INTRODUCTORY.

IN presenting this volume to the public, the publishers have endeavored, to obtain the names of all those of our fellow-citizens, who enlisted into the service of the United States, from the city of Salem, from the commencement of the War, in 1861, to its close in 1865; and to condense the matter into a neat and compact form, for future reference, at the same time to make its cost as reasonable in price as possible, so as to bring it within the means of all who may desire to obtain a copy, as a memorial of the gallant men who risked their lives for our common country.

The number of enlistments in the Army and Navy, from Salem, from the breaking out of the war in 1861, to its close in April, 1865, was over three thousand men, and we have been enabled to obtain the names of them all, with but few exceptions. The number engaged in the Army was about twenty-eight hundred, and the Navy three hundred and eighty-five, of whom one hundred and thirteen were wounded, seventy-five killed, and one hundred and fifty-five who died of disease contracted while in the service. Forty-seven of the above were taken prisoners of war, and confined in Rebel Prisons. The whole being compiled under different headings, showing in a concise form the various departments in which our citizens were engaged, thus making a record worthy of being laid up in the archives of every household, that the children's children may celebrate, with joy and gratitude the restoration of peace, harmony and union throughout the land.

When we consider that from the State of Massachusetts, the total number of officers and enlisted men was 111,681, from which number there were 3,538 killed, 1,926 wounded, 5,671 died of disease, and 1,843 died in rebel prisons, to say nothing of the various other casualties that take place under such circumstances, it seems as if there could be hardly a family in the State that has not furnished a member to the ranks, or that has failed to contribute liberally of its substance to their support and comfort when in the field.

Massachusetts actually furnished more men to the war than were found in any one year in the State liable to military duty. With these facts before us, we have undertaken the task of collecting the names of those noble men from Salem, who were so prompt in answering the call of our common country; and went forth to deeds which will be forever cherished in the spirit, the heart, and conscience of her citizens, in the presence of their success. The irrepressible joy of a people delivered, after years of stern work and patient waiting, from the burden, almost too heavy for mortal shoulders to bear, tempered, as it was, by the tenderest sympathy for the families of the fallen, and a solemn turning to give glory and thanks, with full hearts to that God who giveth victory and healeth wounded spirits, rank among the most noble, the most sublime pieces of history of the century in which we are living.

By compiling the names of such as gave their time, their health, even their lives, if need be, to their country, there is no good reason, it seems to us, why their names should not be classed together in such a form, that coming generations may know who those heroes were. We are aware that the task is no easy matter, but have buckled on our armor to the duty, and with the assistance of kind friends have been enabled to make a list as full and complete as possible.

In the hopeful words of Mr. Seward, in his annual address, at Auburn, he said, "Death has removed his victim; liberty has crowned her heroes; humanity has crowned her martyrs; the sick and the stricken are cured—the surviving combatants are fraternizing—and the country, the object of our just pride and lawful affections, once more stands collected and composed, firmer, stronger, and more majestic than ever before, without cause of dangerous discontent at home, and without an enemy in the world."

In conclusion, the publishers take this method of returning thanks to those who have so kindly assisted them in the complicated task of collecting and correcting the lists of names herein contained, which has required months of assiduous labor, and correspondence, we now send it forth to our citizens, hoping it may prove to them that satisfaction it has to the
