23. Military Government Team's comments and evaluations:

a. There was no criticism against occupation forces activities.

b. In view of the limited number of violations and large percentage of people voting (Toyama Ken was sixth in Japan in percentage of people voting) it is believed that the election administration committee and social education sections did an excellent job. The number of voided ballots dropped to less than one percent.

c. Suggestions for improvement of the election laws.

1. That candidates file intention to run 30 days prior to election so that the people get a chance to learn the background and qualifications of the candidates.

2. That literacy tests be given at the time of registration.

3. That ballots be printed with all candidates names listed and the elector check the candidates name selected. This in conjunction with suggestion 2 would avoid the large percentage of void ballots.

d. None.

21. The amount of publicity given to the elections was sufficient. In view of the shortages of paper in Japan the committee used as much as they could for the election notices. The publicity that was published was thoroughly distributed.

The types of publicity were:

a.	Newspaper articles	15

c.	Postcards	270,000

Military Government was fully informed as to the amount of publicity and made suggestions on distribution. MG contributed the following:

2 Articles

1 Cartoon

No lists of candidates posted	2
Improper counting of votes	1
TOTAL	138

23. Disposition of violations

(All were corrected on the spot)

24. a. There was one criticism of Occupation Force activities. In Namerikawa Gun one team told the supervisor that lists of candidates should be removed from inside the polling booth. This happened at his first two visits. Upon finding the list in the polling booths at the third station he called MG asked if this was permissable. He was informed that as long as all candidates names were posted it was permissable. He had previously been instructed to see that there were no markings in the booths.

A check was made with the team and the Election Administration Committee and the Committee was satisfied when they were informed that the team had been properly instructed.

b. The Election Administration Committee in my opinion has performed its task in an excellent manner. They cooperated fully with Mil Govt at all times. The test of the completeness of their work lies in the fact that there were very few violations of election procedure. The polling counting stations, with a minimum of exceptions, were set up, and officials performed their duties, in an excellent manner. The fact that Toyama Prefecture was third in percentages of votes cast in Japan in the governors elections and fifth in the councillors election indicates that an excellent job was done in getting the people to vote.

c. Suggestions for improvement of the election laws.

1. That candidates file intention to run 30 days prior to election so that the people get a chance to learn the background and qualifications of the candidates.

2. That literacy tests be given at the time of registration.

3. That ballots be printed with all candidates names listed and the elector check the candidates name selected. This in conjunction with suggestion 2 would avoid the large percentage of void ballots.
