PARKING ORDINANCE IN EFFECT

Watch Your Step on Main Thoroughfares Tomorrow TO BE ENFORCED Two Hour Stay Is Limit of Occupancy of the Highway

Better watch your step tomorrow, motorists. The amendment which prohibits parking on the leading streets of the city for longer than two hours at a stretch will go into effect promptly at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning, so if you are in the habit of hitching "old horse" to one of the curbs for a longer period than that, you had better hunt out a new stall for the old critter.

The section of this amendment containing the "meat" reads as follows:

"That it shall be unlawful for any person, firm or corporation to park any vehicle or to cause any vehicle to be parked on either side of Brand boulevard from the north line of Colorado street to the south line of California street; on either side of Broadway from the west side of Jackson street to the east side of Central avenue, between the hours of 9 o'clock a. m. and 5 o'clock p. m. on any day except Sundays and legal holidays, for a longer period of time than two hours."

The peculiar part about this ordinance is that the council stopped at Jackson, which is just east of the Glendale sanitarium, instead of continuing to some point east of Glendale avenue, thereby taking in the business district on the east side of the city. It is very often a problem to find parking space between Jackson and Glendale avenue, and for this reason it seems rather peculiar that the council did not bring that section of Broadway under the ordinance.

ELECTRIC LINE PLAN IS NOW OFFERED

Union Pacific Asks for $25,000 to Electrify Glendale Ave. Road

The Union Pacific railroad made a definite offer yesterday to electrify the line operated in Glendale by that company. The offer was made at a meeting of the East Side Advancement association at noon in the Polka Dot Cafe. A letter from the railroad company was read submitting the following proposition: For a consideration of $25,000 the Union Pacific railroad will combine with the Glendale-Montrose line and electrify the holdings of the Union Pacific on Glendale avenue. One request made by the railroad was that the lumber yards on North Glendale avenue be turned over to the road to be used as a freight terminal.

The proposal was held over for further consideration before a final decision is made.

The proposition of placing the bridge to connect Glendale with Griffith Park at the end of Broadway was discussed and unanimously endorsed by the members of the association. A committee of five with John L. Watson acting as chairman, was appointed to bring this matter before the city council.

City Manager W. H. Reeves, who attended the meeting, speaking about the bridge, said, "The idea is you want a bridge across the Los Angeles river to provide an entrance to Griffith Park. The proper way to secure this bridge is to select the street to be extended and then all organizations and individuals should get together and work for the setting aside of the street selected."

DECLARES WAR THREATENS WORLD

LONDON, May 26.—The world still is threatened with war, Lloyd George declared in a speech at the Hotel Cecil today. The premier castigated the critics of Genoa. Speaking at a luncheon tendered by his supporters in parliament, Lloyd George began with an attack upon those who had "made more difficult the work of the economic conference."

There Lives No Meaner Man Than the Blackmailer

The blackmailer is the meanest type of criminal as well as the most desperate and dangerous, according to Henry James in his comment on the day's news this evening. In his comment Mr. James declares that even an innocent man might through chicanery be made to appear guilty.

To see the beauty of our surroundings, to laugh and love and serve generously, that is what constitutes a happy and useful life. This is the fine message brought to you by James W. Foley in "The Listening Post" this evening. It is a beautiful thought, almost a prayer in its sincerity. Dr. Frank Crane talks about the Modernization of China, saying that the general idea that China is asleep is entirely erroneous and that there is a chance of that country becoming the most modern in the new world.

Besides this there is Della Stewart's chatty little article which she this time introduces by saying "Let's take a ride together!" Sounds interesting and it is interesting. Read her article and then don't fail to read the editorials and John Pilgrim's intimate little conversation.

The Eastern Point of View has much of interest in it this evening. In fact the editorial page this evening is filled with up-to-the-minute information. Turn to it if you wish to enjoy an hour's pleasure.

STRIKING PROGRAM MARKS OPENING OF CHAUTAUQUA

Magician Fletcher Baffles Audience With Mind Magic

The Chautauqua opened very auspiciously Thursday night, with Paul Fleming, the magician as the attraction. Mrs. Thatcher, the Chautauqua director for Glendale, made quite a lengthy opening address, telling of the attractions to come and making the pleasing statement that last year Glendale was second in number of season tickets sold of the 135 points covered by the circuit.

Fleming's feats of magic, while not differing from those of the old-time magicians, yet showed one or two new baffling tricks. That of making an orange tree grow and bear fruit from a seed in less than three minutes, was a marvelous showing of the occult.

He demonstrated the genuineness of the growth by plucking oranges from the tree and throwing them among the audience.

The mind reading tests in which his wife assisted were most baffling, but the crowning feature of the evening's entertainment was his truly marvelous showing of spiritualistic frauds in open view of the audience and with all the lights turned on, he caused the spirits to hand which was placed on a large sheet of plate glass to answer any questions that people in the audience asked. The day of the week dates far in the past were given with accuracy as the propounders of the queries testified in each case.

The card tricks were most amusing and the final act in which Mr. Fleming's assistant, "James" was placed in a large trunk which was in plain view on the front of the platform; then Mr. Fleming, donning the garb of an East Indian fakir and using the magic oong which he said had been presented to him by one of the most noted of these gentry in India, caused James to appear in his (Fleming's) disguise, Mrs. Fleming to rise from the inside of the trunk and Fleming himself to appear as "James." As examples of the power of man to deceive his fellowmen out in the open, giving them every facility to detect the impostor, this entertainment could not be surpassed in vivid interest.

Tonight's attraction is one which the Ellison-White promoters rather plume themselves for it is seldom that a grand opera star like Frances Ingram who regularly gets $800 a night for her performances in the large centers of the east, can be secured for the Chautauqua circuit. All lovers of music will certainly be on hand at this evening's performance.

RADKE'S DEFERS ITS OPENING

The date for the opening of the Radke jewelry company, to be located in the McElroy building, on South Brand boulevard, has been deferred until Wednesday, May 31. His store will open with one of the most complete lines of jewelry in any suburban store in Southern California and the prices placed on every article in the store will be right. Mr. Radke is a jeweler and optician with years of experience and comes to give the people of this section the benefit of his years of experience along these lines.

EVERINGTON DEFEDED AT W.C.T.U.

"Fighting Bob" Shuler Declares L. A. Newspapers Unreliable

HOTELS ARE "PIGS" Spares No Words in Discussing "Weak Kneed" Officialdom

"Fighting Bob Shuler," as his friends affectionately prefer to call Rev. Robert Shuler, was the magnet who drew a big audience in addition to the delegates to the evening meeting of the W. C. T. U. convention Thursday night. He paid a high tribute to James W. Everington, of this city. His announced theme was "Shall It Be Absolute Sobriety and Law Enforcement?" but his talk was on the campaign for the adoption at the polls in November of the Wright law, along lines of argument similar to those put forth by ex-Congressman Randall, who was present and an appreciative listener.

He admitted being a native of the mountains of Kentucky and thoroughly acquainted with all the mysteries of "stills" except the flavor of the beverage. It is evident he is carrying the Kentucky feud spirit into his campaign against the opponents of the Wright law. His speech was challenging, aggressive. He paid his respects to the chamber of commerce of Los Angeles for its "weak-kneed action," and handled without gloves the police administration of Los Angeles.

Said he: "We have come to an hour when we must insist on enforcement of law. If law is made ridiculous, we are at a tremendous disadvantage. A large percent of the biggest hotels are blind pigs. Are the police of Los Angeles enforcing the law? If they can get a couple of negroes shooting craps they bring them in and every few months they stage a raid on Chinatown and we pass resolutions condemning them for their enforcement of law. When it comes to the big hotels where tourists get all kinds of liquor, they are un-molested."

"Everington was undoubtedly the biggest fool ever brought into a city to be an officer because he believed they really wanted him to put it over. This man Everington was brave as a lion and had the courage to enforce the law in the city of Los Angeles. That kind of men do not last any time at all in such positions."

Speaking of the Ku Klux Klan, which he declared undoubtedly saved the south one time, he said: "You cannot prevent American men from putting on a sheet and doing something when they know officers of the law are selling privilege for crime. The only way to save the country is to get out and stand for the enforcement of law."

He also criticized the press, saying "We haven't a paper in Los Angeles that you can trust on a moral issue."

It was suggested he come to Glendale. Mrs. Hattie C. Young was a speaker who told of the million dollar campaign fund rolled up by the liquor interests and of its endeavor to "prostitute" Secretary Hughes, ex-President Taft and others to take its case to test the constitutionality of the law to the supreme court and how indignantly they declined, affirming the constitutionality of the measure. She also told how Elihu Root was persuaded, receiving, she said, half a million dollars, and after all the supreme court affirmed the constitutionality of the law. In the face of such organization and money as is possessed by the opposition, she urged the critical need of united effort between now and November. In closing she said, "I wonder if you can grasp 'the world dry in 1925.' That is the slogan of the Women's Christian Temperance Union."

Dr. Marian Vandewater spoke in place of Miss Blanche Morse on the theme, "The Delinquent Woman—Everybody's Problem." As causes of delinquency she named "the exploitation of pleasure," and "lack of law enforcement." She declared that no protection is afforded little boys and girls who can run away from home, go to a hotel and remain there for a week or more without the knowledge of their parents and the hotel keepers are not required to report such patrons. She cited some typical cases which began as innocent pranks and ended in tragedy.

The male quartet of the hostess church scored a great hit by its singing of "Pure White Ribbon" and was recalled for an encore number, "Just Keep Smiling." In appreciation the audience gave them the white ribbon salute. The closing number on the evening's program was "The Ninety and Nine" very beautifully sung by Mrs. A. M. Draper of this city.

FIRST BUDDY HOME TO START CONSTRUCTION AT LA CRESCENTA SOON

Tent of Clarence Christenson to Be Replaced by Substantial House Through the Volunteer Labor of the Unions

The first Buddy Home will be started tomorrow. Lumber and other building materials are already on the ground at La Crescenta. Union carpenters, plumbers and painters will be on the job, according to their promise, ready to do the construction work without pay. This house is to be the home of Clarence Christenson, a disabled veteran of the World War, and his family. The home will be completed by Memorial day and the little family will have moved in.

Several members of the Glendale post No. 127, American Legion have offered their services as laborers on the building and other members have offered their automobiles to take the volunteer workers to the job and bring them home. If there is anyone in Glendale who has not offered to help in the construction of the home they can join the workers at La Crescenta tomorrow morning. There will be work for everyone and work that is glorified in that it is for a Buddy home which is for the nation and is seeking a home where he may regain his health.

Material for this home, which is the first of five to be built through the efforts of the Glendale Daily Press, has been sold by the merchants of Glendale at absolute cost. Trucks have been donated to haul this material to the job and volunteer workers will do the work. The last call is issued: "Come to La Crescenta tomorrow morning and help erect a home for Clarence Christenson, who offered his life for the nation and his family."

ROTARIANS HOLD 100 PER CENT MEETING

Bill Howe Invites Members of Club to Glendale Theatre

The Rotarians of Glendale held another 100 per cent meeting yesterday at noon, in the banquet hall of the chamber of commerce. All city members were present, or reported that they had attended meetings elsewhere during the week. The meeting last week was also a 100 per cent session, as C. C. Cooper telegraphed that he had attended a meeting of the Rotary club in another city.

The various committees of the organization were called on for reports, and after the meeting, "Bill" Howe invited all Rotarians to attend the afternoon performance at the Glendale theatre, as guests of the management.

Among the visiting Rotarians present were Austin Kimms, Detroit, Mich., Stuart W. Franch, Pasadena, Ed Spafford, Marquette, Mich., and Will Forker, Los Angeles.

A committee was appointed to arrange for automobiles to bring visiting Rotarians to Glendale on next Monday.

HEALTH DEPT. MOVES TO TROPICO

This is moving day at the city hall, as the health department is moving from its quarters in the council chamber to the old Tropico city hall at Los Feliz road and Brand boulevard. The order was issued yesterday for the department to move at once to relieve the congestion in the municipal building.

Sanitary Inspector Harry Holbrook was told to have his department moved today without fail. The new office will be in the council chamber of the old city hall, upstairs over fire house No. 2. Parents will have to take their children to this office, starting tomorrow, for permits to allow them to return to school after an absence because of illness. All other business in connection with the department will be transacted at the new office.

GLENDALE DAILY PRESS EDITORIAL ON W. C. T. U. IS COMMENDED

In his speech before the W. C. T. U. convention Thursday afternoon, Hon. C. H. Randall said in closing: "I congratulate you on having the privilege of holding your convention in Glendale and on the splendid treatment you have received from one of the local papers, the Glendale Press, which last night contained one of the most remarkable editorials that has ever appeared in a newspaper in California. I suggest that delegates"

ALL STATE OFFICERS REELECTED

W. C. T. U. Approves Administration of Its Affairs

MRS. EDSON SPEAKS Member of State Welfare Conference Discusses Work

One of the outstanding addresses of the entire W. C. T. U. convention, afternoon program was made by Mrs. Katherine Phillips Edson, one of the two women on the advisory committee at the disarmament conference in Washington and a member of the Industrial Welfare Commission of California. In introducing her, a glowing tribute was paid her by President Wheeler and she was given an enthusiastic white ribbon salute before she began her talk about the Washington conference. "You have read the details in the newspapers long ago," she said, "and so I will only touch on some of the things that most impressed me."

She gave illuminating comments on the prominent figures in conference, referring to President Harding's address with which the conference opened, of which Balfour said that in its simplicity and honesty it sounded the key note. She was much impressed by the president and convinced of the sincerity of this man who has aged ten years since he assumed the responsibilities of his office. Said Roosevelt: "He is not the man Wilson was, of brilliant intellect and desire to terminate to have his way carried out. He apparently desired to give the American people what they want whether they are progressives, reactionaries or something else. I came away with the conviction that the president of the United States is going to grow in the estimation of the people of this republic and will make a great success of the administration."

"Secretary Hughes was one of the finest men I ever met. He is a very different person from the man we knew in 1919, fresh from the refrigeration of the supreme court. He has developed geniality and is a great ethical, moral force."

"Senator Lodge is a very charming literary person, but has not the force of intellect and great success of the administration. He handled the Chinese tariff and the questions of the far east most admirably."

"The British delegation was most impressive and had a remarkable press bureau, while the French had a high score of the newspapers and once a day handed out their publicity in French, and you know how far that would get with the average correspondent of the language of the conference, who speaks French and English and it was the first international conference which had not been conducted in French only."

Mrs. Edson eulogized the wonderful interpreter, a linguist, who made shorthand transcripts of the speeches and then read them in translation, in French of English, as the occasion might require, with all the beauty of diction and gestures preserved. His translation of Balfour's speech she pronounced better than the original, because he put into it an eloquence which Mr. Balfour omitted.

She spoke of the great things accomplished and said the program for the limitation of armaments could never have gone through if there had not been some understanding of the problems of the east; that the menace of Japan had been greater than we realized, but through penetration into Asia and determination to rule the Orient. This would complicate things for us as the friend of China. The return of Shantung she therefore considered a great diplomatic triumph, and the conference method a great step towards peace.

"But," she said, "I do not think we could have had a success of this conference if we had not been the creditor nation. We need not hope for quite the same success under different circumstances."

"I have not been an enthusiastic believer in internationalism and I am less of a believer now because I saw there at close range the hatreds and animosities and jealousies of the nations of Europe. It is right in wishing to keep out of European squabbles. (Applause.)

"Here in this country we have this priceless gift of democracy and it is our duty to keep ourselves in such a condition that we can go on with the development of our own democratic principles and not become entangled with imperialism."

Mrs. Edson also told of the honor which Washington had conferred upon a young Los Angeles woman, Mabel Willibrant, who has been an

Dry Forces Gather at Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE, Wis., May 26.—America, a missionary nation to "save a drunken world from alcoholic self destruction by preaching the gospel of prohibition," was the vision of leading dries of the country, meeting here today.

Make the United States safe for prohibition and then spread the doctrine over the face of the earth was the determination of the prohibitionists.

Bishop Thomas Nicholson, Chicago, president of the Anti-Saloon League, outlined the purposes of the dries. The first main objective will be to elect men and women pledged to uphold prohibition in congress in November.

The keystone of the congressional election, they believe, will be A. J. Volstead, congressman from Minnesota and father of the prohibition enforcement act.

"Democrats, wets and non-partisans have put up a dry candidate, Rev. A. J. Kvale, to oppose Volstead and have combined their efforts to defeat the father of national prohibition law," said Bishop Nicholson. "Therefore, all Anti-Saloon leaguers and workers for prohibition throughout the country must be prepared to fight to a finish to return Volstead to congress."

The necessity of keeping Wisconsin represented by a dry delegation in congress was also stressed by the prohibitionists.

"A state which at one time made one-sixth of all beer consumed in the United States must be kept bone dry," he stated. "In words of Volstead, 'If Wisconsin doesn't want beer, who does?'"

COUNCIL INVITED TO MEMORIAL SERVICES

Comrade Barrett of G. A. R. Presents Invitation to Forest Lawn

Comrade Barrett, as a representative of the G. A. R. of the valley, appeared before the city council last night and extended to that body an invitation to attend the memorial services that will be held at Forest Lawn cemetery next Tuesday. On motion of Councilman Lapham the invitation was accepted and it was decided that the council attend the services in a body.

In presenting the invitation, Veteran Barrett saluted the council and said: "Members of the Glendale city council, I bring you greetings from the Grand Army of the Republic. And I extend to you an invitation to attend our service on Memorial day, May 30, at Forest Lawn."

SPIDER STROTHERS FALLS IN STREET AT BURBANK

After Conquering High School Building Here, He Slips at Burbank

Bill Strother, the human fly, fell while endeavoring to climb the Lewis drug store building in Burbank, last night. Immediately after climbing the front wall of the Glendale high school, Strother journeyed to Burbank, where he had an appointment to climb two business houses. He reached a point about half way up the Lewis building when he slipped and fell to the sidewalk, suffering a fractured ankle and a few bruises.

Immediately after the fall Strother was taken into the Lewis drug store and given first aid, after which he was removed to the Cottage hospital, where he will be confined for several days before being taken to his home in Los Angeles. There were several hundred people present when the "spider" met with his accident.

STOLEN MACHINE IS RECOVERED

An automobile, stolen between 8 and 9:30 o'clock last night from in front of St. Mark's Episcopal church, was recovered early this morning by the police department of Santa Monica. Douglas Crumm, a Glendale boy, who says that he attends the high school here and lives at 316 East Ethel street, is being held in connection with the case.

Mr. Sullivan, owner of the car, reported the theft to the Glendale police department at 9:55 p. m. This report was telephoned to the police of nearby cities immediately, and at 1:55 a. m. today the Santa Monica police telephoned that they were holding the car and Douglas Crumm. According to the

Councilman Davis Apprehension at on Improvement EXPECT NO DAMAGE

First Class Work Accordance with Owners' Wishes

"There are all kinds of rumors afloat with regard to the improvement of West Broadway, last night at a city council meeting, and it is to be stated that West Broadway will be improved according to the original petition. We are not going to cut ten feet from the width of this street, and we are not going to do anything that would result in this street being improved in anything but a first-class manner. The people of West Broadway may rest assured on this point. Another thing we are going to put this improvement through just as rapidly as possible."

An ordinance making Glendale avenue from Lexington to Pasadena road into a first-class residential district, was adopted.

An ordinance was adopted creating a commercial district from the San Fernando road from Griffith Park to the northern city limit. No action was taken on the petition to the street obstruction and the amendment to the foot set-back line ordinance.

Requests were made for H. Hanna and L. R. Bladon, cleaning assessments be made. It was stated that some $24,000 is still outstanding in connection with the cleaning assessment in Glendale, and that it is possible to collect this money. City should do so at once. Attorney was asked for a report on this matter.

The firm of Ducey and Stein was given an extension of 30 days on the improvement of Brand boulevard at San Fernando road.

An amendment to the city ordinance was adopted, to go into effect at once.

An ordinance making it unlawful to burn combustible material in the city of Glendale, was adopted. On the recommendation of City Manager Reeves, Clyde was appointed assistant city inspector at a salary of $1,200 per month, to take the place of Mr. Wells, who is now on his vacation in the east.

The board ordered the purchase of a gravitape machine at a cost of $445. Thirty-five dollars allowed for the old machine now in use. The present machine purchased second-hand last ago at a cost of $250. Purchase was made on suggestion of City Manager Reeves, who has investigated the matter thoroughly.

Willie stood up. "There's a big difference, miss," he said, with a very solemn expression on his face. "When father says he'll be down in a minute it takes him 60 seconds; but sister's minutes are about 600 seconds."

W. C. T. U. RE-ELECTS ALL STATE OFFICERS

al of the United States and who, in her maiden speech, wonderfully impressed Justice Brandeis by her fine argument before the supreme court, her clever logical mind and fine presentation.

She then discussed the reduction of the minimum wage for women from $16 to $15 by the industrial commission of California of which she is a member. It was done reluctantly, she said, after great pressure from manufacturers who were able to show that the cost of living had been reduced 12 to 16 percent, and that the California markets were being flooded by the products of cheap labor in other states.

"California," she said, "is the only state in the Union which has a real minimum wage law which is being actually enforced. Massachusetts has a minimum wage of $14, but no penalty for its violation is provided except newspaper publicity."

"The measure was strongly opposed in the beginning by organized labor and now that the reduction has been made they see a chance to make it unpopular. The unions are saying frankly they will put the commission out of business at the next legislature. They are not going to ask to have it rescinded, but will ask to have it incorporated in a department of industry with one man at the head and he will enforce the act. We must be on our guard because it is dangerous unless it is handled by a group. It is too much power to put in the hands of one person. The law was secured through the support of such organizations as the W. C. T. U., the federated women's clubs, the churches and in the face of the opposition of the labor unions. One hundred and fifty thousand women are working under the orders of our commission. But California cannot live to itself alone. We are but one of 48 states and products are being brought in from other states. The average wage paid in states where they have no minimum wage law for women is less than half the average in California. We must make a fight for a federal minimum wage for women, in industry."

At the conclusion of the address, the convention went on record, by a standing vote, in approval of the splendid work done by Mrs. Edson and the commission in its efforts to maintain a living wage for the women of California.

Four other fine addresses were made under the general heading, "The Campaign Hour," all calculated to arouse working enthusiasm for the campaign to carry the Wright law at the polls next November.

Dr. S. T. Montgomery, the first speaker, did not disguise his alarm over the situation. He declared the organized opposition could only be defeated by thorough organization of those who favor the law. The great danger is the indifferent voter who neglects to register or to vote. Said he: "It is a big job of education and we cannot do this by pulpit oratory. We must go to the individuals in the precincts where we live. If we carry those, the result will be assured."

Miss Marie Brehm, who was eloquently introduced by the president, spoke along similar lines, reviewing the history of the Wright law and saying "it would be a blessed thing if we could have a Randall in congress to keep what we have gained." a sentiment which was warmly applauded. She also said: "I do not believe in re-fighting battles won. This is not a question of wet or dry. We have prohibition and the law cannot be taken away from us. It is a question of upholding the constitution. We must reach the foreign population. We must make the appeal to them, not on the basis of wet and dry but on the basis of American loyalty to the constitution of the United States. We must ask, 'Are you true to the American flag and American principles?' We must teach Americans what America means; teach them not only to sing 'America,' but to apply it at the ballot box."

Some very interesting features were introduced while the balloting was in progress. For instance, Mrs. Noll made a fine report of the new Memorial Hall in connection with the Southern California Home, maintained by the W. C. T. U. at 215 East Avenue 57, for which she has been a most ardent worker. Some objection was made to the name, "Memorial Hall," and on motion of Mrs. Marie M. Toeman and in the face of strenuous protests from Mrs. Noll, the convention voted to ask the trustees to change the name to "Noll Hall." The honoree said she had no desire for fame in that connection and believed it would be easier to get subscriptions under the other title. Afterwards the proposition was changed to name a free room in the home for Mrs. Noll and the matter was referred to state officers and the home trustees. It was clear the convention had a great appreciation of the work she is doing.

Another special feature was a contest of five-minute speeches by four state lecturers, viz. Mrs. M. E. Jenkins, who talked on the 18th amendment and reviewed the history of the movement for prohibition begun by Horace Mann in 1830.

The speech of Mrs. Elizabeth Mills, one of the contestants, was a roast of Governor Stephens for failure to sign the bill providing for a Frances Willard Day which had been passed by the legislature. The talks made by Hattie D. King and Ella Whipple Marsh were appeals to work for the Wright law. The prize, a portrait of Ann Gordon, national president, was presented during the evening session to Mrs. Jenkins by Miss Marie Brehm, one of the judges.

An interesting incident was the presentation of the convention of a portrait of Mrs. Stella Irvine, a beloved past president, which had been requested by the state officers and which was the gift of Mr. Irvine. It was received with applause and Mrs. Irvine was called to the platform to be showered with warm expressions of warm regard by President Wheeler, her fellow officers and the convention. After making her acknowledgments Mrs. Irvine made a plea for the endowment of the soldier and sailor home, and the Frances Willard Home for Girls, established by the W. C. T. U. during the war, and moved the creation of a $25,000 endowment fund for our state institutions and that it be promoted by state field workers and the department of gifts and bequests, of which last named department Mrs. Irvine is superintendent. The motion was carried unanimously and then Mrs. Irvine announced she wished to be the first contributor to the fund with a check for $25. A shower of subscriptions for like amounts followed from Mrs. Yoeman, Mrs. Gleason, Dr. Hutchins, Mrs. Mulford, Mrs. Mays and others.

Miss Isabel Isgrig was the soloist and sang very beautifully, "The Holy City."

Why do you turn out for every road hog who comes along?" she asked, rather crossly. "The right of way is yours."

"Surely," said her husband calmly, "but my reason is suggested by an epitaph I saw the other day:

"Here lies the body of William W. Wright. He died maintaining his right of way. He was right, dead right, as he sped along. But he's just as dead as if he'd been wrong."

POULTRY ACCOUNT BOOK DESIGNED

An extremely convenient, practical and useful account book for poultrymen has been devised by R. N. Miller, farm management demonstrator for the State College Washington extension service.

The book is of heavy manila card, punched to hang on two nails in the poultry house or kitchen, or wherever is most convenient for the immediate recording of the number of eggs laid by the hens or pullets; the number of fowls that die or are sold, the hours of labor put in on the flock and product, the eggs, sacks, etc., sold, charges for feed, mash, litter, and like items.

It is arranged for easy record of the daily and monthly receipts and disbursements, with a brief annual summary at the end. Already many Washington farmers and poultrymen are using the account book—so many that the first supply is exhausted, and a new edition planned for next fall.

"I have lost three husbands," a reader had written, confidentially, to an editor, "and now have the offer of a fourth. Shall I accept him?"

The editor dipped his pen in the ink. This was the last straw. "If you've lost three husbands," he wrote, "I should say you were much too careless to be trusted with a fourth."

The oftener you look back the faster you don't go.

DISINFECTION OF SPUDS IS TOLD

An Amboy potato grower asked Dr. F. D. Heald, plant pathologist of the State College of Washington, how many potatoes 4 ounces of corrosive sublimate to 30 gallons of water would treat before getting too weak to be efficient. He replied as follows:

Thirty gallons of the solution can be used four times, dipping each time all the potatoes that will be immersed in the solution. For larger lots of seed, a solution can be used for a longer time by adding more of the corrosive sublimate.

Seed stock to be disinfected should be as free as possible from dirt, preferably washed clean. The potatoes should be dipped in water, drained, and allowed to stand in the moist sacks 12 to 24 hours.

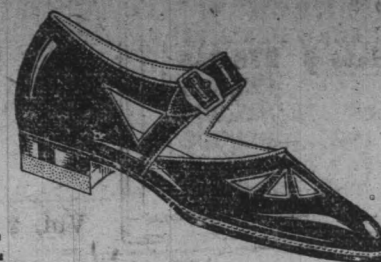

Using barrels or wooden vats, dip the whole tubers in corrosive sublimate, 4 ounces to 30 gallons of water, in open vats or crates, not in burlap sacks.

For small lots of seeds, one bushel or less, the first bushel should be treated one and one-half hours; the second, one and three-quarter hours; the third, two hours, and the fourth, two and one-quarter hours, and the solution then discarded.

For larger lots of seed, for each four bushels of clean stock treated by the formula, add one-half ounce corrosive sublimate and enough water to keep the amount of solution constant. Soak for one and one-half or two hours, and discard the solution after making eight treatments.

It is preferable to treat before sprouting, but at least two weeks before planting, and dry the seed immediately after treatment.

MERCHANTS' TEAM AND PASADENA TO MEET

Jack Kearns, of Marines and McIntosh to Join Locals

The Glendale Merchants' baseball team will take on the strong Pasadena M. W. A. team on the home grounds, Park avenue and San Fernando road, next Sunday afternoon by 2:30. Jack Kearns, formerly athletic instructor for the United States Marine Corps and now an officer of the Glendale police force, will start the game, with "Wall" Heidler, formerly Pasadena hurler, in reserve.

CONTROL IN GAS IS SUBMITTED

Another step was taken last night by the city council toward the furnishing of gas to the people in Verdugo Woodlands. A contract was presented by City Attorney Hartley Shaw, which, when entered into by the city and the Southern California Gas company, will start the pipes going northward.

Mayor Robinson and City Clerk Van Wie were instructed to execute this contract on the part of the city with the gas company, this to be done at once.

W. C. T. U CLEARS UP BUSINESS

The morning session of this, the last day of the convention, was devoted for the most part to the disposal of odds and ends of business.

For the first half hour, Vice President Mrs. Julia D. Phelps presides at the Morning Session.

The chairman of membership reported 14 new members secured in Glendale, which drew applause. The chairman of collections taken during the convention reported receipts approximating $138, the largest ever received at a state convention.

The election of branch secretaries, superintendents, etc., took place, the following being elected on nominations made by the officials of the state board:

- County presidents — Imperial, Mrs. Sylvia Feldman; Inyo, Mrs. Mena Wood; Kern, Mrs. Henry Anderson; Los Angeles, Mrs. Marie Yeoman; Orange, Mrs. Estella Harper; Riverside, Mrs. Harriet Waldman; San Bernardino, Mrs. Eisle Giles; San Diego, Mrs. Mary Bishop; San Luis Obispo, Mrs. Daisy Scott; Santa Barbara, Mrs. Adella Finch; Ventura, Mrs. Hattie King.
- Superintendents of departments — Americanization, Mrs. Laura Miller; anti-narcotics, Mrs. Lena Tetter; Bible in the public schools, Mrs. Jennie Thompson; child welfare, Mrs. Mattie Gregg; civics, Mrs. Elizabeth Elston; co-operation with women, Mrs. Mary M. Coman; evangelism, Mrs. Lucy Wilhoit; systematic giving, Mrs. Alice French; fairs and exhibits, Mrs. Mary E. Stewart; flower mission, Mrs. Mary V. Scarce; gifts and bequests, Mrs. Stella B. Irvine; health, Miss Emily Cox.
- Miss Lulu Sampson, treasurer of the board of temple trustees, submitted a report which showed total receipts in the general fund, $5204.65; balance after sundry disbursements, $115; total receipts of legacy fund, $7371.24, and no disbursements; total amount in treasury, $7486.67. This report was approved by the auditor.

A motion made by Mrs. Yeoman that the proposed $25,000 endowment of W. C. T. U. state institutions be named the "Stella B. Irvine Endowment Fund," carried unanimously.

The closing program will include an address by Rev. James Walton, entitled "Thinking and Cigarettes Go Not Mix"; an address, "Let's Go!" by Mrs. Vera Thomas; an address on "The School Girl Problem," by Mrs. Linna Carl; conundrums illustrated by moving pictures, by Mrs. Ellen Dayton Blair, and a consecration service led by Rev. Stella B. Irvine.

REX MYSTIFIES AT THE T. D. & L.

"Rex-Rex-Rex—that's who all Glendale is talking about," said Manager Allen of the T. D. & L. Rex, the Hindoo seer at the T. D. & L. theatre, surely has the crowds guessing. Last night he answered accurately questions that were put to him, and as a first demonstration, called people's full names, proving his so-called mental wizardry.

Truths in Epigram

All that is human must retrograde if it does not advance. — Gibbon (1737-1794).

True love is like ghosts, which everybody talks above and few have seen. — La Rochefoucauld (1613-1680).

By the work one knows the workman. — Fontaine (1621-1695).

BORAH DEFENDS RUSSIA

Perhaps the soviet government will appreciate the fact that in Senator Borah it has a friend and advocate. Borah says that acceptance of the terms laid down by the allied powers at Genoa would have resulted in the disappearance of all semblance of government in Russia.

Nothing could be more apparent than that had Russia been accorded by the allies the same estimate it placed on itself, the danger would have been to the governments of Europe. Each nation has a right to safeguard its own interests to a reasonable extent, not regarding these as comprehensive enough to give it the right to dictate to those outside its jurisdiction.

The demand of Russia for a loan was an arrogance. The fact was pointed out to the bolsheviks that their regime was a rejection of every condition that could make possible the granting of money. They deny all rights ordinarily conceded to capital.

Secretary Hughes uttered the common thought when he declared that reform in Russia would have to come from within. At least the country cannot command sympathy or aid until it has shown some sign of a desire to reform.

WONDERING ABOUT BILL

A woman writer bubbles perhaps unnecessarily over the fact that Bill Haywood is in Russia. She wonders what he will do with a concession he has obtained from the government.

Haywood's presence in Russia is a familiar enough fact. He is there primarily for the reason that had he remained in the United States he would have been wearing convict clothes, and really working.

Years ago society did itself and Haywood the great wrong of not hanging him for murder. Had the jury done its duty on that occasion, nobody now would be bubbling over the runaway I. W. W.

KEYNOTING BEGINS

Senator Watson of Indiana in his speech at Indianapolis declared that the administration did not need an apologist. He called upon the voters to support Beveridge, showing that the doors of the republican fold are wide open to the man destined to succeed Senator New.

The senator touched an exceedingly live topic in condemning the profligate war expenditures of the Wilson administration, the "saturnalia of extravagance." This is alive because at present under acute scrutiny quite apart from its relations to one party or the other.

Business is becoming normal. Prosperity is increasing. The administration will be given full credit for its share in bringing about these betterments.

party to feel confidence in it, to give it merited praise. In this way the majority in congress may be spurred to action, anxious to deserve fully the reputation attributed to it.

PROFITABLE SUMMER MONTHS

The military training camp to be opened at the Presidio, San Francisco, offers to the youth of California an opportunity for a summer season instructive, novel and highly useful. The students will be looked after with the greatest care.

There will be three classes of students, the red, white and blue. The red will be made up of the youngest group. Educational requirement vary, but according to age, must be on a sound basis.

The plan of the government is the formation not specifically of an army of defense, but to impart such training to youth that should occasion arise, an army could be formed from civil life, and its members be qualified for military duty with less training than has to be given to recruits who come into the service while utterly unaware of the duties that await them.

The United States federal court of appeals has declared the constitutionality of the alien land law. The decision, which is unanimous, says that at no point is there conflict, and upholds the law in its entirety.

It happens that just now several cases of alleged bigamy are being considered, and great ado made over them. A San Francisco judge remarks that such cases are frequent, but that unless the persons involved are prominent, there is not likely to be any prosecution.

The Modernization of China

By DR. FRANK CRANE

Those who imagine that China is everlastingly fixed in her old forms are mistaken. This strange country, most antique of all, has in it the capacity of becoming the most modern.

First of all, China does not, as in the case of Japan, have to get rid of that heavy heritage of feudalism which has so impeded the progress of Europe.

She is not loaded down with autocratic ideas such as dominate the institutions of the west, both ecclesiastical and economic.

China, the oldest nation, and America, the youngest nation, are the only two states that have always been democratic.

In China the ruler has always come to his position, not from birth, nor favor, nor election, but solely by merit.

China is free from the conservative snobism of Europe as it is free from the worship of material wealth which prevails in America.

China does not have to wrestle with the problems of religious hate and those fanaticisms and outbreaks of intolerance which have stained the page of European history from the beginning until now.

China has as much democracy as the United States, and its democracy is marked by culture and courtesy, and not by grossness.

The art of China long ago reached that perfect state of expression toward which the art of Europe still struggles.

As for Chinese letters, one can find there a beauty, a simplicity and an idealism which Mr. Lowes Dickinson compares particularly with the works of Wordsworth.

The Chinese with their strange plasticity could easily adopt these things without the slightest change of mind, and they will probably do so as soon as they get ready.

The awakening of China may come overnight. (Copyright, 1922, by Dr. Frank Crane)

LISTENING POST

In the morning I will arise and say: I am glad to be alive. To breathe the morning air. To have reasonable health. To deserve friendship. To go forth to work and opportunity.

In the morning I will be grateful for a simple repast. For enough for my simple needs and the needs of those about me. For the love of my friends and family. For the respect of my fellows as I pass them on my way.

In the morning I will not fail to hear the song of a bird if there be one singing. I will stop a moment to observe the beauty of a flower. To breathe its fragrance. To be glad for song and beauty. And to get some of them into the soul of me.

I shall not fail to take note of the heavens if they be clear and blue. To lift my eyes to them often. To let the spirit of living and loving get into my heart. To be grateful, reverent, glad and kind. And to reflect that spirit.

I shall not during the day permit any injustice to be unrebuked. Any need to go unsuccored. Any grief to go uncomforted.

Any task to go undone. Any friend to go without good cheer and the offer of my best spirit.

All these things I will do as far as is in my power to do. I will give an equivalent of service for what wage I may receive. I will be loyal to my employer. To my fellow worker. To my best self.

I shall not fail to take rest when I can and should. I shall be glad for enough of simple fare. I shall get envy out of my soul. I shall not make hasty judgments. I shall not speak evilly, hastily, thoughtlessly, mercilessly.

I shall aid with friendliness. Serve with zeal. Check hatred and guile. Strive to be clean. Give what I may in generosity. Accept what I receive in gratitude and humility.

So I shall strive to live through the day. Living gladly. Striving earnestly. Serving generously. Laughing often. Loving much.

JAMES W. FOLEY.

SONGS OF THE POETS

In the Fall O' Year—By Thomas S. Jones, Jr. (1882—)

I went back an old-time, lone In the fall o' year, There was wind and bitter rain And the leaves were sere. Once the birds were lilting high In a far-off May—

I remember, you and I Were as glad as they. But the branches now are bare And the lad you knew, Long ago was buried there— Long ago, with you!

OBSERVED AT A GLANCE

Mr. Hearst says he is not in the New York gubernatorial race. The public had feared otherwise.

The public generally still continues to believe that Bill Hart is a "bad man" only on the screen.

Lady Astor said it made her sad to leave America. Then why not remain and be happy?

Everybody seems to favor reduction in freight rates with the exception of the gentlemen who carry the freight.

Recent decisions indicate that the law providing an inheritance tax is about as easy to sidestep as any other.

The country will be glad to know that as counsel for Russia Senator Borah is making no hit with the administration.

Just at present California's alien land law is having its turn at being constitutional.

Ireland seems to be getting aroused to the point of indignation that recognizes murder as a crime.

Annapolis graduates are to have their commissions, the congressional effort to bunko them having collapsed.

There is discussion as to an anti-lynching measure to be passed by congress. As it is, there is no law sustaining mob rule.

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

DRINK AS A CRIME PRODUCER

Several weeks ago, a United States senator of a reflective turn of mind asked himself whether it would not be practicable to find out how the victims of the liquor traffic—men who had fallen in the great battle of life, and who had yielded to crime and are now suffering the consequences of their criminal acts—feel on the question of "Wet" or "Dry."

He submitted the problem to the Prisoners' Relief society of Washington, and found that organization ready to give hearty co-operation. Arrangements were quickly made, and with the consent of the prison authorities a vote was taken on "Wet" or "Dry" among the inmates of 322 American prisons. In all 134,322 ballots were cast, of which 909 were "Wet" and 133,413 "Dry." It was the only instance on record of a vote being taken within prison walls and among the convict inmates. It was a revelation of the prisoners' attitude, in their sober and reflective moments, towards the vile traffic that had contributed more largely to their downfall than all other causes combined.

BETWEEN OURSELVES

Let's take a ride together! We'll jump into the machine, everybody, chauffeur included, will shut his eyes, and start on at high speed.

No matter where the machine goes, if we only have a joy ride now. We may smash into another party, or crash down a steep bank, or run into a bridge or stone wall later on, but who cares? We'll have fun while we're going, anyway.

How many of you accept the invitation? Don't all say "Yes," for the machine won't hold you! "Rank foolishness?" Of course. Who could think otherwise? Yet how many of us did just this, figuratively, in the days of high wages and big business? We acted just as if we thought good times were always going to last. Wise men told us that they could not. Our own consciousness told us, too, did we listen?

"Save some for the lean years, whispered Thrift at our elbow. But we motored her carelessly away. If we claim we didn't know, we confess ourselves the most ignorant and thoughtless of people. For lean years always follow war. The terrible loss of money and property has to be made up somehow, and taxes increase, buying power goes, business falls, people suffer.

But now, finding ourselves just where we should have known we would be, we try to shift the blame to employer, to the economic situation, to everybody, and everything but just ourselves—on whose shoulders it belongs.

We've had our joy-ride and the machine is smashed. Now we must go to work and pay the damages. Why not at least be brave and put the blame where it belongs and with our work combine cheerful acceptance of the situation? We shall accomplish much more if we do.

Prohibition's Hard Road

Those who are most agitated and most exclamatory about the "failure" of prohibition have no time to see the further fact that in the time since it has been declared in operation prohibition has had a most unfavorable period of testing.

Unusual crime conditions that followed the war and a lax enforcement of law, matched only by a general disregard for law, have had no proper relation with prohibition; yet they have been laid at the door of prohibition. At times there has been grossly inadequate machinery for enforcement of the prohibition law; and this has been taken as the basis for frequent declarations that the law cannot be enforced.

To those willing to distinguish the truth from gesture and bald assertion, the outlook for prohibition is bright. The common sense of the mass of the people is not likely to permit of any confusion on the issue. It will take time to make prohibition a complete success; time for a change in habits; time for law enforcement; time for a wider respect for law and an increased willingness to admit the benefits that the absence of liquor involves.

London is the financial center of the rubber industry; Singapore is its shipping center, and Akron, Ohio, its manufacturing center.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

A rich young man back east shot and killed an individual who he declares had sought to blackmail him. If he can prove that this was the reason for the act, no jury would hold him culpable.

There is no good use to which a blackmailer may be put. There never yet has seemed to be a mild way of restraining him. To kill the blackmailer might be a disagreeable duty, but it is not to be rated as a crime. There are few milder types of criminal. There is none more desperate and dangerous.

Once there was a one-act play in which the heroine was the victim of a blackmailer. She was not at fault, but it lay in the power of the villain to ruin her reputation through a cunning plot.

The woman turned for advice to an old friend just back from the west. The friend met the blackmailer and tried to reason with him, then to intimidate him. All to no purpose. So the friend shot the blackmailer, arranged the furniture so as to indicate suicide, and everybody lived happy ever after.

Many a respected and honorable man is conscious of hidden chapters of life that, given publicity, would destroy him, or is conscious that by trick and device he might be made to appear guilty when wholly innocent. What is he to do about it?

A magazine article says that the bite of the rattlesnake seldom is fatal. Nevertheless the effort to prove the rattler companionable is bound to fail. There are remedies that applied quickly avert fatal results, but the rattler strikes with the instinctive impulse to kill.

Experiments conducted many years ago led to the conclusion that a rattlesnake bite was fatal if what was known as a "good" bite. By that is meant a bite in which the venom is released just as the fang enters the tissue. Many bites, however, are not of this character. At times the venom is released before the puncture is made, and does not enter the wound. The fang may have been made clean by passing through cloth or leather, and so robbed of its potency.

These experiments found that in the absence of quick and heroic treatment the "good" bite carried death with it.

Indiana furnishes forth a criminal incident probably without parallel. It is in the case of a daughter whose father is under death sentence for the murder of her mother. An effort is being made to have the sentence commuted to life imprisonment. The daughter writes to protest. She wants the original sentence to be carried out.

The girl is seventeen. She writes that her father was a brute, that for years he had been cruel to the family, particularly to the mother, kicking and beating her. When she was forced to leave home to escape him, he lured her back and murdered her, the daughter being an eye witness of the crime. She says that he deserves electrocution.

Doubtless the girl is right, but it cannot be said that she is the ordinary young person.

An Associated Press writer, Kirke L. Simpson, has been awarded the Pulitzer prize for the best example of a reporter's work during the year. This was a distinguished honor. The theme of Simpson was the return to this country of the unknown dead American soldier, and the burial at Arlington. There scarcely could have been a finer or more inspiring theme.

Simpson was writing stories that went straight to the heart. He thus was writing literature. Some of the best writing that is done is done by reporters and correspondents. High brows, quite incapable of work of such excellence, are wont to term it journalism, and think thereby to be aspersing it.

A lumber ship came into harbor with a 36 degree list, reporting that it had been rammed by a submarine. The commander of the submarine declares that his vessel never hit a thing.

If the submarine has developed into a craft so potent that it rams a cargo of lumber without feeling a jar, it has gained since the time it used to strike a scow and crumple in the manner of a wet pasteboard box.

Four men have been arrested in connection with the death of a pugilist from a blow in the ring. Such a fatality always leads to arrests, and the arrests lead to nothing.

No fighter goes into the ring unless he wants to go. He knows he is taking chances. So long as boxing is legitimate, the casualty that ensues is no more criminal than a casualty on the diamond.

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

The story is sort of funny. At least, it is funny to me, because I know The Kid and Mr. Bigman. I'm certain it has at least a slight flavor of humor in it. There is something more than humor, however, for two years ago The Kid was in luck when he had his board bill and laundry paid. I spent last week-end at his little place in the country. Not much of a place, perhaps—just a cottage on the water, with a green hill behind it, and white hens and an Airdale and a proud mother and happiness. But more than The Kid had two years ago.

"How did you do it?" I asked The Kid. He is slender, blond, bright-eyed, and likable. Not a heavyweight, perhaps. I never hear him talk heavy subjects, anyhow. Very boyish looking. Not more than three years away from college. Wears snappy clothes, you know. He had a job—just a job—in a big city concern. He wasn't getting anywhere with the job. He didn't look heavy enough. Big city concerns are apt to judge brain power by waist lines until they learn better. There was an account in another city the concern wanted. Its best salesmen had tried in vain.

"Gimme a chance," asked The Kid. "No—NO!" said the big city concern, impatiently. So all the heavy salesmen went out once more. By and by it got so that they could not even get in the office where the wanted account was sheltered. They hardly got as far as the most out-lying office boy. So the big city concern gave The Kid his chance. No harm could be done, you see. He called up the office in which the wanted account was sheltered and asked for the secretary of the boss.

"Tell Mr. Bigman to have a car at the station for Mr. Kid," said the young man over the phone. "I will arrive on the 11:10."

Then he rang off. Mr. Bigman did not know who Mr. Kid might be, but he did not dare take a chance. Mr. Kid, you see, might be some one important. So Mr. Bigman's own car and secretary were sent to the station and escorted this slender, blond, dushily dressed boy into the presence of Mr. Bigman. And The Kid sold him. Ever since then The Kid has been given his own way. Hence the little place in the country and a diamond ring on the finger of Brighteyes.

Any game can be beaten. But it takes the right sort of a man.

DO YOU KNOW THAT?

London is the financial center of the rubber industry; Singapore is its shipping center, and Akron, Ohio, its manufacturing center.

When normal production is restored, Italy, which now holds second place, will be the leading quicksilver producing country in the world as it obtained during the war the great Idria mine, formerly owned by Austria.

"Who did you have Mrs. Brown?" asked Mrs. Jones.

"Oh, I had a very nice minister," replied Mrs. Brown. "Who did you have?"

"Well, I had two locust preachers."

"Oh, you mean two local preachers, Mrs. Brown!"

"No, I had two locust preachers," was the reply.

"But locusts are those things which come in swarms and eat up everything, and—"

"That's right," said her friend. "I had two of them!"

JAMES K. HILL, MAN OF '44, PASSES AWAY

Came to California Overland and Helped Make Western Empire

Friday morning, May 26, at the Jewell City undertaking parlors, Glendale, Calif., occurred the funeral services of James K. Hill. From the parlors the body was removed to Forest Lawn cemetery and with the beautiful and impressive Masonic services laid away to await the resurrection. The death of James K. Hill was a distinct shock to his hosts of friends, especially those who knew him long and well, in Iowa his former state of residence. He was one of the strong and rugged characters that state has developed. With a naturally strong constitution, a determination to succeed and with a will which could not admit defeat, he forged his way to the front, until with plenty, and surrounded with many enduring friendships, the silver cord was broken and mortal put on immortality. His heart always beat true and warm. No one could be in distress of any kind and this fact known to him, unless response was immediate. His nature was sympathetic. His word was as good as a government bond. No one knew James K. Hill, who did not at once recognize his genuineness. He loved his home and no one appreciated friendships more than he. The greatest legacy he leaves to his wife and children is a long, clean, honest, faithful, christian life.

James K. Hill was born at Albany, New York, November 14, 1844. Ten years later with parents he came to Iowa locating in Bremer county. When nineteen years of age, the lure of the great, partially explored west, seized him, and he attached himself to a company coming overland to California. It took nerve and lots of it, to undertake a trip of this kind, but Mr. Hill possessed just that quality. Sickness could not defeat his plans, and after about five months of time, with plenty of thrills along the way, the company arrived at Marysville, Calif. He lived in that vicinity for nearly three years, working hard and saving his earnings, and with all that he had saved tucked away in a belt, he felt a calling for home and he made the start. This time he decided he would make as much of the trip by water as he could and so he boarded a boat on the Pacific, went to the isthmus of Panama, across to the gulf, up the Atlantic and arrived in New York. From there he made his way to Iowa and with the generous spirit of youth, established his father and mother on a farm.

On December 30, 1869 he was united in marriage with Miss Ella Davis and for a number of years, the residence was continued in Bremer county. By industry Mr. and Mrs. Hill had been able to accumulate enough to make them comfortable and they decided upon making their home in Mason City, Iowa, engaging in the lumber business. His residence in Mason City was continued until 1893 when he entered into partnership with L. A. Page and removed to Clear Lake, ten miles west operating a lumber yard under the firm name of Page & Hill. In 1914 the old lure which came to him when a boy of nineteen, returned, in fact, it had never entirely forsaken him, and he located in Glendale, Calif. He loved his adopted state. He loved her people, and he was interested in her business as well as her political life.

He was rugged looking and seeing him but a short time ago no one would have expected that the angel of death was hovering so near. Two weeks before his death he was out mowing his lawn. He hardly completed the job, feeling that his heart was not acting properly. That night he was in considerable pain and in the morning a physician was called. From the very first little hopes for his recovery were entertained. His children were notified and all were at home when the sad summons came. He knew it had been intermittently, up to the hour of separation.

James K. Hill was a member of the Baptist church of Mason City, Iowa. He was also a member of the Verity Lodge No. 250 A. F. & A. M. of Clear Lake, Iowa. He was a thirty-second degree member of Los Angeles consistory No. 2 and a member of Al Malikah Temple of Los Angeles.

Surviving him are his wife, four children, seven grand children and two sisters. The children are Mrs. C. F. Crane, Clear Lake, Iowa; Mrs. R. M. Brown, Glendale, Calif.; Leon L. Hill, Minneapolis, Minn. and Frank E. Hill, Hollywood, Calif. The sisters are Mrs. Anna Beal, Waterloo, Iowa and Mrs. Jane Hodges, Nebraska City, Neb.

A get-rich-quick lump of physical energy in the form of an out-of-work commercial traveler applied to the manager of a firm, explaining that, once on the job, he could guarantee such a flock of orders that the staff would be unable to cope with them.

The manager knew his business and said: "Well, young man, I'd like to see if you could do something. I can't. Industry is in a topsy-turvy muddle and you can't get order out of chaos."

The applicant squared his shoulders and declared, as he looked up at a telephone directory. "Let me do it. I haven't the pleasure of knowing Mr. Kayoss, but I'll get an order out of him some how."

He didn't get the job, though.

The Old-Timer—"I dunno. It's punk pie, all right."

Every Frock for the Little Girl Must Have Matching Bloomers

This sturdy, practical type. The one sketched combines plain color chambray with checked gingham, the latter being used merely to ruffle and trim the frock. Yellow, blue, pink, lavender, and green are all pretty and popular colors, and the checked gingham should carry a touch of color blending with the frock proper.

The feature of this little garment, aside from its fabric combination, is the Dutch windmill scene worked in simpler stitch embroidery and the little Dutch girl, cut from the gingham and appliqued on the pocket, which completes the picture. The dress of course buttons comfortably in the back. Practically no small girl's frock is complete these days without its matching bloomers. This applies to dainty party frocks of lace, georgette, chiffon, etc., as well as to the sturdy every-day affairs.

A practical little outfit, combining Scotch plaid gingham and plain color chambray or white voile or handkerchief linen, shows a pleated skirt of the plaid fabric with plaid bloomers, and a plain color or white blouse banded in the plaid. A smart little blue and white dotted swiss dress has wide flared cuffs, a cape collar, and sash belt of white organdy, the frock having bloomers of the swiss. A pale blue chambray frock cut on straight smock lines is trimmed with embroidery in peasant colorings and has self fabric bloomers. For a very little girl a dress of yellow chambray, made with full skirt and baby waist, is trimmed with bands of checked gingham around collar, cuffs, and scalloped skirt, the self fabric bloomers having checked bands or cuffs.

The Glendale Music club will hold a banquet on the evening of Friday, June 2, at 6 o'clock sharp in the banquet hall of the First Methodist church.

The speakers of the evening will speak generally on the topic of "Women and Music." L. E. Beheyner will talk on "The Women Artists I Have Known." One of California's most famous composers, Gertrude Ross, will speak on "Women Composers." Florence Goldwater will talk on "The Woman Manager." Olga Steeb will be present and render several piano numbers.

It is expected that they will have greetings from the editors of both local papers, from the president of the chamber of commerce and from the mayor, representing the city trustees. This will be one of the most brilliant affairs in the history of the club and tickets must be purchased not later than Tuesday. They may be obtained from Mrs. Colin Cable, 505 South Columbus avenue, phone Glendale 442-W. Tickets are $1.00 each.

During the banquet, Mr. and Mrs. J. Spencer Kelley of Los Angeles will alternate the speeches with songs.

The program following the banquet will be given in the auditorium of the church.

MISS INGRAHAM TO APPEAR AT CHAUTAUQUA

Artist of This Evening Is Rare Genius, It

Few American artists have received more enthusiastic recommendation from metropolitan musical critics than that which has followed the recital and operatic appearances of Frances Ingram, noted contralto of Metropolitan Opera and Chicago Opera fame, who will appear at Chautauqua this evening. Miss Ingram is a stellar music feature at the Chautauqua, when she will be heard in recital, assisted by the Stelekson Trio.

"The greatest contralto of generation," said the Chicago Evening Journal. "Ingram is heroine of opera stars," said Tribune. "The best contralto voice I have ever heard," said late Daniel Frohman, and peculiarly the same statement made of her artistry by the Cleofonte Campanini, former aging director of the Chicago Opera association. These are all of the comment from discriminating critics of standing in musical world.

The man who always tried to be in a cheerful word every time he meets you eventually gets on his nerves.

DON STYLE IS HORRIFIED

DON, May 26.—London is a series of shocks. The return of the side and the threatened coffee hat, John Derbyshire, appeared in the Bow court dressed in a silk top and flannel trousers and an army of small boys led him to the court, cheering, where he was not in the least awed by the sight of the queen of the May, but put him in the asylum. A man has been a rabbit for many years it is difficult to...

"Hair's getting a little bit thin on top, sir," said the barber. "Yes," was the customer's reply. "That's the result of too much Arno Domini, you know?" "No doubt," remarked the barber after a pause. "Never did think much of those new-fangled hair restorers. Try a bottle of our own make, sir." He saw her sitting in a dark corner, and knew that his chance had come. Softly he stole up behind her, and before she was aware of it, he kissed her passionately. "How dare you?" she cried. "Pardon me," he replied calmly. "I thought you were my sister." "You fool!" she snapped. "I am!"

WHOLESALE STREET IMPROVEMENTS ARE ORDERED

City Council Cleans Up Projects With General Movement

Not only does Glendale lead the world in building permits and the number of new homes and business blocks erected, but it takes the blue ribbon in the way of street improvement. At the meeting of the city council last night, there was more street work ordered in and brought up for first reading than in the average city the size of Glendale in six months. The work will be completed at the earliest possible moment. While the amount of street work ordered in and brought up last night is a little larger than usual, it is a fact that no meeting passes without considerable work along this line being done.

The following street work activity was taken last night: The improvement of Adams street from Harvard to Elk was ordered. Improving of Brand boulevard from Colorado to Windsor road was ordered. A minority protest against the improvement of Chestnut street between Adams and Sycamore Canyon road, under the Vrooman act, was overruled and the next step taken.

Lena B. Palmer protested against the improvement of Granada street from Lomita to Maple, under the Vrooman act, and was overruled. The resurfacing of Louise street from Broadway to Windsor was ordered. The next step in the improving of Western avenue from Fourth to Glenwood with sidewalk, was taken.

The opening and widening of Maryland avenue north of Doran street under the act of 1902, was ordered. Bids for the improvement of Kenilworth avenue from Broadway to California, under the Vrooman act, were referred to the city engineer. A petition asked that Kenneth road be opened and widened through to Eighth street, and that the name of Eighth street from Sonora avenue to the northwest city limits, be changed to Kenneth road. The city attorney was instructed to draft the necessary proceedings.

A petition asked for the improvement of Eighth street from Kenneth road to Grand View avenue. The city engineer and city attorney were instructed to draft the necessary proceedings. An ordinance adopted declared the intention of the council to open and lay out Adams street from Lexington to Monterey road. The work on Dryden street and Pitman avenue, west of Pacific, under the Vrooman act, was ordered.

The work on Maple, Fischer, Porter streets and Windsor place, under the Vrooman act, was ordered. Improvement of Oak street from Central to Kenilworth, was ordered. According to a resolution adopted by the council last night, a new water main will be laid in Broadway from Glendale avenue to Brand boulevard. A resolution of intention was adopted.

GLENDALE EXPERT TO TEACH NEW YORK

Mrs. Marjorie Horell Smith, niece of Mrs. Samuel Dick of 309 North Louise Street, has recently been selected by the Board of Education to present a new work to be taken up in the schools, called "Individual Work." The N. E. A. is sending her to Boston to present this work, all expenses paid. She leaves about the 27th of June.

and while on this trip will visit several relatives.

It is useless to be good unless you are good for something. No woman can hide all her imperfections from her dressmaker. Love is sweet because a principal ingredient thereof is taffy. Advertise for the new workers you require—and don't stop advertising until you find them! Any other method is expensive and hampering.

GLENDALE WOMEN REPRESENTED AT FEDERATION

Business Women's Club Sends Delegates to Big Convention Banquet

Mrs. Margaret Biggs, president of the Glendale Business and Professional Women's club, Mrs. Geo. U. Moyses, Dr. Caroline P. Jackman and Miss Lillian Meddick, represented the organization Thursday evening at a banquet given by the federation of business women's clubs, attended by about 400 members.

Miss Galpin reported the work done by the various clubs in the federation, beginning with the "Adelphian." An especially interesting report was that of the Women's Athletic club, which will soon have a $100,000 building fund for the improvement of the land it owns. Glendale's report was given by Mrs. Biggs and Mrs. Moyses, the latter giving the statistics of the occupational department, which drew applause, as Glendale and Pasadena are the only clubs which have such departments. The report showed 110 applications for positions, 33 placements, and 35 positions offered which were not accepted, a fine showing, considering its brief existence, which inspired applause.

Miss Hausam told of the work of the vocational alliance, and called for its support by the clubs, stating that Glendale memberships had been secured from the Business Women's club, from the high school commercial department, and three individuals. All in all, the Glendale report was one of the best submitted.

ODD FELLOWS PLAN BIG MEET TONIGHT

The Odd Fellows held an important business session Thursday night in their new hall, corner West Broadway and Orange street. They made plans for the big banquet to be given tonight, when about 50 candidates will have the degree conferred upon them. An attendance of 500 is expected. There will be after-dinner speeches.

HOUSEHOLD BOOK KEEPS ACCOUNTS

Bookkeeping is a tedious business, especially for those untrained and unaccustomed to it. For these, to make the keeping of household accounts as simple as possible, with practically no writing except the setting down of figures in the right spaces, R. N. Miller, farm management demonstrator for the extension service of the State College of Washington, has made an account book to hang on the kitchen wall. It has been approved by Miss Maud Wilson, state leader of home demonstration agents; Miss Mary Sutherland, her assistant, and Miss Minerva Lawrence, home management specialist, and is now enthusiastically being used in many Washington homes, "keeping tabs" on just where the money goes, and what for, and when.

An Irish woman appeared in police court as the result of a quarrel with her husband. The magistrate shook his head sadly as he looked at her. "Dear, dear," he said, "this is dreadful. Here are you, Mrs. Flannigan, the mother of a family, with your eye blacked, your lip torn, your cheek bruised and your nose broken. Dreadful, dreadful!" "Ah, sure, your honor," answered the woman, somewhat sadly. Then she added, "But wait till ye see Flannigan!"

HOME NURSING and HEALTH HINTS

By M. JESSIE LEITCH

RAISING THE BED

"Tired, mother?" Nina, coming in from school, opened the door and surprised her mother with both hands pressed to her back, huddled in a chair by the fire. "Just my back, dear. It's been rather a hard day. Grandmother needed a good deal of attention, and I seem to feel it in my back. Bending over the bed, I suppose." "How is grandmother? Why can't we get a nurse?" asked Nina in the same breath. "She doesn't feel very well today. There isn't a nurse to be had. Dr. Baxter telephoned twice to the city today. They are all busy. There goes grandmother's bell now." And Nina's mother half arose. But the girl pressed her back into her chair, saying cheerily: "Dinah's ill-chosen holidays. 'I'll go. You stay right there by the fire, and rest your back. I suppose you've been running up and down stairs all day. I wish Dinah hadn't chosen the first of the month for her holidays.'" Dinah was the colored cook, who had a way of demanding holidays (and getting them) at inopportune times.

Nina, who was fifteen, and had had more experience than most young girls in a sick room, because her grandmother had been ill for a long time, went softly upstairs. Her grandmother's feet were cold. She wanted the window raised and she wanted her glasses and the evening paper—if it had come—and it was time to take her temperature, and she didn't think she had one.

Nina took the temperature, sponged the elderly invalid's hands and face with warm water, brushed her hair, brought her tooth brush and her glasses, and freshened up her pillows.

Nina Solves a Big Problem She wrapped the little old lady's shoulders in a thick white shawl, and threw the window open wide. The sunset was red on the snow and the old elm trees waved gaunt branches in the garden.

"I just like to fill my lungs up with that frosty air," sighed the old lady, inhaling the freshness eagerly.

"Good for you," said Nina, putting a freshly filled hot water bottle between the blankets near her grandmother's feet and going downstairs to talk to her mother.

"Mother, I think it's because grandmother's bed is so low that your back bothers you. Mine is really broken from just bending over it this little while. I don't see why we couldn't have four big blocks fitted under the feet of the bed. Father could cut them, and bore holes in the middle of the top to fit the castors in. Or we could take the castors off. That could be better. Then there would be no danger of tying the bed." Nina spoke thoughtfully.

Home Nurses' Backs Eased Just then her father came in. She explained to him what she wanted. He listened gravely, thought it a good idea, and in the course of an hour returned from the woodshed with four broad pine blocks, ten inches high.

Fitting the iron feet of the bed into the holes bored in the top of the blocks was easy. Grandmother's bed was raised fully seven inches.

And there was no more "back-breaking" for the home nurses. Because it was not necessary to bend over the bed any more.

A battalion of British soldiers in India had to make a forced march of thirty miles to the scene of a reported rising of the natives.

When they got there they found it was a false alarm and the commanding officer told them they must march home again.

Hearing the groans of the weary men, he cried: "If there is any man who does not want to march back, let him step three paces forward."

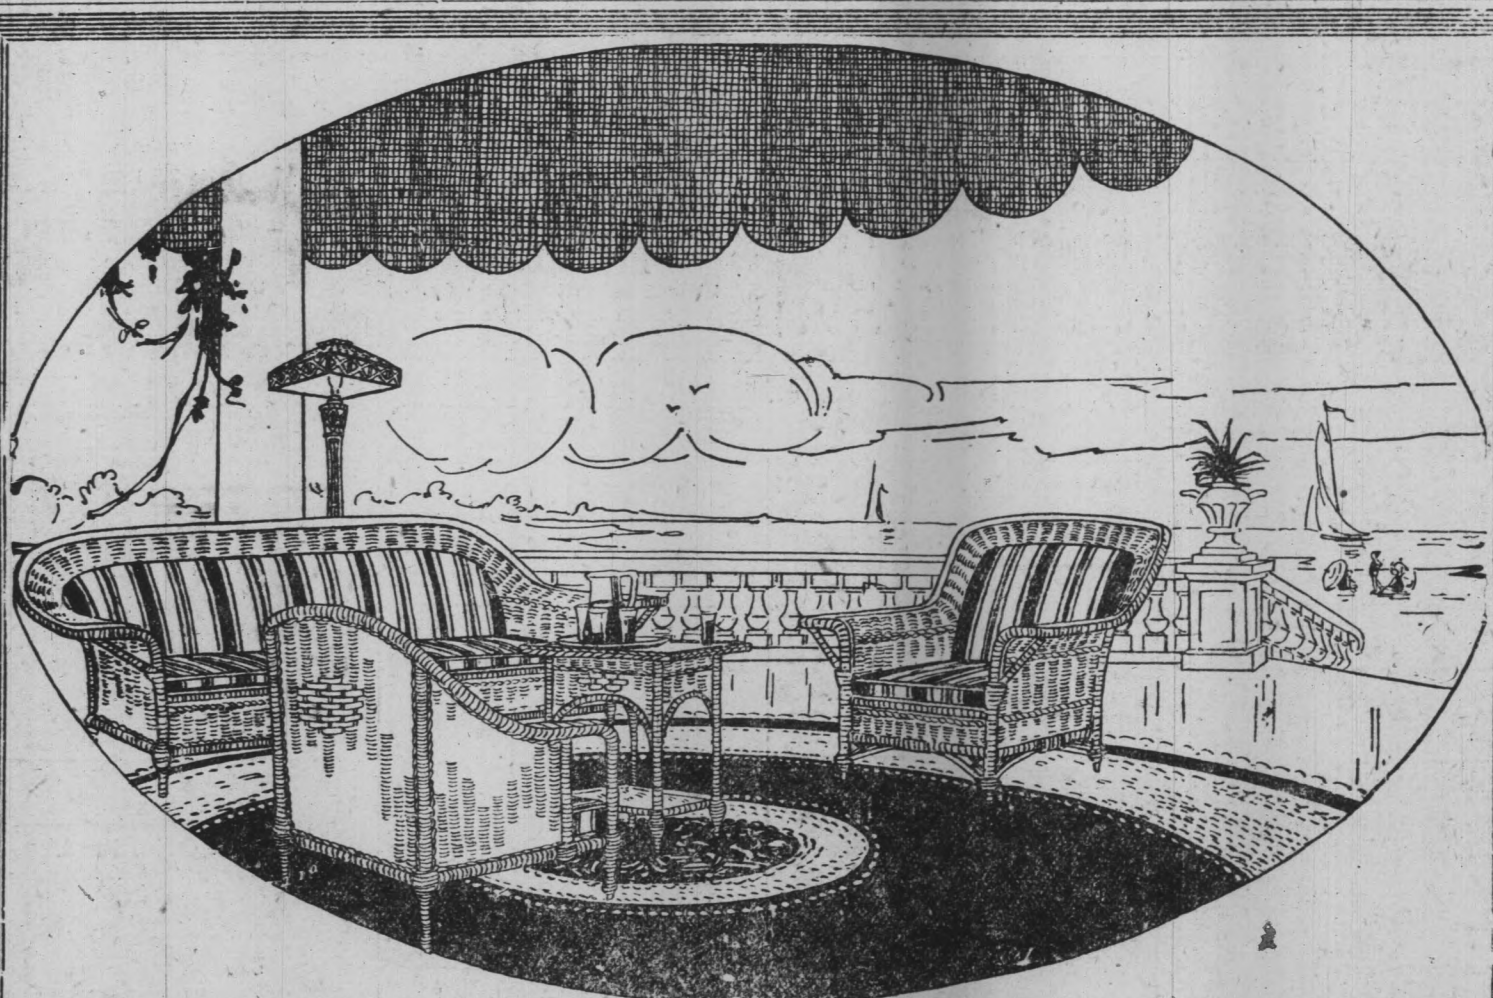

The whole battalion with the exception of one man stepped forward.

"My good man," said the C. O., "you are a credit to the army. You are the only man willing to march back thirty miles."

The solitary hero stared blankly at the C. O. "March back thirty miles?" he stuttered. "Why, I'm too tired even to step forward three paces!"

We are always either flattered by or suspicious of the man who agrees with us.

"Will You Excuse It, Please— There Is No One on the Line Now"

Mistakes are bound to happen. We all make them. When your telephone bell rings and the operator says, "Will you excuse it please, there is no one on the line now," she is not responsible for your annoyance and inconvenience.

The occasion for the use of the phrase most frequently arises when the called party is slow to answer—the calling subscriber does not wait and hangs up his telephone.

Many times daily telephone users call wrong numbers—use incorrect prefixes, such as "Main" for "Market"—transpose figures, such as 5342 for 5432. Suddenly realizing their mistakes, they hang up their telephone.

Without fault or negligence on her part the telephone operator is left to explain, and the sentence first quoted is that adopted as most briefly and concisely covering the situation.

Two darkey boys in a southern town met on the street, each wearing a new suit. One asked, "Nigger, how much do they set you back for dem clo's?"

"Look at me," said the first, "I set on a quit w'at's mos' peractly like youn, and I don't pay but ten dollahs fuh mine. Somebody shore him-flammed you."

The possessor of the forty-dollar suit took hold of one of the coat sleeves of the ten-dollar suit and pulled on it. It stretched. Then straightening up, he said:

BOXING GAME IS IMPERILED IN OHIO

Strange Things Happen in the Ring of Eastern State

COLUMBUS, Ohio, May 26.—Boxing fans in Ohio are beginning to wonder if they are getting value received when they hand out their hard-earned coin to see two boys mingle.

Some funny things have been pulled off in Ohio rings in the last year. The first intimation that anything was wrong with the glove game came when Bryan Downey fought Johnny Wilson in Cleveland last July. Wilson won the fight on a foul after he had been three times counted out by a referee imported by himself from Boston. The official timekeeper credited Downey with a knockout before the referee claimed the Columbus Irishman had hit Wilson while the latter was falling.

After the fight, Ohio boxing commission barred Wilson and Marty Killea, his manager, from Ohio rings for a period of some months. Their action was followed by similar orders from commissions in other states.

Then, in September, Danny Frush boxed Johnny Kilbane in Cleveland. Ringsters claimed Kilbane fouled Frush with his knee before knocking him out in the fifth round. And before the fight, Kilbane had tried to pull a "Johnny Wilson" by insisting on his own referee, and entered the ring after a near riot with boxing commissioners.

Now, boxing fans are commencing to question the long list of knockouts piled up by Tut Jackson, Washington C. H. negro heavyweight sensation. Their doubts were aroused when Jack Geyer, Columbus, was knocked out by Jackson, recently. Before the fight, Geyer announced to the fans that he would not receive his guarantee unless he "laid down." He also claimed a "handpicked" referee was officiating.

When Geyer was knocked down, boxing commissioners from other cities, sitting in at the ringside, got out their stop watches and timed the count. When the referee had completed his count, other regulation watches had registered six seconds.

FRISK'S PAWS WALK WAIST DEEP INTO TROUBLE

By JOHN BARTON
(Copyright, 1921, by Associated Newspapers)

Maybe you think Frisk was just a foolish squirrel? Maybe you know that the wildest ear-tufts which ever waved would have nothing to do with swimming? Pooh! They'd no more help him hold his vain little head up out of the water than the stripes on your brand-new bathing suit would hold yours—unless he'd already learned. Exactly. I quite agree with you.

As for a feather crest—who ever heard of any furry-foot's wearing one? Nobody, of course. It was Frisk's own idea. If he'd had two feathers he'd have stuck them in his ears again, the way he wore the sweet little plumes he stole from Tad Coon's tall. But he had only one. The one his flabby little hands had pulled out of Bobby Robb's tail. How else could he wear it but down the middle of his head, bird fashion?

That is, he had it if he could find it again. He had dropped it when Bobby took after him. But he knew right where it fell. Oh, yes, indeed! He could walk spang to the very spot and pick it up. Just as soon as the indulgent coon and the fatherly duck got Bobby's temper nicely soothed down, he crept out from his hiding place under Tad's fur and went to look for it.

It was gone! After all the trouble it had cost him! After that terrible scare he got from Bobby Robb! He climbed up the hickory tree, which was his lookout when he spied frogs for Tad. And he spied the feather, too. In the pond. That bright of a wind had snatched it away, just like it took his lovely coon-hair tufts. But the fish were leaving it alone. Maybe the one who got Tad's tickly tail-hairs down his throat had warned the rest of them. Yes, it was still there, and it was floating near the shore.

Frisk wished he dared ask kind Daddy Green-crest to get it for him. But he didn't. Tad and the duck were still gossiping with Bobby. And if Bobby knew how much Frisk had been really-truly stealing.

If he'd been thinking about his paws that bad squirrel baby would never in the world have let them go wading. Put he wasn't! And you know the sort of tricks they used to play on him. "Creep-crawly, creep-crawly—wasn't the water lovely and warm? He was in to his ankles, the water was waist, when he sat up on his tippy hind toes. He safely in his mouth where he always carries things. Then he tried to turn around.

BAY CITY HAS FOREST IN MIDST

National Association of Real Estate Boards Causes Growth

SAN FRANCISCO, May 26.—Few cities can boast of forests in their midst, but this is the claim of San Francisco. The city awoke one morning this week to find that overnight its ten million dollar civic center had become forested with giant sequoia—the oldest and largest living things in the world. The forest is a transplanted one, having been transported here from the heart of the Santa Cruz mountains to form the setting for the fifteenth annual convention of the National Association of Real Estate Boards. Because of the great proportions of the trees a crew of 200 carpenters has been engaged to dismember the trees to such an extent as to permit them being taken inside the exposition auditorium which is to be the scene of the convention.

In the convention hall the trees will be again put together, reduced in height to meet the limitation of the auditorium roof, but true to form in every respect. The local convention committee of realtors is reproducing in the auditorium the cathedral setting so frequently found in redwood forests where the trees are found growing in a great semi-circle with a carpet of redwood needles on the floor.

The speaker's platform is to be a great redwood stump banked with a profusion of California ferns of the kind only found among the redwoods. The entrance to the convention hall will be through the portals of a reproduction of California's Wawona, said to be the world's largest tree.

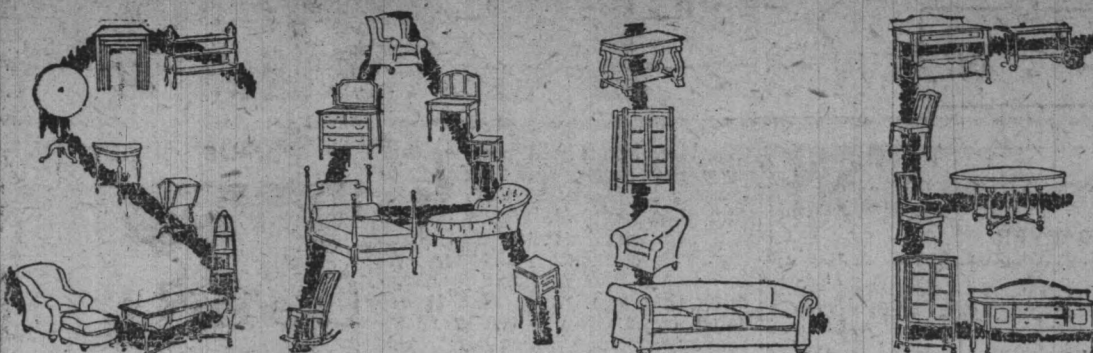

The first delegations to the convention are now arriving and the indications are that when the convention doors are formally opened on the morning of May 31, the National Association will have assembled the largest gathering of realtors ever held west of the Mississippi.

Many important subjects are to be considered by the realtors, much of which will have a direct bearing on such important issues as the nation's shortage of homes, the lack of adequate home financing arrangements, city planning, the provision of suitable recreation facilities for children and numerous other subjects.

PENNSYLVANIA PICNIC

All who ever lived in the Keystone state are invited to a great picnic reunion, all day Saturday, June 3, 1922, in Sycamore Grove, Los Angeles. Come as early as you can and spend the day with your friends. We will have county registers and headquarters so you can find the old neighbors even with thousands present. There will be a brief program but the main purpose will be to have a good time and to meet your friends from all over Southern California. We want to see all the visitors from the old home state as well as our residents so as to make this our greatest picnic in our history. Bring your baskets well filled. Coffee will be served free to all who buy the souvenir badges. Each one who learns of this picnic is asked to pass the word along. Our success is up to you. Only through you can we reach the people. Further information may be had of C. H. Parsons, secretary of the Federation of State Societies, Continental National Bank, 901 South Main street, Los Angeles. Phone 10261, or Vice President R. W. McCrea, South 3623-J.

SPARK TRANSMISSION

Method of Winding: Owing to the immense difference of potential that would be set up between adjacent windings of the secondary, it is not directly over the primary in layers but in the form of pancakes or sections, all of which are wound in the same direction and connected in series with one another. (If oppositely wound sections are connected in series with one another, their inductive effect would be neutralized.) The high self-induction of the primary winding, due to its iron core, would cause a destructive arc at the contacts and burn them away unless prevented; a condenser is accordingly shunted across the terminals of the primary up to the antenna terminals, providing a path for the energy causing the spark. After the contacts are separated, when the current is re-made by the contacts coming together again, the condenser discharges, adding its energy to the exciting current of the primary. At each interruption of the current in the primary, a spark will bridge the gap of the secondary, the length of this spark depending upon the size of the coil. Making this gap too long imposes an intense strain on the windings of the secondary and is liable to puncture them, unless an auxiliary or safety gap, the length of which represents the safe maximum distance is provided. Induction coils were originally employed in wireless work and were later used for the emergency set in connection with a storage battery, but as the amount of current that can be handled in this manner is limited by the interrupter and the frequency of the high tension current is restricted by the speed of the interrupter, they are now practically obsolete in commercial service and are confined to amateur uses. To produce best results, the contact screw must be adjusted to give the maximum speed of interruption, which is evidenced by a high pitched note. Anyone who had experience in keeping vibrators of a set of coils properly adjusted in the early days of the automobile will appreciate what a difficult problem it is to maintain such adjustment. Numerous special types of interrupters, such as the mercury break, mercury turbine, and Wehnelt electrolytic interrupter were developed to increase the speed but none of them can approach, in this respect, an alternating current.

WITH THE RADIO SCHOOL AND CLUB

The radio school will embark upon its summer vacation as explained in last evening's paper, which will start on June 3. This means that there will be Theory classes tonight and two more theory classes next week. There will be one more code class, which will be next Wednesday night. After that the procedure will be as explained last night. The class tonight will endeavor to straighten out all difficulties of the members and make all of the suggestions necessary for the proper care and construction of your sets.

WOULDN'T IT BE GREAT?

If we could all climb like the man (Mr. Strothers) that climbed the high school building last night? Then we could put our aerials any place and as high as we wanted them.

NOTICE

The Press radio car is now so equipped that it is necessary to even use a water pipe or to have any connection with the ground whatsoever. This is made possible by use of a counterpoise. So if you see the car and it has no connection with the ground you will not wonder how it works. By counterpoise is meant another aerial, which is strung under the car, back and forth between the front axle and the rear axle.

WIN 'EM, BOYS AND GIRLS!

Now you can get a set easy, boys and girls. Start now. Heretofore the air bug which the Los Angeles Express has been giving away would not work in the city of Glendale, but it will now, or that is, pretty quick. How? The new broadcasting station, of course. And that isn't all. Watch our ad and see what all is listed there that you can win with new subscriptions. And if there is something that you desire, that is not listed, come down to the Press office anyway and we will tell you how many subscriptions will be necessary to get the article that you want. Anything and everything can be won in this manner. Absolutely no blanks.

PUNNY STUFF

"No, Oswald, a Loose Coupler on a Radio bears no resemblance to a Loose Coupler on a Freight Train nor does a Crystal Detector necessarily refer to a Detective using the medium of a Crystal to make deductions—but, we were asked today if one could catch a Slide Tuner on the Catalina Coast and did they can them like Sardines."

"Antenna has arrived."
"Did Variometer?"
"No, while doing a Loop in his new Aerial-plane he Aro-ed into a Sliding-Contact with an Open Gap of air and made a Connection with the Ground which broke his Fuse-legs."

Who owns the air? Formerly those who ate Garlic. Now those who operate Radio.

Suspicious wives can now insist that susceptible hubbies dictate to pretty stenographers via radio.

When the owner of an Airedale terrier called him through the Westinghouse broadcasting station at Pittsburgh, Pa., the animal, hearing "his master's voice" in the radio receiving room of the University of Kentucky at Lexington, Ky., roused from a nap, sprang to his feet and scampered about the radio outfit in search of his master.

Business and Pleasure

Our prominent business men do not have to pass up a baseball game just because of that pressing engagement. No, siree; they merely step into the next room and turn on their radio. Simple!

Not All Ivory, Some Vacuum

Smart Guy—"Oh, Yes, I have a vacuum bulb on my radio set."
Backwoodsman—"Yes, And you have got 'one on your shoulders, too, have you not?"

Burbank boy who won the first radio set given by The Press for subscriptions.

QUESTIONS—ANSWERS

Q.—Could I put a crystal set on our car and would it work if I installed it exactly as you have yours installed? L. W.

A.—No. You could install the aerial and ground exactly as I have but you would have to have a more sensitive equipment than a crystal set. If you noticed, I use three steps of amplification.

Q.—Will you please publish a list of the calls of the Los Angeles stations and who they are? M. D.

A.—Yes. Look elsewhere on this page and you will find the list which you ask for.

Where Can You Purchase Meters?

"My set will receive only 200 meters. Where can I buy another 160 meters to receive the broadcasting stations?"

PUNNY STUFF

These Bed Springs Aerials Again Declaring "this wireless business has got to stop," E. C. Beck of Chillicothe, Ill., said that he has not been able to sleep for two weeks because of hearing voices and music in the air and because of shocks he gets when he goes to bed.

One night, he said, he awakened in the grasp of a phantom. He says music, lectures, market reports, and voices break the silence of his bedroom each night and he blames it all on a huge radiophone-sending set at Bradley College, Ill.

Beck has no radio receiving set, but radio operators say his bed springs, an ideal wireless aerial, may attract the signals.

Is someone trying to spoof us? Or did Mr. Beck use regenerative bed springs?

At any rate, why not let us have a wiring diagram?

Expressman Wanted for Loading Coils

"The salesman in an electric store told me to add loading coils to my set. I have tried all the expressmen but none of them will take on radio work."

The Radio Takes the Breath Out of the Phonograph

One virtue of the radiophone that appeals to us with the most force is, after you have shut down the windows you can tune it so as to hear something far more pleasing than the phonograph next door.

It may be difficult to find a solution for our troubles, but it is safe to say it doesn't lie in telling them.

Woman Champion Receives Mrs. Harding's Congratulations After White House Match

Mrs. Warren G. Harding is shown here congratulating Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory on her playing at the opening of Washington season on the White House courts. Mrs. Marion Zinderstein Jessup, another tennis star, is standing at the left of the picture.

Then there's the bird that makes dates by radio. He broadcasts a call for a swell blonde of 2500 meter lengths.

He gets many modest answers but none of them live in his town—none but his wife who has tuned in. Of course she meets him more than half way.

Two Irishmen wandered into a public house, where the electric call bell, with a press button, had recently been installed. Of course this excited their curiosity and when the waiter had supplied them with two "ould ales," they asked him what it was for.

The waiter explained and the rest of the evening he was kept busy by repeated ringings and orders for "two ould ales."

Next morning the inebriates being still abed, their respective wives met in a shop.

"Bedad," said one, "if's in the pigsty I found my husband this mornin'."

"That's nothin'," said the other. "All night long Mike was pressing on my nose and calling for two ould ales."

DEADLY DRUGS AND GASES TO SHOW IN NEXT WAR

Lloyd George Predicts Holocaust Unless Great Powers Get Together

LONDON, May 26.—Drugs and deadly gases will win the next war. Chemical experts make this statement after carrying to a conclusion experiments dating back into the closing hours of the World War.

They warn the public that another world war would be the most appalling holocaust since the beginning of time.

The warning may have been made to back up the prediction of Premier Lloyd George, who told American newspaper men recently at Genoa that unless the great powers "got together" such a holocaust may arrive "within" the present generation.

It is admitted that experts have been experimenting with drugs, gasses, poisons, air, land and sea monsters. The next war, when it comes, will be so terrible, so searing to mind and body and soul, that after it has swept the world bare, few of the combatants will be left.

Gas, fumes, liquid poisons, flaming fire liquids, asphyxiating vapors poured from a high altitude, will be the prime features when nations next start wiping each other from the face of the earth, these experts say.

With the instrumentalities already possessed by the great powers, the Woolworth building, for instance, could be made to collapse like a child's pack of cards on the crowds on Park Row and Broadway.

One of these mighty bombs now being turned out in the United States would easily account for Woolworth's little 800-foot pile.

Just as easily, with these new weapons of torture could thousands of men be frizzled to death under a hail of burning oil dropped from the skies like a summer rainstorm. Similarly thousands could be just as quickly and simply choked to death by a fog of poison gas blanketed on a town of the size of Detroit or Pittsburgh, in the space of one and a half minutes.

There will be no declaration of war, army men believe, when the next Armageddon comes. The first intimation that disaster is on us will be, experts think, a casualty list in the newspapers—a casualty list which will no longer be a recitation of names of killed and wounded, but of towns blotted out, burnt and destroyed.

"Thrice armed is he who gets his blow in first"—to paraphrase an old proverb—will be the motto of the warring parties. Experts know that it cannot be otherwise; especially when the first attack will, in all probability, come from the air.

Air bombardments, British air officials declare, accompanied by air gas tanks will undoubtedly open the campaign of death on either side. And of course the capitals of the warring nations will be chosen as the first principal targets.

But that will be just a preliminary to the launching of the giant land, air and subterranean offensive, which will cast the world into darkness. With the electric power stations rendered useless by repeated bombing, the nights will be one long horror only rivalled in fear by the terrors which will stalk by day.

NEW YORK STAGES 37,000,000 LIL' TOWN

Sage Foundation Starts Attractive Decentralized Community Building

NEW YORK, May 26.—Plans to make New York city a "big small town," are being promoted by the Russell Sage Foundation.

Robert W. de Forest, president of the Foundation, is behind far-seeing schemes for future development of America's greatest metropolis. No longer, if the plans are followed, would there be congested tenements, dirty flats with ugly, useless back yards.

The Foundation contemplates a "decentralized" city. New York, New Jersey and Connecticut will be linked by a series of parks, boulevards, rustic cottages and home colonies.

Believing that by 2,000 A. D., 37,000,000 will inhabit the greatest city in the world, de Forest urges work to be begun now to give the future citizens decent places to live in.

The plan adopted briefly is this: To make surveys of the entire area about the present city along economic, industrial, physical, legal and social lines; to enlist co-operation of municipal governments in each community for coordinated planning and united effort.

He was recognized as the meanest man in the neighborhood, but this did not prevent his house being broken into by optimistic burglars. When the gang met later to talk matters over and adjust finances the gloom of the leading burglar checked all questions.

"Didn't make much, Bill?" asked some one at last.

"Make much!" jeered Bill, with sarcasm. "I lost money over the job."

By taking a by-path to avoid duty we meet our deserts.

ACTRESSES DEPICT EVOLUTION OF PERIOD STYLES

In this heyday of changing styles there is a certain relief in glancing back over the designs of yesterday. At the Actors' Equity Show at the Metropolitan Opera House, New York, on May 7, Broadway stage beauties will display costumes of the past. Here are shown four of the pretty actresses in the dresses they will wear. From left to right you see Bernice Ackerman in a costume of the Elizabethan period, Grace Culbert, in a dress of grandmother's time; Olive King, in a design of Medieval Times, and Helen Lyons in the garb of a Puritan maiden.

JAP PAYS FINE WITH BAD MONEY

HONOLULU, May 26.—Despite the fact that he was arrested on an assault and battery charge preferred by his wife, Kuma Takamori, a Japanese, was all smiles when brought to the desk sergeant at the station. Bail to the amount of $25 was asked.

Takamori smilingly pulled out a roll of bills, gave the desk sergeant a $50 bill (and got $25 in change), and went his way.

Later in the day the sergeant took the money to the bank, and was told that the $50 bill was a counterfeit. He returned to the station out of breath. Waving the bill, he told the captain that it was counterfeit.

"Better call the police," some one on the sidelines suggested.

A squad was sent out, and Takamori was in jail again. He was relieved of the $25 change and held without bail pending an investigation of the source of the money. He declared he did not know that it was counterfeit.

THOUSANDS SEE SPIDER CLIMB HIGH SCHOOL

He Extols Advertising Power of The Glendale Daily Press

Thousands watched Bill Strother, the "human fly," yesterday, as he scaled the face of the high school administration building. At the end of his climb he announced that his presence was due to the Glendale Daily Press. He said:

"Ladies and gentlemen, I wish to say that the only announcement of this exhibition published in Glendale was in the columns of the Daily Press."

After descending from the top of the high school Strother made a hand over hand ascent of the flag pole in the front yard. He climbed this pole even though it bent almost double with his weight.

Before Strother started, his manager, Arthur Raymond Hill, gave a short talk, telling a little of the human fly's history. Strother is the world's champion climber, having defeated Harry Gayer, former title holder, in a contest on the court house at Atlanta, Ga. Since winning his title Strother has climbed practically all of the tallest buildings in America. He climbed the 57-story Woolworth building in New York in the remarkable time of 1 hour and 15 minutes. Another of Strother's feats was the climbing of the McAlpin hotel in New York at night, blindfolded.

Strother, clad in white, stepped out and, after a brief introduction to the crowd, started his climb. He went up the front of the building, using small window ledges for hand and toe-holds. At the second story he paused long enough to stand on his head on the window ledge. After this performance, as a precaution, he tied a rope around his waist. The most difficult part of the climb was getting over the roof ledge. Strother could barely reach the ledge with his hands. Suspended in the air, holding only with his bare hands, the human fly swung his body through the air until he had gained sufficient momentum to throw his legs over the ledge.

A bicycle had been placed on the top of the building, and after the human fly had stood for a few seconds on his head at the corner of the building, he mounted the bicycle and rode along the ledge. He rode the wheel to the very edge, and, turning the wheel around, rode it back to where he had started.

When Strother started to climb the flag pole, his manager made the watchers stand back for fear the pole might fall.

While Strother was preparing for his climb, his manager entertained the crowd with a comic song, "Buckwheat Cakes," evoking gales of laughter with his antics.

The crowd that watched Strother was probably one of the largest that has ever gathered in Glendale to watch an exhibition. Automobiles stood three deep in the middle of the street and traffic was practically stopped. There were more than a thousand people standing in front of the high school when he started to climb. This crowd gathered in response to announcements of the climb that appeared only in the Glendale Daily Press.

DR. MARLENEE IS MAKING CHANGES

Dr. C. L. Marlenee, optometrist, with offices at 105 East Broadway, is making changes and improvements and additions to his equipment right along, which has given him one of the best equipped offices in the state to handle his particular and highly important line of work.

The latest additions were in his lens-grinding plant, which is second to none in this section of the state, and which enables him to handle any piece of work, no matter how intricate.

"The grinding of lenses," says Dr. Marlenee, "is of the utmost importance, and we can handle the big jobs and the particular work just as easy as we used to handle the very ordinary grinding jobs. Our equipment is of the best and was put in with the view of taking care of anything in our line."

Dr. Marlenee's business has been increasing right along and he has been able to take care of the large volume by bringing to Glendale several experts in the various departments, to meet the growth. He has also found time to build a nice home and a bungalow court on South Central avenue, and is one of the big boosters for Glendale.

WILLIAMS' STORE DECORATED SHOW

George E. Williams, proprietor of the Williams Drygoods store at 103 North Brand, is just completing one of the neatest valances for his windows hung in Glendale. The drapery is of a light gray monks-cloth edged with blue, and carries the initial letter "W" in an old English type. The valance is a product of the Williams store and is a very artistic dress for a window front.

CHANCE FOR PANTS WILL SOON END

Gelmor's special offer on an extra pair of pants will soon expire, as will be seen from an advertisement elsewhere in this issue. The Merino Tailors on North Brand, of which he is the proprietor, have had a fine run of business since opening their new quarters, and are giving extraordinary values in suits.

Keeps Baby's Milk Pure and Clean

Every morning and evening the milk is brought in from the ranches, weighed and strained at 60 degrees, then poured into the huge 300-gallon glass-lined Pasteurizers as shown above.

It is heated in the Pasteurizers to a temperature of 142 degrees and held there long enough to kill any bacteria which might exist, but not long enough to break up the tiny globules of fat which form the "cream."

It is then cooled on the Aerator to 40 degrees and held there a sufficient length of time to insure complete Pasteurization.

THE GRIT AND THE SMILE

Give me the fellow who's whiling
His troubles away with cheer
Out of his soul that's smiling
It's way through the half-shed tear.
Give me the fellow who's bubbling
With laughter some of the while,
Who smiles when his worries are troubling,
Who has grit behind the smile.

Give me the fellow who's giving
The best he has to life,
The fellow who's ready for living
And struggle, and work and strife.
The fellow who's soul is roomy
And big like the air and sky,
Not the fellow who's sour and gloomy
And always ready to die.

Give me the fellow who's humming
A tune and a merry song,
A fellow who's up and coming
And ready to move along.
Who isn't all fret and fetter,
Who wants to love and strive—
And help and do things better,
Who is glad to be alive.

Give me the fellow who's hoping
And helping and doing, too,
Not the long-faced chap who's groping,
Morbid and sour and blue;
Give me the fellow who's smiling
Who's cheerful a lot of the while,
Troubles with smiles beguiling,
And with grit behind the smile.

A Year Ago Today

(From Glendale Daily Press, May 26, 1921)

In a pretty stage setting the Shakespeare section of the Tuesday Afternoon club yesterday presented several scenes from Shakespeare's plays to a large and appreciative audience at the Masonic temple.

The Viola avenue district in Casa Verdugo is circulating a petition asking for annexation to Glendale. It is a small section including portions of Stocker, Valley View and Lorraine streets.

The board of directors of the Glendale Music club at a recent open Friday afternoon, 2:30 to 4 o'clock, and Wednesday and Saturday night, 7:30 to 9 o'clock.

meeting at the home of the president, Mrs. Mattison B. Jones, voted to put on a drive for 200 subscribing members for the club.

A petition is now being circulated for the improvement of Broadway and Central avenue to cut off the log that is such an impediment to traffic.

A delightful reception for the 80 or more new members who joined the First Methodist church last Sunday and the Sunday before was held in the parlors of the church on Wednesday night.

Jones—"We're coming to see you tonight, old man."
Smith—"Good, but don't let your wife wear her new costume. I don't want mine to see it just now."
Jones—"Great Scott! That's the very reason we're coming!"

OCTOGENARIAN PASSES ON AT HOME

G. W. Phillippi, Stricken While Returning From Church, Succumbs

George W. Phillippi died Tuesday evening, May 23, 1922, at the home of his son, Geo. L. Phillippi of 301 East Garfield avenue, Glendale. He was stricken with paralysis while on his way to the morning service at the Burbank Presbyterian church on Sunday morning, May 7, and gradually grew weaker until the end.

The funeral services were held at Scovern's undertaking parlors of Glendale, on Thursday, May 25, at 1:30 p. m., conducted by the Revs. Thomas Stevenson of the Burbank Presbyterian church, and Louis Finning, assistant pastor of the Glendale Presbyterian church. MOLES GASSED IN THEIR NESTS

The use of carbon bisulphide placed directly in the burrows of moles or other animals, should injure the roots of ordinary annual plants, says Dr. F. D. Heald, plant pathologist of the State College of Washington. But if these burrows happen to be close of perennial plants with deeply penetrating roots, injury might result.

Carbon bisulphide leaves an injurious effect on vegetation if applied in large quantities. For example, if 6 1/2 ounces are put into three holes, 18 inches from the main stock of a grapevine, at a depth of 20 inches, it will result in the death of the vine.

One of Glendale's Growing Establishments

Dr. Marlenee, who came to Glendale on the exemption board from San Bernardino, where he was local examiner for the Santa Fe for a number of years, gives some interesting views on optometry and service.

To take a piece of glass about a quarter of an inch thick, two inches long and one and one-half inches wide, from it fashion a lens that will bring relief to a sufferer from defective eyesight is truly an art.

We all remember the days, not so very long ago, when jewelers, general stores, and the "house-to-house" peddler carried an assortment of "spectacles." Those were the days when we walked up to the tray of glasses and tried them on, one after another, until we found six or seven pair that made us "see better." Finally we worked our selection down to two or three pairs, until,

"I have always been a firm believer in the old saying, 'You get what you give.' This has always been my motto, and, in applying it to my business, I have shortened it somewhat, 'Give to Get.' By this I mean that, in order to establish a desirable business, a man must give real service. It is not enough that he furnish glasses to patrons—this only goes half way; he must furnish glasses that give the greatest possible relief without a chance of injury; he must keep in touch with his patient for at least a year after a fitting and make any correction that may arise in that time."

"This is not idle talk, because Dr. Marlenee's statements are borne out by facts. His testing rooms are fitted with the best developed modern appliances for detecting eye troubles. So fine has science drawn the line that it is possible to locate the trouble and prescribe the proper lens by the use of instruments alone.

Lens Grinding and Surfacing Laboratory

This is especially advantageous to children, as they are apt to become confused and, therefore, not capable of knowing just what lens fits them best. In speaking of his lens grinding and polishing plant, Dr. Marlenee says that he can give better service by grinding his own lenses, faster service in delivering the finished product, and better results in achieving just exactly the right lens.

He retained his interests in San Bernardino for a time, but sold them recently, owing to the press of affairs here. Well known all over this section, Dr. Marlenee has patients who come to him from Los Angeles, Hollywood, Pasadena and San Bernardino almost every day.

"Taking the matter as a whole," continued Dr. Marlenee, "superior service and reliable goods cannot lie. Sooner or later their true character will develop in satisfaction to the patient."

in sheer desperation, we picked on one, very often to find that the relief we sought was of short duration.

Today it is far different. Modern science, when practiced by a man who thoroughly understands it, and who has at his command the best developed instruments for accurate examination of the eye, has given us sure and permanent relief for our vision defects. Taking advantage of all that science has to offer, Dr. C. L. Marlenee, at 106 East Broadway, has one of the best equipped optometry establishments in this part of the state. In fact, his is the only complete lens grinding and polishing plant between Los Angeles and Bakersfield.

Coming to Glendale three years ago, Dr. Marlenee won favor and a steadily increasing patronage through his competent, skillful and painstaking service to all who seek relief from eye troubles. Speaking of this rapid growth, Dr. Marlenee states:
