THURSDAY MORNING, MARCH 24.

The President does not seem to have decided whether or not to call an extra section of Congress. With reference to this act of very questionable expediency Mr. Becuara As's in first is haunted with doubts and apprehenances. The adjournment of the last Congress without making provision for the expenses of the Post-Office Department would appear to render an extra session inevitable, lemocrats preach extreme reverence and respect for the Constitution, but when a practical issue presents itself they are self-dom afflicted with any painful scruples touching the violation of that instrument. Thus we notice that Mr. Giller, one of the officers of the Department, has already discovered a hair-spiting process in virtue of which the revenues accruing from postages may be applied to the usual disbursements of the Post-Office Department, without awaiting tardy and uncertain sanction of Congress. Mr Killer's timely and shready suggestion is intended doubless to relieve, the Administration from the embarrassing responsibility of convoking Congress in advance of the regular period. Mr. Bickinstand and the control of this balance, to be by them disbursed, and for the faithful application of the regular period. Mr. Bickinstand and the control of this balance, to be by the deminant party. One of his predecessors, blastin extra seasion for the purpose of providing remedes for the crushing revultance of the regular period. Mr. Bickinstand and the providing remedes for the crushing revultance of the congress in extra seasion for the purpose of providing remedes for the crushing revultance of the congress in extra seasion for the purpose of providing remedes for the crushing revultance of the propared to the season of the purpose of providing remedes for the crushing revultance of the propared to the very provided to the season of the period of the providing remedes for the crushing revultance of the propage of the providing remedes for the crushing revultance of the propage of the providing remedes for the crushing revultance of t the pet bank system. That experiment cost the Democratic party a series of reverses of culminating in the grand defeat of 1840. Old Tir baving gone in by an overwhelming majority, thought be might safely risk an attra seesach, especially as his friends would be in the ascerdency. That memorable Congress burled the Whig party from its pride of place, and converted its splendid triumph into a barren victory. Gen. Harkson, it is true, died before the fruits of his policy were developed; but Gen. Tyles hived to witness them in full miturity.

It is clear, therefore, that the principle of calling evira sessions has nothing special to recommend it. Dissension, discord, confusion and discignization have usually followed all such anticipating attempts to provide for the public emergency. Hence we do not wonder that the Executive should be extremely reluctant to resort to so unfortunate a precedent, or that he should seek diligently for some plan by which the Post Office Department may be extricated from financial discusity, even though the law should be wrested somewhat from its meaning, rather than expose his administration and the party it represents to the almost certain unpopularity of an extra easion. There is, moreover, another consideration which must enter largely into the various objections to the proposed measure. If Mr. Brunanar developments are than probable. It is not exceedingly pleasant for a Prendent to confront even his cown triends, and to tell them that the misconduct of their predecessors has consideration with flow of the prediction of the first prediction to the proposed measure. If Mr. Brunanar extensions of the United States, for the work his cown triends, and to tell them that the misconduct of their predecessors has considerated by the outrageous and indefensible exercise of the prerogatives of the prediction to the mercy of his enemies. Consider how intended to their predecessors has considered the wintended to their predecessors has considered to the first prediction to the proposal to them have been examined. It is presented that this protracted deliberation may be attributable to the effort to find syidence on which to base an indictment of Mr. Butterworth as an accessory to the homicide. The trial of Mr. Sickles will doubtless elicit the finest criminal pleading ever heard within the walls of the City Hall. Mr. Graham, of New York, will open the case for the defense, and Messres Brady, of New York, and Stanton, of Pittsburg, will close the argument on the same side. Messre, Chitton, Ratcliffe, and Magruder, of this city, will also assist in the defense. Hom. Reverdy Johnson has been retained as counsel for Mr. Butterworth in case the latter should be indicted. We shall present from day to day during the trial a present from day to day during the trial a full summary of the proceedings.

AMERICAN MUSIC IN PARIA.—The Parisians are to be astonished in a few days with the songs, the dances and the bones of Christy's Minstrois—the genuine, orginal band, who have been playing in England for eight hundred consecutive nights. They have taken the room of the Concerts de Paris, in the Rice du Helder, for two weeks, but will continue longer if they are encouraged. They are under the control of Mr. Mitchell, manager of the St. James Theatre, London. Mr. Mitchell assures the French people, in his advertisements, that they will bear and see in these performers, music, dancers, and physiognomies never before; presented to a continential audience. INTEREPTING PARTILET.—We have received from Dr. L. H. LIFESVER, of this city, a copy of his treatise on the use and application of an apparatus invented by him, and termed "The Vaporiferous Bath Apparatus." From the description of the machine we have no doubt whatever that it will prove highly emicacious in that numerous class of diseases in which the speedy production of perspiration is indicated. From a certificate signed by a number of our first medical men, we perceive that the vaporiferous apparatus has been tried in the Charity Hospital with marked success.
