*Along the wayside where we pass bloom few
Gay plants of heartsease, more of saddening rue;
So life is mingled; so should poems be
That speak a conscious word to you and me.*

AGASSIZ.

Come

Dicesti egli ebbe? non viv' egli ancora?
Non fiere gli occhi suoi lo dolce lome?

I. 1.

THE electric nerve, whose instantaneous thrill
Makes next-door gossips of the antipodes,
Confutes poor Hope's last fallacy of ease, —
The distance that divided her from ill :
Earth sentient seems again as when of old
    The horny foot of Pan
Stamped, and the conscious horror ran
Beneath men's feet through all her fibres cold :
Space's blue walls are mined ; we feel the throe
From underground of our night-mantled foe :
    The flame-winged feet
Of Trade's new Mercury, that dry-shod run
Through briny abysses dreamless of the sun,
    Are mercilessly fleet,
    And at a bound annihilate
Ocean's prerogative of short reprieve ;
    Surely ill news might wait,

And man be patient of delay to grieve :
     Letters have sympathies
     And tell-tale faces that reveal,
     To senses finer than the eyes,
 Their errand's purport ere we break the seal ;
 They wind a sorrow round with circumstance
 To stay its feet, nor all unwarned displace
 The veil that darkened from our sidelong glance
     The inexorable face :
     But now Fate stuns as with a mace ;
 The savage of the skies, that men have caught
     And some scant use of language taught,
     Tells only what he must, —
 The steel-cold fact in one laconic thrust.

2.

So thought I, as, with vague, mechanic eyes,
 I scanned the festering news we half despise
     Yet scramble for no less,
 And read of public scandal, private fraud,
 Crime flaunting scot-free while the mob applaud,
 Office made vile to bribe unworthiness,
     And all the unwholesome mess
 The Land of Honest Abraham serves of late
     To teach the Old World how to wait,
     When suddenly,
 As happens if the brain, from overweight
     Of blood, infect the eye,
 Three tiny words grew lurid as I read,
 And reeled comingling : Agassiz is dead.

As when, beneath the street's familiar jar,
 An earthquake's alien omen rumbles far,
 Men listen and forebode, I hung my head,
     And strove the present to recall,
 As if the blow that stunned were yet to fall.

3.

Uprooted is our mountain oak,
 That promised long security of shade
 And brooding-place for many a winged thought ;
     Not by Time's softly-warning stroke
 With pauses of relenting pity stayed,
 But ere a root seemed sapt, a bough decayed,
 From sudden ambush by the whirlwind caught
 And in his broad maturity betrayed !

4.

Well might I, as of old, appeal to you,
     O mountains woods and streams,
 To help us mourn him, for ye loved him too ;
     But simpler moods befit our modern themes,
 And no less perfect birth of nature can,
 Though they yearn tow'rd him, sympathize with man,
 Save as dumb fellow-prisoners through a wall ;
     Answer ye rather to my call,
 Strong poets of a more unconscious day,
 When Nature spake nor sought nice reasons why,
 Too much for softer arts forgotten since
 That teach our forthright tongue to lisp and mince,

And drown in music the heart's bitter cry!
Lead me some steps in your directer way,
Teach me those words that strike a solid root
    Within the ears of men;
Ye chiefly, virile both to think and feel,
Deep-chested Chapman and firm-footed Ben,—
For he was masculine from head to heel.
Nay, let himself stand undiminished by
With those clear parts of him that will not die.
Himself from out the recent dark I claim
To hear, and, if I flatter him, to blame;
To show himself, as still I seem to see,
A mortal, built upon the antique plan,
Brimful of lusty blood as ever ran,
And taking life as simply as a tree!
To claim my foiled good-bye let him appear,
Large-limbed and human as I saw him near,
Loosed from the stiffening uniform of fame:
And let me treat him largely: I should fear,
(If with too prying lens I chanced to err, Mistaking catalogue for character,)
His wise forefinger raised in smiling blame.
Nor would I scant him with judicial breath
And turn mere critic in an epitaph;
I choose the wheat, incurious of the chaff
That swells fame living, chokes it after death,
And would but memorize the shining half
Of his large nature that was turned to me:
Fain had I joined with those that honored him
With eyes that darkened because his were dim,
And now been silent: but it might not be.

II. 1.

In some the genius is a thing apart,
A pillared hermit of the brain,
Hoarding with incommunicable art
Its intellectual gain ;
Man's web of circumstance and fate
They from their perch of self observe,
Indifferent as the figures on a slate
Are to the planet's sun-swung curve
Whose bright returns they calculate ;
Their nice adjustment, part to part,
Were shaken from its serviceable mood
By unpremeditated stirs of heart
Or jar of human neighborhood :
Some find their natural selves, and only then,
In furloughs of divine escape from men,
And when, by that brief ecstasy left bare,
Driven by some instinct of desire,
They wander worldward, 't is to blink and stare,
Like wild things of the wood about a fire,
Dazed by the social glow they cannot share ;
His nature brooked no lonely lair,
But basked and bourgeoned in copartnery,
Companionship, and open-windowed glee :
He knew, for he had tried,
Those speculative heights that lure
The unpractised foot, impatient of a guide,
Tow'rd ether too attenuately pure
For sweet unconscious breath, though dear to pride,

But better loved the foothold sure
Of paths that wind by old abodes of men
Who hope at last the churchyard's peace secure,
And follow time-worn rules, that them suffice,
Learned from their sires, traditionally wise,
Careful of honest custom's how and when ;
His mind, too brave to look on Truth askance,
No more those habitudes of faith could share,
But, tinged with sweetness of the old Swiss manse,
Lingered around them still and fain would spare.
Patient to spy a sullen egg for weeks,
The enigma of creation to surprise,
His truer instinct sought the life that speaks
Without a mystery from kindly eyes ;
In no self-spun cocoon of prudence wound,
He by the touch of men was best inspired,
And caught his native greatness at rebound
From generousities itself had fired ;
Then how the heat through every fibre ran,
Felt in the gathering presence of the man,
While the apt word and gesture came unbid !
Virtues and faults it to one metal wrought,
    Fined all his blood to thought,
And ran the molten man in all he said or did.
All Tully's rules and all Quintilian's too
He by the light of listening faces knew,
And his rapt audience all unconscious lent
Their own roused force to make him eloquent ;
Persuasion fondled in his look and tone ;
Our speech (with strangers prudish) he could bring

To find new charm in accents not her own ;
Her coy constraints and icy hindrances
Melted upon his lips to natural ease,
As a brook's fetters swell the dance of spring.
Nor yet all sweetness: not in vain he wore,
Nor in the sheath of ceremony, controlled
By velvet courtesy or caution cold,
That sword of honest anger prized of old,
    But, with two-handed wrath,
If baseness or pretension crossed his path,
    Struck once nor needed to strike more.

2.

His magic was not far to seek, —
He was so human ! Whether strong or weak,
Far from his kind he neither sank nor soared,
But sate an equal guest at every board :
No beggar ever felt him condescend,
No prince presume ; for still himself he bare
At manhood's simple level, and where'er
He met a stranger, there he left a friend.
How large an aspect ! nobly unsevere,
With freshness round him of Olympian cheer,
Like visits of those earthly gods he came ;
His look, wherever its good-fortune fell,
Doubled the feast without a miracle,
And on the hearthstone danced a happier flame ;
Philemon's crabbed vintage grew benign ;
Amphitryon's gold-juice humanized to wine.

III. 1.

The garrulous memories
 Gather again from all their far-flown nooks,
 Singly at first, and then by twos and threes,
 Then in a throng innumerable, as the rooks
     Thicken their twilight files
 Tow'rd Tintern's gray repose of roofless aisles :
 Once more I see him at the table's head
 When Saturday her monthly banquet spread
     To scholars, poets, wits,
 All choice, some famous, loving things, not names,
 And so without a twinge at others' fames ;
 Such company as wisest moods befits,
 Yet with no pedant blindness to the worth
     Of undeliberate mirth,
 Natures benignly mixed of air and earth,
 Now with the stars and now with equal zest
 Tracing the eccentric orbit of a jest.

2.

I see in vision the warm-lighted hall,
 The living and the dead I see again,
 And but my chair is empty ; 'mid them all
 'T is I that seem the dead : they all remain
 Immortal, changeless creatures of the brain :
 Wellnigh I doubt which world is real most,
 Of sense or spirit, to the truly sane ;
 In this abstraction it were light to deem

Myself the figment of some stronger dream ;
 They are the real things, and I the ghost
 That glide unhindered through the solid door,
 Vainly for recognition seek from chair to chair,
 And strive to speak and am but futile air,
 As truly most of us are little more.

3.

Him most I see whom we most dearly miss,
     The latest parted thence,
 His features poised in genial armistice
 And armed neutrality of self-defence
 Beneath the forehead's walled preëminence,
 While Tyro, plucking facts with careless reach,
 Settles off-hand our human how and whence ;
 The long-trained veteran scarcely wincing hears
 The infallible strategy of volunteers
 Making through Nature's walls its easy breach,
 And seems to learn where he alone could teach.
 Ample and ruddy, the board's end he fills
 As he our fireside were, our light and heat,
 Centre where minds diverse and various skills
 Find their warm nook and stretch unhampered feet ;
 I see the firm benignity of face,
 Wide-smiling champaign, without tameness sweet,
 The mass Teutonic toned to Gallic grace,
 The eyes whose sunshine runs before the lips
 While Holmes's rockets curve their long ellipse,
     And burst in seeds of fire that burst again
     To drop in scintillating rain.

4.

There too the face half-rustic, half-divine,
 Self-poised, sagacious, freaked with humor fine,
 Of him who taught us not to mow and mope
 About our fancied selves, but seek our scope
 In Nature's world and Man's, nor fade to hollow trope,
 Content with our New World and timely bold
 To challenge the o'ermastery of the Old ;
 Listening with eyes averse I see him sit
 Pricked with the cider of the Judge's wit (Ripe-hearted homebrew, fresh and fresh again),
 While the wise nose's firm-built aquiline
     Curves sharper to restrain
 The merriment whose most unruly moods
 Pass not the dumb laugh learned in listening woods
     Of silence-shedding pine :
 Hard by is he whose art's consoling spell
 Hath given both worlds a whiff of asphodel,
 His look still vernal 'mid the wintry ring
 Of petals that remember, not foretell,
 The paler primrose of a second spring.

5.

And more there are : but other forms arise
 And seen as clear, albeit with dimmer eyes :

First he from sympathy still held apart
By shrinking over-eagerness of heart, Cloud charged with searching fire, whose shadow's sweep
Heightened mean things with sense of brooding ill,
And steeped in doom familiar field and hill, —
New England's poet, soul reserved and deep,
November nature with a name of May,
Whom high o'er Concord plains we laid to sleep,
While the orchards mocked us in their white array
And building robins wondered at our tears,
Snatched in his prime, the shape august
That should have stood unbent 'neath fourscore years,
The noble head, the eyes of furtive trust,
    All gone to speechless dust.
    And he our passing guest,
Shy nature, too, and stung with life's unrest,
Whom we too briefly had but could not hold,
Who brought ripe Oxford's culture to our board,
    The Past's incalculable hoard,
Mellowed by scutcheoned panes in cloisters old,
Seclusions ivy-hushed, and pavements sweet
With immemorial lisp of musing feet ;

Young head time-tonsured smoother than a friar's,
 Boy face, but grave with answerless desires,
 Poet in all that poets have of best,
 But foiled with riddles dark and cloudy aims,
     Who now hath found sure rest,
 Not by still Isis or historic Thames,
 Nor by the Charles he tried to love with me,
 But, not misplaeed, by Arno's hallowed brim, Nor scorned by Santa Croce's neighboring fames,
     Haply not mindless, wheresoe'er he be,
 Of violets that to-day I scattered over him ;
     He, too, is there,
 After the good centurion fitly named,
 Whom learning dulled not, nor convention tamed,
 Shaking with burly mirth his hyacinthine hair,
 Our hearty Grecian of Homeric ways,
 Still found the surer friend where least he hoped the praise.

6.

Yea truly, as the sallowing years
 Fall from us faster, like frost-loosened leaves Pushed by the misty touch of shortening days,
     And that unwakened winter nears,
 'T is the void chair our surest guest receives,

'T is lips long cold that give the warmest kiss,
 'T is the lost voice comes oftenest to our ears ;
 We count our rosary by the beads we miss :
     To me, at least, it seemeth so,
 An exile in the land once found divine,
     While my starved fire burns low,
 And homeless winds at the loose casement whine
 Shrill ditties of the snow-roofed Apennine.

IV. 1.

Now forth into the darkness all are gone,
 But memory, still unsated, follows on,
 Retracing step by step our homeward walk,
 With many a laugh among our serious talk,
 Across the bridge where, on the dimpling tide,
 The long red streamers from the windows glide,
     Or the dim western moon
 Rocks her skiff's image on the broad lagoon,
 And Boston shows a soft Venetian side
 In that Arcadian light when roof and tree,
 Hard prose by daylight, dream in Italy ;
 Or haply in the sky's cold chambers wide
 Shivered the winter stars, while all below,
 As if an end were come of human ill,
 The world was wrapt in innocence of snow
 And the cast-iron bay was blind and still ;

These were our poetry ; in him perhaps Science had barred the gate that lets in dream,

And he would rather count the perch and bream

Than with the current's idle fancy lapse ;

And yet he had the poet's open eye

That takes a frank delight in all it sees,

Nor was earth voiceless, nor the mystic sky,

To him the life-long friend of fields and trees :

Then came the prose of the suburban street,

Its silence deepened by our echoing feet,

And converse such as rambling hazard finds ;

Then he who many cities knew and many minds,

And men once world-noised, now mere Ossian forms

Of misty memory, bade them live anew

As when they shared earth's manifold delight,

In shape, in gait, in voice, in gesture true,

And, with an accent heightening as he warms,

Would stop forgetful of the shortening night,

Drop my confining arm, and pour profuse

Much worldly wisdom kept for others' use,

Not for his own, for he was rash and free,

His purse or knowledge all men's, like the sea.

Still can I hear his voice's shrilling might

(With pauses broken, while the fitful spark
 He blew more hotly rounded on the dark
 To hint his features with a Rembrandt light)
 Call Oken back, or Humboldt, or Lamareck,
 Or Cuvier's taller shade, and many more
 Whom he had seen, or knew from others' sight,
 And make them men to me as ne'er before :
 Not seldom, as the undeadened fibre stirred
 Of noble friendships knit beyond the sea,
 German or French thrust by the lagging word,
 For a good leash of mother-tongues had he.
 At last, arrived at where our paths divide,
 "Good night!" and, ere the distance grew too wide,
 "Good night!" again ; and now with cheated ear
 I half hear his who mine shall never hear.

2.

Sometimes it seemed as if New England air
 For his large lungs too parsimonious were,
 As if those empty rooms of dogma drear
 Where the ghost shivers of a faith austere
     Counting the horns o'er of the Beast,
 Still scaring those whose faith in it is least,
 As if those snaps o' th' moral atmosphere
 That sharpen all the needles of the East,
     Had been to him like death,

Accustomed to draw Europe's freer breath
     In a more stable element ;
 Nay, even our landscape, half the year morose,
 Our practical horizon grimly pent,
 Our air, sincere of ceremonious haze,
 Forcing hard outlines mercilessly close,
 Our social monotone of level days,
     Might make our best seem banishment ;
     But it was nothing so ;
     Haply his instinct might divine,
 Beneath our drift of puritanic snow,
     The marvel sensitive and fine
 Of sanguinaria over-rash to blow
 And trust its shyness to an air malign ;
 Well might he prize truth's warranty and pledge
 In the grim outcrop of our granite edge,
 Or Hebrew fervor flashing forth at need
 In the gaunt sons of Calvin's iron breed,
 As prompt to give as skilled to win and keep ;
 But, though such intuitions might not cheer,
 Yet life was good to him, and, there or here,
 With that sufficing joy, the day was never cheap ;
 Thereto his mind was its own ample sphere,
 And, like those buildings great that through the year
 Carry one temperature, his nature large
 Made its own climate, nor could any marge
 Traced by convention stay him from his bent :

He had a habitude of mountain air ;
 He brought wide outlook where he went,
     And could on sunny uplands dwell
 Of prospect sweeter than the pastures fair
     High-hung of viny Neufchâtel ;
     Nor, surely, did he miss
     Some pale, imaginary bliss
 Of earlier sights whose inner landscape still was Swiss.

V. 1.

I cannot think he wished so soon to die
 With all his senses full of eager heat,
 And rosy years that stood expectant by
 To buckle the winged sandals on their feet,
 He that was friends with earth, and all her sweet
 Took with both hands unsparingly :
 Truly this life is precious to the root,
 And good the feel of grass beneath the foot ;
 To lie in buttercups and clover-bloom,
     Tenants in common with the bees,
 And watch the white clouds drift through gulfs of trees,
 Is better than long waiting in the tomb ;
 Only once more to feel the coming spring
 As the birds feel it when it bids them sing,
     Only once more to see the moon
 Through leaf-fringed abbey-arches of the elms

Curve her mild sickle in the West
 Sweet with the breath of hay-cocks, were a boon
 Worth any promise of soothsayer realms
 Or casual hope of being elsewhere blest ;
     To take December by the beard
 And crush the creaking snow with springy foot,
 While overhead the North's dumb streamers shoot,
 Till Winter fawn upon the cheek endeared,
     Then the long evening-ends
     Lingered by cosy chimney-nooks,
 With high companionship of books
     Or slippered talk of friends
     And sweet habitual looks,
 Is better than to stop the ears with dust :
 Too soon the spectre comes to say, "Thou must !"

2.

When toil-crooked hands are crost upon the breast,
     They comfort us with sense of rest ;
 They must be glad to lie forever still ;
     Their work is ended with their day ;
 Another fills their room ; 't is the World's ancient way,
     Whether for good or ill ;
 But the deft spinners of the brain,
 Who love each added day and find it gain,
     Them overtakes the doom

To snap the half-grown flower upon the loom (Trophy that was to be of life-long pain),
 The thread no other skill can ever knit again.

'T was so with him, for he was glad to live,

'T was doubly so, for he left work begun ;

Could not this eagerness of Fate forgive

Till all the allotted flax were spun ?

It matters not ; for, go at night or noon,

A friend, whene'er he dies, has died too soon,

And, once we hear the hopeless He is dead,
 So far as flesh hath knowledge, all is said.

VI. 1.

I seem to see the black procession go :

That crawling prose of death too well I know,

The vulgar paraphrase of glorious woe ;

I see it wind through that unsightly grove,

Once beautiful, but long defaced

With granite permanence of cockney taste

And all those grim disfigurements we love :

There, then, we leave him : Him ? such costly waste

Nature rebels at : and it is not true

Of those most precious parts of him we knew :

Could we be conscious but as dreamers be,
 'T were sweet to leave this shifting life of tents

Sunk in the changeless calm of Deity ;
 Nay, to be mingled with the elements,
 The fellow-servant of creative powers,
 Partaker in the solemn year's events,
 To share the work of busy-fingered hours,
 To be night's silent almoner of dew,
 To rise again in plants and breathe and grow,
 To stream as tides the ocean caverns through,
 Or with the rapture of great winds to blow
 About earth's shaken coignes, were not a fate

    To leave us all-disconsolate ;
 Even endless slumber in the sweetening sod
     Of charitable earth
 That takes out all our mortal stains,
 And makes us cleaner neighbors of the clod,

    Methinks were better worth
 Than the poor fruit of most men's wakeful pains,

    The heart's insatiable ache :
 But such was not his faith,
 Nor mine : it may be he had trod
 Outside the plain old path of God thus spake,
     But God to him was very God,
     And not a visionary wraith
 Skulking in murky corners of the mind,

And he was sure to be Somehow, somewhere, imperishable as He,
 Not with His essence mystically combined,
 As some high spirits long, but whole and free,
     A perfected and conscious Agassiz.
 And such I figure him : the wise of old
 Welcome and own him of their peaceful fold,
     Not truly with the guild enrolled
     Of him who seeking inward guessed
     Diviner riddles than the rest,
     And groping in the darks of thought
     Touched the Great Hand and knew it not ;
     Rather he shares the daily light,
     From reason's charier fountains won,
 Of his great chief, the slow-paced Stagyrite,
 And Cuvier clasps once more his long-lost son.

2.

The shape erect is prone : forever stilled
 The winning tongue ; the forehead's high-piled heap,
 A cairn which every science helped to build,
 Unvalued will its golden secrets keep :
 He knows at last if Life or Death be best :
 Wherever he be flown, whatever vest
 The being hath put on which lately here
 So many-friended was, so full of cheer
 To make men feel the Seeker's noble zest,
 We have not lost him all ; he is not gone
 To the dumb herd of them that wholly die ;

The beauty of his better self lives on
In minds he touched with fire, in many an eye
He trained to Truth's exact severity ;
He was a Teacher : why be grieved for him
Whose living word still stimulates the air ?
In endless file shall loving scholars come
The glow of his transmitted touch to share,
And trace his features with an eye less dim
Than ours whose sense familiar wont makes numb.

FLORENCE, ITALY, February, 1874.

TO HOLMES

ON HIS SEVENTY-FIFTH BIRTHDAY.

DEAR Wendell, why need count the years
Since first your genius made me thrill,
If what moved then to smiles or tears,
Or both contending, move me still?

What has the Calendar to do
With poets? What Time's fruitless tooth
With gay immortals such as you
Whose years but emphasize your youth?

One air gave both their lease of breath;
The same paths lured our boyish feet;
One earth will hold us safe in death,
With dust of saints and scholars sweet.

Our legends from one source were drawn,
I scarce distinguish yours from mine,
And don't we make the Gentiles yawn
With "You remembers?" o'er our wine!

If I, with too senescent air,
Invade your elder memory's pale,
You snub me with a pitying "Where Were you in the September Gale?"

Both stared entranced at Lafayette,
 Saw Jackson dubbed with LL. D.
 What Cambridge saw not strikes us yet
 As scarcely worth one's while to see.

Ten years my senior, when my name
 In Harvard's entrance-book was writ,
 Her halls still echoed with the fame
 Of you, her poet and her wit.

'T is fifty years from then to now :
 But your Last Leaf renews its green,
 Though, for the laurels on your brow
 (So thick they crowd), 't is hardly seen.

The oriole's fledglings fifty times
 Have flown from our familiar elms ;
 As many poets with their rhymes
 Oblivion's darkling dust o'erwhelms.

The birds are hushed, the poets gone
 Where no harsh critic's lash can reach,
 And still your winged brood sing on
 To all who love our English speech.

Nay, let the foolish records be
 That make believe you 're seventy-five :
 You 're the old Wendell still to me, —
 And that 's the youngest man alive.

The gray-blue eyes, I see them still,
The gallant front with brown o'erhung,
The shape alert, the wit at will,
The phrase that stuck, but never stung.

You keep your youth as yon Scotch firs,
Whose gaunt line my horizon hems,
Though twilight all the lowland blurs,
Hold sunset in their ruddy stems.

You with the elders? Yes, 't is true,
But in no sadly literal sense,
With elders and coevals too,
Whose verb admits no preterite tense.

Master alike in speech and song
Of fame's great antiseptic — Style,
You with the classic few belong
Who tempered wisdom with a smile.

Outlive us all! Who else like you
Could sift the seedcorn from our chaff,
And make us with the pen we knew
Deathless at least in epitaph?

WOLLASTON, August 29, 1884.

IN A COPY OF OMAR KHAYYÁM.

THESE pearls of thought in Persian gulfs were bred,

Each softly lucent as a rounded moon ;
The diver Omar plucked them from their bed,
Fitzgerald strung them on an English thread.

Fit rosary for a queen, in shape and hue,
When Contemplation tells her pensive beads
Of mortal thoughts, forever old and new.
Fit for a queen? Why, surely then for you !

The moral? Where Doubt's eddies toss and twirl

Faith's slender shallop till her footing reel,
Plunge : if you find not peace beneath the whirl,
Groping, you may like Omar grasp a pearl.

ON RECEIVING A COPY OF MR.
AUSTIN DOBSON'S "OLD WORLD IDYLLS."

I.

At length arrived, your book I take
To read in for the author's sake ;
Too gray for new sensations grown,
Can charm to Art or Nature known
This torpor from my senses shake ?

Hush ! my parched ears what runnels slake ?
Is a thrush gurgling from the brake ?
Has Spring, on all the breezes blown,
At length arrived ?

Long may you live such songs to make,
And I to listen while you wake,
With skill of late disused, each tone
Of the Lesbourn barbiton,
At mastery, through long finger-ache,
At length arrived.

II.

As I read on, what changes steal
O'er me and through, from head to heel ?

A rapier thrusts coat-skirt aside,
 My rough Tweeds bloom to silken pride, —
 Who was it laughed? Your hand, Dick Steele!

Down vistas long of clipt charmille
 Watteau as Pierrot leads the reel;
 Tabor and pipe the dancers guide
 As I read on.

While in and out the verses wheel
 The wind-caught robes trim feet reveal,
 Lithe ankles that to music glide,
 But chastely and by chance desiered;
 Art? Nature? Which do I most feel
 As I read on?

TO C. F. BRADFORD

ON THE GIFT OF A MEERSCHAUM PIPE.

THE pipe came safe, and welcome too,
As anything must be from you ;
A meerschaum pure, 't would float as light
As she the girls call Amphitrite.
Mixture divine of foam and clay,
From both it stole the best away :
Its foam is such as crowns the glow
Of beakers brimmed by Veuve Clicquot ;
Its clay is but congested lymph
Jove chose to make some choicer nymph ;
And here combined, — why, this must be
The birth of some enchanted sea,
Shaped to immortal form, the type
And very Venus of a pipe.

When high I heap it with the weed
From Lethe wharf, whose potent seed
Nicotia, big from Bacchus, bore
And cast upon Virginia's shore,
I'll think, — So fill the fairer bowl
And wise alembic of thy soul,
With herbs far-sought that shall distil,

Not fumes to slacken thought and will,
But bracing essences that nerve
To wait, to dare, to strive, to serve.

When curls the smoke in eddies soft,
And hangs a shifting dream aloft,
That gives and takes, though chance-designed,
The impress of the dreamer's mind,
I'll think, — So let the vapors bred
By Passion, in the heart or head,
Pass off and upward into space,
Waving farewells of tenderest grace,
Remembered in some happier time,
To blend their beauty with my rhyme.

While slowly o'er its candid bowl
The color deepens (as the soul
That burns in mortals leaves its trace
Of bale or beauty on the face),
I'll think, — So let the essence rare
Of years consuming make me fair ;
So, 'gainst the ills of life profuse,
Steep me in some narcotic juice ;
And if my soul must part with all
That whiteness which we greenness call,
Smooth back, O Fortune, half thy frown,
And make me beautifully brown !

Dream-forged, I refill thy cup
With reverie's wasteful pittance up,

And while the fire burns slow away,
Hiding itself in ashes gray,
I'll think, — As inward Youth retreats,
Compelled to spare his wasting heats,
When Life's Ash-Wednesday comes about,
And my head's gray with fires burnt out,
While stays one spark to light the eye,
With the last flash of memory,
'T will leap to welcome C. F. B.,
Who sent my favorite pipe to me.

BANKSIDE.

(HOME OF EDMUND QUINCY.)

DEDHAM, MAY 21, 1877.

I.

I CHRISTENED you in happier days, before
These gray forebodings on my brow were seen ;
You are still lovely in your new-leaved green ;
The brimming river soothes his grassy shore ;
The bridge is there ; the rock with lichens hoar ;
And the same shadows on the water lean,
Outlasting us. How many graves between
That day and this ! How many shadows more
Darken my heart, their substance from these eyes
Hidden forever ! So our world is made
Of life and death commingled ; and the sighs
Outweigh the smiles, in equal balance laid :
What compensation ? None, save that the All-wise
So schools us to love things that cannot fade.

II.

Thank God, he saw you last in pomp of May,
Ere any leaf had felt the year's regret ;
Your latest image in his memory set
Was fair as when your landscape's peaceful sway
Charmed dearer eyes with his to make delay
On Hope's long prospect, — as if They forget
The happy, They, the unspeakable Three, whose debt,
Like the hawk's shadow, blots our brightest day :
Better it is that ye should look so fair,
Slopes that he loved, and ever-murmuring pines
That make a music out of silent air,
And bloom-heaped orchard-trees in prosperous lines ;
In you the heart some sweeter hints divines,
And wiser, than in winter's dull despair.

III.

Old Friend, farewell ! Your kindly door again
I enter, but the master's hand in mine
No more clasps welcome, and the temperate wine,
That cheered our long nights, other lips must stain :

All is unchanged, but I expect in vain
The face alert, the manners free and fine,
The seventy years borne lightly as the pine
Wears its first down of snow in green disdain:
Much did he, and much well ; yet most of all
I prized his skill in leisure and the ease
Of a life flowing full without a plan ;
For most are idly busy ; him I call
Thrice fortunate who knew himself to please,
Learned in those arts that make a gentleman.

IV.

Nor deem he lived unto himself alone ;
His was the public spirit of his sire,
And in those eyes, soft with domestic fire,
A quenchless light of fiercer temper shone
What time about the world our shame was blown
On every wind ; his soul would not conspire
With selfish men to soothe the mob's desire,
Veiling with garlands Moloch's bloody stone ;
The high-bred instincts of a better day
Ruled in his blood, when to be citizen
Rang Roman yet, and a Free People's sway
Was not the exchequer of impoverished men,
Nor statesmanship with loaded votes to play,
Nor public office a tramps' boosing-ken.

JOSEPH WINLOCK.

DIED JUNE 11, 1875.

SHY soul and stalwart, man of patient will Through years one hair's-breadth on our Dark to gain,

Who, from the stars he studied not in vain,
Had learned their secret to be strong and still,
Careless of fames that earth's tin trumpets fill ;
Born under Leo, broad of build and brain,
While others slept, he watched in that hushed fane

Of Science, only witness of his skill :
Sudden as falls a shooting-star he fell,
But inextinguishable his luminous trace
In mind and heart of all that knew him well.
Happy man's doom! To him the Fates were known

Of orbs dim hovering on the skirts of space,
Unprescient, through God's mercy, of his own!

SONNET.

TO FANNY ALEXANDER.

UNCONSCIOUS as the sunshine, simply sweet
And generous as that, thou dost not close
Thyself in art, as life were but a rose
To rumple bee-like with luxurious feet ;
Thy higher mind therein finds sure retreat,
But not from care of common hopes and woes ;
Thee the dark chamber, thee the unfriended, knows,
Although no babbling crowds thy praise repeat :
Consummate artist, who life's landscape bleak
Hast brimmed with sun to many a clouded eye,
Touched to a brighter hue the beggar's cheek,
Hung over orphaned lives a gracious sky,
And traced for eyes, that else would vainly seek,
Fair pictures of an angel drawing nigh !

FLORENCE, 1873.

JEFFRIES WYMAN.

DIED SEPTEMBER 4, 1874.

THE wisest man could ask no more of Fate
Than to be simple, modest, manly, true,
Safe from the Many, honored by the Few ;
To count as naught in World, or Church, or State,
But inwardly in secret to be great ;
To feel mysterious Nature ever new ;
To touch, if not to grasp, her endless clew,
And learn by each discovery how to wait.
He widened knowledge and escaped the praise ;
He wisely taught, because more wise to learn ;
He toiled for Science, not to draw men's gaze,
But for her lore of self-denial stern.
That such a man could spring from our decays
Fans the soul's nobler faith until it burn.

TO A FRIEND

WHO GAVE ME A GROUP OF WEEDS AND GRASSES,
AFTER A DRAWING OF DÜRER.

TRUE as the sun's own work, but more refined,
It tells of love behind the artist's eye,
Of sweet companionships with earth and sky,
And summers stored, the sunshine of the mind.
What peace! Sure, ere you breathe, the fickle wind
Will break its truce and bend that grass-plume high,
Scarcely yet quiet from the gilded fly
That flits a more luxurious perch to find.
Thanks for a pleasure that can never pall,
A serene moment, deftly caught and kept
To make immortal summer on my wall.
Had he who drew such gladness ever wept?
Ask rather could he else have seen at all,
Or grown in Nature's mysteries an adept?

WITH AN ARMCHAIR.

ABOUT the oak that framed this chair, of old
The seasons danced their round ; delighted wings Brought music to its boughs ; shy woodland things
Shared its broad roof, 'neath whose green glooms grown bold,
Lovers, more shy than they, their secret told ;
The resurrection of a thousand springs
Swelled in its veins, and dim imaginings
Teased them, perchance, of life more manifold.
Such shall it know when its proud arms enclose
My Lady Goshawk, musing here at rest,
Careless of him who into exile goes,
Yet, while his gift by those fair limbs is prest,
Through some fine sympathy of nature knows
That, seas between us, she is still his guest.

E. G. DE R.

WHY should I seek her spell to decompose
Or to its source each rill of influence trace
That feeds the brimming river of her grace?
The petals numbered but degrade to prose
Summer's triumphant poem of the rose:
Enough for me to watch the wavering chase,
Like wind o'er grass, of moods across her face,
Fairest in motion, fairer in repose.
Steeped in her sunshine, let me, while I may,
Partake the bounty: ample 't is for me
That her mirth cheats my temples of their gray,
Her charm makes years long spent seem yet to be.
Wit, goodness, grace, swift flash from grave to gay, —
All these are good, but better far is she.

BON VOYAGE!

SHIP, blest to bear such freight across the blue,
May stormless stars control thy horoscope ;
In keel and hull, in every spar and rope,
Be night and day to thy dear office true !
Ocean, men's path and their divider too,
No fairer shrine of memory and hope
To the underworld adown thy westering slope
E'er vanished, or whom such regrets pursue :
Smooth all thy surges as when Jove to Crete
Swam with less costly burthen, and prepare
A pathway meet for her home-coming soon
With golden undulations such as greet
The printless summer-sandals of the moon
And tempt the Nautilus his cruise to dare !

TO WHITTIER

ON HIS SEVENTY-FIFTH BIRTHDAY.

NEW ENGLAND'S poet, rich in love as years,
Her hills and valleys praise thee, her swift brooks
Dance in thy verse; to her grave sylvan nooks
Thy steps allure us, which the wood-thrush hears
As maids their lovers', and no treason fears;
Through thee her Merrimacs and Agiohooks
And many a name uncouth win gracious looks,
Sweetly familiar to both Englands' ears:
Peaceful by birthright as a virgin lake,
The lily's anchorage, which no eyes behold
Save those of stars, yet for thy brother's sake
That lay in bonds, thou blewst a blast as bold
As that wherewith the heart of Roland brake,
Far heard across the New World and the Old.

ON AN AUTUMN SKETCH OF H. G. WILD.

THANKS to the artist, ever on my wall
The sunset stays : that hill in glory rolled,
Those trees and clouds in crimson and in gold,
Burn on, nor cool when evening's shadows fall.
Not round these splendors Midnight wraps her pall ;

These leaves the flush of Autumn's vintage hold
In Winter's spite, nor can the Northwind bold
Deface my chapel's western window small :
On one, ah me ! October struck his frost,
But not repaid him with those Tyrian hues ;
His naked boughs but tell him what is lost,
And parting comforts of the sun refuse :
His heaven is bare, — ah, were its hollow crost
Even with a cloud whose light were yet to lose !

April, 1854.

TO MISS D. T.

ON HER GIVING ME A DRAWING OF LITTLE STREET ARABS.

As, cleansed of Tiber's and Oblivion's slime,
Glow Farnesina's vaults with shapes again
That dreamed some exiled artist from his pain
Back to his Athens and the Muse's clime,
So these world-orphaned waifs of Want and Crime,

Purged by Art's absolution from the stain
Of the polluting city-flood, regain
Ideal grace secure from taint of time.
An Attic frieze you give, a pictured song ;
For as with words the poet paints, for you
The happy pencil at its labor sings,
Stealing his privilege, nor does him wrong,
Beneath the false discovering the true,
And Beauty's best in unregarded things.

WITH A COPY OF AUCASSIN AND NICOLETE.

LEAVES fit to have been poor Juliet's cradle-rhyme,

With gladness of a heart long quenched in mould
They vibrate still, a nest not yet grown cold
From its fledged burthen. The numb hand of Time

Vainly his glass turns ; here is endless prime ;
Here lips their roses keep and locks their gold ;
Here Love in pristine innocency bold Speaks what our grosser conscience makes a crime.

Because it tells the dream that all have known
Once in their lives, and to life's end the few ;
Because its seeds o'er Memory's desert blown
Spring up in heartsease such as Eden knew ;
Because it hath a beauty all its own,
Dear Friend, I plucked this herb of grace for you.

ON PLANTING A TREE AT INVERARA.

WHO does his duty is a question
Too complex to be solved by me,
But he, I venture the suggestion,
Does part of his that plants a tree.

For after he is dead and buried,
And epitaphed, and well forgot,
Nay, even his shade by Charon ferried
To — let us not inquire to what,

His deed, its author long outliving,
By Nature's mother-care increased,
Shall stand, his verdant almoner, giving
A kindly dole to man and beast.

The wayfarer, at noon reposing,
Shall bless its shadow on the grass,
Or sheep beneath it huddle, dozing
Until the thundergust o'erpass.

The owl, belated in his plundering,
Shall here await the friendly night,
Blinking whene'er he wakes, and wondering
What fool it was invented light.

Hither the busy birds shall flutter,
With the light timber for their nests,
And, pausing from their labor, utter
The morning sunshine in their breasts.

What though his memory shall have vanished,
Since the good deed he did survives?
It is not wholly to be banished
Thus to be part of many lives.

Grow, then, my foster-child, and strengthen,
Bough over bough, a murmurous pile,
And, as your stately stem shall lengthen,
So may the statelier of Argyll!

1880.

AN EPISTLE TO GEORGE WILLIAM CURTIS.

“ De prodome,
Des qu’il s’atorne a grant bonte
Ja n’iert tot dit ne tot conte,
Que leingue ne puet pas retraire
Tant d’enor com prodom set faire.”

CRESTIEN DE TROIES,
Li Romans dou Chevalier au Lyon, 784-788.

1874.

CURTIS, whose Wit, with Fancy arm in arm,
Masks half its muscle in its skill to charm,
And who so gently can the Wrong expose
As sometimes to make converts, never foes,
Or only such as good men must expect,
Knaves sore with conscience of their own defect,
I come with mild remonstrance. Ere I start,
A kindlier errand interrupts my heart,
And I must utter, though it vex your ears,
The love, the honor, felt so many years.

Curtis, skilled equally with voice and pen
To stir the hearts or mould the minds of men, —
That voice whose music, for I’ve heard you sing
Sweet as Casella, can with passion ring,
That pen whose rapid ease ne’er trips with haste,

Nor scrapes nor sputters, pointed with good taste,
 First Steele's, then Goldsmith's, next it came to you,

Whom Thackeray rated best of all our crew, —
 Had letters kept you, every wreath were yours ;
 Had the World tempted, all its chariest doors
 Had swung on flattered hinges to admit
 Such high-bred manners, such good-natured wit ;
 At courts, in senates, who so fit to serve ?
 And both invited, but you would not swerve,
 All meaner prizes waiving that you might
 In civic duty spend your heat and light,
 Unpaid, untrammelled, with a sweet disdain
 Refusing posts men grovel to attain.
 Good Man all own you ; what is left me, then,
 To heighten praise with but Good Citizen ?

But why this praise to make you blush and stare,
 And give a backache to your Easy-Chair ?
 Old Crestien rightly says no language can Express the worth of a true Gentleman,
 And I agree ; but other thoughts deride
 My first intent, and lure my pen aside.
 Thinking of you, I see my firelight glow
 On other faces, loved from long ago,
 Dear to us both, and all these loves combine
 With this I send and crowd in every line ;
 Fortune with me was in such generous mood
 That all my friends were yours, and all were good ;

Three generations come when one I call,
 And the fair grandame, youngest of them all,
 In her own Florida who found and sips
 The fount that fled from Ponce's longing lips.
 How bright they rise and wreath my hearth-
                   stone round,
 Divine my thoughts, reply without a sound,
 And with them many a shape that memory sees,
 As dear as they, but crowned with aureoles these !

What wonder if, with protest in my thought,
 Arrived, I find 't was only love I brought ?
 I came with protest ; Memory barred the road
 Till I repaid you half the debt I owed.

No, 't was not to bring laurels that I came,
 Nor would you wish it, daily seeing fame,
 (Or our cheap substitute, unknown of yore,)
 Dumped like a load of coal at every door,
 Mime and hetæra getting equal weight
 With him whose toils heroic saved the State.
 But praise can harm not who so calmly met
 Slander's worst word, nor treasured up the debt,
 Knowing, what all experience serves to show,
 No mud can soil us but the mud we throw.
 You have heard harsher voices and more loud,
 As all must, not sworn liegemen of the crowd,
 And far aloof your silent mind could keep
 As when, in heavens with winter-midnight deep,
 The perfect moon hangs thoughtful, nor can know
 What hounds her lucent calm drives mad below.

But to my business, while you rub your eyes
 And wonder how you ever thought me wise.
 Dear friend and old, they say you shake your head

And wish some bitter words of mine unsaid :
 I wish they might be, — there we are agreed ;
 I hate to speak, still more what makes the need ;
 But I must utter what the voice within Dictates, for acquiescence dumb were sin ;
 I blurt ungrateful truths, if so they be,
 That none may need to say them after me.
 'T were my felicity could I attain
 The temperate zeal that balances your brain ;
 But nature still o'erleaps reflection's plan,
 And one must do his service as he can.
 Think you it were not pleasanter to speak Smooth words that leave unflushed the brow and check ?

To sit, well-dined, with cynic smile, unseen
 In private box, spectator of the scene
 Where men the comedy of life rehearse,
 Idly to judge which better and which worse
 Each hireling actor spoiled his worthless part ?
 Were it not sweeter with a careless heart,
 In happy commune with the untainted brooks,
 To dream all day, or, walled with silent books,
 To hear nor heed the World's unmeaning noise,
 Safe in my fortress stored with lifelong joys ?

I love too well the pleasures of retreat

Safe from the crowd and cloistered from the street ;

The fire that whispers its domestic joy,
Flickering on walls that knew me still a boy,
And knew my saintly father ; the full days,
Not careworn from the world's soul-squandering ways,

Calm days that loiter with snow-silent tread,
Nor break my commune with the undying dead ;
Truants of Time, to-morrow like to-day,
That come unbid, and claimless glide away
By shelves that sun them in the indulgent Past,
Where Spanish castles, even, were built to last,
Where saint and sage their silent vigil keep,
And wrong hath ceased or sung itself to sleep.

Dear were my walks, too, gathering fragrant store
Of Mother Nature's simple-minded lore :
I learned all weather-signs of day or night ;
No bird but I could name him by his flight,
No distant tree but by his shape was known,
Or, near at hand, by leaf or bark alone.

This learning won by loving looks I hived
As sweeter lore than all from books derived.
I know the charm of hillside, field, and wood,
Of lake and stream, and the sky's downy brood,
Of roads sequestered rimmed with sallow sod,
But friends with hardhack, aster, goldenrod,
Or succory keeping summer long its trust
Of heaven-blue fleckless from the eddying dust :
These were my earliest friends, and latest too,

As heaven's and earth's remotest chambers heard,
I looked to see an ampler atmosphere
By that electric passion-gust blown clear.
I looked for this ; consider what I see —
But I forbear, 't would please nor you nor me
To check the items in the bitter list
Of all I counted on and all I mist.
Only three instances I choose from all,
And each enough to stir a pigeon's gall :
Office a fund for ballot-brokers made
To pay the drudges of their gainful trade ;
Our cities taught what conquered cities feel
By ædiles chosen that they might safely steal ;
And gold, however got, a title fair
To such respect as only gold can bear.
I seem to see this ; how shall I gainsay
What all our journals tell me every day ?
Poured our young martyrs their high-hearted blood
That we might trample to congenial mud
The soil with such a legacy sublimed ?
Methinks an angry scorn is here well-timed :
Where find retreat ? How keep reproach at bay ?
Where'er I turn some scandal fouls the way.

Dear friend, if any man I wished to please,
'T were surely you whose humor's honied ease
Flows flecked with gold of thought, whose generous mind
Sees Paradise regained by all mankind,

Whose brave example still to vanward shines,
Checks the retreat, and spurs our lagging lines.
Was I too bitter? Who his phrase can choose
That sees the life-blood of his dearest ooze?
I loved my Country so as only they
Who love a mother fit to die for may;
I loved her old renown, her stainless fame, —
What better proof than that I loathed her shame?
That many blamed me could not irk me long,
But, if you doubted, must I not be wrong?
'T is not for me to answer: this I know,
That man or race so prosperously low
Sunk in success that wrath they cannot feel,
Shall taste the spurn of parting Fortune's heel;
For never land long lease of empire won
Whose sons sate silent when base deeds were done.

POSTSCRIPT, 1887.

Curtis, so wrote I thirteen years ago,
Tost it unfinished by, and left it so;
Found lately, I have pieced it out, or tried,
Since time for callid juncture was denied.
Some of the verses pleased me, it is true,
And still were pertinent, — those honoring you.
These now I offer: take them, if you will,
Like the old hand-grasp, when at Shady Hill
We met, or Staten Island, in the days
When life was its own spur, nor needed praise.
If once you thought me rash, no longer fear;

Past my next milestone waits my seventieth year.
I mount no longer when the trumpets call ;
My battle-harness idles on the wall,
The spider's castle, camping-ground of dust,
Not without dints, and all in front, I trust.
Shivering sometimes it calls me as it hears
Afar the charge's tramp and clash of spears ;
But 't is such murmur only as might be
The sea-shell's lost tradition of the sea,
That makes me muse and wonder Where ? and When ?

While from my cliff I watch the waves of men
That climb to break midway their seeming gain,
And think it triumph if they shake their chain.
Little I ask of Fate ; will she refuse
Some days of reconciliation with the Muse ?
I take my reed again and blow it free
Of dusty silence, murmuring, " Sing to me ! "
And, as its stops my curious touch retries,
The stir of earlier instincts I surprise, —
Instincts, if less imperious, yet more strong,
And happy in the toil that ends with song.

Home am I come : not, as I hoped might be,
To the old haunts, too full of ghosts for me,
But to the olden dreams that time endears,
And the loved books that younger grow with years ;
To country rambles, timing with my tread
Some happier verse that carols in my head,

Yet all with sense of something vainly mist,
Of something lost, but when I never wist.
How empty seems to me the populous street,
One figure gone I daily loved to meet, —
The clear, sweet singer with the crown of snow
Not whiter than the thoughts that housed below !
And, ah, what absence feel I at my side,
Like Dante when he missed his laurelled guide,
What sense of diminution in the air
Once so inspiring, Emerson not there !
But life is sweet, though all that makes it sweet
Lessen like sound of friends' departing feet,
And Death is beautiful as feet of friend
Coming with welcome at our journey's end ;
For me Fate gave, whate'er she else denied,
A nature sloping to the southern side ;
I thank her for it, though when clouds arise
Such natures double-darken gloomy skies.
I muse upon the margin of the sea,
Our common pathway to the new To Be,
Watching the sails, that lessen more and more,
Of good and beautiful embarked before ;
With bits of wreck I patch the boat shall bear
Me to that unexhausted Otherwhere,
Whose friendly-peopled shore I sometimes see,
By soft mirage uplifted, beckon me,
Nor sadly hear, as lower sinks the sun,
My moorings to the past snap one by one.

SENTIMENT.

ENDYMION.

A MYSTICAL COMMENT ON TITIAN'S "SACRED AND PROFANE LOVE."

I.

My day began not till the twilight fell,
And, lo, in ether from heaven's sweetest well,
The New Moon swam divinely isolate
In maiden silence, she that makes my fate
Haply not knowing it, or only so
As I the secrets of my sheep may know ;
Nor ask I more, entirely blest if she,
In letting me adore, ennoble me
To height of what the Gods meant making man,
As only she and her best beauty can.
Mine be the love that in itself can find
Seed of white thoughts, the lilies of the mind,
Seed of that glad surrender of the will
That finds in service self's true purpose still ;
Love that in outward fairness sees the tent
Pitched for an inmate far more excellent ;
Love with a light irradiate to the core,
Lit at her lamp, but fed from inborn store ;
Love thrice-requited with the single joy
Of an immaculate vision naught could cloy,

Dearer because, so high beyond my scope,
My life grew rich with her, unbribed by hope
Of other guerdon save to think she knew
One grateful votary paid her all her due ;
Happy if she, high-radiant there, resigned
To his sure trust her image in his mind.
O fairer even than Peace is when she comes Hushing War's tumult, and retreating drums
Fade to a murmur like the sough of bees
Hidden among the noon-stilled linden-trees,
Bringer of quiet, thou that canst allay
The dust and din and travail of the day,
Strewer of Silence, Giver of the dew
That doth our pastures and our souls renew,
Still dwell remote, still on thy shoreless sea
Float unattained in sacred empery,
Still light my thoughts, nor listen to a prayer
Would make thee less imperishably fair !

II.

Can, then, my twofold nature find content
In vain conceits of airy blandishment ?
Ask I no more ? Since yesterday I task
My storm-strewn thoughts to tell me what I ask :
Faint premonitions of mutation strange
Steal o'er my perfect orb, and, with the change,
Myself am changed ; the shadow of my earth
Darkens the disc of that celestial worth
Which only yesterday could still suffice
Upwards to waft my thoughts in sacrifice ;

My heightened fancy with its touches warm
Moulds to a woman's that ideal form ;
Nor yet a woman's wholly, but divine
With awe her purer essence bred in mine.
Was it long brooding on their own surmise,
Which, of the eyes engendered, fools the eyes,
Or have I seen through that translucent air
A Presence shaped in its seclusions bare,
My Goddess looking on me from above
As look our russet maidens when they love,
But high-uptifted o'er our human heat
And passion-paths too rough for her pearl feet ?

Slowly the Shape took outline as I gazed
At her full-orbed or crescent, till, bedazed
With wonder-working light that subtly wrought
My brain to its own substance, steeping thought
In trances such as poppies give, I saw
Things shut from vision by sight's sober law,
Amorphous, changeful, but defined at last
Into the peerless Shape mine eyes hold fast.
This, too, at first I worshipt : soon, like wine,
Her eyes, in mine poured, frenzy-philtred mine ;
Passion put Worship's priestly raiment on
And to the woman knelt, the Goddess gone.
Was I, then, more than mortal made ? or she
Less than divine that she might mate with me ?
If mortal merely, could my nature cope
With such o'ermastery of maddening hope ?
If Goddess, could she feel the blissful woe
That women in their self-surrender know ?

III.

Long she abode aloof there in her heaven,
Far as the grape-bunch of the Pleiad seven
Beyond my madness' utmost leap ; but here
Mine eyes have feigned of late her rapture near,
Moulded of mind-mist that broad day dispels,
Here in these shadowy woods and brook-lulled dells.

Have no heaven-habitants e'er felt a void
In hearts sublimed with ichor unalloyed ?
E'er longed to mingle with a mortal fate
Intense with pathos of its briefer date ?
Could she partake, and live, our human stains ?
Even with the thought there tingles through my veins

Sense of unwarned renewal ; I, the dead,
Receive and house again the ardor fled,
As once Alcestis ; to the ruddy brim
Feel masculine virtue flooding every limb,
And life, like Spring returning, brings the key
That sets my senses from their winter free,
Dancing like naked fauns too glad for shame.
Her passion, purified to palest flame,
Can it thus kindle ? Is her purpose this ?
I will not argue, lest I lose a bliss
That makes me dream 'Tithonus' fortune mine,
(Or what of it was palpably divine Ere came the fruitlessly immortal gift ;)

I cannot curb my hope's imperious drift
 That wings with fire my dull mortality ;
 Though fancy-forged, 't is all I feel or see.

IV.

My Goddess sinks ; round Latmos' darkening brow

'Trembles the parting of her presence now,
 Faint as the perfume left upon the grass
 By her limbs' pressure or her feet that pass
 By me conjectured, but conjectured so
 As things I touch far fainter substance show.

Was it mine eyes' imposture I have seen
 Flit with the moonbeams on from shade to sheen
 Through the wood-openings? Nay, I see her now

Out of her heaven new-lighted, from her brow
 The hair breeze-scattered, like loose mists that blow

Across her crescent, goldening as they go
 High-kirtled for the chase, and what was shown,
 Of maiden rondure, like the rose half-blown.

If dream, turn real ! If a vision, stay !
 Take mortal shape, my philtre's spell obey !
 If hags compel thee from thy secret sky
 With gruesome incantations, why not I,
 Whose only magic is that I distil
 A potion, blent of passion, thought, and will,
 Deeper in reach, in force of fate more rich,
 Than e'er was juice wrung by Thessalian witch

From moon-enchanted herbs, — a potion brewed
 Of my best life in each diviner mood?
 Myself the elixir am, myself the bowl
 Seething and mantling with my soul of soul.
 Taste and be humanized : what though the cup,
 With thy lips frenzied, shatter? Drink it up!
 If but these arms may clasp, o'erquited so,
 My world, thy heaven, all life means I shall know.

V.

Sure she hath heard my prayer and granted half,
 As Gods do who at mortal madness laugh.
 In sleep she comes ; she visits me in dreams,
 And, as her image in a thousand streams,
 So in my veins, that her obey, she sees,
 Floating and flaming there, her images
 Bear to my little world's remotest zone
 Glad messages of her, and her alone.
 With silence-sandalled Sleep she comes to me,
 (But softer-footed, sweeter-browed, than she,)
 In motion gracious as a seagull's wing,
 And all her bright limbs, moving, seem to sing.
 If life's most solid things illusion seem,
 Why should not substance wear the mask of dream?
 Let me believe so, then, if so I may
 With the night's bounty feed my beggared day.
 In dreams I see her lay the goddess down

With bow and quiver, and her crescent-crown
Flicker and fade away to dull eclipse
As down to mine she deigns her longed-for lips ;
And as her neck my happy arms enfold,
Flooded and lusted with her loosened gold,
She whispers words each sweeter than a kiss :
Then, wakened with the shock of sudden bliss,
My arms are empty, my awakener fled,
And, silent in the silent sky o'erhead,
But coldly as on ice-plated snow, she gleams,
Herself the mother and the child of dreams.

VI.

Gone is the time when phantasms could appease
My quest phantasmal and bring cheated ease ;
When, if she glorified my dreams, I felt
Through all my limbs a change immortal melt
At touch of hers illuminate with soul.
Not long could I be stilled with Fancy's dole ;
Too soon the mortal mixture in me caught
Red fire from her celestial flame, and fought
For tyrannous control in all my veins :
My fool's prayer was accepted ; what remains ?
Or was it some eidolon merely, sent
By her who rules the shades in banishment,
To mock me with her semblance ? Were it thus,
How 'scape I shame, whose will was traitorous ?
What shall compensate an ideal dimmed ?
How blanch again my statue virgin-limbed,

Soiled with the incense-smoke her chosen priest
 Poured more profusely as within decreased
 The fire unearthly, fed with coals from far
 Within the soul's shrine? Could my fallen star
 Be set in heaven again by prayers and tears
 And quenchless sacrifice of all my years,
 How would the victim to the flamen leap,
 And life for life's redemption paid hold cheap!

But what resource when she herself descends
 From her blue throne, and o'er her vassal bends
 That shape thrice-deified by love, those eyes
 Wherein the Lethe of all others lies?
 When my white queen of heaven's remoteness tires,
 Herself against her other self conspires,
 Takes woman's nature, walks in mortal ways,
 And finds in my remorse her beauty's praise?
 Yet all would I renounce to dream again
 The dream in dreams fulfilled that made my pain,
 My noble pain that heightened all my years
 With crowns to win and prowess-breeding tears;
 Nay, would that dream renounce once more to see
 Her from her sky there looking down at me!

VII

Goddess, reelimb thy heaven, and be once more
 An inaccessible splendor to adore,
 A faith, a hope of such transcendent worth

As bred ennobling discontent with earth ;
Give back the longing, back the elated mood
That, fed with thee, spurned every meaner good ;
Give even the spur of impotent despair
That, without hope, still bade aspire and dare ;
Give back the need to worship that still pours
Down to the soul that virtue it adores !

Nay, brightest and most beautiful, deem naught
These frantic words, the reckless wind of thought ;
Still stoop, still grant, — I live but in thy will ;
Be what thou wilt, but be a woman still !
Vainly I cried, nor could myself believe
That what I prayed for I would fain receive.
My moon is set ; my vision set with her ;
No more can worship vain my pulses stir.
Goddess Triform, I own thy triple spell,
My heaven's queen, — queen, too, of my earth and hell !

THE BLACK PREACHER.

A BRETON LEGEND.

AT Carnac in Brittany, close on the bay,
They show you a church, or rather the gray
Ribs of a dead one, left there to bleach
With the wreck lying near on the crest of the beach,
Roofless and splintered with thunder-stone,
'Mid lichen-blurred gravestones all alone ;
'T is the kind of ruin strange sights to see
That may have their teaching for you and me.

Something like this, then, my guide had to tell,
Perched on a saint cracked across when he fell ;
But since I might chance give his meaning a wrench,
He talking his patois and I English-French,
I'll put what he told me, preserving the tone,
In a rhymed prose that makes it half his, half my own.

An abbey-church stood here, once on a time,
Built as a death-bed atonement for crime :
'T was for somebody's sins, I know not whose ;
But sinners are plenty, and you can choose.

Though a cloister now of the dusk-winged bat,
'T was rich enough once, and the brothers grew fat,
Looser in girdle and purpler in jowl,
Singing good rest to the founder's lost soul.

But one day came Northmen, and lithe tongues of fire
Lapped up the chapter-house, licked off the spire,
And left all a rubbish-heap, black and dreary,
Where only the wind sings miserere.

No priest has kneeled since at the altar's foot,
Whose crannies are searched by the nightshade's root,
Nor sound of service is ever heard,
Except from throat of the unclean bird,
Hooting to unassoiled shapes as they pass
In midnights unholy his witches' mass,
Or shouting "Ho! ho!" from the belfry high
As the Devil's sabbath-train whirls by.

But once a year, on the eve of All-Souls,
Through these arches dishallowed the organ rolls,
Fingers long fleshless the bell-ropes work,
The chimes peal muffled with sea-mists mirk,
The skeleton windows are traced anew
On the baleful flicker of corpse-lights blue,
And the ghosts must come, so the legend saith,
To a preaching of Reverend Doctor Death.

Abbots, monks, barons, and ladies fair
 Hear the dull summons and gather there :
 No rustle of silk now, no clink of mail,
 Nor ever a one greets his church-mate pale ;
 No knight whispers love in the châteline's ear,
 His next-door neighbor this five hundred year ;
 No monk has a sleek benedicite
 For the great lord shadowy now as he ;
 Nor needeth any to hold his breath,
 Lest he lose the least word of Doctor Death.

He chooses his text in the Book Divine,
 Tenth verse of the Preacher in chapter nine : — “ ‘ Whatsoever thy hand shall find thee to do,
 That do with thy whole might, or thou shalt rue ;
 For no man is wealthy, or wise, or brave,
 In that quencher of might-be's and would-be's, the grave.’
 Bid by the Bridegroom, ‘ To-morrow,’ ye said,
 And To-morrow was digging a trench for your bed ;
 Ye said, ‘ God can wait ; let us finish our wine ;’
 Ye had wearied Him, fools, and that last knock was mine ! ”

But I can't pretend to give you the sermon,
 Or say if the tongue were French, Latin, or German ;
 Whatever he preached in, I give you my word
 The meaning was easy to all that heard ;

Famous preachers there have been and be,
But never was one so convincing as he ;
So blunt was never a begging friar,
No Jesuit's tongue so barbed with fire,
Cameronian never, nor Methodist,
Wrung gall out of Scripture with such a twist.

And would you know who his hearers must be ?
I tell you just what my guide told me :
Excellent teaching men have, day and night,
From two earnest friars, a black and a white,
The Dominican Death and the Carmelite Life ;
And between these two there is never strife,
For each has his separate office and station,
And each his own work in the congregation ;
Whoso to the white brother deafens his ears,
And cannot be wrought on by blessings or tears,
Awake in his coffin must wait and wait,
In that blackness of darkness that means too late,
And come once a year, when the ghost-bell tolls,
As till Doomsday it shall on the eve of All-Souls,
To hear Doctor Death, whose words smart with the brine
Of the Preacher, the tenth verse of chapter nine.

ARCADIA REDIVIVA.

I, WALKING the familiar street,
While a crammed horse-ear jingled through it,
Was lifted from my prosy feet
And in Arcadia ere I knew it.

Fresh sward for gravel soothed my tread,
And shepherd's pipes my ear delighted ;
The riddle may be lightly read :
I met two lovers newly plighted.

They murmured by in happy care,
New plans for paradise devising,
Just as the moon, with pensive stare,
O'er Mistress Craigie's pines was rising.

Astarte, known nigh threescore years,
Me to no speechless rapture urges ;
Them in Elysium she enspheres,
Queen, from of old, of thaumaturges.

The railings put forth bud and bloom,
The house-fronts all with myrtles twine them,
And light-winged Loves in every room
Make nests, and then with kisses line them.

O sweetness of untasted life !
O dream, its own supreme fulfilment !
O hours with all illusion rife,
As ere the heart divined what ill meant !

“ Et ego,” sighed I to myself,
And strove some vain regrets to bridle,
“ Though now laid dusty on the shelf,
Was hero once of such an idyl !

“ An idyl ever newly sweet,
Although since Adam’s day recited,
Whose measures time them to Love’s feet,
Whose sense is every ill requited.”

Maiden, if I may counsel, drain
Each drop of this enchanted season,
For even our honeymoons must wane,
Convicted of green cheese by Reason.

And none will seem so safe from change,
Nor in such skies benignant hover,
As this, beneath whose witchery strange
You tread on rose-leaves with your lover.

The glass unfilled all tastes can fit,
As round its brim Conjecture dances ;
For not Mephisto’s self hath wit
To draw such vintages as Fancy’s.

When our pulse beats its minor key,
When play-time halves and school-time doubles,
Age fills the cup with serious tea,
Which once Dame Clicquot starred with bubbles.

“Fie, Mr. Graybeard! Is this wise?
Is this the moral of a poet,
Who, when the plant of Eden dies,
Is privileged once more to sow it?”

“That herb of clay-disdaining root,
From stars secreting what it feeds on,
Is burnt-out passion’s slag and soot
Fit soil to strew its dainty seeds on?”

“Pray, why, if in Arcadia once,
Need one so soon forget the way there?
Or why, once there, be such a dunce
As not contentedly to stay there?”

Dear child, ’t was but a sorry jest,
And from my heart I hate the cynic
Who makes the Book of Life a nest
For comments staler than rabbinic.

If Love his simple spell but keep,
Life with ideal eyes to flatter,
The Grail itself were crockery cheap
To Every-day’s communion-platter.

One Darby is to me well known,
Who, as the hearth between them blazes,
Sees the old moonlight shine on Joan,
And float her youthward in its hazes.

He rubs his spectacles, he stares, —
'T is the same face that witch'd him early!
He gropes for his remaining hairs, —
Is this a fleece that feels so curly?

“ Good heavens ! but now 't was winter gray,
And I of years had more than plenty ;
The almanac 's a fool ! 'T is May !
Hang family Bibles ! I am twenty !

“ Come, Joan, your arm ; we 'll walk the room —
The lane, I mean — do you remember ?
How confident the roses bloom,
As if it ne'er could be December !

“ Nor more it shall, while in your eyes
My heart its summer heat recovers,
And you, howe'er your mirror lies,
Find your old beauty in your lover's.”

THE NEST.

MAY.

WHEN oaken woods with buds are pink,
And new-come birds each morning sing,
When fickle May on Summer's brink
Pauses, and knows not which to fling,
Whether fresh bud and bloom again,
Or hoar-frost silvering hill and plain,

Then from the honeysuckle gray
The oriole with experienced quest
Twitches the fibrous bark away,
The cordage of his hammock-nest,
Cheering his labor with a note
Rich as the orange of his throat.

High o'er the loud and dusty road
The soft gray cup in safety swings,
To brim ere August with its load
Of downy breasts and throbbing wings,
O'er which the friendly elm-tree heaves
An emerald roof with sculptured eaves.

Below, the noisy World drags by
In the old way, because it must,

The bride with heartbreak in her eye,
 The mourner following hated dust :
 Thy duty, winged flame of Spring,
 Is but to love, and fly, and sing.

Oh, happy life, to soar and sway
 Above the life by mortals led,
 Singing the merry months away,
 Master, not slave of daily bread,
 And, when the Autumn comes, to flee
 Wherever sunshine beckons thee !

PALINODE. — DECEMBER.

Like some lorn abbey now, the wood
 Stands roofless in the bitter air ;
 In ruins on its floor is strewed
 The carven foliage quaint and rare,
 And homeless winds complain along
 The columned choir once thrilled with song.

And thou, dear nest, whence joy and praise
 The thankful oriole used to pour,
 Swing'st empty while the north winds chase
 Their snowy swarms from Labrador :
 But, loyal to the happy past,
 I love thee still for what thou wast.

Ah, when the Summer graces flee
 From other nests more dear than thou,

And, where June crowded once, I see
    Only bare trunk and disleaved bough ;
When springs of life that gleamed and gushed
Run chilled, and slower, and are hushed ;

When our own branches, naked long,
    The vacant nests of Spring betray,
Nurseries of passion, love, and song
    That vanished as our year grew gray ;
When Life drones o'er a tale twice told
O'er embers pleading with the cold, —

I'll trust, that, like the birds of Spring,
    Our good goes not without repair,
But only flies to soar and sing
    Far off in some diviner air,
Where we shall find it in the calms
Of that fair garden 'neath the palms.

A YOUTHFUL EXPERIMENT IN ENGLISH
HEXAMETERS.

IMPRESSIONS OF HOMER.

SOMETIMES come pauses of calm, when the rapt bard, holding his heart back,
Over his deep mind muses, as when o'er awe-stricken ocean
Poises a heapt cloud luridly, ripening the gale and the thunder ;
Slow rolls onward the verse with a long swell heaving and swinging,
Seeming to wait till, gradually wid'ning from far-off horizons,
Piling the deeps up, heaping the glad-hearted surges before it,
Gathers the thought as a strong wind darkening and cresting the tumult.
Then every pause, every heave, each trough in the waves, has its meaning ;
Full-sailed, forth like a tall ship steadies the theme, and around it,
Leaping beside it in glad strength, running in wild glee beyond it,

Harmonies billow exulting and floating the soul where it lists them,
Swaying the listener's fantasy hither and thither like driftweed.

BIRTHDAY VERSES.

WRITTEN IN A CHILD'S ALBUM.

'T WAS sung of old in hut and hall
How once a king in evil hour
Hung musing o'er his castle wall,
And, lost in idle dreams, let fall
Into the sea his ring of power.

Then, let him sorrow as he might,
And pledge his daughter and his throne
To who restored the jewel bright,
The broken spell would ne'er unite ;
The grim old ocean held its own.

Those awful powers on man that wait,
On man, the beggar or the king,
To hovel bare or hall of state
A magic ring that masters fate
With each succeeding birthday bring.

Therein are set four jewels rare :
Pearl winter, summer's ruby blaze,
Spring's emerald, and, than all more fair,
Fall's pensive opal, doomed to bear
A heart of fire bedreamed with haze.

To him the simple spell who knows
The spirits of the ring to sway,
Fresh power with every sunrise flows,
And royal pursuivants are those
That fly his mandates to obey.

But he that with a slackened will Dreams of things past or things to be,
From him the charm is slipping still,
And drops, ere he suspect the ill,
Into the inexorable sea.

ESTRANGEMENT.

THE path from me to you that led,
    Untrodden long, with grass is grown, —
Mute carpet that his lieges spread
    Before the Prince Oblivion
When he goes visiting the dead.

And who are they but who forget?
    You, who my coming could surmise
Ere any hint of me as yet
    Warned other ears and other eyes,
See the path blurred without regret.

But when I trace its windings sweet
    With saddened steps, at every spot
That feels the memory in my feet,
    Each grass-blade turns forget-me-not,
Where murmuring bees your name repeat.

PHOEBE.

ERE pales in Heaven the morning star,
A bird, the loneliest of its kind,
Hears Dawn's faint footfall from afar
While all its mates are dumb and blind.

It is a wee sad-colored thing,
As shy and secret as a maid,
That, ere in choir the robins ring,
Pipes its own name like one afraid.

It seems pain-prompted to repeat
The story of some ancient ill,
But Phœbe! Phœbe! sadly sweet
Is all it says, and then is still.

It calls and listens. Earth and sky,
Hushed by the pathos of its fate,
Listen : no whisper of reply
Comes from its doom-dissevered mate.

Phœbe! it calls and calls again,
And Ovid, could he but have heard,
Had hung a legendary pain
About the memory of the bird :

A pain articulate so long
 In penance of some mouldered crime
 Whose ghost still flies the Furies' thong
 Down the waste solitudes of time.

Waif of the young World's wonder-hour,
 When gods found mortal maidens fair,
 And will malign was joined with power
 Love's kindly laws to overbear,

Like Progne, did it feel the stress
 And coil of the prevailing words
 Close round its being, and compress
 Man's ampler nature to a bird's?

One only memory left of all
 The motley crowd of vanished scenes,
 Hers, and vain impulse to recall
 By repetition what it means.

Phœbe! is all it has to say
 In plaintive cadence o'er and o'er,
 Like children that have lost their way,
 And know their names, but nothing more.

Is it a type, since Nature's Lyre
 Vibrates to every note in man,
 Of that insatiable desire,
 Meant to be so since life began?

I, in strange lands at gray of dawn,
Wakeful, have heard that fruitless plaint
Through Memory's chambers deep withdrawn
Renew its iterations faint.

So nigh ! yet from remotest years
It summons back its magic, rife
With longings unappeased, and tears
Drawn from the very source of life.

DAS EWIG-WEIBLICHE.

How was I worthy so divine a loss,
    Deepening my midnights, kindling all my morns?

Why waste such precious wood to make my cross,
    Such far-sought roses for my crown of thorns?

And when she came, how earned I such a gift?
    Why spend on me, a poor earth-delving mole,
The fireside sweetnesses, the heavenward lift,
    The hourly mercy, of a woman's soul?

Ah, did we know to give her all her right,
    What wonders even in our poor clay were done!

It is not Woman leaves us to our night,
    But our brute earth that grovels from her sun.

Our nobler cultured fields and gracious domes
    We whirl too oft from her who still shines on
To light in vain our caves and clefts, the homes
    Of night-bird instincts pained till she be gone.

Still must this body starve our souls with shade ;
But when Death makes us what we were before,
Then shall her sunshine all our depths invade,
And not a shadow stain heaven's crystal floor.

THE RECALL.

COME back before the birds are flown,
Before the leaves desert the tree,
And, through the lonely alleys blown,
Whisper their vain regrets to me
Who drive before a blast more rude,
The plaything of my gusty mood,
In vain pursuing and pursued !

Nay, come although the boughs be bare,
Though snowflakes fledge the summer's nest,
And in some far Ausonian air
The thrush, your minstrel, warm his breast.
Come, sunshine's treasurer, and bring
To doubting flowers their faith in spring,
To birds and me the need to sing !

ABSENCE.

SLEEP is Death's image, — poets tell us so ;
But Absence is the bitter self of Death,
And, you away, Life's lips their red forego,
Parched in an air unrefreshed by your breath.

Light of those eyes that made the light of mine, Where shine you? On what happier fields and flowers?

Heaven's lamps renew their lustre less divine,
But only serve to count my darkened hours.

If with your presence went your image too,
That brain-born ghost my path would never cross
Which meets me now where'er I once met you,
Then vanishes, to multiply my loss.

MONNA LISA.

SHE gave me all that woman can,
Nor her soul's nunnery forego,
A confidence that man to man
Without remorse can never show.

Rare art, that can the sense refine
Till not a pulse rebellious stirs,
And, since she never can be mine,
Makes it seem sweeter to be hers !

THE OPTIMIST.

TURBID from London's noise and smoke,
Here I find air and quiet too :
Air filtered through the beech and oak,
Quiet by nothing harsher broke
Than wood-dove's meditative coo.

The Truce of God is here ; the breeze
Sighs as men sigh relieved from care,
Or tilts as lightly in the trees
As might a robin : all is ease,
With pledge of ampler ease to spare.

Repose fills all the generous space
Of undulant plain ; the rook and crow
Hush ; 't is as if a silent grace,
By Nature murmured, calmed the face
Of Heaven above and Earth below.

From past and future toils I rest,
One Sabbath pacifies my year ;
I am the halcyon, this my nest ;
And all is safely for the best
While the World's there and I am here.

So I turn tory for the nonce,
And think the radical a bore,
Who cannot see, thick-witted dunce,
That what was good for people once
Must be as good forevermore.

Sun, sink no deeper down the sky ;
Earth, never change this summer mood ;
Breeze, loiter thus forever by,
Stir the dead leaf or let it lie :
Since I am happy, all is good.

MIDDLETON, August, 1884.

ON BURNING SOME OLD LETTERS.

WITH what odorous woods and spices
Spared for royal sacrifices,
With what costly gums seld-seen,
Hoarded to embalm a queen,
With what frankincense and myrrh,
Burn these precious parts of her,
Full of life and light and sweetness
As a summer day's completeness,
Joy of sun and song of bird
Running wild in every word,
Full of all the superhuman
Grace and winsomeness of woman?

O'er these leaves her wrist has slid,
Thrilled with veins where fire is hid
'Neath the skin's pellucid veil,
Like the opal's passion pale ;
This her breath hath sweetened ; this Still seems trembling with the kiss
She half-ventured on my name,
Brow and cheek and throat aflame ;
Over all caressing lies
Sunshine left there by her eyes ;
From them all an effluence rare

With her nearness fills the air,
Till the murmur I half-hear
Of her light feet drawing near.

Rarest woods were coarse and rough,
Sweetest spice not sweet enough,
Too impure all earthly fire
For this sacred funeral-pyre ;
These rich relics must suffice
For their own dear sacrifice.

Seek we first an altar fit
For such victims laid on it :
It shall be this slab brought home
In old happy days from Rome, —
Lazuli, once blest to line
Dian's inmost cell and shrine.
Gently now I lay them there,
Pure as Dian's forehead bare,
Yet suffused with warmer hue,
Such as only Latmos knew.

Fire I gather from the sun
In a virgin lens : 't is done !
Mount the flames, red, yellow, blue,
As her moods were shining through,
Of the moment's impulse born, —
Moods of sweetness, playful scorn,
Half defiance, half surrender,
More than cruel, more than tender,

Flouts, caresses, sunshine, shade,
Gracious doublings of a maid
Infinite in guileless art,
Playing hide-peek with her heart.

On the altar now, alas,
There they lie a crinkling mass,
Writhing still, as if with grief
Went the life from every leaf ;
Then (heart-breaking palimpsest !)
Vanishing ere wholly guessed,
Suddenly some lines flash back,
Traced in lightning on the black,
And confess, till now denied,
All the fire they strove to hide.
What they told me, sacred trust,
Stays to glorify my dust,
There to burn through dusk and damp
Like a mage's deathless lamp,
While an atom of this frame
Lasts to feed the dainty flame.

All is ashes now, but they
In my soul are laid away,
And their radiance round me hovers
Soft as moonlight over lovers,
Shutting her and me alone
In dream-Edens of our own ;
First of lovers to invent
Love, and teach men what it meant.

THE PROTEST.

I COULD not bear to see those eyes
On all with wasteful largesse shine,
And that delight of welcome rise
Like sunshine strained through amber wine,
But that a glow from deeper skies,
From conscious fountains more divine,
Is (is it?) mine.

Be beautiful to all mankind,
As Nature fashioned thee to be ;
'T would anger me did all not find
The sweet perfection that 's in thee :
Yet keep one charm of charms behind, —
Nay, thou 'rt so rich, keep two or three
For (is it?) me !

THE PETITION.

Oh, tell me less or tell me more,
Soft eyes with mystery at the core,
That always seem to meet my own
Frankly as pansies fully blown,
Yet waver still 'tween no and yes!

So swift to cavil and deny,
Then parley with concessions shy,
Dear eyes, that share their youth with mine
And through my inmost shadows shine,
Oh, tell me more or tell me less!

FACT OR FANCY?

IN town I hear, scarce wakened yet,
My neighbor's clock behind the wall
Record the day's increasing debt,
And Cuckoo! Cuckoo! faintly call.

Our senses run in deepening grooves,
Thrown out of which they lose their tact,
And consciousness with effort moves
From habit past to present fact.

So, in the country waked to-day,
I hear, unwitting of the change,
A cuckoo's throb from far away
Begin to strike, nor think it strange.

The sound creates its wonted frame:
My bed at home, the songster hid
Behind the wainscoting, — all came
As long association bid.

I count to learn how late it is,
Until, arrived at thirty-four,
I question, "What strange world is this Whose lavish hours would make me poor?"

Cuckoo! Cuckoo! Still on it went,
With hints of mockery in its tone;
How could such hoards of time be spent
By one poor mortal's wit alone?

I have it! Grant, ye kindly Powers,
I from this spot may never stir,
If only these uncounted hours
May pass, and seem too short, with Her!

But who She is, her form and face,
These to the world of dream belong;
She moves through fancy's visioned space,
Unbodied, like the cuckoo's song.

AGRO-DOLCE.

ONE kiss from all others prevents me,
And sets all my pulses astir,
And burns on my lips and torments me :
'T is the kiss that I fain would give her.

One kiss for all others requites me,
Although it is never to be,
And sweetens my dreams and invites me :
'T is the kiss that she dare not give me.

Ah, could it be mine, it were sweeter
Than honey bees garner in dream,
Though its bliss on my lips were fleeter
Than a swallow's dip to the stream.

And yet, thus denied, it can never
In the prose of life vanish away ;
O'er my lips it must hover forever,
The sunshine and shade of my day.

THE BROKEN TRYST.

WALKING alone where we walked together,
When June was breezy and blue,
I watch in the gray autumnal weather
The leaves fall inconstant as you.

If a dead leaf startle behind me,
I think 't is your garment's hem,
And, oh, where no memory could find me,
Might I whirl away with them !

CASA SIN ALMA.

RECUERDO DE MADRID.

SILENCIOSO por la puerta
Voy de su casa desierta
Do siempre feliz entré,
Y la encuentro en vano abierta
Cual la boca de una muerta
Despues que el alma se fué.

A CHRISTMAS CAROL.

FOR THE SUNDAY-SCHOOL CHILDREN OF THE CHURCH OF THE DISCIPLES.

“WHAT means this glory round our feet,”
The Magi mused, “more bright than morn?”
And voices chanted clear and sweet,
“To-day the Prince of Peace is born!”

“What means that star,” the Shepherds said,
“That brightens through the rocky glen?”
And angels, answering overhead,
Sang, “Peace on earth, good-will to men!”

'T is eighteen hundred years and more
Since those sweet oracles were dumb;
We wait for Him, like them of yore;
Alas, He seems so slow to come!

But it was said, in words of gold
No time or sorrow e'er shall dim,
That little children might be bold
In perfect trust to come to Him.

All round about our feet shall shine
A light like that the wise men saw,

If we our loving wills incline
To that sweet Life which is the Law.

So shall we learn to understand
The simple faith of shepherds then,
And, clasping kindly hand in hand,
Sing, "Peace on earth, good-will to men!"

And they who do their souls no wrong,
But keep at eve the faith of morn,
Shall daily hear the angel-song,
"To-day the Prince of Peace is born!"

MY PORTRAIT GALLERY.

OFT round my hall of portraiture I gaze,
By Memory reared, the artist wise and holy,
From stainless quarries of deep-buried days.
There, as I muse in soothing melancholy,
Your faces glow in more than mortal youth,
Companions of my prime, now vanished wholly,
The loud, impetuous boy, the low-voiced maiden.
Ah, never master that drew mortal breath
Can match thy portraits, just and generous Death,
Whose brush with sweet regretful tints is laden !
Thou paintest that which struggled here below
Half understood, or understood for woe,
And with a sweet forewarning
Mak'st round the sacred front an aureole glow
Woven of that light that rose on Easter morning.

PAOLO TO FRANCESCA.

I WAS with thee in Heaven : I cannot tell
If years or moments, so the sudden bliss,
When first we found, then lost, us in a kiss,
Abolished Time, abolished Earth and Hell,
Left only Heaven. Then from our blue there fell
The dagger's flash, and did not fall amiss,
For nothing now can rob my life of this, —
That once with thee in Heaven, all else is well.
Us, undivided when man's vengeance came,
God's half-forgives that doth not here divide ;
And, were this bitter whirl-blast fanged with flame,
To me 't were summer, we being side by side :
This granted, I God's mercy will not blame,
For, given thy nearness, nothing is denied.

Scottish Border.

As sinks the sun behind yon alien hills
Whose heather-purpled slopes, in glory rolled,
Flush all my thought with momentary gold,
What pang of vague regret my fancy thrills?
Here 't is enchanted ground the peasant tills,
Where the shy ballad dared its blooms unfold,
And memory's glamour makes new sights seem
old,

As when our life some vanished dream fulfils.
Yet not to thee belong these painless tears,
Land loved ere seen : before my darkened eyes,
From far beyond the waters and the years,
Horizons mute that wait their poet rise ;
The stream before me fades and disappears,
And in the Charles the western splendor dies.

SONNET.

On being asked for an Autograph in Venice.

AMID these fragments of heroic days
When thought met deed with mutual passion's leap,
There sits a Fame whose silent trump makes cheap
What short-lived rumor of ourselves we raise.
They had far other estimate of praise
Who stamped the signet of their souls so deep
In art and action, and whose memories keep
Their height like stars above our misty ways :
In this grave presence to record my name Something within me hangs the head and shrinks.
Dull were the soul without some joy in fame ;
Yet here to claim remembrance were, methinks,
Like him who, in the desert's awful frame,
Notches his cockney initials on the Sphinx.

THE DANCING BEAR.

FAR over Elf-land poets stretch their sway,
And win their dearest crowns beyond the goal
Of their own conscious purpose; they control
With gossamer threads wide-flown our fancy's play,

And so our action. On my walk to-day,
A wallowing bear begged clumsily his toll,
When straight a vision rose of Atta Troll,
And scenes ideal witch'd mine eyes away.
“Merci, Mossieu!” the astonished bear-ward cried,

Grateful for thrice his hope to me, the slave
Of partial memory, seeing at his side
A bear immortal. The glad dole I gave
Was none of mine; poor Heine o'er the wide
Atlantic welter reached it from his grave.

THE MAPLE.

THE Maple puts her corals on in May,
While loitering frosts about the lowlands cling,
To be in tune with what the robins sing,
Plastering new log-huts 'mid her branches gray ;
But when the Autumn southward turns away,
Then in her veins burns most the blood of Spring,
And every leaf, intensely blossoming,
Makes the year's sunset pale the set of day.

O Youth unprecient, were it only so
With trees you plant, and in whose shade reclined,
Thinking their drifting blooms Fate's coldest snow !

You carve dear names upon the faithful rind,
Nor in that vernal stem the cross foreknow
That Age shall bear, silent, yet unresigned !

NIGHTWATCHES.

WHILE the slow clock, as they were miser's gold,
Counts and recounts the mornward steps of Time,
The darkness thrills with conscience of each crime

By Death committed, daily grown more bold.
Once more the list of all my wrongs is told,
And ghostly hands stretch to me from my prime Helpless farewells, as from an alien clime ;
For each new loss redoubles all the old.
This morn 't was May ; the blossoms were astir
With southern wind ; but now the boughs are bent

With snow instead of birds, and all things freeze.
How much of all my past is dumb with her,
And of my future, too, for with her went
Half of that world I ever cared to please !

DEATH OF QUEEN MERCEDES.

HERS all that Earth could promise or bestow, —
Youth, Beauty, Love, a crown, the beckoning
years,

Lids never wet, unless with joyous tears,

A life remote from every sordid woe,

And by a nation's swelled to lordlier flow.

What lurking-place, thought we, for doubts or fears,

When, the day's swan, she swam along the cheers

Of the Alcalá, five happy months ago?

The guns were shouting Io Hymen then

That, on her birthday, now denounce her doom ;

The same white steeds that tossed their scorn of men

To-day as proudly drag her to the tomb.

Grim jest of fate ! Yet who dare call it blind,

Knowing what life is, what our humankind ?

PRISON OF CERVANTES.

SEAT of all woes ! Though Nature's firm decree
The narrowing soul with narrowing dungeon bind,
Yet was his free of motion as the wind,
And held both worlds, of spirit and sense, in fee.
In charmed communion with his dual mind
He wandered Spain, himself both knight and hind, Redressing wrongs he knew must ever be.
His humor wise could see life's long deceit,
Man's baffled aims, nor therefore both despise ;
His knightly nature could ill fortune greet
Like an old friend. Whose ever such kind eyes
That pierced so deep, such scope, save his whose feet
By Avon ceased 'neath the same April's skies ?

TO A LADY PLAYING ON THE CITH-ERN.

So dreamy-soft the notes, so far away
They seem to fall, the horns of Oberon Blow their faint Hunt's-up from the good-time gone ;

Or, on a morning of long-withered May,
Larks tinkle unseen o'er Claudian arches gray,
That Romeward crawl from Dreamland ; and anon

My fancy flings her cloak of Darkness on,
To vanish from the dungeon of To-day.
In happier times and scenes I seem to be,
And, as her fingers flutter o'er the strings,
The days return when I was young as she,
And my fledged thoughts began to feel their wings

With all Heaven's blue before them : Memory
Or Music is it such enchantment sings ?

THE EYE'S TREASURY.

GOLD of the reddening sunset, backward thrown
In largess on my tall paternal trees,
Thou with false hope or fear didst never tease
His heart that hoards thee ; nor is childhood flown
From him whose life no fairer boon hath known
Than that what pleased him earliest still should please.

And who hath incomes safe from chance as these,
Gone in a moment, yet for life his own ?
All other gold is slave of earthward laws ;
This to the deeps of ether takes its flight,
And on the topmost leaves makes glorious pause
Of parting pathos ere it yield to night :
So linger, as from me earth's light withdraws,
Dear touch of Nature, tremulously bright !

PESSIMOPTIMISM.

YE little think what toil it was to build
A world of men imperfect even as this,
Where we conceive of Good by what we miss,
Of Ill by that wherewith best days are filled ;
A world whose every atom is self-willed,
Whose corner-stone is propt on artifice,
Whose joy is shorter-lived than woman's kiss,
Whose wisdom hoarded is but to be spilled.
Yet this is better than a life of caves,
Whose highest art was scratching on a bone,
Or chipping toilsome arrowheads of flint ;
Better, though doomed to hear while Cleon raves,
To see wit's want eterned in paint or stone,
And wade the drain-drenched shoals of daily print.

THE BRAKES.

WHAT countless years and wealth of brain were spent

To bring us hither from our caves and huts,
And trace through pathless wilds the deep-worn ruts

Of faith and habit, by whose deep indent
Prudence may guide if genius be not lent, —
Genius, not always happy when it shuts
Its ears against the plodder's ifs and buts,
Hoping in one rash leap to snatch the event.
The coursers of the sun, whose hoofs of flame
Consume morn's misty threshold, are exact
As bankers' clerks, and all this star-poised frame,
One swerve allowed, were with convulsion rackt ;
This world were doctmed, should Dulness fail, to tame

Wit's feathered heels in the stern stocks of fact.

A FOREBODING.

WHAT were the whole void world, if thou wert
dead,

Whose briefest absence can eclipse my day,
And make the hours that danced with Time away
Drag their funereal steps with muffled head?

Through thee, meseems, the very rose is red,
From thee the violet steals its breath in May,
From thee draw life all things that grow not gray,
And by thy force the happy stars are sped.

Thou near, the hope of thee to overflow
Fills all my earth and heaven, as when in Spring,
Ere April come, the birds and blossoms know,
And grasses brighten round her feet to cling;
Nay, and this hope delights all nature so
That the dumb turf I tread on seems to sing.

III.
FANCY.

UNDER THE OCTOBER MAPLES.

WHAT mean these banners spread,
These paths with royal red
So gaily carpeted?
Comes there a prince to-day?
Such footing were too fine
For feet less argentine
Than Dian's own or thine,
Queen whom my tides obey.

Surely for thee are meant
These hues so orient
That with a sultan's tent
Each tree invites the sun ;
Our Earth such homage pays,
So decks her dusty ways,
And keeps such holidays,
For one, and only one.

My brain shapes form and face,
Throbs with the rhythmic grace
And cadence of her pace
To all fine instincts true ;

Her footsteps, as they pass,
Than moonbeams over grass
Fall lighter, — and, alas,
More insubstantial too !

LOVE'S CLOCK.

A PASTORAL.

DAPHNIS waiting.

“ O DRYAD feet,
Be doubly fleet,
Timed to my heart's expectant beat
While I await her !
'At four,' vowed she ;
'T is scarcely three,
Yet by my time it seems to be
A good hour later ! ”

CHLOE.

“ Bid me not stay !
Hear reason, pray !
'T is striking six ! Sure never day
Was short as this is ! ”

DAPHNIS.

“ Reason nor rhyme
Is in the chime !
It can't be five ; I 've scarce had time
To beg two kisses ! ”

BOTH.

“ Early or late,
When lovers wait,
And Love's watch gains, if Time a gait
So snail-like chooses,
Why should his feet
Become more fleet
Than cowards' are, when lovers meet
And Love's watch loses ? ”

ELEANOR MAKES MACAROONS.

LIGHT of triumph in her eyes,
Eleanor her apron ties ;
As she pushes back her sleeves,
High resolve her bosom heaves.
Hasten, cook ! impel the fire
To the pace of her desire ;
As you hope to save your soul,
Bring a virgin casserole,
Brightest bring of silver spoons, —
Eleanor makes macaroons !

Almond-blossoms, now adance
In the smile of Southern France,
Leave your sport with sun and breeze,
Think of duty, not of ease ;
Fashion, 'neath their jerkins brown,
Kernels white as thistle-down,
Tiny cheeses made with cream
From the Galaxy's mid-stream,
Blanched in light of honeymoons, —
Eleanor makes macaroons !

Now for sugar, — nay, our plan
Tolerates no work of man.

Hurry, then, ye golden bees ;
Fetch your clearest honey, please,
Garnered on a Yorkshire moor,
While the last larks sing and soar,
From the heather-blossoms sweet
Where sea-breeze and sunshine meet,
And the Augusts mask as Junes, —
Eleanor makes macaroons !

Next the pestle and mortar find,
Pure rock-crystal, — these to grind
Into paste more smooth than silk,
Whiter than the milkweed's milk :
Spread it on a rose-leaf, thus,
Cate to please Theocritus ;
Then the fire with spices swell,
While, for her completer spell,
Mystic canticles she croons, —
Eleanor makes macaroons !

Perfect ! and all this to waste
On a graybeard's palsied taste !
Poets so their verses write,
Heap them full of life and light,
And then fling them to the rude
Mumbling of the multitude.
Not so dire her fate as theirs,
Since her friend this gift declares
Choicest of his birthday boons, —
Eleanor's dear macaroons !

February 22, 1884.

TELEPATHY.

“ AND how could you dream of meeting ? ”

Nay, how can you ask me, sweet ?
All day my pulse had been beating
The tune of your coming feet.

And as nearer and ever nearer
I felt the throb of your tread,
To be in the world grew dearer,
And my blood ran rosier red.

Love called, and I could not linger,
But sought the forbidden tryst,
As music follows the finger
Of the dreaming lutanist.

And though you had said it and said it,
“ We must not be happy to-day,”
Was I not wiser to credit
The fire in my feet than your Nay ?

SCHERZO.

WHEN the down is on the chin
And the gold-gleam in the hair,
When the birds their sweethearts win
And champagne is in the air,
Love is here, and Love is there,
Love is welcome everywhere.

Summer's cheek too soon turns thin,
Days grow briefer, sunshine rare ;
Autumn from his cannekin
Blows the froth to chase Despair :
Love is met with frosty stare,
Cannot house 'neath branches bare.

When new red is in the rose
And new life is in the leaf,
Though Love's Maytime be as brief
As a dragon-fly's repose,
Never moments come like those,
Be they Heaven or Hell : who knows ?

All too soon comes Winter's grief,
Spendthrift Love's false friends turn foes ;

Softly comes Old Age, the thief,
Steals the rapture, leaves the throes :
Love his mantle round him throws, —
“Time to say Good-bye ; it snows.”

COGITAVIT.”

THAT 's a rather bold speech, my Lord Bacon,
For, indeed, is 't so easy to know
Just how much we from others have taken,
And how much our own natural flow ?

Since your mind bubbled up at its fountain,
How many streams made it elate,
While it calmed to the plain from the mountain,
As every mind must that grows great ?

While you thought 't was You thinking as newly
As Adam still wet with God's dew,
You forgot in your self-pride that truly
The whole Past was thinking through you.

Greece, Rome, nay, your namesake, old Roger,
With Truth's nameless delvers who wrought
In the dark mines of Truth, helped to prod your Fine brain with the goad of their thought.

As mummy was prized for a rich hue
The painter no elsewhere could find,
So 't was buried men's thinking with which you
Gave the ripe mellow tone to your mind.

I heard the proud strawberry saying,
“Only look what a ruby I’ve made!”
It forgot how the bees in their maying
Had brought it the stuff for its trade.

And yet there’s the half of a truth in it,
And my Lord might his copyright sue;
For a thought’s his who kindles new youth in it,
Or so puts it as makes it more true.

The birds but repeat without ending
The same old traditional notes,
Which some, by more happily blending,
Seem to make over new in their throats;

And we men through our old bit of song run,
Until one just improves on the rest,
And we call a thing his, in the long run,
Who utters it clearest and best.

AUSPEX.

MY heart, I cannot still it,
Nest that had song-birds in it ;
And when the last shall go,
The dreary days, to fill it,
Instead of lark or linnet,
Shall whirl dead leaves and snow.

Had they been swallows only,
Without the passion stronger
That skyward longs and sings, —
Woe's me, I shall be lonely
When I can feel no longer
The impatience of their wings !

A moment, sweet delusion,
Like birds the brown leaves hover ;
But it will not be long
Before their wild confusion
Fall wavering down to cover
The poet and his song.

THE PREGNANT COMMENT.

OPENING one day a book of mine,
I absent, Hester found a line
Praised with a pencil-mark, and this
She left transfigured with a kiss.

When next upon the page I chance,
Like Poussin's nymphs my pulses dance,
And whirl my fancy where it sees
Pan piping 'neath Arcadian trees,
Whose leaves no winter-scenes rehearse,
Still young and glad as Homer's verse.
“What mean,” I ask, “these sudden joys?
This feeling fresher than a boy's?
What makes this line, familiar long,
New as the first bird's April song?
I could, with sense illumined thus,
Clear doubtful texts in Æschylus!”

Laughing, one day she gave the key,
My riddle's open-sesame;
Then added, with a smile demure,
Whose downcast lids veiled triumph sure,
“If what I left there give you pain,
You — you — can take it off again;

'T was for my poet, not for him,
Your Doctor Donne there !”

Earth grew dim
And wavered in a golden mist,
As rose, not paper, leaves I kissed.
Donne, you forgive ? I let you keep
Her preciqus comment, poet deep.

THE LESSON.

I SAT and watched the walls of night
With cracks of sudden lightning glow,
And listened while with clumsy might
The thunder wallowed to and fro.

The rain fell softly now ; the squall,
That to a torrent drove the trees,
Had whirled beyond us to let fall
Its tumult on the whitening seas.

But still the lightning crinkled keen,
Or fluttered fitful from behind
The leaden drifts, then only seen,
That rumbled eastward on the wind.

Still as gloom followed after glare,
While bated breath the pine-trees drew,
Tiny Salmoneus of the air,
His mimic bolts the firefly threw.

He thought, no doubt, " Those flashes grand,
That light for leagues the shuddering sky,
Are made, a fool could understand,
By some superior kind of fly.

“ He ’s of our race’s elder branch
His family-arms the same as ours,
Both born the twy-forked flame to launch,
Of kindred, if unequal, powers.”

And is man wiser ? Man who takes
His consciousness the law to be
Of all beyond his ken, and makes
God but a bigger kind of Me ?

SCIENCE AND POETRY.

HE who first stretched his nerves of subtile wire
Over the land and through the sea-depths still,
Thought only of the flame-winged messenger
As a dull drudge that should encircle earth
With sordid messages of Trade, and tame
Blithe Ariel to a bagman. But the Muse
Not long will be defrauded. From her foe
Her misused wand she snatches ; at a touch,
The Age of Wonder is renewed again,
And to our disencharmed day restores
The Shoes of Swiftmess that give odds to Thought,
The Cloak that makes invisible ; and with these
I glide, an airy fire, from shore to shore,
Or from my Cambridge whisper to Cathay.

A NEW YEAR'S GREETING.

THE century numbers fourscore years ;
You, fortified in your teens,
To Time's alarms close your ears,
And, while he devastates your peers,
Conceive not what he means.

If e'er life's winter fleck with snow
Your hair's deep shadowed bowers,
That winsome head an art would know
To make it charm, and wear it so
As 't were a wreath of flowers.

If to such fairies years must come,
May yours fall soft and slow
As, shaken by a bee's low hum,
The rose-leaves waver, sweetly dumb,
Down to their mates below !

THE DISCOVERY.

I WATCHED a moorland torrent run
Down through the rift itself had made,
Golden as honey in the sun,
Of darkest amber in the shade.

In this wild glen at last, methought,
The magic's secret I surprise ;
Here Celia's guardian fairy caught
The changeful splendors of her eyes.

All else grows tame, the sky's one blue,
The one long languish of the rose,
But these, beyond prevision new,
Shall charm and startle to the close.

WITH A SEASHELL.

SHELL, whose lips, than mine more cold,
Might with Dian's ear make bold,
Seek my Lady's; if thou win
To that portal, shut from sin,
Where commissioned angels' swords
Startle back unholy words,
Thou a miracle shalt see
Wrought by it and wrought in thee;
Thou, the dumb one, shalt recover
Speech of poet, speech of lover.
If she deign to lift you there,
Murmur what I may not dare;
In that archway, pearly-pink
As the Dawn's untrodden brink,
Murmur, "Excellent and good,
Beauty's best in every mood,
Never common, never tame,
Changeful fair as windwaved flame" —
Nay, I maunder; this she hears
Every day with mocking ears,
With a brow not sudden-stained
With the flush of bliss restrained,
With no tremor of the pulse
More than feels the dreaming dulse

In the midmost ocean's caves,
When a tempest heaps the waves.
Thou must woo her in a phrase
Mystic as the opal's blaze,
Which pure maids alone can see
When their lovers constant be.
I with thee a secret share,
Half a hope, and half a prayer,
Though no reach of mortal skill
Ever told it all, or will ;
Say, " He bids me — nothing more —
Tell you what you guessed before ! "

THE SECRET.

I HAVE a fancy : how shall I bring it
Home to all mortals wherever they be?
Say it or sing it? Shoe it or wing it,
So it may outrun or outfly ME,
Merest cocoon-web whence it broke free?

Only one secret can save from disaster,
Only one magic is that of the Master :
Set it to music ; give it a tune, —
Tune the brook sings you, tune the breeze brings
    you,
Tune the wild columbines nod to in June !

This is the secret : so simple, you see !
Easy as loving, easy as kissing,
Easy as — well, let me ponder — as missing,
Known, since the world was, by scarce two or three.

HUMOR AND SATIRE.

FITZ ADAM'S STORY.

[The greater part of this poem was written many years ago as part of a larger one, to be called "The Nooning," made up of tales in verse, some of them grave, some comic. It gives me a sad pleasure to remember that I was encouraged in this project by my friend the late Arthur Hugh Clough.]

THE next whose fortune 't was a tale to tell
Was one whom men, before they thought, loved well,
And after thinking wondered why they did,
For half he seemed to let them, half forbid,
And wrapped him so in humors, sheath on sheath,
'T was hard to guess the mellow soul beneath;
But, once divined, you took him to your heart,
While he appeared to bear with you as part
Of life's impertinence, and once a year
Betrayed his true self by a smile or tear,
Or rather something sweetly-shy and loath,
Withdrawn ere fully shown, and mixed of both.
A cynic? Not precisely: one who thrust
Against a heart too prone to love and trust,
Who so despised false sentiment he knew
Scarce in himself to part the false and true,
And strove to hide, by roughening-o'er the skin,

Those cobweb nerves he could not dull within.
Gentle by birth, but of a stem decayed,
He shunned life's rivalries and hated trade ;
On a small patrimony and larger pride,
He lived uneaseful on the Other Side
(So he called Europe), only coming West
To give his Old-World appetite new zest ;
Yet still the New World spooked it in his veins,
A ghost he could not lay with all his pains ;
For never Pilgrims' offshoot scapes control
Of those old instincts that have shaped his soul.
A radical in thought, he puffed away
With shrewd contempt the dust of usage gray,
Yet loathed democracy as one who saw,
In what he longed to love, some vulgar flaw,
And, shocked through all his delicate reserves,
Remained a Tory by his taste and nerves.
His fancy's thrall, he drew all ergoes thence,
And thought himself the type of common sense ;
Misliking women, not from cross or whim,
But that his mother shared too much in him,
And he half felt that what in them was grace
Made the unlucky weakness of his race.
What powers he had he hardly cared to know,
But sauntered through the world as through a show ;
A critic fine in his haphazard way,
A sort of mild La Bruyère on half-pay.
For comic weaknesses he had an eye
Keen as an acid for an alkali,

Yet you could feel, through his sardonic tone,
He loved them all, unless they were his own.
You might have called him, with his humorous twist,

A kind of human entomologist:
As these bring home, from every walk they take,
Their hat-crowns stuck with bugs of curious make,

So he filled all the lining of his head
With characters impaled and ticketed,
And had a cabinet behind his eyes
For all they caught of mortal oddities.
He might have been a poet — many worse —
But that he had, or feigned, contempt of verse;
Called it tattooing language, and held rhymes
The young world's lullaby of ruder times.
Bitter in words, too indolent for gall,
He satirized himself the first of all,
In men and their affairs could find no law,
And was the ill logic that he thought he saw.

Scratching a match to light his pipe anew,
With eyes half shut some musing whiffs he drew,
And thus began: "I give you all my word,
I think this mock-Decameron absurd;
Boccaccio's garden! how bring that to pass
In our bleak clime save under double glass?
The moral east-wind of New England life
Would snip its gay luxuriance like a knife;
Mile-deep the glaciers brooded here, they say,

Through æons numb ; we feel their chill to-day.
 These foreign plants are but half-hardy still,
 Die on a south, and on a north wall chill.
 Had we stayed Puritans ! They had some heat,
 (Though whence derived I have my own conceit,)

But you have long ago raked up their fires ;
 Where they had faith, you 've ten sham-Gothic spires.

Why more exotics ? Try your native vines,
 And in some thousand years you may have wines ;

Your present grapes are harsh, all pulps and skins,

And want traditions of ancestral bins
 That saved for evenings round the polished board
 Old lava-fires, the sun-steeped hillside's hoard.
 Without a Past, you lack that southern wall
 O'er which the vines of Poesy should crawl ;
 Still they 're your only hope ; no midnight oil
 Makes up for virtue wanting in the soil ;
 Manure them well and prune them ; 't won't be France,

Nor Spain, nor Italy, but there 's your chance.
 You have one story-teller worth a score
 Of dead Boccaccios, — nay, add twenty more, —
 A hawthorn asking spring's most dainty breath,
 And him you 're freezing pretty well to death.
 However, since you say so, I will tease
 My memory to a story by degrees,

Though you will cry, 'Enough!' I'm wellnigh sure,

Ere I have dreamed through half my overture.
Stories were good for men who had no books,
(Fortunate race!) and built their nests like rooks
In lonely towers, to which the Jongleur brought His pedler's-box of cheap and tawdry thought,
With here and there a fancy fit to see
Wrought to quaint grace in golden filigree, —
Some ring that with the Muse's finger yet
Is warm, like Aucassin and Nicolette;
The morning newspaper has spoilt his trade,
(For better or for worse, I leave unsaid,)
And stories now, to suit a public nice,
Must be half epigram, half pleasant vice.

“All tourists know Shebagog County: there
The summer idlers take their yearly stare,
Dress to see Nature in a well-bred way,
As 't were Italian opera, or play,
Encore the sunrise (if they're out of bed),
And pat the Mighty Mother on the head:
These have I seen, — all things are good to see, —
And wondered much at their complacency.
This world's great show, that took in getting-up
Millions of years, they finish ere they sup;
Sights that God gleams through with soul-tingling force
They glance approvingly as things of course,
Say, 'That's a grand rock,' 'This a pretty fall,'

Not thinking, 'Are we worthy?' What if all
The scornful landscape should turn round and say,

'This is a fool, and that a popinjay'?

I often wonder what the Mountain thinks
Of French boots creaking o'er his breathless brinks,

Or how the Sun would scare the chattering crowd,
If some fine day he chanced to think aloud.

I, who love Nature much as sinners can,
Love her where she most grandeur shows,—in man :

Here find I mountain, forest, cloud, and sun,
River and sea, and glows when day is done ;
Nay, where she makes grotesques, and moulds in jest

The clown's cheap clay, I find unfading zest.
The natural instincts year by year retire,
As deer shrink northward from the settler's fire,
And he who loves the wild game-flavor more
Than city-feasts, where every man 's a bore
To every other man, must seek it where
The steamer's throb and railway's iron blare
Have not yet startled with their punctual stir
The shy, wood-wandering brood of Character.

"There is a village, once the county town,
Through which the weekly mail rolled dustily down,

Where the courts sat, it may be, twice a year,

And the one tavern reeked with rustic cheer ;
 Cheeshogquesumscot erst, now Jethro hight,
 Red-man and pale-face bore it equal spite.
 The railway ruined it, the natives say,
 That passed unwisely fifteen miles away,
 And made a drain to which, with steady ooze,
 Filtered away law, stage-coach, trade, and news.
 The railway saved it; so at least think those Who love old ways, old houses, old repose.
 Of course the Tavern stayed: its genial host
 Thought not of flitting more than did the post
 On which high-hung the fading signboard creaks,
 Inscribed, 'The Eagle Inn, by Ezra Weeks.'

“ If in life's journey you should ever find
 An inn medicinal for body and mind,
 'T is sure to be some drowsy-looking house
 Whose easy landlord has a bustling spouse:
 He, if he like you, will not long forego
 Some bottle deep in cobwebbed dust laid low,
 That, since the War we used to call the 'Last,'
 Has dozed and held its lang-syne memories fast;
 From him exhales that Indian-summer air
 Of hazy, lazy welcome everywhere,
 While with her toil the napery is white,
 The china dustless, the keen knife-blades bright,
 Salt dry as sand, and bread that seems as though
 'T were rather sea-foam baked than vulgar dough.

“ In our swift country, houses trim and white
 Are pitched like tents, the lodging of a night ;

Each on its bank of baked turf mounted high
Perches impatient o'er the roadside dry,
While the wronged landscape coldly stands aloof,
Refusing friendship with the upstart roof.
Not so the Eagle; on a grass-green swell
That toward the south with sweet concessions fell
It dwelt retired, and half had grown to be
As aboriginal as rock or tree.

It nestled close to earth, and seemed to brood
O'er homely thoughts in a half-conscious mood,
As by the peat that rather fades than burns
The smouldering grandam nods and knits by turns,

Happy, although her newest news were old
Ere the first hostile drum at Concord rolled.
If paint it e'er had known, it knew no more
Than yellow lichens spattered thickly o'er
That soft lead-gray, less dark beneath the eaves
Which the slow brush of wind and weather leaves.
The ample roof sloped backward to the ground,
And vassal lean-tos gathered thickly round,
Patched on, as sire or son had felt the need,
Like chance growths sprouting from the old
roof's seed,

Just as about a yellow-pine-tree spring
Its rough-barked darlings in a filial ring.
But the great chimney was the central thought
Whose gravitation through the cluster wrought;
For 't is not styles far-fetched from Greece or Rome,

But just the Fireside, that can make a home ;
None of your spindling things of modern style,
Like pins stuck through to stay the card-built pile,
It rose broad-shouldered, kindly, debonair,
Its warm breath whitening in the October air,
While on its front a heart in outline showed
The place it filled in that serene abode.

“ When first I chanced the Eagle to explore,
Ezra sat listless by the open door ;
One chair careened him at an angle meet,
Another nursed his hugely-slippered feet ;
Upon a third reposed a shirt-sleeved arm,
And the whole man diffused tobacco's charm.
' Are you the landlord ? ' ' Wahl, I guess I be,'
Watching the smoke, he answered leisurely.
He was a stoutish man, and through the breast
Of his loose shirt there showed a brambly chest ;
Streaked redly as a wind-foreboding morn,
His tanned cheeks curved to temples closely shorn ;
Clean-shaved he was, save where a hedge of gray
Upon his brawny throat leaned every way
About an Adam's-apple, that beneath
Bulged like a boulder from a brambly heath.
The Western World's true child and nursling he,
Equipt with aptitudes enough for three :
No eye like his to value horse or cow,
Or gauge the contents of a stack or mow ;
He could foretell the weather at a word,
He knew the haunt of every beast and bird,

Or where a two-pound trout was sure to lie,
 Waiting the flutter of his home-made fly ;
 Nay, once in autumns five, he had the luck
 To drop at fair-play range a ten-tined buck ;
 Of sportsmen true he favored every whim,
 But never cockney found a guide in him ;
 A natural man, with all his instincts fresh,
 Not buzzing helpless in Reflection's mesh,
 Firm on its feet stood his broad-shouldered mind,
 As bluffly honest as a northwest wind ;
 Hard-headed and soft-hearted, you 'd scarce meet
 A kindlier mixture of the shrewd and sweet ;
 Generous by birth, and ill at saying ' No,'
 Yet in a bargain he was all men's foe,
 Would yield no inch of vantage in a trade,
 And give away ere nightfall all he made.

“ ‘ Can I have lodging here ? ’ once more I said.
 He blew a whiff, and, leaning back his head,
 ‘ You come a piece through Bailey's woods, I s'pose,
 Across a bridge where a big swamp-oak grows ?
 It don't grow, neither ; it 's ben dead ten year,
 Nor th' ain't a livin' erectur, fur nor near,
 Can tell wut killed it ; but I some misdoubt
 'T was borers, there 's sech heaps on 'em about.
 You did n' chance to run ag'inst my son,
 A long, slab-sided youngster with a gun ?
 He 'd oughto ben back more 'n an hour ago,
 An' brought some birds to dress for supper — sho !

There he comes now. 'Say, Obed, wut ye got?
 (He 'll hev some upland plover like as not.)
 Wal, them 's real nice uns, an 'll eat A 1,
 Ef I can stop their bein' over-done ;
 Nothin' riles me (I pledge my fastin' word)
 Like cookin' out the natur' of a bird ;
 (Obed, you pick 'em out o' sight an' sound,
 Your ma'am don't love no feathers cluttrin' round ;) )
 Jes' scare 'em with the coals, — thet 's my idee.'
 Then, turning suddenly about on me,
 'Wal, Square, I guess so. Callilate to stay?
 I 'll ask Mis' Weeks ; 'bout thet it's hern to say.'

“ Well, there I lingered all October through,
 In that sweet atmosphere of hazy blue,
 So leisurely, so soothing, so forgiving,
 That sometimes makes New England fit for living.

I watched the landscape, erst so granite glum,
 Bloom like the south side of a ripening plum,
 And each rock-maple on the hillside make
 His ten days' sunset doubled in the lake ;
 The very stone walls draggling up the hills
 Seemed touched, and wavered in their roundhead wills.

Ah ! there 's a deal of sugar in the sun !
 Tap me in Indian summer, I should run
 A juice to make rock-candy of, — but then
 We get such weather scarce one year in ten.

“ There was a parlor in the house, a room
To make you shudder with its prudish gloom.
The furniture stood round with such an air,
There seemed an old maid's ghost in every chair,
Which looked as it had scuttled to its place
And pulled extempore a Sunday face,
Too smugly proper for a world of sin,
Like boys on whom the minister comes in.
The table, fronting you with icy stare,
Strove to look witless that its legs were bare,
While the black sofa with its horse-hair pall
Gloomed like a bier for Comfort's funeral.
Each piece appeared to do its chilly best
To seem an utter stranger to the rest,
As if acquaintanceship were deadly sin,
Like Britons meeting in a foreign inn.
Two portraits graced the wall in grimmest truth,
Mister and Mistress W. in their youth, —
New England youth, that seems a sort of pill,
Half wish-I-dared, half Edwards on the Will,
Bitter to swallow, and which leaves a trace
Of Calvinistic cholic on the face.
Between them, o'er the mantel, hung in state
Solomon's temple, done in copperplate ;
Invention pure, but meant, we may presume,
To give some Scripture sanction to the room.
Facing this last, two samplers you might see,
Each, with its urn and stiffly-weeping tree,
Devoted to some memory long ago
More faded than their lines of worsted woe ;

Cut paper decked their frames against the flies,
Though none e'er dared an entrance who were wise,
And bushed asparagus in fading green
Added its shiver to the franklin clean.

“When first arrived, I chilled a half-hour there,
Nor dared deflower with use a single chair ;
I caught no cold, yet flying pains could find
For weeks in me, — a rheumatism of mind.
One thing alone imprisoned there had power
To hold me in the place that long half-hour :
A scutcheon this, a helm-surmounted shield,
Three griffins argent on a sable field ;
A relic of the shipwrecked past was here,
And Ezra held some Old-World lumber dear.
Nay, do not smile ; I love this kind of thing,
These cooped traditions with a broken wing,
This freehold nook in Fancy's pipe-blown ball,
This less than nothing that is more than all !
Have I not seen sweet natures kept alive
Amid the humdrum of your business hive,
Undowered spinsters shielded from all harms,
By airy incomes from a coat of arms ?”

He paused a moment, and his features took
The flitting sweetness of that inward look
I hinted at before ; but, scarcely seen,
It shrank for shelter 'neath his harder mien,

And, rapping his black pipe of ashes clear,
He went on with a self-derisive sneer :
“ No doubt we make a part of God’s design,
And break the forest-path for feet divine ;
To furnish foothold for this grand prevision
Is good, and yet — to be the mere transition,
That, you will say, is also good, though I
Scarce like to feed the ogre By-and-by.
Raw edges rasp my nerves ; my taste is wooed
By things that are, not going to be, good,
Though were I what I dreamed two lustres gone,
I’d stay to help the Consummation on,
Whether a new Rome than the old more fair,
Or a deadflat of rascal-ruled despair ;
But my skull somehow never closed the suture
That seems to knit yours firmly with the future,
So you ’ll excuse me if I’m sometimes fain
To tie the past’s warm nightcap o’er my brain ;
I ’m quite aware ’t is not in fashion here,
But then your northeast winds are so severe !

“ But to my story : though ’t is truly naught
But a few hints in Memory’s sketchbook caught,
And which may claim a value on the score
Of calling back some scenery now no more.
Shall I confess ? The tavern’s only Lar Seemed (be not shocked !) its homely-featured bar.

Here dozed a fire of beechen logs, that bred
Strange fancies in its embers golden-red,

And nursed the loggerhead whose hissing dip,
Timed by nice instinct, creamed the mug of flip
That made from mouth to mouth its genial
    round,
Nor left one nature wholly winter-bound ;
Hence dropt the tinkling coal all mellow-ripe
For Uncle Reuben's talk-extinguished pipe ;
Hence rayed the heat, as from an in-door sun,
That wooed forth many a shoot of rustic fun.
Here Ezra ruled as king by right divine ;
No other face had such a wholesome shine,
No laugh like his so full of honest cheer ;
Above the rest it crowed like Chanticleer.

“In this one room his dame you never saw,
Where reigned by custom old a Salic law ;
Here coatless lolled he on his throne of oak,
And every tongue paused midway if he spoke.
Due mirth he loved, yet was his sway severe ;
No blear-eyed driveller got his stagger here ;
'Measure was happiness ; who wanted more,
Must buy his ruin at the Deacon's store ;'
None but his lodgers after ten could stay,
Nor after nine on eves of Sabbath-day.
He had his favorites and his pensioners,
The same that gypsy Nature owns for hers :
Loose-ended souls, whose skills bring scanty gold,
And whom the poor-house catches when they 're
    old ;
Rude country-minstrels, men who doctor kine,

Or graft, and, out of scions ten, save nine ;
Creatures of genius they, but never meant
To keep step with the civic regiment.
These Ezra welcomed, feeling in his mind
Perhaps some motions of the vagrant kind ;
These paid no money, yet for them he drew
Special Jamaica from a tap they knew.
And, for their feelings, chalked behind the door
With solemn face a visionary score.
This thawed to life in Uncle Reuben's throat
A torpid shoal of jest and anecdote,
Like those queer fish that doze the droughts away,
And wait for moisture, wrapt in sun-baked clay ;
This warmed the one-eyed fiddler to his task,
Perched in the corner on an empty cask,
By whose shrill art rapt suddenly, some boor
Rattled a double-shuffle on the floor ;
'Hull's Victory' was, indeed, the favorite air, Though 'Yankee Doodle' claimed its proper share.

“ 'T was there I caught from Uncle Reuben's lips,
In dribbling monologue 'twixt whiffs and sips,
The story I so long have tried to tell ;
The humor coarse, the persons common, — well,
From Nature only do I love to paint,
Whether she send a satyr or a saint ;
To me Sincerity 's the one thing good,
Soiled though she be and lost to maidenhood.

Quompegan is a town some ten miles south
From Jethro, at Nagumscot river-mouth,
A seaport town, and makes its title good
With lumber and dried fish and eastern wood.
Here Deacon Bitters dwelt and kept the Store,
The richest man for many a mile of shore ;
In little less than everything dealt he,
From meeting-houses to a chest of tea ;
So dextrous therewithal a flint to skin,
He could make profit on a single pin ;
In business strict, to bring the balance true
He had been known to bite a fig in two,
And change a board-nail for a shingle-nail.
All that he had he ready held for sale,
His house, his tomb, whate'er the law allows,
And he had gladly parted with his spouse.
His one ambition still to get and get,
He would arrest your very ghost for debt.
His store looked righteous, should the Parson
    come,
But in a dark back-room he peddled rum,
And eased Ma'am Conscience, if she e'er would scold,
By christening it with water ere he sold.
A small, dry man he was, who wore a queue,
And one white neckcloth all the week-days through, —
On Monday white, by Saturday as dun
As that worn homeward by the prodigal son.
His frosted earlocks, striped with foxy brown,

Were braided up to hide a desert crown ;
His coat was brownish, black perhaps of yore ;
In summer-time a banyan loose he wore ;
His trousers short, through many a season true,
Made no pretence to hide his stockings blue ;
A waistcoat buff his chief adornment was,
Its porcelain buttons rimmed with dusky brass.
A deacon he, you saw it in each limb,
And well he knew to deacon-off a hymn,
Or lead the choir through all its wandering woes
With voice that gathered unction in his nose,
Wherein a constant snuffle you might hear,
As if with him 't were winter all the year.
At pew-head sat he with decorous pains,
In sermon-time could foot his weekly gains,
Or, with closed eyes and heaven-abstracted air,
Could plan a new investment in long-prayer.
A pious man, and thrifty too, he made
The psalms and prophets partners in his trade,
And in his orthodoxy straitened more
As it enlarged the business at his store ;
He honored Moses, but, when gain he planned,
Had his own notion of the Promised Land.

“Soon as the winter made the sledding good,
From far around the farmers hauled him wood,
For all the trade had gathered 'neath his thumb.
He paid in groceries and New England rum,
Making two profits with a conscience clear, —
Cheap all he bought, and all he paid with dear.

With his own mete-wand measuring every load,
Each somehow had diminished on the road ;
An honest cord in Jethro still would fail
By a good foot upon the Deacon's scale,
And, more to abate the price, his gimlet eye
Would pierce to cat-sticks that none else could spy ;
Yet none dared grumble, for no farmer yet
But New Year found him in the Deacon's debt.

“ While the first snow was mealy under feet,
A team drawled creaking down Quompegan street.
Two cords of oak weighed down the grinding sled,
And cornstalk fodder rustled overhead ;
The oxen's muzzles, as they shouldered through,
Were silver-fringed ; the driver's own was blue
As the coarse frock that swung below his knee.
Behind his load for shelter waded he ;
His mittened hands now on his chest he beat,
Now stamped the stiffened cowhides of his feet,
Hushed as a ghost's ; his armpit scarce could hold
The walnut whipstock slippery-bright with cold.
What wonder if, the tavern as he past,
He looked and longed, and stayed his beasts at last,
Who patient stood and veiled themselves in steam
While he explored the bar-room's ruddy gleam ?

“ Before the fire, in want of thought profound,
There sat a brother-townsman weather-bound :
A sturdy churl, crisp-headed, bristly-eared,
Red as a pepper ; 'twixt coarse brows and beard
His eyes lay ambushed, on the watch for fools,
Clear, gray, and glittering like two bay-edged pools ;

A shifty creature, with a turn for fun,
Could swap a poor horse for a better one, —
He 'd a high-stepper always in his stall ;
Liked far and near, and dreaded therewithal.
To him the in-comer, ‘ Perez, how d' ye do ? ’
‘ Jest as I 'm mind to, Obed ; how do you ? ’
Then, his eyes twinkling such swift gleams as run
Along the levelled barrel of a gun
Brought to his shoulder by a man you know
Will bring his game down, he continued, ‘ So,
I s'pose you 're haulin' wood ? But you 're too late ;

The Deacon 's off ; Old Splitfoot could n't wait ;
He made a bee-line las' night in the storm
To where he won't need wood to keep him warm.
'Fore this he 's treasurer of a fund to train
Young imps as missionaries ; hopes to gain
That way a contract that he has in view
For fireproof pitchforks of a pattern new.
It must have tickled him, all drawbacks weighed,
To think he stuck the Old One in a trade ;
His soul, to start with, was n't worth a carrot,
And all he 'd left 'ould hardly serve to swear at.' ”

“By this time Obed had his wits thawed out,
And, looking at the other half in doubt,
Took off his fox-skin cap to scratch his head, Donned it again, and drawled forth, ‘Mean he’s dead?’

‘Jesso; he’s dead and t’ other d that follers
With folks that never love a thing but dollars.
He pulled up stakes last evening, fair and square,
And ever since there’s been a row Down There.
The minute the old chap arrived, you see,
Comes the Boss-devil to him, and says he,
“What are you good at? Little enough, I fear;
We callilate to make folks useful here.”

“Well,” says old Bitters, “I expect I can Scale a fair load of wood with e’er a man.”

“Wood we don’t deal in; but perhaps you’ll suit,

Because we buy our brimstone by the foot:
Here, take this measurin’-rod, as smooth as sin,
And keep a reckonin’ of what loads comes in.
You’ll not want business, for we need a lot
To keep the Yankees that you send us hot;
At firin’ up they’re barely half as spry
As Spaniards or Italians, though they’re dry;
At first we have to let the draught on stronger,
But, heat ’em through, they seem to hold it longer.”

“‘Bitters he took the rod, and pretty soon
A teamster comes, whistling an ex-psalm tune.

A likelier chap you would n't ask to see,
 No different, but his limp, from you or me' —
 'No different, Perez! Don't your memory fail?

Why, where in thunder was his horns and tail?'
 'They 're only worn by some old-fashioned pokes;
 They mostly aim at looking just like folks.
 Sech things are scarce as queues and top-boots here;

'T would spoil their usefulness to look too queer.
 Ef you could always know 'em when they come,
 They 'd get no purchase on you: now be mum.
 On come the teamster, smart as Davy Crockett,
 Jinglin' the red-hot coppers in his pocket,
 And clost behind, ('t was gold-dust, you 'd ha' sworn,)

A load of sulphur yallower 'n seed-corn;
 To see it wasted as it is Down There
 Would make a Friction-Match Co. tear its hair!
 "Hold on!" says Bitters, "stop right where you be;

You can't go in athout a pass from me."
 "All right," says t' other, "only step round smart;
 I must be home by noon-time with the cart."
 Bitters goes round it sharp-eyed as a rat,
 Then with a scrap of paper on his hat
 Pretends to cipher. "By the public staff,
 That load scarce rises twelve foot and a half."
 "There 's fourteen foot and over," says the driver,
 "Worth twenty dollars, ef it 's worth a stiver;

Good fourth-proof brimstone, that 'll make 'em squirm, —

I leave it to the Headman of the Firm ;
After we masure it, we always lay
Some on to allow for settlin' by the way.
Imp and full-grown, I 've carted sulphur here,
And given fair satisfaction, thirty year.”
With that they fell to quarrellin' so loud
That in five minutes they had drawed a crowd,
And afore long the Boss, who heard the row, Comes elbowin' in with “ What 's to pay here
now ? ”

Both parties heard, the measurin'-rod he takes,
And of the load a careful survey makes.
“ Sence I 've bossed the business here,” says he,
“ No fairer load was ever seen by me.”
Then, turnin' to the Deacon, “ You mean cus,
None of your old Quompegan tricks with us !
They won't do here : we 're plain old-fashioned folks,

And don't quite understand that kind o' jokes.
I know this teamster, and his pa afore him,
And the hard-working Mrs. D. that bore him ;
He would n't soil his conscience with a lie,
Though he might get the custom-house thereby.
Here, constable, take Bitters by the queue,
And clap him into furnace ninety-two,
And try this brimstone on him ; if he 's bright,
He 'll find the masure honest afore night.
He is n't worth his fuel, and I 'll bet
The parish oven has to take him yet ! ”

“ This is my tale, heard twenty years ago
From Uncle Reuben, as the logs burned low,
Touching the walls and ceiling with that bloom
That makes a rose's calyx of a room.
I could not give his language, wherethrough ran
The gamy flavor of the bookless man
Who shapes a word before the fancy cools,
As lonely Crusoe improvised his tools.
I liked the tale. — 't was like so many told
By Rutebeuf and his brother Trouvères bold ;
Nor were the hearers much unlike to theirs,
Men unsophisticate, rude-nerved as bears.
Ezra is gone and his large-hearted kind,
The landlords of the hospitable mind ;
Good Warriner of Springfield was the last ;
An inn is now a vision of the past ;
One yet-surviving host my mind recalls, —
You 'll find him if you go to Trenton Falls.”

THE ORIGIN OF DIDACTIC POETRY.

WHEN wise Minerva still was young
And just the least romantic,
Soon after from Jove's head she flung
That preternatural antic,
'T is said, to keep from idleness
Or flirting, those twin curses,
She spent her leisure, more or less,
In writing po——, no, verses.

How nice they were! to rhyme with far
A kind star did not tarry;
The metre, too, was regular
As schoolboy's dot and carry;
And full they were of pious plums,
So extra-super-moral,—
For sucking Virtue's tender gums
Most tooth-enticing coral.

A clean, fair copy she prepares,
Makes sure of moods and tenses,
With her own hand,— for prudence spares
A man- (or woman-) -uensis;
Complete, and tied with ribbons proud,
She hinted soon how cosy a

Treat it would be to read them loud
 After next day's Ambrosia.

The Gods thought not it would amuse
 So much as Homer's Odyssees,
 But could not very well refuse
 The properest of Goddesses;
 So all sat round in attitudes
 Of various dejection,
 As with a hem! the queen of prudes
 Began her grave prelection.

At the first pause Zeus said, "Well sung! —
 I mean — ask Phœbus, — he knows."
 Says Phœbus, "Zounds! a wolf's among Adnetus's merinos!
 Fine! very fine! but I must go;
 They stand in need of me there;
 Excuse me!" snatched his stick, and so
 Plunged down the gladdened ether.

With the next gap, Mars said, "For me
 Don't wait, — naught could be finer,
 But I'm engaged at half past three, —
 A fight in Asia Minor!"
 Then Venus lisped, "I'm sorely tried,
 These duty-calls are vip'rous;
 But I must go; I have a bride
 To see about in Cyprus."

Then Bacchus, — “I must say good bye,
Although my peace it jeopardds ;
I meet a man at four, to try
A well-broke pair of leopards.”
His words woke Hermes. “Ah!” he said,
“I so love moral theses !”
Then winked at Hebe, who turned red,
And smoothed her apron’s creases.

Just then Zeus snored, — the Eagle drew
His head the wing from under ;
Zeus snored, — o’er startled Greece there flew
The many-volumed thunder.
Some augurs counted nine, some, ten ;
Some said ’t was war, some, famine,
And all, that other-minded men
Would get a precious ——.

Proud Pallas sighed, “It will not do ;
Against the Muse I’ve sinned, oh !”
And her torn rhymes sent flying through Olympus’s back window.
Then, packing up a peplus clean,
She took the shortest path thence,
And opened, with a mind serene,
A Sunday-school in Athens.

The verses? Some in ocean swilled,
Killed every fish that bit to ’em ;

Some Galen caught, and, when distilled,
Found morphine the residuum ;
But some that rotted on the earth
Sprang up again in copies,
And gave two strong narcotics birth,
Didactic verse and poppies.

Years after, when a poet asked
The Goddess's opinion,
As one whose soul its wings had tasked
In Art's clear-aired dominion,
"Discriminate," she said, "betimes ;
The Muse is unforgiving ;
Put all your beauty in your rhymes,
Your morals in your living."

THE FLYING DUTCHMAN.

DON'T believe in the Flying Dutchman?

I've known the fellow for years;

My button I've wrenched from his clutch, man:

I shudder whenever he nears!

He's a Rip van Winkle skipper,

A Wandering Jew of the sea,

Who sails his bedevilled old clipper

In the wind's eye, straight as a bee.

Back topsails! you can't escape him;

The man-ropes stretch with his weight,

And the queerest old toggeries drape him,

The Lord knows how long out of date!

Like a long-disembodied idea,

(A kind of ghost plentiful now,)

He stands there; you fancy you see a

Coeval of Teniers or Douw.

He greets you; would have you take letters:

You scan the addresses with dread,

While he mutters his donners and wetters, —

They're all from the dead to the dead!

You seem taking time for reflection,
But the heart fills your throat with a jam,
As you spell in each faded direction
An ominous ending in dam.

Am I tagging my rhymes to a legend?
That were changing green turtle to mock:
No, thank you! I've found out which wedge-end
Is meant for the head of a block.

The fellow I have in my mind's eye
Plays the old Skipper's part here on shore,
And sticks like a burr, till he finds I
Have got just the gauge of his bore.

This postman 'twixt one ghost and t' other,
With last dates that smell of the mould,
I have met him (O man and brother,
Forgive me!) in azure and gold.

In the pulpit I've known of his preaching,
Out of hearing behind the time,
Some statement of Balaam's impeaching,
Giving Eve a due sense of her crime.

I have seen him some poor ancient thrashing
Into something (God save us!) more dry,
With the Water of Life itself washing
The life out of earth, sea, and sky.

O dread fellow-mortal, get newer
Despatches to carry, or none!
We 're as quick as the Greek and the Jew were
At knowing a loaf from a stone.

Till the couriers of God fail in duty,
We sha'n't ask a mummy for news,
Nor sate the soul's hunger for beauty
With your drawings from casts of a Muse.

CREDIDIMUS JOVEM REGNARE.

O DAYS endeared to every Muse,
When nobody had any Views,
Nor, while the cloudscape of his mind
By every breeze was new designed,
Insisted all the world should see
Camels or whales where none there be !
O happy days, when men received
From sire to son what all believed,
And left the other world in bliss,
Too busy with bedevilling this !

Beset by doubts of every breed
In the last bastion of my creed,
With shot and shell for Sabbath-chime,
I watch the storming-party climb,
Panting (their prey in easy reach),
To pour triumphant through the breach
In walls that shed like snowflakes tons
Of missiles from old-fashioned guns,
But crumble 'neath the storm that pours
All day and night from bigger bores.
There, as I hopeless watch and wait
The last life-crushing coil of Fate,
Despair finds solace in the praise

Of those serene dawn-rosy days
Ere microscopes had made us heirs
To large estates of doubts and snares,
By proving that the title-deeds,
Once all-sufficient for men's needs,
Are palimpsests that scarce disguise
The tracings of still earlier lies,
Themselves as surely written o'er
An older fib erased before.

So from these days I fly to those
That in the landlocked Past repose,
Where no rude wind of doctrine shakes
From bloom-flushed boughs untimely flakes ;
Where morning's eyes see nothing strange,
No crude perplexity of change,
And morrows trip along their ways
Secure as happy yesterdays.
Then there were rulers who could trace
Through heroes up to gods their race,
Pledged to fair fame and noble use
By veins from Odin filled or Zeus,
And under bonds to keep divine
The praise of a celestial line.
Then priests could pile the altar's sods,
With whom gods spake as they with gods,
And everywhere from haunted earth
Broke springs of wonder, that had birth
In depths divine beyond the ken
And fatal scrutiny of men ;

Then hills and groves and streams and seas
 Thrilled with immortal presences,
 Not too ethereal for the scope
 Of human passion's dream or hope.

Now Pan at last is surely dead,
 And King No-Credit reigns instead,
 Whose officers, morosely strict,
 Poor Fancy's tenantry evict,
 Chase the last Genius from the door,
 And nothing dances any more.
 Nothing? Ah, yes, our tables do,
 Drumming the Old One's own tattoo,
 And, if the oracles are dumb,
 Have we not mediums? Why be glum?

Fly thither? Why, the very air
 Is full of hindrance and despair!
 Fly thither? But I cannot fly;
 My doubts enmesh me if I try, —
 Each lilliputian, but, combined,
 Potent a giant's limbs to bind.
 This world and that are growing dark;
 A huge interrogation mark,
 The Devil's crook episcopal,
 Still borne before him since the Fall,
 Blackens with its ill-omened sign
 The old blue heaven of faith benign.
 Whence? Whither? Wherefore? How?
 Which? Why?

All ask at once, all wait reply.
 Men feel old systems cracking under 'em ;
 Life saddens to a mere conundrum
 Which once Religion solved, but she Has lost — has Science found ? — the key.

What was snow-bearded Odin, trow,
 The mighty hunter long ago,
 Whose horn and hounds the peasant hears
 Still when the Northlights shake their spears ?
 Science hath answers twain, I 've heard ;
 Choose which you will, nor hope a third ;
 Whichever box the truth be stowed in,
 There 's not a sliver left of Odin.
 Either he was a pinchbrowed thing,
 With scarcely wit a stone to fling,
 A creature both in size and shape
 Nearer than we are to the ape,
 Who hung sublime with brat and spouse
 By tail prehensile from the boughs,
 And, happier than his maimed descendants,
 The culture-curtailed independents,
 Could pluck his cherries with both paws,
 And stuff with both his big-boned jaws ;
 Or else the core his name enveloped
 Was from a solar myth developed,
 Which, hunted to its primal shoot,
 Takes refuge in a Sanskrit root,
 Thereby to instant death explaining
 The little poetry remaining.

Try it with Zeus, 't is just the same ;
 The thing evades, we hug a name ;
 Nay, scarcely that, — perhaps a vapor
 Born of some atmospheric caper.
 All Lempriere's fables blur together
 In cloudy symbols of the weather,
 And Aphrodite rose from frothy seas
 But to illustrate such hypotheses.
 With years enough behind his back,
 Lincoln will take the selfsame track,
 And prove, hulled fairly to the cob,
 A mere vagary of Old Prob.
 Give the right man a solar myth,
 And he 'll confute the sun therewith.

They make things admirably plain,
 But one hard question will remain :
 If one hypothesis you lose,
 Another in its place you choose,
 But, your faith gone, O man and brother,
 Whose shop shall furnish you another ?
 One that will wash, I mean, and wear,
 And wrap us warmly from despair ?
 While they are clearing up our puzzles,
 And clapping prophylactic muzzles
 On the Actæon's hounds that sniff
 Our devious track through But and If,
 Would they 'd explain away the Devil
 And other facts that won't keep level,
 But rise beneath our feet or fail,
 A reeling ship's deck in a gale !

God vanished long ago, iwis,
A mere subjective synthesis ;
A doll, stuffed out with hopes and fears,
Too homely for us pretty dears,
Who want one that conviction carries,
Last make of London or of Paris.
He gone, I felt a moment's spasm,
But calmed myself with Protoplasm,
A finer name, and, what is more,
As enigmatic as before ;
Greek, too, and sure to fill with ease
Minds caught in the Symplegades
Of soul and sense, life's two conditions,
Each baffled with its own omniscience.
The men who labor to revise
Our Bibles will, I hope, be wise,
And print it without foolish qualms
Instead of God in David's psalms :
Noll had been more effective far
Could he have shouted at Dunbar,
" Rise, Protoplasm ! " No dourest Scot
Had waited for another shot.

And yet I frankly must confess
A secret unforgivingness,
And shudder at the saving chrism
Whose best New Birth is Pessimism ;
My soul — I mean the bit of phosphorus
That fills the place of what that was for us —
Can't bid its inward bores defiance

With the new nursery-tales of science.
 What profits me, though doubt by doubt,
 As nail by nail, be driven out,
 When every new one, like the last,
 Still holds my coffin-lid as fast ?
 Would I find thought a moment's truce,
 Give me the young world's Mother Goose,
 With life and joy in every limb,
 The chimney-corner tales of Grimm !

Our dear and admirable Huxley
 Cannot explain to me why ducks lay,
 Or, rather, how into their eggs
 Blunder potential wings and legs
 With will to move them and decide
 Whether in air or lymph to glide.
 Who gets a hair's-breadth on by showing
 That Something Else set all agoing ?
 Farther and farther back we push
 From Moses and his burning bush ;
 Cry, "Art Thou there ?" Above, below,
 All nature mutters yes and no !
 'T is the old answer : we 're agreed
 Being from Being must proceed,
 Life be Life's source. I might as well
 Obey the meeting-house's bell,
 And listen while Old Hundred pours
 Forth through the summer-opened doors,
 From old and young. I hear it yet,
 Swelled by bass-viol and clarinet,

While the gray minister, with face
Radiant, let loose his noble bass.
If Heaven it reached not, yet its roll
Waked all the echoes of the soul,
And in it many a life found wings
To soar away from sordid things.
Church gone and singers too, the song
Sings to me voiceless all night long,
Till my soul beckons me afar,
Glowing and trembling like a star.
Will any scientific touch
With my worn strings achieve as much ?

I don't object, not I, to know
My sires were monkeys, if 't was so ;
I touch my ear's collusive tip
And own the poor-relationship.
That apes of various shapes and sizes
Contained their germs that all the prizes
Of senate, pulpit, camp, and bar win
May give us hopes that sweeten Darwin.
Who knows but from our loins may spring
(Long hence) some winged sweet-throated thing
As much superior to us
As we to Cynocephalus ?

This is consoling, but, alas,
It wipes no dimness from the glass
Where I am flattening my poor nose,

In hope to see beyond my toes.
Though I accept my pedigree,
Yet where, pray tell me, is the key
That should unlock a private door
To the Great Mystery, such no more?
Each offers his, but one nor all
Are much persuasive with the wall
That rises now, as long ago,
Between I wonder and I know,
Nor will vouchsafe a pin-hole peep
At the veiled Isis in its keep.
Where is no door, I but produce
My key to find it of no use.
Yet better keep it, after all,
Since Nature's economical,
And who can tell but some fine day
(If it occur to her) she may,
In her good-will to you and me,
Make door and lock to match the key?

TEMPORA MUTANTUR.

THE world turns mild ; democracy, they say,
Rounds the sharp knobs of character away,
And no great harm, unless at grave expense
Of what needs edge of proof, the moral sense ;
For man or race is on the downward path
Whose fibre grows too soft for honest wrath,
And there 's a subtle influence that springs
From words to modify our sense of things.
A plain distinction grows obscure of late :
Man, if he will, may pardon ; but the State
Forgets its function if not fixed as Fate.
So thought our sires : a hundred years ago,
If men were knaves, why, people called them so,
And crime could see the prison-portal bend
Its brow severe at no long vista's end.
In those days for plain things plain words would serve ;
Men had not learned to admire the graceful swerve
Wherewith the Æsthetic Nature's genial mood
Makes public duty slope to private good ;
No muddled conscience raised the saving doubt ;
A soldier proved unworthy was drummed out,
An officer cashiered, a civil servant

(No matter though his piety were fervent)
Disgracefully dismissed, and through the land
Each bore for life a stigma from the brand
Whose far-heard hiss made others more averse
To take the facile step from bad to worse.
The Ten Commandments had a meaning then,
Felt in their bones by least considerate men,
Because behind them Public Conscience stood,
And without wincing made their mandates good.
But now that "Statesmanship" is just a way
To dodge the primal curse and make it pay,
Since office means a kind of patent drill
To force an entrance to the Nation's till,
And peculation something rather less
Risky than if you spelt it with an s ;
Now that to steal by law is grown an art,
Whom rogues the sires, their milder sons call smart,
And "slightly irregular" dilutes the shame
Of what had once a somewhat blunter name.
With generous curve we draw the moral line :
Our swindlers are permitted to resign ;
Their guilt is wrapped in deferential names,
And twenty sympathize for one that blames.
Add national disgrace to private crime,
Confront mankind with brazen front sublime,
Steal but enough, the world is unsevere, —
Tweed is a statesman, Fisk a financier ;
Invent a mine, and be — the Lord knows what ;
Secure, at any rate, with what you 've got.
The public servant who has stolen or lied,

If called on, may resign with honest pride :
As unjust favor put him in, why doubt
Disfavor as unjust has turned him out ?
Even if indicted, what is that but fudge
To him who counted-in the elective judge ?
Whitewashed, he quits the politician's strife
At ease in mind, with pockets filled for life :
His " lady " glares with gems whose vulgar blaze
The poor man through his heightened taxes pays,

Himself content if one huge Kohinoor
Bulge from a shirt-front ampler than before,
But not too candid, lest it haply tend
To rouse suspicion of the People's Friend.
A public meeting, treated at his cost,
Resolves him back more virtue than he lost ;
With character regilt he counts his gains ;
What 's gone was air, the solid good remains ;
For what is good, except what friend and foe
Seem quite unanimous in thinking so,
The stocks and bonds which, in our age of loans,
Replace the stupid pagan's stocks and stones ?
With choker white, wherein no cynic eye
Dares see idealized a hempen tie,
At parish-meetings he conducts in prayer,
And pays for missions to be sent elsewhere ;
On 'Change respected, to his friends endeared,
Add but a Sunday-school-class, he 's revered,
And his too early tomb will not be dumb
To point a moral for our youth to come.

IN THE HALF-WAY HOUSE.

I.

AT twenty we fancied the blest Middle Ages
A spirited cross of romantic and grand,
All templars and minstrels and ladies and pages,
And love and adventure in Outre-Mer land ;
But ah, where the youth dreamed of building a minster,
    The man takes a pew and sits reckoning his pelf,
And the Graces wear fronts, the Muse thins to a spinster,
    When Middle-Age stares from one's glass at oneself !

II.

Do you twit me with days when I had an Ideal,
And saw the sear future through spectacles green ?
Then find me some charm, while I look round and see all
    These fat friends of forty, shall keep me nineteen ;
Should we go on pining for chaplets of laurel

Who've paid a perruquier for mending our thatch,
 Or, our feet swathed in baize, with our Fate pick a quarrel,
 If, instead of cheap bay-leaves, she sent a dear scratch?

III.

We called it our Eden, that small patent-baker,
 When life was half moonshine and half Mary Jane ;
 But the butcher, the baker, the candlestick-maker! —
 Did Adam have duns and slip down a back-lane ?
 Nay, after the Fall did the modiste keep coming
 With last styles of fig-leaf to Madam Eve's bower ?
 Did Jubal, or whoever taught the girls thrum-ming,
 Make the patriarchs deaf at a dollar the hour ?

IV.

As I think what I was, I sigh Desunt nonnulla!
 Years are creditors Sheridan's self could not bilk ;
 But then, as my boy says, " What right has a ful-lah
 To ask for the cream, when himself spilt the milk ? "

Perhaps when you 're older, my lad, you 'll discover

The secret with which Auld Lang Syne there is gilt, —

Superstition of old man, maid, poet, and lover, —
That cream rises thickest on milk that was spilt!

v.

We sailed for the moon, but, in sad disillusion, Snug under Point Comfort are glad to make fast,

And strive (sans our glasses) to make a confusion
'Twixt our rind of green cheese and the moon of the past.

Ah, Might-have-been, Could-have-been, Would-have-been! rascals,

He 's a genius or fool whom ye cheat at two-score,

And the man whose boy-promise was likened to Pascal's

Is thankful at forty they don't call him bore!

vi.

With what fumes of fame was each confident pate full!

How rates of insurance should rise on the Charles!

And which of us now would not feel wisely grateful,

If his rhymes sold as fast as the Emblems of Quarles ?

E'en if won, what's the good of Life's medals and prizes ?

The rapture's in what never was or is gone ;
That we missed them makes Helens of plain Ann Elizys,

For the goose of To-day still is Memory's swan.

VII.

And yet who would change the old dream for new treasure ?

Make not youth's sourest grapes the best wine of our life ?

Need he reckon his date by the Almanac's measure

Who is twenty life-long in the eyes of his wife ?
Ah, Fate, should I live to be nonagenarian,

Let me still take Hope's frail I. O. U.s upon trust,

Still talk of a trip to the Islands Macarian,
And still climb the dream-tree for — ashes and dust !

AT THE BURNS CENTENNIAL.

JANUARY, 1859.

I.

A HUNDRED years ! they 're quickly fled,
With all their joy and sorrow ;
Their dead leaves shed upon the dead,
Their fresh ones sprung by morrow !
And still the patient seasons bring
Their change of sun and shadow ;
New birds still sing with every spring,
New violets spot the meadow.

II.

A hundred years ! and Nature's powers
No greater grown nor lessened !
They saw no flowers more sweet than ours,
No fairer new moon's crescent.
Would she but treat us poets so,
So from our winter free us,
And set our slow old sap aflow
To sprout in fresh ideas !

III.

Alas, think I, what worth or parts
Have brought me here competing,

To speak what starts in myriad hearts
 With Burns's memory beating!
 Himself had loved a theme like this;
 Must I be its entomber?
 No pen save his but's sure to miss
 Its pathos or its humor.

IV.

As I sat musing what to say,
 And how my verse to number,
 Some elf in play passed by that way,
 And sank my lids in slumber;
 And on my sleep a vision stole,
 Which I will put in metre,
 Of Burns's soul at the wicket-hole
 Where sits the good Saint Peter.

V.

The saint, methought, had left his post
 That day to Holy Willie,
 Who swore, "Each ghost that comes shall toast
 In brunstane, will he, nill he;
 There's nane need hope with phrases fine
 Their score to wipe a sin frae;
 I'll chalk a sign, to save their tryin', —
 A hand () and 'Vide infra!'"

VI.

Alas! no soil's too cold or dry
 For spiritual small potatoes,

Scrimped natures, spry the trade to ply
 Of diaboli advocatus ;
 Who lay bent pins in the penance-stool
 Where Mercy plumps a cushion,
 Who 've just one rule for knave and fool,
 It saves so much confusion !

VII.

So when Burns knocked, Will knit his brows,
 His window gap made scanter,
 And said, " Go rouse the other house ;
 We lodge no Tam O'Shanter ! "
 " We lodge ! " laughed Burns. " Now well I see Death cannot kill old nature ;
 No human flea but thinks that he May speak for his Creator !

VIII.

" But, Willie, friend, don't turn me forth,
 Auld Clootie needs no gauger ;
 And if on earth I had small worth,
 You 've let in worse, I 'se wager ! "
 " Na, nane has knockit at the yett
 But found me hard as whunstane ;
 There 's chances yet your bread to get Wi Auld Nick, gaugin' brunstane."

IX.

Meanwhile, the Unco' Guid had ta'en
 Their place to watch the process,

Flattening in vain on many a pane
 Their disembodied noses.
 Remember, please, 't is all a dream ;
 One can't control the fancies
 Through sleep that stream with wayward gleam,
 Like midnight's boreal dances.

X.

Old Willie's tone grew sharp 's a knife :
 " In primis, I indite ye,
 For makin' strife wi' the water o' life,
 And preferrin' aqua vitæ ! "
 Then roared a voice with lusty din,
 Like a skipper's when 't is blowy,
 " If that's a sin, I'd ne'er got in,
 As sure as my name 's Noah ! "

XI.

Baulked, Willie turned another leaf, —
 " There 's many here have heard ye,
 To the pain and grief o' true belief,
 Say hard things o' the clergy ! "
 Then rang a clear tone over all, —
 " One plea for him allow me :
 I once heard call from o'er me, ' Saul,
 Why persecutest thou me ? ' "

XII.

To the next charge vexed Willie turned,
 And, sighing, wiped his glasses :

“ I ’m much concerned to find ye yearned
 O'er-warmly tow'rd the lasses ! ”
 Here David sighed ; poor Willie's face
 Lost all its self-possession :
 “ I leave this case to God's own grace ;
 It baffles my discretion ! ”

XIII.

Then sudden glory round me broke,
 And low melodious surges
 Of wings whose stroke to splendor woke Creation's farthest verges ;
 A cross stretched, ladder-like, secure
 From earth to heaven's own portal,
 Whereby God's poor, with footing sure,
 Climbed up to peace immortal.

XIV.

I heard a voice serene and low
 (With my heart I seemed to hear it)
 Fall soft and slow as snow on snow,
 Like grace of the heavenly spirit ;
 As sweet as over new-born son
 The croon of new-made mother,
 The voice begun, “ Sore tempted one ! ”
 Then, pausing, sighed, “ Our brother ! ”

XV.

“ If not a sparrow fall, unless
 The Father sees and knows it,

Think! recks he less his form express,
The soul his own deposit?
If only dear to Him the strong,
That never trip nor wander,
Where were the throng whose morning song
Thrills His blue arches yonder?

XVI.

“Do souls alone clear-eyed, strong-kneed,
To Him true service render,
And they who need His hand to lead,
Find they His heart untender?
Through all your various ranks and fates
He opens doors to duty,
And he that waits there at your gates
Was servant of His Beauty.

XVII.

“The Earth must richer sap secrete,
(Could ye in time but know it!)
Must juice concrete with fiercer heat,
Ere she can make her poet;
Long generations go and come,
At last she bears a singer,
For ages dumb, of senses numb
The compensation-bringer!

XVIII.

“Her cheaper broods in palaces
She raises under glasses,

But souls like these, heav'n's hostages,
 Spring shelterless as grasses :
 They share Earth's blessing and her bane,
 The common sun and shower ;
 What makes your pain to them is gain,
 Your weakness is their power.

XIX.

“ These larger hearts must feel the rolls
 Of stormier-waved temptation ;
 These star-wide souls between their poles
 Bear zones of tropic passion.
 He loved much ! — that is gospel good,
 Howe'er the text you handle ;
 From common wood the cross was hewed,
 By love turned priceless sandal.

XX.

“ If scant his service at the kirk,
 He paters heard and aves
 From choirs that lurk in hedge and birk,
 From blackbird and from mavis ;
 The cowering mouse, poor unroofed thing,
 In him found Mercy's angel ;
 The daisy's ring brought every spring
 To him Love's fresh evangel !

XXI.

“ Not he the threatening texts who deals
 Is highest 'mong the preachers,

But he who feels the woes and weals
Of all God's wandering creatures.
He doth good work whose heart can find
The spirit 'neath the letter ;
Who makes his kind of happier mind,
Leaves wiser men and better.

XXII.

“ They make Religion be abhorred
Who round with darkness gulf her,
And think no word can please the Lord
Unless it smell of sulphur.
Dear Poet-heart, that childlike guessed
The Father's loving kindness,
Come now to rest ! Thou didst His hest,
If haply 't was in blindness ! ”

XXIII.

Then leapt heaven's portals wide apart,
And at their golden thunder
With sudden start I woke, my heart
Still throbbing-full of wonder.
“ Father,” I said, “ 't is known to Thee
How Thou thy Saints preparest ;
But this I see, — Saint Charity
Is still the first and fairest ! ”

XXIV.

Dear Bard and Brother ! let who may
Against thy faults be railing,

(Though far, I pray, from us be they That never had a failing !)
One toast I 'll give, and that not long,
Which thou wouldst pledge if present, —
To him whose song, in nature strong,
Makes man of prince and peasant !

IN AN ALBUM.

THE misspelt scrawl, upon the wall
By some Pompeian idler traced,
In ashes packed (ironic fact !)
Lies eighteen centuries uneffaced,
While many a page of bard and sage,
Deemed once mankind's immortal gain,
Lost from Time's ark, leaves no more mark
Than a keel's furrow through the main.

O Chance and Change ! our buzz's range
Is scarcely wider than a fly's ;
Then let us play at fame to-day,
To-morrow be unknown and wise ;
And while the fair beg locks of hair,
And autographs, and Lord knows what,
Quick ! let us scratch our moment's match,
Make our brief blaze, and be forgot !

Too pressed to wait, upon her slate
Fame writes a name or two in doubt ;
Scarce written, these no longer please,
And her own finger rubs them out :

It may ensue, fair girl, that you
Years hence this yellowing leaf may see,
And put to task, your memory ask
In vain, "This Lowell, who was he?"

AT THE COMMENCEMENT DINNER,
1866, IN ACKNOWLEDGING A TOAST
TO THE SMITH PROFESSOR.

I RISE, Mr. Chairman, as both of us know,
With the impromptu I promised you three weeks ago,
Dragged up to my doom by your might and my mane,
To do what I vowed I'd do never again ;
And I feel like your good honest dough when possest
By a stirring, impertinent devil of yeast.
"You must rise," says the leaven. "I can't,"
says the dough ;
"Just examine my bumps, and you'll see it's no go."
"But you must," the tormentor insists, "'t is all right ;
You must rise when I bid you, and, what's more,
be light."

'T is a dreadful oppression, this making men speak
What they're sure to be sorry for all the next week ;

This asking some poor stick, like Aaron's, to bud
 Into eloquence, pathos, or wit in cold blood,
 As if the dull brain that you vented your spite on Could be got, like an ox, by mere poking, to Brighton.

They say it is wholesome to rise with the sun,
 And I dare say it may be if not overdone ;
 (I think it was Thomson who made the remark
 'T was an excellent thing in its way — for a lark ;)
 But to rise after dinner and look down the meeting

On a distant (as Gray calls it) prospect of Eating,
 With a stomach half full and a cerebrum hollow
 As the tortoise-shell ere it was strung for Apollo,
 Under contract to raise anerithmon gelasma
 With rhymes so hard hunted they gasp with the asthma.

And jokes not much younger than Jethro's phy-lacteries,
 Is something I leave you yourselves to charac-terize.

I've a notion, I think, of a good dinner speech,
 Tripping light as a sandpiper over the beach,
 Swerving this way and that as the wave of the moment
 Washes out its slight trace with a dash of whim's foam on 't,
 And leaving on memory's rim just a sense

Something graceful had gone by, a live present tense ;

Not poetry, — no, not quite that, but as good,
A kind of winged prose that could fly if it would.
'T is a time for gay fancies as fleeting and vain
As the whisper of foam-beads on fresh-poured champagne,

Since dinners were not perhaps strictly designed
For manœuvering the heavy dragoons of the mind.
When I hear your set speeches that start with a pop,

Then wander and maunder, too feeble to stop,
With a vague apprehension from popular rumor
There used to be something by mortals called humor,

Beginning again when you thought they were done,

Respectable, sensible, weighing a ton,
And as near to the present occasions of men
As a Fast Day discourse of the year eighteen ten,
I — well, I sit still, and my sentiments smother,
For am I not also a bore and a brother ?

And a toast, — what should that be ? Light,
airy, and free,

The foam-Aphrodite of Bacchus's sea,
A fancy-tinged bubble, an orb'd rainbow-stain, —
That floats for an instant 'twixt goblet and brain ;
A breath-born perfection, half something, half naught,

And breaks if it strike the hard edge of a thought.

Do you ask me to make such? Ah no, not so simple;

Ask Apelles to paint you the ravishing dimple Whose shifting enchantment lights Venus's cheek,

And the artist will tell you his skill is too weak;
Once fix it, 't is naught, for the charm of it rises
From the sudden bopeeps of its smiling surprises.

I've tried to define it, but what mother's son
Could ever yet do what he knows should be done?
My rocket has burst, and I watch in the air
Its fast-fading heart's-blood drop back in despair;

Yet one chance is left me, and, if I am quick,
I can palm off, before you suspect me, the stick.

Now since I've succeeded — I pray do not frown —

To Ticknor's and Longfellow's classical gown,
And profess four strange languages, which, luck-
less elf,

I speak like a native (of Cambridge) myself,
Let me beg, Mr. President, leave to propose
A sentiment treading on nobody's toes,
And give, in such ale as with pump-handles we
brew,

Their memory who saved us from all talking Hebrew, —

A toast that to deluge with water is good,
For in Scripture they come in just after the flood :
I give you the men but for whom, as I guess,
    sir,
Modern languages ne'er could have had a professor,
The builders of Babel, to whose zeal the lungs
Of the children of men owe confusion of tongues ;
And a name all-embracing I couple therewith,
Which is that of my founder — the late Mr.
    Smith.

A PARABLE.

AN ass munched thistles, while a nightingale
From passion's fountain flooded all the vale.
"Hee-haw!" cried he, "I hearken," as who knew
For such ear-largess humble thanks were due.
"Friend," said the wingèd pain, "in vain you
    bray,
Who tunnels bring, not cisterns, for my lay ;
None but his peers the poet rightly hear,
Nor mete we listeners by their length of ear."

SAYINGS.

1.

IN life's small things be resolute and great
To keep thy muscle trained : know'st thou when Fate
Thy measure takes, or when she 'll say to thee,
" I find thee worthy ; do this deed for me " ?

2.

A camel-driver, angry with his drudge,
Beating him, called him hunchback ; to the hind
Thus spake a dervish : " Friend, the Eternal
    Judge
Dooms not His work, but ours, the crooked mind."

3.

Swiftly the politic goes : is it dark ? — he borrows a lantern ;
Slowly the statesman and sure, guiding his steps by the stars.

4.

" Where lies the capital, pilgrim, seat of who governs the Faithful ? "
" Thither my footsteps are bent : it is where Saadi is lodged. "

INSCRIPTIONS.

FOR A BELL AT CORNELL UNIVERSITY.

I CALL as fly the irrevocable hours,
 Futile as air or strong as fate to make
 Your lives of sand or granite ; awful powers,
 Even as men choose, they either give or take.

FOR A MEMORIAL WINDOW TO SIR WALTER RALEIGH,
 SET UP IN ST. MARGARET'S, WESTMINSTER,
 BY AMERICAN CONTRIBUTORS.

THE New World's sons, from England's breasts we drew
 Such milk as bids remember whence we came ;
 Proud of her Past wherefrom our Present grew,
 This window we inscribe with Raleigh's name.

PROPOSED FOR A SOLDIERS' AND SAILORS'
 MONUMENT IN BOSTON.

To those who died for her on land and sea,
 That she might have a country great and free,
 Boston builds this : build ye her monument
 In lives like theirs, at duty's summons spent.

A MISCONCEPTION.

B, TAUGHT by Pope to do his good by stealth,
 'Twixt participle and noun no difference feeling,
 In office placed to serve the Commonwealth,
 Does himself all the good he can by stealing.

THE BOSS.

SKILLED to pull wires, he baffles Nature's hope,
 Who sure intended him to stretch a rope.

SUN-WORSHIP.

IF I were the rose at your window,
 Happiest rose of its crew,
 Every blossom I bore would bend inward,
They'd know where the sunshine grew.

CHANGED PERSPECTIVE.

FULL oft the pathway to her door
 I've measured by the selfsame track,
 Yet doubt the distance more and more,
 'T is so much longer coming back!

WITH A PAIR OF GLOVES LOST IN A WAGER.

WE wagered, she for sunshine, I for rain,
And I should hint sharp practice if I dared ;
For was not she beforehand sure to gain
Who made the sunshine we together shared ?

SIXTY-EIGHTH BIRTHDAY.

As life runs on, the road grows strange
With faces new, and near the end
The milestones into headstones change,
'Neath every one a friend.
