THE MONTHLY BULLETIN

OF THE

BUREAU OF THE AMERICAN REPUBLICS.

OCTOBER, 1895.

BRAZIL.

OFFICIAL CENSUS.

This first systematic census of Brazil was undertaken in 1890, by order of Congress. The work of compilation has not yet been completed in all its branches, but a published abstract shows that the twenty States of the Republic contain 225 cities, 460 villages, 684 municipalities and 1,553 parishes.

The total population is found to be 18,000,000, and the area is 8,233,632 square kilometers, or 3,170,000 square miles.

By a municipal census recently taken and carefully revised, the population of Rio de Janeiro is given as 522,651, a number much smaller than it was supposed would be shown.

In 1585, the population of the city, not then the capital, was 3,850; in 1821 it had reached 112,695, and in 1870 rose to 255,381.

Of the present population, 293,653 are male, and 228,994 female, living in 48,576 houses. The whites number 327,789, the blacks 64,538, the Indians 17,445, and the mixed population is given as 112,879.

There were found to be 155,000 foreigners: of whom 106,461 are Portuguese, 17,789 Italians, 10,750 Spaniards, 3,962 French, with a few thousands of other nationalities.

THE AMAZON CABLE.

It is stated that the steamer Faraday will shortly leave England with the cable which is to be laid in the Amazon river from Para to Manaos. This enterprise is being carried out by an English Company under an exclusive contract with the Brazilian Government. The line will be 1,400 miles long and will have sixteen intermediate stations. All previous attempts at establishing telegraphic communication in these districts have been unsuccessful, owing to the dense and rapid growth of the forest along the banks of the river.

As an indication of the great importance of the trade of the Amazon, it may be stated that the Faraday, a steamer of 5,000 tons, can easily proceed the entire distance from the mouth of the river to Manaos.

CHILE.

NEW FOREIGN LOAN.

The following is the translation of the bill presented to Congress for the raising of a loan of 6,500,000 pounds sterling, to be applied to the purchase or construction of railroads, and to other public works.

ARTICLE 1. The President of the Republic is hereby authorized to contract a foreign loan up to £6,500,000, to bear interest at not more than $4\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. per annum, and with half per cent. cumulative amortization.

The purchase of these bonds shall be made by tender at a price not exceeding ninety-five per cent.

ART. 4. The Caja de Crédito Hipotecario shall issue a series of bonds bearing interest at the rate of five per cent. per annum, and with one per cent. of cumulative amortization, in sterling money, which shall be paid at the option of the holders in Santiago, London, Paris, or Berlin.

ART. 5. The bonds acquired by virtue of the provisions of Article 3 shall be disposed of when the development of the public works requires it, with the authority of Congress, payment being guaranteed with the full security of Chile.

ART. 6. If use should not be made of the authority conferred in Article 1, the President of the Republic may issue exterior bonds bearing 4½ per cent. interest per annum, with half per cent. cumulative amortization, in the proportion that may be necessary to convert the whole, or a part of the exterior debt, and to obtain funds to an amount not [exceeding ninety per cent. of the sum specified in the said article. In this case the provisions of the remaining preceding articles will continue in force.

COMPLETION OF THE DRY DOCK AT TALCAHUANO.

After six years in construction, the dry dock at Talcahuano has been finished and formally accepted by the Government. The completion of this work is of great importance to the commerce of the South Pacific, as the largest vessels trading in those waters may be docked there.

COLOMBIA.

The following report on the subject of shipping and railway charges at Barranquilla, submitted by Consul John Bidlake under date of July 22 to the Department of State, is taken from the United States Consular Reports for October :

This consulate is in receipt of inquiries from intending shippers as to the amounts charged per ton by the railroad company for transshipping freight from Sabanilla to Barranquilla, and vice versa, and asking for other general information, the object being to determine the amounts that could be saved by chartering vessels direct to Barranquilla.

Sailing vessels chartered for Barranquilla during the months of December, January, February and March (the windy season) would do well to proceed to Santa Marta and there telegraph for a pilot, as the entrance at the mouth of the Magdalena River is made easier from that direction during that period; during the other eight months of the year a sailing vessel can pick up its pilot at Puerto Colombia (Sabanilla.)

With the increased export trade to the United States from this port I trust we may also have an increase of imports from the United States, and that American shipmasters will make some inquiry into the advantages to be derived by sending their vessels to Barranquilla.

PORT DUES AT BARRANQUILLA.

Light-house dues.—For the first 100 tons, $5; for each additional ton, 3 cents.

Tonnage dues.—For each ton of cargo delivered, except ballast, stones, bricks, flagstones and coal, $1; ballast, each ton, 50 cents.

Government stamps.—For each permit, bill of lading, manifest, crew list, provision list and dispatch, $2.

Pilotage.—A vessel requiring a pilot for Barranquilla for entering the river, $30; taking vessel out, $20.

Commission.—Commission houses charge $25 for doing ship's business. Pilotage and commission are in American gold.

Pier service and traffic.—The following is from a printed statement prepared by F. J. Cisneros, general agent of the direction and administration of the Barranquilla Railway and Pier Company, giving the regulations for pier and traffic at Sabanilla, the port of entry for Barranquilla:

Steamers mooring at Puerto Colombia pier will pay for the first day of twenty-four hours, or any fraction of it, to commence from the time the vessel comes alongside, £7, or its equivalent in Colombian currency at current rate of exchange; for every hour after the first twenty-four hours, day or night (except during night or feast days when the steamer is not working, when no charge will be made), 12s., or its equivalent in Colombian currency at current rate of exchange. It is understood that the pier master will decide if a vessel lying alongside the wharf affects the efficient working of same, in which case he is authorized to order removal at once.

Sailing ships will pay, according to register, in English currency, or its equivalent in Colombian currency at current rate of exchange, as follows:

*5s. per day for each additional 50 tons.

Sailing vessels are bound to employ the steam winch, and to pay £1. or its equivalent in Colombian currency, per day for use of same.

All vessels mooring at the pier shall pay the dues fixed by the railway company's tables.

Use of hand crane per day or part of day, $2.50 (gold), or its equivalent in Colombian currency.

Vessels mooring on the northern side of the pier shall hold on to the buoys or to their own anchors to avoid striking against the pier.

With a northwest sea and wind the railway company will not allow any vessel to moor at the pier; and should any be moored there it shall, in such case, haul away and anchor at a distance of not less than 2,000 feet when so ordered by the pier master.

Without the express permission of the pier master no vessel shall be allowed to use chains to make fast to the pier.

Every vessel shall be responsible for any damage caused to the pier by rubbing against it, or other negligence, etc.

Captains must obey the instructions of the pier master when shifting, making fast to the buoys, or performing any movement as ordered, and are requested to give notice to the pier master previous to moving away.

As regards extra work, it is understood that the working day commences at 6 a. m. and terminates at 5 p. m.

COFFEE CULTURE IN COSTA RICA.

His Excellency, J. B. Calvo, Chargé d'Affaires, Washington, D. C.:

DEAR SIR,

Your wish to be informed in regard to coffee culture in Costa Rica, this office will comply with, so far as the mere quotation goes for expenses and returns, until the plantation shall yield regular yearly crops. The calculations cover, as you will notice, the clearing, planting, subsequent cleanings and picking of the berries, but they do not include the subsequent work to convert the berries into coffee ready for shipment, for the reason that the different methods of curing (beneficio) create corresponding and different expenses. The distinct demands of the different markets, also to a certain degree regulate the curing expenses; for instance, the coloring of the beans, assortment, etc., etc. Several English and German treatises upon coffee name more than twenty varieties, but at present we have to consider only the Arabian coffee as the one principally cultivated in Costa Rica. The few samples of Liberia (African) coffee and a shrub coffee tree planted as an ornamental garden tree cuts no figure in the economical and commercial result.

You will probably find the yearly crops quoted considerably lower than expected, but this office prefers, in its calculations, to be on the safe side. Besides, the question here is not to single out a few prosperous years' yield, but to give the average result for a series of years. The yield can not be quoted as uniform every year, for the reason that the coffee tree, like other fruit trees, requires now and then a partial rest, for instance two years good crops may the third year be followed by less than a middling crop. Two pounds per tree may be considered a very good average crop, that is to say twenty centner qq. per manzana. More can not reasonably be expected, comparing the quantity of coffee with that of cacao. One manzana—500 cacao trees—will average ten centner of beans, although the cacao tree is more than twice as large as the coffee tree. For further information I may refer you to "The Text Book of Tropical Agriculture" by Alford Nichols, printed by McMillan & Co., London and New York, 1892.

The price paid for virgin land, or its value before cultivation is imaginary in this calculation, because the purchase sum is indeterminable, depending on location and the buyer's individual taste and resources.

As a rule the planter ought to superintend the work in person. If not, it would be better to let it out on contract, but never to be left in hands of day laborers without strict control. From the different ways by which the work is disposed of arise expenses, very often at considerable variance with the anticipation. As an example of contract-work wherein the contractor is made mutually interested with his employer, the following agreement is quoted. A party, Messrs. Rudd and Inksetter, of San José, are at present forming a coffee plantation of 75 manzanas at or near the river Tuis, a few miles East of Turrialba. Their contractor receives for his work $300 pr manzana, paying his own board, and at the end of 3 years steady work and attendance 25 manzanas in addition as property, out of the 75 without deduction of payment for the land and the plantation.

Said owners, Rudd & Inksetter will have paid out at the end of three years as follows:

Purchase money for 75 manzanas wild land, say at $30 pr manz.		$2,250
Clearing, planting, cleaning, etc., 75 manz during 3 years at $300 pr manzana.....		22,500
Expended capital during 3 years without return. Total.....		$24,750
The 4th year the first regular crop from 50 manz. at 1 pound pr tree or 10 centner pr manz: will give 500 qq. (centner) at $30 pr qq.....	$15,000
The 4th year's expenses:
Five cleanings of 50 manz. at $25 pr manz.....	$1,250
Picking the berries, 500 qq. at $5 pr qq.....	2,500
House for manager and laborers.	200
Fencing with wire 50 manz, 3000 varas at $50 for each 300 varas.....	500	5,150
One year's salary to the manager.	700
The 5th year's crop from 50 manz. at 1½ pounds pr tree 50 × 15 qq. = 750 qq at $30 pr qq.....		22,500
The 5th year's expenses: 5 cleanings of 50 manz. Picking the berries 750 qq. at $5 pr qq.....	1,250	3,750
Repairs on house and fences, say.....	200	5,900
One year's salary to the manager.....	700
Totals.....		$37,500	$35,800

It takes, consequently, 5 years culture to cover the original investment and all the running expenses. During the following 5 years the annual crop may be quoted at 2 pounds per tree or 20 qq. per manz. After this time the regular crops may drop gradually down to 10 qq. per manzana and on neglected plantations even down to 5 qq. per manzana.

As before said, this calculation does not include the expenses for converting the berries into mercantile beans, because the ripe fruit is generally sold as berries to the large and costly establishments, beneficios, for further treatment. Consequently the expenses for sacks, assorting and packing belong to the fruit buyer; but if you prefer to bring your coffee into market, the beneficio operator will return to you the ready made coffee at the rate of 100 pounds for every fanega of fruit. A fanega of fruit will yield according to the quality of the coffee from 110 to 115 pounds clean coffee. The surplus over 100 pounds is the return for his work.

When you ask the opinion of experienced planters about the cost of coffee planting, they will not give a uniform answer. Mr. Fred. Tinoco, a renowned producer of coffee and sugar, estimates coffee in first bearing to have cost him from $300 to $500 per manzana; he says that besides the character and location of the soil, the expenses also seem to be dependent upon good or bad luck. The nursery may miscarry, part of the transplanted young trees may die and have to be restored, and other mishaps, that swell considerably the expense list.

Under ordinary circumstances the expenses per manzana not including the manager's board and salary, may be quoted as follows:

Clearing and burning wild land pr manzana.....	$ 30
Nursery beds pr 1,000 plants.....	40
Digging 1,000 holes, and planting 1,000 trees.....	40
Planting of 400 bananas, or plantains, for shade.....	15
Cost of 400 bananas, or plantains, 4 feet high.....	20
First years assistance, replanting and cleaning.....	60
Second, third and fourth years cleaning and regulating at $25 pr year.....	75
Cost of virgin land from $10 to $30 pr manzana, say.....	30

Total cost of land and plantation..... $510

The fourth year will yield the first regular crop, say 10 qq. at $30 or $300. Afterwards from 15 to 20 qq. per manz. Where the land is very rich and the growth of the trees large, Mr. Tinoco plants his coffee 4+4 varas, and considers 2½ pounds per tree a good crop.

The foregoing statements seem to me sufficient to enable you to draw your conclusions for smaller or larger plantations. I shall only add, that in case you prefer day work to work by contract, your nursery trees ready for transplanting will cost you about $40 per thousand, and by your personal superintendence you may save some of the expenses during the first three years, and afterwards the managers annual salary.

Experienced planters reckon 6 laborers and 1 boss all the year round for a 50 manzanas coffee plantation after it is formed and planted. The picking of the berries is of course an extra expense. According to the seasons—dry and wet—the day laborers will (boarding themselves) work from 7 o'clock A.M. to 2 o'clock P.M., for $1.00 to $1.25, or from 7 o'clock A.M. to 6 o'clock P.M., for $1.50. These are the prices paid this year.

If the producer (planter) prefers to handle and ship his coffee on his own account, it will be well for him to remember, that in shipment from seaport to seaport, coffee must be treated with the utmost care and cleanliness, in order that it may not lose its original smell and taste. The raw coffee bean is in this respect as delicate as milk. Greasy or smelling sacks, smoke, raw hides stowed in the same vessel, bad or damp air rising from the bottom of the hull of the ship, and condensed under the decks—these and similar lack of precautionary measures may bring the best coffee down to a lower grade, and class the product among any other sort than the Costa Rica mountain coffee.

Although your letter does not call for the following information, it may be expected that with the intention of settling in Costa Rica, you may feel interested in posting yourself in regard to the current prices of the following articles, mostly agricultural.

Remember, that all money calculations in this communication are made under the present estimate of value, one dollar American gold, equals $2.50 Costa Rica currency.

DECREE CONCERNING THE UNIFICATION OF THE NATIONAL DEBTS OF THE REPUBLIC.

El Guatemalteco, official organ of the government of the Republic of Guatemala, published under date of the 31st of August ultimo the following important decree :

ARTICLE 1. The foreign and domestic debts of the Republic of Guatemala, as funded and recognized by decree No. 394, of August 29, 1887, shall be consolidated and converted into one single debt, to be known as "The 4 per cent. Foreign Debt of Guatemala," amounting nominally to one million six hundred thousand pounds sterling.

ART. 2. The total amount of the debt of Guatemala, as liquidated on the 1st of January, 1894, was as follows:

Internal, or domestic debt, 6,025,920 pesos, which at the rate of £16 per each 100 pesos, make £964,144.

Foreign debt, £890,300.

ART. 3. In compliance with the bases of arrangement accepted in London on the 25th of May ultimo (1895), at a meeting of the bondholders of both debts, the old bonds with their respective unpaid coupons shall be exchanged for new bonds of the 4 per cent. foreign debt created by this decree, in the following proportion:

(A). For each one hundred pounds sterling, in bonds of the foreign debt of 1887, seventy-five pounds sterling in the new 4 per cent. bonds shall be given.

(B). For each 100 pesos, or sixteen pounds sterling, in domestic bonds of 1887, fifteen pounds sterling in the new 4 per cent. bonds shall be given. The value of such coupons of the old bonds as may be missing, shall be deducted from the amount to be given in exchange in the new 4 per cent. bonds, in a proportion as may be fixed by agreement between the Minister of Guatemala in London and the agents of the bondholders.

ART. 4. The new bonds shall have such a number of coupons attached thereto as may be necessary for the collection of interest on and after, the 1st of July of the present year.

ART. 5. The exchange of the new bonds for the old ones shall be made in London with the intervention of the Minister Plenipotentiary of Guatemala.

ART. 6. The new 4 per cent. bonds of the foreign debt of Guatemala shall bear interest at the rate of 4 per cent. per annum, said interest to be paid in gold in London on the 30th of December each year. A sinking fund of £15,000 every year shall be also created for the redemption of the debt.

ART. 7. The redemption above named shall take place by means of purchases of bonds to be made in London every six months in such amounts as may be required to consume at market prices the £15,000 appropriated for that purpose.

ART. 8. For the prompt payment both of the interest and of the amount appropriated for the sinking fund the government shall give on the 1st of July, each year, to the duly recognized agent in Guatemala of the foreign bondholders, such a number of bonds of export duties on coffee as may be necessary to meet this liability during the succeeding year.

ART. 9. The export duty of one and a half pesos in gold (six English shillings) per quintal of coffee shall be set aside during ten years, to be counted from July 1, 1895; and that duty shall be paid exclusively in bonds of the said revenue. If for any cause whatever the government should be unable to get possession of these bonds in sufficient number to meet the aforesaid liabilities arrangements shall then be made with the council of foreign bondholders to secure some other competent guarantee.

ART. 10. All the expenses attending the conversion and payment of the debt shall be defrayed by the government.

ART. 11. COMMERCIAL NOTES.

The henequen fiber (hemp) exported from Yucatan during the month of September amounted to 30,244 bales, with a total weight of 10,827,614 pounds. The average price realized was 6½ cents per pound, thus yielding the sum of $703,705 to the producers. This is approximately what this industry produces monthly in Yucatan.

It is stated that the Federal Government offers to contribute $25,000 per month during the next ten years towards the fund which the city council is preparing to raise for the improvement of the drainage of the capital and its sanitary condition, made practicable now by the completion of the Valley Drainage.

Extensive deposits of coal of good quality, have been recently discovered near the city of Juarez. Steps will be taken at once to obtain a concession for building a railway to the coal fields, and developing the mines.

A new light-house has been erected at the entrance to the harbor of Tuxpan, the light being first shown on the 10th of September. The light is a fixed white one, and even in foggy weather may be seen over six miles distant.

SANTO DOMINGO.

BONDS OF THE REPUBLIC.

The Dominican Congress has just passed a very important decree affecting the interests of the holders of the bonds of the Republic of Santo Domingo. The interior debts which had been incurred from time to time, and principally to its own citizens, bore varying and high rates of interest, and it was found desirable to fund all of these debts, together with others which had become due to persons abroad, into one consolidated issue. Among the latter debts were those growing out of the Franco-Dominican difficulties some time since, and which were so amicably and satisfactorily settled early in the present year through the intervention and good offices of the San Domingo Improvement Company of New York.

The decree referred to applies to the entire issue known as "French-American Reclamation Consols," amounting to $4,250,000, and declares that although the government believes that the security already given by the contracts approved by the Congress is ample and sufficient to meet the interest and sinking fund thereon, yet it is desirous of making these securities exceptional in their character and absolutely safe in the hands of the foreign holders. Therefore it decrees that if for any unexpected reason the revenues appropriated for the interest and sinking fund of the French-American Reclamation Consols should be insufficient on February 1 and August 1 of each year, then there should be retained from the current budget for government expenditures a sufficient sum to make up such deficit, and the same be paid over to the bondholders.

The San Domingo Improvement Company, acting as the virtual trustee and agent for the foreign holders of these bonds, directly collects all the Customs revenues of the Republic, and pays over to the government the amount arranged in its contracts for the current expenses thereof. As this decree directs the Company to retain from the regular budget payments the amount necessary to cover any possible deficit that may arise in any unforeseen contingency, it will be apparent that as the budget is absolutely the first charge on all the Customs receipts the deficit, if any should occur in the regular payments for interest and sinking fund, becomes a first mortgage as against the entire Customs revenues of the Dominican Republic.

URUGUAY.

The custom house at Montevideo yielded in the month of July last 883,000 piastres, as against 731,000 in July, 1894. The rise in the value of wheat has given a great impetus to agriculture in Uruguay. The general outlook for cattle growing is encouraging. Money is abundant, and there have recently been large sales of city and country properties at prices which have produced some amelioration of the previous dullness.

AUSTRALIAN LIVE STOCK IN ENGLISH MARKETS.

From the following account given in the South American Journal, it would seem that the recent attempt to introduce into the markets of England live cattle and sheep from Australia did not realize the expectations of its projectors.

"To such of our readers as are concerned more particularly with the great pastoral industries of the River Plate, the issue of the experimental consignment of live Australian cattle and sheep to this country by the "Southern Cross" has been looked for with considerable interest, not altogether unmingled with feelings of anxiety and apprehension. The animals were landed at Deptford, as required by the regulations, and on Monday last they were offered for sale. On that day an Argentine gentleman, now in London, intimately identified with the River Plate cattle trade, proceeded to Deptford with, he tells us, a little trepidation, and he has favored us with the results of his observations. We may say at once that what he saw and learned there has quite removed from his mind any fear of Australian competition. He was convinced that, solely owing to distance from England, there is no danger of the Australians offering any serious embarrassment to the prospects of a growing and profitable live cattle trade with this country from the Argentine Republic.

"The bullocks were undoubtedly fine animals when they started, but, alas, they were not so on their arrival here. The long voyage and rough weather experienced in rounding Cape Horn had told its tale, and as 10 per cent. had died on board, one can imagine how badly the rest must have fared. They were large animals, but too old, apparently averaging six years, and ought to give, our informant says, a 7:0 pound carcass. They sold at various prices, averaging about £16, and leaving a loss to the shippers of some £4 per head. Cattle must be very cheap in Australia, indeed. In the Plate, with its cheap lands and fine climate, it is impossible to put cattle of similar class on board a ship for less than £8, and we are assured that the bullocks were placed on the Southern Cross at £5 per head. Then, however, the trouble commenced, as it costs £14 per head to get them to Deptford and about another pound for landing, keep in Deptford, drivers, commission, &c.

As for the sheep, they were a sorry lot. "Surely Australia can send something better," remarks our correspondent. They were mostly cross-breeds of no particular merit, with some Merinos, all too light. They only averaged 22s., leaving a loss of some 10s. per head.

"I do not know," he continued, "if the plucky Australians will try it again on a larger scale, but it cannot be done at a profit. Small lots of twenty or thirty animals carefully installed in the best place on a ship may arrive in good condition and sell well, but it will never be a business. If those I saw are a fair sample I think they would look better frozen. The Australians still have a good chance of making some money in sheep if they can send them thirty pounds heavier."

It must be understood, however, that it is not the duty of consuls to devote their time to private business, and that all such letters may properly be treated as personal and any labor involved may be subject to charge therefor.
