CONTENT NOT.

Content not with thy brother Although he cannot see The truth that to another Is life and liberty.

Perhaps an angel holdeth A veil before his eyes, While God is near and watcheth The truth to make him wise.

He may be slowly growing Through sorrow-tears and strife, And heaven withholdeth the knowing Till days of better life.

He may be inly striving With foes that smite him down, Or even now arriving To glimpse of his crown.

But love him though he serveth Another God than thine, And bless him though he swerveth From virtue's golden line;

He cannot be uplifted Till mercy's gentle dove Shall sing within him, gilded With voice of perfect love.

THE OLD MILL.

Rural life has always a charm—
 a romance which clings around it, especially to one whose childhood was free and happy amid the society of books and vales and vales and foliage and pleasing rural haunts. Continually will some germ of old remembrance uncover itself from the dust and cobwebs of dim recollection, and come up fresh and possessing an interest, with a kind of weirdness of pleasure, causing pangs of severe regret that childhood had not always lasted.

A little stream that formed the outlet of a lake embowered among the hills, as if to add only the charm of a ray of sunlight to the beauty of the landscape, ran, concealed along by the alders and flags, the meadow and plunged into a thick forest, and was lost to comprehension.

One summer day, I was tired of wondering where this trout stream ran to; for like the 'Brook' of Tennysen, there was a poetic romance about it which was irresistible.
 Tempted by the wildness of the scene, I made a journey to its source and wandered along its fringed banks. A slight rushing sound as of distant falling water, or the hastening of the wind thro' the foliage, led me to go down the gradually sloping declivity and by the increasing rugged banks, now across the stream upon a high-suspended log, or picking my footholds among the rocks which rose above the rapid.

Over the bed of the stream, as it deepened into the forest, hung the birch and elm, forming a continuous shade and vista down which my eyes peered with all the admiration of a young poetic soul. Here and there a white cascade broke the regularity of the descent, and wound around the base of jutting hills or rock, growing every step more wild varied and picturesque.

As the descent grew steeper, the roughness of the banks compelled me to leave the shore and clamber around a distance of a few rods, when I again came full upon the stream and beheld the pouring waters, the sound of which had grown more and more distinct as I approached. Turning suddenly to the left, around a projecting ledge, the stream plunged down a height of a hundred feet or more into a ravine still more dark and wild, and forming a beautiful cascade which broke in spray and sprinkled the mosses and wild flowers upon its banks with a delicious coolness.

Upon the brow of the opposite shore and shelving rocks, the fir and hemlock grew so close and dense as to completely shut out all view of the scene beyond. The vine and gooseberry intermingled with the dark grey rocks, while over the fall the mingling branches of the trees formed a beautiful gateway from which the white cascade darted like a living life, and fled away down the deepening vista.

At the foot of the fall stood the hills or rock, growing every step more wild varied and picturesque. As the descent grew steeper, the roughness of the banks compelled me to leave the shore and clamber around a distance of a few rods, when I again came full upon the stream and beheld the pouring waters, the sound of which had grown more and more distinct as I approached. Turning suddenly to the left, around a projecting ledge, the stream plunged down a height of a hundred feet or more into a ravine still more dark and wild, and forming a beautiful cascade which broke in spray and sprinkled the mosses and wild flowers upon its banks with a delicious coolness.

Upon the brow of the opposite shore and shelving rocks, the fir and hemlock grew so close and dense as to completely shut out all view of the scene beyond. The vine and gooseberry intermingled with the dark grey rocks, while over the fall the mingling branches of the trees formed a beautiful gateway from which the white cascade darted like a living life, and fled away down the deepening vista.

At the foot of the fall stood the ruin of an old mill, the stones grown over with moss and weeds, while a little green plot of grass and wild flowers spread out before it. As I clambered upon the ruins, lost in the roar of the falling waters, and unconscious of outer things, I discovered a pretty summer hat, decorated with ribbons and wild flowers, lying partially concealed by some overhanging branches, and I suddenly recollected having caught an indistinct strain of a song as it mingled and seemed lost in the sound of the waters, so as not to have before left a distinct impression upon my ear. I listened and gazed about carefully, searching for some indication of the fair owner, but to no purpose.

Whether the wearer had noticed me and hastened away, fearing to stay to claim it, or whether some accident might not have befallen her, were thoughts which engaged my curiosity until near the sinking of the evening sunshine into twilight. The soft air grew cool and balmy, and the fall more beautiful in the contrast of the deepening shade, but still I waited thoughtlessly, carving a device upon a shelving rock, and musing until the moon was up and shining, when I wound along by the ravine outward, bearing and admiring the hat, to my youthful fancy the embodiment of beauty and artless loveliness. I doubted not the waving tresses of the fairest flower of sixteen summers had often been concealed beneath it.

Many a year later, I strayed again to the thicket and the fall, still hidden in the depth of a larger forest. There lay the old millstone—a tree of considerable size growing through it, and the wild flowers and the brambles were thicker and coarser. The ruins suddenly called to mind the incidents of the former visit, so long before that the precise time was not recalled; but before I left, my eyes fell upon the following inscription—

THE OLD MILL.

Rural life has always a charm—a romance which clings around it, especially to one whose childhood was free and happy amid the society of books and vales and vales and foliage and pleasing rural haunts. Continually will some germ of old remembrance uncover itself from the dust and cobwebs of dim recollection, and come up fresh and possessing an interest, with a kind of weirdness of pleasure, causing pangs of severe regret that childhood had not always lasted.

A little stream that formed the outlet of a lake embowered among the hills, as if to add only the charm of a ray of sunlight to the beauty of the landscape, ran, concealed along by the alders and flags, the meadow and plunged into a thick forest, and was lost to comprehension.

One summer day, I was tired of wondering where this trout stream ran to; for like the 'Brook' of Tennessee, there was a poetic romance about it which was irresistible. Tempted by the wildness of the scene, I made a journey to its source and wandered along its fringed banks. A slight rushing sound as of distant falling water, or the hastening of the wind thro' the foliage, led me to go down the gradually sloping declivity and by the increasing rugged banks, now across the stream upon a high-suspended log, or picking my footholds among the rocks which rose above the rapid.

Over the bed of the stream, as it deepened into the forest, hung the birch and elm, forming a continuous shade and vista down which my eyes peered with all the admiration of a young poetic soul. Here and there a white cascade broke the regularity of the descent, and wound around the base of jutting hills or rock, growing every step more wild varied and picturesque.

As the descent grew steeper, the roughness of the banks compelled me to leave the shore and clamber around a distance of a few rods, when I again came full upon the stream and beheld the pouring waters, the sound of which had grown more and more distinct as I approached. Turning suddenly to the left, around a projecting ledge, the stream plunged down a height of a hundred feet or more into a ravine still more dark and wild, and forming a beautiful cascade which broke in spray and sprinkled the mosses and wild flowers upon its banks with a delicious coolness.

Upon the brow of the opposite shore and shelving rocks, the fir and hemlock grew so close and dense as to completely shut out all view of the scene beyond. The vine and gooseberry intermingled with the dark grey rocks, while over the fall the mingling branches of the trees formed a beautiful gateway from which the white cascade darted like a thing of life, and fled away down the deepening vista.

At the foot of the fall stood the ruin of an old mill, the stones grown over with moss and weeds, while a little green plot of grass and wild flowers spread out before it. As I clambered upon the ruins, lost in the roar of the falling waters, and unconscious of outer things, I discovered a pretty summer hat, counted years, while how many times might be fancied 'A. B.' have been B.—any of the twenty-six letters of the alphabet, yes, and the '&' besides. And I was no longer a resident of the country, and she might be abroad.

The meditation was well nigh distracting, and the moments of sleep that night were but snatches of wild song and fairy nymphs just eluding my gaze and grasp by the foaming spray. To free myself of the effect the madness had produced, I quickened my departure to a contemplated tour among the northern hills and lakes. The long absence from these had a new charm to me, or else the interruption of my peace of mind had suddenly made me more appreciative. I passed a week at a fine hotel which had grown up on the shores of Willoughby Lake which was now a favorite resort.

My unsettled fancy led me to long wanderings among the forest shores and by the new found pastures, in search of a wild flower or strawberry. One afternoon I came upon a party of ladies wreathing garlands, for a couple of bright girls, the very embodiment of loveliness and health, and placing them upon their summer hats, the party strolled down to the lake to watch the white-fringed waves as they laved the shining sand.

I had not heeded the ladies, for none could be beautiful nor charming to me but 'A. B.,' but a sudden remark caught my ear, 'How singular it is Annie, that we never had a trace of your lost hat!'

I hardly understood the words at first, nor did I catch the meaning of despair, as I had no doubt from the appearance of the group, that one lady was the mother of the children, and the other an aunt or grandmother. I, however, caught a hasty glance at the features of the mother, and beheld all my fancy ideal with but a bearing of still greater loveliness and grace than my favored imagination ever had pictured.

'Confound the fortune!' I ejaculated, and turned away to the hotel to consult the record. But nothing satisfactory was gained. Mr. and Mrs. Bigelow were there, and numerous others B's, but no 'A. B.,' although I was satisfied that 'Annie' was the real 'A. B.'

I cared not to learn further of my fate, and came near quitting on the early stage for the Queen's dominions, when the landlord accosted me and asked if I would not make one of a party upon the lake; 'another gentleman was wanted, and the ladies had proposed you.' I consented, was presented to the good-natured company, but forgot the name in my thoughtlessness, until every indication of attention on her part, and frequently railery of my melancholy, proved to my satisfaction, that she was not the mother of the two lovely children I had seen her in company with.

The boating party returned, and with it my creeping spirits, while the acquaintance began ripened into admiration. The rambles were frequent, and the wreaths of wild flowers often suggested a subject which I could not summon courage enough to touch upon. One day when her hat had received a few flowers of my culling, I, while stopping to pluck a flower, and with my face turned away, mustered sufficient courage to say that I where we halted amongst the Yomut-Turkomans; and, as the number of my acquaintances grew always larger, I felt not the slightest hesitation to extend my roaming expeditions a little farther into the interior to such tribes as were on the friendliest footing with my hosts. It is true, the latter often warned me to be cautious, but as I wore nothing on me besides my wretched dervish grab, and my meagre purse containing about twenty krans (sixteen shillings), I thought it superfluous to listen to prudent advice as to my safety, and pursued my route for days together without taking the trouble to return every evening to my quarters.

One day, after having wandered about from one group of tents to another, I felt toward the evening quite exhausted. I espied from afar one solitary tent, to which I turned my weary steps. An isolated tent in the desert is never recommended; but I had nothing to choose and soon decided to ask the hospitality of its inhabitant for that night. I entered with the usual dervish chants, and with a loud 'Selam Aleikum' (Peace on you.) A tall wild Turkoman received me at the door. He told me to sit down. We exchanged the customary salutations, and soon found ourselves in deep conversation on religion, horse-breeding and forays, the favorite topics of these nomads. When the sun was nearly set on the vast and wild desert landscape, I saw my host growing more restless and unquiet. He sat down and rose again, went out and came back, without speaking to me a word. A little uncertainty was approaching, and with a rather bashful air asked me if I would not lend him some krans (money), as he intended to treat me with a dish of rice meat (a special meal for guests), and was highly puzzled from his not possessing a single farthing to buy rice. To lend money, I thought, is certainly better than to be robbed of it. I opened my purse and gave him five krans, which he hastily took, and hurried away to make the necessary purchase at a tent which he said was distant about a quarter of a mile.

When he returned his face was beaming with joy, and I really compassionated the poor but honest man who was so anxious to honor his guest. The supper was soon ready. A huge plate, enough to satisfy half a dozen empty stomachs, was placed before me. He and his wife, whom I ought to have already mentioned, sat opposite. It was only after my long insisting that I could induce them to share the meal with me. At length they began to eat. We became more and more friendly. As we could not finish all our rice at once, the hospitable woman asked me to stop a day longer with them, and to have a gaggud dinner the following evening. My refusal of the kind offer will be readily understood.

The next morning I rose early, bade farewell to my host, who appeared to be extremely touched, and after I gave him and his horse (as is the custom) a parting blessing, I left the tent for my return to Gomsushtep.

I had not been distant more than half an hour's walk from the tent when I suddenly heard a loud shouting behind me, which summoned me to stop in the most

The rambles were frequent, and the wreaths of wild flowers often suggested a subject which I could not summon courage enough to touch upon. One day when her hat had received a few flowers of my culling, I, while stopping to pluck a flower, and with my face turned away, mustered sufficient courage to say that I heard her once remark that she had lost a hat decked with flowers.

'Yes,' she replied, 'I lost my travelling hat once when I was a little girl, and I would give my heart to know who found it!'

'Why?' suggested I, musing, and learned that there was some mystery which she concealed with playfulness.

'I found the hat,' said I, as we sat down upon a knoll, shaded by an overhanging maple, 'and I will take the hat.'

'You, Mr. Smith?' said she, in surprise, 'you found my hat by that beautiful waterfall?'

'I did, Miss Annie, and lost my heart!'

There followed no surprise nor exclamation at my last remark, but her hand unconsciously dropped upon mine, as we both, at the same moment, asked how it came about. As I divined, she had thoughtlessly strayed away from the spot where the hat was left, until too near night, and too far away to return for it. Upon returning with a companion the next morning, the hat was not to be found, but instead the inscription as I had made it. She added the playful suggestion, and returned, harboring the same curiosity as I had done.

The hat had been carefully kept as a bachelor relic, stowed in my garret, but it has since been pulled out, and embodies to two happy hearts a bright page of childhood. We have both since visited the fall and the mill ruins, while somebody had added to the former inscription:

FOUND THE HAT, AND FOUND THE HEART!

The customs receipts at the port of Belleville for the quarter ending Oct. 4th are 50 per cent. in advance of the corresponding quarter last year.

certainly better than to be robbed of it. I opened my purse and gave him five krans, which he hastily took, and hurried away to make the necessary purchase at a tent which he said was distant about a quarter of a mile.

It was only after my long insisting that I could induce them to share the meal with me. At length they began to eat. We became more and more friendly. As we could not finish all our rice at once, the hospitable woman asked me to stop a day longer with them, and to have a second dinner the following evening. My refusal of the kind offer will be readily understood.

The next morning I rose early, bade farewell to my host, who appeared to be extremely touched, and after I gave him and his horse (as is the custom) a parting blessing, I left the tent for my return to Gomushetepe.

I had not been distant more than half an hour's walk from the tent when I suddenly heard a loud shouting behind me, which summoned me to stop in the most threatening terms. Seeing a well-armed horseman in pursuit I stopped immediately. My persecutor approached at a slow pace, and you may fancy my astonishment when I recognized in his person my host of the past evening, that very Turkoman I blessed an hour before! 'Stop hadji!' cried my friend with a deep voice and a downcast eye? 'give me your purse and all you have on you, or I—'

My astonishment had no limits, and as I took the whole affair for a joke, and laughed in his face, the Turkoman grew angry, and said: 'Don't delay, Hadji or I will be obliged to offend you.'

As robbery is not an offence in the eyes of a Turkoman, I thought it advisable to obey his summons. I handed him my purse, also about three or four spoofuls of green tea I had on me, and a piece of old cloth which I used instead of a handkerchief. He took all of my property without the slightest compunction, put it in his sack, and just when I was ready to continue my way, he called me back opened my purse (now his own) and gave me five krans from it, saying:

'There, Hadji, take my debt of yesterday evening! I think it was just five krans. I don't like to be a debtor!'

'What a strange honesty!' I thought to myself, as I took the money. The robber now appeared quite satisfied. In his views of moral and social life he had accomplished a noble deed, and was impudent enough to ask me, on parting, for a second blessing, which of course I could not refuse. I believe his untainted conscience was perfectly satisfied in the whole transaction.

Such pictures of mingled virtues either as a whole, or in any of its parts. There is a good assortment of gladiolus, but the dahlias were few, and not at all to compare with those that are sent from Quebec, annually, to the Montreal exhibition. But if Ontario is behind Quebec in flowers, it is far ahead of us in fruits. The quantity exhibited is, at least, three times as great, and the variety much better. There are fine assortments of apples here, not better, however, than some Montreal assortments; but in pears, plums, peaches and grapes, the Hamilton Exhibition is far, far ahead of that at Montreal. In vegetables, Lower Canada cannot be surpassed.

In poultry, the Hamilton show surpasses Montreal considerably, having a greater number and variety, and some fowls of greater beauty than any I saw at Montreal. I was, however, very sorry to see such an extensive show of game fowls, a breed which is not in any respect equal to other breeds, except for the cruel practice of fighting, which we hope is not common in Ontario. The Hamburgs, Cochins, and Bramahs are very fine, but there is only one exhibitor of the latter, and he has a white breed.

The department of machinery and agricultural implements is much more extensive here than in Lower Canada, and there were two machines which, from their novelty, attracted much attention. One of these was a traction engine, which went over the ground pretty smartly, notwithstanding some inequalities. It was not, however, drawing any vehicles behind it. The other was a machine drawn by two horses, for cutting drains. The cutter was a wheel furnished with teeth, which loosened the earth and elevated it to a hopper, that throw it out on either side. By going over the same track several times, a drain was dug out very evenly, about a foot wide and two feet deep. It would hardly be of use, however, in stony ground.

A remarkable feature of the show was a railroad passenger-car, of a new and beautiful style and luxurious finish from the Great Western carfactory. This car was greatly admired by the many thousands who passed through it, and its soft cushions and easy-backed seats will render sleeping cars scarcely necessary.

There was one feature in which we are sorry to say Hamilton greatly exceeded Montreal,—which was bad enough,—and that was the number of liquor tents, booths, and shanties in the vicinity of the show-ground. Nay, there appeared to us to be several places for the sale of liquors even within the enclosure; and the effects of the traffic, thus encouraged, became distinctly visible towards evening in the loud talking and boisterous conduct of youths, and feeling of old men and even some in the prime of life. Will the virtue of Ontario not put a veto on such goings on at her Provincial Exhibition? On account of more general education, she should be far ahead of Quebec in this respect, instead of being, so far as we could judge, far behind.

We are happy to close with a point of contrast in which Ontario was far ahead of Montreal. The Hamilton Young Men's Association had free liberty to circulate tracts and books in the grounds,—a liberty denied to the French Canadian Missionary Society in Montreal, which only sought to sell the Scriptures and circulate uncontroversial tracts and books.

ADDITIONAL PARTICULARS.

There were very few exhibitors from Montreal, or indeed from Lower Canada, and almost as few visitors. This is to be regretted as each Province should keep up a lively interest in the progress of the other, and cherish a spirit of amicable rivalry in everything that is good. THE PROVINCIAL EXHIBITION AT HAMILTON.

HAMILTON, Sept. 25, 1868.

Being fresh from the Montreal exhibition, the first points in that of Hamilton which struck me were those of contrast, and the first of these was the aspect of the ground. The enclosure at Hamilton is much larger than that at Montreal, and instead of being nearly a level field it is all heights and hollows, with here and there level places of sufficient size for rings or courses for the various kinds of stock. The sheds round part of the ground have a permanent character, and the rest of the place is within the enclosure. There were also quite a number of new sheds erected for cattle, sheep, fowls, fruits and flowers &c., and part of these being in the form of enclosed buildings, together with a number of refreshment tents gave a fine appearance to the grounds.

The second point of difference was the greater concourse of people, in fact this was the chief attraction of the show. During Wednesday and Thursday, every part of the building and everything going on in the open air was so crowded that it was in many places difficult to see anything, and when one got into the current he was necessarily swept along until he met a counter-current, when the jam became dangerous for ladies and children, of whom many were in the crowd. The stream of people constantly coming and going, and the number of farmers' wagons and buggies standing in the streets, were very great. It is estimated that 25,000 people were on the ground in the course of Wednesday, and the number on Thursday was equally great. These were for the most part farmers, and the grown up members of their families, being the most numerous and important people of Canada, and it was pleasant to overhear the many dialects or brogues spoken among them; there was Yorkshire in its integrity, and Northumberland with its rolling burr; there were highland Scotch and lowland Scotch (the latter very numerous,) and north of Ireland, all respectfully represented and in fact almost every part of the three Kingdoms together with Pennsylvania Dutch and the unmistakable New Englander. A large portion, however, were young men and women born in Canada, who had lost in a great measure the peculiar brogue of their parents. In the department of horses, cattle, sheep and hogs, both exhibitions were very good. It is, however, to be re-

...Among these were an extensive assortment of paper collars, cuffs, fronts, &c., from the manufactory of Messrs. Rice Brothers of Montreal, and a fine assortment of glass-ware, from the St. Lawrence Glass Company, also of Montreal, which took first prizes. I have already mentioned the fact, that Mr. Cochrane's stock took quite a number of first prizes; but great disappointment was expressed here, as at Montreal, that he had not brought on his thousand-guinea heifer to the exhibition. There is considerable curiosity to see that animal.

There was, however, one department of the show upon which sufficient care had not been bestowed,—namely, that of minerals, coal-oil, salt, peat, marble, building-stone, and so forth. There were specimens of most of these important sources of wealth, but they were very obstructive and easily overlooked. Had some geologist procured and arranged abundant specimens of all the treasures of this kind in an attractive and striking manner, it would have been one of the most important departments of the exhibition. There should especially been a little stock of peat from the Welland bog of the Anglo-American Peat Company, instead of a few bars. What was displayed, however, was very satisfactory, being about as hard, dry, and heavy as coal. The exhibition at Montreal was equally deficient in mineral products. The rain this morning, doubtless, diminished the attendance on this last day very considerably, and caused a great number to leave by the morning trains, who would otherwise have remained till the afternoon. The train for the west, for instance, consisted of fifteen first-class passenger-cars, all crowded; three fourths of which were probably filled with parties returning from the exhibition. The train on Thursday night was about as long, besides special mixed trains, in which great numbers of platform cars had been furnished with covers and seats for the occasion. The excursion-tickets in every direction, were made very low, a policy which drew out an immense number of visitors to the exhibition, variously estimated at from sixty to eighty thousand.

OTHER MATTERS.

WINDSOR, Sept. 26.

In passing through Ontario, I find farmers and merchants somewhat jubilant over two unforeseen sources of profit. The cattle disease in the West has so frightened the consumers of meat in the States, that cattle from Canada, where there is no disease, bring a very high price, and buyers are scouring the country to purchase and accept all the beef cattle they can find. Barley also has risen far higher than was expected, and many American

DR. JAMES BURNS.

While residing in Perth, he joined the society whose bond of union was opposition to the use of ardent spirits; and in 1856 he adopted the more consistent total abstinence platform, lectures, and speeches almost innumerable. For seven years he edited the weekly 'Temperance Journal,' and for twenty-eight years successively has preached an annual temperance discourse in his own place of worship. When the United Kingdom Alliance was formed in 1853, he extended to it an earnest welcome, and delivered in the October following its inaugural sermon, which was published under the title of 'Drinking and Lawlessness,' and widely circulated. During the first years of this agitation, he rendered it important assistance as one of its deputations, and his interest in its progress continues unabated to the present day. Beside pastoral and philanthropic claims and the labors of authorship, Dr. Burns's engagements are of a multifarious character, and include the duties of a vestryman of Paddington, in which parish he has resided since 1846. A ruddy complexion and hale appearance give to Dr. Burns, though in his sixty-third year, the visible signs of superior vigor, which is maintained by attention to the simple but too often neglected rules of health. Time seems to have pressed gently upon him, except in the silencing it has bestowed upon his hair. He is still 'strong to labor,' and he must greatly change before the desire to labor falls below the measure of the former.—'Christian Times.'

UTAH AND POLYGAMY.—A correspondent of the San Francisco 'Bulletin' says the traveller arriving from the East into Utah comes to it prepared to be easily pleased with everything he finds. The trip over the desert from the Missouri river is a rough one, and getting back again into civilization is of itself such a luxury that everything pleases. The consequence is that Utah has been represented as a garden, which, indeed, it is, when compared with the surrounding country. But, with few exceptions the farms will not compare with those of California, or the Mississippi valley. The system of irrigation, too, for which the Mormons have received so much credit, has really involved but little labor, owing to the numerous streams which course down the mountain sides, and which are easily diverted. There is evidence of much poverty among the farm settlements. Two-thirds of the houses are

...The trial revealed the fact that Von Beck and Brims had spared themselves as little as other people, their bodies being marked with scars of 42 experiments which had involved a terrible amount of long continued pain, while the young lady boasted with triumph, of the poisons and antidotes which she had swallowed. The patient escaped with a nominal punishment, and received a decided eulogy in the columns of the 'Tribune,' for their 'heroic, though mistaken devotion to the cause of science.'

At Hellbroun, in Swabia, a little boy noted for his honesty and goodness, the son of a miller, was detected in stealing money from his father and on being questioned, declared that Black John, a well-known rascal and outlaw of the neighbourhood, had threatened to cut off all his fingers unless he would bring him, Black John, every day a certain sum. He was let off with a reprimand but he was in terrible alarm, lest John should carry out his threat. The next day he came running to his father in extreme agony, declaring that Black John had chased him with a knife, and being seized with convulsions, actually died of fright.

The father of the boy being a man of great strength and impetuous passions, at once seized a knife, and rushing forth epouentered Black John with the irresistible fury of a madman, and having beat him to helplessness and bound him, deliberately cut off all his fingers and thumbs, heedless of the screams of his victim. The editor of the 'Criminal Zeitung' observes that, while every detail of this case is reported with fidelity, it resembles in a striking degree an event which occurred near Altoning in 1784, the only difference being that the former case was a girl, and that the criminal did actually cut her fingers off.

The Romance of a Lead Mine.

A correspondent of the Chicago 'Republican,' describing a visit to the lead region of Illinois and Wisconsin, tells this story: 'One of the richest mines in Mineral Point has a story of some interest. Many years ago a party of speculators, adventurers all, three in number, bought up a tract of land on which to demonstrate a theory in regard to mining, which one of the party had originated. The other men, his companions and partners, were the money men of the company, who had been duped by the one who had the pet theory. One entire season, from early spring to autumn, was spent in hard labor by these men. Their expenses were ruinous. No matter, it was all in vain; labor and money were alike unavailable, and when the winter of that year (1848) came on, they found themselves unable to proceed, and still very far from success. They 'pulled up stakes' and went away to a neighboring settlement, where they tarried for a few weeks, putting up at the only public house in the place, hoping, as a last resort to effect a sale of their prop-either as a whole, or in any of its parts. There is a good assortment of gladioli, but the dahlias were few, and not at all to compare with those that are sent from Quebec, annually, to the Montreal exhibition. But if Ontario is behind Quebec in flowers, it is far ahead of us in fruits. The quantity exhibited is, at least, three times as great, and the variety much better. There are fine assortments of apples here, not better, however, than some Montreal assortments; but in pears, plums, peaches and grapes, the Hamilton Exhibition is far, far ahead of that at Montreal. In vegetables, Lower Canada cannot be surpassed.

In poultry, the Hamilton show surpassed Montreal considerably, having a greater number and variety, and some fowls of greater beauty than any I saw at Montreal. I was, however, very sorry to see such an extensive show of game fowls, a breed which is not in any respect equal to other breeds, except for the cruel practice of fighting, which we hope is not common in Ontario. The Hamburgs, Cochins, and Bantams are very fine, but there is only one exhibitor of the latter, and he has a white breed.

The department of machinery and agricultural implements is much more extensive here than in Lower Canada, and there were two machines which, from their novelty, attracted much attention. One of these was a traction engine, which went over the ground pretty smartly, notwithstanding some inequalities. It was not, however, drawing any vehicles behind it. The other was a machine drawn by two horses, for cutting drains. The cutter was a wheel furnished with teeth, which loosened the earth and elevated it to a hopper, that throw it out on either side. This looks like a return to the police of trying to coerce annexation, by establishing a practical non-intercourse between two countries which are mutually nourished by each other. A policy which probably would not have been renewed but for the very anomalous position of Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island. As the young lion which has tasted blood becomes ravenous for prey, so the attitude of these colonies seems to have aroused the desire for expansion on the part of our neighbours.

It is a pleasure to come over the Great Western Railroad, the motion being swift, smooth, and comparatively noiseless, and, however large the train, the last cars are free from that undulating and swinging motion which makes one fear that they will swing off the track. The Great Western is, we suppose, what Grand Trunk was intended to be; namely, equal to a first-class English railroad.

ANNIVERSARY MEETINGS.

A correspondent, in accounting for the declining interest in our anniversaries, says:

First, a practice prevails, and it is the death of the meetings, of bringing forward third-rate speakers, merely by way of compliment. The managers say, 'A. B. is a good friend to our cause; we will gratify him with an invitation to address the meeting.' Thus A. B. is delighted and two or three thousand others are disgusted. The best orators should be relentlessly preferred, without consulting private feelings.

Again, that only should be said which the audience came to hear. They do not desire, but simply endure, the tedious 'reports' of officers, vociferous common-places, and glib triteness; they want thought, relevant, concise, and powerful. The right men, speaking on specified points and limited in time, will make the anniversary meetings profitable and crowded as in former days.

To illustrate the need of these criticisms, a single instance of bad management shall suffice. Last May, a meeting was announced, and a placard informed the public, that the attractions would be 'revival narratives, of what God had wrought in so many places during the winter past. But, to the dismay of the great congregation, the first speaker read from a manuscript a sermon an hour long, upon 'revivals,' and no facts were related as to conversions, though the preacher came from the midst of a wonderful work of grace. The crowds who go up, at great expense, to attend the anniversaries, will continue to diminish, and the whole system will be run into and under the ground, unless those who have the conduct of the meetings can be induced to turn over a new leaf.—Boston paper.'

On account of more general education, she should be far ahead of Quebec in this respect, instead of being, so far as we could judge, far behind.

We are happy to close with a point of contrast in which Ontario was far ahead of Montreal. The Hamilton Young Men's Association had free liberty to circulate tracts and books in the grounds,—a liberty denied to the French Canadian Missionary Society in Montreal, which only sought to sell the Scriptures and circulate uncontroversial tracts and books. J. D.

ADDITIONAL PARTICULARS.

There were very few exhibitors from Montreal, or indeed from Lower Canada, and almost as few visitors. This is to be regretted as each Province should keep up a lively interest in the progress of the other, and cherish a spirit of amicable rivalry in everything that is good. The press of Hamilton and Toronto, which was pretty much occupied with exhibition matters for three or four days, spoke very favorably of the portions of the exhibition which were from the Province of Quebec or load. Another regulation is, that a large lot coming in by teams cannot, as heretofore, be entered altogether, but every load must be entered separately, and seventy-five cents of fees paid thereon. This looks like a return to the policy of trying to coerce annexation, by establishing a practical non-intercourse between two countries which are mutually nourished by each other. A policy which probably would not have been renewed but for the very anomalous position of Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island. As the young lion which has tasted blood becomes ravenous for prey, so the attitude of these colonies seems to have aroused the desire for expansion on the part of our neighbours.

It is a pleasure to come over the Great Western Railroad, the motion being swift, smooth, and comparatively noiseless, and, however large the train, the last cars are free from that unulating and swiveling motion which makes one fear that they will swing off the track. The Great Western is, we suppose, what Grand Trunk was intended to be; namely, equal to a first-class English railroad.

I learned here from Rev. Mr. Kemp that Mr. Chiniquy is still in the Maritime Provinces, where he has placed one of his students as the first missionary among the Acadians; I also learned that four of these students are going to Knox College, Toronto, this winter, to complete their studies for the ministry. Mr. Hale, addressing the Duke in the name of the United States, congratulated the Provisional Junta and the people of Spain on a success so marked in a revolution of such grand proportions. He was happy to return the greeting which Spain gave the United States on their entrance into the family of free and sovereign people. The relations between Spain and the United States had always been friendly. Under the present circumstances all his efforts of mind would be exerted to augment the friendship of both peoples. The Duke de Latorre in the course of his reply, said that, amid the ruins of the old rule a structure would be formed, which he believed would merit the approval and sympathy of the United States. Spain now deserved and needed the support of all free nations, and that of the American Government was highly esteemed. The duke concluded by saying the interview would serve to maintain unbroken the relations between two nations, both claiming and exercising successively the principal of national sovereignty. Gen. Horrible Tragedy in Brookline, Mass.

Boston, Oct. 9, 1868.

One of the most painful tragedies which has startled the community for a long time took place in the town of Brookline, about four miles from Boston, at an early hour this morning. The act was produced by insanity on the part of the perpetrator, and the victims are his two little sons.

Mr. G. L. Richardson, during the intense heat of last summer, was exposed to the sun in such a manner as to become a victim of sun stroke, ever since which time he has suffered mental depression, and for the past week or ten days he has been too ill to engage in business. Last evening he retired early, and at about one o'clock this morning his wife awoke and found him very nervous. In a few moments he got up took a razor, and going into an adjoining room where his sons were sleeping, he instantly cut the throat of Henry from ear to ear, and then attempted in the same manner to kill his second son. The wounds inflicted were very deep and ugly, and it is possible he may not survive. Mrs. Richardson, hearing the cry of the youngest

FROM MILL POINT.

To the Editor of the Intelligencer.

MILL POINT, Oct. 5th, 1868.

DEAR SIR,—The writer being aware of the great interest you will take in all matters pertaining to Belleville and its neighborhood, takes the liberty of sending you for publication, the following in regard to this stirring little village.

Leaving Belleville on Saturday afternoon by the steamer 'John Greenway', which by the way, under the management of the enterprising proprietor, Capt. Forte, is working up a trade between the several ports on the bay and our town, that cannot but result in considerable advantage to our merchants. This idea was impressed upon us during our trip down the bay. The number of passengers on board was quite large, while the quantity of parcels, baskets, barrels of salt, &c., showed that the people who patronize the boat do not come to Belleville for nothing. We were informed by the captain that the season so far has been successful, eighty and 100 people coming to Belleville on one trip. We hope to see this little steamer long continue to flourish on our waters. After enjoying a delightful trip of some two hours and a half down our bay—which although beautiful at all times, is doubly so at this season of the year when the foliage along its shores are covered with the variegated hues of Autumn—we arrived at Mill Point.

The prosperous condition of this village is in the main due to the indomitable energies of that enterprising firm, the Messrs. Rathbun & Son, who since the purchase of the Bogart Mill in our town, may be said to have effected a revolution. It is a matter of fact, that one can find in the vicinity between the two places, which we trust will result in mutual advantages. The extensive steam saw mill at Mill Point owned by these gentlemen, is in excellent running order, and may be said to be a model of what a mill should be. The Messrs. Rathbun, understand the advantage of systems, and also of having the right men in the right place; consequently everything connected with the establishment goes along like clock-work.

The following particulars will give your readers an idea of the extent of the enterprise of these gentlemen. They refer to the Mill Point establishment, which is the headquarters of the firm. Two hundred and fifty men are employed by them in the different capacities of carpenters, waggon makers, blacksmiths, shipwrights, sawyers of lumber, tailors, gardeners, teamsters, harness-makers, foremen, &c., &c., to whom is paid about fifteen hundred dollars for wages weekly. Also they own house accommodation for 55 families, worth at least yearly a rental value of $2,000. Last year was manufactured, twelve million feet of lumber, one and three quarters million heading, and over two million lath, besides a large quantity of pickets and shingles. In the month of September this season, 1,854,000 feet of lumber was cut. They have shipped this season, already, about 20 million feet of lumber, as well as large quantities of lath, heading, pickets, shingles, &c., &c. In the ship yard where 20 men are employed, 3 vessels have been built, one old one rebuilt, and the fourth new one (intended for the Bay trade) is at present on the stocks.

The firm are also owners of three vessels and one steam tug, constantly employed in their shipping trade. A large store owned by them, containing all the requirements of the workmen and their families, is in full operation in the village.

The principal employees of the firm are W. R. Aylsworth, P. J. S., who attends to everything concerning law matters, &c.; Tobias Rathbun, &c.

Propeller Perseverance Burned.

Oswego, Oct. 8.—The propeller Perseverance, Capt. John Fitzgibbon, of the Welland Railway line, took fire fifteen miles off Pultneyville, about two o'clock this morning, and burned to the water's edge. The fire was first discovered by the engineer, who showed it to the first mate, he being then on watch, and almost before they could realize the appalling fact the propeller was completely enveloped in flames. Two of her boats were on fire before they could be reached, but the third was launched and put off with the two mates, two men and a boy. There were nineteen persons aboard, 14 of whom, including the captain, perished in the flames. The propeller Enterprise, of the same line, was about 15 miles astern of the Perseverance, and she picked up the boat containing the persons above named, and arrived with them at this time. The Enterprise remained near the burning steamer until daylight, at which time the wreck was still afloat. The captain's son, who was first mate, is among the saved.

The cargo of the Perseverance consisted of 20,147 bushels of corn for P. S. Matt, of Oswego, and both boat and cargo were insured.

The Perseverance was a first-class propeller and was employed wholly in the grain trade between the Welland Railroad and Oswego.

This is one of the most heart-rending accidents which has ever occurred on Lake Ontario, and has cast a gloom over the whole community. Captain Fitzgibbon formerly resided in this city and was well known and much respected.

The following are the names of those lost:—John Fitzgibbon, captain; Michael Fitzgibbon, steward, and son of the captain; Alex. McArthur, first engineer; Charles Mason, second engineer; Andrew and James Patrick and Henry Scott, firemen; Dolf Bisnet, wheelsman; four deck hands with unknown French names, and Enoch Davis and daughter.

The survivors are Morris Fitzgibbon, first mate, and son of the captain; Wm. Thorp, second mate; Peter Leggo, wheelsman; a deck hand, name unknown, and Patrick Lynch, the porter.

The account of the disaster as given by Archibald Graham, a deck hand, is as follows:—"About one o'clock this morning, when about twenty miles off Pultneyville, we were called up and found the propeller on fire. The fire commenced near the smoke pipe, and in less than fifteen minutes the boat was burned to the water's edge. The two mates, porter, wheelsman and myself launched a life-boat and were picked up by the propeller Enterprise about five o'clock this morning. The crew consisted of 17 men and two women. I think none of the others made any attempt to save themselves. I do not know the names of any of the crew.—Leader."

"Madam," said an old gentleman to his housekeeper, "in primitive countries, beef is often the legal tender; but madam," said he, "all the law in Christ-

days has been too ill to engage in business. Last evening he retired early, and at about one o'clock this morning his wife awoke and found him very nervous. In a few moments he got up took a razor, and going into an adjoining room where his sons were sleeping, he instantly cut the throat of Henry from ear to ear, and then attempted in the same manner to kill his second son. The wounds inflicted were very deep and ugly, and it is possible he may not survive. Mrs. Richardson, hearing the cry of the youngest ran to the room and pulled her husband back. A moment of reason came and he exclaimed, 'Great God, what have I done!' and immediately left the house clad only in his night shirt, and shortly after jumped into a mill-dam near by. He extricated himself immediately and proceeded in his almost nude state in the direction of Boston. He stopped at the house of a neighbor and demanded admission.

The man was brought to the residence of Mr. Richardson went of, and calling at the house of Mr. Green, knocked at the rear door. The domestics, inquired what he wanted, when he implored admission, stating that he was cold. Before they had time to consider he rushed away. As was found this forenoon in his own barn under the hay, and taken to the Insane Asylum in Somerville, laboring under great mental depression, and though unaware of the deed that he had perpetrated, impressed with the sense of having committed some great crime.

THE BEETLES IN UTAH.—Utah is not only plagued with locusts but with an insect called the 'elephant beetle.' A creditable person who returned from the neighborhood of Salt Lake recently, saw myriads of them covering the earth with their shining brownish-black bodies, and destroying everything which they met in their path. Even small animals, he was informed by the ill-fated residents, did not escape the voracity of these borers. Their bodies were crowded upon, and worried and wounded cruelly with the powerful antennae until they fell down exhausted by their struggles and loss of blood, when they were feasted upon by thousands and devoured. The entire carcass of a sheep was eaten, and the bones picked clean in two and a half minutes, and it is said that a dead ox would be gobbled up by them in a quarter of an hour. So ferocious are these giant beetles that mothers are afraid to let their children go out unless attended by a grown person. In their frequent bloody contests the wounded are devoured on the instant.

rebuilt, and the fourth new one (intended for the Bay trade) is at present on the stocks.

The firm are also owners of three vessels and one steam tug, constantly employed in their shipping trade. A large store owned by them, containing all the requirements of the workmen and their families, is in full operation in the village.

The principal employees of the firm are W. R. Aylsworth, P. J. S., who attends to everything concerning law matters, &c.; Tobias Butler, Superintendent of Shanty and River Business; John Drowry, head book-keeper and Cashier; M. H. Williams, Manager of Store and Paymaster; H. B. Sherwood, Superintendent of General business; W. McCrary, Millwright, and Superintendent of repairs, &c., in this mill as well as the Belleville mill, and a third one owned by Messrs. Rathbun, on the Salmon River; James Whitton, Head Brullette, Head Surveyors; J. B. Benson, in charge of yard, shipping, &c.; Charles Dryden, Purchaser of Horses, Cattle, &c.; John Young in charge of the lath, heading, and picket mills, while the whole is under the immediate supervision of E. W. Rathbun, the junior partner and general business manager of this enterprising firm, who have in full operation two steam and one water-power mill, containing altogether 249 saws, besides those used in the manufacture of edging, butting, lath and heading.

Quite a number of new dwellings are in course of erection in the village, evincing unmistakable signs that the place is 'going ahead.' The Mill Pointers feel much elated over the prospect of having a new church, which is at present rapidly approaching completion, beautifully situated on the brow of the hill which slopes to the bay, and upon which the village is situated; it will be quite an acquisition to the place. As it is the only church in the village, the people feel quite proud of it. The ladies of Mill Point, not to be behind hand in the examples set them by those of other towns and villages, and feeling that it was but due on their part to render any assistance in their power towards defraying the expenses incident to building the new church, met in solemn convocation on Saturday last, and organized themselves into a sewing society. There being no short hand reporters present that your correspondent is aware of, he was unable to obtain any full account of the proceedings, but learns that Mrs. E. W. Rathbun was duly installed as President; Mrs. Drowry, Vice President; Miss Wilson, Secretary and Treasurer. A deputation was also appointed to canvass the place, to the end that their funds may be increased.

On Sunday morning we had the pleasure of attending worship in the very prettily located Indian Church—about a mile from the village. A very able discourse was delivered by the Rev. G. A. Anderson, the Rector, on the subject of 'Confirmation,' which beautiful and very important rite of the Church of England, was to be administered in the church on the following Tuesday, by the Lord Bishop of Ontario. There was quite a number of the dusky brethren in attendance, all very cleanly and neatly attired, and who listened with marked attention, to the discourse of the Rev. gentleman. The choir, under the leadership of Mrs. Anderson, favored us with some choice music.

During the evening, we went to 'meeting' in the school house. The services were conducted by the Rev. Mr. Sing, who preached a very excellent sermon, but during the delivery of which we were not a little disturbed, by the sonorous sounds emanating from the nasal organs—or in other words, the 'snore' of some present, who were inviting the embraces of the drowsy god. They were suddenly brought to the 'right about,' however, by the modest request of the minister, that they would be so kind as to defer their woogings 'till that time' until 'church was out.' The gentle hint was effective for with the exception of the voice of the speaker, silence reigned supreme,

THE AGRICULTURAL SHOW.

The annual County Show took place at the new building of the society in this Town on Thursday of last week. The weather has too often occurs on such occasions was unpropitious at least to the tastes of pedestrians, but notwithstanding the number present was large and the Exhibition very successful. In all departments the show was more than an average; as to quality and the number of entries fairly in advance of previous years. Taking these facts in connection with the new building provided by the Society, and the pleasant and convenient location of the grounds, and it may be fairly assumed that the agricultural interests in this County have entered upon a new era. And thanks be to our social organization—this fact has no abstract relation. A new era in Agricultural interests if it be open to, is of equal importance to every other interest in the community—whether mechanical, mercantile, or commercial in the broader sense. It is a sure precursor of increasing wealth with all its attendant blessings—and from its streams flow good to every branch of industry however grand or insignificant its character. We note these facts, therefore, with great pleasure, and hope that each recurring year will show more clearly the wisdom that prompted to the good work that now rears its head in our midst a monument of enterprise, liberality, and thrift.

It is barely possible there are those who do not understand the entire significance of the very fine Agricultural building reared for the accommodation of the Society in this County. To such we have pleasure in stating that few such buildings exist in central Canada by and for the Agricultural societies. In the rich County of Hastings no such building exists, neither has the society of Frontenac a building of their own, and in no County that we can call to mind is there a building so appropriately constructed, and so pleasing to the eye withal, as the one we now refer to. In the short to donor of the ground—Mr. Cartwright, the society

THE BEETLES IN UTAH.—Utah is not only plagued with locusts but with an insect called the "elephant beetle." A creditable person who returned from the neighborhood of Salt Lake recently, saw myriads of them covering the earth with their shining brownish-black bodies, and destroying everything which they met in their path. Even small animals, he was informed by the ill-fated residents, did not escape the voracity of these hordes. Their bodies were crowded upon, and worried and wounded cruelly with the powerful antennae until they fell down exhausted by their struggles and loss of blood, when they were feasted upon by thousands and devoured. The entire carcass of a sheep was eaten, and the bones picked clean in two and a half minutes, and it is said that a dead ox would be gobbled up by them in a quarter of an hour. So ferocious are these giant beetles that nothorp are afraid to let their children go out unless attended by a grown person. In their frequent bloody contests the wounded are devoured on the instant.

A NEW PAPER.

We publish the following prospectus as decidedly rich:

I propose to start a religious paper on the gift enterprise plan. It will be devoted to sanctity and sewing machines, piety, politics and patent medicines.

Subscribers for one copy of the 'Church Cancer' will be presented with a box of petroleum paste blacking. This is a very superior article; it will black boots or stoves and may be used as a hair dye (See testimony from leading clergymen, statesmen and boot blacks.)

Subscribers for two copies will receive a box of Sardines.

Subscribers for ten copies will be presented with a pair of iron-clad spectacles with glass eyes warranted to suit any age as well as another.

Subscribers for twenty five copies will receive a tilting hoop skirt and a marble bureau with a mahogany top.

Subscribers for five hundred copies will receive a nomination for Congress, with a library consisting of a bottle and pack of cards.

Subscribers for a thousand copies will be presented with a farm in New Jersey, fenced in and mortgaged.

Clergymen acting as agents for the 'Cancer' will be presented with a pair of brass knuckles and an acre of court plaster.—Bruce Kowlov.

A LAMENTABLE CASE.—A woman by the name of Seuse was arrested this morning (Monday) by the police in a state of imbecile intoxication, with an infant in her arms. Upon removing the baby from her arms at the station house, it was found to be a stark stiff corpse. It is reported that the woman has been wandering round for some days from tavern to tavern in a maddlin condition, with this dead child in her arms, earnestly begging an additional stimulant to her fearful appetite. Of course the people with whom she came in contact were not aware of the condition of the child. Her husband is in the R. C. Rifles, and a very respectable man, who has vainly endeavored to rescue his wife from her infatuation for strong drink. The coroner has appointed an inquest for to-morrow morning at eleven o'clock, and will order the body of the infant to be examined in the meantime.—News.

CONNECTICUT AND DELAWARE ELECTIONS.—The Republican gain at the recent election in Connecticut was even more favorable to the Republicans than as at first reported. But little Delaware she the most northerly of the old slave States, has gone the other way, as, of course, it was expected to do.

gether 249 saws, besides those used in the manufacture of edging, butting, lath and heading.

Quite a number of new dwellings are in course of erection in the village, evincing unmistakable signs that the place is 'going ahead.' The Mill Pointers feel much elated over the prospect of having a new church, which is at present rapidly approaching completion, beautifully situated on the brow of the hill which slopes to the bay, and upon which the village is situated; it will be quite an acquisition to the place. As it is the only church in the village, the people feel quite proud of it. The ladies of Mill Point, not to be behind hand in the examples set them by those of other towns and villages, and feeling that it was but due on their part to render any assistance in their power towards defraying the expenses incident to building the new church, met in solemn convocation Saturday last, and organized themselves into a sewing society. There being no short hand reporters present that your correspondent is aware of, he was unable to obtain any full account of the proceedings, but learns that Mrs. E. W. Rathbun was duly installed as President; Mrs. Drewry, Vice President; Miss Wilson, Secretary and Treasurer. A deputation was also appointed to canvass the place, to the end that their funds may be increased.

On Sunday morning we had the pleasure of attending worship in the very prettily located Indian Church—about a mile from the village. A very able discourse was delivered by the Rev. G. A. Anderson, the Rector, on the subject of 'Confirmation,' which beautiful and very important rite of the Church of England, was to be administered in the church on the following Tuesday, by the Lord Bishop of Ontario. There was quite a number of the dusky brethren in attendance, all very cleanly and neatly attired, and who listened with marked attention, to the discourse of the Rev. gentleman. The choir, under the leadership of Mrs. Anderson, favored us with some choice music.

During the evening, we went to meeting in the school house. The services were conducted by the Rev. Mr. Sing, who preached a very excellent sermon, but during the delivery of which we were not a little disturbed, by the sonorous sounds emanating from the nasal organs—or in other words, the 'snores' of some present, who were inviting the embraces of the drowsy god. They were suddenly brought to the 'right about,' however, by the modest request of the minister, that they would be so kind as to defer their woosings 'in that line' until 'church was out.' The gentle hint was effective for with the exception of the voice of the speaker, silence reigned supreme, until meeting was over.

A Cincinnati detective was recently pursuing his occupation got up as a vagrant. The Chicago city police apprehended him and he was at some trouble to prove his identity, as the grip of the law was loose.

At a meeting of the Board of Trade at Montreal this week, it was stated that $10,000 to $12,000 had been expended for increasing the wharfage accommodation.

The receipt of the Montreal Ladies' Benevolent Society for the year just ended amount to $5,545 61, and the expenditure leaves a balance to carry forward of $787 81c, being an increase of money in hand of $459 68c.

large and the Exhibition very successful. In all departments the show was more than an average; as to quality and the number of entries fairly in advance of previous years. Taking these facts in connection with the new building provided by the Society, and the pleasant and convenient location of the grounds, and it may be fairly assumed that the agricultural interests in this County have entered upon a new era. And thanks be to our social organization—this fact has no abstract relation. A new era in Agricultural interests if it be one of improvements such as are alluded to, is of equal importance to every other interest in the community—whether mechanical, mercantile, or commercial in the broader sense. It is a sure precursor of increasing wealth with all its attendant blessings—and from its streams flow good to every branch of industry however grand or insignificant its character. We note these facts, therefore, with great pleasure, and hope that each recurring year will show more clearly the wisdom that prompted to the good work that now rears its head in our midst a monument of enterprise, liberality, and thrift.

It is barely possible there are those who do not understand the entire significance of the very fine Agricultural building reared for the accommodation of the Society in this County. To such we have pleasure in stating that few such buildings exist in central Canada, by and for the Agricultural societies. In the rich County of Hastings no such building exists, neither has the society of Frontenac a building of their own, and in no County that we can call to mind is there a building so appropriately constructed, and so pleasing to the eye withal, as the one we now refer to. In the short to donor of the ground—Mr. Cartwright, the society whose means has thus heavily been taxed, to the Contractor, Mr. Green, and to all concerned is the thanks of community and especially of the Town for the acquisition to its beauty afforded due. But who is satisfied with anything in this mundane sphere? The grounds so beautiful by nature now require a touch of art. It would cost 25 cents a piece or less to plant elms or maples around the whole plot, and in a few years the place would become a public park—a greater ornament to the place than it now is, and a resort for pleasure seekers who most delight to bask in "ambrosial groves" and revel in the dulcist strains of some future to be established Operatic Corps—save the mark (?)

On Exhibition we noticed many articles worthy of especial attention. Mr. Gibbard exhibited some Selby, Oct. 13 1888.

For the Express.

Mr Editor,

Should in your last week's issue, a notice to the Electors of the Township of Richmond that a poll would be opened on the fourth of Nov. and day following of course for approval or disapproval of a By-law repealing the temperance act now in force in the Township. I should like to ask the council a few questions together with the Business men of Selby, which I hope they will answer and oblige me and many others. If the expectation of placing a few more dollars in their pockets by way of trade is not the reason why they wish the law repealed or whether the council are afraid of losing a few votes if they support the Temperance cause, I believe the majority of our Council to be temperance men, but will stay at home rather than vote, in hope of gaining a few whiskey votes. Are they working for the best interests of the township to help to place a den of iniquity in our midst, to take the last cent from many a misguided man and send misery and woe broad cast through the land? Now when public men have to resort to foul means to accomplish their purposes is it not time others should take their places. They have chosen the fourth and fifth of Nov. for polling days, knowing the orangemen were to celebrate the fifth at Selby, thinking no doubt that they were a drunken pack of rowdies and would be easily duped with the expectation of having plenty of whiskey to drink, they would all vote just as they wanted them to. Are orangemen to be made mere tools of, to accomplish such purposes, are they to be bought at will, will they sell themselves for whiskey I trust not, they know better I do not believe they are willing to entail an endless curse on the Township for the sake of pleasing a few men who think more of money and office than they do of either body or soul of their supporters. If they can only get your votes and your money they will hold their peace in public, will tell you the Dunce Bill, is a humbug, the public need taverns for accommodation. If the public will not support a temperance house why not build a shed at the Town hall the majority of the Township would be willing to be taxed for it, rather than have a constant scene of drunkenness, quarrelling, fighting and swearing in our streets and it would not cost the price of blood to pay for it. Electors of Richmond think before you vote. For the sake of supporting humanity vote for temperance and you will not regret it at the least.

Friday's N. Y. "Express," commenting upon Spanish affairs, and conjecturing as to the regime most likely of adoption in the Peninsula, contains the following candid admission:—
"The United States certainly present nothing to encourage any people to embrace our form of government. On the contrary, our rule for the last past eight years is sufficiently miserable, destructive and oppressive, to sicken the whole world of what are termed 'freedom,' and 'self-government.'"

BAZAAR—The bazaar held by the ladies of the Presbyterian Church, in the Town Hall, on Thursday and Friday of last week was well attended. The display of wearing apparel &c., the handy work of the ladies' hands, was certainly astonishing, and certainly they evinced no little energy in disposing of the same for ready cash, and realized the handsome sum of $400, after paying expenses; thus exceeding their expectations.

The N. Y. "Tribune" says of the Alleghenians—"Go to their concerts and take your children. We wish every one to enjoy the pleasure of hearing them."

To the 'Alleghenians.'—Nothing has given me more pleasure than to meet you, children of song. Oh! that you might remain upon our fair island always. But it cannot be; like birds of flight, you are away. God bless you in all your journey through life, singing as you go to the realms of immortality.
Adieu!
Again, Heaven bless you,

"THE GLOBE"—The Globe is before us in its renewed life, and presents attractive features surpassing any daily journal in Ontario. Its contents are more liberally arranged, and its variety much greater than formerly—especially in the department of literature which we hope never to see less attractive than the present edition. No doubt the example set by the Globe will be followed very soon by other provincial papers, when journalism will then have fairly entered upon a new era in the Dominion—a desideratum very much required.

In fact we were safe in saying that a finer assorted stock cannot be found in Toronto and prices which will give satisfaction. See advertisement in another column.

THE AGRICULTURAL SHOW.

The annual ~~very~~ ~~large~~ ~~and~~ ~~well~~ ~~attended~~ ~~show~~ took place at the new building of the society in this Town on Thursday of last week. The weather as too often occurs on such occasions was unpropitious at least to the tastes of pedestrians, but notwithstanding the number present was large and the Exhibition very successful. In all departments the show was more than an average; as to quality and the number of entries fairly in advance of previous years. Taking these facts in connection with the new building provided by the Society, and the pleasant and convenient location of the grounds, and it may be fairly assumed that the agricultural interests in this County have entered upon a new era. And thanks be to our social organization—this fact has no abstract relation. A new era in Agricultural interests if it be one of improvements such as are alluded to, is of equal importance to every other interest in the community—whether mechanical, mercantile, or commercial in the broader sense. It is a sure precursor of increasing wealth with all its attendant blessings—and from its streams flow good to every branch of industry however grand or insignificant its character. We note these facts, therefore, with great pleasure, and hope that each recurring year will show more clearly the wisdom that prompted to the good work that now rears its head in our midst a monument of enterprise, liberality, and thrift.

It is barely possible there are those who do not understand the entire significance of the very fine Agricultural building reared for the accommodation of the Society in this County. To such we have pleasure in stating that few such buildings exist in central Canada by and for the Agricultural societies. In the rich County of Hastings no such building exists, neither has the society of Frontenac a building of their own, and in no County that we can call to mind is there a building so appropriately constructed, and so pleasing to the eye withal, as the one we now refer to. In the short to donor of the ground—Mr. Cartwright, the society

SHOP LIFTING.—Miss Storms, a damsel of comely appearance was on Wednesday last, brought before His Worship the mayor charged with abstracting sundry articles of feminine apparel suitable for approaching inclement season such as Boots, Santsags, Hoods, Shawls &c., from various Dry Goods Shops in Town. On hearing the case His Worship sent the accused up to Aishton's Hotel there to be left till called for. We presume the Grand Jury empanelled to-day will make it a point to show her such attention as the nature of her case may require.

POST OFFICE REVENUE.—The 'Globe's'
Ottawa correspondent says, a comparison of the receipts from the first quarter shows that the postoffice department has sustained a loss of about twenty-five thousand dollars, in consequence of the reduction of letter rates from five to three cents. The estimated loss for the year was one hundred thousand dollars, but as it is believed a considerable sum of old postage stamps were held, it is thought the loss from the reduced rate will be less when the year's returns are in.

We are well pleased to learn that our friend Soby, for some time past favourably known to the public as the "host of the Soby House," has taken a lease of the premises for a further term of five years. Workmen are now engaged in fitting up the upper stories of the spacious new brick building adjoining the former Hotel, which are to be used for the purposes of the House.
Mr. Soby is now busily engaged in refitting and furnishing the throughout and putting in all the modern improvements. The large addition and the thorough nova-tion with the increased comfort and accommodation, will we are confident, make the "Soby House" a first class Hotel, and secure for it that large share of patronage that its conveniences and the care, attention and enterprise of Mr. Soby so deservedly merit.

Friday's N. Y. "Express," commenting upon Spanish affairs, and conjecturing as to the regime most likely of adoption in the Peninsula, contains the following candid admission:—
 "The United States certainly present nothing to encourage any people to embrace our form of government. On the contrary, our rule for the last past eight years is sufficiently miserable, destructive and oppressive, to sicken the whole world of what are termed 'freedom,' and 'self-government.'"

Bazaar.—The bazaar held by the ladies of the Presbyterian Church, in the Town Hall, on Thursday and Friday of last week was well attended. The display of wearing apparel &c., the handy work of the ladies' hands, was certainly astonishing, and certainly they evinced no little energy in disposing of the same for ready cash, and realized the handsome sum of $400, after paying expenses; thus exceeding their expectations.

SWISS BELL RINGERS.—This Company will visit Napanee on Tuesday 27th. The N. Y. "Tribune" says of the Alleghenians—Go to their concerts and take your children. We wish every one to enjoy the pleasure of hearing them.
 "To the Alleghenians."—Nothing has given me more pleasure than to meet you, children of song. Oh! that you might remain upon our fair Island always. But it cannot be; like birds of flight, you are away. God bless you in all your journey through life, singing as you go to the realms of immortality. Adieu!

Again, Heaven bless you,
 POMARE V."

"THE GLOBE"—The Globe is before us in its renewed life, and presents attractive features surpassing any daily journal in Ontario. Its contents are more liberally arranged, and its variety much greater than formerly—especially in the department of literature which we hope never to see less attractive than the present edition. No doubt the example set by the Globe will be followed very soon by other provincial papers, when journalism will then have fairly entered upon a new era in the Dominion—a desideratum very much required.

For the Express.
 Selby, Oct. 13 1868.
 Mr. Editor,
 Sir, I enclosed in your last week's issue, a notice to the Electors of the Township of Richmond that a poll would be opened on the fourth of Nov. and day following of course, for approval or disapproval of a By-law repealing the temperance act now in force in the Township. I should like to ask the council a few questions together with the Business men of Selby, which I hope they will answer and oblige me and many others. If the expectation of placing a few more dollars in their pockets by way of trade is not the reason why they wish the law repealed or whether the council are afraid of losing a few votes if they support the Temperance cause, I believe the majority of our Council to be temperance men, but will stay at home rather than vote, in hope of gaining a few whiskey votes. Are they working for the best interests of the township to help to place a den of iniquity in our midst, to take the last cent from many a misguided man and send misery and woe broad cast through the land? Now when public men have to resort to foul means to accomplish their purposes is it not time others should take their places. They have chosen the fourth and fifth of Nov. for polling days, knowing the orangeman were to celebrate the fifth at Selby, thinking no doubt that they were a drunken pack of rowdies and would be easily duped with the expectation of having plenty of whiskey to drink, they would all vote just as they wanted them to. Are orangemen to be made mere tools of, to accomplish such purposes, are they to be bought at will, will they sell themselves for whiskey I trust not, they know better I do not believe they are willing to entail an endless curse on the Township for the sake of pleasing a few men who think more of money and offices than they do of either body or soul of their supporters. If they can only get your votes and your money they will hold their peace in public, will tell you the Duncan Bill is a humbug, the public need taverns for accommodation. If the public will not support a temperance house why not build a shed at the Town hall the majority of the Township would be willing to be taxed for it, rather than have a constant scene of drunkenness, quarrelling, fighting and swearing in our streets and it would not cost the price of blood to pay for it. Electors of Richmond think before you vote. For the sake of supporting humanity vote for temperance and you will not regret it at the least.

SHOP LIFTING.—Miss Storma, a damsel of comely appearance was on Wednesday last, brought before His Worship the mayor charged with abstracting sundry articles of feminine apparel suitable for approaching inclement season such as Boots, Santsags, Hoods, Shawls &c., from various Dry Goods Shops in Town. On hearing the case His Worship sent the accused up to Aishlons Hotel there to be left till called for. We presume the Grand Jury empannelled to-day will make it a point to show her such attention as the nature of her case may require.

POST OFFICE REVENUE.—The 'Globe's' Ottawa correspondent says, a comparison of the receipts from the first quarter shows that the post-office department has sustained a loss of about twenty-five thousand dollars, in consequence of the reduction of letter rates from five to three cents. The estimated loss for the year was one hundred thousand dollars, but as it is believed a considerable sum of old postage stamps were held, it is thought the loss from the reduced rate will be less when the year's returns are in.

We are well pleased to learn that our friend Soby, for some time past favourably known to the public as the "host of the Soby House," has taken a lease of the premises for a further term of five years. Workmen are now engaged in fitting up the upper stories of the spacious new brick building adjoining the former Hotel, which are to be used for the purposes of the House. Mr. Soby is now busily engaged in refitting and furnishing the Hotel throughout and putting in all the modern improvements. The large addition and the thorough unobscured accommodation with the increased comfort and accommodation, will we are confident, make the "Soby House" a first class Hotel, and secure for it that large share of patronage that its conveniences and the care, attention and enterprise of Mr. Soby so deservedly merit.

Secretary Seward—who it is unkindly remarked, was born in 1801—is to be married again next week.

Hon. Mr. Moore, son of the Earl of Montchassel has been wounded by the discharge of a revolver by a soldier of the 69th near the military camp at London.

A sister in the House of Notre Dame, Boston, named O'Gorman or sister ereas de Chantal, having brought an action against a Priest, named Walsh, in her seduction, the story got into the newspapers, and Miss O'Gorman published a card to deny the fact. Affidavits have, however, since been made by the Attorneys, who brought St. Catharines has a Mechanics' Institute. It is not flourishing. The old, old tale.

Mr. Laidlaw, a well-to-do farmer near Arthur Village, Owen Sound road, has committed suicide by taking laudanum.

The body of a woman has been found washed on the lake shore at Inverhuron. The deceased has not been identified.

Three cents per bushel were paid by Tiverton wheat-buyers last week, more than at Kincardine and Port Elgin.

The death knell of the traction engine is sounded at Kincardine. The 'Review' sings a requiem over its banishment.

A rev. gentleman in a neighbouring county is announced to "glaborate" on an approaching Sabbath-day—in vulgar parlance, 'preach.' What are we coming to?

A finely contested lacrosse match has been played at Kingston between Pittsburg and Ganouque (Beaver) Clubs. Pittsburg won.

Mr. G. L. Vose proposes to order a suspension of traffic on the Grand Trunk line, from Portland to Montreal 'until it is repaired.' The 'Daily Advertiser' (Portland) defends the Company.

The talented Port Elgin correspondent of the Paisley 'Advocate' refers to 'an old book wrote about 4,000 years ago' and desires his readers to find out what he means. Is it a puzzle? We give it up.

Several families have emigrated from Guelph for the Western and Southern States. On the other hand, crowds of States' people make capital in Canada.

A new mode of making gas, introduced by Mr. McKenzie in Scotland, is found, from experiments in New York, equal to 20 to 25 candles. Gas in the States yields a power equal to 12 to 15; in Great Britain 25 to 30.

The gas question is bothering the people of St. Johns (Prov. of Quebec). The inhabitants carry lighted lanterns to avoid running against the gas-lamps at night.

AUCTION SALE

VALUABLE PROPERTY
IN THE
TOWN OF NAPANEE.

THE following property will be sold by Public Auction on the premises at one o'clock, p. m., on Thursday, 22 October, 1868,

Viz: Lots 6, 7, 8, 9 and 10, on the west side of East Street, Napanee, containing 1 1/2 acres, with a frontage of 330 feet, on East Street, by 165 feet on Bridge Street.

Upon the corner of Bridge and East street is a very comfortable House, occupied as an office and dwelling, with out buildings, &c. Garden, Fruit, and Ornamental trees, and one of the best wells of durable water in town.

The lots are admirably situated for building purposes, being higher ground than most of the neighboring lots, and can be easily drained, besides the great advantage of obtaining the best water by digging down a few feet upon any of the lots, a luxury which many lots in town are deprived of. These lots are in other respects favourably situated, being on the leading road to the G. T.
Railway Depot, in the immediate vicinity of the Court House, Town Hall, and Market, renders them desirable for business offices as well as dwellings.

Since Napanee has become a County town property in good locations is increasing rapidly in value and a more favorable opportunity for intending purchasers seldom occur.

TERMS OF SALE

Very Liberal—One-Fifth down and the balance in seven equal annual instalments, with interest upon unpaid balance.

Plan of the Lots and Particulars can be obtained at the office of Messrs Wilkinson & Reeve, or from the undersigned on and after the 21st inst.

OUR BABY.

Did you ever see our baby?
 Little Tot,
 With her eyes so sparkling bright,
 And her skin so lily white,
 Lips and cheeks of rosy light—
 Tell you what,
 She is just the sweetest baby
 In the lot.
 Ah, she is our only darling!
 And to me
 All her ways are witty,
 When she sings her little ditty,
 Every word is just as pretty,
 As can be;
 Not another in the city
 Sweet as she.
 You don't think so, you never saw her;
 Wish you could See her with her playthings clattering,
 Hear her little tongue a chattering,
 Little dancing feet come pattering, Think you would Love her just as well as I do,
 If you should.

What is smaller than a mite's mouth?
 Its tongue.

Preventive and Remedy Pills ward off character and properties these Pills in their disease in its incipient stages, and arrest it when it has assumed the VIRAL FORM.

They do not debilitate the system; they cause

Read what people who have used these Pills say for them.

"I had been troubled with Biliousness for several years, but your Pills have cured me."

"The Doctors told me that I had Dyspepsia and that nothing would benefit me but a prolonged visit to some Mineral Waters. One box of your Anti-Bilious Pills has made me perfectly well, and saved me from a great expense and untold suffering."

THE BEST
Cough Medicine
 IN THE WORLD.

Dr. JODIN'S
FRENCH Cough LEVERS,

Should be resorted to in all cases of
 BRONCHITIS, HOARSENESS, CATARRH, COUGHS, COLDS, ASTHMA, SHORTNESS OF BREATH, AND ALL DISORDERS OF THE THROAT AND LUNGS.

THEY are recommended with confidence to Ministers, School Teachers, Public Speakers, Singers, Auctioneers, &c. The Cough Lozenges contain no Opium or any other ingredients that will irritate the throat and thus imperil the patient; they will be found excellent in soothing irritation and promoting the natural secretions of the air passages, and in this manner reduce inflammation.

Children take them better than any other Cough Remedy, and from their gentle action, with invariable success.

TESTIMONIALS.

Hall, Nova Scotia, Nov. 16th, 1867.
 Gentlemen--I have given Dr. Jodin's French Cough Lozenges a full trial and have little hesitation in saying that for a relief from hoarseness and sore throat I much prefer them to either Bryant's or Brown's, which I have frequently used and which are so much lauded.

T. W. CASEY,
 Lecturer to the R.W.G.L. of I.O. of G.T.

Napanee, Nov. 28th, 1867.

This is to certify that I have used Dr. Jodin's French Cough Levers with great satisfaction and can confidently say, after testing them for weeks, in special services, that I think them better than any other Throats I have ever used.

THE BEST
Cough Medicine
 IN THE WORLD.
Dr. JODIN'S
FRENCH COUGH LEVERS,
 Should be resorted to in all cases of
 BRONCHITIS, HOARSENESS, CATARRH, COUGHS, COLDS, ASTHMA, SHORTNESS OF BREATH, AND ALL DISORDERS OF THE THROAT AND LUNGS.

THEY are recommended with confidence to Ministers, School Teachers, Public Speakers, Singers, Auctioneers, &c. The Cough Levers contain no Opium or any other ingredients that will dry up a cough and thus imperil the patient; they will be found excellent in soothing irritation and promoting the natural secretions of the air passages, and in this manner reduce inflammation.
 Children take them better than any other Cough Remedy, and from their gentle action, with invariable success.

TESTIMONIALS.
 Hall, Nova Scotia, Nov. 16th, 1867.
 Gentlemen--I have given Dr. Jodin's French Cough Levers a full trial and have little hesitation in saying that for a relief from hoarseness and sore throat I much prefer them to either Bryant's or Brown's, which I have frequently used and which are so much lauded.

 Lecturer to the R.W.G.L. of I.O. of G.T.
 Napanee, Nov. 28th, 1867.
 This is to certify that I have used Dr. Jodin's French Cough Levers with great satisfaction and can confidently say, after testing them for weeks, in special services, that I think them better than any other Throats I have ever used.

MONEY TO LOAN.

THE CANADA LANDED CREDIT COMPANY are prepared to make advances to Landed Proprietors on the new mortgage system. The Loans are for a long period, at 3 per cent interest, and repayable by means of a sinking fund of 2 per cent per annum.
 By borrowing from this Company there is no possibility of the borrower ever being called on suddenly or unexpectedly to pay off the debt.
 The small sum he pays into the sinking fund half-yearly, to which the company adds interest and compound interest, cancels the debt.
 The borrower has the privilege of paying off the mortgage at any time on giving six months notice while the company remains bound to the end of the term of 26 years; and the amount paid into the sinking fund, with interest and compound interest thereon, is then allowed him in settlement. He has also the privilege, as he may find it convenient paying into the sinking fund ever and above his regular contribution, any even sum above $100, in reduction of his mortgage, for which he is allowed interest and compound interest.
 No commission charged. No shares required to be taken. No fines and no expenses of renewals.
