Imagine the worst sharks that exist in New York's Chinatown—a daring cracksman, a beautiful girl as tough and wicked as a snake, a fakir who counterfeits any deformity, a dope-fiend as sly as a weasel.

Imagine such crooks in a little village, invading the lives of other human beings as good as these are bad—the acid of sin striving to bite into the gold of pure hearts. Imagine! Imagine all you've known of good and bad in this world, and even then you can't imagine the wondrous appeal of "The Miracle Man."

NEW REALTY

COMPANY TO

ERECT HOUSES

It will be of interest to the citizens of Weymouth and Braintree to learn that a corporation has been formed, known as the Weymouth and Braintree Realty Company, a charter having recently been granted by the Secretary of State.

This corporation, which is capitalized for $50,000, is composed of a group of business men of Weymouth and East Braintree, who, realizing the great need of dwelling houses in this section, have pooled their interests, which will enable them to buy and develop property in spite of the fact that financial conditions are such that an individual finds it next to impossible to do much in this line.

The corporation being composed of all local men, having the welfare of the community at heart and with the co-operation of the people, hope to do a great deal toward building up both Weymouth and Braintree in a manner that each will be proud of. It is the purpose of the corporation to build houses of good quality and appearance with a variety of designs (Continued on Page 5)

CLUB WOMEN

ACT WELL

MALE PARTS

The Monday Club scored a great success at its Dramatic Night at Odd Fellows Opera House on Tuesday evening when "The Colonel's Maid" was presented by members. All the parts, both male and female, were taken by women, and very cleverly acted. The cast was greeted by a capacity house, and the audience was enthusiastic.

Mrs. Fred L. Alden was manager, and Mrs. Frank Sylvester stage manager. The cast of characters was published in the Gazette last week, and included the following well-known women: Bessie Kendall Hunt, Lucy Farrington Libbey, Frances Tilden, Florence Ethel Corthell, Lena Gertrude McGill, Mary Elizabeth Alden, Mildred Winsor Dizer, Doris Lucille Cottell and Maud Williams Jones.

COMMITTEE TO

HOLD HEARINGS

For nearly two weeks now no cars have been run between East Weymouth and Weymouth, or between Weymouth and South Weymouth.

During the busy parts of the day there have been several jitneys running, but at other times only two or three. The jitney owners claim business has not been very profitable, as there has been too much competition.

Just how much has been accomplished by the special committee on transportation appointed at the town meeting is unknown, but in today's Gazette, the committee advertise that hearings will be held.

Local merchants feel the loss occasioned by the discontinuance of the electric cars, and are hoping Weymouth may soon have the cars again.

—The first thunder storm of the season passed over town Monday evening. At Rockland and Bridgewater houses were burned.

—The local fire department was called out several times Sunday on still alarms for brush fires.

The American Legion

Here and There Among the World War Veterans

(Copy for This Department Supplied by National Headquarters of the American Legion)
 NATIONAL HEADQUARTERS BUILDING OF AMERICAN LEGION

One of Indianapolis' Most Attractive Buildings—Why and How the Hoosier Capital Was Chosen by the World War Men.

WHY DID they locate the national headquarters of the American Legion at Indianapolis?

This is a question that many delegates to the Minneapolis convention of the American Legion are unable to answer. They know that Indianapolis was not one of the three cities reported favorably on by the committee, that a minority report was presented on the floor of the convention, resulting in the election of Indianapolis as permanent headquarters of the organization.

Fred Bates Johnson, an Indianapolis attorney and one of the Hoosier delegates to the convention, was asked how the Indianapolis delegation maneuvered to secure the headquarters.

"It was a case of superior salesmanship, as I see it," said Mr. Johnson. "That means, as you know, faith in the superior quality of the product you're trying to sell, a thorough knowledge of the article, and hard work."

"We not only worked hard in trying to convince the members of the committee that Indianapolis was the logical location—we tried to sell the city to every delegate we could talk to. The result was when we found we had lost out in committee, we felt pretty confident we could win by raising the question on the floor of the convention, and we did."

"We had a delegation thoroughly well informed on the advantages the city afforded as a headquarters center. The line of argument was, of course, shaped to fit the particular delegate with whom we were dealing, and all in line with a pre-arranged plan. I'm not saying that the political bent naturally inherent in every Hoosier may not have helped us in winning out over the competing cities."

"Our first argument was that Indianapolis was the ideal convention or headquarters city because it is only sixty miles from the center of population and thus most accessible to the largest number of members. We explained that with fifteen railroads and thirteen electric interurban lines, this greatest inland railway center was easily and directly reached from all parts of the country."

"We showed them how more cities of 30,000 population and over can be reached in a night's ride from Indianapolis than from any other city in the United States, embracing a zone including Chicago, Milwaukee, Detroit, Toledo, Cleveland, Buffalo, Pittsburgh, Columbus, Cincinnati, Louisville, Chattanooga, Knoxville, Memphis, St. Louis, Peoria and Springfield. Over two million people live within two hours' ride of the city and over 60,000,000 can be reached over night."

"We also argued that the fact the city was an ideal headquarters location was evidenced by the number of national headquarters already located here, listing among these the United Mine Workers of America, International Brotherhood of Bookbinders, International Typographical Union, International Brotherhood of Teamsters and Chauffeurs, Bricklayers, Masons and Plasterers' International Union, Barbers' International Union, and the International Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners. This array of labor organizations assured the approval of the thousands of legion members belonging to labor organizations."

"We said we could assure all ex-service men of a most cordial welcome as Indianapolis had always been most appreciative of her heroes. In proof of this, witness the soldiers and sailors' monument which was erected thirty years ago, costing then over $500,000—a monument almost 300 feet in height—and the patriotic manner in which Indiana's sons have answered the call in all previous wars."

"All were surprised to learn that Indianapolis has the most complete electric traction terminal building in the world, where more than 20,000 passengers each day arrive and depart on about 800 high-speed electric interurban cars. The fact that we built the first union railway station in the world also appealed to many."

"We found few knew that Indianapolis was the home city of the late Vice President Charles W. Fairbanks, the home city of Vice President Marshall, the late James Whitcomb Riley and the late Benjamin Harrison; of Booth Tarkington, Meredith Nicholson and other literary men of national note."

"We explained that in addition to our unusual location and railroad facilities, the city was well equipped with many first-class hotels, large auditoriums for conventions, and everything in the way of theaters and motion picture houses that delegates to a convention might require, 5 theaters and 60 motion picture houses."

"The many buildings of interest were also described—a post office occupying a city block and costing more than a half million dollars; a central library, erected at a cost of more than a half million dollars, with fourteen branches and thirty-five other distributing agencies; a state capitol occupying two city blocks; a courthouse of unusual architectural beauty, and so on."

"Of course, we bored some listeners, and we had to permit the boosters of other cities to have their say, but, nevertheless, we got across the many advantages offered by this city of 308,000 population. We tried to appeal to the particular interest of the man with whom we were talking."

"Thus, we told the men from farming and rural districts that the principal industry from the value of product is slaughtering and meat packing. That last year 1,394,452 hogs, 298,428 cattle and calves, and 15,903 sheep were killed. They were interested to know that more than 3,300,000 head of live stock were received at Indianapolis stock yards the year before."

"To the same men we told that 6,728,750 bushels of wheat and 21,566,500 bushels of corn were handled by local dealers, and a total of 46,000,000 bushels of grain handled in elevators having a combined capacity of 2,480,000 bushels."

"None of the college men seemed to know that Butler college at Indianapolis was the first college in the country to receive women on equal footing with men. And in the same way we had marshalled facts to interest men of every occupation and interest."

"I venture there was not a delegation at the convention so well informed on what their city had to offer. Certain men were assigned to work with the delegations from the different states. We took with us a motion picture film showing the city, but had not an opportunity to use it."

"But, as I said before, I believe the fact that we landed the G. H. Q. of the legion was due solely to superior salesmanship."

Wrong Emotion.
 Doctor—Madam, I am sorry to have to tell you that we are despairing of your husband's recovery.
 Prospective Rich Widow—I don't see why you are despairing about it. I'm not.

Arbitrary Assertion.
 "How can you assume to speak with authority on this subject, which you have not studied thoroughly?"
 "That, sir," replied the uncompromising citizen, "is the very method by which I show my authority."

A Long Process.
 "I don't quite understand your position in this matter."
 "I might explain it to you," said Senator Sorghum, "but I'm afraid it wouldn't do any good. You wouldn't understand the explanation either."

Putting It Over Wifely.
 "Gee, but it's late! Will your wife get up and let you in when you get home?"
 "I'll make her. I'll scratch on the door and whine and she'll think her dog's been locked out."

Explained.
 "What do you mean by saying that the prisoner struck you amidships?"
 "Well, you see, Judge, I had just had one schooner and was reaching for another when he hit me."

Real Joy.
 "Was Maude honestly glad to see you when you came home?"
 "Glad? Why, when she came rushing in to greet me I saw at once she'd forgotten to powder her nose."

Suitable One.
 "What is the reigning style of floral decoration for brides just now?"
 "I don't know, but it ought to be a shower bouquet."

PRETTY.
 "Is she very pretty?"
 "Very. She keeps her father broke buying gowns to equal her face."

Agitations.
 Through centuries the world has faced, Philosophers assert, It has been very often scared, But seldom badly hurt."

Sticking to It.
 "You never get anywhere unless you pick something out and stick to it."
 "Even that doesn't always work. Look at the fly on the fly paper."

Her Style.
 "What a thin voice that girl has!"
 "So thin it sounds as if she sung all her selections in a skeleton key."

Mean Suggestion.
 "Jims says he writes a great deal of fugitive poetry."
 "So he that reads may run?"

THE KITCHEN CABINET

We can be what we will be, but only by holding ourselves to consistent and well-calculated thought and action.—Sheldon Leavitt.

SEASONABLE GOOD THINGS.

A most appetizing salad dressing which is especially nourishing served on head lettuce or the leaf lettuce is:

Cream Cheese Dressing.—Take one cream cheese, mash and mix with a half teaspoonful of onion juice, half a teaspoonful each of mustard, salt and paprika, a dash of cayenne, a teaspoonful of sugar. Mix well, then add a French dressing made by using six tablespoonfuls of oil and two of vinegar beaten thick. Add the cream cheese gradually until well mixed and smooth. Serve well chilled on crisp fresh lettuce.

Jellied Apples.—Melt a cupful of sugar in a cupful of boiling water and when boiling hot add three cored and peeled apples. Turn the apples while cooking to cook tender throughout without spoiling the shape. Let the apples cool. To the sirup add leftover canned fruit juices, such as pineapple, peach or pear, making one and three-fourths cupfuls of juice all together. In this dissolve one tablespoonful of granulated gelatin softened in one-fourth cupful of cold water, add the juice of half a lemon and let chill. Set one-half of a walnut meat in the bottom of a cup, above it set the cooked apples, pour in a tablespoonful of jelly and as it thickens add more to fill the cup. Mold the rest of the jelly in a shallow dish and use it as a garnish for the unmolded apples. Serve with cream as a dessert or as a salad with French dressing.

Lemon Jumbles.—Beat two-thirds of a cupful of shortening to a cream; add a scant cupful of sugar gradually and the grated rind of a lemon; add two eggs beaten light, two tablespoonfuls of thick sour milk, half a teaspoonful of salt, two cupfuls of sifted flour and one-fourth teaspoonful of soda. Mix and cut into rings with a doughnut cutter, sprinkle with sugar and bake. This makes 40 cookies.

Fried Bananas.—Cut bananas a little under-ripe in halves crosswise then in halves lengthwise. Roll in flour and saute quickly in butter, browning on both sides. Serve at once. Very nice as a garnish for broiled steak.

With sugar becoming plentiful, but too high for free use, the following cake will be welcomed by those who had a good crop of Hubbard squashes: Take a cupful of sifted squash, one and one-fourth cupfuls of sifted flour, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, a half teaspoonful of salt and a tablespoonful of fat in half a cupful of hot water, unless the squash is still warm, then add the butter to it. To the other ingredients add one-half cupful of sugar, one-half cupful of shredded coconut, one teaspoonful of vanilla and one-fourth teaspoonful of bitter almond extract. Mix and blend as usual. It is about the consistency of mashed potato when ready to spread in the pans. Sugar the top and a beautiful crust will result.

Olive and Celery Sandwiches.—Chop celery and stuffed olives separately and very fine. Mix these with mayonnaise dressing and use as a filling for bread prepared for sandwiches. Chopped pecan meats or chicken may be added for variety.

If we looked for people's virtues And the faults refused to see, What a pleasant, cheerful, happy Peace this world would be.

HELPFUL HINTS.

The ordinary observer at the table feels much better qualified to carve the fowl than the man at the head of the table. A tactful guest will be happily entertained by the hostess or the 'lady next', rather than share the fowl out of countenance while the host is wrestling with the carving. Some one has said that she is indeed a true entertainer who can hold the attention of the guests from the carving.

A well-cooked fowl and carefully kept tools will make the carving a pleasure, and some skillful carvers enjoy being the center of attraction. A well-trussed bird looks better on the table than does a bird with legs and wings at all angles. If the sinews have been removed from the legs before cooking they (the legs) will be much better eating.

A few pieces of screen used on the gas burner to hold small dishes when cooking will be found a great saving. A variety of vinegars to be used in salad making may be prepared at home. Let the peelings and clean bits of apples soak in cold water; pour off the water and let it stand in a warm place. Add a small bit of vinegar plant, and in a few weeks you will have good vinegar. Add a bit of mint to one bottle, let it stand for two weeks, then strain. Any herb may be used in the same way for vinegar flavor.

Remember that you have only one body and that it is easier to keep it well than to build it up after you have mistreated it.

WAYS WITH POTATOES.

As there are several thousand ways of preparing potatoes, it seems as if for variety it is wise to enlarge on one's repertoire. Potatoes of uniform size and shape should be saved for baking, while the imperfect in shape and size may be steamed in their skins, peeled and used for various dishes like creamed potatoes, salads or escaloped dishes.

Potato Border.—Spread a wall of mashed potato one inch thick around the outside of a buttered pan. Remove the pan and fill the center with creamed chicken, fish, sweetbreads or oysters. Reheat and serve very hot.

Potato Puff.—Add the beaten whites of two eggs to mashed potatoes, using six medium-sized potatoes. Season well and pile lightly into a buttered baking dish and bake until it puffs and browns. The yolks of eggs with grated cheese may be added for variety.

Potato Soup.—Scald one quart of milk with two slices of onion. Remove the onion and add the milk slowly to two cupfuls of hot rice potatoes. Melt three tablespoonfuls of butter, add two of flour, one and one-half teaspoonfuls of salt, stir and mix well; add pepper, celery salt, and add to the hot milk; cook until smooth. Strain if necessary, add one teaspoonful of chopped parsley, and serve.

Curried Potatoes.—Make a white sauce of four tablespoonfuls of fat, one tablespoonful of cornstarch and two cupfuls of milk. Melt the butter, add the starch, then when well mixed add salt, pepper and four tablespoonfuls of cheese. To a quart of cooked diced potatoes add a medium-sized minced onion; add the sauce to the potato with a teaspoonful of curry powder, turn into a greased baking dish and bake until brown in a moderate oven.

Potato Stuffing for Fowl.—Take two cupfuls of mashed potato, one and one-fourth cupfuls of bread crumbs, one-fourth of a cupful of butter, one egg beaten, one teaspoonful of salt, the same of sage and one finely chopped onion. Combine the ingredients and mix them well together.

INCREASE IN QUANTITY OF MILK USED

Milk is the Best of Foods for Young and Old Alike—Drink More of It.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)
 Milk as a food has been receiving more attention in the last quarter of a century than at any previous time.

In the United States there has been a great increase in the average quantity of milk used by each person, but it is only within the last few years that we have reached an average consumption of one pound a day. Thirty years ago the per capita quantity consumed was estimated at half of what it is today. Much of this increased consumption is due to a more widespread knowledge of the food value of milk and to regulations requiring better methods of production and better sanitation.

One pound of whole milk a day makes 42.4 gallons a year. This may seem like a great quantity of milk, but a growing child should have twice this amount.

Milk in Other Countries.

In several countries the average consumption of milk is larger than it is in the United States. The people of Sweden and Denmark use 1½ pints a day and those of Germany and Belgium prior to the war used more than a pint per capita. The Netherlands (Holland) is one of the great dairy countries, as the Dutch people are fond of all kinds of milk products. The whole-milk consumption of that country is about twice that of the United States. In Italy the greater part of the milk consumed is goat's milk, for the Italians believe it is better than cow's milk. The larger part of the cow milk, sheep milk and buffalo milk is used for making butter and cheese.

In the hot countries of Asia and Africa the milk is often used after it has clabbered, as sour and fermented milks are considered very healthful.

The people of Central and South America have been increasing the quantity of milk consumed in the last few years.

Decrease by War.

In Canada there was a great decrease in the consumption of whole milk due to the war. Prior to the war the use of whole milk had reached a daily average of one pint, or about 42.4 gallons a year, but in 1917 the milk consumed averaged only 26 gallons, which is a decrease of about 40 per cent. In England the average quantity of milk consumed yearly was only 22.2 gallons before the war, but every effort has been made to increase the consumption and especially to give growing children the amount needed by them. That country is now conducting a campaign to raise the consumption to a quart a day for children under five years of age.

In other European countries the quantity of milk available for consumption was reduced during the war, and in some sections there was not enough even for the sick. The children seldom saw either good or bad milk.

In nearly all countries, just prior to the war, the consumption of milk per person was increasing. The milk was being produced under better conditions. The war came and proved the value of milk as a food for children, for wounded and sick soldiers and for home folks.

Since the period of reconstruction began many committees and commissions in the principal dairy countries have been endeavoring to classify the information derived from war experiences relative to the value of milk and milk products, and to increase the quantity and improve the quality of the milk products consumed.

NUMBER OF MEALS EACH DAY VEGETABLES ASSIST HEALTH

Specialists Cannot See Advantage of Two Hearty Meals Over Three Ordinary Ones. They Spell Vigor and Freedom From Sickness for Those Who Eat Freely of Them.

The theory is advanced from time to time that one or two meals a day would be preferable to the three commonly served in this country. If the same amount of food is to be eaten, United States department of agriculture food specialists state that it is hard to see the advantage of two very hearty meals over three ordinary ones.

The best physiological evidence implies that moderate quantities of food taken at moderate intervals are more easily and completely digested by ordinary people than larger quantities taken at long intervals. If the food ordinarily eaten is considered excessive and the aim is simply to reduce the amount, it would seem more rational to make all the meals lighter than to omit one. The very fact that the custom of eating a number of meals a day has so long been almost universal, indicates that it must have some advantages which instinct, based upon experience, approves and justifies.

PROPER CARE OF GARMENTS

Saving of Time, Labor and Money in Teaching Children to Take Care of Clothing.

Children should be taught that care of clothing means not only saving of time and labor but saving of money. Clothing, when taken off, should be folded or hung properly, not dropped on the floor. Make it easy for the children to take care of their garments by providing playtime clothing that gives freedom. It should be made of material that will not easily soil or tear. Handkerchiefs, caps, overshoes and mittens should be marked so that they will not be easily lost. A convenient place for keeping the garments should be provided.

USE SMALL AMOUNT OF WATER

Part of Mineral Salt Dissolves and is Lost if Water is Thrown Away—Cook Vegetables Whole.

Most vegetables are better when cooked in a small amount of water because a part of the mineral salt dissolves out into the water and is lost if the water is thrown away. Cook whole when possible.

OF INTEREST TO THE HOUSEWIFE

For stringing large beads violin strings are excellent.

Keep piece of stale bread in cake box. Will keep cake moist.

Add a pinch of borax to starch. Keeps it from sticking on irons.

Never warm baby's milk until immediately before the child takes it.

Discolored eggspoons rubbed with a little common salt when washing up will lose their stains.

A wad of tissue paper sprinkled with methylated spirits will give a brilliant polish to glasses and mirrors.

Bent whalebones can be straightened by soaking them in boiling water for a few moments and then ironing them straight.

EVOLVED FROM THE HUMBLE SWEATER

THE humble sweater began its career as a practical, warmth-giving garment, without claims to beauty; but thanks to the imagination of beauty-loving womankind its descendants have been industriously cultivated until there are many varieties in chic and lovely garments sprung from this unpretentious source. The sweater-coat seems to prove more alluring to designers than the sweater, but in both there is a great variety of models, made of wool or silk, by hand or by machinery, or of piece goods. For the last mentioned—the sweater-coat of piece goods—tricolette in several weaves and jersey cloth in plain or crepe weaves offer a happy choice of either silk or wool. For the richest models either of these materials is used, with embroidery in silk, and these are the last word in the elaboration of sweaters into luxurious garments suitable for all occasions. The pretty sweater-coat pictured strikes a happy medium between the two extremes of the purely practical and the highly ornamental in the realm of sweaters and sweater-coats. It is a compromise between the two, made of silk fiber cloth which appears to be reversible. This coat adopts the flounced style with close-fitting three-quarter length sleeve, having a deep flounce set on. Its long collar gives it dignity and a narrow belt of silk jersey, ending in tassels, helps out its sprightliness. It is a beautiful example of one of the new styles, matched in class by the handsome hat of braid and ribbon worn with it.

What Spring Has in Store

THERE are afternoon gowns and afternoon gowns, some of them so brilliantly designed and executed that they are not abashed in the company of ambitious dinner dresses. But the afternoon gown most sought after is the less dressy affair that claims elegance and distinction in design, while it remains unobtrusive and simple.

Two beautiful afternoon gowns shown in the picture above are indications of what the spring has in store. These are made of dark-colored woolen materials and employ embroidery in silk, but they use these familiar things in new ways.

At the left of the two there is a dress which may be made of serge, gabardine, duvetyn, or any staple wool goods, that is to be recommended because it can be worn with a topcoat now and later without one. It manages to be very original and very simple, depending on scalloped edges and a narrow-knotted fringe for the unexpected in its composition. There are large scallops at the bottom of the skirt, smaller ones at the bottom of the long bodice, and still smaller ones to finish the short sleeves, and every scallop is edged with narrow fringe. It is not enough to say that the scallops are embroidered, it must be noted that the embroidered design is made for them.

Three embroidered bands on the skirt of the dress at the right, are graduated in size, with the narrowest at the bottom. A narrow sash of the cloth is slipped through slashes in the bodice and ties in a flat bow with long ends at the front. The odd collar and turned-back cuffs are faced with satin and a slip pocket in the skirt must not be overlooked in this second example of excellent designing.

HOW TO LIVE

MENTAL HABITS.

No one escapes trouble, so whatever may be your condition you have no monopoly in suffering. You have your compensations. Don't whine and get the complaint habit. "Make the best of things." This homely phrase is, after all, the shibboleth of life. It is the faculty of seeing some good—of drawing some inspiration from the most hidden source, that makes life endurable, that glorifies it. Life is pleasant or unpleasant, hard or easy, according to the way you look at it, the way you think of life. Thoughts govern action, and he who governs his thoughts is master of his destiny. Destiny is not about you, but within you. Healthful, hopeful, optimistic thoughts are essential to strong minds and bodies.

Worry is one of the very bad mental habits; it injures beyond repair certain cells of the brain; and the brain being the nutrient center of the body, the other organs become gradually injured, and when some disease of these organs or a combination of them arises, death finally ensues. Thus may the habit of worrying kill. Only too often mental habits are morbid in their nature, and consequently cast a morbid influence upon the physical system over which they rule. Especially is this true when our minds are centered on the involuntary functions of the body. A man who has his mind constantly upon his digestion will soon have indigestion. Nature purposes to run her own machinery, and when we undertake to supplant it by human plans or artificial ways we destroy the natural process and disease results.

Thinking of what is eaten during or after meals is a dangerous practice, and if continued until it becomes a habit will be a greater obstacle in the way of curing any disease of the stomach than any other factor.

A person who suffers pain, and suffers his mind to revert to it constantly, establishes a nerve habit of pain, and the sense of pain grows, while the capacity to endure pain lessens. There can be no greater calamity to chronic invalids than that they get together and tell their ailments to each other. Such a course is but nursing disease and rendering it less curable. It should always be the aim to cultivate reverse habits of expression to those we feel during illness. Sickness is not the least of the opportunities in life. It is the time for reflection. It does not come by accident usually, but is the effect of a cause. Reason and reflect upon the cause rather than the effect. The break in the wrong modes of living which is present affords the best opportunity to change the bad mental habits and a start in better ways.

Many people go into society just for the purpose of telling their aches and pains and troubles. Such people should be sent to the pest house and kept in quarantine until they are cured; they are as untouched by the myriad happy influences of life as the mole is by the light of a star or the flash of a comet. They say "No one is as bad off as I am." Their salutation is always one that plunges at once into the condition of the liver, stomach, nerves, or some bodily ailment. Forget it! Don't get the habit of talking about sickness with every one you meet. Can't you find a topic of conversation more elevating than that of your aches and pains and troubles?

Cheerfulness is to the body what sunshine is to vegetation. Hence with a person who is in search of health, the essential thing to do is to cultivate cheerfulness, hopefulness, courage, and not allow one's self to think of his ills,

Health Notes

So far as feelings are concerned, live only in the present. The past is done for; it is not half so bad as you suppose. Verify this by recalling its pleasures and successes alone, resolutely ignoring its sadness and failures. Live in the present of a sunny mood. Anticipate nothing but good in the future.

We must make automatic and habitual, as early as possible, as many useful actions as we can, and we should guard against the growing into ways that are likely to be disadvantageous to us as we would guard against the plague.

Cheerfulness gives elasticity to the spirit; specters fly before it; difficult to feel deep emotion and sorrow to exercise it, but it implies a power to rise from depressing influences and to exercise reason and courage in overcoming them.

Nervous strength, power of concentration, of application to a task, of control of emotion, of decision, of inhibition and perseverance, in spite of distraction and fatigue, come only by exercise and practice—in short, by work.

If anyone wants a happy old age, he must first of all never betray his optimism; second, never brood over the past and the dead; third, work away to the last breath, to keep as much of his cerebral elasticity as possible.

much less to talk about them, except to those who may find it necessary to know them in order to properly direct his life. LEARN HOW TO LIVE.

WORK.

"Employment is nature's physician." Health is maintained by occupation. When one quits work he loses the pep that comes to him from doing something and being of some use, of responding to demands and maintaining a routine, and his muscles get soft, his internal organs go on strike, his appetite falls and he loses sleep. Work is necessary to growth, because through it one acquires strength of mind and body. Both brain and muscle grow strong by exercise, by assuming responsibilities, by bearing burdens and doing things. Work of some sort is as necessary to health as eating and drinking.

Idleness and inaction breed nervous prostration, fear, worry, gossip, crime, constipation, and a host of evils. We make friends through work, we find in it beauty, humor, pathos—all that goes to make up a full, normal life. Congenial work is as necessary to peace of mind as it is for the health of the body; it is the symbol and avenue for almost all that is worth while in human life. The happiest hours of your life should be when you are working, and you can learn to like any work you may be doing. But whatever your job is you should dignify and vitalize it by putting your ideal into it, giving your life, your energy, your enthusiasm, all to the highest work of which you are capable. Your heart must inspire what your hands execute. Your work sometimes may be hard and thankless, but like tough metal it serves to suit the needs of a strong man and is better suited to that purpose than sipping soft drinks at a summer resort.

Cut out your "grouch" if you have one. Quit feeling sorry for yourself and feel sorry for others. When you pity yourself because you think you have a hard job your soul shrivels up, but when you pity others your soul expands and grows. When you are troubled with grouching and self-pity just remember that you are in a universal guild of toll, and the universal forces are infinitely adaptable to the poor jobs as well as to the good ones, and that someone must do the work—why not you? Any labor will be irksome if done in a discontented, unhappy spirit.

"Who sweeps a room as in His sight Makes that and the action fine."

To work, and to honor one's task by associating it with the whole; to cut out envy, jealousy and complaint, and replace them with nobler traits would prevent much sickness and go a long way toward solving the labor problem.

Anyone can be healthy, happy and successful who holds the right mental attitude and who works with enthusiasm, determination and a light heart. When you work, cultivate calmness, poise, sweetness, doing your best, bearing all things bravely, living your life undisturbed by the prosperity of your boss, or the malice and envy of the man out of a job.

Health and happiness are free if you but reach for them—occupation and the right state of mind are pretty sure to fetch them. The more useful work you do, and the more you think and feel, the more you really live. Then after your work is over for the day, give yourself an hour or so for self-examination, for thought, for body and brain rest, for amusement, and you will have a good conscience, a good appetite, and peaceful slumber. LEARN HOW TO LIVE.

Town and City Forms Of Government

Shall the town government of Weymouth be changed?
 Shall Weymouth become a city, or adopt a representative form of government?

Suppose each precinct should elect 25 or 50 delegates to take the place of the town meetings. This would make a total attendance of 150 or 300 duly authorized to transact all business to come before the town meetings during the year.

The report of the special committee of 1919 to investigate forms of government, has received little consideration, because the committee did not report in print, and the town meeting received the report without reading. The Gazette and Transcript will however print the same in instalments, beginning this week. The committee was not asked to make any recommendations, but to review the different forms of city and town governments, which it has done.

To the Voters of Weymouth:

At the Annual Town Meeting in March, 1919, the following vote was passed:

VOTED, That a committee of five be appointed by the Moderator to investigate the subject of city government, the town of Brookline's manner of town meeting by representation, the Norwood town management plan, or any other new form of town government and to report at some future meeting but not later than the next annual town meeting.

Subsequently the moderator appointed Edwin R. Sampson, Edward P. O'Brien, Albert P. Worthen, Bradford Hawes and Matthew O'Dowd.

The committee organized by the choice of Albert P. Worthen as chairman and Bradford Hawes as secretary.

CITY GOVERNMENT

The Acts of 1915, Chapter 267, entitled "An Act to simplify the Revision of City Charters, provides four plans, designated respectively, A, B, C, and D. This Act can be adopted by any city in the state except Boston.

Plan A provides for a mayor and a city council of nine members, all of whom are elected at large.

The heads of departments and other city officers are appointed by the mayor without confirmation by the council. They may be removed in like manner.

Plan B provides for a mayor, and in cities having seven wards or less, a city council of eleven members, elected partly at large and partly by districts or wards.

The heads of departments and other officers are appointed by the mayor, subject however to confirmation by the council, and in like manner they may be removed.

Plan C provides for a city council of five members consisting of a mayor, who shall also be commissioner of administration, a commissioner of finance, a commissioner of health, a commissioner of public works and a commissioner of public property. The mayor has a vote but no veto.

Plan D provides for a city council of five members the of whom receives the highest number of votes shall be the mayor. The council shall appoint a city manager, who shall be the administrative head of all departments and shall appoint such officers and

PROBLEMS FACING STRICKEN WORLD

Shall Chaos or Reconstruction in Europe Follow the Great World War?

RADICALISM IN THE SADDLE

Without a Definite Program, People Everywhere Are Demanding a Change in Present Conditions—Threat of "Direct Action."

Article XI.

By FRANK COMERFORD.

Radicalism in Europe is rampant. The workers are active, the middle class sympathetic. The industrial centers are hotbeds. The conservatism of the farmers and peasants is breaking down. It is hard to define this radicalism—it is without form. It isn't a definite program, it isn't even political. The people are dissatisfied. The red flag is popular. It promises a short cut. It answers the cry of the impatient. I was surprised to see many of the very men who fought so gallantly under their country's flag and who but yesterday would have torn the red flag from the flagpole, now defending it, carrying it and following it. I am sure they do not know what the red flag stands for. To them it represents a protest against things as they are. Summed up in a word, the attitude of mind of the workers of Europe is eagerness for a change—some change—any change. Every one knows the symptoms, understands what is wrong, but the remedy is only vaguely discussed.

I attach much significance to the new attitude of organized labor in Europe. Labor unions formerly concerned themselves with wages, terms of employment, shop conditions, safety appliances, recognition of their right of collective bargaining. Since the war the labor movement has taken up questions entirely outside of its field, questions properly the concern of all the people, questions of government policy. I have in mind recent demands made by the working men in England, France and Italy. These demands were addressed to the regularly and properly elected representatives of the people, the governments. They were accompanied by threats of general strikes if they were not acceded to. This step is an innovation; it is revolutionary.

The working men are citizens and have a voice in the government equal with all other citizens. After the people have selected their representatives, the men chosen should be responsible to all of the people without regard to class or station. A government by one portion of the people is autocratic. Government of the people, for the people, and by the people, means all of the people. The effort on the part of a minority in the labor movement, who challengingly call themselves socialists, to dictate to the state, representing all of the people, is an attack upon democracy. If successful it would destroy the state and leave the great majority of the people, including the workers, less free than they are now. What sane man, whether he is a working man or not, is in favor of minority government?

Demands Hard to Understand.

I witnessed many demonstrations in Europe under the red flag, in which the leaders demanded three things from the government.

First, they demanded the release of all the men in jail who were held for political crimes. These included men found guilty of sedition and treason during the war. I cannot understand this demand. Why should men be released from jail who sought to stab in the back the men who went to the trenches to fight and die for freedom? I should much prefer to see all of the burglars released. If I am compelled to choose between the traitor and the burglar, I will have no trouble in making my decision.

Second, they demanded that no soldiers be sent to Russia. The agitation on this point was so strong that when the British government attempted to send soldiers to Russia last summer (1919), the soldiers mutinied, and so far as I am able to learn the feeling was so strong, the situation so critical, the government did not dare court-martial them.

Third, they demanded that all conscription laws be abolished. It is apparent that these demands, coming from a minority, backed by a threat, constitute an invasion of the rights of the people. The question isn't whether or not one believes these things should be done; the issue is the method resorted to. Personally I do not believe soldiers should be sent to Russia. In my opinion allied intermeddling has been stupid and harmful, but if these matters of general public policy are to be decided, all of the people should have a vote in making up the verdict.

When you consider this new attitude of labor in conjunction with the growing popularity of "direct action," it indicates that the labor movement is losing faith in law and political action. I am not saying that their experience with politics, their betrayal by men they have supported, the default of political parties to carry out pre-election pledges, may not be responsible for a distrust in political government. I am not denying that capital has had the ear of government more than it should; that property has been given more thought than human beings. I am concerned with the danger that these innovations promise, a danger to the working men themselves, a menace to law and order, without which no one is secure, without which there can be no freedom.

Political Action Called Failure.

I heard a speech in London that deeply impressed me. It was applauded by several thousand men and women—average good British working people. Most of the men wore service badges. The speaker, a clean young Englishman of about thirty-five, said: "Political action is a failure. We vote and we are betrayed. Political parties are the agents of bands of capital. Their purpose is to keep the workers apart, knowing that divided we are powerless. The only time they are willing we should unite is when war calls for men. What did we win in the war? Nothing. We thought we had a stake in the game, that the hand we were playing was our own. Now that it is over we have discovered that we won nothing."

"What did the working man ever get by voting, except the worst of it? The word vote comes from a Latin word, meaning 'to wish.' Who ever got anything by wishing? 'We are like the story in Bellamy's 'Looking Backward.' You remember he spoke of a coach. On top of this coach the capitalists sit in the sunshine enjoying the ride. On the side of the coach, hanging by their fingernails and toenails are the hundreds of thousands who make up the middle class. Millions of men are pulling the coach. They are sweating and trudging—they are the working men. Running along the side of the coach are millions more, fighting to get a chance to get hold of the rope and pull the coach. They are the idle. There is only one thing to do. That is to stop pulling the coach, let go of the rope. Don't wish about it; do it. The fellows on the top of the coach don't do any wishing—they boss and drive."

The crowd cheered. There is some truth in the speech. It is true that the working man has not had a square deal, but the fact that he has not had fair treatment does not make the plan of direct action a sane, wise plan. Revolution would only lead to blood and disorder and leave the very men who revolted in a worse plight than they are now. The millions who are the majority have an infinitely better weapon than force. They have the ballot. They are in the majority. Men must think their way out of the wilderness. They cannot fight their way out. When they try to go deeper in.

Bolshevism Finding Favor.

I found the word bolshevism in the minds and on the lips of the working people of Europe. I expected to find them antibolshevik if for no other reason than that bolshevism came from Russia and the bolsheviks made peace with Germany while the allies were in a death struggle with her with the result in doubt. I found them confessing their faith in bolshevism, speaking of it as a new religion, resenting the obstacles their own governments had placed in its way.

In Ireland, the last place I expected to find a leaning toward bolshevism, I found an open devotion to it. The Irish people are in many respects the most conservative in the world. The only radicalism they have ever shown is the revolutionary spirit expressed in uprisings for freedom. The Irish are a people of reminiscence and tradition. The Celtic mind is devoted to form and custom. I was present at the Irish Federation of Labor convention held in August, 1919, at Drogheda. The delegates to this convention, representing 300,000 union men and women, went on record almost unanimously for bolshevism. I later learned that few of them, if any, knew exactly what bolshevism was. I asked a leading spirit of the convention if he believed in communism, the abolition of the private ownership of property, and he said, "Of course not; that's rank nonsense; socialism; impossible and impractical." The pro and con of bolshevism has from the beginning been partisan and prejudiced. Working men are bolsheviks because employers are against it, and employers are against it because the men are for it.

Duty Before the World.

Millions of gallant young men have fought for the new world. Hundreds of thousands died to establish it. If we fail to honor the promise given to them we dishonor ourselves. What does a new world mean? What was the old world like? It was a world where toll for myriads of honest workers, men and women, purchased nothing better than squalor, penury, anxiety and wretchedness—a world scarred by slums and disgraced by sweating, where unemployment through the vicissitudes of industry brought despair to multitudes of humble homes; a world where, side by side with want, there was waste of the inexhaustible riches of the earth, partly through ignorance and want of forethought, partly through entrenched selfishness. If we renew the lease of that world we shall betray the heroic dead. We shall be guilty of the basest perfidy that ever blackened a people's fame.—David Lloyd George.

Golden Pheasant Feathers.

A considerable source of profit exists in the feathers of the golden pheasant, which are used in salmon fishing. These birds, which are natives of China, are the hardest of the pheasant tribe, and are not at all troublesome to rear in this country.

SCRAPS of HUMOR

STILL LIVELY.

"Just think," mused the merry old gentleman, as he watched a crowd of college boys. "Forty years ago I was like that."

"Well, you haven't changed much, Sam," replied his friend. "It's true you don't wear loud hat bands and socks and burst forth in a college yell at every opportunity, but you own the flashiest automobile in town, and I don't know of anybody who honks his horn without any particular reason more often than you do."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

TOO MODEL.

"I think you have a model apartment."

"Yes, my husband says it's a model of the real thing."

Ill-Wishing.

O Father Time, I hate to see
Your scythe put on parade,
And when you take a hack at me,
I hope you nick your blade!

Self-Evident Truth.

"The fortune teller told me I have a generous nature," said young Mrs. Tokins.

"Of course," replied her husband. "You've got to open your pocketbook and prove your generosity before you can get a fortune teller to notice you."

The Modern Figure.

"Do you think this country's political affairs will ever bring forward the traditional 'man on horseback'?"

"No," answered Mr. Chuggins. "The horse is out-of-date. What you want to look out for is the man in the automobile."

Something at Stake.

"I thought your caller went away disappointed."

"He did."

"May I ask what he wanted?"

"My autograph."

"A small request."

"Not on the back of a note."

Lucky Is Right.

Charity Visitor—Patrick, I understand that you are the seventh son in the family; have you any luck?

Patrick—Oh, yes, m'um; I gets all me brothers' clothes, so I'm pretty warm on cold days.

Turtle Soup.

Miss Tortoise—So you never intend to marry?

Mr. Turtle—Not on your life. My brother married last month and he's in the soup already!—Cartoons Magazine.

SOMEWHAT DIFFERENT.

"Oh, Mrs. Rashly, I'm so glad to see you. I hear you have been away visiting friends."

"No. Just relatives."

Non-Production.

"THE MIRACLE MAN"

Published originally as a novel in Munsey's Magazine, written by Frank L. Packard and later dramatized by George M. Cohan and presented with phenomenal success on Broadway, the Paramount-Artcraft picture, "The Miracle Man," comes to the Bates Opera House Wednesday and Thursday, April 7 and 8. As a motion picture this absorbing story has been hailed by the critics as one of the finest productions ever seen on the screen. With scenes laid in the haunts of criminals in New York's Chinatown, in a little village on the side of a giant mountain and on the shore of a roaring ocean, the opportunity for wonderful photographic effects has been realized to the limit. But the chief interest is in the striking story, which centers about the venerable figure of an old patriarch, who is credited with the power to heal the sick and make crippled limbs whole again. To him come Tom Burke and his band of crooks from New York's Chinatown with the idea of cashing in on his powers. But it doesn't work out as they calculated, for hidden away in each of them is a leaven of good, which slowly comes to the surface under the influence of their wholesome environment. In a most marvelous way the criminals are reclaimed from the paths of crime.

A cast of unusual ability enacts the important roles in the picture, headed by Thomas Meighan, a well known leading man, and including Elinor Fair, Betty Compson, Joseph J. Dowling, Lon Chaney, W. Lawson Butt, J. M. Dumont, Lucille Hutton and F. A. Turner.

"Monsieur Beaucaire" is founded on the world-famous story by Booth Tarkington, and the beautiful score for this light opera was composed by the celebrated French composer, Andre Messager of Paris.

WOMEN AND CITIZENSHIP

Norfolk is the next county in the state with plans to expedite the work of preparing its women for citizenship.

Committees of representative people are being selected to carry forward the local work in each district; and later in the spring, when the weather becomes settled, and the roads will permit, it is hoped—the different groups co-operating—to hold a Norfolk County Institute, with an all-day meeting, as has been done in eight counties. Mrs. Jessie C. Dunbar, of Randolph, newly appointed Norfolk County Citizenship chairman for the Massachusetts Woman Suffrage Association, has begun the work of organization.

Various states are at work on citizenship programs, but to Massachusetts has been accorded the distinction of having formulated the best program to date. A "Primer," compiled by Mrs. True Worthy White, is now available, and will be found to be helpful to the large body of women soon to become voters.

Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, at the convention of the League of Women Voters, held recently in Chicago, expressed the opinion that citizenship work was of the first importance for the coming year. In address, "Wake Up, America," Mrs. Catt challenges both men and women citizens to use their votes for a better America. She says "Aim high." "I believe in placing the target high up. Even if you do not hit it, your arrow will strike higher than if the target had been placed low."

THE UN-DEPORTED.

America consists of Americans and of nothing but Americans. Those, who within the past few years, have come to think of America as a vast mixture of languages, races and clashing doctrines, have had the wrong viewpoint. They have been thinking of America as a place and not as an ideal.

Millions of immigrants have crossed the ocean from the Old World. They have reached our shores, but many of them have never reached America. On the other hand, many of our native born are not now and never have been Americans. There is no such thing as an "American Red." There is no such thing as an "American I. W. W."

An American is a man who feels American, thinks American and acts American—no matter where he was born.

America has plenty of room and a warm welcome for those who wish to become Americans, but it cannot spare a single square foot of soil to those who intend to continue un-American and anti-American. Fortunately, we can deport some of the most noxious of these intruders, but these are but a small percentage of the unfit. What about the remainder? There is but one answer: They must be Americanized.

This, however, is not a task for the Department of Justice, not even for Congress and the various state legislatures; it is a task for the rank and file of American citizens. It is a task of education plus, and of influence plus; it is really a task of moral coercion. It is a task for swift and energetic action, wherein American citizens in all their vast numbers must seize opportunities when they exist and create opportunities when they do not exist, to Americanize all who come within their own circles or else to cast them out of their circles.

It is no time to talk of "broad-minded sympathy" or of "conciliation," where a great question of right and wrong is involved. You cannot "conciliate" evil any more than you can "conciliate" a conflagration.

BE KIND

"Increased thought and care for the beasts of the field and the birds of the air," was the language used last year by Governor Coolidge in proclaiming "Be Kind to Animals Week." We understand from his secretary that the Governor will issue a proclamation this year for the celebration, which is to take place April 12 to 17, concluding with Humane Sunday, April 18. On the latter date ministers everywhere and of all creeds are asked to bespeak better treatment of animals, either by special sermon or some reference to Humane Sunday. In schools, Friday, April 16 (or the nearest convenient date) will be specially observed as Humane Day, when teachers all over the State will be supplied with an eight-page pamphlet of exercises relating to animals and their care, distributed through the various superintendents by the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

An illustrated colored lantern slide, announcing the above dates, will also be sent free by the society to every moving picture house in Massachusetts that will agree to use it during "Be Kind to Animals Week." Free literature on the subject may be obtained by writing to the secretary, Massachusetts S. P. C. A., 180 Longwood avenue, Boston 17.

FORMS OF GOVERNMENT

employees as the council determines to be necessary.

All of the foregoing plans provide for a term of office of two years for the mayor and city council.

In all cases the school committee is elected by the voters of the city.

We have conferred with the city authorities of Leominster, Peabody and Methuen, the last three towns of the state to adopt city charters, and they all seem to think the change to be advantageous.—The charters of these three cities are in substantial conformity to plan A or B, before mentioned.

The charter of Leominster provides for a salary for its mayor not exceeding $1,000, and for its city council not exceeding $500 each.

The charter of Peabody makes the salary of the mayor not to exceed $2,000, and the city council $250 each.

The charter of Methuen limits the salary of the mayor to $1,500, and the city council to $250 each.

In his communication the mayor of Peabody states that whereas their tax rate for last year under town government was $22.40, the average under the city charter for the last three years has been but $17.60. He further states that in that time they had spent $800,000 on permanent roads and other public improvements, of which $575,000 has been paid out of the tax levy.

SHORT CIRCUITS CAUSE TROUBLE

Average Automobile Driver Knows Little or Nothing About Electrical System.

USUALLY AWAITS CALAMITY

Operator Should Familiarize Himself With Wiring on His Car—Instruction Book Will Help Solve Puzzling Situations.

"The average driver knows nothing about electricity, as applied to the automobile, and so is unable to tell when the ignition system is functioning properly," says a well-known motorcar authority.

"He is afraid to experiment and believes in letting things alone until something happens. He then looks over the system for the first time, and, of course, does not know whether the wiring is right or not. I have repeatedly pointed out cases of worn insulation among other troubles about which the operator seemed entirely lost. In one case the spark was jumping freely from a distributor wire to a piece of metal nearby, and he pointed to it as evidence that he had a good spark—evidently accepting it as a matter of course that the spark should jump where it did.

Watch Chafing Wires.

"Even if the operator understands nothing of the nature of his ignition system he should, at least, familiarize himself with the positions of the various wires, their colors and general condition. Here the instruction book will be a great help. Watch particularly for cases where one wire chafes against another or some piece of metal. Such places should be protected with electric tape, or at least separated so that no short circuit may occur. But the high tension or secondary wires may develop a short circuit where least expected, so that it would be well to go over them occasionally to see that no leakage takes place. This is particularly true during rainy weather. The moisture is drawn in by the fan and scattered around under the hood.

Hunting the Trouble.

"Wires which did not leak current before will short-circuit during a wet spell. The best method is to run the engine and to trace along each wire, lifting it away from any place it may touch so as to see or feel if the current is leaking through the insulation. Where a leak is noted the place must be taped.

"A more puzzling problem occurs where all the wires from the distributor pass through a metal tube. There is always a possibility of a short circuit from the wires to the tube as the tube is always grounded. Proceed as follows: First, find out if the current enters the suspected wires. To do this, disconnect the wire at the distributor end and hold it near its contact, to see if spark jumps. If no spark is seen the trouble is not in the wire, but in the distributor. If a good spark occurs at the distributor but none at the other end of the wire there is a short in between. The wire must be pulled out and a good one substituted, although the old one may be made serviceable again."

CHECK AUTOMOBILE THIEVES

Metal Curtain Drawn Over Windshield and Locked Hinders Driver From Guiding Car.

A metal curtain drawn over the windshield, blocking the view of the driver, is a new means of frustrating the automobile thief. This curtain is locked in place when the car is left, and the thief undertaking to drive it off would have great difficulty in guiding the machine.

Lightweight Pistons.

Lightweight pistons have an advantage over those more massive by having a direct influence in lessening the pounding action on the crank pin and shaft bearings.

HOME MADE AIR PUMP IS VERY CONVENIENT

Use One of Engine Cylinders as Compressor.

Tires May Be Quickly Inflated While on Road by Employing Method Described—Illustration Gives View of Connection.

Inflating tires quickly while on the road may be accomplished by the well-known method of using one of the engine cylinders as a compressor. To take the place of the spark-plug on one cylinder—preferably the one in the rear—make a connection for the air-hose as follows:

Use a nipple having the same thread as the spark-plug, and on this turn an ordinary pipe coupling. The spark-plug is turned into the upper end of the coupling.

This provides a means of tapping the coupling for a side outlet, into which are fitted a small brass cock, a ball check-valve, and finally the hose connection.

When it becomes necessary to pump a tire, connect the hose with the check-valve to the cock, turn the valve, and let the engine run.—P. P. Avery, in Popular Science Monthly.

WATCH OIL CONSUMPTION

Use of an Excessive Amount Means That There is an Expensive Leak Somewhere.

Keep careful track of your oil consumption, as it means better efficiency of your engine. If you find you are using an excessive amount it means that there is a leak which is expensive, or that the engine is sucking it up into the combustion space, which means carbon and all the troubles which may follow.

AUTOMOBILE NEWS

Every truck owner should have a monthly cost sheet, summary of costs or whatever he wants to call it.

When you grind in the valves, clean the stems of all foreign matter and make them bright and shiny.

There is no need to tell the old driver that railroad tracks should be crossed diagonally to ease the jolt.

Frequent removal of the core of an air valve will generally impair the holding ability of the small rubber washer.

A mistake frequently made, especially by new car owners, is to adjust the brakes so tightly that when applied the wheels slide.

There are several causes of oil collecting on the points of the spark plugs. One of these is the use of too heavy a lubricating oil.

The primary current should never be run through the master vibrator coil when the secondary circuit is not in use, as this will ruin the unit.

It is very important that regular inspections should be made of the leather coverings or "boots," which protect the universals and other parts.

UNIQUE AUTOMOBILE ATTRACTS ATTENTION

This unique home-manufactured automobile is attracting much attention whenever seen in the streets of London, driven by its builder. A window shade on a roller is used to keep the engine warm. The body is of hardwood and picturesquely carved and decorated.

DORT

Quality Goes Clear Through

On talking to Dort owners you will find that they not only speak enthusiastically regarding the economy of the Dort in gasoline, oil, and tires, and the ease with which it rides, but they refer repeatedly to the advantages that accrue to them as a result of the remarkable simplicity and accessibility of Dort construction.

Mamma Lacked Experience.
 Late one afternoon Hazel had her beau call on her just as she and Ruth, her little sister, were going to do the dishes. When they were about half way through Ruth said: "Hazel, if you'll do the rest of the dishes and give me two cents I'll entertain Elmer till you get through." Hazel then replied: "Mamma's entertaining him for nothing, ain't she all right?" "No," Ruth said, "Mamma never had a fellow, so she doesn't know how to entertain 'em."

The Main Point.
 "Your society was formed to decide a number of questions of great scientific importance?" "Yes. We arranged to consider the manifestation of the psychic impulse in protoplasmic life and the molecular energy developed by the prismatic transmutation of light waves and kindred topics." "And have you done so?" "No. We've only been in session a week. We haven't yet decided the question of who is to be chairman."

Intemperance a Danger.
 As love and self respect are the pillars of the house life, so intemperance is the certain destroyer of the home, attacking as it does the very fabric upon which it rests. Very many people imagine temperance refers to abstinence from, or moderation in drinking spirituous liquors, beer or narcotic drugs. But it is possible to be intemperate in words and actions.—Exchange.

That's Warm Enough.
 An astronomer has come forth with the belief that the temperature of the center of the sun is not more than 10,000 degrees centigrade.

NEW STYLES THAT BESPEAK REFINEMENT

IF WOMEN live up to the high standard of good taste and refinement, expressed in the best efforts of designers of apparel for spring, they will do well. Some reporters of the styles always have an eye cut for the sensational—the knee length skirts or those impossibly narrow ones—but these freakish things do not get very far. Only very young, very pretty and unsophisticated persons may be excused for adopting them, and then they are only tolerated as a little youthful folly for which the inexperienced are not to be blamed too much. In any assembly of people who have plenty of money to spend on clothes, there is usually little that is extreme or freakish; what pleases the student of dress is the beauty and the refinement of the new styles. A very good example of this appears in the pretty frock of figured foulard which is pictured here. It is made of that perennial favorite, dark blue silk figured with white, but foulard, and similar silks, are shown in other colors that are equally attractive and might be made by the same pattern. There is nothing complicated about the design; it combines a straight skirt, medium in width, with a tunic graduated in length and bordered with velvet ribbon in the same color as the silk. The bodice is plain, cut in the fashion of a blouse, with elbow sleeves. The collar, cuffs and chemisette of organdy and narrow filet lace, lend their daintiness and crispness to the model and a row of very small pearl buttons, set on the chemisette, reveal a careful finishing touch that must not be overlooked. The velvet ribbon which crosses the chemisette and ties in a bow at the back, is a little wider than that used to border the tunic. It writes a delightful "finis" to a beautiful frock.

Usual and Unusual in Suits

AT the left of the two suits pictured above, there is a dressy model of very unusual design and very handsome. It is made of dark blue twilled cloth, for which either tricotine or gabardine might be used as a substitute; but any one of them must be chosen in a good quality, because the success of the design depends upon sufficient body, or weight, in the material, and its finish. A narrow, tubular braid of white silk appears to be applied to the coat and skirt by couching it on. Everywhere we come upon the unexpected in this model—in the cuffs of white crepe de chine, ornamented with white soutache braid, in the white motif of net and embroidery silk or braid, daringly placed at the top of a split in the coat, and other details. The one-piece skirt arrives at a narrowed-in line at the bottom, by means of an over-lapped seam that runs in a diagonal instead of a vertical line and is left open to the depth of the hem. The braid is applied to the bottom of the skirt in vertical lines at the front; at the back in diagonal lines and the coat corresponds with it in this respect. The bottom of the coat is caught up at the front in a deep fold. It hangs straight, over a smock of white crepe de chine, fringed with chenille. The sleeves are long and flaring. An ingenious and gifted designer has achieved a masterpiece in this suit. The other suit is simple, practical and clever, with widened hip lines made by pieces set on and fastened down with three bone buttons making four plaits. It has one of the few coats that are not open at the front to the waist line and sets rather closely to the figure. Julia Bottomley

Public Hearing Relative To Transportation

The rooms of the town officers in the Savings Bank building were crowded Monday evening at the public hearing given by the Committee on Transportation recently appointed at the adjourned Town Meeting, who are expected to report about May 1. Among the number were several jitney men, but no one represented the Eastern Street Railway Company. With one exception all of the committee of ten were present, and A. O. Heald, the chairman, presided.

Those who expected that the fate of the street railway or the jitney would be settled then and there were disappointed, as it was merely a legislative hearing. The committee had no report or plan to present, but simply wanted the views of those present as to the kind of service wanted, and how to obtain the same.

John H. Tobin said it was not fair to judge conditions as they exist today and compare with the days when the street railway was operated, as no jitney act was in force and there was no well regulated operation of busses. He wanted to hear what the committee had done, and what they favored. He would have sub-committees hold conferences with the street railway company, and also bus companies.

A member of the committee said the whole question was open, and they desired to hear from representatives of any company present.

There was a call for Mr. Whiting, who presented the bus proposition so flowery at the Town Meeting.

Mr. Whiting had nothing definite to present, and did not think a public hearing the place to outline plans. However, he had given the problem serious consideration, and said for a town like Weymouth it was a problem. It was a question if a local company would be a success unless connected with companies outside the town. At a later date he would present the committee some proposition. T. P. Vaile, spoke at length. The town wants transportation, and wants the best, and he hoped all present would present their ideas.

Mr. Tobin spoke of the loss to the town in wages paid to street railway men. He might at a later date present plans to the committee.

E. W. Hunt of the committee asked if anyone was present to represent the Eastern company. No one responded.

Selectman Humphrey asked if committee had any idea what the Eastern wanted to operate the East Weymouth and Braintree route.

Chairman Heald said a sub-committee had interviewed Mr. Loring of the trustees, but he had nothing definite to put on paper. Would be pleased to hold conferences.

Selectman Hawes thought the town wanted electric cars if arrangements could be made. Believed ladies preferred trolleys. Might cost the town $28,000 the first year, and less the next.

W. H. Bicknell said valuations of property were seriously affected. Would be 30 per cent. less without transportation. Should get the car service back if possible.

Mr. Tobin called for the report of the town committee read at the Town Meeting. The report was read by Stanley T. Torrey.

Selectman Hawes explained the report, saying it was the last word from the street railway company. Mr. Loring had declined to write a letter. The only alternative was a well regulated bus line. It should have the same protection the street railway had had. Possibly fares would be higher, or a town subsidy might be necessary.

One gentleman said $200,000 might be necessary to put Weymouth street railway in good condition.

Others maintained that the East Weymouth and Braintree route had paid well. That the repairs suggested were almost entirely within the limits of the town of Braintree.

Mr. Vaile wanted automobile service, not jitney service, under schedule and restrictions. What we have now is jitney service.

Mr. Whiting said the cost of installing a bus service would far exceed all estimates.

Mr. Sheehy thought Mr. Whiting's story much different than at town meeting. Electric cars could not be operated without help from towns. Favored cars, but if we cannot have them, the Selectmen should try to get well regulated bus lines.

Mr. Gertsley said High school pupils and others preferred busses to cars.

Mr. Tobin wanted committee to use influence to have cars put back. Adjourned at 9:30.

DEDHAM COMMENT

A writer in the Dedham Transcript comments as follows:

"Weymouth citizens have set an excellent example for the people of other municipalities to follow. Last week in the largest town meeting ever held in Weymouth it was decided by a nearly unanimous vote not to appropriate any money to cover the running expenses of trolley lines of the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway Company within the limits of the town. It was a sane and sensible action. The average citizen and taxpayer has about all he can do now to meet the high cost of living without digging down and lending financial aid to a quasi-public corporation. The better way to deal with the matter is to let the road die a natural death. After it has been 'legally buried' some live and going concern can get the franchise in the streets and give the traveling public real service and fair fare. The street railway situation today in Massachusetts is a stench in the nostrils."

MUNICIPAL STREET RAILWAY

In Detroit, Michigan, the proposal sponsored by Mayor James Couzens to bond the city for $15,000,000 with which to begin the building of a municipally owned street railway system to compete with the present Detroit United Railway was voted at an election this week.

The vote was 89,285 in favor of the bonding issue and 51,093 against, or 63 per cent. of the total vote cast, against a required 60 per cent.

ATHENS SCHOOL NOTES

Many kind friends of the school donated old newspapers and magazines in the recent drive made by the pupils for the purpose of establishing a school fund. Money raised by this means is to be used only for school purposes with special emphasis at the present time upon the purchase of baseball equipment and other athletic materials. The drive to date has netted $81.40 and with a few additional contributions promises to go over $100. Both boys and girls have taken hold after school hours with excellent spirit and have had the sincere co-operation of the community. Already several tons of old papers have been disposed of, as well as about three-quarters of a ton of old magazines. Additional papers and magazines will be gratefully received and arrangements for collection made upon application to the principal.

At a recent meeting of the baseball squad, J. Edward Shaw of 2 Hobomack road was elected captain and Andrew J. Alden of 292 Bridge street, manager.
 The first regular baseball practice was held Wednesday at Pope's field, and more than 26 candidates put in an appearance. The competition promises to be keen for places on both the first and second teams.
 This school went over the top in good style in its contribution toward "America's Gift to France" and almost doubled the amount asked for by the Liberty Loan Committee of Weymouth. The noteworthy thing is that the contributions from the nearly 500 pupils in the school were very evenly distributed throughout the building. Even the younger generation responds well toward such a worthy object.

 Hester Rice entered the eighth grade this week from the Danvers Junior High School. She is residing with Mrs. Edward Martin of Commercial street.
 Through the efforts of Dr. Wallace H. Drake and the principal first-aid material has been placed in the school. A neat first-aid cabinet to hold the same has been specially constructed by Theodore Jacobson and Andrew Alden of grade nine.

DIVORCE PETITIONS

Charges of desertion, cruel and abusive treatment and nonsupport are made in eight divorce libels recently filed in the clerk of court's office in Dedham.
 Osborn Shaw of Weymouth, applies for a divorce from Mrs. Nellie J. Shaw of Boston, alleging cruel and abusive treatment. The husband states that there are three children, Gladys, aged 23, Susan 20, and Kenneth 18. The couple have been married since September 1, 1888.
 Mrs. Carrie W. Whitney of Quincy, alleges cruelty in her petition against Joseph S. Whitney of Weymouth. They were married at Weymouth, December 26, 1896, and have one child of which the mother asks the custody.

BAPTIST MEETINGS

Baptist inspirational meetings throughout New England are being held in the interest of the New World Movement campaign which terminates May 2, after a whirlwind of seven days for $100,000,000. Of this amount more than $15,000,000 has been apportioned to this section.
 Dr. Joseph B. Robbins, for many years a Baptist missionary in India and one of the most progressive secretaries in the American Baptist Foreign Mission society, is giving practically his entire time to the rally meetings. Mrs. Robbins is assisting him.

RESULTS TELL

There Can Be No Doubt About the Results in Weymouth.
 Results tell the tale.
 All doubt is removed.
 The testimony of a Weymouth citizen can be easily investigated.
 What better proof can be had?
 Benj. W. Hewett, gardener, 191 Washington St., says: "At one time I was so bad with my back, I couldn't bend over to pick up anything from the floor. Doan's Kidney Pills fixed me up and have always given me good results when I have needed them."
DOAN'S ALWAYS RELIABLE.
 Two years later Mr. Hewett, said: "I still use Doan's Kidney Pills when I have need of a kidney medicine. They always give me excellent relief and I recommend them whenever I get a chance."
 Price all dealers. Don't simply get kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Hewett uses. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., F. Y.

committee of Weymouth relative to forms of government for cities and towns started in the Gazette-Transcript April 2:

In the case of Methuen we find the provisions made for the transference of the town government to a city government were as follows:

Upon the acceptance of this act the selectmen of the town then in office shall forthwith divide the territory thereof into five wards, so that the wards will contain, as nearly as may be consistent with well defined limits, an equal number of voters, and they shall designate the wards by numbers. The wards may in any year fixed by law for a new division of wards in cities, may be changed by a vote of the municipal council with the assent of the mayor; but the number of wards shall never be less than five.

The selectmen, for the purpose of the first preliminary election held according to the provisions of this act and of the first municipal election which shall take place on the third Tuesday of December next succeeding the acceptance of this act shall provide suitable polling places and give notice thereof, and shall at least ten days before said preliminary election appoint all proper election officers therefor; and they in general have the powers and perform the duties of the mayor and board of aldermen in cities under Chapter eight hundred and thirty-five of the Acts of the year nineteen hundred and thirteen, and Acts in amendment thereof ad in addition thereto, the provisions of which, so far as they may be applicable, shall apply to said election; and the town clerk shall perform the duties therein assigned to city clerks.

The registers shall cause to be prepared and published according to law lists of qualified voters in each of the wards established by the selectmen.

Section 3—The selectmen shall notify the persons elected at the said first election, and shall provide and appoint a place for the first meeting of the mayor in January next ensuing; and shall, by written notice left at their respective places of residence at least twenty-four hours prior to such meeting, notify the mayor elect and councilmen elect, who shall immediately proceed to organize and carry into effect the provisions of this act, which shall thereupon have full force and effect.

ner, appoint a place and time for the first meeting of the school committee,

COUNTY CONFERENCE

To explain the purpose of the Interchurch World Movement, a conference of church leaders in this county is about to be held. In practically every county in Massachusetts a similar convention will take place. The procedure is nation-wide, these meetings having been prepared for in 2,000 counties of the United States.
The Norfolk county meeting will be held Tuesday, April 13, at the Baptist church, Brookline.

Concisely, beginning at 10 o'clock in the morning, a program that will reveal just what the Interchurch World Movement has done and plans to do is to be given. It will begin with a general statement of the Movement, will include a vivid and crystallized account of the home survey and the foreign survey conducted by the Movement, and an explanation of the four departments—stewardship, spiritual resources, missionary education and life service.

Special attention is to be given the plan of county organization, which centers around the county advisory committee, with an inner group known as the county executive committee.

A careful announcement is included regarding the united simultaneous financial campaign, April 25 to May 2, for a total of $336,777,572 in the nation. Baptists, Congregationalists, Presbyterians and other denominations, 30 in all, will unite in this effort, the Baptists being the denomination seeking to raise the largest budget, $130,000,000.

Three teams of speakers are to tour the state at these conferences. The first team is headed by Rev. Dr. Milton B. Pratt, executive secretary of the Worcester Federation of Churches, and Alfred Ware, of the Worcester
Y. M. C. A. The leaders of the second team are Rev. Dr. Cornelius H.
Patton, home secretary of the American Board in Boston, and Rev. Dr.
Floyd W. Carr, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Lynn. Heading the third team will be Dr. D. Brewer Eddy, associate secretary of the American Board, and Rev. Charles N.
Arbuckle, pastor of the Newton Center Baptist Church.

The Interchurch World Movement represents a union of purpose of a number of denominations to put the church more efficiently on the job. It has made careful studies, or surveys, in this country and other lands, on which the financial askings of the co-operating denominations are founded. The county conferences are intended to take its message to the local churches.

TOWN ACCOUNTANT RETIRES

Charles B. Cushing, who retired April 1 as town accountant, appreciates the following letter from the secretary of the Board of Selectmen:

"Dear Mr. Cushing:—At a joint meeting of the Selectmen and Water Commissioners of Weymouth, held on March 15, 1920, I was directed by a unanimous vote of the joint meeting to convey to you the extreme regret of the members of the two Boards that you felt that the time had arrived when you must retire from the position of Town Accountant. The meeting wished to express to you its sincere appreciation of your faithful service to the town during the long term you have served as the head of the Accounting department."

Emerson R. Dizer, the new town accountant, has assumed his duties.

CLEAN UP THAT YARD

Now that spring is here again, all nature seems glad to be rid of winter garments. Mother earth will burst forth with a new green dress again, decorated here and there with buds and flowers. And the trees will awaken at the old—but ever new songs of the birds that have come back to us from sunny climes—and burst forth with their buds. The feeling is spontaneous. It seems only fitting that we should enter into the spirit of the season, and help "dress up" the yard and lawn. Not only in front, but in back. It is the test of neatness to keep clean where it sometimes does not appear to show. Let us not be like the housekeeper who always swept her floor—but swept it behind the door. Pass the good word along, to clean not only the front yard, but also "behind the scenes."

Please direct all mail for the Gazette and the Times to—"Gazette, Weymouth, Mass." No street address or box is necessary, and no name.

SUNDAY SPORT ACT

Governor Coolidge has signed the Sunday Sport Act which is left to local option. It is possible that the warrant for the special town meeting in May will ask that the Act be submitted to the voters of Weymouth.

Adoption by any community makes it effective at once within its limits.

For current year:—
In CITIES, Mayor and City Council (or Board of Aldermen) may authorize provisions of act, or citizens may at any regular election.

In TOWNS, to be made operative act must be indorsed by majority vote at a regular or special town meeting.
(Ten per cent. of registered voters can compel Selectmen to call special meeting.)

After current year (or at any municipal election coming this year) question to be settled by referendum, provided 10 per cent. of voters petition for placing it on ballot. After city or town has accepted act, 10 per cent. of voters can in any year require resubmission.

Acceptance by a city or town legalizes within its limits amateur games, or which no admission fee is charged (except horse races, automobile races, boxing matches or hunting with firearms), between 2 and 6 in the afternoon.

No sport can be carried on within 1,000 feet of a church.

Amateur sport is defined as one in which participants are not promised and do not receive, directly or indirectly, any pecuniary reward.

Act carefully specifies that it does not prohibit at any hour on Sunday outdoor exercise not involving the element of contest. Non-scoring golf, so far as this act is concerned, is legal from sunrise to sundown.

FIFTY-FOURTH YEAR

VOL. LIV NO. 16

WEYMOUTH, MASSACHUSETTS, FRIDAY, APRIL 16, 1920

Bandits Kill Officer and Shoot Paymaster

Wild excitement prevailed in South Braintree late yesterday afternoon, when six automobile bandits armed with repeating rifles and automatic revolvers descended upon the town killed Special Officer Alexander Berardelli, inflicted fatal wounds on Fredrick A. Parmenter, stole the weekly payroll of Slater & Morrill Inc., shoe manufacturers, amounting to about $18,000, and made their escape in the direction of Holbrook. A fusillade of bullets, as they sped away from the scene of the crime, sent hundreds of persons to cover.

The narrative which is given the most credit by the police is that Parmenter, who was head book-keeper and paymaster of the company, accompanied by Berardelli, a special officer in the employ of the company, had left the office on Railroad avenue, and that both were proceeding down Pearl street in the direction of the factory when they were fired upon without a moments notice, and robbed of the money.

Each of the two men, it is said, carried a tin box containing money.

About 100 feet from the railroad tracks two men sat on an iron fence in front of Rice & Hutchins shoe factory. Another was standing behind

Efforts Being Made To Reopen Car Lines

Rumor has it that the Transportation Committee appointed at the town meeting is unable to find responsible parties who will establish regular bus routes in Weymouth.

Conferences have been held with the trustees of the Eastern Massachusetts street railway company looking to the reopening of the street railway routes in Weymouth, but the committee is not yet ready to report to the citizens.

No special town meeting has been called. It has been suggested that the town meeting be held in the large car barn at East Weymouth. It is not a very inviting place, but it is spacious, and perhaps the only building in town that would accommodate all the voters who desire to attend. It might be difficult or impossible to seat all the voters.

At present Weymouth has through cars from East Weymouth to Quincy and Neponset, and also from East Weymouth to Hingham and Nantasket, but the other parts of the town have very poor accommodations, only that which local jitneys are furnishing. To add to the discomfort, Broad street between Central Square and Lincoln Square is in wretched condition. At best the jitneys are poor substitutes for the electric cars.

Local merchants are complaining at the loss of trade, and with the present service property is sure to deteriorate.

Annual Ball of Firemen's Association

After two postponements on account of the severe weather, the 23d annual concert and ball of the Weymouth Firemen's Relief Association was held at Bates Opera House last Friday night and was a big social and financial success. Over 600 couples from this and other towns attended.

DeNell's orchestra furnished the music for the concert and dance and gave the following program from 8 to 8:30:

March, "Second Regiment Conn. Reeves

Overture, selected.

Xylophone solo—Howard Richards

March, "On to Plattsburg"

The grand march was led by chief marshal E. W. Gardner and Mrs. Gardner. He was assisted by E. A. Bowker and the following marshalls: W. H. Bicknell, James Connor, H. E. Belcher, F. E. Larmey and H. B. Hall.

Chiefs of departments in the various neighboring towns were present as guests.

The ball committee was E. W. Gardner, W. J. Sladen, George M. Keene, John A. Carter, Ralph O. Houghton, John Q. Hunt, F. E. Larmey, H. C. Belcher, John S. Bacon, S. F. Cushing, Charles A. Coyle, H. B.

Hall, L. H. Ellis, J. H. Connor, W. H. Goodwin, Merton L. Loud, John W. French, E. A. Bowker, J. A. Carley, W. P. Kennedy, J. F. Kennedy, W. B. Baker and W. D. Blanchard.

The officers of the association are E. W. Gardner, president; E. A. Bowker, vice-president; G. M. Keene, secretary; W. J. Sladen, treasurer; John A. Carter, John Bacon, L. H. Ellis, J. A. Carley, Ralph O. Houghton and J. W. French, directors. H. L. Humphrey, N. B. Gladwin and J. F. Kennedy auditors.

C. E. CONVENTION

The 16th annual convention of the Christian Endeavor Union of Norfolk County will be held at Bethany Congregational church, Quincy, on Monday, April 19. In the morning there will be a demonstration by the Junior Endeavorers, entitled "Delivering the Goods," and in the afternoon a debate on the subject, "Resolved, that Sunday sports are injurious to the public welfare." Rev. Isaac Ward of the First Presbyterian church, Boston, will deliver an address in the evening.

—Dancing and pictures every Tuesday and Saturday evening at Bates Opera House.

CLEANUP-DAY

Thursday, April 22, 1920

The Selectmen have voted to cooperate with the property owners of the town for a CLEAN-UP-DAY, when rubbish will be collected in all parts of the town. The rubbish must be put in barrels or boxes and placed on the edge of the sidewalk before 7 A. M., Thursday, April 22.

How would YOU like a raise like this?

— and for 34 Years Work

THAT is the kind of increase in salary the minister has received. His living expenses have risen just as fast and as far as yours.

But he is paid on the average just 52 cents more per church member than he was paid 34 years ago.

The Minister Never Fails You

Every officer of the Government with a war message to deliver appealed to the ministers first of all.

But 80% of the ministers receive less income than government economists figure as a minimum for the support of an average family.

When hospitals need money they enlist the support of the ministers—and receive it.

But when sickness visits the minister or the members of his family they must be treated in a charity ward. His pay is less than a day laborer's.

8 out of every 10 ministers receive less than $2 a week—about half the pay of a mechanic.

We Pay Him Half the Wages of a Mechanic

And of these pitifully inadequate salaries, how much do you contribute? Nothing if you are outside the church; an average of less than 3c a day if you are a church member.

All of us share in the benefits of Christian ministers to the community. They marry us; bury us; baptize our children; visit us when we are sick. In their hands is the spiritual training of the youth.

We Are All Profiteers at Their Expense

Part of the Interchurch World program is this—a living wage for every minister of Jesus Christ; an efficient plant, and a chance to do a big man's job.

If you want better preachers, help to pay the preachers better. It's the best investment for your community—and for your children—that you can ever make.

HINT REGULARS STARTED STRIKE

The Railroad Strikers Intimate That Brotherhoods Secretly Arranged It

WAS BOSSSED IN NEW YORK

Prepared Three Months Ago Said to Be Revealed by Striker at Meeting in Jersey City

NEW YORK.—Statements made by men connected with the railroad employes brotherhoods now on strike in Jersey City indicated that the walk-out last Friday on the various railroads entering that city was not a spontaneous movement, but was arranged by men high in the councils of the four big brotherhoods.

These leaders, it is intimated, have been directing the strike from secret offices in this city. Who the men are could not be learned tonight, but it is believed that they are guiding strike leaders in Jersey City in their policy of withholding the identity of themselves and others behind the strike.

Epithets All Camouflage

Despite the efforts of the strike leaders in Jersey City to withhold information about those behind the screen, an unguarded word dropped by some of the strikers revealed the fact that the strike is not the "insurgent" movement as described, in fact, during the progress of four meetings of the strikers, and particularly at a meeting of the local unions of firemen and engine drivers in Bergen square, Jersey City strikers openly declared at the close of the meetings that the four international brotherhoods are "in sympathy" with the strike, and that the references to the strikers as "outlaws" by high officials of the international organizations is "camouflage."

To offset that assertion this meeting did not develop much outward respect for Timothy Shea, acting president of the International Brotherhood of Firemen and Engineers, who, according to some of the strikers, unsuccessfully tried to urge the men to return to their work and to comply with the agreements between the government and the railroad employes, which will not expire until next September.

One group of strikers, intercepted after they had left the Jersey City meeting, told that officers of the international body have been insisting that the strike was illegal and without sanction became incensed and declared that statements that they were "outlaws" were without foundation.

"Have you heard anybody say that any of the locals in this district have received word directly from headquarters in Cleveland that we must not go on strike?" one of the men asked.

"Under what conditions are the men willing to return to work," was asked the men. "Will a settlement be effected through the officers of the local unions, or will it come about through the men who are at the head of the strike here, and who are represented to be men who were not officers in the local organizations before the strike was called?"

"You'd better ask those fellows over in New York about that," replied one of the men in the group.

"What group in New York?" was asked.

Just as the man was about to reply one of the other men who had talked about the strike in a guarded manner broke in with: "Hi! That'll do. Cut out that stuff about those fellows in New York."

Other strikers coming out at the close of the meeting intimated that three months ago the men were warned to prepare for a strike.

AUTOMOBILE IS HOISTED INTO COUNTY COURT AS EXHIBIT AT MURDER TRIAL

For the first time on record an automobile has been moved into a courtroom as evidence. This unusual event took place recently in the Bronx county supreme court, New York city, where Ernest Fritz was on trial charged with the murder of Mrs. Florence Coyne. Mrs. Coyne was riding in the automobile at the time of her death. The machine had to be hoisted into a window in the courthouse.

HANDLING AUTO IS QUITE EASY

Little Knowledge of Component Parts Will Bring It Back An Right.

IGNORANCE CAUSES TROUBLE

Gasoline Mixed With Air, Compression and Ignition Are Three Essentials in Starting—Lubrication is Important.

Since the test of success long has been not that a fellow could start something, but that he could finish it, it will be said that one is not an accomplished motorcar driver until he can get back on his own power, regardless of what conditions he is up against. Anyone can be towed back—if he has the price. There is little fear of this for the driver of an up-to-date car once he has learned the simple things of operation. It is ignorance which leads to trouble—outside of the movies.

It takes three things to start a car, gasoline mixed with air, compression and ignition, and these must be continuous if the car is to keep running. In addition there must be a system of lubrication, a system of cooling and a free exhaust. Now, this looks like a formidable list of things to master; really it can be done even by a child. To begin with the first on the list, for instance, it may be taken for granted if the engine is started and runs, that the carburetor is adjusted properly and will stay so until human fingers alter it; therefore the only trouble in the gasoline supply would be a failure to keep a supply in the tank or the stoppage of the pipe line by dirt, the remedy being obvious.

To Determine Compression. Compression may be determined by cranking over the engine by hand and noticing the resistance of each cylinder in turn. Lack of compression may come from leaky valves which need grinding in, lack of lubrication in the cylinder, since oil forms a seal between piston and cylinder walls; that the piston rings were gummed and not functioning, or that there was a leak at plugs, petcocks, or if the cylinder head be removable in its gasket. But an engine will run with pretty poor compression.

Ignition is much more likely to be at fault than the other things mentioned. The modern car with starting system is quite a complex thing so far as its electric plant is concerned, for there is the starting motor and the generator, the storage battery, timing device, possibly a magneto, and an intricate system of wiring, with cutout and regulator, ammeter, lights, horn and maybe other devices to give trouble. Barring broken wires, loose terminals and dirty contact points the troubles should be few. The car instruction book gives a chart of wiring.

Lubrication is Important. Lubrication is perhaps the most important feature of operation of the motor. Without it the motor would be ruined in a few minutes. Lubrication means the placing of a film of oil or grease between two moving parts to reduce friction, and in the cylinder it has the added office of sealing for compression noted above.

The lubrication system may be force feed, splash or circulating splash. The latter is the one most used. The oil is carried in the bottom of the crank case, called the sump, at a level determined by the manufacturer. It is pumped up to a dial on the dashboard where you may observe its flow, and runs from there by gravity to the oil troughs in the crank case, and possibly to some other mechanism. Narrow projections on the connecting rods dip into the oil in the troughs and splash it over the interior. Rapid motion of the parts produces a sort of oil fog in the crank case, which deposits a film of oil upon parts where the splash does not reach, lubricating all moving parts sufficiently.

DISABLED CAR TOWED WITHOUT DIFFICULTY

Improper Fastening of Lines Cause of Much Harm.

Best Plan to Attach Rope to Both Ends of Frame, as Shown in Illustration—Start Ahead Slowly, Avoiding Jerks.

The automobile that makes a business of towing disabled cars, as a rule, does not last long. Generally the main cause of its rapid destruction lies in improper fastening of the tow-lines.

The car being towed does not receive injury if the tow-rope is fastened to any part of sufficient strength to withstand the pulling strain. Still, it is better to attach the tow-rope to both ends of the frame, as in Fig. 1.

The nearer the fastening is made to the traction points of the towing car, the less strain the towing-car will have to undergo.

When the rope is attached to the differential housing, as in No. 3, the tendency is to spring the rear axle. When a connection is made, as in No.

At some time or other your car must be towed home. Here's the way to do it without injuring the car.

4, the entire drag comes at one end of the rear axle, tending to pull the axle out of line. Of the two methods No. 4 is preferable if the tie shown in No. 2 cannot be made. Do not fasten the tow-rope to the frame of the car that is to do the towing.

When starting the car, move ahead slowly to take up the slack in the tow-rope without jerking. When under way the driver of the towed car should keep the rope taut by using the brake if necessary.—Ronald L. Prindle, in Popular Science Monthly.

AUTOMOBILE GOSSIP

Study your lubrication chart and follow it carefully.

When installing tire chains it is not advisable to have them too tight.

If your instruction book is lost, make a special study of each part of your car.

In filling the radiator of the car allow enough water to pass in to bring the level over the end of the vent pipe.

Wet rubber cuts more readily than when dry, and during muddy, puddly season tires should be watched with special care.

In cars fitted with a piston type oil pump, failure to force the oil in its proper channels may be remedied by priming the pump.

The average motorist can test the connecting-rod bearings of his engine by tapping the bearing caps lightly with a hammer to see if there is any play.

All tops hold their shape better if kept up. When lowered, however, the fabric should be folded in carefully, away from the bows, to prevent creasing.

Two blocks of hard wood about six inches square, held together with two small bolts with wing nuts, make a useful clamp to compress a dough patch in an inner tube.

Basil Warren, wrestler, finds it a hard job to keep out of the limelight, especially in this "colony". Warren who won laurels for himself during the basketball season has now acquired the title of Champion Amateur Wrestler, in the 175 pound class of New England. He just escaped becoming the heavyweight champion, having been defeated by "Wrestler Brown," of Harvard College in the "finals". Warren was handicapped when he met Brown, having been in seven bouts previous to the finals while Brown had been in but two.

Ned Rand, the newest addition to the C. M. A. wrestling material entered in the Cambridge tournament, but was defeated in the first bout. This was Rand's first experience on the mat. There were 75 bouts. "Doc" acted as referee.

HOW TO LIVE

Common Sense Comments on Health, Happiness and Longevity

By GEORGE F. BUTLER, A. M., M. D.

Copyright, 1920, by International Press Bureau

SLEEP.

Good sleep is absolutely essential to good health. Broken, irregular sleep, if long continued, is bound to result in nervous and physical breakdown. Different people require different amounts of sleep, but there are few who can keep healthy and do their best work on less than eight hours' sleep in the twenty-four. Continuous curtailing of the sleep, even if it be slight, is more serious than the occasional loss of many hours. It renders the mind heavy and sluggish; it makes one irritable and impatient, and greatly diminishes the power of good work. Sleep must be natural, dreamless, restful. Such a sleep cannot be produced by drugs; neither will it come to the man who eats and drinks to excess late at night. The active business or professional man who loses sleep, or who does not get good sleep, and who eats, drinks, and smokes to excess, is breeding a bunch of "nerves" that are bound to overtake him some day. He is almost invariably "run down" by the end of the week, or soon after. The "run down" man is the social disgrace of the town. The "run down" man is the man who is not only "run down" but also "run down" by the public. He is the man who is "run down" by the public. He is the man who is "run down" by the public. He is the man who is "run down" by the public.

REST.

Man's body is so constituted that it must have periods of repose. Rest is as necessary as food, after a hard day's mental or physical work. Effective activity is based on its intervals of rest. Much of our fatigue and ineffective work is often caused by unnecessary tension and waste effort. Use only the force necessary for the successful accomplishment of your task. Avoid all unnecessary strain. Do not use the whole body in a piece of work that requires only the exercise of some special part. When you rest, keep still; when you move, move with that part of the body needed. Do not waste your force by walking with your arms and face as well as your legs. If circumstances force an unusual and fatiguing amount of exertion upon you, break it up and then by periods of relaxation. A minute or two of relaxation with eyes closed, with your machinery thrown off for the moment will help and refresh your mind. You must learn to rest your mind as you do your muscles. The habit of mental relaxation is as necessary as that of muscular relaxation. One of the most essential principles of efficient, successful work, is to know when to stop. The most efficient person is the one who works only when at his best, and quits at the first signs of fatigue. Efficient work requires close and continuous attention. Inability to give close attention to the work in hand is Nature's warning that the fatigue point has been reached. Persistent failure to heed these symptoms usually marks the beginning of nervous exhaustion with all its attendant evils. The vital functions are all affected by fatigue, producing a condition of low vitality in the organism, making it very susceptible to all forms of disease. The tired man loses his self-control, his judgment, his sense of proportion. Fatigue is so far-reaching that it affects the power to live up to moral principles. You must realize that it is better to regulate your daily tasks with some regard for your nervous system than to burden yourself with nerve-racking work for weeks and months until you are forced to take a rest. You should make it a rule to rest a little after every important task accomplished, particularly after you have gone through a severe nervous strain. When the time comes to rest, do so in fact, not merely in name. The power of perfect, child-like relaxation must be cultivated in order perpetually to renew the body. When this is acquired you will get as much rest in a few minutes of quiet as many get out of several hours' sleep. To relax for a few minutes during the day is often very refreshing. Fatigue and rest must balance. If you rest too much you are not going to get strong. If you work too hard, physically or mentally, you will go to waste. Activity is life; stagnation is death. Learn to balance! When man learns the art of wholesome living, the recuperative power of intelligent rest and the rejuvenative power of contented thought, that "tired feeling" will disappear and he will be filled with energy, enthusiasm, peace and happiness. Only by daily, harmonious use of all one's being—faculties, functions, senses, muscles—can one earn the right to prolonged possession of them. LEARN HOW TO LIVE.

By the aid of sleep we recover the energy we have used for the day, and actually accumulate and store up energy. The foolish man tires out his mind and body and then resorts to drugs to get to sleep. He is a slave to his conscious mind; he depends on his body, with its cerebro-spinal system that tires and wears out easily. The wise man, whether he is energetic or slow, depends on his superconscious mind, which he opens to all elevating influences. It is he who lives the real life, whether it be short or long. And if you could know his mind, his inner life of thought, you would find that he never allowed mundane matters to interfere much with the amount of rest, including sleep, that he had learned to be necessary for his good health. On going to bed at night, after taking breathing exercise, you should understand that first of all it is wrong to attempt to force sleep, for that will prevent you from sleeping if anything will. It will make you anxious, and anxiety is death to sleep. Just assume a natural, easy position in the bed and give yourself up to the soothing influence of the night. The superconscious will do the rest, in ordinary circumstances. But if sleep should not come at once, don't worry. A variety of reasons for sleeplessness may exist, but they mostly resolve themselves into one, namely, a tendency to think instead of casting all thought from the mind. After a little practice, you can learn to submit yourself to rest without thought, leaving everything to the superconscious mind. Outdoor sleeping is preferable, but plenty of fresh air is imperative. The bed clothing should be light and porous, but sufficient to keep the body warm. A good mattress, and not too high a pillow are essential. When you awaken in the morning you may lie a moment, getting used to the change from sleep, and then you should get up. Do not lie there dozing. Dozing in bed in the morning often will be enough to set the tone for an entire day of weariness. You would better get up even if you do not feel fully rested. You will sleep the surer and the better for it during the coming night. LEARN HOW TO LIVE.

Health Notes

If you would increase your happiness and prolong your life, forget your neighbor's faults. Forget the slander you have heard. Forget the temptation. Forget the peculiarities and fault-finding of your friends and only remember their good points.

When you retire for the night, you are not to ask yourself whether the day has been a good day or a bad day. You are not to review the past, or look forward into the future. You should empty your mind of all conscious thought.

If you wish for health and happiness in old age, regulate your mind and body according to the rules of sweet reasonableness and eat and drink about one-half of what you could eat and drink.

The whole secret of remaining young in spite of years is to cherish enthusiasm in oneself by poetry, by contemplation, by charity—that is, by the maintenance of harmony in the soul.

Most of the luxuries, and many of the so-called comforts of life, are not only not indispensable but positive hindrances to the elevation of mankind. With respect to luxuries and comforts, the wisest have ever lived a more simple and meagre life than the poor.

A fort may have brave men enough within its walls to repel any attack which may be made against it. A man may have such a stock of high health as to resist the most destructive disease.

One of the most important adjuncts to proper diet is perfect mastication. Every morsel of food should be so thoroughly chewed and mixed with the saliva that it becomes a liquid before leaving the mouth.

This is a high-pressure age, and in trying to "keep up with the procession" many persons do more than they are capable of doing, drain their vital powers and become physical and nervous wrecks.

To yield and yield again to the expression of every emotion is weak-minded, and leads to weak-mindedness, besides weakening the body and impairing the health generally.

The world will be to you very much what you make it. The cheerful are its real possessors, for the world belongs to those who enjoy it.

Cheerfulness is not only power; it is mental progression, and health and happiness and long life to yourself and to your friends and family.

The ordinary healthy man is quite unconscious of the existence of his own physical mechanism. It is the last thing he thinks about. This is partly due to the fact that he is healthy, but his health in its turn is partly due to the fact that he does not worry about his interior.

You must sleep well, if you mean to work well. You must have body and mind in good working order; and they will not be in good working order unless you sleep regularly, steadily, and enough.

The Purpose of an Advertisement is to serve your needs. It will help sell your goods—talk to the people you want to reach. An advertisement in this paper is a reference guide to those whose wants are worth supplying.

YOU ARE READING THIS AD.—OTHERS WILL READ YOURS

MOST everybody reads the ads. in this paper. They furnish as much news to the man in town and on the farm as the personals, and often more. Peter Smith's wife wants a new hat. Smith sees by the paper that Jones is selling hats at so much. Johnson's store ad. is missing from the paper—Johnson's trying a non-advertising policy.

RESULT—Jones gets Smith's money—Smith's wife gets her hat.

Topsy Turvy.
 "See any fancy ridin' while you was East?" asked Three Finger Sam.
 "I sure did," answered Cactus Joe.
 "But everything's topsy turvy. People in the cars have to hang on with their wrists in straps."
 "Jes' think of that. Usin' the stirrups for their hands instead of their feet!"

A NEW ADVERTISING SCHEME.
 "When did you get the new flier?"
 "Oh, it was given to me with a five gallon purchase of gasoline."

Our Language.
 Our language is a bungling thing—
 A foreign student flays it;
 For instance we tear down a block,
 And yet we say we raze it.

Willing to Fall.
 A Philadelphia savant says: "If the chaliza of an egg is well defined it is fresh."

Insist on the grocer showing you the chulazas, or chulazil, of the eggs you purchase. You'll have to carry your eggs home in a pail, but what of that?

Loving One's Enemies.
 "Have you ever tried to love your enemies?"
 "Yes," answered the slow-speaking man, "I have tried. But I never get a real enemy to reciprocate my affections with any degree of reliability."
 —Selected.

Effort Misapplied.
 "Success depends on hard work."
 "Yes," rejoined Farmer Cornstossel. "I know a man whose land got covered up with weeds and mortgages while he was workin' terribly hard to be the best checker player in the neighborhood."

Where Grade Crossings Grow.
 "So you prefer the city to the country?"
 "Yes," replied Mr. Chuggins. "In the city you're liable to run over something, but in the country you're liable to strike a grade crossing and get run over."

Last Resort.
 "I think I will try to get over to Europe and settle down in Venice."
 "Why Venice?"
 "Because it is the only place I know of where you don't have to keep dodging the automobiles in the streets."

A Coming Joy Rider.
 Bobby—If I had a million dollars, I'd invite everybody to the movin' picture show.
 Tommy—Aw, shucks! I wouldn't. I'd buy an automobile an' spend the rest payin' fines for speedin'.

The Wonderful Gift.
 "Is our friend a great orator?"
 "A great orator?" repeated Senator Sorghum. "Why he can convince you of something without taking the trouble to understand it himself!"

What Spring Has in Store

There are afternoon gowns and afternoons gowns, some of them so brilliantly designed and executed that they are not abashed in the company of ambitious dinner dresses. But the afternoon gown most sought after is the less dressy affair that claims elegance and distinction in design, while it remains unobtrusive and simple.

Two beautiful afternoon gowns shown in the picture above are indications of what the spring has in store. These are made of dark-colored woolen materials and employ embroidery in silk, but they use these familiar things in new ways.

At the left of the two there is a dress which may be made of serge, gabardine, duvety, or any staple wool goods, that is to be recommended because it can be worn with a topcoat now and later without one. It manages to be very original and very simple, depending on scalloped edges and a narrow-knotted fringe for the unexpected in its composition. There are large scallops at the bottom of the skirt, smaller ones at the bottom of the long bodice, and still smaller ones to finish the short sleeves, and every scallop is edged with narrow fringe. It is not enough to say that the scallops are embroidered, it must be noted that the embroidered design is made for them.

Three embroidered bands on the skirt of the dress at the right, are graduated in size, with the narrowest at the bottom. A narrow sash of the cloth is slipped through slashes in the bodice and ties in a flat bow with long ends at the front. The odd collar and turned-back cuffs are faced with satin and a slip pocket in the skirt must not be overlooked in this second example of excellent designing.

Julia Bottomly

Opposed Brothers' Church.
 There were three of the Westleys, although only two of them had anything to do with founding the Methodist church. Sons of an English clergyman, and well educated, they were all pious men, but the older brother, Samuel, took no stock in "Methodism." In fact, he combated it, and wrote of it upon one occasion as "a spreading delusion."

Poor Papa!
 "Father, you took a science degree at college, didn't you?" "Yes, my boy; I spent two years on science."
 "When you look in a mirror the left side of your face appears to be the right side and the right side seems to be the left. The looking-glass reverses it, doesn't it?" "Yes, my lad." "Then, why, papa, doesn't it reverse the top and bottom of your face in the same way?"

Shall Chaos or Reconstruction in Europe Follow the Great World War?

SOME LIGHT ON BOLSHEVISM

Movement Not Anarchistic, as So Many Seem to Think—Probably is Best Described as "Consistent Socialism."

Article XIII.

By FRANK COMERFORD.

If I were asked to name the principal cause for the growing unrest in Europe would be bolshevism. The almost universal attitude of big business toward Russian bolshevism—an attitude adopted by most of the governments of Europe—has been, and is, Kill it; don't waste time examining it; it isn't worth trying to understand; no good can come out of it; it must be fought; it isn't entitled to a trial. Reams of paper have been used to assail it. Captains of industry and government officials have vied with each other in making assault on it. Many of those who oppose bolshevism are indignant if you ask them what it is and why they oppose it. They characterize it, attack it, resent it. Great heat has been shown in discussing it, without throwing any light on the subject. Absurd lies have been told about bolshevism. Later these unnecessary and stupid lies have been exposed, with the result that suspicion has been bred, unrest fed. The effect upon the workers has been to increase their hate for their employers and destroy their already weakened faith in government.

Whether bolshevism is right or wrong, whether it is a good thing or a bad thing, it is at least a definite political plan, capable of being examined, measured, weighed and tested. It is few of the things it has been called. It is entitled to a hearing on its merits. It cannot be howled down in abuse.

Bolshevism Not Anarchy.

Those who lead the campaign against it frequently and confusingly define it as anarchy. If there is one thing that bolshevism is not, it is anarchy. Much controversy will be avoided, many differences of opinion dissolved if we come to a fair and open understanding of the bolshevik program. One of the great misfortunes is that we form opinions without information, rush to judgments without understanding, then stubbornly close our minds. Much of the discord and strife of life in big things, as well as in little matters, is due to this habit. Anarchy is not criminal lawlessness, notwithstanding the fact that this is the popular misconception of the term. Say "anarchist" and the average man or woman to whom you say it looks frightened, thinks of a bomb-thrower, a dynamiter, a frebrand. Such a man is not an anarchist; he is a terrorist, a criminal, a destructionist, a murderer. Let us call a spade a spade and be sure we know what a spade is, and we will understand each other better.

Anarchism is an old and respectable philosophy. The anarchist is an individualist. He is in favor of a free life for the individual. He is opposed to turning over the individual's power to the state. He argues that great power delegated to government limits the growth and freedom of the individual. He dreams of an ideal state in which human beings will be so perfect they need no law. His doctrine is an enlargement, an exaggeration of the idea that the government which governs least governs best. He isn't a lawbreaker. He is a law abolisher. He reasons that when murder leaves the human heart there will be no occasion for laws against killing; that the statute against murder is only printed words on the page of a law book, utterly and entirely without meaning, or existence, to the man who is incapable of killing his fellow man. He says that we should develop our artistic and moral sides and by evolution gradually repeal one law after another until all law disappears. It is pure idealism—it is a movement toward perfection. It is the millennium. It is poetry. Kipling wrote its constitution when he wrote:

And only the Master shall praise us,
And only the Master shall blame,
And no one shall work for money,
And no one shall work for fame,
But each for the joy of working,
Each in his separate star,
Shall draw the Thing as he sees it,
For the God of Things as They Are.

Merely a Beautiful Dream.

Few people will contend that this theory is anything more than a beautiful dream. Probably the first and greatest of the anarchists was the great Greek philosopher Zeno, from Crete, the founder of the stoic philosophy, who died 270 years B. C. It is disturbing to find dynamiters called anarchists, and in the same breath hear included some of the greatest idealists that have ever trod the earth. The very mention of the two types in the same class gives respectability to the totally ugly, depraved, ignorant, lawless criminal.

I went to a standard authority for a common-sense definition of bolshevism. I was in Prague on my way up toward the bolshevik front. I spent an afternoon with President Thomas

G. Masaryk of the new Czechoslovakian republic. He is a Slav. He knows Russia. He was in Russia during the revolution and at the beginning of the counter-revolution which put bolshevism in the saddle. He has written of Russia and is accepted as an authority on the subject. I asked him, "What is bolshevism?" His answer was: "Bolshevism is consistent socialism."

Bolshevism is an old, untried theory of government. Its object is to secure a greater production and a more just distribution. Socialism says that men are without motive for efficient work today because they do not get a fair share of the things they produce; that the way to stimulate production is to adopt common ownership. Under such a plan, they say, every man would be working for himself, in the sense that all would be working for the state, and that as all are an equal part of the state their interests would be common and mutual. The socialist says that by working and doing as much as he could he would be helping to shorten the workday, because if all the people of the world were at work they could produce an abundance of everything necessary for the world's happiness and comfort, every one would have all he needed, no one would have more than another and it would be to the interests of each individual to work to shorten his own workday.

The program of socialism promises to destroy all private ownership. There will be no such thing as private property. No one will own land. The land, the factories, the railroads, the mines, everything, will be owned in common. The state will hold the title to everything, manage everything and distribute the product. This plan abolishes profits, rent and private capitalism.

Money and Capital.

To understand this doctrine it is necessary to clearly know the meaning of the word "Capital." Many people confuse the word "capital" with the word "money." These words have totally different meanings. Money is the metal or paper used by a government to make easy the exchange of products. Without money the world would go back to the barter system, in which the man who had corn traded it for meat, clothes, and the others things he needed. Capital is the unconsumed product of labor. In other words, all of the food, cloth, clothing, machinery, etc., in the world is its capital, just as a man's capital is the food he has in the cupboard, the clothes he hasn't worn out, the money in the bank which represents a power to buy. It is the surplus. It is the reserve.

Plato, the great Greek philosopher, was one of the first of the socialists. In the republic of Plato we find a defense of state socialism. From Plato to Lenin men have been urging communism as a cure for the ills of the world, as a remedy for wrong, as a means of realizing exact justice.

Modern socialism dates from the "Communist Manifesto," published in 1848, by Karl Marx and Frederick Engels. Their outline of the socialist plan seized upon the thought of the world. Since that day it has been gathering the dissatisfied of the world and grouping them in a class, developing what they term a "class consciousness." Back of it has been an insistent, uninterrupted propaganda which has reached every corner of the globe. Billions of leaflets, pamphlets, tracts and books have been circulated. Millions of speeches have been made. Drawing rooms have been thrown open to it, highbrows have professed the faith, lowbrows have thundered the creed from soapboxes on the street corners. It has flourished best in Europe. It has furnished prime ministers. Its voice today in the parliaments of Europe is not a whisper—it is a shout. In the new governments which have come out of the war it is a militant, dominant factor.

The bolshevism of Russia is pure socialism—literal communism. At this moment I am not writing of the methods of the bolsheviks. First, I want to make clear and simple their plan. Bolshevism is an effort to put into practice the doctrine preached by Plato, programmed by Marx.

Advocates Trial of Hun Leaders.

If Hindenburg and Ludendorff are guilty of offenses against humanity they, and not some of their underlings, should pay the penalty. It would be a farce to let them go and to convict their subordinates; and it would be a farce to try to impress the German people with the inviolable majesty of international law while fearing to try leaders who are in position to arouse a public clamor in their behalf. By all means let Hindenburg and Ludendorff be among the first to answer. They stand as heroes before their followers and no lesson would be more impressive to those followers than the spectacle of their leaders brought to book.—Exchange.

Showing Kaiser's Viciousness.

The Germans, in setting fire to the Louvain library, totally destroyed not only the printed books numbering from 250,000 to 300,000 volumes and nearly 1,000 manuscripts which the library contained, but also the famous university halls, thus destroying in three days that which had taken five centuries to build up. Only once before in history has such a disaster been inflicted upon the world, when in A. D. 643, the Caliph Omar, with blasphemy only equaled by that of the kaiser, destroyed the library of Alexandria in the name of God, and that is of very doubtful authority.—Chicago Evening Post.

A QUICK CHANGE.

"This plaintiff in the Court of Domestic Relations claims that his wife got 'hard boiled' all of a sudden." "Is it possible for anybody to undergo a transformation like that?" "Perhaps so. I've seen people go into a telephone booth at peace with all mankind and come out a few minutes later thirsting for blood."

Merely Tolerated.

"Gustavus, you don't seem to like my family at all," pouted the bride. "Give me time, my dear. I'm doing my best to be agreeable." "But what's wrong with my family?" "Nothing whatever, but I'm a sensitive man, I am, and the look of hopeless resignation your people wear whenever I'm around is getting on my nerves."

Youth's Handicap.

While awaiting me my friend asked my little sister where her two other sisters were. "O," she replied, "they are somewhere in mischief." "Why don't you join them in their fun?" "Mother trusts me so dreadfully that I can't have much fun," replied she with a sigh.—Exchange.

The Main Thing.

"That poor man you sent out to clean the back yard had his feelings very much hurt. I saw his face working." "That's all very well, but what were his hands doing?"

EGGS.

Visitor—An egg is mighty valuable these days.

Farmer—Of course. An egg will bring almost enough to pay for feeding the hen until she lays the next one.

A Prodigy.

For speed in independence, Rose, Our baby, can't be beat, Already, 'twixt her mouth and toes She's making both ends meet.

Unpopular.

"Evidently she doesn't like me." "What did she say?" "She just told me that she wouldn't marry me if I were the richest man on earth."

The Reason.

"I haven't seen you in your car lately. Have you been out of the motor running?" "No; just been run in."

The Umpire.

"I guess I must be the umpire in my family." "What makes you think so?" "Because all my decisions are hooted at."

The Proviso.

"Don't you believe it is right for a man to say exactly what he thinks?" "Yes," replied Miss Cayenne; "provided he really thinks."

Bound to Be Heard.

Patience—What makes that child cry so awfully loud, do you suppose? Patrice—Why, both of her parents are deaf, you know.

Very Much So.

"Did you see where a sailor on an incoming ship locked the cook up in the icebox?" "What a cold-blooded act!"

Speaking of Kings.

Mr. Pecked—Smith is king in his home. Mrs. Pecked—Yes; I was there the day his wife crowned him.

Harsh Terms.

"Why did Jibway and Gadspar fall out?" "Gadspar says Jibway kept picking on his flivver." "That's strange. 'Picking,' you say?" "Yes. Jibway refused to call it anything but a 'chariot.'"

The Kind He's After.

Tom—Do you intend to go abroad on your wedding trip when you get married? Dick—I do if I marry the right girl.

BRIDGE IS UNSAFE

The trustees of the Fore River bridge at a meeting this week voted that the bridge was unsafe for heavy travel, because of corrosion which has weakened several of the girders. Beginning Thursday morning street car service across the bridge was discontinued pending repairs, the contract for which has been awarded the Boston Bridge Company.
Heavy trucking over the bridge, while not forbidden, will be discouraged, and drivers will use the bridge for heavy trucks at their own risk. The bridge is considered quite safe for light travel.

BILL FOR 2.75 BEER

Representative Prince H. Tirrell of Weymouth had a unique position on the bill reported by his committee in the legislature this week. He was neither with the majority, or the minority.

A majority of the Legislative Committee on Legal Affairs reported a bill to authorize the manufacture and sale of beer, cider and light wines. These nine members of the committee have signed the majority report: Senators Wellington Wells of Boston, St. Las D. Reed of Taunton, Gardner W. Pearson of Lowell and John J. Walsh of Boston and Representatives Benjamin H. Woods of Braintree, William C. Crossley of Fall River, Walter Shuebruk of Cohasset, James E. Curry of Cambridge and Hugh J. Lacey of Cambridge.

The dissenters are Representatives Albert T. Wall of Worcester, Richard B. Coolidge of Medford, William F. Craig of Lynn, Louis L. Green of Cambridge and Coleman Silbert of Boston.

Representative Prince H. Tirrell of Weymouth opposes the bill reported, but suggests that "some affirmative substitute should be provided."

Out of the grist of petitions that came from various individuals for legislation for the manufacture of light wines and beers, and from representatives of the "drys" for further administration of the Volstead act, the majority of the committee has decided to report without change an initiative petition known as House bill 38 and filed by William A. Nealey and others.

In a supplementary statement to the minority report, Representative Tirrell, a member of the committee, says:

"I concur with the minority report in its objections to the proposed measure. The General Court has no power to amend or alter it, and if it is not adopted the original 12 subscribers may place the same upon the November ballot.

"Some affirmative substitute should be provided. It is possible to draft legislation with suitable positions either in the form of an act or a Legislative substitute for the initiative measure that will meet the requirements suggested in the minority report, and that will offer ample correction for the omissions and errors of the initiative measure.

"If the measure is to appear on the November ballot it will be unfortunate if nothing better than a negative alteration is offered thereto.

"My chief objections to the initiative measure are that it does not define what is to be deemed to be intoxicating liquor, nor in any way effectually prohibits the sale of beverages that are intoxicating."

UNIVERSITY EXTENSION
 Massachusetts is making every effort to bring opportunities for personal improvement to the "doors of the people". To develop the individual is to develop the nation. Let every citizen realize this fact and take advantage of it by enrolling in one of the state university courses.

Joseph Waring, 903 Front St., South Weymouth has been given a certificate upon the satisfactory completion of the correspondence course power plant economics. Certificates were awarded to the following class students of South Weymouth for finishing a conversational French course: Helen D. Gage, Elliott Gage, Mrs. Hanson, Howard Joy, Helen E. Line, May G. Moor, Mrs. Helen Moor, Ray E. Moor, Mrs. Anne Ritney, Mrs. E. G. Taylor, Ellen Torrey and Bates Torrey. Cecelia Whelan, 11 Elm avenue, Weymouth, received a certificate upon successfully completing this course. Henry Rossiter, North Weymouth, has been issued a certificate for satisfactorily completing a course in practical applied mathematics given at Quincy.

CAR SERVICE RESUMED
 The Eastern Massachusetts street railway has resumed service in Hyde Park, and cars are now running from Mattapan to East Dedham. It is understood that no financial assistance was received from the city.

BUSSES POPULAR
 A Milton item reads: The first week of motor buses on the Blue Hill-Brush Hill line has been very satisfactory and each day the patronage has increased. The busses are making good time and are keeping close to the schedule.

CLAM DECREE
 The Hingham Journal wonders if it is legal to dig clams along the Weymouth and Hingham shores. The State Department of Public Health, did not, it is said, intend to include our shores, but the decree includes shores "inside or west of a line drawn from Windmill Point in Hull to Deer Island."

ATHENS SCHOOL NOTES
 The teachers of the school sent flowers to Miss Rose Page, a member of the staff, as a token of their esteem upon the occasion of her return from the hospital.

The school baseball team had its regular practice on Monday night with the following lineup: Alden, 1b., Jacobson, p., Shaw, c., Turner, 2b., Rodolph, 3b., Mathewson, ss., Morgan, rf., Lang, cf., Dorey, lf.

Baseball teams have been organized among the girls, and at a recent meeting Frances Bailey and Marcella Williams were elected captains of the opposing sides. It is expected that much healthful exercise will result in friendly competition.

Miss Dingwall substituted for Miss Fogarty on Tuesday of this week.

A school nurse has been appointed to take up her work at once. It is planned to have her at the Athens school every Monday and to begin the keeping of permanent and continuing physical records for every child in the school. This is a new venture for Weymouth, and one which denotes progress in the right direction. It should have the hearty support of all parents who are interested in their children's welfare.

Miss Ryan, who substituted for Miss

Page in grade four last week, has returned to school in Newton, and her place here is being taken by Mrs. McDowell of Weymouth Heights.

A number of volumes of "Popular Mechanics" and "Popular Science Monthly" have been added to the school library. These promise to be of great interest to the boys in many practical ways and help make up for the lack of a public library in this vicinity.

Orely Melville of grade nine was pleasantly surprised by a number of friends last Friday evening.

THE QUINCY DIVISION
 In Quincy service has not yet been resumed on the Wollaston loop. The following report of a meeting at Quincy recently, between Trustee Loring and the Quincy committee on street railway, is from the Quincy Ledger:

Mr. Loring was asked by Chairman Neal to explain the trackage included in the so-called Quincy division. This was brought about by the trolley situation in Weymouth. Mr. Loring stated that the Quincy division included all lines in Quincy, the East Weymouth, Weymouth Landing and the Brockton-Braintree line as far as Holbrook. He also stated that in all probability the Brockton division would later include the Brockton line to South Braintree.

The committee voted to include the East Weymouth-Quincy line in the Quincy division. The action of the local committee will give Weymouth people at least one line of service. The local committee felt that it did not want to include any of the Weymouth, Hingham or Hull lines as they did not think that it would be just to Quincy to have to bear the loss incurred by these lines.

Mr. Loring also stated that about 15 one-man cars were soon to be operated in this division. The introduction of these cars, which are being operated very successfully in many other districts, would decrease the operating costs and give patrons better service. It was not the intention of the company to reduce the number of operating employees but to increase the service.

"Just what authority has this committee?" was the question asked Mr. Loring by a member of the committee. "This is a point we would like to have cleared up."

"The authority of the committee in regard to matters of policy and concerning the public is full and complete. The trustees have put into force practically all the recommendations of the various "Home Rule Committees." The trustees feel that the local committees know local conditions better than they do. The Bay State in the past has been unsuccessful because they operated the roads from Boston without a sufficient knowledge of the conditions existing in the towns and cities in which they were operating," Mr. Loring stated.

"The Home Rule Committees have proven a great success. The service has improved, the public is working with the committees, the employees are co-operating. In fact the entire management of the roads is a great deal better."

"I hold splendid hopes for transportation in Quincy. The question of fares depends entirely upon the revenue received. The trustees will not interfere with the operation of the road by local committees while the road is made self-supporting. With the elimination of loss producing lines, one-man cars and support of the riding public Quincy should be able to operate its system successfully. The division is operating at the present time at a loss. However, we should wait until the reduced fare tickets are given a longer trial," he stated.

TOWN OR CITY
 Editor Gazette-Transcript:
 The question of a change in the Weymouth government, which a contemporary found time and opportunity to criticize, received encouragement from some four hundred legal voters who were barred from taking part in the task of appropriating money and transacting town business, because of the fact that Weymouth had no hall large enough to accommodate even one-half its voters.

Owing to the street railway situation the meeting was one of the largest in the town's history. Some solution to the present difficulty must be forthcoming before the next meeting.

If our critic would suggest some better way than that already suggested he would be doing the town a favor. If he believes that a city government stops after the appointment of the Board of Aldermen, he is mistaken.

A city government does more than bring about a change in the name of the "governing board." It allows each voter to voice his opinion by ballot with practically no loss of time. It also places business matters in the hands of expert business men.

For an illustration, the case of the city of Quincy might be taken. Quincy found it to their advantage to have Weymouth car lines thrown out of the Quincy Division. So far as is known their request was granted. Today Quincy has a fare which allows sixteen rides for a dollar. It also was able to hold the East Weymouth-Quincy line within its district. Under the present government we have neither jitneys nor cars at some points.

Important Questions For Special Town Meeting

It is said a special town meeting will be held April 30, but the Selectmen do not believe in publicity, and the warrant has not been ordered into the local newspapers. The same comment is true relative to the warrant for the Presidential Primaries. It is said that the town meeting will be held in the car barn on Iron Hill street at East Weymouth. The Selectmen have inspected the same and found it to be a suitable place, and the State Police have also given their approval. There is no question but this building will accommodate all the voters of Weymouth who desire to attend, but they may not obtain seats.

It is said that there will be four articles in the warrant. One, to choose a moderator. Another to receive and act on the report of the committee on transportation. Another, to see if the town will appropriate any sum to secure a continuance of the street railway service. The other article is to see if the voters will accept the Act of the Legislature of 1920 relative to sports on Sundays.

There is no inkling as to what the report of the transportation committee will be, but it is said the committee has been unable to secure any guarantee from a bus company to enter the Weymouth field. The present jitney service is far from satisfactory, but in many cases accommodates people better than the electric cars. The only alternative is to secure a resumption of street railway service, if possible. It is hoped the committee will have some proposition to submit which will be satisfactory to the voters.

It is predicted that the Sunday sport bill will be accepted by a large majority.

STREET RAILWAY PROBLEMS
It is of interest to note what other towns are doing relative to the street railway problem.

At Norwood, on Tuesday, $4000 was voted as the town's contribution to a fund of $10,000 to be furnished by Norwood, Walpole, Westwood and Dedham, to the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway, to assist in its maintenance within those towns for one year.

This action was undertaken to prevent the discontinuance of all service in those towns, contemplated by the company awhile ago. Walpole already contributed its share, $1875, and Westwood has contributed $625. Dedham is expected to appropriate its share, $3500, this week.

The Street Railway is to spend $40,000 in improving the roadbed in the section for which these appropriations are made.

At Hyde Park, Tuesday evening 2500 high school children, shopkeepers and shop employes marched in a parade of protest against the service of the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway in Hyde Park, the parade being a prelude to a big mass meeting in Everett Theatre at which the citizens of the district met Mayor Peters and the City Council.

The theatre was jammed and 4000 filled Everett square where an overflow meeting was presided over by Representative Frank B. Phinney. President Moriarty presided in the theatre.

Francis Darling, president of the Board of Trade, told the Council that politicians of Boston inveigled Hyde Park to become a part of the city with the delusion of a five-cent fare. The trustees of the Eastern Massachusetts he called deceivers and destroyers.

TO START NEW BUSINESS

Edward P. O'Brien of 32 Cedar street, who has been Superintendent of the East Weymouth Wool Scouring Company for the past ten years, resigned last Saturday. He has purchased the Newton Combing Company of Newton, and will do business under the name of the Newton Wool Scouring Company. Mr. O'Brien has been very successful as a superintendent. He has been active in town affairs being a director in the Weymouth Trust company, and vice-president of another local concern. He has also been prominent in Catholic circles. His many friends, while sorry to have him leave the town, wish him every success in his new undertaking.

F. Burrell & Son have moved their bowling alleys and pool room to the second floor of the building formerly occupied as a skating rink, and will put in two stores in the ground floor, one of the stores is already leased to a company having a chain of grocery stores.

Every day the shoe manufacturers of East Weymouth are shipping from 150 to 200 cases of shoes by parcel post. They go to all parts of the country. The cases are of special size, just small enough to go inside an ordinary mail bag. An express team is necessary to take them to the depot.

FIREMEN'S MUSTER

The first firemen's muster of the season was held at the Fore River grounds, Patriot's day. Their was a strong wind blowing across the stream throughout the play, and several of the tubs were unable to reach the paper. The Union tub of East Braintree played 134 feet and 1/2 inch, and won a prize of $25, for the longest play for end stroke engines. The Hancock of Brockton won first money with a stream of 173 feet and 1/2 inches.

The Men's club connected with the First Universalist church held its April social and supper in Lincoln hall Tuesday evening. An address on the topic, "The Church's Job" was delivered by Rev. Rufus H. Dix of Newtonville, a former pastor. The banquet was served by Mrs. John P. Hunt, Mrs. James Furse, Mrs. Benjamin Hewett and Mrs. Frank Batson. At the business meeting the following were elected for one year: Franklin P. Whitten, president; John P. Hunt and Everett McIntosh, vice-presidents; Edwin H. Drown, secretary; Ernest S. Barrand, treasurer.

Edwin C. Raymond a shoe worker for many years, died on Thursday at the Home for the Aged in East Braintree. He was a past grand of Crescent lodge, having been an Odd Fellow for 52 years. He leaves three sons. Funeral services will be held Saturday from his late residence at 28 Hill street.

The Village Cemetery Association has advanced the price of the care of lots to four dollars per year.

VARIOUS KNOCKS OF AUTO ENGINE

One of Most Delicate Problems Amateur Motorist Has to Deal With.

LISTENING DEVICES ASSIST

Each Faulty Motor Part Has Different Sound, Which Comes in Regular Periods—Experience Obtained by Practice.

One of the most delicate problems the amateur motorist has to deal with is that of distinguishing between and locating various engine knocks. While there are numerous "listening" devices on the market, experience is, as usual, the best teacher, and will enable you to repair it before it develops into serious trouble. A few of the mysterious knocks are described below.

The more experience one has in listening to knocks, the more expert will one become in finding them and telling what is loose. Each faulty motor part has a different knock, which comes always in regular periods relatively to the speed of the engine.

Locating the Trouble.

A loose connecting-rod produces a sharp bump or a very heavy hollow sound. It is easy to locate the faulty connecting-rod by running but one cylinder at a time, in which case two bumps are usually noticeable, due to the relief of the explosion pressure.

Pull up the engine hood every so often and listen carefully. A little practice will enable you to detect trouble.

If the rod is very loose the knocks can be located by turning the engine with the crank. This trouble is caused by a twisted rod, loose bearing, scored bearing, burned-out bearing, or side play. With a seized or burned-out bearing the motor will groan or stick in starting.

The main-bearing knocks are readily located by running two cylinders at a time, one on each side of the crank bearing. A hard bump will be noticeable throughout the motor, produced regularly with the firing of the two cylinders. Such knocks are caused by end play in the shaft, loosely fitting bearings, or a scored or burned-out bearing. In the latter two instances the motor will groan upon starting cold.

A loose piston-pin is distinguished by a sharp metallic knock. It can be located by using the listening rod for each cylinder and speeding up the motor, then closing the throttle suddenly. By doing so a double knock will be noticeable, which is very sharp and better termed a rap. The knocks are caused by a crooked or broken pin or by a tight or badly worn member.

A loose flywheel will produce a very heavy knock at low engine speed, and will appear regularly. The knock will change its nature entirely when the motor is speeded up, and the vibration of the shaft will produce a dull, chattering knock.

It is located by disengaging the clutch and rocking the fly-wheel back and forth. The trouble is caused by improper fitting, loose bolts, broken bolts or bad keys and splines.

To Discover Loose Piston.

A loose piston gives a very short knock, its clearness varying with the size of the cylinder and metal used in the piston. It can be located very easily by the use of the listening apparatus against the cylinder wall. It is caused by a large bore, small piston, or taper piston or bore.

Successful hunting for these troubles requires a great deal of experience that can be obtained only by continued practice, which develops the sense so that not only are the different knocks easily distinguished, but they are also speedily located.—Popular Science Monthly.

SPRINGS SHOULD BE GIVEN PROPER CARE

Leaves Slide Upon One Another When Car Moves.

Mud, Dirt and All Foreign Matter Can Be Excluded by Covering With Boots—Good Grade of Leather Substitute Favored.

The leaves of an automobile spring are intended to slide upon one another when the car is in motion. Many car owners allow the springs to get dirty, to go without lubrication and to become very rusty. The leaves become so dirty that instead of sliding on each other, they work almost as if they were one solid piece of steel. Then, when the car strikes a hole or a bump in the road the springs are compressed and instead of each leaf working as a separate unit, the lower leaves of a rusty spring are held fast to the upper leaves. The reaction from the compression of such a spring is many times greater than the reaction of a clean, well lubricated spring where the leaves are allowed to slip on one another as they should.

The first step toward a remedy is to keep mud and dirt and all foreign matter away from the springs. This can be done effectively by covering them with boots. Some supply stores carry covers to fit a good range of sizes of springs, but if you can't buy them already made, you should be able to make them yourself, sewing them together of leather or a good grade of leather substitute, advises Motor Life Magazine. The advantage of the latter material is that it is much cheaper than leather, and being waterproof, it will keep dirt and moisture away from the springs.

AUTOMOBILE NEWS

The wiring system of the truck should be inspected regularly once a week.

Do not forget that as warm weather approaches the fluid in the storage battery will evaporate more quickly.

If a clicking or tapping sound is heard coming from the crankcase interior it ought to be investigated at once.

Before the water has been drained from the cooling system it is well to fill the radiator slowly in order that the water may pass into the whole system.

Habitual slipping of the clutch is dangerous practice. It increases the wear on it tenfold and when it is needed badly to pull the car out of a tight place falls entirely.

LIFE MADE EASIER FOR TRAFFIC POLICE

The Washington police department is making life easier for its traffic cops by furnishing them a mirror in which to see vehicles approaching from the rear. The device has been especially effective in facilitating left-hand turns.

PROBLEMS FACING STRICKEN WORLD

Shall Chaos or Reconstruction in Europe Follow the Great World War?

RUSSIA'S TRIAL OF SOCIALISM

Ultimate Good to the World Looked for From the Practical Test Now Being Made in That Country.

Article XIV.

By FRANK COMERFORD.
 The "red flag" remedy has been demanding a trial, a test. The demand has been growing. Before its advocates can be silenced they must be shown. Out of the test of socialism in Russia is bound to come good. Whether the theory is a practical one or not, putting it to the test will answer a question, satisfy a demand, and tend to quiet unrest.

The fair-minded investigator cannot deny that there was justification and reason back of the effort to try the remedy. That the world has been suffering from poverty cannot be denied. I have found few men, even among the conservative, responsible leaders of business and governments in Europe, who did not admit that conditions in the world before the war were not right; that some change in the order of things was inevitable; that the dissatisfied elements in society were coming together and that unless men were given better lives, they were determined to fight. The working man was deteriorating physically under the strain of brutal working conditions which exacted too many units of physical energy for the number of calories of food he was getting. The haemoglobin count, the red corpuscles, were disappearing from the blood of the working people. It was not a theory; one could see it in the faces and movements of the people. Medical men recognized the fact. A walk through the poorer district of any industrial city in Europe furnished plenty of evidence of this alarming condition. Men, women and children were resorting to false stimulants to keep up. Tea, coffee and alcohol were being used in increasing amounts.

Always on Verge of Want.
 Men were stretching their arms and yawning. Squalor and filth furnished the homes. Many lived in hovels.

...scraping and death for a week ahead of the game. It had become a hand-to-mouth existence, a weekly, monthly fight to meet the grocery bills, buy stockings, shoes, and the scant amount of clothes to cover their bodies. It was bread and coffee for breakfast, bread with jam and tea for dinner, tea and cheese for supper. Sausage sometimes took turns with cheese. Once a week, the Sunday repast, a great stew, a few vegetables and a bone. In the Latin countries it was the same, except that diluted cheap wine was substituted for tea. The great majority of men found themselves poorer and older at the end of the week than they were at its beginning. Over the workman's head was suspended night and day by a thin, weak thread, the dreaded sword of poverty. Men feared that the thread might break any minute. It was the thread by which they held the thing called a "job." What did they care about the rights of private property? They didn't have any private property. The socialists had willing listeners when they ranted about communism. It promised to give these people property, to give them a common ownership of everything. It wasn't hard to convince them that this was better than ownership of nothing.

The bolsheviks of Russia are entitled to the presumption of good faith in selecting the Marxian formula. It is only fair to them, and to the remedy, to examine the experiment with a mind free from prejudice. In admitting the good intentions of the bolsheviks I am not conceding that bolshevism is practicable, workable; that it has succeeded or can succeed. For the present I am trying to fairly give the whole story of the effort. It is as foolish to try to answer the bolshevik propaganda by calling the bolsheviks ugly names, as it would be stupid to accept bolshevism because its advocates are sincere.

Need for Calm Consideration.
 Russia is the patient. If we are to intelligently judge the treatment called bolshevism, it is necessary to get a complete history of the patient and examine the conditions under which the experiment was tried. Any doctor who is a scientist would follow such a procedure in handling a medical case. If a doctor announced to the scientific world that he had a remedy for cancer, which at the present time is an incurable physical disease, just as poverty is a social one, the scientists would give a hearing to his theory, seek a fair test for it, keep their minds open, and judge the efficacy of the remedy by the results it produced. Communism, as a treatment, a cure for poverty, has never been put to the test on a scale and in circumstances which justify any positive judgment as to whether or not the plan is a practical one. As I have written, the Russian bolsheviks insist that if every one owns everything in common there can be no poverty. They base this statement on their faith that communism will increase production. They claim that competition shackles production. They say that the competitive system takes from the individual the inducement to work—that communism would give him an incentive to work; that it would be a stimulant; that under it men would work better and produce more. They add that the present system is bound to provoke an increasing number of strikes and that strikes stop production, cause waste, increase poverty. There is no doubt about the fact that there could be no poverty in the socialistic state if communism succeeded in stimulating men to work harder, thus greatly increasing production, because there would be more to eat, more to wear, more to use, and as the distribution would be controlled by the state, all of the people would receive an equal share of the great abundance, all would have enough. For the sake of fairness to them, I am conceding that the distribution program would be honestly and justly carried out, but a better distribution, a more equal and just division would mean nothing if the first, the fundamental promise of bolshevism—greater production—is not fulfilled. Any plan which decreases production causes a shortage of the things necessary to life. If the bolsheviks are wrong in their belief that communism will increase production, then bolshevism would make poverty general, universal, and instead of bolshevism curing the cancer on the body of civilization, it would make the entire body of civilization a cancer. If the claims of bolshevism are well founded, sound in common sense, capable of fulfillment, communism would be the greatest blessing ever conferred upon humanity. On the other hand, if the bolsheviks are wrong, and communism took from them the inducement to work, then notwithstanding the good intentions of the bolsheviks, their communism would be the greatest scourge the world has known. This is the simple issue in the case. If bolshevism is the good thing its advocates say it is, it will bring the millennium, and every human being should be in favor of it; but if it is not practical, and will not work out, then it is a danger, the red flag is its proper signal, and the world should avoid the danger signal as an engineer charged with the safety of human life would avoid running by a red light on the track ahead.

Examine Before Condemning.
 Going back to the case of our friend, the doctor who honestly and sincerely believes he has a cure for cancer, let us consider what the scientific world would demand before offering a judgment as to the value of his proposed remedy. First, they would free their minds of prejudice. They would

...angle. They would examine it in its entirety. Why shouldn't we look for the same sensible plan in considering bolshevism? Won't we get farther if we do? Hasn't such a course an advantage over quarreling about it? Why should some of us accept it without knowing what it is? Why should others condemn it without understanding? And why should both these groups get excited and irritated, call each other names, learn to hate, and add to the world's unrest?

I propose to follow the method of the scientist as nearly as I can in examining the patient, Russia, the world cancer, poverty, and the remedy—bolshevism.
 1. A complete family history, so that we may know and understand the constitution of the patient.
 2. The physical and mental condition of the patient at the time treatment was begun.
 3. The formula—the remedy.
 4. The theory of the cure.
 5. The methods used in applying the remedy.
 6. The history sheets showing the effect of the treatment upon the patient.
 7. The condition of the patient after more than two years of bolshevism. (Copyright, 1920, Western Newspaper Union) Monarchs Tire of Switzerland.

 Former Emperor Charles of Austria and Empress Zita are tired of remaining in Switzerland, according to a telegram from Prague, and have applied to the Czecho-Slovak government for permission to reside in Prague. The request was refused for political reasons.

One reason given for the request is that owing to the low rate of exchange in Switzerland the former royal couple are receiving only one-tenth of their income from Vienna. Empress Zita is reported to have been forced to sell more of her jewels.
 An American newspaper is understood to have offered the former emperor $500,000 for his reminiscences, but although financially embarrassed, he refused.

Child Victims of the War.
 In Jugoslavia there are 500,000 fatherless children of whom 150,000 are absolutely destitute. Among them tuberculosis, eye and skin diseases are rife. Of these children, up to July, fewer than 2,000 had been provided for, largely because of the tremendous difficulties attending the work in an utterly disorganized community. The government at Belgrade and the great American and English relief organizations are now working in thorough harmony in their efforts to carry these children safely through the winter. They can only succeed if there is no slacking of effort on the part of the American and British publics.

YOUNG GIRLS' FROCKS FOR GRADUATING DAY

NOW that May and June are not far off, the world is full of talk about graduation dresses. It is buzzing about like the hum of bees in all the schools and in the homes that are lived by those precious but opinionated high-school girls who are about to complete one lap of their little journey in the world. To each one of them her graduation dress is the most important matter in sight, and it is an important matter from several viewpoints.

The graduation dress is to be made of some thin white fabric in a pretty but simple design, and a delightful example appears in the picture above. White voile and narrow white satin ribbon give a good account of themselves in this girlish dress, which employs nothing else (except white satin for a girdle) in its makeup. The voile is gathered into a ribbon at the bottom of the skirt and tucked to an underskirt of lining silk.

Net, organdie, batiste or georgette might be made in the same way. Another frock employs narrow ribbon and wide tucks in its decoration. It has a full straight skirt, finished at the bottom with three rows of satin ribbon about an inch and a half wide, placed two and a half inches apart. Above them at the knee there are two tucks, three inches wide, with a four-inch space between them, and above these three rows of ribbon again. Ribbons encircle the baby waist and finishes the short sleeves, placed in three rows on them and finally forms a narrow sash with long loops and ends at the front.

SCRAPS OF HUMOR

HAW, HAW!

"Do you believe in transmigration of souls?" asked the Little Man. "Sure," replied the Big Man. "Why?" "Nothing," replied the Little Man. "But it says here that there are birds in Africa with bills a yard long." "Well, what about them?" demanded the Big Man. "I was just wondering if those birds are not the spirits of departed plumbers," replied the Little Man.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Time Enough.

"You know, old man, I was going to ask you to dinner with me tonight but I just heard Smith remark that you were going to eat with him." "Oh—what time do you eat?" "Six o'clock." "Well, that's all right, old boy, Smith doesn't eat till seven."—Judge.

NO TROUBLE.

"Have any trouble with your daughter's beaux?" "No, I use this 'Stop-Go' signal in the parlor."

The Lightning Pioneer.

If old Ben Franklin in his day had paused to loiter and to laugh and only worked eight hours a day we would have had no telegraph.

Beyond His Limits.

Ben Said—What's the matter with Ben All, the whirling dervish? He's all tied up in a knot. Ben Yusuf—He was out taking his morning spin on the road when an American band came along and he tried to whirl to jazz music.

Hay Days.

"Do you make a wish when you see a load of hay?" asked the superstitious girl. "Not if it's my hay," replied Farmer Corntossel. "With hay at present prices a man with a load of it doesn't have to wish. He's already got his."

Not a Chance.

Miss Leftover—Aren't you afraid to marry on so short an acquaintance? You know they say, "Marry in haste, repent at leisure." Miss Hurryon—Dear thing, when I marry my husband won't have any leisure in which to repent.

A Suggestion.

"Can you suggest a good name for this new high-power car of mine?" "Why not call it Malthus, since it is going to keep down the surplus population?"

WHERE THE FAULT LAY.

Hubby—Isn't your skirt outrageously short? Wifey—No, indeed, it is just that the floor doesn't come up any higher.

Sky Traffic.

When in our airship through the crowd we journey fast or slow. We'll find a cherub on a cloud To signal "Stop" and "Go."

The Needy Ones.

"Do you think the motion picture stars will form a union?" "Why should they? It would be more suitable if their employers organized."—Film Fun.

The Big Consideration.

"You have taken a lofty position in this momentous matter." "I have," replied Senator Sorghum. "And I feel a little like an aviator. I can't stay in the air forever. The big consideration is how I'm going to alight."

Opportunities.

"Ours is a country with opportunities for all. Even in Boston you don't have to operate a book store." "Eh?" "You can run a beanery."

New Blouses and Smocks

SO MANY of the latest blouses, now being shown for midsummer wear, have elbow sleeves and very short peplums, that there is no room to doubt that they are proving popular. Designers have great faith in these features in midsummer styles since they are fashioning the most costly laces into them as well as the usual beautiful and refined fabrics used for blouses. Irish lace, combined with flit and a little embroidered or pin-tucked batiste, are the rich ingredients that go to make up the most costly of these blouses for midsummer wear. Often fine voile, with draw-work or embroidery as an embellishment, takes the place of batiste. In many blouses one or the other of these fabrics predominates, but sometimes they make way for the laces and are merely used to set them together cleverly. Among blouses that are simply lace trimmed or ornamented with needlework, voile is a favorite material.

The sleeves are set in with hemstitching which continues to be the favorite way of disposing of seams in blouses. A smock of crepe de chine shown with the blouse employs beads also for its trimming, but they are used on its skirt much more plentifully than on the body, reversing the order of things in the blouse. This is a slip-over model fastening on the shoulder and having long sleeves. In the darker colors it is very practical for general wear or for traveling. In lighter colors it makes a pretty toilet for summer afternoons worn with white skirts or with light-colored skirts to match. Many smocks have elbow sleeves, but these, not being becoming to some women, find themselves occasionally replaced by long sleeves with cuffs, like those shown in the picture.

Companions.
On the heaths and moors where I have so long enjoyed the wonders of nature, I have never been I can honestly say, alone; because when no man was with me, I had companions in every bee and flower and pebble; and never idle, because I could not pass a swamp, or a tuft of heather, without finding in it a tale of which I could but decipher here and there a line or two, and yet found them more interesting than all the books, save one, which were ever written on earth.—Kingsley.

West Point Instruction.

The principal subjects taught are mathematics, English, French, drawing, drill regulations of all arms of the service, natural and experimental philosophy, chemistry, chemical physics, mineralogy, geology, electricity, history, international, constitutional and military law, Spanish, civil and military engineering, art and science of war and ordnance and gunnery.

A Copious Fall.
There are parts of the Midlands where an unrelieved drought has now been endured for two years and nine months, while in other happier spots some showers at odd intervals have been just sufficient to enable farmers to keep their heads above water.—Rand Daily Mail.

Limited Town Meetings Adopted in Watertown

The town of Watertown has a government somewhat similar to that of Brookline, as will be seen by the report of Weymouth's committee on town and city governments, which is continued this week:

It is interesting to note that just 100 years before Brookline made its change, a committee had been appointed at a town meeting in the town of Boston to consider and recommend some form of town government that would be better adapted to the then existing conditions of Boston. This committee was composed of 22 learned citizens and in 1815 reported a form of government similar to that adopted by Brookline in 1915.

The committee's report was rejected by a majority of only 31 in a total vote of 1871. But the following seven years the question was agitated and most exciting debates took place, until in 1822, Boston was made a city, having at that time 40,000, of whom 7,000 were qualified voters.

In Quincy's Municipal History of Boston, page 28, speaking of the manner in which Boston's town meetings were conducted at that period, is the following:

"When a town meeting was held on any exciting subject in Faneuil Hall, those only who obtained places near the moderator could even hear the discussion. A few busy or interested individuals easily obtained the management of the most important affairs in an assembly where the greatest number could have neither voice or hearing.

"When the subject was not generally exciting, town meetings were usually composed of the selectmen, the town officers, and thirty or forty inhabitants. Those who came were, for the most part, drawn to it from some official duty or private interest, which when performed or attained, they generally troubled themselves but little, or not at all, about other business of the meeting. In assemblies thus composed by-laws were passed; taxes to the amount of one hundred or one hundred and fifty thousand dollars were voted, on statements often general in their nature, and on reports as it respects the majority of voters present, taken upon trust and which no one had carefully considered, except perhaps the chairman."

In 1915, Brookline had a population of 36,000 but did not want a city charter. It wished to avoid the introduction into its municipal affairs of state and national politics that meant a larger outlay for municipal administration, a form of municipal organization (city) upon which Lord Bryce once said, "Satan has turned his heaviest batteries."

It is claimed that the Brookline plan is distinguished from city creations in that it is less expensive to operate, is non-political, and perpetuates some of the best features of town government by substituting a definite chosen representative for an indefinite chance representative attendance at its town meeting.

By Chapter 205 of the Special Acts of 1919, the town of Watertown was authorized to establish a similar limited town meeting plan, only instead of each precinct electing the arbitrary number of 27 town meeting members—it elects one-sixth of its qualified voters in the precinct.

The town meeting is constituted of those members so elected, together with the following who are town members ex-officio:

Any member of the General Court, the Moderator, the Town Clerk, the Selectmen, the Town Treasurer, the Town Council, the Town Collector of Taxes, the Town Auditor, the Chairman of the School Committee, the Chairman of the Board of Health, the Chairman of the Park Commissioners, the Chairman of the Water Commissioners, the Tree Warden, the Chairman of the Planning Board, the Chairman of the Assessors of taxes, the Chairman of the Playground Commission, and the members of the Finance Committee who are not elected town meeting members. (To be continued.)

LETTER OF THANKS

The members of Weymouth Post No. 79, American Legion, express to the Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday night units of the Weymouth Landing Branch of the Special Aid Society for American Preparedness their most sincere thanks for the typewriter.

This gift is but a continuation of the wonderful work of the women during the period of the World War. The supporting work and also the splendid spirit of the women for which the members of our Post have always felt grateful, has gone a long way in keeping up the high morale of our boys, and the thought that those at home were working and praying for them when they were away has turned many a dull and trying hour into one of joy and happiness.

Therefore, in behalf of all our members, ask all the members of these three units to accept our heartfelt thanks for their thoughtful gift.

CURRENT WIT and HUMOR

ECLIPSE OF THE MOON.

A young couple were occupying the porch swing later than usual one moonlight night. From a near-by window her mother inquired: "Mary, what are you doing up so late?"

"Looking at the beautiful moon mother."

"Well, it's twelve o'clock. You had better send the moon home."—Everybody's Magazine.

Something to Fall Back On.

"Bilfur says he is having a hard time keeping a roof over his head."

"I don't sympathize with him. If he's in such straits, why doesn't he give up his automobile?"

"He says he can't think of doing that. And, besides if the worst comes to the worst, it's comforting to know that his automobile has a top."

An Imported Article.

"The possession of a motor is not necessarily a mark of distinction."

"Not nowadays," replied Miss Snippers, "but if you happen to own a motor car that is driven by a chauffeur who speaks English with great difficulty, you may hold up your head a trifle in some circles."

Cannibalistic.

"My dear, listen to this," exclaimed the elderly English lady to her husband on her first visit to the states. She held the hotel menu almost at arm's length and spoke in a tone of horror:

"Baked Indian pudding! Can it be possible in a civilized country?"

NOT VERY.

"My John is thinking of chartering a yacht for the summer."
"Won't that be pretty expensive?"
"Not so long as we confase ourselves to thinking about it."

Files for Its Life.

"Strange how time flies," how very oft we hear this said—and still it isn't so strange: if time did not more folks would try to kill it.

Old Friends.

"Grandpop says he cares only for the things of long ago."
"Yes, I see he subscribes to a smart magazine."
"That's for the sake of the jokes."

Good Way.

"How did you get your parrot to talk so fluently?"
"I hung his cage in the room where my wife's club meets."

Taking No Chances.

Mrs. A.—I really believe she had her second husband selected before she was divorced from the first one.
Mrs. B.—Certainly. Why else should she get a divorce?

When It Pays to Be Ignorant.

"Gabbells seems to be well informed on any subject."
"Except when he will be able to pay me what he owes me. He is absolutely stupid on that point."

The Same Thing.

"I say, Tom, these here Frenchies call a gal's feller her finance."
"Aw, well, ain't dat what it comes to?"

Accounting for It.

"He showed his grit when he was buried out of the machine."
"No wonder; he had to bite the dust."

Two Views.

"No, I never visit the pawnshop. I don't like the principle of the thing."
"It's the interest that I don't like."

Escaping His Wife's Tongue.

Mr. B Jones—It must be rather trying for a talkative woman like Mrs. Gabbles to be married to a man as deaf as Mr. Gabbles.
Mrs. B Jones—So it is. And, to make matters worse, she has a lurking suspicion that he lost his hearing just to spite her.—London Answers.

Nothing Like That.

"Did those two men have an epistolary dispute?"
"No pistols in the dispute at all. They took it out in letter-writing."

TELEPHONE CHANGES

When the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company opens its first machine switching central office in Boston during 1921 at Harrison avenue, it will be known as "Liberty."
On the base of each telephone instrument connected with the new exchange there will be a dial with ten holes, one for each digit. In addition to the digits, eight of the dial holes will have three letters of the alphabet. These letters and numerals are necessary in order that the subscriber may "dial" the exchange name and the number of the telephone desired.
The apparatus has been so arranged that it will be necessary to dial only the first three letters of the exchange name, which will be printed in full faced type in the subscribers' listings in the telephone directory.
There are more than 50 central offices in the Metropolitan division. In some instances these three letter codes will conflict if the present exchange names are continued. This unavoidable condition will make it necessary to change the present names of several central offices.
When the new mechanical exchange is opened all telephone numbers in the Metropolitan division of one, two or three digits will be preceded by three, two or one ciphers like this: NOR wood 0008, or MAL den 0042, or REV ere 0322 M. Four digits are necessary because the machine switching apparatus will not work properly unless all telephone numbers consist of four numerals.
The new exchange names and numbers and the change in the typographical appearance of the exchange names will probably appear in directories which will be delivered in greater Boston during the fall.
The detailed method of making a telephone call from a subscriber's station connected with the new "Liberty" office to any office in the Metropolitan division is simple. Assume that John Smith, connected with the machine switching office, desires to make a call to John Doe in Roxbury, where the switchboard is manually operated. He will find the name listed in the directory in this way: Doe John, 782 Moody Street, ROXBURY 9264.
After removing the receiver from the hook, Smith will place a finger in one of the ten holes on the face of the dial containing the letter "R". He will revolve the dial until until his finger strikes a little arm which prevents it from going further. Removing the finger the dial will quickly revolve backward and stop. Smith will then revolve the dial from the letter "O", as far as the little arm, and once more from the letter "X". These letters will appear at different places on the dial.
After indicating the exchange desired, Smith will repeat the same process with the number "9264", revolving the dial for each numeral. If it should be a party line that is called another turn of the dial from the proper ring letter will call the person desired.
When a Roxbury subscriber desires to call a person connected with the "Liberty" office in Boston, he will give the name of the exchange and the number wanted to the Roxbury operator, who will establish the connection in the same manner as at present.

BATES OPERA HOUSE
"Daddy Long Legs" in which Mary Pickford will be seen at the Bates Opera House, April 28-29, is filled with the most delicate and artistic imagery throughout. One of the most effective incidents deals with a comparison of the rearing of Judy Abbott, the orphan asylum girl, and Angelica Wyckoff, a spoiled rich child.
Judy, (Miss Pickford) the little girl who, despite cruel treatment and bad living conditions in the asylum, brings sunshine and aid to the smaller children is symbolized by a lily, rising from a dumping ground for old rubbish. Angelica is symbolized as a hot house rose, beautiful because of intense cultivation, but unable to stand the rigors of the ordinary out-of-doors.

There is a pretty bit showing the court of Dan Cupid who sends forth his emissaries to see that Judy falls in love. Babies, winsomely clad with wings and thin draperies, play the part of Cupid's attendants.

The master stroke of directional genius takes place in the scene showing the death of an orphan baby, who had not had proper care in the asylum, and who dies in the arms of Judy. The dead mother of the child is seen in the form of a beautiful white shade which moves forward, passing like air through the furniture and gently taking the baby from the arms of the "the little mother."

Marshall Neilan directed the picture and in its exquisite symbolism proves himself a master of the artistic as well as of the humorous situation, which last accomplishment has won him the title of "The Mark Twain of the Screen."

EXTRAVAGANCE DENIED

The cost of the Quincy avenue bridge over the Monaquot river at East Braintree was aired at a meeting of the Quincy Chamber of Commerce April 16.

The meeting was one at which the Board of County Commissioners were present to give an account of their stewardship and make answer to the criticisms made by Senator McIntosh in the matter of Monaquot river bridge at a recent meeting at which Quincy's representatives in the legislature appeared. Commissioner Merrill denied that there had been any extravagance or mismanagement in the construction of the bridge.

He said the original act called for $110,000. This was in pre war times but an additional sum was necessary and was asked for. There was a delay in the passage of this act, and the commissioners were unable to get a contract signed, and material and labor were high and the bridge had to be done on the cost plus basis. It was almost impossible to keep men at work more than a week at a time. Then came the war. It was mandatory on the part of the act that it should be completed by 1920. It could not have been built any cheaper. That it cost approximately $300,000.

Speaking of Senator McIntosh he said that when was in the lower branch of the House he was on the Committee on Counties but never attended a hearing in which the county was interested and never sat on his committee at these times. When the committee made its visit of inspection to the county he was absent. In conclusion he said the Board was open for honest criticism.

Senator McIntosh in reply stated he had refused to take part in any committee meetings in which the county was interested as he resided in the county. He said that the Chairman had not mentioned that little $10,000 transaction with Braintree. He also said that for two years nothing had been doing on the bridge. That the commission had expended $34,000 before it had authority to do so. Why was not the building deferred until a reliable contract could be obtained?

Commissioner Richardson spoke briefly of the delays which the Commissioners were up against in the building of the bridge. That every effort was made to hasten its construction but by the time the plans were ready and bids advertised for, the $110,000 was not sufficient. Additional appropriation of $50,000 was asked for but it was some time before authority for this amount was granted. Then when the Engineers came to make an examination a lot of stones were found in the river from which the mud had to be removed. The original plan was to have the state pay a part of the expense but this was cut out. An arrangement was made with the Highway Commission to pay a part of the expense of building the approaches to the bridge, and $10,000 each was paid by the State, County and Braintree. The Board did act before it had authority but he felt it was an emergency case and would do so again under similar circumstances. That was why the over-draft was made.

Senator McIntosh then read from the State Auditor's report which stated while made in an honest spirit the method adopted should be condemned. Chairman Merrill replied that the Board welcomed any investigation.

Lodge and Walsh Run Ahead of Tickets

The "big four" won at the Presidential Primaries in Weymouth, both on the Republican ticket and the Democratic ticket.

The Republican favorites-at-large were Lodge, Gillett, Crane and Thurston in the order named, Senator Lodge leading with 270.

Among the individual candidates, McCall led Frothingham by two votes, and Fuller was only one vote behind Frothingham. Lawson's vote was much smaller, while Wood received only 30 votes.

The Democratic favorites-at-large were Walsh, Long, Pelletier and Doherty, who were grouped, while O'Connell was some distance behind.

In the 14th district the Republican candidates who led in Weymouth, Louis A. Coolidge of Milton and Harry H. Williams of Brockton, were successful in the district.

The same is true among the Democrats, Frank A. Manning and William H. Powers, both of Brockton, being elected.

Not much interest was taken in the primaries as will be seen by the small vote.

Jitney Service Also May Be Discontinued

It is possible that some parts of Weymouth will be without transportation tomorrow, either by electric cars or jitneys or busses.

The special town meeting tonight may solve the question, but it is a difficult one.

Section one of a new law, Chapter 371 of the Legislature of 1919 would seem to prohibit jitneys. It reads: "After the thirtieth day of April, 1920, no person or corporation shall, in any city or town, operate any mo-board of selectmen, and in a city, the city council or corresponding body. Any such license issued in a city shall be subject to the approval of the mayor and shall not be valid unless such approval of the mayor and shall not be valid unless such approval has been endorsed thereon in writing. Any person or corporation receiving a license under the provisions of this act and operating thereunder, is hereby declared to be a common carrier and shall, in respect to the operation of such a vehicle, be subject to such orders, rules or regulations as shall be adopted by the licensing authority in any city or town under the provisions of this act."

It is said that the jitney men are ready to take out licenses if the action of the town meeting is favorable to them.

Shall Chaos or Reconstruction in Europe Follow the Great World War?

RUSSIA'S LONG, BLACK NIGHT

Little Wonder People of That Unhappy Land Are Blinded by Freedom's Light After Four Centuries of Suffering.

Article XV

By FRANK COMERFORD.

For nearly four hundred years Russia waited for morning. It was a terrible night. Brutal dreams tortured her. She writhed in despair. Time moved slowly. The clock ticked agonies. The air was thick with groans. Motherhood bore slaves. The cradle was a coffin. Feast days were celebrated by massacres. Czars from Ivan the Terrible, 1544, to Nicholas, the last of the Romanoffs, executed in 1918, used the bodies and souls of human beings as manure to fertilize the soil in which the rank weed of imperialism grew. History calls them emperors, truth labels them brutes, torturers, murderers. They bore the brand of Cain.

It was a lightless day, a hopeless night, for Russia, which began with the curses of Ivan and ended with the execution of Nicholas. During this night of three hundred and seventy-five years they marched the treadmill. The world heard the endless tramp of feet. In the dark, great bodies swayed with weariness. Heavy shoulders were bent forward. Strong legs marked time on the treadmill steps. They kept time to the lash of the whip. It laid bare their backs, the backs of young and old, of women and children as well as men. Sweat formed into red froth as it mingled with their blood. They grew blind in the dungeon darkness. They stumbled and halted, only to be called back to the monotony and drudgery of the tramp by the lash and the bludgeon. Their legs rose and fell—they marched, but never forward. It was left, right, left, right; tramp, tramp, and always on the treadmill steps in the hopeless dark. They mumbled prayers, but God couldn't hear, the curses of their masters drowned out their petitionings. It was so dark in the treadmill that even God could not see, and so God forgot Russia. Forgotten, abandoned, they bent their great weary backs toward the sod, the grave offered rest—it was kind. The only thing they owned was their pains. They lived a communism of suffering, a socialism of slavery.

The revolution of 1917 battered down the door of the treadmill. Seized with wild joy, they madly rushed toward the light. When they got out in the open, saw the sky and sun, they were bewildered. In the fury of a new delight they rushed on. It isn't strange, it is pathetic, that eyes blinded by ages of darkness blinked in the light. It isn't surprising that they tried to reach the center of the sun. Suffering in the light is different from suffering in the black the Russians knew.

When their eyes became accustomed to the light they looked around them to see where they were—to learn what had been happening in the strange, beautiful world.

Tremendous Task Before Them.
 They had a task before them, the building of a free man's house, a house in the light, a house without a dark corner. They knew little about freedom, except that they wanted it with all their hearts. Their experience had been with slavery. They knew little about the practical work of building a house in which freedom might live pure and secure.

They saw civilization with the eyes of a surgeon. They gasped when they saw that its body was covered with a malignant sore. It was an ugly, festering, running, growing sore. They learned its name. It was written in the loudest of chronicles—it was the incurable, horrible leprosy of the world. It was cancer—POVERTY. They were told that it was the cause of the nasty thing religion labeled sin, that poverty had transformed Christ images struck in clay into hunch-backed souls, that the sickening matter running from sores caused the red blotches on the world's body known as red-light districts; that other effects were the swollen blackish blue boils, the tenements and slums. They shuddered. Even the darkness of the treadmill had not produced worse.

They learned about poverty. They read its autobiography. In it they read how it had robbed children of their childhood, erased faith from the minds of men, mobilized women in dreadful traffic. They learned that much of the thing called crime was poverty's work, that normality and morality are matters of education. That to be good requires knowledge of right and wrong. They read that statesmen called poverty THE PROBLEM. Reformers called it a curse and became unpopular because of their persistent attacks upon it. In the verdict of a thoughtless world those who fought poverty were called long-haired men and short-haired women. People did not stop to remember that these long-haired men and short-haired women gave of their time and strength to the poor. These who were maligned for following in the footsteps of the first Lover of the Poor were those who cried out against the tenements, demanding for human beings the sunshine and air cattlemen give their stock. These unpopular ones were the same who brought ice to keep milk cool in the hot summer for the children of the slums; these were the crusaders against child labor, the protestants against compelling the women who bear the children of the race to work so many hours each day that exhaustion marred and marked the physical and mental strength of children.

So it was that these redeemed, freed children of Russia learned of the cancer and feared it as much as the thing they had escaped.

None Able to Check Disease.

They beheld old-school politicians acting as doctors to sick civilization. These doctors, miscalled statesmen, were agreed as to the cause of the disease and that the symptoms threatened death. Many prescriptions have been given the patient, but none seem to check the disease. These prescriptions had been various formulas of government, the constitutional monarchy, a democracy, a republic. The giving of these various treatments failed to effect a cure. Civilization continued to suffer. At times pain became unendurable and the doctors gave local anesthetics. These were the laws, included under the general designation "Social Welfare Legislation." They made the patient temporarily more easy. They allayed pain that might otherwise have produced convulsions—Revolution.

And then these Russian people, studying the new world into which they had so recently come, discovered that many of these political doctors were quacks. They were unreliable and dishonest. They were more interested in their own fortunes than the fate of the patient. They imposed upon the people who hired and trusted them. Their time and thought was taken up in holding their jobs, rather than in doing their work. That the schools of political medicine, called political parties, responsible for these doctors, were diploma mills, graft rings. That some of the people suspected these physicians of being interested in keeping the patient sick and were not making an honest effort to cure. It had even been rumored that there are people in the world who make profit out of poverty; that special privilege is the powerful profiteer of our day.

Turned to Old Theory.

Plato had spoken about another remedy way back in the fourth century before Christ. So had Marx. An untried remedy—a theory. Its object was to cure poverty. The Russians, seeing that the remedies in common use had failed, turned their thoughts to this old remedy which had never been tried. At least it had not failed; this was in its favor. It was an experiment, to be sure, but "Nothing ventured, nothing gained." Many argued that it could not more completely fall than the prescriptions at present in use.

And with the fall of Imperialism there came into Russia one who had been exiled. For many years he had been a teacher and preacher of the untried remedy. Russia saw in him a savior. He came with a message. He said that communism would keep them free, make them happy. They listened, they believed. They were as little children, so great was their faith. To them a promise was a truth fulfilled, the word a covenant; and the promise was that peasants would have their own land, that working men would be their own bosses. It was the word they had waited for, the realization of the dreams they had dreamed in the dark treadmill. The Prophet had come. The new day awaited them. They rejoiced and cried, "Long live the new Messiah." No one sacrilegiously questioned the practicability of the dream. Every one forgot the common, controlling instinct of man—selfishness. Maybe in the intense general selfishness individual selfishness could not be seen.

The man was Lenin—the message Communism.

Food Smuggling in Germany.

Illicit trade in food, with its attendant evils of smuggling and usury, is on the increase throughout Germany, according to newspaper accounts. The rationing system has never been abandoned even in the occupied areas of the Rhineland, and some of the newspapers contend that the average individual can not subsist on the amount of food issued. The authorities are making every effort to check the illegal traffic in foods of all kinds, and the courts are crowded day after day.

Smuggling of potatoes is being carried on this winter in all parts of Germany on a scale greater than in war time. Germany produced an excellent potato crop this year, and the authorities are trying to save it from falling into the hands of the speculators.

Industrial Italy Awakening.

One great stride toward freeing industrial Italy from its dependence upon its supplies of iron ore and steel is announced. This consists in the acquisition of the rights of a big Austrian mining company hitherto known as the Alpine Montan Gesellschaft. These rights comprise control of one of the largest steel-producing districts in Europe. From its foundries at Erzbirg in Styria alone the annual pre-war output exceeded 1,000,000 tons of finest quality steel. Experts estimate that the mine there can be worked advantageously for at least 200 years to come.

AUTOMOBILE SUPPLIES CHICAGO FACTORY WITH CURRENT FOR LIGHTING AND POWER

When the electric power of a Chicago manufacturing concern falls there will be no let up in the work as a result of a twelve-day experiment recently completed. George Davis, president of the company, set his automobile up on a platform, substituted pulleys on the rear axle shafts for the wheels and connected these pulleys to the factory power shaft. But the belts slipped and the auto wheels and tires were replaced. The car then ran a 220-volt generator 24 hours a day for 12 days, supplying the factory with current for light and power without any curtailment in the plant's output.

CARE OF BRAKES PREVENTS WEAR

Equalization and Proper Attention of Car's Machinery Are Explained.

NEGLECT OF CONTROL RODS

Clevises and Other Parts Are Not Provided With Any Means of Lubrication—Become Quite Noisy and Rattlesome.

The automobile owner is hardly to be blamed because he neglects the brake and control linkage on his car. It is all beneath the chassis, and it is certainly not arranged in such a way he can give it any marked attention. The clevises, and other parts of the points of the control rods are not provided with any means of lubrication, so that there seems to be little or nothing that the owner can do to take care of this part of the car.

Yet it is the brake and control rods which eventually become the most noisy and rattlesome parts of the car. The little yoke connections with which the little ends of the rods are held together, become full of grit and are naturally bound to wear.

The connections through which the brakes are operated are simple and easy to follow. The pedal or lever is pivoted and connected with a set of rods and linkage arranged in such a way as to transmit the motion of the foot or hand in reduced and hence more powerful leverage to the brake mechanism.

Brake Adjustment.
In adjusting brakes some precautions must be kept in mind. In the case of the foot-brake, which is generally the external or contracting type, the bands bear on the exterior of the drums in securing the braking effect. There is generally an adjustment on the exterior part of the brake itself where the adjustment can be made without any danger of changing the throw of the linkage. This is very important, because if the throw or centers of the links are changed in their relationship they will be affected by the motion of the springs.

Perhaps you have noticed in some cars that if you watch the brake-pedal, it will move in or out as the car springs are deflected. The reason for this is that the rod which connects the brake linkage with the brake operating units, or, in other words, the last link in the chain of rods is centered so that the upward and downward motion of the chassis centers about such a point in relation to the pivot point of the rod that it becomes relatively longer or shorter and consequently moves the brake mechanism.

There are a great many manufacturers who are not putting equalizers on their cars and in these makes it is very essential to see that the brakes are adjusted uniformly.

How to Test Brakes.
An easy way to test the brakes is to drive at about ten miles an hour while some one is watching the car. Apply the brake slightly and allow the observer to note if one wheel was locked before the other. If so, tighten the adjustment on the last wheel to lock and try it again. The test can be made on any kind of a road where the surface beneath each wheel is the same. A flat piece of asphalt makes a very good place to hold such a test.

SHEET STEEL PLATE HOLDS SPEED PEDAL

Handy Device When Driving Car at Moderate Rate.

Saw-Tooth Edge Engages Lip, Ratchet Fashion, Regardless of Wear on Lining of Band—Wearisome Task is Avoided.

In using a car with planetary transmission, it was found wearisome to keep the low-speed pedal down by foot pressure when driving uphill or traveling through sand or mud. The pedal was therefore equipped with a piece of 1/4-in. sheet steel, with ears or flanges on both sides, by means of which it was pivoted on a small pin fitted through a hole drilled in the pedal just below the pad. A long piece of 1/4-in. sheet steel, with a number of teeth at the end which engage a steel lip screwed to the car dash, was fitted to the back of this member. The saw-tooth edge engaged the lip, ratchet-fashion, regardless of the wear on the lining of the band which the low-speed pedal tightens around the drum in the transmission.

To engage the teeth, the driver pushes the pedal forward until the car is on low speed, and then, with an upward movement of the knee, he causes the teeth to engage. To release the pedal, the pressure is applied on the portion of the plate just below the pivot, so that the teeth rise and disengage. When driving under ordinary conditions, the driver's foot prevents the teeth from dropping to the level of the lip, and if he wishes to travel on low speed for a few minutes, he presses the pedal forward in the usual way; but whenever he finds it necessary to travel for a considerable distance on low speed, the teeth are allowed to fall, thus engaging the lip.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

AUTOMOBILE FINIS

Men who wash their own cars will find a spray brush handy.

The wise owner will each year clean the exhaust system thoroughly.

Air leaks are a common cause of misfiring, though they are often overlooked.

No good tire of standard make will be cut by any standard rim if properly used.

The choking devices now supplied with most good cars make starting easy even in the coldest weather.

Quality Goes Clear Through

On talking to Dort owners you will find that they not only speak enthusiastically regarding the economy of the Dort in gasoline, oil, and tires, and the ease with which it rides, but they refer repeatedly to the advantages that accrue to them as a result of the remarkable simplicity and accessibility of Dort construction.

JUDGE BUMPUS

he funeral of Judge Everett C. Bumpus, former city solicitor of Quincy, Judge of the East Norfolk Court, District Attorney of the southeastern district and member of the Panama Canal Commission was held last Saturday. There was a large attendance of old-time friends, city officials of Quincy and delegations from the Massachusetts Bar Association, the Norfolk County Bar Association, the St. Botolph club, the Curtis club, the Papyrus club and the Loyal Legion, the latter delegation being in charge of Capt. C. W. Rhodes.

The services were conducted by Rev. William Grainger, rector of Christ Episcopal church of Quincy. The vested choir sang, "Alleluia," "The Strife is Over," "Rock of Ages," and "Go Forth Christian Soldier." The casket was covered with the American flag for which Judge Bumpus fought, as did his fathers before him and three of his sons, one of the latter giving up his life for his country. The casket was covered with an abundance of beautiful floral remembrances, including a massive piece from organizations of which Judge Bumpus was a member.

At the conclusion of the church services the requiem of the Loyal Legion, "The Lost Chord," was played on the organ by Bagler Arlie W. Latham of the First Corps of Cadets. Burial was in Mt. Wollaston cemetery, Quincy. The bearers were Brooks Adams of Quincy, Judge Albert E. Avery of Braintree, Hon. Asa P. French of Randolph, Hon. Alfred Hemmingway of Boston, Hon. Arthur Lord of Brookline, Dr. Samuel J. Mixer of Boston, Harry L. Rice of Quincy, and Hon. Edmund Whitman of Boston.

MINSTREL SHOW

A capacity house greeted the young stars and chorus of the minstrel show last Friday night at Bates Opera House. The song hits, the end-men's jokes, the nifty specialties were greeted with rounds of applause, and time and again the audience called back the soloists until it became very difficult to find out which one of all was the favorite. To single out one for some particularly pleasing trait would mean that each individual "star" would have to be mentioned for some other variety of the entertainer's art. However, when Mlle Genie gave her (?) stunt of "Light and Airy," the audience went wild, and many were the outspoken conjecture of who she (?) could be. Eugene Williams is certainly to be congratulated for his feminist role. There was great variety and the show was full of pep and fire from the time the curtain went up promptly at 8 on that spectacular beauty and black chorus until the finale at 10:30. Great credit is due Mrs. Bagley for her expert training and planning of the entertainment, to Miss Dorothy Avery for her efficient work as chairman of the committee on arrangements, to the volunteer helpers from East Weymouth and to the young people of Union church who revealed such real talent. It is understood that a very neat sum has been turned over to the Motion Picture Equipment Fund to help support the Sunday evening Community Programs.

Those taking part were: Albert Humphrey, Allen P. Vining, Clifton D. Harlow, Charles Gibson, Julian R. Merchant, J. Tirrell, Lawrence Caulfield, Eugene Williams.

A CERTAIN man in New York filled out his income tax report.

It showed an income so large that his tax was 53%. And his total gifts to church and charity for the year were $148.

Think of it—thousands spent for luxuries and pleasure for himself; and $148 to leave the world a little better than he found it!

Most of us do better than that; but not so very much better.

Our average daily gift for all church causes is

- less than we spend for daily papers
- less than a local telephone call
- less than a third of the day's car fare
- less than 3 cents a day

No wonder that 80% of the ministers of America are paid less than $20 a week. No wonder that the church hospitals turn away thousands of sick people a year. No wonder that China has only one doctor for every 400,000 people. No wonder that every church board and charity society is forever meeting deficits, forever passing the hat.

It isn't because we are selfish; it isn't because we don't want to help. It's just because no one has ever put up a great big program to us, and asked us to think of the work of the church in a systematic businesslike way.

The Interchurch World Movement represents the united program of thirty denominations. They have surveyed their whole task, no business could have done it better.

They have budgeted their needs; no business could have a more scientific budget. They have united to prevent the possibility of waste and duplication. At least a million dollars will be saved by the fact that thirty individual campaigns are joined in one united effort.

And they come to the men or women who love America—to you—this week asking you to use them as the channel through which a certain definite part of your income can be applied to make this a better world.

Only you can determine what part of your income that should be.

It's a good time right now to answer that question. We're passing through the world just once; how much better will the world be because you passed through?

MARTIANS FAIL TO SIGNAL EARTH

Dr. Millener of Omaha Gets No Wireless Flash After 3 Days of Experiment

FUTURE MAY SEE RESULTS

Convinced Mars is Not Attempting to Signal the Earth Through Any Wireless System.

Omaha.—Dr. Frederick H. Millener, wireless engineer, who during the past week has been attempting to establish communication with the planet Mars from his giant wireless station near this city, has ended his experiments, and said he is convinced Mars is not attempting to signal the earth through any wireless system known to this earth.

Dr. Millener issued a statement, saying:

Was Ready, but No Signal

"For three nights I have sought through interstellar space for a signal from Mars. I have found none. For three nights our wireless instruments have been in condition to receive messages originating millions and millions of miles without the orbit of the earth. No such messages have been circulating the ether, or at least no electric wireless waves have been hurled at the earth by the people of Mars. The Martians, if there are such beings, may have been trying to signal the earth by some other means, but they have not been trying to reach us with wireless waves in the last three nights.

"Had they been doing so, we now would have had their message. Our experiments were conducted from a station on a ranch sufficiently far from Omaha so that local electrical disturbances would be entirely absent. The equipment was constructed especially for the purpose to which it was put by a co-worker, H. L. Gerner, and myself. It consisted of a large co-axial coupler or tuned and a three-stage regenerated amplifying set.

His Hope For Future

"The antenna consisted of approximately thirty-five miles of wires strung on telegraph poles, covering an area of about twenty-five square miles. The largest commercial stations cover ten or twenty acres. A sufficient amount was used for a counterpoise. This could be shortened or lengthened at will, thus permitting us to pick up a message of any wave length and accurately measure the same.

"Had Mars been endeavoring to communicate with the earth our machines would have picked up the waves which were coming through interstellar space, had those waves been of a similar nature to the wireless waves generated on this earth.

"As a result of this experiment the deduction is evident to us that Mars was not sending wireless signals during the time that the planet was nearest the earth.

"We are not disappointed at the result. We did not undertake the experiment to prove that wireless signals were being sent from Mars, but simply to discover if such signals were being sent. We would have liked to have accomplished the unusual and to have reported to the world the reception of signals from another planet. We realize that there is no good reason why some time in the future interplanetary communication should not be accomplished, provided there are intelligent beings on other planets.

Most Welcome.

A man never appreciates the gift of a solitaire diamond more than when he holds the three other aces.—Boston Transcript.

MR. MOUFLON'S QUESTIONS.

"Mrs. Mouflon, do you love me?" asked Mr. Mouflon.

The Mouflon family are wild sheep, you know, and they come from Sardinia.

"I do," said Mrs. Mouflon. Yes, I do. Yes, I do."

"That's good," said Mr. Mouflon. "Well, do you care for me as much on the rainy days as you do on the sunny ones?"

"Of course, I do; of course," said Mrs. Mouflon.

"And you always like to see me eat fine meals and grow more handsome?" asked Mr. Mouflon.

"Oh, yes, I love to see you eat fine meals and grow more handsome," repeated Mrs. Mouflon.

"Do you think I am growing more handsome all the time?" he asked.

"Now really, now really, Mr. Mouflon."

"Oh, Mrs. Mouflon, pray answer my question. If you give the right answer it will make me so happy. So happy."

"Then, if you know the right answer, why do you ask it?" asked Mrs. Mouflon, smiling.

"I know what I hope you'll answer."

"Oh, then you aren't sure?"

"Not quite," said Mr. Mouflon, "but I've great and high hope. Yes, my hopes are very high."

"Well, what was the question again?" asked Mrs. Mouflon.

"I asked you, my dear, if you

"Indeed," said Mrs. Mouflon, "a very handsome animal."

That's nice," said Mrs. Mouflon.

"And I like to hear your words on this subject."

"Do you think, dear Mr. Mouflon, that you care for me as much as you did when we were free in our mountain homes?"

"Yes, indeed, I do," said Mrs. Mouflon. "I like you just as well."

"Don't you think, maybe, you like me a little better all the time?" asked Mr. Mouflon.

"I think, maybe, I do," replied Mrs. Mouflon.

"Aren't you sure of it?" asked Mr. Mouflon.

"I'm sure of it," said Mrs. Mouflon. "Then, please, say so," begged Mr. Mouflon. "It sounds so much better."

"But I answered your question as you asked it," said Mrs. Mouflon.

"True," said Mr. Mouflon. "But I wanted to have you say more nice things about me than I could in modesty ask."

"Oh, dear," said Mrs. Mouflon, trying to hide a smile.

"Do you think I have handsome colorings?" asked Mr. Mouflon.

"I most certainly do," said Mrs. Mouflon.

"And do you think I am a nice, friendly, sociable, pleasant old mouflon?"

"Yes, I do," said Mrs. Mouflon. "And the keeper says you're as friendly as friendly can be."

Mr. Mouflon smiled. He was much pleased.

"And you don't think I'm conceited, do you?" he asked.

"Oh, no," said Mrs. Mouflon, smiling to herself, and thinking:

"perhaps you're not conceited, but oh, how you love to be admired and spoiled!"

Way to Success.

When you wonder whether you are going to succeed or not, you have placed a barrier in the way of your success. Sweep the ifs out of the way. If you are ready to do your part, you have a perfect right to take success for granted. Every "if" weakens the faith in yourself which makes achievement possible.—Girls' Companion.

Pennsylvania VACUUM CUP CORD TIRES

Compare These Prices

—standardized net and uniform throughout the United States—with those of ordinary makes.

They refute the idea that quality and high prices must of necessity be inseparable.

The prevailing very moderate prices of Vacuum Cup Tires and "Ton Tested" Tubes are the result of an efficient plant organization, working in a most modern factory which employs every improvement and labor saving device, and marketing under an economical zone selling system, thus attaining a perfect balance of highest quality at reasonable prices.

Pay no more than the standardized net prices for Pennsylvania products—do not expect them for less.

Tibet's Sacred Mountain.

Inland, 40 days' march from the last British outpost of the Irrawaddy, lies the Mecca of the worshippers of Buddha, the sacred mountain of eastern Tibet. Toward this shrine of the great Chinese god travel each year thousands of pilgrims, dirty, ill-kempt, ignorant and cheerful, writes F. Kingdon Ward, in the Wide World magazine. The season for pilgrimages to the mountain begins in October and ends in February, these months being the best suited for travel in mountainous Tibet.

Badness Carries Disqualification.

I never knew a man that was bad, fit for any service that was good. There was always some disqualifying ingredient mixing with the compound, and spoiling it. The accomplishment of anything good is a physical impossibility in such a man. He could not if he would, and it is not more certain that he would not if he could, do a good and virtuous action.—Burke.

Cathedral Resembles Grass Hill.

Of the world's cathedrals, probably the most curious is that which crowns a hill in Uganda. In appearance it resembles nothing so much as a mountain of grass, although on closer inspection one is able to see that mud and wood have been extensively employed. The structure can accommodate 4,000 people.

Small Boy Puzzled.

While Lewis was visiting his grandmother's his aunt also came for a visit, arriving on the train known as the milk train. After pondering it over in his little brain for some time, Lewis turned to me and said: "Mamma, how do they milk the milk train?"

"One Way to Dispense."

A pharmacist was dissatisfied with a youthful assistant and requested him to look for another job, remarking to a customer as the boy was leaving: "I can dispense without him."—Boys' Life.

A FEW LITTLE SMILES

ASSURED OF SOLITUDE.

"What do you think of this rich man providing himself with a handsome tomb to sleep in after he's dead?"

"He might have put the money into a hospital, a public park or a library."

"Yes?"

"People would naturally visit those places. It's a cinch they'll never resort to his tomb in large numbers."

Family Matters.

"I shall complain to the floorwalker about you," said the irate shopper.

"I have no doubt he will agree with everything you say," answered the saleslady, wearily.

"Ah! Then he is acquainted with your shortcomings?"

"He thinks he is. He's my husband."

A Sin of Omission.

"When I enlisted," explained the doughboy with an injured air, "I read the posters that said, 'Join the army and see the world.'"

"Yes," said the recruiting officer.

"But after I was in," the soldier continued, "I found that two words had been omitted on the poster."

"And what were they?"

"On foot."—Home Sector.

They Bought Variety.

"What caused the Gadsburs to break off their friendly relations with the Grabcoins?"

"Incompatible ancestors."

"What do you mean?"

"The Gadsburs' ancestors are the real thing, but the Grabcoins outfit was purchased in the open market."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

A SMALL MATTER.

"Ouch! Didn't you take off a piece of my ear that time?"

"Don't be alarmed, sir; not enough to affect the hearing."

Unstability.

Ambition goes a restless way. As history doth prove, When any gets where he would stay, Fate still says, "It's your move!"

Seeds and Berries.

"People have various names for money. One man will speak of 50 seeds, another of 50 berries."

"Yes, and some make money produce, while others merely consume it."

One Exception.

"Talk is cheap."

"Just wait until congress begins to argue about spending the people's money."

Might Be a Mote.

Youth (eager to gain a place on the sofa)—Permit me to remove the mote, won't you?

Maiden—Thank you, I would, only—only—

Youth—Only what?

Maiden—Only I see such a beam in your eye!—Cartoons.

Tit for Tat.

Mabel—Here comes Charlie Dubb up the walk. That boy gives me the shivers.

Marie—Why don't you give him the shake?

So It Goes.

"Do you remember the old fashioned triangular shawls?"

"They'd look funny now."

"But the girls have 'em in a different shape, and they look nifty."

Nothing Left.

Judge—Have you anything to offer the court before sentence is passed on you?

Prisoner—No, your honor; my lawyer took my last dollar.

The Result.

"Somebody played a joke on Jim. Sent him a barrel of what he thought were fine oysters."

"When he went to shuck them, there weren't any oysters there."

"Then he must have been shell-shocked."

Oh, Fudge.

"I see no objection to a slush fund."

"Eh?"

"If it is used to clean up the streets."

Snowballing in Summer.

On the hottest day of the year in Chicago, with the mercury 88 degrees above zero, a crowd of boys on East Austin avenue amused themselves by throwing snowballs made from a drift of snow that steadily increased in size until it was more than three feet deep. The snow was being scraped from the pipes of a refrigerating company, on which it collects sometimes to a depth of six inches. It is scraped off every day.

Talker Defined.

"Is Mrs. Gadder a brilliant conversationalist?" "Not brilliant, but tireless. She's one of those first-and-third-person talkers." "How's that?" "I said and 'she said.'"—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Hint to Reformers.

Doubtless the world is wicked enough, but it will not be improved by the extension of a spirit which self-righteously sees more to reform outside of itself than in itself.—J. G. Holland.

White and Colored Snow.

Snow is white because the crystals are so minute that each cell of the retina receives a general impression produced by the combination of different wave lengths reflected from innumerable minute facets. Red snow, and more rarely other colors, such as green, blue or black snow, are produced by the action of innumerable fungi known as the Microcococcus nivivivus. Red snow has been photographed in natural colors.

Found it Somewhat Depressing.

I had taken little nephew with me to a funeral at the home of one of our neighbors. He was very quiet during the music and singing and subdued weeping of the mourners, but gave a sigh of relief when the services were over. On our way home he looked up at me and remarked: "It wasn't a very lively party, was it, auntie?"—Chicago American.

Might be Worth It.

It is estimated that an expenditure of $10,000,000,000 would be required to equip the United States with all tillage tools necessary to bring its farms up to the highest possible production.

WEYMOUTH, APRIL 30, 1920

At the service in Trinity church Sunday evening a report of the answer of the parish to the church call in the nation-wide campaign was that the subscription amounted to more than was asked for, so that Trinity church has gone over the top.

The annual supper, social and entertainment by the Guild of Trinity church will be held at Pythian hall Monday, May 3, at 6:30 P. M. The Scotch comedy "Clashes over the Tea Cup" will be given.

Thomas H. Curley, 69, a well known citizen dropped dead at noon Saturday at the Fore River shipyard where he had been employed. He had been troubled with heart disease for some time. He was a member of Div. 6, A. O. H. He is survived by his widow, a son, James, and four daughters, Mrs. Joseph Healey of East Braintree, Mrs. Lester Donovan of Milton and Misses Alice and Katherine Curley of this town. The funeral will take place from the church of the Sacred Heart, Tuesday morning, and will be largely attended. Rev. Fr. Holland celebrated mass. There were many beautiful floral tributes, testifying to the esteem in which the deceased was held by his many friends. The music was in charge of the church organist, Mrs. John Hanley. The interment was at St. Francis Xavier cemetery.

The Braintree public schools are having a vacation this week. Mrs. Susie A. Sanborn of Chelsea is spending the week with relatives. Miss Dorothy Avery organist at the First Baptist church has tendered her resignation.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wolfe and Miss Laura Wolfe were the guests of Mr. Wolfe's father, Edward W. Wolfe of Norwood over the week-end, who returned with them and will visit here for a week. Mrs. Daniel O'Connell submitted to an operation at the city hospital, Quincy, yesterday.

Asa K. Binney, a well-known citizen who has been quite ill is now much improved and on the road to recovery. Thieves entered the garage of Pray & Kelly Monday night and carried off a new tire and a lot of tools. A daylight burglar has been busy about the town for sometime past and several people have lost gold watches and sums of money.

For some unaccountable reason there is no traffic officer in Washington square on Saturday afternoons. The one day in the week when an officer is needed the most, more automobiles passing through the square on that day than any other, there should be an officer there every day in the week. It was on a Saturday afternoon a year ago that a woman was killed by an auto in the square.

Albert J. Edwards for some years driver for J. F. Sheppard & Sons Inc. has started in the ice business for himself in Quincy. A barge of coal is unloading this week at the wharf of A. J. Richards & Sons. Last week a barge came up to the wharf of J. F. Sheppard & Sons Inc.

Misses Katherine and Mary Burns have sold their house on Common street and are to move to Cambridge. "The Copperhead" at Bates Opera House, Wednesday and Thursday, May 5 and 6.

Susannah Tufts Chapter, D. A. R. of Weymouth held its regular meeting Monday, April 26, with Mrs. Albert E. Avery. Judge Avery entertained by reading letters written by George Washington, Abigail Adams, Daniel Webster, Benjamin Franklin and others, all very interesting written about 1775. Miss Susie Avery sang a number of songs, and Miss Dorothy Avery played piano solos, which were delightful. Rev. Mr. Justice, who came later, also spoke to the Chapter. Very dainty refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. Avery, assisted by Miss Rebekah Webb, Mrs. Cobb, Mrs. Wedding and Mrs. Keene. It was one of the most enjoyable afternoon of the season and was attended by a large number.

Patrick J. Hennessey, 51, a lifelong resident of East Braintree, died at his home, 85 Prospect street last Friday. He had suffered from heart trouble following an attack of influenza. At one time last winter eleven members of his family were ill with that disease.

A chicken-pie supper and entertainment was given by the members of the Men's club of the Union Congregational church Wednesday evening. Herbert C. Poore was chairman of the committee in charge of the affair.

Adolph Temple, Pythian Sisters, celebrated its 13th anniversary at Pythian hall Monday evening. There was a supper, followed by songs, recitations and character sketches by Albert Clark. Dancing followed.

The Women's Catholic club held a meeting in the vestry of the church of the Sacred Heart, Monday evening. Mrs. Joseph W. McDonald, presided. An entertainment was given under the direction of Miss Alice Dwyer and Miss Katherine Melville, consisting of songs and readings by the Ashton sisters of East Weymouth, piano solos by Miss Mary Donovan, and the play, "The Burglar" was given by a company of local players.

EAST WEYMOUTH and WEYMOUTH CENTER

A very enjoyable children's entertainment was given in Knights of Columbus hall last Friday evening for the benefit of the Diocesan Centre fund. The program was made up of patriotic and special features by Miss Shea's class and Miss Reid's class of the Franklin school and Miss Connor's class of the Jefferson school; violin duets, John Tobin and Hazel Veno; vocal duets, Kaitaine Branley and William Doyle; sailor's hornpipe, Francis Pratt; vocal solos, Helen Ashton, Mary Ashton and Alice Ashton; vocal duets, Mary and William Fitzsimmons; solo, Rita Carlson; reading, Marion Husbands; Maypole dance, by 16 children of East Weymouth; Virginia reel, by 16 children of North Weymouth, directed by Miss Wilhelmina Coleman. The entertainment was under the direction of Miss Katherine C. Fogarty.

George W. Perry and family have moved from Station avenue back to their house on Hillcrest road. Ellsworth Curtis has taken the job driving H. V. Pratt's new 5-ton Packard truck.

Otis Wing recently purchased the house on Water street in which he has lived for the past three years. Wampatuck Encampment, I. O. O. F., Tuesday evening conferred the Golden Rule degree on a class of candidates from Massachusetts encampment of Boston and Nathaniel Adams encampment of Dorchester.

A naval lieutenant who was confined in the brig at the Hingham Receiving Ship, charged with embezzlement, escaped Monday night by swimming Weymouth Back river. Armed marines and sailors quickly tormented a drag-net about the locality and he was recaptured at Weymouth Heights.

At the Old Colony lodge, I. O. O. F. minstrel show, Charley Kilburn the popular East Weymouth black face comedian, was presented by his admirers with a gigantic bouquet of pinks.

When an alarm sounded from Box 26 at 11:40 P. M. Tuesday, people in the vicinity of Hawthorne and Cedar streets were relieved to learn that it was the work of mischief makers, and not the result of fire. Clarence Hobart of the Hobart farm has retired from the retail milk business. The Elm Farm Co. will continue his East Weymouth route and as they will employ his old driver Mr. Hobart hopes and expects his former customers will secure the same efficient service as before. All the farm material together with 50 head of cattle will be sold at auction.

The Weymouth Athletic Club opened the ball season by defeating the Eagles A. C. to the tune of 7 to 1. The W. A. C. boys claim to have an organization that will win every game on the schedule. The lineup of the teams was as follows: W. A. C., A. Valencetti, c.; N. Roche, p.; J. Cippulo, ss.; S. Dallesandro, 1st b.; A. Terullo, 2d b.; T. Datto, 3rd b.; J. Ventre, lf.; T. Pecoraro, cf.; E. A. C. P. Higgins, c.; M. Knight, p.; P. Ryan, ss.; J. Hussey, 1b.; J. Draper, 2b.; J. Dacey, 3b.; H. Leavitt, lf.; J. Ryan, cf.; E. McDonald, rf.

The lineup resembles the score card at an international athletic meet but appearances are deceptive. Both teams are composed of 1905 Americans. "The Copperhead" at Bates Opera House, Wednesday and Thursday, May 5 and 6.

Mrs. Angelina W. White celebrated her 92d birthday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. A. A. Lewis, on Monday. Mrs. White entertained friends and relatives during the day, and received many cards and gifts. The White church at East Weymouth, Rev. E. T. Ford, pastor, now has no encumbrances on its $50,000 property. The liquidation of the mortgage indebtedness was celebrated Wednesday evening. Following the reception in the church parlors a banquet was served in the spacious dining room by Mrs. Bernice Haskins, Mrs. Bessie Hunt, Mrs. Elizabeth Denbroeder, Mrs. Florence Corbett, Mrs. Persis Pratt, Mrs. Annie Libby, Mrs. Ida Sylvester, Mrs. Mary Holmes, Mrs. Mildred Dizer, Mrs. Susie Gibson, Mrs. Fannie Orr, Mrs. Mildred Tilden, Mrs. Elsie Nelson, Mrs. Nellie Denbroeder, Mrs. Lottie Tirrell, Miss Florence Earle and Miss Josie Cummings. Town Manager Plan Successful in Norwood.

The report of the Weymouth Committee on forms of town and city governments is concluded this week.

By Chapter 197 of the Acts of 1914, the town of Norwood was authorized to hold its annual town meeting on the third Monday of January and to enlarge the powers and duties of the Selectmen, to abolish certain offices and to provide for the administration of town affairs.

The Act provides for a Board of five Selectmen, each to serve for three years.

The Selectmen so elected are held to be and act as the overseers of the poor, and surveyors of highways of the town, and exercise all the powers, rights, duties and liabilities conferred or imposed by law upon the water commissioners, sewer commissioners, park commissioners, municipal board and the tree warden.

One person is elected as Town Treasurer and Collector of Taxes; The Selectmen appoint the assessors each to serve for a term of three years.

The Selectmen appoint one person to the office of Town Clerk and Accountant. The Selectmen annually appoint a board of three persons, residents of the town but who hold no elective office in the town and are known as a board of relief. This board is subject to the supervision of the selectmen, performs the duties and exercises the powers of overseers of the poor of said town.

The Selectmen are required to appoint a general manager to be the administrative head of all departments of the town government, the conduct of which is by law placed upon the selectmen, and said general manager is subject to the direction and supervision and holds office at the will of the Selectmen.

He is appointed without regard to political belief and may or may not be a resident of the town. He is responsible for the efficient administration of all the departments within the scope of his duties; he must be sworn to the faithful and impartial performance thereof, must file a bond in favor of the town for the faithful performance of his duties in such sum and with such surety or sureties as may be fixed or approved by the board.

The powers and duties of the general manager shall include the following:

(a) To organize, continue or discontinue such divisions or departments from time to time as may be determined by vote of the selectmen, or in the absence of such vote, as may be determined by said general manager to be required for the efficient conduct of his office;

(b) To appoint, upon merit and fitness alone, and, except as herein otherwise provided, to remove all superintendents or chiefs of departments and all subordinate officers and employees in such departments, and to fix all salaries and wages of all subordinates and employees, subject to law. The superintendents or chiefs of departments shall not be removed by the general manager, except on five days' notice in writing, which shall state the cause of such removal;

(c) To exercise control over all such departments or divisions so created, or that may be hereafter created, which shall be subject to the supervision of said general manager;

(d) To attend all regular meetings of the selectmen, and to recommend to the selectmen for adoption such measures requiring action by them or by the town, as he may deem necessary or expedient;

(e) To keep full and complete records of the doings of his office, and to render as often as may be required by the selectmen, a full report of all operations during the period reported on; and annually, or oftener if required by the selectmen, to make a synopsis of all reports for publication;

(f) To keep the selectmen fully advised as to the needs of the town within the scopes of his duties, and to furnish the selectmen on or before the thirty-first day of December of each year as careful detailed estimate in writing of the appropriations required during the next ensuing fiscal year for the proper conduct of all departments of the town under his control;

(g) To keep in repair the Morrill Memorial Library and all school and other town buildings, and purchase all supplies for every department of the town, and purchases of supplies for departments over which the general manager has no control shall be made only upon request of said departments or their authorized representatives;

(h) To have the control and supervision of the department of police of the town, subject, however, to the direction of the selectmen; and the appointment or removal of the chief or head of said police department shall not be subject to the civil service laws of the commonwealth, but shall be made in accordance with the provisions of this act.

The general manager may without notice cause the affairs of any division or department under his control or the conduct of any officer or employee thereof to be examined.

The general manager or any person or persons appointed by him to examine the affairs of any such department or the conduct of any such officer or employee shall have the same power to compel the attendance of witnesses and the production of books and papers and other evidence, and to cause the witnesses to be sworn and to be punished for contempt as is conferred by law upon the selectmen.

The general manager shall have access to all town books and papers for information necessary for the proper performance of his duties.

The general manager is subject to removal by the selectmen.

Under the Norwood plan the town government is divided into three departments, viz.: the financial, represented by Finance Committee; the Educational; by the School Committee, and the Operating, by the Board of Selectmen, and the salient features of the plan may be briefly summarized as follows: through consolidation of departments and extended control over all kindred and allied municipal activities, power and responsibility are concentrated in one body of elected officials, who in turn delegate the administrative or operating functions to a single appointive executive head or "manager" who is particularly qualified as an expert.

The elective officials formulate policies and the executive head carries them out. The elective officials are responsible to the people through the recall power, exercisable at any time. The administrative head is not promoted a definite term of service, but is retained in office only as long as he shows results.

Expenses are reduced through a single purchasing head. Checks on all departments are secured through an elective finance commission with broad powers, holding no other town office.

OTHER FORMS

The present Legislature has before it the report of a commission appointed to revise and codify the laws relating to towns.

This report submits a proposed act relative to the consolidation of certain offices and departments in towns to become operative upon its acceptance by a town. Briefly this act, if passed, will provide for the election of a board of five selectmen for three years and practically places upon the board the duties imposed by plan C. Before mentioned, upon city councils in so far as appointments of officers are concerned.

The selectmen appoint a town clerk who shall act as clerk of the board of selectmen; a board of three assessors; and inspector of health with all the powers of a board of health; a superintendent of the poor department under the supervision of the selectmen who shall act as overseers of the poor.

The water and street are consolidated under a commission of public works to be appointed by the selectmen and who shall appoint such subordinates and employ such other help as may be necessary, subject to the approval of the selectmen.

The police department and fire department are consolidated under a commissioner of public safety and subject to the same conditions as the preceding.

The selectmen are empowered to remove for cause and after a hearing any of the above mentioned appointees.

Upon petition of fifty registered voters of any town in which official ballots are used this act shall be submitted by the selectmen to the voters at the next annual town meeting.

The act provides that any town accepting the provisions of the Act may, after the change has been in effect for a period of not less than three years, vote at any annual town meeting to rescind its acceptance of the Act.

The foregoing is a brief outline of the subject upon which the committee was appointed, and necessarily omits many details, to include which would make too lengthy a report and would perhaps serve no very useful purpose.

A FEW LITTLE SMILES

ASSURED OF SOLITUDE.

"What do you think of this rich man providing himself with a handsome tomb to sleep in after he's dead?"
"He might have put the money into a hospital, a public park or a library."
"Yes?"
"People would naturally visit those places. It's a cinch they'll never resort to his tomb in large numbers."

Family Matters.

"I shall complain to the floorwalker about you," said the irate shopper.
"I have no doubt he will agree with everything you say," answered the saleslady, wearily.
"Ah! Then he is acquainted with your shortcomings?"
"He thinks he is. He's my husband."

A Sin of Omission.

"When I enlisted," explained the doughboy with an injured air, "I read the posters that said, 'Join the army and see the world!'"
"Yes," said the recruiting officer.
"But after I was in," the soldier continued, "I found that two words had been omitted on the poster."
"And what were they?"
"On foot."—Home Sector.

They Bought Variety.

"What caused the Gadsburs to break off their friendly relations with the Grabcoins?"
"Incompatible ancestors."
"What do you mean?"
"The Gadsburs' ancestors are the real thing, but the Grabcoins outfit was purchased in the open market."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

A SMALL MATTER.

"Ouch! Didn't you take off a piece of my car that time?"
"Don't be alarmed, sir; not enough to affect the hearing."

Unstability.

Ambition goes a restless way, As history doth prove. When any gets where he would stay, Fate still says, "It's your move!"

Seeds and Berries.

"People have various names for money. One man will speak of 50 seeds, another of 50 berries."
"Yes, and some make money produce, while others merely consume it."

One Exception.

"Talk is cheap."
"Just you wait until congress begins to argue about spending the people's money."

Might Be a Mote.

Youth (eager to gain a place on the sofa)—Permit me to remove the mote, won't you?
Maiden—Thank you, I would, only—only—
Youth—Only what?
Maiden—Only I see such a beam in your eye!—Cartoons.

Tit for Tat.

Mabel—Here comes Charlie Dubb up the walk. That boy gives me the shivers.
Marie—Why don't you give him the shake?

So It Goes.

"Do you remember the old fashioned triangular shawls?"
"They'd look funny now."

Nothing Left.

Judge—Have you anything to offer the court before sentence is passed on you?
Prisoner—No, your honor; my lawyer took my last dollar.

The Result.

"Somebody played a joke on Jim. Sent him a barrel of what he thought were fine oysters."
"Where was the joke?"
"When he went to shuck them, there weren't any oysters there."
"Then he must have been shell-shocked."

Oh, Fudge.

"I see no objection to a slush fund."
"Eh?"
"If it is used to clean up the streets."

WEYMOUTH, APRIL 30, 1920

A WORD IN SEASON

The motor vehicle department of the commonwealth does well to point out the precautions that ought to be taught their children by all fathers and mothers now that the open season is here again for sports that take youngsters into the streets.
Statistics show that of recent deaths in Massachusetts caused by automobiles 35 per cent, seven in every twenty, were those of small children. Motor drivers have their responsibilities and reckless driving accounts for some such killings, but placing the responsibility after the accident yields little comfort to stricken parents. The boy running hard after a baseball, with the shouts of his playmates hurrying him on while a rival hustles round the bases, thinks not of danger and hears no warning blare.

Parents are urged to make sure that their children well understand these four simple rules: "Don't run into the street after a baseball. Don't hitch on autos, wagons or trolley cars. Don't run into the street from behind wagons or autos. Before crossing the street look first to the left and then to the right." If parents do their level best to teach their children these rules, and motor drivers obey the laws as to speed and other precautions, that 35 per cent rate ought to be very greatly reduced.

WORLD WAR VETERANS
Harvey's Weekly of April 17, has this significant paragraph in its colum of letters from readers:
"I have come in contact with scores of cases where men who served faithfully are now financially embarrassed.
These men see those with whom they enlisted and who stayed on the job, now supporting automobiles and still benefiting from the advancement which might just as well have come to the man who was patriotic had he stayed on his job. The difficulty we have is in trying to explain to men that bonus legislation would bankrupt the nation, when they know that our allies in the world war paid their soldiers handsome bonuses. These allies owe this country billions of dollars. Now the Government proposes to remit the interest on this money owed by foreign Governments for a period of years. This means that indirectly the United States is going to pay the bonus of the soldiers of England, France and Italy, but that it would embarrass her to take care of her own men, if you could help us to explain this proposition to the veterans, we would all be grateful, as have to deal with at this time. The average man is doing a lot of think-

SWAT THE FLY

Now that warm weather is fast approaching the flies will begin to make their appearance. Only a few are noticeable at the present time and now is the time to act. For every fly that is swatted now, it will mean the saving of countless swats—and bites—during the good old summer time. When one stops to consider of the various places that a fly frequents during the day, from the garbage can to the dining table, the thought is repelling. It is a well recognized at the fly is one of the lar iers of germs that man has nd with. They are all the n... gorous, because they look so harmless that it has been said that some people "wouldn't hurt a fly." Let us beware of this doubtful compliment and instead join the crowd who swat the fly.
