TRUCE AGREED UPON TO BURY THE DEAD

ALLIED NATIONS ACCEPT THE TURKISH PROPOSALS

Armistice to Precede Discussion of Peace Terms—Serbian-Austrian Friction

London, Nov. 19.—An eight-hour armistice has been agreed between the Bulgarians and Turks at Tchaatja, so that the armies may bury their dead, according to a news agency dispatch from Constantinople.

Armistice Proposals

Sofia, Nov. 19.—The allied Balkan nations to-day assented to the Turkish proposal to discuss the terms of an armistice and eventual peace. The reply sent to the dispatch sent from the grand vizier to King Ferdinand, of Bulgaria, says: "The Bulgarian government, after the agreement with the allied cabinets of Serbia, Montenegro and Greece, informs the Porte that plenipotentiaries have been appointed with instructions to arrange with the commander-in-chief of the Turkish armies the conditions of an armistice, and subsequently to proceed to the conclusion of peace."

Notification to Powers

London, Nov. 19.—The nations of the Balkan confederacy, satisfied with victory, to-day signified their willingness to treat for terms of peace at the request of the vanquished Turkish Empire.

The lustre of their success has been only slightly dimmed by their temporary failure to overcome the rallied Turkish army at the gates of Constantinople and enter the Ottoman capital. The stubborn defence encountered by the Bulgarians at the line of fortifications at Tchaatja, and the realization that enormous slaughter would be necessary to pierce them at the point of the bayonet, with every prospect that their ranks would be decimated by cholera before they had attained success, doubtless proved the deciding factors in inducing the conquerors to listen to the urgings of the great powers and refrain from pressing home their victory.

Simultaneously with the dispatch to the grand vizier of their agreement to appoint peace plenipotentiaries, the allied Balkan nations notified the European powers of the step they had taken and thanked them for their offer of mediation. They added that mediation was no longer necessary, as the Porte had addressed itself directly to the Balkan states, who would now treat with Turkey without outside intervention.

That the terms of the victors will be drastic is known, but the powers are doing their utmost to make them less harsh than was at first reported, without attempting to rob the Balkan confederacy of the fruits of war.

With the jealous eyes of Russia on Constantinople, with the recalcitrance of Austro-Serbian difficulty on the other side of what hitherto had been known as European Turkey, and with Roumania inquiring what she may expect out of the spoils, there seems to observers to be every inducement for the Balkan nations to keep their demands within moderate limits.

Root of Austria's Grievance

Vienna, Nov. 19.—A dispatch to the Reichs Post gives incidents at Pristina as described by an Albanian fugitive. He says that Serbian soldiers forced the doors of the Austrian consulate after threatening to bring up a gun and shell the building. The Serbians rushed in and found the courtyard filled with Albanian women and children who had taken refuge there. The Serbians cut down over one, turning the courtyard into a shambles. The soldiers then rushed upstairs to the consul's apartments and burst the door open. In the struggle the consul, M. Prochaska, received a bayonet thrust, Albania's Claims.

Constantinople, Nov. 19.—A memorial urging the great powers to secure Albania's national and political independence was presented to-day by a deputation of Albanians to the foreign embassies and the Turkish foreign office. The Albanians declare they are dissatisfied by the political aims of the Balkan confederation, and will not admit any change in the present territorial standing of Turkey in Europe of which they would not admit, they say, any interference by the Balkan nations in the administration of a country which belongs to the Albanians by virtue of a heritage from their ancestors.

Powers Behind Austria

Belgrade, Nov. 19.—The representatives of Germany and Italy informed Premier Pachitch, of Serbia to-day, that their governments supported Austria's view of Serbia's claims to an extension of her territory after the war. M. Pachitch declined to give a definite answer until the conclusion of the war.

SCHRANK INSANE

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 19.—A commission of five alienists who examined into the mental condition of John Schrank, who shot Colonel Roosevelt to-day reported to Judge Backus, finding Schrank insane.

WASHINGTON SHOOTING CASE.

Two Married Women Concerned Are in Custody.

North Yakima, Wash., Nov. 19.—Mrs. George Defoe and Mrs. Swanwick, the two women who, after masquerading as unmarried girls, were indirectly responsible for the slaying of John Haverman and the wounding of G. Ogburn by George Defoe Sunday morning, were taken into custody Monday morning by the sheriff's office and will be held as witnesses. Ogburn is at St. Elizabeth's hospital, but is expected to recover in a short time from his flesh wound. No inquest was held by the coroner, as the manner of the shooting is known and Defoe admits that he did it, although he puts the defence that he shot toward the ground and did not intend to kill the men.

JOE. AGAIN TO THE FRONT.

London, Nov. 19.—Hon. Joseph Martin is again on the track of the Speaker with a motion to censure him for not dealing drastically with the Unionists who stopped the debate last week.

VARIOUS VIEWS ON BRITISH AFFAIRS

IRISH LEADER SCORES UNIONIST MEMBERS

William O'Brien Says Government is on Verge of Collapse

London, Nov. 19.—Mr. John E. Redmond, speaking at York last night, characterized the recent Unionist actions as a deliberate attempt to overcome the majority by violence. Mr. Redmond declared that the leaders of the Unionist party had proved themselves to be anarchists and had they succeeded in their recent endeavors to overthrow the Asquith government it would have meant the end of parliamentary government.

Prime Minister Asquith at the same time denied the rumor that the government intended dropping the Welsh Disestablishment bill.

In a letter to a Liberal meeting which was held at Alnwick last night, Earl Grey, in writing of the recent "violence" of the opposition, declared that no measure to which the opposition objects can operate until it has been passed three times or until an appeal to the country is made. He thought that the Unionist militancy was absolutely inexcusable.

The scheme for the financing of Home Rule is rotten to the core, is the opinion of Mr. William O'Brien, according to his speech at Cork last night. Still further, Mr. O'Brien believes that the Unionist militancy was absolutely inexcusable.

The Right Hon. Sir W. Anson, in denouncing the course taken by the opposition to prevent the government from rescinding Sir Frederick Banbury's motion, declared last night that there were three courses open to the opposition when Prime Minister Asquith proposed to override the ancient rule of the Commons. First, the Unionists could have refused to take any further part in the proceedings. Second, they could have protested until the closure motion was applied. Lastly, the third course open to the opposition was to stop any possible means of creating a farce to which the business of the House might be reduced. This course, according to the speaker, was the one which was adopted. The events of Wednesday are not to be without their use, thinks Sir W. Anson.

HOCHELAGA ELECTION.

Montreal, Nov. 19.—Election day in Hochelaga opened with a very heavy vote polled in St. Gueorgede and St. Henri, the principal working class districts in the division. On the other hand, Westmount, which rolled up such a heavy majority for Hon. Louis Coderre at the general election last year, and which is the principal residential district of the wealthier classes, reported only a slight vote. This, however, is expected to increase materially during the afternoon.

TO SELECT EXHIBIT SITE.

Chicago, Nov. 19.—The New York State Panama-Pacific Exposition commission, headed by Norman E. Mack, stopped here on its way to San Francisco to select the site for the New York State building at the exposition. The party will visit St. Paul on its way to the coast and is to arrive in San Francisco next Monday.

ALLENS RELIEVED.

Richmond, Va., Nov. 19.—Governor Mann granted Floyd and Claude Allen a reprieve to-day until December 13. They were sentenced to death in the electric chair November 22 for their part in the Hillsville, Va., court-house murders.

BATTLE BETWEEN CROOKS AND POLICE

TWO MEN AND WOMAN DEAD; FOUR WOUNDED

Fight Occurred in a Raid on Headquarters of a Dia- mond Thief

New York, Nov. 19.—The body of Henry Vogel, described by the police as an international crook, and beside it the body of his girl, "Lottie," lay in the morgue to-day, and John Allen, a city detective, was dead, while in up-town hospitals four men, two of them detectives, were hovering between life and death, unable to give a connected account of how they were shot in a raid on Vogel's rooms, where he was sought as a diamond thief.

In the fusillade which followed the entrance of the detectives, Vogel and the woman were instantly killed. Accounts vary as to whether he shot his companion and committed suicide, or whether they fell before the fire of the officers.

Of the wounded four was expressed for the recovery of two, Louis Geraci, a private detective, and William Butler, a waiter. For the other two, both shot in the abdomen, there was little hope.

NEW ZEALAND CRUISER NOW IN COMMISSION

Action Expected to Have Some Moral Effect in Diplo- matic Circles

London, Nov. 19.—The new cruiser, New Zealand, built at the cost of the New Zealand government, was commissioned to-day. The commissioning has been carried out very hurriedly, probably because in the present state of European politics every new pennant hoisted means an additional support to British diplomatic arguments.

ANOTHER TRAIN HOLD-UP.

Ottawa, Ia., Nov. 19.—The Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway Southwest Limited, between Kansas City and Chicago, due here at 12.05 a. m., was held up at midnight by two bandits boarded the Ottawa and Mystic. The men boarded the train at Mystic and robbed the passengers, compelling them to hold up their hands until the train pulled into the Ottawa station. The bandits escaped here. The police and sheriff have arrested five suspects.

MAILS THROUGH TUBES.

New York, Nov. 19.—The largest mail tubes in the world are to be installed between the Grand Central and Pennsylvania Railroad stations here. The tubes will be at least twenty-four inches in diameter and may reach thirty inches. They will be built to carry mail bags, so that the re-handling of mail will not be necessary.

FRUITS OF JEALOUSY.

Seattle, Nov. 19.—Charles E. Nee, aged 54, a shipwright, shot and killed his wife, Mary, aged 39, in a hotel on Third avenue to-day, and then shot and killed himself. The couple had been married three years, and had not lived happily together on account of the husband's insane jealousy. After a quarrel last Friday the woman refused to live with him. Nee laid in wait for her in the hall of the hotel to-day, and on her final refusal to return to him the shooting took place.

RAILWAY ROUTE MAPS.

The Minister Approves of a Batch of Applications.

Ottawa, Nov. 19.—At a route map hearing by Hon. Frank Cochrane, minister of railways, on noon to-day, Canadian Pacific grade revisions were approved as follows: West of Calgary between Ross Peak and Six Miles, B. C.; between Chase and Salmon Arm, B. C.; Proposed revisions of C. P. R. lines between Indian Head and Qu'Appelle from Bassano easterly and from Swift Current westerly were approved. No one appeared on behalf of Alberta Interurban Railway, which proposes to build a line from Calgary to Cochrane and approval was held over. Western Dominion Railway line from No. Six Range to Calgary was approved with the exception of three miles immediately south of Calgary boundary. This was held over because of protest of Calgary Polo and Turf Club, which does not desire to have its property interfered with. It was stated by counsel for the railway that the company is negotiating with Calgary for entrance to that city. Canadian Northern railway route maps from Craven northerly and through townships 22-24-T1, ranges 2-7, west of third meridian, were also approved.

ANOTHER TRUST TRIAL.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Nov. 19.—The trial of John H. Patterson and twenty-nine other officials and ex-officials of the National Cash Register Company of Dayton, Ohio, charged with violation of the criminal section of the Sherman anti-trust law, began to-day in the United States court of the southern district of Ohio.

PRIVY COUNCIL JUDGMENT.

London, Nov. 19.—Judgment was given to-day in the case of McPherson and another versus the Tomskaming Lumber Co., Ltd., from Ontario. The case was allowed. The record was received May 8, 1912. The appeal was taken as to whether certain property was properly seized under a writ of fi fa. The solicitors for the appellants were Harrison & Powell and for the respondents Blake & Redden. The case was heard July 22-23. Present were the Earl of Halsbury, Lords MacNaughten, Watkinson Shaw and Sir Charles Fitzpatrick.

REAL SHIPPING MERGER THIS BIGGEST COMPANIES IN WORLD ARE IN IT

Preliminary Negotiations Com- pleted—List of Concerns Said to Be Interested

NEW ZEALAND CRUISER NOW IN COMMISSION

Action Expected to Have Some Moral Effect in Diplo- matic Circles

New York, Nov. 19.—It is asserted with great circumstantiality in financial circles here that preliminary negotiations have been completed to form the greatest shipping combine the world has ever seen. The companies interested are: Cunard, capital $10,000,000 and 21 steamers; Peninsular & Oriental, capital $17,500,000 and 64 ships; British India Steam Navigation Company, capital $5,500,000 and 12 steamers; Royal Mail Steam Packet Company, capital $40,000,000 and 123 steamers; Furness, Withy & Company, capital $17,500,000 and 63 steamers. Sir Owen Phillips is carrying out the deal.

TWO ENGINEERS KILLED PASSENGERS INJURED

Two Trains Come Together on Railway Track in North Carolina

Richmond, Va., Nov. 19.—Two engineers are known to be dead and thirty to forty passengers reported either dead or injured in a collision of two through passenger trains on the Seaboard Airline at Granite, N. C. No definite details have reached Richmond.

Raleigh, N. C., Nov. 19.—A wrecking train and three passenger trains rushed from Raleigh to Norfolk this morning. Engineer Will Faison and Engineer C. H. Beckham were reported killed. Both men are residents of Raleigh.

Richmond, Va., Nov. 19.—Five are known to be dead and many injured as the result of a head-on collision early to-day near Granite, N. C., between the north and southbound Florida-Cuba special trains on the Seaboard Airline railway. The trains met shortly after 2 o'clock. The telegraph wires were torn down and communication cut off for many hours.

Many of the passengers and members of the crews of both trains were injured, including Conductors W. R. Tillingham and G. G. Hannonhouse, two of Richmond, who are reported as "badly injured." Wrecking trains were rushed to the scene from Norfolk, N. C., about seven miles.

FOURTH ATTEMPT SUCCESSFUL.

Ex-Member of Seattle Police Force
Kills Himself.

Seattle, Nov. 19.—Edward E. East, who was dropped from the Seattle police force a month ago for drinking, shot and killed himself to-day by placing a shotgun's muzzle in his mouth and discharging the weapon. This was his fourth attempt at suicide in a year. First he leaped from a hospital window, but his injuries were not serious. Next he tried to drown himself, but was rescued. The third trial, made three weeks ago, was by gas asphyxiation, but the pulmotor revived him.

LAST DAY OF GUNMEN TRIAL.

New York, Nov. 19.—By night the four gunmen charged with slaying the gambler, Herman Rosenthal, should know whether they are to follow Charles Becker to Sing Sing, there to await the electric chair, or to go free, acquitted of the crime. This morning marked the last stage of the trial with Justice Goff's charge to the jury. It was thought he would occupy at least three hours.

LONDON TIMES ON EMPIRE UNITY

SUGGESTS IMPERIAL CONFERENCE ON COAST

Premier Fisher Invites British Ministers to Pay a Visit to Australia

London, Nov. 19.—The Times, referring to the unprecedented offer to the Imperial government by the Malay States of a battleship, comments upon Prime Minister Andrew Fisher's invitation to the British ministers to visit Australia. This invitation, says the Times, should be considered, and every endeavor to accept such an invitation should be made.

Meanwhile, it says, conferences between Mr. Winston Churchill and Australia and New Zealand at Vancouver, B. C., next spring would give a more practicable meeting place. Such a conference is urgently required.

"The sooner a second defence conference is held," continues the Times, "the better for all of us. The Imperial spirit which is being shown on every side should not be frittered away by disjointed efforts or uncoordinated aims."

GRANDVIEW LIBERALS VERY ENTHUSIASTIC

Successful Meeting Addressed by Some Prominent Resi- dents of Vancouver

Vancouver, Nov. 19.—Ralph Smith, Maxwell Smith, E. B. McMaster, J. W. DeB. Farris and J. McDonald Mowatt last night addressed a smoker held by the Grandview Liberal Association in the Grandview hall, and aroused a new spirit in the association. Their speeches were cheerful, confident, stirring, and more than that, they inspired the gathering with a new energy and a confident expectation that that grand old man, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, must some day and soon lead them to supremacy in Canadian affairs.

The policy of the British Columbia government toward land settlement, Borden's naval plans and British politics as they relate to Canada's national growth were taken up by the speakers in turn, and a world of new and interesting views and information was expressed.

INVESTIGATING WRECK.

Quebec, Nov. 19.—Captain Lindsay, wreck commissioner, this morning opened an investigation into the causes of the stranding of three vessels, the Bellona, Gladstone and Royal George.

The case of the Bellona was taken up first. Mr. Wiechke, first officer of the Bellona, came on deck at about 8 o'clock p. m. The night was cloudy. About a quarter of an hour later the pilot gave the order to set her helm hard aport and turned her so that she described a complete circle. He asked the pilot if he was not heading right back to Quebec. He then answered, "I then went below and informed the captain. This took him about a minute, and when he returned the ship had been turned right round again to her proper course. The inquiry was adjourned until this afternoon."

STEEL TRUST'S CASE.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 19.—After a three weeks' recess, Henry P. Brown, examiner appointed to take testimony in the suit by the government in the New Jersey federal court to dissolve the United States Steel Corporation as violators of the Sherman anti-trust law, to-day resumed hearings here. Dr. Francis Walker, deputy commissioner of corporations, was the first witness called by the government. He was questioned about data gathered from representatives and investigations of the steel corporation.

KILLED ON TRACK.

Ellensburg, Wash., Nov. 19.—An unidentified man, thought to be Roy Carlson, of Seattle, was run over and killed by a westbound "Columbian" at the Milwaukee depot here this morning. The body was horribly mutilated.

FATAL RAILWAY WRECK.

Crossfield, Nov. 19.—Shortly after midnight last night a way freight dived into the caboose of a stock train at Wesssex, a flag station near here. One man was killed outright and three injured. Doctors were rushed from Didsbury and here, and the injured men were sent to Calgary with remains of the dead man on the morning train.

EARTHQUAKE SHOCK.

Seattle, Nov. 19.—A severe earthquake in Alaska was recorded this morning on the seismograph of the University of Washington. The disturbance began at 6.07 and continued until 6.50, with the maximum at 6.11. The vibrations from the north were so strong that they threw the needle off the drum.

Denver, Col., Nov. 19.—An earthquake was recorded on the seismograph at the College of the Sacred Heart here, beginning at 7.05 and ending at 7.32 this morning. It is believed the disturbance was about 1,500 miles distant, in the direction of Alaska.

Mexico City, Nov. 19.—A severe earthquake occurred here at 7.15 o'clock this morning. The movement was oscillatory and passed from north to south. It lasted more than three minutes. Many brick walls and a few poorly constructed small houses were thrown down.

The street pavements buckled and several water mains were broken. No casualties have been reported.

THE REAL CRISIS OF BALKAN WAR

RELATIONS OF SERBIA AND AUSTRIA STRAINED

Emperor Says Country is Not in Favor of Peace at Any Price

Rieka, Montenegro, Nov. 19.—A combined army of Serbian and Montenegrin troops occupied to-day the town of Alessio, near the Adriatic coast. Alessio had been the chief source of supply for the besieged Turkish garrison of Scutari.

The Montenegrin and Serbian armies met before Alessio yesterday. The combined forces then delivered an assault of such fierceness that the Turks hoisted the white flag in the morning. The Serbian and Montenegrin troops entered the town to-day. Their losses were not great.

London, Nov. 19.—The occupation of Alessio by the combined Serbian and Montenegrin armies, giving them another foothold on the Adriatic Sea, is considered in diplomatic circles likely to aggravate the Austro-Serbian dispute, which has again become critical. Emperor Francis Joseph is reported to have remarked: "We are in favor of peace, but not peace at any price. We cannot stand everything."

The Austro-Hungarian cabinet has sent a sharp note to the Serbian government at Belgrade, demanding a precise reply to all questions at issue. The note says the note was distinctly threatening in tone and adds: "Military measures will give emphasis to the diplomatic demand should Serbia's answer again be unsatisfactory."

Some papers assert that Serbia is preparing to concentrate her main forces on the Austrian frontier.

Diplomatic circles do not exclude the possibility that the Serbians, relying on the Slavs in Austro-Hungary, and on the support of her Balkan allies, may challenge the issue.

Russia Also Interested.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 19.—The statement issued at Athens that Russia had recognized as definite the Greek occupation of Salonica is officially denied here to-day.

Losses at Monastir.

Belgrade, Nov. 19.—The Turkish casualties during the three days' fighting prior to the fall of Monastir before the attack of the Serbian troops are reported to have reached 1,000. Great quantities of modern field guns, rifles and supplies fell into the hands of the Serbians.

The Serbian government considers that with the fall of Monastir the work of its army in Macedonia can be regarded as complete. In exactly one month they have swept the Turks from the whole of Old Serbia and captured booty worth many millions.

King Peter of Serbia will make a triumphant entry into Monastir in a few days. The decoration of the streets to welcome him has begun.

SIX YEARS FOR SLAYING MAN.

Montreal, Nov. 19.—Wentworth Moseby, the man who was accused of having murdered Wm. Biles, a waiter at Dominion Park, last summer, was to-day sentenced to six years' imprisonment, the jury having brought in a verdict of manslaughter. The case had sensational features owing to the fact that Biles was stabbed in broad daylight in Dominion park and yet there were no actual witnesses of the tragedy, although it was known that Biles and Moseby had quarreled.

MARRIES "BEAUTIFUL WOMAN."

Portland, Ore., Nov. 19.—Si Christofferson, the noted aviator, will at 3 o'clock this afternoon marry Mrs. Emma Becker and immediately depart on an aeroplane honeymoon trip up the Columbia, ending, God willing, at Carson Springs. Mrs. Becker, a beautiful woman, has been married three times before.

FOUR GUNMEN ARE FOUND GUILTY

CHARGED WITH TAKING PART IN N. Y. MURDER

One Man Already Under Death Sentence for Same Crime

New York, Nov. 19.—"Gyp the Blood," "Lefty Louie," "Whitey" Lewis, and "Dago Frank" Cirofici, the gunmen charged with the murder of Herman Rosenthal, were all found guilty of murder in the first degree by a jury in the Supreme court this afternoon. The jury deliberated only an hour and ten minutes.

The quick verdict came as a surprise to everybody. The jury in the case of Lieut. Charles Becker deliberated nearly seven hours before reaching a verdict. Becker is now in Sing Sing, sentenced to the electric chair for having instigated the murder.

For more than three hours Supreme Court Justice Goff charged the jury. If the state's informers committed the crime, as the defence contends, he asked, was it reasonable to assume that the informers would invite the gunmen as witnesses?

"If Jack Rose has lied," he said, "in swearing that the gunmen did the shooting, why then did he not go further and swear that he had actually seen the shooting at the hands of the defendants. These are circumstances for you to consider," cautioned the court.

As in the charge to the Becker jury, Justice Goff ruled that Rose, Vallon and Webber were accomplices. Schepers' status he left for the jurors to decide.

"There is nothing in the law," he added, "to prevent your giving full credence to the testimony of Rose."

Justice Goff finished his charge at 1.35 p. m.

Justice Goff remanded the prisoners until 10.30 a. m. to-morrow, when he will fix the day for pronouncing sentence.

The entire proceedings in court after the jury came in occupied only seven minutes. The defendants were brought in by four wardens and a policeman. They heard the verdict with faces staring straight ahead.

The crowd in the courtroom received the verdict without demonstration and the news caused no visible excitement when it reached the throng outside the building.

CHARGED WITH KILLING CLIENT.

Goshen, N. Y., Nov. 19.—Introduction of evidence began to-day in the trial of Burton W. Gibson, the New York lawyer, charged with the murder of Mrs. Rosa Menacnik Szabo, his client, while boating on Greenwood lake, July 16. District Attorney Rogerson planned to fix the scene of Mrs. Szabo's death in the minds of the witnesses on the stand before proving the fact of her death. Gibson is anxious for the jury to visit Greenwood lake and see it for themselves. Robert H. Elder, his lawyer, indicated that he might ask the court to have the jury taken to the lake to-day.

CHINESE BURNED TO DEATH.

Vancouver, Nov. 19.—Two Chinese were burned to death in a fire which destroyed a laundry building on Second avenue west at 4 o'clock this morning. Two other Chinese are missing, and it is believed their bodies will be recovered from the ruins of the burned structure. The building was occupied by eighty-six Chinese, and all became panic-stricken when the flames were discovered. One jumped out of a second-storey window and broke his leg. The fire started through an explosion of chemicals in the laundry.

SUFFRAGIST SETBACK.

Trenton, N. J., Nov. 19.—The court of errors and appeals has affirmed the decision of the state supreme court holding that women are not entitled under the constitution of New Jersey to vote for civil officers, presidential electors or upon questions submitted to the people. They are, however, permitted to vote at school elections. Suffragists have heretofore claimed that women are entitled to vote under the state constitution of 1776, and that this right was improperly taken away in 1844.

COULD NOT WAIT.

Vancouver, Wash., Nov. 19.—Charles Bird, who would have been 77 years old to-morrow, a resident of Clark county for 50 years, shot himself to death at his ranch last night. He was one of the best known men in the county. He leaves a wife, two sons and four daughters.

THREE LOBE LIVES IN FIRE.

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 19.—Three persons lost their lives in the fire which partially destroyed the St. George, a theatrical hotel, shortly after midnight last night. Fourteen were injured, of whom one baby, who was dropped in a flame-eaten basket by its frantic mother, probably died.

DEMORALIZATION IN TURKISH ARMY

GERMAN OFFICER ON LACK OF ORGANIZATION

Officers Lax in Attention to Duties, Soldiers Languish for Lack of Food

Paris, Nov. 18.—A picture of the demoralization in the Turkish army is drawn by the war correspondent of the Matin at Hademkeul, the Turkish headquarters on the lines of Tchatalja. He says: "Colonel Lehman, a German officer, who has just taken over command in the Turkish artillery, declares he did not find a single gun in place. The Turks have plenty of guns and ammunition. They have German cannon and also French cannon taken from the Servians before hostilities began. Three French guns were seen lying in the mud at the Hademkeul railroad depot, rust-eaten and useless.

"The total of the Turkish forces is estimated at 150,000 men, but there is a complete lack of energy among the commanders and organization of any sort is absent. The commander-in-chief does not leave his parlor car, where he will not receive anybody. The staff officers of the Turkish army themselves cannot be seen out after 10 o'clock in the morning.

CAMERON GIRL RELEASED.

Chicago, Nov. 18.—Government officials, it was said to-day, may order the release to-morrow of Lucille Cameron, the white girl, whose association with Jack Johnson, the negro pugilist, led to his arrest for alleged violation of the Mann law. She has been held in the Rockford county jail as a witness against the fighter, but now that other witnesses have appeared government officials do not regard her as important, and she may be allowed to go home to Minneapolis with her mother, Mrs. F. Cameron-Falconer.

ELECTIONS IN RUSSIA.

Chicago, Nov. 18.—A special dispatch to the Chicago Daily News from St. Petersburg says: "Elections of members to the fourth Duma are finished. Notwithstanding the influence of the clergy and the strong pressure by the authorities to arrest and exile radicals so as to bring about the success of the candidates officially endorsed, the results are disappointing."

Hungarian Minister in Speech Explains Causes of Actions of Austria

Budapest, Nov. 18.—The Austro-Hungarian minister of foreign affairs, Count von Berchtold, in a debate this afternoon on the subject, reiterated Austria's policy with regard to the Balkan situation.

He said the changes wrought by the war obliged the government to concern itself with the effect those changes would have on the interests of the monarchy. The cabinets at Vienna and Rome, he declared, were agreed on the future of autonomous Albania, adding: "Our policy like that of Italy, is based on principle."

He hoped that the pour-parlers now proceeding would result in the speedy cessation of hostilities and the conclusion of peace. "We have reasons," he said, "for presuming that the states at war will not overlook the legitimate interests of other powers."

Regarding the trouble which has arisen through the alleged detention of Austrian consuls by Serbia, and the denial of their right to communicate with their government, he said that the Serbian government had recently officially complained of the attitude of Consul Prochaska, when Prisrend was captured, and asked that he be replaced. To this reply was made expressing readiness to inquire into the complaint and asking that an opportunity be offered for direct communication with him.

The Serbian government replied that military authorities objected to the dispatch of an Austrian-Hungarian courier to Prisrend. Negotiations on this point were still proceeding. Steps had been taken regarding the consul at Mitrovitza, who was deprived of liberty of action by the Serbian military authorities and returned to make a verbal report.

PREPARING FOR EVENTUALITIES.

Why Foreign Forces Were Landed in Constantinople.

Washington, Nov. 18.—The men landed in Constantinople yesterday from the United States station ship Scorpion were part of a force of 2,000 which the diplomatic corps decided to send ashore as a matter of precaution. Advice received at the state department to-day indicate Constantinople remains quiet, but it was thought desirable, after a conference among the foreign representatives, to send troops ashore to occupy the embassies and legations.

The commanders of the international fleet have made arrangements for the protection of foreign residents on both sides of the Bosphorus from San Stefano to Duyukdere, and it is believed their plans will be adequate to meet any emergencies.

MURDERED WOMAN IDENTIFIED.

Chicago, Nov. 18.—Mrs. Edna Schaffer partially identified to-day the woman murdered at a downtown hotel last week as Mrs. Renner, of Mt. Clemens, Mich., and Detroit. Mrs. Schaffer said that she met George Renner, a son of the Michigan woman, a few days ago and that he told her that he and his mother had come to Chicago from Detroit on their way to the Pacific coast. Mrs. Schaffer said Renner told her he had no money and borrowed 25 cents for food from her.

FAMOUS SHOT DIES.

Vancouver, Nov. 18.—One of Canada's foremost trapshooters, and in the early nineties a noted all round athlete, has passed away at his home in North Vancouver in the person of Mr. John A. Forbes. He was stricken with paralysis a short time ago and never rallied.

PENNY AN HOUR FOR WOMEN WORKERS

THAT IS RATE PAID IN BIRMINGHAM

Women Must Be Very Industrious to Earn Even That Much

London, Nov. 18.—Extraordinary revelations concerning the earning of women workers in the great industrial centre of Birmingham have been made by the government inquiry held in connection with the special order of inclusion of married women within the customary provisions of the Insurance Act.

Employers themselves testified that women engaged at home at hook-and-eye carding and similar work often earned only two cents an hour, while many of them, even by working fifty-four hours a week, could not earn more than a dollar a week.

A representative of the Birmingham Chamber of Commerce said that a carder of hooks and eyes might reasonably expect to earn $2.25 a week if she worked for the whole week, while larger sums might be earned at carding miscellaneous goods. These, he added, were entirely unskilled and a child could do the work.

Some Specific Cases.

This testimony, which met with a hostile reception from the trade unionists at the inquiry, was hardly substantiated by a director of a limited company, who said that of 270 women out-workers employed by his firm 20 per cent earned under 25 cents a week, 35 per cent under 50 cents, 21 per cent under 75 cents, 13 per cent under $1.00, 7 per cent under $1.50 and 2 per cent under $1.75. The highest price they paid for carding was 20 cents per great gross and the lowest 10 cents per great gross.

Mrs. Farrington, a contractor for carding, said that the most industrious of carders didn't earn more than a dollar a week, and Mrs. Scott, another employer, said an average worker could not earn more than 2 cents an hour.

TRIAL OF GUNMEN.

Prosecutor Sums Up Case Against Murderers of Rosenthal.

New York, Nov. 18.—Arguments of counsel in the trial of the four gunmen charged with the murder last July of Herman Rosenthal, the gambler, was expected to occupy most of the day in Justice Goff's court. At the opening of the session Charles Wahle, counsel for the defence, addressed the jury and the afternoon was allotted to Frank Moss, summing up for the state.

Mr. Wahle began his plea with the assertion that Jack Rose was the guiding hand that put the shots in Herman Rosenthal's body. Rose, he characterized as a "criminal for 20 years and never caught."

"You must have weighed beneath the depths of calm demeanor of Jack Rose," counsel continued, "the degradation and criminality of his character. His was the brain that directed the plot which Webster, Vallon and Scheppe carried into execution."

Mr. Wahle said the evidence proved that Rose feared the gunmen, that he sought them out to prove he had nothing to do with the "framing-up" of Jack Zelig, the gang leader.

FINANCIER IN VANCOUVER.

Vancouver, Nov. 18.—Mr. R. Mason, a prominent financier of London, England, in Vancouver after an extended tour of the prairie provinces, where he owns, in conjunction with other British capitalists, extensive land interests. Mr. Mason visited Winnipeg, Saskatoon, Edmonton, Athabasca Landing and Calgary. It is his intention to look over the British Columbia field. Mr. Mason was favorably impressed with the development in progress on the prairies. The visitor is accompanied by Dr. J. E. Cox, of London, England.

ONLY RESULTS COUNT

The one thing above all else that you want to know about the range you buy is this--that it will cook and broil and bake with ABSOLUTE satisfaction. Other features of a range such as convenience, economy and appearance, are, of course, also indispensable, but the prime necessity in a range results in the cooking. The Gurney-Oxford gives results--not now and then--but always.

Every Gurney-Oxford is a source of continual satisfaction to its owner. Day by day, year after year, it enables her to produce pastry, bread, roasts that contribute to the pleasure of housekeeping. That is why the Gurney-Oxford finds its strongest support among those who have had actual and intimate experience with it. You will number your Gurney-Oxford among your best friends.

MONGOLS RISE AGAINST RUSSIA

APPEAL TO CHINESE PRESIDENT FOR AID

Troops Under Orders to Proceed to Frontier--Repudiation of Convention

London, Nov. 18.--One hundred and ten Mongolian princes and chieftains at a meeting yesterday in Peking, according to advices to the Daily Telegraph, decided to repudiate absolutely the convention signed by Russia and Mongolia, by which Russia guarantees the independence of Mongolia, and resolved to ask President Yuan Shi Kai to afford military protection to those Mongolians willing to join the Chinese republic.

The advisory council of the president endorsed the Mongolian princes' resolution and 45,000 troops belonging to the northern army were placed under orders to proceed to the Mongolian frontier. A number of battalions have left by train for the city of Kalgan, half of which is Mongolians and half Chinese.

MAIL OPERATOR ARRESTED Post Office Inspectors in Seattle Making Investigation.

Seattle, Nov. 18.--As the result of the arrest in this city Saturday of J. Byrne, "financier of London and Paris," post office inspectors began an investigation into a bundle of papers and documents taken from the prisoner, which are declared to reveal operations in many cities on the Pacific coast, including Portland and Seattle, and render Byrne liable to a charge of using the mails to defraud in connection with the financial scheme, said to bear all the earmarks of "J. Rufus Wallingford, of Get-Rich-Quick" fiction fame.

Government officials were extremely reticent concerning it, but it was admitted that the charge to be brought against Byrne was in connection with an alleged contract to investigate various properties for certain specific sums of money, invariably paid in advance.

In Other Cities Also. Cincinnati, O., Nov. 18.--In simultaneous raids in six cities to-day a score or more persons were arrested charged with using the mails in defrauding a large number of individuals and corporate companies out of sums which, federal officers say, may aggregate $1,500,000.

Federal marshals raided offices in Cleveland, Chicago, New York, Boston, Newark, N. J., and Rochester, N. Y., and took into custody men indicted by a grand jury here a few days ago, as well as others said to be connected with the alleged frauds.

The defendants, it is said, guarantee to dispose of stock in various enterprises, charging as a fee in advance a sum equal to one-third of the value of the stock. Upon receiving this commission, the government charges, the defendants made no efforts to see the securities.

The prisoners will be brought to Cincinnati for trial, it is said.

LINCOLN IN SCHOOL HISTORY.

Austin, Tex., Nov. 18.--"I would rather resign the governorship of Texas," declared Governor Colquitt, in a statement issued today, "than to have my children studying a school text book without Abraham Lincoln's picture in it, and I am the son of a Confederate soldier, too." The statement was made in connection with the proposed elimination of Lincoln's picture from a history book. Governor Colquitt denied absolutely that any member of the board had made any such suggestion.

AGAIN GUSHING OIL.

Fresno, Cal., Nov. 18.--The famous Lakeview oil gusher is once more pouring out oil, flowing about 2,000 barrels a day. This well made the California oil fields famous in 1910, when for more than a year it shot out thousands of barrels of oil a day, converting the surrounding country into a lake of oil. It suddenly stopped late in 1911 and had been drilled deeper.

GET A TEN-CENT BOX OF CASCARETS

Keep Your Liver and Bowels Active and You Feel Bully for Months

Put aside--just once--the Salts, Cathartic Pills, Castor Oil or purgative waters which merely force a passage through the bowels, but do not thoroughly cleanse, freshen and purify these drainage or alimentary organs, and have no effect whatever upon the liver and stomach.

Keep your inside organs pure and fresh with Cascarets, which thoroughly cleanse the stomach, remove the undigested, sour and fermenting food and foul gases, take the excess bile from the liver and carry out of the system all the constipated waste matter and poisons in the intestines and bowels.

A Cascaret to-night will make you feel great by morning. They work while you sleep--never gripe, sicken and cost only 10 cents a box from your druggist. Millions of men and women take a Cascaret now and then and never have Headache, Bloating, Constipation, Indigestion, Sour Stomach or Constipated bowels. Cascarets belong in every household. Children just love to take them.

SPREADING THE GOSPEL IN BAFFIN LAND

Trying Experiences of Missionary in the Frozen North--Lost Two Toes

Sydney, N. S., Nov. 18.--The Rev. Percy Broughton, Anglican missionary to the Esquimaux in Baffin Land, arrived recently on the S. S. "Beothic." Mr. Broughton's return was made necessary by the terrible hardships he endured after straying away from his guides while returning to the mission station at Lake Barbour in March last. His guides were detained on the way, and he went on ahead, only to take a wrong track. He saw his mistake, however, and returned, only to find that the guides had passed. The missionary kept on his way and, after spending a night in the open, made for the coast intending to walk the rest of the distance on the ice to an Esquimaux village he knew.

A day after he started a strong wind drove the ice offshore. He was close enough to shore to get clear, but fell in the water. Removing his boots to wring out his socks he found one of them frozen so stiff that he could not put it on again. Going on he went past the village about half a mile and spent another night in the open.

In the morning his feet were frozen so badly that he had to make his way to the village on his hands and knees. He sent some of the Esquimaux to the station for help, and while semi-conscious the women, instead of putting his feet in cold water applied heat. The next day he was removed to the station and lay for three months in terrible agony. He lost the toes of his right foot, his cook performing the operation.

On the 11th of August the mission ship arrived and took him off. From here, he was transferred to the D. G. S. "Minto." Here Dr. Goodwin, of Halifax, treated him, two operations on his feet being necessary. After six weeks on the "Minto" he was transferred to the "Beothic" which landed him here, eighty-four days after leaving Lake Harbor.

From here Mr. Broughton goes to Toronto and thence to London, England. He is still very lame and shows in his face the terrible hardships he endured. He will return north, he says, in two years as men able to speak the language are hard to get. The usual stay of missionaries in Baffin Land is two years at a time. Mr. Broughton went north in July, 1911.

MINING MAN IN VANCOUVER. Superintendent of Some Big Operations Being Carried on in North.

Vancouver, Nov. 18.--W. J. Elmendorf, one of the best-known mining men in British Columbia is in Vancouver. He is at present supervising the driving of a 2,300-foot tunnel for the Portland Canal Tunnels, Ltd., designed to tap at depth the high-grade silver veins of a number of mining properties, including the Portland Canal Mining Company, the Glacier Creek Mining Company, the Stewart Mining Company, the O. K. group, and ultimately the Ben Bolt group, owned by Sir Donald Mann.

It is calculated that the tunnel, whose portal is adjacent to the tracks of the Portland Canal Short Line Railroad, will intersect the vein on the Portland Canal group at a vertical depth of 2,300 feet below the surface. The work is one of great magnitude, and boring operations with a compressor plant have been in progress for some time.

The tunnel is now in several hundred feet. It is also adjacent to the mill owned by the Portland Canal Mining Company.

Mr. Elmendorf has been engaged in mining for many years. He formerly had charge of several of the biggest silver-lead mines in Idaho.

AFTERMATH OF STRIKE RIOTS.

Socialist Charged With Being an Accessory to Murder of Italian Girl.

Salem, Mass., Nov. 19.--Arturo Giovannetti, last of the accused in the Etior-Giovannetti-Carusio murder trial to testify, took the stand here to-day. The young socialist writer and poet, who is charged as an accessory before the fact to the killing of Anna Lopizzo, faced the jury despite the absence of his personal counsel, W. Scott Peters. Attorney Fred H. Moore took up the defence where it was left last week, when Mr. Peters' illness caused a postponement. Reports were current that Mr. Peters had withdrawn permanently from the case, but this was denied. Giovannetti, whose home is in Brooklyn, went to Lawrence to aid Joseph J. Etior in conducting the strike in the textile mills and addressed the workers on several occasions. The commonwealth sought to prove his utterances in Italian incited the strikers to acts of violence and aided in precipitating the fatal riot on January 29 last.

A WASHINGTON TRAGEDY.

Centralla, Wash., Nov. 18.--A tragedy which has stirred all Centralla was brought to light at 1 o'clock Sunday afternoon by the finding of the body of Charles Newell, son of Edward Newell, coroner-elect of Lewis county. A bullet-hole through the youth's head told plainly the manner of his death. The body was found by Ernest Waunch, a 12-year-old boy, lying in a ditch in the north end of the city. Every article of value was gone from the dead youth's pockets, indicating that the murder had been committed by a highwayman. Young Newell had been employed at the Centralla post office for several years past and was decidedly popular with the young people of this city.

A COOL SUICIDE. Tacoma, Wash., Nov. 18.--Ill and hungry, Thomas Stearns, a young man, "beating his way" from the Middle West to the Coast, last night removed his hat, coat and vest, and sat patiently in a rainstorm on the Chicago, Milwaukee & Puget Sound tracks near North Puyallup until he was struck and killed by a train. His body was thrown thirty feet from the tracks. It was found this morning. The coroner's office has not yet learned the number of the train that struck him. "Let this be a warning to you not to try to beat your way," read a note found in his coat pocket. It was addressed to brothers and sisters of the suicide, who live in East Chicago Michigan City, Ind., and Charlestown, Mo. The note said he had not eaten for several days and was ill. STRIKE-BREAKERS STRIKE. Edmonton, Nov. 18.--Twenty-six strike-breakers who had been brought here by the Canadian Bridge Company from Montreal for work on the C. P. R. high level bridge across the Saskatchewan, went down to work this morning and then refused to take up their tools and get home. At the bridge they were met by representatives of the Structural Ironworkers' Union and the side of the strikers was explained to them. At the request of the superintendent, Capt. Robinson, and Sergeant Wright of the city police took a squad of men to the bridge to prevent apprehended trouble. But there was no need for the police, as the Montreal men decided that the strikers were right and would not go to work. KILLED WHEN BUYING COFFIN. Raleigh, N. C., Nov. 18.--Caught in the collapse of a casket display case, George Newton, aged 79 years, was killed to-day in the local undertaking establishment, whence he had gone to buy a coffin for the burial of his wife, who died a few hours before.

BOURASSA'S STRATEGY.

Mr. Henri Bourassa, whose influence in Canadian politics is of some-what doubtful importance, has been defining his latest position respecting the duty of Canada in the matter of naval defence. He did this before a large assembly of McGill university students in Montreal last week. Truth to say, Mr. Bourassa, in the main, sustained the position which he has all along championed when discussing the responsibility of the Dominion and its place in imperial defence projects. His discussion of the subject was academic, yet it approached the practical inasmuch as it was throughout a closely-reasoned argument against a contribution to the British or Imperial navy. As a strategist he exhibited a fund of resources and his firm contention was that Canada should not contribute to Imperial defence, neither in ships nor money, because she has no voice in or control over the foreign affairs of the Empire.

He roughly sketched the rise and fall of one preponderant power after another in Continental Europe with a view to showing how each in turn has been helped to achieve a dangerous position by Great Britain, who necessarily checked her friendship to other powers to keep in check the power that she had helped to create. The present power of Germany he claimed to be due to the refusal of England to help France when asked by M. Thiers for aid. Thus if there is a German menace to-day it is entirely due, according to Mr. Bourassa, to the conduct of the British foreign office in not plunging into war with Germany at an earlier date.

Here, at each of the preceding points in his narration of history, he emphasized the fact that Canada had had no hand in the direction of the policy, but that England and Scotland were alone responsible. Then he referred to Japan, and found her growth in power to be also a direct result of British diplomacy. If she menaces our Western coast to-day he held Britain responsible for it by actions in which Canada had had no say, and consequently he thought that Great Britain should alone support the navy that she needs to hold in check these powers of her own creation.

It must not be understood that Mr. Bourassa is opposed to or out of sympathy with all projects having in view the defence of the Empire. As a loyal British subject he believes in that defence but he does not believe that the building of Dreadnoughts or the gift of money is the duty of Canadian people. His difference with the Borden proposals, as he characterizes them, is a difference as to method and Mr. Bourassa is constructive as well as destructive with his opinions. He thinks Canada is the weakest link in the Empire when the question of defence is to be considered and he does not appear to believe that England is either the most vulnerable nor the most needy part of the Empire at the present time. Canada, he says, is without either land or coast defences and, according to his judgment, should first set herself to remedying these inept conditions. He stands firmly by his earlier declarations that by strengthening the fortresses and multiplying the land forces the Dominion, prepared to defend itself, would most effectively strengthen the chain which binds the Empire.

This is, of course, the enunciation of a "Nationalist" policy. It fits in singularly with the Laurier theories of Canada's duty as proposed in the Laurier naval policy. If Mr. Bourassa is sincere there was never any sufficient justification for his opposition to the Laurier policy. The marked difference is that Sir Wilfrid's plan proposed coast defences by building warships while Mr. Bourassa would depend entirely upon land defence. Sir Wilfrid would have his navy at the service of the Empire under the accepted theory that "when Great Britain is at war Canada is at war." It was on this question more than any other that Mr. Bourassa launched all the force of his opposition against the Laurier naval policy and hurled the strength of his allies into the fight for the defeat of Sir Wilfrid and the election of Mr. Borden. If he was sincere in the position he took a year or more ago he must, in all consistency, oppose the Borden proposal of a gift of Dreadnoughts with equal vehemence. He is apparently preparing to do this, but only apparently. One can only wonder whether Mr. Borden really misjudged his Nationalist allies when he undertook to accept their support in order to gain the fleeting satisfaction of attainment to power and without reckoning far enough in the matter of what it is yet likely to cost.

As a strategist Mr. Bourassa has balanced himself comfortably on the tight rope and does not seem to be much perturbed over the possibility of his losing that balance. Yet in spite of all this clever manoeuvring there are many people of sound judgment in Canada who still believe that Mr. Bourassa is only playing the game for Mr. Borden. If he can relieve the Premier of the odium of Nationalist alliance he will do a great deal.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE.

Interest in the presidential election in the United States and the complete reverse suffered by the Republican party almost obscured the important fact that four new states are added to the list of those whose women will hereafter enjoy the rights, benefits and advantages of the ballot. Kansas, Michigan, Oregon and Arizona will grant the franchise to women on the same terms as to men. Wisconsin failed to carry the referendum and this is accounted for by the large preponderance of citizens of German descent who do not readily abandon the idea that a woman's place is not in politics. Altogether ten states have now conferred the franchise right on women and the propagandism which has brought about this result will be continued until the whole lump is leavened.

The women are as keenly alive to opportunity as the masculine element in the body politic. They do not propose to be satisfied with the first fruits of victory and are determined to have what the men have. A leading suffragette of California, Mrs. Clarke Shortridge Foltz, has sent a message of congratulation to President-elect Wilson, the sting of which is in its tail. She asks him to consider the women of the ten suffragette states in the formation of his cabinet. She thinks the women might fairly be recognized to the extent of at least a secretaryship. She does not say so but there is the lurking thought apparent that votes for women are but the Apples of Sodom unless they carry the emoluments and kudos of office. Inasmuch as that is how the spoliemen in the male system look upon the game of politics we are not surprised when the women begin where most men wish they had long ago left off.

What is really notable about the American suffragette campaign as contrasted with that of the Pankhurst school in Great Britain is that it has achieved the first stages of its purpose without the adoption of Carrie Nation methods. Window smashing and skull cracking have had no part in the American campaign. Yet the women have "got there," to use a common euphemism of speech. This is accounted for by the London Standard on the theory that the American male species possesses a good many of the qualities which have been formerly considered "distinctively English." The average "mere man" in America will fervently pray that none of the militant suffragettes will adopt the militant tactics which also have been so distinctively English.

BALKAN CONFEDERATION.

Now that the allied Balkan states have vanquished Turkey and will probably drive the latter out of Europe the destiny of the newly emancipated nations is the question of the hour. It must be hoped that time will be taken to dispose of the problem in a manner that will assure the peace of Europe as far as this hotbed of former unrest is concerned. That this will be the case seems to be intimated in Premier Asquith's declaration that the allies must not be deprived of the fruits of their victory. So far there has been little if any interference by any of the great powers. It is not credibly affirmed that even sinister influence has been exerted by any of these. They seem to have witnessed with the keenest interest the progress of what was an eminently fair fight and as with trifling exceptions, there was no violation of the established rules of armed conflict, there appears to have been a concerted understanding that the spoils must go to the victors in the end.

It is not improbable that the amenities of the powers will be taxed in the readjustment of European relations. As far as the problem can be settled permanently it would appear that the erection of a powerful Balkan confederation formed out of the four nations allied for the expulsion of Turkey would be the best method. With the exception of the Greeks the allies are all of the same stock and have approached about the same degree of civilization. For the most part their political and economic problems are the same and by so much as they are the same they are different from similar problems in any of the other European countries.

The problem which will perplex the powers is the settlement of the mastery of the Servian plateau. At least this is the opinion of Prince Lazarovich Iribellanovitch, a Servian scholar, economist, writer and statesman who has been most prominent in Servian affairs. It must be remembered that it was in Servia that the intrigue which has resulted in the overthrow of Turkey commenced. Servian emissaries affected an alliance throughout the Balkans and it was they who organized the armies and directed the late conflict, though the Bulgarians put up the best fight.

According to the prince, the Balkan problem is the fight of the powers for mastery of the Servian plateau. England has supported the Turks because she saw in Turkey a buffer between the Suez canal and any European power which might desire to secure a seaport on the south. Russia desires supremacy on the plateau for the exact opposite reason, while Austria's interest is said to have been born of sheer desire for territorial aggrandisement. In the opinion of the prince it would be a calamity if any of the great powers were permitted to gain mastery of the plateau, since it would give that power the dominance over the connecting link between the East and West, and he would trust none of them to use it always for good. The united Balkans, however, would have the connecting link, but neither of the ends. They would be in no position to menace any other power, being without colonies, navies or any considerable foreign trade. Apart altogether from the fact that the plateau belongs to them, they are the owners, whose possession of the key would be no menace to others.

The new nation which Prince Lazarovich believes will be brought forth as a result of the war would be no mean power to begin with. Bulgaria's population is about 4,000,000; Servia's is 3,000,000, Greece has 2,500,000 and Montenegro has 200,000. From what is now Turkish territory, but inhabited by Serbs and other Christians, the prince estimates that more than 4,500,000 could be drawn. This would make a nation of nearly 15,000,000, which, because of its military strength, and because of the nature of the country it would inhabit, would be too strong for any single European power to wantonly meddle with. Under a common ruler, the prince chosen from one of the powers, Ferdinand of Bulgaria being by all odds the most prominent and probably the most capable, there would be four spheres of influence, that of the Servians, of the Bulgars, of the Greeks and another sphere in which all would be interested. This fourth sphere would be set aside for common administration, while the other sphere would be governed much as they are at present, but all owing allegiance to one king, and having common customs and other laws, and a common economic development. This is the prince's dream, and he believes that only the hostility of Austria will prevent it from coming to pass.

Mr. Alfred L. Seeley, an evangelist, who has been lecturing in Chicago on "Hell and Its Inhabitants," predicts that the world will be destroyed by fire in the autumn of 1914. The date for the collapse of the universe has been fixed so many times within the span of our brief memory that we feel like Hon. R. L. Borden is said to feel over the probable explosion of his naval policy. If the thing is really going off there will be a good deal of satisfaction in having it over with.

Women's Costumes Worth Up to $67.50
Go on Sale Wednesday at $25. See the View Street Window Display

The Most Attractive Costume Bargain Offered This Season. Values to $67.50 for $25

It is seldom that Victorians have the opportunity to buy a costume that can measure up to the high standard of value that this line represents, at anything like this price. To see the samples now in the View street windows will be convincing evidence of this statement. Then there is such a wide variety of different styles and materials to choose from that there are few women who will fail to secure a costume that will give her extreme pleasure for a long time to come.

Prominent amongst the materials are beautiful velvets, velvet corduroys, fine serges, diagonal serges, chiffon broadcloths, and Bedford cords, etc., in all the latest and most popular colors and patterns.

This line is entirely composed of our best imported models with the exception of the strictly plain tailored costumes. There are attractive Norfolk styles, many charming novelty costumes, some with the new Robespierre collar, and many other lines that show excellent taste in design and great skill in tailoring.

Think of the very best values that you have ever seen at $25.00 and then come with the expectation of getting a value that will give your ideal a long start. You'll not be disappointed.

The goods are their best advertisement, why not see them?

The Men's Clothing Section Will Be a Busy Centre on Wednesday Morning

HERE are the lines that will be responsible for the extra volume of business that will be transacted at this end of the store on Wednesday. We have absolute confidence that the quality of the goods will give you entire satisfaction, and the price inducements are worthy of consideration.

MEN'S SERGE SUITS COSTING ONLY $12.50

This is an entirely new line that has just come to hand. They were purchased at an advantageous price or we couldn't offer them at such a low figure. They are to be had in the double and single breasted styles and come in a great assortment of shades and patterns. Some good Bannockburn mixtures are included. All sizes are to be had and all are one price.....$12.50

$1.75 TWEED PANTS FOR $1.00

Only fifty pairs are to be sold. They are a broken line and that's the only reason for the reduction. Various colors and patterns.

GOOD COATS FOR TEAMSTERS

Are to be had in strong corduroy lined with leather, or in a heavy duck lined with sheepskin. These garments are reversible, can be worn either side out. Prices from $3.75 up to.....$9.50

Pillow Cases That Fill All Requirements and Give Satisfaction to Spare

WHEN a woman is out to buy a few pillow cases, price is only one consideration, and it isn't the most important one at that. She must have a pillow case that will go through the laundry time and time again, and still wear a good appearance, and do credit to her work.

Unless they are a quality that will give her long and perfect satisfaction, she cannot call them a bargain, no matter how low the price may be.

That these lines are bargains is a fact that is readily seen when goods and prices are compared.

PLAIN HEMMED PILLOW CASES, made from a strong quality of cotton. They are to be had in a variety of sizes and the price, per dozen, is only.....$2.00

ANOTHER GOOD LINE is to be had with either plain hems or neatly hemstitched. Almost any size is to be had. Per dozen.....$2.50

HEMSTITCHED PILLOW CASES—We have only 30 dozen of this line and those of our customers who have been enquiring for this special line will have to shop early if they wish to secure them. This is a specially good line, made of English cotton and finished with a 2 1/2 inch hem. Sizes 40 and 46. Per dozen.....$3.00

HIGH GRADE PILLOW SLIPS—These are the best that the Irish weavers know how to weave. They are dependable in every shape and form. Although a little expensive, they are worth all they cost. Per dozen.....$4.20

These Inexpensive Garments Double Your Children's Comfort

THERE is nothing so interesting to a mother than that which concerns the perfect comfort of her child. It is her natural instinct plus the refining influence of her education that makes the tie so strong, and often causes the mother to go short of comfort to be able to provide the child with an extra comfort.

No need for self denial when such excellent garments as these are to be purchased at the small prices quoted below.

See them and you'll admit that they look like the most practical garments that you have ever seen marked at an easy price.

CHILDREN'S PYJAMAS, made of a heavy flannelette and are to be had in various striped patterns. Sizes for children from 4 to 14 years old. Prices from $1.25 up to.....$1.50

FLANNELETTE NIGHT DRESSES for your girls. These are in plain pink and white and are handsomely finished with silk embroidery. Sizes for children from 4 to 14 years. Prices 75c, 85c and.....$1.00

FLANNELETTE DRAWERS for girl 2 to 16 years old. These are well made from a good quality of flannelette and are finished with ruffles of the same material. Price, each.....35¢

FLANNELETTE DRAWERS of better quality at 40c and.....50¢

INFANT'S FLANNELETTE NIGHT DRESSES—Here is a large assortment of styles to choose from. Some are finished with lace and handsome silk embroideries. The slip-over style is well represented. Prices from 40c up to.....$1.00

Warm, Light and Inexpensive Bedding for Your Children's Cots

NOTHING too good, or too attractive for the little folks' crib. Mothers like their little ones to look cute even when the child is unconscious of the admiring eyes. Then you have to think of the child's comfort. What is warmer, more comfortable, light and healthy than fleecy woolen blankets and dainty white quilts?

QUILTS FOR CRIBS are to be had in a choice variety of raised designs. They are a fine weave and have a snowy white finish. We have three different sizes to offer to you and the prices are $2.50, $2 and $1.25

CRIB BLANKETS—These are the real "Whitney Blanket" and are made of pure wool. They have a beautifully soft and fleecy finish and are a generous size. Just the thing for cold nights. Per pair, $6.00

TEDDY BEAR BLANKETS are the cutest line you ever saw. Not only are they very attractive but they afford much amusement for the child, are as snug as you can wish a blanket to be and will more than satisfy you for length of service. The small sizes are to be had in blue and pink with the animal patterns in white at, each.....75¢

The larger sizes, same style as the above, are marked at, each, $1.25

Progressive Club Dinner.—At the dinner of the Victoria Progressive Club on Thursday at the Westholme Grill, J. F. Lins and Ernest McEaffrey, secretary of the Vancouver Island Development League, will speak on the subject of "How to attract the tourist traffic to Victoria, and practical methods of taking care of it when here." The president, W. W. Baer, has prepared a booklet on Victoria, giving the physical, commercial, and statistical information on the city, which will be published shortly.

Benefit Concert and Dance.—There will be a benefit concert and dance at Semple's hall on Friday, at 8.15 p. m., given by the Western Star Lodge, No. 7, for which an interesting programme of vocal and instrumental selections has been prepared, in addition to the farce, "Fooling Father," which is being given by members of the Western Star Dramatic Society. The second part of the programme will also conclude with a playette by the same talented company, "From Punkin Ridge," which will prove most amusing.

Scottish Concert.—Nothing appeals to the Scotchman away from the land of his birth like a concert of his dearly beloved songs, varied with stories, some reels and Strathspeys on the violin and some marches on the pipes with Highland dancing. This will be offered on Thursday evening in the Victoria theatre to his countrymen and the general public of Victoria by Robert Morrison, the well known popular Scottish vocalist. Mr. Morrison's name is a household word in Victoria for his general excellence as a vocalist. His concerts given in the theatre for the last two years have been successful. The coming one bids fair to excel its predecessors. The population of Victoria is growing apace and the accommodation at the theatre is limited, so it would therefore be well for those intending to be present to secure their tickets at once and be ready to exchange them for reserved seats as soon as the plan is opened at the box office. Tickets can be secured from members of First Presbyterian Church choir.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO TO-DAY

Victoria Times, November 19, 1887.

Mrs. Woodruff, mother of Mrs. Geo. Gieves, slipped on the stairs of the Dominion Bank this morning. She was rendered unconscious by the fall, having sustained a large gash over the eye.

Mrs. E. A. Cook, who was so seriously injured Sunday night by the burning of her dress, succumbed to her injuries this morning at St. Joseph's hospital. She was very well known here.

The residence of T. W. Foster, Simcoe street, was robbed last night and jewellery stolen. The Chinese cook has been arrested. To-day, in strolling along the wharf, a Times reporter noticed a couple of large boats being overhauled by customs officers. Contraband goods were discovered in the boats. For some time past Indians have been smuggling things in when coming back from hop-picking across the Sound.

Mr. Joseph Gosnell yesterday sent a large box of choice apples to the patients of the Royal hospital.

Mr. J. N. Muir, principal of the high school, who recently passed his law examination, was yesterday introduced to the judges and members of the bar.

Hon. John Robson is expected back from the East on Monday night.

Grace English Lutheran Sazaar

The Ladies' Aid and the Young Girls' Altar Guild of Grace English Lutheran church have their annual bazaar in the basement of the church, corner Blanchard street and Queen's avenue to-morrow afternoon and evening. In the evening at 8 o'clock a special programme will be rendered, consisting of an address by His Worship Mayor Beckwith, and some musical numbers. Refreshments will be served during the afternoon and evening.

Building Permits

Building permits issued include dwellings on Hollywood crescent for M. G. Clark, eight rooms, costing $4,000 and W. H. Hall for a seven-roomed house on Robertson street, costing $2,800; and also a garage for H. H. Twigg on Chamberlain street. Other permits also include a stable on Prior street for T. Alexander.

Belmont Methodist Church

The Belmont Avenue Methodist church is growing as the north side of the city continues to spread out. On Sunday twenty-one members were received into the church. The Sunday school attendance totalled one hundred and seventy-one. A choir of twenty members has recently been organized with J. A. Stewart as leader. Mrs. Townsend as organist and Mr. E. Tuck as president. The work of the choir is much appreciated by the congregation. The Epworth League held a concert and social at the Old Men's Home on Monday evening. The Sherwood Auxiliary of the W. M. S. will meet at the church on Tuesday afternoon. Some slight changes are being made in the church auditorium, including an extension and rearrangement of the platform and additional lighting.

COMPTROLLER'S STATEMENT.

General Taxes Have Improved Position at Bank of B. N. A.—Reduction of Overdraft.

The receipt of over $1,300,000 of the general taxes for 1912 has materially improved the city balance sheet for the month of October, which was presented by Comptroller Raymur to the council last evening.

The aggregate overdraft of $2,096,531 is made up of local improvement current account overdraft of $1,785,598.44 and notes held by the bank, $306,524, a total of $1,991,122.14, with overdrafts of $11,883.63 in the Sooke Lake account and $4,028.07 in the sewers, rentals and sewer tax account. Against this are to be set credit balances of $22,928.66. To the deposit account stands credits of $509,958.55 for general purpose sinking funds; $408,074.75 for local improvement sinking funds and the deposit account (contracts) with $71,619.58, a total of $890,652.98, leaving a general balance at the end of the month of $500,209.60.

The situation is thus much improved with the city's bankers, the Bank of British North America.

OBSERVATIONS OF LOCAL MARINERS

Capt. B. Johnson, of Rupert, and Capt. Gillam, of Tees, Write on Tide Tables

Pacific Coast tide tables for 1913, just received from Ottawa, contain the observations of two well-known mariners here, Capt. Barney Johnson, master of the G. T. P. steamer Prince Rupert, who writes on the navigating of Seymour Narrows, and Capt. Edward Gillam, of the C. P. R. steamer Tees, who gives information on the amount of set between Cape Cook and Nootka. Capt. Johnson has the following to say regarding Seymour Narrows:

During the Ebb.

Northbound—Pass Race Point at a distance of one cable, heading directly for broken water on Ripple Rock. Pass Maud Island Lighthouse Point at a distance of about 99 feet, or just outside the swirl off the point, steering for northern edge of broken water from Ripple Rock; then with this swirl about the beam, port easy until in mid-channel off North Bluff.

Warning—If Maud Island Lighthouse Point is given a wide berth, and a course is set to clear Ripple Rock, the current is on the starboard quarter, and the ship is set towards the rock, and when porting helm to avoid this, there is danger of being forced into the eddy. The Narrows can be safely run, northbound, at any stage of the ebb, by a handy ship fitted with good steering gear. The broken water over Ripple Rock can be plainly seen even on darkest nights when the current has any strength.

Southbound—This is the most awkward passage to make through Seymour Narrows, and should not be attempted except at first and last hours of ebb, and then only by handy ships with at least 12 knots' speed. On big tides, that is, tides with more than 15 feet range at Port Simpson, a speed of 16 knots and a vessel particularly quick to answer her helm is necessary for the safe passage during the second and third hours of ebb.

Directions—Keep mid-channel until North Bluff is abeam and then head for westerly extreme of Maud Island, keeping on edge of eddy. As Canoe Pass opens be lively with starboard helm. Meet the current fair end on, as Canoe Pass closes. After passing Ripple Rock do not hug Maud Island too close, as there is an inset between the eddy and main current a short distance northwest from Lighthouse Point. The strongest current is in this point and the overfall can be clearly distinguished during the second, third and fourth hours of ebb.

Strangers finding the ebb running are advised to navigate at slack water only. The passage should be used with caution at night with any strength of current, even by those of intimate local knowledge.

During the Flood.

Northbound—After passing Copper Cliffs, keep to starboard of mid-channel to avoid heavy swirls off Race Point; round this point at a distance of two cables and head for north point of Menzies Bay, with ship's head about W. by S. magnetic. As the channel opens, swing easy until ship is heading up mid-channel between Maud Island and Ripple Rock. Avoid being set towards Maud Island. When Lighthouse Point is abeam the beam, the starboard shore may be favored, as the current here is quite straight. When Canoe Pass opens, work into mid-channel to avoid eddying and broken water off North Bluff.

The strongest current is off the extreme west point of Maud Island. The overfall here is quite distinct. A 12 knot vessel may work up as far as Ripple Rock on any tide, but a speed of at least 17 knots is required to drive through at full strength of spring tides. It is advisable to make the turn about, so as to be stemming the current when passing Lighthouse Point, where the straight current has least width. The passage through Seymour Narrows with the flood is safe and easy if a vessel has sufficient power.

Southbound—Keep mid-channel until North Bluff is abeam, then head between Ripple Rock and Maud Island, keeping this general southeast course until Gowland harbor is closing with Race Point; then starboard to about E. by N., keeping this general course until Cape Mudge light is well open off Orange Point, then swing easy and favor port shore to obtain full benefit of fair current.

The line of straight current during the flood can be clearly distinguished on a calm night.

The following information is furnished by Capt. Gillam from notes made specially at the request of the tidal survey during the summer of 1907. The steamer follows the coasting route on the West Coast of Vancouver Island. On 15 trips each way between July and November last, the amount of set was measured on the run from Cape Cook to the entrance to Nootka Sound, a distance of 55 miles. The set was found to be always north-westward, and never south-eastward. The amount of the set in moderate weather, ranged usually from 1 to 1 1/2 knots per hour. The weakest set during the westerly winds was 3/4 knots, and with the strong east wind it increased to 2 or even 2 1/2 knots.

This behavior of the current was confirmed by fishermen who had been on the coast all summer. They give practically the same limits for the variation of the strength according to the direction of the wind; and they state that the set is never south-eastward at any time of the day or night, because of tidal influence.

TWO DOLLAR LINERS ARRIVE AT 'FRISCO

Bessie and Hazel Both in From Japan—Other Marine News From Golden Gate

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 19.—The British steamer Bessie Dollar arrived to-day from Mororan, Japan, with general cargo, after the discharging of which she will proceed to Puget Sound to load a return cargo of lumber. She reports rough weather.

Bringing 1,750 tons of copra, 500,000 feet of hardwood lumber and a large quantity of general Oriental merchandise, the Dollar line steamer Hazel Dollar, Capt. Ridley, has arrived from Hongkong. In the China Sea very strong northeast monsoons were experienced. From Mororan the passage began with strong west-southwest to northwest winds and heavy seas. On November 1 and 2 a heavy southward gale was experienced, working to the westward with heavy seas and continuing to November 7. On November 11 a heavy southerly gale and high seas were encountered. The last few days the weather remained fair.

At 9 o'clock, November 13, the Hazel Dollar passed a four-masted barque with painted ports and all plain sail set. On the same day the freighter saw a four-masted schooner with square yard forward standing to the south.

The Danish steamer Aralien, under charter to Balfour, Guthrie & Co., to load wheat on the Sound for the United Kingdom, has just been re-measured, and her net tonnage changed from 3,004 to 4,498. She will start north next week.

The Mexican steamer General y Pesquera has arrived here from Guaymas to undergo a general overhauling. She will load a grain cargo back the first of the year. The Japanese steamer Luzon Maru, reported recently as under charter to load wheat on the Sound for Japan, was formerly the British steamer British Monarch. The Manchu Maru, under charter for the same business, was the Russian steamer Manchuria.

The steam-schooner Coaster has been chartered for lumber from the Columbia river to San Pedro at $5.50.

FLOATING DRY DOCK MAY GET FIRST JOB

Royal George May Be Lifted by the Duke of Connaught—Will Be First Test

It begins to look as though the new Duke of Connaught drydock at Montreal, will receive a job earlier than her owners expected. Reports from the Eastern port state that the underwriters seem confident that the Canadian Northern liner Royal George can be raised and in all probability the new floating dock will be given its first test by lifting the wrecked vessel. The dock is now ready for business, and although the work of repairing might be done cheaper in England, the damage is so extensive that the Royal George will not be able to cross the Atlantic in safety, and so the work will most likely fall to Montreal shipbuilders.

The Duke of Connaught drydock is the only floating drydock of any consequence in Canada, and its work will be watched with interest by shipping men on this coast. The new dock is capable of lifting 25,000 tons, and will be able to handle any of the vessels that will come to Canada, for some time. The dock could lift a vessel of the combined weight of the Royal George and her sister-ship the Royal Edward.

The work of repairing the Royal George will be a costly job. Hopes are held out that the steamship will be successfully floated, but some Eastern shipping men do not expect that she will ever again see service. If she is floated she will be lifted by the new floating dock for an examination. It is possible that temporary repairs may be effected to the George so that she may be taken across to England. The underwriters may not, however, take the risk.

Local steamship agents here had booked a number of Victorians for the Royal George, which was to have been the last liner leaving Montreal in time to reach England before Christmas. All the people are now being booked on other liners.

Connaught Park, Alberni

The Alberni Advocate Says:

Among the recent additions to the suburban subdivisions in the vicinity of Alberni is to be noted that of Connaught Park. This property is located on the upper end of the Creamery Road, and has a very commanding situation on the crest of the first hill that fringes the edge of the great Alberni valley. Now that the intervening timber is being taken down there is a grand view of the city, and the head of the canal from this property and this will improve as the clearing of the valley in front progresses.

It is to be noted with satisfaction that the Connaught subdivision is being sold in half-acre blocks, and that these are well within the reach financially of the man who is looking for a little home within easy distance of Alberni, and who at the same time desires more land than the absurd 33 feet lots that are on the market, often miles away from the city. The park is very little further from the E. & N. depot than the business centre of the city, and as the Canadian Northern will also run along the base of the same land Connaught Park will have excellent railway facilities in addition to the first-class wagon road that connects it with Alberni.

That this property is being handled by the well known firm of R. V. Winch & Co., of Victoria, and Vancouver, is a sufficient guarantee of a square deal to those who do business in the new subdivision. This firm sent in an expert to carefully examine the property before they would undertake the sale of the land, and it was only after this expert had become convinced that the Park possessed the elements of a high-class residential subdivision that the firm took the matter in hand.

Mr. and Mrs. Goepel Leave on Awa Maru—Liner Has Big Cargo of Freight

Filled to her capacity with general cargo and with every stateroom utilized, the Nippon Yusen Kaisha liner, Awa Maru, Capt. Shimidzu, left port late this afternoon for Yokohama and Hongkong. All steamships which have left Victoria for the Orient during the last month have experienced bad trips crossing the Pacific, arriving at Yokohama several days late, and the master of the Awa had every thing aboard snug in preparation for a bad trip.

Among the passengers who left on the Awa for the Far East were Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Goepel, well-known residents of Victoria. They are on a trip around the world and after leaving the Awa Maru at Hongkong they will join another Nippon liner bound for Marseilles. From the French port they will cross the continent and later will visit London, returning to Victoria via New York. At Seattle and Victoria all the saloon accommodation was sold out and much of the steerage was taken by Orientals. A great many Japanese joined the steamship at this port.

The Awa took out cargo amounting to 7,000 tons, which included much flour, wheat, salmon, lumber, machinery and general merchandise.

Orteric Takes Big Cargo.

To-day the big Weir liner Orteric, Capt. Howie, passed out to sea with a huge cargo of freight for the Orient. She loaded at Tacoma and Seattle and included in her cargo is a shipment of 6,885 tons of its sort which has ever left the Sound in one vessel. In addition to flour the Orteric has 1,450 tons of box shooks, 1,950 tons of salt fish, 550 tons of fertilizer, 390 tons of canned salmon, 185 tons of forage, 85 tons of machinery, 40 tons of apples and 24 tons of general merchandise. This 16,129-ton cargo, which is one of the heaviest the Orteric ever has been called upon to carry across the Pacific, will be distributed in Japan, China and the Philippines.

Though recently it was rumored that the Orteric would be withdrawn from the trans-Pacific trade, it is expected by Waterhouse & Co., her local agents, that she will return to this coast after discharging her present cargo in the Far East. The Orteric is under command of Capt. James Howie, one of the most experienced skippers in the Seattle-Orient trade.

TONNAGE IN JAPAN SHOWS A GREAT INCREASE THIS YEAR

Together with the activity of the shipping business in Japan last year, and especially since the spring of this year, the importation of foreign-built vessels and the construction of new vessels show a marked increase. The total value of the imported or newly built vessels during this year shows an increase of 40 per cent, or over $2,500,000, compared with last year.

The steamers recently imported by various steamship concerns are the Omi (3,500 tons), of the Nippon Yusen Kaisha; the Rangoon (5,100 tons); Lu-son (4,075 tons), and Nataka (2,600 tons), of the Osaka Shosen Kaisha; and four tramp steamers, viz., the Fukoku (4,500 tons), Taisei (3,500 tons), Tommei (3,300 tons), and Nankai (4,900 tons).

Besides these there is a steamer building in England of 5,100 tons' displacement for a certain steamship company, and also six steamers at Dairen, respectively, with the displacement ranging between 4,000 and 1,500 tons.

Those newly built at the domestic dockyards are the Shidzuoka (6,500 tons), Yokohama (6,500 tons) and Taisei (2,900 tons) of the Nippon Yusen Kaisha; the Noda (1,400 tons) of the Home Office and the Kora (1,100 tons) of the railway board. The Shira (2,100 tons), a sugar vessel, the last named steamer Korai, which is now being built at the Mitsui Bishi dockyard and Engine Works at Nagasaki to the order of the railway board, is expected to be launched shortly.

ONLY ONE TENDER IN FOR REPAIRING STEAMER VASCO

Vancouver, Nov. 19.—The steamer Vasco, which has been on the Wallace way, North Vancouver, for a couple of weeks undergoing survey, following her stranding in Baynes Sound, will take the water to-night. The vessel's damage has been fully ascertained and tenders called for. Only one tender has been put in, it is stated, and the vessel will go to an anchor until the contract for repairs is awarded.

The steamer Venture, now at the McDougall-Jenkins wharf, North Vancouver getting an extra oil tank installed, will shift to the Wallace way to have some new housework constructed. When she is ready for service she will relieve the steamer Chelohsin, which will have oil-burning apparatus installed.

For the simplification of automobile travelling, it is proposed to number all French roads.

TENDERS.

Tenders will be received by the undersigned on residence for W. T. Williams on St. Charles street.

Tenders to be in Saturday, Nov. 23, at noon.

Lowest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

NO SIGNS YET SEEN OF LINER OFF CAPE

Lonsdale Fails to Put in Appearance—Heavy Weather May Be Delaying Her

Heavy weather off the coast is no doubt delaying the Canadian-Mexican liner Lonsdale, Capt. Bate, on her northbound trip from Salina Cruz.

Another wireless message was received last night from Capt. Asakawa, master of the Nippon liner Sado Maru, in which he stated that he would arrive in Victoria early on Thursday morning.

The west coast wireless stations have failed to pick up the new Blue Funnel liner Talthybius, Capt. Allen, which is now on her second trip to Victoria.

Mr. Justice Morrison, in the Supreme Court at Vancouver yesterday, ordered the confiscation of the American fishing schooner Thelma, which was captured by the steamer Newington.

MILD-MANNERED BUT DANGEROUS MAN WITH BOX CREATES PANIC IN POLICE FORCE

Box Contained Dynamite, Man Captured After Being Hit on Head

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 18.—A mild-mannered, smiling man carrying a box, walked into Chief of Police Sebastian's office to-day, and with only a word or two, captured Central police station, cleared out the city jail, cleared out the municipal hospital, and caused the summoning of all the police reserves and every police sergeant and doctor on duty.

This box contains 86 per cent dynamite, said the man. "If anyone touches me I will pull the trigger and away goes this whole section of the city."

The police station was cleared in a moment. The jail was emptied. So was the city receiving hospital, just around the corner. And at noon they remained empty, while the man with the box sat in the chief's office, calmly watching Sebastian and two detectives, who, in their turn, watched for an opportunity to overpower him.

FIVE STOKERS DESERT FROM THE ESTEVAN

New Steamer for Marine Department Reaches Montreal—May Leave To-morrow

Dispatches from Montreal to-day announced that the new steamer Estevan, for the marine and fisheries service on this coast, reached there this morning from Collingwood, Ont., and that she met with her first delay of her trip to this port.

The cause of the desertion of the five stokers is not known. Providing none of the other members of the crew follow the example of the stokers, the Estevan should be ready to leave Montreal to-morrow.

DESERTERS ARE CAUGHT.

Three deserters from H. M. S. Shearwater have been captured and are to be returned to England.

SCHIFFBEK PASSES OUT.

Loaded with a full cargo of lumber for the United Kingdom the German barque Schiffbek passed out to sea this morning. The windjammer loaded at Vancouver and has 2000 feet aboard.

Next Question is the Cost to Turkey of the Final Settlement

London, Nov. 18.—The first official intimation sent out by the Bulgarian government at Sofia that fighting between the Bulgarian and Turkish armies had taken place at Tchatalja arrived here this afternoon.

This was issued subsequent to the announcement of the appointment of plenipotentiaries to conduct peace negotiations with the Ottoman government. Whether or not it means that "further operations" will be proceeded with as soon as the eight hours of the armistice agreed to for the burial of the dead expires there is nothing to show.

The silence of Sofia as to the results of the fighting is taken here to be an indication that General Savoff, the Bulgarian commander-in-chief, has discovered that the task of getting within the Turkish lines of forts and entrenchments will prove a tremendous one. It is thought possible the Bulgarians will call on their allies for reinforcements.

STREET SWEEPERS THERE AT ACCIDENT

MANSLAUGHTER CASE IN THE POLICE COURT

Evidence in Chinese Collision Case Was Taken This Morning

The preliminary hearing of the charge against J. A. Rithet was commenced in the police court this morning. The prosecution calling James Graham and William Hendry, street sweepers, who were working on Fisguard street early Saturday morning when the automobile driven by the accused is alleged to have struck the Chinese, Jim Sook, also known as "Red Charlie," who died as a result of the injuries he received.

Both the street sweepers thought the machine when on the street was travelling at a high rate of speed. They were questioned particularly by Mr. Maclean why they had not been called at the inquest yesterday. Both said they had attended at the request of Sgt. Claydars, but had not been asked to give evidence.

DESSERTERS ARE CAUGHT.

Three deserters from H. M. S. Shearwater have been captured and are to be returned to England.

TRADE HANGS FIRE

Chicago, Nov. 19.—The Tinker trade with Cincinnati whereby the Chicago Nationalist shortstop is to become manager of the Cincinnati club, continues to hang fire in spite of the expressed willingness of Owners Murphy and Herrmann to arrange a trade.

The unwillingness of Manager Evers, of the Chicago club, to affix his approval of the deal is said to be the cause. Tinker and Evers had a conference yesterday, after which Tinker talked over the telephone with Herrmann. Evers said he wanted four men, including Knisely, Mitchell and Phelan, for Tinker. This is not much different from Herrmann's original proposition.

A NEW SOPRANO AT THE METROPOLITAN

Mme. Lucrezia Bori's New Name — Caruso's Golden Voice Beautiful as Ever

Not in recent years has any newcomer among opera artists so completely and successfully awayed a first night Metropolitan audience as did Mme. Lucrezia Bori, who made her American debut in the title role of Mr. Puccini's "Manon Lescaut," says the New York Herald.

That she is Spanish, young and pretty, that she has sung in Italy, Spain, and Paris with success—these facts are already well known. But no predictions had gone forth from the Metropolitan announcing her as a great artist. She sang with the company three years ago in Paris, making her debut there in the same opera as recently, "Manon Lescaut." Mr. Gatti-Casazza heard her, liked her and engaged her.

So far as New York was concerned she had to win her artistic spurs just as though she never had sung anywhere else before. There was a ripple of approval when she first tripped down from the old American coach, and one caught such expressions as:

"Isn't she dainty and graceful!" And she sang that act very well, but there was hardly more than perfunctory applause at its close. It was evident when the second act began that she was under tense strain. Then came her aria, when she poured out her heart to her brother. This was beautifully sung, her light soprano carrying to the utmost corners of the house, some of its tones being quite bell-like in ringing clarity. Her phrasing was musical, her voice in perfect control. At the close of that song many shouted "Bravas!" while others merely applauded. The little singer from Spain had won her hearers.

As the noise of approval filled her ears she heaved a deep sigh and then bowed. Her whole body relaxed. She must have known that aria would be her test, and when she found she had won her hearers she was immensely relieved. From that moment she sang and acted with even greater ease than before. A dozen curtain calls at the end of that act, as many at the close of the third, flowers in quantities and "bravas" rewarded her.

Miss Bori, whose name in its original is Lucrezia Borgia, had won by her temperament, her light, agile soprano voice, her musicianship and her acting. There were certain tones that sounded very "open" and almost "white," as the learned doctors of music diagnose it. But these are small matters compared to the general beauty of her voice and singing. And then there is her youth and beauty—for she is in her early twenties—her personality and her excellent singing.

First mention is made of her because she was the chief newcomer. But what about Mr. Caruso, who sang Des Grieux? Has any one ever heard him sing more beautifully than he did recently, or with more expression of eloquent, golden voice? He was in his vocal element. His second act aria of misery, when he chanted of his degradation, was charged with compelling pathos. And in the finale of the third act he fairly sobbed his solo, begging that he might accompany Manon who was being deported to America. Dramatically he was intense in his acting, and in lyric pathos his voice was nothing short of exquisite.

Another newcomer was Mr. Giorgio Polacco, Italian conductor, heard here for the first time. He proved to be a good musician, temperamental in his climaxes, unusually sympathetic in his accompaniments—save in one or two instances when he hurried the singers.

THE PRINCESS THEATRE.

The Princess theatre last evening presented the latest Canadian play, entitled "The Wolf," and it made a decided impression. The story is supposed to take place in the Alberta country, long before railroads had invaded it, and it had but few settlers. The first act is mostly descriptive, and leads up to the intense situations, and strongly dramatic incidents of acts II and III. The fact that these were fully appreciated last evening by the audience, was proved by the close interest shown, and generous applause given. The play is not lacking in comedy; on the contrary it is full of good hearty laughs, and they come in the most unexpected places. Hulda, the gentle girl whose likeness to her Swedish mother constantly enrages her embittered old father, was exceedingly well played by Miss Page, and as usual her sympathetic voice, and natural manner, made the part effective. Mr. Van Dyke as a Young French-Canadian, also gave a good conception of the part. Mr. Belasco is to be congratulated on doing the most finished, and artistic work of his engagement, in "Willie" McDonald the engineer, who has charge of the railway survey. Mr. Alden as McTavish, the hard old Scotchman, Hulda's father, played an exceedingly difficult part in a masterly manner. Mr. Ripley, in the comedy part of George Huntley, showed up to splendid advantage, and Mr. Horn as Estate La Grand, a Hudson Bay trader, with a kind heart, though rough exterior, was also good. The class of plays being put on at the Princess theatre calls for high commendation. The greater part of them are plays that are still going at the high-priced houses, and the Williams management procure most of them at a high price, on account of their not being yet shelved. That this fact is appreciated is shown by their well-filled houses. "The Wolf" will be played all week with Wednesday and Saturday matinee.

CHINESE SUFFRAGISTS IN GOLDEN STATE

Those Born in California Cast Their Votes in Presidential Election

The Chinese women of California who were born in this state have the right to vote, just the same as their American sisters. When the woman suffrage amendment was carried in California the young Chinese women who had received an English education became interested and, like the American women, began to look forward to the time when they could cast their votes and thus participate in the choosing of candidates for office.

As the time approached for Presidential election many Chinese women duly registered. On election day they went to the polls and voted. They did not turn out in any great numbers, but attracted considerable attention. Few cast their ballots on the winning side, the majority voting for the Roosevelt electors.

Mrs. Wells has devoted much study to police work among girls and women. When she suggested a position on the Los Angeles force, she was laughed at by city officials and the police. She persisted, showed the need of some one to handle the problems of girls, and especially to combat the white slave trade, that three years ago was beginning to get a foothold in Los Angeles. The newspapers took up her case, and at last she was sworn in as a police officer. She practically assigned herself at first and made a round of the moving picture theatres, where she found many young girls without proper protection. She took them home and lectured their mothers.

Then the "mashers" suffered at her hands. She arrested several single handed, and took them to the police headquarters with crowds following. Thus she was assigned to regular

RECENT DEATH OF A GREAT PUBLISHER

William Blackwood Head of a Famous House—Historic Associations

London, Nov. 12.—William Blackwood, the editor of Blackwood's magazine and well known as a publisher and printer died to-day. He was born at Lucknow, India, in July, 1836.

Mr. Blackwood was the grandson of William Blackwood, the founder of the publishing house of William Blackwood & Sons, Edinburgh and London.

Blackwood's Magazine is one of the old literary landmarks of Great Britain and from the time of its first appearance in April, 1817, until the present, it has wielded a powerful influence in literature, criticism, and politics. William Blackwood, its founder, who was born in 1776 was a man of intellect, and he gathered round him a staff of distinguished contributors including Sir Walter Scott, John Gibson Lockart, James Hogg (the "Ettrick Shepherd"), Professor John Wilson ("Christopher North"), Thomas De Quincey, John Galt (father of Sir Alexander Tilloch Galt, the Canadian statesman), William Maginn, Thomas Aldrich, and David Macbeth Laing ("Delta").

Magazine Wielded Great Power. Blackwood's Magazine became the great organ of the Tory party and from that day to this it has been stalwart in its political allegiance. The literary ability displayed in its pages was so much in advance of anything published in the periodicals then existing, that from the first it was a brilliant success. It was conducted with great dash, overwhelming its political and literary opponents with its farcical humor and withering sarcasm.

William Blackwood himself conducted the magazine until his death in 1884. His place was filled, between 1884 and 1882, by his sons, Alexander and Robert. Under John Blackwood (1818-79) the third son, who was editor from 1852, "Maga," as it became known to its staff, not only sustained but increased its reputation, and the places of its old contributors are still supplied by many of the most distinguished writers of Great Britain.

It was under the editorship of John Blackwood that George Eliot's first stories, "Scenes from Clerical Life," first appeared in the pages of his magazine. William Blackwood the third, whose death is now announced, became editor in 1879. With him were associated his nephews, George William and J. H. Blackwood, sons of Major Geo. Blackwood, who was killed at Malvaud in 1880.

Your Breakfast Room Made Comfortable With Fuel Supplied the Night Before

Cole's Hot Blast Heater maintains a continuous fire—also a steady even heat. It will hold fire from Saturday night until Monday morning (48 hours) without attention. It will hold fire over night with less coal than any other stove. Open the drafts in the morning and the rooms are quickly heated with the fuel put in the night before. No other stove does this. Burns Soft Coal, Slack, Siftings, Hard Coal or Lignite. One ton of either kind of fuel goes further and gives you more comfort than two tons, using any other kind or make of stove.

Your attention is called to the unparalleled statement made by the manufacturer of Cole's Hot Blast Heating Stove

"For several years we have authorized our Agents to sell Cole's Original Hot Blast Heater on the guarantee as follows:

- *1—A saving of one-third in fuel over any lower draft stove of the same size, with soft coal, slack or lignite.
- *2—That Cole's Hot Blast will use less hard coal for heating a given space than any base burner made with the same size fire pot.
- *3—That the rooms can be heated from one to two hours each morning with the soft coal or hard coal put in the stove the evening before.
- *4—That the stove will hold fire with soft coal from Saturday night until Monday morning.
- *5—A uniform heat day and night, with soft coal, hard coal or lignite.
- *6—That every stove will remain absolutely air-tight as long as used.
- *7—That the feed-door is and will remain smoke and dust-proof.
- *8—That the Anti-Puffing Draft will prevent puffing.
- *All we ask is that the stove shall be operated according to directions and connected with a good flue.

(Signed) COLE MANUFACTURING CO., Not Inc. (Makers of the Original Patented Hot Blast Stove.)

This remarkable guarantee from the makers of this stove should be of interest to you if you contemplate buying a heating stove. Years of use has proven that no heater—at twice the price—equals it for radiating heat, for holding fire, requiring so little attention, never giving trouble, and cutting down your coal bill one-third to one-half. Come in and examine Cole's Original Hot Blast which is now imitated by nearly every other stove manufacturer. Price $15 and upward, according to size.

CORDIAL RECEPTION TO REV. DR. CAMERON

New Pastor of Tabernacle Baptist Church Welcomed to Ministerial Ranks

The reception given last evening to Dr. Cameron, the recent addition to the Baptist clergy of Victoria, was a very happy affair. The room was beautifully decorated with flowers, the tables were artistically arranged, the house was full, the speeches were brief and spicy and the collation very toothsome. The young ladies who served the tables and those who recorded the musical numbers, performed their part in good keeping with their attractive appearance. Rev. Mr. Tapscott occupied the chair and seemed to be in the best of humor. The speakers were Revs. J. W. McCoy of the Presbyterian church, T. W. Gladstone of the Reformed Episcopal church, and J. Warricker and Wm. Stevenson of the Baptist church. All of the speakers gave Dr. Cameron a cordial welcome to the ministerial ranks of the city and promised him their love and co-operation in the work of the Christian church. The chairman when introducing Dr. Cameron, spoke warmly of what he knew of the work done in a mission in letter from his wife; take every word as literally true, to be believed and trusted. On this account he accepted the first part of Genesis as a plain and truthful statement of the creation of the Universe, of this world, of man, of his fall into sin, and of the promise of redemption of this woman's child, and, therefore, the son of a virgin and the Son of God. He believed that the climax of God's revelation of Himself was in Jesus Christ and that the redemption of the race was wrought out by Christ by His death and resurrection. The message which he would preach would be along these lines. He would waste no time in seeking to remedy social conditions or in working for the betterment of society. He was only a messenger to declare that sin had been believed were saved and they had the word of God for it. He, therefore, looked upon the world as in a state of rebellion and he was entrusted by God with the terms of peace. On this account he discarded the word "religion," because Christianity was a revelation and a life. It revealed God in Christ, reconciling the world unto Himself; it revealed what kind of life man should live and it imparted the new life in the heart by which that obedience could be rendered. To these simple lines he proposed to adhere and would co-operate with all Christians of every shade and name in making known the unsearchable riches of Christ amongst men. After this address the social phase of the gathering was kept up until a late hour, in sipping tea and coffee, in munching sandwiches and cakes, in listening to musical numbers, and in general sociability. The meeting closed by singing "Auld Lang Syne," and then the benediction. Rev. Mr. Hoyle closed the meeting with prayer.

WOULD ESTABLISH LARGE INDUSTRY IF FORESHORE GRANT CAN BE OBTAINED

Canadian Puget Sound Sawmills Co. Contemplate New Development at Esquimalt

Attention having been called to the situation which has arisen at Thetis Island, Esquimalt harbor, whereby the erection of a large sawmill by the Canadian Puget Sound Sawmills Co., threatens to be frustrated, enquiry was made at the office of the board of trade this morning for information. It was there gathered that in May, 1907, the B. F. Graham Lumber Co. advised the board that they were applying for a foreshore lease of the property they had purchased including Richard Island, and the foreshore property on the Cove. The board having for years previous contemplated the whole of the Esquimalt harbor as a scene of great industrial activity had no hesitation in supporting the application. Accordingly, Hon. William Templeman, who was then acting minister of marine and fisheries was communicated with by letter and telegram—and it was not long before the lease was granted. It was just about that time that the wave of financial depression which swept practically the whole of the world was felt, and the B. F. Graham Lumber Co. experienced difficulty in financing the large mill project contemplated. So far as the board of trade is concerned, nothing was known of the matter until quite recently the new owners of the property reported their readiness to proceed immediately with the mill project, and that capital to the extent of three-quarters of a million dollars was available. It now transpires that the lease was granted conditional upon the commencement of the work within a given time, and that the time expired in August last. It appears also that there is now a recommendation from some quarter before the authorities at Ottawa for a cancellation of the lease. That the mill would be of infinite advantage to the city of Victoria and its development is an assured and indisputable fact. With the vast timber wealth lying behind the city, and the hundreds of acres of fine pine and cedar as yet untouched, the importance of such a venture cannot be over-estimated. Three-quarters of a million dollars represents but a small part of the money which such an undertaking would bring to the south of the island. For the rest the plant is to be of the most modern description, with admirable safeguards against danger from fire; the whole of the machinery and plant is to be run by electricity, and for this it seems likely that the Jordan river plant will benefit; altogether there is every need that strong representations be made in the proper quarter in order that the authorities allow the lease to be granted. The committee of the board of trade has had the matter under consideration for some time, and has telegraphed to Ottawa a wish that the minister will take no action which will prevent or even delay the carrying out of this estimable project.

administered morphine, as she was in pain. Dr. Hall said that while there were three superficial bruises on the body they would not be in any way responsible for death. The jury heard the evidence of Mrs. Grainger, a neighbor who was with Mrs. Gunion before her death, and of Clara Gunion, a daughter of deceased. No evidence of any quarrel was brought into the matter, the coroner remarking that whatever reports had been distributed, the coroner's court was not called for the purpose of anything but to ascertain the cause of death. Death, from the medical testimony, was due to natural causes, he said, and the jury returned a verdict accordingly. The husband of the deceased, who was taken into custody by the provincial police, was retained in custody last night. This afternoon he was presented before the provincial police court on a charge of having liquor in his possession.

THREE ALDERMEN WILL BE OUT OF RACE

How City Fathers Look Upon Approaching Municipal Election

Three of the present aldermen are not likely to run again in January if they stick to their present intentions. Alderman Stewart was the first to announce his impending retirement, and Alderman Anderson followed suit. His fellow-representative in Ward Two, Alderman Humber, after serving four years on the council, is now also retiring. Some of the other aldermen are unsettled, the only one who has promised his supporters definitely to run being Alderman Dilworth, who gave this promise before leaving for the Okanagan, although he says since he returned that possibly conditions may arise which will prevent him from entering the field, but he hopes to be a candidate. Alderman Baker has some private interests to attend to before he can definitely announce his intentions, while Alderman Porter may be expected to be in the field. Alderman Okell has not decided yet on his plan. Alderman Glendon has not made any announcement yet, although it is hardly to be doubted after the renewed expression of confidence in April, when he was re-elected for Ward Three, that he will be before the electors. Alderman Beard has not reached any decision as yet, although his friends in the council are having fun at his expense over the paying of the Gorge road, which in good faith he pledged himself to see through this year. During his illness other work was done, and now the alderman cannot claim to have fulfilled his pledge, however anxious he was personally to do so. Alderman Cutbush is on the Atlantic route to England, but will return in time for the election, and so far as is known will be found in the running.

FIFTH REGIMENT AGAIN SUCCESSFUL

Number One Battery Bring Governor-General's Shield and Turnbull Trophy Here

It is gratifying to hear that the Fifth Regiment, C. G. A., again leads the artillery of Canada in the competitions of the Dominion Artillery Association this year. According to dispatches received from Ottawa the scores in the annual practice of the coast defence batteries of Canada denote that No. 1 Company, 1st Regiment, G. A., is in first place with 608 marks. The company was in command of Major E. Angus, and the firing was excellent with the 12-pounder quick-firers in use. By taking first place in the competitions of the Dominion Artillery Association, the Governor-General's shield for general efficiency and the Turnbull shield for gunnery will again come to Victoria. According to the militia orders, the second place was taken by the Sixth Battery at Quebec with a total score of 510 marks. No. 2 Company of the Fifth Regiment, in command of Major Winiby, was fifth with 492 points.

A BUSY SEASON

At the Vancouver Island Development League—Many Callers and More Correspondence. Victoria branch, Vancouver Island Development League, is just now an excellent indication of the increased interest of the world in general in the course of its greatest city. Every minute of the day there is a constant stream of inquirers from the secretary's door, and the correspondence received is of a most comprehensive and cosmopolitan nature. Exhibits of fruit and vegetables are constantly arriving from different parts of the island to be inspected by curious visitors to the offices of the league. This morning saw the arrival of a large batch of letters and postcard inquiries from the Old Country, and the forthcoming emigration season is well being advertised by the tone of the letters and the information they impart. Two of the communications received this morning tell of prospective settlers who are bringing large amounts of money into the island at a very early date. One of these, writing from one of the best known cities of the continent, has expressed his intention of starting in this city, if he can find an opening for the same, a ladies' residential club containing about 50 rooms and reception rooms. Another writer an-

REV. DR. CAMERON

Woodstock some years ago and of the esteem in which the new pastor was held in Brantford, where he had labored for eleven years.

When Dr. Cameron arose he was warmly greeted, and said that he must be either more or less than human if he did not feel humbled and grateful for all the kind things said and done that evening. He cautioned the people not to take all that had been said at its full value, but with a grain of salt, as these brethren were prejudiced in his favor because of the love of their kind hearts. Were it not for the many changes going on in Protestantism during the past twenty years, he would not deem it necessary to say more than to express his appreciation of the reception given to him. But on account of these changes he thought it well to define his point of view.

He said that he had only a few simple things to guide him. First of all, he believed God to be capable of doing whatever he undertook to do in a way that left nothing to be desired. His words and works are perfect. Then he believed that God had made an effort to reveal Himself and His will in the book we call the Bible. Furthermore, God is an honest God, and it is impossible for Him to deceive us. The Bible, therefore, was a straightforward statement of facts, whether in history, in direct teaching, in type or in prophesy. He read the Bible as he would read a

Arthur Spencer, of the Vancouver house of David Spencer, Ltd., spent the week-end in the city. Mr. Spencer has recently returned from a trip to Europe, which was rendered unusually eventful by an attack of acute appendicitis which necessitated an operation. Fortunately this was successful and Mr. Spencer, judging by appearances, is now in perfect health.

Friends of T. E. Crandall, the young automobile dealer of this city, who was recently married to Miss Letta Byrnes, of London, Ont., in that city, will regret to hear that he has been confined in a hospital at Chicago for the last ten days with appendicitis. Mrs. Crandall wires that her husband is recovering rapidly and will be able to travel shortly, when they will leave for Victoria. He had been ill ever since leaving this city.

MARRIAGE LAWS. Discussed at Meeting of Local Council of Women Yesterday.

At a special meeting of the executive of the Local Council of Women held yesterday afternoon in the Y. W. C. A., the special business had reference to the amendments to existing marriage laws, the disposition of the wealth of minors, and the protection of children. Miss Crease presiding over the meeting.

The discussion was taken up with keen interest, Mrs. R. S. Day submitting a carefully prepared report by the legislative committee, the recommendations therein receiving the endorsement of most of those present. Among those who spoke were Mrs. Day, Dr. Helen Ryan, Mrs. Jenkins, Gordon Grant, Mrs. William Grant, Mrs. Gordon, and Mrs. Henry Hanington.

Mrs. Hanington called attention to the fact that a deformed man had been seen begging in the streets last Saturday, and after some discussion of the means which should be taken to care for such people while they were learning to earn their living, a committee of two, consisting of Mrs. Gordon Grant and Mrs. Mitchell, was appointed to make enquiries concerning the man in question, and to find out what provision was made for such men in the city.

Notice was given by Mrs. R. S. Day that she would submit a resolution at the next meeting asking that amendments to the various resolutions sent in by societies to the council should be allowed.

Miss Crease informed the members that they should come to the next meeting prepared to make some decision in the matter of the resolution passed at the last annual meeting relative to Beacon Hill Park.

NATURAL CAUSES.

Jury Finds on Medical Testimony That Mrs. Gunion's Death is Due to Clot of Blood in Heart.

That death was due to natural causes in the case of Mrs. Mary Gunion, who died on Saturday morning last at her home on the Esquimalt Indian reserve, was found by a coroner's jury yesterday afternoon on the evidence of Dr. George Hall and Dr. McMeeking. A post-mortem examination had been made by Dr. Hall, who said death was due to a clot of blood on the heart. Dr. McMeeking had been called to the home some hours before Mrs. Gunion's death and had

Conductor on Beacon Hill Car is Caught Leaning Out of Car—Removed to Hospital

Seriously injured as the result of an accident on a Beacon Hill car yesterday, the conductor, William A. Kirkbride, lies in St. Joseph's hospital. Kirkbride was an extra man, and was in charge of a car during the afternoon, when at the corner of Menzies street and Niagara street, where the car tracks approach close to the sidewalk to make the turn, the trolley arm got out of adjustment. In leaning out of the rear window to set it right, as conductors often do to save delaying the car by going outside, his head came in violent contact with a street pole, and he suffered concussion of the brain. He was removed to the hospital as soon as possible, where he recovered consciousness sufficiently long to recognize his friends. He is still in a serious condition at the hospital.

At Christ Church on Saturday morning a quiet wedding was solemnized by the Rev. C. Owen, the bridal pair being Miss Freda Smith, the youngest daughter of the late Mr. Stephen Smith, of Turville Grange, Henley-on-Thames, and Mrs. Smith, of 1562 Thirteenth avenue east, Vancouver, and Mr. H. Wyburn George, second son of Mr. and Mrs. Ivory George, of South Norwood, Surrey, says the Vancouver Province. The bride, who wore a travelling suit of grey and grey hat trimmed with cerise, was given away by her mother, Mrs. Smith, and Mr. J. L. Matson acted as best man. Mr. Chubb, the organist at Christ church, rendered very admirably Elgar's "Salut d'Amour," before the ceremony, and Mendelssohn's "Wedding March," as the wedding party left the church. They travelled to Victoria, where the honeymoon will be spent, the same morning. Mr. and Mrs. George, who have a large circle of friends in the city, have been the recipients of many beautiful presents.

The evening prior to the wedding Mrs. Stephen Smith entertained a company of friends at an "at home" and dance in honor of her daughter's marriage. Mr. and Mrs. George will reside at Holly Lodge, Davie street, upon their return from Victoria.

The marriage took place Sunday at the home of the bride's mother at 1531 Fourth avenue east, Vancouver, of Dr. Samuel Petersky and Miss Amalie Jacoby. A company of friends witnessed the ceremony which was performed by Rev. Dr. Friedlander, of Victoria. The bride wore a wedding dress of white satin, draped with duchesse lace and a lace veil, surmounted with a wreath of orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses. Her sister, Miss Henrietta Jacoby, was maid of honor, and was attired in white chiffon over white satin and carried a shower bouquet of pink roses. Miss Jacoby was given away by her mother, Mrs. Sophia Jacoby, who wore a handsome gown of lavender silk, draped with black lace. The company gathered for the ceremony in the drawing room, which was artistically decorated with greenery, white ribbon and flowers. The bridal couple stood under a white satin canopy, which was held over them by Mr. Charles Petersky, Mr. William Petersky, Mr. A. J. Jacoby and Mr. Henry Jacoby. The bridal music was played by Mrs. Allison. After the congratulations dinner was served when among those who sat down were Dr. Friedlander, Mr. and Mrs. S. Petersky, Mr. and Mrs. J. Izan, Mr. and Mrs. M. Koenigsberg, Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Jacoby, Mr. and Mrs. N. M. Jacoby, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Jacoby, Mr. and Mrs. H. Freud, Miss Daisy Salmon, of Victoria; Miss Henrietta Jacoby, Miss Sarah Petersky, Miss Eva Petersky, Miss Birdie Izan, Miss Rose Izan, Mr. A. J. Jacoby, Mr. Alex. Petersky, Mr. William Petersky, Mr. David Manson and Mr. Walter Manson. A reception was held from 8 to 10 o'clock, which was largely attended. Mrs. Jacoby was assisted in receiving her guests by the father and mother of the groom, Mr. and Mrs. S. Petersky. The latter wore a smart gown of black lace over black satin. Following the reception Dr. and Mrs. Petersky went for a short wedding trip, the bride travelling in a blue tailored suit with a small black and white hat. On their return they will make their home in Vancouver.

The Evening Chit-Chat
 By Ruth Cameron

A friend of mine had just been reading one of my little talks in regard to the domineering person who antagonizes people while she is trying to help them, and she came to me with the paper in her hand, her face beaming with triumph. "Well," she said, "that is an exact picture of my sister. Were you thinking of her when you wrote it?"

"Why no," I answered most truthfully, "does it describe her?"

"To a T," said the woman. "I do hope she'll see it. I think I'll leave the paper open somewhere where she cannot miss it."

Whisper now, while I tell you a secret! The person whom I had met in mind when I was trying to describe this type was this woman herself.

Isn't it queer how easy it is for us to see the mote in our brother's eye, despite the huge beam that clogs our own?

Often when I write about faults it is my own that I am criticizing and I know it. But other times I think I am writing about faults that I do not happen to possess. And then, even while I write, I pause and wonder, "After all am I, myself, one of these people I am scolding?"

And quite often I find that I am.

The lady-who-always-knows-some-how did me the compliment one day of assuring me that she should think my little scribbles would do a great deal of good, because when people read about their faults they could not help recognizing them and trying to do better.

"Don't you believe it, Ruth," said the wants-to-be-cynic promptly. None of the people will ever think the coat fits them. They'll just find someone else they know it will fit."

Which cynic view, as the little incident of the two sisters proves, is certainly more or less true.

The newspapers and magazines of the present day are full of philosophical and moral warnings, pointing out our faults and suggesting ways to overcome them. It ought to do us a lot of good if only we would take the dose instead of passing it on to our neighbor.

But the dose these ethical doctors attempt to give us often is quite as far astray as the castor oil which the obliging drug clerk put into the soda water. A young woman had asked him for some castor oil put up in some way so that it wouldn't taste bad. While she was waiting, she ordered a glass of soda water and drank it. After a few minutes she asked the drug clerk where the castor oil was. "I put it in the soda," he said, "you couldn't taste it, could you?" "Oh," said the young lady, horrified, "it was for my sister I wanted it."

Seriously, are you and I receiving all the help we might from these articles?

Now, let's try to put that coat also on our neighbor.

ACCIDENT CAUSED DEATH, SAYS JURY MAN WAS NOT IN HEADLIGHT GLARE Passengers in J. A. Rithet's Automobile Say Chinese Walked Into Machine

Having heard the evidence of the men who were in the automobile and of Sergeant Clayards and Jailer Brogan, the jury sitting yesterday afternoon to inquire into the cause of death of Charlie Song, who was killed on Flaguard street early Sunday morning by collision with J. A. Rithet's automobile, returned a verdict of accidental death, and was discharged. The jury consisted of Arthur Lee, foreman; William J. McKeown, David Lewis, John G. McKay, W. E. Sanders and James Gardner. Attending at the inquest on behalf of J. A. Rithet, driver of the machine, were H. A. Maclean, K. C., and J. A. Alkman. Appearing for relatives of the deceased was R. C. Lowe. That the automobile was not travelling at more than ten miles an hour and that the deceased did not come within the zone of the headlights was testified to by Frank Stevenson and Frederick White, two of the men in the machine. They were positive on the rate of speed, saying that Mr. Rithet had only got into his intermediate gear. Mr. Stevenson said that when the machine had turned some distance down Flaguard street, he, sitting on the front seat, saw a man by the side of the machine on the roadway. The man appeared to be walking diagonally across the road in the same direction as that in which the car was going. Mr. Stevenson heard no collision, and was positive the man was never in front of the automobile. Mr. Rithet, said witness, would have seen the man had he come in the range of the lights, and so would he and Mr. White. He thought he saw the man fall. White corroborated him in some particulars. Those who were in the automobile were Frank Stevenson, Frederick White, Napier Gowen and Henry G. Crowe. They told of having left the New England restaurant at 2 1/2 a.m. Saturday. The engine of Mr. Rithet's machine was cold, and they propelled it down the street as far as Johnson street by hand to turn the engine over. When the machine got under way Mr. Rithet was in the intermediate gear, and did not change to the high. Where the accident occurred the engine was just warming up. Mr. Stevenson appeared to be the only passenger who got a real start of the Chinese, and from what he saw the man appeared to walk into the machine. "He had only to stop and step back to avoid it," said Mr. Stevenson. "Mr. Rithet did not know the man had been struck until I told him. The car may have moved 30 yards afterwards, but it was out of it before it stopped and hurried back to the man lying on the road. The machine did not skid in turning the corner. I should say that the blow the man received behind the car was caused by his falling to the ground and striking his head." Mr. Stevenson and Mr. Gowen picked up the injured man from the roadway and carried him to a safe place on the sidewalk. The former thought the man must have been preoccupied not to have seen the machine and the blow of the headlights. Mr. Gowen, sitting in the rear of the car, did not see the accident. Frederick White who was in front, sitting on Mr. Stevenson's knee, said he was not with the party in the New England, but joined them on the sidewalk. They were going very slowly on Flaguard street and did not see the Chinese until Mr. Stevenson gave the warning. He did not think the car struck the man for he never heard it, and if it did the man must have been half way up the length of the car. When told, Mr. Rithet stopped the car in 20 or 25 yards, and Mr. Stevenson got out. Mr. Rithet then made a turn saying they might have to report the matter to the police. It was here the skidding occurred. Mr. Crowe did not see the accident. He was sitting in the body of the car and felt a slight jar. There was no indication of an accident, and the car was going very slowly. Mr. White thought if the car had been going quicker they would not have hit the man. Sergeant Clayards, who went at the request of Mr. Stevenson to the scene said he found a man bleeding from the head and right ear. When he learned that Mr. Rithet had been driving the car he ordered him to report at the station, and then went with the jury men in the police patrol to the office of Dr. Wasson. Before leaving he saw a pool of blood in the roadway 17 feet from the north side of the curb, the street at this point being 46 feet wide. Mr. Rithet was intoxicated. From the house of Dr. Wasson he telephoned to Jailer Brogan to detain Mr. Rithet. At daylight he went to the scene, and saw where a car had skidded and come to a sudden stop. White marks showed the car had been struck the curb violently. The stone had been scraped. He followed the marks right to the pool of blood on the road. Seventy-nine feet from where the pool of blood was he found evidence of the brakes being applied, one wheel appearing to skid before the other, then both had blocked, and that continued right down the street to the curb and then out again. The blood was 230 feet from the bottom of the street. He thought the skidding was caused by the application of the brakes. He also gave evidence of a dent in one of the mud guards, but other evidence was called to show that the mud guard had been dented some months ago.

The statement of Sergeant Clayards regarding Mr. Rithet's condition was confirmed by Jailer Brogan. He informed Mr. Rithet that it was the driver's duty to write a report, but Mr. Rithet said he would do it later. It was then suggested that the jailer write on dictation, and he did so. He read the report over, and Mr. Rithet asked him to state that the machine had been on the intermediate gear. Jailer Brogan said he inserted the statement, and Mr. Rithet then signed it. Mr. Maclean observed in questioning the witness that if he signed the statement and suggested what was to go into it, Mr. Rithet was perfectly able to know what was happening. Mr. Maclean called Mr. Stevenson and Mr. Crowe in regard to their own and Mr. Rithet's sobriety. Both men said they were sober, and that Mr. Rithet was coherent and rational.

Dr. Wasson's testimony regarding the death was that the Chinese died from hemorrhage. At a post mortem he had found a swelling behind the ear where there was contused blood and a fracture to the base of the skull. To Mr. Maclean, he said the fracture was caused by force, and it would be possible that the man had seen the automobile, and in jumping back to avoid it, had over-balanced, and struck his head on the road. Such a fracture as found might be sustained in this way. The coroner having intimated that there were but two courses for the jury, either a verdict of accidental death, or of death by manslaughter, the jury retired, and shortly after brought in the accidental death verdict.

The detriment to business arising from the obstruction of streets through the erection of contractors' sheds on the streets, and of heavily boarded walks for the temporary accommodation of passengers, led the residents of Douglas street, near the intersection of Johnson street, to apply for an order to remove the structures outside the B. C. Permanent Loan block, on the ground that the building would not be resumed till spring, and the obstructions were a detriment to the Christians' trade meanwhile.

The council was for summarily ordering the contractors to move the sheds and widen the sidewalk. But Alderman Gleason said that doubtless the contractors had a permit to run some months, and the subject must be looked into before issuing instructions of this character. Mayor Beckwith remarked that he had been obliged for months to put up with a similar nuisance on Langley street, and he had great sympathy for the applicants. He asked Alderman Gleason if contractors observed the conditions always? Alderman Gleason: "Always." (Laughter.) The Mayor: "That has not been my experience."

Alderman Gleason added that when the passage way for pedestrians, Alderman Humber said he and Alderman Okell had remarked that day that there was not room for people to pass at this particular place. Ultimately a resolution was carried that the communication from William Jackson and others should be referred to the city engineer to have the present structure and barrier removed, and the sidewalks widened to the proper width.

U. S. TREASURER. Washington, D. C., Nov. 19.—Carmi Thompson, secretary to President Taft, will be appointed treasurer of the United States within the next few days, to succeed Lee McClung, who resigned from the position last week. It was understood that Mr. Thompson would be named to the place and take the oath of office to-day, but Charles D. Hiles, who will resume the position of secretary to President Taft, and who returned to Washington last night with the president, will take three or four days' vacation.

RATEPAYERS MAY VOTE IN DECEMBER INSTEAD OF WAITING TILL ANNUAL ELECTION Hospital By-law and Ross Bay Roadway Measure May Be Submitted Earlier

Considerably to the surprise of some of the aldermen, although the Mayor said the matter had already been determined by the city council, the council was informed last evening that a vote would be taken next month, possibly on December 19, on the by-law to raise a loan for $225,000 for the new buildings at the Jubilee hospital.

It was the expectation that this vote would be received in connection with the annual election in January, but the directors press for an earlier appeal, and say they must know the citizens' action before applying to the government for a grant in aid from the estimates next year. Alderman Gleason protested against the earlier appeal for confirmation of the measure, and Mayor Beckwith promised a further meeting with the hospital board in order that the directors should be requested to defer pressing submission of the by-law till January. The Mayor further undertook to secure the printing of the voters' lists by December 19, so that the appeal, if made next month, may be on the new register. The by-law provides for 25-year bonds, bearing interest at four per cent, the annual charges being $9,990 for interest and $42 for sinking fund. The measure was carried to the third reading, and left till submission to the ratepayers. Another important by-law and one which will require the approval of the ratepayers was similarly advanced. It stages it can go. This is the measure to authorize the appropriation of the monies not required for the construction of the Ross Bay seawall to the purpose of constructing a roadway and bridge across the seawall. About $20,000 remains unexpended from the construction of the seawall.

NATURAL MONOPOLIES. Public Services in Which Waste is Best Eliminated by Combines.

Twenty-five years ago American cities still believed in competing public utilities, says the Saturday Evening Post. It was thought desirable for a city to have two or three gas and electric light and even street car companies, on the theory that competition among them would keep prices down. Nobody now-a-days believes in competition in those things, and advocates of competition as a universal regulator seek to exempt certain things from the general rule by calling them "natural monopolies"—a phrase which means mainly that the waste of competition and the benefit of concentration have been indisputably proved by experience in this particular field.

Practically the whole country of late years has come to regard railroad transportation as another natural monopoly. Everybody knows that for years there has been no competition among railroads as to rates, which are fixed at a uniform schedule by agreement among the roads. This is contrary to law, as the Supreme court has so far interpreted the Sherman Act; but no one seeks to prevent it, because everyone realizes that actual rate competition among the roads would be a calamity. The government itself, though attacking industrial combinations, rights and left, makes no attempt to force the railroads into rate competition. It seeks merely to see that the rates which have been agreed upon shall be reasonable, and with that the public is content. But as to railroads and public utilities, combination and co-operation are universally regarded as natural and beneficial.

It is only in manufacturing and merchandising that concentration is regarded as unnatural and harmful; but in those fields, as President Van Hise, of Wisconsin University, has pointed out with much detail, competition, in fact, is breaking down. Our pure-food laws, for example, are an abandonment of the old theory that competition among manufacturers will secure to the consumer the best possible goods at the lowest possible price. Everyone will presently realize that combination and co-operation may be as useful and natural elsewhere as in gas manufacturing, electric lighting and railroad.

FOUND A REVOLVER. Boys Played With Weapon—Result as Usual.

Quebec, Nov. 19.—A fatal accident, the result of children playing with fire-arms, occurred here this afternoon. Two boys, Allan Fanning and Alfred Fellows, both aged 13, returned from school at 4 o'clock and went to Fanning's house on St. Patrick street, going up to a bedroom. After playing there sometime young Fanning found a loaded revolver in a drawer. While handling the weapon it was discharged, the bullet striking Fellows under the chin and coming out at the top of his head. He was instantly killed.

GREY HAIRS FOR UNHAPPY ALDERMAN

Trials of Dogs and Chickens to Add to Burden of Public Service

Dogs and chickens are not very important subjects to engage the attention of a city council, but the aldermen could not get away from them last evening. Mrs. Newton, who complained recently of the melancholy end of her pet dog at the pound, lingering in pain till death came, returned to the charge and refused to be comforted by the explanation of the pound committee. They would realize how valuable the dog was to her, she said, when they knew that he had been her faithful companion for 13 years. He was one of those clever dogs who could all but talk.

Alderman Porter said they were satisfied that proper steps were taken to look after the dog. He was picked up in Beacon Hill park, where he should not have been, having apparently been run down by an automobile, and Mrs. Newton had not inquired at the pound about its end till after death. He moved that the letter should be received and filed, and this course was adopted. The chicken question came up in an application for a run for 350 chickens on a lot 50 by 60 feet, in a populated portion of Oswego street, to which the neighbors of Mrs. Rams protested. The application had been sent to the medical health officer, who stated that while no permit was required the health by-law provided that persons keeping fowls should not allow the premises to become insanitary, or a nuisance. He thought, however, the numbers to be kept were large, but recommended the issuance of the permit. His report will be forwarded to Mrs. Rams.

PILLES Nothing known to Science is better for this painful ailment than Zam-Buk. It reduces inflammation, stops bleeding, ends the agony. Easily applied and cleanly. Why go on suffering? Why not try it? Read the following cures. Some Proofs of Zam-Buk's Power. MR. THOMAS J. HOGAN, Champion Olog Dancer of Canada, 59 Chambord Street, Montreal, writes: "For some time past I have been troubled with Piles, but this year I suffered so much that I was obliged to cancel a number of engagements. I tried all the so-called remedies that were recommended, but they seemed to do me no good. Having been advised to try Zam-Buk, I purchased a fifty-cent box and after applying it a few times I felt marked relief. I continued with the Zam-Buk treatment and the relief was extended into a permanent cure. MR. WILLIAM KENTY, of Upper Nine Mile River, Hants Co., N. S., says: "I suffered terribly from Piles, the pain at times being almost unbearable. I tried various ointments but all failed to do me the slightest good. I was tired of trying remedies when I heard of Zam-Buk, and thought as a last resource I would give this balm a trial. I procured a supply, and after a very short time Zam-Buk effected what several other ointments and medicines had failed to effect—a complete cure." BARRIERS AT BLOCKS UNDER CONSTRUCTION Instance at Corner of Douglas and Johnson Streets Moves Council to Action

Listen!

Have you heard about Peps? Peps is a new scientific preparation put up into tablet or pastille form, which provides an entirely new and effective treatment for coughs, colds and lung and throat troubles.

There is no connection between the lungs and the stomach.

Suppose something were wrong with your stomach—say indigestion, or ulceration—would you think of taking some medicine which went not to your stomach, but to your lungs? Certainly not!

Why then, when your lungs and chest are affected, should you dose your stomach—an absolutely separate organ—with medicine? Is it not far better to treat the ailing organ direct?

Peps provides a direct treatment for coughs, colds, bronchitis, and all lung, chest and throat troubles. Peps contains highly medicinal essence and also contains condensed into tablet form. You put a Peps on your tongue, and as it slowly dissolves, these valuable essences turn into vapor.

You breathe the remedy to your ailing lungs direct—not swallow it to your stomach, which is not ailing. (See diagram.) The healing fumes, thus breathed down, bathe the delicate, inflamed membranes of your breathing tubes and pass right on to the tiny passages of the lungs—a course no liquid or solid medicine could possibly take.

Peps fumes are healing and antiseptic. They heal sore throats and kill disease germs. Peps brings pine-forest fumes to your home, instead of you going to the pine forest!

For that cold, that night cough, that touch of bronchitis, don't dose your stomach! The trouble lies in your lungs. Peps goes to the lungs direct and will cure you.

All druggists and stores sell. Write for free sample to Peps Co., Toronto, or 22 Prince St., Winnipeg. Send only 1c. stamp for postage and enclose this advertisement.

WORK OF THE S. A. IN MANY LANDS

COLONEL MAIDMENT DESCRIBES PROGRESS

Movement Particularly Successful in Scandinavian Peninsula

"The work differs a good deal in method in different countries," said Colonel Maidment, chief secretary for the Salvation Army in Canada, last evening, "as the Salvation Army always adapts itself to the different countries in which it works. But in spirit, teachings, and principals, it is the same the world over."

Colonel Maidment should know, for he has been with the Salvation Army in countries as far apart as Finland, South Africa and the Argentine, and his experiences are about as diverse as it is possible to get in this huge organization. Colonel Maidment was born in the south of England, and went into the Salvation Army when between seventeen and eighteen years of age, and the experiences he has had in twenty-six years of service would make an interesting history of the rescue work which is being carried on by the army in distant countries.

From Great Britain he went to Denmark, receiving his instructions to go there, and he was in North Wales in Copenhagen he entered the offices as cashier and bookkeeper for the army, remaining there for about six years, then going to Finland as chief secretary and assistant to the territorial commander. From Finland he went south to Holland and Belgium, returning later once more to Finland. During the late war he was in South Africa, leaving, however, before the war closed, and going over to the Argentine, finally taking the command in South America, and remaining there for five years.

Again returning to Europe he went to Christiania as chief secretary, eventually being sent out to the West Indies and Central America, the Bermudas, and, finally, the Alaskan territory. It was while in Denmark that he was married, and his wife has since travelled about with him and taken an active part in the work in the manner which has characterized all the wives of Salvation Army men. Her work has been mostly rescue work amongst the men and discharged prisoners.

When she is to the fore in every movement in the Army.

"In a country like South America," continued the officer—who, by the way, is an accomplished linguist—"a peculiarity of the work is that we hold almost no open air meetings, as both there and on the European continent the authorities do not extend the same liberty to street orators as they do in England. In Scandinavian countries, although the religious enthusiasm is really a profound one with the people, it is not always easy to get permission to hold services in the open air. The authorities there, however, recognize it as a good work, and is more the survival of a system than a grounded prejudice. In both Norway and Sweden the work is very prosperous, and both the clergy and the authorities give us good support, although in a general way the people are conservative. They are generous in giving financial assistance to charities, too. Norway has a great many enterprises of one kind and another along these lines, and the social work is in a flourishing condition there, the percentage of successful cases dealt with in Scandinavia being one of the highest we have a record of."

"In South America the work is of quite a different nature. The first appeal of the Army is through its benevolent work rather than through its evangelistic teachings, although even the latter commends itself to the people after they have been impressed with the first. In this the Scandinavian, as I have said, are just the reverse, being essentially religious in themselves. I was in Holland and Finland in the early days when the Army was scarcely tolerated. In Russia the objection has been longer lived. The Russian authorities do not understand the object or purposes of the Salvation Army, and until quite recently they used every possible opportunity to try to quench the beginnings of the work there, in those days bringing into operation the law by which they managed to expel all officers of the Salvation Army, who were not citizens of the country, and often suppressing the publications and the use of uniforms. They were quite openly suspicious of the Army as being a body of Socialists. I know that the Salvation Army is quite prepared to work in Russia, and I also know that attempts have been made to establish the work there—but without success."

"We are seriously considering starting operations in China," continued the chief secretary, "and have sent a commissioner out to look into representations made to us on the subject. It is possible, therefore, that we may commence work there. We already have branches in both Japan and Korea. In France we have an army of workers, but that is a country, again, where we have to struggle with the temperamental peculiarities of a people who are essentially pleasure loving, gay, and heedless—whose religion is a mere matter of form."

In addressing the big gathering at the barracks last night, Colonel Maidment announced that it was little more than three weeks since he had been in Jamaica, and that he had come from a beautiful country to a beautiful country. From the standpoint of scenery it would be difficult to find anything more nearly perfect than the tropical country which he had just left, but he was prepared to accept Commissioner Rees's statement that Canada held things as beautiful as anything he had seen there. He was, he said, delighted to be with them, and

WOMAN DIZZY PARTLY NUMB

Doctors Did Her No Good—Testifies How She Was Helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound.

Zanesville, Ohio.—"Last fall I had female weakness very bad, and was nervous and run down. I was dizzy and had numb feelings and my eyes ached. I took doctor's medicines but they did me no good, so I decided to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I did so, and now I feel stronger and better. I have told other women what Mrs. Pinkham's medicines have done for me and give you permission to publish this letter for the good of others."—Mrs. HULDA ENCKSON, 608 Mayville Avenue, Zanesville, Ohio.

More Proof.

Burlington, Iowa.—"For years I suffered a great deal from female troubles. I had awful pains and felt sick nearly all the time. I saw Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised and heard that it had helped other suffering women so I felt sure it would do me good. Sure enough it did. The first bottle helped me and now I am a strong and well woman. I would not be without it in the house."—Mrs. ANNA HIGGINS, 1125 Agency St., Burlington, Iowa.

There need be no doubt about the ability of this grand old remedy, made from the roots and herbs of our fields, to remedy women's diseases. We possess volumes of proof of this fact, enough to convince the most skeptical. Why don't you try it?

If it was to be his privilege to return to Victoria at any future time he would do so with feelings of the greatest pleasure.

INTERESTING TALK ON MIGRATION OF BIRDS

Given by Dr. Tomalin Before Natural History Society Last Night

At the usual fortnightly meeting last night the Natural History Society of British Columbia heard with pleasure from F. Napier Denison that A. J. C. Gaillet had presented to the society his excellent collection of butterflies—a fresh spur to urge the society to find itself a permanent home where its library and museum may be worthily and conveniently housed.

Dr. W. J. C. Tomalin, a very exact observer, who has been observing birds all his life, described in most interesting and amusing detail "The Migration of Birds." They go south for the winter, driven by want of food. They come north in the spring to find a climate not too hot for the hatching of their eggs, and the dates of their departure do not vary in several years more than 48 hours. They go quite suddenly. The geese rise quite quickly to a height of 1,200 feet and fly off at once without any circling around. They fly 400 miles in a night.

Birds of prey fly by day. As mentioned in the Bible, the owl can be seen in the Lebanon flying south in the day time. At the proper season they are seen in scattered pairs, always four or five in view; but no one has seen them go north.

Birds, he said, think. The sap sucker on the prairie is an insect feeder; does not suck, and in any case does not sap. It bores holes in trees, and destroys them. Dr. Tomalin watched one and saw him come back later. In each of the holes a grub of some sort had harbored for the winter, and the bird came back, as it were, to the lobster pots he had made, to the successful traps he had made.

A. S. Barton later, in moving a grateful vote of thanks to the speaker, mentioned that he had, when on the prairie, watched the sap sucker making holes all round a sugar maple and coming back later, as the sweet juice was flowing, to pick up the ants attracted to the sugar.

Dr. Tomalin told of the wheat bird which comes to the prairie before the snow goes, and builds its nest on the south side of a ridge, under the snow that is left, when the strengthening sun has warmed the snow on that southern face and melted it off. At this time while the sun is out, not a wheat bird is on its nest. But if a cloud comes over the sun, back they scuttle to their eggs.

Birds from North Europe commence their migration by flying to England and thence they go south. The tits go by the westshore of France, the warblers winter in the great marsh in the Sierra Morena in Spain, from which the Guadaluquivir rises. There the African hawks come to meet them. Quail go south by Marseilles to Algiers. Cranes, herons and storks from Sweden, England, Germany, fly up the valleys of Rhine and Elbe, and down the Danube to Asia Minor, Syria and Egypt. It may be added that the swallow winters in British East Africa, opposite Zanzibar.

In conclusion Dr. Tomalin assured the society that the best possible interest to give a boy was an interest in birds. It made him observant, daring, and the fullness of his knowledge, so clearly and easily communicated, well merited the cordial vote of thanks with which the meeting closed.

BY-LAWS ARE NOT READY FOR PASSAGE

LITTLE PROGRESS MADE BY COUNCIL

City Hall to Have Telephone Exchange—Nationality of Local Civic Engineers

Although last evening was to have been a big night for by-laws at the city council meeting, it was found that the measures were not ready, and accordingly little progress was made with them. The garage regulation by-law will require considerable amendment, and as some of the clauses have to be recast, the subject was left over on this account.

An amendment to the hired vehicles by-law was passed through various stages. The chief of police is given power to deputize his authority, and it also gives him power to refuse a license if the applicant's moral character is not considered satisfactory.

The license fee for automobile drivers was reduced to one dollar on account of the high fee charged by the province for these vehicles, and the by-law is to become operative on December 1.

The pound and dog by-laws and a number of local improvement by-laws were passed through their stages.

Telephone Exchange.

In place of individual telephones the city hall is to be equipped with an exchange, covering also the detective and waterworks departments which are outside the building in adjacent quarters. The health department, shortly to be moved, will also be accommodated.

The new arrangement will only amount to $15 a month beyond the present total payments for individual services, and there will be some 30 to 40 phones on the exchange. The capacity of the service is 77, so that there is room for extension. The city will pay the operator's salary, limited to $45 per month.

Nationality of Employees.

It was decided that as far as possible the city engineer shall furnish the Canadian Society of Civil Engineers with a record of the nationality of civil engineers engaged in the city employment, including the Sooke water service. Beyond that request the letter of R. W. MacIntyre, secretary of the local branch, did not go.

Marquise Permit.

Permission was granted the proprietor of the St. James hotel, Johnson street, for the erection of a Johnsen in front of the hotel, subject to specifications submitted, and to the approval of the building inspector.

New Name Favored.

In connection with the renaming of North Pandora avenue, the city clerk reported that of 44 persons on the street circularized, seven had favored "Bogbie" street, four had opposed, and nine requested that the name should be given to the portion between Harriess street and Pembroke street, and that the name "Pembroke" should be used for the portion between Pembroke street and Richmond road. The suggestion will be taken into consideration in connection with the streets names by-law, which was not ready for reconsideration last evening.

Not Looking For Trouble.

The council decided not to purchase the adjoining property to the Woodlands avenue garbage station, offered by F. R. Brown at a cost of $2,200. Alderman Beard said emphatically that he had enough trouble with the garbage sub-stations.

Figuard Street.

An arrangement has at length been reached in connection with the Figuard street widening at 40 cents per square foot for inside property and 45 for corner lots. A similar attempt will be made in connection with Pembroke street, and the owners are to be asked to reply by Friday week if they will accept similar terms.

Finance Matters.

Wright and Manton will be paid $2,951 as compensation for the expropriation of parts of lot 14, 17, 18 and 19, block 7, Hillside avenue. Five hundred dollars will be paid now and the balance in six months.

The sum of $200 will be voted to the Children's Aid Society.

Condemned Buildings.

The medical officer will report on the request of W. H. Parsons and associates, owners of a building on lot 721 Yates street, that their premises be not condemned. They observe that the building was sanitary, but suffered from insanitary condition of the adjacent structures, and the whole block had been condemned.

The health department will be given power to go ahead with the relining of the incinerators at the garbage wharf with fire-brick.

Rescind Motion.

Without any debate the council rescinded the resolution passed in October, 1911, prohibiting the school board from obtaining building permits for schools from the inspector till the comptroller had certified that sufficient funds were available for their completion.

Alderman Gleason alone voted against the motion.

WILL PROCEED WITH HARBOR LIGHTING

From Humboldt Street to C. P. R. Wharf Scheme Will Be Commenced at Once

Material advance in the much discussed harbor illumination could be reported by the lighting committee to the city council yesterday as a result of conferences with various bodies in the last few weeks.

As reported in the Times last week, the Dominion government has not consented yet to do anything in connection with the post office building, so the council has decided to go ahead without waiting any longer for their support.

The scheme in brief is to install the lights on Belleville street from Government street to Menallen street, at an approximate cost of $3,000, to which the government contributes one-half, the balance of work on this street to be done as a work of local improvement, and to carry out the work on the causeway by the city, taking the funds from the electric light loan of 1911. This latter proposal involves an expenditure of $1,500. The Wharf street work is to be laid over for a reply from the government.

On the motion of the chairman of the committee, Alderman Gleason the report was adopted, the alderman stating that the ornamental standards on the causeway will resemble cluster lighting poles.

Other lighting matters recommended to the council were to install lights at Oaklands as requested by ratepayers under the supervision of the electrician. Arc lights will be installed at the following places: Corner of Shakespear and Haultain streets, Leonard and Cambridge streets, Woodlands

C. P. R. COMMON STOCK.

New Issue to Be Offered Shareholders in January.

Montreal, Nov. 18.—Definite announcement is made to-night that the C. P. R. will make the issue of sixty million dollars common stock, authorized at the special general meetings of the shareholders last month, early in the coming year. The new stock to the full amount authorized by the meeting will be offered to shareholders of record at 3 p.m. on Thursday, January 2 next, the right to subscribe to captures on Thursday, February 13. The issue is to be made as forecasted at $175 a share. There was some expectation that the announcement with regard to the issue would be made after the monthly meeting of the board of directors a week ago yesterday. The failure to make the announcement generally ascribed to the uncertainty prevailing in the financial markets abroad, but apparently the delay was only temporary.

The Pleasant Task of — "Making Good"

About a year ago we announced that we had deliberately entered into the task of building a city at Coquitlam and proposed to carry that task through to success if we did not make a cent.

So, now that we have lately been calling your attention to the splendid manner in which COQUITLAM is making good, you will doubtless pardon us if we briefly emphasize the fact that the COQUITLAM TERMINAL COMPANY is making good, too, in a straightforward, faithful, solid and substantial manner.

ALTHOUGH IT IS GENERALLY RECOGNIZED THAT, PURELY AS A LOT SELLING UNDERTAKING, OUR TOWNSITE HAS BEEN THE MOST SUCCESSFUL ONE IN THE HISTORY OF BRITISH COLUMBIA, WE HAVE PUT ALL OUR CASH PROFITS BACK INTO TOWNSITE IMPROVEMENTS.

- We paid about one-quarter of all the taxes in the whole Municipality of Coquitlam this year, some $23,000, and on top of that expended directly on street improvements about $15,000.
- We have built, are building, or are about to build, a total of fifty houses and stores at Coquitlam.
- We have built between four and five miles of streets and sidewalks.
- We have built a large number of ditches and bridges.
- We are now building an industrial railway that will cost about thirty thousand dollars.
- We have put ten thousand dollars into a hydrographic survey of the Pitt and Fraser Rivers in order to establish data for a harbor survey and supply the government with much needed information concerning those rivers.
- We have been the means of organizing or locating at Coquitlam several manufacturing concerns, the farthest advanced of the larger of which is the Coquitlam Shipbuilding & Marine Railway Company, which is spending thousands of dollars weekly on the great plant at Coquitlam, preparatory to building of ships.
- We have embarked upon a very costly campaign for the industrial promotion of Coquitlam and have not asked a single corporation or individual that has interests there to contribute a cent.
- Without being accused of unduly "blowing our horn," may we not submit that the foregoing proves that the Coquitlam Terminal Company, as well as Coquitlam, is making good?
- We cannot give you all the details of the great forward movement at Coquitlam during the last year in the limited space at our command here, but if you get our beautiful new booklet, now in preparation, "Coquitlam, the Industrial City," as well as our other literature regarding the achievements in the past year, you will probably agree with us that it is easy to understand the high respect in which Coquitlam is now held by the more conservative investing public.

All British Pictures.
Those who visited the Victoria theatre yesterday must have indeed enjoyed the fine display of all British pictures, as their expressions of appreciation were many and loud. These fine series will be shown again to-day, and all who can, should see them. Tomorrow a different series will be shown, which will be highly interesting. The desire on the part of many people to see other pictures than those they are accustomed to seeing should be amply gratified by a visit to the Victoria theatre. The Victoria theatre holds the distinction of being the only place in the Dominion, where a continuous exhibition of all British pictures have been exhibited.

"The Secret of Suzanne."
That the audiences which will crowd the Victoria theatre on Saturday afternoon and evening next to witness the first Canadian production of the new Wolf-Ferrari opera, "The Secret of Suzanne" will be distinctly provincial in character, is indicated by the multi orders which have been descending in a flood upon Manager Denham during ten days past. Vancouver (where an appearance could not be arranged owing to no suitable house being available) is of course largely represented, numerous Empress week-end parties having been arranged by music-loving leaders of mainland society, while Nanaimo and Duncan will also be represented by unusually large contingents. Having in mind the exceptional quality and freshness of the opera (which had its premier in Munich so recently as November 1909); the eminence of the presenting artist; the celebrity of the all-strings orchestra direct from the Chicago auditorium, and under the direction of Sig. Attilio Pirelli; and the fact that all alternates of the double cast are heard in the preliminary concert programme, it is predicted by Manager Denham that his house for this conspicuous engagement will be sold out for both performances before the company reaches here by special steamer early Saturday morning.

FIRE IN PRINTING OFFICE.

Building Occupied by Ottawa French Paper Destroyed.

Ottawa, Nov. 19.—The building occupied by Le Temps, the French newspaper published here on Sussex street, was completely destroyed by fire last night, and in addition damage to the extent of $5,000 was done to the plant. The building was owned by the government and was to have been torn down next month. The loss is covered by insurance. A number of firemen, including Chief Graham, were knocked out by electric shocks, sustained from the dense overheated wiring about the building. Le Temps will be printed in a job office until further arrangements can be made for its use.

The Empress Theatre.
Spectacular as it is dramatic is the sketch being presented at the Empress theatre this week by a good company headed by Byron Bidwell entitled "Number 44." It is a railroad melodrama in brief and is thrilling from start to finish. There are two scenes, and the stage effects are excellent, showing in the second act a railroad train passing the section house. Included in the company are Miss Gertrude Magill, John Harrington and M. F. Ryan, and Fred Woodruff is the master mechanic who handles the stage effects. The sketch is a thorough one and has enough tragedy and comedy mixed in it to satisfy any sentimentalist. It is warmly applauded.

The Morton-Jewell troupe of jugglers, five in number, who appear in handsome hussar costumes, offer as seen a club and baton swinging act as neat on the vaudeville stage. The settings are elaborate. There are four men and a young girl in this number and they have an act which brings a storm of commendation from the audience. The Brooklyn Harmony Four compose a quartette who would be singing for an hour if the audience had its will. They have to respond to encore after encore.

About that time, I met another railroad man who had been similarly affected and who had been cured by GIN PILLS, after having been given up by a prominent physician who treated him for Diabetes. He is now running on the road and is perfectly cured. He strongly advised me to try GIN PILLS which I did—with the result that the pains left me entirely. "FRANK S. IDE"

Some Social Events Which Are About to Take Place.

Gordon Head, Nov. 19.—The annual meeting of the Cedar Hill Literary and Debating Society was held in St. Luke's parish hall on Monday, the 11th instant. It was decided to hold fortnightly meetings on the first and third Tuesdays of each month. The election of officers was as follows: President, Rev. D. A. Collison; vice-president, N. Whittaker; secretary-treasurer, C. E. King; executive committee, Miss Alward, Rev. W. Kidd and R. Williams.

On Friday evening, the 15th inst., a most enjoyable dance was given in the St. Luke's Parish hall by the Mount Douglas club. Heaton's three-piece orchestra provided an excellent programme of dance music.

On Friday, the 29th inst., a sale of Christmas novelties will be held in St. Luke's Parish hall at 3 p.m. Besides the fancy-work-stalls there will be the usual home-made candy, afternoon tea and several novel attractions. In the evening at 8.15 p.m. a concert will be held and a good programme is promised.

MAN INSTEAD OF DEER.

Sussex, N. B., Nov. 19.—Lizen Keirstead, farmer, of Rochville, while hunting near his home to-day was probably fatally shot in mistake for a deer by Floyd Forsyah, of Sussex. Forsyah, who had wounded a deer, was in hot pursuit when he spied something standing near a bush and fired. He heard a groan and rushing up he found a man instead of a deer, his bullet having entered Keirstead's right hip and striking the bone, coming out at the left thigh, making a double wound at the exit. Keirstead's recovery is doubtful.

IDEAS OF A PLAIN MAN
 BY DR. FRANK CRANE

There is one more horrid sensation than that of being bored; it is to feel one's self to be boring some one. I suppose every one is at times a bore. The play of personal affinities and repulsions is infinitely complex. You never can tell when your are beginning to get upon some one's nerves.

Even love is no unfailing antidote, as Gilbert illustrates in the defendant's song in "Trial by Jury." "But joy unceasing dulls the sense And love unchanged will cloy, And she became a bore intense Unto her lover-sick boy."

In the last analysis, I think we love those whom we cannot bore. Death was due to you, one whose face lights up when you come, one whose Marconi system

FIRM STAND BY OAK BAY BODY COUNCIL HAS BANNED MICROSCOPIC LOTS

Men In Blue Were Inspected Last Evening—Golf Links Assessment

Immediately prior to the meeting of the Oak Bay council held last evening, the reeve and the councillors inspected the police force of the municipality. Chief Handley and his four constables presented themselves in the council chamber, and the reeve and councillors expressed themselves not only highly satisfied with their smart appearance, but also with the class of men the chief had got together.

The council last evening took a decided stand against the evils of over-subdividing. Their action was made necessary by an application and presentation of plans for a re-subdivision of lot 12, block 6, which the owner desired to cut up into 25 foot lots. On the recommendation of the engineer, the plans were not approved, and the clerk was ordered to reply to the applicant to that effect. Two other applications for re-subdivision were approved by the engineer and the plans considered in the subsequent committee meeting.

An important point, touching the welfare of the suburb came up when a letter and proposed agreement from Harvey Combs, secretary of the Victoria Golf Club, were read. The assessment of the hundred acres which are being used by the club. The arrangement made in the proposed agreement was to the effect that the Golf Club was to get a fixed assessment, regardless of the appreciation of the value of the property round about, and in compensation the club agrees to lease for that same period a certain tract of land, which may be used by the residents as a park or recreation ground. Naturally, with the links assessed at the same rate as building property in the district, the club would soon go out of business, and the proposition is made by them to ensure for Oak Bay a continuance of what has always been one of its greatest attractions.

The matter was considered by the council in committee, and at the close of the discussion it was decided to return the agreement and request that another and more lucid one be made out as the council professed their inability to understand some parts of the document.

In reference to the proposed Oak Bay Park, which the council are desirous of purchasing from the B. C. E. railway, a letter was read from the company last evening, in which it was stated that they could not see their way clear to release the whole of the property, but proposed selling half and keeping the remainder for making a recreation ground. In the matter of an early Sunday morning car, for which at the request of many residents the council applied, it was stated that the company were looking into the matter, and would report as early as possible.

Commendation For Council. The council came in for commendation last evening, when a letter from the Ministerial Association was read heartily approving of the action of the honorable body in refusing the permission for prize-fighting exhibitions in the Arena. Their action in this respect was described as a commendable effort on behalf of decency and morals.

Not so eulogistic was a letter from Andrew Wright, an Oak Bay resident, who waxed indignant over the condition of the main road from Foul Bay road to the Willows. He stated that the way was nothing but a corduroy road for some distance, and in one place there was a huge depression which was extremely dangerous to traffic. He suggested that if the hole was to be left, a danger signal ought to be put up in the daytime, and a red light at night. Councillor Pemberton urged that the matter be attended to at once as the road was all but impassable. The engineer stated that the necessary repairs were being undertaken by the electric railway company.

Matutinal Shooting. Councillor Pemberton complained of the fact that every morning he was awakened by the noise of shooting in the near vicinity. In the first case to shoot in that part of the municipality was contrary to the by-law, and in the second the noise was objectionable at that hour of the day. Chief Handley was authorized to attend to the matter at once and instruct his men to exercise great vigilance.

Now that the Oak Bay bathhouse has become the property of the municipality and the council have taken trouble to have the condition of the structure attended to, they are looking about for a good man to take over the building for the purpose of hiring out pleasure boats, etc. An application for this was read in council from one E. A. Locke, who claims four years' service in H. M. naval reserve and wide knowledge of handling small craft. The council decided to discuss the matter of letting out the bathhouse in committee as it was incumbent on them to see for the credit of the municipality that the right man got the post.

In reply to an application from the engineer for a blue print machine the council authorized that if one could be obtained for a sum of not more than $100 their consent was given. Two or three minor complaints from residents were attended to, and the council then went into committee.

Last night's session was the twenty-second meeting of the council.

COMPRESSED FUEL FACTORY. Lemon, Gonnason & Co. Will Be Given Permit to Build Near Garbally Road.

A new industry of a somewhat unusual character to Victoria is to be started by Lemon, Gonnason & Co., Ltd. They are to construct on the Gorge road, near Garbally road, a compressed fuel factory, which is to treat the refuse material from the city sawmills, and prepare a fuel therefrom. The industry is declared not to be a nuisance to the neighborhood, and the fuel in domestic use will give off little smoke. The burners in use at the mills will be relieved by this industry, as their waste will be utilized thereby.

When the application for a building permit was before the city council last evening it was opposed by Aldermen Beard and Humber on the ground that before approval a committee should look into the subject. The mayor and Alderman Baker supported the amendment for reference to a special committee, but they were overruled by vote of six to four, and the building inspector is authorized to issue the permit.

The cost will be $7,000 for building and $20,000 for machinery.

Canada's fire loss during October amounted to $1,418,233, compared with September loss of $833,948, and $580,750 for October, 1911. The number of deaths from fire is 21, making 153 for the first ten months of 1912.

ESQUIMALT DRAINS CAUSING TROUBLE

City Agreement on Douglas Road Pump to Be Hunted Up by Council

On the motion of Councillor Anderson at the Esquimalt council meeting last night, it was decided that the agreement between the city of Victoria and the provincial government regarding the Hereward street and Douglas road drain should be obtained and action taken, if found possible, to have the unhealthy state of things at the end of the drain altered. Councillor Anderson held that Douglas road was a point of infection owing to the failure of the city plan to remove the refuse. Until they receive the agreement, councillors will not know their standing, but they believe the city of Victoria will have to operate the electric pump constantly.

The drain emerges at Douglas road, Esquimalt, and the refuse is supposed to be pumped electrically to William street. On occasion the pump fails to work and the state of things, said the councillor, was unbearable. Councillor Anderson had objected to the agreement at the time it was proposed, and said then the results would be just as found to-day. The pump had been a failure, and complaints had been made by residents of Florence road. He was supported by other members of the council.

Col. Peters reported that he had been unable to obtain a horse for the mounted constable at the price he had believed would be possible. He had now found that the horse would cost $300. The council, having placed the matter in the hands of Col. Peters previously to carry out, did not object to his going on with it and paying whatever price was necessary for the horse.

On a letter from R. H. Pooley, M. P., asking that the pound by-law be not enforced at once, the reeve stated that it was not the intention of the by-law to deal with cattle at pasture but to prevent the cattle from parading the streets. Grazing cattle should have a herder. The garbage of the district came up on a police report, the council having been unable to find a permanent dumping ground. The council agreed last night to use the dip at the end of Fraser street facing the sea, and decided that a notice to inform residents of the fact should be posted. This ground will be used until other arrangements are made. Several applications for new planking on sidewalks were made, and the works committee was ordered to obtain sufficient planking for emergency, so that a stock would be on hand when wanted.

WORTHY SON OF A GREAT FATHER

NEW COMMANDER OF THE SALVATION ARMY

The Interesting Address by Commissioner on Leader of World Movement

The Salvation Army Barracks was filled to the doors last night when Commissioner Rees told the story of General Bramwell Booth, the successor to the great General of the Salvation Army who recently passed away in London, England. Among the officers who were seated on the platform with Commissioner Rees were Colonel Maidment, Chief Secretary for Canada; Colonel Gaskin, secretary for the western division; Staff-Adjutant Smith, Brigadier Green, and Ensign and Mrs. McDonald. The Salvation Army band gave a number of stirring selections, and several hymns were sung before Commissioner Rees rose to speak.

"My subject to-night," said Commissioner Rees, "is General Bramwell Booth, and what the Army is likely to become under his guidance and leadership. When the General passed away and the announcement of the appointment of Bramwell-Booth was made, the newspapers all over the country clamoured that I should take some steps to enlighten the people of this Dominion as to whom Bramwell-Booth was, what had he done, and what his credentials were for the position to which he had been appointed. I met Bramwell-Booth thirty-five years ago, just when persecution and opposition to the Salvation Army were at their worst, and when open attacks were regular occurrences. It seemed in those days to be the fashionable thing to throw bricks, bottles, and any other convenient form of missile at Salvationists every time they took their stand to preach the gospel of Jesus Christ. It will be thirty-five years next February since, as the result of an attack at an open-air meeting, sixteen men and women were borne away on ambulances to the hospitals to have their wounds treated. My own son was among those who were injured, and one of our leaders was so seriously hurt that he passed away a few weeks later as the result of his injuries. When it was found that there was no hope, and that the man was doomed to die, Bramwell-Booth came down with a lawyer to take the dying man's last testimony, which was to appear in court. It was then that I met Bramwell-Booth for the first time—then a young man the same age as myself."

"General Bramwell-Booth," continued the speaker, "is practically unknown to the world at large—but this is not because he lacks personality. He has played a very striking part in the work of the Salvation Army. It is rather on account of his devotion to the work that he is so little known, as he has been content to spend his time behind the scenes and deny himself of his rightful share in the great public gatherings of the hour. For one thing, he has confined his labors almost entirely to Great Britain, but the splendid business ability which he displayed in his work in the Army has not been lost on those outside who have been able to appreciate his peculiar genius. Some twenty-two years ago the General wrote, 'In Darkest England, and the Way Out.' In that book he asked the English people for £100,000 to launch his scheme. In less than three weeks the English nation rose in response to that appeal, and raised the necessary money. Following this, the newspapers took up the matter and asked what was being done with the money—numerous suggestions of a rather uncomplimentary character being tentatively put forth. At the end of the year the book had reached a circulation of 150,000, which reaped for its author £10,000 net profit—which the General handed to the foreign secretary the day the cheque was brought to him, with the remark: 'Place that in the fund of the Salvation Army.'"

In refuting the slanderous statements which came up in connection with the Army funds at that time, and also as an explanation of the wonderful genius for finance which was shown from the earliest time by Bramwell-Booth, the speaker went on to tell of the results of the investigations by a government commission into the financial standing of the Salvation Army. The chairman of this royal commission was the late Lord Onslow, and Sir Henry James and two or three judges of the Supreme Court were appointed to sit on the commission. After looking into all the documents the report was published, and with it a rider placing on record their very high estimate of the tact and ability of Bramwell-Booth, who, they said, was worth at least £20,000 per annum to any great firm that required the services of a skillful business man. About ten years ago the Lord Chief Justice of England made a statement to something the same effect.

Bramwell-Booth has been called by some, said the speaker, the greatest executive since Moses. He was a writer, a thinker, a great preacher, a great organizer, a wonder financier, a poet. One would not have to be in his presence very long to find they were in the presence of a giant mind. Born in Halifax, England, in 1856, Bramwell-Booth is to-day 56 years of age, and is the oldest son of Katherine and the late General Booth, who dedicated him at an early age to the work for God and humanity—a system which he had carried out with his own children, four out of seven being already officers in the army.

From the very first Bramwell-Booth had exhibited a passion for the salvation of souls, and in order to attract people's attention so that he could preach to them the message of the Gospel he would march the streets clothed in sackcloth, and with ashes on his head—on other occasions preaching from a coffin just in order to attract the heedless careless throng who otherwise would have passed by. He edited the first "War Cry," and published some of the most powerful books the Army has ever sent out. "Our work is going on in twenty-nine different countries," concluded the speaker, "where we have 20,000 officers working, our various institutions having accommodation for 34,000 men and women—and General Bramwell Booth has been the heart and brain that has directed and controlled this huge network of the Salvation Army."

High-Speed Eating and Wrong Food Lead to Indigestion

A little thought should convince anyone that right habits of eating are of first importance.

Five important points should guide the wise selection of food:

- Must be nourishing,
- Must be easily digested,
- Must taste good,
- Must make work for the teeth,
- Must be economical—

Grape-Nuts meets every requirement.

After all the argument for and against any particular food, the question can best be solved for the individual, by personal test—then you'll know

"There's a Reason for GRAPE-NUTS"

THE CITY MARKET

Some slight changes have taken place in the retail market, the price per lb. of red spring salmon and cod having advanced to 30c and 13c respectively. Australian rabbits are on the market at 50c each. Oats and crushed oats have declined in price to 24c and 23c respectively. Wholesale prices are little changed, save in the price of Japanese oranges, which have decreased to 60c and 65c.

FINANCIAL NOTES
Chicago elevator people are making contracts for delivery on December contracts. Leading elevator concern has a big line of December sold.
The Steel Trust hearing was resumed in New York to-day, and this is being watched carefully. So far nothing of importance has transpired.
Total stocks of grain in Chicago: Wheat, public, 4,017,000 bushels; increase, 1,054,000 bushels. Private, 4,387,000 bushels; increase, 21,000 bushels. Total, 8,404,000 bushels; increase, 1,465,000 bushels vs. 17,722,000 bushels last year. Corn, public, 280,000 bushels; decrease, 156,000 bushels. Private, 35,000 bushels; decrease, 267,000 bushels. Total, 315,000 bushels; decrease, 423,000 bushels.
A Chicago dispatch says: A private cable from Rosario reports too much wet weather in the province of Buenos Ayres.
There is more than an even chance that at the forthcoming meeting of Cal. & Ariz. directors in Boston the quarterly dividend will be increased to $1.25 or $1.50 per share against the present rate of $1.
An Argentine cable to Chicago states that beneficial rains have fallen in Pampeana. In the northern section of the grain belt the weather is now fine, while in the central districts the weather is threatening.
Canadian Pacific earnings for the second week of November, $71,781, increase $107,882; from July first, increase $1,106,702.
World's visible supply, Bradstreet's wheat increase, 5,500,000 bushels.
Much of the buying that was going on in cotton was on talk of small stocks at New York and how little probability there is for it to increase, and how easy it would be to congest the near positions. This was floor talk, and nothing was said about big receipts at other points.
A New York dispatch says: Into eight points to about 675,000 bales of cotton vs. 620,000 last year.
A Winnipeg dispatch says: The Manitoba Free Press will announce this afternoon that an embargo has been placed on all grain for shipment to Canadian Pacific Railway elevators at Fort William, owing to the accumulation of grain and the amount heading to Fort William.

FINANCIAL NEWS

BALKAN WAR OFFSETS FINANCIAL MOVEMENTS

Foreign-Exchange Rates and Imports of Gold From Europe

New York, Nov. 19.—The fact that the Supreme court has not made known its findings in any of the important cases of interest to the financial community is cause of considerable disappointment. The news was not of a nature to increase the initiative of the trading element, though on the whole the advice relative to the status of affairs in the Balkans was suggestive of happenings which might tend to place the allied Balkan states in more of a receptive mood in regard to Turkey's overtures for peace.

It was said that quite large shipments of securities from New York to London are now in progress. While foreign exchange is at a level which ordinarily would enable profitable imports of gold, still it is not anticipated that European financial circles will permit America to secure much, if any, of new gold arrivals without offering a protest in the nature of higher foreign discount rates.

HENLEY

CADBORO BAY

CAN you imagine, Mr. Investor, what choice homesites in Henley, Cadboro Bay, will cost you this time next year.

Do you realize that this district is rapidly becoming one of the most exclusive residential sections in Victoria, where folks with cultured tastes will build homes designed to please.

At the present rate of development Cadboro Bay values will be almost prohibitive in a very short time.

Henley is right in the heart of things, positively the finest property in this desirable district.

Here you can buy big one-third acre building sites, each commanding a beautiful view of the bay, straits and Olympic mountains, from $1,300 to $1,700, on terms of one-third, one-quarter or one-fifth cash, balance over three years.

Don't fail to see the painting of this property on exhibition in our windows, the finest and largest work of its kind ever painted.

Our autos at your service.

PREACHER ATTACKS ORTHODOX RELIGION

Rev. S. E. Lindridge Argues That Teachings of Churches is Untenable

Before an audience which packed the Victoria theatre last Sunday evening, Rev. Sidney E. Lindridge, B.A., E.D., minister of the First Unitarian church of Victoria, delivered the following sermon:

Ladies and gentlemen, my subject for this evening is "The Passing of Orthodox Christianity and the Coming Religion." May I ask that if there are any present who feel they would not care to listen to any consideration of this subject to kindly oblige the audience and myself by leaving their seats now. Sometimes I say things which offend orthodox church people, although I do not intend to do that, and by anyone leaving during the address it is not only disturbing to the audience but also to myself. I have not chosen this subject because I am conscious of being overcharged with a vainglorious sense of my ability to deal with it adequately in the time at my disposal this evening. I have not sought the opportunity; it has sought me, and I can do but my own thing. I do not intend to give you anything final with regard to the great religious questions of the day, but merely to consider these religious questions in the light of our knowledge and our experience, and endeavor to point you to the path which you, in your own way, can follow. Neither is it my intention to criticize the orthodox churches, nor to destroy your belief in them, but merely to try to find out the truth.

In considering the principles of Christianity; I do not wish to consider certain texts in the Bible, because they have been treated by people more able than myself. I want you to consider the principles upon which orthodox Christianity rests. I uphold the Christianity of Jesus, but I do not uphold "orthodox" Christianity, which is not true to His teaching, which is not in accord with our sense of justice, nor true to our knowledge of science. I wish to prove these three assertions to the best of my ability, and I merely wish you to listen with an open mind, each of you, to put yourself in the position of a judge, ready to weigh the evidence.

I say the principles of orthodox Christianity do not agree with our knowledge of science. I hold these principles to be as follows: First, that in ages past there existed somewhere in the realms of the sky, a God, who created a perfect world, and in that world he created a perfect man; that man fell from his high estate and thereby fell under the wrath of God. In order that man might be restored to favor with God, God sent His Son, who, in some mysterious way, was Himself. He came to earth, and He suffered in the place of that man who had sinned, and thereby redeemed those who believed on this atonement. In orthodox church belief in the atonement and all these theories is necessary to salvation. Now, I say those principles of orthodox Christianity are not in accord with our knowledge of science, with our conscience or with the teaching of Jesus.

They are not in accord with science. Have you ever thought that that conception of the creation is based upon the old idea that heaven was up here, that the earth is here, and that hell is down there? Have you ever realized that in facing the difficulties of your religious belief? Have you ever realized that the reason you could not hold these religious conceptions was because they were based on that old, old conception of heaven, earth, hell; that man sinned, but that the miraculous method of the atonement, saved him from going down to that hell and that belief in that was necessary for man's salvation? Now we know, and I think I am not saying that even conservative and orthodox Christians know and admit that there was not this perfect creation; but that the world and all life has gradually evolved.

Now please note that man was not created perfect, but has been gradually rising to higher development, day by day, year by year, age by age. We hold this theory of the evolution of the world and all life upon it. Do we not? Even the orthodox theologians acknowledge and admit that, but what they will not do is to follow it to its legitimate, its inevitable conclusion, because it undermines the authority, not of Jesus, but of the orthodox system.

Now, granted this conception of evolution is right, it means that man not being created perfect, but that he has been rising; if he did not fall from that high estate, there was no angry Deity condemning him to punishment for his sin, and if there was no angry Deity there was no necessity for atonement—and if there was no atonement there was no necessity for us to believe it! Does that not follow, if you once grant this theory of evolution? It seems to me there is only these two positions, you must either accept this theory of a perfect man and his fall, and shut your mind against all the teaching of science, or else you must grant the theory of evolution; accept it as you know it to be true, and with it have a new understanding of the Divine Life, one which will free you of this old conception of the angry God and condemned man. I say that orthodox Christianity, in standing for that perfect creation, is not upholding that which science tells us is true, and I hold, therefore, and I am justified in saying, that orthodox Christianity stands for that which is not in accord with the teaching of science.

I will now pass on to consider the next question, the relation of orthodox Christianity to our ideals of right and justice. The church system exists by the very reason of the fact that it stands for the slavery of the human intellect. This may sound strange to you, but is it not true? Does it not forbid you to analyze these questions of religion? Does it not tell you that you must believe—that you must not question? You must not seek to know facts, but you must believe. Believe what? Not what science teaches, not what Jesus taught, but what the church teaches. Do you wish me to prove it? You know very well that, with regard to this theory of evolution, for instance, why will the supporters of orthodox religion not follow it to its inevitable conclusion? Because they tell you you must not use your reason. Must I use all my qualities in the cause of Christianity? Yes. Must I give my love? Yes, give all the love you have. Must I give my sympathy, my charity? Yes. May I use my reason? No, you must believe—you must not question. And you say, suppose I know, as you do know, that these principles upon which your system rests are not in accord with our knowledge of science, supposing I read the Gospels and I find the principles on which your system rests are not in accord with the teaching of Jesus, what am I to do? You must believe; it is a matter of faith; you must not question, even though you know in your innermost mind that they are contrary to the teaching of science, that they are not in accord with the teaching of Jesus; you must believe because in that belief lies your salvation.

I say that is nothing more or less than the slavery of the human intellect. There is the slavery of the human body, but I hold it is worse, in some respects, that we have systems that stand for the slavery of the human mind. You find that all around to-day. This system, with all its beauty, its grand organization and magnificent opportunities; granted all that, and I grant it with honor, still stands in its essence for the slavery of the human mind, and I hold that any organization that does that is not in accord with our conception of right and justice. Therefore, on this issue I bring orthodox Christianity before the bar of public opinion. On that issue I maintain it stands condemned.

These theories are not in accord with the teaching of Jesus. There were years of my life when I knew and felt and deeply experienced the beauty of the doctrine of the atonement but I cannot allow those past years to blind my eyes to the truth. When I think of little children being taught about that terrible God in the heavens, who is not in accord with humanity that His Own Son had to be sent to be made a sacrifice, and I see those children growing into men and women with that element of fear so deeply instilled into their hearts, I say I am justified in treating these issues in this way. I say the fall of man and the doctrine of the Atonement has no part in the teaching of Jesus. In the gospel records you will find no report in Jesus' own words spoken to the multitudes publicly that he ever mentioned this idea of the doctrine of the fall of man and Atonement as it is taught to-day in the churches. You will find no record that he even taught it to His disciples privately. You find that he is not reported as having taught this orthodox doctrine of Atonement. Do you not think we are justified in saying we refuse to be bound by this magnificent but terrible theological conception, which has no foundation in the teaching or life of Jesus? No matter what the past history of any church organization may have been, we ourselves are free men and free women, are we not justified in saying that in standing for the fall of man and the doctrine of the Atonement orthodox Christianity is untrue to the teaching of Jesus? I hold that point also is true.

What, then, was the purpose of the Master here upon this earth? What was the religion He came to teach? Was it not exactly the opposite to this doctrine of the atonement, which has in its conception the separation of God and man?

Do you remember how emphatic He was upon the absolute union of the individual and the Father, that there was no mediator between them; that God was no angry Father because man had done wrong. He was God, the Father. You remember the story of the prodigal son. He did not go to the elder brother; he said: "I will arise and go to my Father." No mediator, no atonement, the unity of the soul to the heart of the Father. Do you not remember how often it was He spoke of the kingdom of heaven, the kingdom of heaven is within you. It is no great palace in the sky from which you have fallen as a sinful creature, but the Divine Life within, if you will only realize it, within your own soul. That seems to me to be the very essence of the teaching of the Master; the expression of that life in word and action, so that through all your life you live a life of noble deeds and of sublime courage.

It is that conception of religion which seems to me to be the Coming Religion, which will lay aside these mechanical formulae and arouse within each individual his inherent divinity. Are you downcast and in despair? Then know, you are one now with the source of eternal hope. Are you facing grave difficulties? Then know that at this moment you are, by the very fact of your nature, inherently one with the Spirit of Strength.

Let this consciousness once find expression, this consciousness of a religion such as Jesus taught, and what does it mean? It means that you will fling aside the fetters of formalism, and snap the chains of ecclesiastical authority which bind your very soul, and that you will stand forth as true men and true women, conscious of your Divine heritage. Hence it shall be you who will blaze the pathway through this tangled forest of superstition; and what if men call you "infidel"? It shall be you who will liberate truth from the bonds of servitude. And though men call you "heretic," "unbeliever," it shall be you who will be the loyal followers of the Master Jesus. It is this consciousness of the Divine Spirit within the human soul which is even now finding expression, and manifesting itself through all humanity. The consciousness of a religion not founded on fear, but upon eternal hope. A religion that bids us realize that we are not slaves, but the Sons of God; a religion that bids us to do our best to relieve some of the real suffering on earth. This consciousness of the outward expression of the Divine Spirit then seems to me to be the very essence of the coming religion. No, thank God! Not the coming religion, but the religion that has already come; the religion that is even now gradually evolving, slowly developing, steadily progressing, irresistibly advancing onward—ever onward.

THOROUGHBREDS FOR S. C.

Winnipeg, Nov. 18.—Manitoba now takes a hand at the game of stocking British Columbia with pedigreed Clydesdales, pure-bred shorthorns, and Aberdeen Angus cattle. A bunch comprising six Clydesdales horses, three shorthorns and four Aberdeen Angus cattle were shipped on Friday by James Yule, of Winnipeg, to A. O. Patterson, Ladner, B. C. These are the best Clydesdales ever shipped from Winnipeg to the West. The horses are in good condition and look well. Even the casual observer will be attracted by their appearance and the unmistakable stamp of quality and breeding. The shipment includes "Mosey Jess," the well known show mare from the stud of Sir William Van Horne.

ESCAPED FROM REFORMATORY.

Vancouver, Nov. 18.—Placed in solitary confinement for breaking away from the reformatory a week ago last Sunday, Willie Kievall and Dewey Quigg, both aged fourteen, took advantage of the fact that the rest of the lads and attendants had gone to church and sawed their way to liberty again. As punishment for escaping on the first occasion, when they were arrested by city detectives, the two boys were put into a room by themselves. One of them had a large pocket-knife, and with this tool they turned in cutting away the plaster and lathes between them and the open road to freedom. When sought later they could not be found and up to noon the police had not located them in the city.

ELEVATOR ACCIDENT.

Halifax, N. S., Nov. 19.—James Kirk was instantly killed while ascending a freight elevator of the new grocery warehouse of T. E. Courtney & Co. Kirk had carelessly leaned out from the rapidly-moving elevator to answer a call from another employe and was caught by a cross beam in the floor above.

FROM THE OTHER POINT OF VIEW

A GERMAN PROFESSOR AND THE WAR SCARE

What Use the Plaster of Love and Peace? No Territorial Ambitions

The following is one of a series of articles by leading Englishmen and Germans on the relations between the two nations. These articles have been appearing recently in Eastern papers, and are especially interesting at this time in view of the recent warnings issued by Earl Roberts, and the complications which are likely to ensue at any time from the trouble in the Balkans.

The following interesting study is from the pen of Dr. Walter Rathenau, director of Allgemeine Electricitäts-Gesellschaft:

What is the use of the plaster of love of peace or the medicaments of blood-friendship? If we wish to heal, then we must not be afraid to touch the injured spot, even though it hurts.

If two continental nations live in an atmosphere of nervousness, it must cost them money and trouble, but they will not consume or ruin themselves. A limit is set to armaments, the number of necessary fortresses and the means of communication are largely fixed by geographical considerations, and armaments cannot be reformed every day.

But when a continental power is forced into rivalry with England, the matter may come near to economic peril. For the sea is broad, the great fleet signifies only a small point upon it, a ship costs £2,000,000, and becomes out of date in fifteen years. Perhaps England finds less trouble in carrying a naval buildup than we do, because it has not to maintain its whole people in arms; but then every German ship means two to her, for upon the possession of unbeaten supremacy at sea depends her empire, and upon her sea-borne commerce her insular existence.

The assertion, therefore, is thoroughly worthy of belief but not very often advanced, that no nation wishes to ruin itself during peace by competition in armament. It is, too, credible that in no way can war be looked upon as something worth striving for, for it would have only one certain result, and that would be to transfer finally the industrial supremacy of the world to the other side of the Atlantic ocean.

An understanding between England and Germany cannot mean anything other than a curtailment of armaments, and, therefore, peace founded on the principle of trust.

With trustworthy and pacific intentions one can meet another person in business when his position is broadly similar. But it cannot be done when on one side there are dangerous weapons, interests, and coalitions, and on the other nothing to set against these. In numerous directions a parallel state of affairs exists between England and Germany; both of us are strenuous industrial and commercial peoples; we have no territorial ambitions in Europe; we desire to maintain the continental balance of power; we do not wish to increase our colonial possessions by force of arms, but to preserve and round them off within given frontiers we wish to maintain our economic position against Eastern and Western competition, and to open up new markets.

All these parallel interests admit of understanding. If it were only a matter of taking England's great sea power into consideration, we could pass over it with trust and good will, for in the strength of our army we have, in a way, something to set off against it.

But two features greatly alter such a picture and turn the parallel and symmetry to our disadvantage. We have in the first place, England is allied by entente to a power the breeding, ethics and often the declared policy of whose people are all directed to robbing the German empire of a certain important piece of territory, a power which has for forty years shown itself unfriendly toward Germany. We have never sought an alliance with any power which threatened England, but since the setting up of the entente we have had the fear that every Franco-German episode might involve us in war with England. Politically, we have become weakened toward France, and we must carefully consider that its entente with England stimulates its national, anti-German sentiments.

In the second place, England has exercised for centuries an intervening, empire-like policy on the Continent, while we have never engaged in an insular policy. England looks upon it as a duty to stand up against the, for the time being, strongest Continental powers, and so at the present moment against us. Mr. Balfour writes: "We have had a too bitter experience of the misfortunes which result from the attempt of a single state to become master of Europe." He, therefore, claims that England shall determine whether we contemplate territorial movements on the Continent (for with such was he alone concerned in his statement) and to interfere when, in England's opinion, there is ground for suspicion.

These points are not parallel to any we can set forward. We have not the right to request that England shall sacrifice in our favor her French entente or her political traditions, but we do affirm that that friendship and these traditions are the reason why, before now, a reduction in armaments has not been possible. Here is the place where the touch hurts. English policy creates the inharmonious which does damage to the trust of both peoples. Only an agreement on the lines of mutual neutrality can set aside this anomaly.

This English policy is only to be fully understood by the outsider when he considers that the English people wished, a little while ago, to bring about a war. There is more than one reason, if the unexpected does not happen, why the continuation of the present state of things must lead to war, and indeed to a war arising out of English needs:

1. Because the two-power standard will, in the course of time, require greater sacrifices from England than is demanded of any other nation.

2. Because new technical devices may place in doubt the superiority of the fleet.

3. Because the increasing concentration of sea power in Northern European waters weakens the position of Great Britain in other quarters of the globe.

4. Because in the eyes of the Colonies naval competition means the endangering of prestige.

5. Because a policy which aims at isolating another nation means lastly exactions and continual sacrifices.

English foreign policy is the strongest, the wisest, and the most successful that we know. That the English form a correct estimate of the consequences of their principles, we must regard as certain. We must, therefore, if we are to count upon the love of peace of the English people, retain the hope that not the unchanging of war is their intention, but a trial of strength, which, like a good sporting bout, will end with a hand-shake. May that not come too late.

If the risk of preparation is taken into account, both nations are behaving like irreproachable spectators.

REFORESTING NEW ZEALAND.

Slopes of Volcanic Mountains Being Planted in Indigenous Timbers.

Persons who have recently visited New Zealand speak in warm terms of the success of tree planting on that island. The authorities have discovered that at the present rate of cutting the New Zealand forests will not last for more than thirty-five years, even if none of the standing timber is destroyed by fire. They have, therefore, begun the work of planting barren areas. Most of the districts now being planted are a very difficult field because they consist of the slopes of volcanic mountains from which all the vegetation was swept by an earthquake and volcanic eruption about twenty-five years ago. This has left the hillsides covered with a deposit of ashes, underneath which is a stiff clay, too stiff to be swept away by the torrents of water from the upland lakes, which at the time of the eruption boiled over and eroded the hills. It was felt that the native trees would not live in this upland, but good success was met with in planting imported larch, and of these about 2,500,000 trees per year are being planted. The planting is being done by prisoners of the better class—that is to say, first offenders and men who can be, in a measure, put on parole. The officers over them carry no firearms. Every man is allowed eight credit marks per day for good work, and these credit marks go to shorten his term in prison. At the end of their term the prisoners may remain at planting work, and for this they receive £5 per day. In this way many are enabled to earn sufficient to give them a new start in life. Up to the present New Zealand has spent $300,000 in this work, and it is expected that within twenty years, when the second thinnings are begun, they will have a very considerable revenue from the poles taken out, which will be used for railway ties, mine props and fence posts. The experiment is considered a success from the standpoint of both forestry and prison reform.—Canadian Forestry Journal.

Local Improvement Assessment

TAKE NOTICE that the Corporation of the City of Victoria intends to pass a Local Improvement Assessment By-Law for each of the undermentioned streets, assessing upon the properties in the schedules hereinafter mentioned the sums of money for the length of time set opposite each said lot, as follows:

FUTURE OF NAVAL DEFENCE IN PACIFIC

CONTROVERSY RANGING FIERCE IN ANTIPODES

Sir Joseph Ward Criticized for His Views on Naval Contribution

A lengthy correspondence and replies in the Houses of Representatives of the Commonwealth and New Zealand has taken place on defence matters, more particularly with regard to the Pacific units, and the part to be taken in the naval defence of the Empire by British Dominions...

China Pacific Unit

The Minister for Defence, Senator Pearce, has referred to a press report that Sir Joseph Ward had denied having made a proposal to take the control of a portion of the China-Pacific unit out of the hands of the Admiralty...

It is, however, considered desirable that a portion of the China-Pacific unit should remain in New Zealand waters, and I would suggest that two of the new Bristol cruisers, together with three destroyers and two submarines, should be detached from the China station in time of peace, and stationed in New Zealand waters...

Discussions editorially Sir Joseph Ward's remarks in the House of Representatives on naval defence, and Senator Pearce's comment thereon, the "Wellington Post" says:

"In one respect the Commonwealth Minister is better qualified for the task than any of our own Ministers would be even if they had all made up their minds to follow the Australian's excellent lead. He has inside information regarding the Defence Conference of 1909, which no New Zealander, except Sir Joseph Ward himself, possesses, and is also completely au fait with the development of ideas both of Australia and the Admiralty...

Military Detention

The second reading debate on the New Zealand Defence Amendment Bill took place recently at Wellington. The Minister for Defence, Mr. Allen, said that military detention had been substituted for imprisonment, and the amendment would be in camp, at the barracks, or on the barrack grounds...

Mr. Fisher, Minister for Customs and Marine, contended that the platform of the Labor party in New Zealand would never be complete till it included national defence, after the example of the Australian Labor party.

In replying, Mr. Allen said that the whole essence of the scheme was that they should provide a citizens' army, with equality of sacrifice. The rich should not be able to pay the poor to protect them. The Government would put forward its naval defence policy in due course.

Replying to a question in the House of Representatives recently, the Prime Minister, Mr. Massey, said that the Government was in communication with the Imperial Government on the subject of naval defence in the Pacific.

Sir Joseph Ward observed that it was very much to be regretted that the Prime Minister had not given an outline of the policy of the Government on this important question. New Zealand had a population of about 1,000,000, and if they looked up the history of the defence of other countries they would not find that any country had attempted to make any material move in the direction of defence until it had a population of from 15,000,000 to 20,000,000.

One morning he went into a country hotel in California and gave his order for breakfast to a waitress who seemed utterly indifferent as to whether he got hot or stayed to death. She kept him waiting a long time, and his impatience grew until he had to give vent.

Calling a waitress who passed by his table, he said: "How long have you been here?" "How long have you been here?" "I've been here three weeks."

"Then," said Kahn, "you're not the one who took my order. That one left before you came."

Julius Kahn, of San Francisco, was at one time on the stage with Booth and Barrett, but later he went into politics, had himself elected to congress, and developed a sense of humor to contrast with the tragedy roles he played in the theatres.

On a morning he went into a country hotel in California and gave his order for breakfast to a waitress who seemed utterly indifferent as to whether he got hot or stayed to death. She kept him waiting a long time, and his impatience grew until he had to give vent.

WHEN I GROW UP

Donald A. Fraser in The Westminster

When I grow up! What a land of dreams those words open up to the minds of boys and girls. A long, smooth path, bordered with flowers and singing birds, leads up to a fairy castle of golden ease. Nothing detracts from the picture save the long, long time that must elapse before the dream can be realized.

One day I asked my class of Victoria boys and girls, averaging about eight years in age, to write a composition with the title, "When I Grow Up," and to tell me plainly what they would like to be and do when they were men and women.

The next few compositions have a more ambitious tone, and several of their authors have attempted to be a little "smart."

PROGRESS IN MODERN JAPAN

HAS RUSH BEEN FOR GOOD OF COUNTRY? What is the Driving Force Behind the Land of Chrysanthemum?

In an interesting article contributed to the Osaka Mainichi translated by the Japan Advertiser to hand on the Panama Maru, by Baron Shibusawa on the subject of Japan's past achievements and future prospects, the question is asked whether Japan has been making such progress as her capacity warrants or whether she has been pushed forward by the irresistible force of external pressure...

As we look back on the past we must acknowledge that Japan has been compelled by the force of environment to develop in such a hasty manner. It is, therefore, a matter of special congratulation for us that despite the exceptional haste which has characterized the progress of Japan she has achieved so much substantial success. But one cannot forever continue the journey with a straw sandal on one foot and a clog on the other, so to say. One who carries a great burden without the real power of bearing it must expect to be doomed to fall sooner or later. During the Meiji era Japan was able to effect an exceptional degree of progress without let or hindrance, but the progress to be made in the new era of Taisho should not be gauged by the same standard. We know that we should always think of progress and that we should never think of standing still even for a day...

Germany may be accounted for by various causes. But the chief secret consists in the unanimous co-operation of the upper and the lower classes. The German emperor's ten precepts, exhorting the people to use only home products, for home consumption may appear narrow-minded advice which precludes the possibility of emulating superior foreign arts, but they show the unanimity of spirit which has impelled the whole German nation from the Kaiser down to the common people to strenuous exertions for the enhancement of the national resources; which has resulted in the present day progress of the nation.

Effect of Economics. The growth of the national power depends upon the growth of economics. And this economical development cannot be forever kept up at a feverish rate of speed. Sound, steady progress is impossible where there is no preparation, no resources and no reserve strength. If we desire great permanent progress we must make great preparations and nourish great reserve powers. Japan has not yet quite recovered from the exhaustion entailed by the 1904-5 campaign, and there is as yet something ominous in the burdens of the people. During the Meiji era we were compelled to dash everything in a hurry, and had little time to adjust things; which fortunately has not seriously impeded us. But the new era of Taisho demands that we should store up inward capacity and endeavor to make such progress as befits that stored capacity.

The War Debt. Baron Kondo, president of the Nippon Yusen Kaisha, is represented as speaking in the following sense: As regards the economic status of Japan, her burden of debt has been vastly augmented by the Russo-Japan war. In interest alone, she must pay about sixty or seventy million yen. Respecting foreign trade, the adverse condition of imports exceeding exports still rules, which, combined with the foregoing circumstance, induces Japanese specie to flow abroad rapidly. Really there seems some ground for pessimism in the economic outlook of the country. But no amount of pessimism will ever improve matters. The only remedy for the situation consists in the honest endeavors of the people to develop industries and extend foreign trade. It is satisfactory to note that both the government and the people are exerting themselves in this direction.

THE FOOL WITH THE GUN.

The editor of Rod and Gun had British Columbia in mind when he wrote about "The Fool With the Gun." He says: "Hunters of the old school never mistook and shot and killed their companions and friends for wild animals. In the old days hunters were so careful in the woods that they didn't even kill their dogs; in the days when dogs were used to chase deer and bay bears it would have broken the old hunter's heart to have killed one of his dogs. Hunters of the old school were careful to get the game in the clear before they fired. They did not shoot at sounds and shaking bushes. They never mistook a man or a dog for an animal of the woods. "Wild animals do not, as a rule, make any noise while moving about in the woods; they move silently and slyly; it is a defensive trait with them. The elephant's tread is lighter than a man's. A man may scent a cougar but he cannot hear him. The deer is noisy only when he is startled. Bears of ponderous build will, as a rule, sneak through the woods and make less noise than a man would make on a heavy carpet. The limbs and muscles of wild animals are not rigid; they are supple. A fox can caper over a hill covered with dry, crisp leaves and make less noise than the average man would make on a dirt road. "The frequency of accidental hunting murders has kept many a man out of the woods who would like to live another year. This joining the hordes and scattering through a popular deer country is no child's play. If you can do so it is well to go 500 or 1,000 miles back into the deer or moose country and even then you run the risk of being killed by one of your own party. The popularity of deer and moose hunting has made it a most deadly pastime, seemingly."

SUFFRAGETTE PROPAGANDA.

Miss Barbara Wiley Had Mixed Reception at Montreal. Miss Barbara Wiley, the English suffragette, who by her pointed utterances has earned for herself the sobriquet of "Miss Barb Wire," delivered an address at Montreal last week before the local council of women and received a mixed reception. Miss Wiley advocated the use of constitutional, lady-like methods in securing the vote at first, and if they failed Canadian women should then show "the unselfish and high spirited constant devotion to the cause of liberty manifested by the women in England." Charles M. Holt, K. C., deprecated the use of militant methods by women, though he sympathized with the suffragette cause. Miss Wiley said that Mr. Holt was like some of the cabinet ministers in England who said that women would have got votes if it had not been for their aggressive methods. The suffragette read an editorial from the Ottawa Journal, and said that the man who wrote it must be "an antiquated old fossil." Immediately a man in the audience rose and protested and said the editor of the Journal, Mr. F. D. Ross, was known as the best journalist in Canada, bar none. "Oh, well. If he is a young fossil, I think that is very much worse," retorted Miss Wiley. In conclusion Miss Wiley asked for subscriptions to "The Suffragette." Mrs. Dr. Ritchie, England, who presided, shut off a discussion which threatened to become rather personal by summarily adjourning the meeting.

A NOVELTY SUIT. The dainty taffeta coats worn with fingered dresses were so much admired that the idea has been developed in heavier materials. An example of this is shown here. The coat is of black velvet, with a vest and facing of white bengaline. Buttons and buckles used are of rain-bow-colored pearl. Under the coat is a skirt of blue cloth, draped to a narrow panel in front and back.

THE IMPORTANCE OF NITRATE INDUSTRY

BRITISH SHIPBUILDING (At Belfast)

Ten years ago Dr. Samuel Eyde, of Christiania, Norway, was a struggling engineer, one of a family of electro-chemical engineers. Now he is rated one of the wealthiest men not only of Norway, but in the whole world of industry.

They were of September 20 twenty-five steamers, with a gross tonnage of 112,550, under construction at Belfast, compared with twenty-four, with a tonnage of 22,250, on June 30. Since then the number has been lessened by one, the Royal Mail Steam Packet Co.'s steamer Desma having been delivered to her owners early in October, and she is now on her maiden voyage to the Brazil and the Argentine.

He told the story of his life work with a series of lantern slides, and ended in the showing of pictures of the four great nitrogen transforming plants now under his control, which have a capacity of 200,000 horsepower, and send out yearly 20,000 tons of nitrate of lime for use in fertilizers, 10,000 tons of nitrate of ammonia for use in explosives, 10,000 tons of nitrate of soda for use in various industries, and thousands of tons of other compounds of nitrogen.

On October 19 Messrs. Harland & Wolff launched from their south yard a twin-screw steamer of 1,500 tons, named the Appam, for the British and African Steam Navigation Co. This vessel is 425 feet long by 57 feet beam. After the launch the ship was placed in the hands of Messrs. Jas. Henry & Sons, of Belfast, for plating and lengthening, and Sir Wm. Arrol & Co., of Glasgow, will then erect six cantilever cranes for this and the adjoining slip.

Having shown all this, including pictures of the complete chemical process from the harnessing of the air to the shipping of the finished products, Dr. Eyde, in optimistic mood, told how Norway was prepared to furnish his chemical company with 100,000 horsepower almost free of charge, and how his country, independent as to all international controversy and politics, would ultimately furnish all the armies and navies of the world with the greatest agency for universal peace—gunpowder.

The White Star liner Olympic arrived on October 11, and was put in hand immediately. The extensive changes in her construction will occupy six months, and will involve the partial dismantling of the ship. The preliminary work is in hand, and the vessel has been placed in the graving dock. The Hawthorn-American liner Hamburg arrived on October 12 for a new steamship, and Lord Pirrie's yacht the Valkyrie is receiving extensive alterations, including the introduction of new boilers.

RACIAL DIFFERENCE BETWEEN CHINESE

North and South Have Many Opposite Points of View

Interviewed as to the outlook in China, a member of the Chinese customs staff, said to the Hongkong Telegraph recently, according to exchanges at hand: "I have served for many years in the Chinese departments—both in Northern and Southern China, and as you are now asking me pertinent questions and I shall give you pertinent answers.

"In the first place, of the 400,000,000 inhabitants of China, there are not 500,000 that know the difference between an autocratic and a republican party, or government. The racial difference between the North and the South is so great that it will require many years to eradicate this feeling. Only a strong central government will be able to keep the country as one country. This is solely due to the fact that communication with the outlying provinces is so slow, that many things happen in Peking of which the provinces do not hear until months later.

"The electric arc over which free air is passed. Nitrogen oxide is thus formed, and this, with the addition of oxygen, is converted into nitric oxide. The addition of water makes the nitric acid which is used as the working basis of the commercial compounds of nitrate.

DECORATIVE LABELS

Gorgeous is the word which best describes the gown from which this sketch was made. First is a foundation of white charmeuse, over which is a softly puffed drapery of pale champagne-colored shirting and sleeves of cream net, embroidered with fine gold thread. A gold and white brocade forms the overdress, and the effect is as if the material were draped to the wearer by gleams and flashes, held by turned-back corners, faced with gold cloth, and ornamented with fine intricate tuftings.

WELL-KNOWN STOCKMAN DEAD

Misoula, Mont., Nov. 18.—John C. Burke, one of the best-known stockmen in the West, who was one of the founders of the Chicago stock yards, and who was a partner of "Big Ed" Corrigan in the building and operation of the Hawthorne and several other well-known race tracks at Chicago, died here to-day of heart failure.

FINANCES IN LAND OF CHRYSANTHEMUM

Japanese M. P. Takes Depressing View of the Prospects

Mr. Saburo Shimada, M. P., is credited with the following statement, says the Japan Advertiser to hand on the Awa Maru: "The future of the Taisho era, viewed from the standpoint of the present political situation, the spirit of the people or the people's style of living, forbids an optimistic view. On the contrary, we may discern much melancholy phenomena in the first place...

Japan on Downgrade. "A certain foreign journal is said to have remarked that Japan is now on the downgrade. For my part I am not courageous enough to repudiate the assertion of hand. The prospect of 40 years during the Meiji era was a result of the 300 years' peaceful regime of the Tokugawa government and Japan's influence touched its highest altitude at the time of the Russo-Japan war. Until that campaign, both the politicians and the people had an ideal in view, but directly after the nation was classed in the family of first class powers, it lost its national ideal. A nation without an ideal is ruled by vanity and pride and marches blindfold, as it were, towards the inevitable ruin."

Social Problem. "What is the ruling complaint which oppresses the people of to-day? It is to confess the truth, none other than the social problem. The social problem emanates only from the hardship of living engendered by the straightened state of economics and finance; it instils selfish ideas into the heads of the people, which culminates in what is called 'dangerous thoughts.' Incidents foreboding the danger of this nature are every day reported in the newspapers. The other day I stood aghast on reading the story of how a certain woman brought about the 'marriage of convenience' between her husband and a man, because it cannot be denied that the hardship of living makes one afraid of attending to the raising of children. We can cite numerous incidents of the kind. At all events, there can be no gainsaying the fact that Japan is placed in a very critical position to-day, both materially and spiritually. I do not necessarily mean that Japan is upon the brink of certain ruin. But it seems that not till the country is face to face with this danger will it realize its danger and take the most immediate sign of danger may be detected in the finances of the country. When the nation shall have reached that climax in which it finds itself unable even to pay interest on foreign loans, the people will become conscious of the urgency of effecting a drastic financial revolution. Then will be the epoch of thorough reorganization of officialdom, when will dawn the hopeful light of future triumph. Thus as regards the distant future of Japan, I have confidence in her ultimate glory. But as for the prospect of the near future of this Taisho era, I confess I am very pessimistic, and fear that things will grow from bad to worse."

REFUSED TO CALL BANNS. Vicar Declines to Perform Marriage Ceremony Contravening Law.

A Devonshire couple who are desirous of getting married have failed in their endeavor to obtain a certificate of the publication of the banns, owing to the vicar's objections to marrying a man to his dead wife's sister. The lady has for several years resided at Hington, a village near Newton Abbot, Devon, and the prospective bridegroom lives at Hanwell, where he is a prominent church worker. The banns were to have been called on the first three Sundays in September, both at Hington and Hanwell. They were, in fact, read twice by the vicar, Rev. J. D. H. Fatch, but he refused to publish them for the third time, having meanwhile ascertained the relationship of the parties. He had a conscientious objection to such a marriage taking place in the established church.

"I do not suggest," said the vicar afterwards, "that the lady tried to withhold the circumstances, in fact, she made no secret that she intended to marry her sister's widower. Everyone in the village seems to have known it except myself."

given, the vicar consented to call the banns a third time. The vicar says the Deceased Wife's Sister Act of 1907 gives him power to refuse to conduct such a marriage. He wrote to the Bishop of London, the Bishop of Exeter, and the English Church Union. The former had replied Church Union vicar had power to refuse to call the banns.

OPINIONS OF THE NEW AMBASSADOR

TO CHAS. M. HAYES

Prince Lichnowsky, who has gone to Berlin to confer with the chancellor, Herr von Kiderlen-Waechter, in an interview, expressed great pleasure at the prospect of his mission to London. The appointment, he said, came as a complete surprise. He had been out of harness for several years, and it was therefore doubly pleasant to be asked to take over a post so important for Germany.

The prince comes to London without any cut-and-dried policy, except that of arriving at a reasonable settlement of all questions on their merits. He has no expectation of negotiating a complete understanding out of hand, but believes in the possibility of an agreement on all Anglo-German questions.

Prince Lichnowsky recognizes that the great question is the naval issue. He failed to see why people in Great Britain should apprehend danger from the German fleet when their own was so much stronger. Germany knew that for Great Britain it was a vital necessity that her fleet should be stronger than any other. Nobody in Germany disputed that, or proposed to build a fleet equal to the British—that would be absurd. But the people of Great Britain, on the other hand, should not take alarm because Germany found it necessary to build two or three ships.

A Delicate Subject. In regard to a naval understanding between the two countries, Prince Lichnowsky said he had not studied the technical side of the question, and did not know whether it was possible to frame an agreement for limitation which would satisfy both parties and could not be evaded. The difficulty was obviously great. That was a matter, however, for the two admirals and the two governments to settle, and could not form part of the personal program of a diplomatic representative.

For himself he could only say that he did not see that it was, at any rate, theoretically impossible, and no one would be better pleased than he if a practicable formula could be found.

But the Anglo-German naval question, continued Prince Lichnowsky, was one of those delicate subjects which he was all for having discussed as little as possible.

As to the practical proof of good will which Germany was said to expect from Great Britain, he continued, he construed Herr von Bethmann-Hollweg's declaration last autumn, that Great Britain must prove her friendship, by deeds not by words, to mean that Great Britain must abstain from hostile actions and demonstrations against Germany. The German people felt that Great Britain had behaved in an unfriendly way over the Morocco question, and Mr. Lloyd George's speech had created strong resentment here. Such demonstrations rendered the position of the imperial chancellor at home extremely difficult and necessitated a reply from him.

MAN OF THE HOUR IN THE BALKANS

In the Balkan peninsula, the Bulgarians represent the solid and most vigorous element. As first-class fighting men, they have, in the present war, won the admiration of the whole world; and so it is that the man of the hour in the Near East is King Ferdinand of Bulgaria, the creator of the modern army of his country and commander-in-chief of the allied forces of the Balkan states in their successful war against the Turks.

Chosen Monarch of Alien Race. It was in July 7, 1887, that the National Assembly of Bulgaria unanimously elected Prince Ferdinand of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha, a grandson maternally of King Louis Philippe, the last Orleansist monarch of France, to be their prince. He was then 35 years of age and a lieutenant in the Austrian army.

Undeterred by the difficulties of the international situation and the distracted condition of the country, he accepted the crown, and, with his mother, the Princess Clementina of Bourbon-Orleans, went to Sofia. The odds were enormous against him, but he was not to be daunted. Hard Fight With His Prime Minister. He started work at Sofia only to find that the powers would not recognize him as prince and Stambuloff, his prime minister, expected to have everything his own way. As a stranger in a rude land, the language of which he did not understand, he would seem to have but a poor chance. But he applied his amazing energy to the task, and advanced from strength to strength.

Two little incidents of that time emphasized the strained relations between prince and premier. One afternoon Stambuloff drove up in a little open carriage, surrounded by clattering guards. After some fifteen minutes, the prince and his mother, Princess Clementina, the daughter of King Louis Philippe, came out on the balcony and watched him depart.

SMITHERS' TRIBUTE TO CHAS. M. HAYES

Former President of G. T. P. Added One Hundred Millions to Wealth of Road

Chairman Alfred W. Smithers, of the Grand Trunk, made a unique and interesting statement the other day. He was talking about the late Mr. Charles M. Hayes and he remarked that, in his estimate, the former genial president of the G. T. P. had, during his term of office, added $100,000,000 to the value of the property of the road.

One hundred millions! Think of it. In a few odd years one man had been worth that much to his employers. Capitalists do not, as a rule, estimate in cash the value of an employe to their business. If they did, some of us would suffer a severe cut. A rabid Socialist might suggest that a man like Mr. Hayes, who drew a $75,000 salary, never earned it. Perhaps, after all, there is something in the Socialist contention that monetary rewards are not paid in proportion to the productivity of labor. In these days of "social unrest" an artisan who adds $10 to his employer's wealth and gets a $2 wage has a claim that he should share larger in his employer's profit. But what of the case of a man like Mr. Hayes, at the top of the social scale, adding $100,000,000 to his employer's business by his services and getting a paltry $75,000 a year for it? Men of all ranks who are on salary, draw their incomes from this source, at least, subject to the domestic laws of economics. Mr. Hayes' salary, like that of a carpenter or a stone mason, was calculated not upon the basis of his essential contribution to the efficiency of the G. T. P., but the competition for his services in the world of labor.—Canadian Courier.

Two little incidents of that time emphasized the strained relations between prince and premier. One afternoon Stambuloff drove up in a little open carriage, surrounded by clattering guards. After some fifteen minutes, the prince and his mother, Princess Clementina, the daughter of King Louis Philippe, came out on the balcony and watched him depart.

They were evidently in a state of great perturbation after a stormy scene. Ferdinand was frowning and his mother, wringing her hands. Next there was a party at the palace, when the prince distributed Easter eggs at 2 a. m. Stambuloff sat in an outer room, glittering with decorations like a Christmas tree and smoking a big bad cigar. After some sulky small-talk he slouched away out of the palace—a gross breach of etiquette. Some courtier mentioned this to the prince, who shrugged his shoulders and said: "I did not know he had been asked."

A little later, when Stambuloff was dismissed, this "Bismarck of the Balkans" entirely broke down. He knelt at his master's feet and sobbed: "I am your dog. I will serve you faithfully all my life. Do with me what you will." He had not much time for faithful service, for he was cut to pieces in the street by some of the many men whom he had grievously injured.

TRIAL OF DYNAMITERS

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 18.—Blackened pieces of infernal machines which figured in the explosion at Los Angeles on October 1, 1910, when twenty-one people were killed in the wreck of the Times building, were identified at the dynamite conspiracy trial to-day. Events involving the handling of the nitro-gelatin with which James R. McNamara caused the explosion were further described by witnesses.
