It has been five years since CLARENCE A. DYKSTRA accepted the post as Provost of the University of California at Los Angeles. As professor, city manager of Cincinnati, head of selective service, and president of the University of Wisconsin it was possible to foresee the future which this University was destined to have under his direction. A true Southern Californian, he first ventured west in the twenties where as a commissioner of water and power for the city of Los Angeles he was one of those instrumental in establishing a $300,000,000 aqueduct and hydro-electric plant. To this project is owed much of the great life that is now possible in this area. Coming here in 1945, shortly before the second world war ended he had the task of holding a University together that was beginning to bulge at the seams with an increase of enrollment from 9,000 to 13,000 students. UCLA was filled with temporary buildings, temporary students, and temporary faculty. The work of providing an education for these students was a herculean task. While looking at the problem of the veteran, Provost Dykstra also had to look to the future when the veteran would disappear from the scene. The course for UCLA had two routes. Either it would falter and remain a southern branch or it would rise and become one of the leading universities in the country. Now five years later as we look over the campus we are aware that Provost Dykstra lead us on the latter course. With a faculty and administration that would not be traded man for man with any in the country, a scholastic rating among the finest, and a student body of the highest calibre . . . UCLA is on the road to greatness. For that achievement we look to the man responsible . . . the Provost. His secret of success seemed to lie in the words which have been used to describe him, "MUCH TO BE SAID, LITTLE TIME IN WHICH TO SAY IT, NO TIME TO BE WASTED." To DR. CLARENCE A. DYKSTRA we dedicate the 1950 Southern Campus.

UCLA in southern California . . . is the theme around which this record of the year's activities revolves. We have attempted to highlight every aspect of our college life which is typical both of UCLA and of the area in which we live: the industrial expansion, the varied recreational opportunities, the contributions of a rich agricultural zone, and the advantages of the surrounding community in which we will spend our lives as citizens and alumni. Threading its way through the pages is a humor and casualness that is characteristic of life at UCLA and in southern California. If you, the reader, become a part of this mood and at the same time realize the untold opportunities which we enjoy as a result of our location in this area, then the intended goal will be reached by the . . . STAFF

U. C. L. A. IN SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA . . .

A vital part of this community, U.C.L.A. has met its growing demand for service through a wide program of expansion...new buildings, new departments, new projects, all reflect the keynote of INDUSTRY which so characterizes southern California.

...surf, snow, or desert sand... a tightly packed rooting section or a summer Symphony under the Stars... whether spectators or participants Bruins find time to take advantage of the wide variety of activities which make RECREATION an important part of their California life.

...from the classroom and from the lab come the knowledge and training to serve an area of increasing wealth in AGRICULTURE... well-farmed lands and rich orchards provide the Southland with an abundance of food and a great prosperity.

We Govern

of CALIFORNIA at

PRESIDENT

If Sherrill Luke missed a class occasionally during his year as ASUCLA prexy, it was mainly due to a conscientious concern for student government duties, and partially due to interruptions of his trek to classes, by Kerckhoff associates who needed his time. Sherrill had been active on campus throughout his undergraduate years as: head yell-leader, member of Cal-Club, Yeomen, Kelps, class councils, and as president of his fraternity, Kappa Alpha Psi, and he will continue his participation in governmental activities after graduating from law school. During his year in office, Sherrill succeeded in clarifying the distinction between student and administrative authority. He reorganized the bureaucracy of student government at UCLA through constitutional revision, and made many other changes and proposals which were accepted with applause by his Kerckhoff colleagues.

Elected by her fellow students to represent them as official hostess of the ASUCLA, charming Alpha Phi Dorothy Wright accepted with her usual enthusiasm and efficiency the numerous responsibilities which are the lot of an ASUCLA vice-president. Her years of service in RCB and YWCA, as AWS women's rep-at-large, and on OCB, provided her with a background of experience and brought to her membership in Spurs, Key and Scroll, and Mortar Board. Dorothy displayed her leadership abilities as president of the local Spur chapter and as national Spur president. Her membership in Trolls was perhaps the most interesting recognition of Dorothy's versatility of personality which was a combination of serious industrious organizational and scholastic accomplishment and a good-humored warmth of friendliness.

VICE-PRESIDENT

Even president LUKE put his hand up during the discussion in the parliamentary razzle-dazzle that preceded the famous Bruin-Publications Board debate. The question of "freedom of the press" kept many SEC members hot under the collar in the council chambers.

STUDENT EXECUTIVE COUNCIL

Operating under almost ideal circumstances, high grade membership and a minimum of administrative control, the Student Executive Council handled many ideas of first rate importance not only to the student body but to the world in general. Paramount were the questions of loyalty oaths and executive control of publications which produced many weeks of struggle. The solutions, never unanimous, were representative of the divergent interests of the student body. Elective members of the SEC are the president and vice-president of the student body, chairmen of OCB, Welfare Boards, URA, GSA, and NSA, presidents of AMS and AWS and two representatives at large. The chairmen of the Theater Activities Board, Publication Board, Music and Service Board, Speech Activities Board, and MAB are appointed by the members of their organizations. In addition the Graduate Manager, without vote, a faculty adviser, an alumni representative and an appointed representative at large sit on the council.

After a particularly grueling session of SEC, Dean HAHN, GEORGE SEELIG, JIM GARST, and BOB GAUDINO dropped their guards for a moment in an effort to relax and escape the pressures of complex SEC legislation.

The six dollars per student allotted to the ASUCLA fund is the prime interest of the Board of Control, which oversees and prohibits the spending of ASUCLA money. On this augustly Scotch board are LORRAINE GAY, JESSIE RHULMAN, JOHN JACKSON, MILTON HAHN, SHERRILL LUKE, DOROTHY WRIGHT, WILLIS MORRISON, BILL ACKERMAN, and GEORGE TAYLOR.

REPS AT LARGE

Revision of the ASUCLA constitution for a better functioning student government and coordination to assure each class successful events with little or no conflict between all-campus and class activities were several projects of Representatives at Large Kathy Holser, Bob Lindh and Willis Morrison. Also on their program for the year was the growing parking problem of an expanding southern California campus. Using the "Share Your Ride" slogan to point out the advantages of bringing riders, offering priority car space to those who cooperate, a committee headed by Bob Lindh strove for a better parking system. These were only a sampling of the predicaments tackled by UCLA's three popular representatives.

Although her DG sisters seldom see KATHY HOLSER around the house, they are mighty proud of this Cal Clubber . . . the second girl Rep-at-Large in UCLA history.

Theta Delt BOB LINDH, complete with saddle shoes and cashmere, is a former pride of the Junior Class. This smiling Gold Keyer now represents his class on SEC.

Phi Psi WILLIS MORRISON, Rep-at-Large, is just about the fastest man around these parts . . . swimmer that is. His blue ribbons are now used as wall-paper at the Tri-Delt house.

As UCLA's elected delegate to the National Students Association, BOB GAUDINO represents the student body at the national convention, which acts as a clearing house for the ideas and practices of student government in American colleges, and champions the welfare of US and foreign students.

OCB's BOB FRANKLIN always found time to smile in the midst of trying days. As chairman of the board, his job was to see that the little jousts of temperament and interest were settled in the easiest way. This cheerful Gold Key senior hopes to attend law school after graduation.

O.C.B.

Organizations Control Board's job is to coordinate and regulate all the social functions that are sponsored by UCLA's many organizations. Every party must have its required sponsors and its blue slip on file before OCB is satisfied. By setting up a student operated control board, the ASUCLA avoided the fate of having a faculty or administration controlled social program, which would take more self-government away from the students.

Charming, FRANK LOY, member illustrious, claimed he knew how to file data cards, but SHARLA PERRINE, social chairman, caught the poor boy and with BOB FRANKLIN's help grounded him for five weeks.

ASSOCIATED MEN STUDENTS

As part of its aim to give the best possible representation to all men's activities, AMS changed its constitution this year to add members of the Conning Tower, Bruin Rifles, Alpha Phi Omega and Cal-Vets to their group. Another innovation was the addition of a publicity chairman post to the executive board. AMS highlights in the year's events were the Spring Sing, held away from the traditional campus Greek theater which was annihilated by the bulldozers, the second annual activity banquet, which this year was enlarged to include more men's activities; and Men's Week, efficiently headed by Bob Murphy. Presiding over the varied projects of AMS were Ted Nissen, president; Gordon Kiefer, vice-president; and Dick Leonard, secretary-treasurer.

In planning its second activity banquet, AMS enlarged the event to include many more of the on-campus men's activity groups. The committee which shouldered the major portion of this important responsibility was: left to right, STAN ROSS, PETE MANN, DICK LEONARD, PHIL GARDNER AND GORDON KEIFFER.

Masculine boos and cheers, together with generous amounts of tobacco smoke, filled the atmosphere of the Men's Week Boxing-Smoker. The stag event, typical of the male slant in all social activities during Men's Week, provided a welcome respite from the omnipresent female. Meanwhile, women waited for revenge in the Spring.

Incipient musician TED NISSEN is the efficient president of AMS. With the aid of a pleasant personality and a genuine enthusiasm for AMS, he has set the pace for a successful year. He is aided, in presiding over the AMS executive board, by Gordon Kiefer, vice-president, and Dick Leonard, secretary-treasurer.

"Big guns" of AWS, the executive officers and presidents of the honoraries, operated with efficiency plus under the leadership of Prexy BOBETTE CAMP.

AWS Associate Board, composed of chairmen of the various committees, responded to the gavel of Vice-Prexy BARBARA ROUSH, who sparked this year's activities.

Xmas morning found many a happy child as a result of the AWS-AMS Toy Shop's busy crew, which distributed stockings and toys to needy children.

President BOBETTE CAMP had a few moments of relaxation in her full schedule. This Troll, Mortar Board gal keeps thin by climbing the stairs everyday to her "second home" in KH220.

ASSOCIATED WOMEN STUDENTS

Variety was the keynote in AWS activities. In the hope of expanding AWS to include all women on campus, a well rounded program was planned and executed. The Hi Jinx Committee produced a week in which the women really reigned supreme. The job of coordinating and directing all student-administrative relations was given to the new Student-Faculty Board, and new students were welcomed and made at home through the efforts of the Orientation Committee. Santa's Workshop, a project to fill Christmas stockings, make toys and repair dolls for under-privileged children, was supported by the Philanthropy Committee. The work of these and many more groups is a real credit to able President BOBETTE CAMP.

ETA BARBARA KIMBEL, with pen in hand, writes the goings on in AWS and also finds time to be SEC's "official spectator" every Wednesday night.

"Smile all the while," the motto of vivacious Vice-Prexy BARBARA ROUSH, was really put into practice. Alpha Xi Delta sisters saw little of this busy gal.

MARY ANNA MUCKENHERN, is as frequently behind the counters and desks of OCB and WSSF as she is participating in URA and YWCA.

A delegate to 1949 National Student Congress, DAVE LAZAROWITZ was also well known as Policy Board chairman and California-Nevada-Hawaii rep.

Alpha Chi MARGIE KESTER served as NSA secretary and chief shoulderbender for myriad jobs MARGIE resigned her position to LYN LINDEN in the spring.

Poli Sci major ELEANOR NEUMAN as NSA treasurer was the girl to see about expenditures and ASUCLA requisitions during the past year.

NSA

National Students' Association is an organization with branches in over four hundred schools throughout the country. The UCLA NSA Coordinating Board, composed of student and NSA officers was the final authority for NSA on this campus. The Policy Board considered such things as academic freedom, student-faculty relations, international students, and regional and national issues. Two of the more outstanding jobs done by NSA were the European Tours, designed to give approximately a thousand students each year a chance to see Europe at the lowest possible rates, and the Purchase Card System, which offered financial aid to students by providing ten to twenty-five per cent discounts in over thirty stores. The cards could also be used in large cities all over the country where NSA member schools were located.

Man-about NSA LEE NICHOLS was co-chairman of the California-Nevada-Hawaii region, UCLA-NSA legislative advisor, and chairman of Student-Faculty.

Fall semester I Board Chairman STAN MATTHEW, pioneered new territory when he tackled the job of organizing international interests of the regional NSA.

I BOARD

International Board is for the benefit of both international and US students on campus and abroad. The group, chairmen of all organizations of an international nature, coordinate their various club activities, offer aid to students in other countries, help interested Bruins plan trips abroad, engender interest in the United Nations, aid financially and orient international students to UCLA. Lyn Harris Hicks, original chairman, was succeeded in fall '49 by Stan Matthew, who resigned to accept chairmanship of the sub-regional NSA international affairs commission. Gloria Foster was elected to take his place, and is at present assisted by Vice-Chairman Nancy Lee Roth.

Friendly GLORIA FOSTER returned from a year and a half "student sabbatical," including a six month tour of Europe, and took over the job of panels coordinator, which proved to be a stepping stone to the International Board chairmanship.

Board executives working for "international understanding and good will" are, left to right: JOAN RADERMACHER, exec sec'y; ANN McDONNELL, panel coordinator; STAN MATTHEW, regional NSA Int'n'l Affairs chrmn; GUY WIGGINS, "Y" Cosmos rep; LYN HARRIS HICKS, regional CCUN chrmn, and NANCY LEE ROTH, WSSF chrmn and I Board VP.

WELFARE BOARD

Looking after the welfare of the students in many diversified fields, the board acts in an advisory capacity to SEC. Consisting of the Bureau of Student Opinion, Transportation Committee, Labor Commission, Library Committee and Student Contact Committee, Welfare Board coordinates public opinion and legislative action. The Library Committee attempts to solve the many problems of overcrowded library facilities; the Bureau of Student Opinion polls the student body on controversial matters, and the Transportation Committee keeps files for students seeking rides to school and other far away places.

Kerckhoff Memorial Room, the usual meeting place of campus organizations, played host many times to TOM HITCHCOCK and his Welfare Board. Members of the group brought forth ideas concerning activities of each of their committees at these scheduled gatherings and plans were laid to carry them into action. Such planning was the reason for the Board's success in both fall and spring.

With a giant repertoire of songs, jokes and sizzling stories, TOM HITCHCOCK led the Welfare Board to the exalted heights of flamboyant success. Never before has KH 309 rung with such rollicking fun and crazy humor.

Not only some of the busiest, but no doubt the healthiest group of gals on campus are the Red Cross Staff: GINGIE HALL, production chief; MARY NORMAN, in charge of the International Students Conference; CARLA WELLS, secretary; BETTY BAKER, president; STEWART McKENNA, treasurer; ALICE ELLIS, camp and hospital parties; and CECILE BONNET, vice-prexy.

Always after somebody's blood, Theta BETTY BAKER, Red Cross Prexy, might have made good use of the blood drive contributions after the Kappa-Theta football game. Not only a demon in the activity field, but a whiz on the gridiron, she can really block.

RED CROSS

Always ready, willing and on the job, the UCLA Red Cross has been responsible all year for many drives on campus. The familiar blood donor booths, the girls busily knitting in their classes or making cotton quilt squares, the assistance for foreign students sent here for International Students Day . . . these activities were the "babies" of the Red Cross unit. As though this weren't enough, time was still found to entertain veterans at Birmingham and Sawtelle hospitals. All this, and believe it or not, more, has been accomplished under the leadership of President BETTY BAKER and her able staff of hard working girls.

Throughout the year Bruin students were donors of blood to the Red Cross. Blood bank units made several trips to the campus for the fluid which, in addition to being used as a stockpile in hospitals, was used for various research experiments in the never-ending fight to stop disease. Helping the regular Red Cross personnel in their efforts were the members of the local group.

Top URA executives were: Vice Prexy JIM GENTRY, chairman of the 1950 Mardi Gras, who supervised organization of new clubs; Secretary IDA MAE LANTZ, organizer-participant of the 1949 show, and Treasurer PAT COMPTON, who won the Pacific Coast Top Woman Pilot Trophy.

Down the alley and in for a strike . . . or at least that is what members of the Bowling club hope happens every time. This group practices one of southern California's most widely played indoor sports every week and tries to forget about bluebooks for at least a little while.

Up she goes . . . as this femme tips the ball over the net in a frisky contest between members of the Intramural group. This URA aggregation spends many afternoons at their sports on Spaulding field and they never seem to tire of their campus recreations.

Put yer little foot right out . . . and students in the Folk Dancing unit do just that many times, as they learn traditional folk dances of the world. In recent years students in this area have taken a keen interest in dancing of this type as a major source of their entertainment.

Coordinating all URA activities, the Club Council, consisting of the presidents and one rep from each URA club, brought up problems confronting the groups and, under the leadership of MARILYN GEE, helped direct URA policy towards best activity coverage.

Efficient AOP I PAT OLSON BROWNE banged her gavel at URA board meetings, and represented several hundred members from her post on SEC. Pat is a phys ed major and a June grad. Married last fall, she plans to choose homemaking for a permanent career.

U. R. A.

Seventeen URA clubs offer hobbies and sports activities to Uclans. New clubs were the Hiking, Photography, Rod and Gun, and Science-Fiction, to fill on-campus student needs. Some URA activities have been the Recs, the intramurals for women's living groups, and the URA-Cal Vet dance, movie, and game nights. Annual events were the Hangar Dance of the Flying Club, and the Spring Mardi Gras in April. URA's participation in southern California sports programs included such seasonal sports as golf, riding, tennis, skiing, ice-skating, badminton and fencing, and special trips such as Tiller and Sail voyage to Catalina, the Photography Club excursion to Yosemite, and the Ice Skating Club vacation at Big Bear. Popular events were the bridge tournament, the Flying Club's annual air meet, with UCLA taking top honors over ten west-coast colleges, and the Swim Show. Last year, the show's many southern California performances provided additional ASUCLA funds.

With Executive Secretary BOBBIE ANDERSON and Business Manager WALTER WHITAKER to help him supervise Homecoming activities, Chairman GEORGE MAIR initiated the week-long Village Carnival and fabulous All-U-Weekend, produced for students from five campuses

UCLA's World Student Service Fund committee, led by Chairman NANCY LEE ROTH, emptied Bruin pockets to buy life for needy fellow students abroad. Campus Theater gave a special production to prompt donors, and a final collection at the UCLA-USC game brought more money.

Organized to improve student-faculty relations and to personalize education at UCLA through seminars and socials, the new Student Faculty Board, with leadership of Chairman LEE NICHOLS, aired Bruin complaints and helped profs find faces to match names in their grading books.

UCLA stage productions directed by HARVEY KARMAN and his committee earned applause and fame as the coast's best all-student planned stage and talent shows. A graduate of the All-U-Sings of previous years, the shows were in much demand on campus and for charity drives.

Regulating election procedures and assuring fair campaign programs were only two duties of Election Board Chairman FRANK LOY and his committee, who provided more polling places, and succeeded in bringing out a bigger vote for the May elections than had been gained previously.

"Bewitched, bothered and bewildered," come the new freshman to UCLA, paragon of complexities. BOB SHAW, WALT WHITAKER and an orientation committee greeted the newcomers and attempted to ease the burden with excursions, counseling and rallies.

Spring and Uni-Camp drive came together, but DAVE RICH and his committee were planning long before that for collections along the rows and on campus. The second semester's only financial drive provided many underprivileged children with a summer vacation in the mountains.

Spreading their huge banners of welcome, the All-U-Open House Committee did their best to acquaint students with the "wheels," the student government, and each other. The committee, led by LEON KORNBLATT, accomplished much toward counteracting UCLA's "street-car" atmosphere.

BOARDS

Men's Athletic Board was, this year, the guiding light of more than twenty-six athletic teams that performed for UCLA during the '49-'50 seasons. Under the leadership of George Seelig, the MAB started high-powered legislation rolling for the long overdue basketball pavilion to house big-time athletic shows. Petitions were circulated and sent to the Board of Regents for quick action. Another MAB victory was the reinstatement of Crew on the UCLA campus, this time with sufficient funds for operation. More routine jobs of the year included the approval of athletic budgets, selection of life-pass recipients, and the awarding of athletic letters.

PUBLICATIONS BOARD

JUDICIAL BOARD

Heading up the Judicial Board was Chairman DEAN WARREN. Dean hails from Rochester, New York, where he attended the University of Rochester. Now a senior at UCLA, he is a political science major.

Judicial Board deals with matters needing a judicial decision such as violation of University or ASUCLA regulations by the students. The group accepts many matters for opinion and then refers them to the proper administrative body for further action after they have passed preliminary judgment. The Board was composed of MARY LOU McCANN, MARCUS KAUFMAN, JEAN VALENTINO, JUDY BOGEN, and DEAN WARREN.

JOHN ROSS, conscientious chairman of I House, was also vice-president of the Pre-Med Club. Born in Switzerland, he speaks both German and French fluently, and was an apt coordinator of International House.

INTERNATIONAL HOUSE

International students on UCLA's campus have the privilege of belonging to a rather unusual association known as I House. This group provides a center of cultural exchange for students of many nationalities and backgrounds. Of the four hundred and fifty foreign students on campus, three-fourths belong to I House, and only one-third of the membership is American. Discussion groups serve as an activity of a cultural nature, while weekend trips, excursions and dances are written on the social agenda for those who are far from home.

Members of International House brought memories of Switzerland to southern California for their Swiss dinner-dance, when guests enjoyed a demonstration wedding, of a young Swiss couple in native costume.

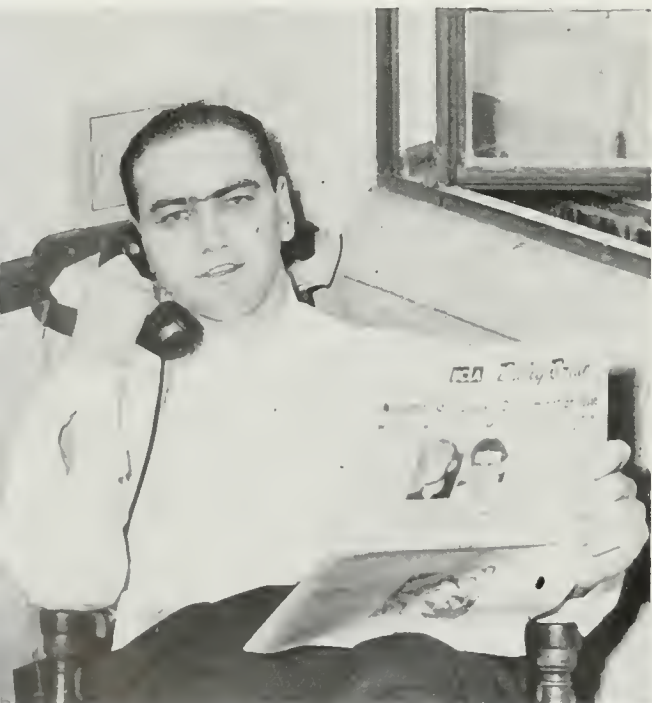

An air of informality mingled with a congenial spirit could be experienced by any guest at a Bruin Host party. Campus friendships and unity were the prime objectives at the parties which brought together students of outlying areas.

No evening would be complete without a round of songs about the piano. Fellowship flourished as voices rang out in chorus after chorus of old familiar tunes, and brought an end to a perfect social event.

Number one host of the Bruin campus, DOC BOY-SMITH, could also be called chief party-goer of UCLA. Finding time to plan and entertain in all parts of the city was his main concern as Bruin Host chairman.

BRUIN HOST

Solving the problem for commuting UCLA students, who often are unable to attend on-campus events because of transportation difficulties, Bruin Host organized social functions that were given in all parts of the city. The Bruin Host executive board felt that a greater loyalty and unity could be fostered if all students were given an opportunity to participate in the social life of the University. Chairman Doc Boysmith and his staff were particularly interested in new students and hoped to instill in them a feeling of belonging from the beginning, which would make for a more enthusiastic student body. Including not only students, but also the faculty, who often entertained in their homes, the organization created a feeling of friendship between students and members of the administration.

When the UCLA Alumni Association was founded JOHN E. CANADAY became its first executive secretary. Then after ten years with Lockheed Aircraft as director of public relations, he returned to the Alumni Association presidential post.

ALUMNI ASSOCIATION

Keeping pace with the rapid expansion and development of UCLA, the Alumni Association has become one of the most active organizations in the country. Twenty-six Bruin Clubs now hold regular meetings for alumni residing in their respective areas. Activities sponsored by the Association during the past year were class reunions, fall homecoming, dinners, and picnics. A recent project is the UCLA Progress Fund, established to solicit funds to give financial assistance for the various needs of the University. The group is governed by an executive council composed of eight elected counselors, one of whom is John F. Canaday, president for the 1949-1951 term, and manager of public relations for Lockheed Aircraft. He is assisted by John B. Jackson, executive secretary and Waldo Edmunds, the assistant executive secretary.

Soon to start his twelfth year as secretary of the Alumni Association, JOHN JACKSON continues as editor of the alumni magazine and as business manager of the association.

Assistant to the Executive Secretary WALDO EDMONDS' chief function is the organization and coordination of the Bruin Clubs which are springing up all over the world under his direction.

During the fall semester big BILL TRITT handled the job of editing the Alumni Magazine. Under his direction the publication took on added new life and zest.

When the lines ran into the Kerckhoff patio, Ticket Manager ROWE BALDWIN did her best with an undersupply of ducats.

Checking the books was the job of Auditor T. D. STANFORD, who found his work not unlike that of the sleuthing private-eye.

Tying up loose ends in the Graduate Manager's office Bill Ackerman's assistant, NORM PADGETT doubled as rugby coach.

The new warehouse, throbbing with activity, was under the direction of capable manager, JOE FELKER.

A friend of the always hungry and ready to eat Bruins, is the Cafeteria Manager, ROY CULLISON, a man with a full-time job.

With dreams of figures dancing in his head . . . debits and credits, REN BLIGHT really adds up to a first rate Chief Accountant.

ASUCLA OFFICIALS

Behind all student activities are the various officials of ASUCLA. Many of them advise and assist the students in numerous campus affairs. One event may necessitate work in almost every office. For example, the director of publications, purchasing agent, publicity manager, photographer, ticket manager, and others are all involved in a single football game. The Goal Post magazine is produced by the publications department and all material used is approved by the publicity manager, and all pictures he prints are taken by the photographers. Ticket sales, supervised by the ticket manager, also involve the cashier and auditor, and the entire procedure is governed by the graduate manager, who is a board of control member. Through the cooperation of all these offices we have achieved our present degree of efficiency in ASUCLA activities.

Publicity minded VIC KELLY, as head of the ASUCLA News Bureau, keeps tab on all UCLA goings-on.

His wary eye constantly on UCLA publications, HARRY MORRIS still finds time to smile and keep editors and KH staffs happy.

STAN TROUTMAN is the man no one could do without . . . as ASUCLA photographer he knows the campus and all its people.

Doubling between the cashier's cage in Kerckhoff and the basketball cage, as an alumni star, is DON ASHEN, chief cashier.

The head man of all ASUCLA activities is WILLIAM C. ACKERMAN, Graduate Manager, whose time is divided between supervising his administrative departments and the students activities. His genial manner makes the ASUCLA run smoothly through all problems and is often the cause of its habit of rising above every crisis.

As Chief Custodian, GUY BUCKINGHAM managed the affairs of the Kerckhoff tower and all its student offices.

Bookstore Manager RALPH STILLWELL handled the giant sales of text and cultural books that amazed UCLA students.

PROPERTY OF

After serving as understudy to his roommate IRWIN RICKEL, art editor of the '49 book, ED RENFRO fell heir to the layout crown. Now a senior, he will put his years of experience as a SOUTHERN CAMPUS slave to work in commercial art . . . "somewhere in the advertising field."

Editor-in-Chief ROBERT DICKSON STROCK, possessor of a homespun humor, and known as the "Walnut King of 304", has developed into a first class literary giant rivaling the throne long held by the NEW YORKER'S ROSS. A Fiji, Bob hopes to go into partnership with several Bruins and publish a magazine.

SOUTHERN CAMPUS

Dark-haired, witty, and a "basket-weaving" major, CHAR WEISS moved up from the position of organizations editor on the '49 book to the associate editor post this year. CHAR mixed business with pleasure last year, and now wears the Lambda Chi pin of '49 SOUTHERN CAMPUS editor, FRANK TENNANT.

Directing SOUTHERN CAMPUS staff efforts and planning book production are the chief jobs of the four senior staff executive members. It is the editor's job to plan and organize the book, make contracts for the engraving and printing work, and personally direct the systematic application that creates an annual of SOUTHERN CAMPUS size and stature. Working with the editor are the engraving, copy, and organization editors who direct their sections under the editor-in-chief's authority. The art editor designs the lay-outs of the book and arranges for the special pages of art work that are included in every issue of the SOUTHERN CAMPUS. The associate editor works with the editor, assisting him in the organization and production, and she also makes up the dummy . . . a book of proofs, copy, engravings, and art lay-outs, arranged exactly as they will appear in the final print. The business manager has the purchasing responsibility, providing supplies, budgeting the money allotted by the ASUCLA, organizing the sales campaign and selling page contracts. Assisting him are the sales manager, the publicity director and the office secretarial manager. In addition to these staff members, there is the photo editor who sets the appointments of all the informal pictures in the book, and the photo librarian who is responsible for the picture negatives and prints. The senior reservations manager must lure the departing seniors up to Manning's fifth story studio to get all their likenesses for posterity.

Tilling the annual crop of business problems of the SOUTHERN CAMPUS, agriculture major BRENT BOWEN combined his pest control and cotton growing talents with those in the business field to become the business editor of the year book. An active participant in campus life, BRENT was often a contributor to the BRUIN growls column.

A long-suffering picture slicer, Engravings Editor JACKIE SHAHBAZIAN, in addition to her many other activities, was the Trolls' enthusiastic and ingenious low potentate.

Copy editor and successful career gal, ADP: LYN HARRIS HICKS believed in doing well, "at least three things at a time," and cheerfully snapped the whip over her division editors.

Winner of the freshman cup for outstanding beginner of the year, Kappa MARCIA TUCKER devoted hours to directing panel-pasting . . . her duty as organizations editor of "ye olde book."

Familiar with all the beautiful faces of UCLA students were organizations staff members, left to right: JEANNE MARTIN, JOAN AUGSPERGER, CAROL HEMBOURG, TRUE JASMINE, JOAN WILCOX, JEAN NELSON, JOANNE CARMEAN, and DODIE JENSEN, who were also experts on the paper cutter.

"Models of efficiency" . . . An unusual picture of busy beauties . . . Seldom are this many of the copy staff gathered together in "wan beeg bunch" . . . Their work time is scheduled in shifts, so this was a fine chance to rehash the latest theft in oranges en masse while waiting for Hawkshaw editor Strock to unearth the golden orbs.

Stoop-shouldered from hauling drawing boards and paint boxes up three flights of Kerckhoff stairs to the SOUTHERN CAMPUS office were ever-working art staffers, left to right: GENE EDWARDS, BILL ROBERTS, FRANK SANDERS, and a familiar face on several staffs, JEAN NELSON. They were directed by ED RENFRO.

Slave drivers of the SOUTHERN CAMPUS staff were sales organizers, left to right: ANNE SLATER, JOANNE CARMEAN, FRANK LOY, RUTH WARNE, and VIRGINIA FOWLER, who laid out a sales campaign which eclipsed the 1949 selling record easily, and gave Bruins a free course in yearbook values.

SOUTHERN CAMPUS

At one end of KH 304 resides the business manager and his assorted staff members. Manager Brent Bowen had his biggest job, that of selling the yearbook, taken care of by his sales manager, Frank Loy. Senior reservations, organization's contracts, and the general business staff rounded out the managerial staff. The early worries of this staff begin in the months of September when they hustle page contracts and do not end until the sales are over and the book is in the mails.

With criminal law as his goal, SOUTHERN CAMPUS Sales Manager FRANK LOY had little time for his favorite debates on ethics, and discussions of sports techniques.

Rationing out SOUTHERN CAMPUS pages to would-be signees on the dotted line was one of the many jobs KRIS KETCHAM managed between planning for her April wedding.

Beta FRED NELSON practiced his theater arts before a senior public. As senior reservations editor he sold UCLA's potential grads a book-full of memories . . . investment for old age.

Seen many a time in the SOUTHERN CAMPUS office with brush in hand and paint on face were the gals responsible for the colorful and clever SOUTHERN CAMPUS posters. Chairman PAM MARSHALL with her Dee Gee sisters SHERRIE BROWN, ELLEN GRANT and NANCY BRAND, and Pi Phi TERRY WEBER wielded a mean brush to help book sales soar skyward.

Five queens of the copy staff, the section editors, supervised the copy writers in each book division. The editors, are left to right: GINGIE HALL, associate re-write; JOY WYSS, women's living groups; CLAIRE JACKSON, senior section; JANICE ROCKWELL, men's living groups; and MARILYN SILMAN, arts.

Behind the production scenes of the yearbook were the numerous editorial staffs and their members who put into action the programs of their respective editors. In addition to the major staffs . . . organizations, copy, engravings, and art . . . there were many smaller groups. The poster staff was effective in producing much of the artwork advertising UCLA's yearbook. The all-important photography staff, headed by Stan Troutman, was the key group around which the entire book revolved. All written matter in the annual was the result of the division and section editors of the copy staff. Working with all the staffs was the newly organized office staff which did many general duties.

Cute and efficient Alpha Chi SHARLA PERRINE, photo editor, stepped into NANCY HOLMES' shoes early in the year and galloped through her stacks of work.

Our girl Friday, Margie's So Cal's best example of the perpetual boomer . . . of more socializing, parties, practical jokes combined with the knack for helping.

With seventeen units, five hours of teaching, and a twenty-hour work week, Office Manager LYN LINDEN still made fantastic grades.

The man who harrassed the BRUIN editors for space and coverage was WIN MILLET, the erstwhile pusher of SOUTHERN CAMPUS news and bulletins.

SOUTHERN CAMPUS

It took JIM GARST a long time to say anything but when he did, his words were worth waiting for. Identifiable by his extraordinary pipe, the genial JIM was known to lend an ear to anyone begging audience. He is the proud composer of such lyrics as, "there are no oranges in Cucamonga, because the frost has got them all."

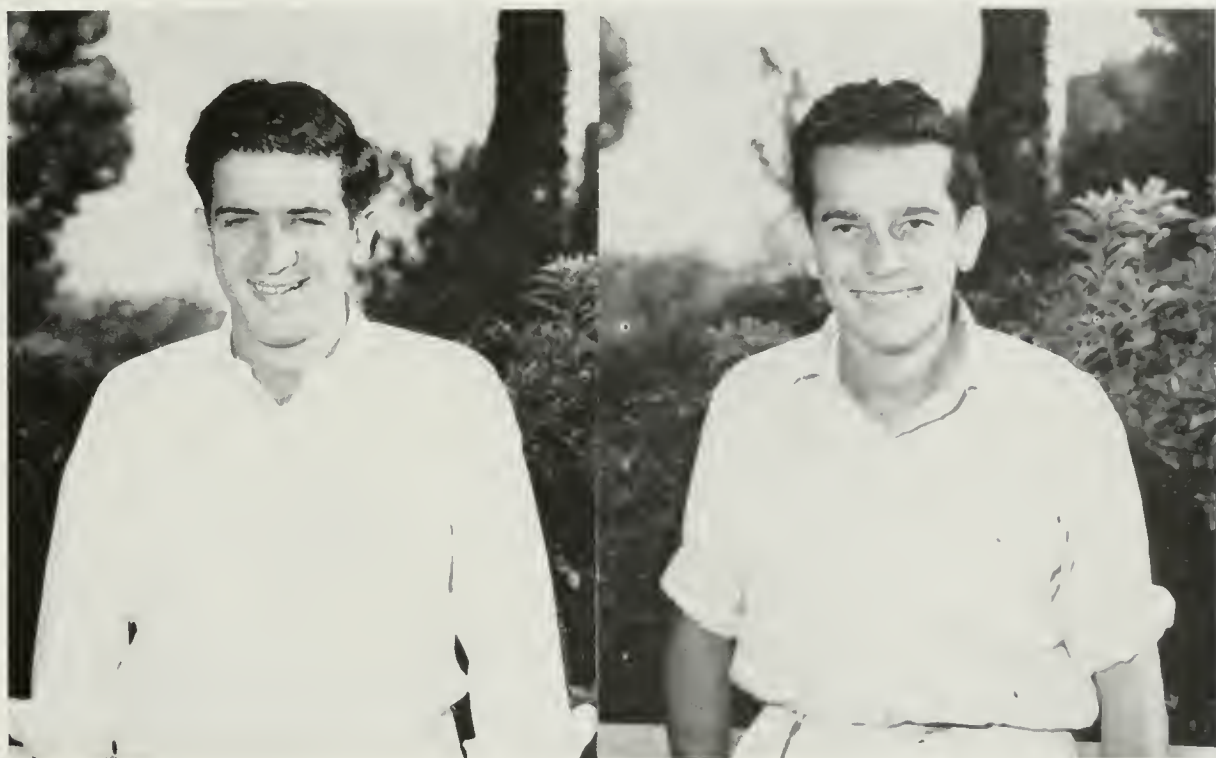

HAL WATKINS, the spring editor of the Daily Bruin took over his duties in KH 212E after serving as feature editor in the fall, his major problem being how to make all the students happy all the time. A habitual pipe smoker, he's noted for stressing campus participation in school events and problems.

U.C.L.A. DAILY BRUIN

The other half of the city editor team for the spring semester was JERRY SCHLAPIK. He constantly amazed fellow staffers by maintaining a phenomenal grade point average despite being a noted physics major.

In the fall semester the Daily Bruin Editorial Board had to get off to a flying start. It was appointed only five days before its first publication date. The fall staff was headed by Editor Jim Garst. He had his hands full keeping the staff on the job and also heading Publications Board during the lengthy Publications Board Constitution controversy. Strictly off the record were the activities of members of the editorial board. Garst had a fad of popping paper bags every noon hour and shocking some of the cub reporters from the office and City Editors Don Fanger and Gene Frumkin took to smoking the oddest pipes in captivity. Banging the gavel in the spring was Editor Hal Watkins who did much toward soothing over the frayed nerves of Bruins after the fall disputes. Occupying the pages of the Bruin during the year were stories on the loyalty oath, and student election issues. Garst filled most of his editorial columns with subjects on world problems, while Watkins leaned more on encouraging campus awareness both of school events and important student issues.

One of the most controversial figures on the Daily Bruin in a long time was CLANCY SIGAL. As fall managing editor he listened to staff complaints and found time to run for the Great Lover contest . . . which he lost in the finals.

Managing editor for the spring semester was GENE FRUMKIN, who moved up to that position from city editor in the fall. This future Bruin Editor made history when he rode a mule down Sunset Boulevard while a radio contestant.

For the first time in years a feminine touch graced the city desk in the form of ANN KLIGMAN. Another first was Ann's ability to keep her desk neat; an impossibility for male predecessors. She also carried on the pipe smoking tradition now and then.

During the spring semester, Business Manager BOB LEONARD revamped the business office. Besides pulling out a wall or two, he created new business positions and added to office efficiency.

No relation to Matt, RALPH WEINSTOCK lorded over the business office during the fall semester. He kept staffers in awe over his large collections of ads and original poetry.

Supplement editor for the spring semester was JOHN J. DENNIS. Politically minded John J. put out a supplement . . . whenever the advertising could afford it.

BEHIND THE DESKS

By two o'clock every afternoon the Daily Bruin office becomes alive. The Business Manager has made his ad layouts, and the various editors are busy finding news to fill their eight pages. Now the writing of tomorrow's paper becomes a serious business. The desk editor is handing out rewrite stories to reporters, while the night editor checks incoming stories for errors. In the sports office, between a few friendly bets among the boys, the sports news is going through the same process under the guidance of the sports night editor. The social and feature editors are delving through the day's material on their desks to fill up their pages. Five-thirty, and everybody out. It's time to take the day's work to the printer and the night of proof reading and rewrite takes place until the wee hours of the morning.

Behind these faces are the most sports minded brains at UCLA. The sports staff prides itself on being able to quote records, star athletes, winning teams, and predict winners in any sports event. These walking encyclopedias of the athletic world were the major reason behind the excellent sports pages of the Bruin during the past year.

Spring sports editor, BOB MYERS, managed to keep a vestige of sanity in the sports office. His big accomplishment was a trip to the NCAA tourney.

Named the "Tallest Staff Member" was wire and exchange editor IRV SHIMER. Naturally he was the star of the paper's basketball aggregation.

SONJA LEVIN, spring wire and exchange editor, kept herself busy worrying about what was going on at other campuses all over the country.

Quiet and efficient BETTY GILMORE took over the social page in the spring. Betty kept a watchful eye on all of the many social doings.

The fall social editor was DIANE McINERNY. Sports minded Diane won the fall football pool with nine males to compete with each week.

Smooth is the word for STAN BACHRACK, fall sports editor. Besides keeping a watchful eye on the sports office he also was a spring pub board appointee.

Originator of the "horrible horrors" that ran in the Bruin, pun happy MARTIN BROWER took over the associate editorship in the spring semester.

Associate Editor LENNIE RILANDER assumed care of thirty cubs during the fall semester. Her desk became cluttered with Trolls, and other assorted rah rah friends.

DON FANGER was the Bruin's ace feature editor in the spring and staffers constantly talked about his fabulous pipe collection and grey flannel slack wardrobe.

The job of getting Bruins to their green boxes fell on the shoulders of petite CONNIE DUNSCOMB, fall circulation head.

Spring circulation manager was ARDEN ROONEY. Taking care of the mailing list was but one of his many various duties.

The Bruin business staff was larger this year than previously, due to a creation of several new positions by the two business managers in the fall and spring. In addition to keeping the accounts straight, this group had to hustle ads from door to door in the surrounding area, mail Bruins to subscribers, lay out the advertising pages, and keep the want ad customers happy.

IN THE BACK OFFICE

Efficient, smiling EDITH DRUMM took her desk editor job seriously and contributed greatly to the Bruin production.

One of the top staff movie reviewers was JACK HEFLEY . . . all his hours were not spent at the cinema.

Daily Bruin nomination on a single slate for the prettiest girl to pass through KH 212 was JOAN MEALEY.

BOB McVAY kept himself busy in the sports office keeping up with the other athletic whizes.

Hero of the Daily Bruin versus Daily Trojan football game, which we won, was Night Editor TED WARFIELD.

With the titles of Night Editor and Political Editor was Bruin writer HELEN EDELMAN . . . a staff old-timer.

JOAN SILTON won hands down for the title of best dressed woman on the staff . . . she was a social editor.

Whenever there was a hot story to be covered, whether at SEC or in Royce Hall CHARLES SUTTON was ready.

ANN COOPER was Night Editor and often went by the nickname "Disaster" after her many auto crashes.

MARV YARNOLD came west from Syracuse University and has been sports night editor for the Daily Bruin.

Behind the "big wheels" of the Bruin are the numerous people who do much of the "leg work" connected with producing a daily paper. This editorial staff is composed of cub and senior reporters and other staff members who work behind the scenes many days and nights to present UCLA with a top production.

Serving as a guidepost for the Daily Bruin during the past year was the publication's Style Book and Statement of Internal Policy. From the style book the general purpose of the paper is put forth thusly, "The primary purposes of the UCLA Daily Bruin are three-fold. First, the dissemination of news of interest to students of the University. Second, the advancement of the interests of the ASUCLA and the University. And thirdly, the stimulation of the ASUCLA and the University to recognition of other than campus activities. The UCLA Daily Bruin as an institution has no editorial opinions; editorials and features necessarily reflect the individual opinion of the writer. The UCLA Daily Bruin affirms the obligation of student editors to frank, honest, and fearless editorial expression within the limits of decency, truth, and responsibility."

Blond and handsome JACK RENGSTORFF served as desk editor on the five day a week student publication.

BOB BENOIT was a handy man to have around the sports office when it came to picking a race winner.

Desk editor SELMA SIMCOE was always loaded down with art materials. She was a sailing enthusiast.

"Quiet and studious" were the terms used to describe EUGENE BLANK, who was named a desk editor.

Generally known as the "wonder boy" of the sports office was JERRY WEINER, night editor on the Daily Bruin.

The saying in KH 212 is, "IF DWAIN ESPER doesn't know it . . . nobody does." He is a walking dictionary.

Self admitted genius of the Bruin office was Sports Night Editor BOB LUPO . . . the red-headed fireball.

A new basketball pavilion was the pet project of Sports Night Editor and Varsity clubber, HERB FURTH.

JOHN DEICHMANN, ex-sports editor and elder statesman in the sports office, was U.C. L.A. tennis champ, '47.

These newest associate editors are shown expressing an interest in world affairs. GEORGE COULTER specializes in humorous short stories, campus politics. LOUISE BARTFIELD authored the "Artist" story and RONNIE HURWIT is also a contributing writer.

SCOP

Meet the people responsible for Scop, the ASUCLA magazine. Still young, it is still experimenting—with its physical make-up and with the type of material it presents. As a result of this experimentation, Scop has evolved from a strictly literary magazine to a blend of the literary, the humorous and the general (e.g., campus life, sports), of the nation's top college magazines.

Despite its youth, Scop has received wide-spread recognition as one English grammar, football and the Ladies' Home Journal furnished part of the material for Scop's gentle lampooning in the year's first issue. The 12-page insert entitled "Deplorable Detective" in the December issue was Scop's first essay into the field of the magazine parody. The third issue featured the controversy-provoking short story "The Birth of an Artist" and "Saddle Shoe Zoo." The final number of the year ventured once more into the field of parody, this time with a take-off on travel folders.

Scop's Editor-in-Chief, FRANK HEWETT, can still turn out a mirthy article on occasion. Frank is an expert on Latin and fotofeatures, as well as the world's outstanding authority on party games. He has a knack for getting work out of the staff using the "we're counting on you" technique.

FRANK M. HEWETT

JAN McINTOSH is Scop's red-headed, hard working managing editor. Jan has concentrated on the administrative rather than the literary aspects of the magazine. She dabbles in fashion work, also.

IRWIN "Rick" RICKEL, Scop's art editor, belies the cliché that an artist must be temperamental by being a top guy right down to his saddle shoes.

Busy is the word for Borie. Associate Editor MARCIA BORIE combines work on Scop with so many other activities, there's no room to list them.

Associate Editor JOAN LEVEY (pronounced as in "I've been working on the . . .") not only writes well, but has a good-natured sense of humor.

SAUL COHEN, a future lawyer with a penchant for writing, has been one of Scop's brighter lights. Two of his pieces were reprinted by other humor magazines.

JOE PAUL . . . associate editor, Laguna resident, poet, short story writer and student . . . plans a literary career if he ever leaves UCLA.

Bronzed RALPH SCHAEFER, long time Scop editor, is now a more or less honorary associate editor. His caustic movie reviews still keep the industry uneasy.

BOB ENGLISH is a whiz at humor in prose or poetry and promises to have both in next year's Scop magazine which he will edit.

PAT PADEN made her reputation with a piece entitled "The Postman Always Comes on a Tricycle." In addition to her academic degree she is now a MRS.

Scop's blond exchange editor, HILDE CARSTEN, is the gal who keeps track of what other college magazines are doing Fashion Editor RUTH DOBRIN is a real expert in the field of fashion. Her experience includes Made-moiselle and Tobe.

Scop regularly presents a number of features which form an important part of each issue. We've Been Wondering How It's Done explains in photo-text form important phases of campus life—Rally Committee, URA, SEC and Campus Theater having been spotlighted this year. Another such feature is the alumnus profile, subjects of which have been Ralph Bunche and Bruce Russell. Notes on the Staff introduces the people who put out Scop. The Fashion Show, Campus Life, and a report on sports are other regular features. Scop's hustling hucksters, business staff, are largely responsible for the attractive Scop ads.

Highlight of the fall semester was the Scop homecoming float, which had as its theme the Uncle Remus tales of the South. The late appearance of the magazine issues probably had its solution in that staffers hustled the float for months.

SCOP

NORMAN JACOBSON is Scop's smooth-talking, gag-throwing, ukelele-struming business manager. He's been top ad salesman for the last year and is an ace at copy, layout, and high finance.

Last semester's Business manager and current advertising associate is HERB GLUCKSMAN. He helps make Scop's ad staff one of the most musical in the country as he strums his uke.

LOIS GARVER is Scop's attractive office manager. Her infectious laugh and cheerful disposition help cheer Scop's sad humorists.

Meeting people, shaking hands, writing stories... this was the job of Scop's public relations girl SUSIE THALHEIMER.

LEONARD PRITIKIN, DAVID LAUREN, and VIC LeVINE form Scop's triumvirate of masters of the pen and brush. Not only are all three crack cartoonists, but their illustrations for ads and stories brighten the magazines considerably.

Business, business, business . . . that was the watchword of the Scop business staff. The group had the job of selling and maintaining ads that were among the most distinctive and attractive of any in the country's college magazine circles.

Since much of the magazine is based upon photography it was necessary to have a photography staff. This group composed of JACK TOWERS, STEVIE VOORHEES, and BALDWIN BAKER took pictures everywhere from the ocean to village patios.

Acting as the sports staff on the literary-humor publication were ALDO BONURA and SANDY WEINER. When there was important news on the UCLA sporting scene these boys handled the assignment, whether it was football or intramurals.

ARTS

FAUST

CAMPUS THEATER

ROADSIDE

A tense moment is enacted from Campus Theater's Roadside . . . foreground are LAWRENCE FIELDER, DICK HAWKINS, JOHN HOLDEN and in the background are PAT METTEN, BILL PULLEN, CHARLES MALOTTE, FRANK McCLURE, and WES ECKHART . . . featured players of the production.

Suspense-packed mystery by Ivan Goff and Ben Roberts accelerated pulses in 170 when Portrait In Black opened as as the season's first offering. Portrait centered around a mysterious murder and blackmail plot, featured Jane Blau-stein and Selwyn Myers, and was directed by Eddie Hearn. Rough hewn folk humor, vintage 1905 moved into 170 in November when Walden Boyle brought Lynn Rigg's Roadside to stay for a lively two weeks. Audiences enjoyed Bill Pullen's self-styled Paul Bunyan and Pat Metten's plain-roaming wagon girl so much that they voted Roadside the best show in 170 for the season. Moliere's The Miser completed the Fall 170 season and, under the supervision of Henry Schnitzler, brought a brilliant new actor before C.T. audiences in Art Marshall who won laurels in the title role. The Miser was taken on tour of Berkeley and Santa Barbara after two weeks in 170. UCLA's contribution to the mid-century Goethe celebration was a stellar production of Faust in Royce Auditorium. An enormous cast under the direction of Wm. Melnitz highlighted the acting of Harald Dyrenfurth and Stan Glen in lavish settings by John Jones.

PORTRAIT IN BLACK

PORTRAIT IN BLACK was the season's first performance. It was directed by EDDIE HEARN and was presented in Royce Hall 170. The mystery was written by IVAN GOFF and BEN ROBERTS. Such outstanding performances were the reasons for continued success through the years of campus theater.

THE MISER

ALL MY SONS

HE WHO GETS SLAPPED

BLYTHE SPIRIT

Critics applauded the 170 production of "He Who Gets Slapped" as both major and minor characters turned in excellent performances, while the sound technicians, set designers, lighting experts, musicians, and the makeup crew all combined to provide a skillful and appropriate background.

An old English flavor caught by picturesque costumes and colorful dialogue characterized the "Beggar's Opera," directed by Dr. Jan Popper and staged by Henry Schnitzler of the T. A. department.

BEGGAR'S OPERA

Drawing the largest crowds ever to attend a Royce Hall Campus Theatre production, the "Beggar's Opera" justified in a four day stand the weeks of preparation for this major event of the spring theatrical season.

With tongue in cheek, Campus Theater began the Spring season with Noel Coward's gay farce, Blithe Spirit in R.H. 170. Director Walden Boyle won smiles and kudos for his glib and saucy production which featured Dana Skolfield, Joanne Davis, and Jane Blaustein. The laughter through tears spirit pervaded 170 when William Melnitz brought an excellent cast headed by Stanley Glenn and Rachel Foulger before C.T. patrons in Andrejev's He Who Gets Slapped. Estelle K. Harmon, directing her first major production in 170 in four years presented an inspired cast, including Hank McKinnies and Walter Beaver in Arthur Mill's All My Sons. A milestone was reached in local theater history when the Theater Arts and Music Departments combined to cap the season with a Royce Auditorium production of Gay's Beggar's Opera with music by Benjamin Britten.

BRUIN BAND

With a blast of the tuba and a boom of the drum, the Great Bruin Band enthusiastically broke into "By the old Pacific's rolling waters," setting a spirited keynote for every activity in which it engaged. The ability to play an instrument and to pass the audition was the only requirement for membership in this largest of the ASUCLA organizations. Band members made their own arrangements of football music, and each had a chance to conduct the band when he wished. Besides the precision marching and complicated patterns performed in the fall, spring events included a tour of local high schools in April, the annual concert in May, and a recognition banquet. To keep in condition, the marching musicians practiced formations during summer vacation, and they recommended that a "sturdy arches" qualification be added to the band membership requirements.

Members of the Bruin Band committee had the job of organizing the many details necessary for smooth production. They were: HERB WISE, JUNE DEWEES, GIL ROBBINS, BOB CARROLL, NANCY RIDLEY, and GLEN MAXSON.

A fast tempo for the whole organization was set by Faculty Director PATTON McNAUGHTON, a drum major himself in his own undergraduate days in Nebraska.

Every eye was on that master of the whirling technique, GORDON WHEATLEY, asst. director and head drum major, who miraculously kept his equilibrium throughout half-time.

The right combination of the world's best bands stood at attention while President and Provost changed sides at the Cal-UCLA game. Bruins bade a regretful farewell to "Bob," for, "as Sproul goes, so goes the game."

RALPH SHAFFER kept all the instruments and music in order as he performed as band musical manager during the year . . . a large and important job.

WOMEN'S GLEE

Gleefully exhibiting their musical prowess, UCLA's female chanteurs under the direction of Leslie Jacobs worked hard to present an Eric Zucil choral work to their Ebell Theater audience. Spurred on by President Jean Cummings, the Women's Glee sponsored a noon concert in October in conjunction with the Men's Glee. Another musical note on the Club's program was their participation in the annual Inter-Glee Festival along with Pepperdine, Santa Barbara and San Diego Colleges. Combined talents proved successful when these schools blended voices to sing "This is Our Time," a modern composition by contemporary composer William Schumann. Resting from rehearsals, the Women's Glee Club joined with the Men's Glee Club for some socializing and partying.

Key figures in Women's Glee Club were JEAN CUMMINGS, president; NEELTYE WITBOARD, JEAN CHEETHAM, PHYLLIS BLOOM, ALICIA GULKIS, and Director LESLIE JACOBS.

MEN'S GLEE

Spiritedly lending their voices to the cause, the members of the Men's Glee Club accompanied the Great Bruin Band at the fall football games, and when the chimes rang out at the Homecoming bonfire, these vocalists joined forces with the glee clubs from Cal and Davis to sing the university almas. In the spring, the club took honors at the annual music festival held at Pepperdine College, while noon concert goers were given a musical treat when the Men's Glee sang spirituals and light classical numbers in Royce Hall. Taking time off from their vocal efforts, the group held a joint party in May with the Woman's Glee Club, and at the annual spring banquet the two glee clubs again combined for a bit of socializing.

MUSIC AND SERVICE BOARD

Serving to help others serve, Music and Service Board, composed entirely of presidents of various campus service organizations, kept the multitudinous activities of the ASUCLA running smoothly.

THEATER ACTIVITIES BOARD

Joining hands to further the arts were Theater Activities, Music and Service, and Speech Activities Boards. TAB, responsible for student shows, guided Music Workshop, University Productions and Campus Theater. Music and Service Board assigned activities to honoraries and the Homecoming and Rally committees. Speech Activities Board secured speakers for campus groups, participated in tournaments, and controlled all speech activities.

SPEECH ACTIVITIES BOARD

Speech, extemporaneous, impromptu and tournament, occupied the thoughts of Speech Activities Board members ED FITZGERALD, ART KARMA, DIANE DAGGS, JIM DAVIS, and LES MITTLEMAN.

This scene is from the annual dance concert of Dance Theater held during May. Titled "Sea Shanties" the dance was choreographed by Bruin LUCILLE LANGDON.

Performing before capacity audiences on their several studio evenings, the dancers exhibited the expert body control that made them quite outstanding in their dance field.

"Sea Shanties" was in two scenes . . . "The Drunken Sailor" and "Blow The Man Down." There were four other compositions given during the spring show which were handled by thirty dancers.

Executive head HARVEY BERMAN with all the planning board of Dance Wing, devoted many hours of serious thought to the creation and production of the UCLA dance shows.

DANCE THEATER

Combine imagination and interest, stir well and add a large slice of hard work . . . result . . . "Look, Ma, I'm dancing!" So said Harvey Berman, Executive head of Campus Theater's Dance Wing, when asked how to be successful in the field of creative dancing. Members of Dance Wing glided through the year with Ruth Jacobs conducting a dance technique class every Wednesday evening. Workshops, frequented by guest lecturers and dance artists, afforded members the chance to learn more about basic steps, expression and mood. The annual Royce Hall show, choreographed, designed, produced and danced by students only, climaxed the whirl of another successful year for Dance Wing.

ACCOUNTING SOCIETY

Numbered among newly formed organizations on campus this year was the UCLA Accounting Society. Begun during the fall semester, this group from the College of Business Administration worked to promote the study of accounting with an eye toward the business world, and acted as an intermediary between professional men, instructors, and students in the field. With their purpose well in mind, members held meetings highlighted by such guest speakers as Kenneth B. Hughes and John L. Carey of the College of Business Administration. The fall and spring presidents, Don Sherrill and Ted Sachsman, worked in close contact with the society's sponsor, Dr. A. D. Carson, to plan coffee hours, making it possible for members of the new organization to become acquainted with accounting faculty personnel on an informal basis. The installation banquet, in the spring, balanced an outstanding first year.

Counting up the Accounting Society's activities were DAN GREENGARD, PAUL MAYEKAWA, ED YOUNG, DON SHERRIL, TED SACHSMAN, YASUO YOSHIDA, JEANNE RUSSELL, ORRIN KABAKER.

ALPHA CHI DELTA

Contradicting the statement that the business world was a man's world were the members of Alpha Chi Delta, business administration and economics professional sorority. Founded in 1926, it is the oldest women's economic sorority on campus, and last March it celebrated its own charter day when it presented a document to the University in token of its twenty-four years at UCLA. Alpha Chi Delta aimed to further the knowledge of women in commercial interests and to raise the standards of the profession. To this intent the group presented a tea in April where they awarded a scholarship cup to the woman who had made the highest grades in the field of administration and economics. Joining with other professional sororities and fraternities, Alpha Chi Delta sponsored a picnic for the promotion of social as well as official relations with the faculty. A Christmas party with the alumni and a joint meeting with the SC chapter were other examples of mixing business with pleasure.

Executive positions in Alpha Chi Delta were filled by officers RUTH MADER, president, and DORIS GAZERIAN, treasurer, who only practiced the positions which they may someday hold in the business world. These girls were part of the governing council.

ALPHA CHI SIGMA

While they didn't discover a container for the universal solvent or learn how to change lead into gold, the members of Alpha Chi Sigma, honorary chemistry fraternity, made several outstanding contributions to the school and the profession. They provided a tutoring service for undergraduate chemistry students, and made many safety suggestions for the newly proposed chemistry building. They occasionally washed the permanganate stains off their hands and left the laboratory for a dinner with the graduate division or a party with fellow collegiate members. Since this is the only Alpha Chi Sigma chapter in southern California, membership is open to eligible students from other colleges of the area. Members are all Bruins now, but Master alchemist Gaylord Hold expressed hope that the fraternity would soon boast members from San Diego to Santa Barbara.

ALPHA DELTA SIGMA

Figures, copy and sales kept the members of Alpha Delta Sigma, national advertising professional, extremely busy last year. A survey showed many of the members working on the college publications or handling a part-time job in the advertising field. The group alternated afternoon business meetings with evening socials, benefiting from both by the first hand information disclosed by guest speakers. Alpha Delta Sigma met twice each semester with the southern California alumni group in an effort to bridge the gap between college advertising training and the professional world. Along with President Phil Curran members took an active part in the regional convention held in the spring. With an eye to their future jobs these novice ad men wrote "thirty" to the school year by printing a pamphlet containing the pictures and experience of their graduating members to be sent to the various advertising firms.

BRUIN NURSES

Setting their nurses' caps at the regulation angle, members of the Bruin Nurses Club competently handled a variety of social and professional activities. With "Flossie Bruin" as a nickname, these Florence Nightingales of UCLA enjoyed everything from beach parties in warm weather to snow parties in December. Along the social line was a square dance given with the Public Health Association in April, and the annual alumni banquet in May. An orientation tea and musical helped acquaint new nursing students with the campus, and regular monthly meetings featured eminent doctors and nurses as speakers.

BRUIN ROWING CLUB

All out for Crew! The Bruin Rowing Club, with the help of Shell and Oar, girls' auxiliary, boasted the enthusiasm and the effort that was necessary to re-establish a place for Crew on the UCLA campus. By the end of the spring semester these oarsmen, all returning lettermen, were again cruising down Ballona Creek with Coach Bob Schaeffer working to build up another of those winning teams. Through a wide publicity campaign, the Rowing Club succeeded in securing for Crew a place of renown among school sports. With a smooth social season under the leadership of president Don Chelew, the Rowing Club completed the last lap with the annual Crew Week in May. Activities included the inter-class and alumni races and the choice of the varsity and frosh squads, and gals galore awaited the alumni banquet which was highlighted by presentation of the Crew queen.

Officers of the Bruin Rowing Club grin broadly now that Crew has been re-established at UCLA. Ready to paddle down Ballona Creek again were EARL HAMLEY, DON CHELEW, ED TRABIN and ANDRE RUBITAILLE.

BUSINESS EDUCATION

Tending strictly to business with the emphasis on education, UCLA's Business Education Association experienced an eventful calendar for 1949-1950. First on the agenda were plans for the local organization to affiliate with Pi Omega Pi, national business education organization. Next, President Robert Gilkinson led members on a commercial tour of southern California. By watching the wheels of industry at work, in banks, offices and stock exchanges, these student observers received some first-hand business knowledge. Broadening their program, the Association invited guest speakers from other Bruin clubs to participate in their meetings, thus creating one well informed staff of business men and women.

EPSILON PI DELTA

East-side, west-side, up and down the coast, student groups from all southland colleges attended the annual meeting of the Chinese Club of the south. Among the many participants was the UCLA chapter of Epsilon Pi Delta. Promoting greater fellowship for its campus members, this service organization busied itself in campus activities last year. Philanthropic work was the main service of this group, but social activities were not to be forgotten. On the calendar were found varied plans which included picnics, a joint dance with the University of Southern California, Pomona, and Mt. Saint Mary's chapters of Epsilon Pi Delta, and a special Easter-time party.

CAL VETS

With the days of khaki and blue behind them, their rifles and anchors put away, veterans united to become a social as well as a scholastic part of the university. A requirement for membership in Cal Vets was participation in the last war in the service of one of the United Nations. "Vets Nights," co-sponsored with the University Recreational Association, were planned monthly with free baby sitters provided so that veterans and their wives or dates might enjoy an evening of dancing, movies, or swimming. The Cal Vet caricature booth for the Mardi Gras was a great success with all proceeds going to the Uni-Camp Drive. George Farver promoted the year's activities and entertainment as he served as president in both the spring and fall.

About finals-time Cal Vet officers GEORGE FARVER, CHICK LICATA, ETHEL HERDA, JUD MATHIAS, and JOE CORTESE felt even the war was never so rough.

Sharing honors with their National Intercollegiate Air Meet trophy are JERRY LOBEL, BARBARA BLUMENTHAL, DOLLY EVERETT, JUDY SAMISH, and CHUCK BORST.

After the "Big" flying meet of the year the Bru-flyes held a banquet in KH and ended up their Inter-collegiate meet. Heading the group throughout the year was Jerry Lobel.

FLYING CLUB

The membership and reputation of the Bruin Flying Club increased tremendously this year as a team of pilots comprised of Bru-flyes added to their already impressive collection of trophies by winning the 1949 National Intercollegiate Air Meet held in Fort Worth, Texas. Following this meet the club sponsored the Pacific Coast Intercollegiate Air Meet for 1949-50 here in Los Angeles. Colleges all up and down the West Coast were invited to attend this air meet, which was considered a two way success for the Bru-flyes as it gave them their second important victory within a year. Along with its air meet activities the club arranged complete ground school classes, flight instruction, and recreational flights for its many members.

In front of their "hangout" the fly boys pause before taking off in their light planes for a day in the air, before returning to classes after a glorious airborne week-end.

Members of the club's executive board were: COLONEL MURRAY; DON GERSON; MICKI GROMAN; PAT COMPTON; PAT LARNER; JERRY LOBEL, president; and PETE SWIRLING.

An oft debated question among members of the Geological Society was whether UCLA's position on the San Andreas fault would make it prone to a quake on the fiftieth anniversary of the 1906 catastrophe.

Sedimentary members of the Geological Society could enjoy their geology in packaged form by listening to lectures, for example "Cave Explorations in Mexico," by Dr. Chester Stock of Cal Tech.

Occasionally a member of the Geographical Society made a classic remark about rolling stones and moss, or produced geological grins by something even boulder than that.

GEOLOGICAL SOCIETY

A diamond in rough was not just a lump of carbon to the mineral-minded members of the Geological Society, a departmental organization under the leadership of Robert Guillou. Weathering the year successfully, the society afforded its members and the faculty the opportunity to meet together socially and to hear speakers on subjects not covered by the UCLA geological courses. Technical lectures on geophysics and petroleum by authorities in the respective fields interested the students while both students and their wives enjoyed illustrated talks on popular geology at frequent evening meetings. During spring vacation the society packed off to Las Vegas for a lengthened field trip under the direction of Dr. D. F. Hewitt of the United States Geological Survey. Along more social lines, the society sponsored two dances which brought them in from the great outdoors. Attending the annual banquet in May, the members and prominent guests heard speakers from the petroleum and mining industries, bringing the society valuable contacts with the practicing geologists of the southern California area.

A fascinating example of an igneous rock, discovered by the Geological Society on one of their field trips, held the attention of the 1950 officers, who hoped that in the future the society might more carefully explore the various geological phenomena of southern California.

The fatal attractions and characteristics of rocks were discussed by officers of the Geological Society as WILLIAM ELLIS, JOE PELLINE, and HARRISON JAMIESON gave special attention to one of their latest finds in the southern California area.

GEOGRAPHIC SOCIETY

Charting their course to the north, south, east and west, members of the Geographic Society explored the surrounding countryside. It was up to San Dimas and down to Sonoma, Mexico, where members of the departmental organization familiarized themselves with the various land forms and had a chance to compare them to the maps they had studied. After five field trips each semester these junior grade geographers were old hands at pitching tents, camping out and cooking over an open fire. In addition to its long distance outings the group held monthly meetings highlighted by the presentation of geographic films. President John Bergmann had the group's interests at heart when he secured guest speakers to inform the Geographic Society of the whys and wherefores of valleys and mountains. With the added enticements of over-night hikes and all-day outings, the Geographic Society could boast eighty members as it traveled the length and breadth of southern California.

First hand knowledge of the map of southern California was advocated by Geographic Society officers ANNETTE MACDONALD, JACK BERGMANN, president, RALPH JOHNSON, and DON PHILIPP.

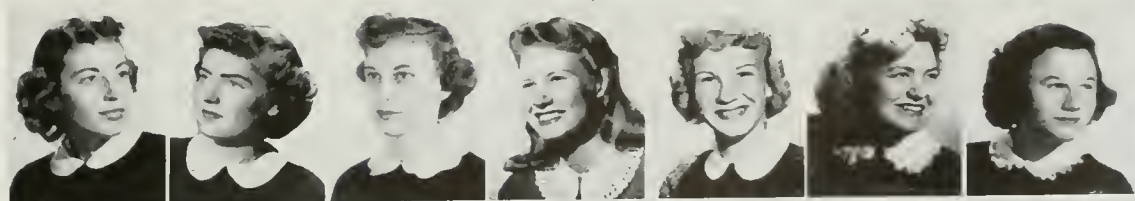

Slaving over hot stoves and sewing machines, the members of the Home Economics Club were guided by EVELYN SAKAMOTO, NANCY BERNT, TRUDY SKERSKI, and NANCY SIEGAL, spring and fall officers.

HOME ECONOMICS

Aided by their cook books and thimbles, members of the Home Economics Club managed to concoct another year crowded with activities. President Nancy Bernt led those wearers of the traditional "Betty Lamp" pins by energetically working for the Y Doll contest. For St. Patrick's Day, the Home Economics Club organized a cookie sale, while in May club members honored their seniors at an annual breakfast. A style show highlighting spring fashions was one of the group's most outstanding projects.

KAPPA PHI ZETA

A precious pass to the catacombs of the library stacks was one of the privileges accompanying membership in Kappa Phi Zeta, library professional. Activities of this organization centered around speakers from the various public and school libraries in Los Angeles and the surrounding communities. The annual excursion to the Huntington Library was made in the spring and included on the agenda for the year was a field trip to the William Andrews Clark Memorial Library. Kappa Phi Zeta also visited the library school of the University of Southern California and there received much valuable information on the field from the administrative officials. A service project benefiting the whole campus was the reviewing of recent non-fiction books by the organization under the guidance of President Ethel Dwyer.

A smooth running, efficient library was the aim of members of Kappa Phi Zeta, who toured the public and private libraries of southern California in an effort to observe the various systems, under the direction of officers MARGARET DENEVERS, President ETHYL DWYER, BARBARA CATER, and JOENICEY GARNER.

Visiting hours at the Sawtelle Veterans Hospital were always open to members of the UCLA chapter of Mu Phi Epsilon, who presented a monthly musical program for the bedridden patients, under the direction of officers DOROTHY HANRAHAN, PAT STROMAN, JOYCE HOLLY, HELEN WINTER, and LAURA LEE KNOX.

MU PHI EPSILON

With a song in their hearts, members of Mu Phi Epsilon, national music sorority, climaxed another musical year. The "song" was one written especially for the group by Dr. Kremenliev of the music department, and last May during the annual spring concert "A Song for Parting" was performed for the first time. Other key notes to this organization's activities were the monthly musical programs given for the bed-ridden patients of the Sawtelle Veterans' Hospital. A performance contest open to all women music majors was sponsored by the alumni chapter during March with the winner having the opportunity to play with the Pasadena Symphony Orchestra. Noon recitals and exchange parties with Phi Mu Alpha blended to bring Mu Phi Epsilon's musical year to a harmonious close.

The Masonic clubhouse, with its California style patio, lounges, snack bar and recreation facilities, was the scene of many good times for MAC's. The doors stand open every day of the week for members, their guests, and visitors.

Featuring the "Fire-House Five Plus Two" at their all-campus open house in October, the Masonic Affiliate Club attracted many Dixie-land jazz fans. Located on Le Conte Avenue, the ivy-covered club house boasted a television set and the largest dance floor on campus. For their fall formal M.A.C.'s took advantage of this spaciousness when they located the orchestra on an island in the center of the floor, thus carrying out their "Moon Mist Isle" theme quite convincingly. Philanthropic parties were on the calendar during the Thanksgiving and Easter holidays when the Masonic Club entertained for the All Nations Foundation. Still more socializing was enjoyed by Masonic Clubbers as a water front dive party complete with red-checked tablecloths and a gang plank was presented by the group. Between semesters the club traveled to Big Bear to see the snow, so that the members might become better acquainted. The special feature of UCLA's April recess was the "Spring Sneak," the occasion for all loyal MAC members to leave Westwood for Balboa. A reception for the Grand Master of California, Judge Ellsworth Meyer, the California Supreme Court Justice, was held in May when special honors were awarded to those students who were elected to the Masonic Affiliate Club Honorary House. Those honored were selected for their outstanding leadership and service in making the Masonic Club an integral part of campus life.

NISEI BRUIN CLUB

Advertising for better relations between students, NBC put on a high pressure campaign to sell their product. Under the enthusiastic leadership of President Carl Hanaoka, the Nisei Bruin Club made a success of their freshman reception in September. In the first winter snow the group and their active sponsor, Professor Ashikaga of the Oriental Language department, hiked in the mountains and took time out to build a snowman. The fall semester was climaxed with club members and their dates enjoying an informal dance. Aside from all of the social activities Nisei Bruins found time to win recognition in intramural sports. Soundly backed by the organization's athletic chairmen, Rick Ikegami and Masagi Hata, the NBC football squad held its opponents to the line, and was not scored against until the semi-finals. In the spring, the Nisei Bruins entered the basketball league where the girls made a showing in women's intramurals. The annual spring formal in May was a shining conclusion to the year for NBC.

Pretty smiles, lovely voices and platform poise . . . officers of Phi Beta, women's music and speech honorary, were the possessors of all three. Displaying their talents before the camera were, left to right: President BETTY VOGNILD, JACKIE FISCHER, DEMETRA PALLAMARY and MARTHA FRANCIS.

PHI BETA

Words and music blended together to keep Phi Beta, national music and speech professional, right on key this year. Working to promote the best in music and speech, members ushered at the Royce Hall concerts and presented their own spring concert in May. The three southern California chapters of Phi Beta gathered for a joint reception given in the fall and continued to better inter-campus relations at an exchange party with the USC chapter. Patrons were honored at the induction ceremony in May and Mothers' Day was celebrated with a tea for parents. Philanthropic Phi Betas backed President Betty Vognild in sending books and money to the University of Hawaii and in presenting the organization's annual gift to the music and drama departments.

PHI CHI THETA

Perfect examples of career women who in the future will be their own bosses were the members of Phi Chi Theta. The purpose of this national women's commerce fraternity was to promote the cause of higher business education and training for all women. Its members were business education and business administration majors. Last year they sponsored the successful coffee hours held twice a month in the BAE activity room, and they set a precedent for better student-faculty relations in the future by sponsoring a picnic in May. To conclude the year a scholarship tea was given for those women in business administration with the highest grades, best personality, and most activities. Led by President Sally Jaggard, Phi Chi Theta was successful in the business world of UCLA.

Commercial interests took first place with Phi Chi Theta members as they worked with their Los Angeles alumni association to foster high ideals for women in business, guided by officers JEANNE RUSSELL, secretary; SALLY JAGGARD, president; BARBARA SLACK, vice-president; and ROSEMARY PIERCE, treasurer.

PI DELTA EPSILON

Pounding their typewriter ribbons to eyelet embroidery, members of Pi Delta Epsilon, national honorary journalism fraternity, were chosen from the outstanding workers on the three campus publications . . . Scop, the Daily Bruin, and Southern Campus . . . and were recognized by that "I've got just twenty minutes to meet the deadline" look. All varieties of journalistic activities were represented from production to editing. The educational combined with the social at Pi Delta Epsilon meetings. One of the guest speakers was Bruce Russell, Pulitzer prize cartoonist, who joined Dr. Joseph Brandt of the University Graduate School of Journalism, in accepting honorary membership in Pi Delta Epsilon.

PHI MU ALPHA SINFONIA

"Music, Music, Music" was an appropriate theme song for members of Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia. Their purpose was to advance the course of music in America and they accomplished it by working for harmony on the UCLA campus. The local chapter of this national music fraternity was founded in 1937 by Dr. Leroy Allen, now the sponsor. Since, membership has included the most active men in the various music fields, with international personalities Leopold Stokowski and Thomas E. Dewey as honorary members. Maestro James Warren led organization of the American music concert given in April in Royce Hall. A noteworthy occasion was the annual exchange with Mu Phi Epsilon, music sorority. Phi Mu Alphas gathered on the UCLA campus in the spring, from San Diego, Redlands, SC, and Occidental, for their annual State Day, where co-operation among southern California chapters was stressed.

Seldom seen without violin cases, flutes, pitch pipes, or at least manuscripts were the officers of Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia JAMES WARREN, president; HENRY R. MORGAN, treasurer; OCTAVE BONOMO, historian; BENTON MINOR, vice-president; and ROBERT ARMER, warden.

PHRATERES

"Famous for Friendliness" for a quarter of a century on the UCLA campus, Phrateres filled a true need in its position of international, social and service organization for university women. Under the leadership of Beverly Novick, Phrateres offered its members representation in campus activities and provided the opportunity for all women students to share in the extra-curricular life of the campus. Any UCLA co-ed interested in the motto and in service to the university could join. Striving to make UCLA a real home away from home, the members scheduled an informal spring dance, frequent theater parties, informal house gatherings, dinner meetings followed by bowling, and as the warm weather came, a Catalina excursion with the chapter at the University of Southern California.

A friendly welcome to UCLA was extended by Phrateres officers HARRIET GELFAND, President BEVERLY NOVICK, CYNTHIA LAWRENCE, GERRY MILLER, JOAN PACHTMAN, and GINNY STUCIN. They guided the group all year long.

The guests of URA Recs are often welcomed by the hostesses with such a friendly treatment. These Bruins were well on their way to a great evening after this fine entrance.

U.R.A. RECS

One of the campus recreational highlights for the '49-'50 year was entertainment sponsored by the URA which included free sports activities and dances. Other attractions for Bruins and their guests were folk dancing, swimming, and shows with student and off-campus talent. There was a continual growth in the attendance of the dances, at which varied and clever themes were carried out through the use of elaborate decorations. Seasons were the motifs for three of the dances. These and others were the Harvest Hop, Frosty Frolics, Spring Fling, Globe Trot, Flapper Fling, and two Smile-Hi's which were given at the beginning of each semester. These dances proved phenomenally successful in fusing school spirit into UCLA's 15,000 students.

Between badminton games or a mad charleston the Bruin Reccers were constant customers of the refreshment bar. Such conveniences made this year's Recs the best held on the campus.

Decorations were the keynote of one of the many URA recs, namely the Flapper party. With a mad combo and a spirited crowd this session was one of the year's finest.

PRE-MED

With medicine men it was the Pre-Medical Association two to one as the group doubled its membership last year in keeping with the rapidly expanding field of medicine on the UCLA campus. The association was primarily designed for the presentation and discussion of recent medical developments and the results of experimentation and research. Its purpose was to promote interest in medical subjects, to facilitate over-all orientation in the problems of medical education and the practice of medicine, and to foster better relations among its members and between the faculty and the students. Contrary to the impression given by its name, the membership was not limited to pre-medical students but included those who were interested in medicine or the biological sciences. Guided by President John Dalley, the association was actively concerned with plans for the medical center to be constructed on campus and hoped to see the architectural sketch become a reality in the near future.

"Oh, no, John, you're not going to dissect us for medical research or any other reason," warned Pre-Med officers ELEANOR KOHN, ELEANOR APEL, and JOHN ROSS, who were discussing with President JOHN DALLEY the possibility of human guinea pigs.

Lending glamor to mighty Crew were the members of Shell and Oar, women's auxiliary, who served coffee and doughnuts at Crew meets, directed by officers CHARLOTTE GAUER, GINGER FOX, president, and HAPPY JEFFS.

SHELL AND OAR

Dutiful galley slaves for the mighty men of crew were members of Shell and Oar, women's auxiliary. Crew, in fact, owed its existence to their persistent efforts along with the Bruin Rowing Club in circulating petitions to reinstate crew on campus. The organization acted as a secretariat to the rowers and, along more muscular lines, spent many a happy hour in spine-shattering work clearing a parking lot near the regatta grounds for the Saturday crowds. An eye-catching object was the new barge painted delphinium blue with the yellow insects by the rainbow-minded Shell and Oar members. The girls were official hostesses and their smiling faces helped to spark crew on to victory in competitive races, while perhaps distracting a few of the opposing crewmen from their duties. President Ginger Fox and other auxiliary members took advantage of their powerful position to give all rowmen without a regulation crew cut a good close barber's job, much to the chagrin of many a brawny oarsman.

SKI CLUB

Gliding through a year of varied activities, the URA Ski Club, under the leadership of President Dick Porter, boosted its membership to three hundred students. Ski enthusiasts flocked to accept the economical skiing and the facilities offered by the organization. Novices were given instruction in the art of the snowplow and kick turn by veteran members. Last winter the club leased a lodge at Big Bear and kept it open week ends and during vacation times for the use of everyone from snowbunnies to trophy winners. Taking advantage of the first falling powder, club members spent the four days of Thanksgiving vacation snowplowing and sla-loming at Mammoth Lakes, and as no broken bones resulted, they made a return trip during the spring vacation. In addition to combatting the winter elements, the Ski Club planned several indoor parties, among them a lively session with the Folk Dancing Club. UCLA skiers, with the purpose of getting acquainted, talked christies and stems with the SC Ski Club at a joint informal dance held at the Pasadena Athletic Club. Winter activities were superseded by beach parties and water skiing at Lake Elsinore, as the snow melted in the spring. Day dreams of Ski Club members included plans for more and better skiing and, in particular, a lodge of their own at Snow Valley.

Just back from their final trip to Mammoth Lakes, Ski clubbers grinned as they wound up another wonderful year in the snow. The club made plans for water skiing at Lake Elsinore as they saw the snow melt away. Novice skiers started the long journey on the road to being pros when they took advantage of the free instruction offered by the veteran members of the club and the economic ski facilities of their Big Bear Lodge.

Snow Valley enthusiasts last year were officers RUDY SAUSER, treasurer; MIKE LAZARUS, vice-president; DICK PORTER, president; DOUG MURRAY, sponsor; and GWEN HANSON, secretary of the ski group.

URA skiers were proud of their ski lodge at Big Bear, rented by the club for the use of their members. The lodge was open every week-end and during vacations, but the ski club still dreamed of building their own place at Snow Valley.

Chief among the members of the URA Ski Club, both socially and ski-wise, was President DICK PORTER. In the winter it was snow and the ski team, while with summer came water skiing for sport-loving DICK.

SIGMA ALPHA IOTA

Andante was the only musical term which did not apply to the members of Sigma Alpha Iota, for their tempo was always allegro as they worked to help fellow musicians and further music on this campus and throughout the country. Members of the international professional organization for women in the field of music were chosen by audition upon the recommendation of two members of the UCLA music faculty. Early in May, Sigma Alpha Iota demonstrated its talent by presenting its annual concert of the works of American contemporary composers. Both locally and nationally, the group aided promising young musicians by granting a scholarship to a deserving UCLA student and through sponsoring national awards. Wilma Fledderman, in the fall semester, and Audra Peate, in the spring, served as able conductors, harmoniously working to make Sigma Alpha Iota a prominent influence in the musical life of UCLA.

Melodious musicians of Sigma Alpha Iota were officers MARY FIARE, WILMA FLEDDERMAN, president; ELINOR ROSE, GERALDINE WRIGHT and ELSIE GOULD.

Since there were too many SAM's for a basketball team and not enough for baseball, they passed the time by standing on the steps of their old stamping ground, BAE, watching the girls who may someday be lucky enough to be their secretaries.

S. A. M.

With the purpose, "to promote understanding of improved management facilities, to make contacts with local business men, and to develop friendship among students of management at UCLA," members of the Society for the Advancement of Management were last year led by President Sidney Kern. Activities on the agenda included special meetings to hear speakers prominent in business and industry in southern California, field trips to factories and offices, weekly motion pictures concerning business relationships, and social events such as exchanges and picnics. The latest innovation was a faculty introduction booklet which presented biographical sketches and pictures of instructors in the Business Administration Department. The members of this upper division professional society found many ways to serve the department and aid themselves.

In one of the liveliest numbers in the show, "Dutch" girls, costumed in wooden shoes and bonnets, pushed a luminous windmill through the water to the music of "Jeannetta's Wooden Shoes."

Comedy emphasis in "Aqua Antics" was formed in diving routines from the board and a tower set up for the show. DODIE STONEBURNER was remembered for such dives.

SWIM CLUB

What a change of schedule for the Bruin Swim Club came after the fifth and final performance of their annual spring swim show! The active members kidded about "being fish out of water" and insisted the joke was a fact . . . four weeks of daily practice in a pool, made land seem strange territory. Favorable comments which came back to the swimmers gave justification to all rehearsals and hopes that 1950's "Aqua Antics" would live up to the reputation of past water shows. Variety was a pleasant factor, reviewers agreed. Choreographed numbers included square dance, tango, indian, dutch and Charleston routines, while the diving, particularly the clever comedy interludes, "stopped the show." After the concluding performance, tradition won out when the members of the show were "dunked."

Exotic music and glamorous costumes accented the paddleboard number which starred DODIE STONEBURNER, BETTY CAMPBELL, VIRGINIA DAHM, and CHARME WILBUR.

Sun-tanned officers of the Swim Club were LARRY CLARK, BUNNY HARRIS, President BEVERLY HARRIS, KATHY FORK, and BETTY CAMPBELL . . . all guiding lights.

Diction, gesture, and clear round tones occupied the time of Zeta Phi Eta, national professional speech arts sorority for junior and senior women. Zeta Phi Eta has the distinction of being a branch of the first national speech fraternity in the United States, which was founded at Northwestern University in 1893. Working to further the field of speech art, the girls boast a list of activities as long as the title of their organization. Besides assisting the speech and drama departments last year, Zetas were always on hand to serve coffee to grateful audiences during intermission for campus theater shows in Royce 170. The technical casts and crews also appreciated the refreshments served by the girls at technical rehearsals. At Christmas Zetas took time off from hard work to enjoy a very successful holiday party. Spring brought a novel notion to Zeta Phi Eta when, led by President Margaret Curran, the group decided to produce a show and entertain women's groups with their talents. In honor of graduating senior members and those most outstanding in the fields of speech and theater arts, Zeta Phi ended the year with a commencement celebration in June. The coming fall and spring semester activities are now being planned for the group.

ZETA PHI ETA

Future stars in the fields of theater arts, radio, or motion pictures, will be the members of Zeta Phi Eta, who pursued the objectives of speech art directed by PAT METTEN, vice-president; MARGARET CURRAN, president; LARRY JACOBS, secretary; and BARBARA SHIFFMAN, treasurer. They found UCLA a training ground for the future.

ALPHA LAMBDA DELTA

With their annual "Smarty Party" for new initiates Alpha Lambda Delta, national freshman women's honorary, began another year of high attainment. The requirement for membership was a 2.5 grade average in either the first freshman semester or the entire freshman year. Socializing, Alpha Lambda Delta planned exchanges with Phi Eta Sigma, several group luncheons, and a novel booth at the Mardi Gras. Because of interest in student problems, the organization was represented on the Library Commission of Welfare Board. Continuing their counseling of entering freshmen, members hoped to establish good study habits which would last for four years. Alpha Lambda Delta not only promoted better scholarship but also urged that scholastic work be complemented by a well balanced program of cultural, social, and philanthropic activities.

Accenting the scholastic side but not eliminating the social aspects were Alpha Lambda Delta officers ANGELINA SCALERO, JULIE WERNER, JEAN MARTIN, president, and PAT PETER.

To be stranded in a foreign country would be no problem to Alpha Mu Gamma cabinet dignitaries MIRIAM HELLER, COLLEEN BROWNELL, FRED YODER, and LEON SINITSKY.

ALPHA MU GAMMA

In Spain they say si, si; in France they say oui, oui; but the UCLA meetings of Alpha Mu Gamma sounded like a miniature United Nations general assembly as any language could be heard. In order to qualify for this lower division foreign language honorary a student must have made two A's in the same language and have had a 1.5 grade average. Forsaking verb conjugation for an occasional social affair, the members planned buffet dinners, international theme parties, and the initiation banquet, the outstanding event on the Alpha Mu Gamma calendar. Under the leadership of President Colleen Brownell the group pioneered a project to send books to a French university whose library had been completely destroyed during the war. Thus Alpha Mu Gamma proved that language was not a barrier but, instead, a bridge to friendship and learning.

The Alpha Phi Omega members were the men who took on all the "jobs" without the glory" at UCLA, and demonstrated unstinted Bruin spirit in all of their undertakings.

Having been campers themselves in their Boy Scout days, these Bruin members of Alpha Phi Omega heartily supported the spring University Camp Drive under the direction of GEORGE LAMB, RONNIE SANDERS, and HAL KASSARJIAN.

ALPHA PHI OMEGA

Scouting around to see what drive, campaign, or event they could boost to success, the hustling-bustling boys in the bright blue sweaters made the name Alpha Phi Omega a password to service. The organization was designed to give all former or present members of the Boy Scouts of America the chance to continue their scout work on a college level. The homecoming parade owed its tremendous success to their ushering, and how they kept the floats in order and moving at the correct pace was known to them alone. They helped with freshman orientation, collected and repaired toys for the Santa Claus Workshop, worked for the Uni-Camp drive, and ushered at the All-U-Sings. Kerckhoff Hall was the scene of a noisy but tasty banquet when the UCLA chapter played host to members of this national service honorary from neighboring USC and LASC. Social gatherings were numerous, and plenty of fun and frolic accompanied all the hard work. In the fall and spring semesters Walt Whitaker and John Harryman took the lead-man positions, as they led their trail blazers in the search for ways to serve their school and community.

BETA GAMMA SIGMA

Taking account of themselves, members of Beta Gamma Sigma could well be proud. Membership in this business administration honorary required a 2.0 overall university average plus a 2.5 average in bus-ad and econ courses. Along with the scholarship requirement, membership was limited to ten per cent of the graduating seniors and two per cent of the juniors. Business was the business of President William Beranek and Vice-president-Sponsor Dr. Harry Simmons, who worked on the possibilities of securing outside speakers for the honorary meetings. Twice during the year members left their book-covered desks to socialize. Both informal initiation banquets, besides honoring new members, were marked by the initiation of an outstanding business man. By conferring this honor upon a member of the business world, Beta Gamma Sigma established closer contact with professionals in their field.

Steadily rising business opportunities in southern California brought smiles to the faces of Beta Gamma Sigma executives, Prexy WILLIAM BERANEK, JOHN L. SCOTT, Professor HARRY SIMMONS and ELAINE JOHNSON.

BRUIN RIFLES

Precision plus marked the members of Bruin Rifles as they participated in every opening ceremony at the Coliseum football games in the capacity of official colorguard. Bruin Rifles, lower division military honorary society, represented the cream of the crop of basic ROTC students. Candidates were selected for their outstanding appearance and ability on the drill field and passed a rigorous program of drill-ability before being admitted as members. The chief purpose of Bruin Rifles was the recognition of military merit and preparation for the advance corps. All was not marching and parades for the white helmeted drill team, however, for they joined with other military honoraries to sponsor their Christmas Ball. Thus under the leadership of Cadet Captains Dick Sternbach and Chester Kidd, Bruin Rifles took an active part in campus activities in the fall and spring semesters.

Carrying out Dr. Robert Gordon Sproul's ideal of inter-campus unity were UCLA promoters JOY BULLARD, social chairman; DON BARRETT, Cal Club president; and MARCIA BORIE, secretary of this outstanding University organization.

CAL CLUB

Inter-campus unity was the aim of Cal Club members as they endeavored to draw the eight campuses into one united University of California. To further this aim, UCLA's twenty Cal Clubbers originated the All University Weekend, arranged the Charter Day exhibits, and planned and prompted other coordinating projects. A convention of all the chapters was held in February at Berkeley where all the members benefited from the discussion of mutual problems and future plans. Cal Club was composed of Bruins who were active in all phases of university life. They were chosen by Dr. Sproul, instigator of the club, on the basis of their service to the school and their interest in future service and leadership. Led by their capable president, Don Barrett, their high standards of service and spirit were an ever present inspiration to their fellow Bruins.

As members of a campus-community service organization, Cal-Men devoted their energies to the championing of UCLA's student-citizen interests, and were ably led by RAY BACA, JOHN NIETERS and MASAHARU KURAOKA.

CAL MEN

If he wore a small "C" pin on his large "C" sweater, everyone knew he was a Cal Man and proud of it. University sponsored California Men served their school last year by hosting visiting high school students from many distant California high schools, and by distributing Cokes during the freshman orientation program. The scheme of boy meeting girl through an Introduction Bureau operating through the Welfare Board was one of the organization's newest hopes. The proposed bureau would function similarly to those found working successfully at Wisconsin and Syracuse Universities. Cal Men's open house for new students, on February twenty-third, helped break the ice for many freshmen. Making good use of their California Men beverage mugs, members took time off from Uni-Camp Drive activities to plan stags, exchanges and date affairs, and to compete in intramural sports.

CONNING TOWER

Smooth social sailing characterized Conning Tower, Naval ROTC social honorary. Those meeting the membership requirements found that the nautical organization held lots in store for them. Fancy finagling by senior sailors enabled the members to secure a model aircraft carrier for their Homecoming float, generously financed by the unsuspecting US Navy. Under the staunch leadership of Captain George Coulter, Conning Tower Bruins co-sponsored their Christmas Ball with Scabbard and Blade and Bruin Rifles. Two lucky masqueraders cruised away from the annual Pirate's Den Brawl with beverage mugs for their ingenious costumes. Climaxing a semester of exchanges and dinner meetings was the formal Stripe and Star Ball given in honor of graduating seniors.

Previewing an exhibit of student art work were members of Delta Epsilon, MARY ANN GLANTZ, MALCOLM MACDONALD, LEE MERNICK, JIM BENSON, JOHN SCOTT, JEANNE HUDSON, MARJI BRUER, and RAE ANN STIFFLER.

DELTA EPSILON

Unofficial qualifications for membership in Delta Epsilon were an oversized drawing board, an arm-sagging paint box, and a faint odor of turpentine. Official membership however went to exceptional art students of upper division or graduate standing. In touch with the many art centers in southern California, members invited a prominent artist to be guest speaker at the annual formal dinner. Making the campus more art conscious, Delta Epsilon sponsored several art gallery exhibits and presented its spring show in which student works were displayed exclusively. A Christmas sale of student art provided a scholarship which furthered the education of a talented student.

Basketballs at fifty paces was the order of the day when Gold Key challenged Yeomen to a bitter battle from which Gold Key emerged victorious after forty ferocious minutes.

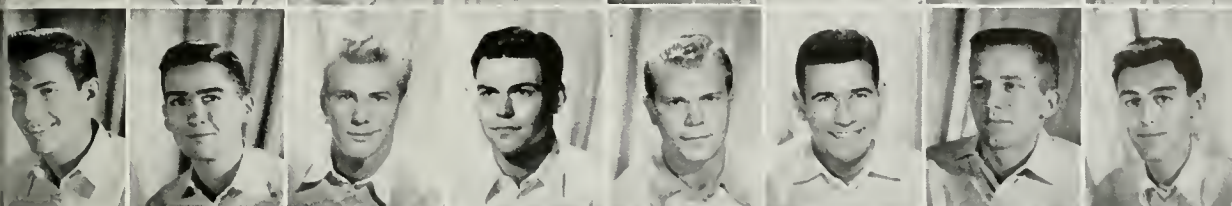

Steering Gold Key through a year of service to the students and the university were officers GEORGE MAIR, publicity chairman; PETE KIPP, treasurer; JACK PHREANER, president; and FRANK TENNANT, vice-president. The results of their effort kept Gold Key in good form all year.

GOLD KEY

The key which unlocked the door to success in campus activities belonged to members of Gold Key, upper division men's honorary. The gold key surrounded by a "C" which adorned the front of a white sweater designated the members of this organization, who dedicated themselves to serving the associated students and the university in general. Meeting the first Tuesday in every month, the organization mapped out a plan by which no group or campaign in need of aid would be neglected. The fifty members seemed like five hundred as they were in all places at once, collecting funds to send underprivileged children to the University Camp, and their aid was a determining factor in making the drive a success. The Spring Sing claimed the Gold Key men as hosts and ushers at the Hollywood Bowl as they fulfilled their duty toward the AMS-sponsored event. The other AMS activity which they wholeheartedly supported was the traditional Men's Week during the fall semester. Guided by capable President Jack Phreaner and his cabinet composed of Frank Tennant, Gordon Flett, Peter Kipp, Bob Hight, and George Mair, Gold Key lived up to its purpose of service to the school.

DELTA PHI UPSILON

Educating themselves to educate others, members of Delta Phi Upsilon, primary education honorary, showed their willingness to work. These future schoolmams learned their lessons from guest speakers in the field of education. Facts about the teacher shortage and the extent of the opportunities in the primary field gladdened the hearts of many a graduating Delta Phi member. Taking time off from their ABC's and practicing teaching, honorary members bought and wrapped presents for nursery school care centers. Following the success of the Christmas party, President Janice Macaulos planned a dinner party with the alumnae association which was held in May, and highlighted by a guest speaker from the Los Angeles city school system. The two formal initiation banquets, held at the end of the fall and spring semesters, gave members still another chance to become acquainted with other education majors and the organization's alumnae.

KEY AND SCROLL

Suspense was the keynote until the unrolling of a giant scroll at the activity banquet revealing the new members of Key and Scroll, junior women's honorary. Membership in this organization was attained by UCLA coeds who maintained a 1.4 grade average and provided leadership for campus activities. The girls who wear the yellow weskits and brown skirts were often found working in their pet project, the clothes closet. The closet was the beneficiary of the Spur-Yeomen clothing drive and also received contributions from alumni and residents of Westwood and Beverly Hills. Any student, male or female, who wished to take advantage of the project was fitted out in the latest campus styles. Key and Scroll contributed to the school in many other ways, with the awarding of a scholarship to an outstanding junior woman, the selling of do-nuts and coffee for the Uni-Camp Drive, and helping with orientation. The '49-'50 year was the last for Key and Scroll which changed its name to Chimes when the two national junior honoraries merged in the summer.

Seeking shelter from either California's liquid sunshine or Gold Key waterbaggers, Key and Scroll officers JEAN MARTIN, JOY BULLARD, MARGARET KESTER, and MARY HORN never let it be said that women's honorary members didn't know enough to come in out of the rain.

Members of Mortar Board, national senior women's honorary, each prominent in different campus fields, drew together all the various areas in an attempt to coordinate and integrate the system of extra-curricular activities at UCLA. To achieve this aim dinner meetings were held throughout the year for the comparison and discussion of campus problems, while the annual Mortar Board tea given in May served for the introduction of all outstanding activity women. The eighty-one chapters of the honor organization in the United States recently aided in a statistical survey to determine the value of college extra-curricular activities and their influence on later life. The local importance of Mortar Board was reinforced by the national scope for President Louise Kosches, who attended the tri-annual national convention previous to her term of office and brought back many worthwhile impressions and constructive ideas for the promotion of leadership, scholarship and service, the purposes of the group.

With an encyclopedia in one hand and the lamp of learning raised high in the other, members of Phi Eta Sigma continued to uphold the high scholastic standards of this men's national freshmen honor society. Neophytes to the organization became members after obtaining a 2.5 grade average in either the first semester or the combined semesters of their freshman years. Last year Phi Eta Sigma boasted thirty new applicants. Gold and black letter keys identified members of the organization as they started off the year's activities by preparing a student counseling handbook and a pamphlet entitled "Hints on How to Study," both with the purpose of aiding bewildered freshmen. President Patrick Zaccaglin with the help of his cabinet and faculty advisor Andrew Horn succeeded in setting up a unique scholastic counseling service in conjunction with Alpha Lambda Delta, national women's honor society. Exchanges with parallel women's honoraries helped to keep these freshmen average raisers from all work and no play.

RALLY COMMITTEE

Proof that the Rally Committee has acquired a national reputation for card stunts were the many requests from all parts of the country calling for information, which Chairman Marshall Yorkink neatly answered with a form letter. Members of the committee had a generous supply of both spirit and energy . . . they spent a minimum of ten hours a week working on half-time activities for football and basketball games, and conducting all the supporting rallies. Marshall was ably assisted by Lee Good, assistant chairman; Ruth Hollingsworth, secretary; and Bob Franklin, head usher. Their hard work had its rewarding moments when committee members could breathe a sigh of satisfaction at the technical perfection of the famous UCLA signature stunt or the portrait by cards of football coach Red Sanders.

SCABBARD AND BLADE

Strategy on land, on sea, and in the air drew the attention of the military men of Scabbard and Blade as they worked to better relations between the army, navy and air sciences. Demonstrating the value of their thorough training, members of the upper-division military and naval honorary showed outstanding marksmanship abilities on the field when they copped sixth place for the organization in the United States rifle competition. Under the guidance of Presidents Joe Sullivan and Carlos Baker, Scabbard and Blade coordinated service with an extensive social program. Plans discussed at informal bull-sessions resulted in a greater amount of participation in school events. Many a pretty coed was escorted to the annual Christmas Ball at the Country Club Hotel. Co-sponsored this year with Conning Tower and Bruin Rifles, other military honoraries, the affair was highlighted by the presentation of an honorary colonel and two honorary cadet majors. Taps sounded for Scabbard and Blade at the annual formal banquet in May with a second presentation of the queen and her two attendants.

Prettiest wearers of the gold braid ever to grace the grand march were JUNE HOLLINGSHEAD, HELEN ROKOS, and PAT MONAHAN, honorary cadet colonel and majors.

All out of uniform but still all out for their organization were the officers of Scabbard and Blade, DON CHELEW, GEORGE COULTER, KENT DeCHAMBEAU, CARL PENDELL, and CARLOS BAKER, president during the spring semester.

SPURS

A Bruin in distress could easily find a woman in white wearing the Spur emblem whose motto is "At Your Service." At President Sproul's reception for freshmen, members of the sophomore service honorary poured punch to quench the thirst of Bruin throats. During football season they recruited three hundred energetic girls to wave the colorful "C" of blue pom-poms in the card section. Spurring the student body on to maintain high spirit for the SC-UCLA game, the Spurs over-supplied the campus with cinnamon "LICK SC" suckers and made Christmas brighter with toys and a party for children of the West Los Angeles Recreational Association. The regional convention of California, Arizona, and New Mexico attracted one hundred delegates from six Spur chapters for a two day session at UCLA in preparation for the national Spur convention in Washington, attended by UCLA Spur President Rita Kirby.

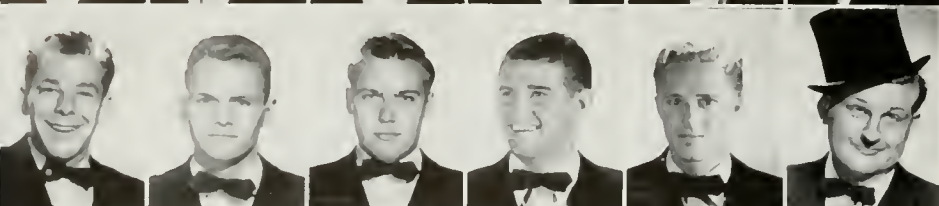

"What's next on the agenda," was the question most often asked by MARILYN LINDSAY, editor; PEGGY BURBANK, treasurer; JOEY POPE, vice-president; TOBY HALE, secretary; JEAN LAWRENCE, historian; and RITA KIRBY, president, who in self defense acquired nerves of iron for dealing with fifty ferocious females.

KELPS

Blasting the audience from their seats and into the aisles, the Kelps' booming rendition of "Hail, Hail, Hail," brought a dewy drop to the eyes of all those who braved the elements for the Spring Sing.

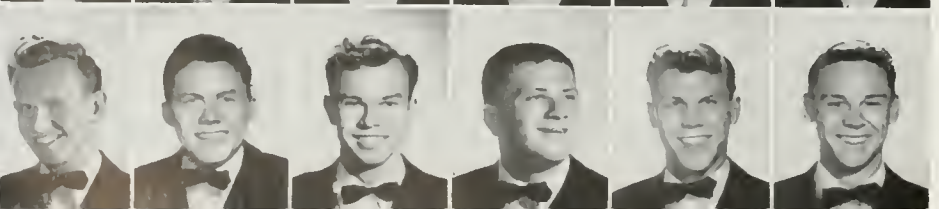

With some forty odd members Kelps, disorganization for men of distinction, climbed to the peak of degeneration. The (you should excuse the expression) men chose new members by nomination and election, and the converts who are called Kelpies were decorated with a piece of kelp. Late in the year a formal initiation was held at the beach under the watchful eye of the Low Impotentate, the office which was filled and then some by Ed Hummel. The school was indebted to these (you should excuse the expression) students for their part in raising "Hail Blue and Gold" from an obscure tune to the tremendous hit of the day, and for their "Frivolous Frolics," known among Kelps as the "South Pacific of the west coast." This men's disorganization finished off the year in grand style by holding many grand balls at Bal. These soirees were open to all . . . all except Trolls. Kelps were repulsed by Trolls.

VARSITY CLUB

Even after playing for the old school on the athletic field, members of Varsity Club, led by George Seelig, got together to discover new ways to serve UCLA. They found several, including showing movies of the major football games, sponsoring a television show for overflow crowds at the basketball games, and helping with the Uni-Camp drive. They circulated petitions on campus asking Student Executive Council to request regents' approval for the building of a basketball pavillion so that more than the usual 1000 of UCLA's 15,000 students might watch their championship team perform against traditional rivals. In the spring, they sponsored the annual "All Varsity Day" in which varsity alumni returned to play against their present day counterparts, and give the Bruin football team its first practice game of the year.

These rugged individuals were none other than the guiding lights of the Varsity Club performing at the Frosh-Soph Brawl by pouring water on the tug-a-war field.

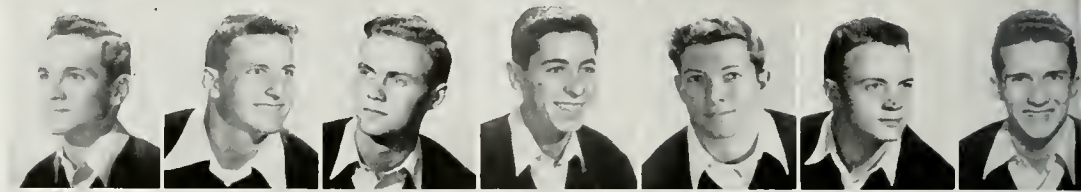

GEORGE STANICH was the recipient of the annual Varsity Club award as presented by Dr. David Bjork, UCLA Conference Representative. The award is presented to the athlete who is outstanding in scholarship, contribution to the Club and character . . . George filled the bill completely.

YEOMEN

No wonder the little Bruin rested on top of the wheel on the Yeoman sweater; he probably needed all the relaxation he could get after trying to keep up with such an active group. The high freshmen and sophomore activity men acted as ushers at All U Sings, helped with registration and orientation, and worked on the Uni-Camp Drive. Even with all their work, they still had time for fun . . . booming parties and the annual Yeoman-Gold Key football game. The Gold Key members and Yeomen were evenly matched; the bitter battle ended in a hard-fought tie. In spite of the all-out support they gave to Men's Week, the Yeomen definitely were not women haters. They joined with the sophomore women's honorary, Spurs, in collecting clothes for the Key and Scroll Closet and in singing a novelty number which brought down the house at the Spring Sing. Yeomen were carefully chosen because of their activities in school, fraternities, or both, and were elected by the other members. The organization contributed a great deal to the promotion of school spirit and interest, and was a valuable training ground for future student body officers.

Dashing Yeoman battled the mighty men of Gold Key at their annual basketball game. Johnny Wooden should have peeked under a bleacher and nabbed himself several hoopsters.

SECRETARIET

Such occupational hazards as carbon paper smudge and typewriter cramp did not deter the girls of Secretariat from contributing to the successful terms of all the ASUCLA officers. The black and white ribbons which they wore in their lapels, while on duty as hostesses in KH 204B, came to be well known as the sign of people eager and able to accept responsibility. Any girl interested in doing clerical work could become a member of this organization after serving a required number of hours. New members were formally initiated and presented with gold pins, while at the annual banquet President Ruth Hollingsworth awarded a gold bracelet to the girl who had served the greatest number of hours. Life was not all hard work but was brightened by socials, picnics, and bridge parties. Thanks to these official secretaries KH ran efficiently, for they worked hard to make themselves more and more indispensable to school activities.

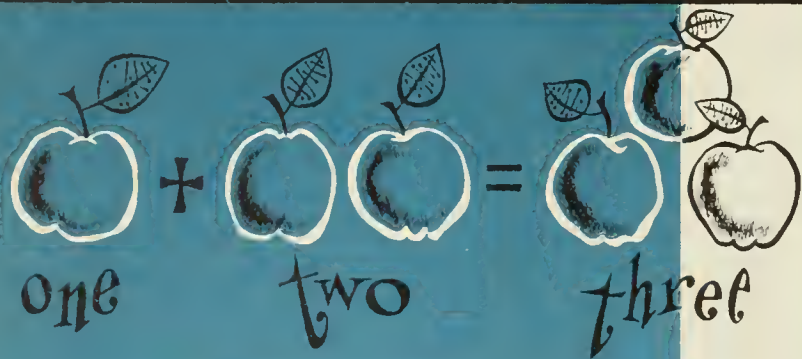

Women behind the men behind the government were these two Bruin Secretariat officers RUTH HOLLINGSWORTH, president, and JOAN GOODMAN, secretary.

ADMINISTRATION

Robert Gordon Sproul this year completed his 20th term as president of his alma mater, the world's largest university. His was the burden of wrestling with budgets, making appointments and performing all the administrative work that goes into the running of a large institution such as the University of California.

University officials were: Regent Fred Moyer Jordan; Regent Brodie E. Ahlport; Regent Victor R. Hansen; Regent Mortimer Fleishacker; Miss Marjorie J. Woolman, assistant sec't'y of the regents; James H. Corley, vice president-business-affairs; Robert M. Underhill, secretary treasurer of the regents; John Canaday, president of the UCLA Alumni Association; Regent Edward A. Dickson; Regent John Francis Neylan; Regent Robert Gordon Sproul; Regent Earl J. Fenston; Regent Edward H. Heller; Regent Sidney M. Ehrman; Regent Farnham P. Griffiths; and Regent William G. Merchant.

EXECUTIVE

UCLA's students, faculty and administrators were proud to have a place in the educational scheme of the fastest growing unit of the world's largest university. The University of California boasts eight campuses, 43,000 students and a world-wide reputation in academic and scientific circles. Of the eight campuses, five: Los Angeles, La Jolla, Mount Hamilton, Riverside, and Santa Barbara, are Southern California branches, offering a variety of subject fields including astronomy, agriculture, sub-tropical horticulture and oceanography. The University's president, Robert Gordon Sproul graduated from the Berkeley branch College of Engineering, and has served as president for twenty years, as well as actively participating in state, national and international affairs. The death of Clarence Dykstra, UCLA provost, was an irreparable loss to him. The UCLA branch of the University gained academic prestige by the professorial wealth which Dr. Dykstra brought to the campus, and gained as much note for his personal activities in the California State Recreation Commission, the Sixth Agricultural District Commission, and UNESCO, as it did from its $38,000,-000 expansion program.

A Cal man at heart, California's GOVERNOR EARL WARREN has nevertheless been won over by southern California's JOIE DE VIVE atmosphere and informal relaxing patterns of living. He has established his summer home in a Santa Monica canyon just over the ridge from the towers of UCLA.

Transformation year at UCLA, 1949-50. The gully became the sunken gardens; Sophomore Grove became a parking lot; the Greek Theater was scooped away by the bull-dozers; the quad was expanded to accommodate more of UCLA's thousands of between-class socializers; and new buildings grew up on the hills and parking area. The loss of Clarence Dykstra by UCLA in May ended his five years of service to the University at a time when the campus was in the midst of the largest building program in the nation, and was most in need of the large-scale administrative ability he had first demonstrated as city manager of Cincinnati, then as first Selective Service Director in World War II, and as President of the University of Wisconsin before becoming UCLA's Provost. Of the $38,000,000 building program, an ultra-modern College of Engineering building, and Business Administration building were completed this year. New structures featured red brick, cast stone trim and tile roofs, to harmonize with the prevailing Romanesque architecture of the campus. Before the year's end excavation had been finished for the Medical School and construction had begun on the $1,660,000 Law School building. In all, the improvements were a tremendous change to have been accomplished in a one-year period.

Dean MILTON HAHN was an efficient half of the Rulman-Hahn team which supervised all student activities other than formal curriculum and instruction. Through student personnel work, he helped give UCLA students the morale which better conditioned them to profit from their classroom work.

A Student Advisory Council and Dean's Gripe Cabinet were only two innovations of UCLA's number-one lady, Dean JESSE RHULMAN. Executive of an extensive administrative program, her primary objective was to be of service to students. Her first interest was the solution of UCLA student problems.

The death of Provost Clarence Dykstra was a severe shock to UCLA, whose students recognized his foresight in laying long range plans for UCLA expansion, admired him for his efficient administration during the past five years of super-rapid campus growth and development, and loved him for his hearty encouragement of student initiative and endeavor.

U.C.L.A. ADMINISTRATION

Forsaking teaching for a post in administration, DR. PAUL DODD now finds his time taken by interviews, counseling, and stacks of paper work, which, though staggering him at first, now add to his respect and love for his job.

This genial man keeps well occupied with microfilm projects and California Indian problems. However, DR. L. K. KOONTZ claims his favorite hobby is learning his students names.

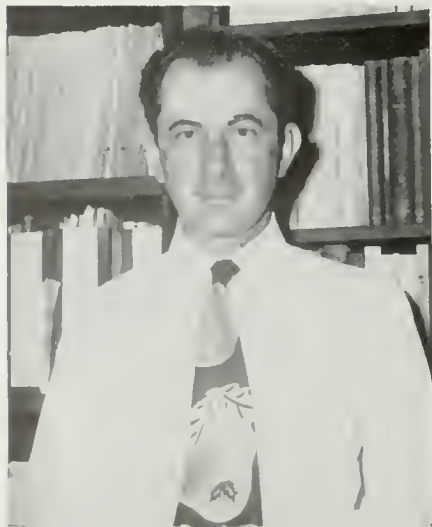

An excellent example of the local boy who made good, DR. KENNETH ROOSE graduated from North Hollywood High, and first studied the intricacies of monetary theory at USC.

COLLEGE OF LETTERS AND SCIENCE

Paul A. Dodd, dean of the College of Letters and Sciences, has expressed his satisfaction and pride in progress of the college during the year, and has announced construction commencement of the new science building located in the center of the campus and planned to house the Chemistry and Geology Departments. Plans are also under way for a life science building. In addition to these new structures, two new schools, Journalism under Professor Brandt and Social Welfare under Professor Donald Howard, were incorporated into the college to fulfill the demands of a growing southern California community. Four well-known instructors, Professor Edward Teller, consultant to the Atomic Energy Commission, Physics Department; Professor Paul Homan, economics advisor to the President, Economic Department; Professor Leon Howard from Northwestern University; and Associate Professor John Harrington Smith, English Department were added to an already notable staff.

A staunch California roter is D. I. AXELROD, but when the new Geology Building is erected, "big brother Berkeley" will have no claim on this Cal alumnus' affections.

DR. JOHN S. HELMICK is another newcomer to southern California sunshine. Even foggy days seem brightened for the psychology department by his sunny personality.

One of the most avid perpetrators of New Yorkerish innuendo is DR. J. E. PHILLIPS of the English Department who is one of our outstanding Shakespeare scholars.

Celestial observer and expert in the sciences of the outer stratosphere was popular prof DANIEL POPPER of UCLA's astronomy department.

Senor BARCIA, the Ricardo Montalban of the Spanish department, is from Galicia, Spain. The lure of southern California and the beautiful UCLA campus brought him here.

Geological students at UCLA need not travel far to find one of the greatest varieties of earthly phenomena in the United States. Southern California offers two mountain ranges with their attendant abundance of minerals, rock formations, river gorges and evidence of centuries of weather and water erosion. There, too, are the ocean, the deserts and the rich valley lands.

A sign of the times is ENSHO ASHIKAGA, instructor in Oriental languages. UCLA holds a unique position in offering Oriental languages to its students.

"Theoretical physics holds the key to the universe," says DR. ALFREDO BANOS, commenting upon the advances of atomic research which he hopes to extend to his students.

Native of Hollywood, H. J. BRUMAN of the Geography Department gives his numerous students an understanding of the wealth in natural resources available to man.

California weather prediction takes much time of DR. JACOB BJERKNES and the Meteorology Department. His big ambition is to reduce the problem to a series of equations.

LETTERS AND SCIENCE

Delving into the intricacies of electrical measurement is the function of Physics 107c laboratory. The complicated instruments that are used both theoretically and commercially in industry are tried and discussed in detail by the students, in an attempt to familiarize themselves with all the types of measuring devices that they may be asked to use in future work.

CHARLES NIXON, professor of political science, teaches amiability along with his public opinion and propaganda courses . . . indeed a welcome habit.

Exhibiting a sly sense of humor, WILLIAM J. KNAPP displays a bent for the beauty of the perfect problem along with a facility for numbers that often leaves his class gasping.

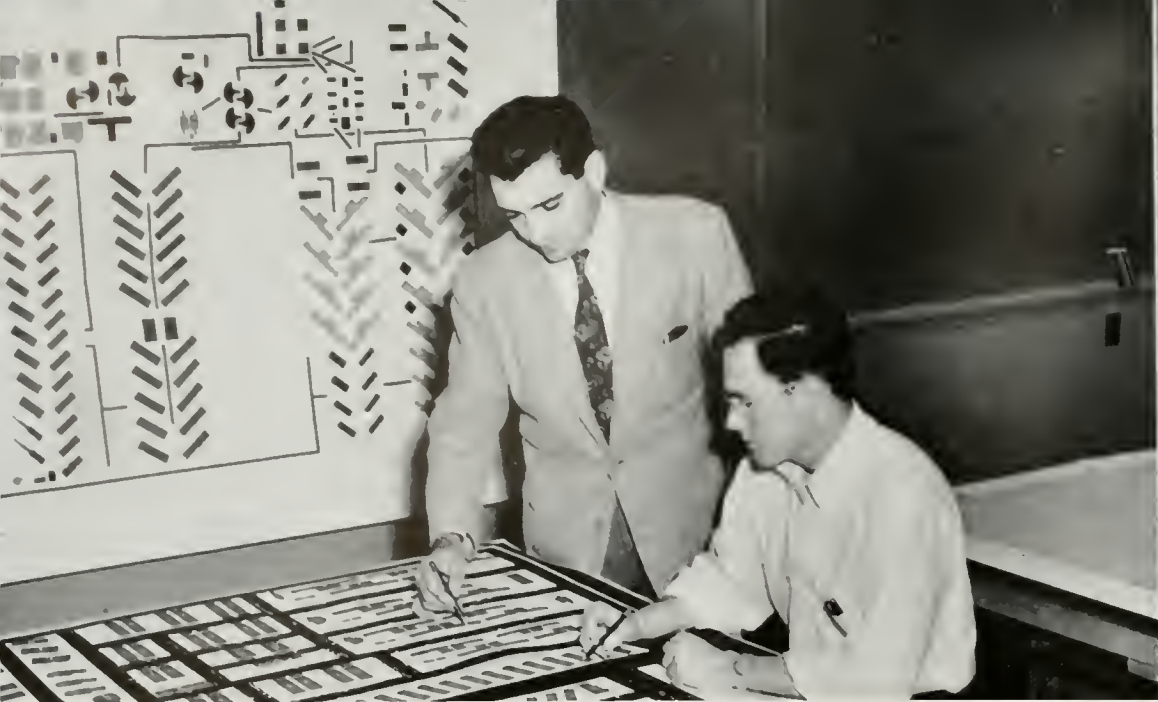

In the processing of engineering materials, lab fledgling engineers begin the study of the processes industry uses on various materials and the quality control of the work done. Casting, cutting, plastic working, fastening, finishing and gauging processes are investigated and the properties of materials in relation to the finished product desired are ascertained.

COLLEGE OF ENGINEERING

In the spring the College of Engineering moved into its new quarters on Westwood Boulevard. This engineering unit is the first part of a proposed structure that will eventually be one of the most spacious on the campus, and will house the entire College of Engineering. The section of the building now finished is a great hangar-like edifice that is filled with cranes, lifts and other heavy equipment. Along the wall are huge panels of dials, switches and cables that run snake-like around the floor. Overhead, is a mezzanine containing the offices and the few class rooms that are in the building.

Southern California's growth may be exemplified in the huge new engineering building that soon will house DEAN BOELTER, his staff, the most modern of equipment, and eight hundred eager students. This director of UCLA's engineering future will soon have another addition to his college when Unit B, now under construction, is finished.

In courses in "time and motion" future plant executives of southern California study methods of attaining the greatest possible efficiency in industrial production. Huge and growing aircraft, automobile, furniture and clothing industries present increasingly complex problems . . . stand ready to swallow up men thoroughly trained to handle them.

With Los Angeles' colossal growth in business, DEAN NEIL H. JACOBY carried the important task of keeping the college of Business Administration in step with the community and at the same time anticipating and molding the future of his field.

COLLEGE OF BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION

A growing demand for competent executives in new industrial areas of southern California has prompted a rapid expansion of UCLA's college of business administration. Since completion of its new building in February, 1949, the college has instituted many plans to facilitate student learning and faculty comfort. The student activities room has been used for bi-weekly coffee hours, offering students and faculty the opportunity to meet informally. In the realm of study, the second-floor reading room was equipped with a good selection of core material for business administration and economics students, and a marketing lab was completed and opened for experiments. Dr. Ralph M. Barnes, professor of production management and engineering, set up a time and motion study for the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, and brought UCLA's modern educational plant to the attention of notables of the nation.

If it's true that one knows best what one knows longest, then DR. HOWARD S. NOBLE is really "in the know" at UCLA. This amiable prof has been here 27 years.

Armed with a liking for people, a Texas drawl, and good jokes, WOODROW BALDWIN hopes to prove that business correspondence and shorthand offer great opportunities.

COLLEGE OF AGRICULTURE

The fanciest garden spot in southern California is UCLA's College of Agriculture, headed by DEAN R. W. HODGSON. Its subtropical horticulture department, the only one in the U.S. brings national recognition to our campus.

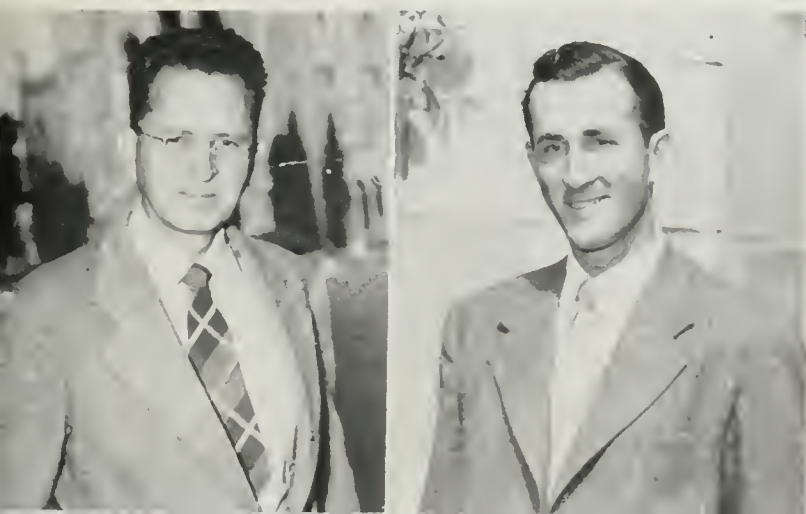

In the sub-tropical horticulture gardens, just south of the tennis courts, are some of the finest citrus trees in southern California. Although olives, figs, avocados, dates and numerous others are also sub-tropical fruits, of the greatest interest in California is citrus produce, which is the most prominent among more profitable crops in the sunny half of the state.

ARTHUR PILLSBURY of the Agriculture department has devoted much of his life to the study of farm irrigation hydraulics, of vital importance in California agriculture.

One of the most respected men in the field of subtropical horticulture is CHARLES A. SCHROEDER. Growers of citrus often find their way to his door in quest of information.

Probably one of the least known colleges on campus is the School of Agriculture. Its divisions are: sub-tropical horticulture, floriculture, irrigation and soils, entomology, plant pathology, agricultural economics and botany. Sub-tropical horticulture and floriculture are emphasized, and are largely responsible for the international reputation that the college has earned. Its three areas at UCLA, ornamental horticulture on the west side next to Veteran Avenue, sub-tropical horticulture south of the tennis courts, and the botany herbarium, comprise a little less than ten percent of the total area of the campus, while their enrollment of one hundred and fifty is slightly more than one percent of the student body. The College plans some capital improvements which will be completed within the next year and a new building of plant science which is still tentative and will probably occupy a Court of the Sciences site near the new Engineering Building.

Fairly new to southern California, DR. WILLIAM MELNITZ of the Theater Arts Department came from Germany and is filled with enthusiasm for the opportunities here.

Introducing freshman home ec students to the arts of the needle and the pinking shears was Miss THEODORA COREY, associate in home economics.

Hunting and fishing in California pleasure spots take up much of his time. But whether on the mountain tops or in EB, WALDO WINGER'S favorite entertainment is music.

COLLEGE OF APPLIED ARTS

One of the largest colleges at UCLA is the School of Applied Arts which includes within its domain departments of art, music, theater arts, business education, home economics, nursing, and physical education. Each of these departments is run independently by chairmen who are appointed by Dean of the College David F. Jackey. The Department of Music has recently announced that it has extended the time for a bachelor's degree in music from four, to five years. This extra year will be utilized to give applied instruction on the instruments. The graduates will receive a degree from the University and also a diploma from the Music Department. A new secondary teaching credential is now being awarded to those students with theatre-arts-English majors, and a department of air science, intended for reserve officers, has been added to the curriculum. When the Administration Building is completed the offices of the college will be moved into the new wing, and as soon as the medical unit is completed, the Nursing School will be incorporated into the Med-School and housed in its building.

Man of many titles, Dean of the College of Applied Arts, head of the Home Economics Department, Director of Vocational Education, and professor of education, DAVID JACKEY is also a man of smiling good humor.

The golden west's claim of "unlimited opportunities for all" proved true for DOROTHY JOHNSON when the med-school made her assistant professor of pediatric nursing.

All's not sweat and muscles for instructor PAUL FRAMPTON, associate supervisor of men's physical education, decided long ago that he's much better at directing than acting.

The Southland's sunny climate allows Assistant Physical Education Supervisor MARJORY ALLEN to carry on her sports program with no mid-winter let down.

GORDON L. NUNES, for three years professor of art at UCLA, has found many of his paintings in the modern vein exhibited throughout Southern California.

Brick kilns are just one example of the wealth of available subjects that southern California offers to art students. Man-made landscape materials give artists a gay panorama of industry, highway and architectural objects. Natural subjects for study by a landscape class are the mountains capped with snow and bursting with pine, rivers cascading down into the deep blue expanse of the Pacific with its crazy rock and sand beaches, and the immense fruit-bearing valleys with their eternal green.

To experiment with the more progressive ideas in education today the UCLA Education Department has an elementary school on the campus. Advanced education majors receive many hours of practical teaching experience on its well equipped playground and in the new ultra-modern school facing Sunset Boulevard.

Dean EDWARD LEE of the School of Education heads a department that turns out teachers for all grades and subjects. Keenly interested in the problems of modern education, he devotes himself to their best solution for our time and attitudes.

SCHOOL OF EDUCATION

With the Art and Music Departments moving out of the building in the near future, the Education department will soon be in the turmoil of reorganizing its new space. One of the oldest and most active departments in the University, it is just now coming into full development. The long needed elementary training schools are being completed under the direction of Jesse A. Bond and will be used for training and experimental work in the elementary education field. An audio-visual section within the department is being added by F. Dean McClusky, one of the ablest men in that field. As an additional help to the production of first rate educators, May V. Seagoe is finishing three years of intensive study in teacher characteristics and plans to prepare a comprehensive test, similar to those given in the UCLA Engineering and Law Schools, which will determine incoming students' aptitude for teaching.

Long interested in the psychology of education, MAY V. SEAGOE is now devoting the greater part of her time to improving the elementary and secondary systems.

Since the February ground-breaking ceremonies, the new law building has changed from a dream into a reality. A modern variation in the traditional style of Royce Hall and the library, it is a welcome and much needed addition to the campus, and provides suitable housing for the Law School classes and their eminent professors.

Famous newcomer to the UCLA campus was "Dean of American law" ROSCOE POUND who left Harvard to pioneer in UCLA's prominent law school.

SCHOOL OF LAW

One of our newest and yet most rapidly growing schools is UCLA's Law division. Under the direction of Dean L. Dale Coffman, plans are being made for a new law building which will make it possible to increase the enrollment from the present fifty students to an expected five hundred. The structure will be three stories high and have seminar rooms, a library, an outdoor terrace, large and small classrooms, and a practice court in which students can work in authentic court room atmosphere. "This is one of the few law school buildings in the United States that has been expressly designed for this purpose after careful consultation between the faculty and architects," Provost Dykstra pointed out. The faculty of the school, besides Dean Coffman who was formerly dean of the Vanderbilt Law School, includes Dean Roscoe Pound of Harvard and many other well known instructors. In a few years it promises to become one of the major law schools in the country.

Freshly imported from Vanderbilt along with football's Sanders, H. L. COFFMAN, Dean of the new Law School, can't feel homesick, because most of Tennessee came to California with him. Vanderbilt's loss is UCLA's gain.

SCHOOL OF MEDICINE

"Our plans for the Medical School are very near completion," says the school's dean, STAFFORD L. WARREN. With a lot of work he's sure that the school can become one of the nation's best.

As part of the prescribed work in public health the students pay periodic visits to restaurants, clinics, and sewage disposal plants where disease and epidemics are always latent, as an aid in studying control methods. Many of the students plan to earn their degrees in medicine, or have already done so, and work for state or city departments of public health.

An expert in sanitation and lecturer of note, UCLA's Dean of the school of public health, HARRY A. BLISS, taught students health essentials for modern society and the complexities of industrial civilization.

SCHOOL OF PUBLIC HEALTH

Southern California's streamlined progress and the streamlined design of UCLA's proposed School of Medicine seem to go along hand in hand to predict that this territory will be served adequately by locally trained medical men. No expense is being spared in making this school California's best.

GRADUATE SCHOOL

In graduate school the seminar displaces conventional class meetings in many cases where the student does original research. It is here that an embryo-scholar first learns "things aren't like they used to be," and that the professors seem to have an uncanny sense of deviation. It's almost worth an "A" to wriggle through a meeting without being detected in these seminars.

Dean of UCLA's Graduate Division VERN O. KNUDSEN was so highly esteemed that he was chosen as one of three to carry the responsibilities of administration after the death of Provost Dykstra.

The training of future officers for the United States Navy was a primary responsibility of Captain L. C. GRANNIS, head of UCLA's Naval Reserve Officers Training Corps, who changed UCLA students in navy-blue to potential gold-braid bearers for action on the seas and in the air.

With the threat of war an ever-present thought in the minds of most Americans, UCLA men found themselves in training . . . a part of the military preparedness program . . . drilled by experienced veteran Colonel F. N. ROBERTS, who was firmly convinced that Uncle Sam's nephews should be able to protect their country.

COLLEGE INFORMALS

An essential though not always welcome element of campus life was class-time. Lectures of even the most conscientious instructors were often interrupted irregularly for a campus chest collection or impromptu rally, and were regularly delayed for the traditional five-minute song period at every Wednesday's classes. In class, some Bruins knit, some caught up on the latest social news, some slept, some took notes, and others didn't quite survive the long trek to a Royce or EB second or third floor and landed in the "Coop" instead. But, whether they appeared to appreciate it or not, UCLA students absorbed vast amounts of information from some of the most noted specialists and professional educators in the nation, and were proud of their high academic rating among United States colleges and universities.

Famed for his anthropological histories of Pacific areas, UCLA's Dr. JOSEPH B. BIRDSELL was a fascinating instructor who brought his studies "down to earth" and invited his students on field trips which produced valuable artifacts from southern California's own Tujunga Canyon.

The arts of "canned" applause and transcribed advertisements between song hits were learned by UCLA's numerous radio arts students who studied radio production, programing, station operation and acting as well as the technical aspects of backstage mechanisms, aided by the newest and best of radio equioment in southern California.

DONALD S. MAC KINNON, director of the University Student Health Service was the official who provided all new Bruins with a medical checkup.

Care and organization of UCLA's giant library, one of the best equipped in the country, was under the supervision of LAWRENCE C. POWELL.

Information pleas were answered by ANDREW HAMILTON, Public Information Official and his staff of able University question answerers.

First stop for all prospective Bruins was the office of UCLA Registrar WILLIAM C. POMEROY. Here students were aided and counseled.

A SUCLA Business Manager GEORGE F. TAYLOR kept many students happy by cashing their cheques and supplying them with change.

ADMINISTRATORS

Weighing credentials in the balance was one of the many responsibilities governed by EDGAR L. LAZIER, Associate Director of Admissions.

Friend and counselor of all practice teachers and those seeking teaching positions was AUBREY L. BERRY, Teacher Placement Executive.

Responsibility for addition to the funds of many Bruins was MILDRED F. FOREMAN, manager of the University Bureau of Occupations.

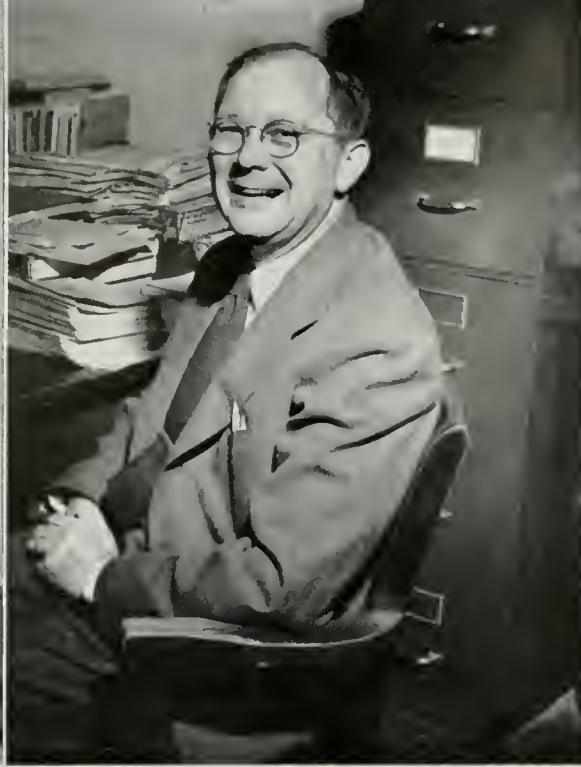

Nine steps in every Freshman's orientation course were visits to the offices of the UCLA and ASUCLA Officials. Answering all student queries was Andrew Hamilton and his Office of Public Information, while registration problems were solved in offices of Registrar William C. Pomeroy and Associate Director of Admissions Edgar Lazier. Medical attention was sought from Donald S. MacKinnon and his staff at Student Health Center and also on site three was Mildred Foreman of University Bureau of Occupations. These nine officials completed a cycle of student aid and University service.

Public relations man supreme was HIRAM W. EDWARDS who directed UCLA relations with other Southern California educational institutions.

PROFESSOR JOSEPH A. GENGERELLI of the Psychology Department has spent recent research activities upon remote stimulation of the brain of an intact animal. In the field of statistical research his methods are destined to play a large role in investigations of "types" by psychologists and anthropologists.

PROFESSOR E. Lee KINSEY of the Physics Department has been concerned with the absorption of polarized light in the ultra-violet and infrared regions in crystals. Chairman of his department since 1948 he has had numerous studies published and has been active on many University Committees. He is one of the nation's most noted men.

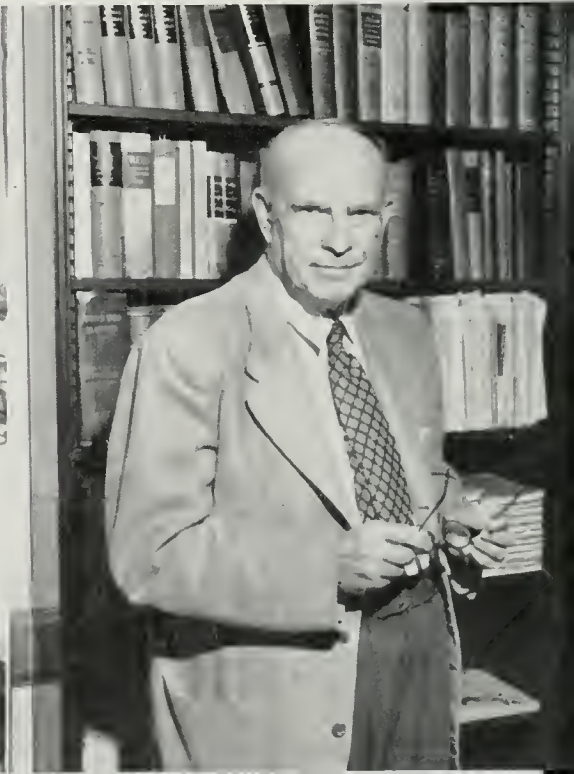

LILY B. CAMPBELL, Professor Emeritus of the English Department retired from active teaching in June, but her research in the fields of Shakespeare, the drama, and the Renaissance will undoubtedly continue. She is a member of the American Philological Association and has been associated with the Huntington Library.

PROFESSOR ROSALIND CASSIDY of the Women's Division of Physical Education was elected President of the American Academy of Physical Education. She is working on a book titled, THE CURRICULUM IN AMERICAN PHYSICAL EDUCATION, which will add to her long list of research activities. She is a credit to the College of Applied Arts.

PROFESSOR EMERITUS FRANK J. KLINGBERG of the History Department has published numerous works in the field of British humanities. During his many years of University service he has been chairman of the department for eighteen years, and in 1948 was elected president of the American Historical Association.

1950 FACULTY ACHIEVEMENT AWARDS

The staff of the 1950 SOUTHERN CAMPUS has inaugurated the presentation of FACULTY AWARDS OF ACHIEVEMENT for the current academic year. The recipients of the awards were chosen by the Editor upon departmental recommendations on the Los Angeles campus. One winner was named from each college on the undergraduate level, with the exception of the College of Letters and Science which was awarded one for each of its four divisions. Criteria for the choice was: Contributions to his field through research, service to the University, service to the community and nation, and contributions to the teaching profession with particular reference to his field.

DR. C. L. TAYLOR's contributions during the year are research in prosthetics, particularly the hand and arm, in Human Heat Tolerance, and paraplegic devices. He represents the only group in the United States who are attempting to introduce the Life Sciences as a basic principle to the field of Engineering.

DR. RALPH CASSADY, JR., Professor of Marketing, has made significant contributions to the systematic knowledge of markets and price policies. He was co-author of a monograph entitled, THE CHANGING COMPETITIVE STRUCTURE ON THE WHOLESALE GROCERY TRADE. He has also contributed to numerous books and papers and is editor of the JOURNAL OF MARKETING.

DR. WALTER EBELING, Associate Professor of Entomology has made an outstanding contribution from the College of Agriculture. His new book SUBTROPICAL ENTOMOLOGY is the outstanding work in its field and although issued only in February has been adopted by many universities and has received other wide acclaim.

CLASS ACTIVITIES

Class of '50

JUNIOR PROM QUEEN

Statistics prove the validity of the judges' decision in favor of JOYCE FELSON as the 1949 Junior Prom Queen. Brownish cropped hair, brown eyes, 5 feet 6 inch of variety, and 125 pounds of never-ending energy typify this junior whom the Pi Phi's claim. Traveling outweighs Joyce's varied interests and after finishing her political science major, she hopes to take advantage of it. Her queenly talents held reign the night of the Prom where she was the star of the Bob Hope radio show.

HOMECOMING QUEEN

LOCKETA COLETTE O'KEEFE, whom the 1949 Homecoming queen judges knew simply as Lucky, became famous for her big happy smile during her week on the throne. As past Spur president and member of Student board of RCB and Cal Club, this Pi Phi lass has taken more than a general interest in campus affairs. Of tan and lively complexion, Lucky has carried on in the glorious queen-tradition and has fulfilled the role in such a way as to be applauded by all who saw her.

Long to be remembered was the enormous bonfire that was lit after the Friday night parade. After many alarms set off by SC pyromaniacs, the fire burned on schedule as was planned.

Headed by efficient chairman GEORGE MAIR, no Homecoming Committee ever had it so good. Preparations for the week were made nonetheless successful by the outcome of Saturday's game with the northern rival, Cal. With the task of entertaining groups from four schools, the staff earned much applause for a job well done.

Working months in advance to top any previous UCLA Homecoming Week proved to be worthwhile in that it was necessary to double the size of the welcome mat. Hands were outstretched to alumni and friends as well as to the students of Santa Barbara, Cal, and Davis. Activities were centered around the theme: "Southern Celebration Four U All." Preparations were first revealed at the homecoming show featuring well-known celebrities and the presentation of the Queen and her court. Following was Pajama Day, the carnival, the street dance, the parade, the homecoming dance, and the alumni picnic. All were climaxed by the action-packed football game with California.

Westwood was awakened to the fact that UCLA was having a celebration when Pete Dailey put in an appearance at the street dance held in the village in conjunction with the carnival.

Gathering at the Alumni Picnic, former Bruins rehashed past college events and became acquainted again. After lunch they cheered former football stars in the manner to which they were accustomed.

First appearance of the royalty was at the homecoming show when LUCKY O'KEEFE was chosen as queen with MARY BRETT-HAUER, JAYNE COSGRAVE, AGGIE MacDONALD, and PAULINE NELSON.

Proving to be one of the hardest groups to choose from was that of the queen contestants. Creating a quandary for the judges, each girl was met personally at a luncheon given in the contestants' honor.

HOMECOMING

Coming through in fine style were the Delta Sigs who walked off with the Sweepstakes award for their float entry. Associating it with the aroma of fried chicken, the judges were obviously "scent."

Most humorous went to the Lambda Chi's who capitalized on that good southern hospitality theme with Oski receiving a warm welcome from Joe Bruin which preceeded a warm battle on the football field.

Stealing the football team's thunder during the pre-game parade, much to the despair of the fire department, was the ZBT showboat. Up to the time of the outburst they displayed the winning theme entry.

Laying the biggest eggs ever seen was the chicken that claimed the most original award for the TEP's. UCLA was laying for Cal but met with a little interruption when those intruders came into the yard.

UCLA's star of the evening on the queen list was JOYCE FELSON whose repartee with lover boy enlivened the broadcast of the prom and may have led to the discovery of a new star . . . What a life for a co-ed.

Great Lover BOB PRECHT, had a prom dream date, ELIZABETH TAYLOR, for his dancing partner. As his reward for winning the title of the great lover, BOB dated LIZ between her engagements.

During prom coke time MC HOPE called up Paramount stars and starlets to the microphone to testify as to the merits of junior proms on sound stages. It was an experience, said Prom-viewers, to see talent in concentration.

First on the agenda of the Junior Promenade was the Prom-view, a preview of the film "The Great Lover," whose star, BOB HOPE, was MC at the prom the next night. This movie got Uclans in the right spirit to appreciate UCLA's great lover.

JUNIOR PROM

Traditionally the big school dance of the fall semester, this year's Junior Prom was no exception to the rule. For the first time this annual event became a two-night escapade as eager Bruins awaited the preview showing of "The Great Lover" on Friday evening, followed by open houses sponsored by the various living groups on campus. Saturday night couples transferred to a Paramount sound stage and promenaded to the music of Paul Weston's orchestra. Entertainment featuring Paramount stars was enjoyed by all and the evening was climaxed by the crowning of the queen. When the gaiety ended, everyone agreed that it was an evening to be remembered and that proms are great.

Aspiring juniors, who ignored a few weeks of study to make the essential contacts for the spectacular two-day affair that was 1950's Junior Prom. were led by HARRY SHERMAN, supervisor of everything from queenly candidate selections to tangled Paramount red tape produced by the studio on whose sound stage the dance was held.

Avalon . . . the scene of the crime. The recreation pavilion had its greatest population since last Catalina Day. Attractions there included the orchestra for 'sand-dancing' and the TV equipped for general curiosity.

What would the Catalina Dayers have done without Hawaiian Pete's catering service? This event was famed for the spreads in evidence at all times. All that the Uclans wanted to eat, PETE KIPP had emphasized, and he was right.

CATALINA DAY

Much televised and publicized Catalina Day was twice as long as ever before . . . a two-day extravaganza this year, complete with Hawaiian luau catering and paddle boarding for the braver Uclans. The junior class was pleased with all school-approved arrangements for watertaxiing and over-nighting, and encouraged every Catalina goer to pay his own way, hinting to girls not to leave their date with the double bill. In spite of cool, sea-breezy weather, spirits were high, particularly among the few students who had never "set sail" to Santa Catalina before. The busy weekend concluded on a satisfying note for both Avalon townspeople and tired Westwood voyagers.

"In our merry water taxi . . ." was the refrain of the joyous juniors who voyaged to Catalina Island in May. In spite of the sea-breezy, foggy weather that started the weekend, light-weight casual clothes and relaxation were the rules for the two days, and by Sunday, when taxi-time rolled around, weather conditions were strictly technicalities.

Bridge and canasta courts were handy for the stay-at-homes. That ad, "Just step out your door . . ." might have been completed by—to hear the cry of 'Where's a fourth?' "Above the din of the ukeles it could be heard, that is.

Santa Claus arrived by "Yule Train" at the frosh Christmas open house and was greeted by the many awed faces belonging to the children and naive Bruins who were in attendance.

FROSH-SOPH ACTIVITIES

Lower classmen met on a field of competition in the true spirit of rivalry as tradition yielded forth the annual Frosh-Soph Brawl. Tension ran high as the crowd gathered to witness the emergence of the winning class. Due to a tie a final event, a mixed tug o' war, was the deciding factor upon which the Sophomores were judged victorious. Collaboration on the part of the two classes produced the "Flying Saucer," an open house to which the entire campus was invited. Cooperation keynoted the successes enjoyed by these combined presentations and was representative of the UCLA spirit.

Bloodiest and muddiest in the November brawl was the circle fight. Object being to toss out the opposition, strength and determination proved to be the main factors in attaining this goal.

"Top o' the Evenin'" brings to mind the frosh dance held at the Bel Air Bay Club. Freshman officers posed with BARRY FITZGERALD and RHONDA FLEMING, who added the final Irish touch.

Lower classmen brought back to the minds of the oldtimers the true spirit of rivalry as the brawl went into the last lap. Trying to keep their equilibrium after running around the bat wasn't easy.

Candy, flowers, and the Sophomore Sweetheart Dance ushered in Valentine's Day in rare style. Clamoring for bids, the boys found that CHRIS CHRISTIANSON had just barely enough for all of them.

Tommy Trojan received a good dousing as spirit for the SC game was rallied by FRED THORNLEY. Scoring a moral victory for their side, Bruin rooters cheered by the sidelines.

ANDY ANDERSON and seniors were found segregating the lower classmen by pants painting. Those shiny numerals stenciled on levis heightened the inter-class spirit and spurred competition.

Throne-bearers, pall-bearers, or whatever, MERLE SWANSON, king of Men's Week, displayed his royal authority by being borne around campus by four efficient surefoots.

MEN'S WOMEN'S WEEK

Each of the sexes claimed one week of glory in which superiority was self-bestowed. During the fall semester a preponderance of male egotism was exhibited during Men's Week. As a prologue to the much anticipated SC football game, the activities of the week boosted spirit even higher. Adding prowess to the male population was the growing of beards, followed by the Men's Smoker. In answer to all this the women took advantage of a warm spring week to don levis and claim their own. Carefree and comfortable, they attended the Hi-Jinx Show, activity breakfast, fashion show, and the banquet. Excitement was supreme during the honorary tapping and the presentation of the participation cup to Hershey Hall.

Anticipation was at its peak as Women's Week was brought to a close by the activity banquet. Honorary tapping was the main feature as girls were tapped by campus leaders.

Exerting a great deal of energy, the girls really proved their strength during the wheel-barrow races. Fostered by the spirit of competition, these special events were enjoyed by all.

"Shine, mister?" was a boon for those busy college students who never have the time to keep up on personal appearances. What a booming business the URA bootblacks (student leaders and profs) had that night.

Las Vegas time . . . and approved by the university, too! Odds were given and followed by all the eager gamblers; seeing that winnings went to University Camp and nowhere else, everything was on the up and up.

PHRATERES

GARTER THROW

The king of the Mardi Gras carnival, picked by vote of the entire student body, was just as handsome as all Mardi Gras royalty should be, and just as gallant, avowed the girls.

One of the most popular entertainers at the Mardi Gras was the organ-grinder and his friend whose pipe smoking was much smoother than many college men's.

MARDI GRAS

Diversion was unrestrained at the annual carnival sponsored by the URA. Bedecked and beribboned booths were frequented by the throngs of Mardi Gras enthusiasts who flocked to the women's gym in costumes appropriate to the familiar theme. Complete from the crowning of the king to the ball, this celebration lacked none of the spirit associated with the New Orleans extravaganza. Gambling fans were seen placing their bets across the table while on the other side of the square, couples waiting to be married sampled the many delicacies being sold. Profits from the gala event helped to send underprivileged children to University Camp that summer.

Another very crowded booth, crowded by the masculine population, was the Phrateres garter throw. The girls really made a mint of money by sitting down and crossing five toes over five.

One of the biggest and most successful shows put on by the University Productions was the Christmas performance before the holidays, all profits from it going to University Camp, the summer camp organized for underprivileged kids.

SINGS

Another well-known group in the University Productions cast was Keith Williams orchestra, whose members were mainstays of many a performance. Danceable music was alternated with excellent backdrop arrangements by this band.

Santa at the Christmas Show! ED HUMMEL was the perfect choice for the part, particularly after his practice in the role earlier in the week at the annual Uni-Camp dinner for the children who had been to previous camps.

ALL-U-SING under the direction of HARVEY KARMAN was completely reorganized to become UNIVERSITY PRODUCTIONS which, in addition to producing more campus shows than in any previous year, sponsored the development of the Writer's Workshop and the Campus Talent Bureau. University Productions also served in an important public relations capacity by presenting several benefit shows for community groups. Its extensive activities were rewarded when it was honored by winning the national "Inside U.S.A." award for doing more toward the stimulation and encouragement of college entertainment than any other student organization in the nation. The Talent Bureau registered every available Bruin and was able to supply numerous organizations with variety acts for their social functions. The Writers' Workshop wrote many skits and composed numerous musical numbers for the year's productions.

Beginning a successful year of University Productions, more familiarly known to Uclans as All-U-Sings, the homecoming show climaxed a week of celebration in the fall semester with a variety extravaganza organized by HARVEY KARMAN.

The variety act known as the Three Cards was called back for show after show as their popularity was evidenced at the first of the year. Director KARMAN used this trio to fill spots between big production scenes.

With soft singing and sweet music the Phi Delt's came through as winners of the AMS men's trophy for the 1950 sing. The applause of the crowd recognized that the boys had really made use of the Hollywood Bowl's excellent acoustics.

Climaxing the thrill of winning the mixed group trophy was the excitement of both the Alpha Sigma Phi's and the Alpha Omicron Pi's when the judges announced they had also won the sweepstakes award coveted by all entering the sing.

Pi Phi misses for the fourth time in six years continued their tradition of winning the women's trophy. This time the cup was awarded to them for their beautiful arrangement of "Begin the Beguine" and the familiar Pi Phi medley.

"For the best singing I've heard tonight" was MC DON DeFORE'S remark to the SAE's as he handed them a special award presented by interested Southern California disc jockies Frank Bull and Gene Norman.

"In the spring a young man's . . ." At UCLA a whole school's eyes turned to the big date of the annual Spring Sing. For weeks both rows, afternoon or evening, sounded like a group of choral practice rooms; even behind closed doors the musical arrangements blended. Weeks of preparation this year were climaxed by one of the most impressive sings ever given by AMS. The Hollywood Bowl was chosen as location for the song fest in substitution for the traditional Greek Theatre. After the performance enthusiastic students rated both the new spot and the judges as factors for 1950 Spring Sing success.

SPRING SING

The Sigma Chi's novel radio push button routine was the unanimous winner of the AMS novelty act trophy. Bright costumes and props combined with clever words and melodies to take the foursome across the finish line.

Carrying on in true fashion, Charleston enthusiasts took advantage of a vacant spot on the beach to put in a little practice. Between dances they took advantage of the cool Pacific water for recuperation.

Football was one of the many activities enjoyed by the Class of 1950 when they took off for Zuma Beach on the annual senior ditch. Preceded by an assembly in Royce Hall, the all day affair was a grand success.

SENIOR ACTIVITIES

Over the third hurdle and into the last stretch, the class of 1950 succeeded in gaining momentum with each successive year and climaxed them all by the fourth and final one. Throughout the year harmony was demonstrated by the successful events that were planned and carried out in the true senior spirit. Carrying with them the memories of Vespers, the Senior Show, the Aloha Ball, the Pilgrimage, Commencement, and the Reception, every senior will agree that college life is great.

UCLA basketball suffered a great loss when several members of the team took their bows with the graduating class. After four years of devotion "to the cause," they deserved congratulations for a job well done.

ANDY ANDERSON, like all enthusiastic seniors, was caught on his way to the library, material in hand, to cram for finals. Wear and tear began to show on students during the exam days.

Anything and everything was used to create interest in the new senior lunch inaugurated this year. Giving an added push to Bruin spirit, it preceded the SC football game.

Trooping down the endless number of steps that go by the name of Janss, the group enjoyed a birds-eye view of the two gyms and the athletic field. Relief was shared by all as the 1st step was finally reached.

JOHN WOODEN stood on the steps of the men's gym and paid tribute to many of the graduating athletes who brought credit to UCLA. He also related past victories and losses that the teams enjoyed and suffered.

Approaching Kerckhoff Hall via the shady route alongside the gyms, members of the entourage were afforded relief from the sun. Their wanderings took them to all of the memorable spots on campus.

Standing on the steps of the Physics Building ED HUMMELL, expounded on his great knowledge of any subject. On the left LYN LINDEN, who took charge of the event, made plans for the next stop.

PILGRIMAGE

Graduating seniors, their families, and friends gathered on the campus for the now traditional Pilgrimage. They wandered from one memorable spot to another where they were greeted by the people who helped make the buildings live for each one of them during their stay at UCLA. After making the tour of the campus to show it to their families, the group finally ended up at the patio of Kerckhoff Hall for refreshments. While the chimes rang out, the seniors listened wistfully for the last time.

For the pause that refreshes, the tour ended in the patio of Kerckhoff Hall. Here, final farewells were made to the life that had become so familiar to all of the graduates during their four-year stay at UCLA.

ALOHA BALL

The Riviera Country Club in Santa Monica canyon was transformed into a tropical paradise for the graduating seniors. Plumeria leis were flown in from Hawaii the morning of the dance, much to the pleasure of the girls. Surrounding the large patio of the club, tables were arranged in such a way that complete privacy was assured without losing the friendly atmosphere. In addition to the music of David Rose, portions of the Red Skelton show were presented as part of the evening's entertainment.

Performing an enviable duty is TED NISSEN, bestowing a lei on JODY COLLINS, designating her as Aloha Ball queen. Her selection by those who purchased bids to the dance was approved by all in a burst of applause.

Happy, smiling faces were seen everywhere enjoying the scent of fresh flowers and the tropical atmosphere. Throughout the large rooms of the Riviera Country Club, the decorations carried out the theme and increased the feeling of gaiety which was felt by all of those who attended.

A view of the dance floor was evidence of the fact that the best place to go on the night before graduation was the Aloha Ball. After working their way onto the spacious dance floor, energetic couples found dancing in place not so bad as long as the people danced around on their own feet and not their neighbors'.

Party goers took time out for refreshments and conversation and relaxed between dances. Seen presiding over an agreeable foursome was FRED THORNLEY, who no doubt was practicing up a bit. Melodious strains of music provided by Dave Rose and his orchestra floated into all of the surrounding rooms.

Without Dave Rose or graduating seniors there could never have been an Aloha Ball but with neither of these lacking, the old tradition was carried on in all its splendor. The familiar music of the twenty-three piece orchestra was enjoyed by dancers and table-hoppers alike at this year's grad dance.

Boy graduate takes on new role as he goes out to face the hard and cruel world, inspired by the farewell speeches given at the exercises. College is not wasted if it ends like this.

Degrees and awards were discussed with families and friends following the graduation. Mixed emotions of sorrow and joy were seen throughout the group on the faces of the graduates.

Row after row marched into their place to the accompaniment of the appropriate "Pomp and Circumstance." Full realization that the long-awaited day had finally arrived, came at this time, and the group reflected on the anticipation of the event which had been building.

There was last minute checking and adjusting of mortar boards before the long processional consisting of three thousand graduating seniors and endless number of minutes.

Regrets, hopes, and thanks were expressed by NANCY LEE ROTH in her valedictorian address . . . new worlds would be opened to the three thousand seniors.

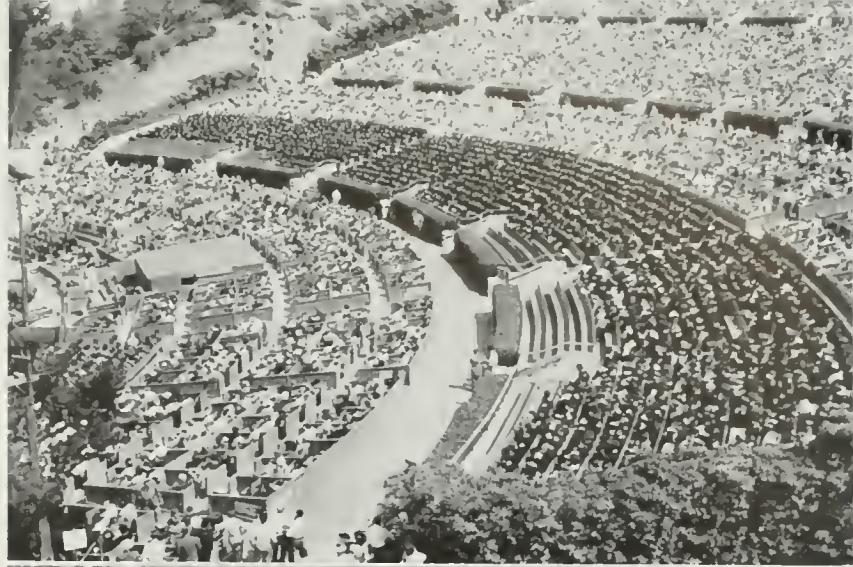

The tremendous seating capacity of the natural theater guaranteed a place for all relatives and friends who were able to attend the ceremonies. For the first time in several years they were held off campus due to the fact that the Greek Theater was leveled for the medical buildings.

GRADUATION

Graduation took place in the amphitheater of the Hollywood Bowl for the two thousand graduating seniors of the class of 1950. Highlighting the ceremonies was the speech by Dr. Ralph Bunche. Heightening the occasion to which all students look forward during their four years at college, was the solemn quality of the Bowl and surrounding hills. At the reception following, seniors were able to say goodbye, if only temporarily, to the men and women who have been their classmates and companions.

Professors awaited their turn and discussed the exciting events scheduled for the day . . . the addresses, the honorary awards, the presentation of diplomas, and the singing of the Alma Mater. All of this proves the importance of the day to all those who took part.

DR. RALPH BUNCHE, prominent UCLA alumnus and recipient of an honorary degree from the university at this time, was the principal speaker at the graduation exercises. His stirring address was an inspiration to all, memorable for the optimism with which he viewed current world conditions.

Magnified by the beauty and solemnity of the surrounding hills, the sight of the cap and gowned figures was an impressive one. Capable of setting a beautiful scene for the commencement exercises, the Hollywood Bowl fulfilled its role and gave everyone a lasting impression of the day.

SENIOR COUNCIL

Eager council members, fun-filled meetings, and class spirit made possible the planning of a full-packed schedule for the fourth year collegians. During freshman elections they sponsored an open house in honor of the frosh hopefuls and followed it by a display of talent featured in their "Senior Class, Rah" Homecoming float. Farewells were bade the mid-year graduates, and spring was heralded by combining efforts with the Freshmen for a "Howdy House," open to the entire campus. As a finale to this whirlwind year came a swirl of senior week activities and farewell to the Class of '50.

December brought an offer from Florida to UCLA's football coach, and worry ran high until word came that Coach Sanders was staying. Grateful Bruins looked forward to coming seasons with "Red" in the key position.

SENIORS '50

With an over abundance of capability, KEN KARST proved his worth as IFC Executive Secretary and in attaining a Phi Beta Kappa key. Talent in the way of yell-leading belongs to BOB HIGHT, Gold Key membership chairman and spirit raiser.

Two members of the Bruin sporting scene during the last year were BOB CLITHERO and FLOYD WILSON. Bob performed his duties on the wrestling squad and Floyd was the outstanding boxer on the team . . . A pair of boys all are proud of.

Really a couple of boy's boys, TED NISSEN set the pace for men on the campus as president of AMS and ALAN SAWYER was familiar to basketball devotees, whether seen in person or by television fans.

SENIOR PERSONALITIES

Freshman antics provoked unusual looks from seniors BETTY IRWIN, YWCA president; LYN LINDEN, Southern Campus Office Manager and chairman of the Pilgrimage; KATHLEEN HOLSER, rep-at-large and RCB member; and DICK DICKEY, IFC social chairman, Gold Key member, and Phi Kappa Psi.

Studying on the bus to and from school brought a Phi Beta key to ASUCLA Veep DOROTHY WRIGHT. SHERRILL LUKE can smile broadly as he looks back on his success as student body president in 1950.

Seniors had a right to be proud of fellow graduate BOB LINDH, rep-at-large, who kept a matter of fact look even with senior vice-prexy, JACKIE WAGONER's arm around him. Jackie was also queen of the 1948 Homecoming.

BOBETTE CAMP taught what she learned as president of AWS to the boys. After lessons, A Phi O President WALT WHITAKER and MAC advocate LEE SEIERSON agree she's pretty good.

PAT McKENNA spent her spare time as president of the Panhellenic Council while football boy EDDIE EATON and his gridiron buddy, LYNN HALE starred on the playing field under the direction of Red Sanders.

Seen in KH 209 were the smiling faces of Welfare Board chairman TOM HITCHCOCK, OCB head BOB FRANKLIN and his right hand aid and jack of all trades PAT O'CONNER.

Proof of their pride in the 1949-1950 Basketball team was shown by early morning rooters waving to the boys on their way to the NCAA finals in Kansas City. With the aid of the Kelps, spirit ran high and the greatest season yet came to an end.

SENIORS '50

Credited with a long list of activities including Frosh prexy and Rep-at-Large was DON BARRETT. JIM WALKER gave the list competition as IFC president and so did BARBARA ABRAMS, president of Dorm Council.

Track enthusiasts will recognize the name of JACK MILLER, 880 master. ED FITZGERALD superintended the Speech Activities Board, while IFC was blessed with the services of GORDON FLETT.

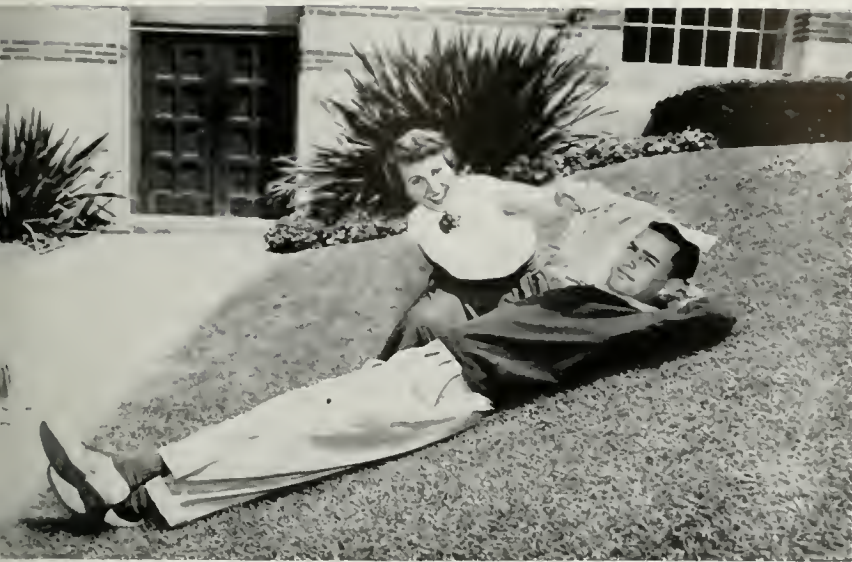

The daily dozen of the Kelp trio included plans for meetings distracted by number one dis-organizer, ED HUMMEL. DAVE LEANSE led yells while FRANK LOY checked up on elec-tion activities and Southern Campus sales.

Smiling RALPH JOECKEL scored the deciding points for UCLA in the Washington State basket-ball game. President of Music and Service Board, BOB KOENIG cheered him on as did DICK CLARK, photographer.

Three So Cam advocates were CHAR WEISS, associate editor; FRANK TENNANT editor of the Forty-niner, and IRWIN RICKEL, art editor of Scop. The alien is senior treasurer BOB SMITH.

Character corner was filled by JACKIE SHAHBAZIAN, dividing her humor between Southern Campus and Troll meetings where, as Low Potentate, she directed the organizing, not an easy job. Aiding GEORGE MAIR to read his press clippings from homecoming was quite an undertaking.

Gathering on the library steps for either a break from the studies or a Publications Board meeting were JIM GARST Daily Bruin Editor, Southern Campus Editor BOB STROCK and FRANK HEWITT, editor of Scop and originator of party-time games deluxe that were the rage of the various productions.

SENIOR PERSONALITIES

Men's Week pride, MERLE SWANSON, took an interest in every phase of sports. He kept HERB FLAM talking about tennis trophies while listening to basketball stories by KARL KRASHAAR.

Two of the three who spent time in meeting deadlines were STAN BACHRACH, Bruin, and NANCY HOLMES, Southern Campus. DON ARMBRUSTER claimed membership on Gold Key and OCB.

Three people who always put their best foot forward were LOUISE KOSCHES of Mortar Board, PHIL CURRAN, whose talent lies in publications, and BETTY STAUFFER, president of Delta Delta Delta.

JUNIOR COUNCIL

Listening in on a Junior Class Council meeting last year one could have heard such exciting plans being made as those for the Junior Prom, Catalina Day, open houses, the Homecoming float, and many other events representative of the Class of '51. During December, the much anticipated Junior Prom was heralded. Paramount sound stage set the scene, and the two night extravaganza was highlighted by crowning of Joyce Felson, Miss Pi Beta Phi, as Junior Prom Queen. Jokes by Bob Hope and entertainment by other Paramount stars added to the fun-fest, as did the music of Paul Weston. Bob Precht emerged as the "Great Lover" of UCLA, in keeping with the Friday night movie presentation. In response to Spring fever, the Junior Class took advantage of a May weekend and launched their way across the glassy sea to Catalina. Two lazy days were spent prompting dusky tans, hiking, riding, and sporting home-runs for the more energetic ones. Sunday evening happy, but tired, Bruins braved the briny deep once more and set sail for home. At the close of finals, Junior wonders looked back on 1949-1950 as the halfway mark and turned eager faces toward the final hurdle as Seniors.

Enjoying a little pre-Catalina Day festivity, the committee behind the two day extravaganza reveled in the success of their campaign which featured an Hawaiian band to entertain on the steps of Royce Hall, between classes, and posters bearing the mark "Bruins aweigh."

People in every phase of campus life were LEE NICHOLS, Student Faculty Board; JAY BROWNLEE, AWS worker; JAN GOOCH, junior council; and DEAN KIRBY, gridiron stepper.

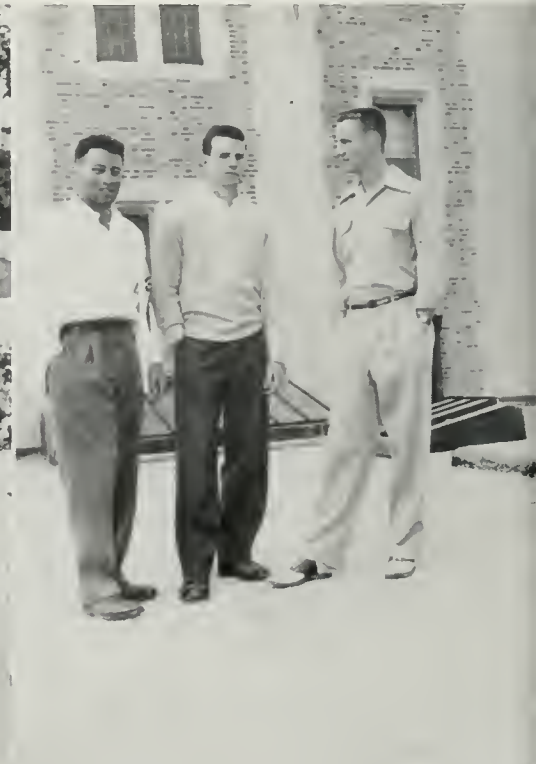

Of varied interests and personalities were valuable threesome MARGARET CAMERON on AWS; MARTY KRAMER, on Welfare Board; and GEORGIANA WHERRY, who was active in class council.

Seen checking the time between elections were BOB GAUDINO, NSA co-ordinator, JOY BULLARD of Key and Scroll, and one of those cheer rousing boys, FRED THORNLEY.

Gold Key president JACK PHRAENER got the low-down on sports activities from a couple of boys who really knew, JACK SHOEMAKER, expert in racquet handling, and AL RAFFEE, football enthusiast.

Entering the halls that witness the functioning behind UCLA activities were LEE GOOD, council member; ALICE HALL, Panhellenic; and MARSHALL VORKINK, hard-working hustler for rally committee.

In Kerckhoff 304 all the time were three Socam Editors: MARCIA TUCKER, organizations; FRED BECK, sports; and SHARLA PERRINE, Photography . . . all up and coming journalists.

Talking over last year's football season with JEAN BAILEY of Kappa Alpha Theta were JIM BUCHANAN, quarterback, and BOB WILKINSON, who played end position and is destined for All-American.

JUNIOR PERSONALITIES

Just like "four and twenty blackbirds sitting on a fence," were Kerckhoff Hall mainstays GEORGE SEELIG, Varsity Club; MARGIE KESTER, NSA and YWCA Vice President; DB City Editor DON FANGER, and the girl AWS claimed as its secretary, BARBARA KIMBALL. These people will be missed at Bruinville next year.

Three smiling faces seen often around the campus were those belonging to YEYRAH NAMRAK, practical joker; DAVE RICH, the man behind the Uni-Camp contribution campaign; and BALDWIN BAKER, Southern Campus photographer extraordinaire. A crew Kerckhoff Hallers could not do without.

Sophomore anticipation was high and well justified as the year was opened by Slopicana at which levi-clad Bruins were entertained at the Theta Xi house. Tension reigned as crowds gathered on the athletic field to witness the annual Frosh-Soph Brawl. After many exuberant and comical contests the sophomores emerged victorious and crawled from the field breathing "Long Live the Sophs!" "Bear's hide, Bruin's ride" was the slogan used by the Sophomore Class to put their float into the running during the Homecoming Parade. No first places were won but everyone enjoyed the ride. Spring was begun by the planning of the Sophomore Sweet-Heart Dance, held in Kerchoff Hall with music provided by Keith Williams. Valentine's Day predominated and Pi Phi Allyn Smith was crowned "Sophomore Sweetheart," by President Jimmy Davis. Hoping to establish a new tradition, the Frosh and Soph Councils combined efforts to present "The Flying Saucer," an open house to which the entire campus was invited. Thus with an active and enthusiastic outlook and a finger in all phases of campus life, the Sophomore Class filed away a terrific year.

Finding no lack of spirit and cooperation among the ranks, president JIMMY DAVIS commanded a smooth-going year aided by Secretary JEANNE McCAFFREY, Vice-President, CHRIS CHRISTIANSON, and Treasurer PETE MANN.

Three second year wonders who managed to stumble over each other all last year in Kerckhoff 220 while giving their all to the Associated Men and Women Students were DOROTHY AEGERTER who was also active on the Southern Campus; DICK LEONARD; and EVELYN TAYLOR, council member.

Always surrounded by girls is the boy in the middle with the smiling face. On the left of our boy is BUNNY HARRIS, Southern Campus supporter, then we have our boy BERT SISKIN, Sophomore class enthusiast among other things, and on the left of our boy, PEGGY BURBANK, Spur treasurer and another Southern Campus worker.

Taking time off from his work on OCB was DAVE HANSON enjoying the sun with STUART McKENNA and JOHN HUNT, probably resting between election campaigns. Both were claimed by the Soph council while Stuart was also one of the Spurs. Her secret to success was undoubtedly a winning smile.

DAVE NELSON and GAY NOTTINGHAM made sure that everything went smoothly in Soph Council meetings while JOHN MATULICH held his own on the basketball courts, helping UCLA to rack up the points.

SOPHOMORE PERSONALITIES

Birds of a feather flock together and so do football players. Sure to testify to these facts were BILLIE GREENBERG and JULIE WEISTEIN who were expected to do big things in their remaining two years.

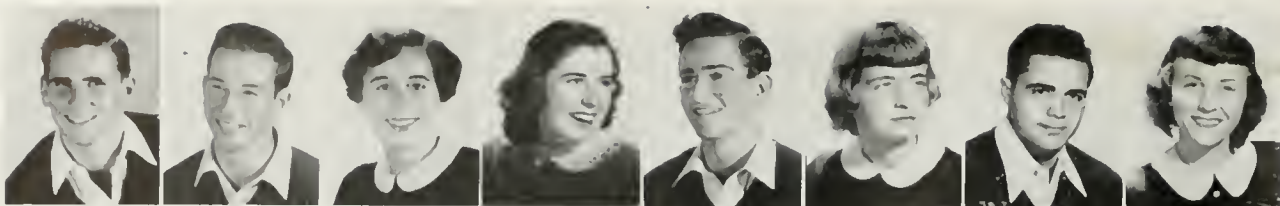

There isn't anything an election can't do for politicians. The "gladhands" new in campus government last semester belonged to RANDY PARKER and DOUG UPSHAW. In the limelight was ALLYN SMITH, Soph Sweetheart.

Three sportsmen who had a common bond as sophomores were: LARRY BALL, swimmer; GENE BUBIEN, the commodore for Tiller and Sail; and JIM PAYTON, a cinder-man for "DUCKY" DRAKE.

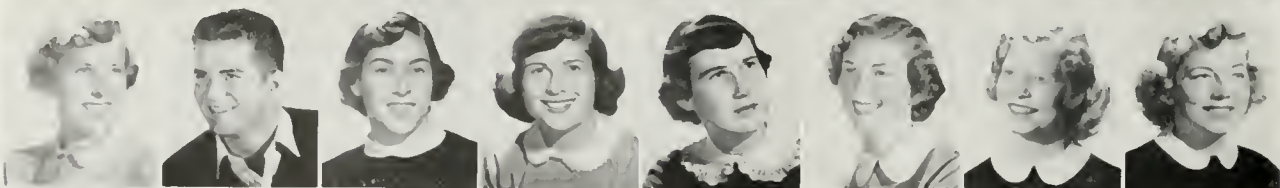

Two hustlers of the Sophomore Class were TOBY HALE and SAM GROSSMAN. Toby was an active member of Spurs and a Scop cog, while Sam was active in many activities of which his winning head yell king campaign was tops.

FRESHMAN COUNCIL

Men's Week was the first appearance of Freshman Class potentiality as they sponsored coop entertainment featuring Bill Snyder's Syncopates. Molly Cosgrave and Ronnie Case were crowned Queen and King of the Freshman Class and eager fledglings looked forward to coming events. That old tradition, the Frosh-Soph brawl, was a whooping success even if the upper classmen trounced the Frosh. Joining forces with the Seniors, the Class of '53 began the Spring semester by presenting an open house at which inter-class spirit reigned. Highlighting the year was the Freshman sponsored "Top O' the Evening" Ball. Barry Fitzgerald and Rhonda Fleming were presented while the Bel Air Bay Club resounded with the music of Chuck Cabot. Following a joint open house with the sophomores, exchanges with the SC Frosh Council were held while the Freshman officers looked back on the many new ideas they had contrived for their class.

Every little bit helped and was contributed but it must have been the strategy that held down the determined frosh and forced them to yield to the sophs during the brawl. This defeat made them more victorious in their other undertakings.

Manpower was not lacking with these four around. Representing the male population was JOHNNY WALKER, treasurer and DAVE LUND, president. On the more feminine side was SUE PARMENTER, secretary, and DEE DANIELS, vice-president.

A trio of lower classmen who really held their own in a variety of activities were DICK RIDGEWAY who spent his time on the basketball courts, BILL WRIGHT who was rarely seen away from the 440 mark in Frosh track, and INKY GRINSGAARD was active in the "Y."

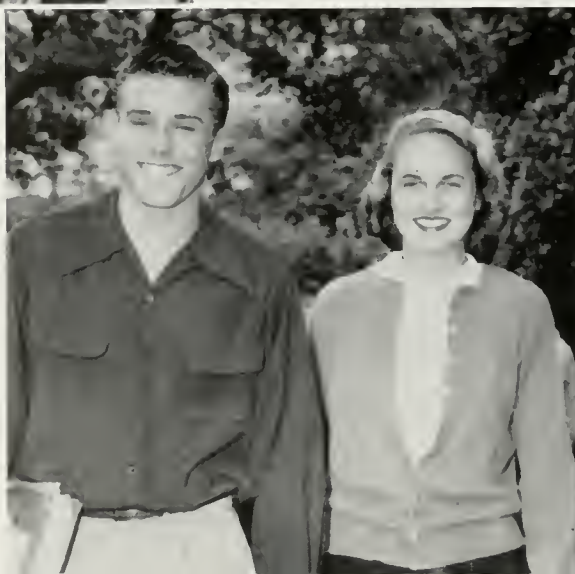

Two boys and a girl resulted in that happy smile on the face of LYNN AVIDON, who wielded her freshman capabilities in the Panhellenic office. MIKE INNMAN took charge of the day the frosh really lived during men's week, and DON MOOMAW, they say, plays a little football.

Talking things over were politician LARRY MEUNTER, noted for his management of the frosh-soph brawl, and sports enthusiasts VERN CLARK from the Ballona Creek brigade, otherwise known as crew, and DICK HANSON, a boy who put his name in the limelight from freshman baseball.

As the ballots were counted tension grew but who could have served better as freshman king than RONNY CASE, and as queen MOLLY COSGROVE, who also reigned as Sigma Nu White Rose queen.

Freshman potentiality was discovered in both newcomers, CAROL SCHECKMAN, who had charge of the Frosh scrapbook, and ELEANOR TANNIN, active participant in Campus Theatre.

FRESHMAN PERSONALITIES

Three minds that functioned behind the activities sponsored by the lower classmen were those of GENE KNOPOFF, chairman of the "Top O' the Evenin'" dance, JUNE TANNER, in charge of the council's secretariat, SUSIE PEYTON, decorations head, and a man that brought them fame, swimmer, JACK SPARGO.

Giving each other stiff competition at the YWCA last year were DORIS DOLSER and MARGARET McHUGH who vied for top honors and both won. Standing right up with these two girls in capabilities was SHIRLEY ADAIR who proved herself in many various activities.

Being a little shy GWINN ALLENBERG held out on the boys by not sitting next to them. HANK KOUBRAKOFF, earnest YMCA worker, testified to the fact that GWINN was a real addition to the class of '53, and assistant frosh dance chairman, ART YOUNGERMAN, agreed.

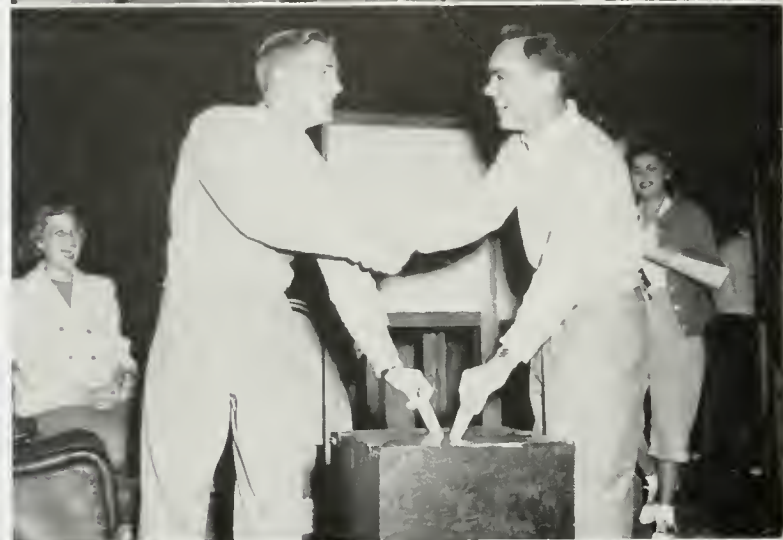

Voted the girl with the most publicity appeal, THELMA SUSMAN lived up to her reputation during the campaign put on to sell tickets to the Frosh Dance. Heading these sales was IRV GOLD-RING who won the honor of selling more than the Sophomores did for their dance.

One vote per Bruin and long waiting lines were major factors of the election day rush which abated somewhat when Chairman FRANK LOY put up several additional polling places.

CLASS ELECTIONS

In one of UCLA's most spirited election weeks Fred Thornley won the ASUCLA presidency in a close election against contestants George Mair, Willis Morrison, and finalist Bob Gaudino. Election week roared by with campaigners on the walks, in the halls, in the library and "coop," and up and down the rows. One ingenious campaigner escorted a duck and goat around the quad, attracting attention to his candidate for Yell King, Stan Berman, who also had a "yellathon" platform erected beside Kerckoff path, and gave out with a little Bruin spirit. Yell candidate Sam Grossman was lowered from the stately portals over Royce Hall steps dressed in red flannels and resting comfortably on a chaise lounge. The library was temporarily inhabited by several brawny angels with hairy arms, and smoking cigars. In spite of the odd paraphernalia and stunts, Bruins did manage to survive the hectic week of elections.

Sportsmanlike competition was waged by finals candidates FRED THORNLEY and BOB GAUDINO who put in their bids for the top executive spot in campus student government.

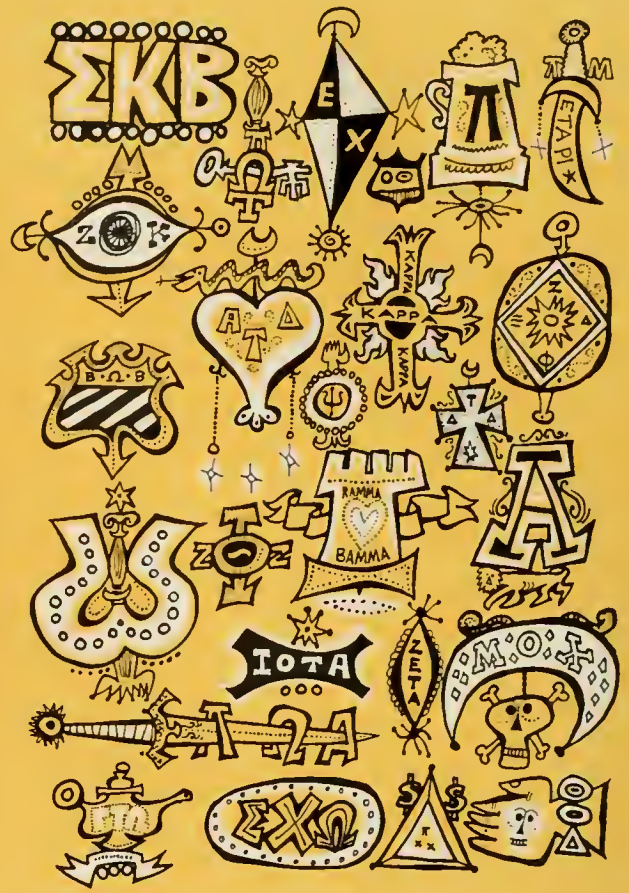

Yells, songs, and stunt routines were featured along the last lap to the polls down Kerckhoff path where voters were defeated by the loud roar of campus thunder.

Careful attention to song words and extra-loud singing voices were campaign requirements during an election week in which everyone, even brother Bruin, got into the act.

PANHELLENIC COUNCIL

Chapter officers were honored guests at the weekend convention which highlighted the Panhellenic year and attempted to increase the already growing spirit of cooperation among the local chapters. This coordinating organization of the twenty-three national sororities at UCLA guided a stimulating program of activities, aided by administrator Carrita Connors. Recently Panhellenic innovated a vital, enthusiastic junior panhellenic so that sorority pledges might become better acquainted. Alice Hall, second vice-president, and Beverly Nemer and Lynn Avedon, past junior panhellenic presidents, supervised the program of this junior council. On the philanthropic side Panhellenic presented a spring benefit which took a different form this year. Houses were opened to the campus for bridge and canasta tournaments, and proceeds went into a two-hundred-dollar scholarship awarded to a non-Panhellenic woman each year and to the two-hundred-dollar yearly contribution to Dean Rhulman's loan and gift fund. Efficiently guiding the council through the year were officers Pat McKenna, president; Norma Jean Nelson, first vice-president; Alice Hall, second vice-president; Janet Samuelson, treasurer and executive secretary; and Pam Marshall, secretary.

Regulating sorority social and rush activities and determining UCLA sorority policy and standards were Panhellenic officers and administrators, left to right: CARRITA CONNORS, JANET SAMUELSON, NORMA JEAN NELSON, and ALICE HALL.

ALPHA CHI OMEGA

Caught in the social whirl, the Alpha Chi Omegas, last fall, stepped into the spotlight with their Embassy Ball, given in conjunction with Sigma Chi. A Manhattan Serenade pledge dance, the Spring Formal, pinnings, serenades and exchanges helped to spark the '49-'50 year for the Alpha Chi's, and recognition came their way as many members of campus honor groups were chosen from Alpha Chi ranks. In Key and Scroll were Nancy Holmblad, Margaret Kester, and Sharla Perrine, and in Spurs were Stuart McKenna and Mary Lou Robeson. Chris Christensen, vice-prexy of the Sophomore Class, shared honors with Vice-president of the Senior Class Jackie Wagoner. Leading the "Y" activities were Vice-president Margie Kester and Secretary Helen Anderson, and Beverly La Chance served as chairman of the Red Cross Motor Corps. The SOUTHERN CAMPUS couldn't have gone to press without the efficient work of Char Weiss, associate editor, who with Kathy Schumann, president of the house, encouraged Alpha Chi's in service to UCLA.

Showing off their strength and muscles, as well as their well-known vim and vigor, Alpha Chis proved to the fellows that they, too, could build a human pyramid on the sands of Sorrento.

Alpha Chis had trouble keeping tab on all KATHY SCHUMANN'S dates. There were so many of them. The competent prexy's future plans included teaching the 3 R's to little kiddies.

This year, ADPi's of all the California chapters celebrated their first California Day, and in April, ADPi, first among college sororities, commemorated its Silver Anniversary. Renowned of ADPi dances was the Annual Diamond Ball, but equally enjoyed were an initiation dance and a Christmas party. ADPi queens included petite Helen Rokos, honorary major of Scabbard and Blade. Key and Scroll Pat Ballinger was UN Association Chairman and Lenore Riegel was in Spurs. Lyn Hicks headed the California delegation to the UN Institute, and Virginia Zorotovich and Joy Wyss were Copy Editors of Southern Campus. Soph Council Open-House Chairman was ADPi Pat Clair, and Barbara Babcock and Yvonne Holt were Decoration Committee Chairmen of Senior and Freshmen Classes, respectively. President Mickey Walker was chosen for Permanent Senior Council. In the spring, President Shirley Rundquist announced commencement of construction on a new wing to the house which would make it the row's largest.

ALPHA DELTA PI

"Bear Foe Pas, Bruin Mardi Gras" . . . ADPi's let off some of their well-known energy and spirit while decorating their colorful animated float for the annual homecoming parade.

Popular MICKEY WALKER topped a success career in Kerckhoff activities with the house presidency, which was enjoyed by both Mickey and her many Alpha Delta Pi sisters.

ALPHA EPSILON PHI

AEPhi's took advantage of their patio and the warm sun to plan their busy social calendar. Here they developed a fresh slant on parties, exchanges and dances.

Commemorating twenty-five years on campus, AEPhi members celebrated 'til the early hours at a Silver Jubilee Dance, and spent other free evenings at pledge formals, exchanges, and serenades. The AEPhi's were proud of Louise Kosches, Mortar Board president, and of Janet Samuelson, secretary of the Junior Class and treasurer of Panhellenic. Nancy Lee Roth was chairman of the World Student Service Fund Drive and vice-chairman of I Board, and Joan Sebel was a UCLA song leader. "Wearers of the Spur" were Beverly Nemer and Shirley Segal, and Enid Franklin was a member of Key and Scroll. Troll Marilyn Kleinberg and Phyllis Horowitz, Hi Jinx publicity chairman, kept things lively at the house. AEPhi won second prize in the Hillel Vaudeville Show and nabbed the Hi Jinx award for the most original skit of Women's Week. Being pinned didn't deter Gerrie Sachs from keeping an eye on the group while she was president.

AEPhi President GERALDINE SACHS wanted to meet other people on campus, so she chose Bus Ad as her major. Her magnetic personality was an appreciated addition to the department.

With his traditional bundle of packages, down the chimney came Santa in the middle of the Alpha Gam Christmas party adding to the gaiety and fun with his comical antics as he handed out gifts.

It was fortunate for the Alpha Gams that MARION STEELE, Palo Alto girl, bypassed Stanford for UCLA. Marion has served the Alpha Gams as prexy and managed an art major as well.

ALPHA GAMMA DELTA

Crossing off the calendar dates in a carnival of activities and parties, Alpha Gamma Delta, headed by President Marion Steele, scored a high record in campus and Hilgard affairs this year. The social whirl caught them up in a swirl of water pourings and candy passings and resulting patio serenades. In the spring the fathers' banquet, the mothers' luncheon and the annual chapter formal climaxed an enjoyable year. Holding key positions in class activities were Jeanne McCaffrey, Sophomore class secretary, and Norma Yingling, Junior Class representative to Inter-class Council Board. Displaying the emblem of Spurs, Margie Kesjar was Sophomore Class decoration chairman, and in Panhellenic affairs, Pat McKenna, president, wielded an effective gavel, while Betty Crocker and Helen Hall were active in AWS.

What a life . . . an annual event for the Alpha Delta Chi's is their chapter picnic. Each year the girls have a chance to leave the local surroundings of books and classes, while they enjoy a picnic lunch under shady trees. As usual the girls had party guests . . . ants to be exact.

ALPHA DELTA CHI

Peppy JEAN BRODAHL has planned a lively year for the Alpha Delta Chi's, and she's been a busy gal herself, doing practice teaching while leading the organization.

Congratulations went to Alpha Delta Chi this year on the celebration of its silver anniversary. Stressing its purpose of loyalty and active service to Christ, the Alpha chapter of Alpha Delta Chi was founded at UCLA in the fall of 1925. The ADChi's are active in campus affairs, especially in Inter-arsity Christian Fellowship, a UCLA Christian missionary work, raising a scholarship fund for girls in the active chapters, and collecting a building fund for an ADChi house. Led by presidents Jean Brodahl and Dorothy Walker, the group planned numerous unique parties such as the Christmas Holly Daze formal and a snow trip to Crestline over the Christmas vacation.

President ELEANOR ROSEMOND won many friends by the charm of her smile and her gracious personality. A long list of successful events for the year attested to her leadership ability.

Strains of the "Mighty Bruin Bear" rang through their halls as the Alpha Kappas sang school songs at an enchilada supper given to orientate newcomers to campus traditions and activities. Founded in 1908, Alpha Kappa Alpha chose as its purpose the encouragement of high scholastic and ethical standards. This year the members celebrated their forty-second Founder's Day anniversary. The UCLA and University of Southern California chapters jointly entertained the national officers at a banquet given for the occasion. Featured in their year's social plans was the Backwards Dance at which "Ladies Choice" was the order of the evening. Directing activities for AKA were Eleanor Rosemond, president, and Waldena Hefflin, vice-president.

Relaxing from the rush of campus activities, the Alpha Kappa's gathered on Kerckhoff's patio for short sessions of seriousness and fun before returning to their long afternoon classes and study periods in the library.

ALPHA OMICRON PI

Participating actively in many campus events, the Alpha Omicron Pi's invited Bruins to AOPi-Theta Xi all-campus open house after the Oregon football game. During Men's Week they presented another all-university open house co-sponsored by the girls of Hershey Hall, and Spring brought April and the traditional Candlelight Ball. Activity minded girls were led by able presidents Joan Creagh and Patricia Swanner. Prominent in the halls of Kerckhoff was Jack-of-All-Talent Betty Sullivan, who counted Hi Jinks chairmanship and University Recreation Association publicity chairmanship among her many laurels, and pride of the house was Alpha Lambda Delta Elizabeth Krieger who, in addition to keeping the AOPi grade average high, was AWS dean's coffee hour chairman and a member of AWS associate board. Marguerite Mossler helped to bring the gaiety and splendor of New Orleans to campus as Mardi-Gras co-chairman . . . she was also AWS activity banquet assistant, and Pat Olson Browne chairmanned URA activities and held a top position on SEC.

JANE HIGGINS led the Alpha Phi's in a never-to-be-forgotten semester of fun and activity. Besides Alpha Phi, Jane's interests at UCLA are centered around interior decoration problems.

Dressed in jailbird stripes, sarongs, etcetera, Alpha Phis started off the year's party time with their Suppressed Desires Ball given with the USC chapter at the Bel-Air Bay Club. A roaring time was had by all at the Break Your New Year's Resolution party . . . even by the pledges who, with the Theta Deltas, broke their resolutions and presented a Black and Blue party to which everyone came and left black and blue. Socially minded Alpha Phis did a quick change from these hilarious get-togethers with their Initiation Formal at the Ocean House and Christmas Formal with the Kappa Sigs. Sorority sisters were led by Presidents, Jane Higgins and Joan Hornbrook. On campus capable Dorothy Wright took the lead as UCLA's Student Body Vice-President. Sue Parmenter was secretary of the freshman class, and twins, Joey and Janey Pope, were song leaders during the football-basketball season. Trolls were livened by unworthies Gloria Hyde and Dotty Wright, while the sophomores provided a seven girl representation in Spurs.

ALPHA PHI

Always a highlight for any sorority house is the annual Initiation Dance. The event climaxed a semester of pledging for Alpha Phi fledglings and was a source of joy to the actives who welcomed them into the active chapter.

All the fun and excitement of a ski lodge was brought to the Alpha Xi Deltas by their Mountain Moods pledge dance held at the chapter house. Alpha Xi's and dates also enjoyed their fall informal at the Country Club Hotel, and gathered at the Palm Room of the Miramar Hotel for their Spring Anniversary Formal celebrating the chapter's twenty-sixth year on campus. Familiar faces around Kerchoff Hall were Edna Reddington and Pat Powers, Spurs; and Vivien Webb and Jean Martin, Key and Scrollers. Prize girl of the house was Barbara Roush, who became Associated Women Students' vice-president and orientation chairman. Nancy Holmes did a tip-top job as president of Pi Delta Epsilon, journalism honorary, and Vivien Webb devoted many hours of work to the Activity Banquet and the Doll Committee. Craziest people in the house were Trolls Kathy Fork and Barbara Rechs who shared the house gavel with Lynn Huber.

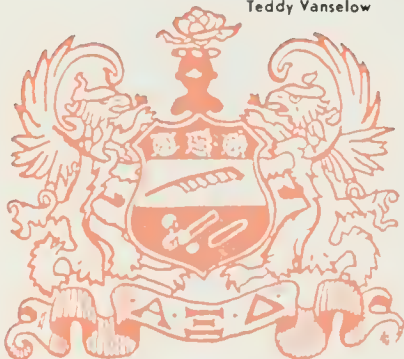

Sailboats and Balboa Bay lured vivacious prexy BARBARA RECHS southward, as text books were conveniently forgotten. Her pin and president's gavel were accompanied by a Delta Sig pin.

Cute tricks, card tricks, and practical tricks were trump to make Monday nights, before and after meetings, times of fun and frolic for everyone at the Alpha Xi house.

ALPHA SIGMA ALPHA

Celebrating their second year on campus, Alpha Sigma Alpha entered the social swing with a myriad of activities. Their Founders' Day Dinner was planned with the Los Angeles Alumnae at Gourmet's in Beverly Hills. Other big affairs included a Christmas Party, Valentine Day Dinner, Olivera Street visit, Mother-Daughters Tea, and the annual chapter post mortem dance. Many of the girls spent their spare time on philanthropic projects participating in the campus Red Cross, and making dolls for the Children's Hospital. Activity girls were Elaine Mirsky, orientation committee chairman and house president Pat Tralle, Education Club executive.

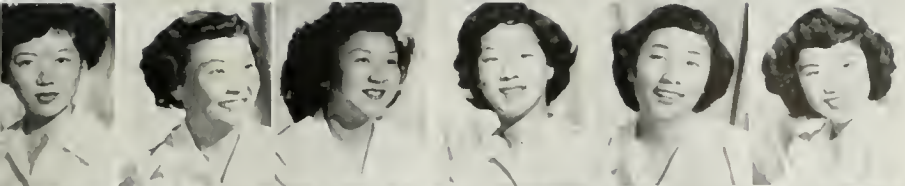

Loaded with portables, cokes, and the usual paraphernalia, Alpha Sigma Alpha's picked a strategic spot to park for a day of fun and sun when they held their beach party at Lido Isle.

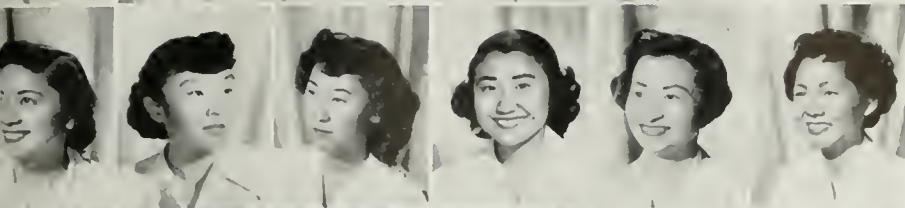

Knit one pull two was the motto of PAT TRALLE, whose lucky boy-friends received loads of argyles and sweaters during her year as Alpha Sigma Alpha president.

CHI ALPHA DELTA

Playing Santa Claus to the soldiers at Birmingham Hospital, the Chi Alpha Deltas arrived carrying gifts for the veterans and helped bring a holiday atmosphere to the wards. Major philanthropic projects were the sending of aid to Japan and campus activities such as the Red Cross and the AWS Christmas doll contest. Fall pledges were presented at a banquet at Eaton's in October and the girls held their formal initiation in March at Kerckhoff Hall. The annual Charter Day banquet was climaxed by the presentation of the outstanding senior to the group. Later the girls enjoyed a weekend at Lake Arrowhead between semesters.

Gathering at their usual meeting place on the top of Janss Steps, the Chi Alpha Delta's stopped between classes for friendly hello's and last minute cramming before important exams.

CHI OMEGA

Dancing to the strains of "Beautiful Kappa Sig Dream Girl" were the Chi Omegas at their traditional Cardinal and Crescent Ball presented with Kappa Sigma. Pledges of Chi Omega and Phi Delta Theta joined forces in the spring to present a party to which couples were admitted by password only. Sponsoring two booming open houses, the Chi O's were rewarded with a trophy for their decorations in the Junior Prom open house contest. A sophisticated date dinner along with numerous exchanges and serenades have kept the Chi Omegas active. Rushing back and forth between the campus and the Y was Ann Harvey, editor of the YWCA paper while B. J. Atwood, Y Cabinet publicity chairman, helped her. Making news were Spur Marilyn Carver and Alpha Lambda Delta Carol Hemborg, who was a Key and Scroll member and active on So. Campus. Scabbard and Blade discovered cute June Hollingshead and selected her to be Queen of their annual ball. Leading the Chi Omegas through this whirl of activities were Presidents Jackie Boone and Adele Flynn.

Popular JACKIE BOONE, leader of the Chi O clan, seemed to donate all her spare time to the writing of poetry and songs for the house; and to pinnee, George Mefford, Fiji.

DELTA DELTA DELTA

Shining in campus affairs, the Tri Deltas danced under the "Stars and Crescent" at their annual ball for the spring initiates in cooperation with the University of Southern California chapter. In the spring at the traditional Pansy Ring breakfast, they honored senior women who announced engagements or marriages of the past year as they stepped through the beautiful floral ring. Activity lights shone on Spurs Marilyn Lindsay, who was also Honor & Service Division Editor of the Southern Campus staff, Janice Brown, Laurie Scott, Marilyn Metz and Toby Hale. Mary Ann Westcott made news in Key & Scroll, while Mortar Board boasted President Betty Stauffer, Mary Lou McCann, Evelyn Mann, Ruth Nelson and Virginia Nelson. In the line of beauty, Jayne Cosgrave took honors as sophomore attendant to the Homecoming Queen, and Jan Schmidt as a Princess at the Junior Prom. Keeping the Stars and Crescent glowing were Betty Stauffer and Mary Margaret Freeman, Presidents; and Cappie Roberts and Jackie Weybright kept dances and the many serenades running smoothly, as house social chairmen.

BETTY STAUFFER, philosophy major and Tri Delt prexy, was distracted from the theories of John Locke, long dead and gone, by a very much alive Fiji out Occidental way.

DELTA GAMMA

Everyone turned out in his best bib and tucker and to enjoy the dreamy formal, attended en masse by Delta Gamma's and their dates . . . a high point in the year's social activities.

ELLEN SLYH kept the Dee Gee's on their toes last year. The pixy orexy always did the unexpected . . . including hula lessons in preparation for a summer excursion to Hawaii.

After sailing high on the social seas with the well-known Delt-Dee Gee Annual Ball held in the fall at the Miramar Hotel, the Delta Gammas traveled this spring to the Beverly Hills Club for their famous Anchor Dance given in conjunction with the University of Southern California chapter. ASUCLA saluted Sally Kieffer, Mortar Board vice-president, and Spurs Carla Wells, Diana Davies, and Joan Giaver. Popular in Kerckhoff Hall was activity-minded Rep-at-large Kathy Holser, and pride of DG's was Freshman Class vice-president, Dee Daniels, who was also selected to be a song leader during football season. The Delt Gammas took Homecoming honors with Mary Bretthauer, freshman attendant, and Pauline Nelson, senior attendant to the Homecoming queen. Pauline was also Theta Chi Dream Girl of 1949. Under command of Ellen Slyh and Phyllis Carlson, presidents, the DG's have sailed smoothly both socially and academically.

JANET ELLIOTT's term of presidency was a busy one for the Delta Zetas, and for their vivacious prexy as well. Jan also managed a history major and a swimming hobby.

The door is always open for a good time and plenty of "southern hospitality" at the Delta Zeta house. Two high spots of the year for the DZ's were the election-open-house for the students on campus and the St. Patrick's Day open house for all sorority and fraternity pledges. Of a more romantic nature were the Delta Zetas' Mistletoe Magic Winter Dance at the Beverly Wilshire Hotel in the fall semester and a Moonlight Mood Spring Formal at Ciro's during the spring semester. Many of the girls devoted their time to various school activities. Nadine Lang was active in Key and Scroll while Joan Hannum and Lorna Hughes were in Spurs. Sally Jaggard and Barbara Slack were president and vice-president respectively of Phi Chi Theta, business administration sorority. Ethyl Dwyer was the president of the librarian honorary and Dolores Smith was active in Phi Beta, music honorary, and Meredith Olson was a member of Delta Epsilon, art honorary.

"Just push her in a corner" was one of the many tunes strummed on the DZ's ukes as the girls and their dates enjoyed many good times in their spacious California garden.

Celebrating the seventy-fifth anniversary of their sorority's founding, the Gamma Phi Betas planned a year of wonderful activities to remember. Opening the fall semester was the Crescent dance which was followed soon by a date dinner "Broadway After Dark." Thursday afternoon teas to which the "gals" asked their "fellas" were a big success. At Junior Prom time, the Gamma Phis sponsored an open house along with "Great Lovers" Phi Deltas, Phi Kaps, and Theta Deltas. Smoothly social was their Spring Orchid Ball in the Crystal Room of the Beverly Hills Hotel. In and out of Kerckhoff was AWS Rep-at-large Mary Anna Muckerhirm, Key and Scroll. Spur Carol Alles did her bit to keep the sophomores busy in activities, and Shirley Adair painted for AWS and YWCA in her capacity as poster chairman. Marilyn Hopkirk was Recs chairman and Pat Monahan was major for Scabbard and Blade. Presidents were Mary Jane Winterhalter and Georgeanne Wherry.

'Twas the night of the Gamma Phi's
Slumber party and all through the house creatures were stirring and pillows were flying until many weary people crept off for a little shut-eye.

Talking over their dates, good times and snap courses, Thetas took a break from the usual humdrum of campus life by relaxing for a few minutes in their spacious patio.

Popular PAULA HENDERSON proved a competent president for the Thetas. After February graduation she accepted a music supervisorship in the city of Riverside.

KAPPA ALPHA THETA

One of the busiest houses on the row this year was Kappa Alpha Theta, with studying, school activities, and social outings taking most of the girls' time. Two major social events for the Thetas in the fall semester were the pledge-active dance at the Gaylor Hotel and the Theta-Fiji Christmas dance at the Country Club Hotel. Skiing seemed to be the favorite pastime for the Thetas and the girls planned many snow trips to Snow Valley, Mammoth and Squaw Valley. Quite a few active Thetas were in the campus spotlight this year, including Betty Baker, president of the Red Cross; Joyce Lampman, public relations secretary for Panhellenic; and Joy and Beverly Dixon, well-known Trolls. Bev Dixon was also a member of Cal Club and rep-at-large for Campus Theater. Rita Kirby served as the capable president of Spurs helped by sister Jean Lawrence, while Joy Bullard wielded the gavel for members of Key and Scroll, including sister Deborah Bouquet. Pert and popular Molly Cosgrave delighted everyone by being chosen both Freshman Queen and queen of the Sigma Nu White Rose Formal.

Kappa Delta's newly decorated house was the scene of many gay campus parties this year. KD's and Alpha Chi's co-sponsored the open house during Men's Week, which was awarded a cup for being the best party of the evening. The annual Christmas open house was its usual booming success, while their beer bust, co-sponsored with the Delts, during frosh elections, also was very popular. On the milder side of the social activities were a Thanksgiving date dinner, a Penthouse party staged by the actives, and the hilarious costume party given by the pledges. The group also nabbed second place in the Women's Division of the Spring Sing. Strictly sophisticated was their traditional Dagger formal held in conjunction with the SC chapter. Donating time in another field were Spurs Jacque Volpp and Marilyn Lowery. Presidents for the year were Bunny Wilky and Nannette Sullivan.

KAPPA DELTA

VIRGINIA WILKY, known as "bright eyes" to her intimate acquaintances, led the KD's in the fall semester. She has a mad passion for the beach and any type of dancing to the quaint, but quick tunes of the accordion.

Keyed up to the high pitch, the Kappa Delts gave out with a medley for blues to do themselves proud by winning second place in the women's division of the Spring Sing finals held at the Hollywood Bowl . . . all their efforts were worth the time and toil.

Kappa Kappa Gamma made the 1949-1950 campus year one of their most active on record. Several of the outstanding social affairs for the Kappas included the Beta-Kappa Formal at the San Fernando Valley Country Club in December, and the annual Kappa-Fiji formal in May. The girls also held two formal initiation dances in October and in April. Other parties well attended were the traditional Junior Prom Open House, held jointly with Hershey Hall, and the Kappa breakfast on the Sunday following the SC-UCLA football game. Campus boomers found in the Kappa ranks included Spurs Gingie Hall, who was also chairman of Red Cross Productions; and Rally Committee secretary Marcia Tucker, who was also Southern Campus Organizations editor and member of Pi Delta Epsilon, journalism honorary; and Trudy Haupt, recording secretary for Rally. Shell and Oar members included Happy Jeffs, treasurer; Barbara Taylor and Kathy Dinsmore. Joyce Miller was a member of Symphony Forum during the year and Susie Peyton served as Frosh Decorations committee chairman.

Vivacious JEANNE GIBSON ambitiously combined swimming, singing and an English major with capable leadership. The active prexy planned on a summer tour of the Continent.

The twenties roared and so did the guests when the Kappas flew 'round in their flivvers at the "Roaring Twenties" party . . . complete with Johnson rag and Charleston.

PHI MU

All work and no play would be a horrible fate, decided the Phi Mu's, as they planned an activity-filled year. A dreamy winter formal, the "Snow Ball," was presented at the Beverly Hills Hotel for the chapter members and alums. Phi Mu's and their dates became unique walking records for the Record Jamboree at their chapter house. At Christmas time, pledges played Santa Claus for the actives at a festive Christmas dance. Phi Mu's rounded out the season with a carousel of exchanges and informal parties and when activity time rolled around Phi Mu's also put out an outstanding group. Sophomores Dorothy Aegerter and Joyce Sheets became Spurs, while Mary Horn, a member of Key and Scroll, was the Student-Faculty Committee Executive Secretary and Junior Class Open-house Chairman. Gloria Page was active as ASUCLA Orientation Committee Executive Secretary, while Carol Castellaw, active in YWCA affairs, became a member of the "Y" Cabinet. Directing the fun were Presidents Gloria Page and Mary Horn.

Thumbs up, thumbs down . . . Phi Mu's displayed their charm and thumbs in an effort to hitch a ride to "ole Sorrento" for a day of sun, fun and hum to the strumming of ukes by the usual beach characters. The summer weather during finals caused this scene to be repeated many times.

Baseball, volleyball, and tennis were all favorites of GLORIA PAGE. The able Phi Mu prexy intended to teach physical education some time in the future after her Bruin graduation.

Only "odd balls" on the sorority row during rush week were the Phi Sigma Sigmas, because they presented a hilarious masquerade party complete with stunts and odd costumes for the rushees. Such a break from the usual routine of rushing was just the thing to liven the afternoon sessions.

PHI SIGMA SIGMA

Pledge parties for Phi Sigma Sigma activities spiced the year's activities with imaginative themes. The fall party was called "Santa's Toyshop" and was attended by an assortment of fire engines, dolls, and snowmen. The spring semester pledges gave a gay "Maypole" party. Also on the social calendar, along with coffee hours open to the campus every fourth Friday, was the annual Siggys Circus. A charity affair, proceeds going to the national charity rheumatic fever, it transformed the house into a carnival grounds, complete with games, magicians, clowns, and sideshows. Formal dances honored the pledges at the Terrace Room of the Beverly Wilshire Hotel in the fall, and at the Bel Air Hotel in the spring. Hillel claimed a portion of the Phi Sig's time, as for the second consecutive year they won first place in the Hillel Vaud show, the Hillel Cooperation Cup, and the Activity Cup. Along with their busy social life, Phi Sigma Sigma's found time to be active in campus affairs. Gerry Ross was a member of the Senior Council; Lynn Avedon was the first president of Junior Pan Hellenic; Cookie Schreiber, Phi Chi Theta, Women's National Business Honorary, was vice president of Cosmos at the YWCA; and Sonja Levin was night editor and exchange editor of the Daily Bruin. Heading the Phi Sig's were presidents Sheila Goldring and Lee Brandt.

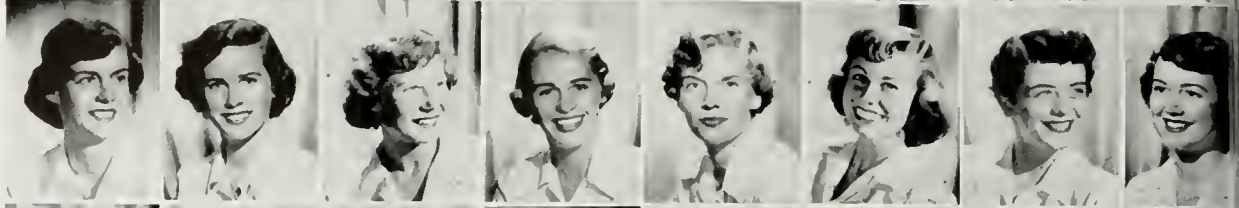

Graduation bells tolled the end of a successful and eventful UCLA career for prexy SHEILA GOLDRING. She has traded her history books for a June marriage and a Chicago residence.

Pi Phi's and their dates relaxed to enjoy a never-to-be-forgotten evening of dreamy music and fun at their sparkling formal, one of the outstanding events on the Pi Phi calendar. The event was held at the Mayfair Room of the Beverly-Wilshire.

PI BETA PHI

Pi Phi Arrows pointed the way toward many successes for their wearers throughout the year. Exciting events were begun by the reigning of Lucky O'Keefe as the 1949 Homecoming Queen followed by Joyce Felson as Junior Prom Queen, Allyn Smith as Sophomore Sweetheart, and Sandy Crest as Sigma Nu White Rose Queen attendant. Other Pi Phi's in the campus spotlight were Smiley Cook, vice-president of the Junior Class and Cal Club member along with Lucky O' Keefe; Jackie Yarborough, Mortar Board; Spurs Audrey Somers, Marilyn Jones, and Peggy Burbank, section editor of the SOUTHERN CAMPUS along with Claire Jackson. Socially the Pi Phi's missed nothing, Yuletide spirit prevailed at the Pi Phi-Beta Open House while formals were shown at the Golden Arrow Dance and the Delta Ball. "Pi Phi Misses" cheered as the whirlwind year was climaxed by the winning of the Spring Sing for the fourth time in six years.

Strains of "Five foot two, eyes of blue" and a charleston routine add up to MARYLYN MANVILLE. The popular and energetic prexy took a trip to the altar and is now Mrs. Emory.

The big event of the year for Sigma Delta Taus was the move into their new house last September. Fall rushees caught the girls putting on the finishing touches, but all was in readiness soon for their first party which honored the new pledges. The theme was Crime and Vice, with the house completely transformed into a gangster hideout. Then turning the tables, the pledges gave the actives a Wizard of Oz party. Winter arrived, signalling the season for the annual Wintergarten Formal at which the pledge awards were presented. In activities, guiding lights were Beverly Stern, house prexy, who took part in Shell & Oar, and Lennie Rilander, active as Daily Bruin Associate Editor and member of PiDE journalism honorary. Connie Abrams along with sister Selma Grossman and Ann Parnas were tapped for Spurs.

SIGMA DELTA TAU

Wedding bells waited for BEVERLY STERN as she finished her final year at UCLA. The energetic president combined a Spanish major with an interest in bowling and swimming.

The girls of Sigma Delta Tau and their dates enjoyed formal affairs during the spring and fall. Led by Beverly Stern the SDT's had a booming year filled with such top social gatherings.

Smooth music and good entertainment were features of Sigma Delta Tau formals, favorites with both girls and beaux whose sambas, rumbas, and table socializing were captured by the wandering photographer.

Beginning ye old calendar in the top of fashion, the Sigma Kappas had their annual initiation Violet Ball at the Bel Air Hotel. "Ye Old Alfalfa Rag," a dance and hayride given by the pledges, was a big affair for everyone concerned. And the day was bright and the countryside beautiful when the Sigma Kappas held their Father-Daughter picnic at Griffith Park. Later in the semester the actives gave a "South Sea Island" party for the pledges. Scattered hither and thither were exchanges and other parties that really made the year full of fun for the girls. In fine fashion the Sigma Kappas walked off with the grand sweep-stake award in the AWS Doll contest, and also claimed a third prize with their Homecoming float. Presidents of Sigma Kappa house were active lassies Nancy Bernt and Katherine Kluthe. Spurs representing the members were Evelyn Taylor and Marjorie Draper. Marge was also active in YWCA activities. Jean Valentine did a capable job as OCB Welfare Board representative and also chairman of the Student Library Committee.

Preparing for a trip to the altar in August Sigma Kappa President NANCY BERNT learned the domestic art of cooking in her home economic classes. and treated friends to special dishes.

SIGMA KAPPA

It happens every year . . . the Sigma Kappa's load up a wagon with hay, men, and they are off for their annual hay ride. This event often brings back a touch of the "old west" to these modern sorority girls. After the ride is over the group journeys to a campfire to wind up the soiree.

Members of Delta Sigma Theta caught up on all the latest house news or else planned the activities of the coming week-end during many between class breaks such as this one. With such an active year this group had loads to talk about.

Prexy JANEZ LAWSON relaxes from her study of Chemical Engineering . . . a difficult major for any student . . . by several rounds of ping pong. She's really a champ.

"Put another nickel in" intermingled with strains from "My Foolish Heart" filled the Theta Phi Alpha house with "Music, Music, Music" at platter parties which kept the girls spinning all year.

Clowning through a year of fun and frolic, the Theta Phi Alphas' big social events of the year included the beautiful "Sapphire Ball" held at the Bel-Air Hotel. An "After the Ball Is Over" party was planned in honor of the new pledges. To even the game the pledges gave a scrumptious dinner party for the actives. Theta Phi Alpha honored Bishop McGucken with the traditional Bishop's Party. And since all graduating seniors were in the spotlight anyway, the Theta Phi Alphas presented them with the annual Senior Spread. Their grand finale was the "Final Fling" party given to celebrate the end of school. Barker of the Theta Phi Alpha carnival was Carol Rondeau, who kept the show on the road.

It looked like the ZTA's were going to bed, when a pajamerino broke loose. The gals saw spots, stripes, and all sorts of odd things before their eyes. Could it have been from the pajamas?

ZETA TAU ALPHA

Zeta Tau Alpha sailed their ship smoothly through the year with many gala parties held on board. Sophisticated social was the traditional White Violet Ball, arranged in conjunction with the SC Chapter at the Beverly Wilshire Hotel. The "Sock Hop," given by the pledges in honor of the actives, gave guests a big opportunity to give their loudest socks a little wear and tear. A Waterfront Cabaret Dance brought all hands on deck to an evening of fun and excitement. Captains of the ZTA Crew were Gracie McNemer and Martha Hitchcock, who steered the girls through a year of fun. Grades took the place of knots per hour in the race for Panhellenic Scholarship Cup and, with the ZTA's placing first, UCLA saluted a snappy crew.

Prexy GRACE McNEMER decorated the ZTA house with her "funny bunnies." She and an Alpha Sig from Cal planned a September trip down the aisle to the tune of "Here Comes the Bride."

THETA UPSILON

Tea Dances—including tea and all, premiered Theta Upsilon's social season. Dancing with dates in the early evening, was followed by buffet supper for all. After this good example, the pledges turned the house into a hobo heaven and honored the actives with a hard times party. Christmas formal time found the house transformed again, but this time into a Winter Wonderland where couples dreamed and danced to the music of Don Trimmer and his orchestra. The hayride that the pledges gave the actives was also one of the well remembered events of the year. But the climax was the annual Iris Ball in spring at the Bell Air Hotel. Where could one find a more beautiful setting for a spring formal? Activity spotlights shown on Theta U president Virginia Logue and vice president Joyce Beak who were members of the senior class council. Also active were Paula Longacre and Ann Paulson who added their bit to the Mighty Bruin Band.

At the bottom of the sorority row sits the Theta Upsilon house. Its residents had a busy year trying to attend all the football rallies, election parades, and all-u-sings . . . in addition to going to classes five days out of every week.

Capable Theta U President VIRGINIA LOGUE planned to teach in September, and also hoped to undertake juvenile social work as one of her many and varied avocations.

GREEK INFORMALS

Junior Prom night was the big night of the season for third year Bruins, and preparations required much thought, care and time, and occasional aid from a sorority sister.

After weeks of planning, the Inter-Fraternity Council dance was a smash success for officers JIM WALKER, president; DICK DICKEY, vice-president; and KEN KARST, executive secretary.

Parties are fun and the beach is fine, but when the prof announces an exam all men report for duty at the study table . . . at least long enough to pull a C's worth on to their bluebooks.

Women's week brought with it the presentation of many awards to outstanding living groups on campus. Ceremonies were presented in the Masonic Club by members of Women's honoraries.

A new idea on campus with potential savings for living groups was the co-operative buying association, a voluntary organization for food and household supply buying.

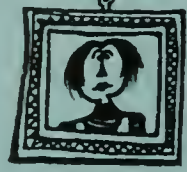

Fraters and sorors of the twin Greek Rows that border UCLA pledge their loyalty to their country, school and fraternity upon initiation. The results of their vows are evident in the plethora of activities in which they participate and originate. From the vast support given to Homecoming by their float entries and reunion parties to the charity and blood donor drives, and to their great school spirit all through the year till the last of finals, the fraternities and sororities serve to complement the academic and extra-curricular activity sides of Southern California school life. Thirty-eight fraternities and 29 sororities have recognition at UCLA. Their membership may be said to contain a good cross-section of the campus population, who have banded together with vows of undying fraternal brotherhood for the common purpose of making the best possible use of four years in college. About every fifth person at UCLA is affiliated with a social Greek living group. With the exception of "closed" weekends every Friday and Saturday finds the rows ablaze with party lights for social life is an integral part of both the sororities' Hilgard avenue and the fraternities' Gayley avenue. But an even larger and more important part is the work of the individual members combined with the efforts of their entire organizations in learning how to live in society as better men and women.

INTER-FRATERNITY COUNCIL

An active contributor to good student government and better student-faculty relations is UCLA's interfraternity council, which consists of the presidents of all recognized fraternities on campus. The president of IFC this last year was Jim Walker; the vice-president was Dick Dickey. Mel Kaufmann served as treasurer, and Gordon Flett was the executive secretary of the group. The Fraternity Front, a periodical discussing the news of the day in the fraternity world, was published by IFC and edited by the executive secretary. Off to a great start as sponsors of the Faculty Tea, the IFC along the same line created opportunity for better student-faculty relations by providing the hosts and hostesses for the President's Reception. IFC gave needed support to the homecoming activities and sponsored the Interfraternity Informal at the Casino Gardens. Taking part in the Santa Barbara Weekend, a conference of fall fraternity presidents, the men discussed fraternity relations on the campus. Proof of their concern for the welfare of the university was their aid in the opening of the Bruin Cooperative Purchasing Association and their support of the Red Cross blood drive. Participation was also given in the Spring Sing and the Christmas parties for underprivileged children.

JIM WALKER presided over the monthly meetings of the Inter-fraternity Council. These gatherings of all fraternity presidents helped solve many of the problems confronting the system at UCLA and also aided the many houses in becoming a well organized and unified group.

BOB SCHLEMMER, capable Acacia Prexy, liked to hustle his fraternity in every activity that it entered. Outstanding achievement of the house was the acquiring of a campus residence on sorority row . . . very convenient, indeed.

ACACIA

JOE HOOK's cabin at Running Springs near Arrowhead was the scene of a fabulous snow party for the Acacia brothers who "got away from it all" for two-days of skiing, sledding and having a general "lost week-end."

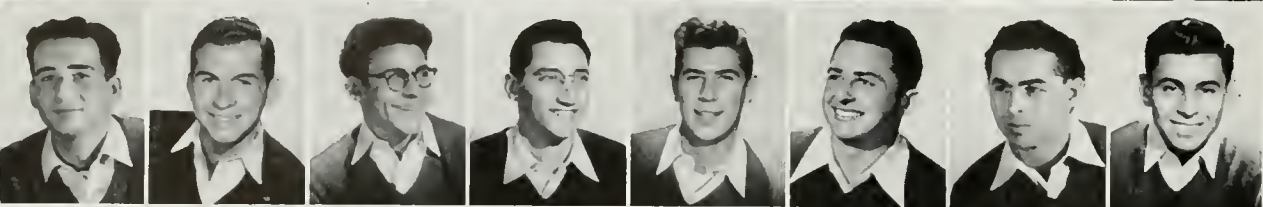

Acacia Fraternity moved on to bigger and better things this year, not only into a bigger house, but one right on sorority row. The process of moving didn't slow down the Acacias. Their annual dance, the Fools' Frolics, was a gala affair and fabulous costumes were the order of the evening. The boys also demanded costumes for their Egyptian dance, Night on the Nile. Robert Schlemmer led his group in this active social season which also included a picnic with the ZTA's. Acacia Fraternity boasts quite a few officers in the ROTC. Robert Schlemmer was commanding officer of the ROTC at UCLA, and Charles Connet and Cletus Stirewalt were Lieutenants. Athletic brothers included Allen Granada and Everett Mann members of the varsity fencing team, and Richard Smith big man on the varsity rugby team. Pat Waddell showed great promise on the courts as a future tennis star. Orientation would not have been the same without the efforts of Bob Shaw, not only Orientation Chairman, but also Chairman of the All-U Open House.

Members of Alpha Epsilon Pi were supporters of the annual Inter-fraternity dance and all other social functions held at UCLA during the spring and fall semesters.

Highlights of Alpha Epsilon Pi's social year included a Santa Claus Ball and a formal dance for their new initiates. The climax of the fall term was a gala New Year's Eve party given by the Alumni Club for the UCLA, Cal, and SC chapters. House "wheels" included president Frank Feiler, Gold Key member; Dave Lazarowitz, who was active in NSA, and Marv Deizberg, a Yeoman. Marv Holen boomed on the Student Council and Gene Knopoff helped run social programs for first the Freshman and then the Sophomore Class Councils. "Master" Frank Feiler led the boys through an eventful year during which he also served as secretary of Inter-fraternity Council. The AEPi's are also very pleased over the plans for their new modernistic house to be started in September on fraternity row. They will make house-moving the keynote of their fall semester's activities. With Spring came a host of informal house parties, an initiation dance at the Gaylord Hotel, and the annual Charter Day Formal at the Miramar Hotel.

With his genial smile and jovial manner, President FRANK FEILER was well known in Kerckhoff. He was a leader in NSA and in allied student activities with his house and campus.

It's music, music, music, for the AEPi's during leisure hours at the house. Brothers spent many hours relaxing and enjoying each other's company after a long hard day over a text book.

ALPHA SIGMA PHI

Bob Martin, Alpha Sig president, put his active brain to hard work and good use. He wrote radio scripts as homework assignments, which were good enough to publish.

Hula skirts, leis, island music . . . all were present when the Alpha Sigs presented their annual Beachcomber. For the first time, the dance was held off campus . . . by the blue Pacific. This was just the touch that the boys needed to make this dance the greatest yet presented by this prominent school group.

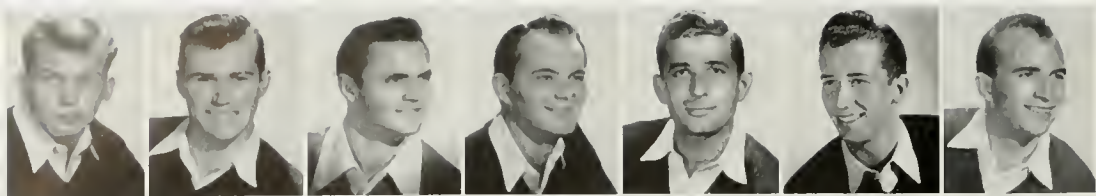

Feeling very proud for having won the Best Junior Open House Award, the friendly Alpha Sigs gathered together with new plans for winning the trophy next year. During the fall semester the Alpha Sigma Phi's joined forces with the Dekes and Zetes to present a Three Way Jag at the Riviera Country Club. Outstanding in the Alpha Sigs winter social season was the twentieth annual Black and White Formal combined with a week-end snow party given at Big Bear Lake. Still another stand-out success was the nineteenth annual Beachcomber, oldest social gathering of its kind on campus. The Alpha Sigs were well represented in sports by varsity footballer Don Cogswell and cricket man Bob McGovern. Other "wheels" of the house were Bob Martin, fall prexy and presidential appointee to Publications Board; Jim Cheney, secretary of the House Managers' Association, and member of the board of directors of the Co-operative Buying Association; and Gene Escat, spring house president.

ALPHA TAU OMEGA

JOHN SAGE traded his carefree bachelor days for married life, last February. As ATO president he was noted for his outstanding leadership ability and for his 2.0 grade average.

Versatility was the keynote of Alpha Tau Omega activities this year through many and varied social events, and the fraternity claimed a good number of Kerckhoff inhabitants. The ATO's, for the second year, took honors for their Homecoming Float entry in the Humorous division. The Beverly Hills Hotel was the scene of their annual fall formal, the Jewel Dance, and Shirley Temple was named "Sweetheart of ATO" at their fall initiation formal at the Hollywood Country Club Hotel. Activity men were Ed Fitzgerald, chairman of Speech Activities Board, and Irwin Rickel, art editor of Scop and card stunt designer for Rally Committee. Rick was also a member of Gold Key and Pi Delta Epsilon, journalism honorary. Ed Renfro performed art editor duties of the Southern Campus, and Jack Fegtly was a member of Welfare Board. Don Gylfe enlivened house exchanges with his "South Rampart Street" combo, which also played for open houses around campus. The clan was led by presidents John Sage and Glen Highman

The Hollywood Country Club Hotel was a romantic setting for the ATO initiation dance. Both rows were greatly impressed as the new initiates crowned Shirley Temple "Sweetheart of ATO."

Prexy DICK MILLER spent most of his time being just "one of the boys." His on-campus hours were devoted alternately to the Business Administration building and the crowded coop.

"So Long . . . Al". The Beta Brothers had a fantastic evening the night they decided to give Al Hansen a warm send-off on his short week-end jaunt. Jimmy Higson provided the music for the occasion, the boys wore their zaniest costumes, and Al was undoubtedly impressed with the show of Beta Spirit.

The Beta Bop, Beta Bowery, and Freezing at Bal during Spring vacation started a bang-up social season which was climaxed by the Miami Triad held in April. Beta men turned out en-masse to give encouragement to first string guard, Bruce McLachlan; all-coast tailback, Ernie Johnson; national junior tennis star, Larry Heubner; basketball forward, Al Sawyer; swim star, Paul Davis, and golf captain, Dick Runkle. Freshmen Jerry Evans, Gene Logan, and Dick Ridgeway made points for the casaba squad while Gary Clark, Don Spivey, Bob and Dick Wilke gave parallel performances on the frosh gridiron. In Kerckhoff life were Don Barrett, chairman of Cal Club, and Jim Higson, Gold Key and Cal Club member. Rush Backer, head councilor of Uni-Camp, was a Yeoman along with Hedley Beesley and Dave MacCauley.

ALPHA PHI ALPHA

The brothers of Alpha Phi Alpha, one of the newest fraternities on campus, seemed to believe it's a matter of family pride to have at least one of their members attending school on a scholarship each semester. The Gamma Xi chapter of UCLA also extensively utilized the social possibilities of their fraternity. During the winter semester the Alpha Phi Alphas presented their traditional winter formal in conjunction with the chapter at SC and the alumni. Booming Robert House, prexy, worked hard on the project of the annual spring dance, while other members of the fraternity were busy tracking down possibilities for a new house. The lack of a house has handicapped the boys in many ways, such as prohibitive participation in school activities. However, the brothers formed a basketball team that was sparked by high-scorers Hugo and Ken Hill and Harry Thompson.

Alpha Phi Alpha president for the fall semester, BOB HOUSE, had an easy going personality and friendly disposition which was an appreciated part of all house functions.

Members of Alpha Phi Alpha fraternity gathered for their weekly meetings and discussed the many events which they held during the year. An outstanding dance in the fall semester which the group presented was the winter formal held in conjunction with the SC house.

One of the most important steps in the Delta Chi's post war expansion program was a new chapter house. The boys needed a larger place to accommodate their growing chapter and many parties. The Delta Chi's socialized at their annual Christmas Party and sparked the spring semester with a Roaring Twenties Party. Also featured were numerous hayrides, beach parties, and a spring formal. Crew claimed the time of several athletic Delta Chi's including Carter Gage, Richard Danson, Reggie Bennett, and Bill Smith, and Richard Tejada was a member of the wrestling team. Activity men were led by Harold Anderson, who worked on OCB, and Douglas Lefler, circulation manager of SCOP. Roger Marrs participated in MAC and URA programs and also helped with the All U Open Houses. Other house boomers were Larry Brink, Alpha Phi Omega, and Richard Beh of Tiller and Sail.

DELTA CHI

A smoke filled room was the favorite habitat of wheel DICK BEH. The gaming Delta Chi prexy came into the outside air occasionally to attend classes and intramural baseball tilts.

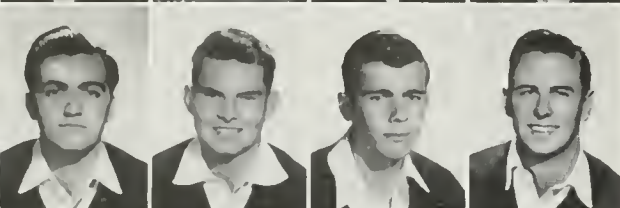

Home for the Delta Chi's was a rambling Westwood abode on McClellan Drive . . . not too far from campus by thumb, but just a little too far for the Brothers who wanted to walk on foot.

A pre-med major, EDWARD KING was almost chained to his books. The Deke prexy broke away long enough for party times however, and was very popular with the girls.

After ninety days of waiting for a new chapter house, the Dekes were finally successful, and celebrated by letting their mothers' club furnish the house, while they rejuvenated it. The present site on Granville is undoubtedly more convenient than their renowned beach home. With the surf claiming less of their time, the boys pay more attention to more formal entertainment . . . a four-way formal with the Zetes, Deltas, and Phi Deltas; and a three-way jag with the Alpha Sigs and the Zetes. Athletically speaking, the boys were proud of Brother Woody Butler, no hit no run king of intramural softball who starred in the annual Deke-Theta game. Wheel on campus was Bob Smith, senior class treasurer and Kelp representative to the NCAA finals.

DELTA KAPPA EPSILON

ΔKE

Party time took up most of the spare hours of the members of Delta Kappa Epsilon. Whether the brothers were sporting monkey suits or beach togs, a good time was guaranteed to all.

It didn't seem to matter what the occasion happened to be, it was always happy party time whenever the Delta Nu's and their dates got together for extracurricular socializing.

Cooperative JERRY ROYS served as fall president of the Delta Nu's. JERRY, known for his "informative" personality, was an unusually capable helmsman for the Delta Nu crew.

DELTA NU

Having recently acquired a house near the campus, the Delta Nu's discovered that a comfort can be both a joy and a financial headache. Solving this problem didn't take too much book work for the Delta Nu's, however, because the boys obviously had something on the ball to be three times winners of the IFC scholarship trophy. Socially the brothers gave up cramming long enough to dress like children for their Quiz Kid party in spring. They also donated a more formal evening to their Initiation Banquet. Other affairs were various house parties, exchanges, and stags. Managing to squeeze activities in between hitting the books was Gerald Roys, capable house prexy and also active in IFC, Cal-Men and Scabbard and Blade. Other outstanding members were Bob Holtzman, Phi Eta Sigma, debate team; and Marv Kleinberg, Cal Men and Senior Council. The Delta Nu's really seem to live up to their aim: to give the brothers a full social and academic life while on campus.

On Friday afternoons Monday seemed a long way off to the boys of the Delta Sig house. Frosh Prexy Dave Lund and Senior Prexy Andy Anderson often joined in a mad howling session of "The Death of Paddy Murphy."

DELTA SIGMA PHI

For the second year the Delta Sigs have come through competition to cop the grand sweepstakes award in the Homecoming Float Parade. Athletic-minded brothers made names for themselves in several divisions of school sports. Bob Wilkinson and Roy Vujovich took part in both varsity football and track, while Karl Kraushaar was varsity basketball center and president of the house. Hal Mitchell and Hugh Mitchell participated in football and track respectively, and budding football meteors were Cappy Smith and Ted Narleski, members of the Frosh team. Kerckhoff claimed the free time of such brothers as Ted Nissen, AMS Prexy; and Andy Anderson, senior class president, who were members of Gold Key. Dave Lund became prominent as frosh president and so did Jack Phreaner as president of Gold Key. For a more formal phase the Delta Sigs held their annual Carnation Ball at the Beverly-Wilshire Hotel in May. The Sailor's Ball, another yearly affair was held in April with admittance via an "unseaworthy" boat across the flooded game room. The pledges did their social bit by sponsoring an open house in September which featured Kid Ory, and by throwing the Screwball Ball in March.

According to his Delta Sig brothers, KEN MAGEE was a responsible house prexy, and as well known for his social spirit as for his outstanding political science prowess.

The Delts enjoyed singing in any sized group, but the quartette was one of their favorites. The boys had a real talent for harmony that came from long hours of practice and beer drinking.

DELTA TAU DELTA

Leaving Delt memories with many and Delt pins with some, brothers danced away an evening of initiation formal at the Bel-Air Country Club and another, of Delt-DG-Ball at the Miramar. When the weather was warm, the Delts traveled to the shore for a real Hawaiian Luau complete with roasted pig, beach-sand, ocean waves and moonlight. Attending Delt activities were the fraternity's reps on the Bruin Football squad: Bob Watson, Gayle Pace, Roy Jenson and Darrel Riggs. Members of other UCLA teams who wore the Delt pin were: John Chandler, Monte Nitzkowski and Jerry Ladhoff of the swimming team, baseballer Dick Lievers and crew members Bob Mooney and Chuck Stuart. Delts not only contributed to most of UCLA's sports but also sent many men to serve in Kerckhoff Hall, Johnny Chandler devoting much time to campus activities. The Delts had many able leaders to shoulder responsibilities at the house, but top-brass at the Delt abode was President Dick Cruise.

President VINCE De SOUSA was a great sports enthusiast this past year. His favorites were skiing and volleyball. He practiced the latter on the Delts own private court and at the choice area at Sorrento Beach.

DELTA UPSILON

In the fall Delta Upsilon presented the Waterfront Dive Dance and a formal dance at the Bel-Air Hotel. They planned also a picnic at Griffith Park, and numerous other informal parties, dances, bowling parties, and beer-busts. In the spring the boys headed for Sorrento and beach parties with steak-frys. They went formal for the graduating senior's dinner and a dinner dance at the Palladium. Weekly sojourns to the '25er filled in any spare moments not filled by Bob Lallement and Roy Guild, the year's social chairmen. Earle Hamley went out for crew, and Vincent Delamarter was on the baseball team. Earle was also active on junior class council, and he was publicity chairman of the Rowing Club. House officers were presidents Roger Nelson and William Woods, and vice-presidents William Miller and Donald Morton.

Sportsmen Du's were convinced that their home away from home should be near the beach so that surf-lovers could share their May, June and September days with both campus and sun, and their well located house has proved to be quite a social asset.

A first rate job as president was done by ROGER NELSON. He was the instigator of many important activities of the DU's, and his warm and friendly manner won for him many friends.

KAPPA ALPHA PSI

JIM WHITE proved an able and skillful leader for Kappa Alpha Psi during the fall semester. JIM, a music major, often added his voice to fraternity sings.

One of the outstanding members of the Kappa Alpha Psi fraternity was SHERRILL LUKE, ASUCLA student body president. He was kept busy all year long presiding over student council and meeting with many student groups from AMS to International House, pictured. In addition, Sherrill found time for all house functions.

Formal attire marked the Kappa Alpha Psi's annual Black and White Formal. This keynote affair was held at the Avadon. Many other successful parties were enjoyed by the members also. Looking into a crystal ball, one may catch a glimpse of a bright future for the ambitious members. One of their plans included a housing fund for their dream house. The Kappa Alpha Psi's liked to boast about their athletically inclined brothers. No wonder, with Dave Williams, who was out for football, basketball, and track; Wes Robinson and Gene Williams also out for basketball; and Floyd Wilson, who was the Pacific Coast Conference boxing champ. With buttons bursting off their shirts, the brothers proudly pointed out Sherrill Luke, who was the very able student body president of UCLA.

KAPPA ALPHA

KA

If the south is still fighting the Civil War, the Kappa Alphas are still celebrating it . . . or so it seemed as the Brothers, led by Dr. Koontz announced the arrival of the Dixie Ball.

There was plenty of spirit at the Kappa Alpha abode. A dull minute was seldom where these brothers were found. Co-opites remember the homecoming episode when several southern gentlemen dressed in the confederacy's best uniforms descended upon the "Y" and announced their intention to secede from the University and the United States for the week-end. General Lee himself rode a horse to deliver bids up and down Hilgard. The occasion, naturally, was the annual Secession Celebration Dance. Another Kappa Alpha creation was the yearly Odd Ball. Despite these, the brothers claim their greatest function of the year is the nationally noted Dixie Ball. The KA's not only had social spirit but athletic spirit as well. Intramurals claimed the time of Bill Smith, Herb Litsman, Leo Habel and others. Dr. Louis Knott Koontz, popular UCLA history professor, is a Kappa Alpha from Washington and Lee University in West Virginia. The Kappa Alpha motto describes the boys well in every aspect of fraternity life . . . "If he's a KA, he's a sport all the way."

Perennial fairway inhabitant DONALD SCHULTE performed duties of the Kappa Alpha presidency while completing a marketing major which he hoped would aid his success.

Kappa Sigs will remember for a long time the hilarious past year they enjoyed while operating from their spacious chapter house on Strathmore. High in spirit, the Kappa Sigs gave such original parties as the Streets of Paris, the traditional Bowery, and the Arabian Nights extravaganza. The boys also collaborated with the Alpha Phi's for a memorable Christmas formal, and in the spring the two groups sponsored the Cardinal and Crescent formal. Brothers riding high on the activity bandwagon included Len Marangi, chapter prexy and NROTC Battalion Commander; and John Flett, IFC executive secretary, and chairman of Men's Week and the Alumni picnic. Bob Leonard was business manager of the DAILY BRUIN and SCOP; and Phil Curran was a Gold Key member. Kappa Sig stars in the field of sports were Paul Saunders, prominent member of the Bruin basketball team, and Don Hubbard, who was active on the rugby squad. Brent Bowen was the business manager on SOUTHERN CAMPUS.

With the completion of this modern chapter house, a dream becomes a reality for Lambda Chi. The new house features separate studying, sleeping, and dressing quarters thus providing an ultimate in convenience.

LAMBDA CHI ALPHA

Among the campus activity men were many Lambda Chi Alphas. Leading their fraternity in school organizations were Gold Key members Jack Bratton, a Kelp, and Tommy Hitchcock, chairman of the Welfare Board. Frank Tennant and Frank Burns, who both served on the Homecoming Committee were also members of Gold Key along with brother Seiersen. Lee headed the Society for the Advancement of Management. Jack Kelly and Jerry Walsh did their part as Yeomen, while Bob Craft served on the Masonic Affiliate Executive Board, and Bismarck Basolo was active as a member of the election Board. The Lambda Chi's were also up in the social world sponsoring their biggest and best party, the annual Cross and Crescent, a formal affair held in conjunction with the Lambda Chi Alpha chapters at Santa Barbara, Southern California, and San Diego. The Little Reno Party was another of the fraternity's social functions; and to climax the year the boys went to their Heaven n' Hell party.

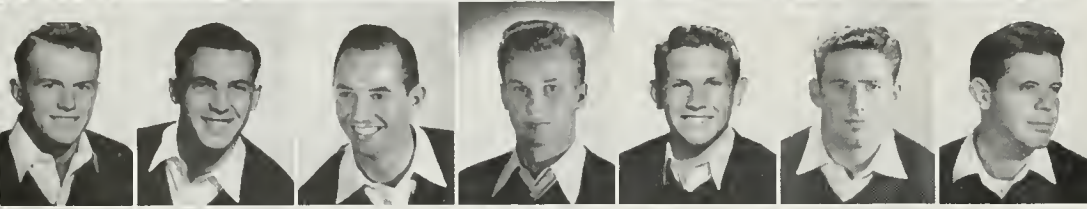

Prexy FRANK TENNANT was well known for his active participation in campus affairs. An interest in journalism took second place to A Chi O Char Weiss, who had his pin.

Beer busts spiced by Dixieland combos and the ever-popular Charleston took up every minute of the Phi Delt spare time that wasn't spent at fabulous formals or at intramural sports contests.

PHI DELTA THETA

Celebrating their twenty-fifth anniversary at UCLA, the Phi Delt show an enviable record on campus. The Phi Delt got an early start on the row by dominating some fall intramural athletics: All-university football champions, All-university volleyball, and league bowling champions. During the spring they won their league in basketball and had a good baseball season. Formal attire was the word for initiation ball at the Santa Monica Miramar Palm Room, the Prom, the Triad, and the annual Phi Delt Formal. Several exchanges filled the calendar up to the annual "Hawg Wallow" which was saved until school let out in June. Wheels during the fall included Prexy Bob Hight, and V.P. Jerry O'Neal. Spring semester found Frank Frost as president and Don Meredith, Veep. Yell leader Bob Hight also saw duty in Gold Key and Cal Men; with Dick Hansen, Bob Hight, Orivelle Hoag, Don Meredith, Jack Swensson, and Doug Upshaw members of Kelps. Alpha Kappa Psi, honorary tapped Ken Stamps and Don Meredith. Yeomen included Wells Wohlwend and Doug Upshaw. Phi Delt of the year went to past president Ronnie Clark for his outstanding work. Participation was the key word during the year with floats for Homecoming, Mardi Gras booths, Spring Sing laurels, and the Senior party for departing Phi's.

Booming Phi Delt prexy BOB HIGHT, a Bruin in white who led the UCLA rooters through yell after yell at the big games, was one man who was pleased to lose his pin.

PHI GAMMA DELTA

After an impartial survey the Fijis are proud to announce that they have the finest chapter of Phi Gamma Delta on the UCLA campus. To quote . . . "Our house is chock full of important athletes whom we never see; our contributions to IUS, the Young Eskimo League, Pete's, SDT, and other worthy organizations have put our frat way up there. We give blood to our loan fund; have dances with girls; drink beer; tell stories; go out with sorority girls when we can't get dates with independents; have the captain of the Red Raiders; have nine pledges and a boy from Idaho living in the chapter room; win intramural athletics with professional ringers; have dances with girls; have 611 alumni who hate us, but show up for free meals; and have a television set won by picking up Phillip Morris wrappers. We have one forty-two-year-old pledge named Red who comes to parties and owns a vacuum cleaner; we give the best parties on campus and as for campus leaders, we boast a reader in Education 147 and a second string Scop salesman . . . all in all we're a grand bunch of fellows."

Hilarity prevailed as Gayley rocked with laughter at the antics of new Phi Psi pledges. The occasion was their semesterly satire of the Hilgard presents lines.

PHI KAPPA PSI

In one social season Phi Kappa Psi activities progressed from onions to orchids. A year that is not to be forgotten, this past one is memorable for the popularly repeated Jefferson Duo, the mock presents, the always hilarious Pajamarino, and culminating in a grand finale with orchids for the Spring Formal. Phi Psi men have also proved themselves outstanding in sports activities. In track they shone with such men as Hugh Wilson and Taylor Lewis. Lewis, aside from his excellent performance in track, went further to show his leadership ability in becoming house president. On the football field were seen such outstanding players as John Nikcevich and Arnold Leckman. Mario Nitrini, Pete Moody, and Bill Lundquist furthered Phi Psi fame on the baseball field. School offices, too, have claimed their share of Phi Psi's with Willie Morrison, Dick Dickey, Pete Kipp, and Bill Eichenlaub all active boomers.

Musically-minded med student DICK DICKEY, chief gavel bouncer and one-fourth of the famed Phi Psi quartet, planned to earn his living by taking pulses and prescribing pills.

FRANK LEVIN skillfully guided Phi Epsilon Pi through an important semester. FRANK was always there with his pertinent advice to untangle important house problems.

PHI EPSILON PI

Contributing to UCLA's social life, Phi Epsilon Pi planned a season of dances and informal parties which included their annual Spring Formal at the Bel-Air Hotel, and a Founders' Day Dinner, which was attended by Phi Ep alumni from far places of the United States. The fraternity also took an active part in the annual Hillel Vaudeville Show. Members also contributed much to the process of formulating plans for the series of veterans' dances and other veteran-service programs. Chairman of this project was Lee Rothstein, and his board members were brothers Hal Delevie, Moe Komsky and Sheldon Volk. Phi Epsilon Pi was also proud of officers Frank Levin, Marty Rich, George Moss who was an active member of Cal-Men, Lee Rothstein and Lenny Levy, who laid plans for a new fraternity house "somewhere near campus," and not too many months away.

ΦΕΠ

Informal gatherings were popular with the Phi Epsilon Pi's. A bull session now and then provided great opportunities for philosophising and settling the problems of the world.

"Ummm good, ummm good . . . that's what hot dogs are, humm good." The brothers of Phi Kappa Tau and their dates possibly sang this little ditty at one of their beach parties. With their chapter house situated close to the ocean such affairs were held winter or summer.

PHI KAPPA TAU

Phi Kappa Tau enjoyed a varied and successful series of social events this season. One of the most entertaining of these was the Kiddie Party held prior to mid-terms, when a prevailing second childhood spirit made the affair a memorable occasion. With its location at 403 San Vicente Boulevard the obvious proximity of the Phi Tau house to the beach promised its members an adequate amount of sandy summer siestas. New on campus, the UCLA chapter of Phi Kappa Tau fraternity offered a full social and scholastic schedule. Outstanding members were Al Hjertstedt, president of the Newman Club, and George O'Hanian, Phi Tau publicity chairman.

Up to bat for the Phi Kaps was JIM MILLER, who was both a star of intramural baseball and a top notch prexy. Quite the social man, his genial personality proved an invaluable asset.

Spring Sing practice started early in the year for all the brothers of Phi Kappa Sigma. The piano was always surrounded by members trying out their vocal cords for this event or else for the many serenades held for the boys. Such spirited action by the Phi Kaps was typical of their entire year's activities.

Remaining high in campus and social activities, Phi Kappa Sigma achieved a successful year under their presidents Jim Miller, fall, and Larry McConnell, spring. Outstanding Phi Kap social events for the year were November's Black and Gold formal at the Beverly Wilshire Hotel, the initiation dance in March, the spring formal at the Beverly Hills Hotel, and the annual Hawaiian dance which was held in May at the Santa Monica Beach Club. Sports enthusiasts were Onal Harris and Dick Turner on the Frosh football team and Ed Flynn on the varsity team. Claude Cross played soccer, and Turner also went out for frosh baseball. Over Kerckhoff way Bob Owen was on the Rally Committee and Jim Miller was AMS publicity chairman, while Hank Hand was co-chairman of the IFC Public Relations Board. Pete Mann was sophomore class treasurer and publicity chairman and active in AMS, URA, and IFC news bureau. The Phi Kap quartet gained campus prominence through many UCLA appearances.

PHI SIGMA DELTA

The beautiful house recently acquired by the Phi Sigma Deltas has an advantage of a large corner lot and close to campus Landfair location. Efforts of the brothers were rewarded by a party home.

Realizing their hopes for a fraternity house, the Phi Sigma Delta's opened the doors of 645 Landfair in the fall semester. Under the leadership of Prexies Leon Kornblatt and Harvey Krieger, the Phi Sig's had a fine social season with parties, parties, and more parties. The Miramar Hotel was the site for the fall initiation dance, followed by the fourth annual Gold Rush at Mountain Oaks Lodge and the Spring Formal at the Bel Air Hotel. Helping to keep the wheels of Kerckhoff rolling were activity men Jack Paul, orientation chairman for AMS; Leon Kornblatt, who took the chair for the All-U Open Houses; and Marc Kaufman, member of Student Judicial Board. Phi Sig's also claimed membership on the class councils, OCB, DAILY BRUIN, SCOP and SOUTHERN CAMPUS. Average raisers included brothers Jack Paul, Art Weiss, Ron Labowitz, Marc Kaufman, Harland Green, and Merv Landsman. Marc Kaufman was also a member of Scabbard and Blade.

Fall president LEON KORNBLATT spent classroom hours gathering information about the business world, and filled free hours by leading the newly organized All-U Open Houses.

Presents night on Hilgard is a mighty important time of year. Phi Sigma Deltas donned their Sunday best and prepared for a gay evening of revelry on the famous row.

An active part of UCLA student government, the Pi Lambda Phi fraternity also had time to achieve first place in fraternity scholarship among campus fraternities, and to hold many social functions. Pi Lam's minutemen in the fields of sports and activities included Lee Meryn, Win Millet, Don Gelb, Ted Sachsman, Alex Frankel, Mel Rotstein, Al Rothman, Jack Forrester and Dan Olincy. The social life of the Pi Lam's was spiked by a Second Annual Jazz Concert, Open House, Christmas Eve Party, and the Annual Initiation Formal, and was completely transformed by a Skid Row dance where the Pi Lam's and their dates came dressed as skid row characters. Square Dances and Beach Parties also rated highly with the Pi Lam's who enjoyed the usual round of social activities and were game to try any new social idea, at least once.

After having brother Bob Precht acknowledged the "Great Lover," the SAE's must have felt they had quite a reputation to uphold, and the boys lived up to it with such big affairs as the smooth Delta Ball given with the Pi Phi's and the more informal Tropical Masquerade. Active along another vein were SAE sports enthusiasts Jack Small, Gordy Edwards, and Marty Kramer, stars of the boxing and rugby teams. The brothers also captured the intramural football and bowling league championships to add to their trophies. Hard working "wheels" of Sigma Alpha Epsilon included ambitious Sophy prexy, "Big Jim" Davis, and busy Felix Le Marinel, working his fingers to the bone as vice-chairman of Welfare Board. Energetic Bud Jones not only did his part as fall house president but found time to help the Uni Camp drive in the spring. "By" Kelly kept up the school spirit as a yell leader and was active along with other Gold Key men John Flannery and Felix Le Marinel. Junior wheels were Yeomen Jim Davis, Al Fisher, Brice Horn, Arnold Stevens, and Stan Ross.

SIGMA ALPHA MU

Another addition to the list of fraternities on Gayley, the Sigma Alpha Mu's have almost completed their new chapter house. This abode is planned to be the very latest in men's housing units.

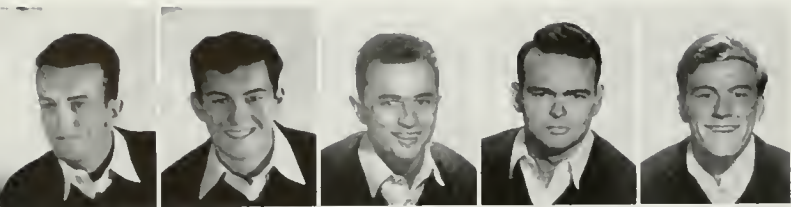

Sammies celebrated the new year with a shovel in ground-breaking ceremonies for their chapter house which they planned for completion in time for the fall rush season. The lack of a house throughout the 1949-50 year did not stop SAM men from taking a front seat in campus affairs or from winning second place for originality in the homecoming parade. In the spring semester Sam Silber brought fame to URA and summer vacations to many underprivileged children with his unusual publicity campaign for the URA Mardi Gras, whose collection went to University Camp. Leading fraternity men were Mal Leventhal, president in the fall, and Hammy Martin, president during the spring term. Jimmy Primes achieved recognition for the local chapter by winning Sigma Alpha Mu's national treasurer's award. Formally speaking, SAM had the social calendar started by the annual sweetheart dance held at the Country Club Hotel and the spring formal staged at the Miramar Hotel, both occasions evenings long to be remembered by the Sammies and their best girls. The summer was destined to be a busy one for the brother builders, putting the finishing touches on decorations for their new home and carrying through the tremendous job of moving all furnishings to the new location.

HAROLD MARTIN served as Samy president for the spring semester. A long list of successful events for the year attested to his efficient leadership ability.

Congratulations were in order for the Sammies when they broke ground for their new mansion. National headquarters finally came through, and provided plenty of room for everyone.

The Crystal Room of the Beverly Hills Hotel was the scene of the annual Sigma Chi sweetheart dance on May 13, where as a climax to the two weeks of parties given for the candidates Shirley Kimbell was announced as the chapter's sweetheart for the coming year. In keeping with their usual party spirit, the Sigma Chis jointly held the Miami Triad this spring at the Santa Monica Beach Club with the Phi Delta Thetas and Beta Theta Pi's, while during the winter Sigma Chis in their tuxes escorted the Alpha Chis to the annual Snow Ball formal. The governing of the house was placed in the capable hands of Jack Saggsser. Besides the usual presidential duties, he supervised the construction of the spectacular homecoming float, planned the sweetheart dance, and actively participated in IFC. Some of the other busy brothers who were concerned mainly with athletics were Francis Mandula and Don Roberts.

Sigma Nu's past year featured a booming social season, highlighted by their outstanding White Rose formal that was presented in the fall at the Hollywood Roosevelt. Reigning over the affair was lovely Theta Molly Cosgrave and her two attractive attendants, Pi Phi Sandy Chrest and Kappa Shar Swanson. A social activity of the opposite character was the annual ADT dance the boys gave at the house. In the spring the Sigma Nu's joined forces with the Alpha Phi's to present their yearly German Beer Party complete with costumes and polkas. Along another line the boys captured the Inter-fraternity Basketball championship, and several brothers shone in school sports as well. Giving their all to the varsity football team were such outstanding members as Eddie Eaton, Ernie Stockert, and Neil Cline. Sigma Nu Cy Young was star javelin thrower of the Bruin track team. The boys seemed to take over varsity basketball too, by providing able players Jerry Norman, Ralph Joeckel, and John Kalin. Active wheels seen around Kerchkoff included Yeomen Lee Wenzel and Manuel Gonzalez.

Besides doing a capable job as president, CHUCK COLWELL managed to become a star of intramural athletics and was an active member of a local punch drinking association. Under his leadership the Sigma Nu's had one of their most successful years.

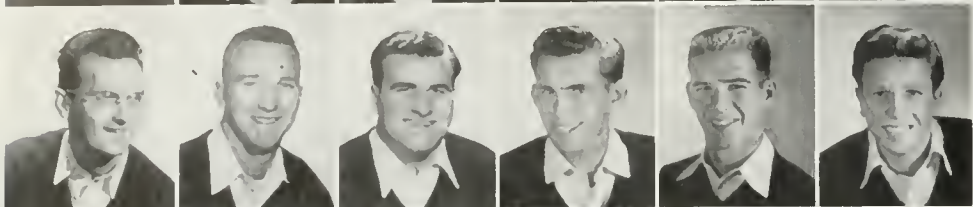

Ever since Don Caffray stumbled into the Sigma Nu house the brothers have heard nothing but "Apple Valley, Apple Valley . . ." And so it is that every year this white star alum invites the boys to his "first love" for the Spring Formal, which often is quite informal.

The Sigma Pi's specialized in parties with plenty of atmosphere. The boys had a knack for changing their southern mansion into almost any place on earth for a party setting.

SIGMA PI

Party-time began early in September for the Sigma Pi's and continued until late in June. Starting off the fall social whirl with a bang was the original Nut Club Formal. Following this was the big Cal Chapter Dance and Joint Open House with the Chi Omegas. First on the Sigma Pi spring social calendar was the Initiation Dance followed by the pledge Speakeasy Party. Next was the annual rip-roaring Frontier Town. Winding up the social whirl was the fraternity's traditional dance, the beautiful Orchid Ball. The brothers were guided through the year by their president, yell-leader Fred Thornley, who served with Merle Swanson in both Gold Key and Kelps. The social service, and school honoraries had many Sigma Pis on their roll books.

Everyone on campus was familiar with FRED THORNLEY'S genial grin. Really a boomer, FRED competently "charged" into everything, his duties as president not excepted.

Spotlighting the spring season this year was the fourth annual Chase Dance given by the Tau Delta Phi's at the Riviera Country Club, right before finals. Both the Sweetheart Ball at the Hollywood Roosevelt and the long-awaited-for Initiation Dinner at Ciro's heralded other big evenings. Booming house parties provided entertainment for the rest of the semester: a New Yorker Club Cafe, the Hawaiian and the South Sea Islander parties, to mention only a few, brightened up weekends. Hub of the Tau Delta Phi's wheel system was George Seelig, prexy of the Varsity Club and newly-elected president of AMS; in the athletic field, George Aronek as Varsity Soccer lettermen kept the "wheel turning," while chapter presidents Arthur Rudolph and Jack Kaplan helped keep the house active in meeting and on campus. Exchanges during the year with AEPi's and Sigma Delta Tau's fostered quite a few pinnings and engagements. Outstanding among events was the initiation of Eddie Cantor as an honorary Tau Delt, and the three day Regional Western Conclave at Carolina Pines—the UCLA, USC and University of Arizona chapters.

TAU EPSILON PHI

After all their hard work, the TEPI's were pleased that the annual "Temptations" dance was its usual great success. Big names in the entertainment world highlighted the event.

The big event of the spring semester for the Tau Epsilon Phi fraternity was the Teptations charity dance. This presentation involved work from all the brothers to make it an outstanding success. On campus the house boasted leaders in every conceivable activity. Lee Cohen was the Tep yell leader and helped cheer Brothers Al Raffee, Julie Weisstein, and Joe Naar of the varsity football squad and Billy Greenberg, captain of the frosh squad. Sam Allenberg was a boomer on the swim squad and Art Alper and Barry Chasen kept the house hustling on the basketball courts. Ernie Grossblatt spent his spare time in the gym working out with the gymnastics crew, while Dick Williams busied himself with his peanut machines and Yeoman details. Destined to keep spirit at a high pitch during the coming year is newly elected yell king Sam Grossman. Sam's fantastic stunts during election week boomed him easily into office. The pride of UCLA and of the Teps as well is tennis star Herb Flam. Herb is acclaimed as the most outstanding tennis player ever to emerge from this school. During the summer he won the singles and doubles National Collegiate Tennis championships and also the Clay Courts title.

A genial personality and a friendly smile were assets of GIL WAYNE. He did a bang-up job as president in the spring semester, and his ability was a mainstay of the fraternity.

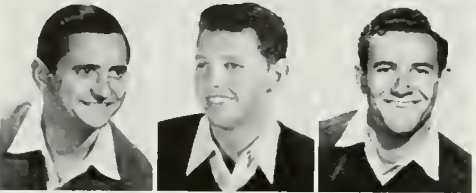

Chow time at Tau Epsilon Phi on Monday night was always a headache to the pledge hashers, but the actives seemed to enjoy the evening's doings before going into long meeting sessions.

Tekes went out in a big way for Junior Class politics, with Ben Johnson, Bill Gathas, and Bob Boydston all on the Junior Council . . . Lou Frizzi was president of the URA Rod and Gun Club; Bill Gathas represented the house on OCB; and Bob Boydston took polls for the Bureau of Student Opinion. President Ben Johnson led the fraternity in a successful social season. The traditional Red Carnation Ball was held at the Deauville Club, and there was the annual Pink Elephant Ball with guys and girls in matching costumes. Spring vacation was highlighted with sunning and sailing at Balboa. An eight way exchange with Kappa Delta Pi, Phi Kappa Psi, Beta Theta Pi and Theta Chi featured food, dancing, tennis and swimming. In the intramural corner Tekes distinguished themselves by having a terrific baseball team. Overlooking the blue Pacific, the Teke house was inconvenient to campus, but convenient to the beach.

TAU KAPPA EPSILON

Competent and efficient President LAWRENCE MOORE could always be found in the center of the Teke's many activities, which included beach parties and more beach parties.

Although the Teke's have a house right near the beach, the weather experienced during the spring did not cause the boys to forsake classes for a daily ocean dip. Nevertheless, they managed to sneak in a few hours of sunshine and surf riding on weekends when the sun sneaked out for a brief minute.

THETA CHI

Digging up old term papers was a useful and profitable talent of spring prexy BOB CLITHERO. He followed in the footsteps of fall president RAOUL CARILLO.

The Theta Chi's were always heading for Sorrento for a pre-season tan. They found they could accommodate more brothers with convertible tops down and collect more sun.

Being true followers of Dixieland music the Theta Chi's had that ever lovin' Pete Dailey for their beer bust, open house and Dixieland dances. Two important annual social affairs of the fraternity were the Circle Bar X dance, anticipated and attended enthusiastically by the entire campus, and the Theta Chi Dream Girl dance held at the Beverly Hills Hotel. The house was guided in grand style throughout the fall semester by varsity wrestler Bob Clithero. Taking over the reins of the presidency for the spring semester was Crewman Bill Power. Other members in campus activities included Dick Donnelly and Bill Hayes, Soph council; and Pete Gilman, Scop. Wrestling was highlighted by Bob Clithero and Ray and Roy Binders, the twins in the house. Crew found two loyal backers in Dave Tansey and Bill Power, who helped to reorganize and bring the sport back on campus. Pledged by the house in the spring was gridiron man Jim Buchanan.

THETA DELTA CHI

Θ Δ Χ

An evening in the moonlight . . . these Theta Delta Chi's enjoyed many such moments with a "heavy date" and a brew in each hand. A scene repeated up and down the row by all the houses and their brothers

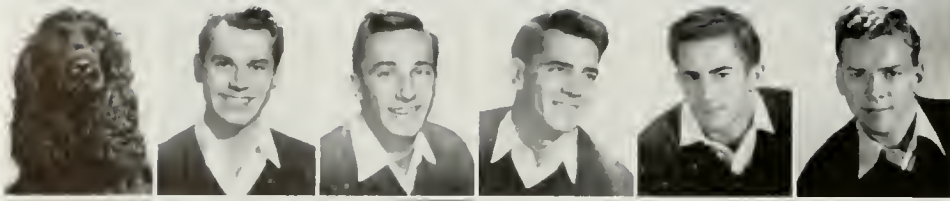

Near the top of the row at 547 Gayley stands the large Spanish-style house of the Theta Delta Chi's, which overlooks their fabulous, new swimming pool. Well represented in all campus affairs, the boys boasted activity men Ken Karst, executive secretary of Inter-Fraternity Council and Don Hovey, former Welfare Board Chairman and campus politico. Bruin athletic teams, too, claimed the time of many Theta Delts. George Pastre and Wes Mathews were stars on the Bruin football team, while Pete Babin acted as Bruin boxing captain, Bob Morrison participated in track, and Bob Dingfelder and Gene Bubien were members of the varsity crew team. Socially the Theta Delts turned rural for their mammoth Barn Dance and Hobo Convention. Their spring open-house introduced Bruins to their spacious patio surrounded pool, complete with tropical palms, which was the pride and joy of hard-working Bob Lindh, man behind the gavel at the Theta Delt house.

The Theta Delt's put a lot of work into their fire-eating train for the Homecoming parade. However, they claimed emphatically that the smoke had no effect on the smog situation on campus.

Studios JACK WHALEN was termed a "good egg" by his fraternity brothers. The sharply dressed president had two loves . . . Shirley Cleveland who wore his pin, and a new car.

THETA XI

Watermelon, Dixieland, minstrels, and mint juleps were all part of the atmosphere created by the Theta Xi brothers for their gigantic party of the old South. A jump tune "Mississippi Mud" provided the title and theme for the unique festivity. A fragrance of magnolia blossoms and sound of southern drawls greeted costumed couples as they arrived at the ball, one of the outstanding affairs of the spring semester. The Theta Xi journal for '49-'50 also listed an impressive formal dinner dance at the San Fernando Country Club. Several of the brothers claimed Kerckhoff Hall as their second homes. Harry Sherman held two outstanding positions, as chairman of the Junior Prom and as head of the Spring Sing, and in May was elected to a rep-at-large seat on the UCLA Student Executive Council. Also climbing KH stairs was Dick Price, who doubled on OCB and as a football manager. Numbered among Theta Xi members in the athletic department were Dean Kirby, 1950 potential as end on the Bruin football squad, and Jack Meighan and Ike Behlil, UCLA soccer team stalwarts. Guiding fist behind all Theta Xi activities for the '49-'50 year was prexy Hank Sorrail.

Theta Xi president in the spring was HARRY SHERMAN. He found time to lead his fraternity in its many activities, act as chairman of the spring sing, and junior prom, and be elected rep at large.

Chow down boys . . . The Theta Xi's often found time to hustle in the kitchen and help the cook prepare the evening's meal. But after dinner it was left to the pledges to clean up. This group found the highlight of their spring semester was hustling Harry Sherman around campus as their rep-at-large candidate in Bruin elections . . . their campaign worked and he won.

ZETA BETA TAU

Adding a touch of the Old South to the annual Homecoming Float Parade was the beautiful ZBT Mississippi River Boat, spouting smoke and fire. Winning the coveted first place in the theme division got the ZBT's off to a good year. The Zeta Beta Tau's scooped the campus in their usual tradition with their fifth annual Pre-Registration Open House. Members and dates rushed the season a little when they attended their "early" spring formal. Mel Kaufman took over the gavel as president and drew the purse strings in the office of treasurer. This amazing one-man team also held the position of treasurer on the Intrafraternity Council at the same time. Big men on the campus included Dave Leanse, who led many a victorious cheer as head yell leader; Bob Franklin, who worked at the job of Organizations Control Board chairman; and Bob Koenig, who served as chairman of the Music and Service Board, and Sy Block, who was active on the Student Judicial Board.

The ZBT's were really happy over the burning of their mortgage. When the big white mansion was at last all theirs, they had a real reason for celebrating. The boys may purchase a fire engine in the future after this year's many fires . . . namely: their homecoming float at the coliseum, and their basement in the "big house."

Booming ZBT Prexy MEL KAUFMAN traded his cashmeres and argyles for the US Navy Blues and postponed use of his business administration book-learning 'til after his "hitch."

ZETA PSI

Really a smooth character, JOHN LAWRENCE was christened "Sid Larue" by his brothers. The fall prexy had two main interests . . . girls and that ever-present party time.

ZΨ

When not staring on the athletic field or scoring on the row the Zetes could often be found in the front room brushing up on a few card games. As usual this house on Hilgard boasted some of the top Bruin football stars, who managed to keep the Zete name prominent on both rows as a "boomer house."

This year following their annual tradition, Zetes and their dates entered the foreign atmosphere of the Streets of Paris, and Old Vienna, two of their informal parties. Besides attending these affairs, the Zetes, one of the two fraternities on sorority row, added the Three Way Jag to their already brimming list of social activities and climaxed the year with a more mild White and Gold Formal. Athletes galore roamed the Zete house, second home of the football team which claimed Breck Stroschein, Hal Braly, Larry Lampkin, Cliff Schroeder, George Morgan, Ed Miller, Ray Lewand, John Florence, Mal Ellis, Orhan Breeland, and Hershel Lefler. Don Chelew took up a crew paddle and Pete Gates donned the Blue and Gold of the soccer team. Don Smith, Zete swim star, set an official school record of 52.4 for the 100 yard dash and an unofficial record of 52.2 for the same event. In the fall, brother John Laurance held the office of Zete prexy and following him was Adolph Mora, spring leader.

DORM COUNCIL

Living groups at UCLA have grown steadily stronger through the years. During the past two semesters great strides have been made by the two presidents of Dorm Council, Barbara Abrams and Jane Phillips. At the present time there are thirteen recognized living groups providing opportunities to Bruin students and in the near future it appears additional housing will be provided on campus. Hershey Hall is now the only on-campus housing group. Plans are being formulated for large dormitories to house about 800 men and women students. If such plans are put into operation the fondest hopes of the late provost will be realized, because he was always a champion of such housing.

JANE PHILLIPS was spring president of Dormitory Council and with the fall prexy BARBARA ABRAMS provided the group with outstanding leadership during the year.

Membership in Dormitory Council is composed of representatives of all the living groups on campus. These girls meet regularly to discuss the many problems affecting the dormitories at UCLA now or in the days of the future.

Outdoor life in southern California at its greatest . . . the residents of Rudy Hall have a chance to study or rest while out of doors and away from the noise and bustle of the 14,000 students at the University on the hill.

For a number of years Dorm Council has served a vital function on the campus by integrating the various girls' living groups into a unit. The Council has as its major purposes channeling information about campus affairs to all the girls in dorms, representing directly their opinions about campus matters to SEC, and helping the girls in dorms work toward a solution of their common problems as members of living groups. In connection with these goals the group is also working for better scholarship, better housing, development of inter group and inter-collegiate acquaintances, participation in the formation of rules for living groups and promotion of loyalty and enthusiasm to UCLA. Social activities this year included a dinner exchange at Hershey Hall. Persident for the fall semester was Barbara Abrams and Jane Phillips in the spring.

"Five foot two, eyes of blue" . . . keeping alive the southland craze are these ukelele struming girls of Hershey Hall. With enough strong voices the girls could sing above the drone of near-by construction.

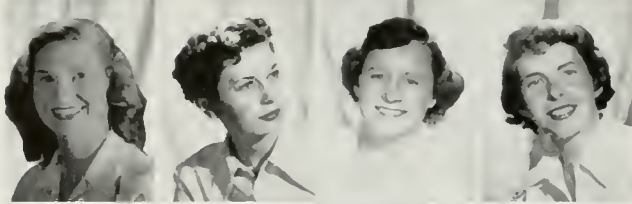

Helen Matthewson girls give their ping pong table daily work-outs with a fast game between classes. Such activity was but one feature of life at the campus dormitory units.

HELEN SEHY AND MARJORIE CRAPSTER were the guiding lights of Douglas Hall during the year. They were instrumental in aiding the house achieve great success in all its activities.

DOUGLASS HALL

"Swing your partners and alemande left"—and the girls from Douglass Hall opened the year's social whirl with a "Make Mine Country Style" party. Another outstanding success was the winter formal for which the Hall blossomed out in silver snow-flakes and white snow-laden pine boughs. At a later Christmas dinner party for under-privileged girls from Uni-Camp the hostesses and guests seemed to feel the mutual benefit of friendship and goodwill. The girls from Douglass also gave active support to many other campus affairs such as the AWS Doll Contest, in which their entry, a Centennial Doll, won third prize. Thanks for this went to their doll chairman, Joanne Stone. Charme Wilbur did a great deal of work on Senior Council and was also one of the finalists in the Homecoming Queen Contest. Charme also participated in the Swim Show along with fellow Douglassite, Liz Norton. Busy with Campus Theater were quite a few of the girls from Douglass including Barbara Arnold, Beverly Hastings, Margaret Quick, and Jean Micke. Ann Clarke was talented at the piano and even the Zetes enjoyed listening. As for the Zetes, there seems to have been water fights between the two over a "misplaced" Douglass banner. No one has, as yet, proven anything definite but the girls are convinced the banner now decorates the neighboring Zete house.

A brisk walk up Hilgard and across the "Sahara" brought the residents of Douglass Hall to their eight o'clock classes with roses in their cheeks and that alert, wide-awake feeling . . . just the thing needed by all Bruin students.

HERSHEY HALL

With the new building program moving UCLA down Hilgard toward them, the girls of Hershey have literally been "right in the middle of things." Famous for their open houses, they started off with an all campus affair which was a huge success and followed it by a Men's Week Open House which was even better. Hershey was also the scene of the Junior Prom get-acquainted parties. Exchanges rated high on the Hershey calendar and helped to extend the welcome to our big brothers from the north during the All University weekend. Last fall the girls entertained their dates with a formal dance at the hall where they danced and dreamed of a "Happy Holiday." Representing Hershey in numerous campus affairs this year was President Jodie Collins. Jodie was a member of Senior Council, executive committee, and was on several AWS committees. Also deep in activities were Marilyn Arnold, Ernie Easterling, Ginny Behrens, Dot Probsting, Diane Halprin and Pat Peters.

NEVA HALL

Many funny faces were seen in Neva Hall this year at a Halloween Masquerade, with prizes for the most outlandish costume. A quick change in appearance by the members was noticed at the beautiful formal May dance to which all alumni of Neva Hall were invited. The campus Mardi Gras was turned into an even larger event by a pre-dinner party. New women on campus had no time for loneliness at Neva, because get-acquainted pajamerinos were held every semester as a part of the girls' orientation program. Neva Hallers were seen in Kerckhoff, too, when Barbara Blumenthal became vice-president and social chairman of the Bruin Flying Club, as well as taking part in all other URA activities. One of the hardest workers in the house was Jody Slinger, who did a scribes job as Secretary of Dorm Council.

GLORIA GRANT was the "big wheel" of Neva Hall during the spring semester. She found time to lead the group in its many activities and participate in campus functions, too.

Quiet in appearance, yes, but neighbors will testify to the good times had by all residents of Neva Hall last year. From Hallowe'en until Spring Formal time, the halls of Neva resounded.

RUDY HALL

Exchanges and community dinners were only a few of the social events in which the girls of Rudy Hall participated this year. They also held a lovely Christmas dinner which was followed by a more informal party. Aside from these social activities Rudy Hall was well represented in almost all phases of campus life. Joanne Adams and Joanne Penrose, for example, were members of Key and Scroll, while Cosette Lodge, Leona Jenner and Marty Hessell were active in the Wesley foundation. Latelle Fredrickson served as the efficient president of the Christian Science Organization, and many other girls served in the YWCA and MAC club. During the fall, officers of Rudy Hall included Joanne Adams, president and Carol Martin, vice-president, who with the cooperation of the other girls, kept dorm life and its various activities running smoothly.

Rudy Hall followed the spring leadership of CAROL MARTIN. She was not always loaded down with books, but found time to co-ordinate all the activities of this large living group.

The residents of Rudy Hall have a chance to study or rest while out of doors and away from the noise and bustle of the 14,00 students at the University on the hill.

HELEN BROWN provided the inspiration for members of the Helen Mathewson Club while she was president of this campus living group during the spring semester.

HELEN MATTHEWSON CLUB

Stepping lively to the tunes of a well-filled social calendar, the girls at Helen Mathewson Club swung their partners to a hard times party and barn dance, and later keyed themselves to a more romantic note for their Christmas and Spring formals. A winter snow week-end and some spring days on the sands of Balboa provided momentary escape from books. Hilgard Club, forced to disband when their house was sold, presented HMC with the remainder of their treasury to be used for perpetuation of the cooperative housing movement. In the realm of activities, Jane Phillips, fall semester president, presided over Inter-Dorm Council and was an NSA wheel. Rosemary Pierce was treasurer of Phi Chi Theta; Valeria Beatty served as WPE Club veep; Jean Djuh wielded the gavel for the Chinese Students' Club; and Sally Horn was Southern Campus proof editor. In the spring, under the leadership of president Helen Brown, the club achieved a spectacular success at the AWS picnic, winning all events but one, in spite of the strenuous competition of the Trolls.

Vital corner of campus life was the Helen Mathewson Club. Busy streets outside corresponded to busy residents inside who found time amid studies to enjoy a full social program.

With equal stress on the social and the scholastic the residents of Stevens House excelled in both, while on the side they found time to round out college life with a full activity program.

Many interesting parties dotted the social schedule of Stevens Hall this past year. Starting things off was a get-acquainted tea given for all new members in the fall. During the festivities at Christmas time, Stevens also celebrated with a party that included jolly Santa and a tree plus trimmings. An enchanting Spring formal was given by the girls at the Religious Conference building, and later on the Intercultural Board of the University Religious Conference gave a tea for the girls at Stevens in order to gain more support for the house. Among the thirty girls living at Stevens many were active in YWCA functions. These ambitious members included Rudella Slay, Melva Collins, and Elaine Hunt. Working hard on RCB panels were Midori Harada and Jo Anne Garland, and active in church functions were Juanita Lenard, and the president of Stevens, Barbara Joe.

STEVENS

BARBARA JOE was president of Stevens House in the spring term. Her leadership followed that of fall prexy ELAINE HUNT . . . both girls were outstanding in their ability and aid to the group.

Besides climbing those seventeen steps and getting to classes on time, residents of Twin Pines Hall also found time and energy to enjoy themselves and entertain their Hilgard neighbors.

TWIN PINES

Following one of its old traditions, Twin Pines was again this year distinguished for the friendliness and interest in campus activities shown by its girls. Several of the more outstanding members in school affairs were Dorothy Hawkins, social chairman of I House; Jean Nelson, a staff member of Southern Campus; and Ruth Nessantoum, active in many campus projects. The social program included numerous exchanges with campus men's groups, a gay and colorful Indian dance in the fall, and a romantic formal dance in the spring. Ably serving as house officers were Marguerite Thorne, president for three terms, and Jane Groman, president in the spring. The girls were assisted by their new house mother, Miss Avis McCandless.

JANE GROMAN was the president of Twin Pines during the spring semester. She took over the presidency from MARGARET THORNE who held the post for three consecutive semesters.

WESTWOOD HALL

The girls of Westwood Hall, among other activities, took part in the Homecoming parade, Mardi Gras carnival and Hi Jinks show. Some outstanding social events were a gay Christmas party and buffet dinner, a spring party and a series of interesting talks including one given by Dr. Clendenen. Almost all of the girls from Westwood Hall were active in worthwhile campus projects. Barbara Abrams was the president of dorm council, a presidential appointee to URA executive board, and a member of student workshop advisory council. She also served as chairman of rules committee for women's living groups, a member of Mortar Board and Toastmistress' Club member. Henrietta Lopez was activity board chairman, and a member of AWS Associate Board and Scop staff. Westwood Hall was ably run by Barbara Abrams, and Barbara Greenstone presidents in the fall and spring semesters.

Southern California comfort was enjoyed by all Westwood Hallers, who relaxed in the shade of this hall's spacious lawns and verandas after a long, hard day of classes.

BARBARA GREENSTONE was the president of Westwood Hall in the spring. This Redondo Beach girl took over the prexy reins from BARBARA ABRAMS, who was also Dorm Council head.

Biggest fool at a party was revealed at mid-night by the members of the YWCA-Coop at their annual "April Fools" party, to which the entrance fee was an odd hat. Since this affair was such a big hit with everyone attending, a hilarious "Backwards" dance was planned at which the girls' respective dates were presented with lovely vegetable corsages. Amidst a more sophisticated atmosphere were the winter and spring formals. The YWCA-Coop is the one living group on campus which is inter-religious and inter-racial, students from Austria, Sweden, China, Japan, India, South Amreica, and Palestine. The group also had many busy representatives in Kerckhoff. Mortar Board treasurer, Lyn Linden, was the hard-working Southern Campus Office Manager and NSA Executive Secretary. Credit for the tremendous all-U-sings goes to Harvey Karman, chairman. Other highmen on the Y-Coop totem pole were Alice Meyers, Spur, and Bob Gaudino, Gold Key.

WINSLOW ARMS

Winslow Arms, unique from other campus living groups in having individual apartments, highlighted the year's events with efforts toward the success of Uni-Camp. Methods ranging from raffles to "Uke" parties were organized by each apartment as a means for collecting money. Aside from having fun in preparing the events, the girls also proved the work worthwhile by collecting a sizeable sum. Naturally, some lucky Uni-Campers were invited to dinner, and the girls showed their skill in the culinary arts by cooking a wonderful meal. Directing this worthy project, along with others, were capable house presidents, Marie Elze and Doreen Rafferty. Mrs. Wood, housemother, also took part in the house activities by treating the girls to a buffet dinner. The Christmas Party was a howling success with a real Santa. A farewell beach party in honor of the seniors came as the grand finale of a gay year.

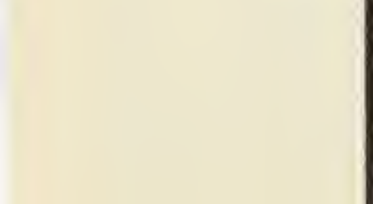

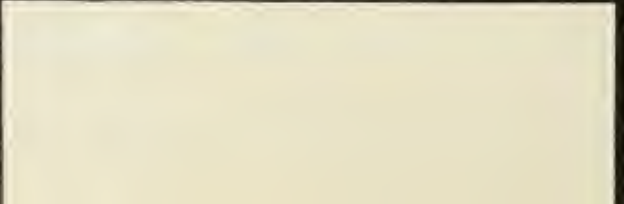

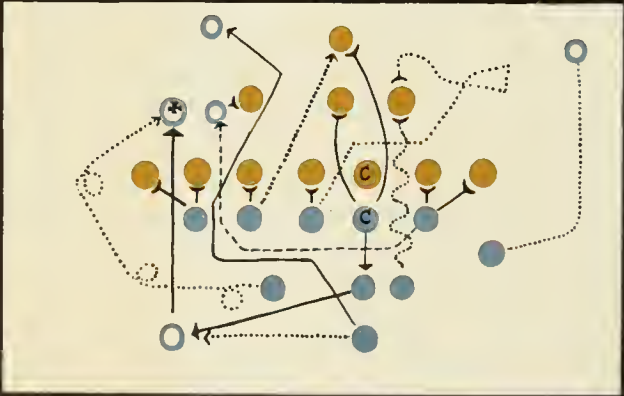

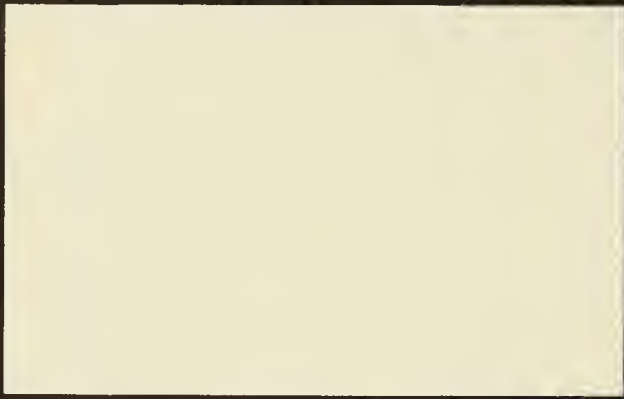

With her long red hair and Irish smile, DOREEN RAFFERTY made a charming president in the fall semester. She knitted stacks of argyles for her fiance who attends Loyola University.

The girls at Winslow Arms kept themselves busy by inter-apartment exchange dinners and by participation in the many activities for fun presented on campus during the two semesters.

Veteran yell-leader LEE COHEN donated an atom-bomb's worth of energy to evoke gigantic roars from the Bruin rooting section . . . his TEP brothers and various assorted UCLAns.

A newer addition to the gridiron and hardwood than the Bruin air-horn was the season's song leaders: JANY POPE, JOAN SEBEL, SUE SCHISLER, JOEY POPE and DEE DANIELS, who, decked out in specially lettered sweaters and accoridian pleated skirts, and complete with pom-poms, were a welcome 1950 innovation and a spark of encouragement for the over-worked yell-leaders.

An expert yell-getter, BYRON KELLY was another of the "booming boys" who helped rally UCLA spirit behind the teams . . . an ever important element in any successful season.

Automaton Dave Leanse, UCLA yell-king, led Bruin rooters on the road to a new enthusiasm and spirit on campus. Throughout the year, he and his assistants missed no opportunity for rallying UCLAns behind the teams and coaches. Their well remembered torch parade and rally at Coach Sanders' house was valuable indication to "Red" that the students wanted him to stay at UCLA, and may have been a contributing factor in his decision to stay. A similar rally for Coach Wooden was staged in front of Royce Hall, where Bruins gave acclaim to their champion basketball mentor. The cheer-leaders not only provided an encouraging and noisy send-off to the national playoffs, but went along to cheer them on. They even provided a boost for male morale by introducing cute song leaders as a novel stimulus to bleacher chorus . . . just one more of the many ideas which made '49-'50 UCLA's best year for spirit.

Flying high, DANNY GALLIVAN, expended a little of the rampant enthusiasm so familiar to his Phi-G brothers, when he led Bruin rooters in well-known win-win-win yells and songs.

Sigma Pi FRED THORNLEY brought so much of the old Kelp spirit of campus rah-rah to Bruin games that his fellow UCLans tapped him for the top job in Kerckhoff, the head of the table seat at the Student Executive Council meetings.

Phi Delt pride BOB HIGHT demonstrated the best in yell-king rhythm when he executed the mighty Bruin spell-out which sent the rolling echos bouncing off the opposition's bleachers.

FOOTBALL

The 1949 season will long live in the memories of "Blue and Gold of Westwood" fans as one of the most spirited and exciting chapters of the UCLA football story. The Bruins' short career reached a new high in drive and determination as they finished the first lap in what promises to be a great, new athletic era for a young school. The arrival of Henry "Red" Sanders, a band of footballers who would never say die, and for the first time in a good many seasons, a unified student body who stayed behind their coach and team, combined talents to enable the UCLAns to take on and defeat teams that may have had superior manpower, but did not have a determination to prove their superiority. Questioning fans of the Bruin football fortunes were shown little in the curtain raiser against Oregon State because the Bruins were traditionally "hot" on opening night. A week after the Beaver trapping, the Ukes traveled to Iowa, met, and defeated a strong Big Nine representative. After this second victory the Bruins' followers took notice of the fact that this Sanders-led team might "have it." The following week, the giant-killers of Westwood tripped a highly rated Oregon team in a battle of many touchdowns, and victory over Stanford, the only game of the year where the horseshoes were in our pockets, made it four in a row for the Bruins. There is an old saying that "you can't win 'em all," and Santa Clara proved it with an uneventful 14-0 score over an uninspired UCLA team. The Bruins found traveling to their liking as they squeaked past an underrated Washington State team 27-20, but the powerful Bears from Strawberry Canyon dunked what chances the Bruins had for the Rose Bowl by a 35-21 knockdown. Coming right back to notch their fifth conference win against Washington in a game that turned into a one-sided run-away, the Ukes warmed up for the game they had been pointing for . . . USC. True to form, the Trojans rose to their greatest heights of the season to put on a thundering scrap with our fighting team. Breaks and refs WERE deciding factors in this traditional clash that closed a season of which Bruins may well be proud.

CAPTAIN LEON McLAUGHLIN was the inspirational leader of the most spirited football team in Westwood history. Leon, in his fourth year at the center position, was once again the Bruin with the most playing time. "Big Mac" is through playing for UCLA, but he certainly won't be forgotten by Bruins who watched his performances in the Coliseum.

Head football coach, HENRY "RED" SANDERS, in his first year at UCLA, has established a record for himself on and off the athletic field that can mean nothing but good news for UCLA in the years to come. This southern gentleman proved his worth when he took over a mediocre Bruin squad and turned them into a fighting unit of perfectionists who developed into the surprise team of the west.

TOMMY HARRISON was Sander's right hand man and head scout for the Bruins in '49. A great back for Florida in the early forties, he was second only to Frank Sinkwich in Southeastern Conference football.

TOMMY PROTHRO, UCLA's new backfield mentor, is another of Coach Sanders' hand picked single wing specialists. After serving for three seasons at Vanderbilt, he has passed along plenty of that southern savvy to his Bruin men.

MIKE BALITSARIS was responsible for the great play of the many UCLA ends this season. Another Tennessee man, Mike was an All-Southern Conference end and will be sorely missed next season, for he headed back for the Mason-Dixon.

JIM MYERS, another of the southern gentlemen was highly successful in his first stint as a line coach. Myers was a star guard at Tennessee in '41, '42, and returned in '46 after earning All-Southern Conference selections at Duke.

TOM WHITLEY, who was a defensive terror for the Great Alabama team that crushed USC in the 1946 Rose Bowl, has brought plenty of football knowhow to Westwood. As assistant line coach, Whitley's work proved his worth.

The never ending task of keeping the Bruin footballers in sound condition was the job of the Doctors and Trainers of the UCLA athletic department, namely, "SMOKY" HARPER, "DUCKY" DRAKE, and DR. ED RUTH.

BEHIND THE LINES

It seems that when a football team is in the making a little more is needed than forty or fifty specimens of meaty manhood and a coach named Red. In Coach Sanders' surprise package UCLA got five football nuggets from Dixie to grind the fundamentals of single wing method and magic into the "T" bred locals. The Staff proved themselves to the gridders first by giving the team the spirit, savvy and physical shape for a successful pigskin campaign, and when footballs began to fly Bruin boosters saw the results of expert tutelage marked onto the scoreboard. Spaulding Field, the Bruins' practice grid, became the second home for a group of mystery men-behind-the-scenes that made the team details go, laboring to keep the balls blown up, beating the steaks into submission, and patching up the victims of the autumnal mayhem. These were the trainers, managers, doctors, cooks, field and equipment men, the Staff, who united to produce a smooth functioning and colorful ball club.

The junior managers were the boys who did the unglamorous but essential jobs that are a must to the coach and team if a smooth running, successful season is to be completed. Standing left to right are MARVIN SARGENT, TONY WELDON, HARRY STROUD, and BILL SORNBORGER.

Big men of the football managerial staff were these three graduates of the Bruin water boy corps. The senior managers were in charge of all equipment on the practice fields and in the stadiums. Left to right they are MARSHALL JOHNSON, TED NISSEN, and RICHARD JACOBSON.

Sanders . . . 'We'll do better.'

IT WORKS! Bruin backers were finally given the answer, and in the affirmative, to the BIGGEST question: Do we have a football team? 38,000 . . . where was everybody . . . amazed fans saw Coach Sanders' boys put on a steady, well drilled performance of rock and sock football as displayed by the single-wing. Coach Sanders revealed his football mastery as he directed Bruin charges to a convincing smash over the bashful Beavers from Oregon State. Ernie Johnson was never better in his role as tailback. He ran and passed all over the lot, but his twisting, spinning sixty yard return of a Beaver kick was the sensation of the evening.

UCLA 35 • OREGON ST. 13

After leaving a trail of Beaver tacklers behind him, ERNIE JOHNSON was finally given the bum's rush on the side line by a desperate visitor from the north. Johnson's runs put terror in the hearts of the Oregon Staters who were also shocked by the all-around improvement of the Bruins.

ERNIE JOHNSON, the greatest athlete on the team, led his backfield mates in the statistics departments to become an all-time ground gainer.

WEST MATHEWS, huge tackle-guard wound up his varsity career with his fourth varsity letter and a record as an all out fighter for the Bruin cause.

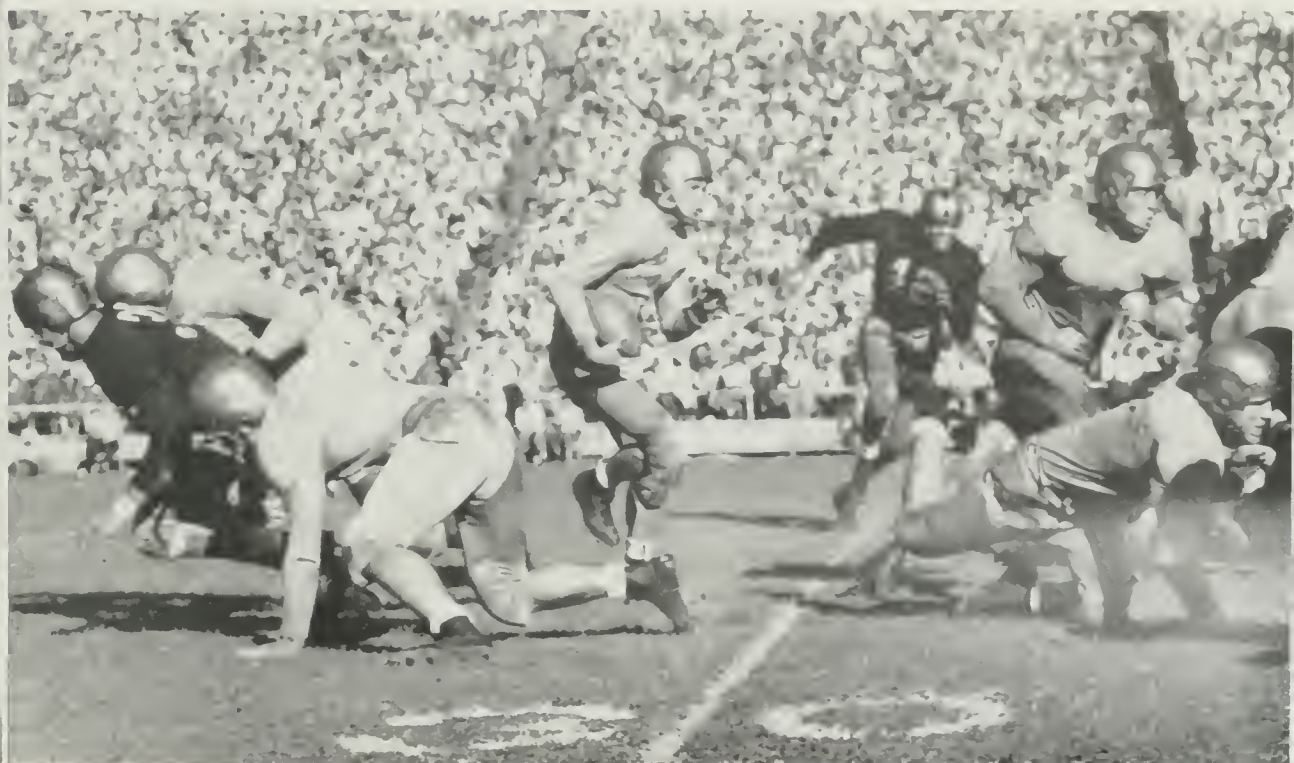

BRUCE MacLACHLAN, the smallest first club lineman on the coast, was a heads up ball hawk in his second varsity outing.

ROY JENSON, a bulwark at tackle, was missed for much of the season after being shelved with a lame knee in the rugged Iowa game.

BRUCE MACLACHLAN pulled out of the line to pour through a tremendous gap in the Iowa wall as Ernie took full advantage of the lack of heavy traffic, supplied by two-time blocking, to gather momentum for one of the few successful Bruin running plays of the afternoon.

UCLA 41 • IOWA 25

The heads up UCLAns who stole five Hawkeye fumbles and three of their aerials, took to the airlines for the first time of the season, to defeat the rugged Iowan of the Big Nine 41-25. Journeying to the corn country, the hard running Bruin backs had nowhere to go, as the farm boys refused to be moved by the smaller UCLA line. Ernie Johnson, in the first display of his passing talent, abandoned his running to pitch the ball to Bob Wilkinson. Burly Bob wowed the mid-westerners with his two TD catches and the setting up of another duo of point makers. The Bruins racked up a huge scoring victory in their only intersectional of the year.

It looked like the end of the victory line for the UCLA mystics when they returned to the Coliseum, fresh from their Iowa conquest, to deal with the mighty, '48 Pacific Coast co-champion Ducks from Eugene. But the ever fired up Bruins held the vaunted running attack, led by Sanders (of another variety) and Lewis, to a net of 38 yards. This nocturnal titanic, featuring a point a minute, was a thriller from kick-off to final gun. The missed conversion by Oregon after Woody Lewis' "It couldn't have happened" run was the turning point in the game that enabled the locals to stay ahead all the way, in a battle that they finally won, 35-27.

LEON McLAUGHLIN, captain, four year man, garnered more playing time than any other Bruin as the peerless leader of the '49 Bruins.

Pile-driving CLIFF SCHROEDER uses a brother Bruin's bowed head for a stepping off place as he leaps high over a pile-up of floundering footballers to hang up six for the Blue and Gold. This was one of the fast and furious touchdowns that came a dime a dozen.

LEO HERSHMAN, a stump that grew in Brooklyn, excelled as the number one blocking-back until he received serious injuries, mid-way in the season.

Occasionally the bewildered Indian tacklers were able to cut squirmin' Ernie down before he stuck another "six" on the boards. Tackle Wes Paulsen tripped up JOHNSON just as McLAUGHLIN, SIMPSON, and WILKINSON came up to make the play go for some more chunks of yardage.

Five thousand football fanatics from the land of Westwood ventured to the Bay area to see their team have it out with the Indians of Stanford. They saw the Bruins out-passed, out-rushed, out-downed, but not denied a victory. The amazing Bruins stumped the frustrated, Rose Bowl hungry Redmen at every turn in the big game up north. The Indians gave plenty of war hoops in the midfield, but could never get the Bruin scalp. Again it was Ernie Johnson, this time scoring both of the Uke touchdowns. The Bruin line refused to be moved inside its own twenty; stopping time . . . and again the slashing thrusts of the young Palo Altoans.

UCLA 0 • SANTA CLARA 14

Sanders . . . 'We were soundly outplayed.'

UCLA's supposed breather against Santa Clara left a tired Bruin on the ropes after being kicked around the "Big Bowl" by the rugged Broncos. The Bruins were working on a four-game win streak, but could go nowhere in any manner as they were dumped 14-0. The first half went scoreless as the single wingers Sanders-style rolled but refused to capitalize on breaks. After a spectacular, by comparison, halftime the story took a complete turn-about. The hard running Santa Clara backs, led by Hal Haynes, could only be stopped by the timer's gun after they had scored twice in the fourth quarter and were going on to another.

Smashing Santa Clara blocking opened the door through tackle, and an eager Bronco runner promptly responded with a thundering run into the open country. But "Old Faithful" BOB WATSON sets himself for one of his driving tackles that will drop a runner in his tracks.

GAYLE PACE, an over-the-ball understudy, showed the potential to follow the successful footsteps of past Bruin pivotmen.

Shifty HOWARD HANSEN was occasionally slowed up by a pesky Washington State tackler, but he broke away and was soon off on one of his many scampers that iced the game for the Bruins. Captain "Mac" was also often in the right place at the right time.

CLIFF SCHROEDER turned in herculean performances as Red's plunging, passing full-back; a spot he hadn't played until '49.

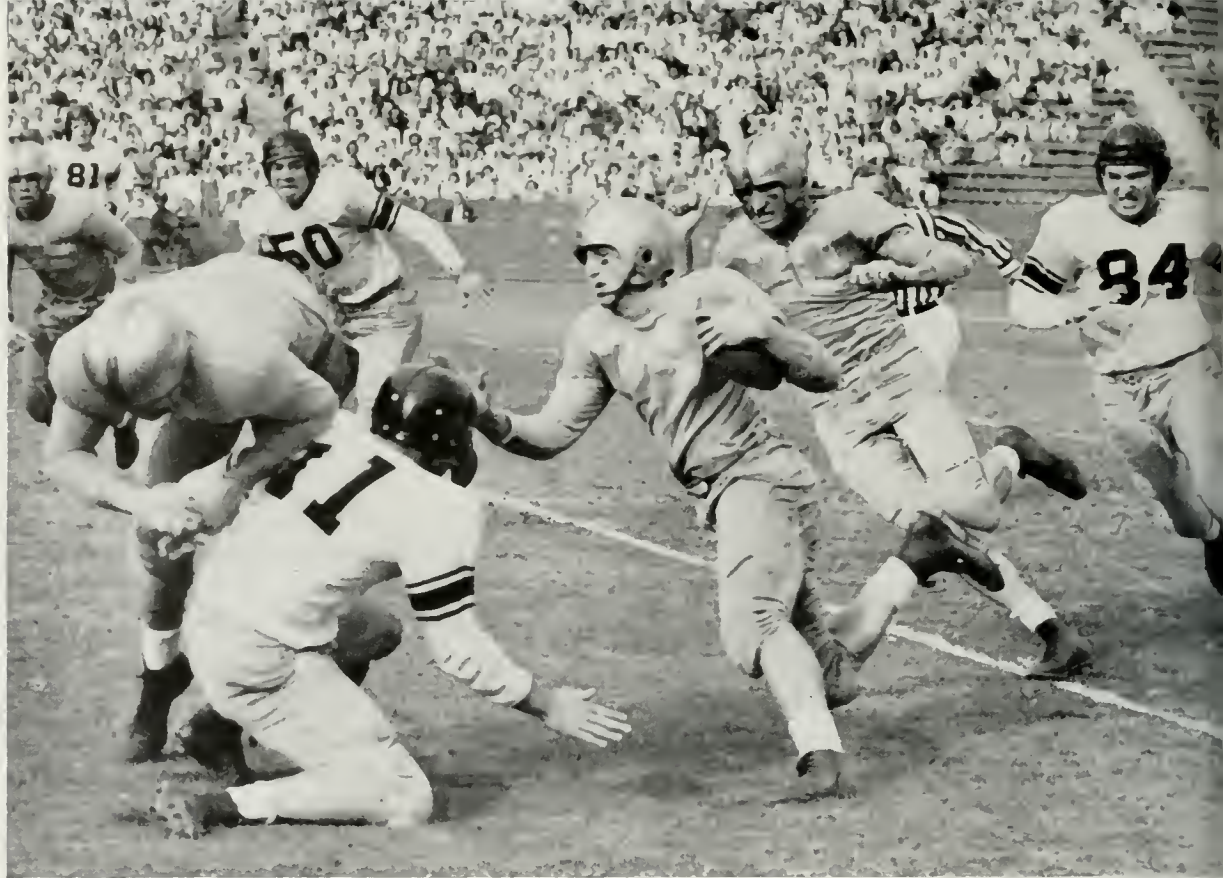

FRANCIS MANDULA brought a tremendous record with him to UCLA, and lived up to it with ruffian performances in the front ranks.

A band of shivering footballers from the sunny land of California had to come from way behind to win this one from the pesky Cougars of Pullman. The northerners were rude hosts as they nabbed two quickies before bre'r Bruin had made a growl. But the coachless travelers came to life, as Cliff Schroeder turned in his best performance of the year, to even the count by the half. After intermission the Bruins began to roll and quickly racked up two six pointers. The Staters weren't idly standing by, as Don Paul drove to another touchdown. But this wasn't enough . . . the Ukes won a real thriller 27-20.

GEORGE PASTRE, another old-timer to finish his collegiate career in a blaze of football glory, made a fabulous number of Bruin tackles.

Action was fast and furious as HOWIE HANSEN cut back through the big California tacklers following a wall of effective blocks. Wide open play was typical of the Bruin offensive as they ran off big hunks of yardage over a Cal line that was equally matched by the fighting UCLAns.

The fabulous fat man, Lynn "Pappy" Waldorf, brought his rose-bowling Bears to Los Angeles with no idea of losing to a young upstart, El Bruin. Led by that master of football sorcery, Bob Celeri, the Golden ones soured a carnival Homecoming week with a solid ground attack and the thread-the-needle passing of Mr. Celeri. Our Bruins played right up there with the champs during the first half, but the power of the Cal line plus the never ending supply of fresh reserves thrown into the game after the intermission, ground the hustle out of the Bruins. The Bear's steamrolling attack was gathering its greatest momentum as the gun ended.

Still definitely in the race for the roses, the Bruins took on a Huskie of unknown power led by Hugh "Hop-along" McElhenny. It was a tense afternoon for the locals, for Ernie Johnson was out of the game, and Washington was on the upgrade after a series of rugged Saturday afternoons with the best in the nation. But the northerners' line was in a hospitable mood and Ray Nagle played the best game of his four varsity seasons as he passed and ran the score-happy Bruins to their fifth conference win. Bob Wilkinson broke more of his own pass receiving marks as he latched onto three touchdown passes.

BOB WILKINSON made it three of a kind on this touchdown pass from RAY NAGLE as he leaped high in the air to nab his third aerial of the day. The frustrated Washington defender didn't feel too bad though, because Big Bob had been going through these antics all season.

DICK SHORT developed consistently to star for the Ukes as top signal barker and blocker. His presence will be felt by Bruin foes again in 1950.

UCLA 7 · USC 21

Sanders . . . 'All of us wanted to win this in the worst way.'

The "Bell," PCC crown, and a chance at the Rose Bowl, were only a few of the glories to be reaped if the fighting Bruins could only trample down the "Men of Figueroa." But the tide of victory for the Trojans was not easily turned. With both teams keyed to perfection, the game developed into the most bitter struggle for athletic superiority ever raged in the nineteen battles that have been staged by these crosstown rivals. The Big Game was filled to overflowing with drama, as the Trojans had to rely on a young fourth string quarterback, and when George Pastre was ousted from the game for over-anxiety, it seemed the tension would come to a breaking point. But there was no letting off of pressure, and the Cardinal and Gold left the field at intermission with a seven point bulge. As third quarter opened, it seemed that the Bruins would go on to win at their own choosing. They rolled to a quick score, but the luck of Troy stayed with the opponent, and an intercepted pass broke the backs of the Bruins who played the most gallant game of their careers.

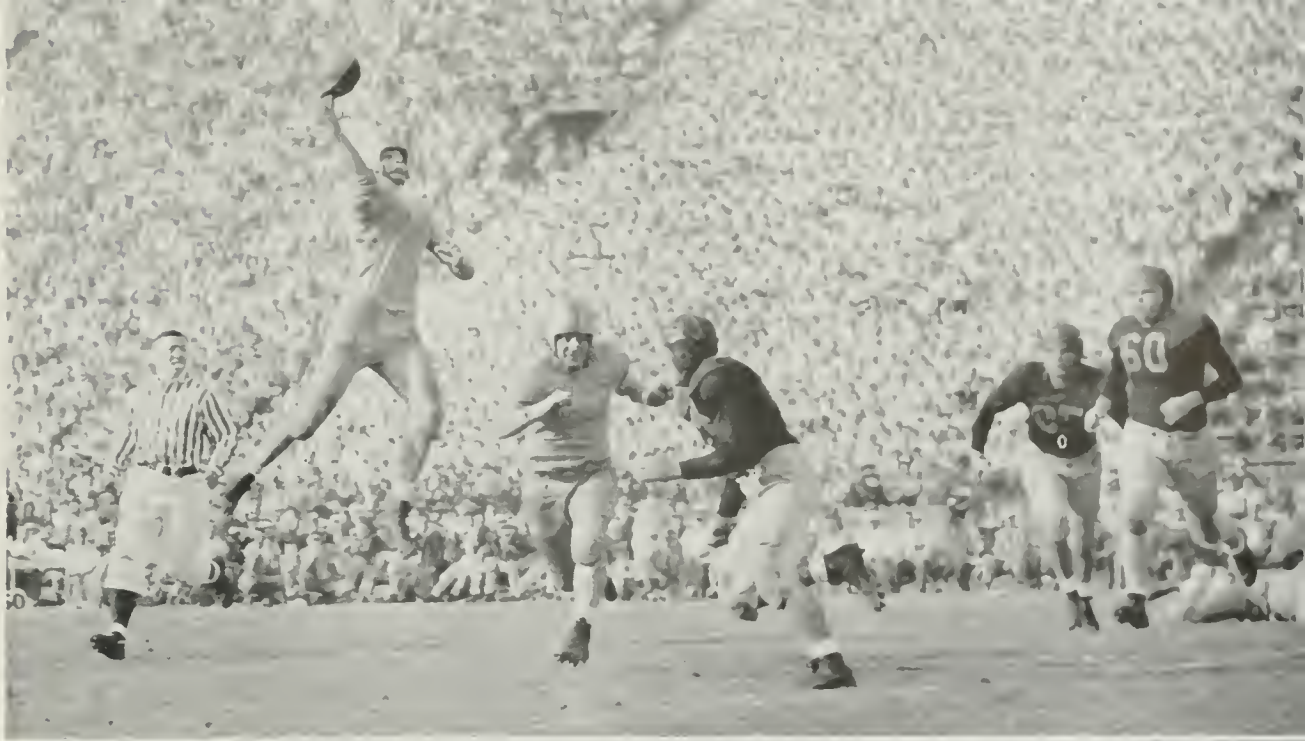

RAY NAGLE, the little T-quarterback, amazed all with his super successful conversion to the single wing.. He will be sorely missed.

JOHN NIKCEVICH shuddered the turf of the coliseum with a rock and sock style that earned many honors for this pigskin veteran.

Little Ern leaped high off the Coliseum turf to let go with one of his successful long aerals. JULIE WEISSTEIN let fly with a block on a well-wishing Trojan tackler as the fellow in the stripes looked in vain for a penalty to be called.

Dependable DON HUNT zoomed away from three burly Southern Cal linemen after intercepting a Trojan aerial. The refs kept up their average for the day when they called a heavy penalty which snuffed out an excellent Bruin scoring opportunity.

The Trojans' Bill Martin was snowed under by a hoard of Bruin tacklers as he attempted to run the right end of the line. JIM BUCHANAN, HARRY THOMPSON, DON HUNT, and brother Uclans closed in to make sure that "Battleship Bill" was brought safely to port.

HAL BRALY, bull-like fullback, was the man to call when our big guns were needed for a knock-em-down blast through the middle.

JIM BUCHANAN, the block of granite from LACC, backed up the Bruin forward wall with veteran ability in his initial season at Westwood.

DON COGSWELL, giant right end used his size and speed to outmaneuver the opponent's secondary to give the UCLA passers a fine target.

ED EATON, hampered by an appendectomy, nevertheless, climaxed his brilliant prep and collegiate record by playing some of his best football.

JERRY FIELDS, a tricky newcomer, was one of the few Dickersonmen to make good in his first year up from the '48 frosh.

LYNN HALE, the grand old man of Bruin football, wound up his lengthy football career performing consistent relief work at center.

HOWARD HANSEN, a steady performing break-away artist, was no less proficient at grabbing aerials or taking long jaunts on punt returns.

DON HUNT, another graduating senior, used his outstanding all-around athletic ability in the offensive and defensive end slot.

DEAN KIRBY, after a year of JV duty, was given the opportunity he needed to prove his true value to the team as a defensive end.

ARNOLD LECKMAN finally came into his own for the Bruins when he, late in the season, successfully moved into a defensive half spot.

JOE MARVIN, another newcomer, from Santa Rosa JC, moved into the Sanders's system with potentialities of becoming a great tailback.

HAL MITCHELL, mammoth sophomore tackle, was a place kicking specialist in addition to his duties up front on the Sanders-coached eleven.

DARRELL RIGGS, the forgotten man, was a first club wingman until injuries finished him for the Bruin '49 football season.

SHERWOOD SIMPSON, truly a "watch fob" guard, did athletic wonders in moving bigger men to open holes in opposing lines.

BRECK STROSCHEIN, ball of fire for the Westwoods, played some terrific games as a second year tackle and will be a boomer in '50.

HARRY THOMPSON, the work horse of this year's fine line play, goes down in Bruin history as an all-time gridiron tackle.

UPSETTERS

ROY VUJOVICH, a defensive bulwark throughout the season, was as hard to move on defense as he was to cover on offense.

BOB WATSON earned Red Sander's praise as his best all around player with his savage defensive work, hard running, and conversion artistry.

JULIAN WEISSTEIN, another sophomore, earned a starting berth in the Oregon fracas, and added depth to the blocking back corps.

BOB WILKINSON, fleet footed All-Coast wingman, used his pass catching magic to erase receiving mark in the Bruin record book.

BILL SMITH, scrappy little guard, from Madera, was honored by election to the captain post of the successful 1949 Bruin freshmen.

The 1949 frosh gridders, although not having too successful a season in the win-loss department, were a high scoring group that developed many stars who will no doubt move into the public limelight when they perform for the varsity team this year. Ted Narleski and Whitney Arceneaux, who alternated at tailback, gave the Bruins a bit of intersectional flavor along with their team generalship. The Brubabes' two towering ends, Ernie Stockert and Donn Moomaw, were the outstanding wingmen to perform in Bruin frosh games for many years. Their pass catching abilities will put them in the running for varsity positions next season. Other standouts of this versatile squad were linemen John Davis, Joe Marselek, Tom Wahlgren, and Gary Clark. Potential backs for Red Sanders' corps were Cappy Smith, Don Spivey and little Pete Dailey.

Tailback TED NARLESKI, the New Jersey Nifty, sails for the sidelines as an irate Cub tackler tries in vain to close the gap. Little Ted led the underdog Brubabes to their sensational upset victory over the highly rated Cal freshmen. The Bruins took to the air to crush northern hopes for an undefeated season.

Bill Mais of the Cal frosh is about to go down for the count as a hustling Brubabe player ends a short run by the visiting quarterback; TOM WAHLGREN, JOE MARSELEK, and GARY CLARK come up to finish the job. Strong defensive work by the UCLA players completely bottled the offensive of their favored visitors.

FROSH FOOTBALL

The football coaching staff of UCLA's 1949 edition of the frosh team was again led by HEAD COACH GEORGE DICKERSON. Backing him up was an all-alumni staff of former Bruin pigskin greats. ART REICHLE, NATE DEFRANCISCO and JOHN JOHNSON were the men who served with Dickerson.

PCC CONFERENCE CHAMPIONS

Fifth in the nation . . . was the rating that the 1949-50 edition of the Bruin basketball team achieved in the final cage poll conducted by the Associated Press on a nation wide survey. Judged from all aspects, the past season has been the most successful ever had at Bruinville. They say that lightning only strikes once, but with John Wooden it's an habitual thing, only each time it brings a bigger shock. After last year's surprise Southern Division crown, the sophomore coach gave Westwood an added honor this year with the first UCLA Pacific Coast Conference championship, earning an invitation to Kansas City and the NCAA playoffs. It didn't seem so at the time, but probably the most important single victory that added to Bruin prestige this year was the decisive victory over CCNY at Madison Square Gardens. CCNY, under the guidance of Nat Holman, Mr. Basketball himself, went on to be the first team that has copped both the NCAA playoffs and the National Invitational Tournament. Until UCLA traveled to Kansas City, the Bruins had won twenty-five out of thirty games, against the toughest foes that the schedule makers could arrange. Also looming as a major feat on the Bruin achievement ledger was the complete undoing of any victory plans from invading squads from the Bay Area. Since Stanford beat UCLA early in '49, the Northern teams haven't been able to beat the Bruins.

Facts tell the stunning success story of COACH JOHN WOODEN at UCLA. In his first two seasons, his teams have won two divisional buntings, a conference title, and the Bruins' first invitation to the national playoffs . . . an enviable record, indeed.

Avid fans of the champion Westwood buckateers, were hard working managers HAROLD CRAWFORD, JACK ZULLINGER, and JACK MATLIN, whose duties were innumerable.

ALAN SAWYER climaxed his four years of brilliant basketball playing with the dual honors of being named Captain of the 1949-50 team, plus becoming the highest scorer in bruin history.

Up and at 'em . . . DON SEIDEL did just that in the Cal Poly basketball practice game. The Bruin's non-conference slate scheduled tilts all over the country as well as on the Pacific Coast and was instrumental in shaping the team.

CARL KRAUSHAAR got the tip away from the highly touted ED ROMAN of CCNY. The board clearing job displayed by CARL rated him acclaims from the New York scribblers who thought enough of the Bruin team to rate them among the top ten of the nation's hardwood fives.

ART ALPER did not see too much action since he backed up Stan-ich, but he is marked as a real comer for next year's defense of the basketball bunting.

DAVE WILLIAMS took time out from his football and track efforts to hustle on the basketball squad . . . the future will see him taking a larger part in court

GENE WILLIAMS had a brief ball tussle with the men from Fresno State who journeyed south to take on the Bruins. Such early season contests were an indication of the potential power of the 1950 board crew.

NON-CONFERENCE TILTS

High point of the Bruin pre-conference schedule was the decisive victory over CCNY, winner of every major post-season tournament, in the Mecca of American basketball, Madison Square Garden. On the strength of this win UCLA was established ninth in the AP early season cage poll. Early on the Eastern swing UCLA knocked over Illinois and LaSalle but a tiring group lost two straight to Wisconsin and Northwestern after the stunning CCNY victory. The only loss that the westwooders sustained on the Western slopes in the practice season was to last year's Cinderella team, University of San Francisco, winner of the 1949 National Invitational Tourney at Madison Square Garden. Lopsided wins were registered over such weak competition as Santa Barbara, Cal. Poly, Fresno State, San Diego State and others, while Pepperdine and Santa Clara proved difficult foes.

"OK boys let 'em have it. ED SHELDRAKE, ALAN SAWYER, and GEORGE STANICH gave all Fighting Illini the once over in a bitterly contested game that became a last minute 65-63 Bruin basketball victory.

With the Bruins colder than an Eskimo's nose, the Bears nearly took the Westwooders into their fog-shrouded encampment in a wild game at Berkeley. EDDIE SHELDRAKE drove around the strangely uninterested Bear.

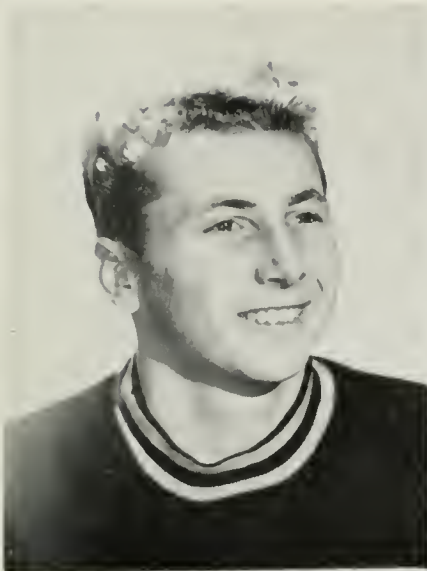

SAWYER and KRAUSHAAR patiently wait under the basket as a ball hungry Bear races for the casaba. The Bruins finally won, but not without a battle from the bruising Cal team that fought all the way.

RALPH JOECKEL played spectacular ball all year long as exhibited by his play in the California game. It was his last minute shot in the Washington State playoff game that clinched the Bruins Pacific Coast Conference title.

Brother Bruin has been sticking a thumb in his Berkeley relative's eye for the past two seasons under the tutelage of John Wooden. For two seasons the older branch has failed to capture a Bruin pelt. Two of this years' games could be summarized by saying that the Bruins had too much speed for Berkeley, and when they turned it on, they seemingly scored at will. In the first Bear foray the Bruins were noticeably weary from their eastern excursion and barely outlasted "Nibs" Price's Bears. However, in the second game at Berkeley the Bruins coasted to an easy victory. Unhappy with the dismal skein of defeats, the burly Bears turned on the pressure in the third game of the series and played a no-holds-barred type of game, roughing Uclan stars in a slam-bang battle under the netting. Despite the rough stuff, the Bruins won going away. In game number four Cal led until the final ten seconds when Sawyer scored to break a 44-44 deadlock.

BARRY CHASEN was a reserve most of the season, but indications are that Coach Wooden will find a choice spot for him in the 1951 line-up.

Due to the unusual reserve strength that the Bruins possessed this year UCLA's "Mr. Football," ERNIE JOHNSON, spent most of his final year as an observer.

GEORGE STANICH thrilled Gotham fans with his jumping shots on the team's Eastern swing. Such play was one of the outstanding reasons for STANICH being the West's most colorful basketball courtman.

Not only did KARL KRAUSHAAR control both backboards, but he developed a fade-away hook shot that made him a potential scoring threat every time.

GROVER LUCHSINGER with both Kraushaar and Alba graduating will be the only experienced center playing on the 1951 squad.

ALAN SAWYER's version of the fast break was a little too much for the Bay Area's fabulous GEORGE YARDLEY and HARRY HUGASIAN who haunted the high scoring Bruin's footsteps at each of their four conference meetings.

EDDIE SHELDRAKE's exhibitions of the jet propelled Bruin attack was the big decider in the Stanford series as the Palo Altoans wilted in the closing minutes of all four of their defeats to the Coast champions.

In Coach Wooden's debut to PCC basketball back in '48 the Redmen from Stanford proved poor hosts by crunching the Bruins in the season opener. Unhappy with his West Coast greeting, the wily Westwood mentor has been a nemesis to Palo Alto scalping parties ever since. In this year's opener the Uclans hit peak performance, blasting their way to a 71-55 victory in the Westwood gym "race-track." The Indians tried to keep up with the Wooden Wonders but folded in the second half. On the Bruins first journey to Stanford the Westwooders fast-breaking attack, led by George Stanich, Carl Kraushaar, and Eddie Shel-drake, completely baffled the Stanford defenders. In the third game the Indians didn't wear out in their attempt to keep up with the Bruin speed marathon, they were simply outclassed. Then UCLA sewed up the Southern Division bunting with a victory in the Farm gamehouse.

RAY ALBA contributed much to Bruin basketball depth with his steady work controlling the backboards, filling in at the center position.

JOHN MATULICH, another of Sacramento's gifts to the Westwood athletic picture was last year's frosh star and has two years of competition left.

KARL KRAUSHAAR tried his long arm stretch and put in two points for the Bruin squad. It was backboard play such as this which aided the Woodenmen score victories over their opponents during the 1950 campaign.

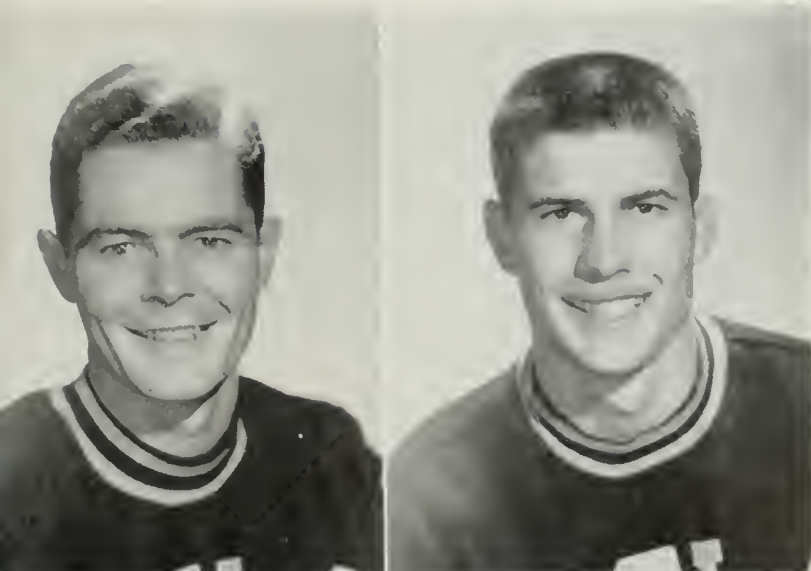

GEORGE STANICH soared up to the Stanford basket to dunk in two points for the Bruin side of the scoresheet just ahead of GEORGE YARDLEY, who was seldom late in his defensive maneuvers. YARDLEY's offensive genius was a sight to see

GEORGE STANICH, the finest athlete to emerge from the hills of Westwood in a decade, was a defensive ace that all Bruin opponents failed to handle.

ALAN SAWYER, the casanova of the courts, relied on his effortless two handed push shot to rack up needed Bruin digits and become a UCLA great.

ALAN SAWYER and STAN CHRISTIE went high for a rebound and the classy SAWYER got the advantage with a little flip boosted toward team mate JERRY NORMAN in the second home game of the famed cross-city rivals.

High flying GEORGE STANICH went over SC's BOB KOLF for another Bruin bash on the buckets of the Westwood gym. Gorgeous G's relentless attack on the backboards was the deciding factor of the cross-town series.

WES ROBINSON is destined to play a large chunk of basketball for the Bruin squad in coming years and this year's experience will be an aid.

GENE WILLIAMS returned from a year's vacation from the hardwood to become a capable fill-in performer at forward for Wooden's miracle men.

DON SEIDEL, veteran Hollywood hoopster, used his dribbling and passing know-how to calm the young Bruin team when the pressure was on.

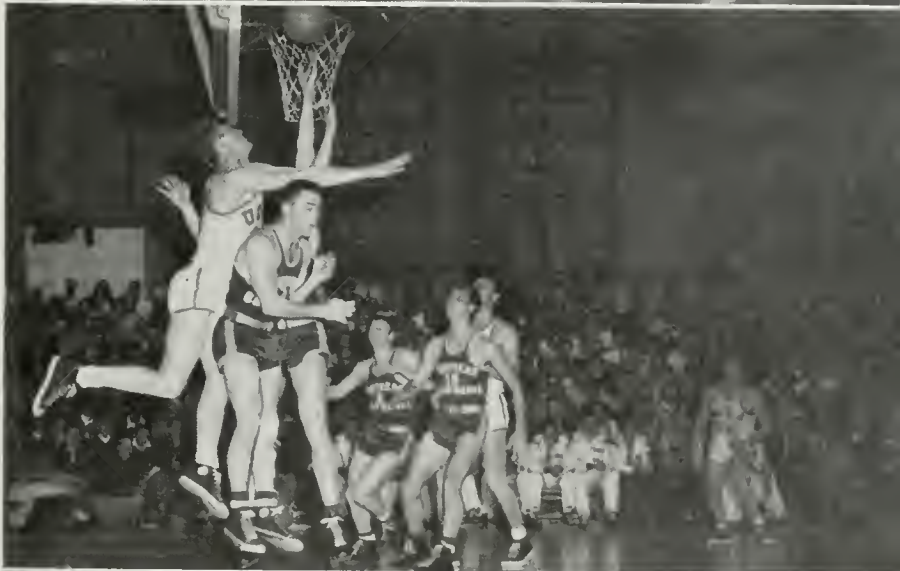

JERRY NORMAN, sophomore forward, survived a barrage of injuries to earn a starting berth and the high praises of southland sport followers.

Eager to repeat their seemingly amazing triple victory over the Trojans last year, the Bruins of '50 went into the first game of the cross-town series far too tense to play any sort of game representative of their true ability. Not a Uclan was able to hit his proverbial hat, and Bill Sharman put on one of his fantastic scoring sprees—good enough for thirty-two points. The disappointed Bruins walked off the court feeling lower than Amber's morals. Coming back the next night, the Bruins, with their celebrated inhospitality, brushed off the Trojans to hang up their 22nd homecourt victory. Alan Sawyer was high point man for the evening with twenty-two points. Game number three, again put on at Westwood was the most rude defeat of the year for the Woodenmen; for the Trojan toughies cut the twenty-six game win streak off but short as they squeaked past a stunning 45-43 victory. In the finale, again it was Sharman . . . good for a fat two dozen points. But even this Herculean effort couldn't dull the race horse gang who dunked the rough downtowners 75-57.

CARL KRAUSHAAR, center slot guardian for the Pacific Coast champions from Westwood skipped out of an SC squeeze play to safely rebound the elusive ball away from Trojan experts as they blotted out the defending Bruins.

BOB BOYD of the Trojans controlled the ball under the Uclan's basket as the cardinal and gold players stood ready for a pass. The poor shooting of the locals and the rugged SC play spelled Bruin defeat in this first series game.

Fireball EDDIE SHELDRAKE went flying through the outstretched arms of the Trojans' STAN CHRISTIE and BUD DOTY. All-American BILL SHARMAN trundled up to view the action to little avail as Ed was well on his way.

PACIFIC COAST CONFERENCE CHAMPIONSHIP

Finishing the Southern Division season with a ten and two record against powerful Stanford, California, and Southern California, the red hot Bruins prepared themselves for their third assault on the Pacific Coast crown in four years. Luck was finally with the Bruins, as they played off the championship in the famed Westwood "hotbox." Coming from the northwest, though, was a team that was heralded by sportswriters as the greatest team to come out of Washington since 1937. Leading the Washington State Cougars' attack were Ed Gayda, a seasoned veteran of four years campaigning, and a tall timber of a sophomore, Gene Conley. The Bruins finally proved their might, at the end of the first game of the series, after the lead had changed hands through the entire game. With the Bruins and Cougars shooting fantastic averages, the game could have gone either way up till the last minute, but Ralph Joeckle's memorable shot, with absolutely no time remaining, gave the hometowners a 60-58 win. In the second game the Staters hung on desperately to put on another terrific battle that again went to the wire before the Bruins won 52-49, and with this victory the Bruins led by coach John Wooden became the first UCLA team to win a Pacific Coast title.

GEORGE STANICH got the tip away from CONLEY, the northwest's answer to Paul Bunyan, as ALAN SAWYER stood by ready to nab the ball for a quick pass down the court, to begin the first lap of a wooden-made fastbreak. The racehorse style of roundball for which the Bruins became famous was often the crucial difference, between the Westwood boys and their opponents, that gave the UCLANS many last minute one-bucket victories.

Olympic high-jumper GEORGE STANICH's unstoppable lay-ups began "just this side of half-court." The Sacramento scrapper, was rated tops on the Coast and was tabbed by eastern sportswriters for many honorable mentions. He recently signed a pro-baseball contract in the Coast league.

PAUL SAUNDER's cat-like defense work and ball handling abilities netted him lots of playing time for the Woodenled champions.

EDDIE SHELDRAKE's ability to grab the ball off the backboards earned him a guard position on the Little All-American casaba team.

EDDIE SHELDRAKE exhibited his dribbling finesse as he sped by two Washington State defenders in the Pacific Coast Conference Championships, while CARL KRAUSHAAR set himself as a screen against the last Cougar. Fabulous shooting average by both teams made this series tops in excitement for Westwood team followers.

The Pacific Coast Conference representatives from Westwood showed a spark of their regular season brilliance as ALAN SAWYER cooled off a BYU scoring attempt during the consolation bracket of the NCAA Western playoffs. Jumping GEORGE STANICH and KRAUSHAAR stand by prepared to roll down the court.

DICK THOMPSON spent a large part of his time on the bench in 1950, but his future looks bright and the coming years will see him on the courts.

RALPH JOECKEL, UCLA's Frank Merriwell, alternated with Jerry Norman at forward and when the bespectacled senior was hot the Bruins had two hot aces.

In Kansas City's bloodless slaughterhouse, the Municipal Auditorium, eleven thousand screaming sadists watched UCLA drop to the twin bludgeoning of Bradley U and BYU in the Western division playoffs for the NCAA title. Established as five point underdog in the opening game against then national champs Bradley, the determined Bruins just about pulled the upset victory of the post-season tourney round-robin when they led the Braves seven points with only five minutes to go, a victory that would have given Westwood undying fame. The Wooden's "wonder juice" wore off and the racehorse started a stall ing game, an unfamiliar role. In the disasterous ending the Braves scored twenty-three points to the unnerved Uclans TWO! The next night's debacle started with UCLA an eleven point favorite over Brigham Young, due to their fine thirty-five minutes of basketball the night before, but the Bruins "should have stood in bed." In a parallel of the previous evening's game the Bruins looked like world beaters until late in the second half when they folded horribly, losing 62-83.

NCAA WESTERN PLAYOFFS

The elongated BYU backboardsmen drop out of the sky with ball well controlled as JERRY NORMAN and CARL KRAUSHAAR vainly attempts to arrest the evasive sphere from the fighting Ute. The well coached Rocky Mountain boys showed their backboard game as they completely bottled the usually dangerous SAWYER.

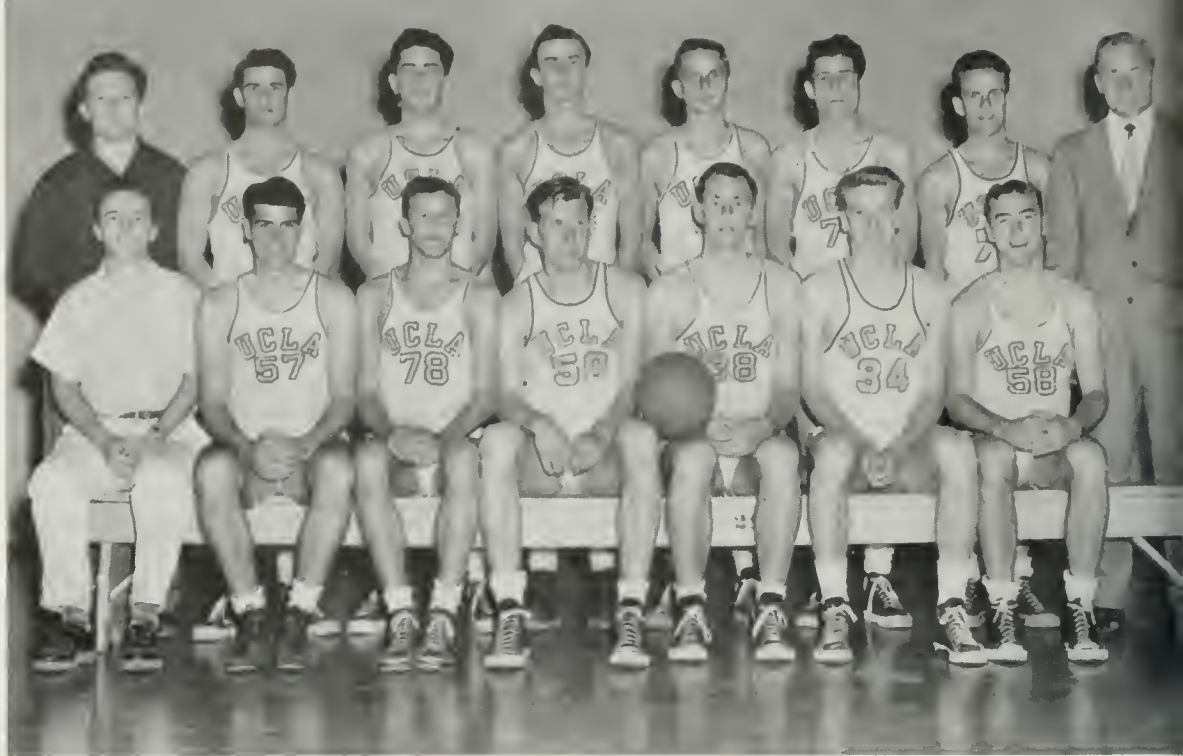

"... Pacific's rolling water..." "How collegiate can you get?" asked the 14,000, minus 27, jealous students who had to stay at home and listen to the spine tingling NCAA play-offs while the KELPS spent the week-end in Kansas City. The Rah Rah boys from Westwood financed their trip east with a giant raffle.

PAUL "SPIDER" SAUNDERS made the big stretch in his successful attempt to retrieve a BYU lay-up as Carl Kraushaar gets into position to nab a possible loose ball. The boys from Utah showed too much pepper in the second half of the game, though, as they ran away from the disappointed losers against Bradley.

Little ED SHELDRAKE screeched to a halt as a hustling BYU defender throws up a tight defensive maneuver to halt the Westwood fireball. The trundling heavyweight can be seen gumming his whistle in the background anticipating some illegal progress by the Bruin ball handler seems destined to ramble on for another step.

FROSH BASKETBALL

The Frosh Basketballers survived the long season under the leadership of coach and former Bruin star Ron Pearson with great success. Boasting an 11-8 mark in the win-loss department, the young melonmen did well against Junior College and University Freshman teams. The powerful Ripples from Pepperdine were the only team to turn the Brubabes twice. Standouts of the versatile and deep squad were: Carroll Adams, Harlan Amstutz, Jerry Evens, and Dick Ridgeway, Captain and new holder of the yearling scoring mark.

The Brubabes showed control of the basket, but they lost one to their bitter crosstown rivals, the Freshmen of USC. The yearlings came back the next night with a victory, and dominated the Trobabes the remainder of the year. The 49-50 team had a sensational win-loss record, outshined only by last year's one-defeat Freshman Team.

RON PEARSON, former captain of the Bruin varsity, took over with great success the task of moulding the Freshman Team. DICK RIDGEWAY, captain of the winning freshmen, set a new frosh scoring mark, and seems destined to become a regular on the varsity. Manager JACK MATLIN kept the team in running order.

BOB WILKINSON became an All-Time Bruin player, in his junior year, by the brilliant play he exhibited as an end of Coach Sanders surprising footballers.

After his two wins in the NCAA tennis tournament, HERB FLAM could claim title as the greatest UCLA tennis player of all time. His graduation was a UCLA loss.

ALAN SAWYER was the point-making spark of WOODEN'S basketball champs. His barrage on the buckets netted him the all-time UCLA scoring title.

1950 SPORTS STARS

From September to June, 1950, some 18 UCLA Teams and 1500 athletes have been competing with varying success. A few were champions, some were near champions, others were also-rans. Win or lose, "UCLA" gained greater stature in sports. The Tennis Team won its first NCAA title . . . Basketball was a PCC champion . . . The Football Team gained an undisputed second in non conference play . . . Skiers . . . Soccer . . . Wrestling . . . Boxing . . . Record, titles, championships, national honors . . . UCLA, no longer the Southern Branch.

Veteran racket wielder, GENE GARRETT, climaxed his four seasons of tennis, in which he led the Bruins to three Southern Division titles, with a doubles win in the NCAA finals.

DON SMITH gained more laurels in his water-sports specialties than any former Bruin. Plus his All-Coast honors, he was a four year letterman and captain of both water polo and swimming.

Popular Director of Athletics, WILBUR JOHNS, was greatly responsible for the success of the basketball and football teams. His wise choices in the selection of the coaches for the most important positions on the athletic program were instrumental in bringing victory to UCLA.

Success was definitely not the keynote for the 1950 varsity baseballers, as the season ended with a win-loss record of 19 and 21. The practice season went a little better than par with 14 wins and only 11 losses, but the C.I.B.A. season ended in a disappointing 5 wins against 10 losses. The mediocre season could have been due to the loss of last year's leading pitcher, George Stanich, to the professional ranks, or due to the absence of batting power. Seventeen letters were awarded for the 1950 campaign and the team's outstanding performances were turned in by Jim Groh, batting champ; Bob Andrews, outstanding pitcher; Vince Delamarter, team spirit; and Captain Phil Steinberg, most valuable player. Along with eight graduating seniors, the Bruins will lose three more to the professional ranks.

Head man on the baseball diamond is Coach ART REICHLÉ. REICHLÉ has been running the show on Joe E. Brown field for seven years. Art doubles as a frosh football aide.

Manager BÉN AYIDEN is the unsung hero of the baseball diamond. It is BEN's job to see that the field is in shape for a game, take care of all equipment, and keep the scorebooks.

PHIL STEINBERG alias "Chauncey" played the last of his four years with the Bruin horsehiders in the role of captain. In his four years, PHIL has played short and third.

BASEBALL

JOHN MATALICH and COACH REICHLER race to home plate to grab the mitt of BOYD JEFERIES who races home with the winning run of the 7-6 UCLA victory over Sam Barry's horsehiders. This was a sweet sight, for the Barrymen dunked the locals in the other two tilts.

Safe . . . was the cry as Captain PHIL STEINBERG slid safely into third base during a game with Santa Clara. UCLA won the three game series with Santa Clara two to one. The 1950 season showed fielding strength on the Bruin club but power was lacking.

PETE MOODY hits the dirt at home to add marker to the Bruin scoreboard against the Los Angeles Police in a practice game. A slide like this during the last Cal game resulted in a broken leg for second baseman Moody.

Captain PHIL STEINBERG lays a bunt down the base line and takes off for first trying to stretch a sacrifice into a safe hit. Timely bunts were one of Coach Reichle's main offensive strategies against slow fielding teams.

FRANK ERNAGA rookie first baseman is a three sport letterman from Lassen JC. Frank has two more years for the Bruins.

JAMES FAIRMAN as a right-handed pitcher, won 2 games while losing 3. JIM graduates from the Bruin ranks as a three striper.

MIKE GAZELLA, a smooth fielding utility infielder, lettered for his second year. MIKE ended his collegiate career batting .235.

ROBERT ANDREWS pitched his third and final year for the Bruins winning 6 while losing 4. Bob delivered from the portside.

DALE CLARK began the season alternating at the back-stop position but was switched to right field for added hitting power.

JIM GROH a sophomore transfer from LACC inaugurated his first season at UCLA by capturing batting honors.

WARREN HART the leading pitcher of last year's frosh squad lettered in his first attempt at varsity ball. WARREN won 2 and lost 4.

BOYD JEFFERIES was another standout from last year's frosh. BOYD lettered as a utility outfielder and batted .169.

BILL LUNDQUIST was alternating first string catcher for the '50 campaign. In his last year for the UCLAns Lundquist batted .200.

JOHN MATLICH just up from the frosh has two more promising years of eligibility. John lettered at first base and batted .275.

ROBERT McNEIL saw most of his action in a relief role and had a win-loss record of 3-2. Bob bats right.

PETE MOODY cavorted at second base for the Reichlemen until a broken leg in the last Cal game closed Pete's season.

MARIO NITRINI's superb fielding ability landed him a starting berth at short-stop. MARIO recently joined the pro ranks.

"Thar she blows" as PHIL STEINBERG blasts the pellet into the outer gardens. Steinberg was fourth in Bruin batting and led the team with five triples. Phil was the only four year letterman of the '49-50 season.

Bruin catcher DALE CLARK is tagged out at home trying to score from second on a single as JIM GROH signals to "hit the dirt." Groh and Clark were numbers one and three in team batting and were responsible for four homers.

Third baseman, PHIL STEINBERG, tags a Santa Clara Bronco out trying to stretch a triple into a homer. Rifle arms and exceptional speeds were common in Bruin outfields to halt over anxious enemy baserunners.

DIAMONDMEN

RAY O'CONNOR is a right handed pitcher and was used mostly in a relief role. Roy is a two year letterman with one year left.

PHIL STEINBERG, season's captain and veteran third sacker, ended his four year baseball career at UCLA batting .257.

HORSEHIDERS

MARTY WEINBERGER leaves UCLA with three baseball monograms and a reputation for a rifle arm from rightfield.

MARIO NITRINI displays proper form while scoring in the second Santa Clara game, but Santa Clara went on to win 3 to 2. Nitrini and two other UCLAns will not be back next year to use their eligibility because of pro contracts.

JIM GROH blasts one of his three homeruns as the ump and opposing catcher observe. Groh received top batting honors with a C.I.B.A. average of .340. Jim is another UCLA player that was lost to the professional ranks.

FROSH BASEBALL

Coach Jack Myers began his second season as head coach of the freshman baseball team with a few good men, but not enough talent to produce a consistent winner. The team's .500 game average was par for the course against high school, JC, and the SC Trobables, who walloped the Bruins two out of three games in the crosstown series. Standout of the team and most valuable player award winner was Gene Corso, hard-hitting centerfielder who socked the apple at a .329 clip. Carroll Adams reported to the diamond wars late in the year, but still was the best chucker on the squad. Carrot-thatched Hal Crow was a great defensive player in left field, and with added experience at the plate could become a varsity standout. Other freshman players who stand excellent chances of making the varsity next season are Dick Hansen, slugging shortstop, and Captain Steve Clamen.

Leading the fiery freshmen to an 8-8 season were Coach JACK "MOOSE" MYERS, former Bruin football and horsehide star, and STEVE CLAMEN, frosh Captain who managed a mean .308 batting average while attending to his diamond duties.

TRACK

Four years of tireless track campaigning were climaxed for middle distance vet JACK MILLER when he was elected to captain the '50 trackmen.

JACK SELLERS was a players' manager in his many duties as manager, trainer, timer, and what-do-you-need-me-for routines.

Coach ELVIN "DUCKY" DRAKE had to get used to losing during the season of '50, but his leadership kept up the trackster's spirit.

CY YOUNG, the Modesto Monster, lets go of another record-breaking heave at the Westwood oval. CY's brilliant performances in the spear tossing event kept up the pride of the downhearted Bruins who found little to root for in a season that saw the locals lose every PCC meet.

Trojans BAILLE and BERG struggle across the finish of the gruelling two-mile a step in front of Bruin distance man, JERRY WITHERS. In this race, Big Chief NEWCOMB ran away from the field to leave the place and show spots to one of this trio of tired runners.

It's over, what seemed the longest track season in the school's history finally came to an end. The dual meet season was no more than a series of humiliations heaped upon one another with each week-end more embarrassing than the last. Coach "Ducky" Drake, certainly a fine leader of the talent he had on hand, simply did not recruit enough talent during the last few years to match the growing power being accumulated by schools all over the state. Results—small schools like Occidental with a student body less than 2,000 had a team of track athletes capable of smashing to bits the undernourished Bruin. The only chance UCLA fans had to take their eyes from their brogans was during the relay meets where the two-mile relay team, and Cy Young carried the load well enough to warrant their coming to the meet. True, the frosh team possessed a number of men who can help in '51, but UCLA must rally its students, alums, and friends if the situation is ever to be remedied; if we are ever to win a PCC track meet.

RALPH MANUS and JACK MILLER make a good pass in the relay against San Diego. In this event the lead-off man for the illfated Aztec team dropped the baton to give the Westwood quartet the relay and the meet.

Trojan sprint star, JOHN BRADLEY hits the tape followed by two teammates for another sweep. The Bruins simply could not match the powerful, well balanced dual meet champs who proved their might with another NCAA title.

FRED "DAD" BECK comes home in the four lap grind ahead of power-runner DON HANGEN and a faltering Cal entry. Westwood middle distance power, though good, could not cope with the abundance of Coast stars.

DON HANGEN, sophomore distance powerhouse, proved he is destined to become the greatest of all Bruin mile runners.

FRED BECK, high-point Bruin distance-man, finished his junior year with an SP AAU win in his first attempt at the steeplechase.

RONALD DRUMMOND, sophomore discus artist from Glendale CC used his tremendous size for consistent 150 foot throws.

HUGH WILSON, plagued by injuries, never got back into condition well enough to equal early season hurdle marks.

California's high-class 880 combination of PHIL ARNOT and DON CLARK hit the tape a stride ahead of Bruin captain JACK MILLER. This race was won in 1.54 flat; faster than the UCLA school record. The Bruins faced such competition all year.

World's record holder DICK ATTESEY tears on his way for the next hurdle before Trojans and Bruin timber toppers have managed the first barrier. UCLA entrants DEAN, WILSON, and ROCHE were shutout in this event.

ON CARTER, brilliant JC
prise first place winner against the powerful SC
all throwers.

CY YOUNG, the standout of the '50 Bruins, climaxed the collegiate season with a tremendous second place
NCAA javelin heave.

JERRY WITHER, junior two-miler improved consistently. He's a sure bet to break the longstanding
Bruin eight lap mark.

JOHN KALIN was the top jumper on the Bruin squad.
Consistently over the bar
at 6' 2", he could always be counted for points.

BOB WATANABE survived
run consistent 9.8 sprints against the ever-brilliant west coast sprinters.

ROY VUJOVICH was one
represent UCLA in the NCAA. His vault marks

RALPH MANUS, another
made good, parlayed his
quarter, and relay team.

BILL SELLERS came out of track retirement to run
Bruin dual meets.

DAVE WILLIAMS, working
aside from his spring foot-
the 150 foot mark all season.

HUGH MITCHELL, considered one of the guttiest
880 men, ran away from BOB CHAMBERS in the Fresno Relays.

THINCLADS

JOHNNY KALIN, displaying the style made famous by the famous LES STEERS, rolls over the bar in a successful jump. Bruin field event strength kept the score respectable in many of the dual meets throughout the disastrous season.

ROY VUJOVICH slips off his pole and over the crossbar at 13 feet. ROY climaxed his final year of Bruin competition by outjumping many of his PCC rivals in the Conference meet to nab a tie for second and a chance to compete in the east.

OVALMEN

DONNIE ANDERSON of the Golden Bears displays the form which ranks him as the number two sprinter in the nation. Here he breaks the tape ahead of teammates MAPLES, BOB WATANABE, BOB WILKINSON, and California's ROD GRANT.

JOHN PENNINO grabbed points in the SC hoax and his third place in the discus bettered UCLA teammates.

GENE ROCHE survived a mid-season javelin wound to return to aid the already weakened high and low hurdle corps.

KARL KRAUSHAAR made good marks in the high jump. More work and he would have been a hard man to beat.

ANDY BEROKOFF, former JC champ spent the year getting into previous form. His best vault of the year came as the season ended.

GENE BORDY spread his talents in the field events. Climax of the year for him was a second place in the AAU hop-skip-and jump.

JACK MILLER, the lone Bruin first in the Stanford meet, climaxed his four years of running with his election as captain.

Miler DON HANGEN drew the task of catching a fleet SC runner in the mile relay. Coach DRAKE used a team made up of 880 men and mile runners because his 440 men run as well as the men who usually confined their duties to longer distances.

FROSH TRACK

The first in what Bruins hope to be a long line of Bruin track victories over the USC Freshmen was attained this year by a band of determined yearlings under the leadership of Coach Pat Turner who has for many seasons dreamed of such a victory. The first-year thinclads lost only one of their dual meets, this going to Glendale CC early in the year. From then on it was nothing but victory and plaudits from the Bruin rooters who adopted the freshmen in favor of their faltering big brothers. Leading points nabbers were: the sprint trio of Rodney Richard, Baxter Bralley, and Len Alexander, distance men supreme Chuck Phillips and Marty Donohue, quarter-miler Bill Wright, and a pair of field men in John Davis and Len Eilers.

CHUCK PHILLIPS of the Bruins frosh hits the finish a yard ahead of teammate FRED LIEB. Strength in the running events made it possible for the Westwood yearlings to register their first win over USC's freshmen. Here's hoping for more such victories.

"Absolutely the best Tennis Team in the School's history." Losing only to the Trojans in Conference play and bowing to the Perry Jones All-Stars, the Westwood netmen went on to greater glory than ever anticipated as they won a clean sweep in the NCAA Tennis Championships. Herb Flam won the singles title, and then teamed with Gene Garrett to cop the coveted doubles cup. Flam and Garrett weren't the only standouts on the squad: Glen Bassett and Jack Shoemaker both reached the round of sixteen before bowing out in the Texas contest. Also returning with Shoemaker next year will be Kauder, Self, Starr, and Schneider. The Flam story is a joy to tell: After his Collegiate victory Herbie nabbed the silverware at the Salt Lake and Colorado Opens, the Western Intercollegiate, and the National Clay Courts championship. Co-Captain, Herb Flam is destined for a berth on the U. S. Davis Cup Team, an honor well deserved after four seasons of Bruin Tennis in which he never lost a collegiate match.

Co-captains of the National Champions are HERB FLAM and GLEN BASSETT. These two fiery competitors have played their last matches for the blue and gold, but many years shall pass before Bruin tennis followers forget the remarkable play of this duo.

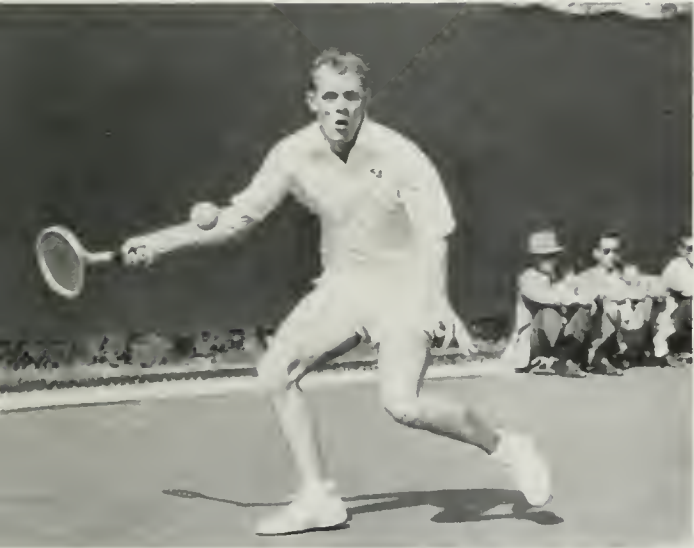

These two rascals-of-the-racquets have used up their eligibility, but they still put time in on the Bruin courts every afternoon. Coaches of the latest NCAA Net Champions: BILL ACKERMAN, in his lapel-less tennis sweater, and assistant J. D. MORGAN.

HERB FLAM dusted off opponents with his powerful overhead smash. His most prominent victim was United States Davis Cup hero Ted Schoeder, whom Herb beat twice.

GENE GARRETT's smooth volley, combined with his strong back-court game, has placed him along UCLA stars and best of collegiate netters of the past four years.

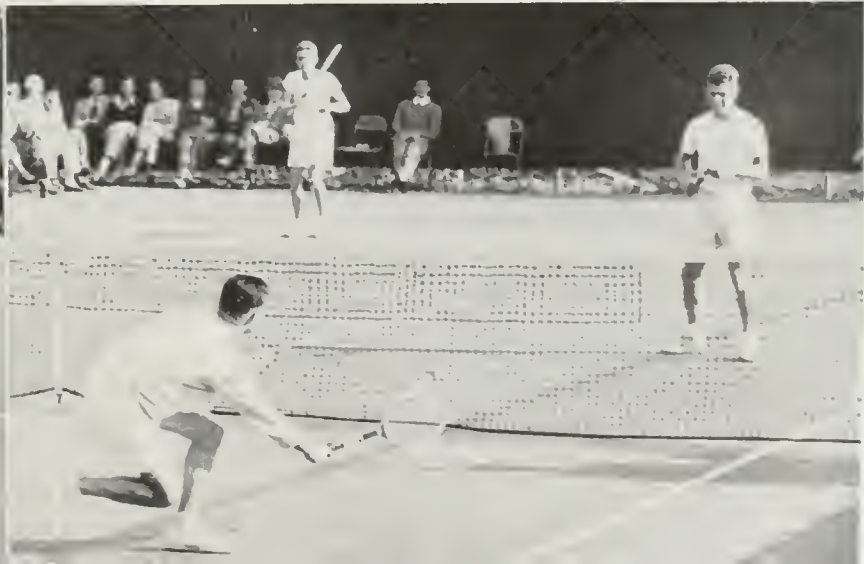

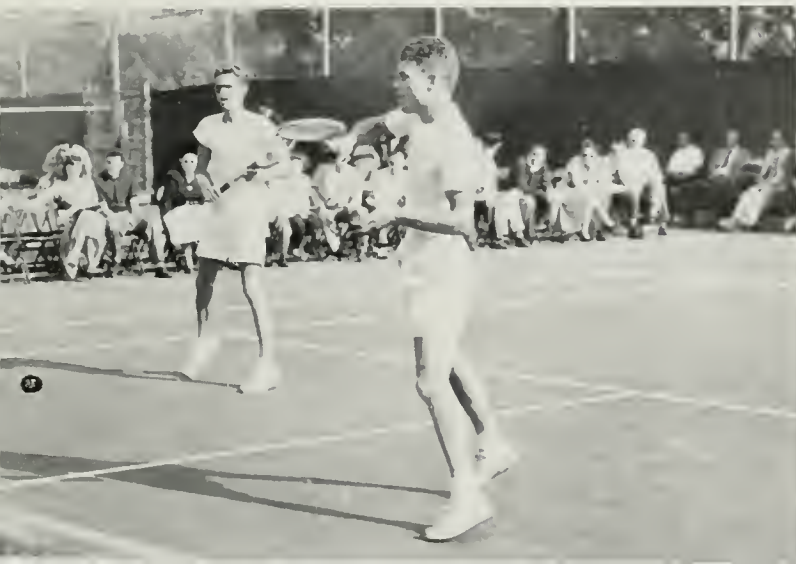

GLENN BASSETT put over many a strong forehand smash which caught opponents off guard. Glenn has faced many tennis greats on the court and cut them down to size by his unusual steadiness in the back-court.

TENNIS

HERB FLAM and GENE GARRETT, with their spirited and accurate team-play, were a top-notch combination . . . one of the strongest in collegiate history. In June they won the NCAA doubles title in Texas.

FLAM and GARRETT, in action against Perry Jones All Stars, met and defeated the famed Ted Schroeder and his equally well-known partner Bob Falkenburg, who were not able to cope with the inspired Bruins.

RACQUETEERS

GENE GARRETT, the second half of one of the greatest one-two punches in college winds up with his fourth varsity numeral.

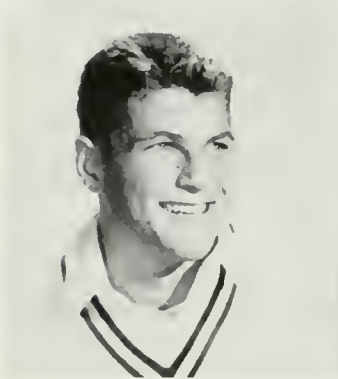

GLENN BASSETT, one of the best competitors on the squad has come through in the clutches during his collegiate years.

HUBERT SCHMEIDER, up from last year's freshman squad showed good form in earning his first varsity letter.

JIM JENKINS, one of the "big six" winds up his collegiate tennis as a two year letterman and a squad mainstay.

HERB FLAM, finishes his college tennis career as a four year letterman and the greatest netter in Bruin history.

KELLY STARR, captain of the 1948 freshman team showed that he will be one of the mainstays of the team in the future.

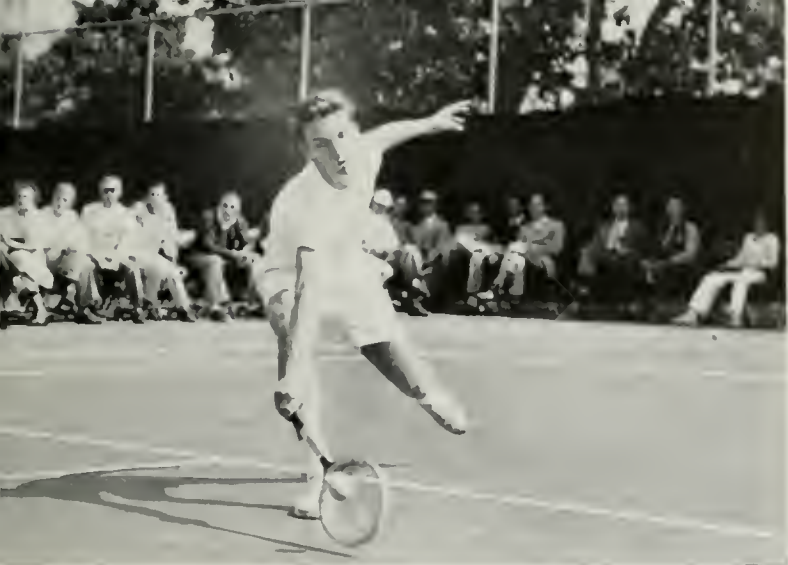

JACK SHOEMAKER, who still has one year left has made his presence felt since transferring from Stockton J.C. last year.

ED KAUDER, a transfer from LACC, used his 6' 3" to advantage as he fought his way into the starting squad in his first season.

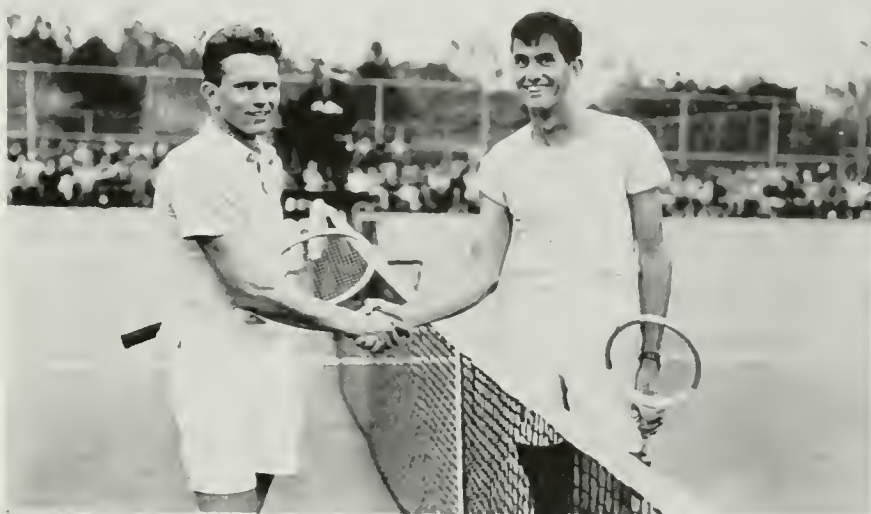

KEITH SELF, captain of last year's freshman squad used his big serve and net attack to good advantage on the varsity this year.

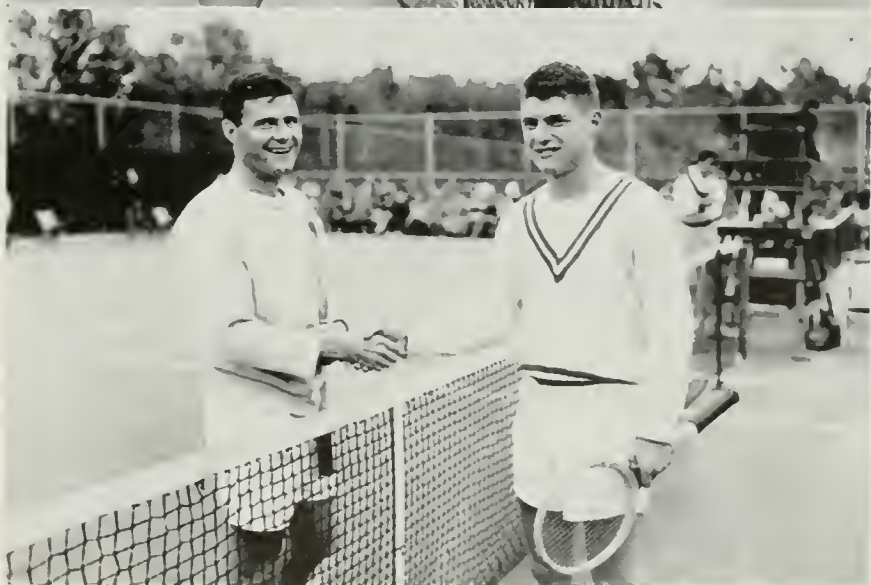

JACK SHOEMAKER, playing his second season for the UCLA colors, makes a difficult backhand get during the SC encounter. For the first time in three years the Bruins were unable to defeat the Trojans—giving the Fig-Men the Division Title.

GENE GARRETT grabs the mit of Wimbledon winner and Perry Jones All-Star player, BOB FALKENBERG, after he and FLAM had defeated the FALKENBERG-SCHROEDER tandem in the doubles play in the exciting All-Star Bruin match.

From the looks on the two boys faces, you'd think HERB FLAM had lost this match to TED SCHROEDER, but to the contrary, this was a victory for the Bruin netman who continued to knock-off the number one U.S. amateur in the summer tilts.

Here is HERBIE FLAM in action at Texas during the finals match of the NCAA Tournament. FLAM's consistent play during the summer tour following this victory shot his national ranking towards the top of the U.S. tennis ladder.

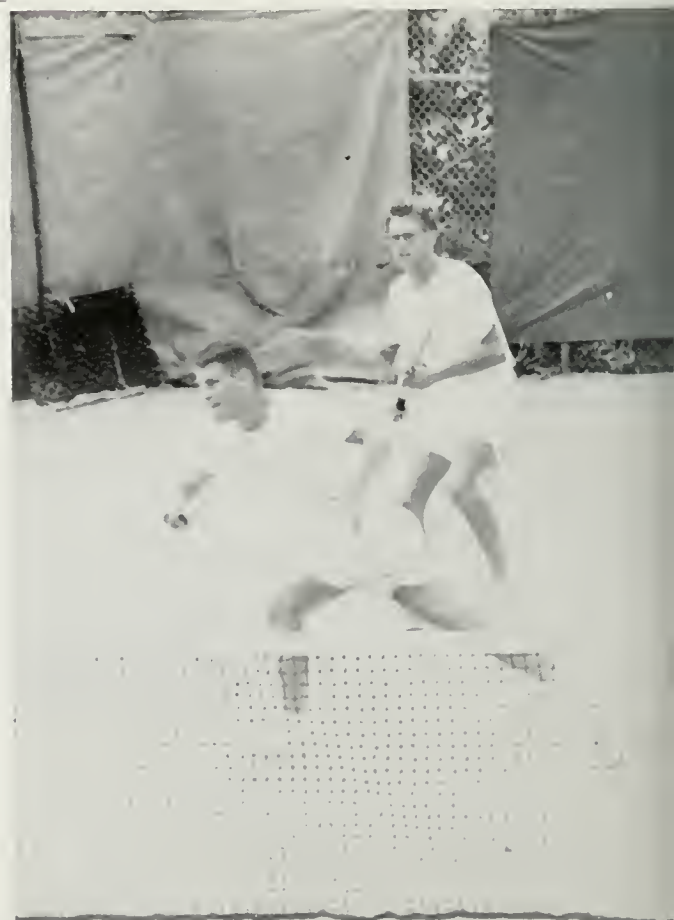

It's SHOEMAKER driving for a return during the matches at Texas. JACK made the round of sixteen along with the three other Bruin entries in the tournament. Tennis players from California proved their superiority as eight of the final sixteen were from UCLA and SC.

COURTMEN

"To the victor goes the spoils . . ." or something, anyway HERBIE FLAM seems to be getting his kicks after the Texas win. The "lucky hat" HERB is wearing was given to him by the pretty Houston air hostess. It seemed to do a fine job, from the record FLAM posted this summer.

This action picture of HERB FLAM and GENE GARRETT was taken just prior to their winning of the Collegiate doubles crown. The Bruin pair waltzed through the doubles competition, meeting COP in the finals. The northern boys were no match for the smooth working veterans.

FROSH TENNIS

J. D. Morgan's Frosh racqueteers posted a fine record against the competition they were up against this year. Their two defeats of the year were suffered at the hands of ever-powerful Santa Monica High School, the birthplace of champions, and to Modesto J.C., a team that went on to win the National JC title in a walkaway. Reynolds McCabe, Larry Huebner, Sam Moore, and Morris Wheeler bashed the Trojan Frosh in their only meeting of the year. Victories of 8-1 were posted against LACC and Glendale CC. The well-balanced squad also knocked-off the high school swingers from Beverly, Venice, and Burroughs. The season was climaxed with a win over the alums.

The "San Joaquin Slasher," LARRY HUEBNER, was elected captain of the 1950 Freshmen because of his inspirational play and leadership. He will be of great aid to W. C. ACKERMAN's graduation-depleted varsity squad next year.

Former Ohio State diving star, Coach BRUD CLEAVELAND, calls Captain DON SMITH, who is not treading water, to the side of the pool to give his record-smashing sprint star a few added pointers.

DON "THE SNAKE" SMITH cuts through the water in a prep for defending his PCC 100 yd. sprint title. Lanky DON not only retained his throne, but established a new Coast Conference mark.

Here is a group of young aquamen who made up the squad for the 1950 Freshman Swimming team. Although the turnout for frosh swimming was small, and few meets were scheduled in the intercollegiate class, these men of '53 gained much valuable experience by swimming in many practice duals against their big brothers on the varsity and JV tank squads. Brud Cleaveland, who doubled as mentor of frosh tankmen, gets his boys together for some hot tips on how to get to the other side of the pool first without swallowing too much of the wet stuff. Grouped left to right are: Cleaveland, Ernie Pronske, Joe Brown, Bob Sunland, Jack Olson, and Bob Constance.

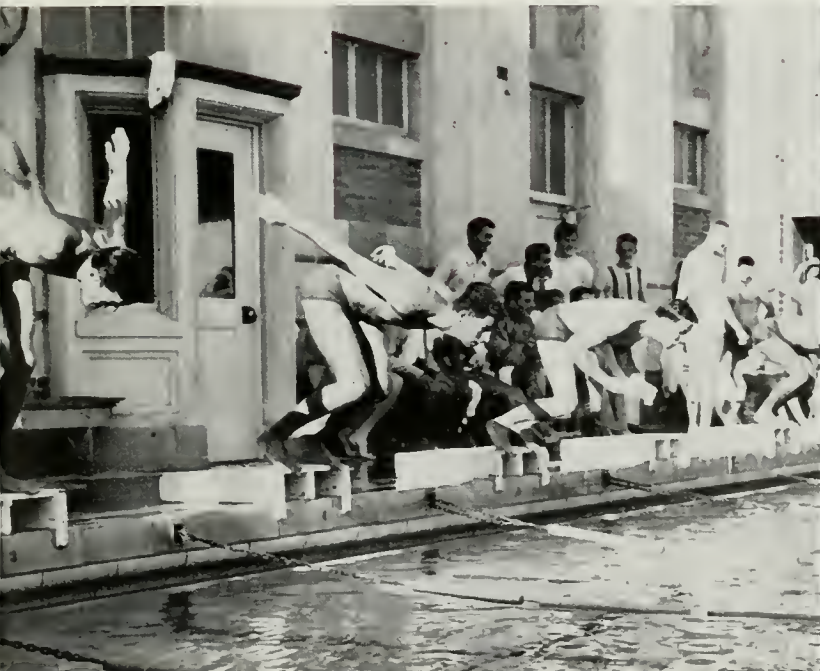

MONTE NITZKOWSKI and DON SMITH, UCLA's first representatives in a NCAA swimming championship, and veteran Bruin swimmer EARLE WILLIAMS poise themselves for a practice sprint.

The 1950 Swimming team, under the first-year tutelage of Coach Brud Cleaveland, did not win any of their dual meets with PCC competition, but this was greatly overshadowed by the individual performances of Bruin swimmers who for many seasons have been classed as good men, but who under Cleaveland, developed sensationally to give UCLA its best swimming team in years, if not for all time. The Westwood team lacked strength in only diving, but this was amply made up in great depth in the swimming events where many pool, meet, and school marks were smashed. Standout of the team was four-year veteran Don Smith, who broke his own records in the 50 and 100-yard sprints and then climaxed his collegiate career with a conference record in the 100 during the PCC championships. Monte Nitzkowski was also a Bruin winner in the coast meet when he broke the existing mark in the Breaststroke. John Chandler was another standout in his specialty, the 440. Other oldtimers in the tank warfare were Sam "The Seal" Kerman, Jack Ketchum, Earle Williams, and Sam Allenberg. Much credit must be given to the fiery Cleaveland who nurtured the dormant talents of the webtoed Bruins, for he picked up the usual Southern Branch pushovers and turned them into a combo that wanted victory.

The gun has cracked, and the camera catches the sprintmen as they push-off from their platforms for three laps of energy-sapping swimming. The Snake, second from the left, won.

Again it's DON SMITH who leads the pack. Lack of team depth smeared dual meet chances, but standout individual performances boosted the Bruins in the important Conference Championships.

The success of the 1949 water polo team was one of the highlights of the fall sports program at UCLA. The Westwood splashers were led by a band of veterans who have been cavorting locally for many seasons. Leading the point scorers was Captain Don Smith who in his final season performing at sprint gained All-Southern Division honors. This rates Don as one of the best in the nation, for the tough PCC is noted as a water polo stronghold. Other oldtimers who gave the local splashers a heavy scoring punch were Gil Tufli, Sam Kerman, Bob Koenig, Ron Davis, and Dave Upham. The frosh team, although not having too successful a season in the win-loss column developed good men to come along strongly at the close of their season.

Action reached a torrid pitch in an inter-squad tiff as the Bruin tankers maneuvered for the offensive advantage and a chance to pitch the evasive ball into the netting behind the goalie.

Always at the pool were DON SMITH and BRUD CLEAVELAND who as captain and coach of the water polo team did Herculean jobs to lead their squad to one of its best seasons to date.

Varsity managers CLARK WINGERT and ED LUKE kept the UCLA mermen happy whether they were in the tank or looking for a quick towel after a dunking in the winter water polo league.

Coming out for a quick breath is Captain Gary Smith of the frosh water polo team. Smith's experience helped lead his team to a season which showed great leaps of improvement.

Coach KARSTEN JOHANNSEN took over the reigns of the frosh team to lead a bunch of green athletes to a fine season. His tireless work paid off as is proven by the season's record.

Classy PETE BABIN slides off a ferocious roundhouse thrown by a California 135-pounder. Pete's rugged punching and his four years of UCLA boxing experience aided the Bruins in beating the California team which was rated as Berkeley's best. But of course the Bay area sportsters have been wrong before too.

Resting between workouts are UCLA's three most prominent members of the boxing circuit. Co-captains PETE BABIN and FLOYD WILSON talk it over with the popular mentor of the successful knock 'em down again MIKE O'GARA.

With a host of rugged veterans returning to the O'Gara headquarters, the Bruins were able to claim title to the mythical Southern Division title. Co-captains Pete Babin and Floyd Wilson did the heavy blasting for the UCLA team as they established Westwood as the hotbed for boxers on the Pacific Coast. Wilson, the standout boxer on the team, sailed through the regular season without a loss, his only defeat coming when he reached the classy competition of the NCAA championships. Bob Edwards, who was elected captain for next season, was the most colorful man on the squad as he put on bloody slugfests with bigger men whom he consistently defeated. Coach O'Gara loses many of his vets, but the Bruin stables will still be filled next year. Naturally, the rest of the Coast squads will make it hot for the champs of 1950.

BOXING

Mr. Minor Sports, BOB HUTTENBACK, Captain of the winning Cricket Team, and Coach JOE DRURY were instrumental in leading their international sports enthusiasts to the finest record ever recorded by a Bruin team in the "Tea Time" sport.

CRICKET

The gentlemanly, winning cricket players of UCLA did much to bolster the rapidly growing prestige of the minor sports program. With players turning out from the far corners of L.A. County, Coach Joe Drury was able to field a team of hand-picked perfectionists in this not-too-well-known sport. Their win-loss record of 8-1 is a surprising feat considering the merits of the competition. The Bruins had no Collegiate rivals this year, as their opponents were recruited entirely from the local Cricket Clubs such as Brittamer, Corinthian, and the So. Cal. All-Stars. These teams, soundly beaten by the Bruins, were loaded with men who have been playing the International sport for years.

Pooling their talents for the cross country team were Coach PAT TURNER, Captain BILL SELLERS and Manager JACK SELLERS. A powerful running squad was developed despite losses of the nucleus from last year's team.

After wending their way over the hills of Westwood, the leather lunged distance men of PAT TURNER's team round the last turn on the winding UCLA course for a dash to the finish. Workouts featuring four miles of running were a pushover for the Bruin harriers.

CROSS COUNTRY

Coach Pat Turner was faced with the tremendous task of keeping his 1949 Cross Country stock from taking a nose dive as he opened the season minus the services of the nucleus of last year's championship team. Marty Donohue and Dick Shea, two pint sized freshmen, helped fill the gaps to give the team a well-rounded, point getting potential. Although the team did not fare well against Cal or the Trojans, depth of material carried them to many victories against the schools of the southland. The highlight of the season came in the San Luis Obispo Invitational, where harrier Dick Shea set a new course record as he and his teammates made a sweeping victory over a big field of California athletes. The outlook for next year seems bright as most of Turner's leather lungers plan to return for another season.

Members of the cross country squad were, first row left to right: John Owen, George Seelig, Al Minjeris, Bill Sellers, Dick Shea, and Marty Donohue; second row: Jack Parks, Gregg Wood, Chuck Phillips, Dewey Sheperd, and Tom Banderagga; third row: Coach Pat Turner, Hugh Knowles, and Manager Jack Sellers.

An enthusiastic group of Bruins filled the UCLA shells during the 1950 rowing season. Competition was keen for the eight crucial spots in the first boat as the oarsmen battled to hold their position on the varsity against the JV boat which was never more than a few strokes off the pace.

CREW

Coach Bob Schaeffer was lucky to have a team of men whose enthusiasm in restoring Crew to UCLA stayed with them during the season well enough to pull some surprise athletic upsets during the 1950 season. Tireless work by the Men's Rowing Club and Shell and Oar convinced the Board of Control that the Bruin student body again wanted to hear the encouraging shouts of the coxswain and watch the slender shells rush ahead under the effortless strokes of the Bruin athletes. In their first meeting of the year with the Trojans, the Westwood rowers were defeated, but in two return matches the Bruins were victor. UCLA acted as host for the biggest west coast crew race of the year, as the defending Poughkeepsie champions, the Golden Bears from California, came south to teach the Bruins and Trojans a few tricks of the now well established UCLA sport.

These two inspirational gentlemen, Manager ARNOLD HAGIWARA, and Crew Coach, BOB SCHAEFFER acted as chief moral builders aside from their mountainous task of shaping-up a crew from men who had little experience.

The number one and two boats cut through the tidal waters of Ballona Creek to the cracking shouts of the coxswains. Daily workouts at the Playa Del Rey water course developed the smooth stroking Bruins into a unit of coordinated power that promised to become, with added experience, difficult to beat.

Captain of the Fencing Team, JOE REEVES, is scanning the horizon in search of able competition for the Bruin swordsmen. Hopes are high that next year will see more competition for the men-in-white.

The UCLA Fencing Team was mad at STAN TROUTMAN when this picture was taken, for he had just turned their names over to the FBI as being organized "fences" operating on a college campus. In the line-up, first row: Bruce Bailey, Alan Granda, Joe Reeves( capt.), and Tom Shiratsuki. Second row: Manuel Kaster, Harold Lyon, Bob Clark, and Everett Mann.

FENCING

Those masters at poking fun at each other, members of the Fencing team, are the only squad members at UCLA who can claim a clean competitive record. The fencers have many cutting remarks about their one-meet season that began and ended with a decisive win over Santa Barbara. Lack of funds kept them from traveling to the Bay area to meet the many teams that compete there. The Swordsmen are hoping for more financial support on their next outing, so they will surely keep in shape, stick around, and hope that the ASUCLA will soon come to the point.

BRUCE BAILEY, using the saber, attacked ALLAN GRANDA as captain JOE REEVES directed the match. Intricate maneuvers, precision of balance and agility were the watch words in the long hours of practice spent by the virtually untested UCLA fencing team.

GOLF

Casual Vic Kelly had the most ideal coaching position at UCLA. As mentor of the champion golf team, he donned his cashmeres and cleats and chased his talent-laden divoteers around west-side courses, giving them inside tips on how to become bigger and better golfers. The mainstays of the team, as in the last four years, were Dick Runkle, the long ball hitter; Jerry O'Neal; last year's PCC finalists, Captain Bob Morefield and Ben Alyea, the 1949 NCAA driving champion. Standout transfers of the PCC match play champions included Dick Banks, Seymour Black, and Ray Steelsmith. The unlucky linksters were tripped up by a hard fighting Stanford team, and had to be content with a second in the Coast Conference Tournament.

Firing the pellet down the treacherous fairways of the nearby Bel-Air course is four-year veteran, power-ball hitter DICK RUNKLE. His inspirational play was a great asset to the play of the Bruin golfers. His absence will be sorely felt by the '51 Bruin golfers.

Hard work was the password for veteran Bruin gymnast ARNOLD HARMS who is seen working on the sidehorse perfecting his routine for the National AAU Championships held in the Westwood gym for the first time in the school's short history.

Here is LEE CUMMINS executing the difficult "chair." CUMMINS, a brilliant first-year man, was stricken with a serious illness early in the season to blot out his chances to prove the greatness that he was destined to exhibit while at UCLA.

GYM

Second-year Coach Bill Corwin led his team into action with the whole of the Southern California collegiate competition yearning for a victory over the 1949 PCC champs. Loss of men in key events furthered the difficulties of the situation. Losses were inflicted on the Bruins in dual meet competition by everyone but California. In the individual competition: Jr., Metropolitan, So. Calif. AAU meets the Westwood contortionists fared better. Highlight of the gym season was a second place in the PCC meet. Standouts of the team were: Seymour Shriffren, Hohn Mizushima, Lee Cummins, Don Platus, Ted Nissen, and veteran all-around man Ernie Grossblat.

Firing from a battery of varied shooting positions were the men of the crack Bruin rifle team: In prone position, MURRAY RUBINOW; sitting, DICK STERNBACH; kneeling at the firing line, JOHN GOODLAD; and standing, veteran marksman CARLOS BAKER.

The three guns on the UCLA rifle team for 1950 were captain CARLOS BAKER, Sargeant POKOW, who took time away from his ROTC duties to serve as coach of the Bruins, and KARSTEN JOHANSEN who doubled as manager and marksman.

RIFLE

The team power of the 1950 rifle squad left much to be desired by Coach Ponkow, but individual performances by a few members eased the pain of some defeats. Sophomore Murry Rubinow developed well at the end of the season to put himself in definite contention for an All-American position next year. Dick Sternbach, one of the oldtimers on the squad, kept a consistent average to grab high scoring honors. Strongest point-makers in the dual meet competition besides Rubinow and Sternbach were Captain Carlos Baker, John Goodlad, and Jerry Rittenberg. Even though many of Ponkow's men will be lost via graduation things look bright along the firing line of 1951.

There are several ways to win a game. An extra rugged scrum occurred in the Eagle Rock game when some bad boys from Figueroa Tech came over disguised as the Rockers and gave NORM PADGETT and his team some anxious moments before the Bruin's superior team play earned a Westwood win.

RUGBY

Once again in 1950, Coach Norm Padgett developed a fine Rugby team recruited from the ranks of the football squad and eager young men who were possibly not big enough to make the grade in the pigskin sport. Competition was furnished the Westwood Ruggers by athletic clubs of the Southland and the two conference schools on the peninsula. Padgett handled the local teams well, giving the disguised SC players quite a pasting. The trip to the northland was a disastrous affair, as the powerful team from Stanford simply overwhelmed the smaller Bruin team. The Cal series was at least a moral builder. The game at Berkeley was a home team walkaway, but when the Bruins played host to the Bears ruggers they gave them a cool welcome. Standout of the Bruin team was Dick Nightengale, fleetfooted wing who gave the squad a needed scoring punch.

SKI

Ski Coach Wolfgang Lert was one of the few coaches at UCLA this year who knew he had a good team before the season began. His squad was well supplied by veteran southland skiers plus being bolstered by the importation of two Norwegians: Rolf Oeding, and Ernst Pettersson. The tragic news of Irving Dow beaking his leg in the Colorado championships warm-ups was a serious shock to the coach and team members, for he was conceded a good chance of nabbing points, but they rallied to garner a sixth behind the ever-powerful teams of the east and Rockies areas. Bruin participants for national honors at the Colorado meet were: Oeding, Pettersson, Osoling, and Gross. Returning from their barnstorming tour, the tired boardsmen managed a 5th in the Nevada Winter Carnival. Back on the home courses the locals grabbed a blue ribbon in the So. Cal. Collegiate championships and a second in the PCC meet.

Resting up before taking off on another thrilling run down the snow covered slopes were skiers extraordinary DICK PORTER who doubled as team manager, WOLFGANG LERT, coach, and team captain ROLF OEDING.

ERNEST PETERSSON, UCLA's greatest all-around winter sports star begins a flight through the air in a practice stint before the Intercollegiate Meet. PETERSSON garnered a third in the combine involving, downhill, slalom, and the lengthy cross-country.

The rugged kickers of "JOCK" STEWART's highly successful Soccer Team take time out for a game of musical chairs during the hotly contested game against the Hukoah Soccer Club. The locals kept a clean slate in Metropolitan League play.

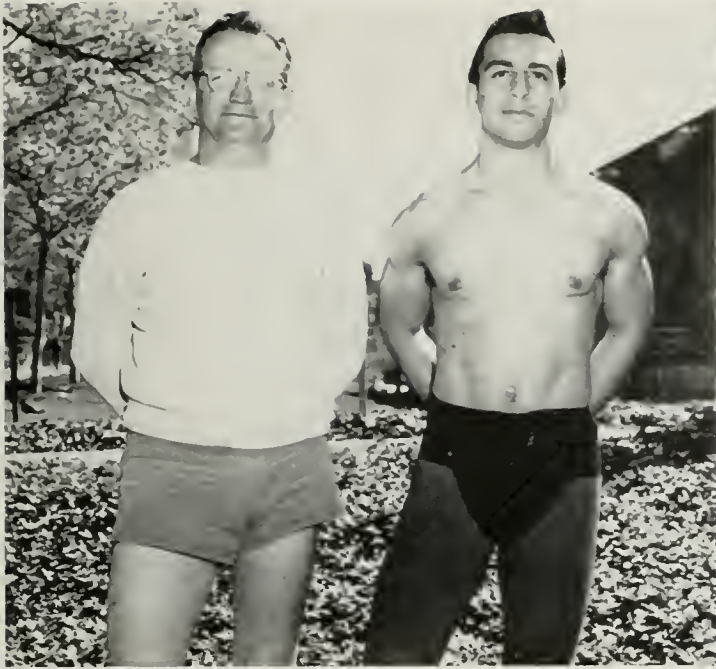

BOB HUTTENBACK, the minor sports king, was co-captain of the winning soccer men along with veteran kicker JACK MEIGHAN. Coach "JOCK" STEWART reshaped the '49 team into a winning aggregation that was feared and respected by southland teams.

SOCCER

Another of the unsung but highly successful teams of UCLA, the 1949 Soccer squad, earned a fine win-loss record for UCLA. The team was rated third in the nation behind USF and Penn State. The Westwood kickers won eleven straight games before losing to the national champs from San Francisco. The overall team record, including the second team victories, was 13-1. More honors heaped upon the soccer men included the Southern California Intercollegiate Championship and the Metropolitan League Cup. Selected on the All-Western America Team were Onglup Sitling and John Brignone, high scoring front rankers, and international star, Captain Bob Huttenback.

The 1949 UCLA Soccer Team, boasting much international flavor, was rated tops in the southland. First row. l. to r.: Bob Partin, Dave Powell, Jack Meighan (co-capt.), Bob Huttenback (co-capt.), Paulo O'Grady and Augustine Sitling. Second row: Carl Brown, Les Burg, Dick Blackie, Marty Lubow and Roy Jones (mgr.). Third row: Wes Wilcox, Warren Juhnke, Aykut Behlil, Paul Norton, Bob Tuller, George Kauffman and "Jock" Stewart.

Coach BRIGGS HUNT developed his charges, once again, into a winning outfit. The veteran had many old-timers who proved themselves to be the best in the west. Captain MARVIN ASA-DORIAN climaxed his three years of campaigning with a fine record.

Dancing at Roseland? No, BRIGGS HUNT'S grunt and groaners are only going through their daily practice routine in the Westwood arena. RONALD KESTANBAUM is getting the body slam from BYRON OSBORN.

WRESTLING

Coach Briggs Hunt, head wrestling mentor since way back in 1935, once again led his boys with the mastery that made them one of the toughest mat squads in the southland. With veterans Bob Clithero and "Ace" Asa-Dorian leading the way, the '50 version of the Bruin wrestlers placed second in the senior AAU, third in the Junior National AAU, and first in the Southern Pacific AAU Novice Tournament. Lack of funds kept some of Hunt's best men from competing in the NCAA finals which were held in Cedar Rapids, Ia. With many of the boys graduating, Hunt was disappointed that his team couldn't compete in the college championships, for he realized that his team was an outstanding one.

INTRAMURALS

The 1949-50 intramural season, featuring the play of the independents and the fraternities was the most hectic and exciting in many a year. The NBCs, of the independents, ganged up on their opponents to run away with the non-org bunting. The Greek division was a different story, though, as four houses battled to the finish for the glory that goes with All-Sports Intramural Trophy. Phi Delta Theta jumped to a big lead with victories in flagball and volleyball, but the Betas closed in with the All-University Softball crown. The Fijis hung up a barrage of points in running off with the track trophy. Going into swimming, the final event of the year, the Fijis were in front with the SAEs, Betas, and Phi Deltas right behind. The SAEs walked off with the water sport, but the Phi Deltas nabbed enough points to win the bitter, year-long struggle for the cup.

A PHI DELT batter swings at what seems to be a low and outside pitch during one of the league playoff games. The BETAS proved the class of the intramur-field as they waltzed through every fraternity game and smashed NBC for the All-University Title.

JIM PEYTON, ERNIE STOCKERT, of the SIGMA NUs, and BILL STITS from Fijiland, tear into the second flight of the highs during the track championships. The Fijis took charge of the meet to more than double any other team's score.

FROST of the PHI DELTS trundles away from SELTER of the Independents during the All-University football championship. It was a rough game climaxing a season that saw many upsets in the newtype of Flagball introduced by maestro ROSENOFF.

SWAN SONG

At this writing I am about two thousand miles from Westwood in the heart of our neighbor to the north, Canada, so if this column has more the tenor of the cry of the wild goose than that of a swan song, the reader will understand why. Strangely enough, even the business staff is able to leave its mark on the yearbook in its finished stages. Take Frank Loy for instance; he might better be known as frank Frank. At times he was painfully honest in his opinions about my wild ideas, but the success of the sales campaign is ample evidence of his perspicacity and industry. If Frank were writing this column instead of me, I'm sure that praise for Bill Eichenlaub would occupy most of the space. As Frank's hand man (I don't know which one) he attended the completion of a tremendous amount of work in all phases of sales promotion. Even the Southern Campus can't compete with Cupid, so early in the game we lost one of our mainstays when Kris Ketcham decided to become Mrs. McClusky. Kris had two most capable understudies in Mary Jane McCully and silent Bill Hayes. Perhaps these two people aren't aware of it, but a sizable portion of our income was due to their cheerful pursuance of details. Willing Win Millet is another good reason for the success of the sales campaign. With Win handling the publicity, no further thought in that direction was necessary on my part. My sincere congratulations to Win for a job well done. Handsome Harry Morris will go down in ASUCLA history as the "great panacea of all ills." In spite of the recurring crop of eager, and ambitious yet often star-gazing, student editorial boards, Harry has admirably maintained his sincere attitude of patient cooperation. Never a director, always readily available as an astute advisor, Harry Morris is an integral part of every Southern Campus. Lee Monteleone is my nominee for "Miss Publications of 1950." As Harry Morris's right-hand girl, she managed to bring to the outer office a much more attractive air than Harry was able to impart to his inner sanctum in spite of his abounding, yet purely masculine, hospitality. I've been rather fortunate this year in having my overshadowing predecessor Barbara Barrett, nearby to give me untold aid in operating the business office. Like Harry Morris, Stan Reel and Jack Kellogg have developed that benign attitude which is acquired only after years of frustrating trying to impress on students the proper manner in which requisitions are to be made out. Patience and cooperation seem to be their motto. To fearless Fred Nelson go my thanks for a great year's work. No job too large; no amount of tedious detail too great—I often wondered if his vocabulary contained any words other than, "Sure, Bones, I'll do it." As my successor next year, Fred won't have to hope for, and get, as many lucky breaks as I have; he's a guy who can handle any job—regardless of the breaks. All the people who inhabited KH 304 either for the purpose of socialization or political intrigue deserve mention. Their contributions to the organic SOUTHERN CAMPUS are not as clearly marked as others, but they are there never-the-less. I mentioned above that the Southern Campus is a composite of many people. In addition to this collection of characteristics, there is sort of an all pervasive atmosphere which accompanies each volume; this is the personality imparted to the book by its editor. I seriously doubt that any previous edition has been so emphatically endowed with its editor's personality as has this "1950 Streck-Book." His many all night sessions of plain, hard, ditch digging work and his constant search for ways to improve the book have resulted in a volume which incorporates the hallmarks of excellence. There are so many valuable and enjoyable experiences derived from the years on the So Cam staff, but the most valuable and most enjoyable to me has been the close friendship and association with Streck. In addition to being editor, he fortunately assumed great personal interest in the operations of the business office. His ideas and his close attention to minute details deserve much of the credit for the black ink on the books. In spite of his damned ribbons, Streck has my hand in congratulation for a great job, and as a most valued friend.

. . . BRENT

THE END . . . it has finally arrived. This little gem of literary genius is actually the last bit of anything to be taken by the well-traveled covered station wagon route to Wolfer Printing Co., Inc. It is now 9:30 p.m. on a Thursday evening in August and the only workers in the office are the ever-present bugs that have kept all of us company during the year. This time last year the 1950 Southern Campus staff was just getting organized enough to hold the Shahbazian Spaghetti Banquet at which time the theme was chosen (recently I have been accused of railroading the Southern California theme into prominence, but I deny it until this very day). That night was the start. And tonight is the end. We have all worked together throughout the year and each person has planned and produced that segment of the 1950 Southern Campus which was her or his part. Now, instead of listing each person who has worked on the book and thanking each for the great job he or she has done . . . I will say that to all of you listed on this page your work has been the greatest. Words of praise are not needed for your work, when one has only to turn the pages of this book to see your work and the praise will be louder than a few chosen words of mine. It appears to me that all of us will remember the many little events that happened throughout the year and so follows a refresher. I think we will remember such things as: the theme; the float we built in Marcia's backyard, which blew up along the parade route; and the crates of oranges donated by Sunkist which xyz carried from office to office. Also the Southern Campus sundaes which Thrifty's sponsored; the banner across Westwood boulevard which blew down three times, the last being the final blow when it was in pieces; the pub board meetings when the integrity of Brent, Char and myself was questioned; the staff meetings we scheduled and never held; the 300 people signed up to work on the yearbook who disappeared much to the regret of Dorothy and the rest of the staff. Also of mention were the problems Jack Towers, Stan Troutman, and I had over shooting the color photos; the curiosity of x-y-z . . . Marcia, Jackie, and Margie . . . over the dedicatee; the confusion Ed and I had upon first meeting and discussing modern art; the trip and picnic to San Fernando valley; the window Desmond's donated for the sales drive; the mad race between Margie and Virginia Fowler to sell the most yearbooks and the confusion the ticket department had when the drive coincided with that of another big drive. And who could forget: the confusion of Loy and Uni-Camp over sales dates; the attempts to rescue our staff members from the clutches of the ocb grade checkers; the typewriters that didn't work and the bulletin board which Lyn Hicks wanted and finally had to construct herself; the Christmas party at Chars and the yellow ribbons that I ordered for the sales week without Bowen's approval. And remember Beck's sports copy that had to be written twice; Rick's great sales poster and window display; Jean Nelson's many posters, and the knothole display in the mezzanine; the day of the sales drive we stamped 8,000 brochures with the words LAST DAY TO BUY FRIDAY, and then put them on every other chair in every classroom; the mimeograph sales reminders that we threw off Royce Hall and pasted on the doors of the heads; the Christmas mailing campaign; and Renfro's great art work. Always good for a memory were: Marcia's late evening sessions of pasting; and my "thanks for coming up" expression; the summer evenings at the recs; the help given by those during the last weeks of production; the thrill of passing our sales book quota; the disappointment at not being able to keep deadlines . . . especially that of publication. And what about: walking down KH steps at night to the back door and remembering you forgot the key; the view of campus from the office windows; the age-honored tradition of dropping water bags from the third floor; the day we broke the window in 304 with a rubber band fight; the free lunches Char and I enjoyed downtown; the constant questions of "When is the book comin' out?"; the party at Chuck Griffin's house with the Scop games; the many office supplies which we "borrowed" from the alumni or ura office; the time I borrowed Bowen's car and had a flat tire and paid a buck to have it fixed; the romances that seemed to flourish in the office much to the interest of all; the concern over the last day of the sales drive when we were 1000 books short of our quota, and then surpassed it; the night Bowen and I went to make sales speeches and chickened out of all of 'em; the nights the two of us got high; the television commercial by Tom Hermon; the appearance of Char in Fleir Magazine; the beer sessions in the office; the 2-3 o'clock work nights; the sizes that we never marked for the Troutman boys; and the hundreds of personal letters we sent to every organization during the sales campaign. Always good for a laugh was SAM who shocked everyone with his physique. Remember: Win's swimming party; the summer beach outing; the trips to see the Shah in the Greek Theater; the week-end parties I promised but never held; the Fiji house sales party; Harvey Kar—; Yevrah Namrak's letter that shocked all of Kerckhoff; Sharla's hundreds of phone calls; Roy, Pop, Dan, Woody, and their patience with our poor aim at the waste basket; the planning of the banquet; my introduction of Mr. and Mrs. Kris Mc . . . and the help of Nancy Holmes. Always deserving a page of commendation are Harry, Lee, Frank Stewart, Stan, Stan Reel, Jack Kellogg, Jack Towers, Mr. A., Secretaries in all the offices; and Buck. The same to Dean Dodd, Dean Rulman, Dean Hahn, and Bill Davidson for their solving of all of our problems. The final weeks brought postcards from vacationers, draft boards, and Bruins wanting their yearbook. That is it, kids. What else could there have been? That is the 1950 SOUTHERN CAMPUS, not the book itself, but rather the staff behind it . . . Y O U ! You have put all you had into the book and have gotten out of it just as much, I know I have. So as Bowen would say, "TO ALL MEMBERS OF BOTH STAFFS, MAY I LIFT THE RUSTY CAN OF ACME IN HEARTY SALUTE!"

... UCLA IN SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA

Thus, a university keeps pace with the rapid growth and changing needs of its community. UCLA has become a leader in Southern California and continues to hold this position, in part, because of the high calibre of its graduating classes. It is these students, as alumni of the University, who are prepared to carry the advantages of higher education—the learning, the training, the experience—into their lives as citizens of the community . . . and this is the highest aim of any university.
