PROHIBITION AND TEMPERANCE

The people of Manitoba have decided by a very large majority that the liquor prohibition act passed through the Legislature at the instance of Hugh John Macdonald shall not be brought into force. The result of the polling was probably a surprise to those on both sides of the proposition, as it was generally believed that of all provinces in the Dominion Manitoba was most pronouncedly in favor of the suppression of the liquor traffic.

are natural. They are not so largely afflicted with the cravings for excitement, they feel not the need for relaxation, which so often take a pernicious course in the crowded centres. They are in favor of prohibition, but personally the passage of such a law as they favor would not affect them one whit. It is in the places where it is admitted it would be impossible to enforce the prohibition law that such a law would do good. It is in the cities that the stoppage of the sale of liquor would have a beneficial effect, if it would have a beneficial effect anywhere. The same is true of Ontario, which is also to deal with this prohibition question during the coming autumn.

THE RICH NORTHLAND.

When a few months ago the proposition was advanced that there are large tracts of land in the northern section of British Columbia and in our Northwest Territory that are likely to prove extremely valuable for agricultural purposes, a writer in the Colonist undertook to cast ridicule upon the idea. The author of the articles in question assumed to be a man who had travelled extensively and to speak from practical knowledge of the subject.

Sulzer of New York has introduced in the House of Representatives at Washington the following resolution: 'That we sympathize with the heroic liberty and independence, and protest, in the name of humanity and civilization, against the continuation of a war which outrages the feelings of all liberty-loving people, and that the congress of the United States, being committed to the policy of arbitration for the settlement of international disputes, the president is hereby respectfully requested to urge upon the government of Great Britain the wisdom of operating this policy for the purpose of stopping the awful atrocities now going on in South Africa; and that the president is hereby directed to maintain a strict neutrality between the contending forces, and prevent the shipment of contraband goods from ports of the United States to aid the British forces in South Africa, and respectfully inform the British government that if the war in South Africa is continued, it must be conducted in accordance with the rules of civilized warfare, and the provisions agreed to and adopted by the Geneva convention and The Hague peace convention.'

marital is now trying the case of Major Waller, of the United States army, who on the spur of the moment ordered eleven Filipino prisoners of war to be shot without the semblance of a trial. No one has heard of a British officer perpetrating an atrocity such as that. If one were caught at such work he would receive summary treatment.

There are a goodly number of strangers within the gates of Victoria these days. The men and women with bulging brows which portend the possession of vast stores of knowledge of every conceivable kind are the teachers upon whom rests the responsibility for the moral and material welfare of the British Columbia of the future. Anyone who has attended the various sections of the convention and heard papers read and listened to discussions upon the problems of life from the point of view of the pedagogic, cannot but admit that the destinies of the province are in efficient "hands."

Sensations are scarce just now in the United States. The yellow press has been forced to fall back upon the Alaska boundary dispute for a topic to make the eyes of its readers bulge out with astonishment. The wicked Canadians have been destroying Uncle Sam's landmarks again. The place where the monuments are created is the line about which there is or can be no dispute.

As for a top-hat there passed a youth, who wore the cravat, and a box, with this upon the lid— "Ping Pong."

A smile stood in his bright blue eyes, and many people wondered why. But when they saw his partner, they would stop and warn him not to play "Ping Pong."

In happy homes he saw the light of household fires, gleam warm and bright, in such a twinkling noise he heard, and from his lips escaped the word— "Ping Pong."

He reached his home and started play, and with his household night and day completed, till he soon became a mighty champion at the game. "Ping Pong."

He beat his fond but stout mamma, He beat his fond but stout papa, He slayed Jane and mother Pat, He readily defeated at "Ping Pong."

He beat them all, no matter who, His cousins, aunts and uncles, too, And when they thought him hoarse from shouting, he taught the parrot and cock "Ping Pong."

He never drank, he never fed, He never even went to bed, He consequent at last he died, And with his feeble breath he cried, "Ping Pong."

A dozen juries came round, And on the spot their verdict found; Which wasn't difficult, because They saw immediately it was— "Ping Pong."

And to his funeral there came All pinguinoids known to fame; And as they laid him in the mould The bell, instead of "ding done," tolled— "Ping Pong."

THE BLAKELEY IS IN THE STRAITS COCOS ISLE TREASURE EXPEDITION RETURNS Ship Was Seen Last Night and Again To-day—Cruise of the Whaler Jeannette.

A favorable wind from the southwest today will bring to hundreds of Victorians news regarding the search for the Cocos Island treasure.

Last evening, just as the sun went down, the brigantine Blakeley, Capt. C. Hackett, which left here to search for the treasure hidden away on the little island down near the equator, put in her appearance in the Straits. This morning she was still off the Washington coast and well over towards the American side.

The Blakeley left here in January last. There are aboard in addition to captain and crew, Justin Gilbert, one of the promoters of the scheme, and Mr. Bennett, whose gold-finding instruments are being used to locate the treasure.

On every hand we see men and women who at this season should be active, hale and strong, losing flesh and weight, looking pale and languid.

THE JEANNETTE'S EXPEDITION. The steam whaler Jeannette, which was in port last week to take on supplies and coal for the voyage north, is bound for a most interesting expedition.

MEETING OF THE FRUIT GROWERS

SHIPMENTS OF FRUIT TO THE NORTHWEST

Instructive Lectures by Prof. Fletcher - Fall Exhibits - Delayed Fruit Stock.

The quarterly meeting of the British Columbia Fruitgrowers' Association was held in the city hall yesterday afternoon, J. C. Metcalf, of Port Hammond, presiding.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read, also correspondence regarding an exhibit to be shown last year was read, also correspondence regarding an exhibit in Winnipeg from August 28th to 30th, also from Aulay Morrison, M. P., and Hon. Mr. Bernier, Minister of Inland Revenue, acknowledging the request of the association to have a legal standard for fruit boxes.

The executive recommended that an exhibit be made at Winnipeg, that an expert packer be engaged, to instruct fruitgrowers; that carload shipments be made to Manitoba and the Northwest from such points as may afterwards be determined; that the secretary write to the Dominion government asking for the appointment of inspectors under the Fruit Markings Act; that the examination of orchards and experimental spraying stations be continued; and that J. C. Metcalf, of Port Hammond, be again sent to Manitoba and the Northwest to look after the market for British Columbia fruit. The report was adopted.

Some discussion took place regarding the employment of an expert packer. It was held that one had been engaged for two previous years, and that fruitgrowers were now well acquainted with the work. The consensus of opinion, however, was that as the Manitoba market would increase this year, it would be better to again employ an expert packer so that the fruit would be put up in such a way that it would control this market. The association decided to divide the province into seven districts for the judging of fruit exhibits during fall exhibitions. The first district to include interior points; second, Vancouver Island and the islands, excepting Comox and Nanaimo; third, Delta, Richmond, and Central park; fourth, Surrey, Langley, Coquitlam and Maple Ridge; fifth, Mission, Agassiz and Chilliwack; sixth, Comox; seventh, Nanaimo. The judges for the districts to be as follows: Group 1, R. M. Palmer and T. Wilson; 2, W. H. Lewis and W. J. Harris; 3, Messrs. Kipp and Metcalf; 4, A. C. Wilson; 5, T. Wilson and W. A. D. Jones.

Mr. R. Anderson, deputy minister of agriculture, said that the arrangements for holding local exhibitions had been placed in his hands. He had divided the province into four districts, and had arranged dates, those of Kamloops, New Westminster and Victoria, being those already announced. The association adopted Mr. Anderson's arrangement. Mr. Kirby, of the Dominion Express Company, was present, and after some discussion promised that he would take up with his company the introduction of properly ventilated fruit carrying cars into this province. A lengthy discussion took place regarding the closing down of the Dominion fumigation station on April 1st, with the result that a lot of delayed nursery stock could not be introduced in the province. It was finally decided to write Hon. Sydney Fisher, minister of agriculture, asking him to arrange for the admission of shipments of nursery stock now on the way to the province from the United States.

Geo. Mel, Brown, executive agent of the C. P. R., was made a life member of the association. Prof. Fletcher, of Pullman Agricultural College, then addressed the association on fruit pests and the best way to destroy them. After the address, which was interesting and instructive, several questions were answered and the lecturer was thanked. At the evening meeting, Prof. Fletcher addressed the association on pruning. He answered several questions, and made many valuable suggestions regarding the purchase and use of pruning tools. He was again thanked for his lecture, and the meeting adjourned.
