THE

KENNEL STUD BOOK

CONTAINING LISTS OF THE MOST

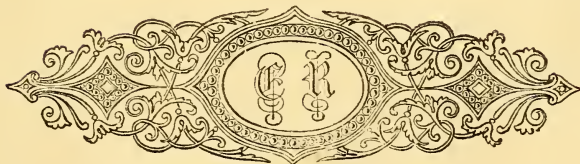

CELEBRATED PACKS OF FOXHOUNDS

WITH THE PEDIGREES OF STUD HOUNDS

BY

CORNELIUS TONGUE

(CECIL)

WOLVERHAMPTON

EDWARD RODEN, CHEAPSIDE

1866

PREFACE.

THE VALUE of the 'Stud Book,' recording the pedigrees of horses, is thoroughly understood and appreciated by all connected with the turf. In like manner, the Herd Book is an acknowledged necessity to breeders of Short Horns; for without the means of reference which those works have afforded, it would have been utterly impossible to have brought either classes of those animals to the high state of perfection they have attained. In all parts of the world where improvements in the breeds of horses and cattle are promoted, pedigrees are known to be of the utmost importance.

A Kennel Stud Book is equally essential to all breeders and purchasers of foxhounds. It is universally admitted that certain establishments have been long renowned for the excellence of their hounds: they have gained this fame chiefly by the aid of registries of the pedigrees of their own celebrities ranging through many generations. Fresh infusions of blood have been selected exclusively from such other kennels as have been worked with similar caution, and thus the produce is of infinitely greater value either to enter or for sale than those bred at kennels, where the frequent changes of masters and huntsmen, and the breaking up of packs, has hitherto rendered the preservation of such records almost impracticable.

This work will supply information that has hitherto been unattainable; and as it is intended to publish every two years the entries of young hounds, it will eventually still increase in value.

The principles observed by successful breeders of race-horses in the selection of sires and dams, that have distinguished themselves on the turf and in the stud, are identical with those laws of nature which govern the procreation of foxhounds. It will invariably be found that those animals are most to be depended upon for the perpetuation of their species whose genealogy can be traced in the greatest number of direct lines to great celebrities of olden times; the most valuable strains of blood may be readily recognised by reference to the 'Kennel Stud Book,' and they will be found to be most copiously diffused throughout those packs which are in the greatest renown. It is the peculiar faculty of a highly bred and highly endowed animal to convey his type to his posterity. An inferior bred hound may evince great superiority in his work, but the qualities of his progeny will be very uncertain. Hence the importance of accurate records of pedigrees.

To procure reliable information for the compilation of this work has in some instances been a matter of considerable difficulty. Changes of masters and huntsmen have cut off the links, and, the connection once broken, mistakes occur; and conjectures are inadmissible. At some kennels no systematic registries have been kept, and I have been compelled, though very reluctantly, to omit a few which could not be relied upon.

From all the old establishments I have received the most valuable assistance, both from the masters and their huntsmen, to all of whom my best acknowledgments are due; and I sincerely hope the 'Kennel Stud Book' will prove useful and interesting to the influential patrons of the 'Noble Science.'

EXPLANATORY NOTES.

In all cases Hounds are understood to belong to the Kennels at which they are entered, whether bred at home or purchased as drafts from other establishments.

When a Sire or Dam belonging to another Kennel is introduced, the name of the Master who entered such Hound is expressed.

Stud Hounds and Dams, if obtained from other establishments, are in all cases inserted under the names of the owners of the Packs in which they were bred or entered, and will be found, if their ancestry be known, in the lists of those Packs, or in the Pedigrees of the Stud Hounds belonging to the said Packs.

As it frequently happens that the name of a Sire or Dam descends to a son or daughter, the date of entry being given, the Hound is easily recognised.

To avoid unnecessary repetition, when the genealogy runs back in one or more lines to the same progenitor, the Name and Pedigree, having once been given, is not repeated, as the date affords sufficient identity of the Hound.

ERRATA.

Foot-note, p. 52, read as follows :—

Harbinger was grandsire of Mr. Drake's Hector, and great-grandsire of Lord Fitzwilliam's Hermit.

Purity was grandam of Mr. Drake's Hector, and great-grandam of Lord Fitzwilliam's Hermit.

p. 94.

For Lord Henry Bentinck's Rambler, read Sir Richard Sutton's Rambler.

p. 152.

For Duke of Beaufort's Remus, read Rufus ; they were brothers.—See p. 40.
