P R E F A C E.

THE Latin Reader, now offered to the public, forms part of a work well known in Germany, under the title of "Lateinisches Elementarbuch zum öffentlichen und Privat-Gebrauche von Friedrich Jacobs und Friedrich Wilhelm Döring." The German edition consists of six parts, of which the 1st and 2nd are comprised in this volume. The 3rd contains extracts from Caesar, Curtius Rufus, Livy, Sallust, and Tacitus; the 4th is made up of excerpts from Cicero's Epistles and Orations; the 5th is composed of selections from Ovid, Martial, and the Anthologia Latina; and the 6th embraces parts of Catullus, Tibullus, Propertius, Lucretius, Virgil, and Seneca. As this little book is intended merely to give the learner such an acquaintance with the fundamental principles of the Latin language as will enable him to enter with advantage upon the study of the preparatory course for our College, it has been deemed advisable to omit the contents of the last four volumes. A part of them is contained in the course for entrance, and the rest is too difficult for mere beginners.

It may be necessary here to state the reason for publishing a New York edition, when one has already been issued from the Boston press. It will be readily acknowledged, that if the assistance of notes is necessary to the learner in Germany, where the advantages in classical instruction are incomparably greater than in our country, they are much more requisite to the American pupil. It has been the object of the editor, therefore, to supply this deficiency in the previous American editions. Most of the Notes have been translated from the German; others have been supplied, which the superior state of instruction on the Continent would render unnecessary there.

It is hoped that this little work may be found serviceable to those who use it, and contribute in some degree to the advancement of sound elementary education.

* Three things are required to constitute a proposition, i. e. the subject, the predicate, and the copula.

The subject is that concerning which any thing is affirmed or denied; so in the proposition, Terra est rotunda, Terra is the subject.

The predicate (prædicto, āre,) is that which is affirmed or denied of the subject: so rotunda is the predicate of the above-mentioned proposition, since it is declared or affirmed of the earth that it is round.

The copula is the form of a proposition; it represents the act of the mind affirming, or denying, and accordingly joins or disjoins the terms or ideas which constitute the proposition, or, in other words, the subject and predicate: so, in the phrase quoted, est is the copula, since it joins the subject, terra, with the predicate, rotunda. In the phrase, Vera amicitia est sempiterna, vera amicitia is the subject, sempiterna the predicate, and est the copula. Maximum animal terrestre est elephas; elephas is the subject, maximum animal terrestre, the predicate, and est the copula.

ritatem et speciem sunt mirabiles. Servi parent propter metum, boni propter officium. Navigatio juxta litus saepe est periculosa.

II. FABLES FROM ÆSOP.

1. Accipiter et Columbae.

Columbae milvii metu¹ accipitrem rogaverunt, ut eas defenseret. Ille annuit. At in columbare receptus,² uno die maiorem stragem edidit, quam milvius longo tempore potuisset edere.—Fabula docet, malorum patrocinium vitandum esse.

2. Mus et Milvius.

Milvius laqueis irretitus musculum exoravit,³ ut eum corrosis plagis⁴ liberaret. Quo facto,⁵ milvius liberatus murem arripuit et devoravit.—Haec fabula ostendit, quam gratiam mali pro beneficiis reddere soleant.⁶

3. Hoedus et Lupus.

Hoedus stans in tecto domus lupo praetereundi⁷ maledixit. Cui⁸ lupus, *non tu, inquit, sed tectum mihi maledicit.*⁹—Saepe locus et tempus homines timidos audaces reddit.

4. Grus et Pavo.

Pavo coram grue pennas suas explicans, quanta est, inquit, formositas mea et tua deformitas! At grus evolans, et quanta est, inquit, levitas mea et tua tarditas!—Monet haec fabula, ne ob aliquod bonum, quod nobis natura tribuit, alios contemnamus, quibus natura alia et fortasse majora dedit.

5. Pavo.

Pavo graviter conquerebatur apud Junōnem,¹⁰ dominam suam, quod¹¹ vocis suavitas sibi negata esset,¹² dum luscinia, avis tam parum decora, cantu excellat.¹² Cui Juno, et merito, inquit; non enim¹³ omnia bona in unum conferri oportuit.

6. Anseres et Grues.

In eodem quondam prato pascebantur anseres et grues. Ad veniente domino prati,¹⁴ grues facile avolabant; sed anseres, im-pediti corporis gravitate, deprehensi et mactati sunt.—Sic saepe pauperes cum potentioribus in eodem crimine deprehensi, soli dant poenam, dum illi salvi evādunt.

7. Capra et Lupus.

Lupus capram in alta rupe stantem conspicatus, cur non, inquit, relinquis nuda illa et sterilia loca, et huc descendis in herbidos campos, qui tibi laetum pabulum offerunt? Cui¹ respondit capra: mihi non est in animo,² dulcia tutis³ praeponere.

8. Venter et Membra.

Membra quondam dicebant ventri: *nosne⁴ te semper ministerio nostro alemus, dum ipse summo otio fruēris?*⁵ Non faciemus. Dum igitur ventri cibum subducunt, corpus debilitatur, et membra sero invidiae suae poenituit.⁶

9. Canis et Boves.

Canis jacebat in praesēpi bovesque latrando⁷ a pabulo arcebatur. Cui unus boum, *quanta ista, inquit, invidia est, quod⁸ non patēris, ut eo cibo vescamur,⁹ quem tu ipse capere nec velis nec possis!*¹⁰—Haec fabula invidiae indolem declarat.

10. Vulpes et Leo.

Vulpes, quae nunquam leonem viderat, quum ei forte occurisset leo, ita est perterrita, ut paene moreretur formidine. Eundem¹¹ conspicata¹² iterum, timuit quidem, sed nequaquam ut antea. Tertio illi obviam facta,¹² ausa est¹³ etiam proprius accedere, eumque allōqui.

11. Cancri.

Cancer dicebat filio: mi fili, ne sic obliquis semper gressibus incede, sed recta via¹⁴ perge. Cui¹⁵ ille, *mi pater, respondit, libenter tuis praeceptis obsēquar, si te prius idem facientem¹⁶ video.*¹⁷—Docet haec fabula, adolescentiam nulla re magis, quam exemplis, instrui.

12. Boves.

In eodem prato pascebantur tres boves in maxima concordia, et sic¹⁸ ab omni ferarum incursione tuti erant. Sed dissidio inter illos orto,¹⁹ singuli a feris petiti et laniati sunt.—Fabula docet, quantum boni²⁰ sit²¹ concordia.

13. Asinus.

Asinus, pelle leonis indutus, territabat homines et bestias, tanquam leo esset.¹ Sed forte, dum se celerius movet, aures eminebant: unde agnitus,² in pistrinum abductus est, ubi poenas petulantiae dedit.—Haec fabula stolidos notat, qui immitteritis honoribus superbiunt.

14. Mulier et Gallina.

Mulier quaedam habebat gallinam, quae ei quotidie ovum pariebat aureum. Hinc suspicari coepit, illam³ auri massam intus celare, et gallinam occidit. Sed nihil in ea repērit, nisi quod in aliis gallinis reperiri solet. Itaque dum majoribus divitiis inhiabat, etiam minores perdidit.

15. Viatores et Asinus.

Duo qui una⁴ iter faciebant, asinum oberrantem in solitudine conspicati, accurrunt laeti,⁵ et uterque eum sibi vindicare coepit, quod eum prior⁵ conspexisset.⁶ Dum vero contendunt⁷ et rixantur, nec a verberibus abstinent, asinus aufugit, et neuter eo potitur.

16. Corvus et Lupi.

Corvus partem praedae petebat a lupis, quod eos totum diem comitatus esset.⁸ Cui illi, non tu nos, inquiunt, sed prædam sectatus es, idque eo animo ut ne nostris quidem corporibus¹⁰ parceres, si exanimarentur.

Merito in actionibus non spectatur, quid fiat,¹¹ sed quo animo fiat.

17. Pastores et Lopus.

Pastores caesa ove convivium celebrabant. Quod quum¹² lupus cerneret, ego, inquit, si agnum rapuissem, quantus tumultus fieret! At isti impune ovem comedunt! Tum unus illorum, nos enim¹³ inquit, nostra, non aliena ove epulamur.

18. Carbonarius et Fullo.

Carbonarius, qui spatirosam habebat domum, invitavit fullonem, ut ad se commigraret. Ille respondit: quaenam inter nos esse possit societas? quum tu vestes, quas ego nitidas¹⁴ red- didissem,¹ fuligine et maculis inquinaturus essem.—Haec fabula docet, dissimilia non debere conjungi.

19. Tubīcen.

Tubīcen ab hostibus captus, ne me, inquit, interficide;² nam inermis sum, neque quidquam habeo praeter hanc tubam. At hostes, propter hoc ipsum,³ inquiunt, te interimemus; quod, quum ipse pugnandi sis imperitus,⁴ alios ad pugnam incitare soles.—Fabula docet, non solum maleficos esse puniendos, sed etiam eos, qui alios ad male faciendum irritent.⁵

20. Accipitres et Columbae.

Accipitres quondam acerrime inter se belligerabant. Hos columbae in gratiam reducere conatae effecerunt, ut illi pacem inter se facerent. Qua firmata, accipitres vim suam in ipsas columbas converterunt.—Haec fabula docet, potentiorum discordias imbecillioribus saepe prodesse.

21. Mulier et Gallina.

Mulier vidua gallinam habebat, quae ei quotidie unum ovum pariebat. Illa existimabat, si gallinam diligentius saginaret, fore, ut illa bina aut terna⁶ ova quotidie pareret.⁷ Quum autem cibo superfluo gallina pinguis esset facta, plane ova parere desiit.—Haec fabula docet, avaritiam saepe damnosam esse.

22. Vulpes et Uva.

Vulpes uvam in vite conspicata, ad illam subsiliit omnium virjum suarum contentione, si eam forte attingere posset. Tandem defatigata inani labore, discedens dixit: at⁸ nunc etiam⁹ acerbae sunt, nec eas in via repertas tollerem. Haec fabula docet, multos ea contemnere, quae¹⁰ se assēqui posse despērent.¹¹

23. Vulpes et Leaena.

Vulpes leaenam exprobrabat, quod non nisi unum catulum pareret. Huic dicitur respondisse,¹² unum, sed leonem.—Haec fabula, non copiam, sed bonitatem rerum aestimandam esse, docet.

24. Mures.

Mures aliquando habuerunt consilium, quomodo a fele caverent.¹ Multis aliis propositis,² omnibus placuit, ut ei tintinnabulum annexeretur: sic enim ipsos,³ sonitu admonitos, eam fugere posse. Sed quum jam inter mures quaereretur, qui feli tintinnabulum annexeret, nemo repertus est.—Fabula docet, in suadendo plurimos esse audaces, sed in ipso periculo timidos.

25. Canis Mordax.

Cani mordaci paterfamilias jussit tintinnabulum ex aere appendi,⁴ ut omnes eum cavere possent. Ille vero aeris tinnitū gaudebat, et quasi virtutis suae praemium esset,⁵ alios canes prae se contemnere coepit. Cui unus senior, *o te stolidum,*⁶ inquit, *qui ignorare videris,*⁷ isto tinnitu pravitatem morum tuorum indicari!—Haec fabula scripta est in eos, qui sibi insignibus flagitiorum suorum placent.⁸

26. Canis et Lupis.

Lupus canem videns bene saginatum, quanta est, inquit, felicitas tua! Tu, ut videtur, laute vivis, at ego fame enēcor. Tum canis, licet, inquit, *mecum in urbem venias et eadem felicitate fruaris.*⁹ Lupus conditionem accepit. Dum una eunt, animadvertisit lupus in collo canis attritos pilos. Quid hoc est? inquit. Num jugum sustines? cervix enim tua tota est glabra. Nihil est, canis respondit. Sed interdiu me alligant, ut noctu sim vigilanior; atque haec sunt vestigia collaris, quod cervīci circumdāri solet. Tum lupus, vale, inquit, *amicē! nihil moror*¹⁰ felicitatem servitute emtam!—Haec fabula docet, liberis nullum commodum tanti esse,¹¹ quod servitatis calamitatem compensare possit.¹²

27. Lupus et Grus.

In faucibus lupi os inhaeserat. Mercede igitur conduceit¹³ gruem, qui illud extrahat.¹⁴ Hoc grus longitudine colli facile effecit. Quum autem mercedem postularet, subridens lupus et dentibus infrendens, num tibi, inquit, parva merces videtur, quod caput incolumē ex lupi faucibus extraxisti?

28. Agricola et Anguis.

Agricola anguem repērit, frigore paene extinctum. Misericordia motus,¹ eum fovit sinu et subter alas recondidit. Mox anguis recreatus vires recepit, et agricolae, pro beneficio, letale vulnus inflxit.—Haec fabula docet, qualem mercedem mali pro beneficiis reddere soleant.²

29. Asinus et Equus.

Asinus equum beatum praedicabat, qui tam copiose pasceretur,³ quum sibi post molestissimos labores ne paleae quidem satis⁴ praebereretur. Forte autem bello exorto, equus in proelium agitur, et circumventus ab hostibus, post incredibiles labores tandem, multis vulneribus confossus,⁵ collabitur. Haec omnia asinus conspicatus, *o me stolidum,*⁶ inquit, *qui beatitudinem ex praesentis temporis fortuna aestimaverim!*⁷

30. Agricola et Filii.

Agricola senex, quum mortem sibi appropinquare sentiret, filios convocavit, quos, ut fieri solet, interdum discordare novrat,⁸ et fascem virgularum afferri jubet.⁹ Quibus allatis,¹⁰ filios hortabatur, ut hunc fascem frangerent. Quod quum¹¹ facere non possent, distribuit singulis singulas virgas, iisque celeriter fractis, docuit illos, quam firma res esset concordia, quamque imbecillis discordia.

31. Equus et Asinus.

Asinus, onustus sarcinis, equum rogavit, ut aliqua parte¹² oneris se levaret,¹³ si se vivum videre vellet. Sed ille asini preces repudiavit. Paulo post igitur asinus labore consumptus in via corruit et efflavit animam. Tum agitator omnes sarcinas, quas asinus portaverat, atque insuper etiam pellem asino detractam, in equum imposuit. Ibi ille sero priorem superbiam deplōrans, *o me miserum,*¹⁴ inquit, *qui parvulum onus in me recipere noluerim,*¹⁵ quum nunc cogar tantas sarcinas ferre, una cum pelle comitis mei, cuius preces tam superbe contemseram.

32. Mulier et Ancillæ.

Mulier vidua, quae texendo¹⁶ vitam sustentabat, solebat ancillas suas de nocte¹⁷ excitare ad opus,¹⁸ quum primum galli cantum audivisset. At illae, diurno labore fatigatae, statuerunt gallum interficere. Quo facto,¹ deteriore conditione² quam prius esse coeperunt. Nam domina, de hora noctis incerta,³ nunc famulas saepe jam prima nocte⁴ excitabat.

33. Testudo et Aquila.

Testudo aquilam magnopere orabat, ut sese⁵ volare⁶ doceret. Aquila ei ostendebat quidem, eam rem petere naturae suae contrariam; sed illa nihilo minus instabat, et obsecrabat aquilam, ut se volucrem facere vellet. Itaque unguis arreptam aquila sustulit⁷ in sublime, et demisit illam, ut per aërem ferretur. Tum in saxa incidens comminuta interiit.⁸ Haec fabula docet, multos cupiditatibus suis occoecatos consilia prudenter respire, et in exitium ruere stultitia sua.

34. Luscinia et Accipiter.

Accipiter esuriens rapuit lusciniam. Quae quum⁹ intellicheret, sibi mortem impendere, ad preces conversa, orat accipitrem, ne se¹⁰ perdat sine causa. Se enim avidissimum ventrem illius non posse explere, et suadere adeo, ut grandiores aliquas volucres venetur.¹¹ Cui accipiter,¹² insanirem, inquit, si partam praedam¹³ amittere, et incerta pro certis sectari vellem.

35. Senex et Mors.

Senex in silva ligna ceciderat, iisque sublatis¹⁴ domum¹⁵ redire coepit. Quum aliquantum viae¹⁶ progressus esset, et onere et¹⁷ via defatigatus,¹⁸ fascem depositus, et secum aetatis et inopiae mala contemplatus, Mortem clara voce invocat, quae ipsum ab omnibus his malis liberet.¹⁹ Tum Mors, senis precibus auditis subito adstitit, et quid vellet, percunctatur. At Senex, quem jam votorum suorum poenitebat,²⁰ nihil, inquit, sed requiro,²¹ qui onus paululum allevet,²² dum ego rursus subeo.

36. Inimici.

In eādam navi vehebantur duo, qui inter se capitalia odia exercebant. Unus eorum in prora, alter in puppi residebat. Orta tempestate ingenti, quum omnes de vita desperarent, interrogat is, qui in puppi sedebat, gubernatorem, utram par- tem natis prius submersum iri¹ existimaret.² Cui gubernator, proram, respondit. Tum ille, jam mors mihi non molesta est, quum inimici mei mortem adspecturus sim.

37. Hinnuleus et Cervus.

Hinnuleus quondam patrem suum his verbis interrogasse dicitur: Mi pater, quum multo sis major canibus³ et tam ardua cornua habeas, quibus a te vim propulsare possis,⁴ qui fit,⁵ ut canes tantopere metuas? Ibi cervus ridens, mi nate, inquit, vera memoras; mihi tamen, nescio quo pacto, semper accidit, ut, audita canum voce, in fugam statim convertar.—Haec fabula docet, natura formidolosos⁶ nullis rationibus fortis reddi posse.

38. Hoedus et Lopus.

Quum hoedus evasisisset lupum et confugisset in caulam ovium, quid tu, stulte, inquit ille,⁷ hic te salvum futurum⁸ speras, ubi⁹ quotidie pecudes rapi et diis mactari videas? Non curo, inquit hoedus; nam si moriendum sit,¹⁰ quanto praeclarior mihi erit, meo cruore aspergi¹¹ aras deorum immortalium, quam irrigari siccas lupi fauces.—Haec fabula docet, bonos mortem, quae omnibus imminet, non timere, si cum honestate et laude conjuncta sit.

39. Corvus et Vulpes.

Corvus alicunde caseum rapuerat, et cum illo in altam arborem subvolarat. Vulpecula, illum caseum appetens, corvum blandis verbis adoritur; quumque primum formam ejus pennarumque nitorem laudasset, pol,¹² inquit, te avium regem esse dicerem, si cantus pulchritudini tuae responderet. Tum ille, laudibus vulpis inflatus, etiam cantu se valere demonstrare voluit. Ita vero e rostro aperto caseus delapsus est, quem vulpes arreptum devoravit.¹³—Hacc fabula docet, vitandas esse adulatorum voces, qui blanditiis suis nobis insidiantur.

40. Leo.

Societatem junxerant Leo, Juvenca, Capra, Ovis. Praeda autem, quam ceperant, in quatuor partes aequales divisa,¹⁴ leo, prima, ait, mea est; debetur enim haec praestantiae meae. Tollam et secundam, quam meretur robur meum.

Tertiām vindicat sibi egregius labor meus.¹ Quartam qui sibi arrogare voluerit,² is sciat, se habiturum me inimicum sibi. Quid facerent imbecilles bestiae, aut quae³ sibi leonem infestum habere vellet?

41. Mus et Rusticus.

Mus a Rustico in caricarum acervo deprehensus, tam acrimorsu ejus digitos vulneravit, ut ille eum dimitteret, dicens: nihil, mehercule, tam pusillum est, quod de salute desperare debeat;⁴ modo⁵ se defendere et vim depulsare velit.

42. Vultur et Ariculae.

Vultur aliquando aviculas invitavit ad convivium, quod illis daturus esset⁶ die natali suo. Quae⁷ quum ad tempus adessent, eas carpere et occidere, epulasque sibi de invitatis instruere coepit.

43. Ranae.

Ranae laetabantur, quum nuntiatum esset, Solem uxorem duxisse. Sed una caeteris⁸ prudentior, *O vos stolidos!*⁹ inquit; nonne meministis, quanto pere vos saepe unius Solis aestus excruciet?¹⁰ Quid igitur fiet, quum liberos etiam procreaverit?

44. Ranae et Jupiter.

Ranae aliquando regem sibi a Jove petivisse dicuntur.¹¹ Quarum¹² ille precibus exoratus trabem ingentem in lacum dejecit. Ranae sonitu perterritae primum refugēre, deinde vero, trabem in aqua natantem conspicatae, magno cum contentu in ea conserderunt aliumque sibi novis clamoribus regem expetiverunt. Tum Jupiter, earum stultitiam puniturus,¹³ hydram illis misit, a quo¹⁴ quum plurimae captae perirent, sero eas stolidarum precum poenitur.¹⁵

45. Lupi et Pastores.

Quum Philippus, rex Macedoniae, cum Atheniensibus foedus initurus esset, ea conditione, ut oratores suos¹⁶ ipsi tra derent, Demosthēnes¹⁷ populo narravit fabulam, qua¹⁸ iis calidum regis consilium ante oculos poneret. Dixit enim, lupos quondam cum pastoribus pactos esse, se nunquam in posterum greges esse impugnaturos, si canes ipsis dederen-

tur. Placuisse stultis pastoribus conditionem; sed quum lupi caulas excubiis nudatas vidissent, eos impetu facto¹ omnem gregem dilaniasse.

46. Puer mendax.

Puer oves pascens crebro per lusum magnis clamoribus opem rusticorum imploraveret, lupos gregem suum aggressos esse fingens. Saepe autem frustratus² eos, qui auxilium latu-ri advenerant, tandem lupo revēra irruente³ multis cum lacrymis vicinos orare coepit,⁴ ut sibi et gregi subvenirent. At illi eum pariter ut antea ludere existimantes, preces ejus et lacrymas neglexerunt, ita ut lupus libere in oves grassaretur, plurimasque earum dilaniaret.

47. Corvus.

Corvus, qui caseum forte repererat, gaudium alta voce sig-nificavit. Quo sono⁵ allecti⁶ plures corvi famelici advola-verunt, impetuque in illum facto,⁷ opīmam ei dapem eripue-runt.

48. Cornix et Columba.

Cornix columbae gratulabatur foecunditatem, quod singulis mensibus pullos excluderet. At illa, ne mei, inquit, doloris causam commemores. Nam quos pullos edūco, eos⁸ dominus raptos aut ipse comēdit, aut aliis comedendos⁹ vendit. Ita mihi mea foecunditas novum semper luctum parit.

49. Leo, Asinus et Vulpes.

Vulpes, asinus et leo venatum¹⁰ iverant. Ampla praeda facta, leo asinum illam partiri jubet. Qui quum singulis singulas partes poneret aequales, leo eum correptum¹¹ dilaniavit, et vulpeculae partiendi negotium¹² tribuit. Illa astutior,¹³ leoni partem maximam apposuit, sibi vix minimam reservans particulam. Tum leo subridens ejus prudentiam laudare,¹⁴ et unde hoc didicerit,¹⁵ interrogare coepit. Et vulpes, Hujus¹⁶ me, in-quid calamitas docuit, quid minores potentioribus debeant.

50. Muscae.

Effusa mellis copia est: Muscae advolant
 Pascuntur. At Mox impeditis cruribus
 Revolare nequeunt. Heu miseram, inquiunt, vicem!¹
 Cibus iste blandus, qui pellexit suaviter,
 Nunc fraudulentus² quam crudeliter necat!
 Perfida voluptas³ fabula hac depingitur.

51. Cancer.

Mare cancer olim deseruit, in littore
 Pascendi cupidus.⁴ Vulpes hunc simul⁵ adspici
 Jejuna, simul⁵ accurrit, et praedam capit.
 Nae, dixit ille, jure plector, qui,⁶ salo⁷
 Quum fuerim natus, voluerim solo⁷ ingredi!
 Suus unicuique praefinitus est locus,
 Quem praeterire sine periculo non licet.

52. Culex et Taurus.

In cornu tauri parvulus quondam culex
 Consedit; seque⁸ dixit, mole si sua
 Eum gravaret, avolaturum illico.
 At ille:⁹ nec¹⁰ te considentem¹¹ senseram.

III. MYTHOLOGICAL EXTRACTS.

1. Cadmus, Agenōris filius, quod draconem,¹ Martis filium, fontis cuiusdam in Boeotia custodem, occiderat, omnem suam prolem² interemptam vidiit, et ipse cum Harmonia, uxore sua, in Illyriam³ fugit, ubi ambo in dracones conversi sunt.

2. Amȳcus, Neptuni filius, rex Bebryciae,⁴ omnes, qui in ejus regna venissent, cogebat caestibus secum contendere, et victos occidebat. Hic quum Argonautas⁵ ad certamen provocasset, Pollux⁶ cum eo contendit et eum interfecit.

3. Otos et Ephialtes, Aloëi filii, mira magnitudine⁷ fuisse dicuntur. Nam singulis mensibus novem digitis⁸ crescebant. Itaque quum essent annorum⁹ novem, in coelum ascendere sunt conati. Huc sibi aditum sic faciebant, ut montem Ossam super Pelion¹⁰ ponerent, aliosque praeterea montes exstruerent. Sed Apollinis sagittis interemti sunt.

4. Daedalus Euphēmi filius, artifex peritissimus, ob caedem Athenis¹¹ commissam, in Cretam abiit ad regem Minōēm. Ibi labyrinthum¹² exstruxit. A Minoë aliquando in custodiam conjectus, sibi et Icāro filio alas cera aptavit, et cum eo avolavit. Dum Icarus altius evolabat, cera solis calore liquefacta, in mare decidit, quod ex eo Icarium pelagus¹³ est appellatum; Daedalus autem in Siciliam pervenit.

5. Aesculapius, Apollinis filius, medicus praestantissimus, Hippolyto, Thesēi filio, vitam reddidisse dicitur. Ob id facinus Jupiter eum fulmine percussit. Tum Apollo, quod filii mortem in Jove ulcisci non poterat, Cyclōpes,¹⁴ qui fulmina fecerant, interemit. Ob hoc factum, Apollinem Jupiter Admeto, regi Thessaliae,¹⁵ in servitutem dedit.

6. Alcestim, Peliae filiam, quum multi in matrimonium pterent, Pelias promisit, se filiam ei esse daturum, qui feras currui junxisset. Admetus, qui eam perdite amabat, Apollinem rogavit, ut se in hoc negotio adjuvaret. Is quum ab Admeto, dum ei serviebat, liberaliter esset tractatus, aprum ei et leonem currui junxit, quibus ille Alcestim avexit. Idem gravi morbo implicitus,¹⁶ munus ab Apolline accepit, ut praesens periculum effugeret, si quis¹ sponte pro eo moreretur. Jam quum neque pater, neque mater Admeti pro eo mori voluissent, uxor se Alcestis morti obtulit, quam Hercules,² forte adveniens, Orci³ manibus eripuit et Admeto reddidit.

7. Cassiope⁴ filiae suae Andromedae formam Nerēidū⁵ formae anteposuit. Ob hoc crimen illae a Neptuno postulaverunt, ut Andromeda ceto immani, quod oras populabatur, objiceretur. Quae quum ad saxum alligata esset, Perseus⁶ ex Libya, ubi Medusam⁷ occiderat, advolavit, et, bellua devicta et interemta, Andromedam liberavit.

8. Quam quum abducere vellet victor,⁸ Agēnor, cui antea desponsata fuerat, Persēo insidiās struxit, ut eum interficeret, sponsamque eriperet. Ille, re cognita,⁹ caput Medusae insidiabantibus ostendit, quo viso,¹⁰ omnes in saxa mutati sunt. Perseus autem cum Andromeda in patriam¹¹ rediit.

9. Cēyx, Hespēri filius, quum in naufragio periisset, Alcyōne, conjugis morte audita, se in mare praecipitavit. Tum deorum misericordia ambo in aves sunt mutati, quae Alcyōnes appellantur. Hae aves pariunt hiberno tempore. Per illos dies mare tranquillum esse dicitur; unde nautae tranquillos et serenos dies Alcyonios appellare solent.

10. Tantālus, Jovis filius, tam carus fuit Diis, ut Jupiter ei consilia sua concrederet eumque ad epulas Deorum admitteret. At ille, quae apud Jovem audiverat, cum mortalibus communicabat. Ob id crimen dicitur apud inferos in aqua collocatus esse, semperque sitire. Nam quoties haustum aquae sumturus est, aqua recedit. Tum etiam poma ei super caput pendunt; sed quoties ea decerpere conatur, rami vento moti¹² recedunt. Alii saxum ejus capiti impendēre dicunt, cuius ruinam timens, perpetuo metu cruciatur.

11. In nuptiis Pelēi¹³ et Thetidis¹⁴ omnes Dii invitati erant praeter Discordiam. Haec irā commota mālum¹⁵ misit¹⁶ in medium,¹⁷ cui inscripta erant verba; Pulcherrima me habeto. Tum Juno, Venus et Minerva illud simul appetebant; magnāque inter eas discordia exorta, Jupiter Mercurio¹⁸ imperat, ut Deas ad Paridem,¹⁹ Priami filium, duceret, qui in monte Ida²⁰ greges pascebatur; hunc earum litem diremtrum esse.²¹ Huic Juno, si se pulcherrimam judicasset, omnium terrarum regnum est pollicita; Minerva ei splendidam inter homines famam promisit; Venus autem Helenam, Ledae et Jovis filiam, se ei in conjugium dare spopondit.²² Paris, hoc dono prioribus anteposito,²³ Venerem pulcherrimam esse judicavit. Postea, Veneris hortatu, Lacedoemōnem profectus, Helenam conjugi suo Menelāo²⁴ eripuit. Hinc bellum Trojanum originem cepit, ad quod tota fere Graecia, duce Agamemnōne, Menelai fratre, profecta est.

12. Thetis, Pelēi conjux, quum sciret, Achillem, filium suum, cito peritum esse,¹ si Graecorum exercitum ad Trojam sequeretur, eum misit in insulam Scyron² regique Lycomēdi commendavit. Ile eum muliebri habitu inter filias suas servabat. Graeci autem quum audivissent, Achillem ibi occultari, Ulysses, rex Ithacae,³ in regio vestibulo munera feminea in calathiscis ponebat, simulque clypeum et hastam, mulieresque advocari⁴ jussit. Quae dum omnia contemplabantur, subito tubicen cecinit; quo sono auditio, Achilles arma arripuit. Unde⁵ eum virum esse intellectum est.

13. Quum totus Graecorum exercitus Aulide⁶ convenisset, adversa tempestas eos ob iram Dianaē retinebat. Agamemnon⁷ enim, dux illius expeditionis, cervam Deae sacram vulneraverat, superbiusque⁸ in Dianam loquutus erat. Is quum haruspices convocasset, hi responderunt, iram Deae expiari non posse, nisi filiam suam Iphigeniā ei immolasset. Hanc ob causam Ulysses Argos profectus, mentitur, Agamemnonem filiam Achilli in matrimonium promisisse. Sic eam Aulidem abduxit.⁹ Ubi quum pater eam immolare vellet, Diana, virginem miserata, cervam ei supposuit. Iphigeniam ipsam per nubes in terram Tauricam¹⁰ detulit, ibique templi sui sacerdotem fecit.

14. Trojā eversā quum Graeci domum redire vellent, ex Achillis¹¹ tumulo vox dicitur fuisse audita, quae Graecos monebat, ne fortissimum virum sine honore relinquenter. Quare Graeci Polyxénam, Priami filiam, quae virgo fuit formosissima, ad sepulcrum ejus immolaverunt.

15. Promētheus, Japēti filius, primus homines ex luto finxit, iisque ignem e coelo in ferula attulit, monstravitque, quomodo cinere obrūtum servarent. Ob hanc rem Vulcanus eum in monte Caucāso¹² Jovis jussu clavis ferreis alligavit ad saxum; aquila ei apposita, quae¹³ cor exederet. Quantum vero interdiu exederat, tantum nocte crescebat. Hanc aquilam insequenti tempore Hercules transfixit sagittis, Prometheusque liberavit.

16. Pluto,¹⁴ inferorum Deus, a Jove fratre petebat, ut sibi Proserpinam, Jovis et Cerēris filiam, in matrimonium daret. Jupiter negavit¹⁵ quidem, Cererem passuram esse, ut filia in tenebris Tartari moraretur; sed fratri permisit, ut eam, si posset, raperet. Quare Proserpinam, in nemore Ennae in Sicilia flores legentem, Pluto, quadrigis ex terrae hiatu proveniens, rapuit.

17. Ceres quum nesciret, ubi filia esset, eam per totum orbem terrarum quaesivit. In quo itinere ad Celēum venit, regem Eleusiniorum,¹ cuius uxor Metanīra puerum Triptolēmum pepererat, rogavitque, ut se tanquam nutricem in dominum reciperent. Quo facto, quum Ceres alumnum suum immortalem reddere vellet, eum interdiu lacte divino alebat, noctu clam igne obruebat.² Itaque mirum in modum crescebat. Quod quum mirarentur parentes, eam observaverunt. Qui quum viderent, Cererem puerum in ignem mittere, pater exclamavit. Tum Dea Celeum exanimavit; Triptolemo autem currum draconibus junctum tribuit, frugesque mandavit, quas³ per orbem terrarum vectus disseminaret.

18. Althaea, Thestii filia, ex Oeneo peperit Meleagrum. Ei Parcae⁴ ardenter titionem dederunt, praefantes, Meleagrum tam diu victurum,⁵ quam diu is titio foret incolumis. Hunc itaque Althaea diligenter in arca clausum servavit. Interim Diana, Oeneo irata, quia ei sacra annua non fecerat, aprum mira magnitudine misit, qui agrum Calydonium⁶ vastaret. Quem Meleager cum juvenibus ex omni Graecia delectis interfecit, pelleisque ejus Atalantae⁷ donavit. Cui quum Althaeae fratres eam eripere vellent, illa Meleagri auxilium imploravit, qui avunculos occidit. Tum Althaea, gravi ira in filium commota, titionem illum fatalem in ignem conjectit. Sic Meleager periit. At sorores ejus, dum fratrem insolabiliter lugent, in aves⁸ mutatae sunt.

19. Europam, Agenōris filiam Sidoniam, Jupiter, in taurum mutatus, Sidōne⁹ Cretam¹⁰ transvexit, et ex ea procreavit Minōēm, Sarpedōnem et Rhadamanthum. Hanc ut reducerent, Agēnor filios suos misit, conditione addita,¹¹ ut nec ipsi redirent, nisi sororem invenissent. Horum unus, Cadmus¹² nomine, quum erraret, Delphos¹³ venit, ibique responsum accepit, bovem praecedentem sequeretur;¹⁴ ubi ille decubuisset, ibi urbem conderet. Quod quum faceret, in Boeotiam¹⁵ venit. Ibi aquam quaerens, ad fontem Castalium dracōnem¹⁶ invēnit, Martis filium, qui aquam custodiebat. Hunc Cadmus interfecit, dentesque ejus sparsit et aravit.¹⁷ Unde Sparti¹⁸ enati sunt. Pugnā inter illos exortā, quinque superfuerunt, ex quibus quinque nobiles Thebanorum¹⁹ stirpes originem duxerunt.

20. Quum Bacchus, Jovis ex Semēle filius, exercitum in Indiam duceret, Silēnus²⁰ ab agmine aberravit. Quem Midas, rex Mygdoniae,²¹ hospitio liberaliter accepit, eique ducem dedit, qui eum ad Bacchum reduceret. Ob hoc beneficium Bacchus Midae optionem dedit, ut, quidquid vellet, a se peteret. Ille petiit, ut quidquid tetigisset,¹ aurum fieret. Quod quum impetrasset, quidquid tetigerat, aurum fiebat. Primo gavisus est hac virtute sua; mox intellexit, nihil ipsi hoc munere perniciosius esse. Nam etiam cibus et potio in aurum mutabatur. Quum jam fame cruciaretur, petit a Baccho, ut donum suum revocaret. Quem² Bacchus jussit in flumine Pactōlo se abluere, quumque aquam tetigisset, facta est colore aureo.³

21. Schoeneus⁴ Atalantam filiam formosissimam dicitur habuisse, quae cursu viros superabat. Haec quum a pluribus in conjugium peteretur, pater ejus conditionem proposuit, ut, qui eam ducere vellet, prius cursu cum ea contendere; si victus esset, occideretur. Multos quum superasset et interfecisset, tandem ab Hippomēne victa est. Hic enim a Venere tria mala aurea acceperat. Dum currebant, horum⁵ unum post alterum projectit, iisque Atalantae cursum tardavit. Nam dum mala colligit, Hippomenes ad metam pervenit. Huic itaque Schoeneus filiam uxorem dedit. Quam quum in patriam duceret, oblitus Veneris beneficio se viciisse, grates ei non egit. Hanc ob causam Hippomenes mutatus est in leonem, Atalanta in leaenam.

22. Nisus, rex Megarensium, in capite crinem purpureum habuisse dicitur, eique praedictum fuit, tam diu eum regnaturum, quam diu eum crinem custodisset. Hunc Minos, rex Cretensium, bello aggressus est. Qui quum urbem Megāram⁶ oppugnaret, Scylla, Nisi filia, amore ejus correpta est, et, ut ei victoriam pararet, patri dormienti fatalem crinem praecidit. Ita Nisus a Minōe victus et occisus est. Quum autem Minos in Cretam rediret, Scylla eum rogavit, ut eam secum aveheret. Sed ille negavit,⁷ Cretam tantum scelus⁸ esse recepturam. Tum illa se in mare praecepit,⁹ navemque persecutur. Nisus in aquilam marinam conversus est, Scylla in pisces, quem Cirim vocant. Hodieque, si quando illa avis hunc pisces conspexerit, mittit se in aquam raptumque unguibus dīlaniat.

23. Amphīon, Jovis et Antiōpes filius, qui Thebas muris cinxit,¹⁰ Niōben, Tantāli filiam, in matrimonium duxit. Ex qua procreavit filios septem, totidemque filias. Quem partum¹¹ Niobe Latonae liberis anteposuit, superbiusque¹² loquuta est in Apollinem et Dianam. Ob id Apollo filios ejus venantes sagittis interfecit, Diana autem filias. Niobe, liberis orbata, in saxum mutata esse dicitur,¹³ ejusque lacrymae hodieque manare narrantur.¹³ Amphion autem, quum templum Apollinis expugnare vellet, ab Apolline sagittis est interfectus.

IV. ANECDOTES OF EMINENT PERSONS OF ANTIQUITY.

1. Thales interrogatus, an facta hominum deos laterent,¹ respondit, ne cogitata quidem.
2. Solon, qui Atheniensibus leges scripsit, dicebat, neminem, dum viveret,² beatum haberri posse, quod omnes ad ultimum usque diem ancipi³ fortunae obnoxii essent.
3. Pythagorae philosophi tanta fuit apud discipulos suos auctoritas, ut, quae ab eo⁴ audivissent, ea in dubitatiohem aducere non auderent. Rogati autem, ut causam redderent eorum, quae dixissent, respondebant, Ipsum dixisse. Ipse autem erat Pythagoras.
4. Bias, unus ex septem Sapientibus, quum patriam Priēnen⁵ ab hostibus expugnatam et eversam fugeret, interrogatus, cur nihil ex bonis suis secum ferret; *ego vero,*⁶ respondit, bona mea mecum porto omnia.
5. Democritus, cui pater ingentes divitias reliquerat, omne fere patrimonium suum civibus donavit, ne domesticarum rerum cura a philosophiae studio avocaretur.
6. Etiam Crates Thebanus bona sua inter Thebanos divisit, nihil sibi servans praeter peram et baculum. Haec enim Cynicorum⁷ instrumenta erant. A quo consilio quum amici et propinqui eum avocare studerent, eos correpto baculo fugavit, nihil pulchrius esse arbitratus, quam ab omnibus curis vacuum uni philosophiae operam dare.
7. Anaxagoras quum a longinqua peregrinatione, scientiae augendae causa suscepta, in patriam rediisset, agrosque suos neglectos et desertos videret,⁸ non essem, inquit, *salvus, nisi ista periissent.*⁹
8. Carneades usque ad extremam senectam nunquam cessavit a philosophiae studio. Saepe ei accidit, ut, quum cibi capiendo causa accubuisse¹⁰ cogitationibus inhaerens,¹¹ manum ad cibos appositos porrigere oblivisceretur.
9. Idem adversus Zenōnem Stoicum scripturus, caput hellebōro purgabat, ne corrupti humores sollertia et acumen mentis impedirent.

10. Anaxagōras, philosophus, morte filii auditā, vultu nihil immutato dixit: Sciebam me mortalem genuisse.

11. Archytas Tarēntinus,¹ quum ab itinere reversus, agros suos villici² socordia neglectos videret, graviter te castigarem, inquit, nisi iratus essem.

12. Plato quoque quum in servum vehementius³ exarsisset,⁴ veritus⁵ ne vindictae modum excederet, Speusippo⁶ adstanti mandavit, ut de illius poena statueret.

13. Idem, discendi cupiditate ductus,⁶ Aegyptum peragravit, et a sacerdotibus illius regionis geometriam et astronomiam didicit. Idem in Italiam trajecit, ut ubi Pythagorae⁷ philosophiam et instituta disceret.

14. Athenienses Socrātem damnaverunt, quod novos deos introducere videbatur. Protagōram quoque philosophum, qui ausus fuerat scribere, se ignorare, an dii essent, Athenienses ex urbe pepulerunt.

15. Xanthippe, Socratis uxor, morosa admodum fuisse fertur.⁸ Quam ejus indolem quum perspexisset Alcibiades, Socratem interrogavit, quid esset, quod⁹ mulierem tam acerbam et jurgiosam non exigeret domo. Tum ille, quoniam, inquit, dum illam domi perpetior, insuesco, ut ceterorum quoque foris petulantiam et injurias facilius feram.

16. Xenocrātes philosophus quum maledicorum quorundam sermoni interesset,¹⁰ neque quidquam ipse loqueretur, interrogatus, cur solus taceret, respondit: quia dixisse me aliquando poenituit¹¹ tacuisse nunquam.

17. Hegesias philosophus in disputationibus suis mala et cruciatus vitae tam vividis coloribus repraesentabat, ut multi, qui eum audiverant, sponte se occiderent. Quare a Ptolemaeo¹² rege ulterius his de rebus disserere est prohibitus.

18. Gorgiae Leontino¹³ qui eloquentia et eruditione omnes sua aetatis homines superare existimabatur,¹⁴ universa Graecia in templo Apollinis Delphici¹⁵ statuam auream collocavit.

19. Idem quum annum centesimum septimum ageret, interrogatus, quapropter tam diu vellet in vita remanere? respondit: quia nihil habeo, quod¹⁶ senectutem meam accūsem.

20. Illustrissimi saepe viri humili loco nati fuerunt. Socrates, quem oraculum Apollinis sapientissimum omnium hominum judicavit, obstetricis filius fuit. Euripiðes, poëta, tragicus, matrem habuit, quae olera venditabat; et Demosthēnis, oratoris eloquentissimi, patrem cultellos vendidisse narrant.

21. Homerus, princeps poëtarum Graecorum, dolore absumtus esse creditur,¹ quod quaestionem² a piscatoribus ipsi propositam solvere non posset.

22. Simonides, poëta praestantissimus, gloriatur in quodam poëmate, se octoginta annos natum³ in certamen musicum⁴ descendisse, et victoram inde retulisse. Idem aliquamdiu vixit apud Hipparchum, Pisistrati filium, Athenarum tyrannum. Inde Syracusas se contulit ad Hierōnem regem, cum quo familiariter vixisse dicitur. Primus carmina statuto pretio scripsit; quare eum Musam venalem reddidisse dicunt.⁵

23. Quum Aeschylus Atheniensis, qui parens tragoeiae dicitur, in Sicilia versaretur, ibique in loco aprīco sederet, aquila testudinem glabro eius capiti immisit, quod pro saxo habuit. Quo ictu ille extinctus est.

24. Euripides, qui et ipse⁶ magnum inter poëtas tragicos nomen habet, a coena domum rediens⁷ a canibus laceratus est.

25. Athenienses quandam ab Euripide postulabant, ut ex tragoezia sententiam⁸ quandam tolleret. Ille autem in scenam progressus dixit: se fabulas componere solere, ut populum doceret, non ut a populo disceret.

26. Philippides, comoediarum scriptor, quum in poëtarum certamine praeter spem vicisset, et illa victoria impense gauderet, eo ipso gaudio repente extinctus est.

27. Pindārus, poëta Thebanus, Apollini gratissimus fuisse dicitur. Quare saepe a sacerdotibus in templū Delphicum ad coenam vocabatur, parsque ei tribuebatur donorum, quae sacrificantes deo obtulerant. Ferunt etiam Pana⁹ Pindari hymnis tantopere fuisse laetatum, ut eos in montibus et silvis caneret. Quum Alexander, rex Macedoniae, Thebas diriperet, unius Pindari domo et familiae pepercit.¹⁰

28. Diogēnes Cynicus Myndum¹¹ profectus, quum videret magnificas portas et urbem exiguum, Myndios monuit, ut portas clauderent, ne urbs egrederetur.

29. Demosthenes, Atheniensis, incredibili studio et labore eo p̄rvēnit, ut, quum¹² multi eum ingenio parum valere existimarent, omnes aetatis suae oratores superaret eloquentia. Numquam tamen ex tempore dicebat, neque in concione volebat assurgere, nisi rem, de qua ageretur,¹³ accurate antea meditatus esset. Unde plerique eum timidum esse existimabant. Sed in hac re Periclis¹⁴ consuetudinem imitabatur, qui non facile de quaue re dicere, nēc existimationem suam fortunae committere solebat.

30. Pericles in concionem iturus,¹⁵ quum animo perpendet, quantum periculi inconsiderate dicta hominibus afferrent, solebat precari a diis, ne quod¹ ipsi verbum imprudenti excideret, quod reipublicae officere posset.

31. Minos, Cretensium rex, saepe se in speluncam quan-dam conferebat, ibique se cum Jove collōqui legesque ab eo accipere dicebat. Etiam Lycurgus² Lacedaemoniis persuasit,³ se leges suas ab Apolline didicisse.

32. Quum Lycurgus, Lacedaemoniorum legislator, Delphis in templum Apollinis intrasset, ut a deo oraculum petret, Pythia⁴ eum his verbis allocuta est: nescio, utrum Deus an homo appellandus sis; sed deus potius videris esse.

33. Leonidas, rex Lacedaemoniorum, quum Persae⁵ dicentur sagittarum multitudine solem obscuraturi,⁶ respondisse fertur: melius itaque in umbra pugnabimus.

34. Cyrus⁷ omnium suorum militum nomina memoria te-nebat. Mithridates autem, rex Ponti,⁸ duarum et viginti gentium, quae sub regno ejus erant, linguas ita didicerat, ut cum omnibus, quibus imperabat, sine interprēte loqui posset.

35. Themistocles interroganti, utrum Achilles⁹ esse mallet, an Homerus, respondit: Tu vero mallesne te in Olympico certamine¹⁰ victorem renuntiari, an praeco esse, qui victorum nomina proclamat?

36. Epaminondas,¹¹ Thebanorum imperator, in bello adver-sus Lacedaemonios, animos suorum religione excitandos ratus, arma in templis affixa¹² nocte detraxit, persuasitque militibus, quum illa abesse viderent, deos iter suum sequi, ut ipsis proe-liantibus adessent.

37. Idem in pugna ad Mantinēam¹³ graviter vulneratus est. Quum animam recepisset, interrogavit circumstantes amicos, an clypeus¹⁴ salvus esset? deinde, an hostes fusi essent? Illi utrumque affirmaverunt. Tum demum hastam e corpore educi jussit. Quo facto statim exspiravit.

38. Epaminondas tanta fuit abstinentia¹⁵ et integritate, ut post plurima bella, quibus Thebanorum potentiam incredibili-ter auxerat, nihil in supellectili haberet praeter ahenum et veru.

39. Lysander,¹⁶ dux Lacedaemoniorum, militem quendam, via egressum, castigabat. Cui dicenti, ad nullius rei rapinam se ab agmine recessisse, respondit: ne speciem quidem rapturi praebeas volo.¹⁷

40. Iphicrātes, dux Atheniensium, quum praesidiō teneret Corinthum, et sub adventum hostium ipse vigilias circumiret, vigilem, quem dormientem invenerat hasta transfixit. Quod factum¹⁸ quibusdam ei, ut saevum, exprobrantibus, qualem invēni, inquit, talem reliqui.

41. Quum quidam Thrasybūlo,¹⁹ qui civitatem Atheniensium a tyrannorum dominatione liberavit, dixisset: quantas tibi gratias Athenae debent! ille respondit: Dii faciant, ut quantas¹ ipse patriae debo gratias, tantas ei videar retulisse.²

42. Philippus, rex Macedonum, monentibus eum quibusdam, ut Pythiam quendam caveret, fortem militem, sed ipsi alienatum, quod tres filias aegre aleret, nec a rege adjuvaretur, dixisse fertur: Quid? si partem corporis haberem aegram, abscondere potius an curarem? Deinde Pythiam ad se vocatum,⁴ accepta difficultate rei domesticae, pecunia instruxit. Quo facto, nullum rex militem Pythia⁵ fideliores habuit.

43. Mulier quaedam ab eodem Philippo, quum a convivio temulentus recederet, damnata,⁶ a Philippo, inquit, temulento ad Philippum sobrium provoco.

44. Philippus, rex Macedoniae, praedicare solebat, se oratoribus Atheniensium maximam gratiam habere. Nam conviciis suis, inquit, efficiunt, ut quotidie melior eradam, dum eos dictis factisque mendacii arguere conor.

45. Ejusdem regis epistola fertur scripta ad Aristotelem philosophum, qua filium⁷ sibi natum esse nuntiavit. Erat illa epistola verbis concepta fere his: Filium mihi genitum esse scito. Quod⁸ equidem diis habeo gratiam: non tam quod natus est, quam quod ei contigit nasci temporibus vitae tuae. Spero enim fore, ut⁹ a te educatus et eruditus dignus evadat et nobis et rebus,¹⁰ quas ipsi relicturi sumus.

46. Alexander, Macédo, Philippi filius, quum puer a preceptoré suo audivisset, innumerabiles mundos esse, heu me miserum, inquit, qui ne uno quidem adhuc potitus sum!

47. Quum Alexander quondam Macedonum quorundam benevolentiam largitionibus sibi conciliare conatus esset, Philippus eum his verbis increpuit: Sperasne¹¹ eos¹² tibi fideles esse futuros, quos pecunia tibi conciliaveris? Scito, amore non auro emi, sed virtutibus.

48. Alexandro Macedoni, Asia debellata,¹³ Corinthii per legatos gratulati sunt, regemque civitate sua¹⁴ donaverunt. Quod officii¹⁵ genus quum Alexander risisset, unus ex legatis, nulli unquam, inquit, civitatem dedimus alii, quam tibi et Herculi. Quo auditio Alexander honorem sibi delatum lumentissime¹⁶ accepit.

49. Quum Alexander Graeciae populis imperasset, ut divinos ipsi honores decernerent, Lacedaemonii his verbis ute-bantur:¹⁷ quoniam Alexander deus esse voluit, esto deus; Laconica brevitate¹⁸ regis notantes recordiam.

50. Lysimachus,¹⁹ rex Thraciae, Theodōrum Cyrenaeum,²⁰ virum libertatis amantissimum et regiae dominationi infestum, cruci affigi jussit. Cui ille, hujusmodi minis, inquit, purpu- ratos tuos terreas. Mea quidem nihil interest,¹ humine² an sublime³ putrescam.

51. Mausōlus, rex Cariae,⁴ Artemisiam habuit conjugem. Haec, Mausolo defuncto, ossa cineremque mariti contusa et odoribus mixta cum aqua potabat. Exstruxit quoque, ad conservandam ejus memoriam, sepulcrum⁵ illud nobilissimum, ab ejus nomine appellatum, quod inter septem orbis terrarum miracula⁶ numeratur. Quod quum Mausoli manibus⁷ dicaret, certamen instituit, praemiis amplissimis ei propositis,⁸ qui defunctum regem optime laudasset.

52. Dionysius,⁹ qui a patre Syracusarum et paene totius Siciliae tyrannidem acceperat, senex, patria pulsus, Corinthi pueros litteras docuit.

53. Mithridates, rex Ponti, saepe venenum hauserat, ut sibi a clandestinis caveret insidiis. Hinc factum est, ut, quum a Pompejo superatus mortem sibi consciscere vellet, ne velocissima quidem venena ei nocerent.

54. Quum Gyges, rex Lydiae¹⁰ ditissimus, oraculum Apollinis interrogaret, *an quisquam mortalium se esset felicior,*¹¹ deus Aglāum quendam Psophidium¹² feliciorem praedicavit. Is autem erat Arcādum pauperrimus, parvuli agelli possessor, cuius terminos, quamvis senex, nunquam excesserat, fructibus et voluptatibus angusti ruris contentus.

55. Pyrrhus,¹³ rex Epīri, quum in Italia esset, audivit, Tarrentinos quosdam juvenes in convvio parum honorifice de se loquitos esse. Eos igitur ad se arcessitos percunctatus est, an dixissent ea, quae ad aures suas pervenissent. Tum unus ex his, nisi, inquit, *vinum nobis defecisset, multo etiam plura et graviora in te loquuturi eramus.*¹⁴ Haec criminis excusatio iram regis in risum convertit.

56. Marsyas, frater Antigōni,¹⁵ regis Macedoniae, quum causam haberet cum privato quodam, fratrem rogavit, ut de ea domi cognosceret. At ille, *in foro potius,*¹⁶ inquit. Nam si culpā vacas, innocentia tua ibi melius apparebit; sin damnandus es, nostra justitia.

57. Clara sunt apud Catanenses¹⁷ nomina fratum Anāpi et Amphinōmi, qui patrem et matrem humeris per medios ignes Aetnae portarunt, eosque cum vitae suaे periculo e flammis eripuerunt.

58. Spartanus quidam quum rideretur, quod claudus in pugnam iret, at¹⁸ mihi, inquit, pugnare, non fugere est propositum.

59. Spartanus quidam in magistratus petitione ab aemulis victus, *maximae sibi laetitiae esse,*¹⁹ dixit, quod patria sua se meliores²⁰ cives haberet.

60. Quum homo quidam, qui diu in uno pede stare didice rat, Lacedaemonio cuidam dixisset, se non arbitrari, Lacedaemoniorum quemquam tamdiu idem facere posse, ille respondit: at anseres¹ te diutius.

61. Diagōras Rhodius,² quum tres ejus filii in ludis Olympicis³ victores renuntiati essent, tanto affectus est gaudio, ut in ipso stadio, inspectante populo,⁴ in filiorum manibus animam redderet.

62. Scipio Africanus⁵ nunquam ad negotia publica accedebat, ante quam in templo Jovis precatus esset.

63. Scipio dicere solebat, hosti non solum dandam esse viam fugiendi, sed etiam munieram. Similiter Pyrrhus, rex Epīri,⁶ fugienti hosti pertinaciter instandum esse negabat;⁷ non solum, ne fortius⁸ ex necessitate⁹ resisteret, sed ut postea quoque facilius acie cederet, ratus, victores fugientibus non usque ad perniciem instatuos esse.

64. Metellus Pius, in Hispania bellum gerens, interrogatus, quid postero die facturus esset? tunicam meam, inquit, si id elōqui posset, comburerem.

65. L. Mummius, qui, Corintho¹⁰ capta, totam Italiam tabulis statuisque exornavit, ex tantis manubiis nihil in suum usum convertit, ita ut, eo defuncto, non esset unde¹¹ ejus filia dotem acciperet. Quare senatus ei ex publico dotem decrevit.

66. Scipio Africanus major¹² Ennii poëtae imaginem in sepulcro gentis Corneliae¹³ collocari jussit, quod Scipiōnum res gestas carminibus suis illustraverat.

67. M. Cato, Catonis Censorii filius, in acie, cadente equo prolapsus, quum se recollegisset, animadvertissetque gladium excidisse vagina, rediit in hostem: acceptisque aliquot vulneribus, recuperato demum gladio¹⁴ ad suos reversus est.

68. Q. Metellus Macedonicus in Hispania quinque cohortes, quae hostibus cesserant testamentum facere jussas, ad locum¹⁵ recuperandum misit; minatus, eos¹⁶ non nisi post victoriam receptum iri.

69. Publius Decius consul, quum in bello contra Latinos Romanorum aciem cedentem videret,¹⁷ capite pro reipublicae salute devoto,¹⁸ in medium hostium agmen irruit, et magna strage edita plurimis telis obrūtus cecidit. Haec ejus mors Romanorum aciem restituit iisque victoriam paravit.

70. L. Junius Brutus, qui Romam a regibus liberavit,¹⁹ filios suos, qui Tarquinium regem expulsum restituere conati erant, ipse capititis damnavit, eosque virgis caesos²⁰ securi percūti jussit.

71. Q. Marcius Rex, consul, quum filium unicum, juvenem summae pietatis et magnae spei, morte amisisset, dolorem suum ita coërcuit, ut a rogo adolescentis protēnus curiam peteret, ibīque muneris sui negotia strenue obiret.

72. In bello Romanorum cum Perséo,¹ ultimo Macedoniae rege, accidit, ut serena nocte subito luna deficeret. Haec res ingentem apud milites terrorem excitavit, qui existimabant, hoc omine² futuram cladem portendi. Tum vero Sulpicius Gallus, qui erat in eo exercitu, in concione militum causām hujus rei tam diserte exposuit, ut postero die omnes intrepido animo pugnam committerent.

73. L. Siccius Dentatus ob insignem fortitudinem appellatus est Achilles Romanus. Pugnasse is dicitur centum et viginti proeliis; cicatricem aversam³ nullam, adversas quinque et quadraginta tulisse; coronis⁴ esse donatus aureis duodeviginti, obsidionali una, muralibus tribus, civicis quatuordecim, torquibus tribus et octoginta, armillis plus centum sexaginta, hastis duodeviginti. Phalēris idem donatus est quinques viciesque. Triumphavit cum imperatoribus suis triumphos novem.

74. Hannibalem in Italiam proficiscentem tria millia Carteanorum⁵ reliquerent. Quorum exemplum ne caeteri quoque barbari⁶ sequerentur, edixit, eos a se esse dimissos, et insuper in fidem ejus rei⁷ alios etiam, quorum fides ipsi suspecta erat, domum remisit.

75. Hannibal quum elephantos compellere non posset, ut praealtum flumen transirent, neque rates haberet, quibus eos trajiceret,⁸ jussit ferocissimum elephantorum sub aure vulnerari,⁹ et eum, qui vulnerasset, se in flumen conjicere illudque tranare. Tum elephantus exasperatus ad persequendum doloris sui auctorem tranavit amnem, et reliqui quoque eum secuti sunt.

SECOND DIVISION.

AN EPITOME OF ROMAN HISTORY, FROM THE EARLIEST AGES TO THE TIME OF THE EMPERORS.

LIBER PRIMUS.

1. Antiquissimis temporibus Saturnus in Italiam venisse dicitur. Ibi haud procul a Janiculo¹ arcem condidit, eamque Saturniam appellavit. Hic Italos primus agriculturam docuit.

2. Postea Latinus in illis regionibus imperavit. Sub hoc rege Troja² in Asia eversa est. Hinc Aenēas, Anchisae filius, cum multis Trojanis, quibus ferrum Graecorum pepercera³ aufūgit, et in Italiam pervenit. Ibi Latinus rex ei benigne recepto filiam Laviniam in matrimonium dedit. Aeneas urbem condidit, quam in honorem conjugis Lavinium appellavit.

3. Post Aeneae mortem, Ascanius, Aeneae filius, regnum accepit. Hic sedem regni in alium locum transtulit, urbemque condidit in monte Albano, eamque Albam longam⁴ nuncupavit. Eum secutus est Silvius; qui post Aeneae mortem a Lavinia genitus erat. Ejus posteri omnes, usque ad Romanam conditam, Albae regnaverunt.

4. Unus horum regum, Romulus Silvius, se Jove majorem esse dicebat, et, quum tonaret, militibus imperavit, ut clypeos hastis percuterent, dicebatque, hunc sonum multo clariorem esse quam tonitru. Fulmine ictus et in Albanum lacum praecipitatus est.

5. Silvius Procas, rex Albanorum, duos filios tenquit, Numitorum et Amulium. Horum minor natu, Amulius, fratri optionem dedit, utrum regnum habere vellet, an bona, quae pater reliquisset. Numitor paterna bona praetulit; Amulius regnum obtinuit.

6. Amulius, ut regnum firmissime possideret, Numitoris filium per insidias interemit, et filiam fratris, Rheam Silviam, Vestalem virginem fecit. Nam his Vestae sacerdotibus¹ non licet viro nubere.² Sed haec a Marte geminos filios, Romulum et Remum, peperit. Hoc quum Amulius compresisset, matrem in vincula conjecit, pueros autem in Tiberim abjici jussit.

7. Forte Tiberis aqua ultra ripam³ se effuderat, et quum pueri in vado essent positi, aqua refluens eos in sicco reliquit. Ad eorum vagitum lupa accurrit, eosque uberibus suis aluit. Quod videns Faustulus quidam, pastor illius regionis, pueros sustulit, et uxori Accae Laurentiae nutriendos⁴ dedit.

8. Sic Romulus et Remus pueritiam inter pastores transegerunt. Quum adolevissent, et forte comperissent, quis ipsorum avus, quae mater fuisset, Amulium interfecerunt, ante et Numitori avo regnum restituerunt. Tum urbem considerunt in monte Aventino, quam Romulus a suo nomine Romam vocavit. Haec quum moenibus circumdaretur, Remus occisus est, dum fratrem irridens moenia transiliebat.

9. Romulus, ut civium numerum augeret, asylum⁵ paterficit, ad quod multi ex civitatibus suis pulsi⁶ accurrerunt. Sed novae urbis civibus conjuges deerant. Festum itaque Neptuni et ludos instituit. Ab hos quum multi ex finitim populis cum mulieribus et liberis venissent, Romani, inter ipsos ludos, spectantes virgines rapuerunt.

10. Populi illi, quorum virgines raptae erant, bellum aduersus raptore suscepérunt. Quum Romaē appropinquarent, forte in Tarpejam virginem inciderunt, quae in arce⁷ sacra procurabat. Hanc rogabant, ut viam in arcem monstraret, eique permiserunt ut munus sibi posceret. Illa petiit, ut sibi darent, quod in sinistris manibus gererent, annulos aureos et armillas significans. At hostes, in arcem ab ea perducti, scutis Tarpejam obruerunt; nam et haec in sinistris manibus geregabant.

11. Tum Romulus cum hoste, qui montem Tarpejum tenebat, pugnam conseruit in eo loco, ubi nunc forum Romanum est. In media caede raptae processerunt, et hinc patres, hinc conjuges et soceros complectebantur et rogabant, ut caedis finem facerent. Utrique his precibus commoti sunt. Romulus foedus icit, et Sabinos in urbem recepit.⁸

12. Postea civitatem descripsit. Centum senatores legit, eosque cum ob aetatem, tum ob reverentiam iis debitam, Patres appellavit. Plebem in triginta curias distribuit, easque raptarum nominibus nuncupavit. Anno regni tricesimo A. V.

ortam, repente oculis hominum subductus est. Hinc alii eum a senatoribus interfectum, alii ad deos sublatum² esse existimaverunt.

13. Post Romuli mortem unius anni interregnum fuit. Quo elapso Numa Pompilius, Curibus, urbe in agro Sabinorum, natus, rex creatus est. Hic vir bellum quidem nullum gessit; nec minus tamen civitati profuit. Nam et leges dedit, et sacra plurima instituit, ut populi barbari et bellicosi mores molliret. Omnia autem, quae faciebat, se nymphae Egeriae, conjugis suae, jussu facere dicebat. Morbo decessit, quadragesimo tertio imperii anno.

14. Numae successit Tullus Hostilius, cuius avus se A. V.
in bello adversus Sabinos fortē et strenuum virum 81.
praestiterat. Rex creatus bellum Albanis indixit, idque trigeminorum, Horatiorum et Curiatiorum, certamine finivit. Albam propter perfidiam Metii Fuffetii³ diruit. Quum triginta duobus annis regnasset, fulmine ictus cum domo sua arsit.

15. Post hunc Ancus Marcius, Numae ex filia nepos, suscepit imperium. Hic vir aequitate et religione avo A. V. 114.
similis, Latinos bello domuit, urbem ampliavit, et nova ei moenia circumdēdit.⁴ Carcerem primus aedificavit. Ad Tiberis ostia urbem condidit, Ostiamque vocavit. Vicesimo quarto anno imperii morbo obiit.

16. Deinde regnum Lucius Tarquinius Priscus accepit, Damarāti filius, qui tyrannos patriae Corinthi⁵ fu- A. V. 137.
giens in Etruriam⁶ venerat. Ipse Tarquinius, qui nomen ab urbe Tarquinii accepit, aliquando Romam profectus erat. Advenienti aquila pileum abstulit, et postquam alte evolaverat, reposuit. Hinc Tanaquil conjux, mulier aug-riorum perita, regnum ei portendi intellexit.

17. Quum Romae commoraretur, Anci regis familiaritatem consequutus est, qui eum filiorum suorum tutorem reliquit. Sed is pupillis regnum interceptit. Senatoribus, quos Romulus creaverat, centum alios addidit, qui minorum gentium⁷ sunt appellati. Plura bella feliciter gessit, nec paucos agros, hostibus ademtos,⁸ urbis territorio adjunxit. Primus triumphans urbem intravit. Cloacas fecit; Capitolium⁹ inchoavit. Tricesimo octavo imperii anno per Anci filios, quibus regnum eripuerat, occisus est.

18. Post hunc Servius Tullius suscepit imperium, genitus ex nobili femina, captiva tamen et famula. A. V. 176.
Quum in domo Tarquinii Prisci educaretur, flamma in ejus capite visa est. Hoc prodigio Tanaquil ei summam dignitatem portendi intellexit, et conjugi persuasit, ut eum sicuti liberos suos educaret. Quum adolevisset, rex ei filiam in matrimonium dedit.

19. Quum Priscus Tarquinius occisus esset, Tanaquil de superiore parte domus populum allocuta est, dicens: regem grave quidem, sed non letale vulnus accepisse; eum petere, ut populus, dum convaluisset, Servio Tullio obediret. Sic Servius regnare coepit, sed bene imperium administravit. Montes tres urbi adjunxit. Primus omnium censum¹ ordinavit. Sub eo Roma habuit capitum octoginta tria millia civium Romanorum cum his, qui in agris erant.

20. Hic rex interfactus est scelere filiae Tulliae et A. V. Tarquinii Superbi, filii ejus regis, cui Servius successerat. Nam ab ipso Tarquinio de gradibus Curiae² dejectus, quum domum fugeret, interfactus est. Tullia in forum properavit et prima conjugem regem salutavit. Quum domum rediret, aurigam super patris corpus, in via jacens, carpentum³ agere jussit.

21. Tarquinius Superbus cognomen moribus meruit. Bello tamen strenuus plures finitimorum populorum vicit. Templum Jovis in Capitolio aedificavit. Postea, dum Ardeam oppugnabat, urbem Etruriae, imperium perdidit. Nam quum filius ejus Lucretiae, nobilissimae feminae, conjugi Tarquinii Collatini, vim fecisset, haec se ipsa occidit in conspectu mariti, patris et amicorum, postquam eos obtestata fuerat, ut hanc injuriam⁴ ulciscerentur.

22. Hanc ob causam L. Brutus, Collatinus, aliquique A. V. nonnulli in exitium regis conjurarunt, populoque persuaserunt, ut ei portas Urbis clauderet. Exercitus quoque, qui civitatem Ardeam cum rege oppugnabat, eum reliquit. Fugit itaque cum uxore et liberis suis. Ita Romae regnum est per septem reges, annos ducentos quadraginta tres.

23. Hinc consules coopere pro uno rege duo creari, ut, si unus malus esset, alter eum coërceret. Annuum iis imperium tributum est, ne per diuturnitatem potestatis insolentiores redderentur. Fuerunt igitur anno primo, expulsis regibus, consules L. Junius Brutus acerrimus libertatis vindex, et Tarquinius Collatinus, maritus Lucretiae. Sed Collatino paulo post dignitas sublata est. Placuerat enim, ne quis ex Tarquiniorum familia Romae maneret. Ergo cum omni patrimonio suo ex urbe migravit, et in ejus locum Valerius Publocola consul factus est.

24. Commovit bellum urbi rex Tarquinius. In prima pugna Brutus, consul, et Aruns, Tarquinii filius, sese invi-cem occiderunt. Romani tamen ex ea pugna victores recesserunt. Brútum Romanae matronae, quasi communem patrem, per annum luxerunt.¹ Valerius Publicola Sp. Lucretium, Lucretiae patrem, collegam sibi fecit; qui quum morbo extinctus esset, Horatium Pulvillum sibi collegam sumsis. Ita primus annus quinque consules habuit.

25. Secundo quoque anno iterum Tarquinius bellum Romanis intulit, Porsëna, rege Etruscorum, auxilium ei A. V. ferente. In illo bello Horatius Cocles solus Pontem 245. ligneum² defendit et hostes cohibuit, donec pons a tergo rupitus esset. Tum se cum armis in Tiberim conjectit et ad suos transnavit.

26. Dum Porsëna urbem obsidebat, Qu. Mucius Scaevola, juvenis fortis animi, in castra hostis se contulit, eo consilio, ut regem occideret. At ibi scribam regis pro ipso rege interfecit. Tum a regiis satellitibus comprehensus et ad regem deductus, quum Porsena eum ignibus allatis³ terreret, dextram arae accensae imposuit, donec flammis consumta esset. Hoc facinus rex miratus juvenem dimisit incolumem. Tum hic, quasi beneficium referens, ait, trecentos alias juvenes in eum conjurasse. Hac re territus Porsena pacem cum Romanis fecit, Tarquinius autem Tusculum se contulit, ibique privatus cum uxore consenuit.

27. Sexto decimo anno post reges exactos, populus Romae seditionem fecit, questus, quod tributis et mili- A. V. tia. a senatu exhaustur. Magna pars plebis urbem 259. reliquit et in montem trans Aniēnem⁴ amnem secessit. Tum patres turbati Menenium Aprrippam miserunt ad plebem, qui eam senatui conciliaret.⁵ Hic iis inter alia fabulam⁶ narravit de ventre et membris humani corporis; qua populus commotus est, ut in urbem rediret. Tum primum tribuni plebis⁷ creati sunt, qui plebem adversum nobilitatis superbiam defenserent.⁸

28. Octavo decimo anno post exactos reges, Qu. Marcius, Coriolanus dictus ab urbe Volscorum⁹ Corio- A. V. li, quam bello ceperat, plebi invisis fieri coepit. Quare 261. urbe expulsus ad Volscos, acerrimos Romanorum hostes, contendit, et ab iis dux exercitus factus Romanos saepe cit. Jam usque ad quintum milliarium¹⁰ Urbis accesserat, nec ullis civium suorum legationibus flecti poterat, ut patriae parceret. Denique Veturia mater et Volumnia uxor ex urbe ad eum venerunt; quarum flectu et precibus commotus est, ut exercitum removeret. Quo facto a Volscis ut proditor occisus esse dicitur.

29. Romani quum adversum Vejentes¹¹ bellum gererent, familia Fabiorum sola hoc bellum suscepit. Profecti sunt trecenti sex nobilissimi homines, duce Fabio consule. A. V. Quum saepe hostes vicissent, apud Cremēram¹ fluvium 274. castra posuerunt. Ibi Vejentes, dolo usi, eos in insidias pellexerunt. In proelio ibi exorto omnes perierunt. Unus superfuit ex tanta familia, qui propter aetatem puerilem duci non potuerat ad pugnam. Hic genus propagavit ad Qu. Fabium Maximum, illum, qui Hannibalem² prudenti cunctatione debilitavit.³

30. Anno trecentesimo et altero ab Urbe condita A. V. Decemviri⁴ creati sunt, qui civitati leges sc̄ 302. nitionem exercere cooperunt. Sed quum unus eorum Appius Claudio virginem ingenuam, Virginiam, Virginii centurionis filiam, corrumpere vellet, pater eam occidit. Tum ad milites profūgit, eosque ad seditionem commovit. Sublata est decemviris potestas, ipsique omnes aut morte aut exilio puniti sunt.

31. In bello contra Vejentanos Furius Camillus ur- A. V. bem Falerios⁵ obsidebat. In quo obsidione quum ludi 358. literarii magister principum filios ex urbe in castra hostium duxisset, Camillus hoc donum non accepit, sed scelestum hominem, manibus post tergum vinctis, pueris Falerios reducendum tradidit,⁶ virgasque iis dedit, quibus proditorem in urbem agerent.

32. Hac tanta animi nobilitate commoti Falisci urbem Romanis tradiderunt. Camillo autem apud Romanos crimini datum est, quod albis equis⁷ triumphasset, et praedam inique divisisset; damnatusque ob eam causam et civitate expulsus est. Paulo post Galli Senones⁸ ad Urbem venerunt, A. V. Romanos apud flumen Alliam⁹ vicerunt, et Urbem etiam 364. occuparunt. Jam nihil praeter Capitolium defendi potuit. Et jam praesidium fame laborabat, et in eo erant,¹⁰ ut pacem a Gallis auro emerent, quum Camillus cum manu militum superveniens hostes magno proelio superaret.

LIBER SECUNDUS.

1. Anno trecentesimo nonagesimo quarto post Ur- A. V. bem conditam Galli iterum ad Urbem accedebant, et 394. quarto milliario trans Aniēnem¹¹ fluvium conserderant. Contra eos missus est T. Quinctius. Ibi Gallus quidam, eximia corporis magnitudine, fortissimum Romanorum ad certamen singulare provocavit. T. Manlius, nobilissimus juvenis, provocationem accepit, Gallum occidit, eumque torque auieo spoliavit, quo ornatus erat. Hinc et ipse et posteri ejus Torquati appellati sunt. Galli fugam capessiverunt.

2. Novo bello cum Gallis exorto, anno Urbis quadringentesimo sexto, iterum Gallus processit, robore atque armis insignis, et provocavit unum ex Romanis, ut secum armis decerneret. Tum se M. Valerius, tribunus militum,¹ obtulit; et quum processisset armatus, corvus ei supra dextrum brachium sedit. Mox, commissa pugna, hic corvus alis et unguibus Galli oculos verberavit. Ita factum est, ut Gallus facili negotio a Valerio interficeretur, qui hinc Cor nomen accepit.

3. Postea Romani bellum gesserunt cum Samnitibus.² ad quod L. Papirius Cursor cum honore dictatoris³ profectus est. Qui, quum negotii cujusdam causa Romam ivisset, praecepit Q. Fabio Rulliano, magistro equitum, quem apud exercitum reliquit, ne pugnam cum hoste committeret. Sed ille, occasionem nactus, felicissime dimicavit et Samnites delevit. Ob hanc rem a dictatore capiūs damnatus est. At ille in Urbem confūgit, et ingenti favore militum et populi liberatus est; in Papirium autem tanta exorta est seditio, ut paene ipse interficeretur.

4. Duobus annis post T. Veturius et Spurius Postumius consules bellum adversum Samnites gerebant. Hi a Pontio Thelesino, duce hostium, in insidias inducti sunt. Nam ad Furculas Caudinas¹ Romanos pellexit in angustias, unde sese expedire non poterant. Ibi Pontius patrem suum Herennium rogavit, quid faciendum putaret. Ille ait, aut omnes occidendos esse, ut Romanorum vires frangerentur, aut omnes dimittendos, ut beneficio obligarentur. Pontius utrumque consilium improbabavit, omnesque sub jugum⁵ misit. Samnites denique post bellum undequinquaginta annorum superati sunt.

5. Devictis Samnitibus, Tarentinis⁶ bellum indictum est, quia legatis Romanorum injuriam fecissent. Hi Pyrrhum, Epiri⁷ regem, contra Romanos auxilio posserunt.⁸ Is mox in Italiam venit, tumque primum Romanum cum transmarino hoste pugnaverunt. Missus est contra eum consul P. Valerius Laevinus. Hic, quum exploratores Pyrrhi cepisset, jussit eos per castra duci, ostendi omnem exercitum, tumque dimitti, ut renuntiarent Pyrrho, quaecunque a Romanis agerentur.

6. Pugna commissa, Pyrrhus auxiliō elephantorum⁹ vicit. Nox proelio finem dedit. Laevinus tamen per noctem fugit. Pyrrhus Romanos mille octingentos cepit, eosque summo honore tractavit. Quum eos, qui in proelio interfecti fuerant, omnes adversis vulneribus¹ et truci vultu etiam mortuos jacere videret, tulisse ad coelum manus dicitur, cum hac voce: Ego cum talibus viris brevi² orbem terrarum subigerem.

7. Postea Pyrrhus Romam perrexit; omnia ferro igneque vastavit; Campaniam³ depopulatus est, atque ad Praeneste⁴ venit, milliario ab Urbe octavo decimo. Mox terrore exercitus, qui cum consule sequebatur, in Campaniam se recepit. Legati, ad Pyrrhum de captivis redimendis missi, honorifice ab eo suscepti sunt; captivos sine pretio reddidit. Unum ex legatis, Fabricium, sic admiratus est, ut ei quartam partem regni sui promitteret, si ad se transiret; sed a Fabricio contemtus est.

8. Quum jam Pyrrhus ingenti Romanorum admiratione teneretur, legatum misit Cineam, praestantissimum virum, qui pacem peteret, ea conditione, ut Pyrrhus eam partem Italiae quam armis occupaverat, obtineret. Romani responderunt, eum cum Romanis pacem habere non posse, nisi ex Italia recessisset. Cineas quum rediisset, Pyrrho, eum interroganti, qualis ipsi Roma visa esset; respondit, se regum patriam vivisse.

9. In altero proelio cum rege Epiri commisso,⁵ Pyrrhus vulneratus est, elephanti interficti, viginti millia hostium caesa sunt. Pyrrhus Tarentum fugit. Interjecto anno Fabricius contra eum missus est. Ad hunc medicus Pyrrhi nocte venit, promittens, se Pyrrhum veneno occisurum, si munus sibi daretur. Hunc Fabricius vincit reduci jussit ad dominum. Tunc rex, generosum viri animum admiratus, dixisse fertur; Ille est Fabricius, qui difficilius ob honestate, quam sol a cursu suo averti potest. Paulo post Pyrrhus, tertio etiam proe-

A. V. lio fusus, a Tarento recessit, et, quum in Graeciam re-
481. diisset, apud Argos, Peloponnesi urbem, imperfectus est.

10. Anno quadringentesimo nonagesimo post Urbem A. V. conditam Romanorum exercitus primum in Siciliam tra-490. jecerunt, regemque Syracusarum Hierōnem, Poenos-
A. V. que, qui multas civitates in ea insula occupaverant, su-
495. peraverunt. Quinto anno hujus belli, quod contra Poe-nos gerebatur, primum Romanī, C. Duillio et Cn. Cornelio Asina Coss., in mari dimicaverunt. Duillius Carthagi-nienses vicit, triginta naves occupavit, quatuordecim mer-sit, septem millia hostium cepit, tria millia occidit. Nulla victoria Romanis gravior fuit. Duillio concessum est, ut, quā a coena rediret, pueri funeralia gestantes et tibīcen eum comitarentur.⁶

11. Paucis annis interjectis bellum in Africam trans-
A. V. latum est. Hamilcar, Carthaginiensium dux, pugna-499. navali superatur; nam perditis sexaginta quatuor navi-

bus, se recepit; Romani viginti duas amiserunt. Quum in Africam venissent, Poenos in pluribus proeliis vicerunt, magnam vim hominum ceperunt, septuaginta quatuor civitates in fidem acceperunt. Tum victi Carthaginienses pacem a Romanis petierunt. Quam quum M. Atilius Regulus, Romanorum dux, dare nollet nisi durissimis conditionibus, Carthaginienses auxilium petierunt a Lacedaemoniis. Hi Xanthippum miserunt, qui Romanum exercitum magno proelio vicit. Regulus ipse captus et in vincula conjectus est.

12. Non tamen ubique fortuna Carthaginiensibus favit. Quum aliquot proeliis victi essent, Regulum rogaverunt, ut Romanum proficiseretur, et pacem captivorumque permutationem a Romanis obtineret. Ille quum Romam venisset, inductus in senatum, dixit, se desiisse¹ Romanum esse ex illa die, qua in potestatem Poenorum venisset. Tum Romanis suavit, ne pacem cum Carthaginiensibus facerent; illos enim tot casibus fractos, spem nullam nisi in pace habere; tanti non esse, ut tot millia² captivorum propter se unum et paucos, qui ex Romanis capti essent, redderentur. Haec sententia obtinuit. Regressus igitur in Africam crudelissimis suppliciis extinctus est.

13. Tandem C. Lutatio Catulo, A. Postumio Coss., anno belli Punici vicesimo tertio, magnum proelium A. V.
navale commissum est contra Lilybaeum,³ promontorium Siciliae. In eo proelio septuaginta tres Carthaginensium naves captae, centum viginti quinque demersae, triginta duo millia hostium capta, tredecim millia occisa sunt. Statim Carthaginienses pacem petierunt, eisque pax tributa est. Captivi Romanorum, qui tenebantur, a Carthaginiensibus, redditi sunt. Poeni Sicilia, Sardinia et ceteris insulis, quae intra Italiam Africamque jacent decesserunt, omnemque Hispaniam, quae citra Iberum⁴ est, Romanis permiserrunt.

LIBER TERTIUS.

1. Anno quingentesimo undetricesimo ingentes Galorum copiae Alpes transierunt. Sed pro Romanis tota Italia consensit: traditumque est, octingenta millia hominum ad id bellum parata fuisse. Res prospere gesta est apud Clusium:⁵ quadraginta millia hominum interfecta sunt. Aliquot annis post pugnatum est contra Gallos in agro Insubrum,⁶ finitumque est bellum M. Claudio Marcello, Cn. Cornelio Scipione Coss. Tum Marcellus regem Gallorum,

A. V.

Viridomarum, manu sua occidit et triumphans spolia¹ Galli, stipiti imposita, humeris suis vexit.

2. Paulo post Punicum bellum removatum est per Hannibalem, Carthaginiensium ducem, quem pater Hamilcar, novem annos natum, aris admovebat, ut odium perenne in A. V. Romanos juraret. Hic annum agens vicesimum aetatis, Saguntum,² Hispaniae civitatem, Romanis amicam, oppugnare aggressus est. Huic Romani per legatos denuntiaverunt, ut bello abstineret. Qui quum legatos admittere nollet, Romani Carthaginem miserunt, ut mandaretur³ Hannibali, ne bellum contra socios populi Romani gereret. Dura responsa a Carthaginiensibus redditia. Saguntinis interea fame victis, Romani Carthaginiensibus bellum indixerunt.

3. Hannibal, fratre Hasdrubale in Hispania relicto, Pyrenaeum et Alpes transiit. Traditur in Italiam octoginta millia pedestrum, et viginti millia equitum, septem et triginta elephantes adduxisse. Interea multi Ligures⁴ et Galli Hannibali se conjunxerunt. Primus ei occurrit P. Cornelius Scipio, qui proelio ad Ticinum⁵ commisso, superatus est, et, vulnera accepto, in castra rediit. Tum Sempronius Gracchus confluxit ad Trebiam⁶ amnem. Is quoque vincitur. Multi populi se Hannibali dediderunt. Inde in Tusciā⁷ progressus Flaminium Cos. ad Trasimēnum⁸ lacum superat. Ipse Flaminius interemptus, Romanorum viginti quinque millia caesa sunt.

4. Quingentesimo et quadragesimo anno post Urbem A. V. conditum L. Aemilius Paulus et P. Terentius Varro 540. contra Hannibalem mittuntur. Quamquam intellectum erat, Hannibalem non aliter vinci posse, quam mora,⁹ Varro tamen, morae impatiens, apud vicum, qui Cannae appellatur, in Apulia¹⁰ pugnavit; ambo consules victi, Paulus interemptus est. In ea pugna consulares aut praetorii viginti, senatores triginta capti aut occisi, militum quadraginta millia, equitum tria millia et quingenti perierunt. In his tantis malis nemo tamen pacis mentionem facere dignatus est. Servi, quod nunquam ante factum, manumissi et milites facti sunt.

5. Post eam pugnam multae Italiae civitates, quae Romanis paruerant, se ad Hannibalem transtulerunt. Hannibal Romanis obtulit, ut captivos redimerent; responsumque est a senatu, eos cives non esse necessarios, qui armati¹¹ capi potuisserent. Hos omnes ille postea variis suppliciis interfecit, et tres modios aureorum annulorum¹² Carthaginem misit, quos manibus equitum Romanorum, senatorum et militum detraxerat. Interea in Hispania frater Hannibalis Hasdrubal, qui ibi remanserat cum magno exercitu, a duobus Scipionibus¹ vincitur, perditque in pugna triginta quinque millia hominum.

6. Anno quarto post quam Hannibal in Italiam venerat, M. Claudius Marcellus Cos. apud Nolam,² civitatem Campaniae, contra Hannibalem bene pugnavit. Illo tempore Philippus, Demetrii filius, rex Macedoniae, ad Hannibalem legatos mittit, eique auxilia contra Romanos pollicetur. Qui legati quum a Romanis capti essent, M. Valerius Laevinus cum navibus missus est, qui regem impediret, quo minus copias in Italiam trajiceret.³ Idem in Macedoniam penetrans regem Philippum vicit.

7. In Sicilia quoque res prospere gesta est. Marcellus magnam hujus insulae partem cepit, quam Poeni⁴ occupaverant; Syracusas,⁵ nobilissimam urbem, expugnavit, et ingentem inde praedam Romam misit. Laevinus in Macedonia cum Philippo et multis Graeciae populis amicitiam fecit; et in Siciliam profectus, Hannonem, Poenorum ducem, apud Agrigentum cepit; quadraginta civitates in ditionem accepit, viginti sex expugnavit. Ita omni Sicilia recepta cum ingenti gloria Romam regressus est.

8. Interea in Hispaniam, ubi duo Scipiones⁶ ab Hasdrubale interficti erant, missus est P. Cornelius Scipio, vir Romanorum omnium fere primus. Hic puer duodeviginti annorum in pugna ad Ticinum⁷ patrem singulari virtute servavit. Deinde post cladem Cannensem multos nobilissimorum juvenum, Italiam deserere cupientium,⁸ auctoritate sua ab hoc consilio deterruit. Viginti quatuor annorum juvenis in Hispaniam missus, die, qua venit, Carthaginem novam⁹ cepit, in qua omne aurum et argentum et belli apparatus Poeni habebant, nobilissimos quoque obsides, quos ab Hispanis acceperant. Hos obsides parentibus suis reddidit. Quare omnes Hispaniae civitates ad eum uno animo transierunt.

9. Ab eo inde tempore res Romanorum in dies laetiores factae sunt. Hasdrubal a fratre ex Hispania in Italiam evocatus, apud Senam,¹⁰ Piceni¹¹ civitatem, in insidias incidit, et strenue pugnans occisus est. Plurimae autem civitates, quae in Bruttiis ab Hannibale tenebantur, Romanis se tradiderunt.

10. Anno decimo quarto postquam in Italiam Hannibal venerat, Scipio consul creatus et in Africam missus est. Ibi contra Hannonem, ducem Carthaginensium prospere pugnat totumque ejus exercitum delet. Secundo proelio undecim millia hominum occidit, et castra cepit cum quatuor millibus et quingentis militibus. Syphacem, Numidiae¹² regem, qui se cum Poenis conjunxerat, cepit, eumque cum nobilissimis Numīdis et infinitis spoliis Romam misit. Qua re audita, omnis fere Italia Hannibalem deserit. Ipse a Carthaginiensibus in Africam redire jubebat. A. V. tur. Ita anno decimo. septimo Italia ab Hannibale liberata est.

11. Post plures pugnas et pacem plus semel frustra tentatam, pugna ad Zamam¹ committitur, in qua peritissimi duces copias suas ad bellum educebant. Scipio victor recedit; Hannibale cum paucis equitibus evadit. Post hoc proelium pax cum Carthaginiensibus facta est. Scipio, quum Romam rediisset, ingenti gloria triumphavit, atque Africanus appellatus est. Sic finem accepit secundum Punicum bellum post annum undevicesimum quam cooperat.²

LIBER QUARTUS.

A. V. 1. Finito Punico bello, secutum est Macedonicum contra Philippum³ regem. Superatus est rex a T. Quintio Flaminio apud Cynoscephalas,⁴ paxque ei data est his legibus: ne Graeciae civitatibus, quas Romani contra eum defenderant, bellum inferret; ut captivos et transfugas redderet; quinquaginta solum naves haberet; reliquas Romanis daret; mille talenta praestaret, et obsidem daret filium Demetrium. T. Quintius etiam Lacedaemoniis intulit bellum, et ducem eorum Nabidem⁵ vicit.

2. Finito bello Macedonico, secutum est bellum Syriae. A. V. cum⁶ contra Antiochum regem, cum quo Hannibal se junxerat. Missus est contra eum L. Cornelius Scipio Cos., cui frater ejus Scipio Africanus legatus⁷ est additus. Hannibal navali proelio victus, Antiochus autem ad Magnesiam,⁸ Asiae civitatem, a Cornelio Scipione Cos. ingenti proelio fusus est. Tum rex Antiochus pacem petit. Data est ei hac lege, ut ex Europa et Asia⁹ recederet, atque intra Taurum¹⁰ se contineret, decem millia talentorum et viginti obsides praeberet, Hannibalem, concitorem belli, dederet. Scipio Romanum rediit et ingenti gloria triumphavit. Nomen et ipse ad imitationem fratris Asiatici accepit.

3. Philippo, rege Macedoniae, mortuo, filius ejus Perseus rebellavit, ingentibus copiis paratis. Dux Romanorum, P. Licinius Cos. contra eum missus, gravi proelio a rege victus est. Rex tamen pacem petebat. Cui Romani eam prae stare noluerunt, nisi his conditionibus, ut se et suos Romanis dederet. Mox Aemilius Paulus Cos. regem ad Pydatis. A. V. nam¹¹ superavit, et viginti millia peditum ejus occidit. Equitatus cum rege fugit. Urbes Macedoniae omnes, quas rex tenuerat, Romanis se dediderunt. Ipse Perseus ab amicis desertus in Pauli potestatem venit. Hic, multis etiam aliis rebus gestis, cum ingenti pompa Romam rediit in nave Persei, inusitatae magnitudinis; nam sexdecim remorum ordines¹ habuisse dicitur. Triumphavit magnificientissime in curru aureo, duobus filiis utroque latere adstantibus. Ante currum inter captivos duo regis filii et ipse Perseus ducti sunt.

4. Tertium deinde bellum contra Carthaginem susceptum est, sexcentesimo et altero anno ab Urbe condita, anno quinquagesimo primo, postquam secundum bellum Punicum transactum erat. L. Manlius Censorinus et M. Manlius Coss. in Africam trajecerunt et oppugnaverunt Carthaginem. Multa ibi praecclare gesta sunt per Scipionem, Scipionis Africani nepotem, qui tribunus² in Africa militabat. Hujus apud omnes ingens metus et reverentia erat, neque quidquam magis Carthaginiensium duces vitabant, quam contra eum proelium committere.

5. Quum jam magnum esset Scipionis nomen, tertio anno postquam Romani in Africam trajecerant, consul est creatus et contra Carthaginem missus. Is hanc urbem, a civibus acerrime defensam, cepit ac diruit. Ingens ibi praeda facta, plurimaque³ inventa sunt, quae multarum civitatum Italiae, Siciliae, Africæ reddidit, quae sua recognoscebant. Ita Carthago, septingentesimo anno postquam condita erat, deleta est. Scipio nomen Africani junioris accepit.

6. Interim in Macedonia quidam Pseudophilippus⁴ arma movit, et P. Juvencum, Romanorum ducem, ad internicionem vicit. Post eum Q. Caecilius Metellus dux a Romanis contra Pseudophilippum missus est, et viginti quinque milibus ex milibus ejus occisis, Macedoniam recepit; ipsum etiam Pseudophilippum in potestatem suam redegit. Corinthiis⁵ quoque bellum indictum est, nobilissimae Graeciae civitati, propter injuriam⁶ Romanis legatis illatam. Hanc Mummius consul cepit ac diruit. Tres igitur Romaee simul celeberrimi triumphi fuerunt: Scipionis ex Africa, ante cuius currum ductus est Hasdrubal; Metelli ex Macedonia, cuius currum praecessit Andriscus, qui et Pseudophilippus dicitur; Mummi ex Corintho, ante quem signa aenea et pictae tabulae et alia urbis clarissimae ornamenta praelata sunt.

7. Anno sexcentesimo decimo post urbem conditam Viriathus in Lusitania⁷ bellum contra Romanos excitavit. Pastor primo fuit, mox latronum dux; postremo tantos ad bellum populos concitavit, ut vindex libertatis Hispaniae existimaretur. Denique a suis interfectus est. Quum interfectorum ejus praemium a Caepione Cos. peterent, responsum est, nunquam Romanis placuisse, imperatorem a militibus suis interfici.

8. Deinde bellum exortum est cum Numantinis,¹ civitate Hispaniae. Victus ab his Qu. Pompejus, et post eum C. Hostilius Mancinus Cos., qui pacem cum iis fecit infamem, quam populus et senatus jussit infringi, atque ipsum Mancinum hostibus tradi.² Tum P. Scipio Africanus in Hispaniam missus est. Is primum militem ignavum et corruptum cor

9. P. Scipione Nasica et L. Calpurnio Bestia Coss. Jugurthae, Numidarum regi, bellum illatum est, quod Adherbalem et Hiempalem, Micipsae filios, patrueles suos, interemisset. Missus adversus eum Cos. Calpurnius Bestia, corruptus regis pecunia, pacem cum eo flagitosissimam fecit, quae a senatu improbata est. Denique Qu. Caecilius Metellus Cos. Jugurtham variis proeliis vicit, elephantos ejus occidit vel cepit, multas civitates ipsius in deditonem accepit.

Ei successit C. Marius, qui bello terminum posuit, ip

LIBER QUINTUS.

1. Dum bellum in Numidia contra Jugurtham geritur, Cimbri et Teutōnes⁵ aliaeque Germanorum et Gallorum gentes Italiae minabantur, pluresque Romanorum exercitus fuderunt. Ingens fuit Romae timor, ne iterum⁶ Galli Urbem occuparent. Ergo Marius Cos. creatus, eique bellum contra Cimbros et Teutōnes⁷ decretum est; belloque protracto,⁸ tertius ei et quartus consulatus delatus est. In duobus proeliis cum Cimbris ducenta millia hostium cecidit, octoginta millia cepit, eorumque regem Theutobochum; propter quod meritum absens quinto consul creatus est. Interea Cimbri et

A. V. Teutōnes, quorum copia adhuc infinita erat, in Italiā transierunt. Iterum a C. Mario et Qu. Catulo contra 563. eos dimicatum est ad Veronam. Centum et quadraginta millia aut in pugna aut in fuga caesa sunt; sexaginta millia capta. Tria et triginta Cimbris signa sublata sunt.

2. Sexentesimo quinquagesimo nono anno ab Urbe condita in Italia gravissimum bellum¹ exarsit. Nam A. V. 659. Picentes, Marsi Pelignique, qui multos annos populo Romano obedierant, aequa cum illis jura² sibi dari postulabant. Perniciosum admodum hoc bellum fuit. P. Rutilius Cos. in eo occisus est; plures exercitus fusi fugatique. Tandem L. Cornelius Sulla cum alia egregie gessit, tum Cluentium, hostium ducem, cum magnis copiis fudit. Per quadriennium cum gravi utriusque partis calamitate hoc bellum tractum est. Quinto demum anno L. Cornelius Sulla ei imposuit finem. Romani tamen, id quod prius negaverant, jus civitatis,³ bello finito sociis tribuerunt.

3. Anno Urbis conditae sexentesimo sexagesimo sexto primum Romae bellum civile exortum est; eodem anno etiam Mithridaticum. Causam bello civili C. Marius A. V. 666. dedit. Nam quum Sullae bellum adversus Mithridatem, regem Ponti,⁴ decretum esset, Marius ei hunc honorem eripere conatus est. Sed Sulla, qui adhuc cum legionibus suis in Italia morabatur, cum exercitu Romam venit, et adversarios cum interfecit, tum fugavit. Tum rebus Romae utcunque compositis, in Asiam profectus est, pluribusque proeliis Mithridatem coëgit, ut pacem a Romanis petoret, et Asia, quam invaserat, relicta, regni suis finibus contentus esset.

4. Sed dum Sulla in Graecia et Asia Mithridatem vincit, Marius, qui fugatus fuerat,⁵ et Cornelius Cinna, unus ex consulibus, bellum in Italia repararunt; et ingressi Romam, nobilissimos ex senatu, et consulares viros interficerunt; multos proscrisserunt;⁶ ipsius Sullae domo eversa, filios et uxorem ad fugam compulerunt. Universus reliquus senatus, ex Urbe fugiens, ad Sullam in Graeciam venit, orans, ut patriae subveniret. Sulla in Italiam trajecit, hostium exercitus vicit, mox etiam Urbem ingressus est, quam caede et sanguine civium replevit. Quatuor millia inermium, qui se dediderant, interfici jussit; duo millia equitum et senatorum proscriptis. Tum de Mithridate triumphavit. Duo haec bella funestissima, Italicum, quod et Sociale⁷ dictum est, et Civile, consumserunt ultra centum et quinquaginta millia hominum, viros consulares viginti quatuor, praetorios septem, aedilitios sexaginta, senatores fere ducentos.

LIBER SEXTUS.

1. Anno Urbis conditae sexcentesimo septuagesimo
A. V. sexto, L. Licinio Lucullo et M. Aurelio Cotta Coss. mor-676. tuus est Nicomedes, rex Bithyniae, et testamento populum Romanum fecit heredem. Mithridates, pace erupta, Asiam rursus voluit invadere. Adversus eum ambo consules missi variam habuere fortunam. Cotta apud Chalcedonem¹ victus proelio, a rege etiam intra oppidum obsessus est. Sed quum se inde Mithridates Cyzicum² transtulisset, ut hac urbe capta totam Asiam invaderet, Lucullus ei alter consul occurrit, ac dum Mithridates in obsidione Cyzici commoratur, ipse eum a tergo obsedit, fameque consumptum multis proeliis vicit. Pos-tremo Byzantium³ fugavit; navaliter quoque proelio ejus duces oppressit. Ita una hieme et aestate a Lucullo centum fere millia militum regis extincta sunt.

2. Anno Urbis sexcentesimo septuagesimo octavo
A. V. novum in Italia bellum⁴ commotum est. Septuaginta
678. enim quatuor gladiatores,⁵ ducibus Spartaco, Crixo et Oenomao, e ludo gladiatorio, qui Capuae erat, effugerunt, et per Italiam vagantes paene non levius bellum, quam Hannibal, moverunt. Nam contraxerunt exercitum fere sexaginta millium armatorum, multosque duces et duos Romanos consules vicerunt. Ipsi victi sunt in Apulia a M. Licinio Crasso proconsule, et post multas calamitates Italiae, tertio anno huic bello finis est impositus.

3. Interim L. Lucullus bellum Mithridaticum persequi-tus, regnum Mithridatis invasit, ipsumque regem apud Cabira⁶ civitatem, quo ingentes copias ex omni regno adduxer-rat Mithridates, ingenti proelio superatum fugavit, et castra ejus diripuit. Armenia quoque minor, quam tenebat, eidem erepta est. Suscepimus est Mithridates a Tigrane, Armeniae rege, qui tum ingenti gloria imperabat; sed hujus quoque regnum Lucullus est ingressus; Tigranocerta nobilissimam Armeniae civitatem, cepit; ipsum regem, cum magno exer-citu venientem, ita vicit, ut robur militum Armeniorum deleret.
Sed quum Lucullus finem bello imponere pararet, successor⁷ ei missus est.

4. Per illa tempora piratae⁸ omnia maria infestabant ita, ut Romanis, toto orbe terrarum victoribus, sola navigatio tuta non esset. Quare id bellum Cn. Pompejo decretum
A. V. est, quod intra paucos menses incredibili felicitate et 687. celeritate confecit. Mox ei delatum bellum contra re-gem Mithridatem et Tigranem. Quo suscepto, Mithridatem in Armenia minore nocturno proelio vicit, castra diripuit, et quadraginta millibus ejus occisis, viginti tantum de exercitu suo perdidit et duos centuriones. Mithridates fugit cum uxore et duobus comitibus, neque multo post, Pharnacis filii sui seditione coactus, venenum hausit.¹ Hunc vitae finem habuit Mithridates, vir ingentis industriae atque consilii. Regnavit annis sexaginta, vixit septuaginta duobus; contra Romanos bellum habuit annis quadraginta.

5. Tigrani deinde Pompejus bellum intulit. Ille se ei dedidit, et in castra Pompeji venit, ac diadēma suum in ejus manus collocavit, quod ei Pompejus reposuit. Parte regni eum multavit et grandi pecunia. Tum alios etiam reges et populos superavit. Armeniam minorem Dejotāro, Galatiae² regi, donavit, quia auxilium contra Mithridatem tulerat. Se-euciam, vicinam Antiochiae civitatem, libertate donavit, quod regem Tigranem non receperisset.³ Inde in Judaeam⁴ transgressus, Hierosolymam, caput gentis, tertio mense cepit, duodecim millibus Judaeorum occisis, ceteris in fidem receptis. His gestis finem antiquissimo bello imposuit. Ante triumphantis currum ducti sunt filii Mithridatis, filius Tigranis, et Aristobulus, rex Judaeorum. Praelata ingens pecunia, auri atque argenti infinitum.⁵ Hoc tempore nullum per orbem terrarum grave bellum erat.

6. M. Tullio Cicerone oratore et C. Antonio Coss. anno ab Urbe condita sexcentesimo undenonagesimo, A. V. 689. L. Sergius Catilina,⁶ nobilissimi generis vir, sed ingenii pravissimi, ad delendam patriam conjuravit cum quibusdam, claris quidem, sed audacibus viris. A Cicerone urbe expulsus est, socii ejus deprehensi et in carcere strangulati sunt. Ab Antonio, altero consule, Catilina ipse proelio vinctus est et interfectus.

7. Anno Urbis conditae sexcentesimo nonagesimo tertio C. Julius Caesar cum L. Bibulo consul est factus. A. V. 693. Quum ei Gallia decreta esset, semper vincendo usque ad Oceanum Britannicum processit. Domuit autem annovēm fere omnem Galliam, quae inter Alpes, flumen Rhodanum, Rhenum et Oceanum est. Britannis mox bellum intulit, quibus ante eum ne nomen quidem Romanorum cognitum erat; Germanos quoque trans Rhenum aggressus, ingeribus proeliis vicit.

8. Circa eadem tempora M. Licinius Crassus contra Parthos⁷ missus est. Et quum circa Carras⁸ contra omnia et auspicia⁹ proelium commisisset, a Surena, Orodis regis duce, vinctus et interfectus est cum filio, claris-simo et praestantissimo juvne. Reliquiae exercitus per C. Cassium quaestorem servatae sunt.

9. Hinc jam bellum civile successit, quo Romani A. V. nominis¹ fortuna mutata est. Caesar enim victor e 705. Gallia rediens, absens² coepit poscere alterum consulatum; quem quum aliqui sine dubitatione deferrent, contradictum est a Pompejo et aliis, jussusque est, dimissis exercitibus, in urbem redire. Propter hanc injuriam ab Arimino,³ ubi milites congregatos habebat infesto exercitu Romam contendit. Consules cum Pompejo, senatusque omnis atque universa nobilitas ex urbe fugit et in Graeciam transiit; et, dum senatus bellum contra Caesarem parabat, hic, vacuam urbem ingressus, dictatorem⁴ se fecit.

10. Inde Hispanias⁵ petit, ibique Pompeji legiones superavit; tum in Graecia adversum Pompejum ipsum dimicavit. Primo proelio⁶ victus est et fugatus; evasit tamen, quia nocte interveniente Pompejus sequi noluit; dixitque Caesar, nec Pompejum scire vincere, et illo tantum die se potuisse superari. Deinde in Thessalia apud Pharsālum⁷ ingentibus utrinque copiis commissis dimicaverunt. Nunquam adhuc Romanæ copiae majores, neque melioribus ducib⁹ convenerant. Pugnatum est ingenti contentione, victusque ad postremum Pompejus, et castra ejus direpta sunt. Ipse fugatus Alexandria⁸ petiit, ut a rege Aegypti,⁹ cui tutor a senatu datus fuerat, acciperet auxilia. At hic fortunam magis, quam amicitiam, secutus, occidit Pompejum, caput ejus et annulum Caesari misit. Quo conspecto, Caesar lacrymas fudisse dicitur, tanti viri intuens caput, et generi¹⁰ quondam sui.

11. Quum ad Alexandriam venisset Caesar, Ptolemaeus ei insidias parare voluit; qua de causa regi bellum illatum est. Rex victus in Nilo periit, inventumque est corpus ejus cum lorica aurea. Caesar Alexandria potitus, regnum Cleopatrae¹¹ dedit. Tum inde profectus Pompejanarum partium reliquias est persequutus, bellisque civilibus toto terrarum orbe compositis, Romam rediit. Ubi quum insolentius¹² agere coepisset, conjuratum est in eum a sexaginta vel amplius senatoribus, equitibusque Romanis. Praecipui fuerunt inter conjuratos Bruti duo,¹³ ex genere illius Bruti, qui, regibus expulsis, primus Romae consul fuerat, C. Cassius et Servilius A. V. Casca. Ergo Caesar, quum in curiam venisset, viginti 709. tribus vulneribus confossus est.

12. Interfecto Caesare, anno Urbis septingentesimo nono, bella civilia reparata sunt. Senatus favebat Caesaris percussoribus, Antonius Cos. Caesaris partibus stabat. Ergo turbata republica, Antonius, multis sceleribus commissis, a senatu hostis judicatus est. Fusus¹ fugatusque Antonius, amissso exercitu, confugit ad Lepidum,² qui Caesari magister equitum fuerat, et tum grandes copias militum habebat; a quo susceptus est. Mox Octavianus³ cum Antonio pacauit, et quasi vindicaturus patris sui mortem, a quo per testamentum fuerat adoptatus, Romanum cum exercitu profectus extorsit, ut sibi juveni viginti annorum consulatus daretur. Tum junctus cum Antonio et Lepido rempublicam armis tenere coepit, senatumque proscriptis.⁴ Per hos etiam Cicero orator occisus est multique alii nobiles.

13. Interea Brutus et Cassius,⁵ interfectores Caesaris, ingens bellum moverunt. Profecti contra eos Caesar Octavianus, qui postea Augustus est appellatus, et M. Antonius, apud Philippos,⁶ Macedoniae urbem, contra A. V. 712. eos pugnaverunt. Primo proelio victi sunt Antonius et Caesar; perit tamen dux nobilitatis Cassius; secundo Brutum et infinitam nobilitatem, quae cum illis bellum suscepit, victam interfecerunt. Tum victores rempublicam ita inter se divisserunt, ut Octavianus Caesar Hispanias, Gallias,⁷ Italiam teneret; Antonius Orientem, Lepidus⁸ Africam ac ciperet.

14. Paulo post Antonius, repudiata sorore Caesaris Octaviani, Cleopatram, reginam Aegypti, uxorem duxit. Ab hac incitatus ingens bellum commovit, dum Cleopatra cupiditate muliebri optat Romae regnare. Victor est ab Augusto⁹ navalium pugna clara et illustri apud Actium,¹⁰ qui locus in Eiro est. Hinc fugit in Aegyptum, et desperatis rebus, quum omnes ad Augustum transirent, se ipse intermit. Cleopatra quoque aspidem¹¹ sibi admisit, et veneno ejus extincta est. Ita bellis toto orbe confectis, Octavianus Augustus Romam rediit anno duodecimo quam consul fuerat. Ex eo inde tempore rempublicam per quadraginta et quatuor annos solus obtinuit. Ante enim duodecim annis cum Antonio et Lepido tenuerat. Ita ab initio principatus ejus usque ad finem quinquaginta sex anni fuere.

VI. OF THE GEOGRAPHY AND THE NATIONS OF ANTIQUITY.

1. Universus terrarum orbis in tres partes dividitur, Europam, Asiam, Africam. Europa ab Africa sezungitur freto Gaditano,¹ in cuius utrâque parte montes sunt altissimi, Abyla in Africa, in Europa Calpe, qui montes² Herculis columnæ³ appellantur. Per idem fretum mare internum, quod litoribus Europæ, Asiae et Africæ includitur, jungitur cum Oceano.

2. Europa terminos habet ab oriente Tanāim⁴ fluvium, Pontum Euxīnum⁵ et paludem Maeotida;⁶ a meridie, mare internum: ab occidente, mare Atlanticum sive Oceanum; a septentrione, mare Britannicum.⁷ Mare internum tres maximos sinus habet. Quorum is, qui Asiam a Graecia sezungit Aegaeum⁸ mare vocatur: secundus, qui est inter Graeciam et Italiam, Ionum; tertius denique, qui occidentales Italiae oras alluit, a Romanis Tuscum, a Graecis Tyrrhenum⁹ mare appellatur.

3. In ea Europæ parte, quae ad occasum vergit, prima terrarum est Hispania, quae a tribus lateribus mari circumdata, per Pyrenaeos montes cum Gallia cohaeret. Quum universa Hispania dives sit et fecunda, ea tamen regio, quae a flumine Baeti¹⁰ Baetica vocatur, ceteras fertilitate antecellit. Ibi Gades sitae, insula cum urbe a Tyriis condita,¹¹ quae freto Gaditano nomen dedit. Tota illa regio viris, equis, ferro, plumbo, aere, argento, auroque abundat, et ubi penurâ aquarum minus est fertilis, linum tamen aut spartum alit. Marmoris quoque lapicidinas habet. In Baetica minium reperitur.

4. Gallia posita est inter Pyrenaeos montes et Rhenum; orientalem oram Tuscum mare alluit, occidentalem Oceanus. Ejus pars illa, quae Italiae est opposita et Narbonensis,¹² vocatur, omnium est laetissima. In ea ora sita est Massilia¹³ urbs a Phocaeis condita, qui, patriâ a Persis devictâ, quum servitutem ferre non possent, Asiâ relictâ, novas in Europa sedes quaesiverant. Ibidem est campus lapideus, ubi Hercules dicitur contra Neptuni liberos dimicasse.¹⁴ Quum tela defecissent, Jupiter filium imbre lapidum adjuvit. Credas pluisse;¹⁵ adeo multi passim jacent.

5. Rhodānus fluvius,¹ haud longe a Rheni fontibus ortus, lacu Lemano² excipitur, servatque impetum, ita ut per medium lacum integer fluat, tantusque, quantus venit, egrediatur. Inde ad occasum versus, Gallias aliquamdiu dirimit:³ donec, cursu in meridiem flexo, aliorum amnium accessu auctus in mare effunditur.

6. Ea pars Galliae, quae ad Rhenum porrigitur,⁴ frumenti pabulique feracissima est, coelum salubre: noxia animalium genera pauca alit. Incolae superbi et superstitiosi, ita ut deos humanis victimis gaudere existiment. Magistri religionum et sapientiae sunt Druidae,⁵ qui, quae se scire profitentur,⁶ in antris abditisque silvis docent. Animas aeternas esse credunt, vitamque alteram post mortem incipere. Hanc ob causam cum defunctis arma cremant aut defodiunt, eamque doctrinam homines ad bellum alacriores facere existimant.

7. Universa Gallia divisa est inter tres magnos populos qui fluiis terminantur. A Pyrenaeo monte usque ad Garumnam⁷ Aquitani⁸ habitant; inde ad Sequānam⁹ Celtae:¹⁰ Belgae¹¹ denique usque ad Rhenum pertinent.¹²

8. Garumna amnis ex Pyrenaeo monte delapsus, diu vadous est et vix navigabilis. Quanto magis procedit, tanto fit latior; ad postremum magni freti similis, non solum majora navigia tolerat, verum etiam more maris exsurgit, navigantesque atrociter jactat.

9. Sequāna ex Alpibus ortus in septentrionem pergit. Postquam se haud procul Lutetia¹³ cum Matrōna conjunxit, Oceano infunditur. Haec flumina opportunissima sunt mercibus permutandis et ex mari interno in Oceanum transvehendis.

10. Rhenus itidem ex Alpibus ortus, haud procul ab origine lacum efficit Venētum¹⁴ qui etiam Brigantiae appellatur. Deinde longo spatio per fines Helvetiorum, Mediomaticorum¹⁵ et Trevirorum¹⁶ continuo alveo fertur, aut modicas insulas circumfluens; in agro Batāvo autem, ubi Oceano appropinquavit, in plures amnes dividitur; nec jam amnis, sed ripis longe recedentibus, ingens lacus, Flevo¹⁷ appellatur, ejusdemque nominis insulam amplexus, fit iterum arctior, et fluvius iterum¹⁸ in mare emittitur.

11. Trans Rhenum Germani habitant usque ad Vistulam¹⁹ quae finis est Germaniae ad orientem. Ad meridiem terminatur Alpibus, ad septentrionem mari Britannico et Baltico. Incōrāe corporum proceritate excellunt, animos bellando, corpora aboribus exercunt. Hanc ob causam crebro bella gerunt cum finitimis, non tam finium prolatandorum causa, aut imperii cupiditate, sed ob belli amorem. Mites tamen sunt erga supplices et boni hospitibus.²⁰ Urbes moenibus cinctas, aut fossis aggeribusque munitas non habent. Ipsas domos ad breve tempus struunt, non lapidibus aut lateribus coctis, sed lignis, quae frondibus tegunt. Nam diu eodem in loco morari periculosum arbitrantur libertati.

12. Agriculturae Germani non admodum student, nec quisquam agri modum certum aut fines proprios habet. Lacte vescuntur et caseo et carne. Ubi fons, campus nemusve iis placuerit, ibi domos figunt, mox alio transituri cum conjugibus et liberis. Interdum etiam hiemem in subterraneis specubus dicuntur transigere.

13. Germania altis montibus, silvis paludibusque invia redditur. Inter silvas maxima est Hercynia,² cuius latitudinem Caesar novem dierum iter patere narrat.³ Insequentem tempore magna pars ejus excisa est. Flumina sunt in Germania multa et magna. Inter haec clarissimum nomen Rheni, de quo supra diximus, et Danubii.⁴ Clari quoque amnes, Moenus,⁵ Visurgis,⁶ Albis.⁷ Danubius, omnium Europae fluviorum maximus, apud Rhaetos⁸ oritur, flexoque ad ortum solis cursu, receptisque sexaginta amnibus, in Pontum Euxinum sex vastis ostiis effunditur.

14. Britanniam insulam Phoenicibus innotuisse, eosque stannum inde et plumbum pellesque petivisse, probabile est. Romanis eam Julius Caesar primus aperuit;⁹ neque tamen prius cognita esse coepit, quam Claudio imperante.¹⁰ Hadrianus eam, muro¹¹ ab Oceano Germanico ad Hibernicum mare ducto, in duas partes divisit, ut inferiorem insulae partem, quae Romanis parebat, a barbarorum populorum, qui in Scotia habitabant, incursionibus tueretur.

15. Maxima insulae pars campestris, collibus, passim silvisque distincta. Incolae Gallos proceritate corporum vincunt, ceterum ingenio Gallis similes, simpliciores tamen illis magisque barbari. Nemora habitant pro urbibus. Ibi tuguria exstruunt et stabula pecori, sed plerumque ad breve tempus. Humanitate ceteris praestant ii, qui Cantium¹² incolunt. Tota haec regio est maritima. Qui inferiorem insulae partem habitant, frumenta non serunt; lacte et carne vivunt. Pro vestibus induiti sunt pellibus.

16. Italia ab Alpibus usque ad fretum Siculum porrigitur inter mare Tuscum et Adriaticum. Multo longior est quam latior.¹³ In medio se attollit Apenninus mons, qui, postquam continentis jugo progressus est usque ad Apuliam, in duos quasi ramos¹⁴ dividitur. Nobilissima regio ob fertilitatem soli, coelique salubritatem. Quum longe in mare procurrat, plurimos habet portus, populorum inter se patentes commercio. Neque ulla facile est regio, quae tot tamque pulcas urbes habeat, inter quas Roma et magnitudine et nominis fama eminet.

17. Haec urbs, orbis terrarum caput, septem montes complectitur. Initio quatuor portas habebat; Augusti aevo tringita septem. Urbis magnificentiam augebant fora, templa, porticus, aquaeductus, theatra, arcus triumphales, horti denique, et id genus¹ alia, ad quae vel lecta² animus stupet. Quare recte de ea praedicare videntur, qui nullius urbis in toto orbe terrarum magnificentiam ei comparari posse dixerunt.

18. Felicissima in Italia regio est Campania. Multi ibi viti-féri colles, ubi nobilissima vina gignuntur, Setīnum, Caecūbum, Falernum, Massicum. Calidi ibidem fontes saluberrimi.³ Nusquam generosior olea. Conchylio quoque et pisce nobili maria vicina scatent.

19. Clarissimi amnes Italiae sunt Padus⁴ et Tibēris. Et Padus quidem in superiore parte, quae Gallia Cisalpina⁵ vocatur, ab imis radicibus Vesuli⁶ montis exoritur; primum exilis, deinde aliis amnibus ita alitur, ut se per septem ostia in mare effundat. Tiberis, qui antiquissimis temporibus Albūlæ nomen habebat, ex Apennino oritur; deinde duobus et quadraginta fluminibus auctus, fit navigabilis. Plurimas in utraque ripa villas adspicit, praecipue autem urbis Romanae magnificantiam.⁷ Placidissimus amnium raro ripas egreditur.

20. In inferiore parte Italiae clara quondam urbs Tarentum,⁸ quae maris sinui, cui adjacet, nomen dedit. Soli fertilitas coelique jucunda temperies in causa fuisse videtur, ut incollae luxuria et deliciis enervarentur. Quumque aliquamdiu potentia florerent copiasque haud contemmendas alerent, peregrinis tamen plerumque ducibus in bellis utebantur, ut Pyrrho, rege Epīri, quo superato,⁹ urbs in Romanorum potestatem venit.

21. Proxima Italiae est Sicilia, insula omnium maris interni maxima. Antiquissimis temporibus eam cum Italiae cohaesisse, marisque impetu, aut terrae motu inde divulsam esse, verisimile est. Forma triangularis, ita ut litterae, quam Graeci Δελτα vocant, imaginem referat. A tribus promontoriis vocatur Trinacria.¹⁰ Nobilissimus ibi mons Aetnae, qui urbi Catānae imminet, tum ob altitudinem, tum etiam ob ignes, quos effundit; quare Cyclōpum¹¹ in illo monte officinam esse poëtae dicunt. Cineres e crateribus egesti¹² agrum circumiacentem fecundum et feracem reddere existimantur. Sunt ibi Piorum campi, qui nomen habent a duobus juvenibus Catanensibus, qui, flammis quondam repente ingruentibus, parentes senectute confectos, humeris sublatos¹³ flammae eripuisse feruntur. Nomina fratribus Amphinōmus et Anāpus fuerunt.

22. Inter urbes Siciliae nulla est illustrior Syracusis, Corinthiorum colonia, ex quinque urbibus conflata. Ab Atheniensibus bello petita,¹ maximas hostium copias delevit: Carthaginenses etiam magnis interdum cladibus affecit. Secundo bello Punico² per triennium oppugnata, Archimēdis³ potissimum ingenio et arte defensa, a M. Marcello capta est. Vicus huic urbi fons Arethusae Nymphae sacer, ad quam Alpheus amnis ex Peloponneso per mare Ionium lapsus commissari dicitur; nam si quid ad Olympiam⁴ in illum amnem jactum fuerit, id in Arethusae fonte reddi.⁵ De illa fabula quid statuendum sit, sponte appetat.

23. In mari Ligustico insula est Corsica, quam Graeci Curnum vocant. Terra aspera multisque locis invia, coelum grave, mare circa importunum. Incolae latrociniis dediti, feri sunt et horridi. Mellā quoque illius insulae amara esse dicuntur corporibusque nocere. Proxima ei est Sardinia, quae a Graecis mercatoribus Ichnusa vocatur, quia formam humani vestigii⁶ habet. Solum quam coelum melius. Illud fertile, hoc grave ac noxiū. Noxia quoque animalia herbasque venenatas gignit. Multum inde frumenti Romam mittitur; unde haec insula et Sicilia nutrīces Urbis vocantur.

24. Graecia nominis celebritate omnes fere alias orbis terrarum regiones superavit. Nulla enim magnorum ingeniorum fuit feracior; neque ulla belli pacisque artes majore studio excoluit. Plurimas eadem colonias in omnes terrae partes deduxit. Multum itaque terra marique valuit, et gravissima bella magna cum gloria gessit.

25. Graecia inter Ionium et Aegaeum mare porrigitur. In plurimas regiones divisa est, quarum amplissimae sunt Macedonia et Epīrus⁷—quamquam hae a nonnullis a Graecia sejunguntur⁸—tum Thessalia. Macedoniam Philippi et Alexandri regnum illustravit; quorum ille Graeciam subegit, hic Asiam latissime domuit, erexitque Persis imperium in Macedōnes transtulit.⁹ Centum ejus regiones et quinquaginta urbes numerantur; quarum septuaginta duas, Persēo, ultimo Macedoniae rege, superato¹⁰ Paulus Aemilius diripuit.

26. Epirus, quae ab Acrocerauniis incipit montibus,¹¹ desinat in Achelōi flumine. Plures eam populi incolunt. Illustris ibi Dodōna in Molossorum finibus vetustissimo Jovis oraculo inclīta. Columbae ibi ex arboribus oracula dedisse narrantur: quercusque ipsas et lebētes aeneos inde suspensos deorum voluntatem tinnitu significasse¹² fama est.

27. Achelōi fluvii ostiis insulae aliquot objacent, quarum maxima est Cephallenia.¹³ Multae praeterea insulae littori Epīri adjacent, interque eas Corcȳra,¹⁴ quam Homerus Scheriam appellasse existimatur. In hac Phaeācas posuit ille et hortos Alcinōi. Coloniam huc deduxerunt Corinthii, quo tempore¹ Numa Pompilius² Romae regnavit. Vicina ei Ithāca,³ Ulyssis patria, aspera montibus, sed Homeri carminibus adeo nobilitata, ut ne fertilissimis quidem regionibus cedat.

28. Thessalia late patet inter Macedoniam et Epirum, fœcunda regio, generosis praecipue equis excellens, unde Thes-salorum equitatus celeberrimus. Montes ibi memorabiles Olympus, in quo deorum sedes esse existimatur, Pelion et Ossa, per quos⁴ Gigantes coelum petivisse dicuntur; Oeta denique, in cuius vertice Hercules, rogo consenso, se ipsum cremavit. Inter Ossam et Olympum Penēus,⁵ limpidissimus amnis, delabitur, vallem amoenissimam, Tempe⁶ vocatam irrigans.

29. Inter reliquas Graeciae regiones nominis claritate eminet Attica, quae etiam Atthis vocatur. Ibi Athenae,⁷ de qua urbe deos⁸ inter se certasse fama est. Certius est, nullam unquam urbem tot poëtas tulisse, tot oratores, tot philosophos, totque in omni virtutis genere claros viros. Res autem bello eas⁹ gessit, ut huic soli gloriae studere videretur; pacisque artes ita excoluit, ut hac laude magis etiam quam belli gloria splenderet. Arx ibi sive Acropolis, urbi immīnens, unde latus in mare prospectus patet. Per propylaea¹⁰ ad eam adscenditur, splendidum Periclis opus. Cum ipsa urbe per longos muros¹¹ conjunctus est portus Piraeus, post bellum Persicum secundum a Themistocle munitus. Tutissima ibi statio navium.

30. Atticam attingit Boeotia, fertilissima regio. Incolae magis corporibus valent, quam ingeniis. Urbs celeberrima Thebae, quas Amphion, musices ope,¹² moenibus cinxisse dicitur. Illustravit eam Pindari poëtae ingenium, Epaminondæ virtus.¹³ Mons ibi Helicon, Musarum sedes, et Cithaeron, plurimis poëtarum fabulis celebratus.

31. Boeotiae Phocis finitima, ubi Delphi urbs clarissima. In qua urbe oraculum Apollinis quantam apud omnes gentes auctoritatem habuerit, quot quamque praeclara munera ex omni fere terrarum orbe Delphos missa fuerint, nemo ignorat.¹⁴ Imminet urbi Parnassus mons, in cuius verticibus Musae habitare dicuntur, unde aqua fontis Castalii poëtarum ingenia inflammare existimatur.

32. Cum ea parte Graeciae, quam hactenus descripsimus, cohaeret ingens peninsula, quae Peloponnēsus¹⁵ vocatur, platiⁿ folio simillima. Angustus ille trames inter Aegaeum mare et Ionium, per quem cum Megaride cohaeret, Isthmus¹⁶ appellatur. In eo templum Neptuni est, ad quod ludi celebrantur Isthmici.¹⁷ Ibidem in ipso Peloponnesi aditu, Corinthus sita est, urbs antiquissima, ex cuius summa arce (Acrocorinthon appellant) utrumque mare conspicitur. Quum opibus floreret, maritimisque valeret copiis, gravia bella gessit. In bello Achaico,¹ quod Romani cum Graecis gesserunt, pulcherrima urbs, quam Cicero Graeciae lumen appellat, a L. Mummo expugnata funditusque deleta est. Restituit eam Julius Caesar, colonosque eo milites veteranos misit.

33. Nobilis est in Peloponneso urbs Olympia, templo Jovis Olympii ac statua illustris. Statua ex ebore facta, Phidiae summi artificis opus praestantissimum. Prope illud templum ad Alphēi fluminis ripas ludi celebrantur Olympicī, ad quos videndos ex tota Graecia concurritur. Ab his Iudis Graeca gens res gestas suas numerat.²

34. Nec Sparta praetereunda est, urbs nobilissima, quam Lycurgi leges,³ civiumque virtus et patientia illustravit. Nulla fere gens bellica laude magis floruit, pluresque viros fortes constantesque genuit. Urbi imminet mons Taygētus,⁴ qui usque ad Arcadiam procurrit. Proxime urbem Eurōtas fluvius delabitur, ad cuius ripas Spartani se exercere solebant. In Sinum Laconicum effunditur. Haud procul inde abest promontorium Taenārum, ubi altissimi specus, per quos Orphēum⁵ ad inferos descendisse narrant.

35. Mare Aegaeum, inter Graeciam Asiamque patens, plurimis insulis distinguitur. Illustres inter eas sunt Cyclādes,⁶ sic appellatae, quia in orbem jacent. Media earum est Delus,⁷ quae repente e mari enata esse dicitur. In ea insula Latōna Apollinem et Dianam peperit, quae numina ibi una cum matre summa religione coluntur. Urbi imminet Cynthus, mons excelsus et arduus. Inōpus amnis pariter cum Nilo decrescere et augeri dicitur. Mercatus in Delo celeberrimus, quod ob portus commoditatem templique religionem mercatores ex toto orbe terrarum eo confluabant. Eandem ob causam civitates Graeciae, post secundum Persicum bellum, tributa ad belli usum in eam insulam, tamquam in commune totius Graeciae aerarium, conferebant; quam pecuniam insequenti tempore Athenienses in suam urbem transtulerunt.⁸

36. Euboea⁹ insula littori Boeotiae et Atticae praetenditur, angusto freto a continenti distans. Terra motu a Boeotia avulsa esse creditur: saepius eam concussam esse constat. Fretum, quo a Graecia se Jungitur, vocatur Euripus, saevum et aestuosum mare, quod continuo motu agitatur. Nonnulli dicunt, septies quovis die, statis temporibus, fluctus alterno motu agitari: alii hoc negant, dicentes, mare temere,¹⁰ in venti modum, huc illuc moveri. Sunt, qui narrent, Aristotelem philosophum, quia hujus miraculi causas investigare non posset, aegritudine confectum esse.

37. Jam ad boreales regiones pergamus. Supra Macedoniam Thracia porrigitur a Ponto Euxino usque ad Illyriam. Regio frigida et in iis tantum partibus fecundior, quae propiores sunt mari. Pomiferae arbores rarae; frequentiores vites; sed uvae non maturescunt, nisi frigus studiose arcetur. Sola Thasus, insula littori Thraciae adjacens, vino excellit. Amnes sunt celeberrimi Hebrus, ad quem Orpheus a Maenadibus disceptus esse dicitur; Nestus et Strymon. Montes altissimi, Haemus, ex cuius vertice Pontus et Adria conspicitur; Rhodope et Orbēlus.

38. Plures Thraciam gentes incolunt, et nominibus diversae et moribus. Inter has Getae omnium sunt ferocissimi et ad mortem paratissimi. Animas enim post mortem reddituras existimant. Recens nati apud eos deflentur; funera autem cantu lusuque celebrantur. Plures singuli uxores habent.¹ Hae omnes, viro defuncto, mactari simulque cum eo sepeliri cupiunt, magnoque id certamine a judicibus² contendunt. Virgines non a parentibus traduntur viris, sed aut publice ducendae³ locantur, aut veneunt. Formosae in pretio sunt; ceterae maritos mercede data inveniunt.⁴

39. Inter urbes Thraciae memorabile est Byzantium,⁵ ad Bospōrum Thracium,⁶ urbs natura munita et arte, quae cum ob soli fertilitatem, tum ob vicinitatem maris omnium rerum, quas vita requirit, copia abundat. Nec Sestos praetereunda est silentio, urbs ad Hellespontum⁷ posita, quam amor Herus et Leandri⁸ memorabilem reddidit; nec Cynossēma,⁹ tumulus Hecūbae,¹⁰ ubi illa, post Trojan dirūtam, in canem mutata et sepulta esse dicitur. Nomen etiam habet in iisdem regionibus urbs Aenos, ab Aenēa,¹¹ e patria profugo, condita; Zone, ubi nemora Orpheum canentem secuta esse narrantur; Abdēra denique, ubi Diomēdes rex advenas equis suis devorandos¹² objiciebat, donec ipse ab Hercule iisdem objectus est. Quae urbs quum ranarum muriumque multitudine infestatur, incolae, relicto patriae solo, novas sedes quaesiverunt. Hos Cassander,¹³ rex Macedoniae, in societatem accepisse, agrosque in extrema Macedonia¹⁴ assignasse¹⁵ dicitur.

40. Jam de Scythis pauca dicenda sunt. Terminatur Scythia¹⁶ ab uno latere Ponto Euxino, ab altero montibus Rhipaeis, a tergo, Asia et Phaside flumine. Vasta regio nullis fere intus finibus dividitur. Scythaen nec agrum exercent, nec certas sedes habent, sed armenta et pecora pascentes, per incultas solitudines errare solent. Uxores liberosque secum in plaustris vehunt. Lacte et melle vescuntur; aurum et argentum, cuius nullus apud eos usus est, aspernantur. Corpora pellibus vestiunt.

41. Diversae sunt Scytharum gentes diversique mores. Sunt, qui funera parentum festis sacrificiis celebrent, eorumque capitibus affabre expolitis auroque vinctis pro poculis utantur. Agathyrsi ora et corpora pingunt, idque tanto magis, quanto quis illustrioribus gaudet majoribus.¹ Ii, qui Tauricam Chersonesum² incolunt, antiquissimis temporibus advenas Dianaem mactabant. Interius habitantes ceteris rudiores sunt. Bella amant, et quo quis plures hostes interemerit, eo majore existimatione apud suos habetur. Ne foedera quidem incruenta sunt. Sauciant se qui paciscuntur, sanguinemque permistum degustant. Id fidei pignus certissimum esse putant.

42. Maxima fluminum Scythicorum sunt Ister, qui et Danubius vocatur, et Borysthēnes.³ De Istro supra dictum est. Borysthenes, ex ignotis fontibus ortus, liquidissimas aquas trahit et potatu jucundas. Placidus idem laetissima pabula alit. Magno spatio navigabilis juxta urbem Borysthenida in Pontum effunditur.

43. Ultra Rhipaeos montes et Aquilonem gens habitare existimatur felicissima; Hyperborōeos⁴ appellant. Regio aprica, felix coeli temperies omnique afflatu noxio carens. Semel in anno sol iis oritur solstitio, bruma semel occidit.⁵ Incolae in nemoribus et lucis habitant; sine omni⁶ discordia et aegritudine vivunt. Quum vitae eos taedet,⁷ epulis sumtis ex rupe se in mare praecipitant. Hoc enim sepulturae genus beatissimum esse existimant.

44. Asia ceteris terrae partibus est amplior. Oceanus eam alluit, ut locis, ita nominibus differens; Eous ab oriente, a meridie Indicus, a septentrione Scythicus. Asiae nomine⁸ appellatur etiam peninsula, quae a mari Aegaeo usque ad Armeniam patet. In hac parte est Bithynia ad Propontidem sita, ubi Granīcus in mare effunditur, ad quem amnem⁹ Alexander, rex Macedoniae, primam victoriam de Persis reportavit.¹⁰ Trans illum amnem sita est Cyzicus in cervice peninsulae,¹¹ urbs nobilissima, a Cyzico appellata, qui in illis regionibus ab Argonautis pugna occisus est.¹² Haud procul ab illa urbe Rhyndācus in mare effunditur, circa quem angues nascuntur, non solum ob magnitudinem mirabiles, sed etiam ob id, quod, quum ex aqua emergunt et hiant, supervolantes aves absorbent.¹³

45. Propontis cum Ponto jungitur per Bospōrum, quod fretum quinque stadia latum, Europam ab Asia separat. Ipsius in fauibus Bospori oppidum est Chalcēdon, ab Archia, Megarensium principe, et templum Jovis, ab Jasōne¹⁴ conditum.

Pontus ipse ingens est maris sinus, non molli neque arenoso circumdatus littore, tempestatibus obnoxius, raris stationibus. Olim ob saevitatem populorum, qui circa habitant, Axenus¹ appellatus fuisse dicitur; postea, mollitis illorum moribus, dictus est Euxinus.²

46. In littore Ponti, in Mariandynorum agro, urbs et Heraclea ab Hercule, ut fertur, condita. Juxta eam spelunca est Acherusia, quam ad Manes perviam esse existimant. Hinc Cerberus ab Hercule extractus fuisse dicitur. Ultra fluvium Thermodonta³ Mossyni habitant. Hi totum corpus distinguunt notis.⁴ Reges suffragio eligunt; eosdem in turre lignea inclusos arctissime custodiunt, et si quid perperam imperitaverint, inedia totius diei afficiunt. Extremum Ponti angulum Colchi tenent ad Phasidem; quae loca fabula de vellere aureo et Argonautarum expeditio illustravit.

47. Inter provincias Asiae proprie dictae⁵ illustris est Ionia, in duodecim civitates divisa. Inter eas Miletus, belli pacisque artibus inclyta; eique vicinum Panionium, sacra regio, quo omnes Ionum civitates statis temporibus legatos solebant mittere. Nulla facile urbs plures colonias misit,⁶ quam Miletus. Ephesi, quam urbem Amazones⁷ condidisse traduntur, templum est Diana, quod septem mundi miraculis annumerari solet. Totius templi longitudo est quadringentorum viginti quinque pedum, latitudo ducentorum viginti; columnae centum viginti septem numero, sexaginta pedum altitudine; ex iis triginta sex caelatae. Operi praefuit Chersiphron architectus.

48. Aeolis olim Mysia appellata, et ubi Hellespontum attingit, Troas. Ibi Ilium⁸ fuit situm ad radices montis Idae, urbs bello, quod per decem annos cum universa Graecia gesit, clarissima. Ab Idaeo monte Scamander defluit et Simois, amnes famâ quam naturâ majores.⁹ Ipsum montem certamen Dearum Paridisque judicium illustrem reddidit.¹⁰ In littore clarae sunt urbes Rhoetum et Dardania; sed sepulcrum Ajacis,¹¹ qui ibi post certamen cum Ulyssse gladio incubuit, utraque clarius.

49. Ionibus Cares sunt finitimi, populus armorum bellique ideo amans, ut aliena etiam bella mercede accepta¹² gereret. Princeps Cariae urbs Halicarnassus, Argivorum colonia, regum sedes olim. Unus eorum Mausolus fuit. Qui quum vita defunctus esset, Artemisia conjux, desiderio mariti flagrans, ossa ejus cineresque contusa¹³ cum aqua miscuit ebisque, splendidumque praeterea sepulcrum¹⁴ extruxit, quod inter septem orbis terrarum miracula censemur.

50. Cilicia sita est in intimo recessu maris, ubi Asia proprie sic dicta cum Syria conjungitur. Sinus ille ab urbe Isso Issici nomen habet. Fluvius ibi Cydnus, aquâ limpidissimâ et frigidissimâ, in quo Alexander Macêdo quum lavaret,¹ parum abfuit, quin frigore enecaretur. Antrum Corycium in iisdem regionibus ob singularem naturam memorabile est. Ingenti illud hiatu patet in monte arduo, alteque demissum undique viret lucis² pendentibus. Ubi ad ima perventum est rursus aliud antrum aperitur. Ibi sonitus cymbalorum ingredientes terrere dicitur.³ Totus hic specus augustus est et vere sacer, et a Diis habitari existimatur.

51. E Cilicia egressos Syria excipit, cujus pars est Phoenice in littore maris interni posita. Hanc regionem sollers hominum genus colit. Phoenices enim litterarum formas a se inventas aliis populis tradiderunt; alias etiam artes, quae ad navigationem et mercaturam spectant, studiose coluerunt. Centerum fertilis regio crebrisque fluminibus rigata, quorum ope terrae marisque opes facili negotio inter se permutantur. Nobilissimae Phoenices urbes Sidon, antequam a Persis caperetur, maritimorum urbium maxima, et Tyrus, aggere cum terra conjuncta.⁴ Purpura hujus urbis omnium pretiosissima. Conficitur ille color ex succo in conchis, quae etiam purpurae vocantur, latente.

52. Ex Syria descenditur in Arabiam, peninsulam inter duo maria, Rubrum et Persicum, porrectam. Hujus ea pars, quae ab urbe Petra Petraeae nomen accepit, plane est sterilis; hanc excipit ea, quae ob vastas solitudines deserta vocatur. His partibus adhaeret Arabia felix, regio angusta, sed cinnami, thuris aliorumque odorum feracissima. Multae ibi gentes sunt, quae fixas sedes non habeant, Nomades a Graecis appellatae. Lacte et carne ferina vescuntur. Multi etiam Arâbum populi latrociniis vivunt.⁵ Primus e Romanis Aelius Gallus in hanc terram cum exercitu penetravit.⁶

53. Camelos inter armenta pascit Oriens. Duo harum sunt genera, Bractrianae et Arabiae.⁷ Illae bina habent in dorso tubera, hae singula; unum autem sub pectore, cui incumbant. Dentium ordine superiore carent. Sitem quatriduo tolerant; aquam antequam bibant, pedibus turbant. Vivunt quinquagenis annis; quaedam etiam centenis.

54. Ex Arabia pervenitur in Babyloniam, cui Babylon nomen dedit, Chaldaicarum gentium caput, urbs et magnitudine et divitiis clara. Semiramis eam condiderat, vel, ut multi crediderunt, Belus, cujus regia ostenditur. Murus exstructus laterculo coctili, triginta et duos pedes est latus, ita ut quadrigae inter se occurrentes sine periculo commeare dicantur; altitudo ducentorum pedum; turres autem denis pedibus quam murus altiores sunt. Totius operis ambitus sexaginta millia passuum complectitur. Medium urbem permeat Euphrates. Arcem habet viginti stadiorum ambitu¹; super ea pensiles horiti conspiciuntur, tantaeque sunt moles² tamque firmae, ut onera nemorum sine detimento ferant.

55. Amplissima Asiae regio India primum patefacta est armis Alexandri Magni, regis Macedoniae, cuius exemplum successores³ secuti in interiora Indiae penetraverunt. In eo tractu, quem Alexander subegit, quinque millia oppidorum fuisse, gentesque novem, Indiamque tertiam partem esse terrarum omnium, ejus comites scripserunt. Ingentes ibi sunt amnes, Indus et Indo major Ganges. Indus in Paropamiso⁴ ortus undeviginti amnes recipit, totidem Ganges, interque eos plures navigabiles.

56. Maxima in India gignuntur animalia. Canes ibi grandiiores ceteris. Arbores tantae proceritatis esse traduntur, ut sagittis superjaci nequeant. Hoc efficit ubertas soli, temperies coeli, aquarum abundantia. Immanes quoque serpentes alit, qui elephatos morsu et ambitu corporis⁵ conficiunt. Solum tam pingue et ferox, ut mella frondibus defluant, sylvae lanas ferant⁶ arundinum internodia fissa cymbarum usum praebent, binosque, quaedam etiam ternos homines, vehant.

57. Incolarum habitus moresque diversi. Lino alii vestiuntur et lanis arborum, alii ferarum aviumque pellibus, pars nudi incedunt. Quidam animalia occidere eorumque carnibus vesci nefas putant; alii piscibus tantum aluntur. Quidam parentes et propinquos, prius quam annis et macie conficiantur, velut hostias caedunt eorumque visceribus epulantur; ubi senectus eos morbusve invadit, mortem in solitudine aequo animo exspectant. Ii, qui sapientiam profitentur, ab ortu solis ad occasum stare solent, solem immobilibus oculis intuentes; ferventibus arenis toto die alternis pedibus insistunt.⁷ Mortem non exspectant, sed sponte arcessunt, in rogos incensos se praecipitantes.⁸

58. Maximos India elephatos gignit, adeoque feroce, ut Afri elephanti illos paveant, nec contueri audeant. Hoc animal cetera omnia docilitate superat. Discunt arma jacere, gladiatorum more congregati, saltare et per funes incedere. Plinius⁹ narrat, Romae unum segnioris ingenii saepius castigatum esse verberibus, quia tardius accipiebat, quae tradebantur; eundem repertum esse noctu eadem meditantem.¹⁰ Elephanti gregalim semper ingrediuntur. Dicit agmen maximus natu, cogit is, qui aetate ei est proximus. Amnem transituri minimos praemittunt. Capiuntur soveis. In has ubi elephas deciderit, ceteri ramos congerunt, aggeres construunt, omnique vi conantur extrahere. Domantur fame et verberibus. Domiti militant et turres armatorum in hostes ferunt, magnaque ex parte¹¹

Orientis bella conficiunt. Totas acies prosternunt, armatos proterunt. Ingens dentibus pretium. In Graecia ebur ad deorum simulacra tanquam pretiosissima materia adhibetur; in extremis Africae postium vicem in domiciliis praebet, sepesque in pecorum stabulis elephantorum dentibus fiunt. Inter omnia animalia maxime oderunt murem. Infestus elephanto etiam rhinoceros, qui nomen habet a cornu, quod in naso gerit. In pugna maxime adversarii alvum petit, quam scit esse molliorem. Longitudine elephantum fere exaequat; crura multo breviora: color buxeus.

59. Etiam psittacos India mittit. Haec avis humanas voces optime reddit. Quum loqui discit, ferreo radio verberatur, alter enim non sentit ictus. Capiti ejus eadem est duritia, quae rostro. Quum devolat, rostro se excipit,² eique innititur.

60. Testudines tantae magnitudinis Indicum mare emittit, ut singularum testis casas intégant. Insulas rubri praecipue maris his navigant cymbis.³ Capiuntur obdormiscentes in summa aqua, id quod proditur stertentium sonitu. Tum terni⁴ adnātant, a duobus in dorsum vertitur, a tertio laqueus injicitur, atque ita a pluribus in littore stantibus trahitur. In mari testudines conchyliis vivunt; tanta enim oris est duritia, ut lapides comminuant; in terram egressae, herbis. Pariunt ova, ovis avium similia, ad centena⁵ numero; eaque extra aquam defossa terrā cooperiunt.

61. Margaritae Indici Oceani omnium maxime laudantur. Inveniuntur in conchis, scopolis adhaerentibus. Maxima laus est in candore, magnitudine, laevore, pondere. Raro duae inveniuntur, quae sibi ex omni parte sint similes. Has auribus suspendēre, feminarum est gloria.⁶ Duos maximos uniones Cleopatra, Aegypti regina, habuisse dicitur. Horum unum, ut Antonium⁷ magnificentia superaret, in coena aceto solvit, solutum hausit.

62. Aegyptus, inter Catabathmum⁸ et Arabas posita, a plurimis ad Asiam refertur; alii Asiam Arabicō sinu terminari existimant. Haec regio, quamquam expers est imbrium, mire tamen est fertilis. Hoc Nilus efficit, omnium fluviorum, qui in mare internum effunduntur, maximus. Hic in desertis Africæ oritur, tum ex Aethiopia descendit in Aegyptum, ubi de altis rupibus praecipitatus⁹ usque ad Elephantidem urbem fervens adhuc decurrit. Tum demum fit placidior. Juxta Cercasorum oppidum in plures amnes dividitur, et tandem per septem ora¹⁰ effunditur in mare.

63. Nilus, nivibus in Aethiopiae montibus solutis, crescere incipit Luna nova post solstictium per quinquaginta fere dies; totidem diebus minuitur. Justum incrementum est cubitorum sexdecim. Si minores sunt aquae, non omnia rigant. Maximum incrementum fuit cubitorum duodeviginti; minimum quinque. Quum stetere aquae, aggeres aperiuntur,¹ et arte aqua in agros immittitur. Quum omnis recesserit, agri irrigati et limo obducti seruntur.

64. Nilus crocodilum alit, belluam quadrupedem, in terra non minus quam in flumine hominibus infestam. Unum hoc animal terrestre linguae usu caret; dentium plures habet ordines; maxilla inferior est immobilis. Magnitudine excedit plerumque duodeviginti cubita. Parit ova anserinis non majora. Unguis etiam armatus est, et cute contra omnes ictus invicta. Dies in terra agit, noctes in aqua. Quum satur est et in littore somnum capit, ore hiante, trochilus, parva avis, dentes ei faucesque purgat. Sed hiantem conspicatus ichneumon, per easdem fauces, ut telum aliquod immissus, eredit alvum. Hebetes oculos dicitur habere in aqua, extra aquam acerrimos. Tentyritae in insula Nili habitantes, dirae huic belluae obviam ire audent, eamque incredibili audacia expugnant.

65. Aliam etiam belluam Nilus alit, hippopotamum; unguis binis, dorso equi et juba et hinnitu; rostro resimo, cauda et dentibus aprorum. Cutis impenetrabilis, praeterquam si humore madeat. Primus hippopotamum et quinque crocodilos M. Scaurus aedilitatis suae ludis Romae ostendit.³

66. Multa in Aegypto mira sunt et artis et naturae opera. Inter ea, quae manibus hominum facta sunt, eminent pyramides, quarum maxima sunt et celeberrimae in monte sterili inter Memphin oppidum et eam partem Aegypti, quae Delta vocatur. Amplissimam earum trecenta sexaginta sex hominum millia annis viginti exstruxisse traduntur. Haec octo jugera soli occupat; unumquodque latus octingentos octoginta tres pedes longum est; altitudo a cacumine, pedum quindecim millium. Intus in ea est puteus octoginta sex cubitorum. Ante has pyramides Sphinx est posita mirae magnitudinis. Capitis ambitus centum duos pedes habet; longitudo est pedum centum quadraginta trium; altitudo a ventre usque ad summum capitis apicem sexaginta duorum.

67. Inter miracula Aegypti commemoratur etiam Moeris⁴ acus, quingenta millia passuum in circuitu patens; Labyrinthus,⁵ ter mille domos et regias duodecim uno pariete amplexus, totus marmore exstructus tectusque; turris denique in insula Pharo, a Ptolemaeo, Lagi filio,⁶ condita. Usus ejus navibus noctu ignes ostendere ad praenuntianda vada portusque introitum.

68. In palustribus Aegypti regionibus papryrum nascitur.

Radicibus incolae pro ligno utuntur; ex ipso autem papyro navigia texunt, e libro vela, tegētes, vestem ac funes. Succa causa etiam mandunt modo crudum, modo decoctum. Praeparantur ex eo etiam chartae. Chartae ex papyro usus post Alexandri demum victorias repertus est. Primo enim scriptum in palmarum foliis, deinde in libris quarundam arborum; postea publica monimenta plumbeis tabulis confici, aut marmoribus mandari copta sunt. Tandem aemulatio regum Ptolemaei et Eumēnis in bibliothecis condendis¹ occasionem dedit membranas Pergami inveniendi. Ab eo inde tempore libri modo in charta ex papyro facta, modo in membranis scripti sunt.

69. Mores incolarum Aegypti ab aliorum populorum moribus vehementer discrepant. Mortuos nec cremant, nec sepeliant; verum arte medicatos,² intra penetralia collocant. Negotia extra domos feminae, viri domos et res domesticas currant; onera illae humeris, hi capitibus gerunt. Colunt effigies multorum animalium et ipsa animalia. Haec interfecisse capitale est; morbo exstincta lugent et sepelunt.

70. Apis omnium Aegypti populorum numen est; bos niger cum candida in dextro latere macula: nodus sub lingua quem canthārum appellant. Non fas est eum certos vitae annos excedere. Ad hunc vitae terminum quum pervenerit, mersum in fonte enecant. Necatum lugent, aliumque quaerunt, quem ei substituant; nec tamen unquam diu quaeritur.³ Delūbra ei sunt gemina, quae thalamos vocant, ubi populus auguria captat. Alterum intrasse laetum est; in altero dira portendit. Pro bono etiam habetur signo, si e manibus consulentium cibum capit. In publicum procedentem grex puerorum comitatur, carmenque in ejus honorem canunt, idque videtur intelligere.

71. Ultra Aegyptum Aethiōpes habitant. Horum populi quidam Macrobius⁴ vocantur, quia paulo quam nos diutius vivunt. Plus auri apud eos reperitur, quam aeris; hanc ob causam aes illis videtur pretiosius. Aere se exornant, vincula auro fabricant. Lacus est apud eos, cuius aqua tam est liquida atque levis, ut nihil eorum, quae inmittuntur, sustinere queat; quare arborum quoque folia non innatant aquae, sed pessum aguntur.

72. Africa ab oriente terminatur Nilo;⁵ a ceteris partibus mari. Regiones ad mare positae eximie sunt fertiles; interiores incultae et arenis sterilibus tectae, et ob nimium calorem desertae. Prima pars ab occidente est Mauritania.⁶ Ibi mons praecultus Abyla, Calpae monti in Hispania oppositus. Hi montes columnae Herculis appellantur.⁷ Fama est, ante Herculm mare internum terris inclusum fuisse, nec exitum habuisse in Oceanum; Herculem autem juctos montes diremissem et mare junxisse cum Oceano. Ceterum regio illa est ignobilis et parvis tantum oppidis habitatur. Solum melius quam incolae.

73. Numidia¹ magis culta et opulentior. Ibi satis longo a littore intervallo saxa cernuntur attrita fluctibus, spinae piscium, ostreorumque fragmenta, ancorae etiam cautibus infixae, et alia ejusmodi signa maris olim usque ad ea loco effusi. Finitima regio, a promontorio Metagonio ad aras Philaenorum, proprie vocatur Africa.² Urbes in ea celeberrimae Utica et Carthago, ambae a Phoenicibus conditae. Carthaginem divitiae, mercaturā imprimis comparatae, tum bella cum Romanis³ gesta, excidium denique illustravit.

74. De aris Philaenorum haec narrantur.⁴ Pertinacissima fuerat contentio inter Carthaginem et Cyrenas de finibus. Tandem placuit, utrumque eodem tempore juvenes mitti, et locum, quo convenissent pro finibus haberet. Carthaginiensium legati, Philaeni fratres, paulo ante tempus constitutum egressi esse dicuntur. Quod quum Cyrenensium legati intellexissent, magna exorta esset contentio, tandem Cyrenenses dixerunt, se tum demum hunc locum pro finibus habituros esse, si Philaeni se ibi vivos obrui passi essent. Illi conditionem acceperunt. Carthaginienses autem animosis juvenibus in illis ipsis locis, ubi vivi sepulti sunt, aras consécraverunt, eorumque virtutem aeternis honoribus prosecuti sunt.

75. Inde ad Catabathmum⁵ Cyrenaica⁶ porrigitur, ubi Ammonis oraculum et fons quidam, quem Solis⁷ esse dicunt. Hic fons media nocte fervet, tum paulatim tepescit; sole oriente fit frigidus; per meridiem maxime riget. Catabathmus vallis est devixa versus Aegyptum. Ibi finitur Africa. Proximi his⁸ populi urbes non habent, sed in tuguriis vivunt, quae mapalia vocantur. Vulgus pecudum vestitur pe'libus. Potus est lac succusque baccarum; cibus caro. Interiores etiam incultius vivunt. Sequuntur greges suos, utque hi pabulo ducuntur, ita illi tuguria sua promövent.⁹ Leges nullas habent, nec in commune consultant. Inter hos Troglodytae in specubus habitant, serpentibusque aluntur.

76. Ferarum Africa feracissima. Pardos, pantheras, leones gignit, quod belluarum genus Europa ignorat. Leoni praecipua generositas.¹⁰ Prostratis¹¹ parcere dicitur; in infantes non nisi summa fame saevit. Animi ejus index cauda, quam, dum placidus est, imminctam servat; dum irascitur, terram et se ipsum ea flagellat. Vis summa in pectore. Si fugere cogitur, contemtim cedit, quam diu spectari potest; in silvis acerrimo cursu fertur. Vulneratus percussorem novit, et in quantilibet multi-tudine appetit.¹ Hoc tam saevum animal gallinacei cantus terret. Domatur etiam ab hominibus. Hanno Poenus primus leonem mansuefactum ostendisse dicitur. Marcus autem Antonius, triumvir, primus, post pugnam in campis Philippicis,² Romae leones ad currum junxit.

77. Struthiocameli Africi altitudinem equitis insidentis exaequant, celeritatem vincunt. Pennae ad hoc demum videntur datae, ut currentes adjūvent; nam a terra tolli non possunt. Ungulae cervinis sunt similes. His in fuga comprehendunt lapides, eosque contra sequentes jaculantur. Omnia concōquunt. Ceterum magna iis stoliditas, ita ut, quum caput et collum frutice occultaverint, se latēre existiment. Pennae eorum quaeruntur ad ornatum.

78. Africa serpentes generat vicenorum cubitorum; nec minores India. Certe Megasthēnes scribit, serpentes ibi in tantam magnitudinem adolescere, ut solidos hauriant cervos taurosque. In primo Punico bello ad flumen Bagrādam³ serpens centum viginti pedum a Regulo, imperatore Romano,⁴ ballistis et tormentis expugnata esse feritur. Pellis ejus et maxillae diu Romae in templo quodam asservatae sunt. In India serpentes perpetuum bellum cum elephantis gerunt. Ex arboribus se in praetereuntes praecipitant gressusque ligant nodis. Hos nodos elephanti manu⁵ resolvunt. At dracones in ipsas elephantorum nares caput condunt spiritumque praecludunt. Plerumque in illa dimicatione utriusque commoriuntur, cum victus elephas corruens serpentem pondere suo elīdit.

NOTES.

EXERCISES IN SIMPLE SENTENCES.

1. Est vitanda, “is to be avoided.”
2. Athenae, arum, used only in the plural. The plural form was adopted in consequence of the union, by Theseus, into one city, of the boroughs into which Attica was subdivided. In commemoration of this union, a festival, called Συνοίκια, or Meroίκια, was annually celebrated on the sixteenth day of the month Hecatombaeon. Athenae is derived from 'Αθήνη, the Greek name for Minerva, who was the tutelar goddess of the whole country.
3. Nec—nec. “Neither—nor.”
4. Mortui, (from moriōr,) “the dead.”
5. Litterae, the letters of the alphabet, (it is also used in the plural to signify an epistle.) According to tradition, Cadmus introduced the alphabet into Greece from Phoenicia.
6. Alii—alii. “Some—others.”
7. Galli, “the Gauls.” The word Galli is merely the native term Gael, latinized.
1. Cecidit, from cado.
2. The more noble Romans had commonly three names, the Praenomen, Nomen, and Cognomen. The Praenomen was put first, and marked the individual. It was commonly written with one letter; as, T. for Titus, M. Marcus, C. Caius, P. Publius; sometimes with two letters; as, Ti. for Tiberius, Cn. Cneius, Sp. Spurius; sometimes with three; as, Ser. for Servius, Sex. Sextus. The Nomen was put after the Praenomen, and marked the gens or clan. The Cognomen was put last, and marked the familia.
3. The Phoenicians were particularly distinguished among the nations of the ancient world for extensive navigation, commerce, and manufactures.
4. Odit, a preterite with the signification of a present.
5. Novi, isse. See n. 4.
6. Acida, “acids.” The neuter plural of adjectives often has the force of a substantive.
7. Dulcia, “sweets.” See n. 6.
8. Nemo non, “every one.” This phrase, when resolved, is equivalent to nemo ēst qui non. The Greek phrase, οὐδεὶς (ἐστιν) οὐτις οὐ, has the same signification.
9. Connect thus: cauda (est) index animi leonum.
1. Maximi, the genitive of valuing, which is generally rendered by adverbs.
2. Pergami. The names of towns of the first and second declension, and of the singular number, are put in the genitive, when an-

5 swering to the question ubi, where? Pergamus, now Bergamo, a town of Mysia, in Asia Minor, on the Caicus, the capital of a kingdom which the Romans enlarged in favour of Eumēnes, after the defeat of Antiochus, king of Syria, and which was left to the Roman people by Attalus, the last king, B. C. 133, A. U. C. 621. Here Eumēnes founded a famous library, in opposition to that of Ptolemy at Alexandria, who, from motives of jealousy, forbade the exportation of Egyptian papyrus, in consequence of which Eumēnes invented parchment, called hence Pergamena (charta.) Antony and Cleopatra transported this library, containing 200,000 volumes, to Alexandria.

3. Esse, when it admits of being translated by have, and denotes possession, governs the dative.

4. Terrori sunt, "are a terror to, terrify."

5. Nobis. The dative sometimes indicates the object for which, and on account of which, something takes place.

6. Ne quidem, "not even." These words are always separated by the word on which the emphasis falls.

7. Sacra, profana, as substantives. See note 6, p. 4.

8. Parcere, signifies properly, "to show forbearance," as,

9. Invidere, "to feel envy."

10. Mederi, signifying "to give relief," "to cure," governs the dative of the person.

11. Vesci, "to feed upon," governs the ablative.

12. Prioribus, (pedibus), "the fore feet."

13. Uti aliqua re, "to make use of a thing."

6 1. Carere, "to be without, want, be in want of;" it is followed by an ablative of the thing wanted.

2. Sex sestertiis Romae venit. A sestertium (the name of a sum, not of a coin) was equivalent to 1000 sestertii. A sestertius was equal to 3½ cents, and 1000 sestertii or a sestertium, to $37 50; six sestertia, therefore, were equal to $225. Vēneō, vēnire, "to be sold, to be exposed to sale;" it must be distinguished from vēnio, vēnire, "to come."

3. Carthagine. Names of towns of the 3d declension, and also plurals of the 1st and 2d, are put in the ablative when answering to the question, where?

4. Beneficium repetrere. The accusative depending upon the infinitive, and that again which depends upon it, like adverbs with the infinitive, form, in conjunction with it, the subject.

7 1. Prodesse from prosum.

2. Equo vehi is equivalent to equitationem.

3. Pugnare, equivalent to pugnam.

4. Juveni. The person on whom a necessity of doing something lies, is put in the dative, as here, juveni and seni, and in the following sentences, discipulis and senibus.

5. Vincendi. The gerund is nothing else than the four oblique cases (genitive, dative, accusative, and ablative) of the neuter of the participle passive in dus. In respect to signification, it supplies the place of a declinable infinitive of the present active, since it expresses the action or state of the verb, as a verbal substantive. It is governed, as a substantive, by other substantives and adjectives, and also governs the case of its verb. Thus,

6. Utendi governs re in the ablative, because its verb utor governs that case.

7. Naturā, "by nature, naturally;" the ablative of the cause.

8. Nova (negotia), the neuter plural. See note 6, p. 4. 8
9. With equis, inutilis est must be understood.
10. Pennae, i. e. adhibentur.
11. Et—et, “as well—as also.”
1. Quid for aliquid.
2. Et ipse, “thou too,” “thou thyself also.”
3. Sub hasta, “at auction, at public sale.” At first a spear was set up only when spoils taken in war were to be sold. Afterwards at all auctions. Hence hasta is put for a public sale, and sub hasta venire, to be publicly sold.
4. Clementiā instead of quam clementiā. The ablative may be put after the comparative, if the comparative particle be omitted instead of the nominative of the subject, and, in the construction of the accusative with the infinitive, instead of the accusative of the subject.
1. Opulentissimae urbes. The words which form an apposition, agree with those, which they accompany, in case, and, for the most part, when circumstances permit, in gender and number. 9
2. Why not altiores?
3. Thebae, a plural only.
4. Ulor with an ablative of the thing used.
5. Quod. When the relative pronoun refers to is, ea, id, and agree with it in case, the demonstrative is often left out.
6. Parcere with the dative of the thing spared.
7. Carere aliqua rc.
8. Vel, even.
9. Haec, as a neuter plural, to be referred to the preceding substantives.
1. Ut—condantur. It is to be observed, as a general rule, that when the verb preceding ut is in the present or future tense, the verb following ut must be put in the present subjunctive; and that, when the preceding verb is in any of the preterite tenses, the verb following must be in the imperfect or perfect subjunctive. 10
2. Ne vulneribus quidem. See above, note 6, p. 5.
3. Omnia, quae, “all, that.”
4. Ne quis (aliquis) equivalent to: ut nemo—Apelles, the greatest painter of that time.
5. Quin, equivalent to quod non.
6. Quin conspicer, “that I cannot see,” or, “without seeing you.”
7. Quin after non dubito signifies “that.”
8. Unusne. The enclitic ne (distinguished by its quantity from the conjunction ne) is equivalent to num.
9. Qua de caussa. This is the usual position of the words; as in quam ob rem, the preposition is placed after the relative pronoun.
1. Suffossum, scil. esse. So also in the following sentences, pul-sos and fugatos must be connected with esse, which stands at the end of the sentence. In Thessalia, supply aliud oppidum. 11
2. Jusserat cremari. The infinitive active is used with jubere, when the person is expressed to whom the commission is given; otherwise, the infinitive passive.
3. Quam Hispaniae gentes. The relative is here used as the accusative of the subject. Hispania was separated from Gaul by the Pyrenees, and from Africa by the Fretum Herculeum, now the Straits of Gibraltar; on the east it was bounded by the Mediterranean, and on the west by the Atlantic.

- 11 4. Noli, with the infinitive, often forms a periphrasis, instead of ne with the imperative or subjunctive.
 5. Homerus traditur. Instead of quidam tradunt, Homerum vixisse, &c.
 6. Totos dies. The accusative, expressing duration of time.
 7. Fessus has a participial form and signification; there is, however, no theme from which it can be derived. It is commonly assigned to fatiscor.
 8. Legentem, i. e. aliquem qui legebat: "a reader."
 9. Habentes. The participles in this and some of the following sentences, can be rendered by the relative pronoun, for which sometimes (as in dantis) the demonstrative must be taken.
- 12 1. Proeliatus, equivalent to qui centum et viginti proeliis interfuerat.
 2. Adverso corpore. "On the breast."
 3. Satiati. This and the following participles may be rendered by "when."
 4. Transituri. The future participle active is used to express an action which one is about to perform.
 5. Duces ad terga recipiunt. Those, which have preceded for a time, when tired, take the hindmost place.
 6. Ejus tumulo circumdedit, equivalent to tumulum ejus circumdedit urbe, Bucephalon appellata.
 7. Patronum, scil. suum. The possessive pronoun is in every instance omitted, where it can be understood from the context.
 8. Heres institutus, "although appointed heir."
 9. Tantae magnitudinus. The genitive of quality.
 10. Tegendo, "for covering." The future participle passive can often be translated by a substantive.
- 13 1. Filio victore. The adjective victor is here used exactly after the manner of a participle. The phrase is equivalent to postquam filius viceras Olympiae (in the solemn games there celebrated.)
 2. Convolvuntur, "are rolled together; roll themselves together."

ÆSOP'S FABLES.

- 14 1. Milvii metu, or milvium metuentes. That shows more definitely the efficient cause.
 2. Receptus, i. e. postquam receptus fuit.
 3. Orare, "to pray;" exorare, "to move by prayer, to obtain by praying, to prevail upon."
 4. Corrosis plagis. The ablative absolute; whereby the original force of this mode of speaking shows itself; "by means of the nets being gnawed through," i. e. "by means of its gnawing the nets." By this form the sentences are more intimately connected than if the form, ut plagas corroderet eumque liberaret, were used.
 5. Quo facto, instead of quum hoc factum esset. The relative noun often stands instead of the demonstrative at the beginning of a sentence, to connect it more closely with that which precedes.
 6. Soleant. When the subject of the verb is expressed chiefly by the clause following it, whether there be, or be not, an antecedent word, receiving the action of the verb, the pronoun is to be considered as indefinite, and joined with the subjunctive mood. It has been observed, that this mood has two different names, as it has two distinct uses, potential and subjunctive. When the meaning is contingent, that is, when the sense requires this form, the mood is strictly potential, as Doceam, "I may teach." Here the verb is not affected, as to its mood, by any antecedent word. But, if we say, Quod doceam, "Because I teach," the verb is under the government of the conjunction quod, and were it not for this conjunction, the English being indicative, the verb would be put in the indicative mood. In this example, therefore, the verb is strictly in the subjunctive mood, this form being used, not because the sense requires it, for the English is indicative, but because it is subjoined to the conjunction quod. Crombie's Gymnasium, vol. 1. p. 64, 3d ed.

7. Praetereunti from praetereo (praeteriens).

8. Cui, instead of huic.

9. Maledicere, properly "to speak ill of one."

10. Apud Junonem. The peacock is sacred to Juno, the eagle to Jupiter, the raven to Apollo, and the wolf to Mars.

11. Quod denotes the cause of the action of the verb on which it depends, (conquerebatur); while ut expresses the consequence of the action.

12. Negata esset—excellat. When a proposition, containing the statement of a fact, and therefore being in the indicative mood, has another dependent upon it, connected by a causal conjunction or relative, in which something is alleged as the sentiment or language of another, and not of the writer, the dependent proposition will be in the subjunctive mood. In the present case, the dependent clause, connected to the preceding by the conjunction quod, does not express an opinion of the author, but the complaint of the peacock. The sentence, from quod vocis to cantu excellat, is equivalent, therefore, to Quod dixit, vocis suavitatem sibi negatam esse, dum lusciniam, avem tam parum decoram, cantu excellere. Crombie's Gymnasium, vol. 2, p. 4, 3d ed. Zumpt's Lat. Gram. Kenrick's translation, 2d ed. p. 341.

13. Non enim. Combine oportuit non conferri omnia, "one ought not to heap up."

14. Adveniente domino prati, instead of quum dominus prati adveniret.

1. Cui instead of huic. See page 14th, note 5th.

2. Non est in animo instead of non libet.

3. Dulcia, "the agreeable;" tuta, "the safe, safety." The neutrals of adjectives are often used in this manner as substantives, particularly in the plural.

4. Nosne, instead of num nos.

5. Frueris, with the ablative of the thing.

6. The impersonal verbs, pudet, piget, pænitet, tædet, miseret, require the person who is the subject of the feeling to be in the accusative case, and the object which excites it to be in the genitive.

7. Latrando. The ablative of the gerund.

8. Quod denotes the cause of the preceding.

9. Vescamur. With the ablative of the thing.

10. Velis—possis. The subjunctive stands after qui, quae, quod, when it refers to an indefinite object, expressed by is, aliquis, or talis.

11. Eundem, scil. leonem.

Page

- 15 12. Conspicata and obviam facta can be resolved by quum with the pluperfect.
 13. Ausa est. Why not audebat?
 14. Recta via, "straight forward."
 15. Cui. See above, note 1st.
 16. Facientem. The participle depends upon videre, and supplies the place of the infinitive.
 17. Videro. In what relation does the future past stand here?
 18. Sic. By this concord.
 19. Dissidio orto, equivalent to post dissidium ortum, or postquam dissidium ortum erat.
 20. Quantum boni. The genitive depends upon quantum. The nominatives and accusatives neuter of some pronouns, and of some adjectives which are used as pronouns, take a genitive, either because they are virtually become substantives, or because they denote a part.
 21. Sit. Compare note 6th, page 14.
- 16 1. Tanquam esset. The subjunctive serves to express that which exists only in the conception of another.
 2. Unde agnitus. Unde, instead of et inde, connects in the same manner as the relative pronoun.
 3. Illam, scil. gallinam, as the accusative of the subject, while massam, which depends on celare, is the accusative of the object.
 4. Una. An adverb.
 5. Laeti—prior. The adjective is often added to the verb, instead of the adverb, to denote the manner, or situation, in which the action is performed.
 6. Conspexisset. Compare note 1st above.
 7. Contendunt, etc. Observe the use of the present in animated narration instead of the imperfect, just as below aufügit and potitur instead of the perfect.
 8. Comitatus esset. See above, note 1st.
 9. Idque, equivalent to et quidem.
 10. Ne nostris quidem corporibus. The particles ne, quidem, are separated by the word on which the emphasis lies. In what case is corporibus?
 11. Quid fiat. Interrogatives, when preceded by such words as scio, nescio, quaero, dubito, are said to be taken indefinitely, and are joined to the subjunctive mood.
 12. Quod quum. See above, note 5, p. 14.
 13. Enim suffers us to add in thought a sentence from the preceding.
 14. Nitidas, i. e. candidas. The ancients wore garments of wool, which was cleansed and made white by Fullers.
- 17 1. Reddidissem. The subjunctive of the pluperfect takes the place of the future past, and denotes an action as possible in the future, and as accomplished in relation to a future action.
 2. Ne me interficite. Ne is used instead of non, with the imperative mood, and also with the present subjunctive.
 3. Propter hoc ipsum, "for the same reason." These words are explained by the following sentence.
 4. Pugnandi imperitus, is used in the same manner as peritus, imperitus, litterarum.
 5. Eos, qui irritent. See note 10, p. 15.
 6. Bina aut terna. The cardinal numerals, unus, duo, &c. imply, that the number spoken of belongs to all collectively, and is the whole amount. The distributive, singuli, bini, terni, denote that the number specified belongs to each individual, and is therefore only a part of the whole. Thus, Eutropius, speaking of the government of the senators after the death of Romulus, says, " Regnaverunt per quinos dies;" not, "they reigned five days," but "five days each." Crombie's Gymnasium, vol. 1, p. 38, 3d ed.

7. Fore, ut pareret. A periphrasis for illam parituram esse.

8. At denotes an objection which we make to the intention or thought.

9. Etiam, "yet too," with reference to the trouble it costs to obtain them, to which afterwards the words, in via repertas, (of things, which one can get without any exertion) are opposed.

10. Quae is the accusative governed by assequi; se the accusative of the subject. The phrase may be rendered, "which they despair of being able to attain."

11. Desperent. See note 10, p. 15.

12. Dicitur respondisse, instead of respondit, ut dicitur.

1. Caverent. The past tense is here used, because habuerunt, 18 the leading verb, is in the past. Even, however, though the leading verb were present (habent), caverent would still be used, if it were requisite to denote a continued action: "how they might protect themselves for the time to come."

2. Multis aliis propositis, "after many other propositions."

3. Ipsos is equivalent to se, but lays more stress on the pronoun.

4. Jussit appendi. See note 2, p. 11.

5. Quasi esset. See note 1, p. 16.

6. O te stolidum. The accusative is used in exclamations with or without an interjection. Me miserum! me felicem!

7. Qui ignorare videris. The clause gives the reason for the preceding remark.

8. Sibi placere, applied to a vain person, who is filled with conceit on account of something.

9. Licet venias, fruaris. The subjunctive depends upon ut understood.

10. Nihil moror. More forcible than non curo.

11. Tanti esse. The genitive of valuing.

12. Quod possit. The relative pronoun contains, in relation to tanti, the meaning of a consequence, and may be expressed by ut id.

13. Conducit. Concerning the present in a narration. See p. 10, note 7.

14. Qui extrahat. When the proposition introduced by the relative expresses the end and motive of the action mentioned in the preceding proposition, so that ut might be substituted for it, the verb must be in the subjunctive mood. This applies also to relative adverbs. Compare Crombie's Gymnasium, vol. 2, p. 23, and Zumpt's L. G., Kenrick's Transl. p. 348.

1. Misericordia motus. We often add to the expression of passion a participle which designates its origin. Thus, incensus ira, inflammatus amore, percussus terrore. 19

2. Qualcm soleant. See page 14, note 6.

3. Qui pasceretur. The relative pronoun includes the designation of a reason, and is then, in signification, equivalent to quod. Concerning the subjunctive, see note 12, p. 14.

4. Bello exorto (exorior.) The ablative absolute.

5. Vulneribus confossum, collabitur, (collabor). Properly telis

19 should be used. But the consequence is often used instead of the cause.

6. O me stolidum. See note 6, p. 18.

7. Qui aestimaverim. As just above, qui pasceretur.

8. Quos noverat. The relative pronoun includes the accusative of the subject, which depends upon noverat. "When he knew to."

9. Afferri jubet. See note 2, page 11.

10. Quibus allatis. The phrase may be resolved into quae quum allatae essent. For the use of the relative, see note 5, p. 14.

11. Quod quum, instead of quum hoc.

12. Aliqua parte. The ablative of measure, as in the sentence, Sol multis partibus major est, quam terra.

13. Se levaret. The whole clause is equivalent to ut aliquam partem oneris recipere.

14. O me miserum. See note 6, p. 18.

15. Qui noluerim. See above, note 3.

16. Texendo. The ablative answering to the question, by what?

17. De nocte, "during the night."

18. Ad opus. The spinning and weaving.

20 1. Quo facto. See note 5, p. 14.

2. Deteriore conditione. The ablative of quality.

3. Incerta. To be joined with domina, and to be explained as a participle.

4. Prima nocte, instead of initio, or, prima parte noctis. The adjectives primus, medius, ultimus, and the like, are often used in this manner for the sake of abbreviating the expression. Thus, in media urbe, in ultimo carmine, in summo monte.

5. Sese. Sui, sibi, is a reflective pronoun, i. e. denotes an agent, who is the subject of the proposition, and whose act reverts upon himself; and therefore, this pronoun exists only in the oblique cases. It continues to be used in a sentence through successive propositions, as long as no other subject is introduced. If a second subject be introduced, se refers strictly to that subject, and is should be used of the first. But se often continues, if no ambiguity is produced, to be used of the original subject, especially if the second proposition expresses a thought or purpose of the subject at first. Thus in the present instance, sese is used, because the second proposition, ut sese volare doceret, expresses a wish of the testudo, the subject of the first. Zumpi's Lat. Gram. p. 241.

6. Volare supplies the place of the accusative of the thing (docere aliquem aliquid).

7. Arreptam sustulit. Instead of arripuit et sustulit, (arripio, tollo).

8. Comminuta interiit. Instead of comminuta est et interiit.

9. Quae quum. See note 11, p. 19.

10. Se for ipsam. See above, note 5.

11. Venetur. The present is used, because the leading verb is in the present.

12. Cui accipitur. See note 5, p. 14.

13. Partam praedam, (pario). Partus applies properly to that which has been earned or acquired by one's self; then to that which is held in possession. So parta praeda here signifies "the booty which is secure."

14. Iisque sublati; equivalent to quae postquam sustulerat.

15. Domum. Domus and rus, like names of towns, are used with verbs of motion, without prepositions, domum, (or domos, of more than one) "home;" rus, "into the country;" domo and rure, "from home, from the country;" domi and ruri (which is more common than rure,) "at home, in the country."

16. Aliquantum viæ, "a considerable distance." See p. 15, note 20.

17. Et—et, "both—and."

18. Defatigatus. The participle is used to denote the cause of what follows.

19. Quæ—liberet. See p. 18, note 14.

20. Pœnitiebat. See page 15, note 6.

21. Requiero, qui. Supply aliquem, which is often understood before the relative pronoun.

22. Qui allevet. See page 18, note 14.

1. Submersum iri. In what is called the infinitive future passive, (amatum, monitum iri, &c.), iri is really the infinitive of the passive impersonal itur, "things tend." Audio eum monitum iri, is therefore literally, "I hear that things tend to advising him;" i. e. "that he is about to be advised." Hence the supine is unchanged, whatever be the gender or number of the substantive. Zumpt's Lat. Gram. p. 110.

2. Existimaret. Concerning the subjunctive, see page 14, note 6, and page 16, note 11.

3. Major canibus. See page 8, note 4.

4. Quibus possis. Compare note 12, p. 18.

5. Qui fit. Instead of quomodo, unde fit.

6. Natura formidolosus, i. e. eos, qui natura formidolosi sunt.

7. Inquit ille, i. e. lupus.

8. Futurum, scil. esse; equivalent to fore.

9. Ubi. For quam ibi, expressing the cause of the assertion contained in the question.

10. Si moriendum sit. The subjunctive designates a case only thought possible; si moriendum est, a positive and expected case. So also, at the end of the fable, si conjuncta sit.

11. Aspergi. Aspergere, (adspergere), might be used here to express a voluntary action.

12. Pol. An expression of asseveration; considered an abbreviation of Pollux.

13. Arreptum devoravit. Instead of arripuit et devoravit.

14. Praeda divisu. These ablatives may be resolved by post-quam.

1. Vindicat sibi labor meus. Instead of mihi vindico ob laborem egregium meum.

2. Qui voluerit. Instead of si quis voluerit, "should any body wish."

3. Aut quae, scil. earum.

4. Quod debeat. See page 18, note 12.

5. Modo and dummodo, "provided only;" require the subjunctive after them, because they always denote something supposed, as distinguished from something real.

6. Quod daturus esset. The subjunctive represents these words as a part of the invitation; if the expression were, quod daturus erat, they would be an explanatory addition of the narrator. Compare note 12, p. 14.

7. Quae quam. Qui is frequently employed in Latin, to intro-

Page

22 duce a sentence or clause, where in English we use the demonstrative pronouns simply.

8. Caeteris. See note 4, p. 8.

9. O vos stolidos. See note 6, p. 18.

10. Quantopere excruciet. See p. 21, note 2.

11. Petivisse dicuntur. For petiverunt, ut dicitur.

12. Quarum. See above, note 7.

13. Puniturus. The future participle serves to express an intention.

14. A quo. The relative pronoun includes the copula, and the demonstrative, or, in other words, qui is frequently used for et ille, et hic.

15. Poenituit. See note 6, p. 15.

16. Suos refers to Athenienses, ipsi to Philippus.

17. Demosthenes, the greatest orator of Athens, and a strenuous opponent of Philip.

18. Qua denotes a purpose, and consequently has the subjunctive. It is equivalent to ut ea. Compare note 14, p. 18.

23 1. Impetu facto. Instead of impetum fecisse (in caulis) et gregem dilaniasse.

2. Frustratus, i. e. quum decepisset. Frustrari conveys the idea of pains taken in vain (frustra).

3. Lupo irruente. Instead of et lupus tandem revera irrueret.

4. Coepit forms with orare a periphrasis for the finite verb (oravit), to denote the commencement of the action.

5. Quo sono. See note 7, p. 22.

6. Allecti, from allucere, originally "to allure by bait."

7. Impetu facto. See above, note 1.

8. Quos pullos, eos. In the usual transposition of sentences, where the relative precedes the demonstrative, the former attracts to itself the substantive to which it refers.

9. Comedendos. The future passive participle denotes the purpose and destination: ut ab iis comedantur, ("for eating.")

10. Venatum. In signification equivalent to venaturi. The supine is frequently used with ire, venire; thus, eo dormitum; ibimus auditum oratores; spectatum veniunt.

11. Correptum dilaniavit. Instead of corripuit et dilaniavit.

12. Partiendi negotium. The gerund supplies the place of a declinable infinitive of the present active. See note 5, p. 7.

13. Astutior, scil. quam asinus.

14. Laudare coepit. See note 4, above.

15. Unde didicerit. In a direct question the expression would be, unde didicisti?

16. Hujus. Alluding to the ass which had been killed by him.

24 1. Heu miseram vicem! See note 6, p. 18.

2. Fraudulentus. Opposed to blandus.

3. Perfida voluptas. According to the context, perfida voluptatis would have been more appropriate.

4. Cupidus pascendi. See note 5, p. 7.

5. Simul—simil. The repetition of the adverb denotes the quick succession of the actions. It might be said, though with less animation, simul atque hunc adspicit, accurrit.

6. Jure plector, qui. The relative pronoun includes the signification of cause. See note 3, p. 19.

7. Salo—sole. An intentional play upon words similar in form.

8. Seque. Combine: et dixit, se avolaturum esse, si eum gravaret.

9. At ille, scil. respondit.

10. Nec, "not even."

11. Considetur. Instead of the infinitive as denoting an action of the accusative of the subject. This change takes place generally with the verbs sentire, videre, audire, and the like.

1. Draconem. Dragons, in consequence of their acute sight 25 were often considered the guardians of holy places and treasures.

2. Prolem, Semele and Ino, and his grand-children Pentheus and Actaeon.

3. Illyriam, a country bordering on the Adriatic, opposite Italy. It lies in a northerly direction from Macedonia. It answers now, in a great degree, to modern Albania.

4. Bebrycia, an ancient name of Bithynia, which extends along the Propontis and Euxine.

5. Argonautas. The Grecian heroes, who went to Colchis in the ship Argo, under the command of Jason, to take forcible possession of the golden fleece.

6. Pollux and Castor, sons of Leda and Jupiter, were worshipped under the name of Dioscuri, ($\Deltaισκοροι$,) "sons of Jupiter."

7. Mira magnitudine. The ablative of quality.

8. Novem digitis. The ablative of measure.

9. Annorum. The genitive of quality.

10. Ossa and Pelion, mountains in Thessaly.

11. Athenis. The names of towns of the 3d declension, or of the plural number, are put in the ablative when answering to the question, where?

12. Labyrinthus, a building full of intricate windings.

13. Icarium pelagus, a part of the Aegaeian, off the western coast of Asia Minor.

14. Cyclopes, the assistants of Vulcan.

16. Morbo implicitus. Equivalent to correptus.

1. Si quis. Instead of aliquis.

2. Hercules. The guest of Admetus.

3. Orcus generally stands for the infernal regions; here it is the divinity that conducts men to the world below, by the Greek poets called Θάραν, (Mors.)

4. Cassiope, wife of Cepheus, king of Aethiopia.

5. Nereides, daughters of Nereus, a god of the sea.

6. Perseus, son of Jupiter and Danaë, who received from Mercury winged sandals, with which he flew over the sea; whence here advolavit.

7. Medusa, one of the Gorgons, who petrified all by her terrific appearance.

8. Victor, as victor, after having proved victorious.

9. Re cognita, i. e. quum insidias sibi parari cognovisset.

10. Quo viso. Equivalent to cujus adspicu.

11. In patriam. To Argos, in Greece.

12. Vento moti. Instead of rami (cum pomis) vento moventur et recedunt.

13. Peleus, a king of Thessaly, one of the Argonauts.

14. Thetis, a daughter of Nereus.

15. Mālum, (to be distinguished from mālum.)

16. Misit. Instead of conjecit.

17. In medium. Among the guests.

18. Mercurius, the messenger of the gods.

 5. Victurum, scil. esse.
 6. Calydon, a town in Aetolia in Greece.
 7. Atalanta, daughter of Jasion, who ruled over a part of Areadia; she was brought up in the woods, and devoted herself to the Page 28 chase.

8. In aves, Meleagrides, “guinea-hens.”

9. Sidon, onis, (do in these names is long, Σιδών, ὦνος; in the derivative Sidonius it is usually short, Σιδόνιος). A town in Phoenicia, on the Mediterranean.

10. Creta, a large island in the same sea, south-east of Greece; famous for its 100 cities and the laws of Minos. It is now called Candia.

11. Conditione addita. Instead of hac conditione, since he had added the condition to their message.

12. Cadmus. See p. 25, § 1.

13. Delphos. To the oracle of Apollo in Phocis. We must suppose that he had questioned the oracle respecting his future lot; hence below responsum.

14. Sequeretur. The idea of an order is contained in the words responsum accepit; hence sequeretur instead of ut sequeretur.

15. In Boeotiam. A country of Greece, north of Attica. It is now called Livadia.

16. Draconem. See p. 25, § 1.

17. Aravit. He ploughed them over, as a sower the scattered seed.

18. Sparti, called Σπαρτοί from σπείρειν, “to sow.” Here the name is derived from spargere.

19. Thebae, arum, the capital of Boeotia. Its citadel was built by Cadmus, hence called Cadmea.

20. Silenus, the instructor and companion of the young Bacchus.

21. Mygdonia, a country of Lydia in Asia Minor.

1. Quidquid tetigisset. Here the action is expressed in the pluperfect, because it is last in relation to the following, aurum fieret, and it is expressed by the subjunctive, because it is an historical narration of the language of another.

2. Quem. The relative pronoun includes, besides the demonstrative, a conjunction, as et, vero, igitur, tamen, etc. Quem is here the accusative of the subject depending upon jussit.

3. Colore aureo. The ablative of quality; instead of aqua tincta est colore aureo.

4. Schoeneus. He was born in Boeotia, but became naturalized in Arcadia.

3. Argonautae. See note 5, p. 25.
4. Iter rogarent. Rogare aliquem aliquid, "to ask one for something."
5. Strophades, two islands off the western coast of Greece. The name is derived from στρέφειν, "to turn," because here the sons of Aquilo or Boreas turned from their pursuit of the Harpyiae.
6. Liberarunt. Instead of liberaverunt.
- 31 1. Latere aliquem. Complete the following sentences by eos latent.
2. Dum viveret. The subjunctive stands in the dependent sentence, because it is an historical narration of thoughts and words of another, and is not an assertion of the author.
3. Ancipiūt, i. e. dubiae et ambiguæ.
4. Quae ab eo. The order of translation is, ut non auderent adducere in dubitationem ea, quae audivissent ab eo.
5. Priene, a maritime town of Asia Minor, at the foot of Mount Mycale. It was one of the 12 independent cities of Ionia, and owed its foundation to the Athenians.
6. Ego vero. The conjunctions Autem, Enim, Vero, Quoque, Quidem, are always placed after the introductory word of the clause, generally in the second place, and sometimes in the third—as, Ille autem, Ego enim, Qui vero—not Autem ille, Enim ego, Vero qui. Crombie's Gymnasium, vol. 2, p. 46.
7. Cynicorum. The Cynics (from κύων) endeavoured to attain the highest freedom by denying themselves every superfluity, allowing only the necessaries of nature. Like travellers, without a home upon earth, they always went with knapsack and staff, engaged in a constant war against vice and the vicious.
8. Videret, with a participle. See n. 11, p. 24.
9. Nisi ista periissent. He considered the knowledge, which he had acquired during his absence, of so much greater value than extensive possessions.
10. Accubuisse. The ancients took their meals reclining (accumbentes), not sitting.
11. Cogitationibus inhaerens, "lost in thought."
- 32 1. Tarentinus, of Tarentum, now Taranto, a town of Calabria, in Magna Graecia or Lower Italy, situated on the Tarentinus Si-nus, near the mouth of the river Galesus. The luxurious habits of the Tarentines were proverbial.
2. Villicus, a superior slave in the country, who took charge of the villa or country-seat of his master. Slaves only were liable to corporal punishment.
3. Vehementius, scil. quam par erat.
4. Exarsisset, scil. irā, since anger, like every violent passion, is usually compared with flame.
5. Veritus, "through fear." For the genitive discendi, see n. 12, p. 23.
6. Cupiditate ductus. See n. 1, p. 19.

10. In Olympico certamine. Olympia, a town in Elis, a country of the Peloponnesus, situated on the southern bank of the Alpheus, now Alfeo. This was the celebrated region in which the Olympic games were held in honour of Jupiter Olympius. They were of very ancient foundation, and revived, by Coroebus, B. C. 776, and serve as the epoch of Grecian chronology. They were celebrated at the conclusion of every fourth year, or rather every forty-ninth month, and were held for five successive days. The Roman lustrum was a period of five years.

11. Epaminondas, a famous Theban, who aided his friend Pelopidas in freeing their city from the yoke of Lacedaemon, and in maintaining its freedom and independence.

12. Affixa. The ancients, after a contest, hung up, in the temple of the gods, the arms taken from the enemy, or at the close of the war, their own.

13. Mantinea, a town of Arcadia, near the borders of Argolis. From the death of Epaminondas, Thebes lost its power and consequence among the Grecian states.

14. Clypeus. It was considered most disgraceful to a soldier to abandon his shield in the fight.

15. Tanta abst. et integr. Ablatives of quality.

16. Lysander, a celebrated Spartan, who terminated the Peloponnesian war, by taking Athens, and appointing 30 tyrants over it, B. C. 404.

17. Volo praebeas. Understand ut.

18. Quod factum. The accusative depending upon exprobrantibus.

19. Thrasylulus, who freed his country from the 30 tyrants, B. C. 401.

35 1. Quantas-tantas. Concerning the position of the sentences, and the attraction of the substantive by the relative, see n. 8, p. 23.

2. Ut videar relulisse, is a more modest expression than ut re-tulerim would be, since it leaves it to others to decide as to the merit of his action.

3. Abscinderem. Understand num or ne; abscinderemne.

4. Pythiam ad se vocatum. Translate as if it were Pythiam ad se vocavit, quumque ab eo, ("from his mouth :") acepisset (audivisset) difficultatem rei dom. ("the deranged state of his private affairs,") eum pecunia instruxit.

5. Pythia. The ablative in the abridged comparison.

6. Damnata, who, in a cause decided by the king, had received an unfavourable sentence.

7. Filium, Alexander.

8. Quod, instead of quam ob rem.

9. Spero fore ut. A common periphrasis for spero with the infinitive of the future.

10. Et nobis et rebus. The ablatives depend upon dignus.

11. Sperasne. Instead of num speras.

12. Eos, quos. "That such as." Concerning the subjunctive following the relative, when it refers to talis, ejusmodi, is, see n. 10, p. 15.

13. Asia debellata. Debellare means properly, "to end the war, to weaken the enemy so as to disable him from continuing the contest;" hence simply "to conquer."

14. Civitate sua, "with the freedom of their city."

15. Officium, an action by which we think to please, or confer a favour upon one.

16. Lubentissime. Alexander now considered the compliment by which he was made equal to Hercules as a favourable omen of future greatness.

17. His verbis utebantur. Understood, "in the resolution taken upon it."

18. Brevitate. The Lacedaemonians took great pains to convey the most expressive meaning in the fewest words; whence such mode of expression has been proverbially called Laconic.

19. Lysimachus, one of the captains of Alexander the Great, who at the partition of the empire, received for his share Thrace, the Chersonese, and the countries adjacent to the Euxine.

20. Cyrenaeum, "of Cyrene," now Curin, the capital of Cyrenaica, a country of northern Africa, east of the Syrtis Major and west of Marmarica. It corresponds with the modern Barca.

1. Mea nihil interest. Interest and refert are joined with a genitive of the person whose interest is concerned, or with the neuters mea, tua, sua, nostra, vestra, instead of mei, tui, etc. The degree of importance is expressed by adverbs, or by the neuters of adjectives, or by their genitives. The thing in which any one's interest is involved is not expressed by a substantive, but by an accusative with an infinitive, or by ut with a subjunctive and the interrogative particles.

2. Humine, instead of utrum humi.

3. Sublime, instead of in sublimi.

4. Caria. A province in the south-west of Asia Minor.

5. Sepulcrum. The Mausoleum, one of the wonders of the world.

6. Septem miracula. Of these the principal were the temple of Diana at Ephesus, the Colossus, or brazen image of Apollo, at Rhodes, the pyramids of Egypt, &c.

7. Manibus. Not from manus, but from manes.

8. Praemiis propositis. Translate as if it were, et in hoc certamine praemia amplissima proposuit ei, qui—

9. Dionysius, surnamed the younger, was finally expelled by Timoleon, B. C. 343.

10. Lydia, a province in the western part of Asia Minor, on the Aegean.

11. Se felicior. Instead of quam ipse.

12. Psophidium. Of Psophis, a town of Arcadia.

13. Pyrrhus crossed to Italy for the express purpose of aiding the Tarentines in the war which they had undertaken against the Romans, B. C. 280..

14. Loquituri eramus. The conditional sentence, nisi defecisset seems to require essemus, and this would convey the same meaning; but eramus expresses the conditional as positive and not to be doubted, so that the boldness of the speaker is more forcibly displayed by the indicative.

15. Antigonus, surnamed Gonatus, son of Demetrius, and grandson of Antigonus, who was one of Alexander's generals.

16. In foro potius, scil. cognoscam.

17. Catāna, now Catania, a town at the foot of Aetna in Sicily.
 18. At permits us to understand a sentence from the preceding; "you would justly laugh, if I intended to fly before the enemy; but I go to war to fight firmly, without abandoning my post."

19. Sibi laetitiae esse. With the verbs esse, proficiisci, dare, and venire, verto, fio, and others of the same meaning, besides the dative of the person, another is used to express the purpose, effect, and destination. Zumpi's L. G.; Kenrick's Transl.

20. Se meliores. Instead of quam ipsum.
37 1. At anseres. See n. 18, p. 36.
 2. Rhodius, of the island Rhodus, which lies opposite Caria, in the Mediterranean.

3. In ludis Olympicis. See n. 10, p. 34.

4. Inspectante populo. "In the sight of the assembled people."

5. Africanus. So called from his victory over Hannibal in Africa.

6. Epirus, a country in the western part of Greece, forming a part of modern Albania.

7. Instandum esse negabat. The neuter of the participle passive in dus is used in the nominative, or the accusative before the infinitive, with esse, in the sense of propriety or necessity. Accordingly the words above may be translated, "said that one ought not to urge."

8. Fortius, scil. quam alias fecisset.

9. Ex necessitate, i. e. necessitate coactus.

10. Corinthus, now Corito, a famous commercial city, situated on the Isthmus of Corinth, now Hexamili, which connects the Peloponnesus with Hellas, or Greece properly so called. Corinth was destroyed by Mummius the Roman general, B. C. 146.

11. Non esset unde. Instead of non esset aliquid, ex quo—

12. Major. The conqueror of Hannibal in the battle of Zama, to be distinguished from the Younger, who destroyed Carthage.

13. Gentis Corneliae. The family of Scipiones was a branch of the gens Cornelia. The full name of this Scipio was P. Cornelius Scipio Africanus. Concerning the name of the Romans, see n. 2, p. 4. Sometimes, as in the present instance, a fourth name, called the Agnomen, was given, added from some illustrious action or remarkable event.

14. Recuperato demum gladio, i. e. non prius ad suos reversus est, quam gladium recuperaverat.

15. Locum. The place from which they had retreated during the fight. A soldier could name his heir in the presence of 3 or 4 comrades, before he went to battle, and this, without any other ceremonies, was considered a complete testament. It was called testamentum militare, vel in procinctu, i. e. "made while he was girding himself, or preparing for battle."

16. Eos is to be referred to milites, which is contained in cohortes.

17. Cedentem videret. See n. 11, p. 24.

18. Capite devoto. He suffered himself to be devoted to death by certain ceremonies, as if it were an atoning sacrifice for the whole army.

19. Liberavit. Brutus expelled Tarquinus Superbus, B. C. 509. The consular authority was established, which continued independent 461 years, till the battle of Pharsalia.

20. Virgis caeos. Roman citizens, who were condemned to death, were beaten with rods previous to their execution, in order Page 37 to place them on a level with the slaves.

1. Perseus was conquered by Paulus Aemylius, son of the Aemylius who fell at Cannae. The decisive battle was fought at Pydna, B. C. 168. The province Macedonia, under the Romans, included Thessaly and Epirus, and extended from sea to sea. It is now Roumelia. 38

2. Hoc omne. All unusual phenomena, particularly in the heavens, were considered by the ancients as signs of future things.

3. Cicatricem aversam, i. e. in parte corporis, hostibus aversa, i. e. in tergo; on the contrary, adversa vulnera are “wounds in the breast.”

4. Coronis. Crowns were given by the ancients to free citizens as tokens of merit and valour. They were different according to the circumstances: Obsidionalis, for freeing an army from a blockade; Vallaris vel Castrensis, to the first who mounted the rampart, or entered the camp of the enemy; Muralis, to him who first scaled the walls of a city in an assault; Navalis, to him who first boarded the ship of an enemy; Civica, to him who had saved the life of a citizen. There were smaller rewards of various kinds; as, a banner, (Vexillum); trappings, (Phalerae); golden chains, (Aurea Torques); bracelets, (Armillae).

5. Carpetani. The territories of this people were in the centre of Spain, in what is now New Castile. Their principal city was Toletum, now Toledo.

6. Barbari. Hispani et Galli, who were in the Carthaginian army. The Romans, like the Greeks, called every nation barbarian which was not of their own race.

7. In fidem ejus rei. “In order to give credit to this pretence.”

8. Quibus trajiceret. Respecting the subjunctive, see n. 14, p. 18.

9. Vulnerari. See n. 2, p. 11.

AN EPITOME OF ROMAN HISTORY.

1. Janiculum. A hill on the Tiber, by some considered as one 39 of the seven hills on which Rome was built; while others say that it was not included within the city. It was fortified by Ancus Martius.

2. Troja eversa. Troja, the capital of Troas, a district on the Aegaean coast of Mysia in Asia Minor. After a war of 10 years, undertaken in consequence of the rape of Helen by Paris, Troy was taken and completely destroyed by the allied army of the Greeks, B. C. 1184. This city has been celebrated by the poems of Homer and Virgil; the former gives an account of the war, and the latter relates the wanderings of Aeneas, after the fall of his native city, and his final settlement in Italy. See p. 26, § 11.

3. Quibus pepercerat, (parcere alicui).

4. Alba longa. Called longa, because it extended along the hill Albanus, and Alba, from the circumstance of Aeneas having found on the spot a white sow with 30 young ones, according to the prophecy of Helenus.

1. Vestae sacerdotibus. The Vestal virgins devoted themselves 40 to the service of the goddess Vesta, and kept the perpetual fire upon her altar. They took upon themselves the vow of chastity, and a violation of it was punished with death.

40 2. Viro nubere. Ducere, "to take in marriage," is used when a man is the subject of discourse; Nubere, "to be veiled," or duci, "to be led," is used when a woman is the subject.

3. Ultra ripam. The Tiber having flat banks, the overflowing of the river is a common occurrence.

4. Nutriendos. Instead of ut eos nutritret.

5. Asylum, Gr. ἀσυλον, a consecrated place, which afforded safety from violence.

6. Pulsi. Understand such as during the civil commotions had been expelled by the opposite faction, or were obliged to leave their country on account of a murder, which, in the badly organized state of civil society, was a common occurrence.

7. In arce. The Capitol was a citadel and temple on the Tarpeian rock, which formed a part of the Capitoline hill.

8. In urbem recepit. On condition that Tatius, king of the Sabines, should share the sovereignty with him:

41 1. Lustraret. At the end of every five years a review (census) of the people was made. After the census was finished, an expiatory or purifying sacrifice, (Sacrificium lustrale), was made; and thus the people were said to be purified, (lustrari). Because this was done at the end of every fifth year, hence Lustrum is put for the space of five years.

2. Ad deos sublatum, (tollere). Romulus was afterwards worshipped by the Romans as a god, under the name of Quirinus.

3. Melius Fuffetius. The general of the Albans. After a treaty of peace had been made, he sided with the Romans in a battle between them and the Veientes, and, deserting during the fight, exposed his allies to great danger.

4. Ei moenia circumdedit. Equivalent to novis eam moenibus circumdedit.

5. Corinthus. See n. 10, p. 37.

6. Etruria, otherwise called Tuscia, a celebrated country of Italy, lying to the west of the Tiber. It is now called Tuscany.

7. Minorum gentium. Those elected by Romulus were called Patres majorum gentium, and those enrolled by Tullus Hostilius, Tarquinius Priscus, and Brutus, were denominated Patres minorum gentium. This at least is the opinion of some critics. Others maintain, that all those who were enrolled before the time of Brutus, were named Patres majorum gentium, and those enrolled by him, Patres minorum gentium. See Crombie's Gymnasium, vol. 2, p. 315.

8. Ademtos, i. e. quos hostibus ademerat.

9. Capitolium. See n. 7, p. 40.

42 1. Censum. The census was instituted by Servius Tullius, and properly consisted in taking an account of the property and family of each citizen, and in imposing taxes in proportion to their effects. Servius at the same time divided the people into six classes, and these again into centuries. The census was at first taken by the kings, and afterwards by the consuls; but, after the year of the city 310, by a proper officer, called Censor.

2. Curia. The place at which the senate usually met was the Curia Hostilia, built by Tullus Hostilius at the foot of the Palatine hill, so that there was an easy ascent to it from the Forum by means of steps, (gradibus).

3. Carpentum, a vehicle with two wheels, and an arched covering, sometimes without the covering, and generally drawn by mules. It was used by the Roman matrons in the city.

4. Hanc injuriam. The outrage offered her by the king's son.

1. Luxerunt. Lugere means not only "to lament, to bewail," but also "to wear mourning for."

2. Pons ligneus. A bridge over the Tiber, called also pons sublicius, (from sublicae, "stakes.") As it was entirely of wood, it was easily taken asunder, (rumpi).

3. Ignibus allatis. He threatened him with torture, in which fire also was used.

4. Anienem. From the obsolete nominative Anien, for which Anio is used. The Anio is a river of Latium, which rises in the Apennines, and empties into the Tiber near Antemnae.

5. Qui conciliaret. See n. 14, p. 18.

6. Fabulam. See this fable, II. 8.

7. Tribuni plebis. Two tribunes were at first created, but A. U. 297, ten tribunes were created, which number continued ever after.

8. Qui defenserent, i. e. ea de causa, ut.

9. Volscorum. The Volsci were situated in the southern part of Latium.

10. Milliarum. The public ways (Publicae Viae) of the Romans were furnished with mile-stones, which were distant from one another 1000 paces or 5000 Roman feet. The pace (Passus) included a double step, (gradus vel gressus), or the space from the place where the foot is taken up to that where it is set down.

11. Veientes. The inhabitants of the city Veii (orum) in Etruria.

1. Cremera, a small river of Tuscany, which empties into the Tiber above Rome.

2. Qui Hannibalem. In the second Punic war.

3. Debilitavit, i. e. vires imminuit.

4. Decemviri. A college of ten men. Bodies charged with a particular office were generally designated by the number of their members, to which was still given an explanatory epithet. Thus here the above-mentioned Decemvirate is distinguished from other decemviral bodies by the addition of legibus scribendis.

5. Falerii, a city in Etruria. The inhabitants were called Falisci.

6. Reducendum tradidit. As above, c. 7, pueros uxori nutriendos dedit.

7. Albis equis, i. e. curru invectus albis equis juncto. The use of white horses, in their opinion, was confined to the gods, and especially to Jupiter and the Sun.

8. Galli Senones, a nation of Gallia Transalpina, who left their native possessions on the banks of the Seine (Sequāna) and Marne (Matrōna), and, under the conduct of Brennus, pillaged Rome. They settled on the coast of Umbria in Italy.

9. Allia, a little river of Italy, in the territories of the Sabines, which empties into the Tiber.

10. In eo erant. A collective noun or noun of multitude, e. gr. praesidium, turba, multitudo, exercitus, nobilitas, may be the subject of a plural verb. It is common when a noun of this class continues the subject of successive propositions, to join a singular verb with it in one and a plural in another; thus, in the present instance, praesidium is connected, in the first proposition, with the singular verb laborabat, in the second, with the plural erant.

11. Trans Anienem. See n. 4, p. 43.

45 1. Tribunus militum. One of the highest military officers. In the earliest times there were three to each legion, and as the legion at that time consisted of 3000 men, each tribune commanded 1000; hence they were called by the Greeks chiliarchi (χιλιαρχοι). In later times there were six in each legion, who commanded under the consuls.

2. Samnites, a people of Italy, whose territory was called Samnum. Their country lay between Apulia on the east, Latium and Campania on the west, Lucania on the south, and the confines of the Marsi on the north.

3. Dictator, a magistrate at Rome, invested with absolute authority. He was appointed only in extraordinary cases, when the circumstances of the state required prompt and efficient management. His power continued only for the space of six months. The dictator, as soon as elected, chose a subordinate officer, called his master of horse, magister equitum.

4. Furculae Caudinae, a narrow pass in the vicinity of Caudium, a town of the Samnites.

5. Sub jugum. When enemies were vanquished, they were stripped of their arms and made to pass under the yoke, (jugum). This consisted of two spears planted in the ground, which were crossed at the top by a third, so low, however, that the captives were obliged to bend in passing under.

6. Tarentinis. Tarentum was a Grecian colony in lower Italy, still called Tarento.

7. Epirus, a country on the western coast of Greece.

8. Auxilio poposcerunt. The more usual construction is, poscere auxilium ab aliquo, or, with a double accusative, poscere aliquem auxilium.

9. Elephantorum. As the Romans first saw the elephant in the army of Pyrrhus in Lucania, and were ignorant of its proper name, they called it bos Lucas.

46 1. Adversis vulneribus, See note 3, p. 38.

2. Brevi, scil: tempore.

3. Campania, a country of Middle Italy, on the Inferum vel Tyrrhenum Mare.

4. Praeneste, a town in Latium.

5. Praelio commisso. In the consulship of P. Sulpicius Saverrio and P. Decius Mus.

6. Pueri comitarentur. This distinction was usually allowed to triumphant generals, and only on the day of their triumph. It was granted to Duilius for his lifetime.

47 1. Se desissee. Soldiers who were taken prisoners in war, lost thereby their right of citizenship.

2. Tot millia. The Carthaginians had proposed an exchange in the lump, although the number of Carthaginian prisoners was by far the greater.

3. Lilybaeum, the western promontory of Sicily.

4. Citra Iberum. The Iberus (now the Ebro) flowed through Spain from north-west to south-east, almost parallel to the Pyrenees. The country south of this river remained subject to the Carthaginians.

5. Clusium, (now Chiusi), a town in Etruria.

6. Insubres, a powerful Gallic tribe in Upper Italy, in what is now the government of Milan in Austrian Italy.

48 1. Spolia. The spoils which a general took from the general of the enemy was called spolia opima. They were dedicated and suspended in the temple of Jupiter Feretrius. These spoils were obtained only thrice before the fall of the republic. The first by Romulus, who slew Acron, king of the Caeninenses; the next by A. Cornelius Cossus, who slew Lar Tolumnius, king of the Veientes, A. U. C. 318; and the third by M. Claudius Marcellus, who slew Viridomarus, a king of the Gauls, A. U. C. 530.

2. Saguntum, a city on the eastern coast of Spain, in Hispania Tarraconensis.

3. Ut mandaretur. Understand before it qui postularent, the idea of which is contained in miserunt.

4. Liguria, a country of Upper Italy, bounded on the south by the Sinus Ligusticus, or Gulf of Genoa, on the north by the Padus, now the Po, on the east by the river Macra, and on the west by the Varus. It answers to Genoa and part of Piedmont.

5. Ticinus, now Tessino, a river of Cisalpine Gaul, which rises in the Alps, and, having traversed in its course the Lacus Verbanus, (now Lago Maggiore), empties into the Padus near Ticinum.

6. Trebia, a river of the same country, which rises in Liguria, and flowing in a northerly direction empties into the Padus near Placentia.

7. Tuscia, or Etruria. From the former the present name Tuscany is derived.

8. Trasimenus, a lake of Etruria, near Perusia, (now Perugia), from which it takes its present name, lake of Perugia.

9. Quam mora, i. e. cunctando et bellum differendo. This Fabius had shown, who, when appointed dictator, weakened the enemy by avoiding an engagement and continually harassing his army by countermarches and ambuscades. Hence he received the surname of Cunctator.

10. Apulia, now Puglia, a country of Magna Graecia in Italy, lying along the Adriatic, from the river Frento in the north-west to the promontory Iapygium.

11. Armata, "with their arms in their hands."

12. Aureorum annulorum. The senators and knights enjoyed the privilege of wearing golden rings.

1. A duobus Scipionibus. Publius and Cnaeus. The former was a father of the elder Scipio Africanus.

2. Nola, a town of Campania. Bells were invented there, in the beginning of the 5th century, by St. Paulinus, the bishop of the place. Hence they have been called in Latin Nolae, or Campanae.

3. Quo minus trajiceret. After verbs meaning "to hinder, to prevent," quo minus is used in the signification of ne.

4. Poeni, a name given to the Carthaginians. It seems to be a corruption of Phoeni or Phoenices, as the Carthaginians were of Phoenician origin.

5. Syracusae, a celebrated city of Sicily, founded about 732 B. C. by Archias a Corinthian.

6. Duo Scipiones interfici. Both were slain within the space of one month, in the eighth year of their generalship in Spain, in unfortunate battles against the Carthaginians.

7. Ad Ticinum. See above, c. 3.

8. Itul. deser. cupient. Since they thought that the state was ruined beyond all hope of recovery.

 6. Syriacum, "a Syrian." Syria, a country of Asia, on the Mediterranean, between Arabia and Cilicia in Asia Minor.
 7. Legatus, the name of the officer chosen by a proconsul or praetor to accompany him to his province, and assist him in the discharge of his duties. Sometimes the governor remained at home, and merely sent out the legatus to the province; and at other times the senate sent out a legatus, without naming any proconsul or praetor.
 8. Magnesia, a town in the northern part of Lydia, near the junction of the Hermus and Hyllus, and in the vicinity of mount Sipylus.
 9. Asia, i. e. Asia Minor, in which Antiochus had many possessions.
 10. Taurus, the largest range of mountains in Asia as to extent. Intra Taurum, "on the southern side of the range."
 11. Pydna, a town in the southern part of Macedonia, situate on the shore of the Sinus Thermaicus. It was originally called Citron.
- 51 1. Sexdecim remorum ordines. The ships of war were variously named from their rows or ranks of oars. Those which had two rows or tiers were called Birēmes; three, trirēmes; four, quadriremes; five, quinqueremes vel penteres; those of six or seven, by a Greek name, Hexeres, Hepteres, and above that by a circumlocution, as in the present instance. The rowers were placed above one another in different stages or benches (in transtris vel jugis) on the side of the ship.
 2. Tribunus, as tribunus militum.
 3. Plurima, works of art, and images of the gods, taken from the temples of conquered towns.
 4. Pseudophilippus, Ψευδοφίλιππος, who had falsely assumed the name of Philippus. A certain Andriscus pretended to be the son of Perseus, that he might lay claim to the kingdom of Macedonia, and formed a large party among the Macedonians, who were oppressed under the sovereignty of the Romans.
 5. Corinthiis. Corinth, (see p. 37, § 65,) the principal city of the Achaean league, a famous confederacy which was formed B. C. 284, and continued formidable upwards of 130 years.

6. Propter injuriam. The Roman ambassadors had been treated with violence and insult, at the meeting of the confederacy at Corinth, on account of the extravagance and severity of their demands; in consequence of which, war was declared against the confederacy.

7. Lusitania, a part of ancient Hispania, on the Atlantic coast, answering nearly to the modern kingdom of Portugal. Portugal is in its length larger than Lusitania, but from west to east much smaller.

1. Numantia, a town of Hispania Tarraconensis, near the sources of the river Durius. 52

2. Hostibus tradi. The Numantines did not accept this expedient for evading the fulfilment of the contract, and did not offer violence to the consul who was offered to them as a victim.

3. Correxit. He began by reforming the abuses which had crept into the military discipline.

4. Vinctus, "in chains." The history of the war with Jugurtha has been given by Sallust in a work styled Bellum Jugurthinum.

5. Cimbri et Teutones, northern tribes who left their ancient abodes, and went in search of new settlements. Other Gallic tribes through whose territory they passed, joined them.

6. Ne iterum. See above, p. 44, § 32.

7. Teutones. Marius met the Teutones at Aquae Sextiae, now Aix, a town of Gallia Narbonensis. He left 20,000 dead on the field of battle, and took 90,000 prisoners, B. C. 102.

8. Belloque protracto. See n. 5, p. 14.

1. Gravissimum bellum. The war of these allied nations (subjects of Rome) was called bellum sociale, or, because the Marsi, a people of middle Italy, were the leading nation engaged in it, bellum Marsicum; also, bellum Italicum. 53

2. Aequa jura, the right of Roman citizens, jura civitatis.

3. Jus civitatis. The freedom of the city was conferred in different degrees, according to the different merits of the allies towards the republic. To some the right of voting (jus suffragii) was given, and to others not. After the social war it was communicated, with the right of voting, to all of the Italians south of the river Rubicon on the upper sea, and of the city Luca on the lower sea. Afterwards the same right was granted to Cisalpine Gaul, which hence began to be called Gallia Togata.

4. Pontus, a kingdom in the north of Asia Minor, on the Pontus Euxinus; Mithridates had greatly enlarged it by his conquests.

5. Fugatus fuerat. He had taken refuge in Africa, but returned upon hearing that Cinna had embraced his cause.

6. Proscriperunt. Proscribere, properly "to post up in writing, to publish any thing to be sold," especially in reference to auctions; also, "to confiscate one's property, sequester or seize one's estate;" from the time of Sylla, "to proscribe, or outlaw one; to doom to death and confiscation of property." Sylla introduced the custom of proscription, after having conquered the party of Marius. He ordered lists (tabulae proscriptionis), of the names of those whom he doomed to die, to be placed in the public places of the city, with the promise of a reward (duo talenta) for the head of each person so proscribed. He divided the lands and fortunes of the slain among his friends, and declared their children incapable of honours.

7. Sociale. See above, n. 1.

54 1. Chalcedon, now Kadi-Keni, an ancient city of Bithynia, opposite Byzantium, built by a colony from Megara, B. C. 685, some years before the founding of Byzantium.

2. Cyzicus, anciently a very flourishing city, situate on the island of Cyzicus, in the Propontis, which is now a peninsula, and preserves its name.

3. Byzantium, a city situate on the Thracian Bosphorus, founded by a colony from Argos and Megara, B. C. 658. Constantine the Great made it the capital of the eastern Roman empire, A. D. 328, and called it Constantinopolis.

4. Novum bellum, the war of the slaves.

5. Gladiatores. Gladiators were for some time exhibited only at funerals, but afterwards also by the magistrates, to entertain the people. They were kept and trained in schools (in ludis) by persons called Lanistae. The whole number under one Lanista was called Familia. Gladiators were at first composed of captives, slaves, or condemned malefactors. Afterwards also free-born citizens fought, some even of noble birth. Gladiators were exhibited sometimes at the funeral pile, often in the Forum, but usually in an amphitheatre, so called, because it was seated all round, like two theatres joined. The place where the gladiators fought was called Arena, because it was covered with saw-dust or sand, to prevent the gladiators from sliding, and to absorb the blood; and the persons who fought, Arenarii.—The slaves of Capua were quickly joined by an immense multitude of their fellow-sufferers, with whom Italy was filled.

6. Cabira, a fortified town of Armenia Minor, near the confines of Pontus, afterwards called Sebaste.

7. Successor. M. Acilius Glabrio, who was shortly after succeeded by Pompey.

8. Piratae, chiefly the inhabitants of the coast of Asia Minor, especially the Cilicians, who rendered the Mediterranean unsafe by their piracies.

55 1. Venenum hausit. According to others, he stabbed himself, since the poison had no effect on him, in consequence of the antidotes which he was in the habit of taking to render ineffectual the attempts of his enemies to poison him.

2. Galatia, a country of Asia Minor, lying west of Pontus. It derived its name of Galatia from the Gauls or Celts, who invaded and settled the country. From the Greeks, who subsequently became intermingled with them, the country was also called Gallo-Graecia.

3. Quod non recepisset. See n. 12, p. 14.

4. Judea, a province of Palestine, forming the southern division, and lying north of Arabia. Hierosolyma (Jerusalem) was the capital.

5. Argenti infinitum, i. e. infinitum pondus, infinita summa.

6. Catalina. In order to repair his ruined fortune, he attempted to effect a political revolution, and to murder the Senate and opulent citizens, with the intention of confiscating their property for the benefit of himself and his followers.

7. Parthi, a people of Asia, successively tributary to the empire of the Assyrians, Medes, and Persians, and almost unknown until about 240 B. C., when they suddenly emerged from their obscurity under Arsaces, who laid the foundation of the Parthian empire. This empire was bounded on the east by the Indus, on the south by the Mare Erythraeum, on the west by the Tigris, and on the north by Caucasus. Page 55

8. Carrae, a town of Mesopotamia, south-east of Edessa.

9. Contra auspicia, notwithstanding the unlucky omens, which occurred before the battle.

1. Nominis, i. e. populi.

2. Absens. Candidates were bound according to law to be present at Rome, and when they commanded an army, to discharge it before soliciting an office. But Caesar continued with his army in Cisalpine Gaul.

3. Ariminum, now Rimini, a town in Italy on the Adriatic, beyond the limits of Caesar's province; wherefore the taking possession of this town was to be considered as a declaration of war.

4. Dictatorem. See n. 3, p. 45.

5. Hispanias. The plural comprehends the three principal divisions of the peninsula, Lusitania, Tarraconensis, and Baetica.

6. Primo praelio. This battle was fought near Dyrrachium, now Durazzo, a large city of Macedonia, bordering on the Adriatic sea.

7. Pharsalus, now Farsa, a town of Thessaly, south-west of Larissa, on the river Enipeus. In its neighbourhood is a large plain called Pharsalia, in which the battle was fought.

8. Alexandria, a city founded by Alexander the Great, B. C. 332, situated at the mouth of the Nile. It was famous for its commercial advantages, commanding the trade of the east until the discovery of the Cape of Good Hope. It was also celebrated for its schools, and its library of 700,000 volumes.

9. A rege Aegypti, the last of the Ptolemies, and the brother of Cleopatra.

10. Generi quondam, i. e. qui quondam gener Caesaris fuerat. Pompey had formed a league with Caesar and Crassus, A. U. 694, and had married Julia, the daughter of Caesar. She died in the year 703, and with her death the last bond of union between the two statesmen was severed.

11. Cleopatra, the sister of Ptolemy; she had a short time before laid claim to the throne.

12. Insolentius. He made himself perpetual Dictator, Imperator, &c. and it was suspected that he intended to declare himself king.

13. Bruti duo, Marcus and Decimus.

1. Fusus. Antony besieged D. Brutus in Mutina, a town of Gallia Cispadana, now Modena, but was defeated by the consuls Pansa and Hirtius. Page 57

2. Lepidum, who was in Gaul with the army.

3. Oclavianus, the son of C. Octavius and Atia, a niece of Julius Caesar, by whom Octavianus was adopted as a son. But sons, who entered a family by adoption, added to the name of their pater adoptivus, which they assumed, the name of their real father with an addition; so that Aemilius became Aemilianus, and Octavius, Oclavianus. Octavianus had first waged war with the senate (Optimates) against Antony.

4. Proscriptis. See n. 6, p. 53.

5. Cassius. After the first battle Cassius caused one of his freedmen to kill him; Brutus fell on his own sword after the second.

6. Philippi, a town of Macedonia, east of Amphipolis.

7. Gallias, (as Hispanias, see n. 5, p. 56), comprehends all coun-

57 tries under the name of Gallia, both on this side and the other side of the Alps.

8. Lepidus. A short time after the division, Lepidus was stripped of his portion by Octavianus, and made to retire to a private station, because he made higher pretensions than he ought.

9. Augustus, a title of honour, which Octavianus received in the year 726, when he proposed to abdicate the imperatorial dignity, and which conveyed the idea of holiness, since Augustus was especially applied to places which were devoted to religious purposes.

10. Actium, now Azio, a town and promontory of Epirus.

11. Aspis, a poisonous serpent of Egypt and Libya, whose bite occasions inevitable death, but without pain.

58 1. Fretum Gaditanum, from Gades, a Phoenician colony, now Cadiz.

2. Qui montes. Not, as in English, montes—qui, which position of the relative, when accompanied by an apposition, the Latin did not admit.

3. Herculis columnae, as marks of the limit which nature had put to the wanderings of Hercules. According to some he had erected columns on these mountains, after he had separated them by force, and thereby connected the Mediterranean (mare internum) with the Ocean (mare Atlanticum).

4. Tanais, now the Don.

5. Pontus Euxinus, now the Black Sea.

6. Palus Maeotis, now the Sea of Azoph or Zaback.

7. Mare Brit. now the North Sea.

8. Aegaeum, now the Archipelago.

9. Tyrrhenum, so called from the ancient inhabitants of middle Italy, who named the land which they inhabited Tyrrhenia; by the Romans it was called Tuscia.

10. Baetis, now the Guadalquivir.

11. Condita. The island, on which Gades was built, was connected to the main land by a mole.

12. Narbonensis, so called from the city Narbo (Narbonne); before the reign of Augustus it was called Provincia Romana (Provence), as being the first country subdued by the Romans in Transalpine Gaul.

13. Massilia, now Marseilles. Respecting the foundation of the city by the Phocaeans, see Part II. I. i.

14. Campus lapideus, or campi lapidei, a plain of several miles in extent, covered with round stones, situate in the vicinity of the Rhodanus, (Rhone), not far from the sea. The natural soil of this region is the same as described by the ancients.

15. Phuisse, scil. lapidibus.

59 1. Rhodanus, now the Rhone.

2. Lacus Lemanus, now the Lake of Geneva. They distinguished the water of the Rhine at a considerable distance, whence the opinion arose that the river flowed unmixed through the lake.

3. Dirimit. The Rhone flows between Gallia Narbonensis and Lugdunensis, and empties into the Mediterranean by several mouths between Narbo and Massilia.

4. Porrigitur. The ancient Gallia comprehended the whole country west of the Rhine as far as the North Sea, including the modern kingdom of the Netherlands.

5. Druidae. Britain, according to Caesar, was the great school of the Druids, and their chief settlement was in the island called Mona by Tacitus, now Anglesey. The common derivation is from ōpus, "an oak," or from the old British word dru or drew, "an oak," because they taught in forests, or, as Pliny states, never sacrificed but under an oak.

6. Quae se scire profitentur. The knowledge in which they boast, which they assert that they possess.

7. Garumna, now the Garonne.

8. Aquitania comprehends the modern Gascony, and a part of Guienne. The Aquitani were a powerful people of Iberian origin, who divided themselves into many tribes.

9. Sequāna, now the Seine.

10. Celtae. This nation inhabited that part of Gallia which lay between the Sequana and Garumna, extending eastwardly from the ocean to the Rhine. Augustus, however, B. C. 27, extended Aquitania into Celtica as far as the Ligeris, now the Loire, and further diminished Celtica by comprehending under Belgica that part which lay near the Rhine.

11. Belgae. This nation inhabited that part of Gallia which lay north of Sequana and the territories of the Celtae, between the ocean and the Rhine.

12. Usque ad Rhenum pertinent. To that part of the Rhenus now called the Lower Rhine.

13. Lutetia, now Paris.

14. Lacus Venetus, or Brigantiae, from the town Brigantia on its eastern bank, now Bregenz in Tyrol. It was also anciently called Bodamicus. It is now called Boden Sea, or Lake Constance, from a town of that name on its western border.

15. Mediomatrici, a people of Belgic Gaul, who were situated along the Mosella or Moselle. Their capital was Divodurum, now Metz.

16. Treviri, a nation of Gallia Belgica, between the Mosella and Mosa, now the Meuse. The capital was Augusta Trevirorum, now Treves, on the Moselle.

17. Flevo, a branch of the Rhine, which expanded to such a degree as to form a considerable lake. This lake, having been in process of time much increased by the sea, assumed the name of Zuyder Zee, or the Southern Sea.

18. Iterum. After forming the lake it was contracted again into a narrower bed, and re-assumed the appearance of a river. It is not now a river, but is a part of the Zuyder Zee.

19. Vistula. This river falls into the Baltic, and still retains its ancient name.

20. Boni hospitibus, i. e. erga hospites.

1. Alio transituri. Non ut ibi maneant, sed ad tempus, et mox 60 alio transituri, i. e. eo consilio, ut in aliud locum transeant.

2. Silva Hercynia. This was an immense forest of Germany, considered by some writers as covering nearly the whole of that extensive territory. Parts of it only remain at the present day, which go under particular names, as the Black Forest, which separates Alsace from Swabia; the Bohemerald, which encompasses Bohemia, and was in the middle ages called Hercynia sylva; the Hartz forest in Lunenburgh, &c.

3. Patere narrat. Its breadth, according to Caesar, was nine lays journey, while its length exceeded sixty.

- 60 4. Danubius, the Danube, called by the Greeks Ister, which name the Romans also applied to the eastern part of the stream.
 5. Moenus, now Mayne, which falls into the Rhine by Mentz.
 6. Visurgis, now the Weser, falling into the German ocean.
 7. Albis, now the Elbe.
 8. Rhaetia, bounded on the north by Vindelicia, east by Noricum, south by Italy, and west by Helvetia.
 9. Aperuit. Julius Caesar made two voyages from Gaul to Britain, and thus opened the way to the Romans.
 10. Claudio imperante. In the reign of Claudio, A. D. 42, the Romans first established themselves in Britain, under the command of Aulus Plautius.
 11. Muro. This wall, which was intended to protect Roman Britain from the incursions of the Picts and Scots, extended from the Tyne to the Esk. The succeeding Caesars built other ramparts and walls for the same purpose.
 12. Cantium, now Kent.
 13. Longior quam latior. When two predicates are joined to a noun, and one is to be expressed in a higher degree than the other, both are used in Latin in the comparative.
 14. Ramos. One of these branches of the Apennines terminates in the promontory of Iapygium, the other in that of Letucopetra.
- 61 1. Id genus, equivalent to hujus generis.
 2. Lecta, i. e. when one merely reads about them.
 3. Fontes saluberrimi, the warm baths of Baiae.
 4. Padus, now the Po.
 5. Gallia Cisalpina, or Togata, the northern part of Italy on this side of the Alps, including the Italian Tyrol, extending as far south as the Rubicon.
 6. Vesulus, in Liguria, a mountain of the Alpes Cottiae.
 7. Urbis Romanae magnificentiam, instead of Romam urbem magnificentissimam.
 8. Tarentum, now Taranto.
 9. Superato. In the war with the Romans. See Roman Hist. Lib. II. 5—9.
 10. Trinacria, compounded of τρεῖς, “three,” and ἄκρα, “a promontory.”
 11. Cyclopes, giants with one eye in their forehead, who forged the thunderbolts of Jupiter in the workshop of Vulcan.
 12. Egesti, from egero.
 13. Humeris sublatis flammæ erip., equivalent to humoris sustulisse et fl. eripuisse.
- 62 1. Bello petita. For an account of this war, see part II. C. 19—21.
 2. Bello Punico. See Roman Hist. Lib. III. 2—11.
 3. Archimedes, a famous mathematician, who defended the town for a long time by the machines of war which he constructed. He was made captive and slain by a Roman soldier.
 4. Olympia. See p. 34, n. 10.
 5. Reddi depends upon dicitur in the preceding sentence.
 6. Vestigii. The name Ichnusa is derived from ἰχνος, vestigium.
 7. Epirus, a country of Greece, to the west of Thessaly, lying along the Adriatic, and now forming a part of modern Albania.
 8. Sejunguntur. Macedonia and Epirus, which were governed by kings, were by many considered as not belonging to Greece, which consisted only of free states.

9. Transtulit. For the history of Philip and Alexander, see 62 part II. E.

10. Perseo superato. See Roman Hist. Lib. IV. 3.

11. Acroceraunii montes. A range of mountains in the vicinity of the sea, which terminated in the promontory Acroceramum.

12. Tinnitu significasse. The ancients supposed that the oaks of Dodona possessed human voices and prophesied. The priests drew their predictions from the rustling of the leaves, and the clattering din of large kettles, which were suspended in the air near a brazen statue; when this was agitated, it struck against one of the kettles, which communicated the motion to the rest.

13. Cephallenia, now Cefalonia.

14. Corcyra, now Corfu, the land of the Phaeacians, over which (according to the Odyssey) Alcinous reigned in the time of Ulysses. The gardens of Alcinous bloomed and bore fruit constantly.

1. Quo tempore. Not tempore quo. See p. 58, n. 2.

2. Numa Pompilius. See Roman Hist. Lib. I. 13.

3. Ithaca, now Teaki. The fame given by the Odyssey of Homer to this barren island, has placed it in as high or even a higher rank than that occupied by the most fruitful region of the earth.

4. Per quos, scil. montes. They placed these mountains one upon the other, intending by means of them to climb to the habitation of the gods. See III. 3

5. Penēus, now Salempria, Σαλευπρία (pronounced Salebria), one of the finest and clearest rivers of Greece.

6. Tempe, τὰ τέμπη.

7. Athenae. Understand sunt, or sitae sunt.

8. Deos, Neptune (Ποσειδῶν), and Minerva (Ἀθήνη). From the last the town received its name.

9. Eas, instead of tales, tam praeclaras.

10. Propylaea, τὰ προπόλαια, a gateway, ornamented with rows of columns, one of the most magnificent structures in Athens.

11. Longos muros, τὰ μακρὰ τείχη, also called σκέλη.

12. Musices ope. See above, III. 23.

13. Epaminondae virtus. See Part II. D. § 8, 9, 10.

14. Nemo ignorat. Combine thus, nemo ignorat, quantum auctoritatem oraculum Apollinis in hac urbe habuerit. Respecting the relative in the beginning of a sentence, see n. 5, p. 14.

15. Peloponnesus, ("the island of Pelops,") now the Morea.

16. Isthmus, Gr. ισθμός; the Isthmus of Corinth is now Hexamili.

17. Ludi Isthmici. The Isthmian games were instituted, B. C. 1326, in honour of Melicerta or Palaemon, but having been interrupted after some years, they were re-instituted by Theseus in honour of Neptune.

1. Bellum Achaicum. Respecting this war, see Roman Hist. 64 Lib. IV. 6. and Part II. E. § 75, 76.

2. Res gestas numerat. As the Olympiads were celebrated after an interval of 4 years, the Greeks called that space of time an Olympiad. They counted the Olympiads from the year 776 B. C. They reckon (numerant), or date their actions and exploits (res gestas) from the years of the Olympic games. See p. 34, n. 10.

3. Lycurgi leges. See Part II. D. § 1, 2.

4. Taygetus, a chain of mountains, which extending from Arcadia divide into two branches, of which one terminates in the Taenarium Promontorium, the other in the Malea Pr. These promontories form the Sinus Laconicus, now G. of Colokythia.

Page

64 5. Orpheus, as is said, descended by a cave at Taenarus to the infernal regions, for the purpose of procuring from Pluto the restoration of his wife Eurydice to life.

6. Cyclades, from κύκλος “a circle.”

7. Delus, (derived from δῆλος), now Sedili.

8. Transtulerunt. The allied states of Greece, in order that they might always be prepared to carry on war with the Persians, made a proportional contribution, which they deposited in the temple of Delos, as a common treasury of Greece, but subsequently the Athenians, having become most powerful by sea, conveyed the treasures to Athens, and applied them to their own use.

9. Euboea, now Negropont.

10. Temere, “without stated intervals.”

65

1. Plures (uxores) singuli (viri) habent.

2. A judicibus. In these disputes judges decided who was most worthy of following her husband.

3. Ducendae. The participle denotes the purpose.

4. Inveniunt, etc. instead of maritos pecunia data (mercede) emunt.

5. Byzantium, called Constantinople from Constantine the Great. The Turks call it Istamboul or Stamboul.

6. Bospōrus Thracius, (so called to distinguish it from the Bosporus Cimmerius), a strait connecting the Propontis (Sea of Marmora) with the Pontus Euxinus (Black Sea).

7. Hellespontus, now the Dardanelles, leading from the Aegaean to the Propontis.

8. Amor Herus et Leandri, the love of Leander of Abydus (on the Asiatic coast) for Hero, (genit. Herus, Ἡρώ, οῖς). a priestess of Venus at Sestos, to whom he used to swim by night across the Hellespont. He was at length drowned, in consequence of the torch, which Hero held to direct his course, being extinguished during a storm.

9. Cynossēma, κυνὸς σῆμα, “a dog’s tomb.”

10. Hecuba, wife of Priam, king of Troy.

11. Aenēas, son of Anchises and Venus, who, after the destruction of Troy, went in quest of new habitations, accompanied by a band of his countrymen.

12. Devorandus, “to be devoured.”

13. Cassander, son of Antipater; he made himself master of Macedonia after his father’s death.

14. In extrema Macedonia, i. e. in extremis Macedoniae partibus.

15. Assignasse, scil. iis.

16. Scythia, a country between the Ister and the Maeotis Palus or the Phasis, which also extended into unknown regions of the north and east. The name of Riphæi Montes is applied to any cold mountains in a northern country; it would appear that the ancients intended to denote by them the northern and western limits of the earth.

66

1. Majoribus, etc. i. e. quanto quis (aliquis) illustriores majores habet.

2. Taurica Chersonesus, (to distinguish it from the Chersonesus Thracia), a peninsula in the Black Sea, now Crimea.

3. Borysthēnes, a large river of Scythia, falling into the Euxine, now the Dnieper.

4. Hyperboréi, ὑπερβόρειοι; the word signifies “people who inhabit beyond the wind Boreas.” Thrace was the residence of Boreas, according to the ancients, and it appears that the Greeks called the Thracians Boreans; it is probable, therefore, that they called the people beyond these Hyperboreans, perhaps the inhabitants of Russia and part of Siberia. Virgil places them under the north pole.

5. Occidit. It was also during one half of the year day, and during the other night.

6. Omni, equivalent to ulla.

7. Taedet (like piget, poenitet) is used with an accusative of the person and a genitive of the thing, see n. 6, p. 15.

8. Asiae nomine. Asia Minor is here meant, which is now called Natolia, Anatolia, or rather Anadoli, from ἀνατολή, oriens.

9. Ad quem amnem. Respecting the arrangement of the words, see p. 63, n. 1.

10. Victoriam reportavit. For an account of this battle, see Part II. E. § 18.

11. Peninsulae. Cyzicus was originally an island. From the time of Alexander, who joined it to the continent by a mole, it has been called a peninsula.

12. Ab Argonautis occisus est, on their expedition in quest of the golden fleece.

13. Ares absorbent, by fascination, as it would seem, or by the effect of their breath. Something similar is told of rattlesnakes.

14. Ab Jasone. On the expedition to Colchis.

1. Axenus, from ἄξενος, "inhospitable."

2. Euxinus, from ἐυξείνος, "hospitable." It bore the name of Axenus, until the establishment of numerous Greek colonies along its coast insured to voyagers a safe and friendly reception.

3. Thermōdon, a river of Pontus, falling into the Euxine.

4. Distinguunt notis, "tattoo their body," i. e. make punctures in the naked body, which are variously stained, so as to give them a parti-coloured appearance. So above, § 41. Agathyrsi ora et corpora pingunt.

5. Asia proprie dicta, i. e. Asia Minor.

6. Colonias misit. It sent out eighty colonies.

7. Amazones, a fabulous nation of women, who are said to have dwelt in the eastern part of Asia Minor, on the coast of the Euxine, in the vicinity of the Thermodon.

8. Ilium, otherwise, Troja.

9. Fama quam natura majores, "more celebrated than large."

10. Judicium illus. redd. See p. 26, § 11.

11. Ajax, the son of Telamon, next to Achilles the bravest of the Grecian heroes who fought before Troy. After the death of Achilles, Ajax and Ulysses disputed their claim to the arms of the hero. When they were given to the latter, Ajax was so enraged that he became bereaved of his understanding, and slaughtered a flock of sheep, supposing them to be the Greeks who had given the preference to Ulysses, and then stabbed himself with his sword.

12. Mercede accepta. The Greeks originally bore arms only for their native land. The custom of serving foreign princes (aliena bella gerere) for pay (mercede accepta) was first introduced after the Peloponnesian war.

13. Contusa, from contundo.

14. Sepulcrum. See p. 36, § 51.

1. Lavare, properly used in a transitive signification, lavare cor- 68

Page

68 pus, membra, is also used in a neuter sense, instead of se lavare, or lavari.

2. Lucis, i. e. nemoribus.

3. Terrere dicitur. The greatest part of the Corycian cave was in reality a valley between rugged rocks; in the bottom of the valley was a hole, in which the rushing of the water might produce the effects here mentioned. There was another Corycian cave in Phocis near Parnassus.

4. Cum terra conjuncta. This connexion with the main land was first made by Alexander, who, when besieging the place, formed a mole in order to gain access to the city, which was built on an island.

5. Latrociniis vivunt. As the Bedouins at the present day.

6. Aelius Gallus penetravit. In the reign of Augustus, A. U. C. 729.

7. Bactrianae et Arabiae, adjectives from Bactrianus and Arabius. The camel with one bunch or protuberance on its back is called a dromedary.

69 1. Ambitu. The noun ambitus has the penult short, although the participle ambitus has that syllable long.

2. Moles. The arches on which the gardens rested, the plan of which was arranged by Semiramis.

3. Successores. Seleucus Nicator, one of the successors of Alexander, who penetrated as far as the countries which border on the Ganges.

4. Paropamisus, a mountain which separates Bactria from India.

5. Ambitu corporis, i. e. corpora elephantorum ambientes et implantes.

6. Lanas ferunt. The cotton (gossypium) growing upon trees and shrubs.

FIRST DIVISION.

A. REGNUM ASSYRIORUM.

1. Ninus. (Justin. I. 1.)

Antiquissimis temporibus primi in Asia Assyrii¹ regnum condidisse feruntur. Horum rex Ninus, primum finitimus, tum aliis post alios populis perdomitis, totius Orientis populos subegit. Postremum ei bellum cum Zoroastre, rege Bactrianorum,² fuit, qui primus dicitur artes magicas³ invenisse, siderumque motus diligentissime spectasse. Hoc occiso et ipse decessit, relicto impubere adhuc filio Nīnȳa, et uxore Semiramide.

2. Semirāmis. (Ibid. I. 2.)

Semiramis nec filio immaturo imperium tradere, nec ipsa palam capessere ausa, sexum dissimulans, brachia et crura velamentis, caput tiarā tegit; et, ne novo habitu aliquid occultare videretur, eodem modo et populum vestiri jussit; quem morem vestis⁴ exinde⁵ gens universa servavit. Sic Semiramis primis regni initiis Ninyas esse credita est.⁶ Magnas deinde res gessit, ita ut mulier etiam viros virtute superare videretur. Babyloniam⁷ condidit, murumque urbi cocto latere⁸ circumdedit. Nec contenta regni terminos tueri, Aethiopiam⁹ imperio adjecit, et Indiae bellum intulit. Ad postremum a filio imperfecta est, duo et quadraginta annos post Ninum rerum potita.¹⁰ Ninyas contentus imperio a parentibus sibi tradito, belli studia depositit, et, veluti sexum cum matre mutasset, in seminarum turba consenuit. Posteri ejus hoc exemplum secuti sunt. Imperium Assyrii mille trecentos annos tenuerunt.

3. Sardanapalus. (Ibid. I. 3.)

Postremus apud eos regnavit Sardanapalus, vir muliere mollior. Ad quem quum forte Arbāces, Medis¹¹ a rege preepositus, venisset invenit eum inter mulierum greges, muliebri habitu, lanam tractantem, et pensa virginibus dividentem. Quibus visis, indignatus Arbaces, tot viros huic feminae¹ parere, omnem rem ad amicos retulit, negatque² se ei obedire posse, qui se feminam esse malit quam virum. Fit igitur conjuratio. Bellum Sardanapalo infertur. Quo ille auditio, primum, ut mulieres solent, latebras circumspicit; mox deinde cum paucis et incompositis in bellum progreditur. Victus proelio in regiam se recipit, ubi, exstructo incensoque rogo, et se et divitias in flammas conjicit; hoc solo facinore virum imitatus.

B. REGNUM MEDORUM ET PERSARUM.

1. Astyages. (Justin. I. 4.)

Sardanapalo sublato quum Arbaces rex esset constitutus, imperium ab Assyriis ad Medos translatum est. Post multos deinde reges ad Astyagem descendit.³ Hic aliquando per somnum vidit e sinu filiae Mandanes, quam unicum habebat, vitem enatam,⁴ cuius palmite omnis Asia obumbraretur. Consulti harioli, qui somnia interpretabantur, responderunt, nepotem regi ex filia natum iri, qui regno potiretur omnemque Asiam subigeret. Hoc responso perterritus, Astyages filiam Cambysi in matrimonium dedit, mediocris fortunae viro, ex gente Persarum, quae tunc temporis nullis adhuc rebus gestis illustrabatur.⁵ Sed ne sic quidem ab omni metu liberatus est.

2. Cyri natales. (Ibid. I. 4.)

Quum itaque Mandane puerum peperisset, Astyages ~~cum~~ Harpago, arcanorum suorum participi, occidendum dedit. Is veritus, ne Mandane aliquando necati infantis ultiōnem a se exigeret, pastori regii pecoris puerum exponendum tradit. Forte eodem tempore et ipsi pastori filius natus erat. Ejus igitur uxor, audita regii infantis expositione, maritum precibus movit, ut sibi afferret ostenderetque puerum. Cujus precibus fatigatus pastor reversus in silvam, juxta infantem invenit canem, ubera parvulo praebentem, et a feris alitibusque defendentem. Motus et ipse misericordia, qua canem motam viderat, puerum defert ad stabula, eadem cane anxie prose-quente. Quem ubi in manus mulier accepit, puer eam risu et blanditiis ita cepit, ut eum a se nollet dimittere, maritoque precibus persuaderet, ut suum ipsius puerum exponeret, altero servato.¹ Atque ita permutata sorte parvolorum, hic pro filio pastoris educatur, ille pro² nepote Astyagis exponitur.

3. Cyrus agnoscitur. (Ibid. I. 5.)

Puer deinde quum inter pastores esset, Cyri nomen accepit. Ibi aliquando rex inter ludentes creatus, contumaces flagellis cecidit: ob quam contumeliam puerorum parentes irati regem adierunt, querentes, quod ingenui³ pueri a servo regio verberibus essent affecti. Rex puerum arcessitum quum interrogasset, quomodo ausus esset illos verberare, ille, vultu nihil mutato, se ut regem fecisse respondit. Hoc responsum puerique constantiam admiratus Astyages, somnium, quod olim viderat, in mentem revocat, quumque et vultus similitudo et expositionis tempora,⁴ et pastoris confessio convenirent, nepotem agnovit. Et quoniam somnium exitum habuisse existimabat, quod Cyrus regnum inter pastores gessisset, puero quidem pepercit, sed Harpago ob imperium neglectum iratus, filium ejus interfecit patrique epulandum apposuit.

4. Harpagus Astyagen prodit. (Ibid. I. 5.)

Ab initio quidem Harpagus dissimulavit dolorem, sed intentus occasione vindictae exercendae, tempore interjecto, quum adolevisset Cyrus, omnia ei perscripsit: ut Astyages eum interfici jusserit, ut suo⁵ beneficio sit servatus, ut ipse filium crudelitate regis amiserit. Deinde eum hortatur, ut exercitum paret, pronamque⁶ ad regnum viam ingrediatur; simul Medorum ipsi transitionem promittit. Epistola, quia regis custodes omnes aditus obsidebant, exenterato lepori inseritur, lepusque Cyro apud Persas degenti per fidum servum mittitur.

5. Cyrus exercitum parat. (Ibid. I. 6.)

Cyrus, Harpagi epistolis lectis, nihil⁷ cunctatus, populum convocavit, eoque in locum silvestrem adducto, silvam securibus excidi jussit. Quod quum strenue fecissent,⁸ eosdem postero die ad epulas invitat. Deinde quum alacriores ipso convivio factos videret, rogat, si conditio esset proposita,⁹ utrum hesterni diei labore, an praesentium epularum hilariatem praelaturi essent? omnibusque clamantibus, se praesentes praeferre epulas, ait: Hesterno diei omnem vitam similem

agetis, quamdiu Medis parebitis; at si me sequemini, efficiam, ut per omnem vitam epulas agere videamini.

6. Astyages regno exuitur. (Ibid. I. 6.)

Laetis omnibus, Medis bellum infert. Astyages Harpago summam belli¹ committit, oblitus² injuriarum quibus eum affecerat. At ille exercitum acceptum statim Cyro tradit, regisque crudelitatem defectione ulcisciuit. Quod ubi Astyages audivit, contractis undique auxiliis ipse in Persas proficiscitur, variamque ibi belli fortunam expertus, tandem in proelio capit. Cyrus avo regnum abstulit, eumque maximaee genti Hyrcanorum³ praeposuit. Nam in Medos reverti ipse noluit. Hic finis Medorum imperii fuit. Regnaverunt annos trecentos quinquaginta.

7. Cyrus Lydiam et Croesum superat. (Ibid. I. 7.)

Initio regni Cyrus civitates, quae Medorum tributariae fuerant, bello domuit. Deinde quum adversus Babylonios bellum gereret, Croesus, rex Lydorum,⁴ cuius opes et divitiae illa tempestate insignes erant, Babylonis auxilium tulit; eoque victo, Cyrus bellum in Lydiam transfert. Ibi Croesi exercitus, fortuna prioris proelii jam percussus, nullo negotio⁵ funditur, Croesus ipse capit. Victor, clementia erga victimum usus, et vitam ei et patrimonii partem concessit. Interjecto deinde tempore, occupato in aliis bellis Cyro, Lydi rebellavere. Quibus iterum victimis arma et equi ademti, jussique sunt cauponias⁶ et ludicas artes⁷ exercere. Sic gens, industriâ quondam potens, mollitie et luxuriâ effeminata, virtutem pristinam perdidit.

8. Cyrus interficitur. (Ibid. I. 8.)

Cyrus, subacta Asia, Scythis bellum infert. Erat eo tempore Scytharum regina, Tomyris, quae quum hostes Araxis⁸ fluminis transitu prohibere posset, iis transire permisit, existimans, faciliorem sibi intra terminos regni pugnam fore. Itaque Cyrus, trajectis copiis, quum aliquantis per in Scythiam processisset, castra metatus est. Deinde, simulato metu, quasi refugiens, castra deseruit, atque in iis vini affatim, et quae epulis erant necessaria, reliquit. Quod quum reginae nuntiatum esset, adolescentulum filium ad insequendum hostem cum tertia parte copiarum misit. Quum ventum ad Cyri castra esset, adolescens, rei militaris ignarus, omissis⁹ hostibus, milites suos insuetos¹⁰ vino se onerare patitur. Qui bus cognitis, Cyrus reversus per noctem, ebrios opprimit, omnesque Scythes una cum reginae filio interficit. Amisso tanto exercitu, et, quod gravius erat, unico filio, Tomyris, ultionem meditata, hostes recenti victoria exsultantes, pari fraude decipit. Quippe simulato timore propter cladem recens acceptam refugiens, Cyrum ad angustias usque produxit. Ibi compositis insidiis, ducenta millia Persarum cum ipso rege trucidavit. Tum caput Cyri amputatum in utrem humano sanguine repletum conjici jubet, cum hac exprobratione¹ crudelitatis: Satia te, inquit, sanguine, quem sitisti,² cujusque insatiabilis semper fuisti. Cyrus regnavit annos triginta.

9. Cambysis regnum et interitus. (Ibid. I. 9.)

Cyro successit filius Cambyses, qui imperio patris Aegyptum adjecit. Aegyptiorum offensus superstitionibus,³ Apis⁴ caeterorumque deorum aedes dirui jubet. Ad Jovis quoque Ammonis nobilissimum templum⁵ expugnandum milites misit, qui arenae tempestate excitatae molibus oppressi sunt. Post haec per quietem⁶ vidit, fratrem suum Smerdin esse regnatum. Quo somnio exterritus, non dubitavit post sacrilegia etiam parricidium⁷ facere; et mago cuidam mandavit, ut Smerdin interficeret. Interim ipse, equum, ut narrant, conscendens, gladio sua sponte evaginato, vulneratus occubuit.

10. Pseudo-Smerdis. (Ibid. I. 9.)

Nuntio de regis morte accepto, ille, cui parricidium a rege mandatum fuerat, fratrem Cambysis, cui regnum debebatur, occidit, suumque ipsius fratrem Oropasten, imperfecto Smerdi ore et corporis habitu simillimum, in illius locum subjecit. Quae res eo occultior fuit, quod apud Persas persona regis sub specie majestatis oculitur. Sed postquam unus et alter fraudem suspicari coepit, Ostanes, vir nobilis, filiam suam, quae inter regias pellices erat, interrogavit, an Cyri filius rex esset. Illa se id scire negabat. Tum eam dormientis caput pertractare jubet: nam mago illi Cambyses aures olim utrasque praeciderat. Factus deinde per filiam certior, sine auribus esse regem, nobilissimis Persarum rem indicat, eosque in caedem falsi regis impellit. Septem tantum concii fuere hujus coniurationis, qui, postquam se sacramento obstrinxerant, extemplo ad regiam pergunt, ferro sub veste occultato. Ibi obviiis imperfectis, quum ad regem penetrassent, pugna in tenebris orta, Gobryas, unus coniuratorum, Oropasten complexus medium, socios ut ferirent hortatus est; cunctantesque, ne⁸ eum pro mago transfoderent, vel per suum corpus adigere ferrum jussit. Tum fortuna ita regente,¹ Gobrya incolumi, magus interficitur.

11. Darius Hystaspis rex creatur. (Ibid. I. 10.)

Quibus peractis, conjurati virtute et nobilitate pares, pacti sunt inter se, ut die statuta omnes equos ante regiam primo mane perducerent; et cuius equus inter Solis ortum hinnitum primus edidisset, is rex esset. Nam et Solem Persae unum Deum esse credunt, et equos eidem Deo sacratos putant. Erat autem inter conjuratos Dariūs Hystaspis filius; cui, de eventu sollicito, equi custos ait: si haec res,² quam tu dicis, victoriam decernit, nihil negotii superesse existima.³ Tum per noctem, pridie constitutam diem,⁴ equum ad eundem locum⁵ ducit, simulque equam. Postera die itaque quum ad statutam horam omnes convenissent, Darii equus, cognito loco ubi equam viderat, hinnitum statim edidit. Quo auspicio auditio, omnes confestim equis desilierunt, et Darium regem salutaverunt. Populus quoque universus, principum secutus iudicium, eundem regem constituit. Principio regni, Cyri filiam in matrimonium duxit, regalibus nuptiis regnum firmaturus;⁶ ut non tam in extraneum translatum quam, in familiam Cyri reversum esse videretur.

12. Zopyri dolo Babylonia capitur. (Ibid. I. 10.)

Interjecto deinde tempore, quum Assyrii descivissent, et Babyloniam occupassent, difficilisque urbis expugnatio esset, unus de interfectoribus magorum Zopyrus, domi se verberibus lacerari toto corpore jubet; tum naso, auribus et labiis abscissis, regi se inopinanti offert.⁷ Jam quum Darius ejus aspectu attonitus, auctorem tam foedae lacerationis requireret, ille, quo consilio hoc fecerit, edocet; rebusque cum rege compositis, transfugae titulo⁸ in Babyloniam proficiscitur. Ibi ostendit populo laniatum corpus regisque Darii jussu se tam crudeliter affectum esse queritur, persuadetque mirantibus, ut se in urbem reciperent. Omnibus et virtus viri et nobilitas pariter nota erat, nec de fide⁹ dubitabant, quam corpus verberibus laniatum satis probare videbatur. Receptus igitur, omnium suffragio dux constituitur, et accepta parva manu, semel iterumque Persarum copias consulto cedentes fundit. Ad postremum universus ei creditur exercitus. Hunc Dario prodit, urbemque ipsam in ejus potestatem redigit.

13. Darii expeditio contra Scythas. (Ibid. II. 5.)

Multis in Asia feliciter gestis, Darius Scythis¹ bellum intulit, et armatis septingentis millibus hominum, Scythiam ingressus, quum hostes ei pugnae potestatem non facerent, metuens, ne interrupto ponte Istri,² reditus sibi intercluderetur, amissis octoginta millibus hominum, trepidus³ refugit. Inde Macedoniam domuit. Paulo post, quum cognovisset, Athenienses Ionibus⁴ contra se auxilium tulisse, bello eos adortus est. Quod quo eventu gestum sit, in Atheniensium historia narrabitur.⁵

14. Filiorum Darii de regno contentio. (Ibid. II. 10.)

Persarum legionibus in campo Marathonio⁶ magno proelio superatis, Darius, bellum instauraturus, in ipso apparatu dedit, relictis multis filiis, et in regno et ante regnum⁷ susceptis.⁸ Ex his Artemenes, maximus natu, aetatis privilegio, regnum sibi vindicabat; Xerxes, quod patre ad regiam dignitatem sublato, primus genitus esset. Hoc certamen duo fratres concordi animo ad patruum suum Artaphernem deferrunt, qui, domi⁹ cognita causa, Xerxem praeposuit: adeoque fraterna fuit contentio,¹⁰ ut nec vitor insultaret, nec victus doleret; ipsoque litis tempore munera sibi invicem mitterent.

15. Xerxes bellum adversus Graeciam parat. (Ibid. II. 10.)

Igitur Xerxes bellum a patre coeptum adversus Graeciam denuo instruxit, eique apparatu¹¹ quinquennium insumsit. Septingenta millia ex regni sui provinciis armasse dicitur, et trecenta millia auxiliariorum; ut non immerito proditum sit, flumina ab exercitu ejus siccata esse, Graeciamque omnem vix capere exercitum ejus potuisse. Naves quoque mille ducentas numero habuisse dicitur. Huic tanto agmini dux¹² defuit. Rex enim primus in fuga, postremus in proelio semper visus est. In periculis timidus, ubi metus abesset, inflatus erat.

16. Pugna ad Thermopylas. (Ibid. II. 11.)

Ejus introitus in Graeciam quam terribilis, tam turpis discessus fuit. Nam quum Leonidas, rex Spartanorum, cum quatuor millibus militum angustias Thermopylarum¹³ occupasset, Xerxes contemtu paucitatis eos aggreditur. Triduo ibi pugnatum, magna in Persarum exercitu caedes est edita.

Quarta die quum nuntiatum esset Leonidae, summum montium cacumen a viginti millibus hostium teneri, socios hortatur, recedant et se ad meliora patriae tempora reservent; sibi cum Spartanis fortunam esse experiendam. Tum caeteri discessere; soli Lacedaemonii remanserunt. Hi omnes Xerxis castra adorti, post ingentem caedam ibi occubuerunt.

L 17. Xerxes Graecia vastata fugatur. (Ibid. II. 12.)

Tum Xerxes maris fortunam experiri statuit. Sed ante navalis proelii congressionem² misit quatuor millia armatorum Delphos³ ad templum Apollinis diripiendum. Quae manus tota imbribus et fulminibus deleta est, ut inteligerent, quam nullae⁴ essent hominum adversus Deos vires. Post haec Thespias et Plataeas⁵ et Athenas⁶ vacuas hominibus incendit; et quoniam ferro in homines non poterat,⁷ in aedificia igne grassatur. Cujus incendii flamas quum viderent Graeci in classe circum Salamina⁸ insulam statuta,⁹ dissensio inter principes orta est, quum plurimi hortarentur, ut domos suas discederent moenibusque se defenderent. Tum Themistocles, Atheniensium imperator, timens, ne discussu sociorum vires Graeciae minuerentur, per servum fidum Xerxi nuntiat, uno in loco eum contractas Graeciae vires facillime opprimere posse. Quod si populi, qui jam abire vellet, dissiparentur, majori labore ei singulos consecrandos esse. Hoc dolo impulit regem, ut signum pugnae daret.) Graeci quoque adventu hostium coacti sunt proelium collatis viribus capessere. Interna rex, velut spectator pugnae, in litore remanet. Artemisia autem, regina Halicarnassi,¹⁰ quae in auxilium Xerxi venerat, plurima in hoc navali proelio virtutis documenta dedit. Sic illo tempore in viro muliebris timor, in muliere virilis conspiciebatur audacia. Quum proelium anceps esset, Iones, qui cum rege¹¹ pugnabant, a Themistocle instigati, pugnae se paulatim subtrahere coeperunt; quorum defectio animos caeterorum fregit. Itaque circumspicientes fugam pelluntur Persae, et mox, proelio victi, in fugam vertuntur.

18. Xerxis in Asiam reditus. (Ibid. II. 13.)

Hac clade percusus Xerxes domum redire statuit, parte exercitus cum Mardonio in Graeciâ relictâ. Sed Graeci, auditâ regis fugâ, consilium ineunt pontis rumpendi, quo ille Hellespontum¹² junixerat, ut intercluso reditu cum reliquiis exercitus deleretur. Sed Themistocles timens, ne interclusi hostes iter, quod aliter non pateret, ferro patefacerent, servum ad Xer-xem mittit, certioremq[ue] facit consilii a Graecis capti; et occupare transitum, maturatâ fugâ, jubet. Ille perculsus nuntio, tradit ducibus milites perducendos; ipse cum paucis Abýdon¹ contendit. Ubi quum solutum pontem hibernis tempestatis bus offendisset, piscatoria scapha trepidus trajecit. Pedestrium copiarum, quas ducibus tradiderat, maxima pars peste et inopia periit; tantaque vis mali fuit, ut viae cadaveribus implerentur, alitesque et ferae, in praedam intentae, exercitum sequerentur.

19. Persae apud Plataeas et Mycalen victi. (Ib. II. 14.
Corn. Nep. Vit. Cim. c. 2. Vit. Aristid. c. 2.)

Caeterum fortuna Persarum cum duce mutata non est. Mardonius proelio apud Plataeas victus, velut e naufragio, cum paucis profugit; pauci militum fuga elapsi sunt. Eodem forte die, quo Mardonii copiae deletae sunt, etiam naval proelio in Asia sub monte Mycale² adversus Persas dimicatum est. Ibi ante proelium commissum, quum classes ex adverso starent, fama ad utrumque exercitum venit, viciisse Graecos et Mardonii copias deletas esse. Qui nuntius, ut par erat, Graecorum fortitudinem et fiduciam auxit, Persarum animos frexit. Captae sunt ibi, Cimonis³ praecipue virtute atque consilio, ducentae naves Cypriorum⁴ et Phoenicum,⁵ eodemque die in terra maxima vis barbarorum prostrata est. Post hanc victoriam maritimae res Atheniensium in dies magis florere coeperunt. Quum enim antea et terra et mari duces essent Lacedaemonii, factum est, ut summa imperii maritimi a Lacedaemoniis, transferretur ad Athenenses. Hoc in primis Aristidi debebatur, qui, quum in communis Graeciae classe esset simul cum Pausania,⁶ duce Lacedaemoniorum, summa aequitate et humanitate effecit, ut Graeciae civitates, superbia Pausaniae offensae, ad Atheniensium sese societatem applicarent, hosque sibi duces adversus barbaros deligerent. Hoc autem imperio ita usi sunt Athenenses, ut brevi post tempore soli in mari regnare viderentur.

20. Xerxis familia, post regis caudem, domesticis seditionibus agitata. (Justin. III. 1.)

Post bellum in Graecia infeliciter gestum, Xerxes, terror antea gentium, etiam suis contemtui esse coepit. Quippe Artabanus, praefectus ejus, deficiente quotidie regis majestate, spem regni concepit animo, et cum septem robustissimis filiis regiam vesperi ingressus, Xerxem trucidavit. Tum ut filios regis, votis suis obsistentes, amoveret, Artaxerxi, admodum puero, persuasit, regem a Dario,¹ qui erat adolescens, occisum esse, quo maturius regno potiretur, eumque impulit, ut patris caedem in fratre vindicaret. Quum ventum ad dominum Darii esset, hic dormiens inventus interficitur. Quo facto, ut etiam Artaxerxem tolleret, Artabanus, principum de regno certamina metuens, assumit in societatem consilii Bacabassum: qui² praesenti rerum statu contentus, rem prodit Artaxerxi, ut pater ejus occisus, ut frater falsa parricidii suspicione oppressus esset, quaenam ipsi denique pararentur insidiae. His cognitis Artaxerxes in posterum diem armatum exercitum adesse jubet, recognitus³ et numerum militum et in armis industriam singulorum. Itaque quum inter caeteros et ipse Artabanus armatus assisteret, rex simulavit, se breviorem loriam habere, jussitque Artabanum suam secum commutare; tum exuentem se et nudatum gladio trajecit, simulque filios ejus corripi jubet. Atque ita egregius juvenis et caedem patris, et se ab insidiis Artabani vindicavit.⁴

21. Intestina discordia in regno Persarum gliscit.
(Just. V. 11.)

Artaxerxem secutus est filius Xerxes, qui post breve quadraginta quinque dierum regnum a Sogdiano occisus est. Qui regnum scelere occupatum quum caedibus tueri conaretur, post septem menses a Dario proelio superatus periit. Sub his regibus imperium Persarum principum discordiis populorumque seditionibus agitatum magis magisque inclinari⁵ coepit. Darius moriens Artaxerxi, majori natu filio, qui Mnemon appellabatur, regnum, minori, Cyro, urbes Lydiae, quibus praefectus fuit, testamento legavit. Sed Cyro judicium⁶ patris injuria videbatur; itaque occulte adversus fratrem bellum paravit. Quod quum nuntiatum esset Artaxerxi, Cyrum ad se arcessitum compedibus aureis vinxit, interfecissetque, nisi mater prohibuisset.

22. Cyrus in bello adversus fratrem suscepto perit.

Quod periculum quum effugisset, Cyrus jam non occulte bellum, sed palam parare coepit; auxilium undique contrahit. Sed quum in proelio⁷ commisso fratrem imprudentius aggreditur, hunc quidem⁸ equi fuga⁹ periculo subtraxit, Cyrus autem⁸ a cohorte regia circumventus interficitur. In eo proelio decem millia Graecorum in auxilio Cyri fuere; quae et in cornu, in quo steterant, vicerunt, et post mortem Cyri neque armis a tanto exercitu vinci, neque dolo capi potuerunt, sed per indomitas nationes et gentes barbaras, virtute sua confisi, in patriam revertuntur.¹

53. Artaxerxis filii in patrem conjurant. (Just. X. 1. 2.)

Artaxerxi ex pellicibus centum et quindecim filii fuere, sed tres tantum justo matrimonio suscepti, Darius, Ariarates et Ochus. Ex his Darium per indulgentiam pater, contra morem Persarum, regem vivus fecit. Sed hic paterna pietate nihil motus, interficiendi patris consilium cepit. Occiso quippe Cyro, Aspasiam, pellicem ejus, in regium gynaeceum translatam, a patre sibi dari postulaverat. Hic, pro sua in liberos indulgentia, primo se id facturum esse dixerat; mox poenitentia ductus, Solis eam sacerdotio praefecit, quo munere ab omni virorum consortio prohibebatur. Hinc exacerbatus juvenis cum quinquaginta fratribus in patrem conjuravit; sed deprehensus cum sociis poenas parricidii² dedit. Conjuges³ quoque conjuratorum cum liberis omnibus interfictae sunt, ne quod vestigium tanti sceleris superesset. Paulo post Artaxerxes morbo ex dolore contracto decessit.

24. Ochus. Darius Codomannus, postremus rex Persiae. (Just. X. 3.)

Post patris mortem Ochus regnum paternum invasit. Qui parem conjurationem timens, regiam cognatorum et principum caede replet. Tum bellum Cadusis⁴ infert. In quo bello Codomannus quidam adversus hostem, qui unum ex Persis ad singulare certamen provocaverat, magno animo processit, et hoste occiso victoriam suis et prope amissam gloriam restituit. Ob haec decora⁵ praeficitur Armeniis. Interjecto deinde tempore post mortem Ochi regis, ob memoriam pristinae virtutis rex a populo constituitur, Darii nomine honoratus; bellumque cum Alexandro non sine virtute gessit. Postremo ab Alexander victus et a cognatis occisus, vitam pariter cum Persarum regno finivit.

C. RES ATHENIENSIMUM.

1. Atheniensium origines et primi reges. (Just. II 6.)

Athenienses non solum incrementis¹ suis, sed etiam origine gloriantur. Non enim a sordidis² initiiis crevere, nec ex aliis regionibus advenerunt, sed eodem innati solo,³ quod incolunt; et quae illis sedes, eadem origo est. Primi lanificii et olei⁴ et vini⁵ usum docuere. Arare quoque et serere frumenta⁶ glandem vescentibus⁷ monstrarunt. Litterae certe ac facundia, leges et civilis disciplina⁸ veluti templum Athenas habuere. Ante Deucaliōnis tempora regem habuere Cecrōpem; quem, ut omnis antiquitas fabulosa est, biformem tradidere, quia primus marem feminae matrimonio junxit. Huic successit Cranāus, cuius filia Atthis regioni nomen dedit. Post hunc Amphictyon regnavit, qui primus Minervae urbem sacravit, et nomen civitati Athenas dedit. Hujus temporibus aquarum illuvies majorem partem populorum Graeciae absumsit. Superfuerunt,⁹ quos refugia montium receperunt, aut¹⁰ ad regem Thessaliae¹¹ Deucalionem ratibus evecti sunt, a quo propterea genus humanum conditum dicitur. Per ordinem deinde successionis regnum ad Erechtheum descendit, sub quo frumenti satio apud Eleusin a Triptolemo reperta est. In hujus munieris honorem noctes initiorum¹² sacratae.¹³ Tenuit et Aegeus, Thesei pater, Athenis regnum. Post Aegeum Theseus,¹⁴ ac deinceps Thesei filius, Demophoon, qui auxilium Graecis adversus Trojanos¹⁵ tulit, regnum possedit.

2. Codrus se pro patria devovet. (Just. II. 6.)

Erant inter Athenienses et Dorienses¹⁶ veteres offensae, quas vindicaturi bello Dorienses, de eventu proelii oracula consuluerunt. Responsum superiores¹⁷ fore, ni regem Atheniensium occidissent. Itaque quum ventum esset in bellum, militibus ante omnia custodia¹⁸ regis praecipitur. Atheniensibus eo tempore rex Codrus erat; qui et responso Dei, et praeceptis hostium cognitis, permutato¹⁹ regis habitu, pannosus, sarmentaque gerens, castra hostium ingreditur; ibique in turba militum, quum unum falce sponte vulnerasset, occiditur. Cognito regis corpore, Dorienses sine proelio discedunt. Atque ita Athenienses virtute ducis, pro salute patriae, morti se offerentes, bello liberantur.

3. Solon civitati Athenarum leges scribit. (Just. II. 7.)

Post Codrum nemo Athenis regnavit;¹ quod memoriae nominis ejus tributum est. Administratio reipublicae annuis magistratibus¹ permissa. Sed civitati nullae tunc leges² erant, quia libido regum pro legibus habebatur. Legitur itaque Solon, vir justitiae insignis, qui velut novam civitatem legibus condéret. Quo munere ita functus est, ut et apud plebem et optimates, diuturnis antea dissidiis agitatos, parem iniret gratiam. Hujus viri, inter multa egregia, illud quoque memorabile fuit. Inter Athenienses et Megarenses de Salamine insula, quam sibi uterque populus vindicabat, prope usque ad interitum dimicatum fuerat. Post multas clades acceptas, Athenienses legem tulerunt, ne quis illud bellum reparandum proponeret. Solon igitur quum opportunitatem quandam vidisset insulae vindicandae, dementiam simulat, habituque deformis,³ more vecordium, in publicum evolat; factoque concursu hominum, versibus suadere populo coepit, quod vetabatur; omniumque animos ita inflammavit, ut extemplo bellum adversus Megarenses decerneretur, et devictis hostibus insula Atheniensium fieret.

4. Pisistratus tyrannidem per dolum occupat. (Just. II. 8.)

Legibus civitati scriptis, Solon peregre proficiscitur. Dum abest, Pisistratus, nobilis adolescens, propter res in bello praeclare gestas populo carus, tyrannidem per dolum occupat. Quippe quum domi se verberibus affecisset, lacerato corpore in publicum progreditur. Advocata concione,⁴ vulnera populo ostendit; de crudelitate principum, a quibus haec se passum simulabat, queritur, credulamque multitudinem et lacrymis et oratione accedit, dum se optimatibus propter populi amorem invisum esse significat. Sic ad custodiam corporis sui satellitum auxilium obtinet; per quos occupata tyrannide, per annos triginta tres, inter varias rerum vicissitudines, regnavit.

5. Hippias, Pisistrati filius, patria pellitur. Bellum Persicum primum. (Just. II. 9. Corn. Nep. Vita Milt. c. 4, 5.)

Post ejus mortem Hipparchus et Hippias in paternum imperium successerunt. Qui quum per aliquot annos eadem, qua patre, clementia regnassent, Hipparchus ab Harmadio et Aristogitone, ob injuriam quandam acceptam in tyrannos incensis, interficitur. Quorum virorum virtute quum admonita civitas libertatis esset, tandem Hippias regno pulsus in exsilium agitur, et in Persiam profectus, Dario, Atheniensibus bellum illaturo, ducem se adversus patriam offert. Igitur Athenienses, nuntio de Persarum adventu accepto, auxilium a Lacedaemoniis petiverunt. Quos ubi vidérunt religione¹ retineri, quominus statim auxilium ferrent, non exspectata eorum ope, instructis decem millibus civium, et Plataeensibus auxiliaribus mille, in campos Marathonios² in proelium egrediuntur. Miltiades erat unus ducum exercitus, ejusque potissimum auctoritate impulsi Athenienses copias ex urbe eduxerunt, locoque idoneo castra fecerunt. Deinde postero die sub montis radicibus acies instruitur. Datis, Persarum dux, etsi non aequum locum³ videbat suis, tamen, fretus numero copiarum suarum, configere cupiebat. Itaque in aciem peditum centum, equitum decem millia produxit, proeliumque commisit. Tanta vero Atheniensibus in pugnam euntibus alacritas animorum fuit, ut quum mille passus inter duas acies essent, citato cursu ad hostem venirent. Nec audaciae eventus⁴ defuit. Pugnatum est enim tanta virtute, ut Persae perterriti non castra sed naves peterent, ex quibus multae suppressae,⁵ multae captae sunt.

6. Virtutis in illo proelio documenta. (Just. II. 9.)

In illo proelio tanta virtus singulorum fuit, ut cuius laus prima esset, difficile dictu videretur. Inter caeteros tamen Themistoclis adolescentis gloria emicuit. Cynegori quoque, militis Athenensis, gloria multorum scriptorum laudibus celebrata est. Qui post innumeratas caedes, quum fugientes hostes ad naves egisset, onustam navem dextra manu tenuit, nec prius dimisit, quam manum amitteret, tum quoque amputata dextra, navem sinistra comprehendit; quam et ipsam quum amisisset, ad postremum morsu navem retinuit. Persae magnam vim hominum eo proelio amiserunt. Cecidit et Hippias, tyrannus Athenensis, auctor et concitor ejus belli, diis patriae ultiорibus poenas repetentibus.

7. Honor Miltiadi tributus. (Corn. Nep. Vita Milt. c. 6.)

Jam non alienum videtur, hujus victoriae quale praemium⁶ Miltiadi sit tributum docere. Huic viro, qui Athenas totamque Graeciam liberarat, hic honor tributus est, ut, quum in porticu, quae Poecile⁷ vocatur, pugna depingeretur Marathonia, in decem praetorum⁸ numero prima ejus imago poneretur, milites hortantis⁹ proeliumque committentis. Antiquissimis enim temporibus rari fuerunt honores et tenues,¹⁰ et propter id ipsum gloriosi. Idem populus postquam corruptus est, trecentas statuas Demetrio Phalereo¹ decrevit.

8. Bellum Persicum alterum, (Corn. Nep. Vita Them. c. 2. 3.)

Paulo post Xerxes majoribus viribus Graeciam aggressus est. Quo adventante quum oraculum Delphicum consuluisserunt,² responsum est, moenibus ligneis se tuerentur. Quod responsum quo valeret,³ quum intelligeret nemo, Themistocles persuasit civibus, ut in naves se suaque conferrent; eum enim significari murum ligneum. Quo consilio probato navium augent numerum, suaque omnia, quae moveri poterant, conjuges liberosque partim Salamina,⁴ partim Troezēna⁵ asportant; arcem⁶ sacerdotibus paucisque majoribus natu ad sacra procuranda tradunt, reliquum oppidum⁷ relinquunt. Communis autem Graeciae classis trecentarum navium, quarum ducentae erant Atheniensium, primum apud Artemisium⁸ inter Euboeam⁹ continentemque terram cum classiariis regiis¹⁰ confixit. Angustias enim Themistocles quaerebat, ne multitudine regiarum navium circumiretur. Hinc etsi pari proelio¹¹ discesserant, tamen eodem loco non sunt ausi manere, quod erat periculum, ne, si pars navium adversariorum Euboeam superasset, ancipiti premerentur periculo.¹² Quo factum est, ut ab Artemisio discederent, et adversum Athenas apud Salamina classem suam constituerent.

9. Xerxes Themistoclis consilio ad Salamina superatur.
(Corn. Nep. Vit. Them. c. 4. Justin. II. 12.)

At Xerxes, Thermopylis expugnatis, protinus accessit Urbem, eamque nullis defendantibus, imperfectis sacerdotibus, quos in arce invenerat, incendio delevit; cuius flamma perterriti classiarii, quum manere non auderent, et plurimi hortarentur, ut domos suas discederent, moenibusque se defendenterent, Themistocles unus restitit, et universos quidem hosti pares esse posse aiebat, dispersos autem perituros. Quum vero socios minus, quam vellet, moveret, noctu de servis suis, quem habuit fidelissimum,¹³ ad regem misit, ut ei nuntiaret suis verbis,¹⁴ Graecos in eo esse, ut fugerent. Qui si discessissent, majore cum labore et longinquiore tempore¹⁵ bellum confecturum,¹⁶ quum singulos consecrari cogeretur; quos si statim aggrederetur, brevi universos oppressurum.¹⁷ Hoc eo valebat,¹⁸ ut ingratii ad depugnandum omnes cogerentur. Hac re audita, barbarus,¹⁹ nihil doli subesse ratus, postridie alienis-simo¹ sibi loco, contra opportunissimo hostibus, adeo angusto mari conflixit, ut ejus multitudo navium explicari non posset. Victus ergo est magis consilio Themistoclis, quam armis Graeciae.

10. Xerxes in Asiam revertitur. (C N. I c. 5.)

Hic etsi male rem gesserat, tamen tantas habebat reliquias copiarum, ut etiam cum his Graeciam opprimere posset. Ne igitur bellare perseveraret, Themistocles eum certiores fecit, id agi, ut pons, quem ille in Hellesponto fecerat, dissolvetur, quo ipse reditu in Asiam excluderetur. Idque ei persuasit. Celerrimo itaque itinere in Asiam reversus est, seque a Themistocle non superatum, sed conservatum judicavit. Sic unius viri prudentia Graecia liberata est.

11. Reliquiae Persarum delentur. (Justin. II. 14. Corn. Nep. Vit. Them. c. 6.)

Quum tamen pars exercitus sub duce Mardonio, regis genero, in Graecia esset relicta, quae bellum continuaret, hae quoque copiae superatae sunt apud Plataeas, urbem Boeotiae; eodemque forte die in Asia ad montem Mycalen Persae a Graecis pugna superati sunt. Jamque omnibus pacatis, Athenienses belli damna reparare coeperunt. Quumque Phalerico portu neque magno neque bono uterentur,² Themistoclis consilio triplex Piraei³ portus constitutus est, isque moenibus circumdatus, ut ipsam urbem dignitate⁴ aequipararet, utilitate superaret. Idem muros Athenarum restituit, Lacedaemoniis vetantibus, non sine periculo suo.

12. Pausanias, dux Spartanorum, proditionem meditatur.
(Just. II. 15. Corn. N. Vita Paus. c. 2.)

Post haec Lacedaemonii, ut bis illatum Graeciae bellum ulciscerentur, ultro⁵ fines Persarum depopulantur. Cui bello quum praefecissent Pausaniam, hic superbia elatus, maiores res coepit appetere. Nam quum, Byzantio⁶ expugnato, cepisset complures Persaram nobiles, atque in his nonnullos regis propinquos, hos clam Xerxi remisit, simulans, eos ex vinculis publicis effugisse; et cum his Gongylum Eretrensem,⁷ qui litteras regi redderet, in quibus haec scripta fuisse tradunt; *Pausanias, dux Sparta, quos Byzantii ceperat, postquam propinquos tuos cognovit, tibi muneri misit;*⁸ seque tecum affinitate conjungi cupit. Quare, si tibi videtur, des ei filiam tuam nuptum. Id si feceris, et Spartam et caeteram Graeciam sub tuam potestatem se redacturum pollicetur. His de rebus si quid geri volueris, certum¹ hominem ad eum mittas face² cum quo colloquatur.

13. Pausanias capit is damnatur. (Corn. Nep. Vita Paus. c. 2. 3. 5.)

Rex tot hominum sibi necessariorum salute³ magnopere galvisus, confestim Artabazum cum epistola ad Pausaniam mittit, in qua eum collaudat,⁴ ac petit, ne cui rei parcat ad ea perficienda, quae polliceretur. Si fecerit, nullius rei a se repulsam esse laturum.⁵ Hujus Pausanias voluntate cognita, alacrior ad rem gerendam factus, in suspicionem cecidit Lacedaemoniorum, nec multo post prodictionis accusatus damnatur. Mortem ut fugeret, in aedem Minervae, quae Chalcioecus⁶ vocatur, se recepit. Hinc ne exire posset, statim Ephori⁷ valvas ejus aedis lapidibus obstruxerunt, tectumque sunt demoliti, ut facilius sub divo interiret.⁸ Dicunt illo tempore matrem Pausaniae adhuc vixisse, eamque, postquam de scelere filii comperisset, in primis lapidem ad introitum aedis attulisse. Sic Pausanias magnam bell i glori am turpi morte commaculavit. Hic quum semianimis de templo elatus esset, confestim animam efflavit.

14. Themistocles in Asiam confugit. (Corn. Nep. Vit. Them. c. 8. 9.)

Paulo ante Themistocles testarum suffragiis⁹ e civitate ejetus, Argos¹⁰ habitatum concessit. Hic quum propter multas virtutes magna cum dignitate viveret, Lacedaemonii legatos Athenas miserunt, qui eum absentem accusarent, quod societatem cum rege Persarum ad Graeciam opprimendam fecisset.¹¹ Hoc crimine absens prodictionis est damnatus. Id ut audivit, quod non satis tutum se Argis videbat, in Asiam confugit. Quo quum venisset epistolam misit ad regem Arta xerxem his verbis; Themistocles veni ad te, qui plurima mala omnium Graecorum in domum tuam¹² intuli, quum mihi necesse esset patriam meam defendere. Idem multo plura bona feci, postquam Xerxes in periculo esse coepit. Nunc autem ad te confugi, exagitatus a cuncta Graecia, tuam petens amicitiam; quam si ero adeptus, non minus me bonum amicum habebis, quam fortē inimicum ille expertus est.¹³ Rogo autem, ut de his rebus,¹⁴ de quibus tecum colloqui volo, annum mihi temporis¹⁵ des, eoque transacto me ad te venire patiaris.

15. Themistocles a rege Persiae benigne exceptus, Magnesiae moritur. (Corn. Nep. Vit. Them. c. 10.)

Ad haec rex, tantam animi magnitudinem¹ admiratus, cupiensque talem virum sibi conciliari, benigne respondit. Themistocles autem omne illud tempus² litteris sermonique Persarum dedit; quibus adeo eruditus est, ut multo commodius³ dicatur apud regem verba fecisse, quam hi poterant, qui in Perside erant nati. Hic quum multa esset regi pollicitus, magnis muneribus ab Artaxerxe donatus in Asiam⁴ rediit, domiciliumque Magnesiae⁵ sibi constituit. In hac urbe morbo obiisse dicitur. Fama tamen fuit, eum venenum sumsisse, quum se, quae Regi de Graecia opprimenda pollicitus esset, praestare posse desperaret.⁶ Sunt, qui narrent, ossa ejus ab amicis clam in Attica sepulta esse, quoniam legibus non concederetur, quod proditionis esset damnatus.

16. Cimon insulas Atheniensibus subjicit. (Corn. Nep. Vita Cim. c. 2.)

Dum illa gerebantur, Athenienses maris imperium sine aemulo exercebant. Hoc et Themistoclis prudentiae et Cimonis virtuti debebant. Hic vir post victoriam apud Mycalen de Persis reportatam, quum magna praeda potitus domum reverteretur, quod jam nonnullae insulae propter acerbitatem⁷ imperii ab Atheniensibus defecerant, bene animatas confirmavit,⁸ alienatas⁹ ad officium redire coëgit. Scyrum,¹⁰ quod contumacius se gesserat, vacuefecit, sessores veteres urbe insulaque ejecit, agros civibus¹¹ divisit. Thasios,¹² opulentia fretos, suo adventu fregit. His manubiis¹³ Athenarum arx, qua¹⁴ ad meridiem vergit, est ornata.

17. Ostracismo patria pulsus, mox revocatur. (Ibid. c. 3.)

Quibus rebus quum unus in civitate maxime floreret, incidit in eandem invidiam, quam¹⁵ Themistocles; nam testarum suffragiis decem annorum exsilio multatus est. Cujus facti celerius Athenienses, quam ipsum, poenituit. Nam quum ille forti animo invidiae ingratorum civium cessisset, bellumque Lacedaemonii Atheniensibus indixissent, confestim notae ejus virtutis desiderium¹⁶ consecutum est. Itaque post annum quintum, quam expulsus erat,¹⁷ in patriam revocatus est. Ille, quod hospitio Lacedaemoniorum utebatur, satius¹⁸ existimans, contendere¹⁹ Lacedaemonem, sua sponte²⁰ profectus, pacem inter duas potentissimas civitates conciliavit. Post, neque ita multo, Cyprum cum ducentis navibus imperator missus, quum majorem partem ejus insulae devicisset, in morbum implicitus, in oppido Citio est mortuus.

18. Bellum Peloponnesiacum. Pericles. (Just. III. 2. et 7.)

Quum Athenienses maris imperium non sine superbia sociorumque injuria exercent, multique, gravi eorum jugo fatigati, alios, qui se tuerentur, circumspicerent; tota Graecia, ducibus Lacedaemoniis, aemulae urbi magnitudinem et incrementa invidentibus,¹ in duas partes divisa, velut in viscera sua arma convertit. Hoc bellum, quo nullum aliud florentes Graeciae res gravius afflixit, saepius susceptum et depositum est.² Initio Spartani fines Atticae populabantur, hostesque ad proelium provocabant. Sed Athenienses, Periclis consilio, ultionis tempus exspectantes, intra moenia se continebant. Deinde, paucis diebus interjectis, naves condescendunt, et, nihil sentientibus Lacedaemoniis, totam Laconiam depraedantur. Clara quidem haec Periclis expeditio est habita; sed multo clarior privati patrimonii contemtus fuit. Nam in populatione caeterorum agrorum, Periclis agros hostes intactos reliquerant, ut aut invidiam ei apud cives concitarent, aut in proditionis suspicionem adducerent. Quod intelligens, Pericles agros reipublicae dono dedit. Post haec aliquot diebus interjectis, naval i proelio³ dimicatum est. Victi Lacedaemonii fugerunt. Post plures annos,⁴ fessi malis, pacem in annos quinquaginta fecere, quam nonnisi sex annos servaverunt. Nam inducias, quos proprio nomine pepigerant, ex sociorum persona⁵ rumpebant. Hinc bellum in Siciliam translatum est.

19. Atheniensium in Siciliam expeditio. (Just. IV. 3, 4.)

Quum enim jam antea, bello inter Catinienses⁶ et Syracusanos exorto, Athenienses Catiniensibus opem tulissent, tempore interjecto, quum pacis conditiones a Syracusanis non servarentur, illi denuo legatos Athenas miserunt, qui sordida veste, capillo barbaque promissa, concessionem adeunt, populumque lacrymis movent, ut, quamvis Peloponnesiaco bello districtus, auxilium illis mittendum censeret. Igitur classis ingens decernitur; creantur duces Nicias, Alcibiades et Lamachus; tantaeque vires in Siciliam effusae sunt, ut iis ipsis terrori essent, quibus auxilio venerant.

20. Atheniensium res in Sicilia gestae. (Just. IV. 4.)

Brevi post, quum Alcibiades, ob causas mox indicandas, revocatus esset, Nicias et Lamachus duo proelia pedestria secundo Marte¹ pugnant: munitionibusque urbi Syracusarum circumdatis, incolas etiam marinis commeatibus intercludunt. Quibus rebus fracti Syracusani, auxilium a Lacedaemoniis petiverunt. Ab his mittitur Gylippus, qui, quum in itinere de belli jam inclinato statu² audivisset, auxiliis partim in Graecia, partim in Sicilia contractis, opportuna bello loca occupat. Duobus deinde proeliis victus, tertio hostes in fugam conjecit, sociosque obsidione liberavit. In eo proelio Lamachus fortiter pugnans occisus est.

21. Athenienses saepius vici iungentem cladem accipiunt.
(Justin. IV. c. 4 et 5.)

Sed quum Athenienses, terrestri bello superati, portum Syracusarum tenerent, Gylippus classem Lacedaemonem cum auxiliis arcessit. Quo cognito³ et ipsi Athenienses in locum amissi ducis Demosthenem et Eurymedonta cum supplemento copiarum mittunt, et quasi Graeciae bellum⁴ in Siciliam translatum esset, ita ex utraque parte⁵ summis viribus dimicabatur. Prima igitur congressione navalis certaminis Athenienses vincuntur; castra quoque cum omni publica ac privata pecunia amittunt. Inter haec mala quum etiam terrestri proelio vici essent, Demosthenes censere coepit, ut abirent Sicilia, dum res quamvis afflictæ, nondum tamen perditæ essent. Nicias autem seu pudore male actae rei, seu impellente fato manere contendit. Reparatur igitur navale bellum; sed inscritiā ducum, qui Syracusanos, inter angustias maris⁶ facile se tuentes, temere aggressi fuerant, Atheniensium copiae iterum vincuntur. Eurymedon dux in prima acie fortissime dimicans, primus cadit; triginta naves, quibus praefuerat, incenduntur; Demosthenes et Nicias autem cum reliquiis exercitus terrestri itinere fugiunt. Ab his relicta centum triginta naves Gylippus invasit; ipsos deinde insequitur; fugientes partim capit, partim caedit. Demosthenes, amissso exercitu, a captivitate gladio et voluntaria morte se vindicat: Nicias autem cladem suorum auxit dedecore captivitatis.

22. Alcibiades capit is damnatus Spartam se confert. (Just. V. 1. Corn. Nep. Vita Alcib. c. 4.)

Dum haec in Sicilia per biennium geruntur, belli illius concitor et dux Alcibiades absens Athenis insimulatur mysteria Cereris violasse. Revocatus a bello ad causam dicendam, multa secum reputans de immoderata civium suorum licentia crudelitateque erga nobiles, utilissimum ratus impendentem evitare tempestatem, fugit, et primum Elidem,¹ deinde Thebas² se contulit. Postquam autem se capit is damnatum, bonis publicatis, audivit, et id, quod usu venerat, Eumolpidas³ sacerdotes a populo coactos, ut se devoverent, ejusque devotionis exemplum, in pila lapidea incisum, esse positum in publico, Lacedaemonem demigravit. Ibi reges impulit, ut Atheniensibus, adversa fortuna in Sicilia turbatis, bellum inferrent. Ejus quoque consilio Lacedaemonii cum Persarum rege amicitiam fecerunt, deinde Deceliam⁴ in finibus Atticae munierunt, praesidioque perpetuo in obsidione quasi Athenas tenuerunt.

23. Persarum sibi favorem conciliat. (Justin. V. 2. Corn. Nep. I. c. 5.)

Non contentus autem patriae hostes consilio adjuvisse, Alcibiades cum quinque navibus in Asiam contendit, et tributarias Atheniensium civitates auctoritate nominis sui ad defectiōnem compellit. Sed apud Lacedaemonios Alcibiadis virtus plus invidiae quam gratiae contraxit. Nam quum acerri-mi viri praestantem prudentiam in omnibus rebus cognosce-rent, pertimuerunt, ne quando patriae caritate ductus ab ipsis descisceret, et cum suis in gratiam rediret. Itaque tempus⁵ ejus interficiendi quaerere instituerunt. Qua re cognita Alci-biades ad Tissaphernem praefectum regis Darii se contulit.
Cujus quum in intimam amicitiam pervenisset, ei persuadet, ne nimis enixe Lacedaemonios juvaret. Nam dissidentibus Graecis regem Persarum arbitrum pacis ac belli fore.⁶ Domesticis itaque bellis Graeciam atterendam esse, ne externis vacet;⁷ exaequandasque vires partium et inferiores auxilio le-vandos. Grata oratio Tissapherni fuit. Itaque Lacedaemo-niis commeatus navesque maligne⁸ praebere coepit.

24. Cum Atheniensibus in gratiam reddit. (Just. V. 3.)

Per idem tempus Alcibiades cum duce exercitus Atheni-ensium, qui apud Samum⁹ morabatur, per internuntios coltoquitur, polliceturque his amicitiam regis, si respublica a populo ad senatum translata foret; sperans fore, ut aut concordante civitate dux belli ab omnibus legeretur, aut discordia inter ordines facta, ab altera parte in auxilium vocaretur. Itaque, permittente populo, imperium ad senatum transferatur.¹ Qui quum crudeliter in plebem consuleret, ab exercitu Alcibiades exsul revocatur, duxque classi constituitur. Hac denuntiatione territi senatores, primo urbem prodere Lacedaemoniis tentavere; dein, quum id nequissent, in exsilium profecti sunt. Itaque Alcibiades, patria ab intestino malo liberata,² summa cura classem instruit, atque, ita in bellum adversus Lacedaemonios perrexit.

25. Lacedaemoniorum vires frangit. (Corn. Nep. Vita Alcib. c. 5.)

Hac expeditione tanta subito rerum commutatio facta est, ut Lacedaemonii, qui paulo ante victores viguerant,³ perterriti pacem peterent; victi enim erant quinque terrestribus proeliis, tribus navalibus,⁴ in quibus trecentas triremes amiserant, quae captae in hostium venerant potestatem. Alcibiades simul cum collegis receperat Ioniam, Hellespontum, multas praeterea urbes Graecas, quae in ora sitae sunt Asiae: quarum expugnaverant quam plurimas, in his Byzantium, neque minus multas consilio⁵ ad amicitiam adjunxerant, quod in captos benevolentia fuerant usi. Inde praeda onusti, locupletato exercitu, maximis rebus gestis, Athenas venerunt.

26. Athenas redit. (Corn. Nep. I. c. 6.)

Ad hunc redeuntis exercitus triumphum effusa omnis multitudine obviam procedit, et universos quidem milites, praecipue tamen Alcibiadem mirantur. Sic enim populo erat persuasum, omnes et adversas superiores⁶ et praesentes secundas res accidisse ejus opera. Itaque et cladem in Sicilia et Lacedaemoniorum victorias suaे culpae tribuebant, quod tales virum e civitate expulissent. Hic ut navi egressus est, illum unum omnes prosequabantur, et id quod nunquam antea usu venerat, nisi Olympiae victoribus, coronis aureis aeneisque vulgo donabatur.⁷ Postquam in Urbem venerat, concione advocata, sic verba fecit, ut nemo tam ferus esset, quin ejus casum lacrymaret, inimicumque his se ostenderet, quorum opera patria pulsus fuerat. Restituta igitur huic sunt publice bona; et iidem illi sacerdotes, qui eum devoverant, rursus resacrare⁸ sunt coacti.

27. Lysandro duce res Lacedaemoniorum reparantur.
 (Justin. V. 5.)

Dum haec Athenis geruntur, a Lacedaemoniis Lysander classi belloque praeficitur; et in locum Tissaphernis Darius rex Persarum, filium suum, Cyrum, Ioniae Lydiaeque praeposuit, qui Lacedaemonios auxiliis opibusque ad spem fortunae prioris erexit. Aucti igitur viribus Alcibiadem cum centum navibus in Asiam profectum, dum agros populatur,¹ repentino adventu oppressere. Magnae et inopinatae cladis nuntius quum Athenas venisset, tanta Atheniensium desperatio fuit, ut statim Cononem in Alcibiadis locum mitterent, ducis se fraude magis quam belli fortuna victos arbitrantes. Alcibiades autem impetum multitudinis veritus, denuo in voluntarium exsilium proficiscitur.

28. Athenienses magno proelio apud Aegospotamos superantur.
 (Just. V. 6, 7. Corn. Nep. Vita Alcib. c. 8.)

Itaque Conon Alcibiadi suffectus classem maxima industria adornat; sed navibus exercitus deerat. Nam ut numerus militum expleretur, senes et pueri arma capere coacti sunt. Pluribus itaque proeliis adverso Marte pugnatis, tandem Lysander, Spartanorum dux, Atheniensium exercitum, qui, navibus relictis, in terram praedatum exierat, ad Aegos flumen² oppressit, eoque impetu totum bellum finivit. Hæc enim clade res Atheniensium penitus inclinata est.³ Tributariae civitates, quas metus in fide retinuerat, Lysandro se tradiderunt, nec aliud ditionis Atheniensium⁴ relictum est praeter urbem ipsam.

29. Atheniensium consternatio. (Just. V. 7.)

Quae quum Athenis nuntiata essent, ingens omnium consternatio fuit; viri mulieresque relictis domibus, per urbem currere pavidi; alias alium sciscitari; auctorem nuntii requirere.⁵ In foro deinde coēunt, noctemque ibi inter timorem, questus, et lacrymas transigunt. Alii fratres, aut filios, aut parentes deflent, et cum privatis casibus querelam publicam⁶ missent: Jam se ipsos, jam ipsam patriam peritoram, miserorremque superstitem, quam amissorum fortunam esse. Nullam nunc classem superesse, in quam confugiant; nullum exercitum, cuius virtute servari possint.

30. Athenae se Lysandro tradunt. (Justin. V. 8. Corn.
Nep. Vita Lys. c. 1.)

Dum haec Athenis fiunt, Lysander Graeciae civitates in Lacedaemoniorum potestatem redigit, et undique iis, qui Atheniensium rebus studerent, ejectis, decem in unaquaque civitate delegit viros,¹ quibus summum imperium potestatemque omnium rerum commisit. His actis, Athenas navigavit, misseramque civitatem, obsidione circumdatam, fame urget. Sciebat enim, neque ex advectis copiis multum superesse, et ne novae advehi possent, providebat. Quibus malis Athenienses fracti, multis fame et ferro amissis, pacem petivere: quae dari deberet, diu inter Spartanos sociosque deliberatum est. Quum nonnulli nomen Atheniensium² delendum, urbemque incendio consumendam censerent, Spartani negarunt, se pasuros,³ ut ex duobus Graeciae oculis⁴ alter erueretur; pacemque Atheniensibus sunt polliciti, si longi muri brachia⁵ dejicerent, navesque, quae reliquae forent, traderent; denique si respublica triginta rectores,⁶ ex civibus diligendos, acciperet.

31. Triginta viri tyrannidem Athenis exercent. (Justin V. 8, 9.)

His legibus acceptis, tota civitas subito mutari⁷ coepit: Triginta rectores reipublicae constituuntur, Lacedaemonii et Lysandro dediti, qui brevi tyrannidem in cives exercere coeperunt. Quippe a principio tria millia satellitum sibi statuunt; et quasi hic numerus ad continendam civitatem non sufficeret, septingentos milites a victoribus⁸ accipiunt. His copiis instructi exhaustam urbem caedibus et rapinis fatigant:⁹ quumque hoc uni ex numero suo Therameni¹⁰ displicere didicissent, ipsum quoque ad terrorem omnium interficiunt. Quo factum est, ut multi, urbe relicta, exsili i miserias, quam domesticum terrorem¹¹ pati mallent.

32. Alcibiades interficitur. (Corn. Nep. Vita Alcib. 9, 10.)

Horum tyrannorum consiliis etiam Alcibiades perit. Qui quum castellum in Phrygia¹² habitaret, ubi liberandae patriae agitabat consilia, Critias¹³ caeterique tyranni Atheniensium certos homines ad Lysandrum in Asiam miserunt, qui eum certiores facerent, nisi Alcibiadem sustulisset, nihil earum rerum ratum¹⁴ fore, quas ipse Athenis constituisset. Quare si suas res gestas manere vellet, illum persequeretur. Ly-sander, his verbis commotus, Pharnabazo, satrapae, persuasit, ut homines mitteret, qui, vicinitati,¹ in qua Alcibiades erat, negotium darent,² ut eum interficerent.³ Illi, quum eum ferro aggredi non auderent, noctu ligna contulerunt circa casam eam, in qua, quiescebat, eamque succenderunt. Ille autem ut sonitu flammae est excitatus, quum ei gladius esset subductus, familiaris sui subalare telum⁴ arripuit. Namque erat cum eo quidam ex Arcadia hospes, qui nunquam discedere voluerat. Hunc sequi se jubet, et id, quod in praesentia vestimentorum⁵ fuit, arripuit. His in ignem ejectis flammae vim⁶ transiit. Quem ut barbari incendium effugisse viderunt, tellis eminus missis interfecerunt, caputque ejus ad Pharnabazum reculerunt. At mulier, quae cum eo vivere consuerat, muliebri sua veste contectum cremavit. Sic Alcibiades annos circiter quadraginta natus diem supremum.

33. Thrasybulus exsul patriae liberandae capit consilium.
(Corn. Nep. Vita Thrasyb. c. 2.)

Inter cives, qui tyrannorum furorem effugerant, Thrasybulus erat, qui, ad spem liberandae patriae erectus,⁷ adunatis⁸ triginta exsilibus, Phylen, quod est castellum in finibus Atticae,⁹ occupavit. Hoc initium fuit salutis Atheniensium. Hinc viribus paulatim auctis, in Piraeum¹⁰ transiit, Munychiamque¹¹ munivit. Hanc bis tyranni oppugnare sunt adorti, ab eaque turpiter repulsi protinus in urbem, armis impedimentisque amissis, refugerunt. Usus est Thrasybulus non minus prudentia quam fortitudine; nam cedentes violari vetuit; cives enim civibus parcere aequum censebat; neque quisquam est vulneratus, nisi qui prior impugnare voluit; neminem jacentem¹² veste spoliavit; nihil attigit praeter arma, quaeque ad victimum pertinebant. In secundo proelio cecidit Critias, triginta tyrannorum acerrimus.

34. Exsules in patriam redeunt. (Corn. Nep. I. c. 3.)

Dum haec geruntur, Pausanias, rex Lacedaemoniorum, tyrannis auxilio missus est. Is Lysandro infensus, inter Thrasybulum et eos, qui urbem tenebant,¹³ fecit pacem, his conditionibus, ne qui praeter triginta tyrannos, et decem, qui postea praetores creati, eadem crudelitate in cives grassati erant, afficerentur exsilio, neve bona publicarentur; reipublicae procuratio populo redderetur.¹⁴ Praeclarum hoc quoque Thrasybuli, quod reconciliata pace, quum plurimum in civitate posset, legem tulit: ne quis anteactarum rerum accusaretur, ne ve multaretur; eamque illi legem Oblivionis vocant.

35. Athenienses se desidiae tradunt. (Just. VI. 9.)

Non ita multo post per victoriam,¹ a Conone de Lacedaemoniorum classe reportatam, fractae res Atheniensium non nihil reparatae sunt; nec tamen pristinam inter Graecos auctoritatem potuerunt recipere. Magis magisque in torporem et segnitiem resoluti, non ut olim in classem et exercitum, sed in dies festos apparatusque ludorum reditus publicos effundebant, frequentiusque in theatris quam in castris versabantur. Tum vectigal publicum quo milites et remiges alebantur, inter urbanum populum dividi coeptum. Quibus rebus effectum est, ut, Graecis otio torpescientibus, obscurum antea Macedonum nomenemergeret; et Philippus, obses triennio Thebis habitus in Epaminondae domo, hujus praestantissimi viri et Pelopidae virtutibus eruditus Graeciae servitus jugum imponeret.

D. DE REBUS LACEDAEMONIORUM.

1. Lycurgus Spartanorum legislator. (Just. III. 2.)

Lacedaemoniorum respublica auctoritatem, qua inter Graecos pollebat, et incrementa debebat legibus et disciplinae Lycurgi. Qui vir quum fratri suo, Polydectae, regi Spartanorum,² successisset, regnumque sibi vindicare potuisset, Charilao, filio ejus, qui natus posthumus fuerat, quum ad aetatem adultam pervenisset, regnum, summa fide restituit; ut intellicherent omnes, quanto plus apud bonos pietatis jura, quam omnes opes valerent. Jam probitate ejus perspecta, populus et principes, diuturnis inter se dissidiis agitati, conjunctis preceibus eum permoverunt, ut civitati leges scriberet. Quod difficillimo negotio suscepto, rem ita perfecit, ut, dum Lycurgi leges florebant, Spartanorum civitas principem locum inter Graecos obtineret.

2. Quaedam Lycurgi leges. (Just. III. 2, 3.)

Ac primum quidem populum in obsequia principum, principes ad justitiam imperiorum formavit.⁴ Parsimoniam omnibus suasit. Emi singula non pecunia, sed compensatione mercium¹ jussit. Auri argenteique usum, velut omnium sclerum materiam, sustulit. Fundos omnium aequaliter inter omnes divisit. Convivari omnes publice jussit, ne cuius divitiae vel luxuria in occulto essent. Pueros puberes in agrum deduci praecepit, ut primos annos non in luxuria,² sed in opere et laboribus agerent. Virgines sine dote nubere jussit, ut uxores eligerentur, non pecuniae. Maximum honorem senum esse voluit. Haec quoniam primo, solutis antea moribus, dura videbat esse, auctorem eorum Apollinem Delphicum fingit.³ Dein, ut aeternitatem legibus suis daret, jurejurando obligat civitatem, nihil eos de ejus legibus mutaturos, priusquam reverteretur, et simulat, se ad oraculum Delphicum proficisci, consulturum, quid addendum mutandumque, legibus videretur Deo. Proficiscitur autem Cretam,⁴ ibique perpetuum exsilium egit, abjicique in mare ossa sua moriens jussit, ne, reliquiis suis Lacedaemonem relatis, Spartani se religione jurisjurandi solutos arbitrarentur.

3. Bella Messenica. (Just. III. 4. 5.)

His igitur moribus ita brevi civitas convaluit, ut quum Messenii bellum intulissent, gravissima se exsecratione obstringerent, non, priusquam Messeniam⁵ expugnassent, reversuros. Sed decem annis in obsidione urbis frustra consumptis, Messenii tandem per insidias expugnantur. Deinde, quum per octoginta annos omnia servitutis mala perpessi essent, post longam poenarum⁶ patientiam bellum restaurant. Lacedaemonii autem tanto majore confidentia ad arma concurrunt, quod adversus servos dimicaturi videbantur. Res tamen aliter cecidit, atque ipsi speraverant. Nam tribus proeliis fusi, eo usque desperationis adducti sunt Spartani, ut ad supplementum exercitus servos suos manumitterent. Tum de belli eventu oraculo Delphis consulto, jubentur ducem belli ab Atheniensibus petere. Athenienses autem, quum hoc responsum cognovissent, in contemnum Spartanorum Tyrtaeum poëtam claudum pede miserunt. Qui quum venisset, carmina exercitui recitavit, in quibus virtutis hortamenta, damnorum solatia, belli consilia, conscriperat.⁷ Itaque tantum ardorem militibus injecit, ut omnes alaci animo mortem oppeterent. Raro unquam cruentius proelium fuit. Ad postremum tamen Victoria Lacedaemoniorum fuit.

4. Lacedaemonij principatum in Graecia exercent.

Insequenti aevo factum est, ut Lacedaemonii, ob insitam quandam populo nobilitatem et eximiam virtutis famam, principatum in Graecia obtinerent. Quare in Persicis bellis omnes Graeciae civitates, quae se adversus barbaros conjunxerant, eorum imperio parebant. Sed post illa tempora quum Athenienses maris sibi imperium vindicassent, ingens Lacedaemoniorum contra eos exarsit invidia. Hinc inimicitiae, mox bella exorta; unumque¹ gravissimum, quod, per viginti septem annos extractum, universae Graeciae vires vehementer afflxit. Victoria penes Spartanos fuit; qui post pugnam apud Aegos flumen, ubi Atheniensium robur fractum est, terra marique dominari cooperunt.

5. Lacedaemonii cum Persis in Asia bellum gerunt. (Just. VI. 1. Corn. Vit. Con. c. 2.)

Jam auctis viribus, Lacedaemonii totius Asiae imperium affectare coeperunt. Circa illud tempus, Conon, Atheniensis, qui, amissâ bello patriâ, in exsilio vivebat, contulit se ad Pharnabazum, Satrapen Ioniae et Lydiae, eundemque generum regis et propinquum, apud quem ut gratia valeret, multo labore perfecit. Nam quum Lacedaemonii in societate non manerent, quam cum Artaxerxe fecerant, Agesilaumque bellatum misissent in Asiam, maxime impulsi a Tissapherne, qui a regis amicitia defecerat, et cum Lacedaemoniis coierat societatem, hunc adversus² Pharnabazus habitus est imperator; re vera autem exercitui praefuit Conon, ejusque arbitrio omnia gesta sunt. Hic sumnum ducem Agesilaum multum impedivit, saepeque ejus consiliis obstitit, neque non fuit aperatum, si ille non fuisset, Agesilaum Asiam Tauro tenuis² regi fuisse erupturum.

6. Agesilai res gestae. (Corn. Nep. Vit. Ages. c. 4.)

Hic quum jam animo meditaretur proficisci in Persas et ipsum regem adoriri, nuntius ei domo venit Ephorûm jussu, bellum Athenienses et Boeotios³ indixisse Lacedaemoniis; quare venire ne dubitaret. Qui quum victori praeesset exercitui, maximamque haberet fiduciam regni Persarum potundi, gloriosius tamen duxit, si institutis patriae⁴ paruissest, quam si bello superasset Asiam. Quum jam haud ita longe abesset Peloponneso, obsistere ei conati sunt Athenienses et Boeoin caeterique eorum socii apud Coroneam; quos omnes gravi proelio vicit. Huic victoriae vel maxima fuit laus, quod, quum plerique se ex fuga in templum Minervae conjectissent, quaerereturque ex eo,¹ quid his fieri vellet, etsi aliquot vulnera acceperat eo proelio, et iratus videbatur omnibus, qui adversus eum arma tulerant, tamen antetulit irae religionem, et eos vetuit violari. Neque vero hoc solum in Graecia fecit, ut tempa Deorum sancta habere, sed etiam apud barbaros summa religione omnia simulacra arasque conservavit.

7. Graeciae civitates sese invicem debilitant. (Corn. Vita Agesil. c. 5. Vit. Conon. c. 4. Just. VI. 4.)

Post hoc proelium collatum est omne bellum circa Corinthum; ideoque Corinthium est appellatum. Hic quum una pugna decem millia hostium Agesilao duce cecidissent, eoque facto opes adversariorum debilitatae viderentur,² tantum abfuit ab insolentia gloriae,³ ut commiseraretur fortunam Graeciae, quod tam multi vitio adversariorum cecidissent; namque illa multitudine, si sana mens esset, Graeciam a Persis supplicium sumere potuisse.—Sed per idem tempus Conon, Persarum classi praefectus, Spartanorum vires in pugna navali apud Cnidum fregit. Victi Lacedaemonii fugam capessunt, multis navibus amissis, quas Conon partim ceperat, partim depressoerat. Hoc initium Atheniensibus resumenda potentiae fuit. Conon cum parte navium in patriam venit; muros a Lysandro dirutos reficiendos curat; pecuniaeque quinquaginta talenta, quae a Pharnabazo acceperat, civibus suis donat.

8. Bellum exoritur inter Thebanos et Lacedaemonios. (Justin. VI. 6.)

Dum haec geruntur, Artaxerxes, rex Persarum, legatos in Graeciam mittit, per quos jubet omnes ab armis discedere; qui aliter fecisset, eum se pro hoste habiturum: civitatibus libertatem suaque omnia restituit. Fessi tot bellis Graeci cupide paruerunt. Sed Lacedaemonii securis⁴ insidiantes, castellum Arcadum expugnant, occupatoque praesidium imponunt. Itaque armato instructoque exercitu Arcades, adhibitis in auxilium Thebanis, qui jam, Epaminondae virtute excitati, ad Graeciae imperium adspirabant, bellum repetunt. In eo proelio Archidamus,⁵ dux Lacedaemoniorum, vulneratur; qui quum caedi suos videret, per praeconom corpora interfectorum ad sepulturam poscit. Hoc est enim signum apud Graecos victoriae traditae. Qua confessione contenti Thebani signum parcendi dederunt.

9. Spartanorum virtus. Epaminondas in pugna ad Mantinea interficitur. (Just. VI. 7. Corn. Nep. Vita Epam. c. 9.)

Paulo post Thebani, Epaminonda duce, occupandae urbis hostium spem ceperunt. Igitur principio noctis¹ taciti Lacedaemonia profiscuntur, non tamen aggredi incautos potuerunt. Quippe senes, et caetera imbellis aetas, quum adventum hostium sensissent, in ipsis portarum angustiis armati occurrunt. Pauci igitur senes sustinuerunt aciem,² cui paulo ante universa juventus par esse non potuit. Agesilai autem adventu nuntiato, Thebani recessere. Nec bellum diu dilatum; siquidem Spartanorum juventus, senum virtute et gloria incensa, teneri non potuit, quin ex continentis³ acie decerneret. Quum Victoria⁴ Thebanorum esset, Epaminondas, dum non ducis tantum, verum etiam fortissimi militis officio fungitur, graviter vulneratur. Hujus casu aliquantum retardati sunt Boeotii: neque tamen prius pugna excesserunt, quam repugnantes profligabantur. At Epaminondas quum animadverteret, mortiferum se vulnus accepisse, simulque, si ferrum, quod ex hastili in corpore remanserat, extraxisset, animam statim emissurum, usque eo retinuit, quoad renuntiatum est, viciisse Boeotios. Id postquam audivit, satis, inquit, vixi; invictus enim morior. Tum, ferro extracto, confestim exanimatus est.

10. Epaminondae laus. Just. VI. 8. Corn. Nep. Vita Epam. c. 3.)

Una cum Epaminonda Thebanorum quoque vires cedebant; ut non tam illum amisisse, quam cum illo interiisse omnes viderentur. Nam neque hunc ante⁵ ducem ullum memorabile bellum gessere; nec postea virtutibus, sed cladibus insignes fuere; ut manifestum sit, patriae gloriam et natam et extinctam cum eo fuisse. Fuit autem incertum vir melior,⁶ an dux esset. Erat enim modestus, prudens, gravis, temporibus sapienter utens, peritus belli, fortis manu, animo maxiino, adeo veritatis diligens, ut ne joco quidem mentiretur. Paupertatem adeo facile perpessus est, ut de republica nihil nisi gloriam caperet; honores autem ita gessit, ut ornamentum non accipere,⁷ sed dare ipse honorisbus videretur. Jam litterarum studium et philosophiae doctrina tanta fuit, ut mirabile videretur, unde tam insignis militiae scientia homini inter litteras nato contigisset.

E. MACEDONUM IMPERIUM.

1. Macedoniae origines. (Justin. VII. 1.)

Macedonia ante, à nomine Emathionis regis, Emathia cognominata est. Hujus, sicut incrementa modica, ita termini perangusti fuere. Antiquissimis temporibus Carānus, ex Herculis progenie, responso oraculi sedes quaerere jussus, cum magna multitudine Graecorum in Emathiam venit, ibique urbem Edessam, oppidanis propter imbrum et nebulae magnitudinem non sentientibus, gregem caprarum, imbrem fugientium secutus, occupavit. Oraculum autem jusserset eum ducibus capris imperium quaerere. Hinc etiam postea in bellis, quae cum finitimis gerebat, capras ante signa habere solebat. Urbem quoque Edessam, ob memoriam muneris¹ Aegeas,² populum Aegeadas vocavit. Pulso deinde Mida, qui partem Macedoniae tenebat, aliisque regibus, in locum omnium solus successit, primusque adunatis gentibus variorum populorum, veluti unum corpus Macedoniae fecit.

2. Primi Macedoniae reges. (Just. VII. 2.)

Post hunc Perdicca regnavit, cuius et vita illustris et mortus postrema³ memorabilia fuere; siquidem senex moriens Argaeo filio monstravit locum, quo condi vellet, ibique non sua tantum, sed et succendentium sibi regum ossa poni jussit; praefatus,⁴ quoad ibi conditae posteriorum reliquiae forent, regnum in familia mansurum; creduntque extinctam in Alexandre stirpem,⁵ quod locum sepulturae mutaverit. Argaeus, moderate et cum amore popularium administrato regno, successorem filium Philippum reliquit: qui immatura morte raptus Aērōpum, parvulum admodum, instituit heredem. Illis temporibus Macedonibus assidua certamina cum Thracibus et Illyriis⁶ fuere. Tum quoque Illyrii, infantiam regis pupilli contemnentes, bello Macedonas aggrediuntur. Qui quum primo proelio pulsi essent, rege suo in cunis prolato et pone aciem posito, acrius certamen repetivere Conseruo itaque proelio magna caede Illyrios fudere, ostend eruntque hostibus suis, priore bello regem¹ Macedonibus, non virtutem defuisse.

3. Amynta rex. (Just. VII. 4.)

Multis annis interjectis, per ordinem successionis regnum ad Amyntam pervenit. Hic quoque rex insigni industria et omnibus imperatoriis virtutibus instructus fuit. Ex Eurydice tres filios sustulit,² Alexandrum, Perdiccam et Philippum, Alexandri Magni patrem, et filiam Euryōnen. Cum Illyriis et Olynthiis³ gravia bella gessit. Insidiis autem Eurydices uxoris, quae regnum adultero tradendum suscepserat, occupatus fuisse,⁴ nisi filia matris consilia et scelus prodidisset. Functus itaque multis periculis senex decessit, regno maximo ex filiis Alexandre tradito.

4. Philippus, Thebis eruditus, fratri Perdiccae succedit.
(Just. VII. 5.)

Alexander inter prima initia regni bellum ab Illyriis pacata mercede redemit; et interjecto tempore, Philippo fratre obside dato, cum Thebanis pacem conciliat; quae res ad egregiam Philippi indolem formandam plurimum valuit. Si quidem per triennium Thebis obses habitus in domo Epa-minondae, summi et philosophi et imperatoris, ad hujus viri exemplum se composuit. Nec multo post Alexander, insidiis Eurydices matris petitus, occubuit:⁵ cui Amyntas, quum in scelere esset deprehensa, propter communes liberos percerat, ignarus, eam his ipsis aliquando exitiosam fore. Frater quoque ejus Perdicca pari insidiarum fraude decipitur,⁶ parvo filio relicto. Nuntio de fratris morte accepto, Philippus clam Thebis aufugit, domumque rediit, ubi diu pupilli regis tutorem egit. At ubi graviora bella imminebant, serumque auxilium in exspectatione infantis⁷ erat, compulsus a populo regnum suscepit.

5. Initia regni. (Justin. VII. 6.)

Principium imperii non satis prosperum videbatur, quum hinc⁸ insidiarum metus, inde inopia regni, continuis bellis exhausti, immaturam adolescentis aetatem urgeret.⁹ Simul finitimae gentes, velut conspiratione facta ad opprimendam Macedoniam, ex diversis locis uno tempore regnum bello petebant. Quibus bellis omnibus quum par esse non posset, alia interposita pactione composuit, alia redemit,¹ invalidissimos quosque aggressus vicit: quo factum est, ut et militum trepidos animos firmaret, et se a contemtu hostium vindicaret. Primum illi cum Atheniensibus certamen ad Amphipol² fuit; quibus per insidiās victis, quum interficere omnes posset, in columnes sine pretio dimisit. Post haec, bello in Illyrios translato, multa millia hostium caedit.³ Urbem nobilissimam Larissam capīt in Thessalia, non praedae cupiditate, sed quod exercitui suo robur Thessalorum equitum⁴ adjungere gestiebat. His ita gestis, jam non contentus submovere bella, ultro etiam quietos lassedit. Quum Methōnam⁵ urbem oppugnaret, jacta de muris sagitta⁶ dextrum oculum regis effodit. Quo vulnere nec segnior in bellum, nec iracundior adversus hostes factus est; adeo ut, interjectis diebus,⁷ pacem deprecantibus daret, nec moderatus tantum, verum etiam mitis adversus victos esset.

6. Philippus se Graecorum rebus immiscet.
(Justin. VIII. I.)

Rebus Macedoniae compositis, finitimisque hostibus aut devictis aut territis, Philippus Graecorum libertati coepit insidiari. Quare civitatum contentiones alit, et auxilium inferioribus⁸ ferendo victos pariter victoresque subire regiam servitutem coēgit. Causa et origo hujus mali Thebani fuere; qui quum rerum potirentur, incredibili odio adversus Phocenses inflammati, bellum sacrum excitavere. Quod quum soli profligare non possent, Philippum ducem eligunt, qui sacrilegos puniret. Phocenses enim, templo Apollinis occupato, magnam inde vim auri in belli usum converterant. Igitur Philippus, quasi sacrilegii ultor esset, omnes milites coronas laureas⁹ sumere jubet, atque ita, veluti deo duce, in proelium pergit. Phocenses, insignibus dei conspectis, conscientia delictorum territi, abjectis armis fugam capessunt, poenasque violatae religionis sanguine pendunt.

7. Fines imperii promovet. (Just. VIII. 1.)

Philippus, quum magnam inde gloriam apud omnes nationes adeptus esset, Olynthios aggreditur. Recepérant enim per misericordiam, post caudem unius, duos fratres ejus,¹⁰ quos Philippus ex noverca genitos, velut aemulos regni, interficere gestiebat. Ob hanc igitur causam urbem antiquam et nobilem exscindit, et fratres olim destinato suppicio tradit, simulque praeda ingenti fruitur. Inde auraria in Thessalia, argenti metalla in Thracia¹ occupat. His ita gestis, forte evenit, ut eum fratres duo,² reges Thraciae, disceptationum suarum judicem eligerent. Sed Philippus ad judicium, velut ad bellum, instructo exercitu supervenit, et regno utrumque spoliavit.

8. In Graeciam penetrat. (Just. VIII. 4.)

Paulo post Thebani iterum legatos ad eum miserunt, qui rogarent, ut bellum contra Phocenses susceptum renovaret. Contra Phocensium legati, adhibitis³ Lacedaemoniis et Atheniensibus, bellum deprecabantur,⁴ cuius ab eo dilationem ter jam emerant. Secreto igitur auditis utriusque populi legationibus, his⁵ veniam belli pollicetur;⁶ illis contra, venturum se auxiliumque laturum. Utrosque vetat parare bellum aut metuere. Sic factum est, ut, securis omnibus, Thermopylarum angustias occuparet. Tunc primum Phocenses captos⁷ se fraude Philippi animadvertentes, trepidi ad arma configuiunt. Sed neque spatium erat instruendi belli, nec tempus ad contrahenda auxilia; et Philippus excidium minabatur, ni deditio fieret. Victi igitur necessitate, pacta salute,⁸ se dediderunt. At, ditione facta, caeduntur passim rapiunturque, haud secus ac si proelio superati essent.

9. Bella secunda gerit in Chersoneso et in Scythia.
(Justin. VIII. 6. IX. 1.)

His peractis, rebusque Macedoniae compositis, Dardanos⁹ caeterosque finitos expugnat, et Byzantium, nobilem urbem et maritimam, obsidione cingit. Quam quum expugnare non posset, profectus cum fortissimis, se ad Chersonensium urbes¹⁰ convertit, plurimasque earum sibi subjicit, filiumque Alexandrum, decem et octo annos natum, ad se arcessit, ut prima stipendia sub patris militia faceret. In Scythiam quoque praedandi causa profectus est; Scythasque, et virtute et numero praestantes, dolo vicit. Viginti millia puerorum ac feminarum capta, pecoris magna vis, auri argentique nihil.¹¹ Aliquot millia nobilium equarum ad genus faciendum in Macedoniam missa.

10. Graecos ad Chaeroneam vincit. (Just. IX. 3.)

Ab hac expeditione reversus, diu dissimulatum¹ bellum Atheniensibus² infert, quorum causae Thebani se junixerunt. Facta igitur inter duas antea infestissimas civitates societate, legationibus Graeciam fatigant.³ Communem hostem putant communibus viribus summovendum; neque enim cessatrum Philippum, nisi omnem Graeciam domuerit. Motae quaedam civitates Atheniensibus se jungunt, quasdam autem ad Philippum belli metus traxit. Proelio ad Chaeroneam⁴ commisso, quum Athenienses longe majore militum numero praestarent, tamen assiduis bellis indurata Macedonum virtute vincuntur. Non tamen immemores pristinae virtutis ceciderunt; quippe adversis vulneribus⁵ omnes loca, quae tuenda a ducibus acceperant, morientes corporibus texerunt. Hic dies universae Graeciae et gloriam dominationis et vetustissimam libertatem finivit.

11. Bellum contra Persas parat. (Just. IX. 4, 5.)

Hujus victoriae callide dissimulata laetitia est. Non solita sacra Philippus illa die fecit; non in convivio risit; non coronas aut unguenta sumsit; et, quantum in illo fuit, ita vicit,⁶ ut victorem nemo sentiret. Atheniensibus, quos passus⁷ infestissimos fuerat, et captivos gratis remisit, et bello consumtorum corpora sepulturae reddidit. Compositis in Graecia rebus, omnium civitatum legatos ad formandum rerum praesentium statum evocari Corinthum⁸ jubet. Ibi pacis leges universae Graeciae pro meritis singularum civitatum statuit, conciliumque omnium, veluti unum senatum, ex omnibus legit. Auxilia deinde singularum civitatum describuntur; nec dubium erat, eum Persarum imperium et suis et Graeciae viribus impugnaturum esse.

12. Philippus interficitur. (Just. IX. 6.)

Interea dum auxilia a Graecia coëunt, nuptias Cleopatrae filiae, et Alexandri,⁹ quem regem Epiri fecerat, magno apparatu celebrat. Ubi quum Philippus ad ludos spectandos, medius inter duos Alexandros, et filium et generum, contenderet,¹⁰ Pausanias, nobilis ex Macedonibus adolescens, occupatis augustiis, Philippum in transitu obruncat. Hic ab Attalo¹¹ indigno modo tractatus, quum saepe querlam ad Philippum frustra detulisset, et honoratum insuper adversarium videret, iram in ipsum Philippum vertit, ultio nemque quam ab adversario non poterat, ab iniquo judice exegit.

13. Olympias mariti percussorem muneribus condecorat.
(Justin. IX. 7, 8.)

Creditum est etiam, percussorem immissum ab Olympiade, matre Alexandri, fuisse; nec ipsum Alexandrum ignarum paterna caedis exstissee, quod Philippus, Olympiade repudiata, Cleopātram, Parmeniōnis sororem, in matrimonium duxisset. Olympias certe fugienti percussori equos praeparatos habuit. Ipsa deinde, quum regis nece audita accurrisset, eadem nocte, qua venit, Pausaniae in cruce pendentis capiti coronam auream imposuit. Paucos deinde post dies refixum corpus interfectoris super reliquias mariti cremavit, et tumulum ei fecit eodem in loco, parentarique eidem quotannis curavit. Post haec Cleopatram, a qua pulsa Philippi matrimonio fuerat, filiā ejus in matris gremio interfectā, finire vitam suspendio coēgit. Novissime gladium quo rex percussus est, Apollini consecravit. Caeterum decesit Philippus anno aetatis quadragesimo septimo, quum annis viginti quinque regnasset.

14. Philippus cum Alexandro filio comparatus.
(Justin. IX. 8.)

Philippo Alexander filius successit, et virtute et vitiis patre major. Vincendi ratio utrique diversa. Hic aperte, ille artibus bella tractabat. Deceptis ille gaudere² hostibus, hic pallam fusis. Prudentior ille consilio, hic animo magnificentior. Iram, pater dissimulare, plerumque etiam vincere; hic ubi exarsisset, nec dilatio ultionis, nec modus erat. Vini uterque nimis avidus; sed ebrietatis diversa ratio. Pater de convivio in hostem procurrere, manum conserere, periculis se temere offerre; Alexander non in hostem, sed in suos saevire. Regnare ille cum amicis volebat; hic in amicos regna exercebat. Amari pater malle, hic metui. Litterarum cultus utrique similis. Solertiae pater majoris, hic fidei. Verbis atque oratione Philippus, hic rebus moderatior. Parcendi victis filio animus promtior; ille nec sociis abstinebat. Frugalitati pater, luxuriae filius magis deditus erat. Quibus artibus orbis imperii fundamenta pater jecit, operis totius gloriam filius consummavit.

15. Initia regni Alexandri. (Justin XI. 2.)

Imperio suscepto, prima Alexandro cura paternarum exsequiarum fuit; in quibus ante omnia caedis conscos ad tumulum patris occidi jussit. Inter initia regni multas gentes rebellantes compescuit; orientes nonnullas seditiones extinxit. Inchoatum deinde a patre Persicum bellum aggreditur. In cuius apparatu nuntiatur, Athenienses et Thebanos ab eo ad Persas defecisse, auctoremque ejus defectionis Demosthenem oratorem extitisse; qui omnes Macedonum copias una cum rege a Triballis deletas esse affirmaverit. Qua opinione² mutatos omnium ferme civitatum animos esse; praesidia Macedonum obsideri.

16. Alexander Graecos defectionem meditantes coercet.
(Justin. XI. 3.)

His motibus occursum summa celeritate in Graeciam penetravit. Athenienses, sicuti primi defecerant, ita primos consilii poenitere coepit, missisque legatis bellum deprecantur. Quibus auditis et graviter increpatis Alexander bellum remisit.³ Inde Thebas exercitum convertit, eadem indulgentia usurus, si parem poenitentiam invenisset. Sed Thebani armis, non precibus, usi sunt. Itaque victi gravissima quaeque suppicia miserrimae captivitatis experti sunt. Urbs diruitur, agri inter victores dividuntur; captivi sub corona venduntur. Miseranda res Atheniensibus visa. Itaque profugos contra interdictum regis apud se receperunt. Quam rem ita graviter tulit Alexander, ut secunda legatione denuo bellum deprecantibus ita demum remitteret, ut oratores et duces, quorum fiducia toties rebellarent, sibi dederentur. Res eo deducta est, ut, retentis oratoribus, duces in exsilium ageantur; qui ex continentis ad Darium profecti, non mediocre momentum Persarum viribus accessere.

17. Persicum bellum aggreditur. (Just. XI. 5.)

Jam ad Persicum bellum proficiscens, patrimonium omne suum, quod in Macedonia et Europa habebat, amicis divisit: *sibi Asiam sufficere praefatus.*⁶ Nec exercitui alius quam regi animus fuit. Quippe omnes obliti conjugum liberorumque, et longinquae a domo militiae, nihil nisi Orientis opes cogitabant. Quum delati in Asiam essent, primus Alexander jaculum velut in hostilem terram jecit; armatusque de navi tripudianti similis prosiluit, atqua ita hostias caedit, precatus, ne se regem illae terrae invitae accipient. In Ilio quoque ad tumulos herorum, qui Trojano bello ceciderant, parentavit.

18. Prima congressione Persas vincit. (Just. XI. 6.)

Inde hostem petens milites a populatione Asiae prohibuit, parcendum suis rebus¹ praefatus, nec perdenda ea, quae posses- suri venerint. In exercitu ejus fuere peditum triginta duo milia, equitum quatuor millia quingenti, naves centum octoginta duae. Hac tam parva manu universum terrarum orbem vincere est aggressus. Quum ad tam periculosum bellum exercitum legeret, non juvenes robustos, sed veteranos, qui cum patre patruisque militaverant, elegit: ut non tam milites, quam magistros militiae electos putares. Prima cum hoste congressio in campis Adrastiae² fuit. In acie Persarum sexcenta millia militum fuerunt, quae non minus arte quam virtute Macedonum superata, terga verterunt. Magna itaque caedes Persarum fuit. De exercitu Alexandri novem pedites, centum viginti equites cecidere; quos rex magnifice humatos statuis equestribus donavit; cognatis eorum autem immunitates a publicis muneribus dedit. Post victoriam major pars Asiae³ ad eum defecit. Habuit et plura proelia cum praefectis Darii, quos jam non tam armis, quam terrore nominis sui vicit.

19. Gordii nodum fatalem solvit. (Just. XI. 7.)

Post haec Gordium urbem petit, quae posita est inter Phrygiam majorem et minorem, quod audierat, in ea urbe, in templo Jovis, jugum plaustri Gordii⁴ esse positum; cuius nexum si quis solvisset, eum tota Asia regnaturum, antiqua oracula cecinisse. Capta igitur urbe quum in templum venisset, illud jugum requisivit; quo monstrato, quum capita loramentorum intra nodos abscondita reperire non posset, gladio loramenta caedit, dicens nihil interest, quo modo nodus solvatur; atque ita resolutis nexibus, latentia in nodis capita invenit.

20. In gravem morbum incidit. (Just. XI. 8.)

Haec illi agenti nuntiatur, Darium cum ingenti exercitu adventare. Itaque timens angustias, magna celeritate Taurum transcendit. Quum Tarsum⁵ venisset, captus amoenitate Cydni fluminis, per medium urbem influentis, projectis armis, plenus pulveris ac sudoris, in praefrigidam undam se projectit. Tum repente tantus nervos ejus occupat rigor, ut jam de eo actum esse videretur. Unus erat ex medicis, nomine Philippus, qui remedium polliceretur; sed hunc Parmenionis epistolae pridie e Cappadocia missae suspectum faciebant. Hic enim, ignarus infirmitatis Alexandri, scripserat, a Philippo medico caveret; nam corruptum illum a Dario ingenti pecunia esse. Alexander tamen tutius est ratus, dubiae se fidei medico credere, quam indubitato¹ morbo perire. Accepto igitur poculo, epistolas medico tradidit; atque ita inter bibendum oculos in vultum legentis intendit. Ut secum conspexit, lactior factus est, sanitatemque quarta die recepit.

21. Darium vincit ad Issum. (Just. XI. 9.)

Interea Darius cum quadringentis millibus peditum, ac centum millibus equitum in aciem procedit. Movebat haec multitudo hostium respectu paucitatis suaे Alexandrum; nec tamen bellum differre ratus, circumvectus suos, singulas gentes diversa oratione alloquitur. Illyrios et Thracas opum ac divitiarum² ostentatione; Graecos veterum bellorum memoriā, inter necivique cum Persis odii accendebat. Macedones autem nunc Europae victac admonet, nunc Asiae expetitae; nec inventas illis toto orbe pares vires gloriatur.³ Nec Darii segnis opera in ordinanda acie fuit. Quippe ipse omnia circumire, singulos hortari, veteris gloriae Persarum admonere. Post haec proelium ingentibus animis committitur. In eo uterque rex vulneratur. Tam diu certamen anceps fuit, quoad fugeret Darius. Exinde caedes Persarum secuta est. In castris eorum multum auri caeterarumque opum inventum. Inter captivos castrorum mater et uxor et filiae duae Darii fuere. Ad quas visendas quum Alexander venisset, conspectis armatis invicem se complexae, velut statim moriturae, complorationem edidere. Pro voluntate deinde genubus Alexandri mortis dilationem precantur, dum Darii corpus sepeliverint. Motus tanta mulierum pietate Alexander, et Darium vivere dixit, et timentibus mortis metum demsit, easque haberi ut reginas praecepit.

22. Plurimae Asiae gentes victori se subjiciunt. (Justin. XI. 10.)

vitates misit, quae statim, audita fama victoriae, in potestatem victorum venerunt. Tunc in Syriam proficiscitur, ubi obvios cum infulis multos Orientis reges habuit. Ex his, pro meritis singulorum, alios in societatem recepit, aliis regnum ademit, suffectis in loca eorum novis regibus. Insignis praeter caeteros fuit Abdalonymus, rex ab Alexandro Sidoniae¹ constitutus. Quem Alexander, quum operam locare ad puteos exhauiendos hortosque irrigandos solitus esset, regem fecerat, spretis² nobilibus, ne generis id, non dantis, beneficium putarent.³ Quum Tyriorum legatis, qui ei coronam auream magni ponderis miserant, significasset, se Tyrum⁴ ire velle ad vota Herculi redienda, iique ejus introitum deprecarentur, ita exarsit, ut urbi excidium minaretur. Confestim admoto exercitu, post diuturnam obsidionem, Tyriis muros animose defendantibus, urbs tandem per proditionem capitur.

23. Ab oraculo Jovis Ammonis Alexander salutatur deus.
(Justin. XI. 11.)

Inde Rhodum Alexander, Aegyptum, Ciliciamque sine certamine cepit. Ad Jovem deinde Ammonem⁵ pergit, consulturus et de eventu futurorum et de origine sua. Nam mater ejus Olympias gloriata erat, Alexandrum non ex Philippo, sed ex serpente ingentis magnitudinis esse conceptum. Igitur Alexander, cupiens, originem divinam sibi tribui, subornat antistites, quid sibi responderi velit per praemissos docens. Itaque ingredientem templum statim antistites, ut Ammonis filium, saluant. Simul victoriam omnium bellorum, possessionemque terrarum dari respondeunt. Comitibus quoque ejus imperatum, ut Alexandrum pro deo, non pro rege colerent. Reversus ab Ammone Alexandriam⁶ condidit, et coloniam Macedonum caput esse Aegypti jubet.

24. Darius pacem precatur frustra. (Just. XI. 12.)

Darius quum Babyloniam profugisset,⁷ per epistolam Alexandrum precatur, redimendarum sibi captivarum potestatem faciat,⁸ inque eam rem magnam pecuniam pollicetur. Sed Alexander in pretium captivarum regnum omne, non pecuniam petit. Interjecto tempore aliae epistolae Darii Alexander redduntur, quibus filiae matrimonium et regni portio offertur. Sed Alexander sua sibi dari⁹ rescripsit, jussitque regni arbitria¹⁰ victori¹¹ permittere. Tum, spe pacis amissa, bellum Darius reparat, et cum quadringentis millibus peditum, et centum millibus equitum obviam vadit Alexandro. In itinere nuntiatur, uxorem ejus decessisse, ejusque mortem illacrymatum Alexandrum, exsequiasque benigne prosecutum esse. Tunc Darius, quum se beneficiis quoque a rege superatum videret, tertias epistolas scripsit, et gratias egit, quod nihil hostile in suos fecerit. Offert deinde majorem partem regni usque ad flumen Euphraten,¹ et alteram filiam uxorem; pro reliquis captivis triginta millia talentorum. Ad haec Alexander, gratiarum actionem supervacaneam esse, respondit; se didicisse non adversus calamitates hostium, sed vires eorum contendere. *Caeterum neque mundum posse duobus solibus regi, neque orbem terrarum duo maxima regna salvo statu terrarum habere posse; proinde aut deditio*ne eo die, aut in posterum aciem paret.

25. Magno proelio ad Gaugamelam² vincitur.
(Justin. XI. 13, 14.)

Postero die aciem producunt. Tum repente ante proelium Alexandrum somnus oppressit; quumque ad pugnam solus rex deesset, a Parmenione aegre excitatus est. Ante proelium utraque acies hostibus spectaculo fuit. Macedones multitudinem hominum, corporum magnitudinem, armorumque pulchritudinem mirabantur; Persae a tam paucis victa suorum tot millia stupebant. Raro in ullo proelio tantum sanguinis fusum est. Darius quum vinci suos videret, mori voluit et ipse, sed a proximis fugere compulsus est. Alexander autem periculosisima quaeque aggrediebatur, et ubi confertissimos hostes acerrime pugnare conspexisset, eo se semper ingerebat. Hoc proelio Asiae imperium ei obtigit, quinto post acceptum regnum anno. Post haec expugnat Persepolin,³ caput Persici regni, urbem antiquissimam plurimisque refertam opibus, quae interitu ejus primum apparuere.

26. A suis interficitur. (Justin. XI. 15.)

Interea Darius a cognatis suis in vico Parthorum Thara aureis compedibus vincitur. Alexander postero die citato cursu supervenit, ibique cognovit,⁴ Darium clauso vehiculo per noctem exportatum. Jusso caetero exercitu subsequi, cum sex millibus equitum fugientem insequitur; in itinere multa et periculosa proelia fecit. Emensus deinde multum itineris quum nullum Darii invenisset indicium, respirandi equis data potestate, unus ex militibus, dum ad fontem proximum pergit, in vehiculo Darium, multis quidem vulneribus confossum, sed spirantem adhuc invenit, et unum e captivis ad eum adduxit. Quem quum rex ex voce civem esse cognovisset, Alexandro dicere jubet, se plurimam ei gratiam habere, quod in matrem liberosque suos regium, non hostilem animum exhibuisset. Quare se precari superum inferumque numina, et deos regni custodes et praesides, ut illi terrarum omnium contingat imperium. Posthaec porrecta manu exspiravit. Quae ubi Alexander nuntiata sunt, viso corpore defuncti, tam indignam mortem lacrymis prosecutus est; corpusque regio more sepeliri jussit.

27. Graecarum civitatum motus ad libertatem recuperandam.
(Justin. XII. 1.)

Dum haec in Asia geregabantur, Graecia fere omnis, spe recuperandae libertatis, ad arma concurrerat, auctoritatem Lacedaemoniorum secuta. Dux hujus belli Agis, rex Lacedaemoniorum, fuit. Quem motum Antipater, dux ab Alexander in Macedonia relictus, in ipso ortu oppressit. Magna tamen utrumque caedes fuit. Agis rex, quum suos terga dantes videret, dimissis satellitibus, ut Alexander felicitate, non virtute inferior videretur, tantam stragem hostium edidit, ut agmina interdum fugaret. Ad postremum, etsi a multitudine victus, gloria tamen omnes vicit.

28. Alexander Persarum vitam et cultum imitatur.
(Justin. XII. 3.)

Alexander autem, Hyrcanis¹ Mardisque² subactis, habitum regum Persarum et diadema, insolitum antea regibus Macedonicis, assumit, amicos quoque longam vestem auratam et purpuream sumere jubet. Ut luxum quoque Persarum imitaretur, ingentes epularum apparatus fecit, et convivia juxta regiam magnificentiam instruxit.

29. Alexander suorum in se animos exacerbat.
(Justin. XII. 5.)

Tum etiam primum hostili odio in suos saevire coepit. Maxime indignabatur, carpi se sermonibus suorum, quod Philippi patris patriaeque mores subvertisset. Propter quae crimina³ Parmenio senex, dignitate regi proximus, cum Philota filio interficitur. Fremere itaque omnes universis castris coepere, innoxii senis filique casum miserantes: interdum, se quoque non debere metius sperare dicentes. Quae quum nuntiata Alexandro essent, simulat, se ex amicis quosdam in patriam victoriae nuntios missurum. Hortatur milites, ut suis scribeant; datasque epistolas tacite ad se deferri jubet; ex quibus cognito de se singulorum judicio,¹ in unam cohortem eos, qui de rege durius opinati fuerant² contribuit, aut consumturus eos,³ aut in ultimis terris in colonias distributurus. Inde Drancas, Euergetas, caeterosque populos, qui ad radicem Caucasi habitabant, subegit. Interea unus ex amicis Darii, Bessus, vinctus adducitur, qui regem non solum prodiderat, verum etiam interfecerat. Quem in ultionem perfidiae fratri Darii excruiciandum tradidit. Et ut his terris nomen relinquenter, urbem Alexandriam super amnem Tanaïn⁴ condidit. In Bactrianis quoque Sogdianisque⁵ duodecim urbes condidit, ibique eos, quos in exercitu seditiosos cognoverat, habitare jussit.

30. Clitum sua manu interficit. (Justin. XII. 6.)

His ita gestis solemni die amicos in convivium vocat. Ubi orta inter ebrios rerum a Philippo⁶ gestarum mentione, ipse se patri praeferre coepit, assentante majore convivarum parte. Itaque quum unus e senibus, Clitus, fiduciâ amicitiae regiae, memoriam Philippi tueretur, laudaretque ejus res gestas, Alexander adeo ira exarsit, ut, telo & satellite rapto, Clitum in convivio trucidaret. Post, irae aestu subsidente, in poenitentiam versus, mori voluit. Mansit haec moriendi voluntas etiam insequentibus diebus, donec exercitus universi precibus exoratus est, precantis, ne ita unius mortem doleat, ut universos perdat; neque milites in ultimam deductos barbariam, inter infestas gentes destituat. Revocato igitur ad bellum animo, Chorasmos et Dahas⁶ in ditionem accepit.

31. In Indianam penetrat. (Justin. XII. 7.)

Post haec Indiam petit, ut Oceano finiret imperium. Cui gloriae ut etiam exercitus ornamenta convenienter, phaleras equorum et arma militum argento inducit; exercitumque suum, ab argenteis clypeis, Argyraspidas⁷ appellavit. Quum ad Nysam⁸ urbem venisset, oppidanis non repugnantibus, fiduciâ Liberi⁹ patris, a quo condita urbs erat, parci jussit. Tunc ad sacrum montem duxit exercitum, vite hederaque non aliter vestitum, quam si manu cultus exornatusque esset. Ubi ad montem accessit, exercitus, repentino mentis impetu correptus, ululare coepit, et Bacchantium more discurrit.

32. Porum, regem Indiae, superat. (Just. XII. 8.)

Unus ex regibus Indorum fuit, Porus nomine, viribus corporis et animi magnitudine pariter insignis; qui ad famam de Alexandri adventu bellum paraverat. Commisso proelio,¹ Alexandrum ad singulare certamen provocat. Nec Alexander pugnae moram facit; sed prima congressione vulnerato equo, quum praeceps in terram decidisset, concursu satellitum servatur. Porus multis vulneribus obrutus capit. Qui victum se adeo doluit, ut, quum veniam ab hoste invenisset, neque cibum capere vellet, neque vulnera curari pateretur; aegreque ab eo obtentum est, ut vellet vivere. Quem Alexander ob honorem virtutis incolumem in regnum remisit. Duas ibi urbes condidit, unam Nicaeam,² alteram ex nomine equi Bucephalen³ vocavit.

33. Macedones in patriam redire cupiunt. (Justin. XII. 8.)

Quum ad Cuphites venisset, ubi eum cum ducentis milibus equitum hostes opperiebantur, exercitus omnis laboribus fessus, lacrymis eum precatur, finem tandem belli faceret; aliquando patriae reditusque meminisset, militumque annos respiceret. Ostendere⁴ alius canitatem, alius vulnera, alius aetate consumptum corpus et cicatricibus obductum. Motus eorum precibus, veluti finem victoriis facturus castra solito magnificentiora fieri jussit, quorum molitionibus et hostis terretur, et posteris sui admiratio relinqueretur. Nullum opus laetus milites fecerunt. Itaque caesis hostibus cum gratulatione in haec castra reverterunt.

34. Alexander evitae periculo aegre servatur. (Justin. XII. 9.)

Inde Alexander ad amnem Acesinen⁵ pergit; per quem in Oceanum devehitur, et in Ambros et Sigambros navigat. Quae gentes eum armatis octoginta millibus peditum, et sexaginta millibus equitum excipiunt. Quum proelio vitor esset, exercitum ad urbem eorum duxit. Quam quum de muro, quem primus ceperat, a defensoribus desertam animadvertisset, in urbis planitiem sine ullo satellite desiliit. Itaque quum eum hostes solum conspexissent, clamore edito undique in eum concurrunt. Ubi obrui multitudine se vidit, trunco se, qui propter murum stabat, applicuit. Quum sic diu agmen sustinuissest, tandem, regis periculo cognito, amici ad eum desiliunt, ex quibus multi caesi; proeliumque tamdiu anceps fuit, quoad omnis exercitus, muris dejectis, in auxilium veniret. In eo proelio sagitta sub mamma trajectus est, cuius vulneris curatio ipso vulnere gravior¹ fuit.

35. Oceano lustrato nuptias celebrat. (Justin. XII. 10.)

Tandem saluti redditus² Polyperchonta³ cum exercitu Babyloniam mittit. Ipse cum lectissima manu, navibus consensis, Oceani litora peragrat. Ibi Oceano libamenta dedit,⁴ prosperum in patriam reditum precatus; ac, veluti positis imperii terminis, ostio fluminis Indi invehitur. Ibi in monumenta rerum a se gestarum urbem Barcen condidit, arasque statuit. Inde terrestri itinere Babyloniam redit. Ibi filiam Darii regis Statiram in matrimonium recepit; sed et optimatibus Macedonum lectas ex omnibus gentibus nobilissimas virgines tradidit.

36. Babyloniam redit. (Justin. XII. 13.)

Ab ultimis oris Oceani Babyloniam revertenti nuntiatur, non solum legationes Carthaginiensium caeterarumque Africæ civitatum, sed et Hispaniarum, Siciliae, Galliae, Sardiniae, nonnullas quoque ex Italia ejus adventum Babyloniae oppriri. Hac igitur ex causa Babyloniam festinanti quidam ex magis praedixit,⁵ ne urbem introiret, testatus⁶ hunc locum ei fatalem fore. Sed ab Anaxarcho⁷ philosopho compulsus, ut magorum praedicta contemneret, Babyloniam reversus, convivium solemniter instituit. Ibi quum totus in laetitiam effusus esset, recedentem jam e convivio Medius Thessalus, instaurata comissione⁸ invitat. Accepto poculo, inter bibendum veluti telo confixus ingemuit, elatusque e convivio semianimis, tanto dolore cruciatus est, ut ferrum in remedia posceret. Venenum accepisse creditur.

37. Babyloniae moritur. (Justin. XII. 15.)

Quarta die Alexander indubitatem mortem sentiens, agnoscere se fatum domus⁹ majorum suorum, ait; namque plerosque Aeacidarum¹⁰ intra tricesimum annum defunctos. Tumultantes deinde milites, insidiis periisse regem suspicantes, ipse sedavit, eosque omnes ad conspectum suum admisit, osculandumque dextram porrexit. Quum lacrymarent omnes, ipse non sine lacrymis tantum, verum etiam sine ullo tristioris mentis argumento fuit. Ad postremum corpus suum in Hammonis templo condi jubet. Quum deficere eum amici vide-rent, quaerunt, quem imperii faciat heredem; respondit, dignissimum. Hac voce omnes amicos suos ad aemulam regni cupiditatem accendit. Sexta die, praeclusa voce, exemum dígito annulum Perdiccae tradidit, quae res gliscentem amicorum discordiam sedavit. Nam etsi non voce nuncupatus heres, judicio tamen electus esse videbatur.

38. De Alexandri virtute et fortuna quaedam.
(Justin. XII. 16.)

Decessit Alexander mensem unum tres et triginta annos natus, vir supra humanum modum vi animi praeditus. Omina quaedam magnitudinem ejus in ipso ortu portendisse existimabantur. Quo die natus est, pater ejus nuntium duarum victoriarum accepit; alterius belli Illyrici, alterius certaminis Olympiaci, in quod quadrigas miserat. Puer acerrimus litterarum studiis¹ eruditus fuit. Exacta pueritia, per quinquennium Aristotele, philosopho praestantissimo, usus est magistro. Accepto tandem imperio tantam militibus suis fiduciam fecit, ut, illo praesente, nullius hostis arma timerent. Itaque cum nullo hoste unquam congressus est, quem non vicerit; nullam urbem obsedit, quam non expugnaverit. Victor denique est non virtute hostili sed insidiis suorum et fraude.

39. Luctus barbarorum, Macedonum laetitia.
(Justin. XIII. 1.)

Exstincto in ipso aetatis et victiarum flore³ Alexandro Magno, triste apud omnes tota Babylone silentium fuit. Ut vero nuntius de ejus morte disseminatus est, omnes barbarae gentes, paullo ante ab eo devictae, non ut hostem, sed ut parentem luxerunt. Mater quoque Darii regis, audita morte victoris, in quo pietatem filii erat experta, mortem sibi ipsa conscivit. Contra Macedones, non ut civem, sed ut hostem defunctum gaudebant; severitatem nimiam et assidua belli pericula execrantes. Huc accedebat, quod principes regnum et imperia, vulgus militum thesauros, veluti praedam, spectabant. Erant enim in thesauris quinquaginta milia talentum,⁴ quae sibi divisum iri sperabant. Nec amici Alexandri frustra regnum spectabant. Nam tantae virtutis et venerationis erant, ut singulos reges putas. Neque unquam ante Macedonia vel ulla gens alia tanto clarorum virorum proventu floruit; quos primo Philippus, mox Alexander tanta cura legerat, ut non tam ad societatem belli, quam in successionem regni electi viderentur.

40. Duces de imperio constituendo consilia ineunt.
 (Justin. XIII. 2.)

Caeterum, defuncto Alexandro, armati in regiam coëunt, ad formandum rerum praesentium statum.¹ Perdicca censet, Roxanes, regiae conjugis, quam gravidam relinquera, partum esse exspectandum, et si puerum peperisset, hunc patri successorem fore. Meleager negat, exspectandum,² dum reges nascerentur, quum jam genitis uti liceret. Esse Pergami puerum, filium Alexandri, natum ex Barsine, nomine Herculem; seu mallent juvenem, esse in castris fratrem Alexandri, Aridaeum, comem et cunctis non suo tantum, verum et patris Philippi nomine acceptissimum. Ptolemaeus recusabat regem Aridaeum, tum, quod ex Larissaeo scorto natus esset, tum ob majorem, qua laborabat, valetudinem;³ nam verendum esse, ne ille nomen regis; alias imperium teneret; melius esse ex his legi, qui pro virtute regi suo proximi fuerint. Vicit Perdiccae sententia, consensu universorum. Placuit itaque Roxanes exspectari partum, et si puer natus fuisset, tutores Leonatum, Perdiccam, Crateron et Antipatrum consti-tuunt, confestimque in tutorum obsequia jurant.⁴

41. Aridaeus, Philippi filius, rex creatur. (Justin. XIII.
 3, 4.)

Quum equites idem fecissent, pedites indignati, nullas sibi consiliorum partes relictas,⁵ Aridaeum, Alexandri fratrem, regem appellant, satellitesque illi ex turba sua legunt, et nomine Philippi patris vocari jubent. Magna hinc in castris seditione orta, tandem ab equitibus quoque Aridaeus rex agnoscitur. Servata est portio regni Alexandri filio, si natus esset. His ita compositis, Macedoniae et Graeciae Antipater praeponitur: regiae pecuniae custodia Cratero traditur: castrorum et exercitus cura Meleagro et Perdiccae assignatur; jubeturque Aridaeus rex corpus Alexandri in Hammonis templum deducere. Tunc Perdicca, iustratione castrorum indicta, seditiosos supplicio occulte tradi jubet. Reversus inde, provincias inter principes divisit.

42. Bellum in Graecia ortum per Antipatrum comprimitur.
 (Justin. XIII. 5.)

Dum haec in Oriente geruntur, in Graecia Athenienses et Aetoli bellum, quod jam vivo Alexandro moverant, summis viribus instruebant. Causa belli erat, quod reversus ab India Alexander epistolas in Graeciam scripserat, quibus omnium civitatum exsules restituebantur. Quae litterae recitatae praesente universa Graecia, in mercatu Olympiaco,¹ magnos motus excitaverunt, quod plurimi non legibus, sed per factionem principum pulsi fuerant principesque verebantur, ne revocati potentiores in republica fierent. Palam igitur jam tum multae civitates libertatem bello vindicandam fremebant.² Principes tamen omnium Athenienses et Aetoli fuerunt. Bello igitur exorto, Antipater, cui Graecia sorte obvernerat, Leonatum ex Asia in auxilium vocavit. Qui quum venire cum exercitu nuntiatus esset, obvii ei Athenienses cum instructis copiis fuere, ibique equestri proelio, gravi vulnere ictus, extinguitur. Sed Antipater, exercitu extincti recepto, quum par hostibus etiam proelio videretur, solitus obsidione, qua cinctus fuerat Lamiae,³ in Macedoniam concessit; Graecorum quoque copiae, finibus Graeciae hoste depulso, in urbes dilapsae sunt.

43. Certamina inter duces Alexandri. (Justin. XIII. 6.
XV. 1.)

Post haec bellum inter Perdiccam et Antigonum oritur, quod, velut incendium, mox latius serpsit. Macedonia, in duas partes discurrentibus⁴ ducibus, in sua viscera armatur, ferrumque a barbaris in civilem sanguinem⁵ vertit. In hoc bello Perdiccas occisus est; pluresque ejusdem partis duces perierunt. Et jam finitum certamen inter successores Alexandri Magni videbatur, quum repente inter ipsos victores nata est discordia. Ptolemaeus⁶ et Cassander, Antipatri filius, inita cum Lysimacho et Seleuco societate, contra Antigonum bellum terra marique enixe instruunt. Tenebat Ptolemaeus Aegyptum cum Africæ parte minore et Cypro et Phoenice. Cassandro parebat Macedonia cum Graecia. Asiam et partes Orientis occupaverat Antigonus, cuius filius Demetrius, prima belli congressione, a Ptolemaeo apud Gamalam⁸ vincitur. In quo proelio major Ptolemaei moderationis gloria, quam ipsius Victoriae fuit. Siquidem et amicos Demetrii non solum cum suis rebus, verum etiam additis insuper munibibus, dimisit; et ipsius Demetrii privatum omne instrumentum⁹ ac familiam¹⁰ reddidit, dicens; non se propter praedam, sed propter dignitatem inisse bellum, indignatum, quod Antigonus, devictis diversae factionis ducibus, solus communis Victoriae praemia corripuisset.

44. Extincta Alexandri sobole, principes regium nomen sumunt. (Justin. XV. 2.)

Dum haec aguntur, Cassander Herculem, Alexandri filium, qui fere annos quatuordecim excesserat, ne favore paterni nominis in regnum Macedoniae vocaretur, occidi tacite cum matre Barsine jubet; tum alterum quoque filium cum matre Roxane pari fraude necavit. Interea Ptolemaeus cum Demetrio navaliter proelio¹ iterato² congregitur, et amissa classe in Aegyptum refugit. Hac Victoria elatus, Antigonus regem se cum Demetrio filio appellari jubet. Ptolemaeus quoque, ne minoris apud suos auctoritatis esset, rex ab exercitu cognominatur. Quibus auditis, Cassander et Lysimachus et ipsi regiam sibi majestatem vindicarunt. Sed Ptolemaeus et Cassander caeterique factionis alterius duces, quum se singulos ab Antigono carpi ac lassessi viderent, per epistolas se invicem exhortati sunt ad bellum communibus viribus suscipiendum. Cui quum Cassander interesse propter finitimum bellum³ non posset, Lysimachum cum ingentibus copiis in auxilium sociis mittit.

45. Lysimachi fortitudo. (Justin. XV. 3.)

Erat hic Lysimachus illustri inter Macedones loco natus, sed magis etiam virtute quam genere clarus. Quum Alexander Callisthenem⁴ philosophum miserandum in modum omnibus membris truncasset, et insuper cum cane in cavea clavum circumferret, Lysimachus, eum audire et praecepta virtutis ab eo accipere solitus, misertus tanti viri, venenum ei in remedium calamitatum dedit. Quod adeo aegre Alexander tulit, ut eum objici ferocissimo leoni juberet. Sed quum leo impetum fecisset in eum, Lysimachus manum amiculo involutam in os leonis immersit, arreptaque lingua feram exanimavit. Quod quum nuntiatum regi esset, admiratio irae successit, carioreisque eum propter constantiam tantae virtutis⁵ habuit. Post mortem regis, quum inter successores ejus provinciae dividerentur, ferocissimae gentes, quasi omnium fortissimo, assignatae sunt.

46. Nova inter Alexandri successores bella oriuntur. (Justin. XV. 4.)

Priusquam bellum inter Ptolemaeum sociosque ejus adversus Antigonum committeretur, repente ex Asia maiore Seleucus, novus Antigono hostis, accessit. Hujus quoque viri virtus clarissima fuit. Post mortem Alexandri, occupato regno Orientis, urbem condidit, patris nomine Antiochiam vocatam, et campos urbi vicinos Apollini dicavit, a quo generis originem ducebat. Multa in Oriente post divisionem inter socios regni Macedonici bella gessit. Principio Babyloniam cepit: inde auctis ex victoria viribus Bactrianos expugnavit. Compositis deinde in Oriente rebus, in bellum cum Antigono descendit. Conjunctionis igitur omnium sociorum copiis, proelium¹ committitur; in eo Antigonus occiditur; Demetrius filius ejus in fugam vertitur. Sed socii, profligato hostili bello, denuo in semet ipsos arma verterunt; et, quum de praeda non conveniret, iterum in duas factiones diducuntur. Seleucus Demetrio, Ptolemaeus Lysimacho junguntur. Cassandro defuncto Philippus filius succedit. Sic quasi ex integro nova Macedoniae bella nascuntur.

47. Regnum Macedoniae, parricidiis inquinatae, Demetrius occupat. (Justin. XVI. 1.)

Post Cassandri regis, filiique ejus Philippi continuas mortes² Thessalonice, uxor Cassandri, non multo post tempore, ab Antipatro filio occiditur. Causa parricidii fuit, quod, post mortem mariti, in divisione inter fratres regni, in alterum filium Alexandrum videbatur fuisse propensior. Quod facinus eo gravius visum est, quod nullum maternae fraudis vestigium fuit. Ob haec igitur Alexander, in ultionem maternae necis gesturus cum fratre bellum, auxilium a Demetrio petit: nec Demetrius, spe invadendi Macedonici regni, moram fecit. Cujus adventum verens Lysimachus persuadet genero Antipatro, ut malit cum fratre suo in gratiam redire, quam paternum hostem in Macedoniae admitti. Inchoatam igitur inter fratres reconciliationem quum praesensisset Demetrius, per insidias Alexandrum interfecit, regnumque Macedoniae occupavit. Lysimachus quoque, quum bello Dromichaetis, regis Thracum, premeretur, tradita ei³ altera parte Macedoniae, quae Antipatro ejus genero obvenerat, pacem cum eo fecit.

48. Demetrius a Pyrrho, Epiri rege, Macedonia pellitur. (Justin. XVI. 2.)

Igitur Demetrius, totius Macedoniae viribus instructus, Asiam occupare statuit. Sed Ptolemaeus, Seleucus et Lysimachus, pacta societate conjunctisque copiis, bellum adversus Demetrium transferunt in Europam. His comitem se jungit Pyrrhus, rex Epiri, sperans, Demetrium non difficiliter amittere Macedoniae posse, quam acquisierat. Nec spes frustra fuit; quippe, exercitu ejus corrupto, ipsoque in fugam acto, regnum Macedoniae occupavit. Demetrius autem, a tot exercitibus circumventus, quum posset honeste mori, turpiter se dedere Seleuco maluit. Finito bello, Ptolemaeus cum magna rerum gestarum gloria moritur, regno minimo natu ex filiis¹ relicto.

49. Lysimachus et Seleucus, ultimi commilitonum Alexandri, pereunt. (Just. XVI. 3. XVII. 1, 2.)

Sed mox inter Lysimachum et Pyrrhum, socios paullo ante adversus Demetrium, bellum exarsit. Victor Lysimachus, pulso Pyrro, Macedoniam occupavit. Inde Thraciae bellum intulit. Mox post varia ostenta, quae Lysimacho dira portendebant, Agathoclem, filium, Arsinoē neverca veneno interfecit. Hoc parricidium principum secuta est caedes, luentium suppicia, quod occisum juvenem dolebant. Itaque et hi, qui caedibus superfuerant, et hi, qui exercitibus praeerant, certatim ad Seleucum deficiunt, eumque compellunt, ut bellum Lysimacho inferret. Ultimum hoc certamen commilitonum Alexandri fuit. Lysimachus quatuor et septuaginta annos natus erat; Seleucus septem et septuaginta. Sed in hac quoque aetate, utrique juvenilis erat animus, imperique cupiditatem insatiabilem gerebant. Lysimachus in eo bello strenue² moritur,³ amissis ante variis casibus quindecim liberis. Seleucus autem, solum se de cohorte Alexandri superesse gavisus, post septem menses a Ptolemaeo Cerauno,⁴ cuius sororem Lysimachus in matrimonio habuerat, per insidias circumventus, occiditur, regnumque Macedoniae, quod Lysimacho eripuerat, cum vita pariter amittit.

50. Motus in Graecia. (Justin. XXIV. 1. 3.)

Paulo post, dissidentibus inter se Ptolemaeo Cerauno et Antiocho⁵ et Antigono⁶ regibus, omnes ferme Graeciae civitates, ducibus Spartanis, ad spem libertatis erectae, in bellum prorumpunt; et, ne cum Antigono, sub cuius regno erant, bellum cepisse viderentur, socios ejus Aetolos aggrediuntur, causam belli praetendentes, quod sacratum Apollini campum Cirrhaeum⁷ per vim occupassent. Conjuncto exercitu, Aetolorumque finibus devastatis, magnam cladem passi sunt. Deinde, Spartanis bellum reparantibus, auxilium multae gentes negaverunt, existimantes, dominationem eos, non libertatem Gracciae quaerere. Interea inter reges bellum finitur. Nam Ptolemaeus, pulso Antigono, quum regnum to-tius Macedoniae occupasset, pacem cum Antiocho facit, affinitatemque cum Pyrrho, data ei in matrimonium filia sua, jungit. Sed brevi post, incredibilibus commissis sceleribus, a Gallis regno spoliatus captusque, vitam ferro, ut meruerat, amisit.

51. Galli in Graeciam penetrant. (Just. XXIV. 4, 5.)

Namque Galli, abundante multitudine, quum eos non caperent terrae, quae genuerant, trecenta millia hominum ad sedes novas quaerendas miserunt. Ex his portio in Italia consedit, quae et Romam incendit,¹ alia portio in Illyricos sinus penetravit, et in Pannonia² consedit, ubi per multos annos bella cum finitimis gesserunt. Hortante deinde successu, divisis agminibus, alii Greciam, alii Macedoniam petivere. Tantusque terror Gallici nominis fuit, ut etiam reges non lacessiti ultiro pacem ingenti pecunia mercarentur. Solus rex Macedoniae Ptolemaeus adventum Gallorum intrepidus audivit, hisque cum paucis et incompositis, quasi parcidiorum furiis agitatus, occurrit. Proelio commisso Macedones caeduntur. Ptolemaeus multis vulneribus saucius capit; caput ejus amputatum et lancea fixum circumfertur. Paucos ex Macedonibus fuga servavit: caeteri aut capti aut occisi.

52. Galli Brenno duce Delphos petunt. (Justin. XXIV. 6.)

Paullo post Brennus, quo duce portio Gallorum in Graeciam se effuderat, cum centum et quinquaginta millibus peditum et quindecim millibus equitum in Macedoniam irrumpit. Victo exercitu, totius regionis agros depraedatur. Tum Delphos iter vertit ad Apollinis templum spoliandum. Hoc tempulum positum est in monte Parnasso, in rupe undique impendente, cuius praecipiis, ut naturali praesidio, defenditur. Multa ibi et opulenta regum populorumque visuntur munera, quaeque magnificentia sua et gratam hominum voluntatem, et Apollinis veracitatem manifestant.

53. Cum ingenti clade repelluntur. (Just. XXIV. 7.)

Brennus quum in conspectu haberet templum, ad acuendos suorum animos, praedae ubertatem militibus ostendebat, statuasque cum quadrigis, quarum ingens copia procul visebatur, solido auro fusas esse affirmabat. Qua asseveratione incitati Galli, simul et mero saucii,³ sine respectu periculorum in bellum ruerant. Habebat Brennus lecta ex omni exercitu peditum sexaginta quinque millia; Delphorum sociorumque nonnisi quatuor millia militum erant. Hi plus in Deo, quam in viribus spei ponentes, cum contemtu hostium resistebant, Gallosque scandentes e summo montis vertice partim saxo, partim armis obruebant. Inter haec templorum antistites, sparsis crinibus, cum insignibus et infulis, in primam pugnantium aciem procurrunt, eos hortantes, ne cunctarentur diis antesignanis¹ hostem caedere. Quibus vocibus incensi omnes certatim in proelium prosiliunt. Praesentiam Dei statim sensere. Nam et terrae motu portio montis abrupta Gallorum stravit exercitum, et tempestas insecura grandine et frigore saucios absumsit. Dux ipse Brennus, quem dolorem vulnerum ferre non posset, pugione vitam finivit. Alter ex ducibus cum decem millibus sauciorum citato agmine Graecia excedit. Sed nec fugientibus fortuna aequior fuit; nullus sine labore et periculo dies; assidui imbræ et gelu, nix, famæ, lassitudine, et pervigiliae miseras infelicis belli reliquias obtere- bant. Quo pacto evenit, ut brevi² ex tanto exercitu nemo superasset.

54. Clade in Macedonia accepta, Galli in Asiam trajiciunt.
(Justin. XXV. 1, 2.)

Pace inter duos reges, Antigonum Gonatam, Demetrii filium, et Antiochum regem Syriae, statuta,³ quum in Macedoniam Antigonus reversus esset, Gallorum exercitus, qui a Brenno ad fines tuendos relictus erat, in Macedoniam irruptit. Qui quum classem in Hellesponti litoribus collocatam incautius diripiunt, a remigibus et ab exercitus parte, quae eo cum conjugibus et liberis confugerat, trucidantur; tantaque caedes Gallorum fuit, ut opinio⁴ hujus victoriae Antigono pacem, non a Gallis tantum, verum etiam a finitimis praestaret. Postea Galli, a Bithyniae rege in auxilium vocati, parta Victoria regnum cum eo diviserunt; eamque regionem Gallograeciam cognominaverunt.

55. Pyrrhus rex Epiri Macedoniam invadit. (Justin.
XXV. 3.)

Interea Pyrrhus ex Sicilia⁵ in Epirum reversus fines Macedoniac invadit; cui Antigonus cum exercitu occurrit, vinctusque proelio in fugam vertitur. Atque ita Pyrrhus Macedoniam in ditionem accipit; Antigonus autem cum paucis equitibus Thessalonicam se recepit, ut inde cum conducta Gallorum manu bellum repararet. Rursus a Ptolemaeo, Pyr-rhi filio, funditus victus, cum septem comitibus fugiens salutis latebras in solitudine quaerit.

56. Argos oppugnans occiditur. (Just. XXV. 4, 5.)

Pyrrhus autem, in tanto fastigio regni collocatus, Graeciae Asiaeque imperium meditatur. Primum illi bellum adversus Spartanos fuit: ubi majore mulierum quam virorum virtute exceptus, Ptolemaeum filium, et exercitus partem robustissimam amisit. Ptolemaeus in oppugnatione urbis usque in medium urbem procurrerat, ubi concursu multitudinis interfectus est. Cujus corpus ut relatum est patri, dixisse Pyrrhum ferrunt, aliquanto tardius eum, quam timuerit ipse, vel temeritas ejus meruerit, occisum esse. Ipse Pyrrhus quum a Spartanis repulsus Argos petisset, ibi inter confertissimos violentissime dimicans saxo de muris ictus occiditur. Satis constans inter omnes auctores fama est, nullum nec ejus, nec superioris aetatis regem comparandum Pyrrho fuisse. Nam et vitae sanctitate atque justitia optimos quosque aequabat; scientia rei militaris plurimos superabat, patriamque suam angustam et ignobilem, fama rerum toto orbe illustrem reddidit.

57. Antigonus Gallos magno proelio fundit. Bella inter Macedonas et Epirotas. (Just. XXVI. 1, 2, 3.)

Post mortem Pyrrhi non in Macedonia tantum, verum etiam in Asia Graeciaque magni bellorum motus fuere; civitatesque mutuis inter se odiis in bellum ruebant. Inter hos motus Antigonus, qui in Macedoniae regnum redierat, quum multiplici bello et Ptolemaei¹ regis et Spartanorum premere-tur, novusque ei hostis, Gallograeciae exercitus, affluxisset,² parva manu adversus caeteros relicta, adversus Gallos totis viribus proficiscitur. Galli, quum hostiae ante pugnam caesae infaustum pugnae exitum portenderent, in furorem versi conjuges et liberos suos trucidant, cruentique ex recenti suorum caede in proelium proficiscuntur. Omnes occidione caesi. Post hujus pugnae eventum, Ptolemaeus et Spartani victorem hostium exercitum declinantes, in tutiora se recipiunt. Antigonus ubi eorum discessum videt, bellum Atheniensibus infert. In quo quum occupatus esset, Alexander, rex Epiri, ulcisci mortem patris Pyrrhi cupiens, fines Macedoniae depopulatur. Adversus quem quum reversus a Graecia Antigonus esset, transitione militum destitutus,³ regnum Macedoniae cum exercitu amittit. Hujus filius Demetrius, puer admodum, absente patre, reparato exercitu, non solum amissam Macedoniam recipit, verum etiam Epiri regno Alexandrum spoliat. Tanta fortunae varietas erat! Paullo post tamen Alexander, non minore Epirotarum desiderio, quam suorum auxilio, in regnum restituitur.

58. Seleuci et Antiochi, fratrum, flagitia. (Justin. XXVII. 1, 2.)

Mortuo Syriae rege Antiocho, Seleucus, qui in ejus locum successerat, parricidio novercae, Ptolemaei sororis, inquinatus, a Ptolemaeo terra marique victus est. Quum, quo se vertet, non haberet, Antiochi fratribus auxilium implorat, oblata ei Asia inter fines Tauri montis, in praemium latae opis. Antiochus¹ autem, quum esset annos quatuordecim natus, supra aetatem regni avidus,² occasione arrepta fratrem regno spoliare conatus est. Ea tempestate omnia bella in exitium Asiae gerebantur. Seleucus et Antiochus fratres bellum propter Asiam gerebant; Ptolemaeus, rex Aegypti, sub specie sororiae ultiōnis, Asiae inhiabat: hinc Bithynus Eumenes, inde Galli Asiam depopulabantur. Victo Antiocho, quum Eumenes majorem Asiae partem occupasset, ne tunc quidem fratres a bello abstinuerunt. Antiochus victus, quum profugo nusquam tutus locus esset, ad Ptolemaeum hostem confugit. Sed Ptolemaeus eum servari arctissima custodia jubet. Hinc opera cuiusdam mulieris, quam familiarius noverat, custodibus deceptis, elabitur, fugiensque a latronibus interficitur. Seleucus quoque iisdem ferme diebus, amiso regno,³ equo praecepitatus obiit. Sic fratres, ambo exsules, ambo regno privati; similibus casibus, scelerum suorum poenas luerunt.

59. Antigonus, Philippi tutor, regnum Macedoniae administrat. (Justin. XXVIII. 3.)

Circa illa tempora Demetrius, rex Macedoniae, Antigoni Gonatae filius, relicto filio Philippo admodum parvulo decessit. Cui Antigonus Doson⁴ tutor datus, accepta in matrimonium matre pupilli, regem se constitui laborabat. Interjecto deinde tempore, quum seditione minaci Macedonum clausus in regia teneretur, in publicum sine satellitibus procedit, projectoque in vulgus diadema ac purpura, dare haec eos alteri jubet, qui aut imperare illis nesciat, aut cui parere ipsi sciant. Commemorat deinde beneficia sua, ut defectionem sociorum vindicaverit: ut Dardanos,⁵ Thessalosque exsultantes morte Demetrii regis compescuerit; ut denique dignitatem Macedonum non solum defenderit, verum etiam auxerit. Quorum si illos poeniteat, deponere se imperium et reddere illis munus suum; ipsi regem quaerant, cui imperent. Quum populus pudore motus recipere eum regnum juberet, tamdiu recusavit, quoad seditionis auctores supplicio traderentur.

60. Spartanos superat. Horum in malis virtus. (Justin. XXVIII. 4.)

Post haec bellum Spartanis infert, qui soli adhuc Macedonum arma contemnebant. Inter duas nobilissimas gentes summis viribus pugnabatur; quum hi pro vetere Macédonum gloria, illi non solum pro illibata libertate, sed etiam pro salute certarent. Victi Lacedaemonii¹ non ipsi tantum, sed etiam conjuges liberique magno animo fortunam tulere. Nemo quippe in acie saluti² pepercit; nulla amissum conjugem flevit; filiorum mortem senes laudabant; patribus in acie caesis filii gratulabantur; suam vicem omnes dolebant, quod non et ipsi pro patriae libertate cecidissent. Inter haec nullus in urbe strepitus, nulla trepidatio: magis omnes publicam quam privatam fortunam lugebant. Inter haec Cleomenes rex, post multas hostium caedes, toto corpore suo pariter et hostium cruce madens, supervenit; ingressusque urbem non humi conseedit, non cibum aut potum poposcit, non armorum onus depositus, sed acclinis parieti, quum quatuor millia sola ex pugna superfuisse conspexisset, hortatur, ut se ad meliora tempora reipublicae reservarent. Tum cum conjuge et liberis Aegyptum ad Ptolemaeum³ proficiscitur, a quo honorifice susceptus, diu in summa dignatione vixit. Postremo post Ptolemaei mortem a filio ejus⁴ cum omni familia interficitur. Antigonus autem fortunam tantae urbis miseratus a direptione milites prohibuit, veniamque his, qui superfuerunt, dedit. Nec multo post ipse decessit, regnumque Philippo pupillo, annos quatuordecim nato, tradidit.

61. Multa imperia nova regum successione mutantur.
(Justin. XXIX. 1.)

Iisdem ferme temporibus prope universi orbis imperia nova regum successione mutata sunt. Nam et in Macedonia Philippus, mortuo Antigono, regnum suscepit; et in Asia, interfecto Seleuco,⁵ impubes adhuc rex Antiochus⁶ constitutus est. Aegyptum, patre ac matre imperfectis, occupaverat Ptolemaeus, cui ex crimine facinoris cognomen *Philopátor*⁷ fuit. Etiam Spartani in locum Cleomenis suffécere Lycurgum; et apud Carthaginienses aetate immatura dux Hannibal constituitur, non penuria seniorum, sed odio Romanorum, quo eum a pueritia sciebant imbutum. In his regibus pueris magna indoles virtutis enituit. Solus Ptolemaeus, sicut scelestus in occupando regno, ita et segnis in administrando fuit.

62. Philippus cum Hannibale societatem contra Romanos jungit. (Justin. XXIX. 2. 4.)

Philippus quum, Dardanis aliisque finitimis superatis, Aetolis bellum inferre gestiret, a Demetrio, Illyriorum rege, impulsus est, ut Romanos aggrederetur. Querebatur ille Romanorum injuriam, qui non contenti Italiae terminis imperium totius orbis spe complexi,¹ bellum cum omnibus regibus gererent. Se cedere illi regno² quod Romani occupaverint, profitetur; gratus habiturus,³ si in possessione imperii sui socium potius quam hostes viderit. Hujusmodi oratione impulit Philippum, ut, omissionis Aetolis, bellum Romanis inferret, minus negotii⁴ existimatorem, quod jam victos ab Hannibale apud Trasimēnum⁵ lacum audierat. Itaque ne eodem tempore multis bellis distineretur, pacem cum Aetolis facit, navesque fabricare coepit, quibus in Italiam trajiceret. Legatum deinde ad Hannibalem, jundac societatis gratia, cum epistolis mittit; qui a Romanis comprehensus et ad senatum perductus, incolumis dimissus est, non in honorem regis, sed ne, dubius adhuc, indubitatius hostis redderetur.

63. Pacem cum Romanis facere cogitur.
(Justin. XXIX. 4.)

Paullo post autem quum Romanis nuntiatum esset, Philippum in Italiam copias trajecturum, Laevinum praetorem cum instructis navibus ad prohibendum transitum mittunt. Qui quum in Graeciam trajecisset, multis promissis impulit Aetolos, ut bellum adversus Philippum susciperent. Philippus quoque Achaeos in Romanorum bellum sollicitat. Interea et Dardani Macedoniae fines vastare coeperunt, et Laevinus praeter, juncta cum Attalo rege societate, Graeciam populatur. His aliisque rebus distractus rex Macedoniae cum Romanis pacem facit, contentis interim bellum Macedonicum distulisse; Philopoemēni autem, Achaeorum praetori, quem didicerat animos sociorum ad Romanos trahere, insidias praetendit. Quibus cognitis ille Achaeos auctoritate sua a rege Macedoniae prorsus abstraxit.

64. Ptolemaei quaedam gesta. (Just. XXX. 1, 2.)

Dum haec in Graecia geruntur, Ptolemaeus, qui ad necem utriusque parentis fratris quoque caudem adjunxerat, luxuriae se tradiderat, nec amici tantum, verum etiam omnis exercitus regis exemplum secuti erant. Quibus cognitis, Antiochus, rex Syiae, repento bello multas urbes ejus oppressit, ipsamque Aegyptum aggreditur. Ptolemaeus autem exercitu in Graecia ducto, secundum proelium facit, spoliassetque regno Antiochum, si fortunam virtute juisset. Sed contentus recuperatione urbium, quas amiserat, facta pace, in pristinam luxuriam revolutus, regnum perditissimis hominibus tanquam praedam permisit. Eo mortuo Alexandrini, suppicio de praedonibus illis sumto, legatos miserunt ad populum Romanum, rogantes, ut tutelam pupilli susciperent, tuerenturque regnum Aegypti, quod jam Philippum et Antiochum, facta inter se pactione, inter se divisisse dicebant.

65. Romani bellum contra Philippum suscipiunt.
(Justin. XXX. 3, 4.)

Grata legatio Romanis fuit, causam belli adversus Philippum quaerentibus, qui ipsis, belli Punici temporibus, insidias fuerat. Mittuntur itaque legati, qui Antiocho et Philippo denuntient, regno Aegypti abstineant. Mittitur et M. Lepidus in Aegyptum, qui tutorio nomine regnum pupilli administraret. Dum haec aguntur, legationes Attali et Rhodiorum, injurias Philippi querentes, Romam venerunt. Quae res omnem cunctationem Macedonici belli senatu exemit. Statim igitur titulo² ferendi sociis auxilii, bellum adversus Philippum decernitur, legionesque cum consule in Macedoniam mittuntur. Nec multo post tempore tota Graecia, fiducia Romanorum ad spem pristinae libertatis erecta, bellum Philippo intulit; atque ita quum rex undique urgeretur, pacem petere compellitur. Repudiata a Senatu pace, proelium commissum est apud Cynoscephalas in Thessalia inter Philippum et Flaminium, Romanorum ducem. Macedonas Romana fortuna vicit. Fractus itaque bello Philippus, pace accepta, nomen quidem regium retinuit; sed omnibus Graeciacae urbibus extra terminos antiquae possessionis amisis, solam Macedoniam retinuit.

66. Antiochum, Hannibalis consiliis adjutum, Romani aggrediuntur. (Justin. XXXI. 1, 2. 4.)

Interea Antiochus, rex Syriae, Aegyptum occupare statuit. Itaque Phoenicen, caeterasque Syriæ quidem, sed juris Aegypti civitates, quum invasisisset, legatos ad eum Senatus misit, qui denuntiarent ei, abstineret¹ regno pupilli populi Romani, postremis patris precibus fidei suae traditi. Quibus spretis, bellum ei denuntiatum est. Eodem tempore Nabis, Lacedaemoniorum tyrannus, multas Graeciae civitates occupaverat. Igitur Senatus, ne uno tempore duplici bello Romanæ vires distinerentur, scripsit² Flaminino, si ei videretur, sicuti Macedoniam a Philippo, ita Graeciam a Nabide liberaret. Terribile quippe Antiochi bellum nomen Hannibalis fecit, quem aemuli ejus cum Antiocho inisse societatem apud Romanos criminabantur. Qui quum sibi a Romanis insidias strui intellexisset, clam nave consensa, cursum ad Antiochum direxit. Ad hunc quum pervenisset, negabat opprimi Romanos nisi in Italia posse. Cujus consilia quum regi placerent, Romani ad Antiochum legatos misere, qui et regis apparatum specularentur, et Hannibalem assiduo colloquio³ suspectum invisumque redderent. Hic dolus bene illis successit. Quippe Antiochus reconciliatam ejus cum Romanis gratiam⁴ existimans, eum veluti hostem proditoremque sui odisse coepit.

67. Eum pugna navali superant. (Just. XXXI. 6.)

Dum igitur Antiochus, falsa suspicione deceptus, omnem belli apparatum temere et negligenter agit, Acilius, Romanus consul, omnia bello necessaria summa industria parat. Itaque prima belli congressione⁵ rex victus et fugatus castra dictia victoribus reliquit. Deinde quum in Asiam fugiendo pervenisset, poenitere neglecti consilii coepit, revocatoque in amicitiam Hannibale, omnia ex sententia ejus agere. Interim nuntiatur, Aemilium, Romanum ducem, cum octoginta rostratis navibus adventare. Itaque, priusquam sociae civitates ad hostes deficerent, decernere navali proelio statuit, sperans cladem in Graecia acceptam nova posse victoria aboleri. Tradita igitur Hannibali classe, proelium committitur.⁶ Sed nec Asiani milites Romanis, neque naves eorum pares rostratis navibus fuerunt; minor tamen clades ducis solertia fuit.

68. Antiochus pacis leges, a Romanis dictatas, repudiat.
 (Justin. XXXI. 7.)

Novae hujus victoriae fama nondum Romam venerat, quum jam Lucius Scipio consul creatus esset, qui bellum in Asia gereret. Huic datur legatus frater Africanus, cui Poeni et Hannibal superati nomen fecerant. Trajicientibus autem in Asiam exercitum Scipionibus, jam utrobique profligatum bellum nuntiatum est, victumque Antiochum terrestri, Hannibalem navali bello invenerunt. Primo igitur adventu eorum legatos pacem petentes ad eos Antiochus mittit, peculiare donum Africano ferentes ipsius filium, quem rex parvo navigio trajicientem cuperat. Leges pacis dicuntur: Ut rex Asia Romanis cederet, contentus regno Syriae esset, naves universas traderet, sumtumque omnem belli Romanis restitueret. Quae quum nuntiata Antiocho essent, nondum ita se victum esse respondit, ut spoliari se regno pateretur.

69. Magno proelio vincitur. (Justin. XXXI. 8.)

Igitur quum ab utrisque bellum pararetur, ingressique Asiam Romani Ilion¹ venissent, mutua gratulatio Iliensium ac Romanorum fuit, Iliensibus, Aeneam caeterosque duces cum eo a se projectos; Romanis, se ab his procreatos, referentibus Tantaque laetitia omnium fuit, quanta esse post longum tempus inter parentes et liberos solet. Projectis ab Ilio Romanis, Eumenes rex cum auxiliis occurrit; nec multo post proelium cum Antiocho commissum.² Quum in dexteriore cornu pulsa legio Romana ad castra fugeret, M. Aemilius, tribunus militum, ad tutelam castrorum relictus, armare se milites suos et extra vallum progredi jubet, strictisque gladiis fugientibus minari, morituros, nisi in proelium revertantur; infestioraque sua, quam hostium castra, inventuros. Attonita tam ambiguo³ periculo legio in proelium revertitur, magna que caede edita, initium victoriae fuit. Caesa hostium quinquaginta millia, capta undecim. Antiocho pacem petenti nihil ad superiores conditiones additum. Captas civitates inter socios divisere Romani.

70. Aetoli a Romanis victi. Achaeorum et Messeniorum bella.
 (Justin. XXX. 4. XXXII. 1.)

Aetoli,⁴ qui Romanis offensi, quod non omnem Macedoniam Philippo ademtam ipsis dedissent, Antiochum in bellum impulerant, illo victo soli remanserunt. Nec multo post victi, libertatem, quam adversus dominationem Atheniensium et Spartanorum inter tot Graeciae civitates soli retinuerant, amiserunt. Sub idem tempus bello inter Messenios et Achaeos exorto, Achaeorum imperator Philopoemen, in transitu fossae equo praecipitatus, a multitudine hostium oppressus est. Hunc, velut in illo omne bellum confecissent,¹ in modum triumphi per universam civitatem circumduxerunt. Deinde in carcerem ducto venenum dederunt; quod ille laetus, ac si vicisset, accepit, quaesito² prius, an Lycortas, praefectus Achaeorum, quem secundum a se esse sciebat, incolumis effugisset? Quem ut accepit effugisse, non in totum, dicens, consultum³ male Achaeis, exspiravit. Nec multo post reparato bello, Messenii vincuntur, poenasque interficti Philopoemenis pependerunt.

71. Regia Philippi Macedonis parricidio inquinatur. (Just. XXXII. 2.)

Interim regis Macedonum domus intestinis malis agitabatur. Nam quum Demetrius, Philippi filius, a patre Romam missus, ob insignem pudorem⁴ multa favoris documenta a senatu accepisset, patri invitus esse coepit, indignanti, plus momenti apud senatum personam filii, quam auctoritatem patris habuisse. Igitur Perseus, major filiorum regis, perspecta patris aegritudine, quotidie absentem Demetrium apud eum criminari, et primo invisum, mox etiam suspectum reddere; nunc amicitiam Romanorum, nunc proditionem ei patris objectare. Ad postremum insidias sibi ab eo paratas confingit, ad cuius criminis probationem immittit indices, testesque subornat. Quibus rebus patrem impulit, ut supplicium de innocentie sumeret.

72. Philippus moritur. (Justin. XXXII. 3.)

Occiso Demetrio sublatoque aemulo non negligentior tantum Perseus in patrem, verum etiam contumacior erat; nec heredem regni, sed regem se gerebat. His rebus offensus Philippus impatientius in dies mortem Demetrii dolebat, et, denique fraude cognita, non minus scelere Persei, quam innoxii Demetrii morte cruciabatur. Brevi post tempore, morbo ex aegritudine animi contracto decessit, relicto magno belli apparatu adversus Romanos, quo postea Perseus usus est.

73. Ultima Hannibalis fata. (Justin. XXXII. 4. Corn. Nep. Vita Hannib. c. 12.)

Hannibal, quum ab Antiocho Romani, inter caeteras conditiones pacis, deditio[n]em ejus deposcerent, admonitus a rege, Cretam confugit. Ibi quum sé propter nimias opes invidiosum¹ videret, contendit ad Prusiam, regem Bithyniae. Qui quum terrestri proelio ab Eumene victus esset, et bellum in mare transtulisset, Hannibal novo commento auctor victoriae fuit. Quippe omne serpentium genus² in fictiles lagenas conjici jussit, medioque proelio in naves hostium mitti. Id primum illis ridiculum visum. Sed ubi serpentibus repleri naves coepere, ancipiti periculo circumventi, hosti victoriam cessere. Quae ubi Romam nuntiata sunt, senatus legatos misit, qui utrumque regem in pacem cogerent, Hannibalemque deposcerent. His Prusias, quod petebant, negare non ausus, rogavit, ne id a se fieri postularent, quod adversus jus hospitii esset; ipsi, si possent, comprehendenderent; locum, ubi esset, facile inventuros. Hannibal enim uno loco se tenebat in castello, quod ei a rege datum erat muneri, idque sic aedificarat, ut in omnibus partibus aedificii exitum sibi haberet; semper verens, ne usu eveniret, quod accidit. Huc quum legati Romanorum venissent, ac multitudine domum ejus circumdedissent, puer a janua prospiciens Hannibali dixit, plures praeter consuetudinem armatos apparere. Qui imperavit ei, ut omnes fores aedificii circumiret, ac propere sibi renuntiaret, num eodem modo undique obsideretur. Puer quum omnes exitus occupatos ostendisset, sensit id non fortuito factum, sese peti, neque sibi diutius vitam esse retinendam. Quam ne alieno arbitrio dimitteret, memor pristinarum virtutum, venenum, quod semper s[ecundu]m habere consueverat, sumsit.

74. Perseus a Romanis victus; Macedonia in provinciae Rom. formam redacta. (Just. XXXIII. 1, 2.)

Jam Macedonicum bellum summa omnium virium contentione a Romanis geri coeptum est. Prima equitum congresio fuit, qua Perseus victor suspensam³ omnium exspectationem in sui favorem traxit; misit tamen legatos ad consul[m], qui pacem peterent, quam patri suo Romani etiam victo dedissent, impensas belli lege victi⁴ suscepturus. Sed consul Sulpicius non minus graves, quam victo,⁵ leges dixit. Dum haec aguntur, Romani Aemilium Paulum consulem creant, eique extra ordinem Macedonicum bellum decernunt; qui quum ad exercitum venisset, non magnam moram pugnae fecit. Pridie, quam proelium¹ consereretur, luna nocte defecit; quod ostentum Perseo cladem finemque Macedonici regni portendere vaticinabantur. Quod vaticinium non fefellerit. Perseus rex fuga cum decem millibus talentū Samothraciam² defertur; quēm Cnaeus Octavius ad persequendum missus a consule, cum duobus filiis, Alexandro et Philippo, cepit, captumque ad consulem duxit. Macedonia Romanorum ditioni addita. Aetolorum, nova semper bella in Graecia excitantium principes Romam missi, ibique, ne quid in patria novarent, diu detenti sunt. Tandem per multos annos legationibus civitatum senatu fatigata, in suam quisque patriam remissus est.

75. Romani in Achaeos causas belli quaerunt. (Justin. XXXIV. 1.)

Macedonibus subactis, Aetolorumque viribus debilitatis, soli adhuc ex universa Graecia Achaei nimis potentes tunc temporis Romanis videbantur, non propter singularum civitatum nimias opes, sed propter conspirationem³ universarum. Namque Achaei, licet per civitates divisi, unum tamen imperium habent, singularumque urbium pericula mutuis viribus propulsant. Quaerentibus igitur Romanis causas belli, tempestive fortuna querelas Spartanorum obtulit, quorum agros Achaei propter mutuum odium populabantur. Spartani a senatu responsum est, legatos se ad inspiciendas res socrorum in Graeciam missuros. Legatis clam mandatum est, ut corpus Achaeorum dissolverent. Hi itaque omnium civitatum principibus Corinthum evocatis, decretum senatus recitant, dicentes, expedire omnibus, ut singulae civitates sua jura et suas leges habeant. Quod ubi omnibus innotuit, velut in furorē versi universum peregrinum populum trucidant; legatos quoque ipsos Romanorum violassent, nisi hi, audito tumultu, trepidi fugissent.

76. Achaeis victis Corinthus diripitur. (Justin. XXXIV. 2.)

Haec ubi Romae nuntiata sunt, statim senatus Mummio consuli bellum Achaicum decernit, qui, omnibus strenue provisis, pugnandi copiam hostibus fecit. Sed apud Achaeos omnia neglecta et soluta fuerunt. Itaque praedam, non proelium agitantes,⁴ vehicula ad spolia hostium reportanda, secum duxerunt, et conjuges liberosque suos ad spectaculum certaminis in montibus posuerunt. Sed proelio commisso⁵ ante oculos suorum caesi sunt. Conjuges quoque et liberi eorum praeda hostium fuere. Urbs Corinthus diruitur: populus omnis sub corona venditur; ut hoc exemplo ceteris civitatibus metus novarum rerum¹ imponeretur.

77. Attalo defuncto, Asia fit Romanorum.
(Justin. XXXVI. 4.)

Non ita multo post etiam Asia Romanorum facta est. Attalus² ibi florentissimum ab Eumene patruo acceptum regnum caedibus amicorum et cognatorum suppliciis foedabat. Post multa scelera squalidam vestem sumit, barbam capillumque in modum reorum summittit:³ non in publicum prodire, non populo se ostendere, non domi laetiora convivia inire, prorsus ut poenas scelerum pendere videretur. Omissa deinde regni administratione, hortos fodiebat, gramina seminabat, et noxia innoxii permiscebatur, eaque omnia veneni succo infecta, velut peculiare munus, amicis mittebat. Postea aerariae artis fabricae se tradidit, cerisque fingendis et aere fundendo et proculendo oblectabatur. Matri deinde sepulcrum facere instituit: cui operi intentus, morbum ex solis fervore contraxit, et septima die decessit. Hujus testamento populus Romanus heres regni est institutus.

F. RES PARTHORUM.

1. Parthorum origines. (Justin. XLI. 1.)

Parthi,⁴ penes quos nunc Orientis imperium est, Scytharum exsules fuere. Hoc etiam ipsorum nomine manifestatur; nam Scythico sermone Parthi exsules dicuntur. Hi et Assyriorum et Medorum temporibus inter Orientis populos obscurissimi fuerunt. Postea quoque quum imperium Orientis a Medis ad Persas translatum est, veluti vulgus sine nomine, praeda victorum fuere. Postremo Macedonibus servierunt. A Romanis autem, binis bellis,⁵ per maximos duces, florentissimis temporibus, laccessiti, soli ex omnibus gentibus non pares solum,⁶ verum etiam victores fuere.

2. Parthorum mores. (Justin. XLI. 2.)

Administratio gentis post defectionem Macedonici imperii sub regibus fuit Proximus regibus populi ordo est: ex hoc duces in bello, ex hoc rectores in pace habent. Sermo inter Scythicum et Medicum medius et ex utrisque mixtus. Vestis olim sui moris;¹ posteaquam accessere opes, ut Medis, pellucida ac fluida.² Exercitum non, ut aliae gentes, liberorum, sed majorem partem servorum habent. Hos pari ac liberos suos cura habent, et equitare ac sagittare magna industria docent. Locupletissimus ut quisque est, ita plures in bello equites regi suo praebet. Cominus in acie proeliari, aut obsessas expugnare urbes nesciunt. Pugnant autem procurrentibus equis, aut terga dantibus; saepe etiam fugam simulant, ut incautiores adversus vulnera insequentes habeant.³ Diu pugnare nequeunt; et sane intolerandi forent, si, quantus est impetus, vis tanta et perseverantia esset. Plerumque in ipso ardore certaminis proelia deserunt, et paullo post pugnam ex fuga repetunt; ut, quum maxime te viciisse putas, tum tibi discrimen subeundum sit maximum. Munimentum ipsis equisque loricae plumatae sunt, quae utrumque toto corpore tegunt. Auri argentique nullus in armis usus.

3. Continuatio. (Justin. XLI. 3.)

Uxores singuli plures habent, iisque non convivia tantum virorum, verum etiam conspectum interdicunt. Carne nonnisi venatibus quaesita vescuntur.⁴ Equis omni tempore vectantur; illis⁵ bella, illis convivia, illis publica ac privata officia obeunt; super illos ire, consistere, mercari, colloqui. Hoc denique discrimen inter servos liberosque est, quod servi pedibus, liberi nonnisi equis incedunt. Sepultura vulgo aut avium aut canum laniatus est. Nuda demum ossa terra obruunt. In superstitionibus⁶ praecipua amnibus veneratio est. Caeterum ingenia genti tumida, seditiosa, fraudulenta, procacia; natura taciti;⁷ ad faciendum, quam ad dicendum, promptiores. Principibus metu, non pudore⁸ parent. Fides dictis promissisque nulla, nisi quatenus expedit.

4. Arsaces Parthos in libertatem vindicat. (Justin. XLI. 4.)

Post mortem Alexandri Magni quum inter successores ejus Orientis regna dividerentur, primum Stasanori cuidam sunt traditi, quum nullus Macedonum Parthorum imperium dignaretur accipere. Postea diductis Macedonibus in bellum civile, alios post alios habuere dominos. Tandem Arsaces vir incertae originis sed magnae virtutis, Seleuco,⁹ ad quem Parthorum populus per aliquod tempus pertinuerat, a Gallis in Asia victo, cum praedonum manu Parthos ingressus, imperium gentis invasit. Non magno deinde post tempore Hyrcanorum quoque regnum occupavit, et Seleucum ad defectores persequendos venientem, proelio vicit. Quem diem Parthi exinde solemnem, velut initium libertatis, observant.

5. Regnum firmat. (Justin. XLI. 5.)

Revocato deinde Seleuco novis motibus in Asiam, Arsaces dato laxamento, regnum Parthicum format, militem legit, castella munit, civitates firmat. Urbem quoque nomine Daram, in monte Zapaortenon condit, cuius loci ea conditio est, ut neque munitius quidquam esse, neque amoenius possit. Nam prae-ruptis montibus ita cingitur, ut tutela loci nullis defensoribus egeat; et soli circumiacentis tanta ubertas est, ut propriis opibus expleatur. Sic Arsaces, quaesito simul constitutoque regno non minus memorabilis Parthis, quam Persis Cyrus, matura senectute decedit. Cujus memoriae hunc honorem Parthi tribuerunt, ut omnes exinde reges suos Arsacis nomine nuncupent. Hujus nepos, Arsaces et ipse nomine dictus, quindecim annis in regno actis decessit, relictis duobus filiis, Mithridate et Phrahate; quorum major Phrahates more gentis, heres regni, Mardos, validam gentem, bello domuit, nec multo post decessit, multis filiis relictis; quibus praeteritis,¹ fratri potissimum Mithridati, insignis virtutis viro, reliquit imperium, patriae potius quam liberis consulendum ratus.

6. Mithridates regni fines profert. (Justin. XLI. 6.)

Hic vir spem de se conceptam non fefellit. Bello inter Parthos et Medos orto, post varios utriusque populi casus, ad postremum Victoria penes Parthos fuit. His viribus auctus Mithridates Mediae Bacasin paeponit, ipse in Hyrcaniam proficiscitur. Unde reversus bellum cum Elymaeorum² rege gessit, quo victo hanc quoque gentem regno adjecit, imperiumque Parthorum a monte Caucaso, multis populis in ditionem redactis, usque ad flumen Euphratem protulit. His actis adversa valetudine correptus, non minor Arsace proavo, gloriosa senectute decessit.

7. Regum Parthorum successio. (Just. XLII. 1, 2, 3.)

Huic Phrahates filius successit. Qui cum Scythis bellum gerens a Graecis militibus, quibus in bello captis et crudeliter tractatis, imprudentius, ut suis, utebatur, in pugna relictus atque occisus est. In hujus locum Artabanus, patruus ejus, rex substituitur; qui bello Thogariis¹ illato, in brachio vulneratus, statim decedit. Huic Mithridates filius succedit, cui res gestae Magni cognomen dedere: quippe claritatem parentum animi magnitudine supergreditur. Multa bella cum finitim magna virtute gessit, multosque populos Parthico regno addidit. Etiam cum Scythis prospere aliquoties dimicavit. Ad postremum Ortoadisti, Armeniorum regi, bellum intulit; quo debellato propter crudelitatem a Senatu Parthico regno pellitur.

8. Romanorum legiones a Parthis trucidantur.
(Justin. XLII. 4.)

Vacans regnum occupavit Orōdes, Mithridatis frater. Qui quum Babyloniam, quo Mithridates confugerat, diu obsideret, oppidanos fame coactos in deditioem compulit. Mithridates quoque, fiducia cognitionis, ultiro se in protestatem Orodis tradit. Sed Orodēs plus hostem, quam fratrem, cogitans, in conspectu suo eum trucidari jussit. Post haec bellum cum Romanis gessit, Crassumque imperatorem cum filio et omni exercitu Romano delevit. Hujus filius Pacorus, missus ad persequendas Romani belli reliquias, magnis rebus in Syria gestis, patri suspectus in Parthiam revocatur; quo absente, exercitus Parthorum relictus in Syria a Cassio, quaestore Crassi, cum omnibus ducibus trucidatur.

9. Romani Parthos magno proelio vincunt.
(Justin. XLII. 4.)

His ita gestis non multo post tempore, apud Romanos inter Caesarem et Pompejum civile bellum exarsit, in quo Parthi Pompejanarum partium fuere. Victis partibus Pompejanis, et Cassio et Bruto auxilia adversus Augustum et Antonium misere, et post belli finem rursum, Pacoro duce, Syriam et Asiam vastavere, castraque Ventidii, qui absente Pacoro exercitum Parthicū fuderat, magna mole aggrediuntur. Sed ille simulato timore, diu continuuit se, et insultare² Parthos aliquantis per passus est. Ad postremum in securos laetosque partem legionum emisit, quarum impetu fusi Parthi in diversa abidere. Pacorus quum fugientes suos abduxisse secum legiones Romanas putaret, castra Ventidii, velut defensoribus privata, aggreditur. Tum Ventidius, reliqua parte legionum emissā, universam Parthorum manum cum rege ipso Pacoro interfecit. Nullo bello Parthi unquam majus vulnus accepterunt.

10. Orodis, regis Parthorum, de morte filii luctus.
 (Justin. 1. c.)

Haec quum in Parthia nuntiata essent, Orodes, pater Pacori, qui paullo ante vastatam Syriam, Asiam a Parthis occupatam esse audiverat, victoremque Pacorum Romanorum gloriabatur, repente filii morte et exercitus clade audit, ex dolore in furorem vertitur.¹ Multis diebus non alloqui quemquam, non cibum sumere, non vocem mittere, ita ut etiam mutus factus videretur. Post multos deinde dies, ubi dolor vocem laxaverat,² nihil aliud quam Pacorum vocabat, illum videre, illum audire se putabat. Post longum deinde luctum alia sollicitudo miserandum senem invadit, quem ex numero triginta filiorum in locum Pacori regem destinet. Multae pellices, ex quibus generata tanta juventus erat, pro suis quaeque sollicitae, animum senis obsidebant. Sed fatum Parthiae fecit, ut sceleratissimus omnium, et ipse Phrahates nomine, rex statueretur.

11. Phrahatis saevitia et exilium. (Just. XLII. 5.)

Hic itaque, beneficium parricidio rependens, patrem interficit; fratres quoque ad unum omnes trucidat. Jam quum infestos sibi optimates propter assidua scelera videret, ne esset, qui in suum locum nominari rex posset, adultum filium interfici jubet. Huic Antonius bellum cum sedecim validissimis legionibus intulit, sed graviter multis proeliis vexatus, a Parthia refugit. Qua Victoria insolentior Phrahates redditus, quum in dies magis saeviret, in exilium a populo pellitur. Exiliis impatiens, quum diu finitimas civitates, ad postremum Scythas precibus fatigasset, Scytharum maxime auxilio in regnum restituitur. Eo absente regem Parthi Tiridaten quemdam constituerant; qui, auditō adventu Scytharum, cum magna amicorum manu ad Caesarem,³ in Hispania bellum tunc temporis gerentem, profugit, obsidem Caesari minimum filium Phrahatis fērens, quem negligentius custoditum rapuerat.

12. Augustus Phrahatem terret. (Justin. 1. c.)

Quo cognito, Phrahates statim ad Caesarem legatos mittit, servum suum Tiridaten et filium remitti sibi postulat. Qua legatione audita, Caesar, neque Tiridaten dediturum se Parthis, dixit, neque adversus Parthos Tiridati auxilia daturum. Simul Phrahati filium sine pretio remisit, et Tiridati, quoad manere apud Romanos vellet, opulentum sumtum praeberi jussit. Post haec finito Hispanensi bello, quum in Syriam ad componendum Orientis statum venisset, metum Phrahati incussum. Quare hic ut bellum a Parthiae finibus averteret, omnes captivos ex Crassi et Antonii legionibus colligi jussit, eosque simul cum signis militaribus¹ Augusto remisit. Sed et filii nepotesque Phrahatis obsides Augusto dati, plusque Caesar magnitudine sui nominis fecit, quam armis alias imperator facere potuisset.

G. RES SICILIAE.

1. Siciliae origines. (Justin. IV. 2.)

Siciliae primo Trinacriae² nomen fuit: postea Sicania³ cognominata est. Haec a principio patria Cyclōpum fuit, quibus extinctis Cocalus regnum insulae occupavit; post quem singulae civitates in tyrannorum imperium concesserunt, quorum nulla terra feracior fuit. Horum ex numero Anaxilāus justitia cum caeterorum crudelitate certabat; cuius moderationis haud mediocrem fructum tulit. Quippe decedens quum filios parvulos reliquisset, tutelamque eorum Micýtho, spectatae fidei servo, commisisset, tantus amor memoriae ejus apud omnes fuit, ut parere servo, quam carere regis filiis malent, principesque civitatis, oblii dignitatis suaे, regni majestatem administrari per servum paterentur.

2. Carthaginienses in Sicilia. (Justin. IV. 2.) Dionysius major. (Ibid. XX. 1. 5.)

Imperium Siciliae etiam Carthaginienses tentavere; diuque varia fortuna cum tyrannis dimicatum. Ad postremum amisso Hamilcare imperatore cum exercitu, aliquantis per quievere victi. Insequentī tempore Dionysius, Carthaginiensibus victis, totius insulae imperium occupavit. Tum, desidiam exercitus sui timens, copias in Italiam trajecit. Prima illi militia adversus Graecos fuit, qui proxima Italici maris litora tenebant; quibus devictis, finitimos quoque aggreditur, omnesque Graeci nominis,⁴ Italiam possidentes, hostes sibi destinat; quae gentes non partem, sed universam ferme Italiam ea tempestate occupaverant. Expugnatis Locris, Crotonienses aggreditur, qui cum parvis copiis fortiter restituerunt. Hoc bello occupatum Dionysium legati Gallorum, qui paucos ante menses Romanum incenderant,¹ societatem amici tiamque petentes adeunt. Grata legatio Dionysio fuit. Ita pacta societate, et auxiliis Gallorum auctus, bellum velut ex integro restaurat. Sed eum in Siciliam adventus Carthaginensium revocavit, qui, reparato exercitu, bellum auctis viribus repetebant. Nec multo post Dionysius, assiduis bellis victus fractusque, ad postremum suorum insidiis interficitur.

3. Dionysius minor patri succedit. (Just. XXI. 1.)

Eo extinto milites maximum natu ex filiis ejus, nomine Dionysium, in ejus locum suffecere. Qui, ut popularium animos inter initia regni sibi conciliaret, nexorum² tria millia ex carcere dimittit; tributa populo intra triennium remittit, et, quibuscumque delinimentis potest, animos omnium sollicitat.³ Tunc fratrum suorum avunculos, veluti aemulos imperii sui, hortatoresque puerorum ad divisionem regni, sustulit, ipsosque paullo post fratres interficit.

4. Regno pellitur. (Just. XXI. 2.)

Sublatis aemulis in segnitiem lapsus, saginam corporis ex nimia luxuria, oculorumque valetudinem contraxit, adeo ut non solem, non pulverem, non denique splendorem ferre lucis posset. Propter quae dum contemni se putat, saevitia grassatur, civitatemque caedibus implet. Quae saevitia quum eum omnibus invisum reddidisset, et bellum denique Syracusani adversus eum decrevissent, diu dubitavit,⁴ imperium deponeret an bello resisteret. Sed a militibus, praedam ex urbis direptione sperantibus, descendere in proelium cogitur. Plus semel victus, legatos ad Syracusanos mittit, spondens, se depositurum tyrannidem, si mitterent ad eum, quibuscum sibi de pace conveniret. In quam rem missos primores in carcere retinet,⁵ atque ita, incautis omnibus nec quidquam hostile metuentibus, exercitum ad delendam civitatem mittit. Fit igitur in ipsa urbe anceps proelium; in quo, oppidanis multitudine superantibus, Dionysius pellitur, qui quum obsidionem arcis timeret, cum omni regio apparatu in Italiam profugit tacitus.

5. Post tyrannidem in Locrenses exercitam Syracusas redit.
 (Justin. XXI. 2, 3.)

Exul a Locrensis sociis exceptus, velut jure regnaret, ar-cem occupat, solitamque sibi saevitiam exercet. Opulentiores interfecit, matronas etiam nonnullas ad prodendas virorum pecunias torquet. Quum his artibus per annos sex regnasset, conspiratione Locrorum¹ civitate pulsus, in Siciliam redit. Ibi Syracusas, securis omnibus, post longam intercedinem pa-cis, per proditionem recipit.

6. A Timoleone pulsus Corinthum concessit. (Justin. XXI.
 5. Conf. Corn. Nep. Vita Timol. 2.)

Ibi quum gravior crudeliorque in dies civitati esset, iterata conspiratione obsidetur. Petiverant autem ejus adversarii opem a Corinthiis, ducemque, quo in bello uterentur, postulaverant. Ab illis Timoleon missus, incredibili felicitate Dionysium tota Sicilia depulit. Tunc, deposito imperio, Corinthum in exilium proficiscitur. Ibi, humillima quaeque tutissima existimans, in sordidissimum vitae genus descendit; in publico vagabatur et potabat; totis diebus in popinis deside-bat, cum perditissimo quoque de minimis rebus disceptabat, pannosus et squalidus incedebat; quae omnia facere videbatur ut contempnendus magis quam metuendus videretur. Denique, ludimagistrum professus, pueros in trivio docebat.

7. Agathoclis tyranni genus et vita. (Just. XXII. 1.)

Paucis annis interjectis Agathocles ex humili genere ad regnum Syracusarum totiusque Siciliae pervenit. Quippe in Sicilia patre figulo natus, juveniles annos omni infamiae gene-re inquinavit, latrocinia quoque exercuit. Interjecto tempore quum Syracusas concessisset, diu sine fide fuit;² deinde greggariam militiam sortitus, non minus tunc seditiosa, quam anteturpi vita, in omne facinus promissimus erat. Nam et manu strenuus, et in concionibus perfacundus habebatur.
 Brevi itaque centurio, ac deinceps tribunus militum factus est.
 Jam quum in diversis proeliis insignem fortitudinem praestitisset, dignus est habitus, qui in locum defuncti ducis Damasconis sufficeretur. Tum bis occupare imperium Syracusarum voluit, bis in exilium actus est.

8. Tyrannidem Agathocles occupat. (Just. XXII. 2.)

Quum apud Murgantinos¹ exularet, ab his odio Syracusorum primo praetor, mox dux belli creatur. In eo bello et urbem Leontinorum² capit, et patriam suam Syracusas obsidere coepit. Sed quum videret, fortius defendi urbem, quam oppugnari, precibus per internuntios Hamilcarem exorat, ut inter se et Syracusanos pacis arbitrium suscipiat. Quo intercedente non pax tantum Agathocli conciliatur, verum etiam praetor Syracusis constituitur. Quo facto, acceptis ab Hamilcare quinque millibus Afrorum, potentissimos quosque ex principibus interficit, senatum trucidat, et ex plebe quoque locupletissimos et promtissimos tollit.

9. Agathoclis bella cum Poenis. (Just. XXII. 3—6.)

His ita gestis militem legit exercitumque conscribit; quo instructus finitimas civitates, nihil hostile metuentes, ex improviso aggreditur. Deinde quum adversus Poenos arma movisset, Poenique victores Syracusas obsidione cinxissent, mira prorsus audacia bellum in Africam transferre statuit. Itaque oppidanis ad obsidionis necessitatem frumento instructis, comitibus duobus adultis filiis, Archagatho et Heraclida, cursum in Africam direxit. Quo quum venisset, universas naves, consentiente exercitu, incendi jubet, ut omnes scirent, auxilio fugae ademto,³ aut vincendum aut moriendum esse. Deinde quum omnia, quaunque ingredenterentur, prosternerent, villas castellaque incenderent, obvius ei fuit cum triginta millibus Poenorū Hanno; sed, proelio commisso, duo⁴ de Siculis, tria millia de Poenis cum ipso duce cecidere. Hac Victoria et Siculorum animi eriguntur et Poenorū franguntur. Castra deinde in quinto lapide a Carthagine statuit, ut vastitatem agrorum et incendia villarum de muris ipsius urbis specularentur.⁵

10. Agathocles Poenos e Sicilia pellit. (Justin. XXII. 7, 8.)

His Poenorū malis etiam deletus in Sicilia cum imperatore exercitus accessit. Nam post profectionem Agathoclis Poeni in obsidione urbis segniores redditi, ab Antandro, fratre Agathoclis, occidione caesi nuntiabantur.⁶ Itaque quum domi forisque eadem fortuna Carthaginiensium esset, non tributariae tantum ab his urbes, sed etiam socii reges defiebant. Quorum copiis auctus,⁷ Carthaginienses gravi proelio superat. Quo facto, tradito exercitu filio Archagatho, in Siciliam rediit, nihil actum existimans, si amplius Syracusae obsiderentur. Nam post occisum Hamilcarem, Gisgonis filium, novus eo a Poenis missus exercitus fuerat. Statim igitur primo adventu ejus Siciliae urbes, auditis rebus, quas in Africa gesserat, certatim se ei tradunt, atque ita pulsis e Sicilia Poenis, totius insulae imperium occupavit. In Africam deinde reversus, seditione militum excipitur. Nam stipendiiorum solutio in adventum patris dilata a filio fuerat. Igitur ad concionem vocatos blandis verbis permulsit: stipendia illis dicens ab hoste quaerenda esse: communem victoriam communem praedam futuram. Sedato itaque militari tumultu, ad castra hostium exercitum ducit; ibi inconsultius proelium committendo, majorem partem exercitus perdidit. Quum itaque in castra fugisset, militesque ob stipendum non solutum metueret, concubia nocte solus cum Archagatho filio profugit. Archagathus tamen, qui a patre noctis errore¹ discesserat, a militibus comprehensus reducitur. Tum pacatione cum hostibus facta, milites, interfectis Archagathi liberis, Carthaginiensibus se tradidere; Archagathus ipse ab Arcesilao, amico antea patris, occisus est. Post haec Poeni ad persequendas belli reliquias duces in Siciliam miserunt, cum quibus Agathocles pacem aequis conditionibus fecit.

11. Agathocles moritur. (Justin. XXIII. 2.)

Brevi post tempore, Agathocles, quum spe ampliandi² regni in Italiam trajecisset, gravi morbo correptus est. Quum jam nulla spes esset, eum hoc malo liberari posse, bellum inter filium ejus nepotemque oritur, regnum jam quasi mortui vindicantes, occisoque filio, regnum nepos occupavit. Inter haec domestica mala rex moritur. Carthaginienses autem, cognitis quae in Sicilia agebantur, occasionem totius insulae occupandae datam sibi existimantes, magnis viribus³ eo trahiciunt, multasque civitates subigunt.

12. Pyrrhus Siciliam occupat et amittit.
(Justin. XXIII. 3.)

Eo tempore Pyrrhus, rex Epiri, adversus Romanos bellum gerebat:⁴ qui imploratus a Siculis in auxilium, quum Syracusas venisset, multasque civitates subegisset, rex Siciliae appellatur. Post haec multa secunda proelia cum Carthaginiensibus facit. Interjecto deinde tempore, quum legati ab Italicis sociis venissent, nuntiantes, Romanis resisti non posse, deditio nemque futuram, nisi subveniat victorem exercitum in Italiam trajecit. Quo facto socii in Sicilia ab eo defecerunt, et imperium Siciliae tam cito amisit, quam facile quaesierat. Sed nec in Italia meliore felicitate usus in Epirum revertitur.

13. Hiero, Hieroclis filius, imperium Siciliae adipiscitur.
(Justin. XXIII. 4.)

Post profectionem a Sicilia Pyrrhi, magistratus Hiero¹ creaturet, cuius tanta moderatio fuit, ut, consentiente omnium civitatum favore, dux adversus Carthaginenses primum, mox rex, crearetur. Hujus futurae magnitudinis multa fuerunt omina. Quippe genitus patre Hierocle, nobili viro, a patre, quod ex ancilla natus esset, expositus erat. Sed parvulum apes multis diebus aluerunt. Ob quam rem responso aruspicum admonitus pater, qui regnum infanti portendi canebat, puerum recepit, omnique studio ad spem majestatis, quae promittebatur,² instituit. Eidem, in ludo inter aequales discenti, lupus, in turba puerorum repente conspectus, tabulum eripuit. Adolescenti quoque, prima bella ineunti, aquila in clypeo, noctua in hasta consedit. Denique adversus provocatores saepe pugnavit, semperque victoriam reportavit. A Pyrrho rege multis militaribus donis donatus est. Pulcritudo ei corporis insignis, vires quoque in homine admirabiles fuere; in alloquio blandus, in negotio justus, in imperio moderatus, prorsus ut nihil ei regium deesse, praeter regnum, videretur.

H. DE HISPANIA QUAEDAM.

1. Hispaniae descripto. (Justin. XLIV. 1.)

Hispaniam veteres ab Ibéro amne primum Iberiam, postea ab Hispano³ Hispaniam cognominaverunt. Haec, inter Africam et Galliam posita, Oceani freto et montibus Pyrenaeis clauditur. Sicut minor utrāque terrā, ita utrāque fertilior. Nam neque, ut Africa, violento sole torretur, neque, ut Gallia, assiduis ventis fatigatur, sed media inter utramque in omnia frugum genera fecunda est, adeo ut non ipsis tantum incolis, verum etiam Italiae urbique Romanae cunctarum rerum abundantiam suppeditet. Hinc enim magna copia est frumenti, vini, mellis et olei; nec ferri solum materia praecipua est, sed et equorum pernices greges; nec summae tantum terrae laudanda bona,¹ verum et abstrusorum metallorum felices divitiae. Jam lini spartique vis ingens; minii certe nulla feracior terra. In hac cursus amnium non torrentes rapidique, ut noceant, sed lenes, et vineis campisque irrigui,² plerique etiam divites auro. Uno tantum Pyrenaei montis dorso adhaeret Galliae, reliquis partibus undique mari cingitur. Salubritas coeli per omnem Hispaniam aequalis, quia aëris spiritus nulla paludum gravi nebula inficitur. Huc accedunt et marinae aurae undique-versus assidui fatus, quibus omnem provinciam penetrantibus, eventilato terrestri spiritu, praecipua hominibus sanitas redditur.

2. Hispanorum mores. Viriathus dux. (Ibid. 2.)

Corpora hominum ad inediā³ laboremque, animi ad mortem parati. Bellum quam otium malunt; si extraneus⁴ deest, domi hostem quaerunt. Velocitas genti pernix, inquies animus; plurimis militares equi, et arma sanguine ipso cariora.⁵ Nullus in festos dies epularum apparatus. In magna tamen saeculorum serie nullus illis dux magnus, praeter Viriathum, fuit, qui annis decem Romanos varia victoria fatigavit. Cujus ea virtus et continentia fuit, ut, quum consulares exercitus frequenter vicerit, tantis rebus gestis non armorum, non vestis cultum, non denique victum mutaret, sed in eo habitu, quo primum bellare coepit, perseveraret; ut quivis gregarius miles ipso imperatore opulentior videretur.

3. Gallaecorum divitiae et mores. (Just. XLIV. 3.)

Pars Hispaniae, quae Gallaecia vocatur, aeris ac plumbi uberrima; tum et minio, quod etiam vicino flumini nomen dedit, et auro quoque ditissima adeo, ut etiam aratro frequenter glebas aureas exscindant. In hujus gentis finibus sacer mons est, quem ferro violari nefas habetur: sed si quando fulgure terra proscissa est, detectum aurum, velutí dei munus, colligere permittitur. Feminae res domesticas agrorumque culturam administrant; ipsis⁶ armis et rapinis serviunt.⁷ Praecipua his quidem ferri materia, nec tamen ullum apud eos telum probatur, quod non aut Bilbili fluvio aut Chalýbe tinctum sit.

4. Carthaginiensium in Hispania imperium.
 (Justin. XLIV. 5.)

Mature Carthaginienses imperium Hispaniae occupavere. Nam quum Gaditanis Tyro, unde et Carthaginiensibus origo est, sacra Herculis in Hispaniam transtulissent, urbemque ibi condidissent, finitimi incrementis novae urbis invidentes, Gaditanos bello lacessiverunt. Consanguineis Carthaginienses auxilium miserunt. Ibi felici expeditione et Gaditanos ab injuria vindicaverunt, et majorem partem Hispaniae imperio suo adjecterunt. Postea quoque, hortante primae expeditionis successu, Hamilcarem imperatorem cum magna manu ad occupandam provinciam misere, qui, magnis rebus gestis, dum fortunam inconsultius sequitur, in insidias deductus occiditur. In hujus locum gener ipsius Hasdrubal mittitur; qui et ipse a servo Hispani cujusdam, ulciscente domini injustam necem, interfectus est. Major utroque Hannibal, Hamilcaris filius, successit. Hic universam Hispaniam domuit; inde bello Romanis illato, Italiam per annos sexdecim variis cladibus fatigavit; quum interea Romani, missis in Hispaniam Scipionibus, primo Poenos provincia expulerunt, postea cum ipsis Hispanis gravia bella gesserunt. Nec prius Hispani jugum potuerunt accipere, quam Caesar Augustus, perdomito orbe terrarum, victricia ad eos arma transtulit, populumque barbarum et ferum, legibus a cultioris vitae usum traductum, in formam provinciae rededit.

1. RES MASSILIENSIMUM.

1. Phocaeenses Massiliam condunt. (Just. XLIII. 3.)

Temporibus Tarquinii Superbi, Romanorum regis, ex Asia Phocaeensium juventus, patria profuga, Massiliam inter Ligures² et feras gentes Gallorum condidit, et, dum se armis adversus Gallicam feritatem tuentur, magnas res gesserunt. Duces classis Simos et Protis fuerunt. Hi regem Segobrigiorum, Nannum nomine, in cuius finibus urbem condere gestiebant, conveniunt. Forte eo die rex occupatus in apparatu nuptiarum Gyptis filiae erat; quam more gentis, electo inter epulas genero, nuptum tradere illic³ parabat. Itaque quum ad nuptias invitati omnes proci essent, rogantur etiam Graeci hospites ad convivium. Introducinga deinde virgo quum juberetur a patre aquam porrigeret ei, quem virum eligeret, tunc, omissis omnibus, ad Graecos conversa, aquam Proti porrigit; qui factus ex hospite gener, locum condendae urbis a socero accepit. Condita igitur est Massilia prope ostia Rhodani amnis, in remoto sinu, velut in angulo maris. Sed Ligures, incrementis urbis invidentes, Graecos assiduis bellis fatigabant.¹ Qui pericula propulsando in tantum² enituerunt, ut, victis hostibus, in captivis agris multas colonias constituerent.

2. Massiliensibus a finitimis struuntur insidiae.
(Justin. XLIII. 4.)

Ab his igitur Galli et usum vitae cultioris et agrorum cultus, et urbes moenibus cingere didicerunt. Tunc et legibus, non armis vivere, tunc et vitem putare, tunc olivam serere consueverunt. Mortuo rege Nanno Segobrigiorum, a quo locus condendae urbis acceptus fuerat, quum regno filius ejus Comanus successisset, affirmat Ligur quidam, Massiliam, quandoque³ finitimis populis exitio futuram, in ipso ortu opprimendum esse. Subnectit et fabulam: canem gravidam aliquando a pastore locum petisse precario, in quo pareret; quem quum obtinuisse, iterato petisse, ut sibi educare eodem in loco catulos liberet; ad postremum, adultis catulis, pastorem illam, domestico praesidio fortem,⁴ depellere non potuisse. His incitatus rex insidias Massiliensibus struit. Itaque solemni Floraliorum⁵ die multos fortes et strenuos viros hospitii jure in urbem misit; plures etiam frondibus tectos vehiculis induci jussit. Ipse cum exercitu in proximis montibus delitescit, ut, quum nocte portae apertae forent,⁶ tempestive adesset, urbemque somno ac vino sepultam⁷ armis invaderet. Sed has insidias mulier quaedam, regis cognata, prodidit, quae Graecum adolescentem, cuius amore tenebatur, miserata formae et fortunae ejus, periculum declinare jussit. Ille rem statim ad magistratus defert; atque ita patefactis insidiis, cuncti Ligures comprehenduntur. Quibus interfictis, insidiani regi insidiae tenduntur. Caesa sunt cum ipso rege hostium septem millia. Exinde Massilienses festis diebus portas claudere, vigilias agere, peregrinos recognoscere,⁸ ac veluti bellum habeant, urbem custodire.

3. Massiliensium bella. (Justin. XLIII. 5.)

Post haec magna illis cum Liguribus, magna cum Gallis fuere bella; quae res urbis gloriam auxit Graecorumque virtutem celebrem inter finitos reddidit. Carthaginiensium quoque exercitus, quum bellum, captis piscatorum navibus, ortum esset, saepe fuderunt, pacemque victis dederunt; cum Hispanis amicitiam junxerunt; cum Romanis prope ab initio conditae urbis foedus summa fide custodierunt, auxiliisque in omnibus bellis industrie socios juverunt. Quae res illis et virium fiduciam auxit, et pacem ab hostibus praestitit.

4. Finitimis impetum in eos facientibus, deorum cura servantur. (Ibid.)

Quum igitur Massilia fama rerum gestarum, et abundantia opum, et virium gloria floreret, repente finitimi populi ad nomen Massiliensium¹ delendum, veluti ad commune extingendum incendium, concurrunt. Dux consensu omnium Catu-mandus regulus eligitur, qui, quum magno exercitu lectissimorum virorum urbem hostium obsideret, per quietem specie torvae mulieris, quae se deam dicebat, exterritus, ultro pacem cum Massiliensibus fecit; petitoque,² ut intrare illi in urbem et deos eorum adorare liceret, quum in arcem Minervae venisset, conspecto simulacro deae, quam per quietem viderat, repente exclamat, illam esse, quae se nocte exterruisset; illam, quae recedere ab obsidione jussisset, gratulatusque Massiliensibus, quod animadverteret, eos ad curam deorum immortalium pertinere,³ torque aureo donata dea, in perpetuum amicitiam cum Massiliensibus junxit. Parta pace et securitate fundata legati Massiliensium, revertentes a Delphis, quo missi munera Apollini tulerant, audierunt urbem Romanam a Gallis captam incensamque.⁴ Quam rem domi numtiatam publico funere⁵ Massilienses prosecuti sunt; aurumque et argentum publicum privatumque contulerunt, ad exsplendum pondus Gallis, a quibus redemptam pacem cognoverant. Ob quod meritum et immunitas illis decreta et locus spectacularorum in senatu datus et foedus aequo jure percussum est.

BREVES E CICERONIS VITA NARRATIONES.

1. Cicero puer.

Marcus Tullius Cicero natus est Arpini, U. C. ann. DCXLVII., matre Helvia, ex honesta et nobili gente progenita, patre, Equite Romano, qui in amoenissima ad Arpinum regione habebat praedium, a majoribus acceptum. Ibi adolevit et educatus est Cicero. Pater ejus, quum bene perspiceret, quantam vim in omnem vitam haberet recte instituta liberorum educatio, mature filios optimis praceptoribus erudiendos tradidit. Jam quum Tullius, in quo alacre ingenium cum eximia assiduitate conjunctum mature elucescebat, bona in litterarum studiis incrementa cepisset, a patre Romam missus est, ubi celeberrimorum Graecorum scholis interesset. Quod quidem tanto successu tantaque cum praceptorum, tum caeterorum discipulorum, admiratione factum est, ut, quum fama de insigni Ciceronis ingenio et doctrina ad alias quoque manasset, non pauci, qui ejus videndi et audiendi gratia scholas adirent, reperti fuisse dicantur. Idem, quum forte eodem tempore Romae commoraretur Graecus quidam, Archias, poetica facultate excellens, familiaritatem cum eo junxit, ejusque praceptoris et exemplo ita profecit, ut ipse tum carmen, Pontius Glaucus inscriptum, multa arte componeret.

2. Cicero adolescens.

Sic educatus et omni litterarum genere egregie instructus decimum sextum aetatis annum agebat Cicero. Mos fuit apud Romanos, ut ii, qui hunc aetatis annum consecuti essent, toga virili induita, in forum prodirent, ibique populi concionibus, judiciis et orationibus, quibus publicae causae defenderentur, adessent. Praeterea juvenes Romani, ut attentius ad ea, quae e re sua essent, animos adverterent, senatori cuidam nobiliori, cuius nutu et auctoritate regerentur eorum studia, commendari solebant. Cicero igitur, toga virili sumta, a patre deductus est ad Q. Mucium Scaevolam augurem, tam rerum publicarum et civilium scientia, quam ingenio et doctrina, longe praestantissimum. Quem quidem quum Cicero, quod adolescentes honoris causa solebant facere, dederet in forum, reduceretque, nec unquam ab ejus latere discederet; non solum consilia, quae rogatus ille dabat, cupide arripiebat et animo recondebat, sed etiam vel commode, vel acute, vel prudenter ab eo dicta et disputata diligenter memoriae mandabat. Hinc factum est, ut brevi tempore et legum, et omnium, quae a bono causarum patrono exiguntur, cognitionem sibi pararet accuratissimam. Sed quum nulla re magis ad summos in republica honores viam muniri posse intelligeret, quam arte dicendi et eloquentia, toto animo in ejus studium incubuit; in quo quidem ita versatus est, ut non solum eos, qui in foro et judiciis causas perorarent, studiose sectaretur, sed privatim quoque, tam graecas orationes in latinam linguam vertendo, quam, quae ipse commentatus esset, declamando, diligentissime se exerceret. At ne in hoc quidem exercitationis genere acquievit. Nam eodem tempore non solum carmina, quibus Scaevolam et Atticum mirifice delectatos esse legimus, conscripsit, sed etiam philosophiae. Phaedro Epicureo imprimis duce, operam dedit.

3. Cicero miles.

Postquam juvenes Romani assidua in rebus forensibus exercitatione, et vario officiorum genere, senatus populique favorem atque gratiam sibi collegerant, tum, ut foris pariter ac domi de republica bene merere discerent, togam cum sago mutare, sive castra sequi, et virtutis bellicae documenta edere, debebant. Itaque Cicero, ut faceret et tentaret omnia, quibus in republica ad summos honores enitendum erat, militaris quoque artis scientiam sibi parare constituit. Nec dererat ei ad hanc rem occasio. Saeviente enim tum bello Sociali sive Marsico, quum consul Pompejus Strabo, Pompeji Magni pater, exercitum duceret contra hostiles copias, facile ab eo, ut in ejus comitatu sibi esse liceret, impetravit. In quo quidem bello, quamvis ad pacis magis, quam ad belli artes, natus esse videbatur Cicero, tamen nulli strenui militis defuit officio, et omnino ita se gessit, ut bellicae quoque virtutis laudem inde referret.

4. Cicero post militiam in urbem reversus.

Quum rerum publicarum status graviter tum concuteretur Sullae et Marii certaminibus, Cicero, ab omni partium studio alienus, oratoribus, qui tum excellebant, vacabat, vel ipse cogitata mentis litteris mandabat. Sed multum ille in hac re discrepabat a nostra aetatis hominum ingenio. Non enim protrusit et evulgavit statim, quae juvenis litteris consignaverat, sed ad maturiorem aetatem reposuit, et, quae minus tum probarentur ejus judicio, aut emendavit, aut plane delevit. Ad oratores autem, quorum exemplo et disciplina adjuta tum imprimis sunt Ciceronis studia, pertinent Philo Academicus et Molo Rhodius, Mithridatis furore atque violentia cum multis aliis e Graecia exacti. His quidem et Diodoto Stoico (quem recepit adeo in domum suam) eo impensius dedit operam, quo major ei inter Romanos oratores eminenti fuit cupiditas. Accenderat in primis Ciceronis studia exemplum Hortensii, omnium oratorum, qui tum Romae florebant, eloquentissimi. Hunc igitur tanto animi ardore aemulatus est, ut brevi tempore non aequaret tantum ejus laudem, sed etiam superaret.

5. Cicero in causa publica primum orator. prodit.

Cicero, viginti et sex annos natus, postquam in privatis causis jam pluribus operam suam commodaverat, nunc in publica causa eloquentiae suae copias expromendi occasionem nactus est. Nam quum Roscium quendam ex Ameria, parricidii accusatum, ob Chrysogoni, qui in ejus adversariis fuit, potentiam nemo defendere auderet; tanta eloquentiae vi et animi libertate eum defendit Cicero, ut jam tum in arte dicendi nullus ei par esse videretur. Ipse Cicero saepius magna cum animi voluptate hujus orationis et partae sibi per eam laudis meminit, quamvis idem, se nimium passim in hac oratione juvenili fervori induluisse et fines, intra quos contineri debuisse, transiluisse, in maturiore aetate constitutus haud dissimulat.

6. Cicero peregrinatur.

Anno post ad corporis male affecti valetudinem reficiendum Cicero in Asiam profectus est. Quum primum Athenas venisset, adeo hujus urbis commodis et opportunitatibus captus est, ut per sex menses ibi commoraretur. Nihil autem opportunius et jucundius in hac celebratissima Musarum sede obtingere potuit Ciceroni nostro, quam quod ei cum Antiocho, philosopho Academicō, non versari tantum, sed etiam apud eum habitare liceret. Sic enim nactus fuerat non solum amicum, quocum familiariter viveret, sed etiam magistrum, ad cuius praecepta philosophiae studia moderari posset. Ad vitae jucunditatē, qua Cicero Athenis fruebatur, multum conferebat Pomponii Attici, veteris amici et aequalis, quem ibi conveverat, consuetudo; quae quidem ita tum aucta et confirmata est, ut per totam reliquā vitā alter alteri exsisteret amicissimus. Eodem tempore apud Demetrium Syrum, veterem et haud ignobilem dicendi magistrum, studiose Noster in arte rhetorica se exercuit.

7. Cicero Asiam peragrat.

Athenis relictis Cicero iter flexit in Asiam, ibique cum principibus oratoribus, ad quos se applicaverat, Menippo Stratonicensi, Dionysio Magnete, Aeschylo Cnidio, Xenocle Adramytteo et aliis versatus est et nobilissimas Asiae urbes peragravit. Delatus denique est Rhodium, ubi, quem jam Romae audiverat, Moloni denuo operam dedit. Insignes, quos Cicero in arte dicendi interea fecerat, progressus mirabatur quidem Molo, sed idem vitia, quae vitanda essent oratori bono et gravi, libere ei indicavit. Nam quum res, quas Noster in orationibus describendas sibi sumserat, nimia verborum copia exaggeraret, et sententiarum lumina ingenii ostentandi causa nimis coacer-varet; humaniter eum monuit Molo, ut hunc juvenilem impetum reprimere, et, quae redundant; quasi extra ripas diffluentia, coercere studeret. Cujus quidem praecepti veritatem se bene jam tum percepisse, ipse grato animo profitetur.—Posidonium quoque, philosophum, qui Rhodi erat, diligenter audivit, eumque in philosophiae studio ducem adhibuit.

8. Cicero ex peregrinatione redux in urbem factus.

Biennio post quum Cicero Romam se recepisset, ibi, sicut ante peregrinationem, in foro versari atque causas perorare coepit. Ad eos, quorum causas tum Ciceronem defendisse constat, pertinet Roscius Comoedus, vir tam arte histriónica, quam ingenio et aliarum virtutum laude florentissimus. Quo crebrior autem causarum dicendarum oblata fuit Ciceroni occasio, eo luculentius exsplendescere coepit ejus fama atque gloria, et eo magis ad summos honores consequendos via ei aperta atque munita est.

9. Cicero Quaestor in Sicilia.

Quum Cicero trigesimum primum aetatis annum ageret, quo anno secundum leges Romanas magistratum ei capessere licebat, ab omnibus tribubus sine ulla suffragiorum varietate Quaestor creatus est. Jam vero quum creati Quaestores de provincia, quam quisque administraret, sortiri solerent, sortitione facta evenit Nostro Sicilia. Profectus igitur in provinciam tanta diligentia tantaque prudentia omnes ac singulas demandati sibi muneric partes explevit, ut non solum senatus populiique Romani favorem et gratiam, sed etiam Siculorum amorem atque benevolentiam sibi conciliaret. Romanis quidem, frumenti penuria et caritate hoc anno laborantibus, commeatu ex Sicilia subvecto egregie prospexit; Siculis vero tam mitem, comem, humanum et officiosum se praebuit, ut decadentem ex provincia inauditis, ut ipse testatur, honoribus ornarent, et, quocunque modo possent, gratum animum ei declararent.—Caeterum quicquid temporis, a publicis negotiis vacui, ei datum fuit in Sicilia, id exercitationibus, ad artem dicendi spectantibus, sacravit.

10. Cicero sepulchrum Archimedis investigat.

Priusquam Cicero ex Sicilia decederet, totam insulam peragrare, et, quicquid rerum memorabilium ibi reperiretur, cognoscere et oculis usurpare constituit. Quum Syracusis esset, principes quosdam, quibus ducibus in celeberrima illa urbe lustranda utebatur, ut sibi Archimedis sepulchrum monstrarent, rogavit. Illi quidem, se nihil plane unquam de Archimedis sepulchro inaudivisse ajebant, imo, illum Syracusis sepultum esse, omnino negabant. At Cicero, quum ei succurrerent versus quidam, Archimedis sepulchro inscripti, qui sphaeram cum cylindro in summo sepulchro positam esse declarabant, ab investigandi studio haud abstitit. Delatus igitur in locum, ubi magna veterum sepulchrorum frequentia fuit, quum omnia oculis collustrasset, ecce! animadvertis columellam, non multum e dumis et vepribus eminentem, in qua sphaerae et cylindri figura conspiciebatur. Statim locum circa columellam falcibus purgari et aperiri jubet; accedit ad columellam, et ipsos illos versus, quos memoria tenebat, adversae basi inscriptos invenit.

11. Cicero e Sicilia Romam reversus.

Cicero, Quaestoris munere insigni laude perfunctus, e Sicilia rediit Romam, gravissimis tum bellis pressam et distentam. Ibi per quinque annos in causis dicendis ita excelluit, ut inter omnes causarum patronos et esset et haberetur princeps. Jam vero quum ad eam aetatem pervenisset, (triginta et septem annos tum natus erat,) quae praestituta fuit aedilitatem vel praeturam petituris, nomen suum inter candidatos aedilitatis professus est eo successu, ut, praelatus caeteris candidatus omnibus, uno ore omnium Aedilis Curulis crearetur.

12. Cicero Verrem accusat.

Priusquam aedilitatem adibat Cicero, opportuna, qua summi oratoris artem ostenderet, oblata ei est occasio Verris accusatione. Homo iste, qui primum Quaestor, tum Praetor per tres deinceps annos in Sicilia fuerat, tanta avaritia et impudentia non privata tantum, sed etiam publica bona, diripuerat, ut Siculi, inaudita impudentia ab isto spoliati et expilati, diem ei Romae dicere constituerent. Quo magis autem illi jam olim non solum summum Ciceronis in causis dicendis ingenium et eloquentiam, sed etiam insignem ejus animi integritatem, humanitatem et benevolentiam perspexerant, eo vehementius nunc eum rogabant, ut accusationem contra Verrem susciperet. Nec defuit ille eorum precibus. Imo nefandam, qua in Siculorum bona grassatus fuerat Verres, avaritiam tanta orationis gravitate et animi libertate in judicio perstrinxit et ante omnium oculos posuit, ut iste, argumentorum vi convictus, sponte in exilium, ubi reliquam vitae partem transegit, abiret.

13. Cicero Aedilis Praetor.

Cicero, aedilitatem ingressus, solemnem illum morem, quo munera, sive ludos populo edere solebant novi Aediles, haud neglexit quidem, sed in eorum sumtibus faciendis sapienter modum tenuit, honestiorem rationem, qua populi gratiam et amorem sibi conciliaret, secutus. Nam, quum populus tum premeretur annonae caritate, splendidissima a Siculis sibi oblata munera impendebat eo, ut viliore annona veniret pretio. Quo quidem honesto liberalique studio populi in Cicero nem favor adeo auctus est, ut, quum post aedilitatem Praetoris munus peteret, inter octo Praetores, qui creabantur, prae multis aliis competitoribus totius populi suffragiis primus crearetur. Nec vana fuit populi de Ciceronis praetura expectatio. Nam sicut summam diligentiam, humanitatem, prudentiam et honestatem in quaesturae aedilitatisque ob-eundis officiis probaverat, ita in Praetoris munere gerendq summae justitiae, aequitatis, sanctitatis et temperantiae laude excelluit. Dum Praetor erat Cicero, cum alias orationes habuit, tum in primis orationem pro Lege Manilia. Nam quum Manilius, tribunus plebis, legem rogasset, qua Pompejo summum belli Mithridatici imperium decerneretur; Cicero in oratione illa Pompeji virtutes, summo duci proprias, tanta ubertate, gravitate atque elegantia descriptis et exposuit, ut, faciendum omnino esse, quod in lege Manilia suaderetur, omnes ac singuli judicarent.

14. Cicero post Praeturam.

Praetura perfunctis provincia, quam Propraetores administrarent, decerni solebat. Sed Cicero, neque divitiarum in provincia parandarum, neque rerum foris gerendarum admodum cupidus, detrectata provincia, Romae manere, et ibi rerum civilium scientiae et earum artium, quibus viam ad consulatum sibi aperiret, operam navare maluit. Itaque per duos post praeturam annos, (tantum enim temporis a praetura usque ad consulatus petitionem intercedere debebat,) quolibet officiorum genere populi favorem colligere, et hujus collecti favoris aura vela quasi sua ita implere studuit, ut fieri non posset, quin metam, h. e. consulatum, secundo cursu attingeret.

15. Cicero Consul.

Cicero igitur, tanto studio tantaque virtutum laude ad summos honores grassatus, aetatis anno quadragesimo tertio, quo secundum leges consulatum peti licebat, non tabellis, quibus alias suffragia in comitiis Consularibus dari solebant, sed voce universi populi Romani honorificentissime Consul creatus, et sex aliis competitoribus, in quibus L. Sergius Catilina fuit, praelatus est. Consulatum gerere incipienti negotium facesset P. Rullus, tribunus plebis, homo seditiosus, qui, dum legis agrariae rogationem, veterem istam gravissimarum discordiarum causam, agitabat, non parum reipublicae infestus fieri coepit. Sed Cicero perniciosos Rulli conatus tribus orationibus agrariis tanta sententiarum vi et gravitate repressit atque retudit, ut ipse populus legi tam populari, pauperiorum magis, quam universae reipublicae commodis respondenti fortiter resisteret.

16. Cicero detecta et compressa Catilinae conjuratione servat rempublicam.

L. Sergius Catilina, quem inter consulatus competitores fuisse modo commemoravimus, quum spe consulatus consequendi se dejectum videret, obnixe faciebat omnia, ut proximis certe comitiis obtineret, quod frusta adhuc petierat. Sed Cicero, quum praeciperet animo, quantum malorum ab immensa Catilinae libidine dominandi cupiditate reipublicae immineret, nefandas artes atque callida consilia, quibus ille consulatum affectabat, eludere atque irrita reddere studuit. Hinc tanta in Ciceronem accensus est ira Catilina, ut fere palam illi mortem minaretur. Et vere ipso die comitiali, quem caedi destinaverat, perpetratus fuisset illud facinus, nisi Cicero re comperta sibi providisset et firmissimo se contra vim sibi paratam munivisset praesidio. Itaque quum loricatus et fortissimorum virorum cohorte stipatus in Campum Martium prodiisset, Catilina non solum a vi facienda prohibitus, sed etiam a consulatu, quem appetebat, repulsus est. Sed ne sic quidem a proposito deterritus est. Vi enim et armis consecuturus, quod arte et consilio consequi non potuerat, sociis, in domum Leccae cujusdam convocatis, rationem, qua ferro ignique rerum potirentur, descriptsit atque proposuit. Ante omnia autem consilio Ciceronem e medio tollendi intentus fuit. Sed frusta fuerunt, quas Ciceronis vitae struxerat, insidiae! frusta bellici ab uno conjuratorum, Manlio, in Etruria contra patriam facti apparatus! frusta omnia, quae Catilina cum conjuratis inierat, consilia! Ne multa! unius Ciceronis prudentia et vigilantia gravissima calamitas a bonorum capitibus et ab universa civitate depulsa est.

17. Cicero vir Consularis

Cicero, postquam consulatu, tanta laude et gloria gesto abierat, vir consularis inter principes senatores, h. e. inter eos, qui primum in senatu rogarentur sententiam, locum obtinere, et in urbe publicae saluti invigilare maluit, quam Proconsul in provinciam sibi decretam discedere. Primum quidem misere vexabatur ab adversariis, nimiam in primis protestatem, qua ille Consul indicta causa cives suppicio affisset, in crimen vocantibus. Contra hos igitur, in primis contra Metellum, egregie se defendit, et tela in se conjecta retudit. Nec de populi, quo fruebatur, favore quicquam detractum est adversariorum criminatione et invidia. Bello enim cum nonnullis gentibus Gallicis exorto, (V. C. DCXCIIL) quum inter legatos, qui quietos adhuc populos a bello dehortatum mitterentur, primus sorte electus esset Cicero; nullo modo vigilantissimum hunc publicae salutis custodem ex urbe mittendum esse, universus populus judicavit.

18. Cicero scriptor et poeta.

Eo fere tempore de gravioris momenti rebus in consulatu a se gestis, scripsit commentarios, et quidem oratione graeca, ad Isocratis scribendi genus conformata et composita. Hos commentarios non solum per Atticum suum, ad quem eos miserat, in Graecia vulgari cupiebat, sed eosdem communicavit cum Posidonio Rhodio, rogans eum, ut de iisdem rebus pulchrius quid et uberius scribebat. At Posidonius, se perfectis illis commentariis magis deterritum esse respondebat, quam ut simile quid de illis rebus moliri auderet. Unde facile, quanta Ciceroni in graece scribendi arte fuerit facultas atque peritia, intelligi potest. Post aliquod tempus latino quoque carmine rerum a se gestarum historiam complexus est; quod opus interjecto demum aliquo tempore evulgavit. Paulo post, ut specimen ederet de ea, quam in rebus publicis et civilibus sibi parasset, peritia atque prudentia, potiores, quas Consul habuit, orationes, sub titulo Consulares, exire atque in vulgus emanare jussit. Sub eadem tempora edidit Arati, poetae Graeci, carmen de Sideribus, quod juvenis in latinum sermonem converterat.

19. Cicero sponte in exsilio abit.

P. Clodius, nobili loco natus, sed ferox et procax adolescens, quum per Ciceronem in primis in lucem protracta essent occulta ejus flagitia, tantam in eum concepit iram animo, ut ea non nisi illius ruina atque pernicie expiari posse videatur. Fraude igitur et malis artibus tribunus plebis factus, (quum enim patricius esset, in gentem plebejam, ut sic jus tribunatus petendi adipisceretur, se adoptandum curaverat,) rogavit legem, qua ei, qui civem Romanum, non populi iudicio damnatum, suppicio affecisset, aqua et igni interdicereur. Aperte hac lege petebatur Cicero, qui de quibusdam Catilinæ conjuratis, haud populi iudicio damnatis, supplicium sumserat. Itaque Cicero, ut, populi miseratione mota, poenam in lege ista constitutam a se amoliretur, sordidatus, ut reus, per vias incedebat, adolescentibus eum ex omni nobilitate plus viginti millibus comitantibus. Quin ipse senatus pro Cicerone deprecabatur. Sed quum neque senatus, neque nobilium, neque populi studiis quicquam effici posset apud consules, Pisonem et Gabinium, in Clodii partem inclinantes; sponte ille solum vertere constituit. Verum enim vero ne sic quidem Clodii ira deferbuit. Nam quum in ipsum Ciceronem saevire non posset, in absentis domum et villas incendio saeviit.

20. Cicero exsul.

Quum Cicero in exsilium abiret, primum iter dirigebat in Siciliam, tum Brundusium et inde in Graeciam, ubi navem ad Dyrrachium appulit. Inde se contulit Thessalonicam in Macedonia, ubi a Cn. Plancio admodum benigne exceptus et quovis humanitatis et liberalitatis genere per septem menses ornatus et cumulatus est. Interea Romae totus fere populus ingenti desiderio flagitare coepit Ciceronis redditum Post acerrima igitur, quibus senatus populusque Romanus contra Clodium exsurrexerant, certamina, Cicero tandem secundum peculiarem legem, a Lentulo rogatam, et insigni populi favore jussam, revocatus est in patriam. Nihil autem per totam vitam Ciceroni itinere, quo in patriam rediit, accedit jucundius. Quocunque enim veniebat, voces ei acclamabantur laetissimae, et, quum ipsi urbi propior factus esset, omnes fere incolae obviam ei ruebant, et suam de ejus redditu laetitiam faustissimis declarabant significationibus.

21. Cicero post redditum ex exsilio.

Cicero, quum in urbem rediisset, sicuti statim domos vilasque suas, nefario scelere a Clodio direptas atque dirutas reficiendas atque restituendas curavit, ita pristinum de republica et aliis bene merendi studium retractare et de integro exercere coepit. Quicunque eum consulteret, vel ejus in causa aliqua patrocinium peteret, hunc tam consilio suo, quam eloquentia sustentavit, et tutum ab injuria praestitit. Quinquaginta et quatuor annos natus in Collegium Augurum adoptatus est. Paulo post P. Clodius, Ciceroni infestissimus, in fortuito concursu a Milone imperfectus est. Defendebat quidem Cicero accusatum de hac caede Milonem, sed ejus eloquentiam adeo pervincebat et obtundebat ferox et incondita Clodii sociorum vociferatio, ut, quo minus in exsilium exigeretur Milo, haud impedire posset. Ciceronis, quae adhuc exstat, pro Milone oratio, scripta, demum est tum, quum is jam exsul viveret Massiliae.

22. Cicero Proconsul in provinciam proficiscitur.

Cicero, ut supra commemoravimus, repudiavit, quam post consulatum statim administraret, provinciam. Sed duodecim ferme annis post ex senatusconsulto provinciae Ciliciae et finitimis locis Proconsul praeesse jussus est. Quum in provinciam proficiseretur, et ad Ephesum in terram escenderet, ingens Graecorum, tantum virum videre gestientium, undique confluxit copia. Inde properavit in provinciam, ubi, quum variis rebus melius rectiusque constituendis egregiam dedisset operam, tanto successu contra Parthos dimicavit, ut non solum Imperatoris nomine ornaretur, sed in ejus honorem etiam supplatio Romae decerneretur. Exacto anno ex provincia, Quaesitori Coelio tradita, Romam decessit.

23. Ciceronis post redditum ex provincia studia.

Cicero, in urbem ex provincia redux, suavissime quidem afficiebatur insigni illo, quo totus populus Romanus eum accipiebat, favore et observantia, sed ejusdem simul animus rerum, quae tum Romae movebantur, consideratione graviter perturbabatur. Tantae enim inter Julium Caesarem et Pompejum ortae erant inimicitiae, ut res non nisi bello dirimi posse videretur. Cicero quidem studiose et obnixe faciebat omnia, ut utrumque inter se reconciliaret, et a belli civilis calamitatibus deterreret; sed quum neutrum ad pacem in eundam permovere posset, Pompeji partes amplexus cum optimatum exercitu in Graeciam profectus est. Mox in campis Pharsalicis commissum est memorabile illud proelium, non exercitui tantum Pompeji, sed ipsi quoque, paulo post occiso, funestissimum. Cicero igitur prudenter redditum acceleravit in Italiam, ubi, omni rerum publicarum cura ex animo dimissa, sibi et litteris vivere constituit. Tum primum rhetoricae et philosophiam latinae orationis luce illustrare coepit, scriptisque cum alia, tum Partitiones Oratorias; Brutum sive de claris oratoribus; tres libros de Oratore; Catonem sive Laudem M. Catonis Uticensis.—Sexaginta et duos annos natus de filiae dilectissimae, Tulliae, morte dolorem suscepit longe acerbissimum. Primum quidem dolor ille omnia sapientiae praecepta ex ejus pectore excussisse videbatur, sed deinde, quum sensim sensimque eum ferre didicisset, conscripsit li-brum de Consolatione, qui tamen, quod valde dolendum, temporis injuria nobis ereptus est. Nam liber ille, qui sub hoc nomine in quibusdam Ciceronis editionibus exhibetur, satis aperte alienam manum prodit. Eodem fere tempore plura, quae ad philosophiam spectant, commentatus est, e quibus quinque libri de Finibus bonorum et malorum et totidem Tusculanarum Quaestionum ad nostra tempora propagati sunt.

24. Cicero post caedem Caesaris.

Caesare interfecto, Cicero cum ejus interfectoribus, a quorum societate et consiliis prudenter adhuc refugerat, se contulit in Capitolium. Post tres dies, quum inde descendisset, venit in senatum, et, quicquid ad pacem quietemque servandam conferre videretur, gravi oratione suasit et proposuit. Sperans igitur, fore, ut eorum, quae suasisset, a senatu populoque haberetur ratio, secessit ex urbe in Tusculanum suum, ibique fessus pertaesusque publicarum curarum omne tempus in litterarum studiis contrivit. Ad ea, quae litteris consignavit in otio illo rusticano, referendi sunt libri: de Natura Deorum; de Divinatione; de Senectute; de Amicitia; de Officiis.

25. Cicero Antonii lacceditur insolentia.

Quum novi motus Romae concitarentur, Cicero imminentem tempestatem itinere, quod in Graeciam facturus erat, effugere tentavit. Sed idem deinde, praesentia sua fortasse motus istos componi posse ratus, ex itinere jam incepto Romanam regressus est. Vix autem eo venerat, quum insolenter et contumeliose tractaretur a consule Antonio. Quod quidem tam aegre tulit Cicero, ut in prima Oratione Philippica graviter in consulis insolentiam et inhumanitatem invectus de moderatione erga se adhibenda ageret. Sed tantum absfuit, ut haec oratio mitigaret mutaretque Antonii animum, ut publice nunc se Ciceronis inimicum profiteretur. Tum Cicero ex urbe in villam suam ad Neapolin se recepit, ibique secundam orationem Philippicam, in qua omne virus acerbitalis in Antonium effusisse videtur, composuit. Sed brevi tempore post quum Antonius, ut Dec. Brutum e Gallia Cisalpina pelleret, ex urbe profectus esset, Cicero, ut, hac liberius agendi occasione usus, labefactato liberae reipublicae statui, quae posset, fulcra subderet, celeri pede Romanum reversus est. Et vere paulo post, Antonio ad Mutinam victo, nova spes liberae reipublicae affulgere coepit; sed in breve tantum tempus. Octaviano enim et Q. Pedio consulibus notissimus iste triumviratus inter Antonium, Octavianum et Lepidum in quinque annos junctus atque constitutus est, eo consilio, ut pari potestate conjunctim imperium exercerent, et liberae reipublicae defensores, ... primis Ciceronem, e medio tollerent.

26. Cicero occiditur.

Cicero jam expers publicarum curarum et toto animo in litterarum studiis defixus in Tusculano suo delitescebat, quum, se inter proscriptos relatum esse, audiret. Quo nuntio primum quidem ejus animus adeo percusus est, ut inops consilii modo hoc modo illuc fugere tentaret; dein, quum paululum se recepisset ejus animus, capto consilio cum vetere amico Bruto se conjungendi, navem, qua in Macedoniam veheretur, concendit. Verum enim vero ne in hoc quidem exsequendo persistit consilio. Nam quum subiret eum cogitatio, se honestius in patria vitam depositurum esse, nave ad Cajetam appulsa in villam suam Formianam se contulit. Ibi placide aliquamdiu dormientem servi, qui procul manum militum, dominum exquientium, conspexerant, e somno excitabant, eumque partim vi, partim precibus, in lectica collocatum, ut vitae periculo eriperent, littus versus portabant. Sed in media via opprimebantur ab Antonii militibus. Cicero, quum intelligeret, se periculum effugere non posse, lecticam deponi jussit. Mox, conspecto horum militum duce, Popilio Laenate, novam salutis spem concepit animo. Hunc enim, quem aliquando in causa capitali a supplicio liberaverat, vix tam inhumanum fore existimabat, ut ei vitam sustineret eripere, cui suam debebat. Sed ille veteris beneficii immemor caput et manum dextram Ciceroni vel ipse detruncavit, vel milites suos detruncare jussit, et utrumque, ut perpetratae caedis mercedem acciperet, Romam ad Antonium deportavit. Tum Antonii uxor, Fulvia, ira et furore abrepta, summi oratoris linguam acu perfodit; Antonius autem Ciceronis caput atque manum, tanquam tropaeum aliquod, publice in Rostris conspectui hominum exponi jussit.

CAPUT PRIMUM.

NARRATIONES BREVIORES EX CICERONIS OPERIBUS EXCERPTAE.

1. Verae divitiae.

1. Nunquam ego bona perdidisse dicam, si qui pecus aut supellectilem amiserit; neque non laudabo sapientem illum, Biantem, qui numeratur in septem; cuius quum patriam Prienen cepisset hostis, caeterique ita fugerent, ut multa de suis rebus secum asportarent, quum esset admonitus a quodam, ut idem ipse faceret: Ego vero, inquit, facio; nam omnia mea porto tecum. Ille haec ludibria fortunae, ne sua quidem putavit, quae nos appellamus etiam bona. (Paradoxa c. 1.)

2. Socrates in pompa quum magna vis auri argenteique ferretur, quam multa non desidero, inquit. (Tusc. Qu. V. 32.)

3. Xenocrates, quum legati ab Alexandro quinquaginta eis talenta attulissent, quae erat pecunia temporibus illis, Athenis praesertim, maxima, abduxit legatos ad coenam in Academiam: iis apposuit tantum, quod satis esset, nullo apparatu. Quum postridie rogarent eum, cui numerari juberet, quid? vos hesterna, inquit, coenula non intellexistis, me pecunia non egere? Quos quum tristiores vidisset, triginta minas accepit, ne aspernari regis liberalitatem videretur. (Tusc. Qu. V. 32.)

4. At vero Diogenes liberius, ut Cynicus, Alexandro roganti, ut diceret, si quid opus esset, nunc quidem paululum, inquit, a sole! Offecerat videlicet apricanti. (Tusc. Qu. V. 32.)

5. Et hic quidem disputare solebat, quanto regem Persarum vita fortunaque superaret; sibi nihil deesse; illi nihil satis unquam fore; se ejus voluptates non desiderare, quibus nunquam satiari ille posset; suaseum consequi nullo modo posse. (Tusc. Qu. V. 32.)

6. Themistocles quum consuleretur, utrum bono viro pauperi, an minus probato diviti filiam collocaret, ego, inquit, malo virum qui pecunia egeat, quam pecuniam quae viro. (De Offic. II. 20.)

II. Sapientiae praestantia.

1. Xenocratem ferunt, nobilem imprimis philosophum, quum quaereretur ex eo, quid adsequerentur ejus discipuli respondisse, ut id sua sponte facerent, quod cogerentur facere legibus. (De Republ. I. 2.)

2. Eleus Hippias quum Olympiam venisset, maxima illa quinquennali celebritate ludorum, gloriatus est, cuncta paene audiente Graecia, nihil esse ulla in arte rerum omnium, quod ipse nesciret, nec solum has artes, quibus liberales doctrinae atque ingenuae continerentur, geometriam, musicam, litterarum cognitionem et poetarum, atque illa, quae de naturis rerum, quae de hominum moribus, quae de republica dicerentur, sed annulum, quem haberet, pallium, quo amictus, socios, quibus indutus esset, se sua manu confecisse. (De Orator. III. 32.)

3. Scipioni interroganti Laelium, quid? Laeli, tum quum tu es iratus, permittis illi iracundiae dominatum animi tui? Non mehercule, respondit ille, sed imitor Archytam illum Tarrentinum, qui quum ad villam venisset, et omnia aliter offendisset ac jusserset, te infelicem, inquit villico, quem necassem jam verberibus, nisi iratus essem. (De Republ. I. 38.)

4. Publium Scipionem, eum, qui primus Africanus appellatus est, dicere solitum scripsit Cato, qui fuit fere ejus aequalis, nunquam se minus otiosum esse, quam quum otiosus esset. Magnifica vero vox et sapiente digna, quae declarat, illum et in otio de negotiis cogitare, et in solitudine secum loqui solitum; ut neque cessaret unquam, et interdum colloquio alterius non egeret. Itaque duae res, quae languorem afferunt caeteris, illum acuebant, otium et solitudo. (De Offic. III. 1.).

5. Diogenes Cynicus projici se jussit inhumatum. Tum amici: volucribusne et feris? Minime vero, inquit; sed bacillum propter me, quo abigam, ponitote. Qui poteris? illi; non enim senties. Quid mihi igitur ferarum laniatus oberit, nihil sentienti? (Qu. Tusc. I. 43.)

6. Praeclare Anaxagoras; qui quum Lampsaci moreretur, quaerentibus amicis, velletne Clazomenas in patriam, si quid accidisset, auferri? nihil necesse est, inquit; undique enim ad inferos tantundem viae est. (Qu. Tusc. I. 43.)

III. Exempla Fortitudinis.

1. Lacedaemonius quidam mortem tantopere contempsit, ut quum ad eam duceretur, damnatus ab ephoris, et esset vultu hilari atque laeto, dixissetque ei quidam inimicus, contemnisne leges Lycurgi? responderet, ego vero illi maximam gratiam habeo, qui me ea poena multaverit, quam sine mutuatione et sine versura possem dissolvere. O virum Sparta dig-num! ut mihi quidem, qui tam magno animo fuerit, innocens damnatus esse videatur. (Qu. Tusc. I. 42.)

2. Tales innumerabiles nostra civitas tulit. Sed quid duces et principes nominem, quum legiones scribat Cato saepe alacres in eum locum profectas, unde reddituras se non arbitrarentur? (Tusc. Qu. I. c.)

3. Pari animo Lacedaemonii in Thermopylis occiderunt, in quos Simonides:

Dic, hospes, Spartae, nos te h̄ic vidisse jacentes, Dum sanctis patriae legibus obsequimur.

E quibus unus, quum Perses hostis in colloquio dixisset glorians: Solem p̄ae jaculorum multitudine et sagittarum non videbitis.—In umbra igitur, inquit, pugnabimus. (Tusc. Qu. I. c.)

4. Viros commemoro: qualis tandem Lacaena? Quae quum filium in proelium misisset, et interfectum audisset, idcirco, inquit, genueram, ut esset, qui pro patria mortem non dubitaret occubere. (Tusc. Qu. I. c.)

5. Lacedaemonii, Philippo minitante per litteras, se omnia quae conarentur prohibiturum, quaesiverunt: num se esset etiam mori prohibiturus? (Qu. Tusc. V. 15.)

6. Fortes et duri Spartiatae; magnam habet vim reipublicae disciplina. Quid? Cyrenaeum Theodorum, philosophum non ignobilem, nonne miramur? Cui quum Lysimachus rex crucem minaretur, istis, quaeso, inquit, ista horribilia minitare purpuratis tuis! Theodori quidem nihil interest, humine an sublime putrescat. (Tusc. Qu. I. 43.)

7. Illustris mors Epaminondae, illustris Leonidae. Quorum alter quum vicisset Lacedaemonios apud Mantineam simulque ipse gravi vulnere examinari se videret, ut primum dispexit, quaesivit, salvusne esset clypeus? Quum salvum esse flentes sui respondissent, rogavit, essentne fusi hostes? Quumque id quoque, ut cupiebat, audivisset, evelli jussit eam, qua erat transfixus, hastam. Ita multo sanguine profuso in laetitia et in victoria est mortuus. Leonidas autem, rex Lacedaemoniorum, se in Thermopylis trecentosque eos, quos eduxerat Sparta, quum esset proposita aut fuga turpis aut gloria mors, opposuit hostibus. Praeclarae mortes sunt imperatoria. (De Finib. II. 30.)

8. Clarae mortes pro patria oppelite, non solum gloriosae rhetoribus, sed etiam beatae videri solent. Repetunt ab Erechtheo, cuius etiam filiae cupide mortem expetiverunt pro vita civium: Codrum, qui se in medios immisit hostes veste famulari, ne posset agnosciri, si esset ornata regio; quod ora-culum erat datum, si rex interfactus esset, vinctrices Athenas fore. Menoeceus non praetermittitur, qui oraculo edito largitus est patriae suum sanguinem. Iphigenia Aulide duci se immolandam jubet, ut hostium sanguis eliciatur suo. Veniunt inde ad propiora. Harmodius in ore et Aristogiton, Lacedaemonius Leonidas, Thebanus Epaminondas vigent. Nostros non norunt; quos enumerare magnum est: ita sunt multi, quibus videmus optabiles mortes fuisse pro patria. (Tusc. Qu. I. 48 ei 49.)

9. Quam me delectat Theramenes! quam elato animo est! etsi enim flemus quum legimus, tamen non miserabiliter vir clarus emoritur. Qui quum conjectus in carcerem triginta jussu tyrannorum, venenum ut sitiens obduxisset, reliquum sic e poculo ejecit, ut id resonaret; quo sonitu reddito, arridens, propino, inquit, hoc pulchro Critiae; qui in eum fuerat teterimus. Graeci enim in conviviis solent nominare, cui poculum tradituri sint. Lusit vir egregius extremo spiritu, quum jam praecordiis conceptam mortem contineret: vereque ei, cui venenum praebiberat, mortem est eam auguratus, quae brevi consecuta est. (Tusc. Qu. I. 40.)

IV. Opiniones de Diis impietatisque exempla.

1. Natura duce intelligebant veteres deum esse, sed non conveniebat inter illos, quid deus esset. Itaque quum tyrannus Hiero quaevisisset de Simonide, non poeta solum suavi, verum etiam docto sapienteque, quid deus esset, deliberandi causa sibi unum diem postulavit. Quum idem ex eo postridie quaereret, biduum petivit. Quum saepius duplicaret numerum dierum, admiransque Hiero requereret, cur ita faceret, quia quanto, inquit, diutius considero, tanto mihi res videtur obscurior. (De Nat. Deor. I. 22.)

2. Protagoras Abderites, sophistes temporibus belli Peloponnesiaci vel maximus, quum in principio libri sui sic posuissest: de Diis neque ut sint, neque ut non sint, habeo dicere, Atheniensium jussu urbe atque agro est exterminatus, librique ejus in concione combusti. (De Nat. Deor. I. 23.)

3. Diagoras quum Samothraciam venisset, Atheos ($\alpha\thetaεις$) ille qui dicitur, atque ei quidam amicus, tu qui deos putas humana negligere, nonne animadvertis ex tot tabulis pictis, quam multi votis vim tempestatis effugerint, in portumque salvi pervenerint? Ita sit, inquit: illi enim nusquam picti sunt, qui naufragia fecerunt, in marique perierunt.—Idemque quum ei naviganti vectores, adversa tempestate timidi et perterriti, dicarent, non injuria sibi illud accidere, qui illum in eandem navem recepissent: ostendit eis in eodem cursu multas alias laborantes; quaesivitque, num etiam in his navibus Diagoram vehi crederent. (De Nat. Deor. III. 37.)

4. Diogenes Cynicus dicere solebat, Harpalum, qui temporibus illis praedo felix habebatur, contra deos testimonium dicere, quod in illa fortuna tam diu viveret. (De Nat. Deor. III. 34.)

5. Dionysius quum fanum Proserpinae Locris expilavisset, navigabat Syracusas: isque quum secundissimo vento cursum teneret, ridens, videtisne, inquit, amici, quam bona a diis immortalibus navigatio sacrilegis detur? Idem quum ad Peloponnesum classem appulisset, et in fanum venisset Jovis Olympii, aureum ei detraxit amiculum grandi pondere, quo Jovem ornarat ex manubiis Carthaginiensium tyrannus Gelo. Atque in eo etiam cavillatus est, aestate grave esse aureum amiculum, hieme frigidum, eique laneum pallium injecit, quum id esse ad omne anni tempus diceret. Idemque Aesculapio Epidauri barbam auream demi jussit: nequé enim convenire, barbatum esse filium, quum in omnibus fanis pater imberbis esset. (De Nat. Deor. l. c.)

6. Mensas argenteas idem de omnibus delubris jussit auferri: in quibus quod more veteris Graeciae inscriptum esset, Bonorum Deorum, uti se eorum bonitate velle dicebat. Idem Victoriolas aureas, et pateras coronasque, quae simulacrorum porrectis manibus sustinebantur, sine dubitatione tollebat, eaque se accipere, non auferre dicebat. Esse enim stultitiam, a quibus bona precaremur, ab iis porrigentibus et dantibus nolle sumere.

7. Eudemque ferunt haec, quae dixi, sublata de fanis in forum protulisse, et per praeconem vendidisse, exactaque pecunia edixisse, ut, quod quisque a sacris haberet, id ante diem certam in suum quodque fanum referret. Ita ad impietatem in deos, in homines adjunxit injuriam. (De Nat. Deor. l. c.)

V. Exempla praesagiorum de rebus futuris.

1. Apud Agathoclem scriptum in historia est, Hamilcarem Carthaginensem, quum oppugnaret Syracusas, visum esse audire vocem, se postridie coenaturum Syracusis; quum autem is dies illuxisset, magnam seditionem in castris ejus inter Poenos et Siculos milites esse factam: quod quum sensissent Syracusani, improviso eos in castra irrupisse, Hamilcaremque ab iis vivum esse sublatum. Ita res somnium comprobavit. (De Divinat. I. 24.)

2. Simonides quum ignotum quandam projectum mortuum vidisset, eumque humavisset, haberetque in animo navem concendere, moneri visus est, ne id faceret, ab eo, quem sepultura affecerat: si navigasset, eum naufragio esse peritum. Itaque Simonidem rediisse dicunt, periisse caeteros, qui tum navigassent. (De Divinat. I. 27.)

3. Midae Phrygio, quum puer esset, dormienti formicæ in os tritici grana congesserunt. Divitissimum fore praedicatum est: quod evenit. At Platoni*quum in cunis parvulo dormienti apes in labellis consedissent, responsum est, singulari illum suavitate orationis fore: ita futura eloquentia provisa in infante est. (De Divinat. I. 36.)

4. Quid? amores et deliciae tuae, Roscius, num aut ipse, aut pro eo totum Lanuvium mentiebatur? Qui quum esset in cunabulis, educareturque in Solonio, qui est campus agri Lanuvini, noctu, lumine apposito, experrecta nutrix animadvertisit puerum dormientem circumPLICATUM serpentis amplexu: quo adspectu exterrita clamorem sustulit. Pater autem Roscius ad haruspices retulit: qui responderunt, nihil illo puero clarius, nihil nobilius fore. (De Divin. I. 36.)

5. L. Paullus consul iterum, quum ei bellum ut cum rege Perse gereret obtigisset, ut ea ipsa die domum ad vesperum rediit, filiolam suam Tertiam, quae tum erat admodum parva, osculans animadvertisit tristiculam. Quid est, inquit, mea Tertia? quid tristis es? Mi pater, inquit, Persa periit. Tum ille arctius puellam complexus, accipio, inquit, mea filia, omen. Erat autem mortuus catellus eo nomine. (De Divin. I. 46.)

6. Bello illo maximo, quod Athenienses et Lacedaemonii summa inter se contentione gesserunt, Pericles ille et auctoritate et eloquentia et consilio princeps civitatis suae, quum obscurato Sole tenebrae factae essent repente, Atheniensiumque animos summus timor occupavisset, docuisse cives suos dicitur, id quod ipse ab Anaxagora, cuius auditor fuerat, acceperat, certo illud tempore fieri et necessario, quum tota se Luna sub orbem Solis subjecisset; idque fieri non posse nisi certo intermenstruo tempore. Quod quum disputando rationibusque docuisset, populum liberavit metu: erat enim tunc haec nova et ignota ratio, Solem Lunae oppositum solere deficere; quo Thaletem Milesium primum vidisse dicunt. (De Republ. I. 16.)

VI. Graecorum studia.

1. Honos alit artes, omnesque incenduntur ad studia gloria, jacentque ea semper, quae apud quosque improbantur. Summam eruditionem Graecia sitam censebant in nervorum vocumque cantibus. Igitur et Epaminondas, princeps meo iudicio Graeciae, fidibus paeclare cecinisse dicitur. Themistoclesque aliquot ante annis quum in epulis recusasset lyram, habitus est indoctor. Ergo in Graecia musici floruerunt, discabantque id omnes, nec qui nesciebat satis exultus doctrina putabatur. (Tusc. Quaest. I. 2.)

2. Secundis suis rebus unusquisque volet mori: non enim tam cumulus bonorum jucundus esse potest, quam molesta decessio. Hanc sententiam significare videtur Laconis illa vox, qui, quum Rhodius Diagoras, Olympionices nobilis, uno die duo suos filios victores Olympiae venisset, accessit ad senem, et gratulatus, morere, Diagora, inquit, non enim in coelum adscensurus es.—Magna haec, et nimium fortasse Graeci putant, vel tum potius putabant; isque qui hoc Diagorae dixit, permagnum existimans, tres Olympionicas una e domo prodire, cunctari illum diutius in vita, fortunae objectum, inutile putabat ipsi. (Tusc. Qu. I. 46.)

VII. Acute dicta nonnulla.

1. Nasica quum ad poetam Ennium venisset, eique ab ostio quaerenti Ennium ancilla dixisset, domi non esse: Nasica sensit, illam domini jussu dixisse, et illum intus esse. Paucis post diebus quum ad Nasicam venisset Ennius, et eum a janua quaereret: exclamat Nasica: se domi non esse. Tum Ennius: Quid? ego non cognosco vocem, inquit, tuam?—Hic Nasica: homo es impudens: ego quum te quaererem, ancillae tuae credidi, te domi non esse: tu mihi non credis ipsi? (De Orator. II. 68.)

2. Scipioni majori coronam sibi in convivio ad caput accommodanti, quum ea saepius rumperetur, P. Licinius Varus, noli mirari, inquit, si non convenit: caput enim magnum est. (De Orator. II. 61.)

3. Orator quidam malus quum in epilogo misericordiam se movisse putaret, postquam assedit, rogavit Catulum: vide returne misericordiam movisse? Ac magnam quidem, inquit: neminem enim puto esse tam durum, cui non oratio tua miseranda visa sit. (De Orator. II. 69.)

4. Qu. Catulus quum a Philippo interrogaretur, quid latraret? furem se videre, respondit. (De Orator. II. 54.)

5. Theophrastus moriens accusasse naturam dicitur, quod cervis et cornicibus vitam diuturnam, quorum id nihil interesset, hominibus, quorum maxime interfuisset, tam exigua vitam dedisset: quorum si aetas potuisset esse longinquier, futurum fuisse, ut omnibus perfectis artibus, omni doctrina hominum vita erudiretur. Querebatur igitur, se tum, quum illa videre coepisset, extingui. (Qu. Tusc. III. 28.)

6. Siculus quidam, cui praetor patronum causae dabat hospitem suum, hominem nobilem, sed admodum stultum: quaeso, inquit, praetor, adversario meo da istum patronum, deinde mihi neminem dederis. (De Orator. II. 69.)

7. Granius patrono malo, quum vocem in dicendo obtudisset, suadebat, ut mulsum frigidum biberet, simulac domum rediisset: Perdam, inquit ille, vocem, si id fecero. — Melius est, inquit, quam reum. (De Orator. II. 70.)

GAPUT SECUNDUM.

NARRATIONES QUAEDAM VARIO GENERIS.

I. Generosus Fabricii animus.

Quum rex Pyrrhus populo Romano bellum ultro intulisset, quumque de imperio certamen esset cum rege generoso ac potente; perfuga ab eo venit in castra Fabricii, eique est pollicitus, si praemium sibi proposisset, se, ut clam venisset, sic clam in Pyrrhi castra redditurum, et eum veneno necatum. Hunc Fabricius reducendum curavit ad Pyrrhum: idque factum ejus a senatu laudatum est. (De Offic. III. 22.)

II. Athenienses auctore Aristide honestatem utilitati praeferunt.

Themistocles post victoriam ejus belli, quod cum Persis fuit, dixit in concione: se habere consilium reipublicae salvare, sed id sciri opus non esse. Postulavit, ut aliquem populus daret, quocum communicaret. Datus est Aristides. Huic ille: classem Lacedaemoniorum, quae subducta esset ad Gythium, clami incendi posse, quo facto frangi Lacedaemoniorum opes necesse esset. Quod Aristides quum audisset, in concionem magna cum exspectatione venit, dixitque: per utile esse consilium, quod Themistocles afferret, sed minime honestum. Itaque Athenienses, quod honestum non esset, id ne utile quidem putaverunt, totamque eam rem, quam ne audierant quidem, auctore Aristide repudiaverunt. (Offic. III. 11.)

III. Titi Torquati pietas.

Lucio Manlio, quum Dictator fuisset, Marcus Pomponius tribunus plebis, diem dixit, quod is paucos sibi dies ad Dicaturam gerendam addidisset. Criminabatur etiam, quod Titum filium, qui postea est Torquatus nominatus, ab hominibus relegasset, et rure habitare jussisset. Quod quum audiisset adolescens filius negotium exhiberi patri, accurrisse Romam, et cum prima luce Pomponii domum venisse dicitur. Cui quum esset nuntiatum, quod illum iratum allaturum ad se aliquid contra patrem arbitraretur, surrexit e lectulo, remotisque arbitris, ad se adolescentem jussit venire.

At ille, ut ingressus est, confestim gladium destrinxit, juravitque, se illum statim interfectorum, nisi jusjurandum sibi dedisset, se patrem missum esse facturum. Juravit, hoc coactus terrore, Pomponius. Rem ad populum detulit: docuit, cur sibi causa desistere necesse esset: Manlium missum fecit. Tantum temporibus illis jusjurandum valebat. (Offic. III. 31.)

IV. Reguli in jurejurando conservando religio.

Attilius Regulus, primo Punico bello captus a Poenis, juratus missus est ad senatum Romanum, ut, nisi redditi essent Poenis captivi nobiles quidam, rediret ipse Carthaginem. Is, quum Romam venisset, in senatu mandata exposuit, sed reddi captivos, negavit esse utile: illos enim adolescentes esse, et bonos duces, se jam confectum senectute. Cujus quum valuisset auctoritas, captivi retenti sunt: ipse Carthaginem rediit; neque eum caritas patriae retinuit, nec suorum. Neque vero tum ignorabat, se ad crudelissimum hostem, et ad exquisita supplicia proficisci: sed jusjurandum conservandum putabat. (Offic. III. 26.)

V. Studio et disciplina vinci possunt innata vitia.

Stilponem, Megareum philosophum, acutum sane hominem et probatum temporibus illis accepimus. Hunc scriburn ipsius familiares, et ebriosum et mulierosum fuisse: neque hoc scribunt vituperantes, sed potius ad laudem. Vitiosam enim naturam ab eo sic edomitam et compressam esse doctrina, ut nemo unquam violentum illum, nemo in eo libidinis vestigium viderit. Quid? Socratem, nonne legimus, quemadmodum notarit Zopyrus, physiognomon, qui se profitebatur hominum mores naturasque ex corpore, oculis, vultu, fronte pernoscere? Stupidum esse Socratem dixit et bardum, quod jugula concava non haberet; addidit etiam, mulierosum: in quo Alcibiades cachinnum dicitur sustulisse. Haec ex naturalibus causis vitia nasci possunt: extirpari autem et funditus tolli, ut is ipse, qui ad ea propensus fuerit, a tantis vietiis avocetur, non est id positum in naturalibus causis, sed in voluntate, studio, disciplina. (Fat. 5.)

VI: Labore et studio superantur impedimenta naturae.

Orator futurus imitetur illum, cui sine dubio summa vis dicens conceditur, Atheniensem Demosthenem, in quo tantum studium fuisse tantusque labor dicitur, ut primum impedimenta naturae diligentia industriaque superarit; quumque ita balbus esset, ut ejus ipsius artis, cui studeret, primam litteram non posset dicere, perfecit meditando, ut nemo planius eo locutus putaretur: deinde quum spiritus ejus esset angustior, tantum continenda anima in dicendo est assecutus, ut una continuatione verborum (id quod ejus scripta declarant) binae ei contentiones vocis et remissiones continerentur: qui etiam, ut memoriae proditum est, conjectis in os calculis, summa voce versus multos uno spiritu pronuntiare consuescebat, neque id consistens in loco, sed inambulans, atque adscensu ingrediens arduo. (De Orat. I. 61.)

VII. Exemplum spectatae amicitiae.

Damonem et Pythiam, Pythagoreos, ferunt hoc animo interesse fuisse, ut, quum eorum alteri Dionysius tyrannus diem necis destinavisset, et is, qui morti addictus esset, paucos sibi dies commendandorum suorum causa postulavisset, vas factus sit alter ejus sistendi; ut, si ille non revertisset, moriendum esset ipsi. Qui quum ad diem se recepisset admiratus eorum fidem tyrannus petivit, ut se ad amicitiam tertium ascriberent. (Offic. III. 10.)

VIII. Timothei de coena apud Platonem judicium.

Timotheum, clarum hominem Athenis, et principem civitatis, ferunt, quum coenavisset apud Platonem, eoque convivio admodum delectatus esset, vidissetque eum postridie, dixisse, vestrae quidem coenae non solum in praesentia, sed etiam posterius die jucundae sunt. (Tusc. Qu. V. 35.)

IX. Philippus filio suo Alexandro largitionem exprobrat.

Praeclare epistola quadam Alexandrum filium Philippus accusat, quod largitione benevolentiam Macedonum consecetur. Quae te, malum, inquit, ratio in istam spem induxit, ut eos tibi fideles putares fore, quos pecunia corrupisses? An tu id agis, ut Macedones non te regem suum, sed ministrum et praebitorem sperent fore? (De Offic. II. 15.)

X. Socratis de beatitudine sententia.

Socrates, quum esset ex eo quaesitus, Archelaum, Perdiccae filium, qui tum fortunatissimus haberetur, nonne beatum putaret? haud scio, inquit; nunquam enim cum eo collocutus sum.—Ain' tu? an tu aliter id scire non potes?—Nullo modo.—Tu igitur ne de Persarum quidem rege magno potes dicere, beatusne sit?—An ego possim, quum ignorem, quam sit doctus, quam vir bonus?—Quid? tu in eo sitam vitam beatam putas?—Ita prorsus existimo, bonos, beatos; improbos, miseros.—Miser ergo Archelaus?—Certe, si injustus. (Qu. Tusc. V. 12.)

XI. Phormio coram Hannibale de imperatoris officio disputat.

Quum Hannibal Carthagine expulsus Ephesum ad Antiochum venisset exsul, proque eo, quod ejus nomen erat magna apud omnes gloria, invitatus esset ab hospitibus suis, ut Phormionem, peripateticum, si vellet, audiret; quumque se non nolle dixisset; locutus esse dicitur homo copiosus, aliquot horas de imperatoris officio, et de omni re militari. Tum, quum caeteri, qui illum audierant, vehementer essent delectati, quaerabant ab Hannibale, quidnam ipse de illo philosopho judicaret. Poenus non optime Graece, sed tamen libere respondisse fertur, multos se deliros senes saepe vidisse: sed qui magis, quam Phormio, deliraret, vidisse neminem. Neque mehercule injuria. Quid enim aut arrogans, aut loquacius fieri potuit, quam Hannibali, qui tot annos de imperio cum populo Romano omnium gentium victore certasset, Graecum hominem, qui numquam hostem, numquam castra vidisset, numquam denique minimam partem ullius publici muneris attigisset, praecepta de re militari dare? (De Orat. II. 18.)

XII. Cibi et potionis condimenta fames et sitis.

Quis non videt, desideriis condiri epulas? Darius in fuga, quum aquam turbidam, et cadaveribus inquinatam, bibisset, negavit umquam se bibisse jucundius. Numquam videlicet sitiens biberat. Nec esuriens Ptolemaeus ederat: cui quum peraganti Aegyptum, comitibus non consecutis, cibarius in casa panis datus esset, nihil visum est illo pane jucundius. Socratem ferunt, quum usque ad vesperum contentius ambularet, quaesitumque esset ex eo, quare id faceret; respondisse, se, quo melius coenaret, opsonare ambulando famem. Quid? victimum Lacedaemoniorum in phiditiis nonne videmus? ubi quum tyrannus coenavisset Dionysius, negavit se jure illi nigro, quod coenae caput erat, delectatum. Tum is, qui illa coxerat: minime mirum: condimenta enim defuere. Quae tandem? inquit ille. Labor in venatu, sudor, cursus ad Eurytam, fames, sitis. His enim rebus Lacedaemoniorum epulae coniduntur. (Qu. Tusc. V. 34.)

XIII. Splendida tyrannorum miseria.

Dionysius major, Siciliae tyrannus, ipse indicavit, quam esset beatus. Nam quum quidam ex ejus assentatoribus, Damocles, commemoraret, in sermone copias ejus, opes, maiestatem dominatus, rerum abundantiam, magnificentiam aedium regiarum, negaretque, unquam beatiorem quemquam fuisse: visne igitur, inquit, Damocle, quoniam haec te vita delectat, ipse eandem degustare, et fortunam experiri meam? Quum se ille cupere dixisset, collocari jussit hominem in aureo lecto, strato pulcherrime textili stragulo, magnificis operibus picto, abacosque complures ornavit argento auroque caelato. Tum ad mensam eximia forma pueros delectos jussit consistere, eosque nutum illius intuentes diligenter ministrare. Aderant unguenta, corona: incendebantur odores, mensae conquisitissimis epulis exstrebantur. Fortunatus sibi Damocles videbatur. In hoc medio apparatu fulgentem gladium, e lacunari seta equina aptum, demitti jussit, ut impenderet illius beati cervicibus. Itaque nec pulchros illos ministratores adspiciebat, nec plenum artis argentum: nec manum porrigebat in mensam. Jam ipsae defluebant coronae. Denique exoravit tyrannum, ut abire liceret, quod jam beatus nolle esse. Satisne videtur declarasse Dionysius, nihil esse ei beatum, cui semper aliquis terror impendeat? (Tusc. Qu. V. 21.)

XIV. Dionysii tyranni ingenium.

Duodequadraginta annos tyrannus Syracusanorum fuit Dionysius, quum quinque et viginti annos natus dominatum occupavisset. Qua pulchritudine urbem, quibus opibus praeditam servitute oppressam tenuit civitatem! Atqui de hoc homine a bonis auctoribus sic scriptum accepimus, summam fuisse ejus in victu temperantiam, in rebusque gerendis virum acrem et industrium, eundem tamen maleficum natura et injustum. Ex quo omnibus, bene veritatem intuentibus, videri necesse est miserrimum. Ea enim ipsa, quae concupierat, ne tum quidem, quum omnia se posse censebat, consequebatur. Qui quum esset bonis parentibus atque honesto loco natus (etsi id quidem aliis modo tradidit,) abundaretque aequalium familiaritatibus et consuetudine propinquorum: credebat eorum nemini; sed iis, quos ex familiis locupletum servos delegerat, quibus nomen servitutis ipse detraxerat, et quibusdam convenis et feris barbaris, corporis custodiam committebat. Ita propter injustam dominatus cupiditatem in carcerem quodammodo se ipse incluserat. Quin etiam, ne tonsori collum committeret, tendere filias suas docuit. Ita sordido ancillarique artificio regiae virginis, ut tonstriculae, tonderebant barbam et capillum patris. Et tamen ab iis ipsis, quum jam essent adultae, ferrum removit, instituitque, ut carentibus juglandium putaminibus barbam sibi et capillum adurerent. Quumque duas uxores haberet, sic noctu ad eas ventitabat, ut omnia specularetur, et perscrutaretur ante. Et, quum fossam latam cubiculari lecto circumdedisset, ejusque fossae transitum ponticulo ligneo conjunxisset: eum ipsum, quum forem cubiculi clauserat, detorquebat. Idemque quum in communibus suggestis consistere non auderet, concionari ex alta turri solebat. Atque is, quum pila ludere vellet (studiose enim id factitabat) tunicamque poneret: adolescentulo tradidisse gladium dicitur. Hic, quum quidam familiaris jocans dixisset: Huic quidem certe vitam tuam committis, arrisissetque adolescens: utrumque jussit interfici: alterum, quia viam demonstravisset interimendi sui, alterum, quia id dictum risu approbavisset. Atque eo facto sic doluit, ut nihil gravius tulerit in vita. Quem enim vehementer amarat, occiderat.

Sic distrahuntur in contrarias partes impotentium cupiditates.
(Tusc. Qu. V. 20.)

XV. Mors ad divina praemia refertur.

Argiae sacerdotis, Cleobis et Biton, filii praedicantur. Nota fabula est. Quum enim illam ad solemne et statum sacrificium curru vehi jus esset, satis longe ab oppido ad fanum, morarenturque jumenta: tunc juvenes ii, quos modo nominavi, veste posita, corpora oleo perunixerunt, ad jugum accesserunt. Ita sacerdos advecta in fanum, quum currus esset ductus a filiis, precata a dea dicitur, ut illis praemium daret pro pietate, quod maximum dari posset homini a deo. Post, epulatos cum matre adolescentes, somno se dedisse, mane inventos esse mortuos.—Simili precatione Trophonius et Agamedes usi dicuntur: qui quum Apollini Delphis templum aedificavissent, venerantes deum, petierunt mercedem non parvam quidem operis et laboris sui, nihil certi, sed quod esset optimum homini. Quibus Apollo se id daturum ostendisse dicitur post ejus diei diem tertium: qui ut illuxit, mortui sunt reperti. (T. Qu. I. 47.)

XVI. Pythii foeneratoris calliditas.

C. Canius, eques Romanus, nec infacetus et satis litteratus, quum se Syracusas otiandi (ut ipse dicere solebat,) non negotiandi causa, contulisset, dictabat, se hortulos aliquos velle emere, quo invitare amicos, et ubi se oblectare sine interpellatoribus posset. Quod quum percrebusset, Pythius ei quidam, qui argentariam faceret Syracusis, dixit, venales quidem se hortos non habere, sed licere uti Canio, si vellet, ut suis: et simul ad coenam hominem in hortos invitavit in posterum diem. Quum ille promisisset, tum Pythius, qui es- set, ut argentarius, apud omnes ordines gratiosus, piscautores ad se convocavit, et ab his petivit, ut ante suos hortulos postridie piscentur; dixitque, quid eos facere vellet. Ad coenam tempore venit Canius: opipare a Pythio apparatus convivium: cymbarum ante oculos multitudo: pro se quisque, quod ceperat, adferebat; ante pedes Pythii pisces abjiciebantur. Tum Canius: Quaeso, inquit, quid est hoc, Pythi? tantumne piscium, tantumne cymbarum? Et ille: quid mirum? inquit, hoc loco est, Syracusis quidquid est piscium: haec aquatio: hac villa isti carere non possunt. Incensus Canius cupiditate contendit a Pythio, ut vendiceret. Gravate ille primo. Quid multa? impetrat. Emit homo cupidus et locuples tanti quanti Pythius voluit, et emit instructos; nomina facit, negotium conficit. Invitat Canius postridie familiares suos: venit ipse mature: scalmum nullum videt. Quaerit ex proximo vicino, num feriae quaedam piscatorum essent, quod eos nullos videret? Nullae, quod sciām, inquit ille; sed hic piscari nulli solent. Itaque heri mirabar, quid accidisset. Stomachari Canius. Sed quid faceret? nondum enim Aquillius protulerat de dolo malo formulas. (Off. III. 14.)

XVIII. Inventor artis memoriae Simonides.

Gratiam habeo Simonidi illi Ceio, quem primum ferunt artem memoriae protulisse. Dicunt enim, quum coenaret Crannone in Thessalia Simonides apud Scopam, fortunatum hominem et nobilem, cecinissetque id carmen, quod in eum scripsisset, in quo multa ornandi causa, poetarum more, in Castorem scripta et Pollucem fuissent, nimis illum sordide Simonidi dixisse, se dimidium ejus ei, quod pactus esset pro illo carmine, daturum: reliquum a suis Tyndaridis, quos aequae laudasset, peteret, si ei videretur. Paulo post esse ferunt nuntiatum Simonidi, ut prodiret: juvenes stare ad januam duos quosdam, qui eum magnopere evocarent: surrexisse illum ipsum, produisse, vidisse neminem. Hoc interim spatio conclave illud, ubi epularetur Scopas, concidisse: ea ruina ipsum oppressum cum suis interiisse. Quos quum humare vellent sui, nec possent obtritos internoscere ullo modo: Simonides dicitur ex eo, quod meminisset, quo eorum loco quisque cubuisset, demonstrator uniuscujusque se-peliendi fuisse. Hac tum re admonitus invenisse fertur, ordinem esse maxime, qui memoriae lumen afferret. (De Orat. II. 86.)

XIX. Delus insula.

(Memoriae ae literis proditum est,) Latonam ex longo errore, et fuga, gravidam, et jam ad pariendum vicinam, temporibus exactis, confugisse Delum, atque ibi Apollinem Dianamque peperisse. Qua ex opinione hominum illa insula eorum deorum sacra putatur: tantaque ejus auctoritas religionis et est, et semper fuit, ut ne Persae quidem, quum bellum toti Graeciae, diis hominibusque, indixissent, et mille numero navium classem ad Delum appulissent, quidquam conarentur, aut violare, aut attingere. (In Verr. Act. II. I. 18.)

XX. Lautumiae Syracusanae.

Lautumias Syracusanas omnes audistis: plerique nostis. Opus est ingens, magnificum, regum, ac tyrannorum. Totum est ex saxo, in mirandam altitudinem depresso, et multorum operis penitus exciso. Nihil tam clausum ad exitus, nihil tam septum undique, nihil tam tutum ad custodias, nec fieri, nec cogitari potest. In has lautumias, si qui publice custodiendi sunt, etiam ex caeteris oppidis Siciliae deduci imperantur. (In Verr. Act. II. V. 27.)

XXI. Mithridates, ex Ponto profugiens, cum Medea comparatus.

Ex suo regno sic Mithridates profugit, ut ex eodem Ponto Medea illa quondam profugisse dicitur: quam praedican in fuga fratris sui membra in iis locis, qua se parens persecutetur, dissipavisse, ut eorum collectio dispersa, moerorque patrius, celeritatem persecundi retardaret. Sic Mithridates fugiens maximam vim auri atque argenti, pulcherrimarumque rerum omnium, quas et a majoribus acceperat, et ipse bello superiore ex tota Asia direptas in suum regnum congesserat, in Ponto omnem reliquit. Haec dum nostri colligunt omnia diligentius, rex ipse e manibus effugit. Ita illum in persecundi studio moeror, hos laetitia, retardavit. (Pro Leg. Manil. 9.)

XXII. Caedes et furtum miro indicio deteguntur.

Strato medicus domi furtum fecit et caedem ejusmodi: Quum esset in aedibus armarium, in quo sciret esse nummorum aliquantum et auri: noctu duos conservos dormientes occidit, in piscinamque dejecit: ipse armarii fundum exsecuit, et sestertiū CL et auri quinque pondo abstulit, uno ex servis puerō, non grandi, conscio. Furto postridie cognito, omnis suspicio in eos servos, qui non comparebant, commovebatur. Quum exsectio illa fundi in armario animadverteretur, quaerebant homines, quonam modo fieri potuisse? Quidam ex amicis Sassiae recordatus est, se nuper in auctione quandam vidisse in rebus minutis aduncam, ex omni parte dentatam, et tortuosam, venire serrulam, qua illud potuisse ita circumsecari videretur. Ne multa: perquiritur a coactoribus. Invenitur ea serrula ad Stratōnem pervenisse. Hoc initio suspicionis orto, et aperte insimulato Stratōne, puer ille conscius pertinuit: rem omnem dominae indicavit; homines in piscina inventi sunt: Strato in vincula conjectus est, atque etiam in taberna ejus nummi, nequaquam omnes, reperiuntur.—Hoc uno modo saepe multorum improbitate depressa veritas emergit, et innocentiae defensio interclusa respirat: quod aut ii, qui ad fraudem callidi sunt, non tantum audent, quantum excogitant; aut illi, quorum eminet audacia atque projecta est, a consiliis malitiaē deseruntur. Quod si aut confidens astutia, aut callida esset audacia, vix ullo obsisti modo posset. (Pro Cluentio 64. et 65.)

1. Demetrius Phalereus (Φαληρεύς), a celebrated philosopher and 15 orator, who flourished B. C. 318, and became so popular in consequence of his munificence, that he was elected decennial archon. Notwithstanding this, his enemies raised a sedition against him, and he was sentenced to death. He escaped to the court of Ptolemy Soter, by whom he was kindly received; but Philadelphus, whom he had displeased, after his father's death, detained him in strict confinement. Demetrius, tired with his situation, put an end to his life by the bite of an asp, 284 B. C.

2. Consuluisserunt, scil. Athenienses.

3. Quo valeret, i. e. quid significaret.

4. Salamina and Troezena, Greek accusatives. Salamis, see above B. cap. 17. 5. Troezen, a town in Argolis in the Peloponnesus.

6. Arx, the Acropolis (ἀκρόπολις, or ἡ ἄνω πόλις, "the upper city"), or the citadel of Athens, was built on a hill by Cecrops, from whom it was called Cecropia. On it the Parthenon, Παρθενών, or temple of Minerva, and temples of the other gods, were built.

7. Reliquum oppidum, that part of the city which was not fortified.

8. Artemisium, a promontory of Euboea, on the north-western side of the island. The coast was called Artemisium littus.

9. Euboea, a large island on the eastern coast of Greece.

10. Classiariis regiis, instead of militibus classis regiae.

5. Ultro. The Greeks, who had hitherto acted on the defensive, now commenced an offensive war.
6. Byzantium, now Constantinople, situate on the Bosphorus Thracius, which connects the Propontis with the Euxine. The Persians had taken possession of this city.

7. Eretriensem, “of Eretria,” a town of the island Euboea.

8. Misit. The perfect is used in letters to express an action which is present to the writer, but considered as past in relation to the reader. Combine thus: Pausanias misit tibi eos, quos Byz. ceperrat, postquam cognovit eos propinquos tuos esse.

17 1. Certum, i. e. cui confidere possit.

2. Face (an old form instead of fac, which here renders the sentence more harmonious than fac would), mittas instead of cura ut mittas, and this for mitte.

3. Salute, i. e. libertate recuperata.

4. Collaudat, i. e. valde laudat.

5. Si fecerit, etc. i. e. si rem perfecerit, nihil esse, quod a se non sit impetraturus.

6. Chalcioecus, “the brazen temple,” or, “that has a brazen house or temple.” Quae refers either to aedes or Minerva, and the epithet χαλκίουκος applies as well to the goddess as to the temple.

7. Ephōri, the most powerful magistrates at Sparta, who were first created by Lycurgus. They were five in number, and held their office for a year. They were much the same as the tribunes of the people at Rome, appointed to watch with a jealous eye over the liberties and rights of the populace. Hence their name ἔφοροι, “overseers,” from ἔφορᾶς “to oversee, inspect.”

8. In primis, etc. i. e. inter primos fuisse, qui lapides afferrent.

9. Testarum suffragiis, “by the Ostracism” (Ὀστρακισμός, “the act of voting with the shells,” from δοτράκον, testa, “a tile, a shell,”) so called from the shells, or earthen tiles, on which the citizens wrote their votes. He, whose name was written on a majority of the tiles or shells given in, was banished from his country for ten years.
