NEW ORLEANS:
THURSDAY MORNING SEPT. 26, 1867

THE ARROW COTTON TIE—Messrs. H. T. Bartlett and R. W. Rayne, General Agents, 43 Carondelet street, announce in our advertising columns that they have for sale the Arrow tie and painted iron bands for baling cotton. These ties are made of the best material, and have been thoroughly tested and approved by the cotton presses, and there is no doubt they will give general satisfaction.

MEETING FOR TEXAS RELIEF—In another part of our paper will be found it a proceedings of a meeting of business men connected with Texas, held yesterday afternoon, to adopt measures for the relief of the sufferers by the epidemic at Houston and the interior towns. The names of the committee appointed to collect funds and receive donations, are given in full. This aid will be forwarded at once to the Howard's at Houston, and there is immediate need for this assistance. The smallest contributions will be most thankfully received.

THE ELECTION IN LOUISIANA.

It seems altogether certain that the election for delegates to a convention will take place as at first announced and ordered by the military authorities. The destinies of this great State, are, perhaps, about to be fixed for a long time to come, beyond the possibility of change, so far as can now be seen. This election is to be held under circumstances which are opposed to all our ideas of freedom and choice. The condition we are in, is anomalous and there is no precedent to guide us, except the sneering instinct of self preservation. The public mind seems to have settled down upon a course of almost entire indifference to the events now about to transpire, indeed an apathy to which we are unaccustomed, seems to prevail among the people. A large portion of our population, hitherto living among us in a condition of servitude, have suddenly been elevated to a rank co-equal with ourselves, and entrusted with the exercise of privileges new to them and for the proper use of which they are as yet completely unprepared. They have, in fact, been placed over the rightful rulers of the commonwealth and will shortly sit in the high places of the land. It is impossible that those who know their incapacity for the performance of trusts so delicate and so important, can tolerate, much less look with favor upon the occurrence. It is impossible they can take part, even seemingly in the broad farce soon to be enacted. Common sense revolts at the bare idea of our consenting that the vote of a white man shall be balanced by that of him who has been suddenly raised from a condition of bondage, scarcely knowing even the object of an election. Many persons we know are disposed to give an apparent consent to the demands of our rulers, thinking thereby the sooner to make manifest the absurdity of their requirements. This, however, is contrary to principle, and being dishonest cannot, on any pretence, be justified. We presume that our people will abstain from participation in the election by common consent, relying upon the ultimate failure of Republican schemes. The members of that party are now at war with each other, and it is an irreversible law that a house divided against itself cannot stand. It seems, however, that the law under which this election is to be held requires a vote of the majority to be polled before a convention can be held. There being 120,000 voters, we are inclined to doubt that one half of these will take part in the coming election. It is unnecessary to counsel prudence in the circumstances surrounding us for our people are satisfied that inactivity is the true policy to be pursued.

DEATH OF MR. ALEXANDER KENNEDY—Among the many deaths now taking place in our community, we have to notice that of this excellent youth, a son of our worthy fellow citizen Judge T. H. Kennedy, to whom we offer our sincere sympathies under the bereavement he has sustained. The deceased was distinguished by the possession of many good qualities and has been cut off from a brilliant future while yet in the flower of his days. His former connection in the army with whom during the war he faithfully served a cause now consecrated by its patriotic purposes no less than by its defeat, will long remember a companion and fellow soldier whom they so much esteemed, and society will regret the loss of so promising a life. Mr. Kennedy had only reached his 23d year.

DEATH OF OLD CITIZENS—We regret to announce the demise of three old and well known citizens of New Orleans. Mr. Valerien Allain, a member of one of our most respected families, and a merchant of high standing, died on Monday afternoon at his Chenaie, aged 66 years. Mr. Allain was, at one time, a large planter in West Baton Rouge, and latterly was the senior of the mercantile house of Allain, Perrault & Allain, and Allain & Duplessis. He was also President of the Citizens' Bank of Louisiana in 1842. Mr Allain was connected with many of our best known families, and as a good and useful citizen was held in high esteem.

Mr. Thomas L. White, for many years the leading bookseller of New Orleans, died on Monday in this city. His health had been failing for some years, and the last time we met him, supported by a crutch, it was evident the hand of death was upon him. Mr. White was well known to the members of the learned professions in the Gulf States, who were in the habit of replenishing their libraries from his once extensive and well selected stock. His establishment on Canal street was long the rendezvous of the literati of the city, but since the war he had been compelled to retire to a less conspicuous location in consequence of the reduction in which overtook him in his later years. Mr White was a man of warm heart and a good friend. When in his prime he was marked by enterprise, industry, intelligence, high integrity, and their invariable concomitant—success in business.

Mr Walter H Peters, the popular Secretary of the Metairie Jockey Club and Notary Public of this city, died at Pineville, La., on the 17th inst. Mr. Peters was a young man of fine acquirements and engaging manners, and will be much missed in our social circles. The cause of his death is not stated.

SCARCITY OF LOCAL NEWS—The meagreness of our local column for the last three days is attributable to the absence from his post of our experienced and esteemed associate in the reportorial or local department of the paper. The void of death has, we are pained to say, entered his dwelling, and swept from the sight of doting parents a loved child—only transferred, however, to happier climes, to await a reunion with them beyond the grave. Mr. Lowe has the sympathies of his brethren of the press in this affective dispensation.

LOUISIANA INTELLIGENCE—We learn by private letters from Attakapas that the yellow fever has for the most part disappeared from St. Martinsville, notwithstanding their strict quarantine regulations. We are also informed from the same source that the fever exists to a certain extent at Brashear City, Clarenden, Vermillionville and Washington. The Franklin Banner of the 14th says that there is decimating the people of our sister cities and towns of the Gulf coast.

We have encouraging accounts from all parts of the parish of the cane crops, and with favorable weather from this time to the close of the grinding season, there is the way made from 200 to 250 hogsheads of sugar the present year.

The cotton crop of the entire parish will not exceed 500 bales, and the amount of corn produced will not more than suffice for a three months' supply. The river is still falling, and immense timber sides of the levees are occurring on both banks of the Mississippi, with no hope that we can be protected from a yet more extensive overflow next year, than we have suffered from during the past four years.

W. P. CONVERSE,
JOSEPH H. MARKS.

[From the New York Journal of Commerce.]

At a meeting of citizens and former residents of New Orleans, held at the New York Hotel on Tuesday evening, the 17th inst., for the purpose of taking into consideration the present suffering condition of the people of New Orleans from the prevailing yellow fever epidemic, On motion, Dr. Warren Stone was called to the chair, and Henry O. Sexias appointed Secretary.

The object of the meeting being explained, on motion a committee of six, consisting of Messrs. Daniel W. Adams, C. H. Slocomb, Wm. H. Hunt, Joseph H. Marks, W. H. Schmidt and Jos. Hernandez, was appointed to draft resolutions recommending the proper action on Wednesday evening, the 18th, at 8 o'clock, to which time the meeting adjourned.

WEDNESDAY EVENING, Sept. 18, 1867.

The meeting reassembled, when the following report was presented by their committee:

REPORT.

The undersigned, your committee appointed to take into consideration the condition of our suffering fellow citizens of New Orleans from the ravages of the prevailing fever epidemic, and to devise means to furnish them with pecuniary aid, respectfully beg leave to report that, from private advices received by the members of the committee and others, they are well satisfied that the yellow fever is prevailing in New Orleans to a much greater extent than is generally believed; that, owing to the late civil disturbances, failures of crops, and general derangement of business in the city of New Orleans and surrounding country, there is a great distress and want of the necessary means to supply nurses, furnish medicines, proper treatment, diet, etc., etc., to the sick, and that it is the duty of all in our power to assist in relieving our fellow citizens by contributing ourselves, and soliciting contributions from the liberal, enlightened, and generous people of New York and the North generally, many of whose former immediate fellow countrymen residing in New Orleans are sufferers from this dreadful scourge.

Your committee have further to report that they are gratified by finding that action has already been taken in the city of New York, and a physician and other necessities appointed to solicit contributions for the Southern cities and towns generally suffering from the epidemic, and that they have been crowned with considerable success. In order to avoid any collision, and to bring about co-operation in the good work, your committee would respectfully recommend that this meeting appoint a committee to confer and co-operate with the said physicians and relief committee, the Board of Medicine and others interested, and they further recommend that all funds which may be contributed and collected for the city of New Orleans be deposited with Messrs. Spofford, Tileston & Co., Broadway, Marks & Fatjo, 20 Wall street; W. P. Converse & Co., 54 Pine street, or M. Morgan's Sons, 52 Wall street, and transmitted as speedily as possible to that noble and reliable institution, the Howard Association of New Orleans.

The chairman then appointed the following committee to solicit subscriptions:

W. P. Converse, firm of W. P. Converse & Co., 54 Pine street.
Joseph H. Marks, firm of Marks and & Fatjo, 20 Wall street.
Ernstus Lyman, President Knickerbocker Life Insurance Co.
B. G. Arnold, firm of Sturges, Arnold & Co., 127 Front street.
John Fox, firm of Livingston, Fox & Co.
D. M. Hildreth, proprietor New York Hotel.
A. D. Gurnell, 92 Front street.
D. Hirsch, 174 Water street.
J. L. Adams, 103 West street.
Adolphe Wolfe, 26 Beaver street.

On motion of W. P. Converse, a committee of three, consisting of Messrs. C. H. Slocomb, S. F. Wilson and D. W. Adams, were appointed to request the publication of these proceedings in the New York papers and all others friendly to the cause.

WARREN STONE, M. D., President.
H. O. SEXIAS, Secretary.
