Title - Thoroughgoing Realization of Japonism.

Writer - KISA, Reikichi, Chief Editor.
Spread of the Japanese Language.
Writer-
Gist - Japan has two external missions. One is the reconciliation and unification of the Oriental and Occidental culture. The other is the emancipation of Asia. The emancipation of Asia means the emancipation of Japan. If Japan could keep and protect her racial freedom and prestige, being freed from inimical influence and obsession of European and American countries, the creative nature of the spirit of Japan could awake dormant spirit of the Asiatic races, stimulate self-consciousness and self-autonomy of these suppressed races, thereby making their real emancipation possible. By the realization of Japan's political and military influences in the Orient and the South Seas Region, the emancipation of Asia will realize itself. In order to achieve this objective, there is no other way than the complete substantiation of Japonism.

To make China a modern and cultured nation and unify it with the Japanese expansion in the Continent is the essential of the East Asia Coöperative Body, which has economic, spiritual, moral and cultural significance. In order to make this race perpetuate, it is not only inevitable, but also right to cross over the frontiers of those countries which have large areas with comparatively small population. We should not be dounhearted to be called "imperialistic". Cowadice does not do any good. We need not denounce our policy, just because we are accused as being imperialistic.

What is necessary for these artists is not the discussion but the action. When they feel the power of people of racial development, they must express through their works the deep concern to the actual events. It is very natural that, as it is dictated by our traditions of thsee thousand years, we have the sentimental tendency to neglect our own life. All our artists must consider the present Event as the greatest enterprising of this Century, give up all scepticism and hesitation, and increase the preparations and the capacity of cooperating with the fighting forces in both moral and material domains.

Gist - 75 so-called poems of defense. The spirit of sacrifice. To die for the Emperor without giving any considerations to his own personal matters. This is the spirit of Japan. After all his ego becomes the one and the same with Emperor. There exists no more ego. His life and whole existence has meaning and value on account of his being able to render service to the Emperor. Nobody can disturb this unique straightforward relation. This is the sincere devotion and loyalty to the Emperor and source of courage to die for the Emperor. -- Consequently, in Japan, God, the Emperor and National territorial exent is the one and the same thing. To be loyal to the Emperor means love to the country and reverence for God. Consequently, "Kashikomi" means the reverence for the Emperor who is really the living personification of God and to submerge himself into that of the Emperor. It is nothing else than the spirit of loyalty. For that reason, it is really a very small matter to be separated
