FANATIC CAUSES UNUSUAL CLIMAX AT ST. JOHN'S

White Robed Doukhobor Makes Proclamation of Deity

Occurred at Morning Service
Yesterday

Lured by a religious fervor that apparently bordered on actual dementia, the morning service at St. John's Church yesterday narrowly escaped interruption when Simon Kamenchikov, a Russian Doukhobor, flitted down the north aisle to the lectern, and there cried "Christ is Resurrected."

Simultaneously with this proclamation of faith the fanatic threw up his arms, in one of which he brandished a staff, and released his sole covering, a white shawl, over his head. Users who had followed him from the door of the vestibule caught the man at this point and pulled the sheet over him in time to save an embarrassing situation. The Rev. F. A. P. Chadwick, the Rector, who was entering upon the Communion service at the moment, carried on the service without pause.

With his sheet wrapped around him, an overcoat thrown over his shoulders, and surrounded by ushers and wardens, Simon Kamenchikov was led quietly up the aisle to an outer room, here he was made to dress. Later the police were requested to take care of the man, and he was lodged in the station for medical examination.

Eluded Wardens.

Shortly after 11.30 Kamenchikov slipped quietly into the vestibule at the church entrance, and there exchanged his clothing for a winding sheet.

REV. B. STAUFFER DIED IN TORONTO

Death Came Suddenly to Well Known Preacher

Toronto, Oct. 2.—Rev. Byron Stauffer, prominent preacher and writer and pastor of the City Temple, died at his home here early this morning of heart disease.

He was last preached at the regular City Temple service in Massey Hall last night on "Northcliffe and Will Power," a sermon especially prepared for St. John's, which was taken suddenly ill. Arrangements were made for Professor McMillan, of Winnipeg, to deliver the sermon.

Little faith with practically no hope, according to the doctor's statement, to coronary thrombosis, means that the blood supply was shut off from the heart.

Dr. Stauffer is survived by his widow, his daughter, Dr. Margery Stauffer, his sisters, Mrs. James Paulin, of Calgary, Mrs. Mary Sallia, of Alma, Mich., Mrs. Lucinda Morse, of Buffalo, and Mrs. Athol Addison Stauffer, of Cincinnati.

It was a coincidence, or perhaps a premonition, that the heading turned in by Dr. Stauffer for his last newspaper article was "Ready, Aye Ready."

Born in Ontario.

Rev. Byron H. Stauffer was born in Kitchener, Ont., in 1870 and was educated in that city. He was a school teacher for some time, then went to St. Louis, Mo., and for four years was a reporter on The St. Louis Chronicle. As a reporter he had himself committed to prison for penitentiary in order that he might investigate at first hand the conditions in that institution. His exposure led to the conviction of several of the newspaper editors for cruelty and crimes.

Then he joined the Methodist ministry and for twelve years was pastor of Grace Methodist Church, Buffalo, N. Y. He resigned in 1907 and came to Toronto to become pastor of the Bond Street Congregational Church. He remained there for a number of years. About three years ago he went to the United States again, but returned to Toronto and started the City Temple, a non-sectarian downtown religious service. He also wrote books and newspaper features.

MOUNTED POLICE SHARE IN HUNT FOR PRAIRIE ROBBERS

Ottawa, Oct. 2.—Instructions have been issued to the Royal Canadian Mounted Police to co-operate with the provincial police of Manitoba in their efforts to apprehend the bank robbers who have been operating in Southern Manitoba.

MORE CLASHES IN IRELAND REPORTED

Belfast, Oct. 2.—Two soldiers of a Free State detachment were killed to-day when the detachment was ambushed by irregulars on the road from Farranfore, County Kerry, to Killarney. A captured irregular was wounded fatally, while seven irregulars received slight wounds.

An unsuccessful attempt by the republicans to capture Killarney, near Killarney, resulted in a seven-hour battle. The republicans are believed to have been heavy. Two republicans were killed. Reinforcements from Tralee surrounded the republicans. A number of them were captured.

EX-MINISTERS ARE HELD IN JAIL IN BULGARIA

Sofia, Oct. 2.—Twelve former Premier and members of the Government are now in jail, where they are being held in expectation of the adoption of a referendum in which the people will vote whether they were guilty or not guilty of embroiling Bulgaria in war.

In the roundup which took place last Tuesday the police were aided by peasants, who guarded every exit of escape from the city while the arrests were made.

CHURCH DELEGATES DEBATE NEAR EAST

Question Comes Up at Methodist General Conference

Toronto, Oct. 2.—The Methodist General Conference to-day launched into a vigorous debate on the part Canada was to play should Britain go to war with the Turks. It was brought into the proceedings when a delegate insisted that owing to the Near Eastern situation being critical, the report of the committee named to draft a resolution should have right of way to present it at once. The resolution expressed the wish that an honorable solution of the question could be peacefully arrived at and concluded as follows:

"In spite of every honorable effort to discover a peaceful solution, this result can not be obtained, we beg to assure the British, Canadian and Newfoundland and the Bermuda Governments that the Methodist people of the Dominion of Canada and Newfoundland and the Bermudas, as in the late war, will be prepared to make any sacrifice in the interests of liberty and justice."

Referred Back.

The resolution was finally referred back to the committee until there was more time to discuss it, the appeal of Grace Church, Winnipeg, having been scheduled to come up.

However, before the decision to leave it over was accepted, requests that it be passed without discussion were urged on the one hand, and it was said it pledged the churches to too much and should be toned down on the other hand. One delegate urged that the resolution pledged Methodists, if need be, to go to war with the Turks over the Dardanelles question. It was claimed the conference had no authority to make any such pledge.

Others said: "If we can't speak for the Methodists of Canada, who can?"

Rev. Charles D. Baldwin, of Brockville, said: "As I understand it, this is not a question of protecting the liberties of Christians in Asia Minor at all. It is merely a question of respecting the Dardanelles. I am not prepared to lay down the life of my boy to keep the Dardanelles open or closed."

Religious War.

"If Britain goes to war with the Turks it will be a religious war," said Rev. Charles D. Baldwin, of Sharbot Lake. "The Turks will do their utmost to break the Christian religion hip and thigh. We might put in the resolution that the Methodists would do their duty. If the Methodists believe it their duty to be in this war, they'll be there. Who can speak for Methodists if we can't?"

E. PICARRELLO APPEARS IN COURT

Woman Also Charged at Alberta

Coleman, Alta., Oct. 2.—The preliminary trial of Emilio Picarello and Mrs. Charles Lasandro, charged with the murder of Constable Steve O. Lawson, of the Alberta Provincial Police at Coleman Barracks, on the evening of Thursday, September 21, by shooting him in the back, opened at Coleman this morning. Picarello was brought from Lethbridge during the early morning hours in an open car and under strong guard. Mrs. Lasandro was brought down by train from Calgary.

About twenty witnesses will be called by the prosecution, and it is expected the trial will last a couple of days.

Chief interest centres in new evidence which it is claimed the prosecution will bring out to establish that there were two guns in the murder car at the time of the shooting, one a .32 and the other a .38. An effort will also be made to clear up the question, who fired the fatal shot?

HEARST REPORTS NEW YORK DEMOCRATS

New York, Oct. 2.—William R. Hearst announced last night that he would support the Democratic state ticket headed by Alfred T. Smith, for Governor.

WILL SPEAK FOR TURKS AT MUDANIA; ISMET PASHA

Constantinople, Oct. 2.—All men between the ages of 30 and 50 in that part of Thrace which is under the jurisdiction of the Constantinople Government are being recruited for the Turkish army.

Forced to Retire.

Constantinople, Oct. 2.—A band of 800 Turkish irregulars crossed the border of Thrace at Siroz, northwest of Sivri (forty miles west of Constantinople) and attacked the look-out posts. They were being forced to withdraw when reinforcements arrived and the Turks were thrown back across the boundary.

The Allies have been notified that the representative of the Turkish Nationalists at the Mudania conference will be Ismet Pasha, one of the most prominent Kemalists. He commands the Turkish army on the West front during the recent operations in Asia Minor.

FIRE HOSE USED TO DRIVE BLACKBIRDS FROM ST. THOMAS

St. Thomas, Ont., Oct. 2.—Blackbirds roosting in the trees along several of the city's residential districts have become such a nuisance that the assistance of the fire department has been called to drive out the unwelcome guests. Fire hose attached to street hydrants and streams of water are turned on the blackbirds nightly. Hundreds are said to have left the city as a result of their repeated soakings.

SIR EDMUND PEARS'S RESIDENCE GUTTED

Home at Melchosis With Valuable Contents Destroyed by Fire Sunday

Fire completely destroyed the residence occupied by Admiral Sir Edmund Pears at Melchosis yesterday morning—all that remains of the building and its valued contents being a heap of blackened ashes.

Sir Edmund and Lady Pears retired for the night about 12 on Saturday, and shortly after 1 o'clock were awakened by a strong smell of smoke. On going downstairs to investigate the fire found flames issuing around the fireplace in the drawing room, apparently due to a defective chimney. Before anything could be done or assistance procured the flames had reached the upper story, and in an incredibly short time the whole place was in a blaze. Sir Edmund was able to save only a few of Lady Pears' jewels, a small bundle of clothing and one or two valuable pictures.

The house was known as "Craiglands" and was rented by Sir Edmund Pears from the owners, Mr. and Mrs. Charlesworth, with the option of purchase. It is believed that no insurance was carried, and the loss is all the more serious in that Sir Edmund lost many trophies acquired during his long service and highly valued by reason of their sentimental association. After the fire it was found that nothing could be saved. Sir Edmund and Lady Pears spent the remainder of the night at the home of a neighbor, Mr. Peachy, and came into town yesterday to take up their temporary residence.

DESTROYERS AND SUBMARINES SENT TO CONSTANTINOPLE

FIRST TO REGISTER

To John A. Harrison, of the City Treasury Department, goes the honor of being the first citizen to register as a household voter this year. The civic voters' list was thrown open for the reception of names this morning at the City Hall, and a short time later Mr. Harrison had made the necessary declaration.

Registration will continue until October 31. The Gyro Club has challenged Calgary to poll, at the December elections, a larger total of votes than Victoria in proportion to the population, and this challenge has been accepted.

In connection with this Victoria-Calgary Civic Interest Contest, the Gyros are conducting a Get-a-Vote Campaign throughout this month in order to build up the civic voters' list.

TURKS IN THRACE CALLED TO COLORS

Summons Issued by Constantinople Government

Turkish Irregulars Entered Thrace; Thrown Back

Constantinople, Oct. 2.—All men between the ages of 30 and 50 in that part of Thrace which is under the jurisdiction of the Constantinople Government are being recruited for the Turkish army.

Forced to Retire.

Constantinople, Oct. 2.—A band of 800 Turkish irregulars crossed the border of Thrace at Siroz, northwest of Sivri (forty miles west of Constantinople) and attacked the look-out posts. They were being forced to withdraw when reinforcements arrived and the Turks were thrown back across the boundary.

WORLD PEACE IDEAL OF LLOYD GEORGE

Will Devote Time to Task, Says His Wife

London, Oct. 2 (Canadian Press Cable).—That Mrs. Lloyd George, the wife of the British Prime Minister, does not share the views recently loudly expressed regarding her husband's desire for war is apparent from a speech she made Saturday at the opening of a bazaar in Birmingham.

She deplored the anxiety of some persons to fight again and expressed the fervent hope that the Government would be able to stop them. She said the Prime Minister was doing his best to that end, and had in fact decided to devote the rest of his life to securing peace among the nations.

VENIZELOS GREEK SPOKESMAN ABROAD

Represents Country in European Capitals

Athens, Oct. 2.—M. Venizelos' acceptance of the special Greek ambassadorship to the European capitals is interpreted in Athens as clearly indicating that, while the character of the new regime is avowedly non-partisan, the Venizelists will be predominant.

Venizelos will be backed up at home by Foreign Minister Politis, the same portfolio as he held when Venizelos was Premier, and by Minister of Finance Diomedes, who has been one of the most active supporters of the Venizelist movement.

MINISTER TO BRITAIN

The cabinet yesterday approved the first Venizelist recommendation, namely, that M. Caclarmann be appointed Minister to Great Britain and M. Romanos, Minister to France. At the same time details were forwarded to Venizelos of the financial and military situation so that he might be equipped immediately to resume his diplomatic negotiations with the powers.

The Revolutionary Committee's first step in the re-organization of the army was to recall to the service all officers placed on the inactive list under the Constantinian regime.

SOVIET HOPES TO TAKE VLADIVOSTOK

Peking, Oct. 2.—M. Politis and M. Diomedes have refused the portfolios of Foreign Minister and Finance Minister in the new Greek cabinet, according to an Athens dispatch by the Havas Agency. They are declared to have given their reason the desire that the new Ministry be without pronounced political tendencies.

Predicted Bolsheviki Will Control the City

Vladivostok, Sept. 27.—Communists here predict that Soviet forces will occupy the city by the middle of October.

This will be facilitated by the Japanese commander's reduction of the neutral zone to Ugnolnala Station after October 6.

Soviet troops are concentrating on the northern frontier, ready to move when the Japanese evacuation is completed. Whites and Reds have clashed in a few skirmishes. The strictest censorship prevails.

Vladivostok is full of refugees from districts evacuated by the Japanese.

Mines

There is anxiety regarding a number of American mines on the Siberian mainland opposite Saghalien Island. General Dietrichs, the White commander at Vladivostok, has declared a blockade against this mainland, from which the Japanese have just completed their withdrawal.

MANIFESTO ISSUED BY LABOR LEADERS

Less Effect in Britain Than They Anticipated

(Times Special Service.)
London, Oct. 2.—An amazing manifesto from the National Joint Labor Council informing the Government of the imminence of a threatening upheaval has been coldly received and is regarded in well-informed quarters as a political move. Even The London Star declares the manifesto is too late and of little practical use.

One authority told The Dominion News: "The Labor leaders have wielded a really unexpected influence in the Near East crisis. They know that the cost of a war would not fall upon them, but upon the classes in general. Meanwhile, with unemployment rampant and funds depleted, the Labor Party hopes to derive a political advantage either way."

As the crisis wages, party politics are gaining the ascendancy in public interest. While it is generally admitted that the Premier's reputation has been clouded by the events, the conviction is growing that he will win through. If war is averted it is felt that he cannot yet afford to face the country, whereas, if war comes, "the Government that brought it will be hurled from office within a month," according to The Outlook.

KEMAL'S NOTE WAS MADE PUBLIC

Mudania Conference Communication Published in Paris

Paris, Oct. 2.—The text of Mustafa Kemal's reply to the Allied joint note of September 23 was made public last night by the Foreign Office.

The reply, dated September 23, promised to stop immediately the military operations which had been developing toward Constantinople and Chanak "in pursuit of the Greek armies." It accepted the proposal for an armistice conference at Mudania next Tuesday with representatives of the Entente and nominated General Ismet Pasha to act for the Turks.

Dealing with Thrace, the reply was worded with marked firmness. It reiterated the Entente's sentiments of justice toward Turkey, but demanded that Thrace should not be left one day longer under the Greek army, saying it was indispensable that the Entente should be evacuated immediately and restored to the Angora Government up to the west of the Maritza River, including Adrianople.

POINCARÉ DECLARED FRENCH POSITION

Talked With British Ambassador About Near-East

London, Oct. 2.—The Paris correspondent of the London Times emphasizes the need to realize that the French Government declines to participate in any struggle with the Greeks and that its position is one of neutrality.

The French hope for peace and are prepared to pay any price within reason to prevent their being drawn into a conflict, he states.

The French position has been made clear to the British Ambassador by Premier Poincaré.

TASK TO PREVENT ACTION BY KEMAL

French Envoy Found Greatest Efforts Needed

Franklin-Bouillon Now in Constantinople

Constantinople, Oct. 2.—M. Franklin-Bouillon, peace envoy from the Allies to Mustafa Kemal Pasha, returned yesterday to Constantinople from Smyrna on the French cruiser Smetz, successful in his mission of arranging an armistice conference.

He conferred with General Pelle, French High Commissioner in Constantinople, and is understood to have told him that only the most extraordinary efforts on his part had prevented Kemal from acting rashly.

He made it clear to the Nationalist leader that if war were renewed in the Near East it might spread to the whole of Europe and that the responsibility would rest entirely on Kemal.

CONFIDENCE IN THE ASSURANCE WHICH M. FRANKLIN-BOUILLON HAS GIVEN THE COMMANDER-IN-CHIEF OF THE TURKISH ARMY

"Confidence in the assurance which M. Franklin-Bouillon has given the commander-in-chief of the Turkish army, Mustafa Kemal, is increasing in Paris, and persuaded that negotiations will at once be proceeded with to establish a just peace," the Greeks and that its position is one of neutrality.

The French hope for peace and are prepared to pay any price within reason to prevent their being drawn into a conflict, he states.

The French position has been made clear to the British Ambassador by Premier Poincaré.

ALLIED AND TURKISH CONFEREES MEET IN MUDANIA TO-MORROW

Turkish Nationalist Assembly Unanimously Approves Action of Mustapha Kemal In Agreeing to Conference Proposal.

London, Oct. 2.—The Turkish Nationalist Assembly at Angora has unanimously approved the action of Mustapha Kemal Pasha and has authorized the dispatch of delegates to Mudania, and later to the peace conference, according to a Central News dispatch from Constantinople.

Constantinople, Oct. 2.—An immediate mutual agreement to suspend all movements of troops was expected here to-day to be the first outcome of the Mudania armistice conference, which is to meet to-morrow.

Constantinople, Oct. 2, 11.57 a.m.—The Allied policy at the Mudania conference, it was learned this forenoon, will be decided upon at a meeting in Constantinople this afternoon of Allied generals, admirals, High Commissioners and military attaches in extraordinary council.

The conference will discuss the occupation of Eastern Thrace by detachments of inter-Allied troops during the Greek army's withdrawal. The expectation here is that the Greek evacuation will begin immediately after the conference, permitting the establishment of Turkish administrative control.

General Harington, the British commander-in-chief, will leave for Mudania on the dreadnought Iron Duke early to-morrow. The Italian and French generals will make the trip on battleships.

TENSION RELIEVED BY NEW EVENTS

Near Eastern Changes Raise British Hopes

London, Oct. 2.—A feeling of relief was evident in all British official quarters this morning as a result of the favorable week-end developments in the Near Eastern crisis, and the authorities are hopeful that the conference between the Kemalists and the Allies will have good results. A similar feeling of relief is noted in official dispatches from Constantinople, owing to the less menacing attitude of the Turks about the neutral zone, and substantial reinforcements have arrived at the Dardanelles, and the British military position is much stronger in consequence.

No results are expected from the Mudania conference before the middle of the week. Meanwhile the Government is marking time. Premier Lloyd George will visit the country and no cabinet meeting was scheduled for to-day.

EVACUATION

The Government authorities reiterated this morning that complete evacuation of the neutral zone by the Kemalists would be required before the parleys can begin. It is generally understood that Mustafa Kemal Pasha himself will not attend the meeting, but will be represented by Ismet Pasha.

The despondency which has marked the press comment for the last few days gave way to hope to-day, but it is felt that the immediate withdrawal of the Greek troops from Thrace, making this conditional upon acceptance of the Allied peace proposals. The inviolability of the straits will be stoutly defended.

ISMET PASHA GIVEN POWER TO DISCUSS POINTS

London, Oct. 2.—Alluding to the proposed Mudania conference, Reuter's Constantinople correspondent says that it will naturally lose much importance through the absence of Mustafa Kemal Pasha, but Ismet Pasha is invested with full powers to discuss the evacuation of Thrace, the question of the neutral zone and the suspension of troop movements on either side.

It is stated on good authority that the Turks are prepared to accept the French suggestion of the dispatch of Allied troops to the Thracian region during the transition period.

PARIS BELIEVES DANGER PAST

Paris, Oct. 2.—The general feeling in Paris is that the danger-point in the Near East situation is past. The withdrawal of the Turks from Erewhon and the semi-officially reported, also from their positions at Chanak, is accepted as proof of the Angora Government's readiness to comply with the Allies' desires.

Great Britain is given credit in French official quarters with having held a dignified and firm attitude, which has greatly contributed to the solution of the difficulty. At the same time, Mustafa Kemal Pasha is praised for having shown a certain British will, which it is hoped, the British will not overdo, as the Kemalists will have evacuated the neutral zone first. French officials are anxious that Great Britain will find a means to satisfy Turkish public opinion.

WIRELESS NOW ONLY NEWS LINK WITH SMYRNA

Constantinople, Oct. 2.—Owing to lack of telegraphic communication with Smyrna, there has been much confusion regarding the movements of Kemal Pasha, the Turkish Nationalist leader, who is still in Smyrna.

The Eastern Telegraph Company's cable between Smyrna and Constantinople has entirely ceased operation, and wireless is the only means of communication with Smyrna.

GRAND HOUSE WARMING PLANNED

Chamber of Commerce to Have Fine Quarters

A grand house warming will be held by the Chamber of Commerce when the new quarters in the Arcade Building are opened. This was decided upon to-day when Henry C. Hall, K.C., suggested that it would be a fine thing to invite the public to attend some sort of a function when the organization returns to its former home which was destroyed by fire.

A splendid restaurant will be operated in connection with the Chamber's quarters, and there will be a large auditorium with a good floor. The auditorium will be very useful for concerts, dances, lectures and other public affairs.

Memorial Avenue.
The directors at to-day's meeting also approved of the suggestion that a committee should be formed of the heads of all ex-service and public organizations in the city to carry out the plans outlined by the Memorial Avenue Committee. The municipalities, it is expected, will look after the tree planting and maintenance but an active organization will be required to carry out all other details, such as the building of the arches and so on.

General R. P. Clark, chairman of the Memorial Avenue Committee, has started the subscriptions for the fund to carry out the work, his cheque for a substantial amount having been received. He has also reported that the trustees of the old 30th fund had decided that no better purpose could be served than by contributing the small balance of the fund toward such a splendid memorial.

Naval College Students.
That the students whose courses were uncompleted through the closing of the Esquimaux Naval College would be given preference in the government Merchant Marine, was the statement read to the directors from the Minister of Naval Service. The Government will do everything possible to assist these young lads, the directors were informed.

Time Not Ripe.
That the time was not ripe for the inauguration of a Commission form of civic government in Victoria, owing to the fact that the city is not large enough to bear the expense of such an innovation, was the opinion of Alderman A. E. Todd, when H. S. Stevenson's suggestion to introduce the new form of administration was communicated to the directors. When the Greater Victoria scheme was put through the fitting of values. The action originally was over land that had passed under a confusion of titles. The present judgment had reference to the amount of the damage claimed.

CONFERENCE CAUSES OPTIMISM IN FRENCH OFFICIAL CIRCLES

Paris, Oct. 2.—French hopes for the peaceful settlement of the Near Eastern crisis are centred upon the Mudania conference. While the Government believes the worst is over, there is no desire to be optimistic pending determination of the two main issues by the generals of the allied powers and the Turkish Nationalists.

The French representative at Mudania is expected to support the Turkish proposal for the evacuation of the neutral zones in return for the immediate evacuation of Eastern Thrace by the Greeks. The fear is expressed, however, that the British will not consent to such a plan, especially at a conference at which there is no provision for Greek representation.

Chanak.
Further danger to the success of the conference is seen in the firm determination of the British not to retire from Chanak, and should the Turkish conditions it is foreseen that an agreement might be impossible.

In well-informed though unofficial circles, the most that is said for the conference is that it is a forty-eight-hour breathing space at a moment when hostilities between the British and the Turks seemed inevitable, and that it now remains for the Mudania conference to promote the further removal of conditions which were leading to a clash.

In official circles, however, the expressions were much more optimistic, and the belief was indicated that the danger of war had virtually disappeared.

For Discussion.
Constantinople, Oct. 2.—British general headquarters here to-day issued a denial of a report originating in London that General Harrington would demand the evacuation of the shores of the Dardanelles by the Turkish troops within twenty-four hours. The report, it was stated, would be discussed at Mudania.

No Correspondents.
Constantinople, Oct. 2.—The Allied generals announced to-day that newspapermen would not be permitted to go to Mudania for the mistle conference. The inter-Allied passport control officers have been instructed to refuse visas.

LIBERALS SPECIAL AGAIN DERAILED

Train With Convention Delegates Meets Accident on Both Trips

Hon. J. D. MacLean, Provincial Secretary, and Attorney-General Manson were first of the Cabinet Ministers to return to Victoria after the Provincial party convention at Nelson. They arrived here yesterday afternoon.

F. A. Pauline, M.P.P. for Saanich, whom the Liberal caucus decided to favor as the new Speaker of the Legislature, and B. Jackson, K.M.P.P. for the Islands, and H. F. Kergin, M.P.P. for Atlin, came with the two ministers.

"It was a large convention, tremendously enthusiastic, and it was well attended," Dr. MacLean said. "There were 268 delegates, besides the 47 members of the Legislature and the presidents of district associations in attendance. Besides, there were proxies from those unable to attend, bringing the total representation on the floor up to 618."

Premier Oliver and the Hon. John Hart, Minister of Finance, stayed over in Nelson for a day. They will reach Victoria to-morrow.

Joseph Clarke, M.P.P. for Victoria, and a small party of delegates, returned by way of the Arrow Lakes and Revelstoke. They reached Victoria this morning.

"It was hard work all the way through the convention for the delegates," said Mr. Clearidge. "We kept right down to business the whole time and accomplished a tremendous amount of work."

The Hon. E. D. Barrow, Minister of Agriculture, also returned to-day. The main body of Lower Island delegates and Victoria delegates under the leadership of W. M. Ivel, F. R. Carlow and H. W. Goggin, were on the Kettle Valley special convention train. There were 150 on this train, which was due in Vancouver early Sunday morning.

Late Saturday night, however, when an hour out from Hope, the train crashed into a slide, which delayed its arrival in Vancouver until 2:30 o'clock last night. The engine was wrecked on its side. The fireman and engineer escaped injury. The train was re-routed by Merritt and Spence's Bridge. Saturday's where the same special train on its way to Nelson was derailed Tuesday night.

PLAINTIFF AWARDED DAMAGES IN CASE

In a written judgment to-day in the matter of Lee Mong Kow and L. D. Chetham versus the Registrar-General, the plaintiffs were awarded damages to the value of the land in question as fixed in 1916, and to interest of 5 per cent. subsequently to date.

Mr. Justice, D. A. McDonald, in the judgment held that the Registrar had proceeded in part upon a wrong principle. The matter was referred to the Registrar again for the fixing of values. The action originally was over land that had passed under a confusion of titles. The present judgment had reference to the amount of the damage claimed.

SETTLEMENT NEEDED

On the suggestion of the Associated Boards of Trade of British Columbia, it was decided to appoint a committee to act in conjunction with the Land Settlement Committee to encourage settlement. H. C. Hall, K.C., said that the colonization question was the largest one facing Canada to-day, and Victoria should certainly be represented in any move to encourage settlement on Vancouver Island.

It was also decided to appoint a committee to investigate the proposed amalgamation of Pilots of British Columbia.

Mark Graham, and E. H. Wilson were elected to the Board of Directors.

BOYS' WORK AND FIRE PREVENTION

The boys' work carried out by the Y. M. C. A. in this city was outlined by Harold Cross, boys' secretary of the local institution, at the luncheon of the Gyro Club to-day.

Mr. Cross spoke of the influence the "Y" was now exerting on the "teen age" boys, training them in many and varied lines, but always with the object of making them better men.

Gyro Ernest Greenwood gave a ten minute talk on fire prevention in connection with the Fire Prevention Week, pointing out the colossal losses which were annually being suffered which indirectly reverted back to the consumers. The higher the losses the higher the insurance rates, he said, and as all merchants included the fire premiums in the retailing of their products the consumer was again forced to foot the bill.

Gyro Harold Beckwith was the soloist and his numbers were greatly appreciated.

FIVE KILLED AT ELCHO HARBOR

Landslide Caused Tragedy Near Ocean Falls.

Ocean Falls, B. C., Oct. 2.—Five men were killed in a landslide at Elcho Harbor, twenty miles from here, yesterday, according to word here to-day. The men were in a bunkhouse, upon which the landslide descended. Four of the men were buried alive and one was swept into the sea and drowned.

Trapped Pheasants.—Charged in the Provincial Police Court to-day for trapping game birds, contrary to the terms of the Game Act, Lee, a Chinaman, was fined $15. Game Warden R. Gidley told the court of watching the trap, a large chicken coop affair, for two weeks, in which time he had seen pheasants in the trap. The trap was set on property at Gordon Head, and it is believed to have been used by several Chinese who pooled the bags. The contrivance was based on the fact that pheasants and quail will follow a trail anywhere, and once inside the narrow aperture the birds did not see any way out. The accused was charged with merely being found in possession of the traps, as no birds were taken at the time.

The Esquimaux & Nanaimo regular passenger train, fully decorated, will be greeted on its arrival here from up-land points by Mayor Marchant and civic and railway officials.

City Engineer F. M. Preston announces that the bascule will be lowered at twenty minutes past five, and the passenger train will cross at twenty minutes to six. The first experimental freight train was taken over the bridge Saturday morning.

MORE THAN HALF RAISED FOR NEW SYNOD HALL

Christ Church Congregation Hears Encouraging Report

The joyous note of the Harvest Thanksgiving services in Christ Church Cathedral yesterday was accentuated by the Dean's announcement that the sum of $104,454 has been raised for the new Cathedral buildings project, $45,775 of which is for the first building to be erected, and $58,679 towards the new Cathedral. These amounts, the Dean stated, have come from various sources, including voluntary donations and other interested groups. The first contribution of a thousand dollars, he said, was made by an elderly gentleman who wished it to be devoted to the cause of the religious education of the young. Mr. Chamberlain declared that Britain could not allow the advantages of the defeat of the Turks in the last war to be thrown away and that his country was right in its determination to see that the neutralization of the zone along the Dardanelles is maintained.

This is the first time he has been in Canada, he said. The object of his trip is to get first hand information about affairs in this country, and that he will be well equipped to discuss them when they come up in the British House of Commons. He recalled the interest his family has taken in imperial affairs.

Mr. Chamberlain said that as the present Parliamentary term in Great Britain will expire in December 1922, it is unlikely that it will carry on much longer before an election. Just what issues the election will be fought out on, it is too early for anyone to make an attempt at forecasting, he declared.

"But we expect to see the Unionist party come back after the next election," Mr. Chamberlain hurried to add.

He was elected Unionist member for Ladywood division of Birmingham in 1918. His elder brother is the Rt. Hon. Austen Chamberlain.

NO WAR IMMINENT, CHAMBERLAIN SAYS

Son of Great British Statesman Here to See Canada

Believes Kemal Knows Better Than to Start Trouble

There will be no serious trouble with Turkey or war between Britain and France in connection with national rivalries for the possession of strategic points in the Levant.

This was expressed on his arrival here to-day by Arthur Neville Chamberlain, member of the British House of Commons, former Lord Mayor of Birmingham and director-general of National Service in England in war-time, and son of the illustrious Rt. Hon. Joseph Chamberlain.

"The prospect of another war is absurd," Mr. Chamberlain said. "It doesn't seem to me as if any serious fighting in the Near East is likely. The Turkish army has neither the forces, equipment nor the finances to hold out for very long against the British. Russia can do nothing to effect transport food from one part of the country to another, let alone men and ammunition."

The Ottoman Position.
"Now is the best time for Kemal Pasha to make peace while he is at the very top of the wave. I can't think that he will seize that opportunity provided his own people will let him. If he doesn't take this which leads to armed conflict he will get the worst of it."

"I don't think there can be any serious trouble between the French and the British because of rivalry in the Near East, although we have found the French extremely difficult to deal with, and they have not shown us the consideration that would be expected after our long and close relations during the war."

"But there is a very strong desire on the part of both the British and French people to maintain friendly relations; there is nothing for us to quarrel with France about at the moment, and because of that deep underlying desire we can get over all the difficulties."

"As far as Germany is concerned we have found ourselves in a difficult position. We have not forgotten anything of what the Germans did during the war, and don't think our feelings towards the Germans are any more friendly than they were."

"Taking sides with Germany against France and relieving Germany of her obligations is not a policy that has any currency in England. But in formulating a method by which Germany can pay her debts it has to be considered that an attempt to get reparations out of Germany at this moment would be to throw the country into chaos and destroy the chance of getting any in the future."

"We are convinced that Germany can pay, and we are determined that she must pay, but we need to give her time. Sooner or later the inflation in Germany must stop, and when it does, the money will be sent back to normal relations is one that will tax all her skill and resources."

HENDERSON SCORES BRITISH MINISTRY

Labor Leader Says Mistakes Made in Near East

Wimbledon, Eng., Oct. 2.—The policy of the British Government in the Near East was severely scored Saturday by Rt. Hon. Arthur Henderson, British Labor leader, speaking at the opening of a new labor hall here. He declared that the step taken by the government in demanding that the Turks withdraw from the neutral zone was not calculated to lessen the tension. At any moment the British troops in the area of the neutral zone might find themselves under orders to expel the Turks, and this would kindle flames of war which probably would set the whole Moslem world ablaze, he said. It was his opinion that it would precipitate a calamity as dreadful in magnitude as the late war.

"I fear it must be said that the war party in the Cabinet has gained the upper hand," the Labor leader said.

No system of physical exercises yet invented can compare with new silk stockings for giving an erect carriage to the female head.

DECLARES LEAGUE GROWS STRONGER

Lord Robert Cecil Says Advance Has Been Made

Advocates Creation of League Air Force

London, Oct. 2.—(Canadian Press Cable)—The Sunday Observer gave prominence to an interview obtained by its Geneva correspondent with Lord Robert Cecil, who represented South Africa at the meeting of the League of Nations. Lord Robert expressed the view that the meeting of the Assembly just concluded marked great progress beyond the previous meetings and declared that nobody could retain the smallest misgivings of the League's permanence and progressive development. Nothing had been more striking this year than the demonstration of the Assembly's need of a fuller authority from the powers concerned. He urged the need of fuller authority from the powers respecting the League's machinery.

Lord Robert Cecil enlarged upon his suggestion of a League air force, contemplating the ear-marking by each country of a portion of its air force for the service of the League in the event of the desirability of checking unprovoked aggression by one state against another. He thought this would be the most rapid and effective way of deterring aggressors. Still he was most reluctant to suggest that the main efficacy of the League rested on its military force.

PARIS COMING INTO HER OWN AS HOLIDAYS END

Chorus Girls Threaten Beauty Strike Against Small Pay

New Illuminated Dance is to Be Introduced

Paris, Oct. 2.—With the passing of September has come a reawakening of Paris after the semi-torpor of the summer vacation. Already the streets are livelier, the theatres fuller, the cafes noisier, and the night haunts are beginning to be crowded again. Paris is more Parisian than ever now that the last American tourist has left for home and the Parisians have come into their own once more.

Many of the latter have noticed one remarkable new feature in their capital—nothing less than the creating of a new street in the heart of the city. Rue Daunou existed, it is true, but merely as a link between the Avenue de l'Opera and the Rue de la Paix in which few carried on the way to either shopping centre.

Now it is the most frequented street in Paris. To the Cafe de Paris at the corner, Croix in the middle of the thoroughfare and the Theatre Daunou opposite—founded and run by one of the prettiest and cleverest of the Parisian actresses, Jane Renouardt—and the New York Bar where Tom Lyman and Roy Barton have been delighting American and French audiences nightly with real American entertainments. Just below is the Club Daunou, the latest and choicest dancing rendezvous established to attract gaudy loving Parisians and their cosmopolitan followers. Miss Irene Hammond and Charles Stuart are dancing there with great success.

The result of all this is that Rue Daunou—a blaze of light nightly just like Montmartre—frequently becomes so jammed with people as the Potiniere at Deauville in the height of the season.

In the matter of dances, the newest thing in Paris is what is known as the "illuminated" dance. The dresses worn by the women performers of this dance are illumined by electricity. Soon it will be introduced publicly by Mr. Stuart and Miss Grace Ovide. The latter's dress will be made of colored transparent silk.

Certain moments will be lit up by electric incandescent filaments of dazzling intensity destined to show off the beauty, grace, form and movements of the dancer. Striking effects are promised.

A "beauty strike" is threatened in the Paris music halls. The girls who appear on the stage of the Folies Bergere and similar establishments with the sole purpose of charming the eyes of the beholders demand higher pay, and vow they will refuse engagements until they get satisfaction. What they want is a sort of sliding scale, raised proportionately to the diminution of their costumes. At present most of the members of the stage beauty corps are paid the equivalent of $30 a month for appearing more or less draped, and $5 or $8 extra for unveiling a greater proportion of their shapely forms.

However, even beauty entirely unadorned rarely commands more than $40 a month, which the fair graces consider insufficient.

GASOLINE TRAINS TO BE PUT ON BY BIG U. S. RAILWAY

Light Service, Proved Successful, to Run Out of Chicago

Equipment Similar to That Proposed for P.G.E. by Premier Oliver

Chicago, Oct. 2.—So successful have been the experiments with four gasoline motor-driven trains for suburban service that the Chicago Great Western railroad is preparing to expand this branch of its equipment to fifteen such trains, to be used mainly in the more thickly settled sections of Iowa, President S. M. Felton announced today. The trains consist of a specially constructed motor car, equipped with a high-power gasoline engine and a high-pressure electric generator, an interurban electric coach, although more heavily built. The motor car has room for freight and baggage just back of the compartment occupied by the engineer.

Plans Frequent Stops.
"My theory," said Mr. Felton, "is that with the low overhead on the gasoline-driven train, we can afford to stop at every crossing, farmhouse or small station, if necessary. In this way we expect to give the kind of service which will be appreciated by the Iowa farming element and build up a good interurban traffic."

The interurban trolley systems can do this and make it pay and so should the railroads. "We have the tracks, the stations, and all the other equipment of a right-of-way. All that is necessary is to add the trains." With the ordinary locomotive-drawn trains, Mr. Felton said, the overhead was so great that it was impossible to stop at every small crossing as the electric systems did. With the motor service, this difficulty is eliminated.

Experiments Are Successful.
"It is a wonder to me," added Mr. Felton, "that the systems which have been faced by interurban competition for their passenger traffic have not used this type of transportation to compete with it." The four trains now in use in Iowa, Mr. Felton said, are making runs of from 100 to 150 miles a day without difficulty.

These light gasoline trains, which the Chicago Great Western is putting into service, are similar to those which Premier Oliver plans to put on the Pacific Great Eastern Railway in this Province.

Dublin, Oct. 2.—Patrick Cosgrave, uncle of President William Cosgrave, of the Dail Eireann, was shot and killed Saturday in a hotel here by four armed men who raided the place. All the postal, telegraph and telephone employees have resumed work, ending the strike which had been running here for the last few weeks. The various services are practically re-established. The cross channel and northeast wires are in operation, while engineers are busy restoring some of the lines which were recently destroyed during the conflicts in the south.

OPTIMISM IS COUNTRY'S NEED

Hon. G. P. Graham's Message to People of Canada

Delivers Address at Montreal Automobile Show

Montreal, Oct. 2.—Momentarily digressing from observations on automobiles and automobile matters, Hon. G. P. Graham, Minister of Defence, at the official opening Saturday night of the Closed Car Show in this city, said:

"What we want among our business men and among us all at this particular time is more optimism and less pessimism. We are not going to die in this country. We are not going to fall in this country; and particularly the young people should be imbued with the determination not to be discouraged with present indications. We shall not have light taxation; we do not look for it. The situation which we are in at the present may be serious. I hope it may not develop into anything more than we have already. We should put our shoulders to the wheel in a manner worthy of our fathers and our grandfathers and steadfastly meet our obligations and the tasks set before us, discouraging though they may be, so that in the years to come Canada will be much the better for our having lived in it, and it will be said that we were worthy of the country in which we lived."

Considering the price of fashionable hats, we begin to think the word "millionaire" is but a corruption of milliner.

Just say Blue-jay to your druggist

The simplest way to end a corn is Blue-jay. A touch stops the pain instantly. Then the corn loosens and comes out. Made in a colorless clear liquid (one drop does it) and in extra thin plaster. The action is the same.

"LITTLE DARLING" "LITTLE DAISY" HOSIERY FOR INFANTS AND CHILDREN

Victoria Daily Times

MONDAY, OCT. 2, 1922. Published every afternoon (except Sundays) by THE TIMES PRINTING & PUBLISHING COMPANY, LIMITED.

REASON PREVAILS.

All parties more intimately concerned in the Near East crisis have agreed to take part in an armistice conference at Mundania to-morrow.

Later events may more vividly portray to the lay mind the intricate workings of continued secret diplomacy which contributed to the complexity of the circumstances that have worried Europe for the last fourteen days.

There are agencies at work that are ever ready to belittle the actual accomplishments and possibilities of the League of Nations.

OPEN FOR BUSINESS.

Not so very long ago it looked as if the Johnson Street bridge would remain a question in civic politics and continue to furnish a periodical theme for many days to come.

While there will be a spirit of mutual congratulation abroad on the occasion of the first use of the bridge to-day, the people of Victoria will take pleasure in remembering that this highly important local improvement has reached its present stage of utility under the personal supervision of the City Engineer.

The duties of a City Engineer are many and complex. Not the simplest of tasks is that involved in answering the questions of inquisitive aldermen.

THE CONVERSION LOAN.

While European war clouds were at their blackest hue last week the people of the Dominion of Canada were quietly turning in their 1917 Victory Bonds in exchange for longer term securities at a similar rate of interest.

every class of investor and little of the total issue involved will have to be raised from outside sources when final returns have been compiled.

While the privilege offered by the Minister of Finance is obviously good business for investor and country alike, it is pleasant to contemplate the fact that the Canadian people were not stampeded out of their inherent belief in the country and its ability to rid itself of its heavy obligations by the menacing attitude of a Turkish general at the head of somewhere in the region of 100,000 troops.

The proposals of the Government were placed before the people by means of a modest advertising campaign. No special "drive" was necessary. Public meetings and three-minute orators were not considered by the Minister of Finance.

LESS SCOLDING WANTED.

Harmless and encouraging platitudes form part of the travelling impedimenta of the average Cabinet Minister. They are useful at wayside stations and in the lobbies of hotels when a few of the "faithful" present their compliments and emphasize the Government's obligation in this or that particular constituency.

On the other hand the words of Hon. G. P. Graham at Montreal on Saturday might well be taken to heart by every Canadian at this juncture. Here are his sentiments in part:

What we want among our business men and among us all this particular time is more optimism and less pessimism. We are not going to die in this country. We are not going to fail in this country; and particularly the young people should be imbued with the determination not to be discouraged with present indications.

There is a message for every community in the foregoing remarks of the Minister of Militia. We want less scolding and less unintelligent and destructive criticism. More constructive ideas and a studied desire and intention to co-operate with forces that mean progress will help the individual to bear his own particular burden and assist the country to a more stable belief in itself.

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK.

It has been fairly accurately computed that Canadian property to the value of something like $45,000,000 is destroyed by fire every year. These figures are exclusive of the tremendous toll which forest fires take of the standing timber. They merely represent the economic waste in property which would not be exposed to anything like such a serious risk if the rudimentary principles of precaution were observed.

Because of this appallingly costly "ash heap" it has been found necessary to set aside a "fire prevention week" in which public attention might be drawn to a wastage that constitutes an actual accusation of the Canadian people. From now until next Saturday throughout the length and breadth of the country every opportunity will be taken by fire insurance men and organizations primarily interested in conservation to remind the general public of its responsibility in this particular connection.

Much can be done in the home. Parents may assist the work by refraining from giving their children matches to play with. But the blame for much of the loss cannot be placed upon the younger generation. Many people reach years of discretion and commit thoughtless acts that bring loss in their wake. In other words the size of the annual "ash heap" may be materially reduced by all-round co-operation.

THE ANNUAL REVIEW.

By his valuable work from year to year in compiling The Canadian Annual Review Mr. J. Castell Hopkins has come to be regarded as the national recorder and remembrancer. The 1921 edition which has just been published once more indicates the downright thoroughness with which Mr. Hopkins conducts his annual task.

Within its thousand pages may be found practically everything associated with Canadian history and one marvels at the industry that is there displayed. Writing the work itself, admirably done though that be, must be as nothing compared with the labor involved in gathering the information. Numberless sources must be tapped before the final task can be commenced. But no tribute to the work of Mr. Hopkins better indicates the value of The Canadian Annual Review than the fact that no library, college, newspaper office, public man, or private citizen refers to it in vain. It is in itself a public utility and deserves widespread support and recognition.

NOTE AND COMMENT.

The British Minister signed the visitors' book at the royal palace in Athens yesterday. This is taken by the Greeks to mean British recognition; but there will be no thrills in Britain over this official cognizance of a new King of Greece.

When the train conveying the Liberal delegates to Nelson missed its "footing" at one point of the journey it was only to be supposed that the moods of the line were at an end. Not satisfied with its attempt on the outward journey, however, the return trip almost did what the inward trip failed to do. What are the fates? Does Mr. Bowser possess some occult influence?

One dispatch from London suggests that if General Harington shall be allowed a fairly free hand the danger of war with Turkey will be reduced without loss of prestige. Kemal Pasha's reply to the Commander-in-Chief's note, while not betraying undue humility or anything approaching snivelling sentimentality, disclosed a desire to reason and seemed to justify General Harington's conception of the Nationalist leader's general demeanor.

"OWNERS STRIVE TO SAVE LAND."

To the Editor:—I wish the statement in a paragraph of the Times dated September 28, to be made a little clearer to the public.

The paragraph as it appeared in The Times is as follows: "Much of the land which will be offered for sale on Saturday belongs to returned soldiers who were relieved from payment during the war but who have been unable to meet their tax obligations since the armistice."

The above statement leaves the impression that soldiers were exempt from taxation in Victoria during the war, which is not the case. If the soldier had been exempt, (as was promised and which was fulfilled in nearly all cities and municipalities in Canada) there would not have been as much soldiers' property sold for taxes as in Victoria.

RETURNED SOLDIER AND TAXPAYER.

AMPUTATIONS' ASSOCIATION.

To the Editor:—As a delegate to the convention of the Amputations' Association of the Great War, held in Vancouver, September 21 to 23, I would like to correct the impression apparently prevailing among some disabled men, that "amputation men" in taking up the question of pension and re-establishment are out for themselves only. All the resolutions adopted, except those applying for artificial appliances, were equal for the benefit of all disabled veterans.

In applying for positions for amputations, great difficulty is found because of being "a visible disability." To illustrate: take a man with an arm off applying in competition with a man suffering from chest, heart or gas and who has all his limbs; the employer's eyes immediately focus on the empty sleeve and he says, "I'm sorry my lad, but I can't use you" and invariably engages the man who looks all there.

Although the Amputations' Association is bringing these questions of pensions, etc., to the attention of the Government, it is not for themselves only, but for the benefit of all disabled veterans and the time is soon coming, when all disabled men. Returned Soldiers' Organizations and the public will be asked to insist that the Government make permanent the present bonus and pension. Had it been the intention of the Government to make the pension permanent, they would have done so long ago.

Therefore it must be assumed, that it is their intention to cut off the present bonus. Sympathy may be all right for those that like it, but what is wanted is practical consideration and help; some one to come along and say, "here old man I'll give you a job. I'll give you a chance that's it, that's what we want change."

A CORRECTION.

To the Editor:—I wish to correct a reported interview appearing in tonight's Times. Reeve George Watson is reported as saying he was surprised to learn that J. M. Kellie was reported to have criticized the tabling of a request from the Tillamook Voters' Association for an immediate election for Ward Seven, and further, Reeve Watson declares he has a private letter from Mr. Kellie in which the contrary view is taken and that it was distinctly recommended to him that the conditions remain as they are.

I wrote Reeve Watson a private letter advocating an immediate election of a Councillor for Ward Seven. Why Reeve Watson should consider saying anything different is beyond my knowledge. I most emphatically refuse to be quoted in any such manner. Although my letter was a private one Mr. Watson has my permission to publish my letter in full without garbling it, so that the public can judge its contents.

THE ORIGIN OF MAN.

To the Editor:—Mr. Wells is eminently fitted to write the kind of "history" that he offers to us in the opening chapter of his "Outline." By trade he is a writer of fiction. Facts are the very stuff out of which history is made. But how can anyone pretend to know the facts of a period that is buried in primeval darkness, that no human being could by any possibility have real knowledge of, because human beings did not at the time at all exist?

Yet we are confidently told that the orang-outang, the chimpanzee, the gorilla, are cousins of ours; that we are descendants from a common ancestor. How, then, is it that these cousins are still so low in the scale of being, so palpably inferior to us? Common sense should carry the mind to the community of nature, community of attributes. Why is it that these cousins do not make fires to keep themselves warm, and build houses, and reap and sow and gather into barns? Why is it that they have no conscience, that they do not respect the rights of others, that they do not worship God, that they do not articulate language and write outlines of history?

In vain will you tell me that these creatures are slowly emerging from pure beastliness, have been on this earth for untold ages and show no sign of progress. The instances that Darwin gives (Descent of Man, chap. 3), of what he manies to be intelligence in the lower animals, such as that of the chimpanzee using a stone to crack a specie of nut, only serve to reveal his congenital incapacity to rise above the concrete and the particular and survey the whole field of study from some point of intellectual vantage. The broad, indisputable fact remains that man alone makes progress; man alone is endowed with originality and creative power, man alone invents new things and finds new ways of doing the old things, man alone is endowed with reason, while the lower animals are bereft of this faculty and cursed with stationariness, with incurable inability to rise to higher things in consequence. They have been on the earth much longer than man has; why have they not advanced? Because, as the Bible tells us, God made them out of the earth for the use of man, but man He made in His own image and likeness to have dominion over the birds of the air, the fishes of the sea, and the beasts of the field.

Encouraging Reports at Provincial Executive Red Cross Meeting. Vancouver, Oct. 2.—The executive committee of the British Columbia division of the Canadian Red Cross met in the society's offices in the London Building, Pender Street West, on Thursday afternoon, when some interesting reports of the activities of the society were read by the honorary secretary-treasurer, the director of nursing and others. The chair was taken by Sir Frank Barnard, president of the provincial division, the members present including: Mr. A. P. Black, Vancouver; Mrs. Harold Fleming, Victoria; Mr. F. W. Jones, Victoria; Mrs. E. M. Baxendale, Trail; Mrs. J. R. Standen, Penton; Mrs. A. M. Stabler, director of nursing, Vancouver; Mrs. R. H. Lee, Kamloops; Mrs. J. R. Davidson, Nanaimo; Mrs. J. C. Gill, North Vancouver; Mrs. Clement Holden, Vancouver; Mrs. Helen Randall, Vancouver; Rev. R. E. Gries-Hutchinson, Sorrento; Mr. John Ridington, Vancouver; and Mr. A. J. Forsyth, honorary secretary-treasurer, Vancouver.

Disaster Relief. Notification had recently been received, said Mr. Forsyth, from the department of militia and defence whereby, in the event of a disaster occurring, tents, blankets, field kitchens, etc., may be issued from military stores to the Red Cross Society in the province concerned. This order had been confirmed by the O.C. Military District No. 11 at Esquimalt. At the time of the Merville and Lang Bay disasters the society had at once offered assistance in the way of nurses and clothing. Nearly 4000 of the society's funds was spent on January 15, 1922, in addition to the salaries of the Red Cross nurses while on the ground, and the incidental expenses called for in connection with the relief work. At the request of the Government, the society recently undertook to administer a relief grant for the sufferers at Lang Bay. Mr. John Ridington had undertaken the work, which entailed several visits to Lang Bay made at considerable inconvenience to himself, and the society owed him a debt of gratitude. There was no doubt, added Mr. Forsyth, that the arrangements made with the Government by the head office throws a duty upon the provincial division which cannot be evaded, and it would now be necessary to work out an organized plan of disaster relief.

Red Cross Workshops. By an agreement made with the Deputy Minister of the Department of the Interior, the Government will bear 85 per cent of the capital expenditure of the Red Cross workshops in Vancouver and Victoria, including rental and equipment, the remaining 15 per cent being borne by the Red Cross branch concerned. The S. C. R. will also contribute 75 per cent of the operating deficit up to a maximum of $25 per month, provided such deficit is applicable only to men admitted to the shops under the provisions set out in the agreement.

Nursing Department. Mrs. Anna M. Stabler, director of nursing, in presenting the report of the Department of Nursing, said that there have been requests to establish day care service in several new districts, while at present nurses were on duty in the following towns and districts: Nanaimo, Kamloops, Shuswap, Arrow Lakes district, Wadsworth, Trail and Penton. After dealing with the difficulties of transportation and gating that cars have been provided by the Society in certain cases in order to enable the nurses to cover efficiently the large districts which they serve, Mrs. Stabler stated the following classes were conducted and certificates issued: Home Nursing, 182; Little Mothers, 215; First Aid, 121. Requests for the establishment of Home Nursing classes in Vancouver had been received, and a district in the Okanagan was anxious that a traveling instructor should be sent. Altogether fifteen addresses on public health had been given in various parts of the province, some of these having been illustrated by films and slides. Help had been given to isolated communities, simple medical and surgical supplies having been sent.

Esquimalt Women's Institute.—The dressmaking class arranged under the auspices of the Esquimalt Women's Institute is now complete and will hold the first meeting of Friday, October 6, at 8 p.m. at the Esquimalt High School. There are still a few vacancies in the millinery class, and those wishing to join should send in their names at once. The general monthly meeting of the E. W. I. will take place on Tuesday next instead of the second Tuesday, in order that matters in connection with the forthcoming conference of the V. I. D. W. I. may be discussed and the additional delegates named. The social hour will be resumed, Mrs. H. Clark being the convener. The meeting will be at the parish room, St. Paul's Anglican Church at 7.45.

IF WINTER COMES INSTALMENT NUMBER 66 by A. S. M. HUTCHINSON. Copyrighted—Published by arrangement with British & Colonial Press, Ltd.

He stumbled through it. At the end, a little abashed, he smiled at her and said, "Of course, no one else would think it applies. Richard was saying it in Wales where he'd just landed, and it's about civil war, not foreign; but where it comes to me, it is the loving of the self itself, as if it were a living thing that knew it was being loved and loved back in return. Our England, Nona. You remember Gaunt's thing in the same play: "This royal throne of kings, this scepter'd isle, This other Eden, demi-paradise, This happy breed of men, this little world, This precious stone set in the silver sea, This blessed plot, this earth, this realm, this England."

After October, especially, he spent never less than two evenings a week with old Mrs. Perch. In October Young Perch went to France and on his draft-leave took from Sabre the easy promise to "keep an eye on my mother." Military training, which to most says robustness, gave to Young Perch, Sabre thought, a striking enhancement of the fine-drawn expression that always had been Sabre's. About his eyes and forehead Sabre apprehended something suggestive of the mystic, spiritually-occupied look that paintings of the Huguenots and the old Crusaders had; and looking at him when he came to say goodbye, and while he spoke soley and only of his mother, Sabre remembered that long-ago thought of Young Perch's aspect of his spirit being alighted in his body as a bird on a twig, not engrossed in his body; a thing death would need no more than to pluck off between finger and thumb.

But unthinkable, that. Not Young Perch. (To be Continued.)

H. G. WELLS FAMOUS OUTLINE OF HISTORY The Romance of Mother Earth

TO-DAY'S INSTALMENT—19
Artists of the Reindeer Age

It greatly aids us to realize their common humanity that these earliest true men could draw. Both races, it would seem, drew astonishingly well. They were by all standards savages, but they were artistic savages. They drew better than any of their successors down to the beginning of history. They drew and painted on the cliffs and cave walls that they had wrested from the Neanderthal men. And the surviving drawings come to the ethnologist, puzzling over bones and scraps, with the effect of a plain message shining through guesstwork and darkness. They drew on bones and antlers; they carved little figures.

Lovers of Paint.
These later Palaeolithic people not only drew remarkably well for our information, and with an increasing skill as the centuries passed, but they have also left us other information about their lives in their graves. They buried their dead, often with ornaments, weapons, and food; they used a lot of color in the burial, and evidently painted the body. From that one may infer that they painted their bodies during life. Paint was a big fact in their lives. They were inventive painters; they used, black, brown, red, white and white pigments, and the pigments they used endure to this day in the caves and on the cliff surfaces of France and Spain. Of all modern races, none have shown so pictorial a disposition; the nearest approach to it has been among the American Indians.

These drawings and paintings of the later Palaeolithic people went on through a long period of time, and present wide fluctuations in artistic merit. In its early stages the drawing is often primitive like the drawing of clever children; quadrupeds are usually drawn with one hind leg and one fore leg, as children draw them to this day. The legs on the other side were too much for the artist's technique. Possibly the first drawings began as children's scribbles out of idle scratchings. The savage scratched with a flint on a smooth rock surface, and was reminded of some line or gesture. But their solid carvings betray a complete incapacity to group animals.

As the centuries progressed, more skilful artists appeared. The representation of beasts became at last astonishingly vivid and like. But even at the crest of their artistic time they still drew in profile as children do; perspective and the foreshortening needed were too much for them. They rarely drew themselves. The vast majority of their drawings represent animals. The mammoth and the horse are among the commonest themes.

Some of the people, whether Grimmald or Cro-Magnon, also made little ivory and soapstone statuettes, and among these are some very fat female figures. These latter suggest the physical ideal of modern rather than of Cro-Magnon artists. They are like Bushmen women. The human sculpture of the earlier times inclined to caricature, and generally such human figures as they represent are far below the animal studies in vigor and veracity.

Later on there was more grace and less coarseness in the human representations. One little ivory head discovered is that of a girl with an elaborate coiffure. These people at a later stage also scratched and engraved designs on ivory and bone. Some of circumstances they were seen, we are now altogether at a loss to imagine. At last it would seem that circumstances began to turn altogether against these hunting Neanderthal people who had flourished for so long in Europe. They disappeared. New kinds of men appeared in Europe, replacing them. These latter seem to have brought in bows and arrows; they had domesticated animals the most interesting groups of figures are carved very curiously round bones, and especially round rods of deer bone, so that it is impossible to see the entire design altogether. Figures have also been found modelled in clay, although no Palaeolithic people made any use of pottery.

Many of the paintings are found in the depths of unlit caves. They are difficult of access. The artists must have employed lamps to do their work, and shallow soap-stone lamps in which fat could be burnt have been found. Whether the necessity of these cavern paintings was in some way ceremonial or under what and cultivated the soil. A new way of living, the Neolithic way of living, spread over the European area, and the life of the Reindeer Age and of the races of Reindeer men, the later Palaeolithic men, after a reign vast greater than the time between ourselves and the very earliest beginnings of recorded history, passed off the European stage.

HER ANIMALS ALL GONE NOW

Mrs. Sherman Helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Lake Michigan.—"About one year ago I suffered with irregularities and a weakness and at times was obliged to stay off my feet. I doctored with our family physician and he finally said he could not understand my case, so I decided to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. After I had taken the first bottle I could see that I was getting better. I took several bottles of the Vegetable Compound and used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sensitive Wash and am apparently cured of my ailments. You may publish this letter if you wish."

There is one fact women should consider and that is this. Women suffer from irregularities and various forms of weakness. They try this and that doctor, as well as different medicines. Finally they take Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound, and Mrs. Sherman's experience is simply another case showing its merit.

If your family physician fails to help you and the same old troubles persist, why isn't it reasonable to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound?

GREAT FIRE LOSS IN B. C. THIS YEAR

Loss Has Been $2,300,000, Exclusive of Forest Fires

J. A. Thomas, Provincial Fire Marshal, Kiwanian James Forman, and Fire Chief Vernon Stewart will be the speakers at the Fire Prevention Week luncheon of the Kiwanis Club to-morrow at the Dominion Hotel.

Fire Marshal Thomas has compiled figures showing the wastage from fire to have been $2,297,359 in British Columbia this year to date. There were 1,216 fires up to the beginning of this month.

July was the heaviest month for actual loss, 294 fires having destroyed $453,000 worth of property. February was the lightest, 143 fires having destroyed $114,597 worth of property.

Mr. Thomas says this morning that, although precautions should be taken at all times, in the month of October they should be redoubled, as it was then, with the starting up of oil furnaces, that the greatest danger existed.

The figures for the months are: January, 143, $233,389; February, 143, $114,597; March, 122, $241,462; April, 165, $192,300; May, 176, $417,374; June, 176, $355,165; July, 204, $452,049; August 81, $226,094. Total, 1,216, $2,297,359.

DISEASED CORPSES MUST BE SEALED UP

Regulations governing the shipment of corpses from small towns, scarlet fever, typhus fever, plague, Asiatic cholera or any other such disease which the health authorities specify.

It is now made illegal to move such corpses from one place to another unless "all offices of the body shall first be blocked with absorbent cotton and the body itself wrapped completely in a hermetically sealed coffin, strong disinfectant fluid, at least equivalent in effect to a solution of 1 to 500 bichloride of mercury and enclosed in a hermetically sealed coffin to the satisfaction of the Medical Health Officer, whose certificate to this effect must appear on the outside of the coffin."

It is also made illegal to open such a coffin. "The body of anyone who has died of any of these diseases and not been disinfected for the purpose of transportation and reinterment, except with the consent of the Provincial Health authorities concerned, and in no case may the coffin be opened, provided that this regulation shall not apply in the case of disinterment at the instance of the Attorney-General," the order says.

"The body must not be accompanied by either persons or articles which have been exposed to infection from the disease, and the coffin must be disinfected."

MANY MISSIONARIES EN ROUTE TO ORIENT

A party of thirty-five missionaries of the Methodist Church will leave next Thursday for the Orient. Among the party are: Dr. W. J. Sheridan, Rev. M. P. and Mrs. Smith, Rev. W. E. and Mrs. Sibley, Rev. C. J. P. and Mrs. Joffe, Rev. R. S. Longley and Mrs. Longley, Mrs. C. W. Service, Rev. B. W. and Mrs. Sparling, Rev. B. McAmmond and Mrs. McAmmond, all of whom are returning after furlough; Rev. George E. Ruckham and Mrs. Ruckham, Rev. J. Tennant and Mrs. Tennant, Dr. T. A. Pincock, Dr. Edson R. Cunningham and Miss Velma C. Iverson, R. N., who are going out for the first time.

These missionaries are being sent out by the general board of missions of the Methodist Church. Miss M. Wheeler and Miss Jack are returning to China under the direction of the Women's Missionary Society.

CHINESE AVIATOR MAKES FIGHT

First Locally Trained Man Is Pupil of Chinese Aviation School

Lee Joe, a pupil of the Chinese Commercial Aviation School, to-day holds the distinction of being the first aviator to train and "take his wings" in this city. Lee Joe made his first solo flight yesterday morning, leading the ten pupils of the flying school in that undertaking. He made an excellent flight from the field at Wilkinson Road, which is being used as a temporary aerodrome, on the Curtis J.N.4 machine. After fifteen minutes of solo flight the pilot brought his machine down, making a remarkably good landing.

Lee Joe is the first of the ten pupils of the school, which has been training since Spring, to take his wings. He will complete four hours solo flight before going before Air Board examiners for test and certificate. Three other pupils will try their initial solo flights this week, and by the end of the month it is expected that others will be ready for the air.

In the latter part of October, W. H. Brown, instructor of the school, will ask the Air Board to send an examining officer to pass out the pupils who have by that time completed their course. Contingent with the air training of the pupils is an extended course in the theoretical and technical side of aeronautics. All instruction is executed by Mr. Brown, who himself has a distinguished record for war flying; being awarded the Military Cross for service in the Royal Flying Corps in the late war.

The Chinese Commercial Aviation School was promoted by two local members of the Chinese business colony, and has its headquarters at the Inskip Island hangar at Esquimalt.

At the conclusion of the land tests the machine will be refitted with pontoons and used as a seaplane.

CONSIDERS POLICY OF CHARGING FOR MOTOR CAMPS

E. Dissette Has Reached Here from Toronto by Car

Some of the automobile camps in the United States are apparently conducted on a basis of ascertaining how much practical value may be derived from the stay of a tourist in the district, to judge by the experience of E. Dissette, of Toronto, who is now registered at the Strathcona Hotel.

Mr. Dissette showed The Times on Saturday a form issued at Deer Lodge, Montana, which asked the camper to specify what sums were spent with the various storekeepers of the community for provisions. It was pointed out in a footnote that the Chamber of Commerce, which organized the camp, did not press for any local expenditure, but that data was requested for purposes of statistical information. Mr. Dissette says after touring by car from Buffalo through the Yellowstone route to the mountains and prairie through to Walla Walla and Seattle that a general impression prevails that some charges should be made for the camping facilities, but that no uniformity prevails on the matter. The roads are good by the Yellowstone route, except on the prairies, where similar conditions prevail to those in the Canadian prairie provinces. The surfaces in many cases being without proper foundation.

Mr. Dissette was in Victoria ten years ago, and is able to compare conditions with those to-day. He asked a number of questions with regard to the administration of the Government Liquor Act, and referred to his experience of the Ontario Government in enforcing prohibition in that province.

He expects to be here with Mrs. Dissette for some days.

FIRST RECITAL BY PUPILS OF COLUMBIA SCHOOL OF MUSIC

During last Winter the Columbia School of Music, principal Mrs. Burdon-Murphy, was particularly active in the preparation of a monthly recital. On Friday evening in the presence of a large number of parents and friends assembled in the hall of that institution, the first of the season's recitals took place. In the programme prepared for the occasion, numbering twenty-four selections, three divisions of the curriculum—piano, vocal and violin—were represented, and in all over twenty pupils took part. Outstanding talent and progress were in evidence in the vocal department with Miss Stella Burton, and Mrs. William Duncan, while others showing promise were the Misses Williamson, Stevenson and Griffiths. Among the young pianists doing good work were the Misses Etta Cottell, Hilda Elliott, Lucy McDougal, In Grant, Dorothy Osborn and Isabella Middlehall—and also Harry Latham. The young lady of eight summers, Mary Lett, created much of attention by her skilful rendering of a somewhat difficult "Caprice," and Ronald Heard, of whom much praise has been said in the past, goes unobtrusively on to higher planes. He played List's "Consolation." The duets for two pianos, and a piano quartet also deserve special mention, and were splendid features of the evening.

In the violin division Jack Fullen is improving, and Olive Acton, R. Tomashiro and James Smith will no doubt be again heard during the season.

THE GLASSY EYE

He went to the very special eye specialist, who had many initials after his name. "At last," he said, "I have found the specialist, looking into one eye, it is easy for me to see what is the matter with you. This is not merely eye trouble; it is an affection of the nervous system. There are all the signs in it. The only thing I can recommend is—'Here, here,' cried the patient. 'That's my glass eye you're looking at!'"

Ironized Yeast Will Ironize Your Nerves

To Produce Great Natural Nerve Strength, Yeast Should Be Ironized and Not Merely Mixed With Iron. There is Only One Ironized Yeast in the World.
Now, Mr. Man, tighten your fist and clamp your jaws. Tighter, now still tighter—tighten as you can. Notice how weak is the tightest you can go? Vitamins and iron in your body made it. There is only one thing to do these two things. If you had still

WAS BRIGHT MONTH

September Weather Report Shows Much Sunshine.
September was a bright month and the rainfall was lower than the average, according to the report of F. Napier Dennison, of the Gonzales Hill Observatory. The sunshine was 11 hours above the average.

The mean temperature was 57, the highest being 73 and the lowest 46. The rainfall during September amounted to 1.78 inches, .25 inches above the average, and it rained on eleven different days. The total precipitation from January 1 to September 30 this year was 40.55 inches. The average for that period is 15.45, so the first nine months of this year has been 4.59 below the average.

BRAIN EXERCISE

There has been serious trouble in a certain school. One of the teachers said he was no believer in the old hackneyed system of teaching. "What is wanted," said he, "is something which will make the child think and reason for themselves. Mere addition and subtraction are too mechanical."
In accordance with his ideas he gave his pupils one hundred questions of the following kind: "What is a specimen? What is it that can go up a spout down, but cannot go down a spout up?"
The brain-ferve hospitals thereabouts were full of children for weeks afterwards, and the teacher was dismissed without a character, yet the answer to the riddle was very simple: "An umbrella."

DEAN QUANTON TO GO ON TOUR

Dean Quanton will begin his lecture tour throughout Vancouver Island and some parts of the mainland on October 9. The Dean will in some places give two lectures, his subjects being "Use and Misuse of the English Language" and "Humor and Pathos of a Parson's Life." His first lecture will commence at Duncan on October 9, and it is not unlikely he may be asked to give another lecture on the following evening. On the three following days he will visit Parksville, Union Bay and Cumberland respectively, and on October 15 he will leave Victoria for northern parts lecturing at Anxox, Prince Rupert and Ocean Falls, delivering two lectures at each of these points, and returning to Victoria the last week of the month.
He will then go on to Powell River, Nanaimo, Ladysmith and one or two other districts. The tour has been arranged and is under the management of George J. Deke, concert manager. The lectures are spoken of as most humorous and instructive; brimful of anecdotes and laughable incidents; distinguished in style and wonderfully delivered.

PROSPECTOR TO DOCK AT RUPERT

Ship Bound Here from the Orient Was Diverted to Northern Port

The Canadian Prospector, Captain Wallace, of the Canadian Government Merchant Marine, Ltd., is now at Prince Rupert, where she will be dry-docked for her annual overhaul.

The Canadian Prospector reached Prince Rupert yesterday from the Orient, having been diverted to the northern port while at sea.

It was expected that the Prospector would come to Esquimaux for overhaul, but Prince Rupert is keeping up an agitation for more ships to work on, and to satisfy this craving the ship was ordered to call at the Canadian National transcontinental terminal to have the work carried out.

B. Mantrap, of the Federal steamboat inspection office here, left this afternoon for Vancouver to catch the steamship Prince George at Vancouver for Prince Rupert. He is going north in connection with the inspection of the Canadian Prospector.

On her next outbound trip the Canadian Prospector will go to the Orient, being scheduled to sail October 25 for Yokohama, Kobe and Shanghai.

Announcing Our Appointment as Exclusive Representatives in British Columbia of

The Aeolian Company, New York, Makers of the Famous Duo-Art Pianola Pianos

To the music lovers of British Columbia, this is the most important announcement we have made this year. It provides an opportunity for every home to own one of the finest pianos that the manufacturing development of the present day affords—The Steinway, The Steck, or the Famous Weber.

These pianos can be selected in either grand or upright form, and each instrument possesses, in addition to the ordinary pianoforte mechanism, the Duo-Art feature, which for the first time brings the actual performances of the world's greatest pianists into the home.

Among the great masters of the pianoforte who record their talent exclusively for the Duo-Art piano are: Paderewski, Josef Hofmann, Harold Bauer, Rudolf Ganz, Percy Grainger, Busoni, Hambourg, Godowsky, and many others. No description of this instrument's wonderful powers of reproduction can approach the instant comprehension that comes with hearing it. This is because from the first note sounded to the finale, the entire performance will be the actual playing of some noted pianist. Purchasing a Duo-Art Piano gives a double sense of satisfaction; it enables you to play upon one of the finest pianos in the world, or, when you so desire, you can have a master pianist play it for you.

"There is a lack of Fine Singers. Good singers are wanted. If anybody can prove to you, or to any other Master of your class, that he or she possess the knowledge and ability of singing, we are ready to offer high rewards."

So I was told by one of New York's leading Booking Agents and Theatrical Impresario while in that City recently. My candid, authoritative opinion on your voice is Free. If you need my service I can give you the very training that the vocal organs of Caruso, Ruffo, Galli-Gurci were given: a real vocal method, not a merely musical system of Scales, Arpeggios or Songs. ## "THE STORM" IS GRIPPING DRAMA

Is Presented at Royal Victoria
This Week

The clean, tany drama of the Northwoods fairly floats from the screen at the Royal Victoria Theatre, where the Universal-Jewel attraction, "The Storm" is being shown this week. It is safe to class this picture among the really great photoplays of the decade.

A powerful story to begin with, the scenic investiture of the great snow-storm scene and the forest fire, make it a marvel of stage-craft on the screen and one realized why it established a record as one of the finest productions ever staged on the legitimate theatre. The film has duplicated in New York and elsewhere the success of George Broadhurst's and Langdon McCormick's play.

House Peters, star of a dozen famed portrayals, and one of the most popular actors of the day, handles the leading male role in a magnificent manner, with the performance of Virginia Yarr who plays opposite to Petera—likewise standing forth as one of the brightest gems in her crown of successes.

It was photographed against a background of deep-timbered valleys, long trails of silent forests, and the awesome white of a winterbound country. Against this scenically perfect setting, the story rushes along in a series of dramatic moments, each greater and more thrilling than its predecessor, until the final dramatic fire scene in which the spectator is almost swept to his feet.

The third angle of the triangle is played by Matt Moore, and this finished actor gives a flawless interpretation that makes one hate him, even while they realize that he is only playing a character. Frank Lanning and Gordon McGee handle the other three supporting roles in excellent style. While the cast is not large the action is all the more dramatic by reason of the concentration of parts. Reginald Barker, producer of the "Old Nest" and other famous photoplays, directed the screen version of Langdon McCormick's success.

Three thousand miles from the Great White Way—and glad of it—this is the condition in which two Broadway favorites found themselves while encamped among the sand dunes near Oxnard, Cal., for the filming of George Melford's production of "Burning Sands," which will be the feature at the Capitol theatre all this week.

A white tent on the desert, baths in a portable tub, and meals in a mess-tent is a little different from a theatre on Broadway, and a comfortable hotel a block from the stage door," said Jacqueline Logan, former New York Follies favorite, who has an important role in the picture, "but I like it!"

Louise Dresser, vaudeville and musical comedy star, who makes her second screen appearance in "Burning Sands," expressed the same sentiment. Wanda Hawley and Milton Sills are featured in "Burning Sands," which is from the novel by Arthur Weigall.

The story deals with the love of a young English woman of the nobility for a hermit of the Saharan desert. He treats her coldly, but she persists in her effort to win him, and after a series of highly dramatic incidents, in which romance and tragedy are mingled, succeeds. The theme is the antithesis of that treated in "The Sheik," and it is said by George Melford, the producer, that "Burning Sands" is perhaps the strongest production with which he has thus far been identified.

MAN STRANGLED BY WOMAN'S HAIR

Mystery Forms Motive of
"The Valley of Silent Men" at Dominion

The mystery of a man found strangled with a twisted strand of woman's hair is the motive of "The Valley of Silent Men," a Cosmopolitan picturization of the story by James Oliver Curwood, which is at the Dominion Theatre all this week. The scenes are laid in the Canadian Rockies, around Lake Louise, and there the Cosmopolitan Company, headed by Alma Rubens and under the direction of Frank Borzage, spent twelve weeks filming the picture.

Lew Cody plays the part of a corporal in the Royal Mounted Police, and together with Miss Rubens, he ascends the peaks of snow-capped mountains in the mountains as well as the dangerous glaciers above Lake Louise and the icy waters of the Kenessaw river, which they were compelled to swim.

The trail led from Banff straight over the mountain passes in the early Spring, before the snow began to melt, and miles of white-clad wastes spread before the telephoto camera. Miss Rubens slipped into a crevasse of the great glacier, and is pictured climbing down precipitous rocky cliffs.

But the story, like the picture, ends in the beautiful Valley of Silent Men, so named from the three snow-clad mountains which guard it.

By this time Spring had come into the mountains, and the vista of the flower-strewn meadows is as far as the future which stretches before the hero and heroine. This is undoubtedly one of the greatest of the outdoor photoplays, and Mr. Curwood's thrilling story holds the breathless

DOUBLE FEATURE AT COLUMBIA

"Fool's Paradise" Presented; Radio Entertainers Here

Twenty-five feet from Siam to Mexico! Such was the startling geographical jump accomplished by players in "Fool's Paradise," Cecil B. De Mille's newest Paramount picture, which comes to the Columbia theatre this week.

For on the stage at Paramount Studios was found the interior of a Siamese Temple with a yawning pit in which reptiles awaited the sacrifice—while but a step away there was a colorful cantina of an oil town on the border between Mexico and the United States.

The hero is a young ex-soldier who loses his all in the oil fields. Captivated by a famous French dancer, he is blinded at one of the performances by an explosive cigar, the gift of a cantina girl. Filled with remorse, the girl nurses—and comes to love the man—and he is happy believing her the dancer whom she mimics. Sight restored, he is angered at the trick and flies in search of his first love. Finding her in Siam, a series of dramatic incidents prove her shallow character and bring him back to the woman who loved him in his misfortune.

To interpret this story, written by Beulah Maria Dix and Sada Cowan, suggested by Leonard Merrick's "The Laurels and the Lady," Mr. de Mille secured such excellent players as Dorothy Dalton, Mildred Harris, Conrad Nagel, Theodore Kosloff, John and Julia Payne. The production is in every respect magnificent.

The Radios, soldier entertainers, who attracted so much attention during their stay in the city, are also to occupy the stage at the Columbia theatre, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of this week.

PLAYHOUSE NO. 5 SHOW WEDNESDAY

The "Bing Boys" Will Be Offering Sketch as Introductory Feature

Reginald N. Hincks' choice for this week's show at the Playhouse includes as the feature attraction the world-famous revue, "The Bing Boys." When the war clouds were the blackest and all England was in a state of nervous tension, this was the show that cheered them up, and from the moment it was first produced it was an instantaneous success.

"The Bing Boys" is the brightest of bright musical shows, and as presented by Mr. Hincks will no doubt prove to be one of the biggest drawing cards ever offered here. Two country boys after various wanderings and experiences arrive in London. Here they find that there is much more to be got out of life than can be seen on the farm at Bingville, and the way it is all told in delightful music and clever comedy dialogue makes one of the most amusing evening entertainments to be imagined.

In addition to "The Bing Boys," which occupies the second half of the bill, the first half is made up of a snappy opening chorus, followed by an exceptionally clever sketch, "The Burglar and the Girl," in which the characters are Mr. Bob Webb and Mrs. D'Arcy Martin. This part closes with a number of violin selections given by the talented musician, Mr. Drury Fryce.

Playhouse Show Number Five will be found bright and entertaining throughout the whole evening, and embracing some of Victoria's best talent will no doubt play to crowded

House Peters in the Role of Burr Winton

In a Stupendous Screen Version of the Sensational Stage Success, Featuring the Famous Forest Fire Which Swept New York Into Torrents of Praise

A rough log cabin hidden away in the Canadian mountains, almost buried under a sea of snow that stretched for miles and miles; in the cabin a beautiful girl and two men; not a chance in the world for their escape for four months. Surely a situation bordering on the primitive and one replete with interesting possibilities. On this plot was written the greatest stage success of history—"The Storm," which shattered all records in New York City—and is now duplicating that success on the screen. It is one of the most powerful and human pictures that we have shown.

The irresistible, raging forest fire, wiping everything that it reaches, chasing the beasts from their haunts, terrifying in its volume. ### SCENERY SUBLIME IN PICTURE FILMED IN W.B.C. MOUNTAINS

Lake Louise, Banff, Setting for Romance Opened at Dominion

A Paramount picture directed by Frank Borzage from a story by James Oliver Curwood, "The Valley of Silent Men," will be presented at the Dominion theatre this afternoon and will run all week. The cast:

Marcelle Radison ..... Alma Rubens
Corporal James Curwood ..... Joseph King
Pierre Radison ..... Mario Majoroni
Inspector Keddy ..... George Nash
Jacques Radison ..... J. W. Johnston

By Genevieve Harris.
Romance in glorious northern settings forms this picture play, taken in mountains of this Province around Lake Louise, Banff, James Oliver Curwood, that prolific writer of adventure tales, has arranged for the romance. The splendor of British Columbia mountains supplies the settings. And a group of clever players interprets the story.

There is so much mystery in the story that I'd advise you to see it from the beginning or else you will be completely in the dark as to what it's all about. And if you aren't careful you will find that the marvelous scenery will distract your attention so much from the story that you lose the thread of the plot. However, you can pick it up again without much trouble and those scenes are more inspiring than any account of a mere human being could be.

Lew Cody, the former villain, returns to the screen in the role of the hero of this picture. He is a member of the mounted police, so noble that he takes upon himself the blame for a murder of which his friend is accused. He is wounded and doesn't mind burdening himself with the charge of killing a man. But he doesn't die and he isn't convicted of murder. Instead a most beautiful girl comes into his life, as the story books say, and leads him through a series of adventures which end with the death of the slayer.

Alma Rubens is the mysterious woman. She is one of the most romantic figures any photoplay ever had. She comes into the story from some unknown place, driving a dog team. She tells the sergeant of the police that she intends to live at his house and in spite of his protests, she carries out her plan. She wears beautiful clothes and has the manner of a woman of the world. She is supremely self-confident and equal to all occasions from murders to love affairs. With her exotic type of beauty, the picturesque clothes she wears and the air of authority she assumes, Miss Rubens has created in this story a fascinating character. It is a bit disappointing to learn, when the secret is revealed, that she is a native of that vicinity and had lived there all her life. It is improbable, too, because the frontiers do not produce girls who know, without training, how to select and wear the kind of clothes this heroine does, nor how to carry off events with quite so high a hand. But of course this is romance, not reality.

At any rate, it is very entertaining. I, for one, enjoyed every moment of the picture, characters and story and above all, the sublime scenery.

The Dominion theatre patrons musical and topical specialties besides the picture play. These seem to please the audiences greatly.

New Books on Nature

"This World of Ours," J. C. Curle.
"Unknown Kent," Donald Maxwell.
"London River," H. M. Tomlinson.
"Book of Bridges," Frank Brangwyn and W. S. Sparrow.
"Dweller in Mesopotamia," Donald Maxwell.
"Spring Walk in Provence," Archibald Marshall.
"Trail Makers of the Northwest," Paul Leland Haworth.
"Laurentians," T. Morris Longstreth.
"Southern Highlander and His Home," John C. Campbell.
"Tahiti," J. Calderon.

"I have only one life; then I am liable to be dead a long time. But before I die, there is the beautiful world to see." In this way does J. C. Curle begin his book "This World of Ours." He is not one who merely traveled around the world, but he penetrated into every nook and cranny of it. He became a mining engineer, and went down every gold mine in the world. With him we visit "Moorish Spain, the islands of the Caribbean, with their untold tales of Columbus, Balboa, and the Spanish adventurers; South America; Europe from Archangel to Astrakhan; Jerusalem; the Lands of the Ganges; the East, India, China; and Cochinchina, the Malay Isles, the South Seas, and our voyage is done." The book is well written, full of vivid and colorful descriptions of places and people. "I have done what I set out as a boy to do," says the author, "seen everything, traveled nearly a million miles, and lost my way. I have seen the whole world and have no notion what it all means."

"I am an optimist, believing that beauty is not only a joy forever, but that it will ultimately prevail," says Donald Maxwell. His book "Unknown Kent" is a revelation of beauty in unsuspected places. He finds in despoiled industrial regions the glamour and mystery of old Baghdad, and the Arabian Nights. With the eye of an artist he describes the breezy downs and quiet meadows of Kent, and the "nocturnes in blue and gold among the magic night scenery of the land of cement and of the Medway." The illustrations by the author himself are an important part of the volume. Mr. Maxwell is a good guide to places not easily found, and he shows them in such atmosphere that we will see the things that are hidden.

The River of London.
"The centre of dockland is the centre of the world," says H. M. Tomlinson in his book "London River." "Our high road is part of the main thoroughfare from Kensington to Valparaiso. We know the hub whence all roads go the circumference. It is the river of 'below bridge' that is pictured here, with legends of the past, and of the men who know them, and traditions of a service older than anything Whitehall knows." It is the river of the Dock and Limehouse and Poplar, with its romance and mystery and adventure, the river that is the gateway to the sea. "You pick up the Dock and here," says the author, "as you pick old shells out of dunes."

The "Book of Bridges," by Frank Brangwyn and W. S. Sparrow, describes many bridges in the Old World. The beautiful illustrations by Brangwyn claim artistic merit for the book, while W. S. Sparrow, in his discussion of the subject, adds literary value, as well as interesting facts. He shows how bridges have represented types of society, every change in their development having been brought about by changes in social needs. He lays stress on the historic service bridges have rendered to mankind. An interesting portion of the volume is devoted to a discussion of the evolution of unfortified bridges. In the appendix will be found short descriptions of Chinese gabled bridges, and steep Roman bridges.

In the Garden of Eden.
Donald Maxwell, official artist to the Admiralty, was sent out by the Imperial War Museum to Mesopotamia. His book "A Dweller in Mesopotamia" might be called a by-product of that mission. It is full of vivid descriptions and adventures in the Garden of Eden. Of the towns and places described one of the most interesting is Basra, the Venice of the East. Sketches in color, monochrome, and fine illustrate the book. Some idea of its content may be had from the following quotation: "To have traveled in the land where Sennacherib held sway, to have walked upon the Sacred Way in Babylon, to have stood in the great banquet-hall of Belshazzar's palace, when the twilight is raising ghosts, and when little imagination would be required to see the fingers of a man's hand come forth and write upon the wall,

GERMAN SOCIETY COMING TO LIFE

Potsdam Exclusives Forbid Paris Fashions and Perfumes

Even Berlin Is Shunned; Doors Shut to Foreigners

Potsdam, Oct. 2.—It used to be said there was no society in Germany. The court was considered bourgeois for all its imperial power. Germany could not boast of the elegant world known to London, Paris, Vienna and St. Petersburg.

But there is a social world in Germany to-day, the most exclusive in the whole earth. Its centre is Potsdam; its ramifications miss all the cities but take in all the country estates in the Reich. It is exactly the same world that centred about the court before, and in its isolation it has acquired a character it did not have of old. It is more monarchist than it was before, and it boycotts democratic Germany while it awaits, and waits for, the return of Kaiser.

Such a society has to have a leader and—as its natural leader, the former Crown Princess, keeps out of sight—the leader is Princess Adalbert, her sister-in-law, the wife of the former Emperor's third son. She is the social dictator of the old German aristocracy, which may not be heard from but is all right there.

Princess Adalbert (before marriage Princess Adelaide of Saxe-Meinungen), because German society does not go in for such things in these "shocking" times. But the word has gone out from her that no German lady is to wear Paris fashions, use French perfumes or wear of all wear "those terrible American shoes." Rather she must be dressed simply, severely, wear long, square-toed shoes, live in the country and avoid the spurious republican gaiety.

Heer orders are obeyed, too. She is no dictator of a moribund society that goes sweeping over the Kaiser's grave. That is well enough for the old dames who sit mournfully in Sans-Souci Park watching the foreign tourists being herded through the palaces. She has a social realm which is full of energy and purpose.

Before the war the German aristocracy was one of the few aristocracies left in Europe which worked. It served the state and conducted well managed estates which yielded handsome incomes. It has been put out of its job by the republic, though it is still, in Germany, as live and energetic as ever. But it has little to do with politics. The voyaging foreigner never sees it. It is buried in the country, living its country life.

INDUSTRIAL COURT COMPLETE FAILURE, GOMPERS DECLARES

Opens the Way to Yesterday and to Strife, He Believes

"The Kansas industrial court is the lack-wad road to yesterday; it is the road to strife, distrust and hostility; there can be no peace, no progress and no freedom on that road, and American labor will not go that way."

Thus states Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor, in a discussion of the now famous Kansas Court of Industrial Relations and the law that brought it into being, in the October issue of "The Rotarian," the organ of the Rotary Clubs.

Following are some of the chief points raised by Mr. Gompers, in his attack on the Kansas law and the Kansas Court of Industrial Relations:

"Labor makes two principal assertions in opposition to the Industrial Court which apply to all forms of state compulsion in the settlement of industrial disputes. First, the underlying principle is undemocratic and therefore objectionable; second, in practice the idea does not work, it does not achieve its prime purpose."

Law Has Failed "The law has failed in that while it prohibits an employer from establishing a lock-out or a black-list—and in Gov. Allen's language 'denies to employees the right to enter into a conspiracy to close the factory'—both sides regularly disregard these commands."

In the packing-house strike the court issued no decision at all, retiring from the field completely after an ineffective and totally disregarded industrial gesture. Furthermore a strike does not cease until the employer agrees to accept proposals made by the workers exercising a lawful, constitutional and moral right.

Labor also maintains that the right to quit work must be retained inviolate if freedom is to be preserved. The essential difference between free men and slaves is that free men may quit work and move from place to place in accordance with their own will and regardless of either the wishes of the employer or the state. No matter what fine phraseology the Kansas law uses may be cloaked, the truth is that it seeks to establish a condition where men may not of their free will leave their work and go elsewhere.

Defends Court In the current number of "The Rotarian" is also an expression from Judge Huggins, presiding judge of the Kansas Court and author of the industrial law.

Judge Huggins says: "I am firm in the faith that Congress will soon enact a federal law of similar import to the Kansas law in creating a tribunal of high judicial nature (not an arbitration board) and giving it jurisdiction over commerce and the production of fuel. I believe the commerce clause of the Constitution is broad enough to cover both for fuel under modern conditions, as is necessary to the flow of commerce as is transportation. It should, as the Kansas Act does, protect labor from the aggressions of employers by recognizing the right of collective bargaining and by guaranteeing a fair wage and moral and healthful surroundings. It should protect capital from sabotage in the way of unfair rules and regulations, the strike, the boycott, and all other forms of 'economic pressure,' and it should protect the public by providing for the administration of industrial justice by the orderly process of the law, and thus insure industrial peace. To prate of democracy and loyalty to the Constitution while we deny the humblest American citizen ample and permanent protection of his right to labor at his chosen avocation whenever and wherever he chooses is to indulge in most shameless hypocrisy."

NOT WHAT HE HOPED. From despondency the artist's mind leapt to radiant hope—a wealthy-looking visitor had come into his studio.

As he showed him round he talked glowingly of his pictures. "Now this nocturne," he said, "took me ten months to paint. It was started in a garret."

"Yes!" "And a hundred thousand wouldn't buy it now!" "No," said the visitor, looking at it thoughtfully, "and I'm one of the hundred thousand!"

NOT FAIR. Two experienced anglers went fishing one day. One sat down on the pier while the other stood. Just before beginning operations they made a wager with each other as to who would make the bigger catch of fish.

They had been fishing for about half an hour with little or no success when John, who was standing lost his balance, and fell off the pier. As he went headlong by, Dick gave a yell and said: "Hi, John, if you are going to dive for 'em the bet's off!"

HOUSE-PROUD John Sloan, the brilliant painter, was telling Whistler stories at a banquet at the Ritz.

"Whistler," he said, "lived in Chelsea. His house was little, but he decorated, and furnished it carefully, and of course he was very proud of it."

"Late one evening Whistler dashed out of the Cafe Royal and got into a hansom."

"Home," he said.

"Yes, sir. Where, sir?" said the driver.

"Do you think," said Whistler, "that I'm going to tell a person like you where my beautiful home is?"

sheet. Eluding the wardens at the door of the main body of the church, the man broke into a "jog trot," and flitted barefoot down the north aisle. At the bottom he turned towards the centre of the nave, standing in front of the lectern. Here with a dramatic movement he flung his arms aloft and made his proclamation "Christ is Resurrected."

to his right hand he held aloft a staff which was peculiarly decorated. The staff was five feet in length and had a large cross at the top. It was decorated with seven coconuts, with a wreath of figs and dates intertwined. An orange reposed on the top of this group, while a white flag twelve inches square floated from the top of the staff.

Accidentally or otherwise the man released his sole covering when he flung up his arms, and the sheet fell flung up his arms, and the sheet fell checked until G. C. Hawkins and P. G. Quick church wardens, seized the sheet and covered him up. Kamenchikov admitted himself to be led quietly away to dress and to be questioned.

"I Came From Heaven." "Who are you?" he was asked.

"I am the Son of God," he replied.

"Where do you come from?" asked his questioners. "I come from Heaven; I am a Christ man," he replied.

To H. B. Robertson, K. C., another who questioned him, Kamenchikov repeated his belief that he was immortal, and a deity.

From replies made by the fanatic it is thought that he was attracted by the Harvest Thanksgiving Service at St. John's, and sought to render thanks along the lines of the precepts of his faith.

The coconuts, dates, figs and orange were his representation of the spiritual body; while the white flag was intended as a symbol of purity.

At the police station the man gave an address at 517 Cormorant Street. His rooms revealed a large mass of documentary evidence that the man was recently from the Donkhor colony at Grand Forks. In his papers was found a letter to friends in Philadelphia which complained bitterly of the lack of freedom accorded to his faith.

Credit for the prevention of what would have been an extremely awkward situation is given to the Rev. P. A. P. Chadwick who by continuing the service in the church, and also unnoticed by the greater part of the large congregation present; and to the wardens who caught the man at the crucial time.

The Donkhor colony to-day stated that they did not wish to take proceedings against Kamenchikov, they believe he was acting in an excess of religious fervor that, while not compatible with orthodox standards, was at least presumably intended in all good faith, according to the man's religious and moral precepts.

Kamenchikov gave an exclusive interview to a representative of the Times to-day. He is a quiet, sturdily built man of five feet eight inches in height, and sandy complexion, with an unkempt beard, and a mass of sandy locks.

Simon says he was born at Grodno, Russia, but could not give his age. He appeared to be a man of about 45 years. He was reading a Russian Bible when approached, and seemed glad to talk of his experiences.

Address of "Heaven" "At first he gave the anticipatory address of "Heaven," but later admitted his former abode had been Brilliant, B.C. His purpose, he said, in attending the church yesterday morning, was to worship, after the fashion of his fellow Donkhorers, "unclothed in humility as God made me," he said, earnestly.

"I wanted to pray to God," he said. "I belong to the Universal Brotherhood of Christian Community, and are you call soldiers of religion. I came here to see your people—to teach them the universal religion."

A Symbolic Standard It was upon the explanation of the novel standard that he carried into the church yesterday that the missionary, however, proved most interesting. The standard stands some five feet in height, with a circle of seven coconuts. These are representative of the seven Archangels, he said. Surmounted on the circle is an orange, which stands for the Heavenly Crown, explained Simon. Between the crown and the coconuts are strings of dates and figs, which, together with the remainder, indicate the fact that the Lord was of Heaven and also of Earth.

The white flag attached to the standard was to represent the wings of the Archangels, he held, while the whole contrivance—was a symbol of the Heavenly Father, His Son, and the chosen ones of the earth.

ROTARY CLUB WILL HOLD BIG BALL AT ARMORIES FRIDAY

Elaborate Preparations for Function to Aid Club's Funds

The real spirit of Rotary is being lavished on the preparations for the big ball which the members of the Club are staging at the Armories on Friday evening of this week, and the event has already assumed the importance of the premier social function of the season. In the absence of the Lieutenant-Governor, the Official Administrator of the Province, Chief Justice Macdonald, has extended his patronage, other patrons including Premier Oliver and Mayor Marchant.

The affair will assume an international aspect, for among the visiting Rotarians who will attend the affair will be Frank Lamb, of Hoquiam, district governor of Rotary for the Northwest district, while there will be contingents of Rotarians from Vancouver, Nanaimo, Portland, Spokane, Seattle and other Northwest clubs.

The Rotarians have arranged the ball with the expressed purpose of raising funds to carry on their benevolent activities, and to ensure generous support they have gone to unusual pains in the matter of arrangements. Ozard's orchestra has been engaged, with fifteen pieces, the hall will be specially decorated and there will be a sit-down supper, with the catering by Tighe and Wheeler.

Stores which have tickets for sale are as follows: Hudson's Bay, Spencers, Angus, Campbell, Drysdale, Scourah, George Strait, The Toggery Shop, W. & J. Wilson, O'Connell's, Frost & Frost, and Mutrie & Son. All Rotary Club members who have stores in the city also have tickets for sale.

WANTON MURDER

Elaborate Preparations for Function to Aid Club's Funds

It was through the efforts made by this Association to a very large extent, that Sooke Harbor has its daily mail service, the convenience of which is now fully realized by the residents. Looking to the future a public burial ground for the district has been secured and paid for, with work still to be done putting this into creditable shape as soon as sufficient funds are in hand, and untiring efforts during the last two years have been made towards getting the operation of a regular daily service inaugurated upon the Canadian National Island Line which is now, definitely promised within the next week or two; in fact the Association has been in touch with the Canadian National authorities during the last few days with regard to the most convenient time schedule for the running of trains. Every cent of the Association's funds is used for development work, and the Secretary has repeatedly refused to accept remuneration, in order that the greatest amount of useful work for the advancement of the Sooke Harbor District may be accomplished. It is therefore hoped that the people will more and more give such an organization their personal interest and support. The present paid membership stands at forty-one.

"Yes, sir," he boasted, "that lad of mine certainly can play the piano wonderfully. Why, he can play with both hands!"

Barker was also a proud father, and he only managed to raise mild enthusiasm over this astonishing news.

"How old is your boy?" he asked, as if the question were forced out of him by mere politeness.

"Eight!" scoffed Barker. "Why, my little boy can play with his toes, and he's only one year old!"

MISS CLARE POWELL GAVE SUCCESSFUL DRAMATIC RECITAL

At the Victoria Club on Saturday evening Miss Clare Powell delighted an enthusiastic audience with her vocal and elocutionary art. A group of recitations given with much dramatic power, clear enunciation and refined feeling was followed by a number of Scottish songs, which were received with much appreciation. Her old English group were also favorites. Perhaps her most convincing contributions were a group of monologues in which her characterization was of a very high order. In these her charming accompaniments at the piano were a noticeable feature. Especially pleasing to the audience were "The Swineherd," Hans Andersen, "Lilac Time," Alfred Noyes, and "What the Choir Sang" (Anon.). Miss Powell was assisted by Mrs. MacGovern, who opened the Recital with a classical number on the piano, "Gavotte in B Flat," by Handel. She played to Mr. Wickett's conducting and accompanied Miss Powell in her group of Scottish songs with sympathetic skill. Mr. F. T. C. Wickett, after thanking Miss Powell for inviting him to come, gave during the interval a most interesting description of eurythmics, its origin and development, its intimate association with music and its highly beneficial results, both mentally and physically, on the individual. He accompanied Miss Powell in her Old English group of songs, in which he displayed his well known talent. He also led the audience in the singing of "The Maple Leaf," his reputation for choral work being considerable.

THIS WOMAN RUNS BIG RANCH IN ASIA

Paris, Oct. 2.—An aristocratic ranchwoman, Mme. Riviere de la Souche, who has made a remarkable success of a rubber plantation and cattle farm in Indo-China, has been decorated by the French Government with the Cross of the Legion of Honor. Mme. de la Souche began her formidable task twelve years ago alone in the virgin forests of the colony. Unaided by any white companions, she made her plantation one of the most prosperous in the country. Everything is under her sole supervision. Not a day passes without her riding on horseback from one end to the other of her vast domain, and she does not fear to use the whip on lazy or negligent overseers. On the other hand, Mme. de la Souche has shown real solicitude for her workers. She has built a model village, with meeting house, and a villa on the coast for sick natives. Her cattle farm, employing 300 natives and counting more than 400 head, is famous throughout the country. People go to see it from far and near, and all new colonists adopt her methods of management.

TO ALL TUBERCULAR EX-SOLDIERS

To the Editor—In June, 1922, a telegram was received by the presidents of all the local branches of the Tubercular Veterans' Association from Mr. McNeill, of the G.W.V.A., stating that the parliamentary committee had turned down the majority of requests of the Tubercular Veterans' Association. He advised all branches to wire their respective members of Parliament to support the Tubercular Veterans' claims. Out of the great number of telegrams that were sent to Ottawa there were only two, I believe, that were read before the House in debate on re-establishment. One from the Byron Sanatorium being read by Mr. Shaw, member for West Calgary, who certainly has the tubercular ex-soldiers' welfare at heart. He goes on to say, "Every consideration should be given these men. These tubercular patients should be thoroughly and completely investigated."

The Tranquille branch sent eight telegrams, which read as follows: "Proposals submitted by Tubercular Veterans' Association to parliamentary committee has not received just consideration. Important request apparently overlooked. Our proposals based on expert medical opinion. Would appreciate your earnest endeavor on our behalf during debate. No consideration given board of consultants' report." This telegram was read before the House by Mr. A. W. Neill, member for Comox-Alberni, and when referring to the board of consultants' report he states: "I do not know what that report was, but presumably it was some suggestion put forward for handling tubercular cases by the board of this Tranquille asylum. I read this telegram for what it is worth."

Apparently no member of the House had the courage to rebuke Mr. Neill for his caustic remarks. How can the tubercular ex-soldier expect consideration from the Government when he is flauntingly affronted in the House of Commons by such remarks as Mr. Neill's?

Mr. T. G. McBride, member for Cariboo, which takes the Tranquille riding, previous to his departure for Ottawa, made a special visit to Tranquille so that he could get first-hand knowledge on the re-establishment question, but when the debate came up in the House he was as dumb as a clam, except to state: "I had intended to speak at some length on this question, Mr. Speaker, but I have been informed by the Minister of Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment (Mr. Beland) that he is coming out to British Columbia, so I do not think I shall inflict upon the House at this hour of the morning a punishment of listening to what I have to say. I will reserve it until I meet the Minister at Kamloops."

How peculiarly Mr. McBride expresses himself in the above phrase! Does he actually mean that it would be inflicting a punishment upon the House to listen to the appeals of those bygone "heroes of yesterday" who are at present afflicted with the damnable "white scourge"?

The press reports that Mr. McBride did meet the Hon. H. S. Beland, to whom he introduced Mr. T. Denison, who claims to be the father of the "Kamloops colony farm settlement scheme for the tubercular ex-service men." While it is true that Mr. Denison is sincere and very enthusiastic over this scheme which he explained to the Hon. Dr. H. S. Beland, his enthusiasm is also very strong in another direction, viz. that the Indians be removed from their present "undesirable proximity" to Kamloops to the Harper ranch, which is nine miles distant. And apparently to help himself out he uses the tubercular ex-soldier as a pawn in his game. He (Mr. Denison) is also very ably supported by Mr. T. G. McBride. Why remove the Indians when there are so very few of the tubercular ex-soldiers in favor of this much boosted colony scheme? Does it not appear to the man of average common sense that it is only a scheme to oust the "poor Indians" from his "undesirable proximity" to the lordly Kamloops?

When is the tubercular ex-service man going to come right out to the front and ask for a permanent and adequate pension? The Hamilton branch did ask for a 100 per cent, but this is not definite. The Government can make any factor a 100 per cent. I would suggest that we be definite in our demand and ask for, say, a minimum of $100 a month. Until the ex-soldier does ask for something definite the politicians will keep on passing the buck indefinitely. The proposals and questions asked for by the Tubercular Veterans' Association, referring back to the board of consultants' report, the after care and the colony farm scheme, etc., are proposals compiled mostly of innocuous, and they, therefore, become very elusive matter when in the hands of unscrupulous politicians. I would like to call the attention of all ex-service men to the members in the House who did express their views during the debate on re-establishment. Mr. Shaw, West Calgary; Mr. Sutherland, South-Oxford; Mr. Ladner, South Vancouver, and Mr. Tommy Church, West Toronto, who asked for a definite pension and that it be made permanent. Comrades, this is what all tubercular ex-service men must do, and leave the after care to care after itself. It's the present care we need, while we are alive. A permanent pension of $100 per month which, when taken into consideration, is a very small demand. Can a man who has permanent tuberculosis work on a farm? Ask any expert medical advice and see what reply you'll get. WILLIAM MORTON, Sanatorium, Tranquille, B.C.

THE CANADA COLONIZATION SCHEME.

To the Editor—I am glad to see in your issue of to-day a letter from "Free Trader" in which he says he regards my criticisms of the prospects of the Canada Colonization Association scheme "are entirely just"; but he goes on to say that whereas the former (the C. C. A.) had a plan which does not seem likely to get us anywhere in particular, the latter (meaning me) presents no plan at all. No, it is quite true that I presented no plan in the article under reference, which was a comparison of an important problem from separate points of view; my reason being that there was so much for criticism in the prospectus referred to and even then I only touched upon the salient points which came to my notice, preferred not to embark on other matter for fear of trespassing on the patience of your readers. "One at a time," Aunt Sally said when it began to rain sticks. I have a plan and the details have been submitted to the proper quarters, but whether anything will be done is another matter. The outlines are briefly as follows:

In the first place the middleman must be made to come down from his perch, where he has managed to gain for himself a very secure position from which he fills his pockets, controls the market, in fact bosses the whole show, without being saddled with anything but a very minor share of the responsibility. How comes it, it may be asked, that he occupies such an autocratic position? The causes are fairly numerous, but there is one instrument that he wields relentlessly which gives him his power, and that is cold storage. The fairly recent introduction of cold storage (it has only been going some twenty years) has made the middleman most contractor absolutely independent of time; he can buy his beef and mutton and what not when and where it happens to suit him, and this enables him to screw down the farmer to a point which makes it barely worth his while to rear stock; the stockman, pure and simple, leads a Damoclitian existence in the hands of the meat contractor, and the meat contractor can fix the price which the stockman must accept; the stockman, before the introduction of cold storage, could sell his cattle, in fact did so, just when they were fattest, which was usually also the time when grazing was beginning to get scarce; whereas now the meat contractor's agent travels round and makes his offer, which if the stockman refuses to accept he is left to rue the day. From this is obvious that governments must supervise cold storage, or better still, take over control of the middleman's part of the job. We talk of nationalizing coal supply and railways and what not, but nationalization of meat supply and all foods that come within the cold storage region is far more important. There will be a big outcry among the leading trade concerns affected, but if the public want cheaper food and the farmer is to be given a dog's chance, this is where successful farming and agricultural colonization can best be assisted at the outset; this will give the fairest start.

It has been argued that the middleman cannot be eliminated, he is essential for the organization of trade where the farmer is concerned. The reply to this is that educational establishments in England as well as the Dominions have now taken up instruction in every branch of farming, even farming accounting. In England the agricultural colleges and institutions deal with at least ten main subjects: Plant pathology and physiology, breeding and nutrition with the soil problems connected with the last; fruit growing, animal nutrition and pathology, dairying, agricultural zoology and agricultural economics. The Dominions do the same, with particular attention to local conditions. Though in England agricultural co-operation is in a sickly infancy, we have signs of something more robust in Canada, where in Alberta, Manitoba and Saskatchewan, as well as British Columbia, the Farmers are all experienced farmers themselves, and in the first two named the the Farmer parties as well as in Ontario, are actually governing and though the Dominion Government has not yet succumbed the farmer parties there and in the other provinces of Canada are gaining strength every day. This is a most hopeful sign for the prospects of the farmer and the fact that the movement is of such healthy, sturdy growth is proof in itself that there must have been some underlying and deep-rooted cause to bring about such vigorous development. What else could the cause or causes have been than the imposition and pressure of the grasping middleman. The control of cold storage cannot be undertaken by one or another province, it must be done by the Dominion Government in co-operation with all the provincial governments. Then, again, the interests of small farmers must be protected against the powerful combination of big syndicates by a well-organized market system, and here much can be done by proper control of advertisements. There must be a sliding scale of advertising; luxuries and patent medicines and the like should be severely taxed, while price lists of necessities, employment vacancies should go free. This would at first to some extent affect the press, newspapers might feel the pinch, but it would only have the effect of putting those of the lower orders out of business, which would be to the advantage of the community in general. The western provinces might find some means of instituting local banking systems, whereby the individual small holder would enjoy the position of the personal asset, such as existed in England before bank amalgamations absorbed all the smaller country local banks; with these amalgamations came land depression and the exodus of the farming populations to urban centres. Your correspondent, alluded to at the commencement of this letter, signs himself "Free Trader," and he touches upon the question of Protection and "Free Trade." I would here call attention to the first attempt at the practise of Free Trade, which history shows us was most disastrous. The French, about 1780 or a little later, got bitten by the Free Trade theories of Quesnay, a follower of the economics of Rousseau's philosophy, and opened the coars of the markets of France to English manufacturers without getting anything substantial in return. As machine weaving was then more advanced in England than in France, the result was that the French markets were flooded. As a result in 1787 in Normandy about 4,000 manufacturers were begging in the streets of Rouen and Lyons, Lille, Beauvais, Amiens—in fact, all the industrial centres of France were brought to the verge of ruin. The industrial depression was reinforced by a very bad harvest; the unemployed flocked to Paris, partly in search of work and partly to share in the relief offered by the Government. This was the black background of the French Revolution. "The matter of sedition is of two kinds," says Francis Bacon, "much poverty and much discontent." The rebellions of the belly are the worst. All this is quite true and we may presume to agree with Bacon in his remedies, such as the opening and well balancing of trade; the cherishing of manufactures; the banishing of idleness; the repression of waste and excess by sumptuary laws; the improvement and husbanding of the soil; the regulating of the prices of things vendible; the moderating of taxes and tributes, and the like. It was not the lurid pictures drawn by Dickens in his "Tale of Two Cities" or Carlyle's "French Revolution," or a recent film "The Orphans of the Storm"—these make interesting reading enough—that caused the French Revolution, but a misapplication of Free Trade. And when we consider the relationship between Canada and the United States in connection with the above, reading Canada for France and the States for England, and further consider the amount of unemployment in Canada, the parallel is too striking to be pleasant. Fortunately the United States have done the best they can for us in Canada by putting up a tariff wall, though why, when history teaches her her error, and points the opposite way, it is difficult to conceive. The problem as to the United States Fordney tariff becomes the more striking when we find her putting a heavy duty on wheat, when we know that she must have some score millions of Canadian hard wheat to mix with her own! The Free Trade problem is a complicated one. C. B. SIMONDS, Victoria, Sept. 23, 1922.
