NOTE.

THESE Translations are issued as promised in the Preface to the Second Edition of 'Hindústáni as it Ought to be Spoken.' The Author deprecates any conclusions being drawn from them either as to his ordinary style of English composition, or as to his nationality. The book has two 'Parts ;' first, the 'Exercises,' and then 'The Reader.' The Translations into English are in all instances close. But in each 'Part,' the closeness opens out a little as you get on. Reading aloud the earlier Translations of each 'Part' will give you an excellent idea of the modifications—in respect of order of words, and so forth—through which English must pass, before it can be reproduced in Hindústáni. A good exercise for the student is to write for himself, translations in sound idiomatic English, carefully thinking out how many ordinary English phrases can be covered by the Hindústáni at his command. Thus in Selection No. 10, for such a phrase as 'his affairs did not go on in a satisfactory manner,' (which is hardly 'English,') you may find half-a-dozen idiomatic modes of translation.

The Translations as printed will also give you a clue to English composition as turned out by natives of the country.

The figures within brackets in this book refer to the Manual. 'p.' stands for the 'paragraph,' or section on any page quoted. Thus, (38) means page 38 of the Manual ; (73. p. 5) means page 73, para. 5 of the same.

TO

HINDÚSTÁNI AS IT OUGHT TO BE SPOKEN.

EXERCISE NO. I, PAGE 9.

THE man's mother is present (or, here). The woman's son and the man's sister are here. The boy's bread is ready. Call (or, summon) a man. Call a man.¹ Hear! (or, hey you!) call the lady's son. Hey you! take away the lady's daughter. The lady's brother is here. The European's horse is ready. The water of the bath (or, simply, the bath) is ready. Have patience! Hold your tongue! Get out of the way! Let it alone!

¹ There is no explainable difference between this sentence and the preceding one; it is a matter of perception.

EXERCISE NO. 2, PAGE 12.

The tea is getting ready.¹ Give (me) a little 'dál-bhát.'² The (native) butter³ is not good. Wait a little; there is not butter (or, no butter). Take away the curd; bring milk. EXERCISE NO. 6, PAGE 32.

This horse is mine. This is my horse. I approve (i.e., 'like') my own horse. I like his horse. Bring my horse.

Bring my horse for me. I wish my horse for myself. I want my horse for him. That man—for his (own) brother—is fetching mangoes. That man—for his (another person's) brother—is bringing mangoes. Leave your (own) work; do my work. Go to your (own) left. Eat your (own) dinner. Eat his dinner. He has eaten his (own) dinner. He has eaten his (another person's) dinner. From thy word thy vice becomes evident. I—on my own behalf—have made many endeavours. (lit. much attempt.) That woman—for herself—is demanding alms. I myself shall go.

EXERCISE NO. 7, PAGE 32.

Apni rassi khīncho ; us-ki chhor-do. Wuh apna naukar buláta hai. Wuh us-ke naukar-ko buláta hai. Apne dáhine ghumo. Wuh—apni miñnat se—daulatmand hú,a hai. Us-ne—us-ki madad se—taraḳḳi pá,i hai. Wuh apna khána khá,ega. Wuh us-ki jagah pá,ega. Us-ne, apni ma ke wáste ek kursi lá,i. Us-ne, das rúpíye, us-ke naukar ke wáste, laye haiñ. Maiñ apne wáste yih cháhta hūñ. Yih meri ṭopi hai. Us-ne mera ṭaṭṭu mol-liya hai. Maiñ khud karúnga. Rája-sáhib-ne khud kaha tha.

EXERCISE NO. 8, PAGE 36.

Your faithful-one,¹ to-day, from a journey has arrived. Is your health good? When are you going away (lit. will you go away)? Your slave¹ will go to-morrow. Yesterday I was ill. Yesterday my brother became ill; to-day he is well. His (or, her)² daughter is here. When became (she) present? (= when did she come?) To that man, give bread and beer. I have called (or, sent for) a girl. Is she here? Yes! she is here. To me a clean collar give. This girl's father is dead. That boy's mother is dead. That man is bad. No! That (one) is not bad; this (one) is bad. Why are you going?

² The context alone can decide. The 'thing owned' being fem. you have 'ki'—whether the owner be male or female. (3. i.)

EXERCISE NO. 9, PAGE 36.

Ap, apne safar se, kab pahunche haiñ? Kal pahuncha. Kal chalá-já,úñga. Kal meri bahin bímár hú,i; áj us-ka mizáj achha hai. Admi ka beṭa ḥázir hai. Main-ne us-ko buláya. Ghar ke lamp sáf nahíñ haiñ. Khidmatgár! peg lá,o. Háñ! sáhib!

EXERCISE NO. 10, PAGE 36.

What man is at the door—him call. What man's horse is present—call his father. (i.e., call the father of the man whose horse is here.) What children are bad—them punish. What girls are good—them pet. What water is in the glass—that give to me. No! Sir! that water is not clean; (your) slave is bringing clean water. Who is calling? What is it? (or, what's wanted?) Give water to the horse at the door. The girl who came to-day is ill.

EXERCISE NO. 11, PAGE 37.

Jo achhi laṛki hál-kamre meñ hai, us-ko piyár karo. Jis ádmi ka báp kal pahuncha hai, us-ko bulá,ie. Jo sab kálar dráj meñ haiñ, so lá,o. Jo sab kámízeñ main-ne kal dhobi-ko di thíñ—we us-ne nahíñ lín haiñ. Kaun ḥázir hai? (or, simply, kaun hai?) Kaun laṛka ḥázir hai? Kaun laṛke ḥázir haiñ? Kya (or, kaun,) ghar achha hai? Gore-ka ghar achha hai.

EXERCISE NO. 12, PAGE 41.

Sirdár! ¹ light the fire. (lit. give fire in the fire-place.) Shall I (or, am I to, Subjunctive) give wood, or coals? Coals. Which table shall I prepare? The card-table. Tell the sirdár that (he)—all my things—quickly—in a box—shall place. The oil-light is not burning (i.e., 'wont burn'); bring a wax-candle quickly. Bring a quill; this steel-pen isn't good. The whole house—mats,² carpets, tables, pictures and the various other things—clean. What sort of men are you! As (are) the masters, so (are) the servants.

EXERCISE NO. 13, PAGE 42.

Wuh kaisa ádmī hai? Jitna dúdh ghar meṅ hai, itna lá,o. Almári meṅ kitni chízeṅ haiṅ? Bahut ádmī ḥázir haiṅ. Ág jalá-do. Lakṛī (or, hezam) nahīṅ hai. Báwarchi-kháne se kuchh lá,o. Mujh-ko kuchh (or, thoṛa) lál-kághaz dījiye. Tel-batti bujh-ga,i hai; dúsrī lá,o; kursi par rakh-do; tab³ já,o.

EXERCISE NO. 14, PAGE 44.

There is a large tree in front of the house. Because of fear, they did not go out. With me, there is not even one rupee (i.e., I have not even, &c.). For your sake, everyone will exert himself (lit. 'make endeavour'). Don't come this way; go that way. Compared with this, that is the good (one) (74. p. 8.) (i.e., this is better than that). How shall I do this work? As you think best. I keep lots of horses (lit. with me are many horses). (75. p. 13.)

² When a word like 'sab' has already given a plural sense, the plural terminations may be omitted. (185.)

³ 'Aur,' and, would hardly be idiomatic; 'tab,' then, is better.

EXERCISE NO. 15, PAGE 45.

Gore-log naddi ke us-pár ga,e haiṅ. Chirágh ke níche andhera. Ráste meṅ, maine-ne do sher dekhe haiṅ. Wuh shahar ki taraf játa tha. Is taraḥ daulatmand hú,a. Mere liye, bahut koshish ki thi.¹ Ba-nisbat is-ki, marna bihtar hai. Doston ke bích jhagṛa karna (15. p. 13.) kharáb hai. Jaj sáhib ke yahán, bahut taswíreṅ haiṅ. Us-ne, mere ḥukm ke mutábik, yih kám kiya hai.

EXERCISE NO. 16, PAGE 51.

From among these two, which does your Honour approve? In my opinion, this is the good (one) (i.e., the better of the two). May your Honour be pleased to take it²; there is another with your faithful-one (i.e., I've got another one). All right! (Your) slave to-day at evening (= this evening,) will send (it) to Your Honour; otherwise, it wont be of any use. Good! please send (it).

In the field is growing-rice; in the cook-house is dry-rice; on the table is cooked-rice. Although I should see him again, still, I should not be able to recognise him. I do not preserve recollection regarding that matter. (= I don't remember about that.) Several people are saying, (or, the report is,) that there are lots of thieves in the city. I am becoming well acquainted with the Hindústáni language.

EXERCISE NO. 17, PAGE 52.

The Empress's son came into this country. He put up with the Governor-General. The Empress herself could not come. All the kings, rájas,¹ mahárájas,¹ the nobility and the common-people went (to) Calcutta in order to see the son of the Empress. The prince, also, in order to see the people, made journeys into all the country. From this, every one was extremely gratified.

If my word is not agreeable to you (if what I've said, doesn't suit you) then, I shall go away. This man is not rich; on the contrary, he is poor. In as much as you have not done this work, therefore, you will get punishment. (50. Notes). When the rainy-season is a good one, then the cultivators² are happy. When I shall be ready, then I shall go out with you. With the object of making me happy, (he) gave me a tip.

² Ri,áya, an Arabic plural but in common use. It does not change in the oblique cases. The Sing. is ra,iyat.

³ 'Go' is from the Persian, guftan, to say, speak. Go-kik therefore means lit. 'said that.'

Is mulk ke zamíndárán (73. p. 6.) daulatmand haiñ ; aksar ápas meñ jhagre karte haiñ. Jab barsát achhi hai, tab ri,áya-ko acchi fasl milti haiñ. Ím sál barsát káfi nahíñ hú,i hai ; pas, fasl sab kharáb haiñ.

Main sheron se ÷arta hún. Jangal meñ main-ne do sher dekhe the. We, ham se ÷arne lage, aur buland áwáz karte, bhág-ga,e. Darmiyán ráh ke, ham logon-ko ek naddi mili ; kishti meñ pár hú,e.

EXERCISE NO. 19, PAGE 55.

I'm awfully happy ; my father has given me a lot of rupees. I shall buy (some) horses, right-off. Hang the clothes quickly in the wardrobe. It will be necessary to go. [You must go ; you'll have to go.] By chance to a cock a pearl appeared ; (he) said, that, ' what's the use of this ' thing ? A pearl is a jeweller's article ; for me one grain ' (of) (73. p. 3.) barley would be preferable.' On speaking, he died of hunger.

EXERCISE NO. 20, PAGE 55.

Darmiyán ráh ke, mujh-ko ek dost mila tha. Safar meñ, us-ko dariya mila tha. Murgh-ko ek moti mila tha. Ittifá-kan, bádsháh ki dukhtar-ko, naddi ke kináre par, ek laṛka mila tha. ¹ Not the ' laṛka ' of the preceding sentence.

² ' Jagah ' is best left unchanged except in the oblique cases of the plural (jagħon) ; though ' jage ' does occur in the Manual.

EXERCISE NO. 21, PAGE 59.

Hey you! whither are you going? Why are you asking? What do you mean to say! you won't give me an answer! Oh yes! your lordship! I'll give you an answer, I'm going to the bázár.¹ Very good! No fault! Go on! Her Majesty's justice! thieves have plundered all my property! be pleased to give an order that the police-constables at-once make investigation. Alas! EXERCISE NO. 23, PAGE 70.

What week has passed—in it I have bought two horses. Last year, the cultivators⁵ were very poor; this year, their

² A native will always add a polite word, whether English idiom requires it or not.

³ Subj. 'may know,' or 'may perhaps know' (jánna, to know).

crop is a good one, so they are happy. The English year, on January's first date—begins. My watch has gone out of order. His (or her) watch goes fast; and my brother's watch goes slow. They are of no use. I bought three yards and three-quarters. They bought two-and-a-half maunds (of) (73. p. 5.) coal. Waken me at a quarter to five. At what o'clock will you go out? I shall go out in the evening; at what o'clock, I do not at-present know. Is every thing correct? Yes! my Lord. Put the night-light into the bath-room.

¹ Remember, once for all, that the 'ka' and the 'ki' go by the thing owned; not by the owner. So that 'us-ka' is not necessarily 'his'; nor is 'us-ki' necessarily 'her.' Either word may, according to context, mean 'his,' or 'her' or 'its.' And the same is true of 'is-ka,' 'is-ki'; 'un-ka,' 'un-ki.' and all other genitives which are possessive pronouns. (30. p. 6.)

A good man will give alms to the poor. To give alms, to say (one's) prayers, (and) to fast—these three things are pleasing to God. This church's clergyman's name—what is it? I don't know. The soul's rest is in heaven; wicked mens' punishment will be in hell. There is no religion (such), that in it there are not both good and bad men. In one year there are twelve months. In each year there are 365 days. The peasants first-of-all sow the seed, afterwards they plant-out the seedlings in the field. If the rains fail, then, the crop turns-out bad; the poor people get sometimes only a quarter crop, or a one-eighth crop. Then the landlords also are in a bad way. They do not get their rent; they are unable to pay the Government revenue, so their properties are lost at auction-sale.¹

In Lord Cornwallis' time a great part of it was let out to various underlings of the old Government, at rents 'permanently settled.' The Ass and the Lion.

A certain Ass, in the rainy season, had, for its grazing, the moist and fresh¹ grass of the garden ; and for its drinking, the clear and cold and sweet water of a fountain came ready-to-hand. The Ass, having eaten and drunk, became very fat. In that neighbourhood, a Lion also was stopping. One day, the Ass began to make gambols with the Lion. The Lion, becoming displeased, showed his teeth. The Ass, taking this for smiling, commenced further annoyances. The Lion said. “If this impertinence—which thou (28. p. 3.) art doing—were accompanied by understanding, “then, certainly, I should give thee punishment, but I have “pity on thy folly.”

 “Alas ! after so much anguish-of-soul, I get only this pearl ;
 “from which neither to my heart can satisfaction be, nor to “my hunger, compensation. If some jeweller or a rich-

The Pups and the Ass.

In a peasant’s house was an Ass, and a female-dog also had been reared. The female-dog gave young. When the young became big, then, they made fine sports, and leaped (and) jumped. And the peasant,—these young-things’ dear gambols seeing—would-become much pleased, and them, with his own hand, would-feed (with) bread ; and would-caress them. The Ass reflected in his heart, that, compared with these pups, I do much labour ; but my master, on them makes greater favour. So be it ! Let me too, in the manner of pups, jump-about till the master me also holds-dear.

Having thought this, the Ass, one day, began to let-fly kicks beyond moderation. The peasant at first fancied that perhaps the flies or the musquitoes are troubling him (i.e. the donkey) but at-last it became obvious, that only from vice he is jumping. Then, the peasant, in the donkey’s back, four or five¹ blows with such force—laid-on, that he forgot all his leaping (and) jumping.

Horns or Legs.

A twelve-tiner, in a spring of water, saw his reflection ; so, observing his horns' form and beauty, he became well pleased ; but when his sight, upon his very thin legs, fell, then he began to say (that) :—“Why has God gifted me “with these badly-shaped legs, which throw discredit even on “my horns' beauty?” He stood thinking this in his heart, so-that, in the meantime, some hunter arrived. The stag fled so fast that to the hunter, hope of his reaching did not remain, but having gone a little distance, in the jungle's underwood, his horns stuck, and he was caught. Then he began to say :—“Alas ! Alas ! my bad-understanding ! I “was rejoiced at my horns ; these have become my death's “cause, and my legs I had held-in-contempt ; they, to me, in “saving me from death, did not make any failure” (or deficiency).

MORAL :—Whatever thing may-be, opportunely, a service doing-one, it is necessary to esteem it, granted that (or although) it is not ornamental.

Note.—In this translation and in others, the form of the English Genitive by 's' has been used, however awkward, in order to show that your Rule for 'ka,' 'ke,' 'ki,' always works. Sometimes, however, that form of the English Genitive does not admit of being used and we must have recourse to 'of' (6. p. 4.). Thus, in hāth-āne ki ummed, 'arriving at,' or 'reaching' (the stag) is that which 'possesses' the 'hope'; that in which the 'hope' is planted or placed. Yet it would hardly be intelligible to write 'to the hunter his arrival's hope did not remain.'

The Aged Servant.

There was—with a person—a very powerful hunting dog. Every day, for his master, he would-bring (17. p. 16. ii.) game, and the owner, too, was much esteeming that dog. At length, that dog become old; running's power did not remain over-to-him. At last, by reason of debility, he could not see distance's things.¹ In short, from hunting, he became (in) every way put-aside. In such a state, the owner also lessened the look-of-friendliness. His food was stopped. At last, (his owner) turned (him) out of the house. When the dog began to depart, then, weeping (he) represented to his master, that "I in my-youth sacrificed "myself on you; for years, I ran in hunting's quest, and "received (lit. 'ate') many wounds, but, what! this self-seeking world's custom is this, that, now (that) I am help-less—(even) up-to-the-point² of my remaining, there is no "consenter."³

The Crow, the Walnut and the Squirrel.

A Crow was hammering-away with its beak at a Walnut, but no impression on the Walnut was taking-place. A Squirrel saw : and said to the Crow :—“Why are you using so great pains.” The Crow said :—“I have heard that a Walnut is a thing of much tastiness, and when God, with this hardness, has fastened it up, of-necessity, inside it—some great delight will be. So I—in whatever way possible—shall continue breaking it.”

The Squirrel said :—“I shall show you an easy plan ; having carried the Walnut very far up into the air, let it-go on to a stone’s opposite¹ slab ; by the shock of falling, it will become smashed of-its-self.”²

The Crow acted in this very manner ; but, having descended, what does (he) see ? that in truth, the Walnut indeed had become smashed ; but the Squirrel having taken the kernel, had gone off. Only the shells remained.

MORAL :—A self-seeking man—whatever advice³ he gives—in it⁴—to some extent, of-necessity, he takes-thought for his own advantage.

¹ ‘Samne-wáli,’ however, is not an adjective, but a noun, in ‘apposition’ with ‘chatán (which is fem.). You may translate, ‘On a slab of stone, which (slab) is an-opposite-thing (from the place from which you drop the walnut).

² ‘Khud,’ meaning ‘without any further trouble on your part.’

It so happened, that (they) killed a 'níl-gáo'; and, according to the agreement, made equal four shares : it was nearly this that (i.e. it had just reached the moment when) each shall-take his own share. In the meantime, the Lion, having made-a-rush, said :—"Listen ! The Wolf and the Crane.

In a Wolf's throat, by accident, a bone stuck. Although he took (or had recourse to) very much coughing and straining, nevertheless the bone did not come-out ; still it did not come out. Being forced to it, he went to a Crane, and said that, "Friend! both of us live in the same jungle; now, "perform neighbourly right; a bone has stuck in my throat, "and is a matter of life or death; doing a favour, (or, "kindly) fetch it out with your long neck; and I am not "wanting this work from you gratis, whatever you may "mention, that I will give." The Crane consented, and having thrust his long neck into the Wolf's throat, drew out the bone, detached from the gullet.

Some days after, the Wolf, hunting, took a wild-ass; and sitting (on) the river-bank, began to eat. The Crane saw, and, with much bowing-and-scraping having gone forward, said:—"To-day I am hungry; give me also a portion of the "flesh" ('a flesh's portion'). The Wolf reflected. The Crane, with depressed voice, reminded (about) the bone's extraction.² Then the Wolf said:—"Oh! you idiot! What good "was there in this favour, that thou, (28. p. 3.) having with- "drawn (it) in safety, tookest away thy neck from my "throat.

MORAL:—It is folly to be on good terms with an oppressor and troublesome person, and to indulge amendment's hope (i.e. hope of his amendment). The world's people soon forget kindness. What promise a man makes in necessity, it, seldom, he fulfils.

In the time of a war, two merchants, having-put-on fine clothes, were going along the road with their wares. By chance, they met four soldiers, (50. Notes.) and (they), having robbed these unfortunate merchants' whole property, fled. The merchants, being helpless, ran to the Captain, and related their bad fortune's condition. The Commander asked them, that,¹ "When these soldiers plundered "your goods, at that time² were you people going-along, "having-put-on this fine clothing?" They answered, that,¹ "Yes, Sir!" Then the Captain said:—"From this it is "very clear, that these fellows (i.e., the robbers) are not my "men; but they are the enemy's; if they were my men, "then² they never would have let-pass this fine clothing. "God's thanks (it) is, that you did not fall-in-with (50. "Notes.) my men."

As-he-spoke, (21. p. 30 and Note.) the Captain gave a sign to his people; and when the merchants, being grieved-in-spirit, having turned, were going-away, then² the Captain's men tore-off (19. p. 25) their clothes, by which (act) these unlucky merchants arrived at home only in their drawers.³

The Death of One's Wife, and of One's Cow.

A peasant lived in a village, and discharged all (his) work (or, duties) with great good-name and fidelity. Therefore between him and the villagers there was (75. p. 12.) much friendship. By bad luck, his affairs did not go on (in) a satisfactory manner (44. sub voce 'tarah'). First his^r cow died; then his^r wife. For this reason, he became very sorrowful, and perplexed-in-heart; because there were no rupees for buying another cow; and his wife at all times had remained helpful to him in the house-work.

In this calamity, the villagers made much endeavour in order to cheer his heart. One man said:—"Ho! brother! "why do you weep? You are a fine young-fellow, you will "soon fall-in-with another wife, see, there! my daughter is "a very pretty lass, I shall give her to you with pleasure."² Another said that-very word, (or, the selfsame thing) about his sister. A third set-forth the state of his niece.

At last the peasant answered:—"In this village, the "death of one's wife is preferable to the death of one's cow. "Lots of people are prepared to give me another wife; not "a soul consents to give me another cow."

'Justice must be Done.'

In a village of the district of Paṭna, lived a blacksmith by name Rám Gopál. He was a very skilful workman, but, in consequence of extravagance, continually passed his life in narrow-circumstances. One night he met a merchant on the road; him the blacksmith murdered¹ and plundered the goods. But this occurrence did not remain concealed. The village-headman, having gone to the local-squire,² asked:—"Your Honor! what is (your) will-and-pleasure? to the Magistrates, shall intimation of this "(this's intimation) be made, or not?"

It-so-happened-that between the squire² and Rám Gopál, in the matter of rent, there was a quarrel; therefore the squire² gave orders to the headman:—"give tidings of this 'occurrence to the Magistrates.' (7. p. 9. Note.) (74. p. 10.) So the village-constable,³ having gone to the police-office⁴ caused his statement to be written down. On this, (or, then) the Inspector,⁵ with (338. Note 2.) three or four police-officers, came to the place-of-occurrence,⁶ and began to make investigation.

When this order's tidings reached the villagers, they became fearfully depressed ; and said :—" If they hang the "blacksmith of us people, how is our work to get on? who "will repair our ploughs and carts? we'll die of hunger."

Being perplexed, they went before the Magistrate, and explained their circumstances, and prayed that the said Magistrate should release the blacksmith. The Magistrate did not consent, and said, 'Justice must be done.'

The villagers went outside, and smoking tobacco under a pepul-tree,¹ began to hold a consultation. At last they came again before the Magistrate and said :—" Oh ! Nour- "isher of the poor ! Your Honor's saying is right, 'Justice "must be done' ; but it is not justice that we blameless "persons should all die of hunger ; the village is small ; in "it only one blacksmith lives ; but there are two weavers ; "for our work, one weaver is enough ; from among these "two, having taken one man,—apply the noose ; in this way "there will be justice."

When the Magistrate did not approve of this saying (or, suggestion) also, the village-people went away ; and said among themselves :—" Brother ! brother ! it is the Black "Age ; there is no justice in the world."

¹ The 'ficus religiosa' of learned people, a tree much venerated in India. No one will tell a lie under this tree. All our Court-houses (where nobody ever tells 'the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth') should be built round 'fici religiosæ.' General. This story gives many hints of the interior working of the powers that be, and of the mental and moral condition of millions of the inhabitants of the country.

The Tortoise and the Hare.

Chapter the First.

To a Tortoise a journey was imminent. His search was, that 'should any companion be found, then, I shall make 'the journey.' By chance, a Hare also, by the same direction, was a goer. The Tortoise said :—"Mr. Hare ! let us "go together." The Hare laughed beyond control, and said :—"Get out ! You fool ! Where thou (28. p. 3.) a dull, "blown-out (creature) by creeping, gettest over a span (of) " (73. p. 5.) land in the twenty-four hours, and where I "flash like lightning, fly like wind.¹—Well ! what is there in "common between us." The Tortoise said :—"This is all "quite-true ; but at the stage (God has willed it) I shall arrive "before you ; if you be not certain, conclude a wager." Thus, this agreement was made, (lit. 'became,' i.e., the settled thing) that whoever should lose, his ears should be cut off.

SELECTION NO. 13, PAGE 120.

The Tortoise and the Hare.

Chapter the Second.

The Tortoise began his pace very (73. p. 5.) slowly. The Hare, in a couple of springs, became invisible from sight. Having gone a little distance forward, the Hare reflected : "As far as I have come, certainly, it is difficult to the Tortoise to reach by evening. Why should I put on speed ? "There now ! I'll take a sleep." The Hare slept in peace.

The Tortoise, after a long-time, came creeping. He saw (that) his rival, lain-down, is sleeping. He passed on silently. When the night was far gone, (lit. the big night, i.e., the biggest part of the night, gone) the Hare awoke; but the Tortoise was not come (in) view. He began to say to himself:—"God almighty! a slow pace! up-to now, my-friend "Tortoise has not brought (us) the honour of his company. "(76. p. 17.) Well! let me go-on. I shall sleep at the shelter-house to-night; to-morrow, when Mr. Tortoise shall reach, "then we can proceed."

When he placed his step in the shelter-house, he saw the Tortoise there already. The Tortoise, on seeing the Hare, flashed-out, "Bring (me) Oh Your Excellency! your ears." The Hare, lowering his tail, so fled, that up-to to-day, by reason of fear of his ears, he is roaming about in flight.

MORAL:—However easy any task may be, when its diligence (i.e., the diligence required for it) is not performed, then it becomes difficult. Slow-witted¹ laborious boys cause (merely) sharp-witted boys to lose.² It is not proper to consider (one's) enemy despicable. Pride keeps-(one)-back from acquiring perfection; and-all-the-rest-of-it.

² 'Hárá-dena,' to cause one to lose in any contest, game, or the like. There is misprint in the Glossary.

Miss Sunbeam.

[Note.—In this and the following Selection, the translation is still close to the original; but the arrangement of words and clauses, idiomatic phrases and so forth, are now English only. Thus a sequence of participial clauses may be replaced by clauses with ‘and.’ Other moderate adaptations are made. The word ‘Nawwáb,’ being a title, is not translated; but is spelt, as it usually now is in English, ‘Nawáb’—in supersession of the old form ‘Nabob’ (pronounced, ‘Neybob’).

Miss Thompson was the daughter of a great merchant of the city of London. She came to Hindústán with her father. She was then twenty years of age. She remained for years in Hindústán. She was well-acquainted with many¹ languages. She had a very-great turn for teaching children. She taught people for the love of God.

* * * * * * *

Nawáb :—What can I say to you? You of course² know what the state of the education of our females here is. In the first place, no educated woman can be had, (75. p. 13.) who can give instruction in a complete manner. In the second place,—the mothers of this-place are so exceedingly-ignorant and indifferent, that, in this direction,³ they don’t have (75. p. 13.) one single² thought. What can I do alone? Where am I to look? Where am I not to look?

¹ Lit. Eighteen, but meaning any large number, where two or three would be the ordinary thing. Thus you couldn’t say ‘there were 18 soldiers,’ meaning five or six hundred.

² ‘Hi’ may be so translated.

³ Namely, in the direction of education,

Where shall I find so-much leisure from worldly¹ affairs, that I myself can teach my girl²?

Miss Thompson :—There is no doubt of this, that the females of these-parts are entirely ignorant and frequently un-read; therefore the instruction of their offspring is not good. But if no woman can be got (50. Notes.) thus fit, surely you have your maulavis; by them instruction may be given.

Nawáb :—This also can't be; for two reasons:—One of them is, that when a girl is grown-a-bit, she can't appear before a *maulavi*³; the second is, that our maulavis, of these-parts, also, are mere shams as regards intellect³; they don't know well the method of teaching.

Miss Thompson :—True! You utter wisdom! But, (excuse my fault,) here there is also some deficiency on your side. I have been for years and years here, and you have not told me of this.⁴

Nawáb :—I was on the point of telling you; but for God's sake, don't take it amiss. You will be-aware, to what degree the women of this-country are brain-less and

² 'Larki' is of course, any girl; but is hereafter, in this extract, translated 'daughter.' beti or 'dukhtar.'

³ Nor ought a 'maulavi' or 'moonshee' (see Glossary, 'Munshi.') to be in the presence of any youthful English lady, i.e., a lady under 45.

³ Lit. 'puppets of intellect'; 'intellectual dolls.'

⁴ Namely, about grown girls not appearing before men, Miss T. must have been a remarkably unobserving person not to have found this out for herself, during her 'years and years' of residence. A girl, in India, is 'grown' at from 10 to 12 years of age. General: Remember, if you employ a 'moonshee,' he wont teach you; he has no 'parháne ka taríkah.' You must draw out of him what you wish to now.

bigoted. For example ; when I mentioned you to my wife, she began saying you would make my daughter a Christian.

Miss Thompson :—For shame ! What sort of talk is this ! Just see for yourself ! how I am identified with these people. Because of myself I have (75. p. 13.) the heart of friendship, therefore, with heart and soul, I will give instruction to your daughter.

* * * * * * *

Nawáb :—Now, consider Miss Sunbeam your own child, and instruct her in whatever way you think desirable.

Miss Thompson :—Feel quite satisfied in your mind ; your daughter is sharp and clever ; such a girl is certainly¹ allied to a good destiny ; she will soon become expert in learning and art.

SELECTION NO. 15, PAGE 124.

Miss Sunbeam (continued). The Viceroy's Speech.

—I say this with the greatest pleasure, that this drawing, which is in my hand, is the very best drawing in this Exhibition. Nay ! few such are to be seen. (clapping.) I am very happy in this, that you gentlemen agree with my opinion,² and give preference to this drawing over the other drawings. I have still-greater pleasure from this fact, that this picture was made by the hand of a girl of Hindústán.³ (hear ! hear !) This girl's age is of 15 or 16 years ; but at this early-age, she has shown this fact, of which we [English] people were totally ignorant. This girl has given-proof-of this fact, that even the girls of Hindústán,³ in intelligence and knowledge, are in no way¹ deficient as-compared-with (74. p. 8.) the girls of England. (cheers). If such instruction could be to all the girls of Hindústán, then, no man could sneer at these persons. This girl would have remained (17. p. 16.) extremely ignorant and lost-to-fame, if my able and honoured friend, the Nawáb—, Companion of the Star of India, had not broken this chain of prejudice, and had not conducted his daughter's education thus. May God grant, that of each father there may-be such a daughter; and that each daughter may have (50. Notes.) such a father. (hurrah.) I give great praise² to Miss Thompson, in that she has taught learning and art to this girl with this labour and sympathy—the result of which is³ obvious to all.

I now end my speech; and I do it with an expression of regret, that, according to the custom of Hindústán, that girl cannot come here. Were-it-otherwise, I myself, with my own hand, would have made (17. p. 16.) this medal her neck-ornament.⁴ But I am in hopes that the Nawáb and Miss Thompson will put this medal on to the girl, and will convey many congratulations on my part. (continued clapping.)

⁴ The Mahommedan gentlemen present do not cheer the 'naqshah' which His Excellency here presents to their imagination. The idea of it! But a Viceroy's term of office is only five years.

"A collection of bright little poems. Keen satirical touches are introduced here and there throughout the volume—

Recording the mixture of fact and of fable
In India called evidence which you are able;
To buy as 'twere rice by the pound at a price
That ranges from mohurs to annas and pice.

"The clever little book."—Morning Post.

"A charming little book. Of the poems here collected the majority will bear reading several times over. The author writes in lively mirth-provoking fashion."—Express.

"The whole volume is, indeed, well worth reading; it is an enjoyable little publication."—Madras Mail.

ELSIE ELLERTON.—A NOVELETTE OF ANGLO-INDIAN LIFE. BY MAY EDWOOD, author of "Stray Straws," "Autobiography of a Spin," etc.
Crown 8vo. Re. 1-8.

"This novel is amusing, pure in tone, and distinguished by much local colouring."—Athenæum.

INDIAN LYRICS.—BY W. TREGO WEBB, M.A., Professor of English Literature, Presidency College. Fcap. 8vo, cloth. Rs. 4.

"Vivacious and clever . . . He presents the various sorts and conditions of humanity that comprise the round of life in Bengal in a series of vivid vignettes . . . He writes with scholarly directness and finish."—Saturday Review.

"A volume of poems of more than ordinary interest and undoubted ability."—Oxford and Cambridge Undergraduates' Journal.

LIGHT AND SHADE.—BY HERBERT SHERRING. A Collection of Tales and Poems. Crown 8vo, cloth. Rs. 3.

POPPED SLEEP.—A CHRISTMAS STORY OF AN UP-COUNTRY STATION.

By Mrs. H. A. FLETCHER, author of "Here's Rue for You." Crown 8vo, sewed. Re. 1-8.

PLAIN TALES FROM THE HILLS.—BY RUDYARD KIPLING, author of

"Departmental Ditties & other Verses." Third Edition. Crown 8vo. Rs. 4.

"Rattling stories of flirtation and sport Funny stories of practical jokes and sells Sad little stories of deeper things told with an affectation of solemnity but rather more throat-lumping for that."—Sunday Times.

"Mr. Kipling possesses the art of telling a story. 'Plain Tales from the Hills' sparkle with fun; they are full of life, merriment, and humour, as a rule mirth-provoking. There is at times a pathetic strain; but this soon passes, and laughter—as the Yankees say, side-splitting laughter—is the order of the day. There are spits at persons of note, sly allusions to the mysterious ways of officials in high places, and covert attacks on the peculiarities of a great Government. The mirror of satire reflects all and everything, nothing escapes, and the result is one of the most sparkling, witty, and droll collection of tales which could be well conceived."—Allen's Indian Mail.

"Mr. Kipling knows and appreciates the English in India, and is a born story-teller and a man of humour into the bargain. He is also singularly versatile and equally at home in humour and pathos; while neither quality is ever quite absent from his little stories . . . it would be hard to find better reading."—Saturday Review.

A ROMANCE OF THAKOTE AND OTHER TALES.—Reprinted from The World, Civil and Military Gazette, and other Papers. By F. C. C. Crown 8vo. Re. 1.

INDIAN MELODIES.—BY GLYN BARLOW, M.A., Professor, St. George's College, Mussoorie. Fcap. 8vo, cloth. Rs. 2.

"Interesting, pleasant and readable . . . Mr. Barlow's little volume deserves a kindly and favourable reception, and well repays perusal."—The Morning Post.

LEVIORA.—BEING THE RHYMES OF A SUCCESSFUL COMPETITOR. By the late T. F. BIGNOLD, Bengal Civil Service. 8vo. Rs. 7-8.

THACKER, SPINK AND CO., CALCUTTA.

INDIAN IDYLLS.—BY AN IDLE EXILE. Crown 8vo, cloth. Rs. 2-8.

CONTENTS:—The Maharajah's Guest—The Major's Mess Clothes—In a Haunted Grove—How we got rid of Hunks—My Wedding Day—Mrs. Caramel's Bow-Wow—The Tables Turned—A Polo Smash—After the Wily Boar—In the Rajah's Palace—Two Strings—A Modern Lochinvar—My First Snipe—Mrs. Dimple's Victim—Lizzie; a Shipwreck—How the Convalescent Dépôt killed a Tiger—Faithful unto Death—The Haunted Bungalow—Christmas with the Crimson Cuirassiers—In Death they were not Divided.

"A pleasant little book of short stories and sketches, bright and light for the most part, dealing with frays and feasting, polo and pigsticking, with a ghost story thrown in by way of relief."—Saturday Review.

"All these are thoroughly Indian in colour and tone, but are not the less amusing and sprightly matter for reading in idle half hours."—Daily Telegraph.

"A series of crisp little stories . . . we shall be surprised if it fails to 'fetch' the public who have had nothing better to amuse them since the lamented Aberigh Mackay astonished Anglo-India with his Sir Ali Baba's revelations."—Express.

THE TRIBES ON MY FRONTIER.—AN INDIAN NATURALIST'S FOREIGN POLICY. By EHA. With 50 Illustrations by F. C. MACRAE.

Imp. 16mo. Uniform with "Lays of Ind." Fourth Edition. Rs. 7.

"We have only to thank our Anglo-Indian naturalist for the delightful book which he has sent home to his countrymen in Britain. May he live to give us another such."—Chambers' Journal.

"A most charming series of sprightly and entertaining essays on what may be termed the fauna of the Indian Bungalow. . . . We have no doubt that this amusing book will find its way into every Anglo-Indian's library."—Allen's Indian Mail.

"This is a delightful book, irresistibly funny in description and illustration, but full of genuine science too. . . . There is not a dull or uninteresting page in the whole book."—Knowledge.

"It is a pleasantly-written book about the insects and other torments of India which make Anglo-Indian life unpleasant, and which can be read with pleasure even by those beyond the reach of the tormenting things EHA describes."—Graphic.

INDIA IN 1983.—A REPRINT OF THIS CELEBRATED PROPHECY OF NATIVE RULE IN INDIA. Fcap. 8vo. Re. 1.

"Instructive as well as amusing."—Indian Daily News.

"There is not a dull page in the hundred and thirty-seven pages of which it consists."—Times of India.

REGIMENTAL RHYMES AND OTHER VERSES.—By KENTISH RAG.

BEHIND THE BUNGALOW.—BY EHA, author of "THE TRIBES ON MY FRONTIER." With Illustrations by F. C. MACRAE. Fourth Edition. Imp. 16mo. Rs. 5.

"Of this book it may conscientiously be said that it does not contain a dull page, while it contains very many which sparkle with a bright and fascinating humour, refined by the unmistakable evidences of culture."—Home News.

"The author of 'Behind the Bungalow' has an excellent sense of humour combined with a kindliness of heart which makes his little book delightful reading."—Saturday Review.

"There is plenty of fun in 'Behind the Bungalow.'"—World.

"A series of sketches of Indian servants, the humour and acute observation of which will appeal to every Anglo-Indian."—Englishman.

"Drawn with delightful humour and keen observation."—Athenæum.

"Every variety of native character, the individual as well as the nation, caste, trade, or class, is cleverly portrayed in these diverting sketches."—Illustrated London News.

INDIAN ENGLISH AND INDIAN CHARACTER.—BY ELLIS UNDERWOOD. Fcap. 8vo. As. 12.

LAYS OF IND.—BY ALIPH CHEEM. Comic, Satirical, and Descriptive Poems illustrative of Anglo-Indian Life. Eighth Edition. Enlarged. With 70 Illustrations. Cloth, elegant gilt edges. Rs. 7-8.

"There is no mistaking the humour, and at times, indeed, the fun is both 'fast and furious.' One can readily imagine the merriment created round the camp fire by the recitation of 'The Two Thumpers,' which is irresistibly droll."—Liverpool Mercury.

"The verses are characterised by high animal spirits, great cleverness, and most excellent fooling."—World.

THE CAPTAIN'S DAUGHTER.—A NOVEL. BY A. C. POOSHKIN. Literally translated from the Russian by STUART H. GODFREY, Captain, Bo. S. C. Crown 8vo. Rs. 2.

"Possesses the charm of giving vividly, in about an hour's reading, a conception of Russian life and manners which many persons desire to possess."—Englishman.

"The story will interest keenly any English reader."—Overland Mail.

"HERE'S RUE FOR YOU."—NOVELETTES, ENGLISH AND ANGLO-INDIAN. By Mrs. H. A. FLETCHER. Crown 8vo, sewed. Rs. 2.

CONTENTS:—A Summer Madness—Whom the Gods Love—Nemesis—A Gathered Rose—At Sea: a P. and O. Story—Esther: an Episode.

THACKER, SPINK AND CO., CALCUTTA.

ONOOCOOL CHUNDER MOOKERJEE.—A MEMOIR OF THE LATE JUSTICE ONOOCOOL CHUNDER MOOKERJEE. By M. MOOKERJEE. Fourth Edition. 12mo. Re. 1.

"The reader is earnestly advised to procure the life of this gentleman, written by his nephew, and read it."—The Tribes on my Frontier.

DEPARTMENTAL DITTIES AND OTHER VERSES.—BY RUDYARD KIPLING. Seventh Edition. With additional Poems. Cloth. Rs. 3.

"This tiny volume will not be undeserving of a place on the bookshelf that holds 'Twenty-one Days in India.' Its contents, indeed, are not unlike the sort of verse we might have expected from poor 'Ali Baba' if he had been spared to give it us. Mr. Kipling resembles him in lightness of touch, quaintness of fancy, and unexpected humour."—Pioneer.

"The verses are all written in a light style, which is very attractive, and no one with the slightest appreciation of humour will fail to indulge in many a hearty laugh before turning over the last page."—Times of India.

"Mr. Kipling's rhymes are rhymes to some purpose. He calls them Departmental Ditties: but they are in reality social sketches of Indian officialism from a single view point, that of the satirist, though the satire is of the mildest and most delightful sort."—Indian Planters' Gazette.

THE INSPECTOR.—A COMEDY. BY GOGOL. Translated from the Russian by T. HART-DAVIES, Bombay Civil Service. Crown 8vo. Rs. 2.

"His translation, we may add, is a very good one."—The Academy.

ASHES FOR BREAD.—A ROMANCE. By BEAUMONT HARRINGTON. Crown 8vo, sewed. Re. 1-8.

"A lively appreciation of the trials, intrigues, and capacities of an Indian career."—Indian Daily News.

HINTS FOR THE MANAGEMENT AND MEDICAL TREATMENT OF CHILDREN IN INDIA. By EDWARD A. BIRCH, M.D., Surgeon-Major, Bengal Establishment. Second Edition, Revised. Being the Eighth Edition of “Goodeve’s Hints for the Management of Children in India.” Crown 8vo. Rs. 7.

Dr. Goodeve.—“I have no hesitation in saying that the present edition is for many reasons superior to its predecessors. It is written very carefully, and with much knowledge and experience on the author’s part, whilst it possesses the great advantage of bringing up the subject to the present level of Medical Science.”

The Medical Times and Gazette, in an article upon this work and Moore’s “Family Medicine for India,” says:—“The two works before us are in themselves probably about the best examples of medical works written for non-professional readers. The style of each is simple, and as free as possible from technical expressions. The modes of treatment recommended are generally those most likely to yield good results in the hands of laymen; and throughout each volume the important fact is kept constantly before the mind of the reader, that the volume he is using is but a poor substitute for personal professional advice, for which it must be discarded whenever there is the opportunity.”
