The gcd of this world, 2 Cor. 4, 4

These names are given to the prince of the Devils, who, perhaps, was the first and leader in that grand rebellion against God, whereby they all enmity against holiness, and

"ell into a rooted comity against holmess, and into eudless horror, blackness, and despair, Jude 6. Deut is put for, [1] Idols, Psal, 106, 37, 2 Chrou. 11, 15. [2] A wicked man, John 6, 70. [3] Persecutors, Rev. 2, 10.
This word comes from the Greek, Diabolos, which signifies a Calumniator, or Accuser, who accused us before God day and oight, Rev. 12, 9, 10. Hence he is called, The accuser of the brethren, Rev. 12, 10. He hath cast off all obestience to God; and likewise called Eelial, which is an Holpew word and signifies we wish which is an Hebrew word, and signifies one who which is an Hebrew word, and signifies one who is good for nothing, a libertine, one that is extremely wicked. 2 Cor. 6, 15. What concord both Christ with Belial? Also Satan, which tignifies an Adversary, or an Accuser, in a court of justice. Joh 2, 1, Satan came also among them. He is likewise called the old Scrpent, Rev. 12, 9. Because he conveyed himself into the conveyed himself into the convey when he tended the conveyed himself into the convey when he tended the Serpent, Rev. 12. 9. Because he conveyed him-solf into the serpent, when he tempted Eve; and in respect of his serpentine disposition; his poi-son is elimine ready, as in a foundain; and run-neth continually as in full streams, both against Christ and against all his members for his sake:

Units and against ait his members for his sake:
He is also crafty, wive, and subtle, as a surpent;
concerning whose subtility, see Sereent.
The most subtle of these sprits contrived a temptatim, which might be most taking and dangerous to man in his exalted and happy state: He attempts him with art, hy propounding the three him while art, hy propounding the three him whether the sprittud knowledge and pleasure, to inverge the spiritual and sensitive appetites at once. And that he might the better succeed, he addressed the woman, the weakest and most liable to seduction. He hides himself in the budy of a serpent, which before sin was not terrible unto her, and by this instrument insinuates his temptation. He first allured with the hopes of impunity, Ye shall no die; then he promised an universal knowledge of good and evil. By these pretences he ruined maceuce itself. For the woman, deceived by these naceuce itself. For the woman, deceived by these repecious attractives, suallowed the poison of the terpent; and, having tasted death, she personaded her husband, by the same motives, to devpise the law of their Creator. Thus sin entered, and brought confusion into the world. Wan, since his fall, is under the tyranny and slavery of Satan, who is called the god of this world, 2 Cor. 4. 4. because he rules in wicked men. His old enouity and haved against the scale of war continues. It is expected to the men. His old entity and haired against the souls of men continue: It is another hell to him to see them restored to the favour of God, and his glorious wrige recognition on them. He is a jealous jailor, and, if pussible, will not lead any of his captives. We scripture represents any of his captives. The scripture represents him as a strong and subtle adversary; a roaring lion that goes about seeking whom he may devour, I Pet. 5 8. It it title, the Tempter, Mat. 4. 3. implies his constant practice. He hibes tome with people, and allures others with pleasure. He is surprisingly subtle; his steepth surprise to ours; his malice is deadly; his activity and difference equal to his malice; and he has a mighty number of principalities and wavers under his command. powers under his command, metimes devil is taken for a wicked man, a liber-imetimes devil is taken for a wicked man, a liber-tine, a treacherous person, John 6, 70, Have not I chosen you twelve, and one of you is a devil? It is taken also for idets, 2 Chron, 11. 15. so called, because the devil is eminently served in the worship of them; and the spirits which were supposed to inhabit them, were evil spirits or devils; and because in and by them the days defections conference thingle. the devil oftentimes manifested himself and gave them anniers, and received their wor-ship. Their worship is an invention of the devil, for what other detty besides the devil could require human victions, like those that were sacrificed to Moloch? Devil as likewise taken for persecutors, those instruments which he makes use of in executing his wicked designs against the of in ercenting his wicked designs against the gudly, Rev. 2 10.

DEW

Is a small rain, which falling on the ground in the morning, doth keep it moist, and make it fruitful. In warm countries, and an places where it rains but seldom, the night-deus supply in some sort the want of rain. And therefore the hestowage of it is a blessing from God. Deut, 53, 13, Blessed of the Lord be Joseph's land for the death and the withholding of it, a wast 2, Sam dew; and the withholding of it a curse: 2 Sam.
1. 21, Ye mountains of Gilbon, let there be 1. 21, 16 mountains of Gliboa, let there be no dew on you. Hushai compares an army sallying upon the enemy to the dew descending on the ground, 2 Sam. 17. 12. God promiers to be as the dew unto Israel, Ilos. 14. 5. Though they were as withered and dwing grass, Though they were as withered and dwing grass, yet he would refresh and strengthen them: By bestowing upon them his grace and Spirit, he would make them fruitful and flourishing. This comparison of God's visitation of his people to dew, is remarkable in several places of scripture. Isa. 26. 19. Thy dew is as the dew of herbs; Or, thy dew is a bright dew, a dew of light and dawn. The prophet there speaks of the captivity of Babylon, as of a state of death: Thy dead men shall live; but God's visitation of his people, his favour and blessing, would recover them then shall live, out God is still allow of his peo-nle, his favour and blessing, would recover them in some sort to life and light, would make them revire and flourish again. Heavenly doctrine, or the word of God, is likewise compared to dew, Deut 32. 2, My speech shall distil as the new. My doctrine shall have the same effect

The prophet Horea, speak zz of the groduess of 2 Sam. 5, 25, and David d. so as the Lord hyporties, compares it to the early dew that 1 Kings 21.11, elders d. as Jezebel had sent to soon goeth away, that is soon exhaled by the heat of the sun, Hos. 6, 4. Brotherly luve, of the sun, Hos. 6, 4. Brotherly luve, of the communion of saints, is compared to the dew which falls upon the hill of Hermon, and reference which has a second the hill of Hermon, and reference which has a second the hill of Hermon, and reference which has a second the hill of Hermon, and reference which has a second the hill of Hermon, and reference which has a second the hill of Hermon, and reference which has a second the hill of Hermon, and reference which has a second the hill of Hermon, and the hill of Hermon, and the hill of Hermon, and t the drops of ew are innumerable, and at they fall suddenly and secretly without being perceived. In allusion to these quolities of the dew, such as were converted to Christ in the dew, such as were converted to Christ in the earliest gospel times are compared to it, Psal. 110. 3, Thou hast the dew of thy youth. It is said, Cant. 5, 2, My head is filled with dew, and my locks with the drops of the night. aem, and my tooks with the custom of lovers, who often and willingly suffer such inconveniences for their hopes and desires of enjoying their heloved, and signifies his sufferings for the heloved, and church's good: elsewhere, for a man to be wet with the dew of heaven, is a sign of misery, Dan. 4. 25. So drops, or droppings, signify, troubles, Amos 6. † 11. But dew and rain upon the land make it fruitful; so is Christ by his doctrine to his church, Deut. 32, 2.

Discerning of spirits is one of the gifts of God, mentioned by the apostle Paul, 1 Cor. 12. 10. mentioned by the apostle Paul, I Cor. 12, 10. It consists in discerning among those who sy they are inspired by God, whether they are animated or inspired by a good or evil spirit, whether they are true or fulse prophets. This gift was of very great importance both in the Old Testament, wherein it is found that false prophets often rose up, and seducers who deceived the people; and also in the New, in the primitive age of the church, when supernatural gifts were common; when the messenger of Satan was sometimes transformed into an angel field, and false another muster the accuracy Satan was sometimes transfolmed into an angel flight, and false apostles, under the outward appearance f sheep, concealed the sentiments of acting volves. Wherefore the Exangelist Delivers, saying, Relieve not every spirit, but try the spirits whether they be of God, 1 John 4. 1. See in Deut. 18. 20, 21, 22, the marks which are given by God to distinguish the true from fulse unwheti.

The word Disciple, absolutely taken, signifies, in the New Testament, a believer, a Christian, a scholar, a follower of Christ, or his Apostles; as in Acts 6. 1, When the number of the dis-ciples was multiplied, there arose a murmuring of the Greciaus against the Hebrews, because their widows were neglected in the daily minis tration. And in Acts 9. 1, Saud yet breathing out threatenings and slaughter against the disciples of the Lord, that is, against the fol-lowers of Christ.

lowers of Christ.
The name of Disciple is often set down for that of Apostle; particularly in the Gospel, Mat. 5. 1, 18, 23, 10, 1, but in other places the Apostles are distinguished from Disciples. The Apostles were chosen particularly by Christ out of the number of his disciples, to be the stewards. of the number of his disciples, to be the stewards of his most secret mysteries, and the principal ministers for propagating and establishing the Christian religion. They were two by in number, Mat. 10. 2. Luke 6, 13.

Diseases and death are the consequences and effects of sin; this is the idea which we have of them from scripture. The ancient Hebrews, who were very little versed in the study of natural philosophy, and not much accustomed to recur to physical causes, and consult physiciaus, when they were sick, imputed their diseases generally to evil spirits, the executiones of drivine vengeance. If their infirmities appeared to be beyond what was usual, and the causes of them were not known to them, they did not fail to say, that it was a blow from the arenging hand of God; to him the wisest and most religious had recourse for cure; and king Asa is blanded for Goa; ta him the wisest and most religious had recourse for cure; and king Asa is blamed for placing his confidence in physicians, when he had a very painful fit of the gout in his feet, and for not applying himself to the Lord, 2 Chron. 16.

12. In his disease he sought not to the Lord, that to the physicians. but to the physicians. Job's friends immediately ascribed all the distempers with which that holy man was afficted, to God's justice, Job 4. 7, 8. man was afficted, to God's justice, Job 4. 7, 8. Leprosies, which were so common among the Lews, were treated as diseases sent by God; the prests were the persons who judged of the nature and malities of this evil, shut up the diseased, and declared that they were healed, or had their leprosy upon them; and after their recovery they offered sacrinces, as it were to exploite for their jaulis. Miriam, Gehazi, and king Uzziah, were smitten snadenly with a leprosy; the first as a punishment for her detracting discourses; the second for his acarice; and the third for his presumption. Num, 12, 10, 2 Kings 5, 27, 2 Chrön, Có. 21. In the New Testament, the cause of many diseases to attributed to the devil. It is said there, that es attributed to the devil. It is said there, that the devil had bound the woman, who had been bowed down for eighteen years, Luke 13. 16, Ought not this woman, leing a daughter of Abraham, whom Satan hath bound, lo, these eighteen years, to be loosed from this hond on the sabbath day? In verse 11, the same person is mentioned, as having a spirit of infirmity, that is, a sore disease inflicted by the devil. We are told of a dumb devil, and of another that could scarce speak, Mark 9. 17. Luke 11. 14. that is to say, which caused these infirmities in those who were possessed by them: and whenever Christ or his Apostes had a mind to restore these indisposed persons to their health, they began with casting out the devils; for the cure immediately followed.

The Apostle Paul attributes the death and diseases The Apostle Paul attributes the death and diseases of many to their communicating uncertifying. If Cor. 11, 30, For this cause many are weak and sickly among you, and many sleep. The same Apostle ascribes the infirmities whereview to the son d. father, daughter and ye d. me Rom. 1.24.10 d., their own hodies between themselves the accidence where the six of the son a distribute of the was afflicted, to an evil angel, 2 Cor. 12, 7. There was given me a thorn in the flesh, the messenger of Satan to buffet me. It was the destroying angel that made such havork of Sennacherul's army, 2 Kings 19, 35. It was the destroying angel that made such havork of Sennacherul's army, 2 Kings 19, 35. It was the greing angel that dret his tword against the people, and smore them _stitle the freely contained from them for David's sin, 1 Chron. 21. Deut. 31.0. he will not fail forsake thee, fear not, 135

15, 16. No sooner had Abimelech, king of Gerar, taken Sarah, the wife of Abraham, forcibly away, but he was threatmed with dearly, Gen. 26, 3, 4. Er and Onan, the sons of Judah, were carried off by unknown diseases, for dah, were cerried off by unknown diseases, for having committed actions of an inflamous and detestable nature, Gen. 33, 7, 10. And the Philistines were smitten with an ignominious disease, for not treating the ark with that respect that it deserted, 1 Sam. 5, 12. There are a great number of diseases recorded in serious the high View of the way of thre, which were sent by God in the way of punishment for sins.

The diseases of Egypt, from which God promised to defend his people, Exod. 15. 26; and which he threatens, in case of their disobedience, to inflict upon them, Deut. 28. 60. These diseases with which God affireted are either the plagues with which God afficted Egypt before the departure of the Israelites, or Egypt before the departure of the Israelites, or the diseases which were most common in the country, such as blindness, ulcers in the legs, consumptions, and the legrosy, called Elephan-tiasis, which was peculiar to this country, as Pliny observes, Egypti peculiare hoc maluo

If hen Mosey published the law of God, this exit was and had their timerous and superstitions general. When one-ses published the law of God, this evil was and han beer for sometime very common in Ugypt, and han neighbouring countries; and to cure the Israel-ites of their inclination to consult diviners, fities of their inclination to consult diviners, fiture-cellers, augurt, and interpreters of dieants, Se. he promised them from God that the Spirit of prophety should not depart from among them; and forbade them, under very severe penalties, to smooth diviners, astrologers, and other persons of this kind. He commanded them to be stoned, who pretended to have a familiar spirit, or the spirit of divination, Lev. 20. 27. And in Deut. 18, 9, 10, 11, 15. he says, When thou art come into the land which the Lord thy God giveth thee, thou shalt not learn to do after the ahominations of those nations. There shall not be found among you any one that shall not be found among you any one that maketh his son or his daughter to pass through the fire, or that useth divination, or an observer of times, or an enchanter, or a witch: Or a charmer, or a consulter with familiar spirits, or a wizard, or a necromancer. God will raise up unto thee a Prophet, from the midst of thee, of thy brethreu, like unto me; unto raise up unto thee a trophec, non the unto fittee, of thy brethren, like unto me; unto him ye shall hearken. The writings of the prophets are full of invactives against the Israelites, who consulted diviners, and against the false prophets, who set up to foretel things future, and by this means seduced the people, Jer. 14.14. F.zek. 13. 6, 7.

More were several sorts of divinations, namely, here were several sorts of divinations, namely, by water, fire, earth, arr; by the rlight of birds, and their singing; by lots, by dreams, by the staff, or hand, by the entrails of victims, and by eaps. The heathens used many divinations being exerted thereto by distrust of God, and the temptations of the desit, who had a great hand in many of their auswers, Acts 16. Joseph's cup, mentioned in Gen. 44. 5, which was concealed in Benjamin's sack, the younger brother of this Patriacch, is the subject of many different conjecturer founded on the words of Joseph's officer, is not this the cup in which my lord drinketh, and whereby he divinetl? I Same guestion whether Joseph and indeed make use of this cup in forceelling what was to come;

3. ye shall see no more vanity or d. divination: Some question whether Joseph did indeed make use of this cup in forceelling what was to come; whether his people believed so, or whether this was said by them, according to the common op-nion of the Egyptians, who held Joseph for a great magician; or whether they said so to inti-midate Joseph's brethien, making them believe, that Joseph, whom as yet they knew not to be their brother, was a man very expert in the art of divining, and had discovered the theft which they had committed, by virtue of this art. All these several opinions have their defenders, il these seceral opinions have their arjenaers, It h certain, that the ancients had a sort of di-rination by cups. The eastern people say, ther old king Gianischid, who is the Solomon of he Persians, and Alexander the Great, had cups, by means whereof they knew things natural, and by means whereof they knew things natural, and sometimes even supernatural. The ancients speak of certain divining crys full of wine, or other honors, which were powered out with ceremony from the side where the handle was, and that from thence they drew presages of what was to come. Piny speaks of divinations with water and basivs, in lib. xxx. cap. 2. The manner of ah ining by the Cobbet was this. Little places of gold, or silver, or some precious stones, with certain characters any expensively now they have before their were there. tain characters engraved upon them, were thrown into it; and ofter some invocations, and super-stitions ceremonies, the Demon was consulted. He answered is several ways; sometimes by ar-ticulate sounds; sometimes he made the claracters in the Goblet appear upon the superfices of the water, and formed his answer by the order in which they stood. Sometimes he traced the in which they stood. Sometimes he traced the images of the person on whose account he was interrogated. At other times a ring was fast-ened to a thread, and held suspended over the water in the cip; the ring, by its different per-cussions, showed the several things which were inquired after.

But as to Joseph it is not to be believed, that he used his cup in divinations: he was too wise and religious to practise any thing so vain, and and religious to practise anything so vain, and so contrary to religion, as divinations, of what nature sweet they might be. He was certainly very skilful in the science of foretelling things to come; but this knowledge was not acquired; it was no curious and diubolical art, but some imperiatural faculty which God had communicated to him, whereby he procured that high consideration he was in throughout Egypt. It is not incredible that the Egyptians, and perhaps some of his own people, might think him to be truly a magician, and might have spoken of him according to this prejudice; but it does not follow, that he used a cup in divining. The Hebrick text of Genesis will bear another construction. Is not this the cup wherein construction. Is not this the cup wherein in lord drinks, and searches for so carefully ford drinks, and searches for so carefully, Or, is not this the enp wherein my lord drinks, and by which he has tried you? He will try whether you are as acknowledging as you ought to be, for the particular factors he has sheen you. This cup will serie to give a proof of your tracestimals and spadelin.

you. This cop will serie to give a proof of your ingrattined and insidelity.

Divination by the wand is taken notice of in Fizek, 21, 21, 22, and in Hos. 4, 12. The king of Bodylon stood at the parting of the way, to use divination; he made his arrows hight. Either writing on these arrows the names of cities, and countries, then putting them nute a quiter, and mixing them, and thence drawing them out, and complaine according as the norm. cities, and consistent them, and thence drawing them out, and consinding according as the names were, which were on the arrows: Or, by shooting the arrows, and judging by their flight; or casting them up in the air, and distring by their field. In the same passage, divination by the entrails of victims is taken native of; He consulted with images, he looked into the consulted with images, he looked into the liver. Is the dissolution of marriage, or a separation of husband and u.je. Moses tolerated divorces: It is words on this subject are in Deut. 24. 1, 2, 3, 4. When a man hath taken a wife and married her, and it come to pass that she find no favour in his eyes, because he hath found some uncleanness in her; then let him write her a bill of divorcement, &c. Commentators are much divided concerning the sense of these words, hecause he hath found some uncleanness, or, as the Hebrew has it, matter of nakedness, in her.

The school of Shammah, who lived a little before he school of Shammah, who lived a little before our Savour, taught, that a man could not laufully be divinced from his use, unless he had found her guilty of some action which was really infamaus, and contrary to the rules of circue. But the school of Hillel, who was Shaumah's discube transfer. But the school of Hillel, who was Shammah's disciple, taught, on the contrary, that the least reasons were sufficient to authorize a man to put axing his wife; for example, if she did not dress his meet well, or if he journ any woman show he liked better. He translated Moses' text thus; If he half hound any thing in her, or an uncleanness. Akiba, he afterned, that it was sufficient counter for a man to not away his wife. cleanness. Akiba, he aftirmed, that it was sufficient cause for a man to put away his wife, if she were not agreeable to her husband. After this manner he esplained the test of Moses: If she find no favour in his eyes; this was the first reason: the second was. If he find any uncleanness in her. Josephus and thilo shew sufficiently, that in their time the Jews believed divorce to he lawful upon very trivial causes. But nothing can justify such a procedure but adultery, whereby the marriage relation is roducilly dissolved, Mat, 5, 32.

cally dissolved, Mat, 5, 32.

That the Fhartsees explained this toleration of Moses in the like extensive manner, may be gathered from the question they put to our Satiour, Mat. 19, 3, 15 it lawful for a man to put away his wife for every cause? This they proposed to our Saviour, trying if they oudd get ony thing from him to his prejudice. Had he answered in the affirmative, he had convented what he formuly delivered on this head, Mat. 5, 32. Had he denied, they would have Secured him for contradicting the saw of Moses, Dest. 23.6, to do all this written in the book of the Deut. 23.1. Our Saviour answered neither law of Moses, that ye turn not aside therefore, and tactify charged them to the first institution of marriage, in Gen. 1.27. 2.24, Have ye nor nade, that he who nade them at the beginning, made them male and female? and so what the priest unto them, what do ye? Routh 3.4, he will tell thee what thou shalt do and mother, and shall cleave to his wife, and they twain shall be one flesh. Wherefore they are no more twain, but one flesh. Wherefore they are no more twain, but one flesh. What there, 2 & som. 3. 18. now then do it, the Lord hath spoken 31. as ye would that men should do to you, do ye. they twain shall be one flesh. Wherefore they are no more twain, but one flesh. What therefore God hath joined together, let no man put asunder. From hence he leaves them to conclude, whether it was probable that Moses, whom they so reverenced, and who was so faithful in the house of God as a servant, did give them a liberty to put assurder those whom God had joined together. Or whether they had not put an interpretation upon the law of Moses, which it could not bear, in consistency with the law of God. Our Saviour adds that Moses. law of God. Our Saviour adds, that Moses, because of the hardness of your hearts, suffered you to put away your wives; but from the beginning it was not so; that is, Moses gave beginning it was not so; that is, Moses gave you no positive command in the case; he could not make a law directly opposite to the law of God. But seeing your wicked and malicious disposition, that you would turn away your without any just and warrantable cause, disposition, that you would turn away your writes without any just and warrantable cause, and to restrain your estravagancies of cruelty and to restrain your estravagancies of cruelty to your wives, or disorderly turning them off upon any occasion, he made a judicial, political, or civil law, whereby, upon reason of state, namely, to prevent a greater civil mischief, he did so far allow of it, as to exempt them that did it from any civil punishment; but still it was a cransgression of the moral law, and so a sin against God. After which our Saviour determines on this question, according to the original law of God, and limits the permission of divorce to the single case of adultery: And I say unto you, Whososver shall put away his wife, except it be for fornication, and shall I say unto you, Whososver shall put away his wife, except it be for fornication, and shall marry another, committeth adultery, and whoso marrieth her that is put away, doth commit adultery. In the case of adultery, the marriage covenant being broken, the marriage covenant being broken, the marriage-bond is jundamentally dissolved, and it lice in the power of the purty wronged to presente it to a formal dissolution, by divorce; and then the wronged party is at liberty to marry again.

of Balaam is recorded in Numbers, chapters 22. of Balaam is recorded in Numbers, chapters 22, 23, 24. He was sent for by Balak, king of Moab, to come and curse Israel; and finding that God restrained him, and turned him from that God restricted him, and turned him from cursing to pronouncing blessings upon them, he vis-structed Balak at last, how to lay a simulating-block before them, to make them to fall. He told Balak and the Midiantes, that if they would secure themselves from the attempts that the Helivens might make against them, and obtain some advantage over them, they should engage them in idolatry and whoredom; that then they would be foraken by their that and should by would be firsaken by their God, and would come a prey to their enemics: the young women of Moab invited the Israelites to the figits of ome a prey to their element. This electrine is the same with what is called the hootrine of the Nicolainars, Rev. 2.

15. This sect took their name from Nicolas, one of the first seven deacons, of whom mention is made in Acts 5.5. He plunged himself into irregularities, as it is said, and gave beginning not only to this seet, but also to that of the Gnosties, and to several others, who, following the bent of their passions, invented many different sorts of crimes and nickedness. Among these Nicolaitans, acultieities, and the use of means offered to idols, were held as indifferent things. St. Austin says, Haves, 5. that they have their homes in common, and make no seriahave their women in common, and make no seruple to conform to all the pagan superstitions.

Properly signifies the entrance into a house. Gen. 19. 9. It is likewise taken in a metaphorical roperly signifies the entrance into a house. Gen. 19. 9. It is likewise taken in a metaphorical sense: Our Saviour says, John 10. 9. 1 am the door; by me if any man enter in he shall be saved. I am the only way whereby lost sinners may come to God, and obtain salvation: The only way of entrance and admission both into the church multitant and triumphant is by me; for none, but such as have a true and a lively faith in me, wrought in their soul by my Spirit, can be true members of my church here, much less mem bers of the glorious church in heaven. It is said in Rev. 3. 20, Behold, I stand at the door, and knock. I stand at the door of sinners' hearts, in the gospel dispensation, inviting them to repeat, and turn from their evil ways. There is the wise mention made of the door of mercy, or the time or season of grace, Mat. 25. 10. They the time or season of grace, Mat. 25. 10. They that time or season of grace, Mat. 25. 10. They that were ready, went in with him to the mar riage, and the door was shut. Inke 13. 25. When once the master of the house is rise. When once the master of the house is rise. up, and hath shut to the door, &c. By thes parabolical expressions our Saviour insimaics that there is a determinate time, whe-semust, if ever, accept of the ofer, of gaee and satteation, which, if they sup, they sill not be able to obtain of God an entrance into the king down of hearen; the door of me-ey and grace the door of heaven and glory, will be shit against them. In Acts 14, 27, we read of it door of faith; God had opened the door of faith; so the Centiles; He had caused the gospel to he Luke 13, 25, master risen, and hath shut to the d. ! preached unto them, whereby they were brought to believe in Christ, and to become members of his church.

the apostle Paul writing to the Coriothians, and telling them of the special opportunity which God had given him of doing much good by the God had given him of doing much good by the goven, uses this expression. A door is opened unto me, 1 Cor. 16. 9. 2 Cor. 2. 12. And the same aposite speaks of a door of utterance, that God would open unto us a door of utterance, that is, would afferd us an opportunity, and vouchasfe ability and courage, to preach the goopel, Col. 4. 3. Is a tame bird, which by the law of Moses was de-clured to be pure. The law ordained that when any woman went to the temple after lying-in, she any woman went to the temple after lyingin, she should offer to the Lord a lamb, a dove, or tirtle, or else a pigeon, or a young turtle, Lev. 12.6, 8.

The lamb was offered as a burnt-offering, the presen for a sin-offering. Or if the person could not afford a lamb, then instead of it she offered we pigeons, or two turtles. The Virgin Mary, to comply with this law, offered two pigeons, or two turtles. The Virgin Mary, to comply with this law, offered two pigeons, or two turtles, because she was poor, Luke 2.94. And asticus difficult for all those who came from remute places, to bring doves with them, the wriest gare permission for the selling of these hirds in the courts of that holy place, which our Saviour could not endure; and having entered into the temple, he made a scourge, and done out those who traded there in pigeons, Mark 11, 15.

Mark 11. 19.

The dove is the symbol of simplicity and innocency. The Holy Spirit appeared at the baptism of our Saviner in the form of a dove, Mat.

3. 16. to signify what Christ is, (1) In his own nature to them that come to him, namely, meek, harmless, loving, (2) In the execution of his office, even He by whom the Father is pacified, and who brings the good tidings of the assuaging the deluge of wrath, as the dove did of the returing of the waters to Nooh.

(3) What he is in the operations of his Spirit upon his people, that they are made meek, harmless, and hady as doves. Christ recommend to his disciples the wisdom of the serpent, and the harmlessness of the dove, Mat. 10. 10. The prophet Hissae compares the Israclies to a silly dove without heart, or understanding, 110s.7, 11. The dove is a defenceless creature, without gall, or cumuing, exposed to the pursuit The dove is the symbol of simplicity and inn 1108, 7, 11. The dove is a defenceless recurrence without gall, or cunning, exposed to the pursuit of men and beasts; which is able neither to protect itself nor its young, nor take precaution against those who have designs upon its sife and liberty. Thus the Israelies, notwich the contraction of Ton against those who have asset in which is and liberty. Thus the Israelites, nowbich tanding the chassisements with which God afflicted them, and the copelivities to which he had reduced them, still relaysed into their irregularities, and expired themselves again to the gularities, and exposed themselves again to the same calamities. The dove, when absent from its mate, sits solitary, and coos, or mourns; in allusion to which are these expressions, Isa. 38, 11, 1 did mourn as a dove. And chap, 59, 11, We mourn sore like doves. Nah 2, 7, Her maids shall lead her as with the voice of doves. The spouse, or church, in the Canticles is compared viten to a dove, by ream of her dovelile tenuer and disposition. on of her develike temper and disposition, because she is charte, mild, harmless, and faithful: also by reason of her dove-like condition, she being weak, and exposed to persecution, and she being near, and exposed to persecution, and given to many fears, as doves are, Cant. 2. 14 | 5. 2.

It is further observed of the dove; that the male and female love enth other, and keep fuitiful one towards the other; and, if any breach happen between them, they are presently reconciled, nifesting the same by their embracing each other. They love men's dwelling-houses, and to embracing each other. They love men's dwelling-houses, and to be in their company; and, being carried from home, will return many miles to their own houses; for which ceason some make use of them to carry etters, by tying them about their necks, which etters, by tying them about their neeks, which their friends at home untie and read, and are thereby acquainted with their mind. The dove is an enemy to carriou or ordine, and feed when the purest seed or grain, and loveth weatness and pure waters. It quickly forgets injuries, as the spoiling its nest, taking away its 5 ma.; &c. It is very fruiful, having young ones almost every month. Its feathers are of its practices, and of the light shining upon it, look like silver or gold, as the Psalmist observes, Psal 08, 13.

Psul 68, 13, Wie said in 2 Kings 6, 25, that during the singe of Samaria, in the reign of Ahab, king of Israel, the famine was so great, that the fourth part of a cah of doves' dung was sold for five Suckels. A cab held two pints and something over. Five shekels made about tuctve shillings over. Five shekels made about thelie shillings iterling. Some think that it is not incredible that they did really ent doves doing, seeing a fimile bath constrained prople to eat things as it improper and unfit for nonvisionent as this, as it implied, less, 36, 12. Isosphus and Theodoret were of opinion, that this doves doing masbougat instead of salt. The Rabbius affirm, that it was not the doing of pipeous, but the corn 114 OUUT.

in their cops, which they brought back; all filled out of the helds, author, during the singe, they went to feed. Others suppose the dove's belty, her guts and inwards to be meant here. The several species of the Dove, are the Wood-pigeon, the Lume-pigeon, the Ring-dove or Turin their erops, which they brought back a ell filled !

The several species of the Dove, are the Woodpigeon, the Iame-pigeon, the Ring-dove or Furtle, the Piccipiniua, and the St. Ihomas's Pigeon. The three first often occur in the Bible, under the names of the Pigeon and Furtle-dove, and the two last are natives of America; the Piccipiniuma being the grey and black Dove, with a white breast; and the St. Thomas's Pigeon, being the Columbo with yellow legs.

DRAGON.

This word answers generally to the Hebrew, Thannim, or Thannin, which signifies a large fish, a sea dragon. By comparing the different passages where the word tamin, or tamin is to be met with, it signifies sometimes large river or fishes, and at other times venomens and serpents, and more particularly the crovodile and whale, Gen. 1, 21, Joh 7, 12, Isa. 34, 13.

Some are described usth unge, feet, claws, crest, and heads of different figures. There is no question but there are usinged services.

DREAM.

By this word are to be understood those rain

By this word are to be understood those vain images, which are formed in the imagination while we are noticey, Job 20. 8. He shall fly away as a dream, and shall not be found; yea, he shall be chased away as a vision of the night. The Eastern people, and in particular the Jews, had a very great regard to dreams; they observed them, and applied to those who pretended to explain them. It see the autiquity of this custona among the Egyptians, in the history of Pharaoh's butler and baker, and in Pharaoh hisself, Gen. 40. 5, 8, 44.15. Nebuchadnezzar is an instance of the some among the Chaldeaus, Dan, 2, 1 5,8. | 41.15. Nebuchadnezzar is an instance of the same among the Chaldeans, Dan. 2.1, 2, 3, &c. God had very expressly forbidden his people to observe dreams, and to consult those who took upon them to explain them. He condemned any one to death who pretended to have prophetic dreams, and to forest what was to come, though what he showed so forest were to come to pars, if after this he would engage the people in idolary, Deut. 13, 1, 2, 3, &c. But they were not forbid, when they thought they had any significative dream, to uddress themselves to the prophets of the Lord, or to the hegh-priest dressed in his cyhod, in order to have it explained. have it explained.

have it explained. Wherefore in that very place, wherein God for-bid the Hebrews to consult diviners, magicians, and interpreters of dreams, he tells them, 'the people whose land ye are going to possess, consult soothsayers and diviners; but ye have not been so taught. 'The Lord' shall raise up from the nidst of you, and among your brethern, a prophet like unto me, him ye shall consult and hearken to, Deut. 18, 14, 15. The Israelites therefore were to address themselves. consult and hearken to, Deut. 18. 14, 15. The Israelites therefore were to address themselves to God and his prophets, to learn the explanation of their dreams, and the prediction of things to come. Saul, a little before the battle of Gilboa, consulted a woman with a familiar spirit, because the Lord had departed from him, and would not answer him, and discover the success of this war to him, neither by dreams, nor by Urian, nor by prophets, 1 Sam. 28. 6, 15. And we find that the Lord did indeed sometimes discover his will in dreams, and raised we were discover his will in dreams, and raised we were na we find that the Lord did indeed sometimes discover his will in dreams, and raised up persons to explain them. He informed Abimelech in a dream, that Sarah was the wife of Abraham, Gen. 20, 3, 6. He shewed Jacob the mysterious ladder in dream, Gen. 28, 12. mysterious tadaer in a dream, Gen. 28, 12.

13, 14. Inseph was favoured very early with a prophetic dreams, the signification whereof was easily discovered by Jacob his father, Gen. 37, 4, 5, 6, &c. The dreams of the butler, and the baker belonging to the king of Egypt, were explained by Joseph, as well as those of Pharaph Gen. 40, 12, 18, 141, 25. And the Lord expressly declares, that he would sometimes thus reveal himself, Num. 12, 6, 1 there be a purphet among you, 1 the Lord will make myself known unto him in a vision, and will speak unto him in a dream. In the New Testament we read that the angel of the Lord appeared unto Joseph in a dream several times, Mat, 1, 20, 12, 19, 22, that it is among the signs and effects of the promulgation of the gospel, prophetically said; It shall come to pass, that I will pour out my Spirit upon all fiesh; your soms and your daughters shall prophesy, your old men shall dream dreams; your young men shall see visions, Joel 2, 28. The prophet Jeremiah exclaims against the false prophets, who pretended to have dreams, Jer. 23, 25, 28, 29, Dreams are (1) Natural, Eccl. 5, 7, (2) Divine, Gen. 28, 12, (3) Diabolical and sinful, beut, 13, 1, 2, Jer. 23, 32.

To drink, signifies to drink liquor moderateiy, for the satisfying of thirst, Num. 6. the satisfying of thirst, Num. 6. 3. Ruth 2. 9. Sometimes it signifies to drink plentifully, liberally, and largely, so as to be merry, but nut to excess or dronkenness: Thus it is said, Gen, 43, 34, that Joseph's brethren drank and were merry with him: The Hehrew word here used often signifies to drink to excess: but it is not to be supposed that Jacob's sons should forget themselves so far upon this oversion, as to he wanting in that decency and respect which they word to one so considerable as Joseph. whom as owed to one so considerable as Joseph, whom a yet they knew not to be their brother. And in yet they knew not to be their brother. And in John 2, 10, Every man at the heginning doth set forth good wine; and when men have well drunk, then that which is worse; but thou hast kept the good wine until now. It is incredible that our Saviour waited till the guests were drunk, in order to perform the maralle which he wyought at Cana, in their favours, but did not be the same which he drunk, in order to perform the unracle which he wronght at Cana in their favour, clud in 1 Cor. 11, 21, One is hungry, and another is drunken, that is, One wants, and the other abounds: The poor Christiaus were hungry, while the richer sort had too unch, and furth liberally. To drunk, in whee parts of Scripture, tiberally. To drink, in other parts of Scripture, is often taken in an odious scase, for deinking to excess, for being interseated with lugion: Gen. 9.21, Noah drank of the wine, and was drunken, and he was uncovered in his tent. Lot's two daughters made their father drink to excess, and both proved with child by him, Gen. 19. 32, 33, &c.

14, Whosever armself of the water that I shall give him shall never thirst. Whosever partales of the graces of the Holy Spirit, which I have to bestone, and do offer in the gospel, he shall never desire and pursue worldly things as his chief happiness. It is said, Job 15. 16. That the wicked driaketh iniquity like water. his chief happiness. It is said, Job 15. 16
That the wicked drinketh iniquity like water besides his natural proness to sin, he has contracted habits and customs of sinning, so that be sinneth as readily, greedily, and delightifully, as men used to drink up water, especially in those hot countriet. And Elihu saws, Joh 31.
7, What man is like Job, who drinketh up scorning like water? Who with greediness and delight breaks forth into sconful and contempraous espressions, not only against his friends, but in some sort even against his friends, who in isome sort even against his friends,
who in isome sort even against has friends,
ing. Rab-shakeh says, that Hezekiah designed to persuade the Jews into a resolution of hold ing out the siege of Jerosalem, that so he might educe them to the necessity of drinking their own prine; that is, of exposing themselves to the utmost extremities of a siege, 2 kings ill
27. Solomon exhorts his disciple, Prov. 5. 15 to drink water out of his own cistern; that is, o content himself with the lawful pleasures of marriage, without thinking on that which was used in Eccl. 5. 18, to signify people's enjoying themselves, using the good things of this tip therally and decently; and not with penurious ness, which is base and dishonourable: It is good and comely for one to eat and drink, and to enjoy the good of all his labour. It is said ir.
Mat. 11. 18, 19, John came neither eating nor joy the good of all his labour. It is said in Mat. 11, 18, 19, John came neither eating nor and comely for one to eat and drink, and to enjoy the good of all his labour. It is said in Mat. 11. 18, 19, John came neither exting nor drinking; that is, he did not live in the common and ordinary manner, as other other mendid, but used a mean and peculiar diet; but the Son of mao came eating and drinking; using such a diet as other mendid, and conversing freely and sociably with all sorts.

Sennacherib says in 2 Kings 19, 24. Isa. 37, 25, I have digged and drunk strange waters, and with the sole of my feet have I dried up all the rivers of besieged places. I have brought water to places where there was mone before, to supply my army: and I have drunk up the water belonging to the people through whose country I have marched my armies; I have exhausted their wells and their cisterns. The prophet Jeremiah upbrads the Jews with having addressed themselves to drink; and with having addressed themselves to drink; and with having addressed themselves to the water of Nile in Egypt, and the water of Euphrates in Assyria; thereby describing the assistance of these two people, which the Jews sought for, Jer. 2. 18.

To drink blood, signifies to be satisted wethslaughter, Ezek. 39, 18, Ye shall drink the much death. David refused to drink the water which the tree valiant men of his army went and procured for him at the havard of their lives; saying, God forbid that I should drink the blood of the e men; but he poured it out unto the Lord, as a kind of drink-effering, and acknowledgment of God's goodness in preserving the lives of his coptains in 10 dangerons an enterprise, 2 Sam. 23, 16, 17. To buy water to drink, and to drink water by measure, denote the numors searcing med exverse devolation, Lam. 5, 4, Exek. 4, 11.

5. 4. Exek, 4. 11. ized's judgments are often in scripture expressed under the notion of a cup of strong and intoxicating drink: and the suffering, or enduring of these is set out under the notion of drinking such a cup. See CUP. In the hand of the Lord there is a cup, and the wice is red, the dregs thereof all the wicked of the earth shall drink them, Psal, 75, 8. Thou hast made us to drink the wine of astonishment, Psal, 60, 3. Thou hast pilled us with horror and a tonishment, as if w. had drink one positionum without as if w.) had drunk some paisenous wine. Stand up, O Jerusalem, which hast drunk at the hand of the Jenisalem, which hast drunk at the hand of the Lord the cup of his fury: Hear now this, then afflicted and drunken, but not with wine, Isa 51 17, 21. I will fill the kings, the priests the prophets, and all the anabitants of Jenua Iem, with drunkenness, Ier. 13. 13. that is with the wine of terror and astonishment, by reason of these gricrous calamities that theil

This which hash out one barch upon its back, is more commonly called Camel; the other is named Dromedary. They are both capable of very great fatigues; their hair is soft, and of very great fatigues; their hair is soft, and shorn, but about the middle of their backs, camels bare a little eminence covered with hair, a foot high upon their bunch; and Dromedaries have wgn upon their onnes, and Disnicals have we burches, and two eminences of hair, which, however, are very small; and if it be rightly considered, Drome laries and Camels are we more hunch-backed than other animals. They more hunch-backed than other animals. They have no fangers and fore-teeth; they have no horn upon their feet, for they are only covered with a fleshy skin. It is said, that when they drink, they disturb the water with their feet; some believe they do this to make the water heavier, that it may continue longer in their stomachs. They are said to drink a great deal, and keep it a long time, against their being thirsty afterward; nay, some will have it that travellers upon pressing necessities open their stomachs, take out the water contained in them. stomachs, take out the water contained in them, and satisfy their thirst with it: The stomach of these creatures is composed of four ventricles, and in the second there are several mouths which open a passage into about twenty cavities made like that serve them for conservatories of water. By the words annexed to DRY, the meaning is y the words americal to DK1, the meaning is obvious. It is spoken of land, ground, provision, waters, trees, and other things. The prophet staint specific staint specific specific staint specific speci our Saviour's mean original, either as he sprang of the Jewish nation, which, about the time of his appearing in the world, was poor, despised, and enslaved. Or, hy the dry ground, may be understood the voyal family of David, which, at that time, was poor, decayed, and contemptible. The same prophet says, chap. 56. 3, Keither let the enunch say, hehold, I am a dry tree, The Lord, by his propher, does here encourage the enunch, who, being excluded from the congregation of the Lord, Deut. 23. 1. and also by reason of his barrenness, which was often threatened as a curse, and was matter of often threatened as a curse, and was mutter of reproach among the lews, might be ready to think that he was east out of God's covenant, and cut off from his people, to whom the bless. and cut of from his people, to whom the oces-ing of a numerous posterity was promised. Yet he is desired not to be discouraged on thiss accounts, and assured that God would accept of him, notwithstanding his barrenness, and his being excluded from the participation of churchprivileges.

oring excluded from the paintspation of thatch privileges.

Alorn our Saviour was led away to be crueffed, he tells the Jews, Luke 23, 31, 1f they do these things in a green tree, what shall be done in the dry? If such exists begal me, who have deserved no such thing, but sather to be cherished and kindly entreated; what well bejuly you, who are fitted for destruction, like dry wood for the fire? The prophets sometimes compre a barren and untrutful people to a dry land. Isa, 41, 18, 1 will make the Jews and Gientiles, who are like a dry and barren wilder ness, to become fruitful. In other places, who the production of the place will be made a wilderness, a dry land, it is said to be made a wilderness, a dry land, a desert, Jer. 50, 12.

2 Thess. 1, 3. charity toward e. other aboundeth Rev. 4. 8, the four beasts had e. of them six wings EAGLE

Ace. 4. 8. the four beasts hade, of them six wings is a bird of prey, whereof there is frequent mention in serproure. It is declared, in Lev. 11, 13, to be unclean, as are all other birds of its species; as the sea-eagle, and the eagle named Ossifrage, because it brenks the houses in order to estract the marrow. The Hawk and Vulture may also be recknowled ardifferent species of eagles. It is said that when an eagle sees it young ones so well-grown, as to venure upon flying, it hootes over their next, flutters with its ungy, and excites them to imitate it, and take this flight; and when it sees them warny or fearing, it takes them upon its back, and carrier them so, that the fowlers cannot have the young without pieceing through the body of the old one. In ailusion to this, it is said, Exol. 19. 4. Thas God delivered his people out of Egypt, and hore them upon eagles' wings; and in Dent. 32, 11, That the Land took upon himself the eare of his people; that he led them out of the care of his people; that he led them out the care of his people; that he led them out of Egypt, and set them at liberty; as an eagle takes its young out of the nest, to teach them how to fly, by gently fluttering about them. is of great courage, so as to set on harts and great beasts. And has no less subtilty in taking them; for having filled its wings with sand and seem, for having filed its wings with saud and dust, it sitteth on their horus, and by its wings wish saud and dust, it sitteth on their horus, and by its wings shaketh it in their eyes, whereby they become an easy prey. It flieth very high, Prov. 30. 19. yet, in the twinkling of an eye, seizeth on its prey, whether on the earth, or in the sea. It builded his nest very high in the tops of rocks, Job 39. 27. It goeth forth to prey adout noon, when men are gone home out of the fields. It hath a little eye, but a very quick sight, and discerns its prey afar off, and beholds the sun with open eyes. Such of her young as through weakness of sight cannot behold the sun, it rejects as munatural. It liteth long, nor dieth of age or sichness, say some, but of hunger; for by age, its bill grows su hooked, that it cannot feed. It preys not on small birds, but on geese, hares, harts, serpents, and dead carcaeses. It is said, that it preserves its nest from poison, the horizont force, named Actiby having therein a precious stone, named Actiby having therein a precious stone, named Actiest said, that it preserves are nest from poison, by having therein a precious stone, named Actites, (without which it is thought the eagle cannot hey her egg, and which some use to prevent abortion, and helps delivery in women, by tying at abore to below the navel) and keepeth it clean by the frequence use of the heth maiden-hair. by the frequent use of the helo manuscrimit. Unless to be very hungry, it decourage nat the 152 whole prey, but leaveth part of it for other brids, which follow. Its feathers in quills are said to consume other quills that lie near them. Between the eagle and dragon there is constaint enumy, the eagle seeking to kill it, and the dragon breaks all the eagle's eggs it can find; and hearing the noise of the eagle in the air, speedeth to its den, and there hides himself. To provoke its young ones to fly, it flutters over them and takes them on its vines, Deut. 32.11.

Sa. 40. 31, and if they attempt not to fly, it Isa. 40. 31. and if they attempt not to fly, it bears them with its bill, and gives them no food. Being exceedingly hot and dry, it soon wareth angry, nor keepeth, but shims society with others. angly, nor keepeth, out shaus society with others. Some eagles prey in the air, some in the sea, wherein they can from on high perceive the smallest fish, and some on the land. The eagle moulters and luses its feathers yearly, at which seasons it is very feeble. It is said, Psal. 103.5, Thy youth is renewed like the eagle's; that is, thy budily health and strength continue vigorous and lively, as the eagle's doth, even till old age. In Micah 1, 16, it is said, Enlarge thy baldness as the eagle: This signifies, that they to whom the prophet addresses himself, should cut off their hair in time of mounning, should be naked and stripped like an eagle when it moults its and stripped the an eagle unent information feathers. It is said that the eagle at that season casts almost all his feathers, and falls into a languishing condition, so as neither to be able to hunt after prey as usual, nor create terror in other birds.

Other ands.
Our Saviour, in Mat. 24. 28. says, Wheresoever the carease is, there will the eagles be gathered together. Joh says of the eagle, chap. 39. 30, Where the slain are, there is she. Naturalists observe, that the common sort of eagles eat no varion, but that there is a particular species which does; that there is not one of any kind which does; that there is not one of any hind but what east raw flesh, though not inufferently of all sorts, nor that of any creature which dies of itself, but such only as is fiesh and lately killed. What Job says concerning the eagle is to be understood in a literal sense; but our killed. What Job as to be understood in Survoir makes an altegory of it, and says, that wherever there are lows, who deal unfaithfully with God, there will be also Romans, who bore the eagle in their standards, to execute God's vengeance upon them.

As the eagle generally flies most swiftly, especially when hunger and the right of prey quicken its motion: in this sense the days of men are compared to it, Joh 9. 26, My days are passed away as the cagle, that hasteth to the prey. So are riches; Prov. 23. 5, Riches certainly make themselves wings, they fly away as an eagle towards heaven. As also the persecutors of eagle towards heaven. As also the persecutors of the thurch; Lam. 1. 19, Our persecutors are swifter than the eagles of the heaven. The large of Ballylon and Egypt are also compared to an eagle, Esek. 17. 3, 7. EAR.

The ear is the instrument or organ of hearing, Eccl. 1. 8. The Lord says to Isaiah, Make the hearts of this people fat, and make their ears heavy, Isa. 6. 10.; that is, tell them that I will suffer them to harden their hearts, and stop their ears against any word. The scripture sometimes says that the prophets do what they forted only. The same pophet, speaking of temself, says, The Lord hath opened mine ear, ano I was not rebellious, Isa. 50. 5. He has given me his orders, and I shey without con tradiction. And speaking to the Jens, Thou heardest not, yea, thou knewest not, yea, from that time that thine ear was not opened, Isa. that time that thine ear was not opened, Isa. 48. 8. Thou hast rever heard any mention made of what I am going to tell thee. Uncircumcised ears, Jer. 6. 10. are ears deaf to the word of God: Their ear is nuclicumcised evergion, as it were, with a thick skin; their hearts are filled with obstinancy and impeniency, which make them incapable of entertaining any good countel. What ye hear in the ear, that preach ye upon the house-tops, Mid. 10. 27. Declare that every where, and publicly, which I have revealed to you in private. He that hath was to hear, let him hear, Mat. 11. 15. He that hath his ears opened, Mat. 11. 15. He that hath his ears opened. tate. He that hath ears to hear, let min near, Mat, 11, 15 He that hath his ears opened, that hath a mind enabled by God to believe that hath a mind enable me of these abilities what I say, let him make use of these abilities to understand and consider it. Ear is finerto understand and consider it. Ear is figur-aticely, and after the manner of men, applied to God, denoting his readiness to hear and answer the prayers of his people, Vsal. 31, 15, 116.2. His ears are open unto their cry. Because he hath inclined his ear unto me, there-Ear is figur.

To uncover the ear is an Hebraism, whereby is meant, to show, or reveal something to a person. I same QQ. 12, My father will do nothing either great or small, but that he will uncaremine ear; that is, he will shew it me. The servant who renounced the privilege of being seriali who renounces in privilege of oeing freed from servitude in the subbatical year, had his ear pierced with an and: this was performed in the presence of the judges, that it might appear that this was his own free choice, and that he was not occrawed, or compelled thereto by his master; and thewase that the inercio og his master; and invente that the agreement being so publicly and solemily cen-firmed, might be irreveable; His ear was bored at his master's door; which was a maik of servitude and bondage, and did represent his of servitude and hondage, and did represent his settled and perpetual obligation to abide in that house, and there to hear and obey his master's commands, Exod. 21. 6. Deut. 15. 16, 17. he l'salmist speaking in the person of the Messiah, says to God, Sacrifice and offering thou didst not desire, mine ears has thou opened. The Hebrew reads Mue ears has them dispatch that has moved them and made thou digged; thou hast opened them and made them attentive; thou hast given me ears to hear, and obey thy precepts: Or, otherwise, thou hast preried them, as those servants were used, hast pierced them, as those servants were used, who chose to remain with their masters after the substituted year; thou hast fitted, inclined, and obliged me to thy service. The Septuagint whom the Apostle follows, Heb. 10. 5. read this passage, A body hast thou prepared me Wherein, though the words differ, the sense if the same. That Chist might become God's the same. That Chist might become God's servant for ever, which was signified by boring of the ear, God the Lather by his Spirit ast Jarvish him with an human nanive, that so ke might perform that piece of service which Goa required, naniely, the offering up himself a bloods sacrifice for sin, to which he was obedient. EARN EST.

The apostle Paul speaks of the earnest of the Spirit, 2 Cor. 1. 22. the first-fruits of the Spirit, Nom. 8. 23. and of being sealed by the Spi spirit, 2 Cor. 1. 22. the instituits of the Spirit, Eph. 1. 13. These phrases signify the assurance which the Spirit of adoption does give believers of their inheritance in heaven. For as the first-fruits were pledges to the Jews of the ensuing crop; and as he that receives the earnost, is sure to have the full sum poid him, or the full bargain made good, when the person that gives it is honest and faithful? So the graces wrought in the soul by the Spirit of God, such as love, joy, peace, &c. are pledges of that abundance and Juliess of joy and felicity which believers partake of in heaven. Let these graces and comforts which the godly enjoy here are but first-fruits in regard of their order; they precede the full hartest: And in segard of they quantity, shey are but an handful in comparison of the whole seal and earnest: though they both imply assurance, yet they differ thus; sealing of the whole seal and earnest; though they both imply assurance, yet they differ thus; sealing especially refers to the understanding; earnest to the affections. Though the seal assures us, yet it is not part of the inheritance; but the earnest so assures us, that it gives a part of the inheritance; It works that joy in the heart, which is a foretaste of heaven, and which the saturs are filled with there.

(2) For all that rade matter which was created in the beginning. Gen. 1, 1, God created the heaven and the earth; that is, the matter of all sensible beings. (3) By the earth is meant the terraqueous globe, the earth and all that it contains, men, animals, plants, metals, waters, fash, &c, Psal, 24. 1, The earth is the Lords, and the fulness thereof. (4) The earth is often taken for those who inhabit it, Gen. 6, 13. [11. 1. The earth is filled with violence. The whole earth was of one language. Psal, 96. 1, Sing unto the Lord, all the earth. (5) Sometimes the whole earth, or all the kingdoms of the earth, signifies no more than the whole empire times the whole earth, or all the Engagons of the earth, signifies no more than the whole empire of Chaldea and Assyria. Esra 1.2, The Lord God of heaven hath given me all the kingdoms of the earth. Earth is taken for Canaan, or the land of the Jews; Rom. 9, 28. A short work will the Lord make upon the earth. He will pring a sudien destruction upon that land and people. And in Mat. 9, 26, Mark 15, 33. Luke 4, 25, the word which is translated land, is in the Greek, earth.

A man of the earth, Gen. 9.+20, Noah was man of the earth, a husbandman, or one who tilled the ground. In Psal. 10. 18, the man of tilled the ground. In I'sal. 10. 18, the man of the earth signifies a mortal, earthly-minded man, the earth signifies a mortal, carthly-minded man, who was made of the dust, and must return to the dust. Earth, in the moral sense of it, is set in opposition to heaven; things earthly and carnal, to things heavenly and sprivatual. John 3.

31, He that is of the earth is earthly, and speak th of the earth! He that cometh from heaven is above all. Col. 3.1, 2, 1 fy e then be risen with Christ, seek those things which are above, and set not your affections on things on the earth. The terrestrial man is set in oppo-sition to the heavenly, I Cor. 15.47, 48, The first sition to the heavenly, 1 Cor. 15.47, 48. The first man is of the earth, earthy, the second man is the Lord from heaven. Adam, the first public person and head of the old covenant, was formed of the earth; he was mortal and corruptible: But Christ, the second public person, and head of the new covenant, is of a heavenly descent, and has a divine, as well as a human nature. In the manner the earthly house is see in opposition to the heavenly; 2 Cor. 5. 1, If our earthly house of this talvernacle were dissolved, we have a building of God, an house not made with hands eternal in the heavens. If this hoddly hands, eternal in the heavens. If this bodily frame of nature were taken to pieces by death, there is a state of glory provided by God for the

The scripture speaks of several natural earthquakes.
One of the most remarkable, is that which was in the twenty-seventh year of Uzziah, king of Judah. There is mention of this earthquake in Amos 1, 1, and in Zech. 14 5. Josephus says, that this earthquake was so violent, as to divide that this earthquake was so wolent, as to divide a mountain in halves, which lay to the west of Jerusalem, and moved one part of it from its place four furlongs, or five hundred paces, which were y memorable earthquake, was that at the time of our Saviour's crucifixion, Mat. 27 51. Many have been of opinion, that this mo ton was perceived by all the world. Others maintain, that it was sensible only in Judea, or even in the temple, the gates whereof were thaken, and the vail rent assunder. It must have been attended with very terrible circumstances, since the centurion, and they who were stances, since the centurion. stances, since the centurion, and they who were with him, were so affected with it, and were in duced by it to acknowledge the injustice of our Saxiou's condemnation, Mat. 27, 54.

Saviour's condemnation, Mat. 27.54. In Earthquake is a great shaking, or trembling of the earth, or of some parts of it, Amos 1.1 Great alterations and changes are expressed in scripture by a shaking of the earth, Heb. 12.26. The delivering of the Israelites out of Egypt is called a moving, or shaking of the earth, Psal. 68.8. Heb. 12. 1. lay aside the sin which doth so e. beset us EAST.

The Hebrews express the east, west, north, and south, by words which signify, before, behind, left, and right, according to the situation of a man with his face turned towards the east. By the east, they describe frequently not only Arabia Deserta, and the lands of Moab and Ammon, which lay to the east of Palestine; but Assyria likeutse, Mesopotania, Babylonia, and Chaldea, which, he rather to the north than to the east of Judea. It is said, in Gen. 11. 1, 2. that the sons of Noab having but one language, departed from the east, and came into the land of Shinar. Hereupon sime difficulties have been raised; for the land of Shinar is not to the west of Armenia, where the ark rested; and Armenia des nor lie to the east of Babylonia, where the load of Shinar was. On the contrary, it is to the north of this country. Interpreters and Commentators, to diengage themselves out of these perplexities, have imagined different explanations of this passage.

Some, by the Hebrew word Kedem, or, East, have ome soy the Hebrew word neuem, or, East, have meterstood the country which was afterwards sopled by Kedemah, the youngest son of Ishmael. Others, that Kedem was used for. At the be-ginning; and that Moses intended to describe ginning, and that Moses intended to describe the particula, ame at which the first men de-parted after the delage, in order to spread them-ically into different countries. Others, that Moses spoke according to the custom of the As-sylians, who called all the provinces of their em-pire which were situated beyond the Tigris, kedem, or East; and those on this side the same river, the West, or Arab. Others, instead of, they departed or journeyed from the east, translate, they departed to go towards the east. Calmet says, that it appears to him from a great number of places in the Old and even in the New Testament, that the sacred Writers called the provinces which were beyond the Tigris and Euphrates, even Mesopotamia, Armenia and Persia, Kedem, or the East. Moses, who had been tred up in Egypt, and lived long in Arahia, in this likewise night probably follow the custom of the country. It is certain, says he, that Babylonia, Chaldea, Susiana, Persia, and a part of Mesopotania, as well as the rivers of Enphrates and Tigris, for the greatest part of their course are to the east of Palestine, Egypt,

de adds, that it is farther certain, that the people who came from Armenia, Syria, Media. Upper Mesopotamia, entered Palestine Media, and Egypt from the east-side, which was sufficient for the Hebrews to say, that these people lay to the east, with respect to them. He proves by the east, with respect to them. He process of the following passages, that these countries were known among the Hebrews by the name of East, In Num. 23. 7. Balaam says, that Balak, king of Moah, had brought him from the mountains of Moah, had brought him from the mountains of the east; that is, from Pethor upon the Eu-phrates. Isaiah says, ch. 41. 2. that Abraham came from the east into the laud of Canaan: mis and Chaldea. The same prophet says, that Cyrns should come from the east against Bahy-loo, Isa, 46. 11. He ylaces Syria to the east of Judea. St. Matthew says, that the wise men, who came to worship Christ, set out from the east, Mat. 2. 1.

All this, says he, demonstrates, that in the scrip-ture style, the East is often used for the pro-tinces which lie to the North of Judea and tinces which he to the North of Judea and Egypt, from whence, however, people generally enter Palestine by the way only of Damascus, which is to the north-east of this country. The East is the first of the four cardinal points of the horizon, where the sun is seen to rise when in the equinoctial.

EAT.
To eat signifies, [1] To chew meat with the teech to make it fit to enter the stomach, Gen. 27. 4.
[2] To enjoy, Isa. 1. 19. [3] To waste, or consume, Eccl. 5. 11. [4] To express and undo, Psal. 14. 4. [5] To believe, John 6, 56. [6] To have fellowship with, I Cor. 5. 11. [7] To feed on God's word, Isa. 25. 1. [8] To feest, Isa. 22. 13. [9] To do the will of God with delight, Isah 4, 32. It is said in Exek. 3. 1. 18a, 22. 13. [9] To do the will of Ood aith delight, John 4, 32. It is said in Ezek. 3, 1, Son of man, eat that thou findest, eat this roll. Read attentively, meditate throughly, impress the things upon thy soul deeply. So in Jer. 15, 16. 1hy words were found, and I did eat

15. 16. Thy words were found, and I did eat them.

In John 6. 53, 56. our Saviour says, Except ye eat the flesh of the Son of Man and drink his blo d, ye have oo life in you. Except ye partake of those benefits which I purchased by my sufferings in my human nature, ye have no rpirinal life, nor communion with lood, but continue in your sins, and shall not partake of sternal life. Again: Ile that eateth ory flesh, and drinketh ory blood, dwelleth in one, and I in him. There is an intimate union and communion between us, he having a constant dependance upon me for life, which is his dwelling in me; and I giving out a constant influence and guickening visius to make him live, which is my dwelling in him. And in John 4. 32. he says, I have something to do which I prejer before badily food, namely, to bring these Samaritans to believe in and own me for the true Messiah.

The Psalmist says, Psal. 69. 9. The zeal of the Psalmist says, Psal. 69. 9, The zeal of thine house hath eaten me up: That fervent passion which I have for thy house, and service, passion which I have for thy house, and service, and glory, and people, hath eshausted my natural moisture and vital spirits. The spootle charges the Corinthians not to eat with a brother that is a fornicator, or covetous, or an idolater; nut to entertain any unnecessary familiarity with him, I Cor. 5. 11. Hosen speaking of the priests, says, The yeat up the sin of my people, Hot. 4. 8. They feast upon, and pumper themselves with those sacrifices which my people ofter for their sins, and are greedy after them, and do neither detire nor Pad. 2. 2. 6. the meek shall a god hate' cd

The ancient Hebrews did not eat indifferently with all sorts of persons; they mould have pel-luced and dishonoured themselves in their own opinion, if they had eaten with people of another opicion, if they had eaten with people of abother religion, or of a profession that was odious and in disripute. In the partiarch Joseph's time they neither ate with the Egyptians, nor the Egyptians with them, Geo. 43, 32. In ow Sation's time they did not eat with the Samaritans: For the Jews have no dealings with the ritans: For the Jews have no dealings with the Samaritans, John 4. 9. And the Jews were very much scandalised to see that Christ made no scruple of eating with publicans and sinners? Why eateth your Master with publicans and sinters? Mat. 9. 11. As there were sevent sorts of meats, the wee wherefor was not allow them, they could not conveniently eat with those who pariook of them, for jear of contracting wome pollution by touching them, or less by accident any part of them should fall upon them. Before they set down to table, they are tery before they set down to table, they are tery cident any part of them should fall upon them. Before they sit down to table, they are tery careful to wash their hands: they speak of this practice as a ceremony that is essential and stretch obliging.

had among themselves some order and government, and had doubtless some whom they owned as their teachers and rulers, as heads of tribes and families; hence, when the Lord series of the Moses to bring the children of Israel out of Egypt, he says, Exod. 3. 10, Go and gather the elders of Israel together, and say anto them, the Lord hath visited you, and seem that is done to you in Egypt. These elders were men of experience, wisdom, and gravity, and of authority among the people.

But the first institution of courts of judicature, was in the wilderness; when lethro brought back Xipporah to Moses, who was then encamped at the first institution of courts of judicature, let be first of mount Sinai. Moses having reluted all that the Lord had done for the Israelites, Jethro blessed God for it, offered burnt-offerings, and peace-offerings, and did eat with Moses, Aarou, and the elders of Israel, before the Lord. The next day, Moses taking his seat in order to judge Israel, continued from morning to evening employed in this manner. Jethro remonstrated to him, that this was a fatigue above his strength to undergo, and would be tiresome both to himself and the people; that therefore he should choose some people; that therefore he should choose some men of firmness and justitude, who feased God, and hated covetousness, that they might share with him in the weight of government; that the cognizance of lesser affairs should be referred to significance of tesser appairs summa we referred to them; and those of more consequence should be reserved to himself. Moses submitted to this udvice, and chose certain men of merit ont of all Israel, whom he appointed to have rule over a'l Israel, whom he appointed to have rule over the people; were over a thrusand, others over an hundred, fifty, and ten. They administered justice to the people; and when any thing of greater difficulty than ordinary occurred, they referred it to Moses, Exod. 18. 1, 2, 3, &c. The commission given to these judges is recorded in Deut, 1, 16, 17.
Afterwards, we have the particular appointment of God concerning this, Num. 11. 11, 12, 13, &c. Moses, being discoveraged by the continual murmurings of the Israelites, addressed himself to God, and desired to be relieved from some vari desired to be relieved from some part of the burden of government. Then the Lord said to him, Gather unto me seventy men, of the elders of Israel, whom thou knowest to be the elders of the people, and officers over them; and bring them to the tabernacle of the conand bring them to the tabernacie of the congregation, that they may stand there with thee. And I will come down and talk with thee there; and I will take of the spirit which is upon thee, and will put it upon them; and they shall hear the burden of the people with thee, that thou bear u not thyself alone. There the the shall be shall that thou bear it not thyself alone. I nese elders, which composed the Senate belonging to all the tribes in general, sat with the Leader, Judge, or King, who presided in this court. Thus we read, Deut. 27. 1, Mores, with the elders of Israel, commanded the people, saying, S.c. And, afterwards, the elders of the congreelders of Israel, commanded the people, saying, $c. And, afterwards, the elders of the congregation, consult how to supply the remoinder of the Benjamites with wires, Judg. 21. 16. And the elders of Israel gathered theoselves to gether, and came to Sannel to Ramah, I Sam. 8. 4. 10. 14.

The Rabbins and interpreters give the following account of courts of judicature among the Jews.

(1) There were three judges in every city, who had the cognizance of lesser faults: Matters concerning loss, gain, and restitution, were pleaded before them. These three judges had a right only to condemn criminals to be whigh; the yorties named their judges; one of the parties chose his judge; the other named a second; and three two judges took a third, with whom they decided causes. This tribunal was consulted about the intercalation of months.

non-time causes. This tributal was consulted about the intercalation of months.

(11) There was another court composed of three and wenty judges, who decided matters of importance, and of a more criminal nature and 159 their sentences were such as generally af-fected the lives of persons; no causes being brought before them, but such as deserved the preadity of death. Some say, that they could peaaity of death. Some say, that they could only sentence to death by the sword.

(1) Their great council, or Sanhedrim, which consisted of seventy senators, and which had the cognizance of the most important affairs of state and religion, and of those which concerned the king, or high-priest. It was intended as a court of appeal, if there should be occasion, from any of the inferior courts. Some think that our Saviour alludes to these two last courts, when he case Mat 5 00 Whosever is at 1, when he says, Mat. 5. 22, Whosoever is angry with his brother, without a cause, shall be gry with his ordiner, without a cause, shain to in danger of the judgment; and whosoever shall say to his brither, Raca, shall be in danger of the conneil; but whosoever shall say, Thou fool, shall be in danger of hell-fire. say, Ann Jon, Shall be in ladiger 31 fletile. Some interpreters suppose that our Lord proportions the provishments in the next world, according to the different courts of judiciature at Jerusalem. Therefore they say, the judgment means that court where the judges were three and twenty, and who rould only sentence to death by the sword: The council alludes to the court where the seventy elders sat, which was the great Sanhedrim, and could puntsh by stoning to death:
And that, by hell-fire, the burning of the greatest malejactors in the valley of Hunom, is implied.

As to the Sanhedrian, it was limited to the place is to the Sanhedrin, it has limited to the place where the ark of God stood. The Jews sny, that in the time of Moses this council was held at the door of the tabernacle of the testimony, its soon as the people were in possession of the land of promise, the Sanhedrim followed the tubernacle. It was kept successively at Gilgal, at Shiloh, at Krijath-jearim, at Nob, at Gibeon, in the house of Obed-edon; and lastly, it was settled at Jerusalem, till the Babylonish capat Babylon. After the captivity it was kept up at Babylon. After the return from Babylon, it continued at Jerusalem, to the time of the strontinued at Jerusaien, to the time of the Scienti, or Assassius; these were certain rob-bers, who appeared in Judea some time before the war of the Jews against the Romans. They were called Sicarii, from Sica, a dagger; because they carried daggers secretly about them, so as to be perceived, and mixing themselves with the multitude of people that came to the great feasts at Jerusalem, they stabled whom they thought fit; and then were commonly the first to cry out murder, as Josephus relates. The Jews, cry out murder, as Josephus relates. The Jews, finding that these profigate writehes, whose number increased every day, sometimes escaped punishment by the Javour of the president, or judges, removed the Sandedrio to Hanoth, which were certain abodes situated, as the Rabbins say, upon the manutain of the temple. Afterwards they removed to Jamnia; thence to Afterwards they removed to January, nence to Jericho, to Uzzah, to Sepharvaim, to Bethsa-nim, to Sephoris, last of all to Tiberias, where they continued to the time of their utter extinc-tion. This is the account the Jews give of the tion. This Sanhedrim.

hat the scripture says of this court is found in Deut, 17, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, If there arise a matter too hard for thee in judgment (speaka matter too nard for thee in Judgment (1964), ing to the inferior magnitrates) between blood and blood, between plea and plea, and between stroke and stroke, being matters of controversy within thy gates; then shalt thou arise, and get thee up into the place which the Lord thy (load shall choose. And thou sail come many control of the latest the control of the latest the get the up into the place which the Lord thy God shall choose. And thou snalt come unto the Priests, the Levites, and unto the judge that shall be in those days, and enquire; and they shall shew there the sentence of judg ment. And thou shalt do according to the seotence, which they of that place, which the Lord shall choose, shall shew thee, &c. By this it appears that the chief Conductor, Judge, King, High-priest, or whoever was at the head of their affairs, was to be the president of this court. The rest of the judges seem to have consisted chiefly of the Priests and Levites, though there were among them wise and learned men of other tribes, as is acknowledged by the Jewish and most other writes. er writers.

In process of time, as their kings came to be idolative, this ordinance, among others, was neglected. For we find Jehoshaphat restoring it, at the same time as he did the courts in very city, 2 Chron. 19. 8, 9, 10, 11. In this passage we find, that, if the couse was of a spiritual, or ecclesiastical nature, the High-priest was the chief judge; if otherwist, a chief justice, who sat in behalf of the king: And behold, Amariah, the chief-priest, is over you in all matters of the Lord; and Zebadiah, the ruler of the louse of Judah, for all the king's matters.

of Indah, for all the king's matters.

Some think it probable, that in causes ecclesiasts cal, the court was made up of the High-priest, and the Chief-priests, or Ileads of the finer and twenty courses only: and that in matters purely temporal, the supreme magistrate, with the princes, elders, and scribes, who were decurse the larg, either hy himself, or his deputy, twok cogvices. princes, elders, and suribes, who were doctors of the law, either hy himself, or his deputy, took cognizance. And that, where any one was accused of crimes relating to religion and state both, the Judges, in each of these faculties, sat to hear the cause. So, at the trial of our blessed Lord, Joseph of Arimathea, a rich man and a coun sellor, probably one of the seventy elders, was one of them who sat as Judges; but did not give in the sentence of condemnation. one of them who sat as Judges; but did not join in the sentence of condemnation; He consented not to the counsel and deed of them, sented not to the counsel and deed of them, Luke 23. 51.

This conneil, at their return from the captivity, was restored, with the rest of their common-wealth, as the prophet Excited forcival it should, Ezek. 44. 23, 24. The Priests, the Levites, shall teach my people the difference between the unclean and the clean. And, in contro-versy, they shall stand in judgment; and they shall judge it according to my judgments, some are of opinion, that the origin of the San-heltim is by no means to be depended upon; for the council of the seventy elders exublished by Moses, was not what the Jews mudeststand for the council of the seventy elders established by Moses, was not what the Dews understand by the name of Sanhedrim. Besides, say they, we cannot perceive that this establishment sub-sisted either under Joshua, the Judges, or the Kings. It's find nothing of it after the cap-tivity, till the time of the Maccabees. Only we are certain, that this Senate was in heing in the time of our Saviour, and when the Evan pelisis worse their soules, since they are menin the time of our Saciour, and when the Ewan gelists wrote their gospels, since they are mentioned in their writings: But then their authority was much lessened; for after the banishment of Archelaus, the Romans, having reduced Judea into a province, assumed the power of life and death to themselves adone: So that this council could proceed no fasther than to condemnation. For execution, they were to apply to the Roman Governor.

The places where the Hebrus's held their courts of judicature were, generally, one of the gates of the city. See GATE. As the merits of every sease were to turn upon the evidence given; see the vity. See GATE. As the ments of every eause were to turn upon the evidence given; see what rules the law lays down in reference there, unto in Deut. 17. 6. 19. 15, and what is soud in relation to false witnesses, Deut. 19. 16, 17, 18, 19. It was likewise a part of their law, that no more should be condemned without being brought to a fair trial, and hearing what he had to say for himself. And therefore Nicodemus says to the chief Priests and Pharisees, Doth our law indee are man before it hear him.

says to the chief Priests and Tharises, Doth our law judge any man before it hear him, and know what he doeth? John 7. 51, the method of proceeding in the Sanhedrim is said to be this: They who had a mind to implead any one, applied either to the king, or the high-priest, or whoever filled the post of Chief Justice, and informed against him. Upon this, proper officers were sent to take him up; and if occa-

officers were sent to take him up; and ty occasion required, a detachment from the temple-guard went along with them. The person thus taken was examined by the Justice, and then committed, either to prison, or to the custody of the officer of the guard, till his triul came on. When the court sat, those who brought the information against the criminal, did it in these words: I his man, having done so or so, is worthly to die, And they who were to defend him, answered, This man is not worthly to die; for he has only done so or so. And when the pleadings on both sides were pnished, the Judges gave their opinions singly, whether he was guity or not: And according to the majority of votes, one way or the other, the culprit was acquitted or condemned. or condemned.

The elephant is the largest of all four-footed heasts. They who have studied the nature of the elephant with most accuracy, tell many extraordinary things of the sagacity, faithfulness, prudence, and even understanding of this extantion. Plany says of this animal. Maximum ture.

animal est Elephas, proximumque lummanis son-sihus: quippe intellectus illis sermonis patral. &cc. Hitt, Nat, lih. 8. It has been aften of served to do such thing as are much above the capacity of other beasts. The Hebrews seer generally to have described it under the name of Behemoth, which signifes in general, beasts of service. The word Elephas may be derived from Aleph, which signifes in justice, have even service. Ine word Elephas may be acrived from Aleph, which signifies, to instruct, by reason of the docility of the animal; ar from Eleph, which signifies a head, or captain; because it, Elephant is, as it wore, the head of all othe. terrestrial animals.

terrestrial arunals. The Lord, speaking to Job, describes the Elephan ar Lehemoth, Jub 40. from verse 15, to the ear of the chapter. It is there said, that he catch grass as an ox. This agrees well with what historians relate of the elephant. He does not feed upon carrion, and is not at all wild; hay herbi, and legionent, are his nourishment, or they are of our tame beasts.

they are of our tame ocasis, lis bones are as strong pieces of brass, and his small bones like bars of iron. These hyperbo-lical expressions show the extraordinary strength of the elephant; with one stroke of his trunk he kills a camel or an horse. An elephant, it is said, has been seen to draw two cast cannons five said, has been seen to draw two cast cannons fine hundred pocess with his teeth; they were Jastene logether with cables, and weighed each thire thousand pounds. And there is myrtion in the Maccabees of an elephant in Anti-chins armo, which carried two and thirty armed men. They were all in a toner made of very said wood, upon the elephant's back, and the tower was harm? with a were uture chain under the ele bound with a very strong chain under the ele phant's belly.

le is the chief of the ways of God. He is a remarkable piece of the creation among four-footed beasts. He exceeds all others in size, strength, docility, address, fidelity, agility, long life, modesty and pudicity; for, it is rand, that he never covers the female as long as any one appears in sight. The scripture adds, that God appears in sight. The scripture adds, that God who made him, can make his sword to approach unto him. Though he be so strong and terrible, yet God can easily subdue and a has ar, God hath put his sword into his hands, hath trusted him with his arms; the elephant attentible when provoked. His arms are his trunk and his teeth. His teeth are the ivery, so trunk and his teeth. His teeth are the ivery, so well known in Europe, urely the mountains bring him forth grass where all the beasts of the field play. Ele phants are the gentlest of animals; they never use their strength but when they are compelled to it. They are not of that sort of enimals which create terrar in others: If he passes through a herd of other beasts, he puts them gently out of his way with his trunk to make room for him; He jeeds in the fields and medows, and the weakest and tamest animals what dows, and the weakest and tamest animals plus with impunity before him.

with impulity defore him, le lieth under the shady trees, in the covert of the reeds and fens. This also agrees well with the elephant, according to the account that his terians give of him. Allan says, that he may be called an animal of the marshes, because he lives among waters, and in moist places. He sometimes plunges himself into rivers in such a manuer, that no more of him is to be seen than the end of his trunk: In the summer time, he covers himself with mud, to avoid the

e drinketh up a river, and hasteth not : e drinketh up a river, and hasteth not: he trusteth that he can draw up Jordan into his mouth. This also may be fitly applied to the elephant; he drinks a great deal, and large draughts, as if he were to smallow up a river, and as if Jordan were scarcely sufficient to satisfy his thirst: he is not afraid when he drinks, but does it leisurely, and takes time to disturb but does it leisurely, and takes time to disturb the water which he dishleth. The scripture adds, He taketh it with his eyes, his nose pierceth through snares. When he sees the waters of a river, he tusteth that he can drink them all up: his eye is higger than his belly, as commonly said. He thrusteth his snout also into the tiver, and if there he any snares laid for other creatures, he breaks them to pieces, But other translate this terse. Can any man take him in his eyes, or pierce his unse with snares and gios? Can he be taken opinly and by force? Sucely no. His force or strength is tow great for man to reitst or overcome. Others thus, He is taken by the eyes as Asis is taken by a hook. Serpents attack elephants principally in the eyes, as Pliny observer. The same author suys, that three are serpents in the Ganges, strly yards long, who take elephants by the trunk as they are drinking, drag them olong, and drown them in the waters, Plin. 46. H. cap. 12.

Some understand by Behemoth, a creature called This proposition of Petermon, a creature cattle amphibious creature, and lives and preys both is an amphibious creature, and lives and preys both in the water and on land. This animal, say they, was well known to Job and his friends, as they, was well known to 500 and his friends, as being frequent in the adjacent parts; and the description here given of the Behemoth, is very applicable to the Hippopotamus.

The end signifies the extremity or utmost part of a thing, as the end of a rod, 1 Sam. 14. 27. The end of an heap of corn, Ruth 3. 7. The ends of the earth, that is, The extremities, or most remote parts of the world, Job 37. 3. [38, 13, or the people inhabiting those parts, 1 Sam. 2. 10, The Lord shall judge the ends of the earth. He shall end the result the test. earth, He shall condemn and punish the l'hi listines, who dwelt in the utmost borders of the land of Canaan, upon the sea-coast. And in I'salm 98.3, All the eods of the earth have seen the salvation of our God; that is, All the inhabitants of the earth from one end to two other. End is taken for the conclusion, the suce or substance of a discourse, Eccl. 12.+13, Let us hear the conclusion of the whole matter; or the end of the matter. It is also taken for restruction, Gen. 6.13, The end of all flesh is come before me. I am resolved to destroy man and beast. And in Amos 8.2, The end of their utter and final overthrow. And in Alat. 24. 6, our Saviour prophesying of the destruction of Jerusalem, and of the temple says to his disciples, Ye shall hear of wars and rumours of wars, see that ye be not troubled, for all these things must come to pass. inhabitants of the earth from one end to the other. End is taken for the conclusion, the sure and rumours of wars, see that ye be not froun led, for all these things must come to pass but the end is not yet. The destruction of Jerusalem is not presently: Or, though God shall bring remarkable judgments upon that place and people, yet he will not utterly destroy them; Or by end, here may be understood the h Nev. 21. 6. Christ says, 1 am the beginning and the eml: I made all things at first, and I will bring all to that perfection and happiness I here promised, And it is said, Rom. 10. 4. Christ is the end of the law for righteonsness to every one that believeth; that is, The law was given for this end, that sinners being thereby brought to the knowledge of their sins, and their lost to the knowledge of their sins, and their lost and undone estate, by reason thereof, should fly to Christ and his righteousness for refuge. Or, to Christ and his righteousness for refuge, Or, Christ is the perfection and consummation of the law. He perfected the ceremonial law, as he was the Substance, whereof all the ceremonies of the law were shadows; they all referred to him as their scope and end. He perfected also the moral law, both by his active obsdience, fulfilling all the righte-unress thereof; and by his passive obedience, bearing the curse and junishment of the law, which was due to us. 10 215 to ut.

1 Tim. 1. 5. We truly accomplish the law by fulfilling the precept of love; for love is the follfilling of the law, Item. 13. 10. The main scope and design both of law and gospel, is to produce a pure, ardent love of God, and of men, for his sake. There is also mention of the end of faith, 1 Pet. 1. 9, Receiving the end of your faith, even the salvation of your souls; that is, receiving that which is the scope, or mark to which faith tends, or which is the reward of faith, namely, the assurance of the salvation of your souls. To endure to the end, Mat. 10. 22. is to fight against in and emptations as long a one lives, and constantly to adhere to Christ, in spite of all persecutions for his sake. End is asso taken for reward or wages, Rom. 6. 21, For the end of those things is death. Let nal death is the reward or wages of sin. The end of the commandment is charity, or love, wages of sin.

Is an evil affection of the heart, which makes men grieve and fres at the good and prosperity of others. Psal. 73. 3. Rachel envied Leah, be-cause of her fruitjulness, Gen. 30. 1. Joseph was envied v/ his brethren, because his father loved him, Geo. 37. 11. The Jews envied Paul and Barnahas, because they preached Christ, Acts 13. 45. From the soul of other cased loved him, Geo. 37, 11. The Jews enried Paul and Barnabas, because they preached Christ, Acts 13, 45. Euvy at the good of others, and malice, wishing them cut, as one observes, it a deep pollution of spirit. This absolutely alienates men from the nature and life of Godr, for the clearest conception we have of the Deity is, that he is good, and does good. This is not only contrary to supernatural grace, but to natural emissione, and trying amonistic a devilonly contrary to supernatural grace, but to na-tural conscience, and turns a man into a devil. This vice is immediately attended with its punishment. The envious man is his own tor-mentor. Envy slayeth the silly one, Job 5. 2. Linvy is the rotteness of the bones, Prov. 14. 30. Besides, this stops the descent of divine blessings, and turns the petitions of the envious into imprecations against themselves. HPHOD

Was a sort of ornament, or upper garment, worn by the Hebrew priests. There were two sorts of viphods, one of plain linen for the priests and another embradered for the high-priest. That for the high-priest was composed of gold, blue, pupple, erimson, and twisted cotton; that is, it was a very rich composition of different colories. Upon that part of the ephod, while came upon the two shoulders of the high-rest were two large previous stinces, upon which were engraren the names of the twelve triches of Israel, upon each stone as names, Exod. 28 4, 5, 6, d.c.

There, where the ephod crossed the high-priest's here, where the ephod crossed the high-priese's

the, where is ephode crossed the imperprise s be east, was a square or nament, called the breast plate, wherein trelve precious stones were set, with the names of the twente tribes of strad sugraved on them one on each stone. The apper of gold to that part of the ephod which was on Rom. 16, 22, 1 Tertius who wrote this e. salute you the shoulder; and the loner side of it, by blue 1 Cor. 5, 9, I wrote to you in an e, not to company laces, to the girdle of the ephod; for which was some it had four rings of gold, at the four coners; that being all fifty joined together, it might appear like one entire garment, Exo. 2 Cor. 3, 2, ye are our e, written in our bearts nugli appear like one entire garment, Exo. Col. 4, 10, when this e, is read amongst you, like—ye had accordingly, the whole was sometimes called and understood by the single word Ephod, I Sam. 30, 7, 10s. 3, 4.

We Ephod worn by common priests, which was of linen only, was of the same estent and use, but neither so rich, nor so much adorned. This garment was worn sometimes by those who, strictly speaking, were not priests; as by Samuel in the 2 Cor. 3, 1, or need we, of commendation to you but neither so rich, nor so much adorned. This garment was won sometimes by those who, strictly speaking, were not priests; as by Samuel in the tabyenacle, when he was but a child, I Sam. 2 18. and by David when he brough the ark from the house of Obed-edom to Jerusalem. 2 Sam. 6, 14. But, as both these were holy occasions, it is probable the Ephod was properly an holy robe; and never nor by any, but those who served in s me holy employment.

Some affirm, that the Jewish kings had a right to wear the Uptod, and to consult the Lerd by Urim and Thummia. They ground their opinion principally on what is said concerning David, I Sam. 30, 7, when he came to Ziklag, and found that the Amalekites had pillaged the city, and earried away his and his pe ple's wives, he said to Abiathar the high-priest, Bring me hither the Ephod, and Abiathar brought thither the Ephod, and Abiathar brought thither the Ephod, and Abiathar this troop? And he answered him, Pursue.

But the generality of Commentators are of opinion that neither David, Saul, nor Joshua, nor any other prives of Israel, dressed themselves in the high-priest? Ephod, in order to consult God of themselves, and that the passage now related significant of the property of the property is a letter or writing, wherehy one person commu-nicates his mind to another at a distance; thus David communicated his mind to Joad in a letter which he sent by the hand of Uriah, 2 Sam, 11. 14. The holy Apostles likewise communicated to the church by epistles the mind and will of God, according as the Holy Spirit tuspired and directed them, which inspired epistles make a part of the Canon of the holy reciptures. And the whole word of God may be catled his epistle, because therein he has declared and revealed his mind and will to mankind. The apostle Paul writing to the Coriothians says, cutied his epistic, occause interime has actioned and revealed his mind and will to mankind. The apostle Paul writing to the Coriothians says, Ye are our epistle written in our hearts, known and read of all men. Forasmen as ye are manifestly declared to be the epistle of Christ mioistered by us, written not with mk, but with the Spirit of the living God, not in tables of stone, but in fleshly tables of the heart, 2 Cor. 3. 2, 3. that is, You are my epistle of cammendation; your conversion to Christianity is a real commendation of my ministry, and a demonstration of its efficacy. You are written in my heart; I have a hearty affection for you: Nor are you only taken notice of by me as a famous chiuch, but all Christians look upon you as a church, to the planting and watering of which God hath blessed my labourt. And it appears that ye are our epistle in that it is evident that Christ has written his law in your hearts, by my ministry, which was in that it is evident that Christ has written his Lev. 5. 18. concerning ignorance wherein he e. law in your hearts, by my ministry, which was Num. 15.22. ye have c, and out observed these co made effectual to this end by the Holy Chost. 1 Sam. 26.21. behold, I have e. exeredingly

ESPOUSED.

Espousing, or betrothing, was a promise of marriage made by two persons each to other, at such a distance of time afforwards. This was done either by a formal writing ar contract in 1 Thes. 3. 2, we sent Timothy our brother to e, you presence of wienesses. Or without writing, by the man's giving a piece of silver to the bride 1 Thess, 2. 17, s. you in every good word and work lefore witnesses, and saying to her, Receive 3, 3, the Lord shalls, you, and keep you from evil 168

After the Janu. 5, 8, he ye also patient, s, year hearts marriage was thus contracted, the young people 1 Pet. 5, 10, the God of all grace s, settle you had the liberty of seeing each other, which was ESTABLISHED, STABLISHED.

hid the tiderity of seeing each other, which was not allowed them before.

We read, Mat. 1, 18, that when Mary was esponsed to Joseph, before they came together, she was found with child of the Holy Ghost. God would have his son to be born of a hetrothed God would have his son to be born of a best othed virgin, (1) That he might not be under the reproach of illegitimates. (2) That his mother might not be subjected to the punishment of the judicial law. (3) That by the genealory of Joseph, of whose kindred Mary was, her pedigres might also be shewed. (4) That Christ might have a guardian in his infancy. The mion of believers with Christ is expressed under the notion of a marriage, Isa. 54. 5. Hence the upostle tells the Corinthians, I have esponsed you to one husband, that I may present you a chaste virgin to Christ, 2 Cor. 11. 2. The husband is Christ, Mac. 25. 6. The virgin bride are all true believers. The contract, or marriage-coremant, is made in this life, in making of which faithful ministers are nastrumental; I have esponsed you, says the tye, in making of thich fathyll ministers are instrumental; I have segoused yon, says the apastle. But the marriage is elebrated in the other world, where believers have uninterrupted communion with God in Christ, Rev. 19. 7. Sum. 3.14. deliver me my wife Michal whom Le. The words eternal, everlasting, for ever, are sometimes taken for a long time, and are not always to be understond strictly; for example, it is raid, Gen. 17, 8, f will give to thee and to thy seed the land of Canaan, for an everlasting possession. And in chap. 13, 15, 1 will give it to thee, and to thy seed for ever; that is, for a long tyace of time. And in Gen. 49, 25, we find everlasting hills, so called the denue their antiquity, stability, and deratim; and this expression is used to show the long continuance and durableness of Joseph's blessing. God promises a throne to David, long continuance and durableness of Joseph s blessing. God promises a throne to David, an eternal kingdom, a posterity that will never be extinguished; that is, that his and his sons? empire will be of a very long duration, 2 Sam, 7. 16. 1 Chron. 17, 14. that it will be even ternal, if hereby the kingdom of the Messiah be understood. Thus, Thou shalt be our unide from this time forth even for ever, that is, during our whole life. And in many other places of scripture, and in particular, when the places of scripture, and in particular, when the word for ever is applied to the Jewish rites and privileges, it commonly signifies no more than during the standing of that commonwealth, or until the coming of the Messiah, Exad. 12. 14, 17. EVIL.

Evil is taken for sin and wickedness: thus it is said of the wicked kings of Israel, that they did evil io the sight of the Lord, they transgressed his law, 1 Kings 16. 25, 30. And in Eccl. 9. 3, The heart of the sous of men is full of evil. This is criminal or moral evil. feed. 9. 3, The heart of the sous of men is full of evil. This is criminal or moral evil. It is tikewise taken for afflictions or punishments which God inflicts upon a person or people. Joh 2. 10, Shall we receive good at the hand of God, and shall we not receive evil? Iso. 45. 7, I make peace and create evil? Amos 3. 6, Shall there be evil in a city, and the Lord hath not done it? This is the evil of punishment, or penal evil. It is also taken for injurites or wrongs done by one men to another. Frov. 17. 13, Whoso rewardeth evil for good, evil shall not depart from his house. Mat. 5. 39, But I say unto you that ye resist oot evil. It is put for dangers or calamittes, Prov. 22. 3, A prudent man foreseeth the evil, and hideth himself. He sees public calamities approaching, and uses all lawful means to secure kinnself. It is taken both for corporal and spurinal evil, of sin and infering. Mat. 6. 13, Deliver us from evil.

It is said Mat. 5. 37. Let your comounication be yea, yea; nay, nay; for whatsoever is more than these cometh of evil; that is, Let your discourse be confirmed with a base affirmation or denial only; for whatsoever is more than these voweachts from an end kelit or voue your discourse be confirmed with a bare affirma-tion or denial only; for whatsover is more than there proceedeth from an evil habit, or some such principle; and most commonly from the devil, that wicked one, who is evil in the highest degree; who commits evil without ceasing; and who practises all sorts and degrees of it by himself and his ministers. The evil of sin. The internal malignity of sin, abstracted from its dreadful effects, renders it most worthy of our hatred; for it is in its own-nature direct emmity against God, and obscures the glory of all his attributes: It is the viola-tion of his majesty, who is the universal Sovereign of heaven and earth; a contrariety to his bluess, which shines forth in his law; a devyising his of heaven and earth; a contrariety to his hiliness, which shines forth in his law; a devising his goodness, the attractive to obedience; the contempt of his omniscience, which sees every sin when it is committed; the slighting of his terrible justice and power, as if the sniner could secure himself from his indignation; a dental of his truth, as if the threatenings were a vain terror to scare men from their sin. Add to this the dreadful judgments and punishments which God inflicts upon sinners for sin, sometimes in this life, but especially the torments of hell, which are the just and full recompence of sin. Evil eye. Prov. 23. 6, Eat not the bread of him that hath an evil eye; that is, of the envious or civetous man; who secretly grudgeth thee the meat which he sets before thee. In the same sense this phrase is used, Mat. 20. 15, Is thine eye evil because I am good? Art thou curious, because I dispense my grace to others besides thyself?

eurious, because I dispense my grace to others besides thyself? vil day or days. Prov. 15. 15, All the days of the afflicted are evil; that is, they are tedius and uncomfortable; he takes no content in any time or thing. Eccl. 12. 1, When the evil days come not; that is, the time of old age, which is burdensome and calamitous in itself; and far more grievous and more terrible when it is loaded with the sad remembrance of wards enoughful follier and butte and with the when it is loaded with the sad rememorance of a man's youthful follies and lusts, and with the dieadful prospect of approaching death and judgment. And in Amos 6.3, Ye that put far away the evil day; that is, ye that drive all thoughts of approaching death and judgment out of your heads; or else flatter yourselves as if it would never come, or at least not for a great while hence.

Comes from the Greek, Eunouchos, which signi-fes one who guards the bed; because generally in the courts of the eastern kings the care of the beds and apartments belonging to princess and princesses was committed to them; but chiefly of the princesses, who live in great confinement, remote from the sight and company of men. The Hebrew word Saris, signifies a real Deut. 15.2. shall not e, it of his neighbour or brother ennuch, or one deprived of his genitals : whether he be naturally born such, or made an enunch by manual operation. But this word as well as the Greek Eunouchos, is in scriptue as the Greek Eunouchos, is in acripine taken for an officer belonging to some prince attending at his court, and employed in the inner palace, whether he be really in eunich or not. Poliphar, Pharaoh's ennich, and Joseph's master, had a wife, Gen. 39, 1, 7 and a chi'd too, if Asenith was daugher to Joseph's master, as some think, though the generality of master, as some think, though the general.

He that has that part wounded or cut off, which is intended for the preservation of the species, shall not enter into the congregation of the Lord. Which words are differently explained. Some think that God here forbuls to the configuration of the Lord. eunuchs to murry with Israelites; others, that God forbids them to enter into his temple; then simply the possession of some outward prices then simply the possession of some outward pri-then simply the possession of some outcard privileges belonging to the Israelites and people of the Lord. They were looked upon in the commonwealth as dry und useless wood. Isa, 56, 3, Behold I am a dry tree. See Duty. There were Eunuchs in the concis of the kings of Judah and Israel, officers called Sarism, enmachs. Samuel, describing to the people domainer of their king, tells them, I Sam. B. 15, Ile will take the teuth of your seed, and give to his officers, or enunchs. Some understand this properly, that he should against the commond of God make some of his people enunchs. But others think that these eunuchs, in all probability, were slaves taken from some foreign people: ar if they were Ilebrews, the name of eunuchs, which is given them, shows no more than their office and dignity. EXAMINATION.

Acts 25.26. that after e. bad, I might have to write
EXAMINE,
When applied to God, denutes the particular strict notice he takes of his creatures. Psal.
26. 2, Examine ne, O Lord, and prove me;
try my reins and my heart. As if the Psalmist had said, Because I may be mistalen, or be partial in my own cause, therefore I appeal to thee, and offer myself to thy trial concerning what my curemies charge me with thee, and offer myself to the trial concerning what my enemies charge me with. When applied to man, examination is either privute or public. Private, when a Christian tries himself by the word of God, and by what Christ has wrought by his Spirit within him, whether he be a true believer in Jesus, and whether he be a true believer in Jesus, and has any ground to hope for saturation through his blood and righteowness. 2 Cor. 13. 5, Examine yourselves, whether ye be in the faith, prove your own selves. And this duty is especially to be performed before persons particle of the Lord's supper, 1 Cor. 11. 28, But let a man examine himself, and so let him ter of the knowl and duint of the war. let a man examine himself, and so let film eat of that bread, and drink of that cup. Let him compare his heart and life by the word, to see whether he be duly qualified to partake of this ordinance, in regard of his knowledge, jaith, repentance, lote, and new obedience.

Public examination is, when rulers and governors, whether civil, or ecclesiastical, bring such as are suspected of unsound principles, or detected of theoremities, to a trial for the same. Thus it is said of the angel of the church of Ephesus, Rev. 2. 2. Thou hast tried them which say they are apostles, and are not; and hast found them liars. And our Savieur was examined by Pilate, though he was innocent, and the things laid to his charge were unjust, Luke 23. 13, 14. And the apostle Paul was ordered to be examined by scourging, Acts 22. 24. As to the manner of examining by scourging, or putting one to the question, See on QUESTION. whether civil, or ecclesiastical, bring such as are QUESTION.

EXAMPLE

Is taken either for a type, instance, or precedent, for our admonition, that we may be cautioused against the sins which others have committed, by the judgments which God inflicted on them, i Cor. 10, 11, All these things happened unto them for ensamples. Or example is taken for them for ensamples. Or example is taken for a pattern for our initiation, a model for us to copy after. John 13, 15, 1 have given you an example, that ye should do as I have done to you. And in 1 Pet. 2, 21, Christ suffered for us, leaving us an example, that we should follow his steps. This is one of the means by which our Redeemer restores his people to holiwhich our licitemer restores his people to hoti-ness, namely, by eshibiting a complete pattern of it in his life upon earth.

And examples have a peculiar power above the naked precept, to dispose us to the practice of holiness, may appear by considering, (1) That holiness, may appear by considering, (1) Indi-they most clearly express to us the nature of our duties in their subjects and sensible effects. General precepts form abstract ideas of unine, but in examples, virtues are made visible in their circumstances. (2) Precepts instruct us what things are our duty, but examples assure us that they are possible. When we tee mon like ourselves, who are united to frail flesh, and in the same condition with us, to command the ourselves, who are united to grait flesh, and in the same condition with us, to command their passious, to overcome the greatest and most glittering templatious, we are encouraged in one spiritual warfare. (3) Examples, by a secret and lively incentive, urge us to initiation. We are touched in another manner by the visible practice of saints, which reproaches our defects, and obliges us to the same real than by laws, though holy and good. The example of Christ is most proper to form to holiness, it being absolutely perfect, and recommendated tower present states. There is no example of a mere man, that is to be followed without limitation. Be ye followers of me as I am of Christ, says the great Apostle, I Cor. 11. 1. But the example of Christ is absolutely perfect. His convertation was a living law. Ille was holy, harmless, undefiled, and separate from sinners, Heb. 7. 26. His example is also most accommoduted to our present state. The divine nature it the supreme rule of moral perfection; for we are commanded to be holy, The divine native it the supreme rule of mond perfection; for we are commanded to be holy, as God is holy. But such is the obscurity of our minds, and the weakness of our natures, that the pattern was too high and glorious to be expressed by us. And though we had not strength to ascend to him, yet he had goodness to descend to us; and in this present state, and in the present state. to descend to us; and in this present state, and in our nature, to set before us a pattern more fitted to our capacity: So that the draine attributes are sweetened in the Son of tied recorner; and being united with the graces proper for the human nature, are more perceptible to our minds, and more instable by us.

here are generally three sorts of Excommunication, distinguished among the lews. The first is called Middu, that is, separation. This is the lesser Excommunication. It lasted therey the lesser Excommunication. It lasted thirty days, and separated the escommunicated persons from the use of things holy. The second was called Cherim, that is Anathema; this was an aggravation of the first, and answers almost to our greater excommunication. It escluded a man from the synagogue, and deprived him of all civil commerce. The third sort of Excommunication is called Scammatha, and was of a higher nature than the greater excommunication. munication is called Scammatha, and was of a higher nature than the greater excommonication. It was published, as they say, by sound of four hundred trumpets, and removed all hope of returning to the synagogue. Some aftirm, that the penalty of death was annexed to it. But Sedem maintains, that these three terms, Nid. dut, Cherim, and Scammatha, are oftentimes synanymous, and that the Jews never had, properly speaking, more than two sorts of excommunium cation; one greater, the other less. This word comes from the Greek Egopxizer, Exorcisein, which signifies to adjure to conjure, to use the name of God, with a design to east devils out of the bodies which they possess. When our vils out of the bodies which they possess. When our Saviour sent out his disciples to preach the gospel, he gave them power over unclean spirits, to cast them out, Mat. 10.1. And when the seventher to the them out, Mat. 10.1. And when the seventher to the seventher t two hundred years, and ceased by degrees.
Those Jewish exorcists, mentioned Acts 19, 13 were such expresses, mentioned Acts 19, 15, were such as usurped and counterfeited this gift, though they had it not; but what they did was only by witcheroft, and compact with the devil.

devil, osephus relates strange stories concerning these exorcists. He says, that one Eleazar, a Jew, curred the possessed with the help of a ring, in which a root was set, said by some to have been discovered by Solonion. The smell of this root, discovered by Solonon. The smell of this root, put under the noise of the possessed person, made him fall on the ground; and the exorcist conjuced the devil, forbidding him to return into that body; Joseph, Antiq, lib. 8. cap. 2. Job 35. 15. yet he kooweth it not in great e. EYE,

EYE, the organ of sight, by which visible objects are discerned. Eye or eyes, in scripture, are figuratively applied to God after the manner of man. Prov. 15. 3, The eyes of the Lord are in every place; that is, his infinite knowledge and providence. And as in men the eye is the organ which shows compassion or fury, represence or pardon entitlesses or section. vengeance or pardon, gentleness or severity; in these sentes eye is referred to God; Psal. 34, 15. The eyes of the Lord are upon the rightenus: He favours them, and heaps blessings on them. I kings 8, 29, 'that thine eyes may be opened toward this house night and day; that it, that thou mayest behold it with an eye of forour and compassion. So likewise in Jer-24. 6, I will set nime eyes opon them for good. On the contrary it is said, Amos 9, 8, Behold, the eyes of the Lord are upon the vengeance or pardon, gentleness or severity; w shall mire eyes spare, between will I have exely pity.

Fye, when referred to man, is not only taken for the organ of sight, but also for the understanding or judgment. Deut. 16, 19, A gift doth blind the eyes of the wise: It corrupteth and perverteth his mind, that as he will not, so oftensimes he cannot discern between right ond wrong. So in Acts 26, 18, I send thee to the Gentiles to open their eyes; that is, To preach the gospel must them, whereby they may attain unto a spiritual understanding of their duty. Likewise in Gen. 3, 7. The eyes of them both were opened. Their consciences were touched with a sense of the heimonness of them both were opened. Their consciences were touched with a sense of the heimonness of heir sin, whereby they had defield their souls; and of the greatness of the misery they had brought upon themselves and their posterity.

The Hebrews sall colours, eyes, Num. 11, 7. And the eye, or colour of hellium. To set one's eyes upon any one, is to do him service, to the teams, him eyesthis or bardis to see him with the eye, or colour of hdellium. To set one's eyes upon any one, it to do him service, to favour him greatly; or barely to see him with friendship. Gen, 41, 21, Thon saidst, bring Benjamin unto me, that I may set mine eves upon him. And Nebuchaduezzar recommends npon him. And Nehuchaduezzar recommends it to Nehuzar-adan, that he would set his eyes upon Jeremiah, and permit him to go where he pleased, Jer. 39, † 12, † 40, † 4. To find grace in one's eyes, is to win his favour and triendship, Ruth 2, 10, Joh says, † was eyes to the blind, Joh 29, 15, that is, I instructed, directed, and assisted such as knew not how to manage their own affairs.

To have the eyes towards, or apon one, denotes that the person expects, or waits for notes that the person espects, or wairs for some-thing from him on whom the eyes are pluxed. Thus when Adonijah, without his father's knowledge, had usurped the kingdom, Bath sheha told king David, I Kings 1, 20, The eyes of all Israel are upon thee, that thou shouldest tell them who shall sit upon the throne of my lord the king after him; that is, The generality of the people are in suspense whether Adonijah's practices be with thy conwhether Adonijan's practices be with any con-sent, or no, and wait for thy sentence concern-ing thy successor, which they will readily em-brace. Also in I'sal. 25. 15, Mine eyes are ever towards the Lord; that is, my expectation of help is only from him. And I'sal. 123. 2, As the eyes of servants look unto the hand As the eyes of servants look and the hand of their masters; either for the supply of their wants, which comes from their masters hand: or, for help and dejence against their oppressors.

Solomon suys, that the wise man's eyes are in his head, Eccl. 2. 14. He knows where he oppositions, that the wise man's eyes are in his head, Eccl. 2. 14. He knows where he goes, and what he has to do; he does not act ignorantly, rashly, or foolishly. He says likewise, that the eye is not satisfied with riches, Eccl. 4. 8. The covertons mind, or desire, is insattable. Eye is sometimes taken for something that is most delightful and dea to a person. Mat. 5. S9. If thy right eye offend thee, plack it out. Gal. 4. 15. You would have plucked out your own eyes, and have given them to me. It is likewise taken for opinion, or contecit. Prov. 3. 7, Be not wise in this own eyes, And for a diligent and careful inspection into affairs. Prov. 20. 8, A king spection into affairs. Prov. 20. 8, I king scattereth away all evil with his eyes. Evil eye; see on Evil.

FACE.

Countenance, or visage, is a part of the body well known: It is thereby that our immand motions are made known to others: Love, hatred, desire, are made known to others: Love, haired, desire, distrike, joy, grief. confidence, despair, courage, owardice, admiration, contempt, pride, modesty, ernelty, compassion, and the rest of the affections, are discovered by their proper aspects. The countenance, as one phraves it, is a crystal, wherein the thoughts and affections, otherwise invisible, appear; and is a natural sign, known to all. It is by the face, also, that one man is known and distinguished from another: And it matter of admiration, that is from parts com-Annua and distinguished from another: And it is matter of admiration, that so fee parts comparing it, and in so small a compast, and always in the same situation, yet there is such a diversity of figures as of lawes in the world. These innumerable different characters in the faces of men, is the counsel of most wise providence, for the universal benefit of the world: For human societies cannot be preserved with-out union and distinction: the one prevents division, the other confusion; and this distinc-tion is caused by the turnety of Countenances.

FAC

The Face of a man is also taken for the man himself: I had not thought to see thy face; that is, thy person, says Jacob to his son Joseph, Cien, 48, 11. Before one's face; that is, in his sight or presence, Num. 19, 3. To withstand a person to the face, is to reprove him boldty, Gal. 2. 11. The pride of Israel doth testify to his face, Hos. 5. 5. It is so full and evident a witness against Israel, that no other testimony need be produced, to convince the most injundent and shameless among them. To fall to the earth upon one's face, was a posture of adoration, Josh, 7, 6, Joshua fell to the earth upon his face, in deep humiliation and ferrent supplication. To accept one's face, it to shew one a Juvent, and grant his vequest. to the earth upon his face, in deep humiliation and fervent supplication. To accept one's face, is to shew one a favour, and grant his request. Gen. 19, +21, Peradventure he will accept of my face; he will be reconciled with me, and occept of my person. To spit in one's face, it a sign of the immost contempt. The woman, whose husband died without children, if her hushand's brother refused to marry her, spit in his face, Deut, 25.9

spit in his face, Deut. 25.9 ace is likewise referred to God, and denotes sometimes his anger. Pal 34. 16. The face of the Lord is against them that do evil. Rev. 6. 16, Hide us from the face of him that sitteth on the throne. At other times, it that sitteth on the throne. At this though the denotes his love and favour, Psal. 31. 16. | 80. 7. Make thy face to shine upon thy servant, Cause thy face to shine and we shall be saved. 7. Make thy face to shine upon thy servant, Cause thy face to shine and we shall be saved, Dan. 9. 17, Cause thy face to shine upon thy sanctuary which is desolate. It is also taken for his omniscence, 1 San, 26. 20. Let not my blood fall to the earth before the face of the Lord; that is, if thou dost shed my blood, remember that God, the Judge of all the earth, seeth it, and will average it.

the Lord promises Moses, that his face shall go before the Israelites, Esod. 33, 14, My presence, in Hebrew, my face shall go with thee; that is, I myself will go with thee. The Angel of my presence, namely, the Messiah, Isa, 63, 9, when the state of the same o who is always in the bosom of the Father, and continually making intercession for his people; and likewise the pledge of my presence shall go with thee, namely, the cloudy pillar. Moses, in the same chapter, begs of God to shew him his glory. God replies to him, I will make all my goodness pass before thee, or, all my glory; thou shalt have a student transient which of it; and I will proclaim my name, which I will give thee as a signal of my presence, that thou mayest attend: but for my face, thou canst not see it; for there shall no man son itself time. see it and live: Thou caust not see the majesty and glory attending that external shape I have now assumed; nor those manifestations of my glory which the saints are favoured with in another life; for such is the weakness of man in this life, that if I should display all the in this life, that if I should display all the beams of my glory to him, it would certainly astonish, overwhelm, and destroy him. It was a certoin persuarion, and very prevalent in the world, that no man could support the sight of God utthout expiring. See Gen. 16. 13. | 32. 80. Exod. 20. 19. | 24. 11. Judg. 6. 22, 23. | 13. 22.

Nevertheless, it is said in Num. 12.8, With Moses will I speak mouth to mouth, even apparently, and not in dark receches. And face to tace, out of the midst of the fire: But in all these places, tace to face is to be under tood simply, as if he had said, that God mani-fested himself to the Israelites, that he made them hear his voice in a manner as distinct them hear his voice in a manner as distinct as if he had appeared to them face to face: That he spake to them personally and immediately, and not by an interpreter; and familiarly, to as not to overwhelm and conjound them. The aposite, speaking of the difference between our knowledge here and in heaven, says, Now, we see through a glass darkly; but then face to face, 1 Cor. 13, 12, that is, There is as much difference between our knowledge here and in heaven as heaven hadron deference in the same to face, 1 Cor. 13, 12, that is, There is as much difference between lanking defer here and in heaven as heaven lanking. ledge here and in heuren, as between looking through a perspective glass upon a thing a great way off, and covered with many obscurities; way off, and covered with many obscurities; and looking immediately, with the naked eye, upon the naked object high at hand,

Faith is a dependence on the veracity of another;

Thus trust is called faith; because it relies upon the truth of a promise: And one is said to keep his faith inviolate, when he performs the premise that another relied on. Faith, in the premise that another relied on. Faith, in the prehis faith inviolate, when he performs the premise that another relied on. Eath, in the prepriety of expression, is an assent on account of the veracity of the speaker. Accordingly, divine faith is a firm assent of the mind to things upon the authority of divine Revelation. Faith by Divines is generally distinguished into four kinds, namely, historical, temporary, the faith of miracles, and justifying, or saving faith.

Historical faith is a speculative knowledge of,
and bare assent to the truths revealed in the scripture: Of this kind of faith the aposte James speaks, Jam. 2. 17, 24, Faith, if it have not works, is dead. Ye see how that by works a man is justified, and not by faith only; that is, not by a mere profession of faith, or a bare assent to the truth, without good works, which proceed from faith, and shew it to be of the right kind. This kind of faith the decils themsettes have. Jam. 2. 19, Thou believest that there is one God; the devils also believe, and tremble. They are fully persuaded that there is a God, and that Christ is the Son of God.

and shall be their judge, as they acknowledge, Mat. B 29.

II. Temporary faith, together with the knowledge and assent to reveoled truths, has likewise in it, an apprahation of, and joy in, receiving and hearing these truths; but this joy arising and hearing these truths; but this joy arising from some worldly consideration, soom tanishs and comes to nothing: Of this kind of faith our Saviour speaks in the parable of the sower, Mat. 13. 20, He that received the seed into stony places, receives it with joy; he understands it, assents to it, he hears it gladly, considers, and approves of it; and it springs up in an outward profession and reformation: Yet hath he not root in himself, but dureth for a while; he has no sufficient or considerable root, because it wants the soil of a sincere heart, and true affections, firm and fixed resolutions, and some affections, from and preca restraints, and habitual dispositions of grace. He has some good purposes and desires, but they are som overpowered by unmortified corruption, and the force of temptation: for when tribulation or persecution ariseth because of the word, persecution ariseth because of the word, by and by he is offended; He stumbles, and falls off from all his former profession of religion.

It The faith of miracles is a firm assent of the mind to some particular promise concerning any miraculous event, which, if performed by us, is called an active miraculous faith; of which our Saviour and the apostle Paul speak, Mat. 17, 20, 1 Cor. 13, 2. But if it be wrought upon us, it is called a passive miraculous faith; that the laws when a lawtra, had a forwer thus the lame mon at Lystra had a firm per-suasion that Paul and Barnabas were able to cure him, Acts 14. 9.

Justifying faith is a saving grace wrought in by the Spirit of God, whereby we rethe soul by the Spirit of God, whereby we re-ceive Christ as he is revealed in the gospel, to be our Prophet, Priest, and King, trust in and rely upon him and his righteensures alone for justification and salvation. This faith be-gets a sincere obedience in the life and conver-sation. The aposite to the llebrews calls faith, the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things and seen II.b. 11. It assures in the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen, II.e. 11, 1. It assures us of the reality and worth of eternal unistible things, and produces a satisfaction and assured confidence, that God will infallibly perform what he has promised, whereby the heliver is a confident of them, as if they were before his eyes, and in his actual possession. The object of faith as the word of God in general, and especially the doctrines and promises that respect the saturn of men through Christ which teachers vation of men through Christ, which reason cannot disvover by its own light, nor perfectly understand when revealed. The firm foundation unaerinia when reteated. The firm foundation of faith is the essential supreme perfections of God; his unerring knowledge, immitable truth, infinite goodness, and almighty power. Faith has a prevailing influence upon the will, it diaws the affections, and renders the whole man obsequious to the gaspet.
y this faith, we are said to he justified, Rom obsequious to the gaspel.

By this faith, we are said to he justified, Rom.

5. 1. We are justified by faith, not formally, as if it were our righteensness, or the mentorous cause of our justification before God; but instrumentally and relatively, as it apprehends and applies to us the righteousness and blood of Christ, which is the object of faith, and which only cleanieth us from all sin and renders us acceptable to God. It is called the faith through which we are saved, Eph. 2. 8. Faith is, as it were, a condition on our part, whereby we come to be parakers of the blessings of the new covenant. It is a faith which worketh by love, Gial. 5. 6. It is not an idle, unactive, and imperative grace, but shews itself by producing in us love to God and our neighbour.
It purifies the heart, Acts 15. 9. It is called the faith of God's elect, Tit. 1. 1. because it is bestowed only upon those. This grace increaseth from one degree to another, Rom. 1. 17. being in some strong and firm, Mat. 8. 10. in others weak and languishing, Mat. 14. 31. Lastly, this grace is the special gift of God, Eph. 2.

8, By grace ye are saved through faith; and that not of yourselves, it is the gift of God, that is, That you believe, is not by any ability y your own; and that you are saved, is not any worth in yourselves. I hervise in Phil.
29, Unto you it is given to believe oo hit, in scripture, is taken for the truth and ath, in scripture, is taken for the truth and faithfulness of God, Rom. 3. 3, Shall their unlehef make the faith of God without effect? unienel make the latth of God without effect? Shell their undelief make the faithful promises of God, of sensing the Messach, and of redempt than by him, not to be accomplished? It is alta taken for a persuasion of the laugidness of things indifferent, Rom. 14, 22, 23, Haxl 182 ranied by his word, he sinneth in the doing of it. Faith is also put for the doctrine of the gospel, which is the object of faith, Acts 24.24. Felix heard Paul concerning the faith in Christ, Gal. 1.23, He preached the faith which once he destroyed. And faith is taken which once he destroyed. And faith is taken for Christ, and his righteouners; that is, his active and passive obedience, which are apprehended by faith, and are the objects of it, in all those passages where we are sand to be justified by faith. It is put for a belief and profession of the goopel, Rom. 1. 8. Your faith is spoken of throughout the whole world. And for fadelity in performing of promises, Deut. 32, 20, Children in whom is no faith; that it They weither helieve what I can not

FALL.

The fall of man. Man's greatest excellency at first was a perfect conformity to the divine pattern. God created man in his own image, in the image of God created he him, Gen. 1, 27.

I. The similitude of God in the substance of the The similitude of Cod in the substance of the soul, as it is an intelligent, free, spiritual, and in mortal being. This is assigned to be the reason of the law, that whoso sheds man's blood, by man shall his blood be shed; for in the image of God made he man, nan's blood, by man shall his blood be shed; for in the image of God made he man, Gen. 9. 6.

I. A moral resemblance in its qualities and perfections. Man was conformed to God in holiness; this the Iposts insinutes, when he sets forth the sanctifier ion of corrupt man, by the expression of renewing limin is knowledge, righteousness, and holiness, after the image of the Creator Epis. 4. 23, 24. Col. 3, 10. The renovation of things, being a restoring of them to their primitive state; and is more or less perfect, by its propertion to, or distance from the ariginal. Man's inderstanding was enriched with knowledge, which was neither acquired by study, nor confined to that or the other particular creature, but teached through the whole compass of the creation. Besides, he had such a knowledge of the Drity, as was sufficient for his duty and felicity. He discovered almighty power, admirable wisdom, and infinite goodness, from their effects in creating the world. The image of God was sincere and uncorrupt; it was view from all prejudices, which might render it an incompetic information of the will. Spiritual reason kept the throne, and the higher of pactical soberved an easy and regular subordination to its dictates.

11. The image of God consisted, though an anticipate of the constitution and infinite constitution. II. A to its dictates.

I. The image of God consisted, though on an inferior degree, in the happy state of man, which inferior degree, in the happy state of man, which was the consequent and accession to his holmess: And herein he resembled that infinitely blessed Being, as he is perficuly exempt from all evils which might altay and lessen his felicity, and enjoy those pleasures which are nearthy of his pure nature and glorious state. This happiness had relation to the two natures, which enter into man's composition. (1) The animal and sensitive, and this consisted both in the excellent disposition of his wears, and in the risquency of conand this consisted both in the execution disposi-tion of his organs, and in the enjoyment of con-venient objects. His hody being formed imme-diately by God, was not liable to those defects which proceed from the weakness of second courses; No blemish or disease, which are the effects and four-ceps of sin, were to be found in bim: All his senses were quick and lively, able to perform with facility, vigour, and delight, their operations. Not only were his argans er cellently disposed, but there were also convenient objects to entertain his sensitive faculties? He objects to entertain his sensitive faculties: He enjoyed nature in its original pucity, crowned with the benediction of God, before it was blasted with the curse. The world was all harmony and beauty, becoming the goodness of the Creator; and not as it is since the fall, disordered and deformed in many parts, the effect of his justice. The earth was liberal to Adam of all its treasures; the heavens of their light and sweetess influences. And he was seated in Eden, a place of creat heaven and delicht. Fut (2) lite cheef. influences. And he was seated in Eden, a place of great beauty and delight. But (2) His cheef happiness consisted in the exercise of his most noble faculties on their proper objects. The highest fueulties in man are the understanding and will: and their happiness consists in union with God by hundledge and love. He saw the admirable beauty of the Creator through the transparent weil of the creatures, shul from hence there arose in the soul a pleasure pure, solid, and satisfying.

nence there arose in the soul a pleasure pure, solid, and satisfying. V. There was in man's dominion and power over the creatures a shining part of God's image. God gave him the solomn investince of his dentity, when he brought the creatures to receit their names from him, which was a mark of their humes jimb this, of his enspire to com-mand them by their names, Psal. 8. 6, 7, 8. Thus holy and blessed was Adam in his primitive state.

An only of all creatures on earth was in a state of moral dependence, and capable of a law. For, a law being the declaration of the Superior's will requiring obedience, and threatening punishment on the failure thereof, there must be a principle of reason and choice in than nature which is governed by it: both to discover the authority that enjoins it; to discern the matter of the law; and to determine tistly, out of judgment and election, to obedience, as most excellent in itself, and advantageous to the nerformer. tive state. in itself, and advantageous to the performer. As therefore reusan made man capable of a law, is therefore reason made man capable of a law, so it was impossible he should be erempt from a law; for as the notion of a God, that is, of the first and supreme Being, excludes all possibility of obligation to another, and of subjection to a law; so the quality of a creature includes the relation of dependence and natural subjection to the will of God.

The law of nature, to which man was subject upon he law of nature, to which man was subject upon his creation, contains those moral principles concerning good and evil, which have an essential equity in them, and are the measures of his day to God, to himself, and to his follow-creatures. This law was published by the voice of reason, and is holy, just, and good; and the obligation to it is eternal; it being the unchangeable will of God, grounded on the natural and invariable relations between God and man, and between man and the creatures. Besides the particular directions of the law of nature, this reveral vrisiman and the creatures. Besides the particular directions of the law of nature, this general principle was planted in the reasonable soul, to along God in any instance wherein he did presente his pleasure. Accordingly, to declare his sovereign right in all things, and to make trial of man's obedience, God entered into covenant with man; he forbids him to eat of the tree of knowledge of good and evil, for in the day thou eatest thereof thou shalt surely die. This established an insevarable connection between duranteed. blished an inseparable connection between duty and felicity, stobedience and misery. In this threatening of death upon disobedience, the promise of life upon his obedience was implied and easily suggested itself to the rational mind. Ian was created perfectly holy, but in a natural, therefore mutable state. He was invested with power to prevent his falling, yet under a possibility of it: He was complete in his own order, but receptive of sixful impressions. Being therefore set upon by the most subtile of those rebellious spirits, who bad fallen from their obedience and glovy, he was corrupted and seduced by him, and involved both kinnelf and his posterity in sin and misery. As to the manner in which the devil seduced our first parents, see on Devil.. blished an inseparable connection between duty parents, see on DEVII..

The honour and majesty of the whole law was windired in the breach of that symbolical precept; for in that grand apostasy many sins were included; as, 1. Infidelity and unbelief: God had said, Of the tree of knowledge of good and evil, thou shalt not eas of it; for in the day thun eatest thereof, thou shalt surely die. This was the first step to ruin, as appears by the order of the temptation: It was first said by the devil, Ye shall not die, to weeker their faith; then Yo chall by as gods, ta

Auster their ambition. This infidelity is greatly 1 Sam. 3. 19, let none of his most of, to the ground | F.e.k. 32. 12, by swords will I cause multitude to / signarated, as it implies an accusation of God, 1). Of envy; as if he had denied them the perfectiont becoming the human nature, and they might accend to an higher orb than the 22.17, would not for the they might accend to an higher orb than the 22.17, would not for the they mere placed, by eating the forbidden fruit. (2) Of falsehood; as if God had threatened to invite a punishment upon man's disobedience which he had no design to do; and what heightens this is, that when he distrusted the Father of lies; as appears by his compliance, the real evidence of his faith.

11. This sin included in it prodigious pride: He was scarcely out of the state of mothing, no scone, tent with his image, he affected an equality, 12 Chron. 12, 19, he will f, to his master Saul tent with his image, he affected an equality, 12 Chron. 21, 19, he will f, to the then hends of the prophet also shall f, under the mother of the control of t things without reserve.

III. Horrid ingratitude: He was appointed heir apparent of all things; yet undervaluing his present portion, he entertains a project of improving his happiness. The excellent state newly conferred upon him, was a strong obligation to pay so small an acknowledgment to the Lord. The use of all the garden was allowed him, only a tree excepted. Now in the midst of such variety and plenty, to be inflamed with the intemperate appetite of the forhidden fruit, and to break a command so equal and easy, what is it that a despising the rich poodpass of what is it but a despising the rich goodness of what is it but a despising the rich goodness of his great Benefactor? V. A bloody cruelty to himself, and to all his posterity. When God had made him a depository in a matter of infinite moment; that is, of his own happiness, and all mankind's, this should have been a powerful motive to have kept him vigilant: But giving a ready ear to the tempter, he betrayed his trust, and at once breaks both the tahles of the law, and becomes the greatess sinner, being guilty of the highest impiety and cruelty. By polyntary disobedience our first parents fell by polyntary disobedience our first parents fell in getties and cruelty.

By volvntary disobedience our first parents fell from and lost their original rectitude and perfection of nature; which consisted in knowledge, holiness, and perfect happiness, Gen. 1.26.

The scripture speaks of several famines which have been in Palestine, and in the neighbouring countries: as that in the time of Abraham, and again in the time of Isaac, Gen. 12. 10. | 20. 1. But the most remarkable whereof we have any account, it that of seven years, which fell out in Egypt, while Joseph abode there, Gen. 41. 27. It is considerable for the continuance, extent, and greatness of it; and in this vorticular the more so, that Egypt is a country least subject to these calamities, by reason of it extreme fruitfulness. and again in the time of Isaac, Gen. 12. 10. | 20. 1. But the most remarkable whereof we have any account, it that of seven years, which fell out in Egypt, while Joseph abode there, Gen. 41. 27. It is considerable for the continuance, execut, and greatness of it; and in this varificular the more so, that Egypt is a country least subject to these calamities, by reason of its extense fruitfulness.

Famine it sometimes a natural effect, as when the Nile does not everylow in Egypt, or the rains do not fall in Judea, at the entomary times, that is, in spring or autumn; or with 4.11, and be thou f. in Beth-lehem the caterpulars and locusts swaim in the country, and destroy the fruits of it. and destroy the fruits of it.

in several places, take notice of these last teck, 23.10, and she became f, among women causes of famine, Joel 1, 3, 4, 8c.

Famine was also aften the effect of God's anger against his people. For example: the Lord see the prophet Gad to David, to tell him, the prophet of the God gave him the option of seven years' famine, or of being for three months pursued by his enemies, or of seeing the plaque raging for three days in his country, 2 Sam. 24. 12, 13. And in the reign of Ahab, The Lord called for a famine, and it came upon the land seven years, 2 Kings 8. 1, 2. Amos threatens the people of God with another sort of famine, want of heavenly bread, which was that of hearing the word of God, Amos 8. 11. The Israelites now despise a prophet's comset, then they shall seek for it, but not have a prophet to eive them connect.

Fasting has, in all ages, and among all nations, heen an exercise much in use in times of mourning, serrow, and afflictions. The sense of strain some sort inspired by nature, which, in these trivense soft inspired by painter, which, in these circumstances, denies itself nourishment, and takes off the edge of hinger. There is no example of faiting, properly su called, to be seen before Moses; yet it is presumenble that the patriarchs fasted, since we see that there were that the contribution of the patriarchs of the compaction of the contribution.

patiarchs fasted, since we see that there were very great moverings among them, and those too very particularly described, such as that of Abraham for Sarah, Gen. 23. 2. and that of Jacob for his son Joseph, Gen. 37. 34.

Moses enjoins no particular fast in his five books, excepting that upon the solemn day of expinition, which was generally and strictly observed, Lev. 23. 27, 29, On the tenth day of this seventh mouth, ye shall affict your souls; that is, Fe shall humble yourselves deeply before God, both twardly by godly sorrow, judging and louthing yourselves; and ontwardly, by Jasting and abstinence from all carnal conjorts and delights, bace the time of Moses, examples of fasting have been very common among the Jews. Joshna and the elders of Israel revanced prostrate before the ark from morning until evening, withand the elders of Israel reviained prostrate be-fore the ark from morning until evening, with-out eating, after the Israelites were defeated by the men of Ai, Josh. 7. 6. The eleven tribs-which had taken arms against that of Benja-ouin, secung they could not hold out against the inhabitums of Gibealt, fell down before the ark upon their faces, and so continued till the even-ing without eating, Judg. 20.26. The Israel-ties preceiving themselves to be pressed by the Philistines, assembled before the Lot I at Miz-peh, and fasted in his presence till the evening, peh, and fusted in his presence till the evening, 1 Sam, 7. 6. And David jasted while no first child he had by Bathsheba, the wife of Uriah, was sick, 2 Sam. 12.16.

Moses fasted forty days on mount Horeb, Exod.

34.28. Elijah passed as many days without eating any thing, I kings 19.8. And our Saviour fasted in the wilderness forty days and forty night, Mat. 4.2. These fasts were miraculous, and out of the common rules of nature. The very heathens, themselves, wometimes fasted; and the king of Nineveh, terrified by Jooah's preaching, made an order, that not only men, but beasts also, should continue without eating or drinking; that buth men and beasts should be covered with sackeloth, and eveh after their manner should ary muto the Lord, Jonah 3.6, 7, 8. The Jews, in times of public calamity, made even the children at the breust fast, Joel 2.16.

manner should ery unto the Lund, Jonah 3, 6, 7, 8. The Jews, in times of public calamity, 10 and 2, 10 and Joel 2. 16.
If does not appear by our Saviour's own practice, or any commands that he gave to his distuples, that he instituted any particular fosts, or exjoined any to be kept out of pure devotion. Ent when the Pharisees in the way of reproach told him, that his disciples did not fast so often as theirs, or John the Baptist's, he replied, Can ye make the children of the bride-chamber fast, while the hridegroom is with them? but the days will come, when the bridegroom shall taken from them, as to my bodity presence, and when they shall meet with many troubles and calamities, then it will be seasonable for them to perform this duty of lasting. Accordingly the life of the apostles and first believers was a life of self-denial, of sufferings, austerities, and lase of self-denial, of sufferings, ansterities, and fasting, as appears from the life of the aposts. Paul, 2 Cor. 6. 4, 5. 11, 27. Fasting is likewise confirmed by our Saviour's discourse on the mount, though not as a stated, yet as an occasional daily of Christians, in order to, and occasional daily of Christians, in order to, and as an indication of, their hambling their souls for their sins, or under the afficient hand of God, Max, 6.16. Where our Saviour requires that this duty be performed in sincerity, and not in hypocrisy; for the glory of God, not for ostentation and appearance unto men.

God forhode the Hebrews to eat the fat of beasts, I.ev. 3. 16, 17, All the fat is the Lord's. It shall be a perpetual statute for your generations throughout all your dwellings, that ye eat neither fat nor blood. Some interpreters take these words in all the rigiour of the letter, and suppose the nee of fat as well as blood to be entirely forbidden the Jews. Josephus says, that Moses forbids only the fat of oren goots, sheep, and of their species, which agrees with the law in I.ev. 7. 23, Ve shall eat no manner of fat of ox, or of sheep, or of goat. The movern Jews observe this custom; and with respect to the fat of every other sort of clean creature, they think it is allowed them, even that of beavis which have died of themselves; this is conformable to that after law. Lev. 7. 24, And the fat of that which is torn with beasts, may be used in any other use. beasts, may be used in any other use.

becass, may be used in any other doe,

But other unerpreters maintain, that the law which seems to forbid generally the use of fat, is to be restrained to fat separated from the flesh, such as that which covers the hidneys and flesh, such as that which covers the kitheys and intestines; and this only in the case of its being actually offered in sacrifice; which is confirmed by this passage in Lev. 7. 25, Whosoever eateth of the flat of the beast, of which men offer an offering made by fire unto the Lord, even the soul that eateth it, shall be cut off from his people. he ward fat in the Hehrew style signifies not only he word fat in the Hehrew style signifies not only that of beasts, but every thing likewise which relates to it in other things, as in Psal. 147. 14. He filleth thee with the finest of the wheat, in Hebrew, with the fat of wheat. And in Psal. 81, 16, He should have fed them with the fat of wheat. Fat is also used sometimes for the source or cause of compassion or mercy, is the bowels are stirred at the rectal of any As the bowels are stirred at the rectal of ony great calamity; or at the view of some melantholy and afflicted object, it has been thought that sensibility resided principally in the bowels, which are commonly loaded with fat. The Fsalmist uphraids the wicked uith heing inclosed in their fat, with having shut up their bowels against him, with being in how sort affected with compassion at the sight of his extreme grief. Fsal. 17, 10, Mine enemies compass me about, they are inclosed in their own fx. And in Fsal. 119, 70, Their heart is as fat as grease. They are stupid, and miscussible, and past feeling; they are not affected either with the terrors or conjorts of God.

This word, besides the common acceptation of it his word, oestuces the common acceptation of it, for an immediate father, is likewise taken in the scripture style for Grand-father, or, the very author and first father of a family, how remote scerer he may be from those who speak. For example, the Jews in our Saviour's time, and their descendants of this pretion time, and their assertions of Abra-ham, Isaac, and Iacoh. Ind Nebuchaduezzar is termed Belshazzar's father, though Belham shazzar's was his grand-son.

By Father is likewise understood the inventor, the SHAZZALS with an grand-ord.

By Father is takewise understood the inventor, the master of those who are of a certain profession. Gen. 4. Co. 21, 22. Jabal was the father of such as dwell in tents, and such as have cattle, Jubal was the father of all such as handle the harp and organ. The famous founder of Tyre, Hunam, is called the father of the king of Tyre, 2 Chron. 2. 13. and even of Solomon, 2 Chron. 4. 16. hecause he was their principal workman, and the chirp director of their undertakings. The principal, the eldest of the prophets, were considered as the masters and fathers of the rest, who were their disciples; for this reason the young prophets are called the sous of the prophets, and trees style the eldest, fathers. My father, my father, said Elisha to Elijah, the chariot of Israel, and the horseanen thereof, 2 Kings 2. 12.

Father is a term of respect which inferiors often give to their superiors, and servants to their masters; My father, said Naaman's servants to their master, 2 Kings 5.13. The king of Israel, in like manner, called the prophet Elishe his father, 2 Kings 6.21, My father, shall I smite them? And the same prophet heing upon his death-bed, Joash came to see him, and said, O my father, my father, the chariot of Israel, and the horsemen thereof, 2 Kings 13. 14.

God is called the Father of spirits, High. 12, 9, od is called the Father of spirits, Heh. 12. 9. Our fathers are the Jathers of our bodies only, but God is the father of our spirits; he mas only creates them, but he passifies them likewise, glorifies, and makes them happy. Our Satistic, in Mat. 23. 9, for bids us to give any man winder of albert, because we have one only who is in heaven. Not that he should abandon or despise our earthly fathers; God requires us to honour them, and give them all necessary as sistance; but when the interests of God are at stake, his glory, or our our satiation, if our fathers and nothers are an obstacle to them, we should say to them, We know you not. In Jathers and mothers are an obstacle to them, we should suy to them, We know you not. In what one pare, its have done for us, in comparison of what we one to God, is so inconsiderable, that we may say, vers fathers are nothing to us, and that God alone deserves the title of our Father.

God out of his great wisdom appointed several festwals among the Jews for many reasons. 1. To perpetuate the memory of those great events and uonders which he had wrought in fovour of his people; The Salbath brought to remembrance people: The Sanbath orought to rememorance the creation of the world; the Passover, the departure out of Egypt; the Pentecost, the law given at Sinai, &c. 2. To keep them firm to their religion; with the view of ceremonies and the majesty of divine service. 3. To give them the majesty of drune service. 3. To give them instruction, for in their religious assemblies the law of God was read and explained. 4. To renew the acquaintance, correspondence, and friendship of their tribes and families with one another, by coming from the several towns in the country, and meeting three times a year in the holu estu.

The Hebrews had a great number of feasts. first, and most ancient of all, was the subbath, or the seventh day of the week, instituted to preserve the memory of the world's creation, Gen. 2. 3, And God blessed the seventh day, and sanctified it, because in it he had rested from all his work. Commentations and sanctified it, because in it he had rested from all his work. Commentators are not agreed about the first institution of the sabbath: Many are of opinion that the sabbath had been observed among the righteous from the beginning of the world: that the ancients having preserved the memory of the creation, observed the sabbath also, in consequence of the natural law which obliged them threeto. the natural two which obliged them thereto. Some are of opinion, that people did not begin to cease from work upon that day, till after the command which God gave the Israelites to that purpose, some time after the coming out of Egypt, when they were encamped at Marah.

The Sahbatical Year, which returned every seven

The Sabbatical Year, which returned every seven years, and was entirely set apart for very and Jubilee year, which was at the end of seven times seven years, or of the forty-ninth year, were sorts of feasts too, and may be considered as consequences of the subbath. The Passover was celebrated on the footteenth, or rather lifteenth day of the first mouth in the ecclesiastical year, which was the seventh of the sivil year. The feast began after mout on the fourteenth, and was celebrated properly on the fifteenth of Nisan; it lasted seven days. But the first and last days only of the octave But the first and last days only of the octave were days of rest, Exod. 12. 14, Ac. See

The feast of Pentecost was celebrated on the fifus reast of ventecost was ecclorated on the fif-tieth day after the Pussover, in memory of the laws being given to Moses on mount Sinal fifty days, or seven weeks after the departure out of Egypt. See PENTECOST. he feast of Trumpets was celebrated at the be-he the least of Trumpets was ecclebrated at the beginning, or on the first day of the civil year, upon which a trumpet was sounded, proclaiming the beginning of the year, which was in the munth Tisri, answering to our September. This day was kept solemn; all servite business was fyribid to be done upon it; and particular sacrifices were affered, Lev. 23, 24, 25. The scripture dues was acquaint as with the cornsion ture does not acquaint us with the occasion of appointing this feast. Theodoret believes, it was in memory of the thunder and lightning upon mount Sinai, when God gave his law from hence. The Rabbins will have it, that it was in remembrance of the deliverance of Isaac, in whose stead a ram was sacrificed by Abraham. whose stead a ram was sacrificed by Arraman. Others soy, that us the seventh day of overy week was a sabbath, and every seventh year was to be kept as a holy sabbatical year, so the seventh month was to be holy in some singular manuer above the rest of the months, for the many sabbaths and solemn feasts that were to be observed in this more than any other mouth; such as the feast of Expintion, and of Taberoacles.

he new moons, or first days of every month, were in some sort a consequence of the feast of Trumpets. And though these were not reckoned among the solemn feasts in Lev. 23, yet were celebrated as such, by the sound of trumpets, Nom. ceteorated as such, by the sound of trimplets, Nam., 10, 10, by extraordinary accifices, Num. 28, 11, 12, &c. by abstaining from service works, Amos 8, 5, and by attendance upon the ministry of God's word, 2 kings 4, 23. Upon these days also some sort of entertainments were made, 1 Sam. 20. 5, 18. And God ordained at shas, 1 Sam. 20. o, 18. And oog organied it thus, that by giving him the prist-prints of every month they should acknowledge him as the Lord of all their time, and own his providence, by which all times and seasons are ordered.

by which all times and seasons are ordered.
The feast of Expiation, or Atooemeut, was kept upon the tenth day of the month Tisri, or September. The Hebrews call it Kippur, or Chippur, that it, pardon or expiation, because it was instituted for the expiation of all the sint, irreverences, and pollutions of all the Strachtes, from the high priest to the lowest of the people, committed by them throughout the whole year. Upon this day they fasted strictly, and offered several sacrifices. The high priest, after he had washed not only his hands and his feet, as usual in common sacrifices, but his whole body, dressed himself in plain linen, like the rest of the priests. He then neither wore his rest of the priests. He then neither were his purple robe, nor the ephod, nor the breast-plate, purple robe, nor the ephad, nor the oreast-plate, because he was going to expiate his own and the people's sins. He first of all affered a bullock and a rom for his own sins, and those of all the other priests. He put his hands upon the heads of these victims, and confessed his own sins, and the sins of his house then he received from the princes of the people two goals. received from the princes of the people two goals for a sin-offering, and a ram for a burnt-offering, to be affered in the name of all the multitude, Lev. 10. 2, 3, &c. As to the coremonist used with the goals, see Offening.

Autiq, lib. 12. cap. 11. There is an account of this dedication in 1 Maccab. 4. 52, 54, 55, 5c. where it is related, that Judas Maccabus and his brethren having defeated the army of Gorgias, they went directly to the temple of Jerusalem, which they found forsiken and profused, so that the courts were full of theke bushes and brambles, the doors were burnt, the altar profamed, and the buildings in runs. If its having shed abundance of tears on this occasion, they began to clean every thing, and employed the priess in demolishing the altar which had been polluted; and erected another of rough-stone. They refitted the buly place and the Sanctuary, and placed therein the can elestick, the table of shew-bread, and the altar of perfumes. They kindled the lamps, put the of persumes. They kindled the lamps, put the loures upon the sacred table, set the incense on fire, offered sucrefices and burnt-offerings, and fire, offered sacrifices and burnt-offerings, and performed the dedication of the temple in eight days, with all the solemnity that circumstances would allow of. After which Judas Maccabens made it a law, that the least should be kept yearly for eight days, in memory of that mercy which tool had shewed them. It is generally agreed that it was during this feast our Savven was at Jerusalem: It was celebrated upon the twenty-fifth and following days of the month. Casleu, which answers to our November and December, and it is therefore said, that it was winter.

Love-feasts, or feasts of charity, were used among the primitive Christians in the public meeting of the church, to them their nuity among them selves, to promote and maintain mutual that rity, and for the relief of the poor among them at the close whereof they administered the Lord's supper, Jude 12. But these feasts being admised, some think that the Josele Paul abolished them 1 Cor. 11, 21, 22, 34.

Jer. 47. 3. the fathers shall not look back for f. FEED.

To feed signifies to eat, to take meat or nourish-ment for the body, and this is common to man with the beasts. Jude 12, Feeding themselves without fear. Isa, 27, 10, There shall the calf feed, and there shall he lie down. It also signifies to furnish or supply others with food, thus Joseph fed the Egyptians for their cuttle:

thus Joseph fed the Egyptians for their cattle: that is, he gaie them food and provision for one year, for which they gave him their cattle, Gen. 47. 17. And Agar prays that God would feed him with food convenent for him; that he would fiverhish him with food suitable to his nocessities and occasions, Prov. 30. 8. Out feeding, generally in Scriptnee, is taken for the business and calling of a shepherd, and comprehends all the duties belonging to that office: not only that of feeding, or providing pasture for his flock, but also of guiding, observing, and defending them. In this sense, feeding is applied, 1. To God, and that (1) In respect of his thirt, which he rules, defends, directs, sustains, church, which he rules, defends, directs, sustains, church, which he rules, defends, directs, sustains, and nourshes, both inwardly, by the gifts and and unwanthes, both inwardly, by this gifts and graces of his Spirit; and unwardly, by his power and providence. Gen. 48, 15, The God which fed me all my life long unto this day. And the Psalmist, Feed them also, and lift them up for ever, Psal. 28, 9. Hence God is called a Shepherd, Psal. 23, 1. The Lord is my Shepherd: He provides for me, he brings me out of the wrong way, and guides me in the right. (2) In respect of the ungodly, upon them he executes his informatic Feed 34, 16. right. (2) In respect of the ungodly, upon whom he executes his judgments. Ezek. 34.16, I will feed them with judgments. And in Hos. 4.16, The Lord will feed them as a lamb in a large place; He will make them to wander, like a lost lamb in a wilderness, and scatter them into Assyria. (3) In respect of the creatures which receive their supplies wholly from God. Psal. 145. 15. The eyes of all wait upon thee, and thou givest them their meat in due season. Mat. 6.26, The fowls of the air neither sow nor reap, yet your heaveoly Father feedeth them. Father feedeth them.

Father feedeth them.

To Christ. 13a. 40. 11, He shall f.ed his flock like a shepherd. And our Saviour says of himself, I am the good Shepherd, John 10. 11. Christ Jesus performs all the offices of a tender and faithful Shepherd, towards his people, carrying himself with great wisdom, and condescension, and compassion, to every one of them, according to their several capacities and infirmities: He feeds them by his word, Spirit, grace, fulness, redemption, ordinances and providences.

1. To Man. And then beside the common ac-ceptation of the word, for feeding cattle, it is taken, (1) For instructing and teaching others taken, (1) For instructing and teaching others by wholesome doctrine; for ruling and censuring by ecclesiastical discipline. John 21. 15, 10, Feed my lambs: Feed my sheep. And in Jer. 3. 15. 1 will give you pastors according to mion heart, which shall feed you with knowledge and understanding. (2) For ruling and governing politically. Thus kings and magistrates are compared to shepherds, 2 Sam. 5. and governing politically. This kings and magistrates are compared to shepherds, 2 Sam. 5. 2, Thou shalt feed my people Israel. Psal. 78, 71, 11e brought David to feed Jacob his people.

To the enemies of the church, whom God V. To the enemies of the church, whom God sometimes makes use of for the chastisement of his people. Jer. 6, 3, The Bahylonian privaces, with their armies, shall feed every one in his place: They shall take up their quarters in the places assigned them, and make spoil of all they can find there.

'To such as flatter themselves with vain hopes of help and assistance. Hos. 12, 1, Ephraim selves with hopes of help from the Egyptians and Assyrians, but they are supporting themselves with hopes a unfit to nuclain them, as selves with hopes as unfit to sustain them, as the wind is to feed the body and nourish it: They made new alliances and friendships, but all of them will prove lies to them at last, like wind they feed upon.

To rulers, both political and ecclesiastical, 1. To rulers, both political and ecclesiastical, who contrive their own case, advantage, nonour, and ambitious projects; but feed not their fixed to know the take the care to support them, either with u hole to do, according to their respective offices.

PIECEPTI Let, 25, 10, and ye shall hallow the f. year 11, a jubilee shall that f. year be to you, not sow Angs15,23, in the f. year of Azariah king of Judah FIG. S.

The figuree and its fruit are well known; they were very common in Palestine, and there is mention often made of them in scripture. Our first parents covered their nakedness with fig-leaves, Gen. 3. 7. gathered either from common fig-trees, or from some of another kind, the leaves whereof are outh larger. This tree hath in it a milky or fact only liquor; it is very fruitful. M. Fournefort tays, that in the islands of the Archipelago, one of their fig-trees generally produces two hundred and four-scare pound-weight of figs. It becomes harren, either through the defect of the above-mentioned liquor, which the husbandman cures by dung and tiquor, which the husbandman cures by dung and sweet water; or through abundance thereof, which is remedied by causing the superfluons pure to extravasate. The prophet Isaiah gave orders to apply a lump of figs to Hezekiah's boil; and immediately after he was cured, 2 Kings 20.7. Physicians agree, that figs are employed with good success in bringing inposthames to a ripeness, to healing ulcers, quinsies, and sore throats: and it is pre-sumable that Hezekiah had some such disease, though the scripture makes no particular mention of it.

It is said, in Mat. 21, 19, that Jesus coming from Bethany early in the morning, and finning himself to be hingry, drew near to a fig-tree, with a design of gathering some figs; and seeing nothing but leaves upon it, he cursed it, and immediately it withered to the root. The generality both of the activity and modein interpreters have looked upon this action of our Soviou's, as a figure of the respection of the Jews. But a difficulty asises, from a passage which St. Mark adds to this history, that this was not a time for figs, Mark 11, 13. The earliest figs are in the months of July and August, and the least in September and October. But what is related monins of July and August, and the lotest in September and October. But what is related in the gospel came to pass four or five days before the passover, and consequently before the fifteenth day from the moon in March. This season therefore rus not a time to expect figs: why then doth our Saviour curse this tree?

solve this difficulty, some interpreters have translated this passage, For this was oot a year for figs; they had failed this year. But this ruther increases than lessens the difficulty; translated this why should our Saviour curse it, for having on my should our Savious curse it, for having on figs, when this was not a seasonable year for figs, when figs had failed this year? Others translate it thus, For there where he was a season for figs. To support this version, for ngs, when ngs has just he was, it translate it thus, For there where he was, it was a season for figs. To support this version, both the pointing and the common accents of the test must be changed, and the Evengelist

the test must be changed, and the Evangelist made to speak in too concise a minner, too different from the general style of St. Mark. But others say, that though this was not the time of figs, as se evident from St. Mark, yet there might be some of the forward kind, and our Sasions might presume so, seeing the tree full of leaves. It is certain that there are forward figs: Isaiah compares the beauty of Samaria on these early figs, which weomle our satural might pressure so, seeing the tree all of leaves. It is certain that there are forward figs: Isaiah compares the beauty of Samaria to these early figs, which people gathered, and atc as soon as they found them. Isa, 28, 4, As the hasty firnit before the summer, which when he that looketh upon it, seeth it, while it is yet in his band he eateth tup. And Hosea says, that the Lord found Itracl in the wilderness as the first ripe in the figstree at her first time, Hox, 9, 10. And Jeremiah describes them as excellent figs. Jer. 24, 2, One hasket had very good higs, even like the figs that are first ripe. Pliny acknowledges, that there is a sort of fig-tree already green, and always nith fruit upon it; some ripe, or very far advanced, according to the casion; and other in blossom or bads, Plin, 16, 13, cap, 8, and the, 15, cap, 18. In Palestine, where the winter is very mild, there might easily by formard figs in March; wherefore our Saviour might look for figs at this season upon a fig-tree that had leaves on; and his entiring the barren fig-tree upon this occasion. season upon a tigarree that had leaves on; and his entiting the barree figuree upon this occasion, is an exact figure of the rejection of the Jows. The figuree had only leaves upon it; herein it resembled the Jows, who had only the appearances of piety and religion. The figuree may be said to be culpable for not bearing fruit at a time when, according to its land. henjania to f. against Israel, & Chron. II. 1, 24. ye shall not f. against Israel, & Chron. Signifies, [1] To convert, or recover a thing that was lost, Luke 15, 8, 9, 32. [2] To invent, or discover, 2 Chron. 2, 14. [3] To know experimentally, Rom. 4, 1. Rev. 2, 2, [4] To obtain what we want and desire of God, Mat. 7, 7. [5] To come to, Job 3, 22. [6] To understand throughly, Joh 11, 7, [7] To do, or per form, Isa, 58, 13, [8] To seek, Job 33, 10. [9] To happen upon without seeking, Gen. 37, 15. [10] To choose and appoint, Acts 13, 22, [11] To turn to, or light on, Luke 4, 17, [12] To observe, Mat. 8, 10.

To find, is used sometimes for to attack, to sur prise one's enemies, to discover their ambushes. It is inderstood in this sense, Judg, 1, 5 they found Adont-besek in Beeck. They sent tacked him there. And, 1 Sam. 31, 3, accord ing to the Ilehrew, the archers belonging to the Philistines found Saul, they attacked him. In this sense some explain that passage in Gen. 30, 24, This was that Anah that found the mules in the wilderness. In the Ilehrew, the found the Emiss. These Emisms are believed to be powerful people; Deut. 2, 10, 11, The Emism and elivery in times nast a nearly mules in the wilderness. In the Ilebrew, he found the Emms. These Emins are believed to be powerful people; Deut. 2. 10, 11, The Emins dwelt thereio in times past, a people great, and many, and tall, as the Anakims, &c.c. who also were neighbours to the Ilorites here spoken of, as appears from Gen. 14. 5, 6. Abah therefore found a troop of these people; he supprised, attacked, and defeated them. Others render the Ilebrew word Jemim, which is no where else used, hy waters; that he found out some springs of water, which in those hot countries were rare and precious; or, hot waters, some hot and medicinal springs. Others again mules, as in our translation; that he found out the way of the generation of mules, hy the copulation of an ass and a mare. FINGER.

The finger of God rignifies his power, his operation. Pharaoh's magicians discovered the finger of God in the miracles which Moses wrought, Exod. 8. 19, This Legislator gas whe law written with the finger of God to the Hebrews, Exol. 31. 18, It was written immediately by the power or Spirit of God, and not hy any art of man. Our Saviour tays, he can out deatle by the finger, or Spirit of God, which hy any art of man. Our Saviour says, he case out devils by the finger, or Spirit of God, which out devils by the finger, or Spirit of hindom of he intimates was a sign that the hingdom of God was come; that God's spiritual government of his church was begun to be exercised among the lews by the Messiah, Luke 11.20.

the Jews by the Messiah, Luke 11.20. For put forth one's finger is a bantering, insulting, gesture. Isa. 58.9, If thou take away from the midst of thee the yoke, and the putting out of the finger. If thou take away from the midst of thee the chain or yoke wherewith thou overwhelment thy debtors, and forbear jointing at them, and using jeering and similaring gestures. FIRE

Is one of the four elements, which not only affords light and heat, but whereby likewise we try and purge metals. God hint often appeared in fire, and encompassed with fire; as when he shewed himself in the burning bush, and descended on mount Sinai in the midst of flames, than derings and lightning, Exod. 3, 2, 19, 18.

Fire is a symbol of the holiness and justice of God: The Lord thy God is a consuming fire, Deut. 4, 24. He shewed himself to his Prophets, Isaiah, Ezekiel, and St. Joho, in the midst of fire, Inc. 6, 4. Exek. 1, 4. Rev. 1, 14. The Psalmist describes the chariot of God as all in a flame, Psal. 18, 12, 13, 14. And it is said that God will appear in the midst of fire at his second coming, 2 Thess. 1, 8. Daniel stays, that a fivey stream issued, and came forth from before him; noting the speedy executing of his judgments, for the terror of the nicked and comfort of the gody. Dan. 7, 10. The vrath of God is compared to fire, Psal. 18, 8, and the effects of his wrath, which are war, famue, and other scourges, are decivibed under the same idea, Psal. 66. 12. Jer. 48, 45.

Urr Saviour is compared to fire, M. J. 3, 2. He are war, famine, and other scourges, are described under the same idea, PSAL 66. 12. Jer. 148. 45.

Unr Saviour is compared to fire, M.i. 3, 2, He is like a refiner's fire, and like fuller's soap, He shall consume the wicked by his judgments, and purity those who are sincere by his doctrine. The Holy Ghost is likewise compared to fire. Mat. 3, 11, He shall baptize you with the Holy Ghost and with fire. To verify this prediction, Jesus sent the Holy Ghost, who descended upon his disciples in the farm of tongues, or like sparks of fire, Acts 2, 3. It is the work of the Holy Spirit to enlighten, purify, and sonetrify the roul, and to inflame it with live to God, and seal for his glory. The angels themselves, as the ministers of God, or ecompared to a burning fire, speedy and irrestible in the execution of his commands, PSal. 104. 4. The Lord, or his angel, led the Israelites in their journey through the wilderness, under the form of a pillar of fire, Evod, 13, 21.

Fire from heaven fell frequently on the victimis tacrificed to the Lord, as a mark of his presence fire? who among us shall dwell with everlasting hurning? Lsa. 33, 14. And in chap. 66. 24, Their worm shall not die, neither shall their fire be quenched Our Saviour makes their fire be quenched. Our Saviour makes was of the same similitude, to represent the panishment of the damned, Mark 9, 44. He takewise speaks frequently of the eternal fire prepared for the devil, his angels, and remorse of conscience is the worm that will never die; and the wrath of God upon their souls and botes, the fire that shall never go out. There dies, the fire that shall never go out. There are likewise who mointain that by worm is to be understood a common, living, and material, be understood a common, living, and material, not on allegorical and figurative worm; and by fire, a real, elementary, and material fire. Among the maintainers of this opinion are Austia, Cyprian, Chrysostom, Jerome, &c. The word of God is compared to fire, Jer. 23, 29. Is not my word like a fire? It is full of tye and efficacy; like a fire, it warms, melts, and heals my people, and is posseful to consume the dross, and burn up the chaff and stubble. And the Anoxle saw the care many industries chall dross, and burn up the chaff and stubble. And the Apostle says, that every man's doctrine should be tried by fire, that is, by the light of the word, of what nature it is, whether it be true or false. sound and solid, or corrupt and frothy, 1 Cor. 3. 13. Fire is likewise taken for persecution, dissension and division. Luke 12. 49, 1 am come to send fire on the earth; that is, Upon my coming and publishing the gospel, there will follow through the devil's malice, and the corruption of men, much persecution to the pro-fessors thereof, and manifold divisions in the fessors thereof, and manifold divisions in the world, whereby men will be tried whether they be faithful or not. The church of God is compared to a fire. Obad. 18, The house of Jacob shall be a fire: The church shall subdue all her enemies. Carnul vain shifts of men's own devising, whereby they seek to support, relieve, and comfort themselves against the judgments denomined against them, are likewise companed to fire, Isa. 50. 11. Is are also the list, slanders, and other provoking speeches of nugodly men. Prov. 16. 27, And in his lips there is a burning fire.

FIRMAMENT.

It is said, Gen. 1, 7, that God made the firmament in the midst of the waters, in order to separate the inferior from the superior waters.
The word their used is rakiah, which is translated expansion, something expanded or firmalated expansion, something expanded or firma-ment, something firm and solid. The verh rakah, from whence rakiah is derived, signifies rakah, from whence rukinh is derived, signifies to spread metal with the hammer, to make flat, to crush to pieces, to beat. Moses nees this word to describe the gold, which was heaten in order to cover the ark and the tables of the Holy with it Exod. 39. 3. Num. 16. 33, 39. Isaiah, to denote the plotes of gold wherewith the tolds were covered, Isa. 40. 19, and the same prophet, and the Psalmist, to express the spreading forth of the earth, and its floating on the waters, for this was the conception which the Hebrews had of it, Isa. 42. 5. Psal. 136. 6. sal. 136. 6.

Psal, 136, 6.
This intimates, that by the word firmament, rakiah, the Hebrews understood the heavens, which, like a solid and immense arch (though it be soft and liquid) verted as a bank and basrier between the upper and lower waters;
and that the stars are set in this arch, like so many precious stones in gold and silter, Geo. i. 17. When firmament is taken to the security begang then by upper waters. silier, Geo. 1. 17. When firmament is taken for see starry heaven, then by upper waters is meant, that sen or collection of valers vlaced by God above all the visible heavens, and there reserved for ends known to himself. If by firmament, we understand the air, called the expansion, because it is extended far and wide; and the firmament, because it is fixed in its proper place, from whence it cannot be moved, unless by force; then by the superior valers are to be understood the waters in the clouds: And these may be said to be above the firmament or these may be said to be above the firmament or air, because they are above a considerable part

This word signifies, 1. That which is before another in respect of time; and then it is a word of order, and hath a reference to the second, third, jourth, &c. Mat. 10. 2, The first is Simon called Peter; that is, he was first called to be an apostle. And in 1 Cor. 15. 47, The first man is of the earth, the second is from heaven. 11. That which is chief, or most excellent. Rom. 3. 2, Chieft, because unto them were committed the oracles of God. Chiefty, in the original, is first, and shows the quality and excellence of the privilege here mentioned. So also in Luke 15. 22, Bring forth the best, in Greek, the first robe, A thing or person may be said to be first. (1) In number, Gen. 8. 5, 13. (2) In arder, Mat. 28. 1. (3) By creation, 1 Cor. 15. 47. (4) By generation, Deut. 21. 17. (5) In dignity, Dan. 6. 2 (6) In time, Heb. 9. 1.
FIRST-BON. This tored is not always to be understood etrictly according to the letter; it is terrations to the letter; it is terrations and the said to be for the letter; it is terrations.

(6) In time, libb. 9. 1.

IRST-BONN. This word is not always to be understood strictly according to the letter; it is semstimes taken for that which is first, most excellent, most distinguished in any thing. Thus it is said of Christ, Col. 1. 15, That he is the first-born of every creature. And in Rev 1. 5, he is called, The first-begotten of the dead; that is, begatten of the lather before my creoture us produced; and the first who rate from the dead by his own power. The first-born of the poor, Isa. 14. 30. signifies, the most miserable of all the poor; and in Job 18. 13, The first-born of death; that is, the most miserable of all deaths.

The first-born among the Hebrews, as well as among all other nations, enjoyed particular privileges; and as polygamy was in use with them, it was highly necessary to fix these rights. Mose regulates this particular in Deut, 21, 15, 16, 17. The privileges of the first-born consisted, (1) ha right to the priesthood, which, before the law, was fired to the eldest of the family. This right continued in force only while brethren dwelt together in the same place and family; for as soon as most terrible of all deaths. fixed to the eldest of the family. In it right continued in force only while brethern dwelt together in the same place and family; for as soon us they were separated, and made a family apart, every one became the priest and head of his own house. (2) The first-born had a double portion among his brethern. This is explained two way: Some believe that half of the whole inneritance was given to the elder histher, and that the other half was shared in equal parts among the iest. Fut the Rahburs say, on the centrary, that the first-born for his share took twice us much as any one of his brothers. If u ather left six sons, they made a division into seven equal parts; whereof the eldest had two and each of the others one. If the eldest was dead, and had left children, his right acvolved upon his children and his hers.

The firstling of an ass was redeemed by giving a lamb; if it were not redeemed, it was to be killed, Exod. 13, 13.

USENTRUETS to be weents were so colled.

INST-FRUITS. The presents were so called which the Hebrews made to God, consisting of FIRST-FRUITS. INST-RUITS. The presents were so called which the Hebrews made to God, consisting of part of the fruits of their harvest, to express their submission and dependence, and to acknowledge the sovercign dominion of God the author of all happiness. The day after the feat of the Vassover they brought a sheaf into the temple, as the first-fruits of the ba-ley-harvest. The sheaf was threshed in the court; and of the grain that came out they took a full homer; that is, about three pints, After it had been well winnoved, and braised, they sprinkled over it a log of oil; that is, near a pint. They added to it a handful of incave,; and the priest that received this offering shook it before the Lord towards the four quarters of the world; he cast part of it upon the altar, and the rest was his own. After this, every one might begin their harvest, leve. 23. 10, 11, &c. This was offered in the name of the whole nation, and by this the whole harvest was sanctified into them.

Vien the wheat harvest was over, that is, the day whole harvest was tanctified unto them.

When the wheat harvest was over, that is, the day of Pentecots, they offered again first-fruits of another kind in the name of all the notion,
which consisted of two loaves of two tenth-deals;

which consisted of two leaves of two tenth-deals; that is, of about three pints of flour euch. These loaves were made of leavened dough. FIRST-FRUITS of the Spirit, see EARNEST. FLESH.

Flesh is understood different ways, as, (1) For the flesh which is the matter of bodies, whether of men or animals, Lev. 13. 10. Num. 11. 33 of min or animals, Lev. 13. 10. Num. 11. 33.

(2) For fiving men, and even all animals in general, Gen. 6. 13, The end of all fiesh is come before me: I am resolved to destroy every thing that hath life; Gen. 7. 15, 16, They went in two and two of all flesh, that is, animals of all species. (3) Flesh is taken for a relation, one of the same stock or kindred, Gen. 37. 27, Let not ont hand be upon hin, for he is our flesh, he is our brother. And in 2 Sam 19. 12, 13, Ye are my bones and my flesh. Art thou oot of my bone, and of my flesh. Art thou oot of my bone, and of my flesh our own flesh; and where we may contemplate our own flesh; In this lutitude it is taken in 1sa. 53. 7, And that thou hide not thyself from thine own flesh; from thy neighbour, from any one of thine own nature, to whom thou (2) For tiving men, and even all animals in general, Gen. 6. 13, The end of all flesh is from thine own flesh; from thy neighbour, from any one of thine own noure, to whom thou hat an opportunity of doing good. (5) For mankind, considered as impotent and feeble, wealt to help either himself or others, Jer. 17. 5. Cured is the man that maketh flesh his awa; that depends upon any human power for help. (6) For For the quality of corruption, which is not stuful, but the effect of sin, to which our bodies are subject in this tife. 1 Cor. 15. 50, Flesh and blood cannot inherit the kingdom of God; that is, aur frail corruptible bodies cannot come to heaven: That which shall inherit heaven must be as incorrupt flesh, a body without corruption. (7) For the estate of this present life. Phil. 1. 24, To abide in the flesh is more needful for you. (8) For that which is according to the (1) For the estate of this present life. Fhil. 1.

24. To abide in the flesh is more needful for you. (8) For that which is according to the ordinary course of nature. Gal. 4. 23, He who was of the bond-woman, was born after the flesh. Ishmael was born after the manner of other men, by the mere and sole efficacy of nature, not by promise, as was Isaac, when his mother was naturally pust conception. (6) Hesh is taken for uhatsoever in man is reputed most excellent and glorious without the grace of Christ; os robelity, wisdom, understanding, or reason. Mat. 16. 17, Hesh and blood hath not revealed it unto thee: nothing of nature has done it. And in John 1. 13, Born pot of blood, nor of the will of the flesh: that is, neither by their descent from such and such ancestors, nor by the power of their own free-viell. (10) For all that in religion which is outward, and to be seen with the eye, as moral works or ceremonies, Rom. 4. 1, What nath Abraham found as pertaining to the flesh? The works or ceremonies, Rom. 4. 1, What nath Abraham found as pertaining to the flesh? The word flesh in the following verse, is explained to be the works of Abraham which did melyus-ify him before God. Thus Beza, Piscator, and Ezek.23. 20, paramours, whose f, is as f, of asset others interpret the place. And in this sense 24.10, heap on wood, consume the f, spice it well flesh is taken. Gal. 3. 4. Are ye dow made perfect by the flesh? that is, by works, and the earnal extensions of the law (11) For the ahole nature of man, at a trombt into the world, corrupt, vilt, and infected with sin, Rom. 7. 5. they said to it, arise, devon much f, corrupt, vilt, and infected with sin, Rom. 7. 5. they said to it, arise, devon off their bones are in the flesh; that is, in a carnal, corrupt Ezeh 1.17. their f, shall be poured out as dung tinte, such cannot please God, namely, white Likewise in all other places, where the world flesh is applied to men unregenerated, it signifies the whole corruption and depravity of our name, raging and reigning both in the nuderstanding and will. But in those places of ceriptine, where flesh is attributed to persons that Exek. 3. 9, spirit, hit signifies the remainter of naurant corruption. Sut in those places of serip-ture, where flesh is attributed to persons that are converted, and is set in opposition to the Spirit, it signifies the remainder of natural cor-Spirit, it signifies the remainder of natural cor-ruption, even so much of that viccious quality of sin, as is still unmortified in regenerated per-sons. See Rom. 7, 18, 25, 6a, 5, 17, 24. To he one flesh, denotes a most inseparable union, and an intimate communion, as if the two vere-but one person or one body. Gin. 2, 24, And and an intimate communion, us if the two were but one person or one body. Gen. 2. 24, And they shall be one il-sh. This phrase is used by the Apostle to shew the union and communion that is between Christ and believers, Eph. 5. 30, 31. Flesh also signifies the human nature of Christ. Il-b. 10. 20, Through the vail, that is to say, his flesh. It is called flesh, because it was subject to sunless wea (nesses and infirmities, and whereby his divine nature was reiled and covered over; even as the ark of the commant, the mercusseat, and the most holy was reiled and covered over; even as the ark of the covenant, the mercy-seat, and the must holy place, were by the vail. The flesh of Christ arguifter whole Christ, both God and Man in one person. John 6. 55, My flesh is meat indeed, that is, I myself, with all my benefits, being received and applied by faith. An heart of flesh denotes a tender, trastable temper and disposition of soil, Exek, 30. 20. Flesh is also taken for the outward appearance. John 8. 15, We induce after the flesh

FOUL,
FOUL, with knowledge; but a tool tayeth open ms folly. For as by produce a man so governs himself, and regulates his actions, as to avoid impending exits, and to obtain that good which is suitable to his necessities: so it is the effect of folly, not to prosess evils to prevent them, and to neglect the season of obtaining what is good.

n Yrov. 13, 20, Solomon opposes the fool to the wise man. He that walketh with wise men, shall he wise; but a companion of fools shall. shall be wise; but a companion of fools shall be destroyed. As it is with relation to the affairs of this tife; the man of pundence and conduct in his affairs, who takes the best method of managing things to his own, his family's and friend's, or any society's reputation, comfort, and advantage, and who minds his business more than his pleasure, is the wise vian: And the inconsiderate, heedless, slothful man, who neglects the principal affairs of life, or goes into improper or unlikely methods of managing them to advantage, or who minds his pleasure more than his business, is the fool for this world: So it is with respect to another world; the truly wise man is he who proposes the thingimmortal soil, as his highest end, and pursues them with the utmost care and diligence, in the way of God's appointment through Jesus Christ one only Saviour; and who weeks all things else with less whititude and concern, and in subordination to three. And the fool, on the other hand, is he, who makes something in this world his highest end and aim, and spends his chief time and care, concern and labour, about it, to the neglect of the whitiefly higher interests of God's glory and his own world everlacting happiness. So that the highest folly is justly charged upon every wifful impenitent sinner.

were alled by the name of fools, who, though they be godly, yet have much typorance with also are called by the name of fools, who, though they be godly, yet have much ignorance and unbelief remaining in them. O fools, and slow of heart to believe, says our Saviour to the disciples that were going to Emnaus, Linke 24. 25. And it is the character of ull men, as they are born possessed of untural ignorance and corruption. Tit. 2, 3, We ourselves were sometimes foolish. The Apostle says, 1 Cor. 4. 10, We are fools for Christ's sake: that is, we are accounted so but the wise. says, 1 Cor. 4. 10, We are 1001s for Christ's sake: that is, we are accounted so by the wise men of the world. And in Rom. 1. 22, he says, Professing themselves to be wise, they became fools: that is, While they pretended to, and heasted of more than ordinary windom, their learned men being at first unally called Solphists, or use men, though afterwards Philosophers that entertained and variety inists, or use men, though afterwards Philosophers, they entertained and vented many gross and absurd opinions and practices, and so shewed themselves to be read fools. The same apostle says, in 1 Cor. 1, PB, The preaching of the cross is to them that perish foolishness. The doctrine of Christ crueifid, to purchase eternal salvation for believers, is by unbelievers, that judge only according to carnal reason and sense, accounted an absurd, ridiculous, impossible sense, accounted an abstraf, ridiculous, impossible thing, and which mone in their wise will believe, necording to the principles of their philosophy. And in 1 Car. 2. 11, The things of God are foolishness to the natural man. He counts them the most foolish things in the world; he looks upon them as either rifling and impertient; or as containing means and ends disproportionate; or as undesireable in comparison of what man he seen in a convertition with them portionate: or as undesireable in comparison of what may be set up in competition with them. Is a part of the body well known. In old times is was enstomeny in weak the feet of strongers upon their coming off a journey, Gen. 18. 4. 19. 2. 12. 32. because generally they were barefuot, or wore sandals only, which did not secure them from the dust or dist. St. Paul enjoins enquiry to be made, whether the widows who were to be taken into the number of those who were to be taken into the number of those who were to be taken into the number of those who were to be taken into the number of those who were to be taken into the number of those who were to be taken into the number of those who were to be taken into the number of the same to give to the servants of God, I 'lim, 5. 10. Christ Jessey, to give us an example of humility, washed the feet of his physics; and thereby taught them to perform all the most humble services for one another, John 13. 5.

Feet, in the style of the sacred Writers, often mean inclinations, affections, propensities, ac-mean inclinations, a flections, propensities, ac-tions, motions. Eccl. 5. 1, keep thy foot when thou goest to the house of God. Pral. 36. 11, Let oot the foot of pride come against me. thou goest to the house of God. Pinl. 36. 11, Let oot the foot of pride come against me. Ind in Psal. 119. 59, I turned my feet unto thy testimonies. Also in Eph. 6. 15, And your feet shod with the preparation of the gospel of peace. To be at any one's feet, is used for obeying, being in his service, following him. Abigail tells David, that the presents which she brought him, were for the young onen that walked at his feet; for the soldiers who followed him, 1 Sam. 25, 427. Moses wys, Deut. 33, 3, that the Lord loved his people, and they sat down at his feet; Like scholars, they heard him, they belonged to him, they were taught and the was brought up at the feet of Gamaliel, dets 22, 3, And Many sat at our Saviour's feet and heard his word, Luke 10. 39. In Deut. 11, 10. it is taid, that the lond of Canaan is not like the land of Egypt, where the word is not like the land of Egypt, where the was are plentiful, where there are many springs, revulets, and brooks, without reckoung the river Jordan, which supply the earth with all the moisture that is necessary to its producing fruit; whereas Egypt is a country where there is no river but the Nile, where it never ruins, and where the lands which are not within reach to be watered by the mandations of this view, certinue parched, and barren. To supply rains, and where the lands watch are not within reach to be watered by the immoditions of this river, continue purched, and barren. To supplie this want, ditches are dug, and water distribu-ted throughout the several villages; the digging these ditches, and dispersing these mutors, create a great deal of letter to the feet.

But notwithstanding these precantions, there are many places which have no water; and in the course of the year, the places which are nearest to the Nile, require to be watered again in an artificial manner. It is done by the help of some machines, which Yhilo describes thus; It is a wheel which a man rarns nith the notion of his feet, by ascending successively the several steps which are within it. But as while he is thus continually turning, he cannot keen himself on he holds a stort to he has unite he is since constituting the unity, he can-mut keep himself up, he holds a stay in his hards which is not moveable, and this supports him; so that in this work, the hunds do the office of the feet, and the feet that of the hands: since the hands which should act, are at rest; and the feet which should be at rost, are in metion, and give motion to the wheel. This is what is meant by watering the earth with wicked man speaketh with his feet, says Solomon Prov. 6. 13. He uses much gesture with his hands and feet while he is talking; he secretly signifies to his componions his intentions or desires of some evil towards another person, which stes of some even towards amones person, amon he is afraid, or askamed to express openly. The ancient Sages blamed those who used two much exitendation, and spoke with all their members. Ezekiel reproaches the Aumonites with clapping their hands, and stamping with their feet ping their hands, and stamping with their feet in token of jey, upon teeing the desolution of Jerusaleon and the temple, Ezek. 25. 6. And in chap. 6. 11 he makes the same motions the steps of grief, because of the rain of his people, be propaet Isaish suys, Blessed are ye that sow beside all waters, that send forth thinher the feet of the ux and the ass, Isa, 32. 20.

Happy are the people that sow their corn upon a nell-watered soil, who with their ozen and osser plow a fat and fruitful land; or who feed there their ozen and their asses. To send out their there their osen and their asses. To send unt their feet, that is, to send them there, to feed them, to plow there with them. But this passage may be understood mystically, and seems to respect the times of the gospel: that is, Happy are the shortest and gospel-ministers, in comparison of those that lived before them, who shall find 2 some 14-25, none like Absalom, from the sole of the form the salout, from doing thy foot from the salouth, from doing thy flexaure on my holy day: This is taken, either properly, if them for bear alking, or manage them for the salouth from the salouth from the salouth, from the salouth, from the salouth, from doing thy flexaure on my holy day: This is taken, either properly, if them fortest unking, or

The apostle Paul, adscrising Timothy of what should come to pass in the latter times, says, 2 I'm, 3, 5, That there should be new who had a form of go liness, but deny the power thereof: They should have an ontward appearance and shew of religion, pretend to a right way of worshipping God; to be the church, the only church of God; and yet not only be destitute of, but reject and refuse the inner part, which is lively, active, and powerful to make a thorough chance. change.

change, It is said, Mark 16. 12, that ofter his resurrec tum, Jesus appeared in another form to two of his disciples: Another form either in regard of his habit, or brightness of his course, nance, or some such particular. And the apostle speaking of Christ, says, Phil. 2. 6, Who being in the form of God, thought it not robbery to be equal with God; that is, Who heing the essential image of the Little, and enjoyed. the essential image of the lather, and enjoying the divine essence and nature, with all its glory, knew that it was no usurpation in him, to account himself equal with the Futher, and to account himself equal with the Father, and carry himself upon all occasions as such: So by the form of God is meant his essence and nature. It follows in verse 7, But made hun-self of no reputation, and took upon him the form of a servant, and was made in the likeness of mea. Yet he emptied himself of that ness of mea. Let he emptied himself of that divine glory and majesty, by hiding it in the trait of his flesh; and took upon him the quality and condition of a mean person, not of a glorithed saint, or of some great mortal; and was subject to all the frailites and infimities of human nature, in only excepted.

FOUNDATION

Is the ground-work, or lowest part of a building, which supports the other parts; as the foundation of an house, of a castle, of a fort, tower, &c. Christ Jesus, both in the Old and Now Testament, is called a Foundation. Isa, 28. 10, Behold, I lay in Zion for a foundation, a stone, a tried stone, a precious corner-stone, a sure foundation. Christ is the foundation on which tion of an house, of a castle, of a fort, tower, &c. Christ Jesus, both in the Old and New Testament, is called a Foundation, Isa, 28, 11. Sor other, is can be man lay than is laid Behold, I lay in Zion for a foundation, a stone, a precious cornerstone, a sure foundation. Christ is the foundation on which the church as built; the foundation on which the church as built; the foundation of which the church as built; the foundation of which the church as the foundation of the coverant of Grace made with the church, and of all the primities contained therein; he is a sure foundation for the coverant of the will not fail them, nor deceive them; and he is the cornerstone that unites the several parts of the building together; he makes Jews and Gentiles, that once were implacable enemies, and Gentiles, that once were implacable enemies, and opposed to Christ, And the above mentioned passage in Isaiah is cited by St. Peter, and applied to Christ, I Pet. 2. 6.

1003 decree of election is the firm immovable foundation upon which the salvation of the depends. 2 Tim. 2. 19, The foundation of the above mentioned passage in Isaiah is cited by St. Peter, and applied to Christ, I Pet. 2. 6.

1004 decree of election is the firm immovable foundation upon which the salvation of the conduction of the apostles and prophets, it that foundation which they laid by their preaching and docteine, namely, Christ, whom they held forth at the only Saron and Head of the church. Eph. 2.20, Ye are built upon the foundation of the apostles and Foundation which is desired.

and prophets: Your faith is grounded upon the decirine delivered by them. Foundation 11 thewise taken for the first principles of Christianity, taught in an easy and plain method, 20 timity, taught in an easy and plain method, is as to make people of mean copacties to under-tiand them; such as concerning the necessity and nature of repentance and furth; the natur-institution, signification, and use of the sacraments; concerning the last judgment, and the like; these the apostle calls the foundation. Heb tike; these the apostle calls the loundation. Heb 6, 1, 2, Not laying again the foundation of 1e-pentance, &c. cind in Rom. 15, 20, The apostle says, So have I strived to preach the gospel, not where Christ was named, lest I should build upon another man's foundation should build upon another man's foundation I did not choose to preach the gopel, where the fundamentals, the first principles of seligion, had been taught by another, less I should seem to assume to myself the credit the to him. Heaven, which is the eternal inheritance of all believers, is described as a city which hath foundations, to denote that the state of the elect is now and their slow there, is now took in heaven, and their glory there, is not sub-ject to corruption, or the least alteration, Ileb, 11. 10, Abraham looked for a city which bath foundations, whose builder and maker is

God.

Magistrates are also called foundations. Psal.

82. 5. All the foundations of the world are out of course: All magistrates, rulers, and governors, that should settle and establish justice and order, have disturbed it by their irregular and disorderly proceedings. 2 Chron. 24, +27. concerning Joash f. the house FOUNTAIN

2 Chron. 24, 127, concerning Joash f, the house FOUNTAIN
Is properly the source or spring-head of waters. Metaphorically, God is called the fountain of living waters, Jer. 2, 13. Springs or fountains are called living, when they never cease, or rutermit, but ore always sending forth their waters: Such had God's core and kindness been over and to the hews, of nohum he complains, That they had forsaken him, the fountain of living waters. The blood of Christ, which washes believers from all nucleanness of sin, is called a fountain. Zech. 13, 1, In that day there shall be a fountain opened to the house of David, and to the inhabitants of Jerusalem, for sin and uncleanness. The tegal washings were but shadows and types of this matchless healing and purging bountain, namely, the blood of Christ, which never failed to heal any that ever used it. All sprinned graces and refreshments communicated by the Spirit, are also compared to a fountain. Juci 3.18. A fountain shall come forth of the house of the Lord, and shall water the valley of Shit im. As waters are of a cooling, refreshing, and frectiving nature, so these eiths 3. 18. A Jountain shall come forth of the house of the Lord, and shall water the valley of Shit im. As waters are of a cooling, refreshing, and fructifying nature, so these gifts and graces should make the most barren to become fruiful. Ind in John 7. 38, Ile that believeth on me, out of his bely shall flow rivers of living water. He shall be endued with the gifts and graces of the Spirit in a pleutiful measure, which shall not only refresh himself, but shall break forth, and be communicated to others, also for their refreshing. Fountains are taken for children, or posterry, Prov. 5. 16, Let thy fountains be dispersed abroad: May your posterity be numerous. In this passage fountains are put for streams or rivers flowing from them, by a metonymy of the cause for the effect. In the same sense it is used in Deut, 33, 28, The fountain of Jacob shall be upon a land of corn and wine: that is, the semple that proceed from Jacob. The title of fountains may be the more fifty given to in Deut, 33.28, The fountain of Jacob shall be upon a land of corn and wine: that is, the people that proceed from Jacob. The title of fountains may be the more fifly given to children, because as they are rivers in respect of their parents, so when they grow my, they also become fountains to their children. In Prov. 5. 18, fountain is put for a wife. Let thy fountain be blessed. Let thy wife be blessed with children; barrenness being esteemed a curse and reproach among the Israelites; Cr, let her be a blessing and confort to thee and wife a curse and a snare, as an harlot will.

he : or, let her be made happy by the enjoyment.

Solomon says, Prov. 13. 14, The law of the wise is a fountain of life, to depart from the snares of death; that is, the doctrine, instruction or counsel of a holy pions man, is a means to pesseve life, and to help men to depart from the snares of death. By spring and fountain in llos. 13. 15, are meant a prosperous condition, and all blessings which seemed to be for a continuance; Ilis spring shall become dry, and his fountain shall be dried up. Fountain is taken for the right ventricle of the heart, which is the spring of life, and of the vital spirits. Eccl. 12. 6, Or the putcher he broken at the fountain: This may be said, when the veius di not return the blood to the heart, but suffer it to stand still and cool within them, whence comes that coldness of the outward parts, when is a near foretuner of death. in Greek, Alopex, in Hebrew, Shual: It is a creature very well known, and very remarkable, principally for its cunning. There is mention made of it in several places of the Seripture. Our Saviour calls Herod the Tetrarch of Galilee, fox, signifying thereby his craft, and the refinements of his policy, Luke 13, 32, And to give an idea of his own estreme powerty, he says, The foxes have holes, and the birds of the air have pasts but the Son of mas both he says, The foxes have holes, and the birds of the air have nests, but the Son of mao hath not where to lay his head, Luke 9. 58. Ezekiel compares the false prophets with foxes. Ezek. 13. 4, Thy prophets are like the foxes in the deserts: whether it was his design to heighten their cunning and hypocrasy in mi-tating the true prophets, and so covering them-selves with skeeps' clothing, though they were selves with skeeps' clothing, though they were ravening wolves; or whether he intended to shew, that these false prophets, instead of supporting Jerusalem, endeavoured only to destroy it, by undermining its walls, and shaking its foundations, as foxes undermine the ground to make holes for themselvei. In the same sense, esducers and false teachers are compared to foxes. Cant. 2. 15, Take us the foxes that sould the view. spoil the vines.

spoil the vines, it is said, in Judg, 15. 4, 5. that Samson took three hundred foxes, which he tied two and two together by the tails, and that having fastened a firebrand in the middle of the cord which bound them so together, he let them loose ammy the cryps of standing corn belonging to the Philistines, and they hurnt them. From the fields they went into the olive yards, and burnt them likeuise. Some infidels are much scandalized at this history, and weethed it invertable that Samson could injusts are much scandalized at this history, and pretend it incredible that Samson condiminater up so great a number of foxes. But to this it is replied, that lives are very common in this country; which is proved from scripture, and the testimony of travellers. Solomon in his Song says, that the little foxes spoiled the vines, Cart. 22, 15. Leremiah cour that the his Song says, that the little foxes spoiled the vines, Cant. 2, 15. Jereniah says, that the foxes walk upon the moumain of Zion, which is desolate, Lam. 5. 18. There are some prois desolate, Lum. 5. 18. There are some pro-vinces and cities in Palestine which take their name from foxes, doubtless by reason of the great name from loxes, donoties by reason by the great number of these animuls thereabouts. For ex-ample: the land of Shual, or the fox, 1 Sam 13. 17. Hazar-shual, the fox's habitation, a city of Judah, or Simeon, Jud. 15, 98, 19, 3.
Belon says, that in Palestine, particularly about Casarea, there is a kind of creature between a wolf and a fox, which so abounds there, that sometimes troops of two or three hundred of them are to be seen. M. Morizon, who has travelled in this country, says, that foxes swarm there, in this country, says, that foxes swarm there, and that there are very great numbers of them in the hedges and ruins of buildings. Besides, Samson being so eminent a person, and the judge of Israel, might have employed abundance of people to catch this great number of foxes, and they might have provided them some time before for his purpose. Nor cau it at all perfect any man's reason or faith, if it be allowed, that the God who made the world, and by his singular providence watched over Israel, and intended them deliverance at this time, could easily dispose things so that they might be taken.

No onimal was fitter for his design, especially when coupled together in this manner; for a fox rans very swiftly, but uses a great many turnings and windings, not going straight on, but running sometimes on one side, sometimes on another, so that while one dragged one way, and another another way, they spread the five over all the fields of the Philistines, and could not easily get into the woods, or holes in the rocks, where their fire-brands had been extinguished, and Samson's stratagem rendered ineffectual. on another, so that while one dragged one way, and another another way, they spread the file inversal the inversal

Aday things are said concerning the craft and subtility of foxes. They lay their dung in the entrance of the bodger's den, and by that means they leave several outlets, that if the huntsman luys his mare at one, they may scape at the other. When sick, they eat the gum of yine trees, whereby they are not only cured, but their duys lengthened. It is said, that when they are days lengthened. It is said, that when they are pursued by hunters, they make urine on their tails, and strike them upon the dog's faces. Some having been taken in a gin by the leg, have bit it off, and so escaped; others have feigned themselves dead, till they have been feightee memseres across the may need been taken out, and then have run away. Being hungry, they feigh themselves dead, on whom the jouds lighting for prey, they snatch and devour thom. Many other things are storted of their cunning.

the scripture was infilled, which saith, Abraham believed God, and it was imputed to hir the scripture was fulfilled, which saith, Abraham believed God, and it was imputed to him for righteousness; and he was called the friend of God. This title is given him not only because God frequently appeared to him, conversed familiarly with him, and revealed secrets to him, Gen. 18. 17, Shall I hale from Abraham that thing which I do? But also because he exterted in a convence of wearing friendship. that thing which I do? But also because he entered into a covenant of perpetual friendship, both with him and his seed, vien 12. 2, 3, 17. 2, 4, 7. and especially because he renewed the covennut with him, upon the sacrificing of his son Isaac, and confirmed it by an oath, and thereby admitted him to a nearer degree of friendship and communion, Gen. 22. 16, 17. &c. And it is upon this trial of Abraham's obedience, namely, the offering up of his son, that the apostle James quotes the passage, where Abraham is called the friend of Cod, Jam. 2, 21, 22, 23. 2. 21, 22, 23.

Dur Saxionr calls his apostles friends. John 15, 15, But I have called you friends; he adds the reason of it, for all things I have heard of my Father, I have made known unto you. As men used to communicate their counsels and their whole mind to their friends, especially in things which are of any concern, or may be of any advantage for them to know and understand; so I have retreated to you whatanderstand, so induce electrical to you conti-socret is necessary for your instruction, effice, confort, and salvation. And this title is not peculiar to the apostles only, but is common with them to all true believers, Cant. 5. 1, Use Official. O friends.

Eat, O friends, The friend of the bridegroom, is the bride-man; he who does the howours of the wedding, and leads his friend's spouse to the nuptial bed. John the Baptist, with respect to Christ, and his church, was the friend of the Bridegroom; hy his preaching he prepared the people of the Jews for Christ, John 3, 29.

Friend is a word of ordinary salutation, whether to friend, or foe. He is called friend who had to friend, or foe. He is called friend who had not on a wedding-garment, Mat. 22.12. And our Saviour calls Judas the traitor, friend, Mat. 26, 50. FRONTLETS.
These were space pieces of hard caif's skin, including four pieces of parchment, upon which the Jews wrote four passages of the law, and hound them with strings on their foreheads. The four passages which they wrote are these: On the first piece of parchment, Exod. 13. from verse 2. to 10. On the second, Exod. 15. from verse 11. to 16. On the third, Dent. 6, from verse 4. to 9. And on the fourth, Dent. 11. from verse 13. to 21. Opinious are much divided whether the use of frontlets, and other phylacteries, was ordained by Moses, as an observance to which the Jews were obliged, ond such as required a literal compliance, withat the Hebrews have at all times norn them; or have been obliged to wear them.

They who believe the use of them to be rigorously or have been obliged to wear them. They who believe the new of them to be rigorously binding, ground their persuasion on the text of Moses, which speaks of it in a positive manner, as of other precepts of the law; he requires that the commandments of God should be for a sign on their hands, and as frontlets between their eyes, Deut. 6.8.

a sign on their indias, and as frontlets between their eyes, Deut, 6, 8. But the generality of interpreters on the contrary maintain, that the precepts of Moses which mention these writings on the doors, the signs upon their hands, and frontlets between their year, should be taken in a figurative and allegorical sense; as meaning that they should be very coreful to preserve the remembrance of God's law, and abserve his commands; that they should always have them before them, and never forget them. It is certain that before the Bahylonish capitivity, not the least jootsteps of them were to be seen in the history of the lews. The prophets never inveighed against the omission or neglect of tais practice; not was there ever any question concerning them in the eformation of manners at any time proposed among the old Hebrews.

mitest the reality and sencerity of repentance, Mat. 3. 8.
The fruits of the Spirit are those gracious habits which the Holy Spirit of Cond produces in those in whom he dwelleth and worketh, with those acts which flow from them as naturally as the tree produces its fruit. The oposite enumerates these fruits in Gal. 5. 22, 23. But the fruit of the Spirit is love, both to God, and our neighbours; joy, or a delight in God, arising from a sense of our interest in him; peace with God, quictule of conscience, and a peaceable disposition towards men, as opposed to strife, variance, emulation, Sc.; long-suffering, pattently bearing, and forgiving many provocations and injuries; this is opposed to abstinces to revenge, gentleness, or an affahleness, and easiness to be entreated, when any one has wranged us; goodness, kindness, freeudliness, or readiness to do good to others; faith, or faithfulness, to speak nothing but the truth, and to perform all our engagements; mechness, fobearance of passion, rash unger, ond hastness of spirit; and temperance, or a curbing of all carnal desires, and a sparing use of all sensual delights.

The apostle in Eph. 5. 9. comprehends the fruits of the sanisfying Spirit in these three things

(1) Goodness, which so that quality or disport-(1) Goodness, which is that quality or disposition which is contrary to malice and wicked ness; or it may mean benignity and bounty (2) Righteousness, which is opposed to injustice, whereby one becomes hurtiple to another through deceit, cavetonisness, appression, and violence. (3) Truth, which is apposed to errors here, heresies, hypocrisy, both in common adjust, and also in matters of religion.

degree of the knowledge and enjoyment of 'ciod, and immediate influence from him, and an entire confirmity to him.

The fulness of Christ, is the infinite treasures of grace and mercy with which he was filted. John 1, 16, 0f his fulness have all we received. And whereas men are said to be filled with the Holy Ghost, as John the Baptist, Luke 1, 15, and Stephen, Acts 6, 5. This differs from the fulness of Christ in these three resuccis, (1) Grace we are Switch to nothers his verticipation: and Stephen, Acts 6.5. This differs from the futness of Christ in these three resuccts (1) Grace and the Spirit be in others by pertecipation; at the moon hath her light from the sou, vivers their waters from the fountain, and the eve its sight from the soul; but in Christ they be originally, naturally, and of hunself (2) luther of the continuity, and they be infinite and above measure, John 3, 34. But in the saints by measure, John 3, 34. But in the saints by measure, John 3, 34. But in the saints by measure, John 3, 34. But in the saints on the saint for the gifts of God, Eph. 4, 16. The moon is full of light, but the sun it more full; rivers are full of waters, but the sea more full. (3) The saints cannot communicate their graces to others; whereas the gifts of the Spirit be in Christ as an head and formation, to impart them to his members. John 1. 16, We have received of his fulness. John 1. 16, We have received of his fulness, John 1. 16, We have received of his fulness, John 1. 16, We have received of his fulness, John 1. 16, We have received of his fulness, John 1. 16, We have received of his fulness, John 1. 16, We have received of his fulness, John 1. 16, We have received of his fulness, Inc. of Christ, and that really, essentially, or substantially, and also personally, by merest union, as the soul dwells in the body, or that the same person who is man, is God also. The church is called the fulness of Christ, Eph. 1. 23. It is the church which makes him a complete and perject Head, and without which he would account himself but empty and maimed, as it were; for though he has a natural and personal fulness, are food; yet as Mediator, he is not full and complete without his mystical hody, (as a king is not complete without his subjects) but receives an outward relative and hous tical fulness from his members. And then the church which finess, are manifest and set forth his fulness, reviug as an empty vessel for him to fill and to helve his fulness in and this he does.

the church does manifest and set forth his fulness, serving as an empty usesol for him to fill and to shew his fulness in; and this he does, by bringing every member to his full stature; by dispersing all variety of gifts and graces among them; and by bringing them all to heaven at last, so that not woe shall be wanting. How much more their fulness! Rom, 11, 12, 14 the fall of them be the riches of the world, and the diminishing of them the riches of the

and the diminishing of them the riches of the Gentiles; how much more their filness? If the falling away of the lews, from being God's weonle, through their rejecting the gaspel, and the small number of helivers among them, was the occasion of God's manifesting his abundant grave in the conversion of the Gentiles, and spreading the knowledge of Christ all the world over; how the knowledge of Christ all the world over; how much more shall a general conversion of the Jews, towards the end of the world, confirm the faith of the helieving Gentiles, and also be a means to convert those of them that do not yet believe, all over the world? Is a bitter juice, one of the humours in the body of a man and beast. It is put for any thing that it bitter and pernicious. Job 20, 14, Yet his meat in his bowels is turned, it is the gal. of asps within him: It will be very panylut and destructive to him at last. Posl. 69, 21, They gave me gall for my meat; or position, or hitter herbs. St. Matthew says, that they gave our Saviour vioegar to drink mingled with gall. Mat. 27, 34, St. Mark culls it wine mingled with myrth, Mark 15, 23. It is generally thought that the gall and myrth signify but one and the same thing, that is, something that was very bitter. It is said to have been an ordinary custom to girt dying perhave been an ordinary custom to give dying pernow ocen an orasinary custom to gue dying persons some uncorrenting position, to make them less sensible of their pain. To give water of gall to drink, denotes some very butter afficeion. Jer. 8. 14. Their grapes are grapes of gall, Deut, 32, 32. Their fruits, or actions, are to drink, denotes some very other agricultus. Jer. B. 14. Their grapes are grapes of gall, Deut. 32. 32. Their fruits, or actions, are displeating to God, malicious and mischievens to others, and will at last be pernicious to themselves. A root that beareth gall, Deut. 99, 18. may denote some secret and soldt edolaters, who might secretly infect and poison others, by drawing them to idolatify; which will produce bitter fruits, how pleasant tower it may be for the present. To be in the gall of bitterness, and hond of iniquity, is to be in a sterness, and hond of iniquity, is to be in a sterness, and form of hypocrity and ambition. GARDEN

Is a plot of ground furnished with plants, flowers, s.e. Gen. 2.15. The church is resembled to a garden, Cant. 4. 12, [5.1, As a garden is taken out of the common waste ground to be appropriated to a more particular use, so the church of Christ is chosen from among the rest of the world to a particular use. In a gardon well-interest. rect of the world to a particular use. In a garden nothing that is good comes up naturally of itself, but as it is planted and set; so mathing is good in the heart, but what is planted and set by the heavenly Husbandman. In a garden nothing uses to be planted, but what is useful and delighful; so there is no grace in the heart of a Christian but what is useful and necessary. In a garden there are variety of flowers and spices; so in a Christian there, is somewhat of seven stace. tian there is somewhat of every grace. A men delight much in their gardens, to walk there and take their pleasure, and take care to fence week materials. there was take near preasure, and take care to fence, weed, water, and plant them; so Christ's care and delight is for his church. As gardens use to have fountains and streams running through them, as Paradise had four streams which ran through it; so the church is Christ's Paradise which ran through it; so the church is christs by Paradis, and his Spirit is a spring in the midst of it, to refresh the souls of believers.

A garden stands always in need of weeding and dressing; so in the hearts of Christians, Christ hath always somewhat to do, they would be a week as a suggestion and turn wild. The Christ hath always somewhat to ac, we would else soon be overgrown and turn wild. The prophet Isaiah upbraids the Jews with the abountations and acts of idolutry which they committed in their gardens. Ve shall be confounded for the gardens which ye have chosen, Isa. 1. 29. These gardens were either couse-crated to idols, or were such as the heathens Crated to toots, or were such us the measurements worshipped idds in; there they sacrificed, Isa. 65. 3. after which they thought that they recrew well purished, when they had washed themselves in the water, Isa. 66. 17.

GATE

Is the entrance into a house or city. Judg. 16, 3 amson took the doors of the gate of the city The word gate is aften used in scripture to de-note the place of public assemblies, where justice was administered. One particular plant of these judgments is to be seen in that, which as given at the gate of Beth-lehem, between oar, and another person, a relation of Naomi's, was given at the gate of hydrocenin, eventually boar, and another person, a relation of Naomi's, upon the subject of Ruth's marriage, who was a Moalitess, litth 4.1. And in Abusham's purchase of a field to bury Sarah, Gen. 23. 10, 18. Jerom says, that as the dews uere for the most part employed in labouring in the field, it was wisely provided, that assemblished which the held at the citin gates, and justice thought be held at the citin gates, and justice. field, it was wisely provided, that assembles should be held at the city gates, and justice administered there in a summary manner, that those laborious men, who were busy at their work, might lose no time, and that the country

The word gate is likewise sometimes put to signify power or dominion. God pramises Abraham, that Ars posterity should possess the gates of that Ass posterity should possess the gates of their enemies, their towns, their fortesses, Gen. 22, 17. They should conquer them, they should have dominion over them. The gates of hell shall not prevail against the church, Mat. 16, 18, that is, meither the power nor pulcy of the devil and his instruments. For rottey of the devil and his instruments. For the gates of cities were the places both of parisdiction or judicature, and of fortification and chief strength in var, Judg. 5. 8. Psal. 147, 13. The gates of brass, are the stronget helps and defences. Psal. 107, 16, He hath broken the gates of brass; he restored them to tiberty, in spite of all impediments and oppositions. The strait gate signifies regeneration and acoustics, under two holiness in heart and life, which weaver the soul for heaven.

ation and conversion, and true hatiness in heart and tyje, which prepare the sund for heaven. Mat. 7, 13, Enter ye in at the strait gate, the gates of death are the brink, or mouth of the grave. Psal. 9, 13, Thou that liftest me up from the gates of death, that preservedst me when I was, as it were, dropping into the grave, slad king Hexekialt, having received a message of death, represents in his hymn the condition he had been in when he was sick, and expresses timelf thus: I said, I shall go to the gates of the grave; I perceive I must die, without any hopes of prevention, Isa. 33, 10. The Helvews looked upon death, or the grave, as a place, hopes of prevention, Isa. 38. 10. The Hebrew's looked upon death, or the grave, as a place, whithen people came from all parts of the world, there to enter upon another life. The gates of cighteousness, Psal. 118, 19, are those of the Lord's tabernacle, where the righteous, the winns, the priests of the Lord, the true Israelites, paid their vows and praises to the Lord; where wome were to enter but purified Israelites, a nation of righteous men. The gates or everlassing doors mentioned in Psal. 24.7, 9, are either the vates of the temple, which by faith lawing doors mentioned in Psal. 24, 7, 9, are either the gates of the temple, which by faith und the spirit of prophecy David beheld as already built; these gates he bids lift up their heads, to receive the glorious King Jehovah, who dwelt in the temple, and between the chembers: Or the passage may admit of a mystical sense; for as the temple was a type of Christ, and of his church, and of heaven stoel; so this place may also contain a peresentation, either of Christ's entiance into his church, or into the heaves of his faithful people, who are here commanded to set open their hearts and sonte for his reception: Or, it may represent his accussion into heaven, where the saints or angels are position that the introduced as preparing the way, and nno heaven, where the saints or angets are po-etically introduced as peparing the way, and opening the heavenly gates to reveive their Lord and King, returning to his royal habitation with triumph and glory. ien. 22.17 thy seed possess the g. of enemies, 24.60. 28.17. from the Greek word Genealogia," which lomes from the Greek word Geoealogia, which stephies a list of our ancestors, a description of the stock, lineage, or pedigree of any person or family. The common Hebrew expression for it es Sepher toledoth, Liber generationis. The Hebrews were tery careful in preserving their genealogies; and perhaps there never was any nation more circumspect in this joint than that of the Jews. At this day we find genealogies in their sacred writings, carried on for above three thousand five hundred years; and in the Evangelists we have the genealogy of Jesus Christ deduced for fur thousand years, from Adam to Joseph or Mary, Luke A. 23, &c. The Jews were very exact in their genealogies, party from their own choice and interest, that they from their own choice and interest, that they ly from their own choice and interest, that they might preserve the distinctions of the several nice, preserve the activations of the secral tribes and families, which was necessary both to make out their claims or titles to offices or in-heritances, which might belong to them by death, heritances, water might belong to them by seein, or otherwise; and to govern themselves thereby in the matter of marriages, and some other things, wherein the practice of some laws required the knowledge of these things: It is observed in Exa 2.62, that such priests as some not able to made on water open above of observed in Era 2.02. that such priests as were not able to produce an exact genealogy of their families, were not permitted to exercise their function: This their exactness was likewate ordered by the special providence of God, that so it might be certainly known of what tribe and family the Messiah was born.

tribe and family the Messiah was born. loosphus says, that they had in his nation an uninterrupted succession of priests for two thousand years. He adds, that the priests were particularly careful to preserve their genealizies, and that not only in Judea, but also in Bahylon and Egypt; and wherever they were, they never married below themselves, and had exace genealogical tables prepared from those authentic manuments which were keyt at 220.

the that y ditgent in securing those monuments, and to renew them from time to time. Notwithstanding, since the war which the Romans carried on against the Jews, about thirty years after the douth of our Saviour, and since their entire dispersion in the reign of Adrian, the Jews have lost their ancient genealogies; and perhaps there is not one of those who say they are of the succeptant race, that is able to produce any anthentic proofs of his genealogy. Jerom says, that the Jews are so versed in the reading of their books, and know so perfectly the genealogies, which are there set forth, that they can repeat all the nomes from Abraham to Zernbbabel, as easily as they can pronounce their own. St. Faul seems to condemn the affectation of knowing old genealogies: he looks upon them to be useless and vain, as in reality they are, when they serve only for estention, and not for edification: This study was of and not for edification: This study was of great use before the Messiah came, that it might be known distinction. he was born; but he being come, that it might be was born; but he being come, this study is tain, though still the Jews are addicted to it.

tain, though titl the Jews are addicted to it. The genealogues set down by Erra and Nehemiah, in some particulars vary: The reason whereof is assigned by Dr. I'ridewax in these terms. "For the time settling of these genealogies," says he, "search was made by Nehemiah for the old registers, and having among them found the register of the genealogies of those, who the old registers, and having among them foind the register of tho genealogies of those, who came up at first from Babylon with Zerubbabel and Joshua; he settled this matter according to it, adding such as afterwards came up, and expanging others, ubose families were extinguished: and this hath caused the difference that is between the accounts which we have of these genealogies in Expa and hemminh. For in the second chapter of Expa, we have the old register made by Zerubabel' and is the second content. and in the seventh of Nehemiah, the sixth verse, we have a copy of it, as tettled by Nehemiah, with the alterations that are now mentioned." Prideaux's Connection, Part 1. Book VI.

This word is used for the history and genealogy of any man. For example: Ihis is the book of the generations of Adam, Gen. 5. 1. This is the history of Adam's creation, and that of his posterity. These are the generations of the heavens and of the earth, Gen. 2. 4. This is neavens and of the creating of haven and earth, And in Mat, 1. 1, The book of the generation of fosses Christ, the Son of David, This is the genealogy of Jesus Christ, and the history of his life, death, and resurrection. It is likewise taken iye, death, and resurrection. It is thesise taken for persons or people who live in some one age. Heli, 3. 10, I was grieved with that generation; with those men that came out of Egypt, and rebelled against me in the wilderness. Mat. 24. 34, This generation shall not pass, till all these things be fulfilled. All who are at posent living, shall not be dead, when this shall come to pair. There are some at this day living, who shall be witnesses of the evils which I have foretold shall winesses of the evils which I have toretold shall befall the Jews. The men of this generation, the men who are now alive, Luke 11, 31. O faithless and perverse generation! Luke 9, 41. Ind., save yourselves from this untoward generation, from these perverse men. Acts 2, 40, To generation and generation, denotes future ages, Psal. 33, + 11. Who shall declare his generation! Isa. 53, 8. Who can declare or number the Messiah's spiritual seed, the number of those who shall believe in him, and be converted to him by the preaching of the gospel? Generation is also taken for men of like quality and disposition, though wither of one place nor age. Psal. 24, 5, God is in the gene attent of the righteous.

The Hebrews call the Gentiles by the general name of Goim, which signifies the nations that have not received the faith, or law of God. All who are not lews, and circumcised, God. All who are not Jews, and circumcrises, are comprised under the word Colim. Before Christ, the door to life and justification was opened to the world by the belief only and protession of the Jewish religion. Those who were converted, and embraced Judaism, they called tession of the Jewish religion. Those who were converted, and embraced Judaism, they called Protelytes. Since the preaching of the gospel, the true religion is not confined to any one nation and country, only, as heretofore. God, who had promised by his prophets to call the Gentiles to the faith, with a superubundance of grace, has executed this promise: So that the Christian church is composed of scarcely any other beside Gentile converts; and the Jews, who were too proud of their particular privileges, for the most part have been abandoned to their reprohated sense of things, and have disouned Jesus Christ their Messiah and Redeemer, for whom, for so many ages, they wished deemer, for whom, for so many ages, they wished deemer, for whom, for so many ages, they wished deemer, for whom, for so many ages, they wished attowned Jesus Christ Inert Messian and Redemer, for whom, for so many ages, they wished so impatiently.

The apostle Paul generally comprehends the Gentiles under the name of Greeks, Rom. 1. 16. Jew and Greek signify Jew and Gentile. See also Rom. 2 9, 10. 13. 9, 10. 12, 1 Cor. 1. 22, 24. Gal. 3. 28. And St. Luke, in the Acts, espressed himself in the same manner, Acts 11. 20. 18. 4. St. Paul is commonly called the Apostle of the Gentiles, or the Greeks, 1 Tim. 2. 7. because he was principally tent to idolarious people, to preach Christ to them; whereas Sr. Peter, and the other diposities, weached more generally to the Jews; for which reason they are called the Apostles of the circumcision was committed unto me, as the gospel of the circumcision was not Peter.

The old prophets declared in a very particular

In old prophets declared in a very particular manner the calling of the Genthes. Jacob foretold, that when Shiloh, or the Messiah should come, to him should the gathering of the people he; that is, the Gentiles should yield obedience to Christ, and acknowledge him for their Lord and Saviour. And how smeetely and heartily the ancient and godly Jews desired the conversion of the Gentiles, may appear from the prayer which Solomon addresses to God, 230

In the New Testament we see the Gentiles came sometimes to Jerusalem to worship God there, Some of these arriving there a little before the death of our Saviour, addressed themselves to Philip, desiring thim to shew them Jesus, John 12, 20, &c. Philip told Andrew, and both of them informed Jesus; who anwered them, the hour is come, that the Son of man should be clorified: that is, Do the Gentiles seek me! glorified; that is, Do the Gentiles seek me glorified; that is, Do the Gentiles seek me? why, the time approaches wherein I shall be glorided by their conversion, and owning of me, but I must die first, like n grain of corn, and from thence will spring up a plentiful crop among the Gentiles. this word Nephilips, Eninintoutes, men who attack, who fall with impetuosity upon theirs enemies; a translation, says one, which renders very well the whole force of the Hebrew term. Symmachus translates it Biaiot, violent men, cruel, whose only rule of their actions is ziolence, and force of arms. he Scripture calls them sometimes Rephaims. For example: Chedorlaomer and his allies beas the Scripture calls them sometimes Rephalms. For example: Chedorloomer and his allies beas the Rephalms, or giants, at Ashteroth Karoaim, Gen. 14. 5. The Emins, ancient inhabitants of the land of Moah, were of a giantic stature, they were of the number of the Rephalms or guants, Deut. 2. 10, 11. The Rephalms, and the Perizzites are joined together as old inhabitants of the land of Canaan, Gen. 15. 20. Job says, that the ancient Rephalms mourn or groan under the waters, Job 26. 5. These giants of the old world, who once carried themselves insolently towards God and men, but were quickly inbdued by the divine ywer, and drowned with a deluge, do now murn or groan from under the waters where they were hured, the paths of a debauched woman lead to the Rephalms, that is, to helt, where the rebellions giants are; and that he who deviates from the easys of reisdom, shall go and dwell in the arcest of the givent of the seases of the givent of the seases of the sinter that the 18 the states of the same of the seases of the sinter that the 18 the same of th

They duelt at Hebron, and thereabouts. Their stature was so much above what was common, that the Israelites, who were sent to view the promised land, told the people at their return, that they had een glants of the race of Anak in this evantry, who were of so monstrous a size, that the Israelites, in comparison, were but grass-

he Septuagint sometimes translate the Hebrew word Gibbor, grant, though literally it signifies no more than a strong man a man of valour and bravery, a warrior. For example: they say that Nimrod was a giant before the Lord, Gen. 10. 8 9. That the sun ruses like a giant to run its course, Psal. 19. 5. That the Lord will aestroy the giant and the, warlike man, Isa. 3. 2. That he will call his giants Lord will aestroy the giant and the warlike man, 1sa. 3. 2. That he will call his giants in his wrath, to take vengeance of his evennes, 1sa. 1s. 3. That he will destroy the power of Egypt by the sword of his giants, that is, of warriors, Ezek. 32. 12 21, 27. s to the existence of giants, several writers, both ancient and modern, have imagined, that the giants spoken of in Scripture were indeed men of an extraordinary stature, but not so much above what was common as they have men of an extraordinary stature, on much above what was common as they have faucied, who describe giants as three or fow the larger than men are at present. of their stature, it is very probable, that the first men were all of a strength and stature much superior to those of mankind at present, since they lived a much longer time; long life being commonly the effect of a strong and vigorous constitution, that that formerly there were men of a stature much above that of common men, cannot be deviced as the status of without constructed the much above that of common men, cannot be or-niced, at least not without contradicting the holy Scriptures. The Israelites who traversed the Holy Land, told their brethren, that they had seen giants in this country of Anak's race, who were so unmeasurably large, that other men who were so unmeastrably large, that other men were but grasshoppers in comparison to them, Num. 13. 33. Moses speaks of Og the king of Bashan's bed, which was nine cubits long, and four wide; that is, fifteen feet four inches and a half long, Deut 3. 11. Goliath was six cubits and a span in height, that is to say, ten feet teven inches, I Sam. 17. 4. These sorts of giants were still common in Joshua's and David's times, when the life of men was already so much shortened, and, as may be presumed, the size and strength of human budies were very much diminished. Besides the giants, mentioned in Scripture, several Historians make mention of giants; as Ilerodotus, Diodorus Siculus, Pliny, Ilomer, Plutarch, &c.

Christ; others understand the gospel, by which the hearts of men are subdued, effectually sexposed, and inclined to obey the will of God:
Others think it is to be understood of that habit of brotherly love, which from the Spirit of Christ, by the gospel, was wrought in the hearts of these Coriuthians.

The priest's girdle or sash was of several colours, af gold, of blue, and purple and scarlet, and fine twined linen, Exod. 28 4, 8. Josephus says. that the priests wore it upon their breasts, under their arms; that a kind of slower-work was there represented, with threads of purple, scarlet, and hyaciuth; that it went twice round scaled, and hyaerith; that it went twice round the body, was tied before, and the ends hing down to the feet, to render the priests more venerable. When they were in the act of sacrificing, oney threw this girdle over the left shoulder, that they might perform their effice with the entire feeten.

The girdle, was used formerly for a purse, as appears from Mat. 10. 9 where our Saviour forbids his Apostles to carry money in their purses, or girdles. These girdles were large and hollow, much like the cast skin of a terpent, or an es.

Our Saviour says, Luke 12, 35. Let your loins be girded about; that is, be always prepared for any service that God requires of you, and diligent about it: be like servants who are ditigent about it: be the servants who are graded, and ready to obey their master's commands, or like soldiers who want for orders from their commanders. The Aposset Paul, describing the Christian's armour, makes truth the girdle of the loins. Eph. 6.14, Hawing your loins girt about with truth; that is, Let your minds and spirits be strengthened and established with summares, of indement and and established with soundness of judgment and sincerity of heart, and in stedfastly endeacouring to have a conscience void of offence towards God and men. This is the title prepixed to Psahus 8, 81, and 84 Exed. 28, 40, thou shalt make for Aaron's sons g.

This is the title prefixed to Psalms 8, 81, and 84 The conjectures of interpreters are various con-cerning this word. Some think it signifies a sort of musical instrument, or time to which they were set; others, that the hymns of this kind were invented in the city of Gath; others, that Gittish signifies wine-presses, and that the Psalms with this title were sung after the vintage; others that if wine-presses were meant by it, it should that I wine-presses were meant by it, it should be Gitteth; and that Gitteth signifies a wo man of Gath; and that these Psalms were given to the class of young women, or songstresses of Gath, to be sing by those. But Hammond thinks that the Psalms with this

To glorify, signifies to make glorious. Rom.

8. 30. Whom he justified, them he also glorified. Thus God glorifies the elect, by adorning them with gifts and groces in this adorning them with gifts and groces in this adorning them with gifts and groces in this 13.48. Gentiles heard this, they g, world of Lord world, and hy bringing them to the full possession of glory and blessedness in the ather world. When man is said to glorify God, it is not to be understood as if he could add any thing to God's essential glore: But we may be Gal. 1 24 and they g. God in me said to glorify God, when we acknowledge him to be giorious, and ascribe to him the glory of every excellency whether of nature or grace, and confess that he is worthy to receive honour glory, might, and majesty. Rev. 4, 11. If han we confess that all the glory, gifts, and dignity which we have above other men, are given us of God, 1 Chron. 29, 11, 12. If hen we are willing to abase ourselves in the achundelegment of our own vileness, that God may be magnified in any of his attributes or ordinances by in of our own reteness, that God may be magnified in any of his attributes or ordenances by it. Jer. 13. 16. Mal. 2. 2. When we believe God's promises, and wait for the performance of them though we see no means likely for their accomplishment, Rom. 4. 20. When we publicly acknowledge true religion, or any special truth proment, Roull. 4: 20. When we publicly acknowledge true religion, or any special truth of God, when it is generally opposed, Luke 23. 47. When we suffer for God, 1 Pet 4: 16. When on the sabbath we devete ourselves only to the service of God, 1sa. 58. 13. When we give thanks to God for benefit, or deliverances, Psal. 113. 4. Luke 17. 18. When we love, praise, admire, and esteem Christ above all, John 1. 14. 11. 4.

God the Father is glorified in Christ the Mediator by his obedience unto death, and thereby consummenting the work of man's redemption, which tends so much to the advancement of the justice, wisdom, merry, and holiness of God: But Christ the Son is glorified of the Father, as touching his human nature, by sustaining it against the gates of hell in his agony and passion on the cross, by manifestly owning him

1s taken for worldly splen four and magnificence, which make kings glovious before men, Mat. 6. 19. Schomon to all his glory, in all his lastre, and in his richest ornaments, was not so heavily as a life. Thus riches, authority, sumptuous buildings and garments, which mane ready to praise, and which make their possessors glorious before men, are called in scripture glory. Psal. 49. 16. When the glory of his house is increased. By glory is meant the tongne, which is that peculiar accelleury, wherein chiefly, except reason, man surpasses all other creatives. Psal. 16. 9, My tongue breaks out into holy boastings and give praise, even with my glory. The glory of the king of Luyria, is his splendid princes, brine capitains, valuant commanders, and powers. of the king of Alsayria, is his splendid princes, brince capitains, valiant commanders, and powerful armies, which would make a gallant shew, and wherein he would glory, and boast exceedingly, Isa. 8. 7, The Lord bringeth upon them the king of Assyria, and all his glory. Glory is put for the ark of the covenant, which was a glorious type and assurance of God's presence, and the great affectuated and ornament of Israel, which they could glory in above all where writing 18 mm. 4. 01. The alternia of Israel, which they could glory in above all other nations. 1 Sam. 4. 21, The glory is departed from Israel. Rom. 9. 4, To whom pertained the glory.

Glory is put for the church, which God makes glorious, not only in his own eyes, but even in Hery is put for the church, which God makes glovious, not only in his own eyes, but even in the eyes of the world. Isa. 4.5, Upon all the glory shall be a defence; upon all holy assemblies of sincer Christions. It is put for grace, 2 Cor. 3. 18, We are changed into the same image, from glory to glory; growing from one degree of glorious grace to another, till it come to its perfection in eternal glory. The apostle calls mus the image and glory of God, and for this reason he ought out to cover his head; that is, Since God would have the male see to be a kind of representation of his glory, majesty, and power, a man ought nut, by hiding his face, wherein these things are most conspicuous, to concead the glory of God thing in hm. David calls God his glory, Psal. 3. 3, Thou art my glory; thou art the Matter of my divinging in than baved editing in which have a will further give me accasion of glorying or boasting of thy power and favour to me. Glory is taken for the unspeakable blessedness, joy, and felicity of the saints in heaven. Psal. 3. 24. Thou shalt guide me with thy counsel, and afterwards receive one to glory. God promises to be to his church a wall of fire round ahout, and the glory in the midst, 2cch. 2.5 that he would protect his church, and that his presence and power should make her glorious. her glovious, It is put for the presence of God, Pral 63. 2.

When the Israelites forsook God in the wilderness, they changed their glory into the similitude of an ox that eateth grass, Pral. 106. 20. They changed their glory, into the golden whage of an ox or cult. Joshua speaking to Achan says, Give glory to God, Josh, 7. 19. Confess the truth, and ascribe unto God the glory of his omniscience in knowing thy tin, and of his justice in punishing the according to thy detert. When God thought fit to call his servant Moses to himself, he directed him to go up to mount Abarim, and die there, Nun. 27. 12, &c. Moses hereupon descred of God that he would provide a man who should be set over the multitude. The Lord therefore commanded him to take Joshua, the son of Nun, saying. He is a man who is filled with the Spirit, lay thine hand upon him, and give him a charge in the presence of the multitude, and put some of thine honour, in Hedrew, of the glory a splendour, upon him. The heavens declare the glory of God, Psal. 19. 1. The visible heavens afford matter and occasion, in respect of their vast extent, glorious furniture, and powerful influences, to acknowledge and admire the glorious heing, to acknowledge and admire the giorious heing, infinite power, wisdom, and goudness of God. The glory of the Lord hath filled the house of the Lord; that is, the cloud, which was an usual token of God's glorious presence, 1 kings 8.11. Christ says to Martha, John 11.40, If thou wouldest believe, thou shouldest see the glory of God; that is, an admirable instance of the divine power, in raising thy dead brother. The miracles which our Datiour wronght, munifested his glory, or his divine power, John 2. 11. This is one of the names which we give to that eternal, infinite, and incomprehensible lleing, the Creator of all things, who preserves und governe every thing by his alonghip power and action, and is the only object of our worship. The Hebrews give to God generally the name of Jishuvan, he who exists of himself, and gives being and existence to others: this is a name ineglable and mosterious, which denotes the eternity, immutability, and indipension by God, and the intallible certainty of his word and promises. The import of this name is opened and predicted of Christ, in Rev. 1. 4, 8. The Hebrews had such a teneration for this holy name, that they meter pronounced it, but instead of it made use of that of Adona, which signines properly My Lords, in the plana number: and of Holhi, Eloi, or Holhim. They then is eastled him El, which signifes strong or Shaddai, whereby rang be meant one who is Shaddal, whereby rany be meant one who is self-sufficient: or, according to another pronunctation, the Descriptor, the powerful One, or Elion, the most High, or El-subauth, the God of

Hosts; or Ja, God.
This name Junovan, in the Hebrew, consists of four littless, as for the west just it doth in all languages. Thus among the Versiaos the name is Eogu; among the Arabians, Alla: among the or Osvo; with the Grecians, Oso; the Latins, Deus; the French, Dieu; the Spaniards, Dios; the Italians, Idio; and with the Germans, Gott. Hereof some give this reason, that the number of four is a perfect number, and so hereby the perfection of God is noted. Others say, that God is he who created all things, con-

oid declared to Moses, that he was not known by the name Jehovah, to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob; and yet God is called by the name Jehovah, in Gen. 15.7. | 26.24. This is not to be understood of the name, but of the thing signified by that name. For that denotes all his perfections, and, among others, the constancy and immutability of his naure and will, and the infallible certainty of his word and promises. And, though this was believed by Abrahaon, Isaac, and Jacob; yet God had not given any actual being to his promises for their deliverance, by the accomplishment of them: for the youly saw the promises afar off. This expression may likewise be understood comparatively; they knew this but darkly and imperfectly, which was now to be made known more clearly and fully. to Moses, that he was not known by and fully.

Psal. 34, 14, Depart from evil and do good. (3) For that which is beautiful and agreeable; for something perfect in its kind, God beheld every thing he had created, and it was very good, Gen. 1. 31. Every creature had the goodness, beauty, and perfection which it re-quired. And in 2 Chron, 18.7, This man never prophesieth good unto me, nothing agreeable,
(4) for that which is pleasing and acceptable to God. Psal. 14. 1, There is none that doeth good. (5) That which is expedient or convenient. Gen. 2.18, It is not good that the man need. Gen. 2, 18, It is not good that the man should be alone: It is not convenient either for my purpose of the increase of mankind, or for man's personal confort. Also in 1 Cor. 7, 1, It is good for a man not to touch a woman. It were more convenient for a man not to marry. (6) It signifies seasonable and commendable. GOSF EL.

The Gospel is a revelation of the grace of God to fallen man through a Mediator. Or, it is a wise, a hely, and gracious constitution of God, for the recovery of fallen, sinjul, and miscrable man, from that deployable state into which sin had brought him, by sending his own Son Jesus. that orough tim, by senaing into an son sense Christ in the flesh, to obey his law which man had broken, to make a proper atomement for sin hy his death, and thus to procure pardon, and the favour of God, and eternal happiness for all that believe and repent, and receive the most absolute to exceed the with a number of the samuel absolute to exceed the with a number of the samuel absolute to the samuel and t ness for all that believe and repent, and receive the gospel-salvation; together with a promise of the Holy Spirit to work this faith and repentance in their hearts, to renew their singul natures unto holiness, to form them on earth jut for this happiness, and to bring them to the full possession of it in heaven.

Hence it is called the gospel of God, as it came originally from the lather, Rom. 1. 1. It is called the gospel of God, Acts 20.

24. because it proceeds from, and manifests his favour, and is the means whereby his grace is bestowed. It is called the gospel of Christ, Rom. 1. 16. ashe is the immediate thickor, and the subject matter of it. In the same passage it is said to be the power of God unto salvation: It is the means which, by the influence of the Spirit of God, is made effectual to salvation. It is called the gospel of salvation, Eph. 1, 13. It brings the good new that salvation is to be had; it offers this salvation; it shews the way had it offers this salvation; it shews the way has it offers this savation; it shears the way how it is ottained; it works grace to fit for, and bring men to salvation. His gospel the Spirit of God preached to Abra-ham under the Old Testament. Gal. 3, 8, The Scripture foreseeing that God would justify the heathen through faith, preached before the gosneather through Luth, preached before the gos-pel unto Libraham, saying, In thee shall all nations be blessed. The glad tidings of justi-fication and salvation by fatch in Christ, were preached to Abraham, and were contained in that promise made to him, which is the sum of the covenant, In thy seed shall all nations be blessed, Gen. 22, 18.

The word gaspel, in the original, Eυαγγέλιον, signifies good news, or glad tidings. And surely signifies good news, or guartitings. Ann site of when a sinner, who is exposed to the wrath of God, is sensible of his guilt and danger, it must needs be glad tidings to him to hear of a way of salvation, and an all-sufficient Saviour.

a way of saliation, and an alt-sighciert Saviour, isspel is taken for an historical narration of what Christ did and spake, of his life, miracles, death, resurrection, and doctrine; as the Cospel according to Matthew, Mark, &c. The beginning of the gospel of Christ, Mark 1, 1. Sometimes it is taken for the preaching and publication of the gospel, and administration of alfairs that concern it. Rom. 1, 9, When I serve with my spirit in the gospel of his Son, It is put for the doctrines of free grace, Rom. 11, 28.

This word is found in Jonah 4. 6. where the Septuagint translate it Johan 4. O. where the Septuagint translate it Ko.o.kw@n Jerom uses Hedera, Ivy; as also does Aquila. Jerom acknowledges, that the word Ivy does not answer the signification of the Hebrew Kikajon; but as he could not find any Latin words proper to express it, he chose rather to set down Hedera, than to leave Kikajon, which might be taken for a monstrons Kikajon, which might be taken for a monstrons animal in the Iodies or muchatains of Besotia. His account of Kikajon is this: It is a shrub which grows in the sandy places of Palestine; and increases so suddenly, that within few days it comes to a considerable height. The leaves of it are large, and like those almost of the vine. It is supported by its truck without being up-held by any thing else, and furnishes a very agreeable shade under the thickness of its leaves.

ome learned men are of opinion, that the prohibition delivered by Moses against gleaning grapes after the vintage, may signify a second vintage after the first, which was neter so good or so plentiful as the former; for this, they say, was over in the hot countries about the end of August, and the other in September. God requires therefore that this second vintage should be left to the poor, as well as the grapes of the first which had escaped the observation of the gutherers. It is frequent in Scripture to describe an almost is frequent in Scripture to describe an almost total destruction, by the simulatude of a visit stripped in such a monner that there was not a bunch of grapes left for those who came a gleaning. Isa. 24, 13, Thus it shall be in the midst of the land, there shall be as the gleaning-grapes when the vintage is done. And Jer. 6, 9, They shall throughly glean the reumant of Israel as a vine. To halt, to be lame on both sides. With this Elijah reproaches the Israelites of the tentifies, I kings 18. 21, How long halt ye between two opinions? They did not after God with a pure and unmixed worship, but were for reconciling the worship of God with that of idols. God says, I will assemble her that halteth, and her that is driven out, Mic. 4. 6. That is, I will restore my people of the Jews, though now in a weak, banished, efficied condition, to their former privileges, and plant them in their own country; I will determine such of them to return, who seem unresolved whether to go or not. This Psalmist says, that his enemies rejoiced to see him unresolved whether to go or not. The Psalmist says, that his enemies rejoiced to see him halt, Psal. 35. 15, But in mine adversity, halt, Psal, 35, 15, but in this directly, Ileb, halting, they rejoiced. HAND

I a part of the body well known. By hand, is sometimes understood the vengeonce of God exercised upon any one; 1 Sam. 5.6, 7. The hand of the Lord was heavy upon them of Ashdod, after they had taken the ask, and had been told that it should continue to oppress them, till they should send it back with presents.

To pour water on any one's hands, signifies to serve him. Thus Elisha is said to have poured water on Elish's hands, thereby meaning that he was

To ponr water on any one's hands, signifies to serce him. Thus Elisha is said to have poured water on Elijah's hands, thereby meaning that he was his servant, 2 Kings 3, 11.

To wash one's hands, denoted that the person was innocent of manulaughter, when the murderer was not known, Deut. 21, 6, 7. Pilate washed his hands, Mat. 27, 24 to denote his being innocent of what was required of him, when he proceeded to condenn Jesus, in whom he found nothin to deserve such a suttent. Some think nothing to deserve such a sentence. Some think that Pilate, living among the Jews, had learned this rate from them; but others are of opinion, that it was a ceremony used in protestations of innocency among other people as well as the Jews.

Jo kiss one's hand, is an act of advaction, Job 31, 27. If I beheld the sun when it shined, and my month had kissed my hand.

To fill one's hand, signifies to put one in possession of the presthood, to enter him in the enjoyment of the succeptual dignity; because in one certains the parts of the victim which were to be offer the second. be offered were just into the new priest s naud, Exod. 28.41. Thou shalt consecrate tnem; in Hobrew, fill their hand. See also Judg. 17.5, 12. 1 Kings 13, 33, 12. I Kings 13, 33.

To lean upon any one's band, is a mark of familiarity and superiority. The king of Israel had one of his confidents upon whom he leaned, 2 Kings 7, 2, 17. And in like manner the king of Syria leaned on Naaman, when he went up to the temple of his god Rimmon, 2 Kings 5, 19.

18. To lift up one's hand, is a way of taking an oath in use with all nations. Gen. 14, 22, I have lifted up mine hands unto the Lord. It was likewise a posture used in praying for a blessing spon the people. Lev. 9.22, Aaron lifted up his hands towards the people, and blessed then.

his hands towards the people, and blessed them. To lift up the hand against one, it to rebel against him. 2 Sam. 20. 21, Sheba hath lifted up his hand against king David.

To give one's hand, signifier to grant peace, to swear friendship, to promise all security, to make alliance. 2 Kings 10. 15, Jeha said to Jehamadob, 1s thine heart right, as my heart is with thy heart? If it be, give me thine hand; and he gave him his hand. The Jews say, they were obliged to give the hand to the Egyptians and Assyrians, that they might procure bread: that is, to surrender to them, to make an alliance with them, that they might be evabled to subsist, that in their extreme necessity they might preserve their lives. Others think they might preserve their lives. Others think that by this phrase is meant, that the Jews were glad to labour with their hands, and work for them, in order to procure the necessaries of

To sit down on the right hand of God. The Son of God is often represented as sitting at the right hand of his heavenly Father. Psal. 110.

of the other represented as sitting at the right hand of his heavenly Father. Psal. 110.

1. The Lord said to my Lord, sit thou at my right hand. Thou heat done thy work upon earth, now take possession of that sovereign kingdom and glory; which by right belongeth to thee; do thou rule with authority and honour, to thee; do thou rule with authority and howour, as thun art Mediator.

The right hand commonly denotes the South, as the left hand commonly denotes the South, as the left hand denotes the North. For the Hebrews speak of the quarters of the world in respect of themselves, having their faces turned towards the East, their backs to the West, their right hands to the South, and their left to the North. Thus Kedem, which signifies before, stands also for the East; and Achor, which signifies behind, marks out the West; Jamm, the right hand, is the North. For example: Doth not David blue himself with us in strong holds in the woods, in the hill of Haehilah, which is on to turn from the law of God, neither to the right hand, nor to the left, is a frequent Scripture expression, Josh. 1. 7. [23. 6. 2 Kings 22. 2. The meaning is, that we must not depart from it at all, neither by attempting to go beyond it, and doing more than it requires, nor by doing less. But we must observe it closely, constantly, and invariably, as a traveller, who does not go out of his way, either to the right or to the left.

Asying on hands, or imposition of hands, is understood in different ways both in the Old and New Testameni. (1) It is often taken for ordination and convertation of priests and ministers, as well among the Jews as Christians, Num.
8, 10. Aets 6, 6, 13, 3, 1 Tim. 4, 14. (2) It is sometimes also made use of to signify the establishment of judges and magistrates, on whom it was usual to lay hands, when they were whom it was usuat to any hanas, wan ing intrusted with these employments: Thus when Moses constituted Joshua his successor, God Moses donathin to lay his hands upon him, Num. appointed him to lay his hands upon him, Num, 27. 18. na high-priest stretched out his hands to the poo-ple, as often as he recited the solemn form of blessing, Lev. 9, 22. The Israelites who pe-sented sin-offerings at the tabernacle, conjessed their sins, while they laid their hands upon them, Lev. 1. 4. This testified that the person-acknowledged himself worthy of death, that he laid his sins upon the sacrifice that he trusted in Christ for the expantion of his sins, and that he devoted himself to God. Witness laid their hands upon, the head of the accused verson, as if he devoted himself to God.
