3. NEW OR UNUSUAL ACTIVITIES

a. Tokyo-To Assembly Passes Regulations Governing Fire Defense in Places of Public Assembly.

On 1 March 1948, the Tokyo-To Assembly passed the first set of regulations governing fire defense in places of public assembly ever passed by a Japanese municipality. The legislation was drafted by Tokyo fire and police officials with the advice and guidance of various PSD Fire and Police Branch personnel. It establishes minimum standards which must be met by places of public assembly and provides for fire prevention inspections by fire department officials who can call upon police officials for enforcement of corrective measures where such enforcement is necessary. In addition to providing adequate fire defense for the Tokyo-to area, it is expected that these regulations will serve as a model for other Japanese municipalities to follow.

b. Conference Series for Japanese Judges and Procurators Completed.

Early in January of this year, officials of the Japanese Ministry of Justice called on the PSD Legal Advisor to conduct a series of conferences covering various aspects of Anglo-American Law for a group of twenty-two judges and procurators from various parts of Japan. This group was being brought to Tokyo at Japanese Government expense for work on various legal research subjects. And since many of the subjects related to matters which are of concern to the Public Safety Division it was agreed that the PSD Legal Advisor would conduct a special series of conferences for the group. During the period 15 January to 12 March 1948, fourteen sessions were held and, in addition to the PSD Legal Advisor, seven representatives from other interested SCAP sections participated. Criminal law, juvenile law, appeals, classification of prisoners, and laws of criminal evidence were among the subjects discussed and clarified for this important group of Japanese jurists.

4. PROGRESS OF PSD PROJECTS

a. Staff Studies

1. Police Reorganization Plan

With the effectuation of the new Police Law on 7 March 1948, the reorganization of the Japanese civil police was accomplished and the former highly centralized police system of Japan was replaced by the new National Rural Police and 1605 autonomous municipal police forces. Due to the fact that simulated decentralization had been completed prior to 7 March, the change-over was carried out quietly and was accompanied by no disruption of normal police duties. Now Police Branch, PSD faces the task of formulating plans, recommendations and programs for National and Municipal police officials to follow in order to insure that the new police organization fulfills the goal of providing adequate and democratic law enforcement for Japan.

2. Maritime Safety Study

During the month of March, legislation providing for the establishment of a Maritime Safety Service was approved by the Japanese Cabinet and submitted to the Diet through the appropriate channels. On 5 March, PSD requested that a Coast Guard Officer be assigned to duty with PSD for the purpose of coordinating the establishment of the Japanese Maritime Safety Service upon final passage of the Maritime Safety legislation.

Most of the conferences were held in connection with the projects listed on pages 11-15. Police Branch held 15 conferences regarding matters related to the establishment of the National Rural Police Scientific Crime Detection Laboratory. Preparation of an adequate budget, qualifications of proposed personnel and the development of initial operating procedure for the laboratory were among the matters discussed in these conferences held prior to the establishment of the laboratory in its temporary headquarters.

Prison Branch held 12 conferences concerning reorganization of the correction and rehabilitation bureaus in the Attorney-General's Office. As a result of these conferences, Articles 19, 20 and 21 of the regulations governing the allotment of business of the Attorney-General's Office were revised. The revised articles promulgated on 26 Apr 48 provide for the organization of the 3 correctional bureaus on an equal level, reduce the number of sections in one of those bureaus (the Correction and Rehabilitation General Affairs Bureau) from 8 to 7, and eliminate overlapping of responsibility among personnel in the 3 bureaus. In further conferences it was agreed that district bureaus should be organized parallel with these bureaus at the national level and this agreement will be implemented in conferences to be held during the coming month.

Fire Branch held 8 conferences with Tokyo Fire Department officials concerning the proposed reorganization of the Tokyo Fire Department. As a result of these conferences all Tokyo fire stations converted from an inefficient and overlapping four platoon system to a streamlined two platoon system. During the next few months the reorganization will be continued further and a model fire district will be established as an example for other Tokyo fire districts to follow.

Most of the MaritimeBranch conferences were held to clarify various matters related to the effectuation of the Maritime Safety Authorities Law on 1 May 1948. Proposed draft of budget for Maritime Safety Board, proposed draft of rules and regulations for MSB, draft of cabinet order to implement Maritime Safety Authorities Law, draft of functional

2. d. Reports

Routine reports for the month of April included daily reports of Public Safety Division activities for the Assistant Chief of Staff, G-2, and for the Deputy Chief, CIS; daily reports of the illegal entry of Koreans into Japan; the Monthly Report of PSD Activities; the PSD section of the Monthly Summation of Non-Military Activities in Japan and the PSD section of the CIS Periodical Summary. Non-routine reports included continuing preparation of the PSD section of the CIS Occupation History, a special report on salient features of the Maritime Safety Authorities Law and a special report on Japanese police salaries.

3. NEW OR UNUSUAL ACTIVITIES

National Fire Research Institute Starts Operations

On 30 April 1948, all members of Fire Branch, PSD attended the opening of the National Fire Research Institute. In accordance with the Law of Fire Defense Organization, the National FRI was established under the National Fire Defense Board for the purpose of applying modern engineering principles to fire prevention and fire fighting in Japan. Functions of the Institute will include conducting research for the development of new fire fighting equipment, preparing grading schedules for fire insurance risks in various Japanese cities, and preparing model building and fire prevention codes. Results of all FRI research will be made available to Japanese municipal and fire officials, to fire insurance companies and to the general public. In addition to research development, the FRI will conduct training programs for fire department instructors, for arson investigators and for other fire department specialists from all Japan. Fire Branch personnel have actively participated in all phases of the development of operating procedure for the FRI, leading the way for Japanese officials who, in the past, have placed little emphasis on the importance of scientific methods in fire fighting and fire prevention work. And until such time as capable Japanese personnel are available it will be necessary for Fire Branch to personally conduct many of the initial projects at the Fire Research Institute.

4. PROGRESS OF PSD PROJECTS

a. Maritime Safety Study

With the passage by the Japanese Diet on 15 April 1948 of the Maritime Safety Authorities Law, to be effective 1 May 1948, the basic requirements of the Maritime Safety Study were met. Now, Maritime Branch

Results of all FRI research will be made available to Japanese municipal and fire officials, to fire insurance companies and to the general public. In addition to research development, the FRI will conduct training programs for fire department instructors, for arson investigators and for other fire department specialists from all Japan. Fire Branch personnel have actively participated in all phases of the development of operating procedure for the FRI, leading the way for Japanese officials who, in the past, have placed little emphasis on the importance of scientific methods in fire fighting and fire prevention work. 4. PROGRESS OF PSD PROJECTS

a. Maritime Safety Study

With the passage by the Japanese Diet on 15 April 1948 of the Maritime Safety Authorities Law, to be effective 1 May 1948, the basic requirements of the Maritime Safety Study were met. Now, Maritime Branch, PSD faces the task of coordinating initial operations of the Maritime Safety Board as provided for in the Maritime Safety Authorities Law and of formulating plans, recommendations and programs for the MSB to follow in order to insure that the newly established Maritime Safety Board will fulfill its mission of providing adequate maritime safety and law enforcement on the seas and navigable waters of Japan.

Most of the conferences were held in connection with projects listed on pages 11-16. Police Branch held 11 conferences for the purpose of assisting National Rural Police officials draft rules and regulations for the NRP. During these conferences a Police Administrator discussed all articles of the rules and regulations, suggesting changes where necessary. The final draft will be completed in June and will provide a practical handbook for NRP personnel throughout Japan.

Prison Branch held 7 conferences with officials of the Attorney General's Office for the purpose of establishing the organization of correction and rehabilitation sections in the 8 prison district headquarters. Following the promulgation on 26 Apr 48 of regulations providing for the organization of correctional bureaus at the national level, it was agreed that district sections should be organized parallel to these national bureaus. During May, the Japanese submitted 3 drafts of district organization plans and these were found not to be in accordance with the earlier agreement. It is anticipated that a satisfactory plan will be drafted during the coming month.

Fire Branch held 10 conferences concerning the establishment of a district-battalion system for the Tokyo Fire Department. This system for the administration and response control of the department is a radical departure from the former ward system and will eliminate much of the confusion which often occurred under the former system. PSD closely supervised the development of the plan which will be ready for activation in the first district on 1 Jun 48. In following months the new system will be extended to all of Tokyo.

Maritime Branch held several conferences for the purpose of assisting Maritime Safety Board officials draft a Port Regulations Bill which would adequately provide for safety of navigation of vessels and for maintenance of good order within ports. During May a suitable draft was developed and approved by PSD and CTS.

In other conferences held by the various branches of PSD during May, the following matters were discussed:

Pistol Ammunition Released to Japanese Civil Police

To meet operational and training needs and in accordance with basic instructions set forth in SCAPIN 605 dtd 16 Jan 46, 969,328 rounds of Japanese pistol ammunition were released to the Japanese civil police on 25 May 48. This release represented the entire stock of such ammunition in 8th Army custody at the time and no more will be available except for possible discoveries and seizures of hidden stocks. Due to the paucity of available ammunition, it becomes essential that this supply be husbanded to the utmost, consistant with sound operational and training practices. To this end, PSD closely supervised Nat'l Rural Police officials in their development of a distribution plan projected on a three-year basis for the maximum utilization of supplies to be used for three purposes: service, training and reserve. The actual transfer of the ammunition from 8th Army to the Japanese police was made under the supervision of PSD representatives.
