Launch Monterey Peninsula Inc. at Monster Meeting

Monterey Peninsula Incorporated is an assured thing.

There were six hundred men and women present at Tuesday night's community meeting in the Monterey Theatre.

Now there are six hundred committees of one talking, working, dreaming to make the work of the organization a permanent, active, vital reality.

The same is true in more homes, more people in Carmel, Monterey, Pacific Grove, all over the peninsula.

Carmel, with about one-twelfth of the peninsula's population, contributed at least one sixth of the audience to this wonderful gathering.

The meeting opened with an inspiring concert by the Eleventh Cavalry band, under the leadership of Sargeant Elinor V. Sorensen.

Carmel Martin, well-known Monterey attorney, was chairman of the evening, and after a brief outline of the purposes of Monterey Peninsula Inc., introduced F. H. Duprey of the California Development Board, who explained the details of the six-week campaign leading up to the solicitation of funds, to be used for publicity and advertising.

Then came the community singing, and there were men and women in that assemblage who discovered for the first time that they were the possessors of splendid chorus voices. "Smiles," "There's a Long, Long Trail" and "Solomon Levy," with words appropriate to the occasion, were sung with vim and enthusiasm.

Splendid addresses were made by Colonel John M. Jenkins, Eleventh Cavalry, and by Edward (Casey) Simpson, president of the Pacific Grove Chamber of Commerce. What they said sunk in. At one moment these speakers aroused our pride in what the Monterey Peninsula afforded us and in what we had to offer the home-seeker, and the next moment we were made ashamed because of our neglect to tell the world about our superior climatic and scenic advantages.

Peter Clark Macfarlane, well-known writer and lecturer, made the most informative and the most humorous address of the evening. He scolded, threatened and jibed, told stories, and did some acting—acting worthy of our Forest Theatre, and at the conclusion of his talk he had aroused so much enthusiasm that he could easily have reached into our pockets and extracted our loose change, wallets and check-books and turned them over to Monterey Peninsula Inc.

It was a fine meeting for a worthwhile cause.

Carmel's interest in Monterey Peninsula Inc. is not confined to the men of the community. A complete woman's organization has been formed here, with Mrs. J. W. Hand as major and the following captains: Mrs. Susan Porter, Mrs. W. P. Silva, Mrs. E. A. Kluegel, Miss Helena Conger, and Miss M. DeNeale Morgan.

Will Open New Streets

There is now under consideration by the trustees a large and important proposition. Nothing less than the elimination of all "map" streets east of Junipero street and north of Ocean avenue. Laying out of new streets to conform with the streets and roads in the Carmel Woods and Forest Hill tracts will be in the hands of the city engineer. There are about 800 lots within the bounds of the proposed change.

Formal Welcome to the Silvas at Kluegel Home

Mrs. E. A. Kluegel's Spanish home and garden on Camino Real were the settings for a most picturesque greeting last Sunday afternoon to Mr. and Mrs. William P. Silva, who have been in Europe for a year or more, and to Mr. and Mrs. William C. Watts, who recently returned from a long and most wonderful trip to the Orient.

Refreshments were served in the oaks. The receiving party comprised the hostess, Mrs. Kluegel, and Mrs. A. B. Abbott, sister of Mrs. Silva, assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Botke, Gen. and Mrs. W. S. Schuyler, Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Prince, Mr. and Mrs. Noah Whitney, and Mrs. Schlesinger.

Those who came to greet the travelers were: Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Greene, Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Field, Dr. and Mrs. W. A. Cannon, Mr. and Mrs. George Blackman, Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Beardsley, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Yates, Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Nye, Mr. and Mrs. P. K. Gordon, Dr. and Mrs. H. A. Spoehr, Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Wood, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Poindexter, Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Adams, Prof. and Mrs. P. W. Search, Dr. and Mrs. C. A. McCollom, Mr. and Mrs. David Alberto, Mesdames Clute, Crawford, Teare, Maurer, Stimson, Monahan, Covington, Hayward, Young, Porter, Warren, Comins, Dierrsen, Andrews, McChesney, Wyman and White; Misses Crawford, Blackman, Morgan, Wilson, Tolmie Logie, Morey, Gregg, Gordon, Hannaman, Prentiss, Anson, Parkes, Birdseye, Vincent, Huntington, Deeble, Bulkley, Dierrsen, Wilkerson, Stewart, O'Sullivan, Smythe, Pierce, McChesney, E. Waldvogel; Messrs. Morey, Scollard and Tolmie.

Later Mrs. Kluegel and Mrs. Abbott gave a dinner to the receiving party at the Blue Bird. The menu was interspersed by wonderfully interesting tales from the travelers, bringing Europe and the Orient quite close to Carmel.

Abalones Eat Turkey

The winter season of the Abalone Baseball League came to a glorious termination last Sunday when Harrison Godwin's Reds defeated Brother Fred's by a score of—no, we'll not give the score—aided and abetted by "Baron" Schweninger's windy orchestra.

Wednesday evening the big doings to celebrate the event took place at La Playa. About fifty of the ball players and their friends gathered in the private dining room to partake of a well-served turkey dinner.

Between the courses addresses and presentations were made. Umpa Tal Josselyn received a box of cigars. First baseman Helen Van Riper a box of candy, Harrison Godwin the Herald cap, Fred Godwin several bottles of grape juice and the Pine Cone cup, and Bonnie Gottfried a box of bon bons. And everybody complimented everybody else.

A feature at dinner table was the place cards, each bearing a hand-drawn caricature of the person designated.

First baseman Jos. G. Hooper was detained in San Francisco, and Alleh Benson couldn't get here, so the gang stood up and sang "He's a Jolly Good Fellow."

Dancing was indulged in until midnight, and the affair was voted a big success.

A new schedule is being worked out for another series of games. There will be a contest at the Point tomorrow as usual.

Camp Fire Girls in Up-to-Minute Vaudeville Show

How many in the audience, which packed Arts and Crafts hall last Friday night to see the Camp Fire Girls in up-to-the-minute vaudeville, realize that their evening's entertainment was created, produced, conducted, advertised, acted and costumed by girls all under the age of fifteen? The only adult help rendered was Mr. and Mrs. Glassell and Mrs. Kuster on makeup, Mr. Burton on stage set.

Christine Burton showed remarkable executive ability, being manager and producer, besides creating and directing the dances.

Moir Wallace designed the posters and costumes, and more original costumes than those worn by the pretty little girls in the revue have not been seen in Carmel. Moreover each girl made her own costumes.

Anne Clute and Vivian Edler exhibited all round talent and a sporting spirit when they worked up the "dwarf" number at the last moment to entertain the audience during the intermission—and entertain they did in a manner most professional.

Virginia Burton directed her own playlet, "Snuff," assisted in directing the dances and played a most charming prince in the Persian pantomime.

Irene Gould did some fine acting in the pantomime and her dancing was vividly graceful.

Ann Greene has the inimitable spirit of burlesque and as the prima donna was delicious in looks and action.

Number after number, and each good. Lexie Grant made a spiffing, rippin' ghost.

It is difficult on so small a stage to dance robustly, but the graceful English folk dancers made of their number one of the most enjoyable.

Jane Fitch added a quaint touch with her brilliant costume and her real Chinese song, and Mary Wetzel and Julia Machado, the pickaninny ushers with their black shining faces and their turning of the placards which announced each act in true vaudeville style, added another.

In fact, from the moment when Lillias Carroll sat down at the piano deftly to play her solo the audience was kept in a constant state of amusement, surprise and delight.

Tiny Winnifred Ratliff, Ginger Ratliff and Hortense Spoehr in their garden dance won the heart of every one.

Florence Edler, Vere Basham, Janet Fitch, Wilma Bassett were cute and funny as the upside-down wonders, which finished with an upside-down dance by Irene Gould and Virginia Burton.

The folk dancers were Christine Burton, Irene Gould, Anne Clute, Wilma Bassett, Helen Ward, Florence Edler, Vivian Edler, Moira Wallace, Vere Basham, Lexie Grant, Mildred Rogers, Lillias Carroll.

Notwithstanding the fact that many of the girls had to change costumes three and four times during the performance, the waits between acts were short and the curtain rang up on time, which is more than can be said for many an adult amateur program.

Each member of the cast is to be praised for her good work and much praise is due to Christine Burton, the delightfully clever little manager. One may praise the children of this age freely, for they are not puffed up by praise nor cast down by blame.

That high joyous note of youthful play, mimicry, burlesque, was through the whole program in spite of the professional-like "pop" of its execution.

Perry Newberry Surrenders the Yellow Jacket

Carmel has a new mayor. Perry Newberry is now only a humble trustee.

William T. Kibbler sits at the head of the council table.

Newberry is a very busy man with his own affairs now-a-days and does not feel that he can give the necessary time and attention the position of mayor and head of the finance committee demands. So at an adjourned meeting he handed in his resignation, which was reluctantly accepted. A vote of thanks for faithful service was tendered Newberry. Trustee Kibbler was elected chairman of the board.

A petition from several property owners was presented requesting that the block on Dolores street where are located the postoffice, city hall and several new business buildings, also Seventh avenue between Dolores and San Carlos, be graded and graveled, was referred to the city engineer and the city attorney.

A communication from E. G. Kuster, suggesting that a red brick sidewalk was desirable in front of his place of business on Ocean avenue was desirable. No action taken.

A report of the city planning commission is against an extension of the hotel zone as recommended by the local chamber of commerce. The commission was sustained. Issuance of hotel building permit in the section sought to be added will be withheld pending the final passage of a zoning ordinance which the city attorney was directed to prepare.

Dr. A. E. Burton, chairman of the city planning commission, recommended that the number of houses on lots be limited to one on a forty foot lot, and that houses stand ten feet from the inside sidewalk line and four feet from adjoining property.

Trustee Newberry remarked that this was the most sensible report he had heard from the planning commission, and "that houses built closely together will kill the town quicker than anything else."

There was no objection from property owners to the proposed improvement of San Antonio street, legal notice of which was published twice in the Pine Cone.

The board meets again in regular session next Tuesday night.

Progress of Summer Play

From now on active work will be the order of the day at the Forest Theatre. Plans for the productions are completed and beginning Monday the stage builders will start on the scenery. The work of making costumes has also been started by Mrs. Rhoda Johnson and Miss Helena Conger.

Mrs. Henry Williams, who will have direction of the dancing, is already at work designing the choreographic features for the oriental play and as soon recruits are enlisted will devote herself to training the dancers to the music of the Rimsky-Khorsakoff "Festival at Bagdad" suite.

At a meeting of the directors of the Forest Theatre on Tuesday, secretary Susan Porter reports that the budget presented by John Hilliard for the summer plays were accepted, and the action of the treasurer in renting the Forest Theatre for the Pavloska concert on June 1st was confirmed.

As three old veteran play producers said with a sigh of relief, "They're a wonderful bunch—just a year or two and we can turn the Forest theater and the Little Theater over to the kiddies."

Wild Animal Picture Coming to Manzanita

H. A. Snow, has brought from out the depths of the Dark Continent a ten-reel record of the great region where wild beasts enjoy home rule.

In "Hunting Big Game in Africa with Gun and Camera," which comes to the Manzanita theater next Thursday and Friday night fifty distinct species of animal life are shown.

There is a decided difference between the wild animals shown in the Snow film and those filmed in captivity, in that the wild animals are much larger.

The picture is educational and thrilling. The hunter faces lions, leopards, hippos, a charging rhinoceros and maddened elephants. Closeups of animals unfamiliar to man dot the film. There should be a big crowd on both nights.

Wedding Announced to Take Place Next Monday

A marriage license has been issued to Alfred D. Rico, 27, a native of California, and Margaret M. Wild, 18, native of New Jersey, both residents of Monterey.

Fellow employes of Minick's, as well as his many friends in baseball circles, are wishing "Fat" the best of good fortune.

The bride-to-be is also receiving the best wishes of her many friends in Carmel and Monterey.

The wedding will take place Monday.

Pine Cone's Log of Literature & Art

Vicissitudes of Sinclair Lewis

In Fred L. Holmes' page article about Sinclair Lewis in the Dearborn Independent occurs this remark by Lewis: "All fiction is based on an experience in one's life carried on imaginatively." Of his first residence in Carmel, he says:

"A year and a half I spent in California, part of it reporting, part trying vainly to free lance, sharing a bungalow at Carmel with William Rose Benet, now a noted editor and author of that charming novel, 'First Person Singular.'
"We had three rooms in a portable cottage and swept the floors if we did not sweep them. I tried to write short stories but after finding myself in debt for $400 I went to San Francisco and got a job on the Bulletin, which I held for three months. Then I was fired. I got a job on the Associated Press which I held for two months and was again fired for incompetency. There are most uninteresting reasons for firing a man. But all of the men who have fired me have since become my close personal friends. No longer do I look upon them as the 'big boss' of the office."

Commerce Fostering Art

To take art out of the garret and give it an electric light instead of a candle, the city of Berkeley, California, through its chamber of commerce, has gathered the arts and the artists among its 65,000 inhabitants under its wings, co-ordinated their activities, given them opportunity to present their productions, and prepared for them an economic outlet for their painting, their sculpture, their music, their literature, their drama, and even their dancing. This is the first time in the history of business organizations that a chamber of commerce—usually devoted to the bringing of new commercial investments, new industries and new corporations to a city—has visioned the fact that art is as important to the growth of an American community, and to the development of its people, as is commerce or industry.

Peninsula Author Writes of Bells

John Stevens McGroarty, writing of Albert Van Houtte's recent book, says: "The reading of 'The Bells of El Carmelo' was very interesting to me. Mr.

Van Houtte has placed his interesting story in a setting truly Californian. He dexterously weaves poetry and the history of the state, the atmosphere of mission days, the customs of California under three flags with a modern romance. The characterization is splendid and the philosophy elevating. Another good book on the Californian shelf."

Glenn Hunter Now Famous Player

Glenn Hunter is the latest find. This lad, who has created a stage sensation in New York through his portrayal of that delicious hero, "Merton of the Movies," by Harry Leon Wilson, has been signed by famous Players-Lasky to a long term contract. He goes to Hollywood immediately to begin work on "This Side of Paradise," the story that made F. Scott Fitzgerald famous.

SPLASHES

Asked as to his most interesting early experience as a newspaperman, Ray Stannard-Baker said that his expedition to Turkey a score of years ago to interview Ellen Stone, the missionary, who had been kidnaped by Bulgarian brigands, was as exciting as any. At the time of the kidnaping, Mr. Baker was in London, being then a member of the McClure's staff, when he received a telegram from Mr. McClure directing him to hurry at once to Turkey. It was an order like that of James Gordon Bennett to Henry M. Stanley to find Livingston.

A delegation of New Yorkers left recently for London to capture that city with Harry Leon Wilson's "Merton of the Movies." It was announced that Peggy O'Neil would enact the role of the Montague Girl, but this actress who is one of London's favorites, cabled her declination. She is now in a play at the Haymarket, which is to be removed to the St. James and continued indefinitely, so Miss O'Neil is "set." Patricia Collinge, doubtless, will be the girl.

Of the five books published under the pseudonym of "David Grayson" the first volume, "Adventures in Contentment," has had the largest sale because it has been on the market longest. The other volumes are "Adventures in Friendship," "The Friendly Road," "Hempfield" and "Great Possessions."

THE SPRING CLEAN-UP IDEA

Some genius conceived the notion that a Clean-up Week or Clean-up Day, if appointed during the spring months, would appeal to the popular psychology at that particular time. It did so, and today such occasions are observed in thousands of communities.

The desire for improvement seems to influence people at this season. If you asked a man to clean up disorder around his place in July he might evasively postpone the suggestion.

But in spring some lure of out-doors, emphasized by the bright sunshine and soft breezes and cheerful bird songs, seems to put a new spirit into the heart. The man who at other times is indifferent to appearances, will come forth in his overalls and jumper, prepared for heroic deeds with rake, spade and bonfire.

This impulse toward industry should be worked for all it is worth. A Clean-up Day or Week should be appointed in every community. The home folks should all be organized into an army of anti-litter should be induced to add some touch of beauty to their grounds. Municipal authorities should be urged to make careful arrangements for street cleaning for the season. Landlords should be reminded that their buildings will rent better if kept well painted and repaired.

An incessant stream of visitors passes through our towns today and Carmel is under constant inspection by visitors. These folks form impressions, not so much from superficial appearances of prosperity like costly buildings, as by the degree of neatness and taste shown in the care and improvement of dwellings and their surroundings.

Indications like these reflect the character of the people who live in a place. A city that keeps itself scrubbed and combed, whose homes show a love of beauty, by neat lawns and pretty flowers, gains a name for self respect and culture. Visitors pass along the word that it's a fine town.

THE CHARM OF A CITY

People travel across the stormy Atlantic and spend no end of money on European tours. Why? Largely because the European cities are reputed to have a certain romantic and imaginative "charm."

Yet this so called charm often lies in some very simple feature that can be developed anywhere. Many American cities and towns have such features now. A recent writer in The American City, for instance, thinks that the charm of Paris lies largely in the beautiful trees with which that famous city is profusely planted, and which are preserved with the greatest care, even in the business sections.

Any American city, big or little, can in due time secure just that feature of charm and attractiveness, by studying tree culture for its streets. If its people have been negligent in this respect, they can plant quick growing varieties that will transform their town in a few years.

Too frequently the hustling American folks will take down a noble tree merely because it blocks the sidewalk a little, or for other trifling reasons. But by cherishing their trees, planting those fitted to the soil and climate, preserving them from pests, they can give their home town rare beauty. One does not have to cross the wide seas to find charm. You can find it right in Carmel.

3. The park spaces on Ocean Avenue between Monte Verde Street and San Antonio Avenue, shall be graded, a width sufficient to make the height of said park spaces where they abut the pavement, the same as the height of the pavement, and to have a gradual slope away from said pavement. Lid-Lifters Win at Pacific Grove

By a majority of 126, in a total vote of over 1400, the people of Pacific Grove have decided to permit the holding of public amusements on Sundays.

The outcome of the election was a decided shock to the church going people of that city, and no doubt the board of trustees will be importuned to make the regulations extremely stringent.

Her Vision.

A wealthy woman of fifty was told that her husband was in love with his stenographer. "You can see it yourself," they told her. She replied: "No, I cannot see it. A young woman or a blind woman might see it; but I am fifty and I am not blind. I know what not to see."—Charleston News and Courier.

BOOKS AND AUTHORS

SINCLAIR LEWIS

By this time you must have read "Main Street" — almost everyone has; and unless you are one of the unpleasant persons portrayed in it and need a picture of yourself as others see you, it is doubtful if you are any better for having read it. If "Main Street" truly represents character in the small town, it also represents character elsewhere, for human nature is pretty much the same the world over. One thinks that anyone with a sufficiently iconoclastic bent could have written it.

If you are a writer and aspire to break into the best-seller class and your artistic conscience will not permit you to descend to the level of turning out distorted or impossible romances, go in for satire or iconoclasm. Put in plenty of wornwood and don't be concerned in the least about truth. Be a literary hell-raiser. Bernard Shaw is the world's best-seller, and by the same token Juvenal must have been one of the best-sellers of ancient Rome.

The great commercial cinch in such stories as "Main Street" exists in the fact that those who think you are hitting at the other fellow will be tickled to pieces, while the main-streeters will buy the book just to see what you say about them. You become the vogue and it is an evidence of a lack of culture not to be familiar with your works.

But stop! One must not decry the satirists and iconoclasts too harshly. They are the ferment which prevents the human compound from settling into the flat dough of self-complacency. If the end product of the fermentation shows more than one-half of one per cent it is not a matter for Volstead to be concerned about. Dean Swift undoubtedly exerted a beneficent influence on his times. "Main Street" may do some good. Read it if you feel you must. For our part, we would rather read about those isles of spice in the South Seas where modesty exists as nature and the girls sometimes forget to put on bathing suits when they go in swimming.

Now that "Main Street" has been launched upon its mission for good or evil and nothing can stop it, and Mr. Lewis is waxing fat off the royalties, we hope he is in a rosiest mood and disposed to return to the delightful genialities of his earlier productions. However, his fame is certain to rest upon "Main Street," and that is something to think about when reflecting upon the peculiarities and predilections of the alleged human race.

CHARLES M. SHELDON

To know the life and work of Charles M. Sheldon, and especially the man himself, is to receive new inspiration and enlarged faith in humankind. His achievements, as an author, a clergyman and an editor, are distinguished. One of his books, "In His Steps," alone has reached a sale of 22,000,000 copies—certainly a high mark for the aspiring writer. Refreshing, too, is the fact that a book of its deeply religious nature should have found enough readers to make possible so phenomenal a sale.

This book, which doubtless has contributed most to Dr. Sheldon's fame, has been translated into many foreign languages. He himself knows of its production in 14 tongues, while on reputable reference gives the number of languages in which it has appeared as 24, and its publishers as more than 100. As the book's copyright proved defective, he has been unable to keep even an approximate record of the number of its editions and translations. Likewise, he has had little pecuniary benefit from it, his only royalties being from one early edition. In addition, on meeting an English publisher in London about 20 years ago, who had then sold 2,000,000 copies of the book and who wished to show his appreciation in some way, he was presented with a gift of 20 pounds.

STEPHEN LEACOCK

Humor is an almost indefinable quality and manifestation. Some people possess the sense of it in an overwhelming degree while others appear to have no conception of it. Frequently what is one man's humor is another man's tears. Whole races have been charged with a lack of the sense, yet upon unprejudiced examination they have been found to possess what passes for humor among themselves, but is anything but humorous to other races.

Taine, a Frenchman, who knew more about English literature than any Englishman of the Nineteenth century, was utterly stumped at some exhibitions of British humor. Some writings regarded as uproariously funny across the channel were to him as so much grief. Mark Twain in his Jumping Frog story gave perhaps the best illustration of the futility of one nation's trying to appreciate the finer points in the humor of another nation.

There is no manifest similarity between Stephen Leacock and Charley Chaplin, yet they come nearer being universal humorists, understandable by all nations, than any other individuals of the present age. Chaplin, the clown, gives subtlety to the slapstick. Leacock, the writer, in our opinion, wields the most facile of all the pens of burlesque. Both are said to be serious-minded men. One is an Englishman and the other a Canadian of English origin; presenting at least two exceptions if not a direct challenge to the statement that the British are deficient in a sense of humor. If the often-suggested test of making a wooden Indian laugh were not rendered impossible by the fact that there are no wooden Indians any more—the last one perished during the fuel shortage—we should like to see it tried with one of Leacock's "Nonsense Novels." We venture that the noble red man's phiz would break up all in splinters.

One of the funniest things that Leacock got away with recently was a six months' lecture tour of England, a direct answer and a piece of retribution for the horde of "gold-diggers" from across the pond who have been over here to tell us of our faults and beam a little culture and sunshine into our arid lives at so much per. Stephen, who possesses a thoroughly independent mind and has resided for many years on alternate sides of the Canadian and United States border, told the folks of the tight little isle "a few things." He did not minimize Canadian and United States faults, but he drew some comparisons that were not altogether favorable to our trans-Atlantic friends. And do you know, he made 'em like it! But, my word! One marvels at the nerve of one who would attempt such a thing ovah theah!
