- That it be an Instruction to the Committee to inquire into the last Elections for a Burgess or Burgesses to serve in Parliament for Liverpool, commencing with the Election in 1831, and to report upon each Election separately, whether general Bribery and Corruption have been proved or not; and also to report the Names of all Persons who have been proved before them to have been guilty at each Election of any offence of Bribery, or of being bribed, together with the amount of the Sums given or received in each case, 548.

QUESTIONS, PREVIOUS, passed in the NEGATIVE :

- That it is the Opinion of this House that the existence of Sinecure Offices, and Offices executed by Deputy in the Army and Navy Departments is unnecessary and inexpedient as a means of remunerating Public Service, 42.
- That the present system of Corn Laws, founded upon a high and ever varying Scale of Duty, while it fails in conferring permanent benefit on the Agricultural Interest, tends to cramp the Trade, and to impair the general prosperity of this Country; that an alteration in the principle of these Laws, to one of a moderate Duty, fixed at all periods except those of extreme dearth, while it would indemnify the Agriculturist from the peculiar burthens to which he is subjected, would, by restoring the commercial relations between this Kingdom and the Corn-exporting Countries of the World, tend to improve the Trade, increase the Manufactures, and render more equable the price of Agricultural Produce, 407.
- That an humble Address be presented to His Majesty, that He will be graciously pleased not to recognize, or in any way give the sanction of His Government to the present political state and condition of Poland, the same having been brought about in violation of the Treaty of Vienna, to which Great Britain was a Party, 560.
- That leave be given to bring in a Bill for shortening the Duration of Parliaments, 595.
- That it is the Duty of this House to avail itself of the present period of profound Peace to institute an inquiry for the purpose of ascertaining whether some mode may not be devised for manning His Majesty's Ships in time of War, without recourse to the practice of forcible Impressment, 675.

QUESTIONS, PREVIOUS, resolved in the AFFIRMATIVE :

- That an humble Address be presented to His Majesty, expressing to His Majesty the regret felt by this House at the continuance of Hostilities in Portugal, and their grateful acknowledgments of the judicious policy which His Majesty has pursued with reference to the Affairs of that Country, 462.
- That it is the opinion of this House, that the reduction of Taxation and the diminution of the Public Burthens by every attention to economy, are objects of paramount importance, and that, in justice to the people who pay Taxes, all Sinecure Places not merited by Public Services should be abolished throughout the British Empire, 577.

QUESTIONS, PREVIOUS, and Motions withdrawn, 602, 622.

- That the Petition of Richard Newsham do lie upon the Table, 305.

- For reading a Second time the Gravesend Pier Bill, 328.
- That the deficiency in the Revenue which would be occasioned by a Reduction of the Tax on Malt to Ten Shillings the Quarter, and by the Repeal of the Tax on Houses and Windows, could only be supplied by the substitution of a general Tax on Property and Income, and an extensive change in our whole financial system, which would at present be inexpedient, 329.
- For presenting an humble Address to His Majesty, that He will be graciously pleased to direct a Commission to issue, to inquire into the Condition of the Poorer Classes of His Majesty's subjects in Ireland, and into the various Institutions at present established by Law or otherwise, for their relief, 336.
