My dear Mr. Bradley:

In accordance with your request to Mr. Dixon of my office during the conference of September 24, I am forwarding herewith copies of the Japanese Wartime Laws of Industrial Property of 1917 and 1943.

I regret the delay in sending these documents, which has been necessary in order to check on the authenticity of the copies we had at hand. The translations leave something to be desired, but I believe the meaning is clear enough.

Sincerely yours,

Raymond Vernon
Assistant Chief, International
Resources Division
