontent which afterwards appeared in an open revolt, by the rehellion of Jeroboam the son of Nebat, 1 Kings 5, 13, 14, [9, 15, [11] 27. Is taken (1) For what is opposed to a fulschood, a lie, a deceit. Prov. 12. 17, He that speaketh truth, sheweth forth righteonsness; but a false witness deceit. And St. Paul says, I speak the truth in Christ, I lie not. (2) For fidelity, sincerity, and punctuality in keeping promises. Generally to truth, taken in this sense, is joined overcy or kindness, ar in Gen. 24. 27, Eliezer, the servant of Abrahom, gives thank to God, that he had not left destitute his master of his mercy and his truth. He hank heaved him his mercy in servan him pleatural his master of his mercy and his truth: He hash shewed him his mercy in giring him plenty of good things, and his truth in fulfilling and performing all his promises to him. Or, mercy and truth may express a stable, constant, and permanent mercy or kindness; that is, "Blessed be the Lord, who has favoured my master" Abraham in so constant and uniform a manimer." The Psalmiss in several places extoly the mercy and truth of God. It is his mercy that prevents and promises, and it is his truth that executes and performs. In Psal. 57, 10, he says. Thy mercy is great unto the heavens, and thy truth unto the vlouds. This expresses that executes and performs. In Psal, 57, 10, he says, Thy nercy is great unto the heavens, and thy truth into the clouds. This expresses their greatness, immensity, and extent; and that all creatures partake of them. (3) Truth is put for the true doctrine of the gospel. Gal. 3, 1, Who hath lewitched you, that you should not obey the truth? (4) Truth is put for the substance of the tupes and ceremonies of the law. John 1, 17, The law was given by Moses, but grace and truth came by lesus Christ. The juddina of all the tupes and prophecies in the law was by and we Christ. So in John 14.

6. I om the truth. "I am the truth and sha" stance of all the types and shadons of the "luot" Or, say others, "I am the great ductor "two?" Or, say others, "I am the great ductor" of my church, who teach them what course to "take to get to heaven." (5) True is pret for reality, and is apposed to that which is not original and of itself. Eph. 4. 21. John 1. 9
That was the true light: Christ has light in himself, and from himself; he is the original fountain-light, from whince light is derived to all others. (6) True is apposed to hypocray, dissimilation, or foundity. Heb. 10. 22. Let us draw near with a true heart; that is, with aprightness, integrity, and sincerty of heart.

In BELIEV
Is taken sometimes for weak faith, as in Mar 9.44. Lord, I believe, help thon mine unbelief It is a capital and jointain evil; and generally it is taken for a privation and utter want of faith, when the promises and threatenings in God's word are wholly distrusted. Those Jees who the not rely on God's word, but rejected the promises, rebelled against the precepts, and murmired against the providence of God, could not enter into the promised land, but were consumed in the wilderness, Heb. 3. 19. And this nuturn was afterwards rejected by God, beconsimed in the witeerness, 1100. 3, 19. And this nutron was afterwards rejected by God, be-because of their unbelief; they would not ac-cept of Christ; nor acknowledge him for the Messiah, Rom. 11. 20, because of unbelief they were broken off. And as the Israelites by reason of unbelief, were not allowed to enter into Canaan, so unbelievers shall not enter into heaven. The la John 3, 36, He shall not see life. The law of faith is unalterable, 36. He that believeth not the Sca nbelief ronders the benefits of Christ fruitlen and ineffectual; it is said, Mark 6, 5, 6, that Christ could do no mighty works in his own country, because of their unhelief; it made Chief could do no mighty works in his own country, because of their unbelief; it made them unfit for receiving benefit from his miracles, and therefore he suspended his miracles, and therefore he suspended his miracles, and disables men to do that which otherwise they would have been able to du, if they had believed; thus when the man brought his son, who was a lunatic, to the aposites, to be cured by them; they teeting his condition so had, by reason of the devil that possessed hum, and that for so long a time together, questioned whether the power they had received, would enable them to cast him out and cure the man, Mut. 17. 16. Unbelief hath often corporal punishment attending it: Zacharias, because he believed not the words of the angel, was struck dumb for a season, Luke 1. 20. Unbelievers have their part in the like that huros with fire and brimstone, Rev. 21. 8. Christ died not to expiate final infidelity. This sin charges all the guilt of sunners upon themselves: It renders the sufferings of Christ fired furthers as to them. For it is not the preparation of a sovereign remedy that cures the discuss the anglestone of the Argon visia. fruitess as to entem: For it is not me prepara tout of a sovereign remedy that cures the dis ease, but the application of it. As our sin, were imputed to Christ, upon account of hi union with us in nature, and his consent t were imputed to Christ, upon account of hi union with us in nature, and his consent to become our sweety; so his righteousness in writing imputed unto us, upon our union with him by a true and lively faith. It is not from any defect of mercy in God, or righteousness in Christ, but for the obstrate refusal of it, that men certainly persist unable?

UNICORN,

In Greek, Monoceros; in Hebrew, Reem. It is much disputed among the learned, whether there be, or ever was, such a creature as we call the unicorn; or whether this Reem he the Klinoceros, as some would have it; or a cestain kind of wild poat, called Oryx, which is very learned strong, and untractoble; or one of this kind of wild oren, or builts called Uri; which some think the most probable opinion, as best agreeing with the scripture accounts of it. It is said to have but one horn, growing out of its agreeing with the scripture accounts of it. It is said to have but one horn, growing out of its forehead between its eye-lids, but as hard as iron. Job 39, 10, Canst thou bind the nateon with his band in the furrow? Moses, magnifying the strength of Joseph, says, that his horus are like the horns of unicorns; that is, his are like the horns of unicorns; that is, his strength and power shall be very great, Deut 53.17. And the Psalmist says, Thou has heard me from the horns of the unicorns; thou hast delivered me when I was in great danger up being destroyed by the power of mine enemies, Psal, 22, 21.

USURY thing above the privilegal, or that which was lent, exacted only in consideration of the loan, whether it he in money, corn, wares, or the like. It is must community taken for an unlawful profit, which a person makes of his money or goods. The liebew over for usury signifies Biting. The low of God prohibits rigorous imposing of conditions of gain for the loan of money or goods, and exacting them without respect to the condition of the borrower, whether he gain or lose; whether poverty occasioned his horrowing, or a visible prospect of gain by employing the borrowed goods.

rowed goods. It is said in Exed. 22, 25, 26, 1f theu lend money to any of my people that is poor by thee, thou shalt not be to him as an usurer, neither thou lay upon him usury, &c. dnd in Lev. 25. 35, 36, 37. If thy brother be waxen poor, and fallen in decay with thee, then thou opon him usury, &c. And in 6, 37. If thy brother be waxen poor, and fallen in decay with thee, then thou shalt relieve him, yea, though he be a stranger, or a sojourner, that he may live with thee: Take thou no usury of him, &c. This law forther that was poor, an Israelite reduced to poverty, or from a prorelyte. But in Deut, 23, 20, God seems to tolerate usury towards strangers; Unto a stranger thou mayest lend upon usury. By strangers, in this passage, some understand the Gentiles in general, or all such as were not Jews, excepting proselytes: Others think that by strangers are meant the Canaanites, and the other people that were devoted to sluvery and subjection; of these the Hebrews were permitted to exact usury, but not of such strangers with whom they had no quarrel, and against whom the Lord had not denonuced his judgments.

whom they had no quarret, and against woom the Lord had not denounced his jidgments.

The Hebrews were plainly commanded in Exod. 22, 25, &c. not to receive usury for money from any that borrowed for necessity, as in that cuse in Neh. 5, 5, 7. And such provision the law made for the preserving of estates to their families by the year of Jubilee; for a people that had little concern in trade, could not be supposed to borrow money but out of necessity; but they were allowed to lend upon 18 way to strangers, whom yet they mut upon usury to strangers, whom yet they must not oppress. This law therefore, in the strictness of it, seems to have been peculiar to the Jewish state; but in the equity of it, it obligeth us to show mercy to those we have advantage eth us to show mercy to those we have advantage against, and to be content to share with those we lend to in loss, as well as profit, if Providence cross them: And upon this condition, a valuable commentator says, "It seems as law-"ful, for me to receive interest for money, "which another takes pains with, improves, "but runs the hazard of in trade, as it is to "receive rent for my land which another takes." pains with, improves, but runs the hazard of in husbandry."

VAIN,

Isa, 3.23. in that day the Lord will take away the v. VAIN,
And vanity, are taken in several senses in scripture. (1) For that which is unprofitable without fruit. For that which is unprofitable without fruit. For Lot, 1.2, Vanity of vanities, all is vanity. All moridly things, and all men's designs, and sinder, and works about them, are absolutely vain, and insufficient to procure satisfaction and happiness. (2) It signifies empty, without any substance; as emptiess is apposed to that which is full, or heavy, or true.

1. To fulness; so premises not fulfilled are said to be vain promises. And Job calls the days of his affirction mouths of vanity; that is, empty of salid joy, peace, or comfort, Joh 7. 3. And in Psal, 2, 1, Why do the people imagine a vain thing? that is, an empty thing, without reason or hope. 2. As it is opposed to gravity; as hight and inconstant men are called vain men; in which seuse idolaters are called vain persons, like the wind, and sdols are called vanity, because of their nothingsess and impotence. 2 Kings 17, 15, They followed vanity and became vain. So in Isa, 41, 29, They are all vanity, their works are nothing; their molten images are wind and confusion.

3. As it is opposed to truth: as deceitful. They are all vanty, their works are nothing; their molten images are wind and confusion, 3. As it is opposed to truth; as deceiful men and lies are called vain men, and lies are called vanity. Psal. 4. 2, How long will ye love vanity and seek after leasing And in 2 Kings 18. 20, They are but van words; thy words come not from thy heart; thou speakest against thy invouledge. Vaiw is often put for fatse. Exod. 20, 7, Thou shalt to take the name of the Lord thy God in vain. "Thou shalt not sweat to could ma thing "that is false; thou shalt not appeal to the Lord as a witness of thy hes; or, thou shalt not take uselessly, needlessly, and without very "take uselessly, needlessly, and without very "good and substantial reasons, the name of God to witness what thou affirmest." The Hebrew word shave, which is here translated by vain, is put for false in some places of scripture; as Exod. 20. 16. Hos. 10. 4. (3) Vanity is taken for that which frustrates and disappoints a person of his end; in this sense the hope and considence of every unresentenan, man interrsidence of every unregenerate man, may just-be called vain, because it will deceive and ly be called vain, because it wit acceive and aisuppoint him at the last, when he shall stand in most need of help and comfort. It is said, Psal, 60, 11, Vain is the help of man; that is, a deceitful safeguard, a disappointing help, only feeding the espectation with a fruitless hope (4) It signifies that which is weak, and obmosious to change and corruption. Thus all (4) It signifies that which is weak, and ornoriom to change and corruption. Thus all worldly things are but vanity, Feel. 1, 2. And the creature was made subject to vanity, to disorders and destruction, Rom. 8, 20. Man also, as to his continuance in the world, is like value. as to his continuance in the worth, is like Va-nity, he is like a vapour or breath, which is gone in an instant. (5) It signifies imanity. Psal, 119, 37, Turn away mine eyes from be-halding vanity, that it, migraty, and the de-deceity luness of sin, whereby I may be ensuared, and drawn away from the truth. (6) It signi-fies foolithers; inved with inpurance indeceiffulness of sin, whereby I may be ensuared, and drawn away from the truth. (b) It signstands for folishness, found with ignorance and biridness. John 11. 12, For voin man would biridness. John 11. 12, For voin man would biridness. John 11. 12, For voin man would biridness, that foolish creature man, who since I liob. 2, 413, people shall weary themselves in the fall is void of all true undom and solid leak. 10, 2, and the diviners confort in thundledge, and judgment of the things of land, 13, 4, for he beareth at the sword in $\pi$.

tence and meaning of the law, and from seeing Valu man, does not only signify men puffec Up that Christ is the end of the law for righteousness; this vail was cast over them, for their will less and insignificant persons, without religion, with price, and juicely vanity, that also two it less and insignificant persons, without rule or conduct, as in 2 Chron. 13 7 There are gathered to Jeroboam van meu, the children of Belial. VALLEY.

VALLEY.

There are several valleys mentioned in scripture; as the vallen of Barachah, or of blessing, in the tribe of Judah, to the west of the Dead Sea, 2 Chron. 20. 26.

The vale of Siddim, Gen, 14. 3. In the Herew it is the valley of Hashedim, which some translate the vale of the fields, others the vale of chells, the Samuraint the vale of stall. It translate the value of the lieus, others are value of chalk; the Septingint, the value of salt. It was in this value that the cities of Sodom and Commerch were huilt; and where afterwards the lake Asphaltites, or the Dead Sca, was formed valley of Shaveh, or otherwise, the king's dale, Gen. 14. 17. 2 Sam. 18. 18. Shavel, is a city lying in the king's dale, over-against Jerusalem, according to Euschius. It was in this valley that Melchizedek met Abroham, at his return from his victory over the five kings, But some think this victor view was at the foot of mount Tabur.

of mount Tahur.

The valley of Eschol, or the valley of grapes,

Num. 32. 9. This name was given to the valley of the land of promise, wherein the spice of the children of israel gathered the bunch of grapes, which they brought to the camp at Kadesh, upon a pole between two men, Num.

13. 23, 24. This valley was to the south of the promised land.

e valley of Jezreel, Josh. 19, 18, This val. be valley of Jezreel, Josh. 19. 18. This val-ley extends stself east and west from Scytho-polis to the fost of mount Carmel; in it there was a celebrated city built, of the same name, much belonged to the tribe of Isachur. Alah haé a paluse there, 1 kings 21. 1, 23 and this city became famous on the score of Na-both's vineyard, and the vengeance which God executed on Jerebel at at Jezree, 2 Kings 2. 33. &c.

nope, 1105 x, 15. that is, some organitings of mercy and blessings, as the earnest and pledge, of fature favours: As this valley was a door of hope to Israel of their enjoyment of the promised land, so would God deal with tepeuting with repencing Israel at the times there posted out.
The valley of Jehoshaphat, Joel 3, 2.

are of opinion that this valley is that where king Jehoshaphat obtained so vigual a victory and with so much ease, against the Moabites Ammonites, and their confederates, 2 Chron This valley lay towards the Dead 20. 1. 2. &c. 20. 1, 2, &c. 1135 valley lay towards the bead Sea, beyond the wilderness of Tekoah; and after this event it was called the valley of blessing, 2 Chron. 20. 26. because of the solemn blessings and praises that were given occasion. Others think God in it upon this occasion. Others think that the valley of Jehoshaphat hes between the walls of Jerusalem and the mount of Olives and that it is watered with the brook Kidron which runs through the midst of this vale, There are likewise some who maintain, that she ancient Hebrews had no distinct knowledge of any particular place under the name of the valley of Jehoshaphat; and that Joel intended vativy of Jenoshaphar, and that Joet internace by it to show in general the place where Cod was in execute his judgments against the nations, and will appear at the last judgment with all the brightness of his majesty. Jehoshaphar, in Hebrew, signifies the judgment of shaphat, in Hebrew, signifies the judgment of God. And it is very probable, that the valley of Jehoshaphat, or God's judgment, mentioned in Joel, is symbolical. From this passage the Jews, and many Christiaus, have been of opinion, that the last judgment will be solemined in the valley of Jehoshaphat.

The ralley of Himmon, in Hebrew, it is Gehemmon, whence com's the word Gehemus. See

The valley of vision, Isa. 22. 1. in the prophets cal and figurate. Jerushes Jerushem. It is called a valley by Anti-heavis, because it stood upon a mountain; or, according to others it is called a valley comparatively to this higher monutains wherewith it was encompassed nigher mountains therewin it was encompassed, and the additional name of vision was given to it, because of the many and clear tisions and revelutions of God's mind in that place above all other parts of the world; or, as others will have it, because the temple of Jeiusulem was built upon mount Moriah, which is the mountain of vision (16:000).

Vineyards. There were in Palestine many excellent vineyards. Jacob, in his blessing to Judah, says, Binding his feal unto the vine, and his says, Binding his heal unto the vine, and his ass's colt unto the choice vine; he washed his garments in wine, and his clothes in the blood of grapes, Gen. 49. 11. This was to show the abundance of vines, that should fall to his lot. The sponse in Caut, 1. 14, compures her beloved to a cluster of camphire, or cypress, that grows in the vineyards of Engedt. The cypress-tree is a shrub that grows as high as a pomegranate-tree; its leaves are geds. The cypress-tree is a sorten that grows as high as a pomegranate-tree; its leaves are like show of the olive-tree, its blossom is white and sweet, and its first hungs like clusters of grapes, and its of a very agreeable seent. Thuse grapes of the cypress that came from the vineyards of Engedi were of great reputations.

tetimiioul compares his people to a vine, which he had brought out of Egypt, and planted in Palestine, as a good soil, but which, instead of bringing farth good fruit, brought forth only hitter fruit, and wild grapes, Psal. 80. 8.
15. 1, &c. He alludes to the custom of transplanting trees for their more advantageous growth. Our Saviour says, that "the "howefuller having this runwal to transce." householder having let his vineyard to tenants. "Now ought to have rendered him the fruit of which ought to have rendered him the fruit of the tit, instead of that, they abused his serimits, and killed his own Son, who went to require the proposed of the lather; his parable, the himseholder is God the lather; his planting a timepard, denotes his establishing a church among the letters had some strablishing a church among the letters and furnishing it with all needful helps and means to make it spiritually fruitful; his letting it out to husbandmen, denotes his completely and the letters, and governors of the letters and governors of the letters.

In John 15, 1, Christ says, I am the true vine, and my Father is the husbandman. I am the root, Jountain "and head of influence, whence my people and "muchas lairs his acceptant their says." "members derive life, grace, frutfilmes, and "all good; And my lather orders all thing "concerning my branches or members, by so "grafting them into me, by tisting, defending or grafting them into me, by tisting, defending

The time of Sodom, Dent. 32, 32. Their vine is the vine of Sodom: The in, a vine of a plane from Sodom, which brings forth only bitter grapes, and of which no use can be made. It is affirmed that the time trifting. is affirmed, that the fruits which grow about the is affermed, that the fruits which grow about the Dead Sea are all rotten within; and when they are opened, are full only of dust. Moses hy this would shew, that the people of Israel were degenerated, that their principles and practices were all corrupt and abominuble. To express a were all corrupt and adominuole. In express a time of public transpullity, of profound peace, it is said, that every one lives in quiet under his own vine, and under his own lightee, 1 Kings 4.25. Mir. 4.4.

outh planted the vine after the delige, and was the first that cultivated it, Gen. 9, 20. Many are of opinion, that wine was not unknown be-jore the deluge, and that this Patriach only entimed to sultivate the vine after this great catastrophe, as he had done before: But the fathers think that he knew not the force of wine, having never used it before, nor having ever seen any one use it. VINEGAR

Is made of wine, beer, eider, and even of water The ancients had several kinds of vinegar The ancients had several kinds of vinegar, which they made use of for drink. Bonz told Ruth, that she might come and dip her morsel in the vinegar, along with his people, Ruth 2. 14. Harvesters made use of this liquor for their refreshment: And this was a custom not only among the Jews, but also a custom not only among the Ro-mans. The emperor Pescennius Niger gave orders, that his soldiers should drink nothing but vinegar on their marches. And Constantine the Great allowed his soldiers wine and wingary afterwards not advantage to the contraction. vinegar alternately every day. It is thought that the vinegar which the Roman is itoight that the Singar ratio the found indices offered to our Saviour at his crucifixion, was the vinerar they made use of for their own deinking, Mat, 27-48. This vinegar was not of that sort that we make use of for salads and sances, but a small wine called pesca, or sera. They make great use of it in Spain and Italy, in harvest-time. They use it likewise on shipboard, to correct the ill taste of water. The scripture forbids the Nazarites to use vinegar, and all sorts of liquors that come from the tine, and which are capable of inebriating. Num. 6. 3.

Num. 6. 3.

However, there was a kind of strong vinegar, which was not proper for drinking, or which was not need till it was well diluted. Solomon suys, Prov. 10. 26, As vinegar to the teeth, so is the sluggard to them that send him:

"As vinegar by its cold and sharpness offends the teeth and the palate, so a sluggish mes senger is unserviceable and veratious to three who employ him?" And in Prov. 25 "senge is unserviceable and verations to three "who employ him." And in Prov. 25.20, As vinegar upon nitre, so is he that singeth songs to an heavy heart. That is, "as vine-gar being thrown upon nitre is a thing im-"proper, for it renders it less useful and not "so effectual to take out spots or blemishes, "so he that singerh songs to an heavy heart, "dees that which is unseasonable and offensive, "for his eries" is thereby rather increased, thou for his grief is thereby rather increased than diminished." .

A little serpent, about half a yard in length, but the most poisonous in its bite of all the two pean serpents. It is called Abyeva, quasi vip wara, because it brings forth its young alive. Ginerally the viper is not very long, the largest being not above half an ell long, and its thickness not above an wich. It has a flat head with a smort rising up, like that of a flat head with a smort rising up, like that of a flat head with a smort rising up, like that of a flat head several; and the male is said to be commonly blacker than the female. It is said, that when the viper hrings forth, the young ones half the dam, but this is contradicted by experience. Though she brings forth her young altre, they are enclosed in little skins, that beak open on the third day. The poison of the viper is very dangerous, but its flesh is good in many distempers.

The viper is mentioned in several places of scriptore.

The viper is mentioned in several places of seriptive. Job 20. 16, The typer's tongue shall slay him. The Hebrew word veten, they say, rainer the last the last the viper. Isatah signifies the asp than the viper. Isaah speaks also of the viper. Isa, 30, 6, where the Hebrew has Ephee; which is thought to be the speaks also of the viper. Which is thought to be to the home of the viper. John the liaptist, and afterwards our Sairour, called the Serbes and Pharisees, a generation of vipers, a wicked broom processes, who by their poisoners do not not be to the services of the servi Phaisees, a generation of ripers, a unkeen orous of vicked parents, who by their poisonous dutrines runned the souls of men, Mat. 3.7. 12.34 Job 20.16, of asps, the v. tongue shall slay bin Isa. 30, 6. from whence come the r. and serpent 41. +24, your work is worse than of a v. 50.5, that which is crushed breaks out into a v.

in Greek, Parthenos; in Hebrew, Almah. These words properly signify an unmarried young moman, that has preserved the purity of his body. In this sense we meet with it in the famous passage of Isaiah, Behold, a virgin shall conceive and hear a son, Isa. 7. 14, meaning, she would be a wirgin as well after as before her bringing forth. But sometimes virgin is made use of to express a young woman whether she has kept her virginity or no, Joel I. 8, Isament like a virgin girded with sackeloth for the husband of her youth. The more precively to express the titate of virginity the scripture often adds to the words maid or the scripture often adds to the words maid or virgio, these, or such like vords to ther had he Hebrew word Almah, signifies a person conretired apartments, where the men did not use to go: And when young women were obliged to go out, they were always vailed, and never appeared uncovered, but before their nearest relations. When Amoun, the son of David, had conceived a violent passion for his sister Tamar. the could not get prisate converse with her, because she was a virgin, and hept up very close. Sam, 13, 2, For she was a virgin, and any thought it hard for him to do any thing to her. And in the book of Vlaccabees, it is said, that when Heliodorus came to Jerusalem, to take away the treasures of the temple, the to take away the treasures of the temple, the most vecluse virgins came out of their retire-ments; some appeared in the streets, some at here windows, and others upon the walls, 2 Macc. 3. 19. And it is well known that young women in the east do not appear in public, but are shut up in their houses and in their mother's avaitments.

apaitments. I gm is often used in scripture for a people, a rity, a nation. The virgin, the daughter of Baylon, the virgin, the daughter of Easylon, the virgin, the daughter of Erach, &c. These Phrases signify the province, the land, the people of Babylon, Zion, Israel, &c. The provises of religion in general are called virgins, such as are not defiled with any soundatons sin, nor erroneous opinion. Mat. 25. 1. The kingdom of heaven shall be likened unto ten sirvins, which took their lanns. They are sin, nor erroneous opinion. Mat. 25. 1, The kungdom of heaven shall be likened unto ten sirgins, which took their lamps. They are all called vicins, because they made profession of holiness; get only five descred the name, they having not only a profession, but a true that and love to feed their profession. The others made a profession, but had not the truth of grace in the heart. The character of virgins is principally given to those that adhere steafastly to Christ, and abbor every thing that hat any shew of violating their fidelity to him. Rev. 14. 4, These are they which are not defield with women, that are not corrupted with the erroneous doctrine and idulations worship of the anti-christian church, for they are virgins: They keep close to Christ in all his ordinances, and are led by his word and Spirit, The Apostle says, I have esponsed you to one husband, that I may present you as a chaste virgin to Christ, 2 Cor, 11. 2.

2 Cor. 12. i. I will come to v. and revelations
VISIT.
God visits men both in mercy and in wrath. He visited Sarah in his mercy, and gave her a son, Gen, 21. 1. He visited the Israelites in Egypt, and sent Moses to deliver them, Exod, 3. 16.
He visited Hannah the mother of Sammel, and gave her sons and daughters, 1 Sam, 2. 21.
And he visited and redeemed his people by the coming of the Messiah, Luke 1. 68. God visits also in his wrath and in his vengeance.
He visits the iniquity of the fathers upon to children, to the third and fourth generation, Exod. 20. 5. visiting, that is, remembering, enquiring into, or punishing. He threatens to visit the iniquity of the worshpipers of the golden calf in the day of his rengeance, Exod. 32. 34.
Nothing is mere frequent in the language of the prophets, than the verb to visit, taken in the sense of punishing, chasticing, and revengting. To visit is also taken for paying visits of civility, friendship, or duty. Moses went to visit his brethren, Acts 7. 23. And Paul and Farnabas went to visit the churches they had planted, Acts 15. 36. planted, Acts 15. 36.

planted, Acts 15. 36.
Vision is a revelation from God, which among the Jews were of four sorts; [1] By the Holy Spirit immediately, Acts 9. 10. [2] By Urin and Thummin. [3] By a voice from heave spoken by an angel. Acts 10. 3, [4] By pre phecy, which were twofold, either in dreams, a

Exod. 20. 5, v, the joignity of the fathers upon the children, 34, 7, Num. 14, 18, Deut. 5, 9, VOCATION.

Fph. 4. 1. 1 beseech that ye walk worthy of the v. VOICE.

By this word is not only understood the voice of a man or beast, but all other sorts of sounds, noises, or cries: And even thander has often the name of the voice of God green to ut. Pharaoh hegged of Moses to intreat the Isrd that there ought be no more mighty thunderings, in Hekrew, voices of God, Exod, 9, 28. Unin says, Hear attentively the noise of his voice. And in Psal, 29, the voice of the Lord is frequently put for thunder. To hear or to hearken to any one's voice, is to obey him. Exod, 15, 26, If thou with diligently hearken to the voice of the Lord thy God, I will put none of these diseases upon thee, which I have brought upon the Egyptians. Our Savinar says, that his sheep hear his which I have brought upon the Expylians. Our Saviour says, that his sheep hear his voice, and follow him; that is, they obey him, they depend upon his wimistry, and imitate his example, John 10. 27. The Sponse says, Cant. 2. 8. The roice of my heloved; I hear the voice of Christ, in the ministry of the word and motions of his Spirit.

To change the worce, Gal. 4. 20, I desire to change my voice. The apostle was forced to write somewhat roughly and sharply, as in chap. 3. ver. 1. Now he wishes to be present with the indiations, and to order matters so, that if possibility.

ver. 1. Now he wishes to be present with the Galatians, and to order matters so, that if possible, he might have occasion to rejoice with them and comfort them, instead of complaining of them and reproving them.

he daughter of the poice, called in Hebrey, Bath loss than the content of the poice, all of the poices and the second of the poices.

Bath-kol, was, as the Jewish writers say, a preternatural way in which God discovered his preternatival way in which con aisovered his will to them, after the word of prophecy had ceased in Israel. The generality of their tra-ditions, and the customs of their nation, are founded on this Path-kol. They presend that God revealed them to their elders, not by any orticulate prophecy, but by some secret suspina 662

tion, or hy some tradition, which they call the daughter of the voice. They pretend, that the daughter of the voice, is a voice from heaven, heard in an articulate manner, much after the same way as the voice which called young Samuel, when God revealed to him what was to befal the high-priest Eli and his family : God then called him three times with an articulate voice; and Samuel replied in the same manuer as he would Sumuel replied in the same manner as he would have answered a man, not knowing as yet how to distinguish the voice of God, 1 Sam. 3. 4, 5, &c. Or, 1 he daughter of the roice, resembles that which was uttered fr. m. the sametuary, when the Lord spake to Moses, or answered the kigh-priest, who consulted him by the Urim and Thummim. These two sorts of voices. twered the high-priest, who consulted aim by the Urim and Thummin. These two sorts of voices, were, as one may say, the mother of that other voice which succeeded them, and was called Bath.kol, daughter-torie, or daughter of the voice, because it was, as it were, the daughter of this first voice.

The Bath-kol, as Dr. Prideaux shews, was a fan tasticul way of divination, invented by the Jews, like the Sories Virgiliana: among the heathens. For as with them the words first dipt at in the book of that port, was the oracle whereby they prognosticated those future exent whereby they prognesticated those Jutime events which they desired to be informed of; so were the lews, when they appealed to Bathkol, the nest words which they should hear from any one's month were the same oracle to them. It is said in the Talmud, that two Rabbine, defined to the them to be a supported by the transfer of the two Rabbine, defined to the two Rabbine, defined the tw is said in the Talmud, that two Radolin, de-sirous of visiting their friend Radoli Sannel, Doctor of Badylon, said one to another, let us follow the direction of Bath-kol; as they were passing by a school, they heard a young lad reading this passage of the first book of Sannel, chap. 25, ver. 1, And Sannel died. From chap. 25, ver. 1. And Samuel died. I'ven thence they concluded that Samuel was dead thence they concluded that Samuel was dead: The event justified what they had prognosticated, for they found that at that time Rubbi Samuel of Babylon had departed this life, These cannel and odd oracles were esteemed as voices

Is a promise made to God, of doing some good thing hereafter. The use of vows is observable in many places of scripture. When Jacob went into Mempotatina he wowed to God the tenth of his estate, and promised to offer it at liethel to the honour and service of God, Gen, 28, 20, 22. There are several laws for the regulation and due execution of vows. A man might devote himself, or his children to the Lord. and due execution of vows. A man might devote himself, or his children, to the Lord. Samnel was vowed and consecrated to the servere Sammer was vowed and consecrated to the service of the Lord, and was officed to him, to serve in the tubernacle, I Sam. 1.22, 28. If a man, or woman voiced themselves, or their children to the Lord, they were obliged to adhere strictly to his service, according to the conditions of the vow; if not, they were to be redeemed. The price for redeeming persons of such and such an age is particularly limited, Lev. 27, 2,3, &c. Only if the person was poor, and could not procure the sum limited, the press on your laws of the press of the procure of abilities.

f any one had vowed an animal that was clean, he had not the liberty of redeeming it, or of exchanging it, but was obliged to sacrifice it to etchanging it, out was obliged to sacrifice it to the Lord, or give it to the priest, according to the manner of his vow. If it was an un-cleun animal, and such as was not allowed to be sacrificed, the priest made valuation of it, and if the proprietor would redeem it, he added any ineproprieto noma reacon u, he adaes a sifth part to the value, by way of jonfest. They did the same in proportion, when the thing touced was a house or a field. See Lev. 27. 9, 10, &c. They could not devote the firstthey belonged to the Lord, Lev. 27. 26. What-soever was solemnly devoted to the Lord could not be redeemed, of whatere nature or quality it uas, Lev. 27, 28. Concerning the vows of the Nazarites, See Nazarite.

The vows and promises of children were roid, except they were ratified, either by the express, or tacit consent of their parents. And it was the same with the vows of married it was the same with the vows of married women; they were of no validity, except they were confirmed by the express, or tacit consent of their hubands, Num. 30, 1, 2, 3, &c.

Under the New Testament, a vow is either gene-ral to all Christians, as that which is made at our baptism; or particular and special, as when we bind ourselves to a greater endeavour, to lenve tome sin, or perform some duty. A vow, as one observes, must be made deliberately and as one costices, must be made active usery and deteoutly, for a sudden passion makes not a vow; and we ought to vow nothing but what is in our power to perform. Some vows are of evil things to an evil end; such vows ought neither to be made nor kept; of this kind was the vow or curse which the Jews bound themselves under or curse which the Jews bound themselves under, who conspired to murder Paul, Acts 23, 12. Some vows are of good things in an evit monner, such moy be made, and ought to be kept of the end; thus, we may vow to give alm, but not to be seen of men. Other vows are of good things in a good manner; and such may be made, and ought to be performed. St. Paul made a vow either of Natarticular mercy, Acts 18, 18, But commentators are not agreed. 18. 18. But commentators are not agreed whether this be spoken of Paul, or of Agnila, who is mentioned in the same verse.

The performance of solenin vows is strictly enjoined us in scripture. Eccl. 5. 4, When thou vowest a vow unto God, defer not to pay it: Perform it while the sense of thy obligation fresh and strong upon thee, lest either thou seem to repent of thy promises, or lest delays and in denials and resolutions of morpeefformere. Softomon adds, For the Lord hath no pleasure to fools; that is, in hypocritical and perfidious persons, who, when they are in six tress, make liberal vows, and when the danger is past, neglect and break them, and so discover the highest folty, in thinking to mack and ec-cive the Alliseeing and Almighty God. More, ceive the All-seeing and Almighty God, Alore, speaks almost in the same words. Deut, 23, 21. When thou shalt vow a vow unto the Lord thy God, thou shalt not slack to pay it; for the Lord will surely require it of thee. The Psolmist in several places declares that he would pay his vows to the Lord, Psal. 22, 25. 1 66, 13

WAR.
When the Hebreus drew out their armies and went in war against their enemies, and the time of hattle was at hand, the high-priest presented hunself at the head of the army, and spoke to the people in this manner: Plear, O Israel, and be not in fear of your enemies; for the Lord your God fights for you. After which the officers proclaimed aloud at the head of every troup: Is there any one here that hath Is there any one here that every troop: Is there any one here that hath huilt a new house, and has not yet inhabited it? let him depart and return to his house, for fear that another should come and live in it first, &c. as in Dent. 20. 2, 3, 4, &c.
The Hebreus were formerly a very worlide nation. The books that inform us of their wars, tion. The books that inform us of the are neither flattering authors, nor ignorant, but were authors inspired by the Spirit of truth and wisdom. Their narries were none of thuse fabrilus hences, or professed conquerors, whose business it was to ravage either and provinces, and to reduce foreign nations waster their dominion, merely for the sake of governing them or for purchasing a name. They were comments wise and valuant Generals, reused up by God to fight the battles of the Lord, and to exter minute his enemics. These were such as Joshua, Caleb, Gideon, Jephthab, Samson, David, and Josiali, whose names alone are a sufficient encomium.

Their wars were not undertaken upon slight sions, nor performed with a small number of people. Under Joshua, the affair was of no iess people. Chaer Justica, the again was or two ess importance, than to make himself master of large country, which God had given to the Israelites; to root out several powerful enemies, which God had devoted to destruction; and to vindicate an offended Deity, and human nature, vindicate an offended Deity, and human nature, which had been debased by a wicked and corrupt people, who had filled up the measure of their iniquities. Under the Judges, the matter was to assert the liberty of the Israelites, by shaking off the yoke of powerful kings, who kept them in subjection. Under Saul and David, the same motives prevailed to undertake war; and to these were added a further motive the making a conquest of such provinces as lived had promised to his people; so far was it from their intention merely to reduce the power of the Philistines, the Alumonites, the Moubites, the Idumeans, the Arabians, the Syrians, and the several princes that were in possession of those countries. countries

In the latter times of the kingdoms of Ivrael and Judah, we may observe their kings bearing t Judah, we may observe their king's bearing the shock of the greatest kings in the world, namely, thuse of Assa, the kings of Assayria and Chaldea, Shalmaneser, Sennacherib, Esar-haddon, and Nebuchadnerzar who made the whole east tremble. Under the Maccabees, the chosen people, with an handful of men, opposed the whole power of the kings of Assayria, and against all their power whiled the religion of their fathers, and shook off the yoke of their authority, who had a design both against their religion and liberty. In the latter times of their nation, with what courage, with what interpidity and constancy, did they sustain the ways against the Romans, who were the masters of the world! the world !

the world? Sut how great armics did they bring into the field? In the beginning, under Moses and Joshun, they were all soldiers, and men bearing sonday, they came out of Egypt to the number of six hundred thousand fighting men. When Joshua entered into the land of Canaan, he fought sometimes with detachments of his tro ps, and sometimes with his whole army, according as exigencies required. God would often give the victory to very small armies, to signalize his omnipotence, and to humble the pride of man. omitipatence, and to humote the price of man. For example, under Gideon, where God or dired this General to send away the greatest part of his army, and only to keep with him three hundred men, with which the defeated ar innumentable multitude of Midrantes and Amalektics. and musting of Manageries and Smarkeries. Sometimes numerous armies were brought into the field; Abijah, king of Judah, kish an army of Jour hundred thousand men, made war vish Jeroboam, king of Israel, who had to the number of eight hundred thousand: And of these eight hundred thousand, there were five hundred thousand slain in one battle, 2 Chron. 13. 3-17. Pekuh, son of Remaliah, king of Israel, in one day killed one hundred and twenty in one day killed one hundred and twenty thousand men of the twops of Judah, 2 Chrou, 28, 6. Asa king of Judah, having an army of five hundred and eighty thousand men, was attacked by Levah, king of Cush, who had an army of a million of mea: Zerah was entirely routed by the troops of Asa, 2 Chron, 14, 9–13.

We may distinguish two kinds of wars among the latter of the second of the second construction of the second collection on them are te may distinguish two kinds of wars among the Hebrews. Some were of obligation as bring es-pressly commanded by the Lord; but others were free and voluntary. The first were such as God appointed them to undertake: For example, against the Amalekties, and the Canaanites, which were nations devoted to destruction for heir sins. The others were undertaken by the their sins. captains of the people, to revenge some injuries offered to the nation, to punish some insults or offences: Such was that which the liebrews made offences: Such was that which the Hebrews made against the city of Gibeah, and against the tribo of Benjamin, which would siphold them in their foult, Judg. 20.8. And such was that which David made against the ammonites, whose king had affronted his amhousador 2 Sam. 10.1—14. Or to maintain and defend their allies; as that of Joshua against the kings of the Camaanites, to protect the Gibeonites, Josh 10.6—11. Lastly, what even just reasons may authorise a nation of Jer. 51.20. thou art my hattle-axe and neapers of w. a prince to make war against another, seems Exck. 32, 27, gone down to hell with weapons of w. to have obtained among the Robiens. War is threatened by God in scripture as one of the Sam, 22, 25, the Lord teacheth my hands to w. a. threatened by God in scripture as one of the greatest judgments, and may justly be reckoned among the many dreadful miseries which sin has entailed on mankind. The common acceptation of war, in scripture, is a he common acceptation of war, its scripture, it a state of hostility hetween nations, states, protinces, or parties, as in 1 Kings 14. 30. Luke 14. 31, and many other places: But it is taken as spiritual sense in 2 Cor. 10. 3, where the apostle snys, We war not after the flesh, that apostle sous. We war not after the flesh, that is, "We do not use outward force and strength; "hut as the end of our unifare is spiritual, so "are the means: the gospel we preach has its "effects on the minds and inward part of men; and, through the power of durne grace, "made effectual for the subduing and sunctify-" made effectual for the stomming and sanctify-" ing their corrupt and sinful natures."
