Revolutionists in Russia Extending Areas of Control

Kronstadt As Well As Petrograd and Moscow Now Stated to Be In Hands of Anti-Bolsheviks; Upeheaval Throughout Country Reported.

Washington, March 5.—Official information that the Soviet fortress at Kronstadt had fallen into the hands of revolutionary troops was received to-day by the Finnish Legation here.

A cablegram from the Finnish Foreign Office at Helsinki said the revolutionists were holding Lenin's Commissaries as hostages.

The cablegram also said unconfirmed reports had reached Helsinki that "a tremendous upheaval reigns throughout Russia," that the Moscow garrison refused to fight and that the greater part of Petrograd was under the control of the revolutionists.

Stockholm, March 5.—(Associated Press)—White flags are floating from the Winter Palace at Petrograd and the Kremlin at Moscow, according to Helsinki reports. In Moscow 30,000 troops are declared to have refused to march against the revolutionists.

The revolutionists are marching on Petrograd. Marines at Kronstadt have sent out a wireless message declaring all Russian troops to participate in the revolution.

M. Zinevich, Governor of Petrograd; M. Kalinin, of the Soviet Central Committee, and several Petrograd Commissaries, it is added, are held by the revolutionaries as hostages.

The Dacens Nyheter has learned from Reval and Kronstadt that the sailors there have revolted. The Estonian Foreign Minister has been informed that the fleet and fortifications at Kronstadt are in possession of the revolutionary committee.

London, March 5.—News reaching London on the internal situation in Russia continues conflicting, but the reports of uprisings were reiterated to-day and enlarged upon.

The evening newspapers print a dispatch from Helsinki which declares the anti-Soviet outbreak has not been suppressed, but on the contrary is spreading. The message asserts that both Moscow and Petrograd are in the hands of the revolutionists.

Denials. These reports follow denials in official Moscow wireless messages recently that there were any disturbances in either of the cities named and carrying a statement by the Soviet Foreign Minister denouncing recent news of Russian disorders circulated through Latvia as "a campaign of lies."

Chinese Troops. Copenhagen, March 5.—Chinese troops have been concentrated at Moscow by the Russian Soviet Government, says a Helsinki dispatch to the Berlingske Tidende.

Trains Delayed. C. P. R. Line Temporarily Closed East of Field.

Calgary, March 5.—One of the worst snow slides that have occurred in the mountains took place shortly after 5 o'clock Friday afternoon at Mars, eight miles east of field. The slide was 500 feet long and 20 feet deep.

Canadian Pacific Railway officials here state that one is reported injured by the slide.

Prune Week. Vancouver, Wash., March 5.—Postmaster J. W. Shaw, who is head of a committee of the "Prunarians," arranging for a state-wide celebration of prune week, announced yesterday that March 20 to 25 had been set as the time.

Ottawa Cabinet Prepares Estimates for Commons

Ottawa, March 5.—(Canadian Press)—The Cabinet is spending a busy week-end in final revision of the estimates. A meeting was held this forenoon, another will be held this afternoon and another probably will be held to-morrow.

The estimates, when submitted to the House during the coming week, are expected to show a considerable reduction in expenditure as compared with the estimates last year.

J. A. Sexsmith, Peterboro East, has filed a resolution asking the House to appoint a committee to inquire into the different forms of proportional representation with a view to recommending one of them for adoption.

F. Rinfret, St. James, Montreal, has given notice that he will move in the House an amendment to the Insurance Act to allow the issue of permanent insurance policies against sickness.

COSTA RICANS CROSS Isthmus PANAMA

Troops Move and Occupy Some Territory

Panama Organizing an Army to Resist

Panama, March 5.—Costa Rican forces have crossed the Panama frontier and appear to have overrun the northwestern section of the province of Bocas del Toro. After crossing the Sixoala River, which forms the boundary between Costa Rica and Panama, the Costa Ricans captured the town of Gughito and advanced southward, reaching Almirante, twenty miles from the frontier, yesterday afternoon. Unorganized Panama forces in Almirante evacuated the town and retreated without opposition.

President Porras has named a de-entrusted selection of men for the joint council of five to which will be command of the Panama army. All men between the ages of eighteen and forty, who have been called to the colors will be examined at once, and the technical training of the national forces is being planned.

Washington, March 5.—The Panama-Costa Rica situation was the first subject taken up to-day by Charles Evans Hughes after he had taken the oath of office as Secretary of State. He spent an hour closeted with Under-Secretary Davis and Henry P. Fletcher, who is to be the new Under-Secretary, and then went to the White House to see President Harding.

Views on Harding's Address Differ

Yorkshire Post Comments; Also Paris Papers

Leeds, Eng., March 5.—In its comment on the inaugural address of President Harding, The Yorkshire Post to-day says:

"Basing himself firmly on reality, President Harding may carry the world's progress further, notwithstanding that his ideas for effecting this progress are at the moment of little value. The newspaper thinks the function of the United States in world politics may best be performed by an endeavor to create an atmosphere favorable to war rather than by an attempt to invest machinery for rendering war impossible."

"The United States, indeed," it adds, "may advance under Harding as under Wilson toward the same goal, but by another and more easily passable route."

Paris Papers. Paris, March 5.—Newspapers of this city, commenting to-day on the address delivered in Washington yesterday by President Harding, appeared to feel the change in United States administration is "one from the frying pan into the fire," as far as Europe is concerned. Disappointment over the fact that Mr. Harding failed to make definite statements regarding his attitude on important affairs in Europe was evident.

Isolationist. Liverpool, March 5.—The Post, commenting upon President Harding's inauguration address, says he lays stress upon the urgency of an international understanding but at the same time proclaims himself as an isolationist.

Washington Shooting Affray Echo From Past

Washington, March 5.—Former Senator Henderson of Nevada was shot through the wrist to-day in front of the Senate office building by Charles A. Grock, a former resident of Nevada. The Senator was moved to his former office for medical treatment and his assailant was locked up by the police.

Ivens Addressed Manitoba House

Not in Jail Now; Helps Make the Laws

Winnipeg, March 5.—Vehemently protesting that he was innocent of the seditious conspiracy charges on which he and other strike leaders had been convicted, Rev. William Ivens, whose year term in jail expired last Monday, took part in the debate on the Address in Reply to the Speech from the Throne at yesterday's session of the Legislature.

Principles. Declaring that he intended to be loyal to his convictions, whatever the result of that, he stated that he had gone to prison because he was standing for certain principles and that he stood for them to-day, "only a little stronger."

Nelson Man Was Robbed in Seattle

Seattle, March 5.—Lured to a dark corner, J. D. Debois, a logging contractor of Nelson, B. C., was snatched and robbed of $5,000 and a valuable diamond ring here last night.

Montreal, March 5.—Under date of Shanghai, The Montreal Star publishes the following: "Renewed earthquakes in the Kansu and Szechuan provinces have killed 250,000 persons, according to advices here. The Famine Relief Committee is sending investigators."

EX-U. S. SENATOR WOUNDED BY MAN

Washington Shooting Affray Echo From Past

Washington, March 5.—Former Senator Henderson of Nevada was shot through the wrist to-day in front of the Senate office building by Charles A. Grock, a former resident of Nevada. The Senator was moved to his former office for medical treatment and his assailant was locked up by the police.

House to Ask Ottawa To Give B. C. Monopoly Of All Liquor Imports

To make Government control effective and absolute Premier Oliver on Monday afternoon will present a motion to the Legislature proposing that a resolution be sent to Ottawa asking that the Dominion prohibit importation of liquor into British Columbia except by the B. C. Government.

The resolution follows the line of the manifesto issued by the Premier to the people just before the December election. It is also in line with the letter which the Premier sent Premier Meighen, advising him of the result of the prohibition plebiscite here and suggesting that it might be necessary to ask for supplementary legislation from the Dominion in order to carry out Government control here.

No Delay Necessary. Fitting this up to Ottawa does not mean that there will be any delay to the passing of the Government Control Bill now before the Legislature, the Premier explained to-day.

GERMAN CONSUL IN THE DOMINION

L. P. Kempff Starts His Duties at Montreal

St. John, N.B., March 5.—L. P. Kempff, the first German Consul-General for Canada since the beginning of the war, arrived here yesterday on the steamship Empress of Britain. He was accompanied by his family and two secretaries. The party left for Montreal, where the official residence of the Consul-General is located.

100-YEAR-OLD WINNIPEG MAN IS REPORTED MISSING

Winnipeg, March 5.—A city-wide police search was instituted to-day for Abraham Brown, 100 years old, missing since yesterday morning. His seventy-five-year-old daughter, with whom he lived, said he was accustomed to taking long morning walks, but was very active, and she feared he had met with foul play.

WISH DEBS AND OTHERS RELEASED

Socialists in United States Start a Campaign

Boston, March 5.—A campaign to gain the release of Eugene V. Debs and all other "political prisoners," the opening of headquarters in Washington with an amnesty lobby on duty there and a demonstration at the Capitol on April 13, the second anniversary of Debs' imprisonment, were announced by the national executive committee of the Socialist Party of the United States to-day.

The committee began here a three-day session at which plans for the campaign were to be furthered and a movement in opposition to the open-shop to be advanced.

The committee had before it also preparation for the national convention to be held in Detroit in May or June, including consideration of subjects for consideration suggested by local unions.

FIGHT FOR AID TO MUNICIPAL UNION HEADS TO ARRIVE TO START LOBBY

Heads of the Union of British Columbia Municipalities are expected to arrive in Victoria on Monday to commence a desperate fight for financial assistance for the cities and towns of the Province. Having prepared an exhaustive review and explanation of their case, the municipal representatives plan to descend upon the House early in the week and start an intensive lobby among members. It is hoped that this lobby will be so effective that the Government will be forced into giving broad financial assistance to the municipalities. Copies of the case prepared to support the cities' contentions will be forwarded to each member of the House and to Municipal Councils.

MONTREAL NEEDS POLICE CHANGES

Declaration Made by Mr. Justice Weir

Montreal, March 5.—There is serious need for reorganization of the municipal police in Montreal, said Mr. Justice Weir in speaking to the Court of King's Bench here. "Our police organization should be re-entirely reorganized and most efficient and intelligent men should be placed at the head of affairs. It is brains that is needed in our police department—brains and ability. Both are sadly lacking to-day," he said.

THREE ARRESTED

Seattle, March 5.—Three men, armed, were arrested in an automobile stolen from Camp Lewis yesterday, and are held under open charges.

ERA OF DEVELOPMENT IN PALESTINE IS PLANNED

London, March 5.—Important Government works will be begun in Palestine following the approval of Great Britain's mandate over that country by the League of Nations. Sir Herbert Samuel, High Commissioner for Palestine, declared yesterday in addressing the Palestine Advisory Council. He said a Government loan would be issued and the proceeds would be utilized in developing railways, postal, telegraph and telephone services, harbors, Government buildings, water supply plants and other public institutions, save a dispatch received here.

Germans Expected To Make Offer to Allies On Monday

Teuton Representatives Busy Formulating Fresh Reparation Proposals; Lloyd George Conferred With Admiral Lord Beatty on Plans.

London, March 5.—Germany's "real offer" will be forthcoming on Monday when her delegates appear before the Allied Supreme Council to deliver the answer of the Berlin Cabinet to the Allied ultimatum presented on Thursday, it was said in some quarters here to-day. It was declared that the German representatives were busy formulating fresh proposals while the conference was marking time.

Mr. Lloyd George conferred yesterday with Admiral Lord Beatty on the situation which would arise should the Allies decide to apply penalties to Germany. Authoritative information was claimed by The Daily Sketch that in case of a blockade, both the North Sea and Baltic would be the scenes of a naval demonstration and that Great Britain and France had made all preparations to establish a naval cordon along the German coast.

CITY FILES DEFENCE IN BRIDGE LITIGATION

Counter Claims for General Rates and Taxes in Munn Expropriation Case

The City's defence in the Munn expropriation action in connection with Johnson Street Bridge construction was filed in the Supreme Court Registry to-day. The trial of the action will probably not take place for several weeks.

The City pleads that lawful expropriation proceedings were taken on July 30, 1920 and the plaintiff has offered in writing the sum of $16,200 as compensation for the portion of land taken.

The defence states that the City is not concerned in any agreement in which the plaintiff may be interested, and that the value alleged to be fixed by arbitration proceedings taken pursuant to an alleged agreement, with which also the City has no concern, cannot fix or determine for compensation purposes the value of the said lands taken by the City.

Any agreement made by the plaintiff with His Majesty the King through the Province of British Columbia does not affect the rights and powers of the City in acquiring the said land the defendant says and does not fix or determine the value which the City may be required to pay as compensation therefor, and no part of the $58,071.10 fixed by the alleged arbitration is due by the City to the plaintiff, it is submitted.

The value of the land at the time of expropriation does not exceed the value of the land at the time of the defence claims, and the City also claims from the plaintiff by way of counter-claim, the sum of $676.73 for general municipal rates or taxes and interest, which amount it is claimed should be deducted from the sum of $16,200 tendered.

MONTREAL NEEDS POLICE CHANGES

Montreal, March 5.—There is serious need for reorganization of the municipal police in Montreal, said Mr. Justice Weir in speaking to the Court of King's Bench here. LLOYD GEORGE MAN IS RETURNED FOR BIRMINGHAM SEAT

London, March 5.—(Canadian Associated Press)—P. J. Hannon, Coalition Unionist, who has travelled extensively in Canada, has been returned unopposed for the Mosler division of Birmingham.

USED OPEN DOOR.

Seattle, March 5.—Taking advantage of an open door and an open safe, thieves who are believed to be juveniles, entered the store of the Italian Importing Company at 104 1/2 King Street and looted the safe and till of $57.50.

Richstag.

Berlin, March 5.—Paul Loebe, president of the Reichstag yesterday informed the Chamber that he had received in part the speech of David Lloyd George, the British Prime Minister, concerning the penalties to be inflicted on Germany in case of non-fulfillment of the Allied reparation demands. Loebe then read a part of the speech, and added:

"No one in this House will consider the penalties compatible with the Treaty of Versailles."

Disorder. This statement aroused deafening shouts in which the galleries joined, while the Independent Socialists and Communists vigorously protested. Hoffman then suspended the sitting for three-quarters of an hour.

Serious Effect. Berlin, March 5.—Germany's economic situation is seriously affected by the measures the Allies threaten to take if the Government does not agree to the terms laid down by the Supreme Council in Paris, but they can not prevent the Government from refusing to sign obligations which can not be fulfilled, is the opinion prevalent in authoritative circles here.

Official statement was issued yesterday showing the economic effect of the measures threatened at London and they were discussed by a committee of experts under the presidency of Konstantin Fehrenbach, the Chancellor.

No Date Set. Following the suspension of the sitting of the Reichstag yesterday, during which Independent Socialists and Communists caused considerable disorder, Paul Loebe, President of the Chamber, disappeared. When the time for resuming the session had come, none of the members knew what the next move would be and finally the Chamber adjourned without fixing a date for the next meeting.

WISHES MINISTERS TO QUIT COMPANIES

A. R. McMaster Would Amend Parliament Act

Ottawa, March 5.—On motion for second reading of the bill to amend the Senate and House of Commons Act, A. R. McMaster, Brome, said in the Commons last evening it was in the interest of the Government and the country that it should be incumbent upon Ministers of the Crown to resign all directorships they might hold in incorporated companies when they accepted portfolios. A Minister of the Crown could not properly discharge his duties if he were also interested in companies.

Sir Edward Kemp, Minister without portfolio, objected to the bill because it would tend to exclude from Cabinet positions the very men whose breadth of experience in the business of the country fitted them to be members of the Government.

Mr. McMaster remarked that the bill would not prevent such men from being chosen to take part in the Government.

Same Position.

Sir Edward agreed, but thought that even if a business man relinquished his part in a business organization in order to become a member of the Government, he could not very well claim to be impartial on any question affecting his former company. He would be in the same position in either case.

Hon. B. Lemieux suggested that the honor of being sworn in as a Privy Councillor was so great that a man should be willing to set aside personal gain when he accepted a portfolio.

Leaders.

Premier Meighen asked if Mr. McMaster would not also make the bill applicable to the Leader of the Opposition?

"I have no objection," said Mr. McMaster as Mr. Mackenzie King nodded assent.

"Would you make it applicable to the leaders of both Oppositions?" Mr. Meighen pressed, with obvious reference to Hon. T. A. Crerar, Leader of the Progressives, and also president of the United Grain Growers.

Mr. Crerar at the time was not in the House. "I think it would be in the public interest to include the Leader of the Opposition in the bill," remarked Mr. King.

The Premier smilingly rejoined that it was not Mr. King he had in mind. "I was just leading through him to the other," Mr. Meighen said, the House laughing.

Debate on second reading of the bill was adjourned and the House rose until 3 p.m. on Monday.

A REMINDER.

Paris, March 5.—Messengers have been sent by the League of Nations Council to Panama and Costa Rica, calling their attention to the fact that the republics are members of the League and consequently undertook to subscribe to its principles.

Presumably before the messengers were sent the League received a cablegram from the Panaman Government reporting attacks upon Panaman soldiers by regular troops of Costa Rica and protesting against "acts of violence committed by a member of the League."

TORONTO SMASH

TOOK MAN'S LIFE

Eighteen Hurt in Street Car Accident

Toronto, March 5.—As a result of a trailer attached to an eastbound trolley car on the street railway jumping the track on the Gerrard Street bridge last evening and being sideswiped by a westbound street car, one passenger, John Evans, Jr., was fatally injured, five passengers were seriously injured, two now being in hospital in a critical condition, and thirteen received injuries more or less severe. It was stated that a stone in the groove of the rail caused the trailer to leave the track.

John Evans died in a hospital a few hours afterward.

The injured are: William Younger, a printer, sixteen years old, received fractures in both arms and both legs and is in a serious condition.

Miss Christina Vetch, a factory operator, aged eighteen, is suffering from internal injuries and a fractured arm.

Miss Annie Mills, fractured shoulder.

Isaac Lilly, fractured shoulder, and Harry Johnson, compound fracture of one leg.

APPRENTICESHIP IN BUILDING TRADES

Ottawa, March 5.—Provision has been made by the industrial joint conference board, composed of representatives of the building trades and members of the Canadian Building and Construction Industries Association, which has been in session here, for the establishment of apprenticeship councils in the principal building and construction centres throughout the Dominion.

The tentative agreements of the system have been sent out both to employers and labor organizations throughout Canada. One of the features of the apprenticeship system is that it is provided that not less than one-sixth of the time of the apprentice is to be devoted to education, at the cost of the employer.

Apprentice is to spend not less than two and a half days a week in educational work, and it is provided that the employer is not to make any deductions in wages.

BELIEVE AEROPLANE SMUGGLES DRUGS

Vancouver, March 5.—That the aeroplane which has been smuggling whisky from Lower Fraser River points to American coast cities is carrying its illicit cargoes as far south as San Francisco is information received by the Canadian authorities from American officials with whom they have been co-operating in an attempt to suppress the traffic.

The American officers declare that the fact that the plane would make such a long flight confirms their theory that the cargo consists of a part of the cargoes carried, for such a method of transit would hardly be covered by the revenue produced by whisky alone.

It is believed by the American officers that a route has been chosen by the pilot of the plane and scheduled stops made between the international border and San Francisco for supplies and possible repairs.

No further daylight landings of the plane in the Fraser River district have been witnessed, and it is believed that all recent landings have been made at night.

DRYDOCK TENDER ACCEPTED AT OTTAWA

But Contract For Esquimalt Structure Not Yet Signed

Ottawa, March 5.—The contract to build a drydock at Esquimalt, B. C., has not yet been signed, according to information given to William Duff, member for Lunenburg, in the Commons yesterday afternoon. An Order-in-Council, however, has been passed accepting the tender of Lyall & Sons Construction Company, Ltd., at scheduled prices approximating $4,217,400.

Correspondence relating to the construction of the drydock at Vancouver will be tabled immediately in the House, Joseph Archibault, Chiefly-Younger, carried his motion calling for a copy of the contract given to J. Coughlan & Sons, together with tenders and other documents relating to the matter.

Ships.

William Duff was informed that two steel ships are being built at Prince Rupert, B. C., to the order of the Canadian Government, and that the deadweight tonnage of these ships is approximately 8,390 tons. The Wallace Shipbuilding and Drydock Company, Limited, has contracted to build the ships on the basis of cost of labor and material, which it will have to furnish, plus 8 per cent. for profit.

ENJOYABLE EVENTS HELD AT DUNCAN

Duncan, March 5.—The fourth party of the A. O. F. Club was quite successful in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Truesdale, and Mrs. Smiley, of Chemainus, were visitors. The hosts and hostesses were Mr. and Mrs. Currie G. White, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Sejrup, and Mr. and Mrs. M. Bell.

Great amusement prevailed throughout the evening as the members examined each other's score card. Mrs. White and Mr. Stewart were complimented upon their artistic and humorous temperaments.

The ladies' cards were hand-colored and the gentlemen were chickens. All had a variety of comical verses referring to the game (five hundred).

Mrs. Wm. Dobson won ladies' first prize and Mr. C. H. Dickie, the gentlemen's; Miss Measures, a consolation prize, as did Mr. H. Peterson. The jolly crowd dispersed at the usual time and the club added another sociable evening to its record.

Entertained.

Mr. and Mrs. Grant Colbourne entertained in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Hewlett, who are returning to California this week-end after spending the winter here. Mr. Colbourne is a newspaper man, and Mrs. Hewlett is a musician who has just enjoyed Mrs. M. Bell won ladies' first prize, Mr. Wm. Truesdale, gentlemen's first prize; Mrs. Wm. Truesdale, ladies' consolation prize, as did Mr. H. Peterson. The jolly crowd dispersed at the usual time and the club added another sociable evening to its record.

COAL COMMISSION HEARS SUGGESTIONS

Vancouver, March 5.—Two practical suggestions for reducing the cost of coal production were made to the Coal Commission at its inquiry here yesterday afternoon by R. Campbell-Johnson, mining engineer.

The use of coal-cutting machinery in place of explosives would, he said, avoid a large proportion of the present waste through breakage.

More rigid inspection of the safety precautions in the mines and the improvement of housing conditions in the mining towns would attract a better class of miners, he said.

With better miners the output per man would be increased and the cost proportionately lowered.

These suggestions were volunteered by the witness.

Mr. Campbell-Johnson also refuted the suggestion that the Island coal areas were nearly worked out.

The witness held that the coal should be loaded on cars instead of barges, and should be brought to Vancouver on car barges. This also would eliminate the present breakage through loading and unloading the barges. The breakage is what produces the slack, on which the dealers state they lose so heavily.

Other evidence produced was the statement from Mr. Gibson, an apartment house owner, that the mine operators refused to sell him direct by the carload and referred him to their Vancouver agents, who quoted prices which would not permit him to make any saving over the present retail price per ton which he is now paying.

Several dealers put in statements showing the cost to them of handling a ton of coal. These varied from $3.13 to $4.16.

At the conclusion of the sitting yesterday it was held that the examination of the dealers was now completed.

Monday morning's sitting has been set aside for the purpose of hearing testimony from the coal producers who may wish to testify.

HIGHER RATES FOR CARRYING MAIL

Vancouver, March 5.—The rates for carrying mails on Canadian trains, effective March 1, have been increased by no less than 14 per cent., according to a letter received by J. O. McLeod, Superintendent of Mail Service. This increase applies to all railways in the Dominion, and is what the railways have been seeking for the past four years in order to bring the charges up to rates on the American lines.

The comparison between the old and new rates follows:

Full length postal or storage cars, from 16 to 34.7 cents a mile; half car from 9 to 19.52 cents per mile; baggage car rates from 4 cents to 8.97 cents per mile; special trains, $1.25 to $2.71 per mile.

WANTS SETTLERS TO SHARE OIL GAINS

Ottawa, March 5.—(Canadian Press)—Settlers in Western Canada will be entitled to a royalty of 8 1/2 per cent. of the value of oil produced from their lands by speculators, if Parliament passes a resolution which was introduced in the House of Commons yesterday by Brigadier-General W. A. Griesbach, Unionist member for Edmonton. At present the Dominion Government reserves full ownership of minerals in Western Canada and may lease for oil drilling land which is already owned privately so far as surface rights are concerned.

General Griesbach asked that hereafter one-sixteenth of the value of all oil taken out of privately-owned lands be paid to the owners, in addition to the levy made on the speculator by the Canadian Government.

Provision, said General Griesbach, ought to be made before any great rush of speculators started so that land owners might not find themselves deprived of any share in the value

PRINTING BUREAU INQUIRY ORDERED

Alleged Documents Were Destroyed at Ottawa

Ottawa, March 5.—Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux moved in the Commons yesterday afternoon that a drastic investigation should be held into the alleged destruction of valuable documents at the Printing Bureau. A firm of experts had been employed to reorganize Government departments, including the Printing Bureau, and according to press reports, these experts had ordered the destruction of documents which had been in the course of collection since long before Confederation.

Some of the documents were of an inestimable value to Canadian historians. They could not be replaced.

The Prime Minister replied that Judge Snyder of Wentworth County had been appointed a commissioner to investigate the whole matter. If it was found that any persons had been guilty of destroying documents, the Government would not refrain from having them punished, if possible.

$62,687,258 RAISED BY INCOME TAX

Ottawa, March 5.—That $62,687,258 was collected up to February 28, 1921, under the Income Tax Act, and that $95,980.27 of this amount was collected from the farmers of Canada, was stated in the House of Commons yesterday afternoon in reply to a question by A. Verville (St. Denis). The total amount collected in each province and the amount collected from the farmers of each province were stated as follows:

Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island, total $1,651,729.49; farmers, $2,271.72.

New Brunswick, total $994,727.35; farmers, $2,393.30.

Quebec, total $20,784,082.75; farmers, $9,500.78.

Ontario, total $28,061,667.25; farmers, $67,974.75.

Manitoba, total $5,040,695.73; farmers, $151,936.17.

Saskatchewan, total $1,466,184.49; farmers, $340,900.98.

Alberta, total, $2,035,073.17; farmers, $361,216.89.

British Columbia, total $2,668,710.13; farmers, $22,203.63.

Yukon, total, $33,888.67; farmers, $30.55.

It was stated that the statistics for the calendar year 1919 were not yet available.

The total amount of domestic war loans issued and outstanding on January 31, which are exempt from taxation, is $1,381,788,400. This information was given to Ferdinand Rinfret, St. James, Montreal.

CANON'S STAND PUZZLES MEMBER

E. C. Henniger Believes It More Fitting for Clergyman to Urge Milk for Poor

E. C. Henniger, member for Grand Forks, told the House yesterday afternoon that most of the returned soldiers to whom he has talked are against beer as they believe that a soldiers' club should be a place where they can go without feeling that they had to have money in their pockets to spend on beer treating.

"I am a little of a prohibitionist at the least," said Mr. Henniger. "In one way I am against the whole bill from start to finish, because just as sure as you make it easy to obtain liquor of all kinds, you will cause to grow up in your country a class of people who will be beer and booze drinkers and you will not have as good a class of people as you otherwise would have."

"The more booze that is sold in the Province will not only fill your jails, but cause you to build more homes for wayward girls and hospitals and institutions for old men, the broken products of booze."

May Have England "Dry"

Mr. Henniger quoted Lloyd George, who said that if the United States remained dry for ten years, England would also have to go dry in order to compete in the world's markets as the country that is dry is ten per cent more efficient than the country whose people use booze.

Referring to the speech of Canon Hincliffe, Mr. Henniger declared that the Canon gave no indication of his stand on the beer clause, although earlier in the session he had admitted that he was in favor of more beer for the workmen.

"I can't understand a man of his high calling taking this attitude when he says he is in favor of more beer for workmen," Mr. Henniger went on. "Had he been in favor of more milk for poor families I would think it would be more like him."

Nothing From Mothers

"I am against beer in any club or hotel and for its sale only in Government stores, as I believe that is what the liquor vote called for in October. I believe that in a few years the people of this Province

WANTS BEER TO STOP "SWILL PENS"

Major Burde Tells House Malt Beverage Would Be "Safety Valve"

Making a strong appeal for a "safety check" in the new Liquor Control Bill, through the insertion of a "beer" clause, Major R. J. Burde, M.C., independent member for Alberni, in the Legislature yesterday contended that a better knowledge of the rules of the House would have precluded the immense amount of detailed discussion which had taken place, a practice forbidden by the House regulations.

"First of all, I wish to congratulate the Leader of the Opposition upon the magnificent defence of his own cellar," said Major Burde, and laughter followed.

"With the exception of the second member for Vancouver, there has been a marked evasion of the beer question," he continued, "and I have come to believe that this has been caused by the amount of suspicion arising out of the Delta campaign 'underworld' charges made by the Opposition Leader. I also think that gentlemen should have been as astiduous in enlightening the members of this House upon this alleged understanding with the underworld as I was in dealing with the Delta electors."

Easy to Have "Mickey"

Major Burde said he was speaking as a man who had drunk more or less hard liquor. He admired courage, even if it was that of a fool, but he hated hypocrisy, and he felt that without a saving "beer" clause in the bill it would prove to be the most dangerous piece of legislation ever placed upon the statute books of the Province.

"There has been an astounding increase in the drinking of hard liquor during the past two or three years," he said. "Go into any hotel in the country and you find every room stinking of whisky. There has been prohibition on paper but none in fact, and according to the terms of this new bill you are making it the easiest thing in the world for a man to have a 'mickey' on his hip or a quart bottle in his inside pocket. And you are going to force him into privacy to drink that liquor."

About Hotel Drinking

Major Burde said it would be impossible for men to get around beer to hurt them or make them drunk. A man would have to have a sackful of it on his back, whereas, he said, with the drinking of hard liquor in hotel rooms there was no limit to drunkenness.

"The hotelmen are crying out against this proposal," he went on. "They do not want their places turned into open bar-rooms. I say frankly that while I, as an elected representative, am a lawbreaker, I have also been a law-breaker in this connection, and I would challenge the members of this House to say if they have not broken the law as well. But if we would sit quietly in some public room in the hotels and drink good beer, how much drunkenness would go on in the hotel rooms? I venture to say not one-tenth of what is now found."

Against "Swill Pens"

Major Burde said the electors in favoring the moderation law had given the Government a "blank cheque." He appealed to them to fill it out in part at least, so as to protect the people against excesses.

"I want to appeal to the honorable the Attorney-General," he went on. "I want him to place a beer clause in his bill and avoid turning the hotel rooms of Victoria, Vancouver, Alberni, Fernie and the rest of the Province into swill-pens."

"If you have not the courage to do this," the Major went on, explaining that he was not speaking entirely as a returned soldier, "then at least listen to the second member for Vancouver and give the soldiers beer in their clubs."

SAYS WIFE ALSO CAN HAVE DRINK

Thomas Uphill Would Have Real Beer Run Freely

Thomas Uphill, Labor member for Fernie, came out in the House yesterday afternoon for "good beer" and letting it run as free as possible, under the new liquor act.

"When I mention beer, I mean good draught beer and I would prosecute anyone who would brew this two per cent stuff," said Mr. Uphill. "I believe that by giving good beer and letting it run as free as possible you would get rid of the two per cent stuff."

"I am sure that if I found that by taking this stand homes would be neglected, I would not take this attitude. As for any person who has not got more sense than to go and drink himself to death, the sooner he dies the better. The man that is digging ditches, or who works in the mine or forest fancies a drink of beer would do him good."

"How about his wife?" E. C. Henniger asked.

"Well, she can have a drink too," replied Mr. Uphill. "Only recently I found that coffee is injurious. It makes you nervous and that is why I am so nervous now."

Beer Load Not Injurious

"A person can get loaded up with beer and there are no after effects. Some of these soft drinks are so full of gas that a man has to hold his hat down."

"I would like to see a beer clause in the act to carry the widest latitude possible. I would not restrict it to returned soldiers clubs, but give it to workers clubs as well and put it in the bars as we have some places that are remote from civilization and I contend that these boys in those places are entitled to some civilization as much as the boys living on the coast."

"You will never make people good by legislation and the more restriction you put on anything the more you will encourage it. In reading the Good Book, I take it that is the reason why Adam fell. You never heard of anyone dying from drinking good beer. It is by drinking the hard stuff that the health of the nation is impaired."

Mr. Uphill said that he could not see how inserting a beer clause in the act would be breaking faith with the people he believed that there had been a beer clause in the plebiscite it would have carried with a greater majority than the moderation clause did. He said that Fernie and Alberni "voted intelligently" against prohibition in 1916, because the people of these districts did not want to be put under parental care.

WIFE OF U. S. CONSUL SUCCUMBS IN SEATTLE

Mrs. Juanita B. Mosher, wife of the United States Consul at Victoria, died in Seattle on Wednesday night, following an illness of four months. Mrs. Mosher arrived in Victoria with her daughter several months after her husband took over his official duties in succession to the late Hon. Abraham Smith in 1915. The family resided on St. Charles Street until four months ago, when Mrs. Mosher went to Seattle for treatment. During her stay here Mrs. Mosher made a large number of friends.

The funeral is taking place to-day in Seattle.

Mrs. Mosher was sixty-one years of age, and besides her husband leaves an only daughter, Miss Mary Mosher. Both were with her when the end came on Wednesday.

WANTS "OLD DAYS" BACK AGAIN

Atlin Member Appeals to House for Return of "Single Drink" Times

"I have been criticized for saying that I favored having liquor as easily obtainable as water, and that it should be of a good quality and procurable at a low price," said Bert Kergin, Liberal member for Atlin in participating in the debate on the second reading of the Liquor Control Act.

"But I still feel that there should be a return to the old days, with certain exceptions. Then we could buy a single drink at a time. Now with liquor sold in sealed packages it will be necessary to buy a dozen or twenty drinks at once. Is that moderation?"

"We have a condition of living where we are accustomed to drinking liquor. I do not believe that practice can be legislated away."

"For instance, in my constituency of Atlin during prohibition days I do not think that one bottle of liquor in a thousand was procured according to the law. It is time to get back to respectable, legal practices."

Mr. Kergin thought the old order of things should be restored, except that the sale of liquor for profit should be prohibited.

Contrary to general expectations, Mrs. Mary Ellen Smith did not participate in the debate. Following Mr. Kergin's address the second reading of the bill was moved. The act will be considered in committee on Monday.

The Tremendous Problems That Face Harding

"Of all the Presidents who succeeded war Presidents, Mr. Harding will face the most appalling mess," according to The New York Herald (Ind. Rep.), while The New York Nation avers that "with the single exception of Lincoln, probably no President in our national history has taken office with as pressing a burden of unsolved questions." Mr. Harding "must meet and overcome obstacles greater than ever Roosevelt surmounted," says The Newark News, which assures him "he need never fear that history will tint his administration as drab."

While the domestic problems of the incoming President are indeed formidable, peculiarly baffling and fateful, journalistic observers agree, are the problems of foreign policy that confront him. Europe, remarks The Outlook, turns to America "with mingled envy, fear and hope," and "it is for the Republican Administration to justify that hope with assistance based upon an understanding of reality, and to sweep aside that fear and envy with justice and good will." The Providence Evening Bulletin (Ind.) recalls with approval Mr. Harding's Armistice Day speech at Brownsville, in which he thus defined our foreign policy: "We choose no aloofness, we shirk no obligations, we forsake no friends, but we build on nationality, and we do not mean to surrender it."

In the leading article in THE LITERARY DIGEST this week, March 5, there is a careful presentation and explanation of the many problems that will confront President Harding both at home and abroad, together with opinions of leading newspapers of all political persuasions regarding them.

Understanding

If you consider Advertising in its modern development as a mere matter of space and words, and of "doing what the other fellow does" and do NOT regard it as LIFE—you do not understand the province of advertising.

Daily Newspaper advertising in your immediate community is a matter of necessity to every business; to every man who has anything to sell, be it merchandise or service.

Daily Newspaper advertising has developed from a casual matter, the spare-time care of a clerk or the principal, to a highly specialized business in itself.

It has become a definite, indispensable, firmly founded and soundly constituted Service to Business.

The problem is one that will repay your close study, and the daily newspapers of this community are willing that you should draw upon their experience and skill in working out a profitable solution of it.

DR. WOODROW WILSON.

Although Dr. Woodrow Wilson did not originate the League of Nations posterity will never forget that he reduced himself to a state of political impotence and physical exhaustion in its advocacy.

Posteriority will remember Dr. Wilson for the sterling manner in which he lived up to his ideals. On no single occasion did he permit political expediency to change the course which he set for himself when he asked for the suffrage of his people.

Those measures which did not conform to the original programme were consistently vetoed up till the last. Through the dark hours which preceded the entry of the United States into the war he was a much maligned man.

He was the target for every kind of abuse and cynicism; but he understood his purpose and rose to a realization of international obligation, not as soon as his critics wished, but at a time when he and he alone knew that his country could render maximum support.

He choked down the abuse of nearly half the world because he could not be turned from the path which he knew to be right. How right he was needs no emphasis.

It is unfortunate that the constitutional system of the country removes Dr. Wilson from the councils of the nation. And it is the more unfortunate that his irrevocable retirement from public life is made so difficult to bear by reason of a physical condition brought about by his service to mankind.

THE NEW PRESIDENT.

It would have been impossible for President Harding to have included loftier sentiments in his inaugural address if he had spent years over its preparation. It sets a high standard for public morality and constitutes a code of rules for every American citizen.

It is the embodiment of tradition with the new Republican furnishings. It is a message of goodwill to the world in general and a gentle reminder that the United States of America desires to be left alone. If it shall be possible to translate the will of the country's chief executive into practical effect a bright future faces the Republic.

It is small wonder that the President's references to future wars and the part that the United States might be prepared to take should excite more general interest. His attitude and that of his party to the League of Nations does not require emphasis at this late stage. He reiterates the fundamental principle of splendid isolation; but there is in the address the trace of a warmer desire than appeared to be manifest during the election campaign, to become associated with the other great nations in some proposal that may serve the same purpose as the existing institution. What his Government may be prepared to do when it takes up the serious business of its Administration may not be known for some little time to come.

If the President were better known, or if his Cabinet were men of national fame—there are, of course, two brilliant exceptions in the persons of Mr. Hoover and Mr. Hughes—it might be the easier to speculate upon domestic and international policy. But the absence of any definite forecast in inaugural addresses, coupled with an untried executive, leads to the supposition that there will be nothing spectacular in Mr. Harding's term of office. It will be an eventful period; but his feet will not depart very far from the well-trodden paths of stand-pat Republicanism. At the same time Mr. Harding has a magnificent opportunity to strike a blow at the disastrous race in competitive armaments. He may put into practice those sentiments to which he gives such eloquent expression and "a way to approximate disarmament" may be found, and the burdens of military and naval establishments may be relieved. The world is looking to an American lead in this direction. Mr. Harding can show the way.

There is much in the President's address which should be welcomed in Great Britain. A cordial relationship between the two countries constitutes one of the greatest bulwarks for universal peace, and if the peoples of the English-speaking nations take notice of the high and lofty sentiments expressed in the presidential address and apply them to their public conduct the shield of Anglo-American friendship should be sufficiently stout to blunt the arrows of the disturbers in both countries.

THE ONLY WAY.

It ought not to be difficult for the Dominion Government to grant the request of the Legislature and pass legislation to give the authorities in this Province the sole right to import liquor. It will have to be realized by the Federal Cabinet that conditions in British Columbia are such as to require special treatment. The people voted for Government control and sale very largely on the understanding that some of the more glaring anomalies which exist under the present system of prohibition and importation would be removed when the Act went into operation. But unless the Province may be permitted to obtain a complete monopoly it cannot expect its own law to control the distribution of a supply which comes in under the provisions of a Dominion statute. If private individuals may continue to import the bootlegger will remain and the will of the people is defeated to that extent. The resolution which Premier Oliver will introduce to the Legislature seeks the co-operation of the Dominion Government in this particular. If Ottawa desires to respect the obvious desire of the majority of British Columbians the House of Commons will implement their wishes.

THAT HIGHWAY AGAIN.

For some months past an effort has been made by some of the newspapers in this Province to make up the mind of the Government in the matter of the route to be selected for the trans-Provincial highway. On at least three distinct occasions recently what appeared to be an authoritative announcement has been made public to this effect and the name of the Minister of Public Works ingeniously tied up to it. Each time the Hope-Princeton route has been "definitely decided upon by the Government," and each time it has been necessary for the Minister of Public Works to issue a denial. Now the matter has been made a subject of discussion in the Legislature as the result of a further "definite decision." Here again the Minister states emphatically that no decision has been reached. Surely this ought to be enough even for those provincial highway zealots who look upon any other route except the Hope-Princeton as quite out of the question.

LIVELY IN RUSSIA.

Moscow is doing its level best to tighten up the avenues by which news may leak and inform the outside world of actual conditions obtaining in Russia at the present time. It has admitted that disturbances have taken place in Petrograd and at the seat of government; but it has been equally prompt to let the rest of Europe know that order has been restored. The denials are not taken seriously. Information is beginning to reach the outside world which would appear to indicate a serious state of affairs if not a carefully organized challenge to the Soviet regime. The capital itself has been divided into four sections for defence and troops have been concentrated at strategic points. These precautions alone would presuppose a situation almost out of hand. Whether the turbulent spirits which are determined to oust Lenin are sufficiently well organized is doubtful. At any rate a constant recurrence of revolt must eventually make the Soviet Government's position untenable.

NOW TO BUSINESS.

Apart from emphasizing two points of view upon the subject of the future of British Columbia's beer the debate upon the second reading of the Liquor Control Bill failed to draw very much in the way of suggestion or opinion from the floor of the House. If the discussion had been more constructive it might have been possible to speculate upon some of the amendments that will have to be considered in the Committee stages. But these party pleasantries have wasted some of the hours which might have been employed in the final discussions. It is now time to get down to business and carry out the instructions given by the people last October.

NOTE AND COMMENT

German newspapers are encouraging a definite "no" to the Allied reparations demands. In the meantime Marshal Foch is sharpening his sword in readiness for eventualities. Which will be the mightier—the pen or the sword?

If the use of aeroplanes may result in catching traffickers in drugs the expense involved would be justified. The cunning employed in these transactions demands unusual methods.

President Harding says that the United States is ready to join with other nations and recommend a way to "approximate disarmament." The only condition which approximates disarmament appears to most people to be disarmament.

Dr. Simons complains that the German attitude towards the reparations bill has been misinterpreted. But Mr. Lloyd George remembers that the Kaiser's sword of peace was a two-edged affair.

Some commentators seem to think that because the British Minister of Agriculture was defeated upon an election issue involving the embargo on Canadian cattle the restriction will be removed. We are afraid they are doomed to disappointment.

OTHER PAPERS' VIEWS

THE GREAT USURPATION

Professor—What are the four great epochs of Canadian history? The Class—The British regime from 1534 to 1759; the British colonial regime, 1759 to 1867; the era of Confederation, 1867 to 1920; and the era of the Great Usurpation, 1920-21.

MORE LIGHT ON THE ADAM FAMILY

Referring to the recent statement of a scientist that the Garden of Eden was located in Ohio, we are reminded of the Scotch laird who told his famous singer that Gaelic was the language of Adam. The singer afterward spoke laughingly of the claim to another Scotchman, who remarked in all seriousness, "That laird was quite right. Dinna ye ken that the Garden of Eden was in Scotland? Dinna ye ken that Adam's name was McPherson?"

GOVERNMENT PAPER WASTE

It is said that the Government at Washington wastes a vast volume of paper. Probably it does. It is the disposal of Governments to be prodigal in such matters. The habit was formed when paper was cheap, and somehow there grew up a notion that the measure of consumption was the measure of work performed. But cellulose fibre is now a precious commodity. What could be bought at one time for $20 now costs $120. This refers to newsprint. Finer grades have probably risen higher in proportion, and Government uses a very large quantity of the more expensive varieties. It is just possible that our own Government could do something in reducing the waste of paper. Any economy which might be brought about by the larger consumers of paper would be worth while. Owing to the alleged scarcity of raw materials, and the increasing cost of manufacturing, the paper people insist on holding over their customers the prospect of further advances in price. While there does not appear to be any particular sympathy with the newspapers, which have been driven to despair over the matter, this is really a thing which concerns everybody. Government might at least set the example in reducing the present waste to the minimum. It would help. If a premium, or some other form of recognition, were given to clerks who effected the highest measure of saving in the use of Parliamentary Hill the thing might become infectious. If such efforts became general there would be results of a positive nature. Prices might be arrested; they might even be reduced. As it is, the waste goes on at a frightful pace. Everybody, in one way or another, has to pay for it.

WOULD HAVE PROVINCIAL ARTS SCHOOL

B. C. Art League Will Present Case to Hon. Dr. MacLean

Establishment of provincial school of arts and crafts in Vancouver to promote the introduction of design and art principles into manufacturing industries and to offer facilities for the study of the technical with artist will be urged upon the Provincial Government by a deputation from the B. C. Art League which will meet Hon. J. D. MacLean, Minister of Education, early next week.

The deputation will include men and women from Vancouver and Victoria, for though it is planned to establish the school in the Province later, the mainland it is hoped that similar institutions may be started at other points in the Province later.

The deputation will urge that the Provincial Government pass a bill at the present session of the Legislature incorporating the new school and providing $200 to cover its expenses for a year. It will be suggested that premises be rented in Vancouver and that the school be opened next September.

It is estimated that 150 evening and thirty-day students would attend the school if it were opened next September. The school would naturally divide itself into five departments which would be separate but interlock. It is stated in a formal memorandum prepared by heads of the Art League. These five departments would offer the all-round training necessary for every good craftsman.

It is proposed that the school be divided into architectural, modelling, drawing, painting and design studios and craft shops, and it is urged that the institution co-operate with the Vancouver Technical School in its craft work. It is urged that the Government maintain school workshops available for the working out of designs and that Technical School students use the studios for their artistic training. "This," says the memorandum, "you have interdependence between schools, which is the state which should exist between a Technical School and a School of Arts and Crafts."

"A Vital Necessity." The history of the manufacturing industry tells us that there is a state when the introduction of design and art principles is a vital necessity if the manufacture is to keep alive and have a proper valuation in the competitive world's markets, says the League's memorandum.

"In the Province of British Columbia there are facilities for study in the various lines of manufacture, but absolutely no facilities for these craftsmen gaining a knowledge of design without which the manufactured articles cannot compete in the world's markets nor yet find favor here at home.

"A little reflection will make it apparent how valuable would be the establishment of a school of arts and crafts at the present stage of industrial development in this Province.

"The trade crafts and professions vitally affected by such a school would include furniture makers, carpenters, plasterers, stone carvers, modellers, wood carvers, glass stainers, enamellers, coach painters, sign writers, engravers, bookbinders, blacksmiths, engineers, copper workers, textiles, printing and commercial art, architects, teachers, embroiderers, jacks, etc.

"That each and all of these trades, crafts and professions are directly affected by the design of the article they manufacture, might go without saying.

Sound Commercialism. "From the standpoint of pure commercialism it is sound business to produce an article that will have a ready appeal to the eye. From the utilitarian sense and from the standpoint of human progress it is good statesmanship to offer facilities for the development of the arts and crafts. Casimir Dickson, representing the Executive of the B. C. Art League, has been in Victoria for several days arranging for an interview between a deputation from the organization and Dr. MacLean. He has discussed the art school plan with members on both sides of the House and is much encouraged by their favorable attitude.

Several ladies and gentlemen prominent in Victoria art circles also will attend the conference, for the establishment of an arts school is considered not as a local matter but as project of Province-wide importance. It is felt that if such a school is established, the population of British Columbia increases at several points in the Province, including Victoria.

of getting the Dominion Parliament to pass it supplementing our legislation, so that when we come to administer the act, our act won't be shot to pieces by lack of anything," the Premier said.

Plebiscite Not Necessary. "There is no reason why any supplementary legislation we require should not be put through as a matter of form. If we don't get any legislation from Ottawa we can go on and enforce our act as far as we have the power.

Resolution to Strengthen Stand. The Premier explained that the resolution from the Legislature is sought by way of strengthening the position of the Government when it goes to Ottawa asking for legislation.

As the legislation by Ottawa should be only a formal matter the Premier believes that there will be time for it to be put through between the passing of the liquor bill by the Legislature and the date it is to be brought into force.

Special Imports Not Needed. If Ottawa accedes to the request of the Province there will be no need for the $250 a quart tax on private imports or on the resale of liquor proposed for wholesalers who might want to compete with the Government.

Only by Dominion.

The motion the Premier will place before the House is:

"Whereas a plebiscite was taken in the Province of British Columbia in October, 1920, on the following question:

Which Do You Prefer?

1. The present "Prohibition Act" or

2. An Act to provide for Government Control and Sale in Sealed Packages of Spirituous and Malt Liquors.

"And whereas the vote was overwhelmingly in favor of Government Control and Sale;

"And whereas after the said plebiscite a Provincial plebiscite election was held, and prior to such election the Premier in his manifesto to the electors stated with reference to Government Control and Sale as follows:

"There are, however, essential features in connection with the control of the liquor traffic upon which the position of the administration may very properly be stated in advance of the pending election. In the opinion of the administration, to secure effective control of the liquor traffic, it will be necessary to apply to the Dominion Parliament for legislation under which the Provincial Government would have effective authority to control the sources of supply to the extent necessary to prevent such sources of supply being made a base from which liquor could be obtained in contravention of the Provincial Statute."

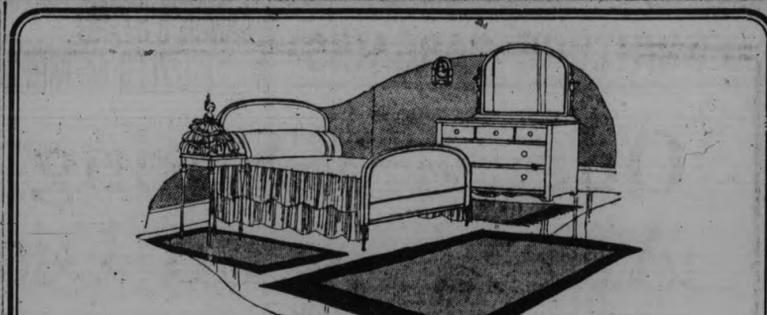

"And whereas the Government was returned at the said election;

"And whereas a Bill to give effect to the vote of the electors at the said plebiscite, by providing for Government Control and Sale of Liquor, has received its second reading by the unanimous vote of this Legislature;

"And whereas, in the opinion of this House, it is in the public interest and necessary to give full effect to the policy of Government Control of the importation of intoxicating liquor into this Province for use therein should be prohibited except by the Government of the Province;

"And whereas it is believed that can only be effectively done by Federal legislation;

NAMED FOR HARDING.

Walla Walla, Wash., March 5.—Warren Harding Webb was born at 7.40 yesterday morning. He is a son of Lee S. Webb, 612 Sumach Street, this city. His father said that considering he was born on Harding's inauguration day the name Warren Harding Webb would be a good one.

HOROSCOPE

SATURDAY, MARCH 5, 1921

(Copyright, 1921, by The McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Astrologers read this as an unfortunate day until evening. Mercury, Venus, Jupiter and the Sun are all in malefic aspect. Late in the evening Venus changes to friendly way.

It is a time in which to hold in obedience all important matters, especially those having to do with commerce or banking.

There is a sign read as forecasting rumors disquieting to business affairs, but these will be exaggerated.

The signing of contracts or leases during this time is to be avoided, since disappointment is indicated.

Women who have large ambitions should not put fate to the test while this configuration prevails. It is an especially unfavorable time to seek any sort of political appointment.

There is a sign read as disturbing to men and women who are in places in the Sun, since the stars are likely to cause them to feel depressed, irritable and doubtful of their own abilities.

Warning is given that in trade there may be unexpected declines where large orders are expected and this may be especially noticeable where clothing, millinery and the accessories of women's dress are involved.

Newspaper criticisms of women as well as men who hold public office are forecast for the nation. Many of the judicial and impersonal attitude toward the world, the seers declare.

This evening should be an auspicious time for the lighter forms of social entertainment, since the rule is conducive to careless gaiety, dancing, and even love-making.

Marriage to-day should be fortunate, provided the wedding ceremony is performed in the evening.

Astrologers foretell the growth of efficiency in business methods in the United States and an increase in the demand for scientific training in all vocations.

While Russia is to suffer from continued internal trouble there is a promising future for the nation. Many Americans will go to the principal cities to identify themselves with great undertakings.

Persons whose birthdate it is should be careful in the handling of money. They should avoid speculation.

HONORED BY I. O. D. E. YESTERDAY

LADY MARTIN HARVEY wife of the distinguished actor, was yesterday honored at a reception held in the Empress Hotel by the Municipal Chapter, I. O. D. E. The photograph shows Lady Harvey in the uniform of a Superintendent of Nurses, in which capacity she worked in all the war areas of France during the war. Apropos of her work for the nurses, both during and since the war, The London Times says: "In bestowing the honor of knighthood on Mr. Martin Harvey, the well-known actor, one wonders whether the royal intention was to give practical recognition also to the splendid work of Mrs. Martin Harvey during the war. Her efforts culminated in the foundation of a most cheery and comfortable home for trained nurses who have been ill and need rest and change. This home, known as Seaside Cottage, is at Bonchurch, in the Isle of Wight, and was opened by Princess Beatrice last July."

Valo Women's Institute will serve a silver tea at 3 o'clock.

The lady members of the Victoria Amateur Swimming Club were the guests yesterday afternoon at a tea given by Mrs. Ringshaw and Mrs. H. Catterall at the home of Mrs. Ringshaw, 141 Howe Street. The large reception rooms were beautifully decorated with graceful Spring blossoms. Delicious afternoon tea was served by the hostesses, assisted by Misses Mable Ringshaw, Kathleen Ringshaw and Nellie Catterall. ## VANCOUVER PLANS TO HONOR OFFICERS

Functions Being Arranged for Entertainment of Coming Squadron

Vancouver, March 5.—The week has been a busy one both in club and social circles. Socially interest is largely centred in the forthcoming naval ball at which Vancouver intends to compete for honor with Victoria in the entertainment of the officers of the visiting Canadian naval squadron. It is understood that plans for an officers' naval dinner are being made, and prominent hostesses are also arranging a number of private affairs.

In spite of the Lenten season there have been the usual number of bridge teas, though nothing outstanding in the way of the larger gatherings which are being planned for Easter. One of the smartest teas of the early part of the week was given by Mrs. Herbert Drummond in honor of Lady Martin Harvey. Mrs. Drummond was assisted in a lovely frock of palest mauve georgette and satin. The guests included Mrs. F. J. Procter, Mrs. R. H. Gale, Madame K'ita, wife of the Japanese Consul, Mrs. G. Henshaw, Mrs. Henshaw, Mrs. Cuppage, Mrs. G. F. Kilpatrick, Mrs. Manson, Mrs. St. J. Montisambert, Mrs. Sherwood, Miss Marjorie Sherwood, Mrs. Watkin Boulbee, Mrs. E. J. Enthoven, Miss Amy Lindsay, Mrs. Bruce Duncan, Miss Jessie Gordon, Mrs. Archibald Smith, Mrs. Bryan Williams, Adele Seymour, Miss Mary Gordon, Mrs. J. Crowther Glyn, Mrs. E. J. Deacon, Mrs. A. L. Russell, Mrs. W. A. James, Mrs. J. S. Tat, Mrs. R. C. Boyle, Mrs. Douglas Armour, Mrs. Gordon Fleck, Mrs. William Robertson, Mrs. George Wooster, Mrs. J. W. McFarland, Miss Isabel Wilson of Victoria, Miss Geraldine Cambie, Mrs. Neville Townsend, Miss Susie Cambie, Mrs. Robert Mackenzie, Mrs. J. C. McPhillips, Mrs. Cornish, Mrs. Grange V. Holt, Miss Ella Walker and Mrs. J. A. Russell.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Marshall gave a dinner party last Tuesday in honor of Lady Martin Harvey. The dinner was in the nature of a celebration of St. David's Day. Very effective was the smartly appointed table arranged with bowls of violets and daffodils lighted with artistic candleabra. After a musical hour at home the party went on to a performance of the Kiwanis Minstrel Troupe.

Mrs. T. J. McLay was one of the week's hostesses at a bridge tea, when she entertained the members of the Hart McHarg Bridge Club. The guests included Mrs. Victor Creighton, Mrs. W. A. Lockhart, Mrs. H. L. Tyler, Mrs. H. A. Mather, Mrs. H. E. Townsend, Mrs. E. A. Richardson, Mrs. C. B. Quigley, Mrs. Ernest Stark, Mrs. Frank Wright, Mrs. Jessie Edwards, Mrs. Oscar Bowman and Mrs. E. J. Walker.

Mrs. Barton, Pine Crescent, gave a smart bridge tea on Wednesday for a few friends. Mrs. Edward Cook presided at the table. The guests included Mrs. Henshaw, Mrs. J. E. McMillen, Mrs. John Burns, Mrs. C. C. Cator, Mrs. J. M. Scott, Mrs. H. W. Brodie, Mrs. Fortham Johnson, Mrs. Taylor Wood, Mrs. H. Bushnell, Mrs. N. F. Townsend, Mrs. Selby Codd and Mrs. W. E. Burns.

Mrs. Walter Evans entertained at her Shaughnessy Estate home on Wednesday in honor of her mother and sister, Mrs. Lacey Johnstone and Mrs. R. A. Fraser of Montreal. Among the guests were Mrs. H. E. Rogers, Mrs. Andrew Jukes, Mrs. Cecil Crysdale, Mrs. Leslie Wright, Miss Battle, Miss Broe, Miss Buckerfield, Miss Phyllis Salter, Miss Helen Newcome and Miss Lucile Makin.

Mrs. Julius Griffith, who has been visiting her parents in Montreal is expected home on Sunday. Mrs. Cleaver Cox, formerly of Victoria, has been on an extended visit to friends and relatives in the Old Country and is expected home next week.

The Girls' Auxiliary of the General Hospital is always busy with good works, and in order to finance its operations the members often have some social functions in aid of funds. In this connection a very enjoyable dance was given on Tuesday. The patronesses, all of whom have been prominently identified with hospital work, were Mrs. R. E. McKenzie, Mrs. A. S. Monro, Mrs. J. Z. Hall, Mrs. Cunningham, Mrs. John Ogilvy, Mrs. Gillies and Mrs. C. E. Shover. There have been several meetings of interest and lectures during the week. Lady Harvey addressed the gathering of the I. O. D. E. on Tuesday when in the words of Mrs. R. C. Boyle who presided, she uttered a "clarion call to service" in a pleasing and inspiring speech. The third of the Lenten lectures arranged by Mrs. Henshaw was held on the same afternoon when Dr. G. G. Sedgewick of the University of B. C. was the speaker. The Strathcona Chapter, I. O. D. E. held its annual meeting, and on the resignation of Mrs. Creery, Miss Farrell was elected regent. The Arts and Historical Society gave a reception on Friday when among those assisting in the entertainment of the guests were Mrs. Gertrude Mellon, Mrs. R. C. Campbell, Mrs. W. H. Lyne, Mrs. F. T. Schooley, Mrs. Pilkington, Miss Whitehead, Miss Doris Mellon, Miss Marjorie Pilkington and Miss Undine Howie.

The Insane Truth
By Olive McClintie Johnson

Lelia rewarded him with a beaming smile. "That is lovely of you," she said. "Now, I know you must be warm after your hurry. Orestes, bring the officers some cake and cream. And now I'll have to leave you. I simply must get back to the guests."

She departed as if it were entirely against her will and solemnly in response to the call of duty.

Orestes piled two plates high with the rosy cream and Nannette trailing behind with a glitter of cakes, served the officers lavishly and well. They sat on a rustic bench in the shade of a tree and partook of the unexpected treat with great gusto. Before they had finished, Nannette had supplied them with a pitcher of ice water, which was also well received. A sudden thought gave impetus to her movements. Returning she reached into a compartment of the butler's pantry, where reposed a box of Mr. Holmes' favorite cigars. She smiled broadly. She was about to put the arcane truth into active operation. She made an additional offering of cakes an excuse to speak to Orestes. "Rest Ease, git some matches an' a box o' cigars an' see if dem offumcers don' desire to crave a smoke."

This was kindness a shade too kindly for Orestes. "Naw, honey, don' waste—" he began as they went back.

"Go 'long. You mus' 'stablish yo'-self lak harmonious kinfolks."

"Who sasso?"

"De insane truth."

"All ri', but hit's wastin' good cigars."

The smokes were the last requisite to establishment of harmonious relations. The men accepted them happily and soon luxuriated in the mellow richness of Colorado Claros. Mr. Holmes smoked good cigars.

"Boy, how'd you happen to try the boulevard?" asked one of the men as he puffed contentedly at the best cigar he had smoked in a blue moon.

"I was bringin' de ice cream," faltered Orestes.

"Well, there are other streets, you know."

"Yassir, but I had to get heat quick, 'count o' ouah party about to break an' no refreshments 'count o' de ice-cream factory not havin' no way to deliver de ice cream."

"That was the reason of it, eh?"

"What's matter with the factory's trucks?"

"Law, suh, dey gone on a strike."

"Well, how in the world did you get past the pickets?" demanded the other.

Orestes told them. He told them frankly and without embellishment. "I snuck up betwix de railroad track an' de cab bahns, an' when de ole freight train come tottin' thoo I swang on de behine end an' hit carry me spang to de ice-cream factory. An' pretty soon is theah, an' flips off on to the ice dock, an' de pickets ain' saw me a-tall, I statched-in de de an' I see de ice cream, an' dey wuz a white man settin' theah betwix me an' de freezer, an' I butted him in de stummick wid my haid, an' he holler come heat quick to 'nother man, an' he done it, an' I had to cool him wid my fis'. Den I grab de freezer an' sail round de ice cream factory to whar I is lef de truck, an' me an' ole truck bump it up for home!"

An Epic of Strategy

There is no keener appreciator of a southern darkey's humor than a southern white man, and Orestes' narrative amused his auditors mightily. The tale of his stealthy creeping up to the forbidden ground, his sudden swooping down upon and overpowering of the unsuspected guards, the seizure of the giant packer, and his quick getaway was an epic of African strategy. The men whooped with laughter.

"An' den I got de wrong ice cream," finished Orestes ruefully.

"You sure were in trouble, weren't you?" said one.

Warmed up by their appreciation, Orestes continued: "Yassir, but dat wasn't a success. We sho' is had trouble. De ask o' de cakere turnt oveh an' bus up ouah cakes—"

"Who?"

"De cakere. So Nannette hafta make dem ill' butter-thins, what you et."

The men were off again, Orestes saw nothing to laugh at. The first officer, sensing the negro's perplexity, managed to control his pious long enough to comment: "Darn good cakes too."

The acknowledgment of Nannette's culinary skill restored the smiles to the ebullient countenance. "Yassir," said Orestes.

"Well, I think you've had enough trouble for one day," said the leader, rising and stretching happily.

"Law, suh, you ain't seed de dishes ner decumations what I's got to teah down yet."

"That so? Well, see that you do a good job. I reckon they need you here worse than we do. Come on, Pat. We ought to be down looking after that strike, anyhow."

They moved toward the alley, called the first officer.

"And for the smokes," added Pat as he bestrode his motorcycle.

"Yassir," returned Orestes, happily executing a negroid dance, which he called a "freight-train drag."

At dinner that evening the radiant Lelia recounted the details of the afternoon's triumph. And then the telephone rang. Mr. Holmes answered. Lelia listened.

"Yes, this is Holmes."

"Who?"

"Oh, yes, the labor secretary."

Mr. Holmes gave Lelia a meaning wink.

"Look here. You fellows certainly heat the world for jumping at conclusions. I've found out all about that matter you-telephoned me about to-day. My negro had no intention of breaking the strike; he was merely making front effort to save my wife's party from being a fizzle."

"What? You know it?"

"How'd you find out?"

"Two motorcycle policemen? I see. Then why in the world? What-? Your ice cream! Wait a moment."

He turned to Lelia with hand over transmitter. "How much of that ice cream did you say was left?"

"Oh, quarts and 'quarts of it."

"It belongs to the union," explained Mr. Holmes. "They're giving a party to-night."

"Oh, oh," gasped Lelia, covering her face with her hands.

Mr. Holmes was resuming the one-sided conversation. Again Lelia paused to listen.

"Say, Mr. Secretary, there's a lot of that cream left. I expect there's enough for your party. Yes; send right out and get it. That's all right. I don't want your party to be a fizzle either."

"Sure. Don't mention it. Just don't jump at conclusions next time. The Leaf is the fairest shop in town. Sure, neither us nor could have had a party if it hadn't been for my strike-breaking negro. Yes; I hope it will be a lesson to—both of us."

Mr. Holmes hung up the receiver.

"I expected I'd have to make a donation to the labor fund," he smiled.

"With a difference," exulted Lelia. "As long as it already belongs to them, it doesn't matter. Besides, I was wondering how we were going to get rid of all that red stuff."

Her husband playfully blew a smoke ring in her direction. A sudden thought illumined her face. She touched his head. "Will, you made use of the arcane truth!"

"Did I?"

"Yes, didn't you notice the circumstances adjusting themselves to your new mental condition?"

"Was that it, Mr. Holmes, incredulously. "I thought it was my cigars Orestes gave the policemen."

Outside in the kitchen Nannette, overhearing, likewise quoted her spouse: "Hit works with scientific inexactitude."

"What do?"

"De insane truth."

Famous Old Recipe for Cough Syrup

Easily and cheaply made at home, but it beats them all for quick results.

Thousands of housewives have found that they can save two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparation by using this well-known old recipe for making cough syrup at home. It is simple and cheap but it has no equal for prompt results. It takes right hold of a cough and gives immediate relief, usually stopping an ordinary cough in 24 hours or less. Get 2½ ounces of Pinex and any druggist, pour it into a 16-oz. bottle and add plain granulated sugar syrup to make 16 ounces. If you prefer, use clarified molasses, honey or corn syrup instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, keeps perfectly, and lasts a family long time.

It's truly astonishing how quickly it acts, penetrating through every air passage of the throat and lungs—loosens and raises the phlegm, soothes and heals the membranes, and gradually but surely the annoying throat tickle and dreaded cough disappear entirely. Nightly better for bronchitis, spasmodic croup, hoarseness or bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, known the world over for its healing effect on the membranes.

Avoid disappointment by asking your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

MRS. BRIGGS TO SING AT BAND CONCERT

Many Attractive Numbers Arranged for Sunday Evening

The usual attractive programme of band numbers is promised for tomorrow's G. W. V. A. band concert at the Royal Victoria Theatre. A feature number will be "Asleep in the Deep," with monster bass solo by Handsman A. Haggart. Among other numbers will be the overture, "Mirelle," by Gounod; a set of "Three Dances" from "Henry VIII," and a fine selection, "Reminiscences of Donizetti," arranged by F. Godfrey.

The assisting artists will include the well-known Victoria vocalist, Mrs. Harry Briggs, dramatic soprano, an artist who has won deserved laurels in Victoria, and on the Mainland, Mrs. Briggs will sing "The Lord Is My Light," by Frances Allitsen. Mrs. J. V. Meston, soprano, will sing Jacques Blumenthal's wonderfully tuneful "Sunshine and Rain." Major L. Bullock-Webster, baritone, the well-known member of the Victoria Dramatic and Operatic Society, will sing "Border Ballad."

Although Master Vernon Smith, violinist, is of the younger generation of musicians, his ability is pronounced, and he promises great things. He is at present finishing his studies with Miss Mary Izard, who speaks very highly of his talent. He will be heard in a selection from "Faust," by Gounod.

The complete programme follows:

Captain Adams and his jolly tars will be warmly welcomed on the arrival of the nucleus of the Canadian navy at this port. There will be the customary naval salute and delegations from the Navy League and the various public bodies, not excluding the ex-service organizations, will be on hand to extend the welcome to the fleet.
The entertainment programme will not be inaugurated until after the return of the fleet from Vancouver.
After taking on supplies the Aurora, Patriot and Patrician will leave Esquimalt Harbor for Vancouver March 11 and will remain in Burrard Inlet until March 18, when the ships will return to Esquimalt.
The remainder of the stay here will be devoted to the enjoyment of the officers and men of the fleet, winding up with an official ball at the Empress Hotel.
A special committee will look after the entertainment of the blue-jackets.

RESPECTED CITIZEN REMOVED BY DEATH

Sudden End of William Beek Is Regretted in Marine and Business Circles

General regret is expressed by a large section of the marine fraternity at the terribly sudden demise of William E. Beek who succumbed yesterday afternoon at St. Joseph's hospital, death being attributed to a fractured skull sustained through a fall in the street earlier in the day.
The tragic circumstances of the death of Mr. Beek came as a shock to his many friends on the waterfront. Although not in the best of health for some weeks, Mr. Beek entered upon his duties at the ship chandlery firm of E. B. Marvin & Co. Friday morning, apparently well.

Vancouver, March 5.—When four million B. C. shingles are tucked away aboard a Dollar freighter, the first consignment from a Vancouver mill, will go forward by all-water route to New York.
Announcement of the shipment of the consignment of shingles is but the forerunner of important trade developments in shingles and lumber in British Columbia.

MUNICIPAL GOLF LINKS NEEDED HERE

George M. Gowan, Vice-President Canadian Club at Edmonton Impressed

George M. Gowan, vice-president of the Canadian Club in Edmonton, who has been a visitor in Victoria for the past two weeks, is leaving shortly for Seattle, where he will continue his holiday trip to Portland, returning later to his home in Edmonton.
Interviewed to-day by The Times, Mr. Gowan expressed himself as very much impressed with the beauties of Victoria, which he stated was without exception the premier residential city of the whole Dominion. One of the foremost needs of this community, he thought, was a more adequate number of golf courses, a municipal link if possible.
Edmonton, he stated, was perhaps the leading city in the public utilities under its control, and of all these Edmonton found that its municipal golf course paid the greatest return for its relatively insignificant outlay.
"We find there that all classes are able to take advantage of the municipal links to play golf, and they are taking it to more and more as their chief recreation, and it is the best paying public utility that we have here."
Mr. Gowan said he was indebted to the members of the Canadian Club and many others for their kindness to himself.

AMERICAN SHIPS MAKING BID FOR BRITISH FREIGHT

U.S. Shipping Board Steamship Orani Due Here Monday from United Kingdom

With several hundred tons of cargo aboard for Victoria, the American steamship Orani, of the United States Shipping Board fleet, is expected to reach here on Monday from the United Kingdom.
The Orani is a steel vessel of 6,600 tons gross and one of the fleet of merchant carriers built by the United States Shipping Board.
Active Competition.
Vessels in commission under the United States Shipping Board flag are now operating in active competition with the British and other lines with established North Pacific routes. During the past year a large number of American vessels have been carrying flour and other foodstuffs to Europe and have been scouring around the Old World for West Coast, while bound to Seattle last week, was diverted here to discharge her whisky shipment.

GENIUS RESIDES IN DISGUISE OF WATCHMAKER

Charles Minor Holds Reputation for Most Skilled Craftsman

Victoria holds within her borders in Charles William Minor one of whom accuracy has been a guiding star for forty useful years of achievement.
"Charles," as he is known to his circle of friends in every walk of life, holds the reputation for being the most ingenious watchmaker on the continent. He has worked at his profession for the past forty years, ever since he made his first watch with Toronto firm when he was only eighteen years of age. Now he is getting along towards the further end of the road of life. Holding as his motto "a man is as old as he feels," Minor is in the highest realms of mechanical accuracy that he cannot overstate.
Typical of the inventive genius and viewpoint of Mr. Minor is the fact that he has, in the past forty years, made watch-making and repair tools, and instruments that cannot be bought by the remainder of his trade to-day. Working for months at a time he has perfected model after model of instruments that now do his daily work for him. The constant case of the most ingenious combination of the standard tools of the watch trade.
These tools he had made himself from the rough steel, cutting them out, tempering them in his own workshop, and solely by himself. His tempering solution is a secret which he guards more closely than anything else of the really exceptional achievements of which he has been capable. All tools are made to fit his lathe, which in itself is a model of perfection, with attachments that guide his work in a manner that is not only possible, but still undreamed of in the accepted trade practice of watchmaking.
With these gems from his own brain Mr. Minor will make a watch from beginning to end. The main spring is the only part he cannot make by virtue of the fact that it requires very expensive machinery and processes, but given the facilities he states he would be delighted also to make that. The watch case, of course, is the work of others as in carpentering the cabinet making is apart from the other branches of the trade.
Mechanical Neatness.
A representative of The Times yesterday interviewed Mr. Minor, and was through his kindness treated to an exhibition of mechanical neatness and skill that will always serve as a treasured memory. The watchmaker set a ruby for the visitors, in the twinkling of an eye boring a hole for the jewel, setting it in place with a degree of accuracy that bore out his contention that the finished product was mathematically correct. In this Mr. Minor explained that the accepted practice was to bore, the setting and try the jewel, if the hole was too small to rebore, if too large to throw

VESSELS CAUGHT IN GRIP OF ICE FLOES

St. Johns, Nfld., March 5.—North Atlantic ice floes caught two vessels off the Newfoundland coast yesterday. The schooner Tipperary, bound for here from Lisbon, with a cargo of salt, was crushed in a floe off Cape Race. Her crew reached land by walking over the ice, crossing the patches of open water in a small boat brought from the vessel.

The luncheon will take place at the Empress Hotel.

"LOUD SOCKS" DAY LOUDER THAN EVER
Spring is here!
This became certain yesterday when Victoria High School students gave vent to feelings pent up all winter by staging their annual "Loud Socks Day" with greater enthusiasm than ever before. The great function has marked the advent of Spring from a date so remote that none of the present students and few of the teachers remember it. In fact, it has become one of the most sacred traditions of the school.
Yesterday saw the revival of the custom in great splendor. Boys and girls vied with each other in presenting the most striking color combinations in neckwear and hosiery. Weird and wonderful were the results. "Loud Socks Day" is unusually marked with a general outburst of the Spring spirit, and yesterday was no exception. The teachers, however, have learned to let the occasion pass quietly, and Monday will see the school down to steady grind, which will precede the midsummer examinations.

IS YOUR NOSE PLUGGED HAVE YOU CATARRH?
If Subject to Colds, Here Is Real Good Advice
Don't load your stomach with cough syrups. Send healing medication through the nostrils—send it into the passages that are subject to colds and Catarrh. Easy to do this with CATARRHOZONE, which helps a cold in ten minutes. Even to the lungs, the healing vapor of Catarrhozone—all through the bronchial tubes, nostrils, and air passages—everywhere a trace of disease remains. Will Catarrhozone follow. You'll not have colds, nor will you suffer from sniffles, bronchitis, or throat trouble if Catarrhozone is used. Get it to-day, but beware of dangerous substitutes meant to deceive you for genuine Catarrhozone. Large size, two months' treatment, costs $1.00; small size, 50c; sample size, 5c; all dealers or the Catarrhozone Co., Montreal.

KEEP LITTLE ONES WELL IN WINTER
Winter is a dangerous season for the little ones. The days are changeable—bright, the next one cold and stormy, that the mother is afraid to take the children out for the fresh air and exercise they need so much. In consequence they are often cooped up in overheated, badly ventilated rooms and are soon seized with colds or gripe. What is needed to keep the little ones well is Baby's Own Tablets. They regulate the stomach and bowels and ward off colds and by their use the baby will be able to get over the winter season in perfect safety. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

MORE LITIGATION WITH BRIDGE WORK
Adjacent Property Owner Does Not Like City Engineer's Procedure
City Engineer F. M. Preston was informed this morning that the junction to restrain his department from trespassing on land near the new Johnson Street bridge eastern end had been threatened by C. H. James, owner of the property.
It is claimed by the James interest that, in constructing the new Johnson Street bridge, the city workmen are throwing earth and mud upon adjoining lands. The action of the owners in filing an injunction will force the city to build a bulkhead at considerable expense to prevent the earth falling on this property. A settlement damages may be claimed.

ACCUSED CHARGED WITH PRETENCES
Ex-Constable Charged With False Representation
Ernest Wolfe, charged with obtaining goods on false representations, elected summary trial, and pleaded not guilty in the city police court today. H. Pooley appearing for the accused.
James Little, grocer, corner of Pembroke and Quadra Street, stated that the accused had borrowed $15 from him on the ground that the accused's wife was in hospital; later the accused, stated witness, had obtained another sum of $3 on the grounds that his wife needed a prescription, and he had no money to get it. On another occasion, said witness, the accused had secured groceries and paid up an account on credit, telling the proprietor that he, the accused, would settle later when he was paid. The accused, stated witness, represented himself as being employed in a provincial office, and as about to be taken on as a city constable. These allegations of the accused stated witness, he had found to be incorrect. The total of the money owed to witness now, stated Mr. Little, was $49.50.
Provincial Constable Robert Owen stated that the accused had been employed in the provincial office as a constable during one of the war years, but had ceased his connection there in 1919, and had not at any time being employed in the other department.

Mr. Bailey, grocer at King's Road, stated that the accused owed him a bill of $52, on which nothing had been paid to date.
City Prosecutor Harrison stated Bailey had been called as witness, as the accused was stated to have told Little that he, the accused, had paid a bill in full to Bailey, and could not, therefore, pay Little.
The case was adjourned at this point, as D. O. Cameron and Mr. McInroy are to be called in testimony for the prosecution.
Mr. Pooley wanted to know if these two had been summoned, and on being informed that one witness was attending a funeral, stated it was the first time he had ever heard of funerals taking precedence over the court. The hearing was adjourned until Saturday next. Mr. Pooley stating that that date was the only one on which he could appear for the accused.

Mr. Shaw obtained a remand of the hearing of the charge against Dudley Gilmour until Tuesday next. Gilmour is charged with obtaining money by false pretences. August James, Indian, was fined $5 for being drunk.

KNIGHTS OF KHORASSAN TO HEAD GRAND MARCH AT THE MASQUERADE
At the meeting of the Dramatic Order Knights of Khorassan held last evening, it was decided that the Dokeys would attend the Big Masquerade Ball which is to be held by West-Victoria Lodge, No. 1, Knights of Pythias, on March 17, St. Patrick's Day, and will appear in the full dress costumes of the Order. In doing so, it was understood that the costumes would not enter the competition for the prizes offered. The committee in charge of the dance have decided that only those dancing in costumes will be eligible for the prizes, all dancers to be masked until after the grand march, which will be held at 10 o'clock. For the benefit of those wishing to procure tickets, they can be obtained at J. N. Harvey, Limited, 614 Yates Street; Jas. H. Mansell, 650 Johnson Street, and at the K. of P. Hall. The grand march will be headed by the D. O. K. K. in costume.
It is expected that there will be many visiting brothers from outside points for the masquerade ball. The committee are attempting arrangements which will ensure a good time for all those who attend.

The Pythian Sisters, Island Temple No. 8, have undertaken to attend to the supper, which is an assurance of something special.
For Comfort and Service—Go to Poodle Dog Cafe, 615 Yates Street.

WHIST DRIVE PROVED A GREAT SUCCESS
A very enjoyable evening was spent last night in the Liberal Headquarters, Arcade Building, when Ward Five trimmed Ward Two in the military five hundred contest so far as individual playing was concerned, but in point of victories at tables Ward Two, who outnumbered Ward Five, secured the majority of the hearing. In no manner must this series be taken as an elimination series, but must be regarded as a preliminary combat.
Ward Five will next meet Ward Four and Ward Two will play both winners and then the play-off will take place between those winning this series.
The great number present last night entered into the spirit of the contest with much zest. The hall was crowded to capacity, which clearly emphasized the necessity of larger quarters.

Ladies of both wards served the refreshments and a resolution of thanks was passed for their kindness in helping to make the evening so enjoyable.
Notice of dates will be given later regarding the next five hundred contests.
LODGE HAS NEW BRANCH
The Order of the Daughters of St. George last night welcomed another branch, the Princess Patricia Lodge, No. 238, at a meeting in the L. O. O. F. Hall. After District Deputy Supreme President Mrs. E. Stevenson had performed the opening ceremony, fifty charter members were enrolled and officers were elected and installed as follows: President, Sister Coleman; vice-president, Sister Restell; chaplain, Sister Chapman; past president, Sister Garret; financial secretary, Sister Reeve; treasurer, Sister Graham; recording secretary, Sister Carman; first conductor, Sister King; second conductor, Sister Williams; inside guard, Sister Thomson. The supper table was made in the form of a Cross of St. George and was tastefully decorated with Oregon grape, holly, pussy willow, wild currant and wall flowers. Among those present were members of Victoria Lodge, No. 28, and brothers of Milton Lodge, No. 318.
The D. D. S. P. acted as chairman and toasts were proposed as follows: "To the Empire," proposed by Sister King and responded to by Sister Restell; "To Canada," proposed by Brother Hobbs and responded to by Sister Coleman; "To the Order," proposed by Sister Graham, and responded to by Sister Reeve.
A speech was given by the District Deputy of the Sons of St. George, and the proceedings were concluded by the singing of "Auld Lang Syne."

LOYAL ORDER OF MOOSE.
Victoria Lodge, No. 1390 had a very busy session last evening, among other items of importance being the election of officers for the coming business year. The following were elected to office: Dictator, Bro. C. E. Copeland; vice-dictator, Bro. H. B. Godfrey; prelate, Bro. W. S. Spouse; junior past dictator, Bro. A. Trenham; secretary, Bro. J. F. Pearce; treasurer, Bro. R. K. Evans; trustees, Bro. E. C. Colbourne, J. Glover, A. E. Hindley.
A lowly physician, Dr. Howard Miller, it has been decided to hold the installation ceremony on March 21, in the K. of P. Hall, at the close of which there will be a smoker for Moose and their friends. Victoria Lodge has now a membership of about 350 in its senior order, in addition to which the Women's Legion is being inaugurated on Monday next, sixty strong, and a male Junior Order is in process of organization.

Caps and Mets Scrap for Two Long Hours Without Notching Deciding Goal, Setting New Overtime Record

Game Called at Fifteen Minutes After Midnight After Teams Had Battled Through Three Overtime Periods Without Being Able to Score; Players Almost in State of Collapse When Game Was Halted; Fans Nearly Withered Up; "Moose Johnson Night" Will Never Be Forgotten; Lots of Presents.

Victoria, 4; Seattle, 4.

"Moose Johnson Night" will never be forgotten in the history of Victoria. In the dim and distant future when many of the young rippers who were the "Moose's" guests last night at the Arena are bouncing their grand-children upon their knees, this sensational event will be recalled.

The game was remarkable for many things. In the first place it was really intended as a means for the fans to express their appreciation of the splendid work accomplished by Ernie Johnson this season. At the start it appeared as though this would be the outstanding incident of the night. But gradually as the play swept on the "Moose's" presentations paled into insignificance in comparison with the gruelling battle which was being staged by the Seattle and Victoria teams.

A Deadlock Created.

Half way through the third period Frank Foyston was allowed to roam loose in front of the Victoria net and when Fowler came out to meet him the wily centre ice man batted the puck into the net. This shot created a deadlock. The score stood at 4 goals apiece. Both teams struggled desperately all through the remaining ten minutes to settle the argument, but the final whistle found the count still standing even.

The first period of overtime passed without either goal-tender making a slip. The play in this twenty minutes was the fastest of the night. Then the players were called out for another overtime period and still no score was forthcoming. After a ten-minute rest Referee Ion hustled the faint athletes off for another game, but again they were unable to score.

Players Reeling.

The clock had some minutes before ticked off the midnight hour. The players sauntered off the ice like a lot of reeling sailors in the wind. Some of them were on the verge of dropping, but by sheer grit held themselves together and waited for the whistle to call them on for the other period. In the dressing rooms the players could say little. Their legs almost refused to carry them around, and their heads were parched as the desert sand. In the third overtime period the veterans of the teams were nearly blind with the strains of the long overtime period, but again they were unable to score.

Game Called.

Manager Lester Patrick and Happy Holmes, captain of the Mets, who acted in place of Manager Muldoon, consulted the players at the end of the third overtime period as to whether they wanted to go on. Some of them were game, while others were too weak to make reply. The managers then took it upon themselves to call off the game, with the understanding that if the standing of Seattle and Victoria in the league should be affected in any way by the decision of this game that the Mets should return to Victoria and play a new sixty-minute game.

Longest Game in History.

In this manner the most dramatic, sensational and nerve-racking game ever played in the West and known by the whole of Canada came to a conclusion. It was the longest overtime game in the history of the Pacific Coast Hockey Association and officials are now digging up ancient records to see if it is not the longest professional hockey game staged anywhere in the universe.

The players were at a terrific pace for 120 minutes, two full regulation games. This shatters by twenty-three minutes the previous Coast League Marathon game. The former record stood 1 hour, 37 minutes.

Fans Were Weak, Too.

While the players were stretched out on the benches, with their heads wrapped in towels and sipping water, awaiting the decision of the managers as to whether the game should proceed, the 4,000 fans were weak with excitement. The game was a great physical strain on the players, and it came within an ace of making nervous wrecks out of the spectators. Despite the fact that the midnight hour had passed into the dawn, very few of the fans deserted their seats. Even the boys, some of them not even ripe for school, stuck to their posts and prayed that their idol, "The Moose," might slip through and notch the winning goal. These little midgets stole forty winks between the periods, and as soon as the players were back on the ice the boys were as wide awake as a cat on a mouse's trail. Every fan was faced with the prospect of a lot of foot-slogging before they reached their home as the last cars from town had by that time wended their way to the barns. But that made no difference. They remained within the Arena as the players were back on the ice the night hour had passed into the dawn, when the announcement was made that the game would be called the great concourse of fans surged out into the fresh air as limp as a lot of laundry that had just left the wringer.

Wild Scenes.

The scenes staged in the Arena during the course of the game almost baffle description. When the Capitals tied up the score in the third period, and then went ahead on Will Loughlin's shot there were two spontaneous outbursts of cheering and stamping that equalled the Armistice Day roars. The fans cheered on, and became so excited that they had to hang on to one another. Gloves were dropped from the boxes in the excitement, and many of the players in the excitement of many stunts in the city is greatly impaired this morning through the weakness of mind and body of those who gathered at the rink-side last night.

Every Man a Hero.

It was all planned to make "Moose" Johnson the hero of the game. And while he received all the most affectionate men on the ice he was not an outstanding hero. Every man who participated in the game was entitled to the heroic title. Eddie Oatman, that game little Trojan who skips the Aristocrats, showed as much spunk and pluck as a bantam rooster, when in the last regulation period he injured his spine against the Seattle goal-post in a splendid effort to score the winning goal. The post was bent by the force of the impact. Oatman was in the line of the puck, and he was the only one who was not injured. He was the only one who was not injured.

The Presentation.

The "Moose" and his "Moose" gathered all the bouquets at the start of the game. Just as Referee Ion poised the puck over the crossed-stick in centre ice Murray Patrick, a wee youth, pushed off from the boards bearing in his hands a huge loving cup. He handed it to the "Moose," and immediately a great chorus of applause went up from the shattering long distance record quartered. The cup was inscribed: Presented to Ernie "Moose" Johnson by his pals, the Kids of Victoria, B. C.

Referee Ion tried to start the game again, but a stalwart man skipped out on to the ice and handed "Moose" a beautiful pair of diamond-cut gloves, a present from the fans of Victoria.

Present From League.

Referee Ion then took a hand in making presentation, and waited out with a huge silver cup, which was engraved as follows: "Presented to Ernie 'Moose' Johnson by the Kids of Victoria, B. C. H. A. 'The Kewpies' ladies' hockey team then presented the Moose with a big kewpie, and some dead mother trooled out a big birthday cake for Ernie. The whole Victoria team was in the new police commissioner, Joe North, doing a skidding act on the ice and announcing a bouquet of beautiful flowers for

The Idol of the Boys.

During the presentation there was a continuous barrage of noise from the camp of the boys. They only saw one individual on the ice, and he was the "Moose." When the noise sapped and the excitement of the goals was becoming greater. The players were getting too weak to shoot hard and as a result Fowler and Holmes had no trouble in blocking and clearing.

Most Satisfactory Result.

A tie was the most satisfactory result of this tremendous tussle. On the night's play there was very little to choose between the teams. Seattle had the best of the first period, but Victoria came back strongly in the second, and in the third had an edge on the play. In the overtime the teams played very evenly. If the Mets and Capitals had been called back for a fourth overtime period, and either one had slipped in a goal, it would have been a heart-breaking finish. Neither team deserved to win, and neither team deserved to lose. They would have been no disgrace in losing such a game, but the moral effect may have been depressing to the players.

Mets Awoke Early.

For a time it looked as though the only things Victoria would gather for the night would be the cups and cuff links, for Seattle took advantage of the early disorganization of the Capitals. One minute and nine seconds after the face-off Riley wormed his way through the Victoria defence and scored. It was a surprise and the fans asked "What happened?" Victoria did a few jabs, turns, but the break seemed to be going against them. Before the period ended Riley again engineered a rush and his pass in front was snapped up by Foyston and Seattle went two up.

TWO HEROES OF THE GREATEST HOCKEY GAME EVER PLAYED

CLEM LOUGHLIN The spectacular rushing by Clem Loughlin was one of the sensations of the wonderful game. He never seemed to tire and was about the freshest man on the ice at the close.

HARRY MEERING Harry Meeking never looked better, and the way he went in on top of Holmes was pretty to watch. After Harry Meeking finished a shot from the right wing and traveled like a wild man. He was the hardest man on the ice to stop.

Victoria Goes Ahead.

There was a terrific uproar, and while the fans were still on their feet, the whole Victoria team was on the blue line. It did not raise very high and skimmer over Holmes' foot into the net.

Oatman Is Hurt.

Eddie Oatman suffered a painful injury on going in for a shot and Harry Meeking finished the game at right wing and showed the finest form of his career. He came within an ace of scoring several times during the overtime and his stick-handling was equal to that of any man on the ice.

Play Slows Up.

In the last overtime period the play slowed up considerably and there was considerable tumbling. When the players were knocked down they had a terrible time collecting themselves. Both goalkeepers staged some fine clearances. Victoria had a chance to come through when Rowe was benched for tripping but the Mets survived the buffeting without damage. The teams relied solely on individual rushes. The end of the third period found both teams still tie and the game was called at 12:15 o'clock this morning.

Failure to Settle Tobin Case Leave Outlaws With Winner; Saskatoon on Top

Calgary, March 5.—No championship honors will be awarded in the Big Four Hockey League, President McCabe last night declared as a result of the failure to clear up the Tobin protest row.

Saskatoon Again Wins.

Moose Jaw, March 5.—Saskatoon defeated Moose Jaw, 6 to 1 last night having the same team at its mercy throughout. This is the third game Moose Jaw has lost in the series for the Saskatchewan championship.

Lethbridge Beaten.

Calgary, March 5.—Blairmore won the Crow's Nest Hockey League championship here last night, defeating Lethbridge, 5-4 and 8-7 on the round, the previous game at Lethbridge resulting in a 3-3 draw.

Collingwood Victors.

Collingwood, Ont., March 5.—Collingwood O. H. Intermediate defeated Galt here last night 2 to 1. Galt won the round by 7 to 3.

Vancouver Amateur Hockey Championship Decided Last Night When Towers Went Under to Varsity — Big Crowd Expected at B. C. Game Here Monday

Vancouver, March 5.—The Varsity hockey team won the city senior championship and the Godfrey Cup by defeating the Towers last night in the second game of the play-off series, 3 to 2, and thus winning on the round by 6 goals to 5. The winners will play the first game of the home and home series with the Victoria Senators for the provincial championship at the Capital on Monday.

Towers Were Off.

The Towers did not play the game they are capable of, and although they scored the first goal, they never showed the same fighting spirit displayed by the University crew, who simply refused to be beaten.

Box Back in Game.

Monk McKenzie was as good as any man on the Towers' lineup. The little fellow kept the opposition working overtime to bottle him up. George Box made his reappearance after a layoff of several weeks, but he was not the same Box who turned in such fine work earlier in the season.

P. N. A. Ladies' Basketball Championship for Victoria

50,000 WOMEN GOLFERS PLAY IN GREAT BRITAIN

London, March 5.—With more than 500 golf clubs affiliated to the Ladies' Golf Union, it is computed that in England and Wales there are considerably more than 50,000 women golfers. These women devotees of the game are well catered for in the matter of championships for there is the women's "open," the English, Irish, Scottish and Welsh championships, to say nothing of the county championships and when these come on for a decision later in the year, there is every indication that a record number of players will be seen doing the rounds on the links.

Important Competition Will Be Staged Here in Near Future — Outside Teams Expected to Come Seeking Title

One of the most interesting sporting events to be held in Victoria in many long days has just been awarded to the V. I. A. A. Information was received yesterday by W. H. Davies, of the V. I. organization, that the Capital City will be permitted to stage the Pacific Northwest Ladies' Basketball Championship. This date for this competition has not been decided upon as yet.

Local Teams Are Good

There are three ladies' teams in this city which will provide keen competition for any outsiders who may come seeking the championship. The V. I. A. A. First Presbyterian and High School have quietness, which have speed, shooting ability and strong defense. The V. I. girls have been in two tight struggles with the Presbyterians and have managed to squeeze throughout safely, but there is little to choose between the two. Many of the girls upon whom the High School relies are playing under the colors of the V. I. A. A. in ordinary league fixtures.

Large Hall Is Needed In Victoria for Community Centre and for Festivals

Symphony Orchestras in Other Parts of Canada; G. W. V. A. Band Musicians Praised.

By George J. Dyke.

As each week passes and each music season draws to a close it becomes more and more evident that what Victoria needs most is a large public hall. It need not be an elaborate affair, but should be comfortably seated, warmed, centrally situated and capable of accommodating from three to five thousand people. Toronto has its Massey Hall, Tacoma has its Stadium, Vancouver is considering a scheme for a large auditorium and other cities have their large halls and so forth, and who can deny that the existence of these, large public halls is one of a city's most valuable assets? As a public investment it is unassailable, its indirect benefits are enormous. During the past few days there have appeared in the local press several suggestions as to the most locally appropriate project as a War Memorial. An avenue of trees has been mooted, the Memorial Tower Society has put forth the suggestion of the erection of a tower at Beacon Hill Park with a set of bells installed therein, while some have suggested the building of a cenotaph. All these conceptions are very excellent, but we cannot have everything and while I have already written on the scheme of the Bell Tower on the Hill, I am strongly of the opinion that nearly all Victoria needs is a large hall to accommodate the public. While agreed that the most universal pleasure among the people is the love of sport, and all daily papers reflect this opinion, but "there's a good time coming" for another form of the musical movement. Now the possibility of local music development is immense, but not much can be accomplished until all forms of art are centralized, and where all people can meet on the "Field of the Cloth of Gold" and there enjoy and share in the good things the Creator has provided. It cannot boast of a large hall or auditorium for such educational and pleasurable purposes. What then this city wants is a large hall where good concerts, communal singing and competitive festivals can be arranged to suit all pockets. And is there anything in this earth so good for forming and cementing goodwill between classes, or even between nations? If then it seems for the moment somewhat difficult to make a start in this direction, I would again make an earnest appeal to the proper authorities for the use of the still most useful large building, the old drill hall on Menzies Street, for the purposes referred to in this note. Let the people have the privilege of the use of the large building.

Edmonton Has Its Symphony Orchestra

Some time ago I wrote that Vancouver was the only city in Canada that had its Symphony Orchestra, and that Toronto, through Sir Thomas Eaton, was beginning to establish its own orchestra. Since then I have had sent me glorious accounts of the musical doings the capital city of Alberta, Edmonton, and I find it has, too, a symphony orchestra, a fact of which I gladly put forth. The pamphlet forwarded me gives the history of the organization, and the "programme notes" are intelligently and historically supplied by one John Oliver. The Orchestra (registered) begins its first season 1920-21 and its Hon. President is the Lieut-Governor of Alberta, Hon. R. G. Brett. There are twenty honorary presidents and the officers consist of a president, vice-president, secretary-treasurer and a board of directors of twelve members. The orchestra is composed of 100 first and ten second violins; four violas; four cellos; three double basses; two horns; one oboe; two flutes; two clarinets; two saxophones; two saxophones; three trumpets; three trombones; one tuba; and three percussion making a total of fifty-two players. Its first programme was given on Sunday evening November 14, and among the numbers played were, the "Jupiter" symphony No. 41, in C Major (Mozart); "Scotts March" (Masselet) and MacCunn's overture, "Land of the Mountain and Flood." Its second and third programmes were given also on Sunday evenings December 12 and 26 and the following composers were represented: Beethoven, Schubert, Coleridge, Taylor, Massenet, Mendelssohn, Wagner, Saint-Saens and Wallace. I am glad to note that Edmonton, too, is in line with the musical advancement of the Dominion, and what is more the citizens living in those somewhat remote parts are very fortunate in having the opportunity of hearing the best in the music of the day.

Charming Work to Be Given in Church

I am glad to note for two reasons, first because the church doors will be open during the week, secondly because of the opportunity given to all music lovers to hear practically for nothing a perfectly delightful work, namely the performance by the First Presbyterian Church Choir, under Jackson Hanby, of one of the two oratorios written by Theodor Dubois (Du-bawh), Les Sept Paroles du Christ. "The Seven Words of Christ" (1887). The work is charming and I believe the occasion will mark its first interpretation in this city. Dubois was born in Rosnay, Marne, August 24, 1887.

Chamber Music, Recent Performances Here

The recent numbers, a string quartet and a trio (Bridge) played by four lady members of the Ladies Musical Club at an afternoon recital, has greatly contributed to the advancement of chamber music in our midst. Of all music chamber music possesses the most refreshing and refining qualities, and as a whole provides the staunchest bulwarks against freak composers and worthless compositions. Its influence, particularly the string quartet, the motet we tangle, of music exercises a conservative influence on musical taste and engenders the joy and social pleasures of our daily existence. It would be interesting to know how many composers, who with the best intentions in the world have failed to write interesting chamber music. The present time the string quartet is increasing in numbers with great rapidity and never has there been so many such organizations before the public as now. It is to be regretted that the opportunity has not been given the people to increase their knowledge of chamber music and to become as it were, patrons of the best in music. The announcement has just been made of ten concerts of chamber music to be given in London by an organization known as the League of Peace and Freedom. If we are not mistaken this venture is an offshoot of the Souz Pour Peace and Freedom Concerts, known so well throughout the music world. The work of this organization has been priceless in providing a new and original type of music ever written. If then it is the case that the present organization is the best of its kind, we can only wish it a similar success. Its policy is to be on the same broad lines embracing the best known chamber music combinations, gratuitously, and only ask for a collection to defray expenses are without exception among the most important that England can show, and every publicity it always given the Society's endeavors.

The communication from the Memorial Tower Society has been received and will be kept in view. The matter of the erection of a tower with regard to sex, age, creed, color or season, and all can share alike in the pleasure of these things. And the comparison between sport and music just referred to is that which appears at first sight. What is being done here, for instance, to promote choral singing? I can find the reply in the word nothing. And the modern development which is making greater strides than any other of the arts is the musical movement. Now the possibility of local music development is immense, but not much can be accomplished until all forms of art are centralized, and where all people can meet on the "Field of the Cloth of Gold" and there enjoy and share in the good things the Creator has provided. It cannot boast of a large hall or auditorium for such educational and pleasurable purposes. What then this city wants is a large hall where good concerts, communal singing and competitive festivals can be arranged to suit all pockets. And is there anything in this earth so good for forming and cementing goodwill between classes, or even between nations? If then it seems for the moment somewhat difficult to make a start in this direction, I would again make an earnest appeal to the proper authorities for the use of the still most useful large building, the old drill hall on Menzies Street, for the purposes referred to in this note. Let the people have the privilege of the use of the large building.

Attend Band Concerts During Western Tour

The members of the San Carlo Opera during their "season" here-attended the G. W. V. A. Band Concert last Sunday evening. Many of the company expressed their agreeable surprise that Canada's finest western band should have such an excellent organization. "It certainly is a credit to your city," they said, "and were glad to see the band was supported by the large turn out of people. They would take with them the memory of a very pleasant evening in the West."

An Unique "Ringing" Event

The oldest bell-ringing society in England is the Ancient Society of College Youths, founded in 1687. Ten members, all army officers, recently rang a peal of "Grandire Caters" at St. Peter's Church, South Croydon, London. The peal consisted of 2,300 changes composed for the occasion and conducted by Lieut. E. Maurice Atkins R. E.

Local Artists To Give Recital in Vancouver

Eva Hart, soprano, and Mary Izard, violiniste, both gifted and popular Victoria artists, will give a recital at the Hotel Vancouver on March 10, under the local management of Fred W. Dyke. The programme to be given is of an exceptional and we wish the two ladies every success with their mission work.

WAS BIG SURPRISE TO HARVEY Harvey Overcomes Troubles by Taking Tanlac; Feels Fine Now

"I don't believe I would have been able to hold my job if it hadn't been for Tanlac," said James G. Harvey, 595 Riverton Avenue, Winnipeg, a popular clerk for T. Eaton & Co. "About five years ago," explained Mr. Harvey, "I had a bad spell of 'flu,' which kept me flat on my back for five weeks and left me in a badly run-down condition. About a year ago, I took a turn for the worse, and went down hill rapidly. Nothing did me a particle of good, and my cases kept going from bad to worse."

"I think I suffered in every way a man can from a bad case of acute indigestion. I wasn't eating much more than enough to keep alive, and was as thin as a rail. At night I rolled and tossed by the hour, I was in terribly low spirits and felt that life was hardly worth living. Honestly, I don't see how I kept up on my job."

"Well, sir, I got the surprise of my life when I saw how Tanlac was knocking out my troubles and building me up. I am now just like a man made over. My appetite couldn't be better, and everything I eat agrees with me perfectly. I have gained considerably in weight and feel fine all the time. I am asleep almost as soon as I get in bed at night, and never stir till morning. Tanlac will always get a good word from me."

Tanlac is sold in Victoria by J. E. Campbell, corner Fort and Douglas, and Lang's Drug Store, Esquimalt Road.

ROLE NEW TO
VICTORIA CITIZENS

SIR JOHN MARTIN HARVEY.

Sir John appears this afternoon, and will appear again to-night in "The Burgomaster of Stilemonde." In addition to giving Sir John's many admirers an opportunity of seeing him in a new role, "The Burgomaster of Stilemonde" allows Miss de Silva an opportunity to display her ability as an emotional actress.

PRINCESS

"What Money Couldn't Buy," this afternoon and evening at the Princess Theatre, and it's well worth seeing. It is a comedy drama with a splendid plot and a lot of good comedy. It is especially well handled by Miss Jaxon, who falls for the charms of Kitty, who is played to perfection by Miss Berkeley. At the performance on Wednesday night another enlarged portrait of James Coats will be presented to the one guessing spoken by Byron Aldern in the part of Joe Jaxon, who falls for the charms of Kitty, who is played to perfection by Miss Berkeley. ## DOMINION

Claire Whitney, who appeared in the New York production of "The Innocent Idea" and "The Net," plays the role of Esther in "The Passionate Pilgrim," which will be shown at the Dominion Theatre to-day for the last time. She is a New York product, and Ruby de Remer, who plays the part of Esther's sister Miriam in the picture play, comes from Denver. Miss Whitney received her early dramatic training in stock, and in vaudeville. Then she who selected for some screen roles, in some successful photoplays, first in 1909 for Biograph and later for Fox in "The Victim," "The New York Peacock," "When False Tongues Speak," "Thou Shalt Not Steal" and "Camille."

PANTAGES

One of the best comedy-dramas of the screen is "So Long Letty," the Robertson-Cole super-special which will be shown next Monday and Tuesday at Pantages. Adapted to the screen from Oliver Broderick's famous and successful stage play of the same name, "So Long Letty," appears to better advantage on the screen because of the wider scope of the camera. Likewise it teaches a lesson perpetually to dissatisfied individuals.

COLUMBIA

Is William Farnum more pleasing when he laughs with joy or when, in darker moments on the screen, his expressive features take on a look of seriousness or sadness? The question is prompted by his performance in "The Joyous Troublemakers," a new William Fox Production, now showing at the Columbia Theatre. "The Joyous Troublemakers" is a very fine production from every point of view. The story is of a youth who finds himself by accident where men long have sought it in vain. The greed and jealousy of the thwarted seekers make wealth a dangerous possession; but the possessor in this case smiles through it all, until, one day, something happens that involves the girl who loves. Then the greed and striving events follow fast and furious.

VARIETY

Photoplay fans will have a chance to see the new production, "The Last of the Mohicans," which is now showing for the last time at the Variety Theatre. When Tourneur made it, he insisted upon using as many real redskins as possible. He sent out for Indians, and his studio was nearly swamped. Many descendants of the original Americans set at the California studios as French, Egyptian, Mexican, Italian, Syrian, Irish, Chinese and Japanese characters. The old chief said he had appeared as an Eskimo.

GOOD HEALTH CAN BE YOURS

If Your Blood Supply is Kept Rich and Red.

It is a waste of time and money to fight merely the signs of disease; in the long run you are probably worse off than when you started. What is far more important is that you should intelligently examine the various symptoms and trace the cause. When you remove the cause, health will be yours. For example, anaemic people often endure months of suffering while treating its symptoms, such as indigestion, shortness of breath, palpitation of the heart and exhaustion after any small effort.

The apparent stomach and heart troubles are generally nothing more than the result of an insufficient supply of pure blood. This anaemic state may have followed some previous illness, or an attack of influenza; or it may have arisen from overwork; weary or too little fresh air. To obtain good health the simple and proper course is to build up the blood, but to do this you must select a reliable remedy with a reputation such as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These pills enrich the blood which carries nourishment to all the organs of the body and enables them to do the work nature expects of them. Thousands of men and women have proved this for themselves. One of these is Mrs. T. Flynn, R.R. No. 1, Erinville, Ont., who says: "Last Spring I got into a badly run down condition. I had no energy; work left me exhausted, and the least exertion would make my heart palpitate violently. I had often read of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and decided to give them a trial and got a half dozen boxes. I had not been taking the pills long when I felt a decided improvement in my condition and by the time I had used the six boxes I could do my housework with ease. I can strongly recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to all weak people."

You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail post-paid at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Pace Names' Contest Closing; Entrants Note

In the search for data on which to base essays for the place names contest much that is interesting and unexpected is brought to light. For instance, with the peaceful and somewhat staid coast Indian in mind, who would suspect that their forebears were as "wild and woolly" as any over-colored motion picture drama of the prairie Indian is apt to misrepresent? The sole existing trail in the coast Indian of B. C. to-day that might give rise to suspicion of a lineage of fierce warriors, lies in his unexcelled bravery that is often shown with vividness in many coastal tracks. Time and time again the Indian with his colleagues has saved life from the reef churned water on the west coast, and more than once proudly bears the Albert medal of the Royal Humane Society for such deeds of heroism, at great personal risk.

"Frang" backs the history of the name Cowichan, the searcher is rewarded with an interesting side light in this point. You all know, if at least you have not visited, Cowichan district, with the name of the river that name. You will not have failed to mark a large Indian settlement or reserve at the mouth of the Cowichan Bay, and a large extent of the highway into Duncan itself.

Observing the Indian inhabitants of the village and seeing their settled and peaceful mode of living, it would come as a surprise to ascertain the following facts relating to the antecedents of these now peaceful and industrious people.

The Cowichan Indians was at one time fierce and turbulent, we learn. They made their living off the leaping fish in the east coast waters, and to a large extent, the game birds and animals they hunted in the neighboring woods. They were a powerful tribe, and much feared by neighbors.

Cowichans Prospered

Sheltered on the east coast of the Island, from the heavy seas of the Pacific, the Cowichans inhabited a country that in that day had everything that a large Indian tribe could desire. The waters of its coast and rivers teemed with edible fish, the woods abounded with game, while deer were plentiful and easy to obtain. The beeches, the cedars, the hemlock, fish, while wood, water and all necessities of life were easy to secure. Under these conditions the Cowichans prospered greatly and became a great and powerful tribe.

Little Nature Stories

NO. 3
(By A. B. M.)

There was a secret in the air, the river world was full of the mystery, all the birds and insects were silent with the hush that if you live in the woods, you soon learn to know, means something is going to happen.

At first only the wisest knew, and he had hurried miles ahead of the "secret" to be the first to tell it and he, the vagabond, danced along bustling with importance and spirits, whipping the air round him with tiny whirlpools and shaking the placid water lilies off of their beauty sleep as they lay dreaming in clear, back waters, but the little ones were too sleepy to listen to him, so the Madcap, who was aching to tell someone, whispered it in strict confidence to the hairbells who, trembling with excitement on their dainty stems, rang out the news to the pink ladies slippers, growing in the shade of the cedars, they pressed their rosy lips together and, ere they would not tell it and they "really" did not only just hinted it to the orange trumpets of the honeysuckle, as they swayed in the breeze, clasping tight the creamy spirals branches. The bees were the real culprits, so everybody said, they carried the news to the buzzard from flower to flower, till in the end it was no secret at all, which is the delightful part of all secrets and what was intended in the beginning.

The mystery was solved, the secret was told, the "salmon" were coming up the river, coming back from the big sea far off, where for four years they had lived, gambolling in the mighty billows, flashing like silver bars as they vaulted through the air.

Yes, the salmon were coming home, back to the mother river they had left a few short years before, fighting their way through the canyons, where the rushing waters drove them back, forcing their way up the jagged rocks, and when they were finally scratched them, falling again and again into the boiling waters beneath where lampreys lurked cruel and on their bleeding sides, jumping again and clinging by poor bruised, torn fins still on ever up and on, till gaura of jaw scratched and feeble, dull purple showing where silver scale had shone, tired and weary but on ever on, till the gentle waters of their mother river, where they had spent the summer, were reached, they back to rest, and on wonderful mother instinct, stronger than life, stronger than death itself, to "swim" and "bide" the mystery was explained as Blue Eyes, wading knee deep in the stream, found "schools" of hungry trout gobbling the pink salted salmon, where the silver scales in the gay sunshine, even the bears came down to taste the dainty, scooping the luscious morsels out with clumsy snuffing and whining as they feasted.

Blue Eyes was so sorry for the poor, tired fish, who had died leaving their eggs to the rivers care, that he fasted the fish, and the rascals only swam a few yards off and were soon eating with all their might again.

By and bye the Blue Eyes, like all people who live and "listen" in the woods, had begun to understand the language of the birds and trees, so when he heard the water lippers say, "The salmon eggs are moving, he just grabbed Grannie by the hand and ran down to a soft sandy nook in the stream to watch the fun.

There was a comical beyond words, every separate little egg had rolled its self into a flat ball just the shape of the big chesnuts in the grove's window, and when they looked closely they could see a wee tail folded neatly in one never ending somersault.

It was very difficult for a little lad like Blue Eyes to understand that one day a pretty new game was introduced into salmon and jump about in the river and finally swim off to the sea, but by now he had learned that Nurse Nature had no ugly word like "impossible" in her big primer out of which she taught him daily, so he just "waited".

One day Grannie called to him and said she had a pretty new game, and show him, and as he was always ready for any sort of frolic he trotted off gaily at her side. Sure enough, when they reached the river all the rolling fish eyes had ceased their somersaults, and had turned into funny looking little beggars, some, like a fish, each with a queer yellow bag attached to its tumme, in which they carried all their breakfasts, lunches and dinners they would need for a long time. They were all playing a new game when Blue Eyes arrived sticking their heads in a circle and pushing each other out of it most rudely. Grannie said they were learning the greatest game of all, "Tiny Alevin" starting the game of life.

Blue Eyes hated long words, so he ran off to a fat water rat, who lived under a log and he told him that a few weeks later the "alevin" after they had used all the food in their little lunch pails, would sprout baby fins and tails and swim about, perky little salmon though very tiny, that for a long time they would stay in the care of the mother river, who would teach them how to swim strongly, always with their heads up stream, and that months later when they had grown big and strong, they would say good-bye gaily to their kind mother, and swim off to sea, and when they reached the sea, and their wonderful sights and frolics only remembering when, like tired children, the time came for them to go home and for the "fish" to die.

And now, a strange thing happened to Blue Eyes, and yet not strange or new at all because had he been able to open his eyes and understand he would have known it all the time. The birds, beasts and flowers suddenly seemed to be his friends; he learned when the cedar brushed a soft

A Lucky Panther Hunt

By Donald A. Fraser.

"But, Dad, you know I do not want to be a farmer, I want to be a mining engineer."

It was Kenneth Morgan who spoke. He and his father were sitting in front of the huge fire-place in the living room of their Vancouver Island farm house. A great Douglas fir knot was blazing away on the hearth for all it was worth, flinging its long red tongues of flame up the black throat of the chimney, and lighting up the whole room with its torch-like glare, while the air was scented with the incense-like fragrance of its resinous breath. No other light was needed, and no other was wanted, for Mr. Morgan and Kenneth had just settled themselves for a quiet talk together about Kenneth's future.

"The farmer can live a cleaner, freer, more independent life than any other man in creation. But a boy should have the right to choose his own path in life, as he is the one who has to travel it. So, Kenneth, you will never find me standing in your way in this matter. All I would demand of any son of mine would be, that whatever calling he pursues, he should behave himself in it like a Christian and a gentleman."

"Well, Dad, I've quite made up my mind to be a mining engineer; but how to go about it is the problem. I've gone through our little country school here, and have managed to pass the high school entrance examination creditably. But there I'm stuck. I don't know how to get on here. I would like to go to the high school in Victoria, but that means board and lodging while there, and I know you could not afford to pay for that just now."

"You are right, Kenneth, I haven't any spare money at present, with which to help you, but I don't mind I am sorry indeed. If I hadn't lost that $5,000 I so foolishly put into that wild scheme of mine, the one two years ago, things would have been different. I was a goose. I thought I would double or triple it, and then would have plenty of means to send you to college, if you should want to go. But now it's gone, and there's no use crying over spilt milk."

"So, Dad, there isn't, and I don't want you to worry over it. Something will turn up, I feel sure. Many a little bird has flown out of the bush through college, and I'll have a try at it, anyway. I've got nearly $100 saved up now."

"You have? Where did you get it?"

"Oh! I shot the skins of the animals I sell. Raccoons, minks, muskrats; anything that has a sellable hide on it has helped a little bit. I've also had some old jobs now and again for the neighbors which they paid me for."

"That's fine, Kenneth, I had no idea you had anything saved up at all. Keep on, my boy, and something lucky is sure to happen."

Grandma Tabby's eyes were bright and her wit sharp, even if she did not hunt, and she decided she would give good advice to all the young kittens in the neighborhood about hunting mice and rats.

So all the Mother Pussies brought their children to Grandma Tabby to learn wisdom from her in the art of mice catching and hunting.

"You first of all," said Grandma Tabby, "must not eat too much."

"Prattle Corner" Postbag Brings Wit and Jollity

Last Saturday was the first time our little people contributed to the "Prattle Corner" section and as a direct result the "Prattle Corner" postbag this week has been found to be full of overflowing with merry and novel sayings of originality by our little friends. Lack of space alone prevents us from giving our little readers the benefit of every contribution in the postbag. Without further delay let us share with our readers the following little gems:

Unintentionally "Sinister."

Recently Lieut. H. F. Helmsing had occasion to visit the Monterey Avenue School and while there presented prizes to successful students in connection with the work of the Navy League of Canada. Some of the students were not quite clear as to the identity of the gentleman, who presented the prize, but made no remark on his visit. Some of the students were not quite clear as to the identity of the gentleman, who presented the prize, but made no remark on his visit. Some of the students were not quite clear as to the identity of the gentleman, who presented the prize, but made no remark on his visit.

Mistaken Identity

Littie Hezin was being instructed by her mother in the use of Christ and was told that according to the Bible he was formerly seen attired in quite the following, "He never left Helen sitting by the window, the view from which gives access to the East Saanich Road near the Royal Oak Junction. Shortly afterwards hearing a shout of joy Helen's mother came running to see what was going on and was met at the door with a radiant little girl and the following "Oh Mother, here's Jesus with a wheelbarrow. On looking out towards the road Helen's mother beheld a plaster, splattered with white from head to foot and wheeling a work barrow down the road from his work. It took some time to convince Helen that she had not in fact witnessed the second coming of Our Lord.

The Prattle Corner Postbag contains many either bright and witty sayings by our little friends, but space will not permit of their being quoted at this time, and in this issue. Those given are prize winners for this week and have been communicated with already.

Rifle Club Boys Plan Easter Camp

Preparations for an Easter Camp at Pike Lake are under way by the officials of the Winchester Junior Rifle Club. ## For 'Teen-Age Girls

Next Friday evening, March 11, in the Sunday schoolroom of St. John's Church, a mass meeting for 'teen-age girls will be held, to which all young girls as well as those belonging to the various C. G. I. T. groups in the city and district have been invited. Rev. F. A. E. Goddard, rector of St. John's, will open the gathering at 7.30, with a short address and other speakers will include Mrs. Nelder, who will speak in the interests of Bendita Ramabar, the noted Indian missionary, who has established a tremendous activity in behalf of the child widows of India. Mrs. Nelder has been visiting many countries in the interests of this great work and her talk next Friday should be fraught with interest for all who are attending. Musical numbers will be given during the evening by well known artists and at the close of the meeting refreshments are to be served.

THE BLIND POET

John Milton was born in London, England, in 1608.

His early education was at first conducted by his father and private tutors. He also wrote four poems that rank among the greatest lyrics in the language.

These poems are entitled "L'Allegre," "Il Penseroso," "Comus," and "Luciferus."

When Milton's mother died in 1637 he made a Continental journey. He went to Paris, Florence, Rome and Naples.

While he was in Italy he heard the strains of his eyes in literary work. He wrote many beautiful sonnets, but only that which excelled the rest and ranks high in the sonnets of today was "On His Blindness." The last prose writing of Milton was his "Areopagitica." He died in 1674 and is said to be second to none but Shakespeare.

The Blind Poet

You have all heard of the wonderful life of Milton, the blind poet, hear now what one of our little poets writes about him in a charming essay that has just been contributed to this page. Nellie A. Engnes, of the North Saanich School, describes Milton in the following terms:

THE BLIND POET

John Milton was born in London, England, in 1608.

His early education was at first conducted by his father and private tutors. He also wrote four poems that rank among the greatest lyrics in the language.

These poems are entitled "L'Allegre," "Il Penseroso," "Comus," and "Luciferus."

When Milton's mother died in 1637 he made a Continental journey. He went to Paris, Florence, Rome and Naples.

While he was in Italy he heard the strains of his eyes in literary work. He wrote many beautiful sonnets, but only that which excelled the rest and ranks high in the sonnets of today was "On His Blindness." The last prose writing of Milton was his "Areopagitica." He died in 1674 and is said to be second to none but Shakespeare.

FOR CHILDREN THE SANDMAN STORY FOR T-NIGHT

Grandma Tabby's Lesson

Grandma-Tabby had had her day at chatching mice and rats, and now she was getting old, and as her kind mistress gave her plenty of milk and cream, she did not need to hunt for her food.

Grandma Tabby's eyes were bright and her wit sharp, even if she did not hunt, and she decided she would give good advice to all the young kittens in the neighborhood about hunting mice and rats.

So all the Mother Pussies brought their children to Grandma Tabby to learn wisdom from her in the art of mice catching and hunting.

"You first of all," said Grandma Tabby, "must not eat too much."

THE FIRST OF ALL SAID GRANDMA TABBY.

When I was young I seldom had any milk or cream. I had to work for my food. There is nothing better for young kittens than exercise. Just look at me at my age, my dears."

All the kittens looked at Grandma's fine, soft coat of fur and hoped to all that Grandma Tabby was saying that they would have one like it.

"There is another rule you must follow, too," she said. "Never give up when you see a mouse, and you have caught it. You must not expect your mistress to feed you. She gives you a home, and you should pay for this by keeping her house free from mice."

"If it is the barn you have to care for, instead of the house, just keep a sharp eye on the bags of corn and grain, and remember that watchful waiting has its reward."

All the little kittens listened with up-standing ears and wide-open eyes to all that Grandma Tabby was saying, for well they knew that such wisdom as hers was hard to find.

"Now, there are the rats," she said; "all pussies cannot catch rats, but the big ones can if they are brave, and my advice to you is this: When you see a rat look for a trap, there is sure to be one around; then you have to do is to keep that rat from getting back to his hole."

"Chase him toward the trap, and when he finds he cannot get home he will run into the trap, you may be sure, and there you have him."

"Chasing rats into traps is just as clever as catching them, but never let a mouse go into a trap. Remember, if you disagree to any Puss to have a mouse caught in a trap in the house where it lives."

"I have heard the saying 'Mind your P's and Q's,' but that is not for Pussies; you must mind your M's and R's, and if you do this you will become good mousers and rat hunters, which is the ambition of all well-brought-up kittens."

As all the kittens trotted home behind their mothers they looked so proud that they were so well brought up for their life, I am sure, but he would never have escaped, so well did they learn from Grandma Tabby how to hunt.

GENERAL BOOTH TO VISIT SHORTLY

Head of Salvation Army Is Assured of Warm Welcome Here

The visit here of General Bramwell Booth, head of the Salvation Army throughout the world, which will take place the week after next, is a matter of more than local religious interest. For the last few years of the life of General Booth, founder of the Salvation Army, father of the visitor, it was the custom of public bodies to welcome the propagandist with open arms, and he addressed many of the most important meetings in earlier years had shown little sympathy with the objects of his movement. Since General Bramwell Booth succeeded to the leadership he has toured extensively, and apart from innumerable services of the Salvation Army, he has been the recipient of cordial welcomes from public bodies of all kinds. Here he will be the guest of the Canadian Club at luncheon. Recently General Booth concluded a successful tour of the Australasian Dominions, but circumstances prevented him staying here en route East. General Bramwell Booth will be in Victoria on March 17, when he will address a meeting of the Salvation Army soldiers and ex-soldiers in the Citadel, Broad Street, at 2.30 p. m. In the Metropolitan Church at 8 p. m. the General will lecture on the work of the Salvation Army. His Honor Lieut-Governor Nichol will preside at this meeting and will be supported by a number of prominent citizens.

TWO MEETINGS TO FURTHER NEW CATHEDRAL PLAN

Parish Women's Guild Is Planned to Aid Scheme

Adult parishioners of Christ Church Cathedral will meet on Wednesday night and church women of the parish on Thursday afternoon next in the Cathedral schoolroom to take further steps preliminary to the construction of the first building to be erected as part of the new Cathedral Building's scheme.

Parishioners' Meeting The first object of the parishioners' meeting called for next Wednesday night, in the schoolroom, at nine o'clock, immediately after the Wednesday evening Lenten service in the Cathedral at eight o'clock, is to appoint five representatives from the parish to act with a similar number authorized to be appointed by the Diocesan Synod, the ten members to form the building committee, to be officially charged with the responsibility of completing the plans and taking other necessary steps leading to the construction of the first part of the scheme to be erected.

It is understood that this first building will provide accommodation for the organizations and work of the Cathedral parish, including the Sunday School, and providing also a large auditorium for use as the St. John's Hall, in addition to the separate rooms required for the various parish organizations, for Sunday School and bible classes, a gymnasium will form a part of the first completed building.

Women to Co-operate Women of the Cathedral parish will meet on Thursday afternoon in the schoolroom at three o'clock for the purpose of forming a parish women's guild. The work of the guild will probably be to form an organization for fellowship and service among all women of the parish, and to co-operate in supporting the church with the added responsibility accruing through the purchase of a residence for the Bishop of the diocese, the furnishing and use of the present Bishop's Close, to provide additional accommodation required for Sunday school and other parish activities, and to prepare for the furnishing of the proposed new building. It is expected to attend Thursday afternoon's meeting has been extended by the Dean to all women living in the Cathedral parish or attending the Cathedral services.

CHURCH OF ROYAL ENGINEERS WILL BE RENOVATED

Every visitor to New Westminster is shown the famous little Anglican church of St. Mary at Epperton, one of the oldest churches of the denomination in British Columbia, which was consecrated May 1, 1866, and which was the church built by the Royal Engineers, whose numbers have been rapidly thinned with the passing years.

It is now proposed to make great changes in the church, to extend and renovate it in order to provide for a larger congregation. To increase of the congregations and a growing interest in the work of the church, plans for the future welfare of the parish have been discussed for some time past. The church committee has decided to go ahead at once with the work of enlarging the building and at the same time to make a thorough restoration of the whole structure. This will involve moving the present building some six feet further north and building an extension on the south end in harmony with the beautiful design of the old part; to set new sills with posts on concrete footings; making the entrances at the south end; erecting a new chimney so that a furnace can be installed; and cleaning and decorating the interior. The fences and grounds are to be fixed up and both church and parish hall painted. The parish hall is also included in the plan. The building will be extended to the back and some classrooms added, the roof re-shingled, the foundations overhauled, and improvements to the interior made.

Chinese Women First Discovered Secret of Silk

Empress Si-Ling-Chi in 2640 B. C. Central Figure in Romantic Story; Origin of Industry.

A woman discovered silk. And the secret was kept for many centuries.

Finally a woman told the secret of its culture and manufacture to a man silk became a household word in all parts of the world.

Walking one sunny Summer morning in a quiet Chinese garden, where the exotic enveloping walls were all but hidden by a riotous growth of exotic flowers and the air heavily perfumed with their fragrance, a slim girl of fourteen pattered along with a basket on her head bound to an inviting teakwood pagoda by the side of a miniature lake.

There she rested. As she idly watched a nest of insects and worms, she noticed that while many of them apparently slept lazily in the sun a trio of caterpillars were ceaselessly busy feasting on the leaves of a white mulberry tree.

In a Chinese Garden Their capacity and their energy fascinated her and the next day, and for many succeeding days she watched them eat and grow rapidly. She had ample time, for she was Empress Si-Ling-chi, wife of the Emperor Hoang-ti, who ruled China in 2640 B. C. She is known to-day as the "Goddess of the Silk Worm."

Three moons of the arrival in India of the runaway princess she disappeared mysteriously between suns, but it was too late to save the secret. She had not only delivered to a courtier the secret, but she had taught him all that she had learned of silk in the royal palace of China.

Alexander the Great learned the secret of silk in the year 327 B. C., when in Rome it became and sold for its weight in gold.

The Emperor Tiberius forbade the men of Rome to wear garments of silk, and the extreme custom of the island of Cos by women. It was claimed that the extreme custom of the island of Cos by women.

The silk of that day, though of more gauzy texture, would not compare favorably with the good silks of to-day in beauty of coloring, weave or durability. It excelled them only in price.

ladies of her court to gather in the garden. There she demonstrated her crude methods of gathering and reeling the silk and set them all to work learning to help her. Soon she taught them to weave garments and to embroider. It was not long before the Emperor, who had shown so little interest in her silk worms, was presented by the Empress with a ceremonial garment of purest silk, and only a short time longer before all members of the court were wearing silk clothes of dazzling beauty.

China Held Secret The production of raw silk quickly became the chief industry of China, and the nation grew rich beyond the understanding of neighboring countries, which sought vainly for the secret of silk. The secret and monopoly of export to all parts of Asia, India, Persia and Arabia for many centuries. The death penalty was decreed for the crime of sending or taking the silk worm, its eggs or the seeds of the white mulberry tree out of China.

All went well with the Chinese silk industry until about 350 B. C. when a prince of India visited China and won the love of a demure Chinese princess, who accompanied him to India and the open sea caravan route, taking hidden in her sandals the eggs of silk worms and seeds of the white mulberry tree. Within three moons of the arrival in India of the runaway princess she disappeared mysteriously between suns, but it was too late to save the secret. She had not only delivered to a courtier the secret, but she had taught him all that she had learned of silk in the royal palace of China.

A Secret No Longer The Emperor Tiberius forbade the men of Rome to wear garments of silk, and the extreme custom of the island of Cos by women. It was claimed that the extreme custom of the island of Cos by women.

The silk of that day, though of more gauzy texture, would not compare favorably with the good silks of to-day in beauty of coloring, weave or durability. It excelled them only in price.

ROMANCE OF GIRLS OF CANADA WHO WED NOBILITY

Quebec "Tomboy" First Princess of Salm-Salm; Then Carmelite Nun

Romantic stories of Canadian women, who married into great European families, were related by Louis C. de V. Carrier speaking before the Antiquarian and Numismatic Society at Montreal recently on "Some Canadian Women Who Achieved Fame in Europe." Stories of the lives of the young women, princesses and peeresses were mingled with anecdotes of the daughters and consorts of Canadian seigneurs and merchant princes.

"Country Tom-boy" Perhaps the most interesting story told by Mr. Carrier was that of a little country girl who became the Princess of Salm-Salm. The house of Salm-Salm is one of the few surviving "Palatine" families. It has important French, German, and Austrian branches. The old "chateau" of the French branch in Paris, is now the Chancery of the Legion d'Honneur. It was the German branch which opened its ranks to Eliza Agnes Joy, a Canadian-born girl, who, after a life of rare adventure, joined the Carmelite order and buried herself in a monastery in the Tyrol. Eliza Joy was born in the little village of St. Armand West, Missisquoi county, 1840, the daughter of the settler of St. Armand, Selgny.

According to contemporary accounts she was a "tomboy" during the time she still a young girl, she followed a company of actors who passed through the country. The manager of the company was "Colonel" LeClerc. Youthful Miss Joy was a clever girl, and she quickly picked up the rudiments of an actor's profession. She was beautiful and became a good actress. Colonel LeClerc soon found it more profitable to act the country than Miss Joy than for a full company. A few years later, while she was filling an engagement in Washington, she met the Duke of Salm-Salm, a young soldier of fortune who journeyed wherever there was fighting to be done. By her marriage to him, she became Princess Felix of Salm-Salm.

Served As a Nurse After serving in the German and Austrian armies, Prince Felix had come to America to draw his sword for South or North, which ever retained him first. By his wife's influence he obtained command of a New York regiment and fought through the Civil War, the Princess serving as a nurse. After the war she went to Mexico, where Prince Felix became aide-de-camp to Emperor Maximilian, and head of his household. She was captured by the Emperor at Queretaro, and was only saved by the intercession of his wife, who rode ninety miles to plead with President Juarez.

Prince Felix's next field was the Franco-Prussian War. He went back to his old regiment, the Grenadier Guards. His military career was ended at Gravelotte, in 1870. Eliza Joy, the village tomboy, Agnes LeClerc, the popular actress, Princess Felix, the great lady, now all merged into Mother Salm-Salm, a Carmelite nun. The careers of other Canadian women were briefly sketched. The first Canadian born to acquire a title by marriage was Genevieve Macart, a granddaughter of Louis Hebert, the first colonist. She married the Marquis d'Alouine de la Croix, an officer in the Carignan regiment. The first Canadian woman to marry a German nobleman was Marie Louise Labadie, of Pointe de Levy, who in 1778 married Baron von Adelshelm, a German officer serving in the English army. Many Canadian girls had married Germans. The list included Countess von Zeppelin, a Miss McCarey, of Lunenburg, La-Gen, Count von Waldense, one of the Kaiser's right hand men, was partly Canadian, his grandmother having been a German. Miss FitzGerald, of St. John N. B. On the other hand, General de Castelna, the famous French general, was also partly Canadian, being a descendant of Louis Joliet, the Canadian explorer. A daughter of Sir Wm. Mackenzie, of Toronto, married Count de Lesseps, a noted French aviator, and son of Count de Lesseps, engineer, of Panama Canal fame.

Leafs, the famous concert party of the Fourth Division C. E. F., which is now in the East in the course of a Canadian-wide tour. The group was in Victoria a few months ago and is booked for daily engagements in all the big cities until the end of April.

TIMELY THRIFT When you have no ruffler for your sewing machine just lengthen the stitch and stitch the ruffling then pull the under thread and you will have a beautiful even ruffle.

When gloves are old, sewed pull out easily. Try using court plaster instead. Turn gloves wrong side out hold edges close together and paste a narrow stripe of court plaster over them. The extreme ends of the fingers will be left open.

One teaspoon ammonia to one teaspoon water, applied with a rag, will clean silver and gold jewelry perfectly. Applying kerosene with a rag when about to put stoves away for the Summer will prevent them from rusting.

To save dirt and trouble in looking for your rubbers: Fasten a sash curtain rod about a foot from the floor of your back porch. Drive in the end screws until a rubber fits in nicely. It will hold many pairs and will be always in place. This can be put on closet door for shoes instead of a shoe bag.

Put on your rubbers when you mop floors. It saves shoes and sometimes a fall. White oilcloth is a nice protector of baby's name and is cheaper than rubber sheeting. When making soups try cutting the potatoes in small pieces instead of slicing them, and they won't cook so fast.

When lamp wicks get nearly used up pin on a piece of flannel cloth long enough to reach the bottom of lamp. Bordered goods showing brilliant colors in Balkan designs will be a Spring feature. Small collars for dark blue frocks are made of Irish combined with Valenciennes. Organdy party dresses for young girls feature lace dyed to match and sashes of moire ribbon.

Black velvet and champagne colored charmeuse are very successful in making a smart frock. A simple fur-trimmed wrap has edges trimmed with tiny folds of brick and jade-green duvety. A charming frock for a small girl is of gingham and chambray and has two ruffles to form each sleeve. The shops have many very attractive woolen stockings for women to wear with low shoes. A good pair of footgear last Winter and learned to like it.

TO APPEAR IN RECITAL SHORTLY

MRS. DOUGLAS MCCONNAN

The popular Victoria coloratura soprano, will be presented in recital by Madame Bennett Brock at the Empress Hotel on the evening of March 31. Although Mrs. McConnan was heard frequently in the cause of patriotic and philanthropic funds during the war, she has been in retirement for some time working hard at her vocal studies, and her many friends and admirers will look forward with keen anticipation to her forthcoming recital.

neighborhood with a critical eye. At some distance to the right of the tree in which the panther was crouched stood a low-branched spruce. "If I think I could get about twenty feet higher up I could get him," he said. "I think I'll try that tree."

Silencing his rifle over his back by the strap he started to climb among the thick branches of the spruce. After a few minutes he called out: "Gee, I've got a fine head on him. Watch on!"

The sharp report of his rifle rang out, and with a convulsive leap the huge cat tumbled off the branch of the fir, and fell on the rocks below, the moss-covered stone in his palm. He was severely wounded, but there was no time to spare. The hunter gathered himself together, and made a spring at the dog, who had retreated towards Billy, who was standing with his shotgun levelled ready to fire. On the dog's back, the panther's head, distorted in an awful snarl, its four great fangs gleaming like ivory daggers. As towards the dog, the panther's head, distorted in an awful snarl, its four great fangs gleaming like ivory daggers.

"Hoory!" cried Kenneth, climbing down the tree, and coming forward, he shot the panther with his rifle. "This means some money for us, old boy. The Provincial Government pays twenty-five dollars a bounty on panthers killed. I don't forget. That's twelve-and-a-half apiece, besides what we can get for the skin." He added, thinking of his savings account.

After waiting awhile to make sure that the animal was quite dead, the dog was set to work to skin and clean the panther. Morgan asked Kenneth to show him the spot where they had killed the panther, and Kenneth was only too delighted to take him there. On arriving at the place, Mr. Morgan listened attentively while Kenneth described the killing of the animal; then he went to the foot of the tree, and examined the spot where the panther had fallen from the limb. The rocks bore the traces of the struggle, the fierce beast for life. The moss and thin covering of earth was torn up in great patches.

Then something in one of the bare patches arrested Mr. Morgan's attention. Stooping, he scraped the earth away more cleanly with a piece of stick. Then getting a stone he knocked off a small projection of the rock, and put it in his pocket. Springing up, he cried: "Eureka, Kenneth! I'll have to catch the afternoon train for Victoria."

"Good gracious, Father! Have you discovered a lucky one? You will be able to go to the High School, and College, too, if you want to, for in his death agonies our enemy the sheep stealer laid bare the finest seam of copper ore that has yet been discovered on Vancouver Island."

ERECT ART FRIEZE IN WOOLLEN MILL Beautiful Paintings Act as Tonic for Busy Spinners at Oldham

London, March 5.—The white-washed reeling room of the Bed-gate Spinning Mill, Oldham, has recently received the most striking decoration of probably any work-room in the world—a £300 yard-deep frieze of oil paintings—mainly scenes from Shakespeare—midway between floor and ceiling.

When the thirty women and girl reeliners look up from spinning threads and spinning wheels, they rest their eyes on pictures—gay, artistic, and full of life and color—from "Romeo and Juliet," "Henry V.," "Taming of the Shrew," "King John," "Twelfth Night," "Othello," "Merry Wives of Windsor," "The Tempest," and "King Lear." There are, too, scenes from "The Pied Piper of Hamelin," "Oran Khayyam," and Tennyson's poems "Lancelot and Elaine," "Merlin and Vivian," and "The Lady of Shalott."

The pictures, specially executed at the request of William Greenwood, once a half-timer and now managing director, to brighten the mill, encourage reading, and serve as subjects for lectures, are the work of three students of the Oldham School of Art—Nellie Layfield (19), James Purdy (21), and Alan F. Barlow (20). Already says Councillor J. K. Chess, the mill Labor adviser, it has been noted that since the pictures were hung the general standard of health of the workpeople in the room is higher. Many Canadian girls had married Germans. The list included Countess von Zeppelin, a Miss McCarey, of Lunenburg, La-Gen, Count von Waldense, one of the Kaiser's right hand men, was partly Canadian, his grandmother having been a German. Miss FitzGerald, of St. John N. B. On the other hand, General de Castelna, the famous French general, was also partly Canadian, being a descendant of Louis Joliet, the Canadian explorer. A daughter of Sir Wm. Mackenzie, of Toronto, married Count de Lesseps, a noted French aviator, and son of Count de Lesseps, engineer, of Panama Canal fame.

HER VERY OWN A little girl will be more ready to learn the use of the needle if she has a well stocked work basket all her own. This is how one mother has taught her little daughter to sew with very little effort or insistence. She procured a small peach basket, padded it with layers of cotton, covered it with a pretty cretonne, and made little pockets for thread, thimbles, etc.

A little discarded doll server as the basis of a pin cushion; the fact that she was without arms being of no consequence, as only her head appeared above the puff of silk. Of course, the desire to use all these pretty things was irresistible and mother's object was accomplished.

SERVING THE ORANGE To peel and slice oranges without losing any of the juice, cut a piece of peel off the top of the orange, in a circle about two inches in diameter (depending of course on the size of the orange) and cut a similar circle from the bottom of the orange. Slash the balance of the skin in strips about an inch wide, which can then be easily removed. Quarter the orange, by pulling segments apart. Take two of these quarters at a time, place them together on a large plate with the surfaces out and with a sharp knife cut across the grain of the fruit. This makes firm slices. Fruit cut in this manner can be used in any number of ways—fruit salad, fruit cocktail, or just as "sliced oranges," with sugar sprinkled over them.

HANGING TRIMMINGS FEATURE NEW HATS

Humble White Tape Fashions Smart Tam; Small Shapes Popular

For some reason it is always possible for a bonnet to suggest poetry and romance, whereas a coat and skirt never inspire anyone to be lyrical. Soft clinging materials are what or last night's stock-in-trade, whereas the actual facts of georgette and chiffon leave one cold. Thus come arbitrarily, apparently, some of the wardrobe fashions of the day, and trimmings offer opportunities of description both in the literary and the real world, partly because nearly all of them have a common feature which is as really pretty as it is fashionable.

The Bonnet Revived Among the revivals, the poke bonnet has been hitherto only suggested. It is rapidly becoming an actuality. To the Directoire crown is added the poke, sometimes rounded, sometimes square. This peak is at present made of transparent material such as wired lace or gathered net, but there is no knowing how far it may develop. Thrust well down upon the head, it is undoubtedly becoming, and is indeed one of the stock shapes of history that is practically sound to repeat itself. How far, one wonders, is it leading fashion back to the bonnet—the forget-me-not bonnet about which the Victorians used to rave and which certainly owed a large proportion of its popularity to the fact that it was worn by Queen Alexandra as a girl?

Here comes in the other factor which is influencing the Spring hat this year. There is hardly a hat, whether large or small, which is not trimmed by means of ribbons or fringes or straps or veils hanging from the brim, instead of being sewn upon the hat itself. A black straw ribbon, wound round it once or twice and ending in a hug bow at the side, the loops and long ends of which hung down well over the shoulder. Except that they are mostly worn at the side instead of behind, these large bows are Alsatian in character and are exceedingly becoming after the rather hard styles which people have been feeling bound to wear. A small round hat in various shades of the crown, was similarly trimmed with checked, rust-colored ribbon, but the ends were a little less long. In the plainer Directoire shapes the bow gives place to a knot behind, the two tails hanging straight down as though it were a child's hat. From poke bonnets and long ribbon trimmings it is not a very far cry to real bonnets with strings, and, incidentally, from the "flapper" period to the era of the young matron. There is always, of course, the counteracting influence of the sports hat, which this year more than ever is being made in the softer shades of suede leather, and very snug and close-fitting.

Generally speaking, nearly all the previous hat shapes are repeating themselves, with this difference of hanging trimmings. Varieties of tricornes introduce the hanging trimming by means of rather over-developed cockades, made of two or three shoots of ribbon standing straight out from the side of the hat. A pink Milan straw which was more or less tricorn in shape, as falling very closely and so is black panne velvet. The turban hat, again, lends itself perhaps best of all to the hanging trimming. A black turban of straw was ornamented with three rather large red rings, and from one side, slightly towards the back, hung black silk handkerchief streamers.

A tam-o'-shanter was made of this stitched tape, forming arabesques all over the crown, and the hat-band itself was made of plain black patent leather. The tam-o'-shanter was made of this stitched tape, forming arabesques all over the crown, and the hat-band itself was made of plain black patent leather. The tam-o'-shanter was made of this stitched tape, forming arabesques all over the crown, and the hat-band itself was made of plain black patent leather.

After waiting awhile to make sure that the animal was quite dead, the dog was set to work to skin and clean the panther. Morgan asked Kenneth to show him the spot where they had killed the panther, and Kenneth was only too delighted to take him there. On arriving at the place, Mr. Morgan listened attentively while Kenneth described the killing of the animal; then he went to the foot of the tree, and examined the spot where the panther had fallen from the limb. The rocks bore the traces of the struggle, the fierce beast for life. The moss and thin covering of earth was torn up in great patches.

Then something in one of the bare patches arrested Mr. Morgan's attention. Stooping, he scraped the earth away more cleanly with a piece of stick. Then getting a stone he knocked off a small projection of the rock, and put it in his pocket. Springing up, he cried: "Eureka, Kenneth! I'll have to catch the afternoon train for Victoria."

"Good gracious, Father! Have you discovered a lucky one? You will be able to go to the High School, and College, too, if you want to, for in his death agonies our enemy the sheep stealer laid bare the finest seam of copper ore that has yet been discovered on Vancouver Island."

JAPANESE STUDENTS ON STRIKE AT SCHOOL

Kobe Girls Demanded Re-instatement of Three Teachers

Assembling in Okurama Park recently students of the Shihwa Girls' School of Kobe declared a strike against the school authorities. They announced they would not resume their studies until three teachers who had been dismissed were recalled.

According to The Taiho Nichi Nichi, the strike is the culmination of a situation which had been existing between the students and the present principal since the resignation of the preceding principal. When the head of their school failed to substitute the principal dismissed three of his subordinates for reasons which the students found difficult to understand, unless the step was taken on the ground that the teachers had maintained communication with the former principal.

Immediately the news of the dismissal of the teachers spread, six students, who were devoted to them, called a meeting to discuss their attitude, and sent a delegation to the principal requesting the cancellation of the dismissal of these teachers. The principal, however, would not listen to the students.

After the celebration of the Anniversary of the Accession of the Emperor Jimmu last Friday morning, the students again held a mass meeting in the school grounds, to discuss the situation. Suspecting trouble, the school authorities, dispersed the students. The meeting in Okuyama Park followed the same afternoon with the declaration of the strike.

At college last year a group of friends gave a unique shower for a bride-to-be. They had grown tired of miscellaneous showers, so they all clubbed together and bought one of those fascinating little electric stoves which fry, boil, etc., each in a different way or dish. A very was composed for each compartment. The stove was brought into the room with great ceremony and the bride was made to stand on a chair and take it apart, reading the verses aloud as each was discovered. A "demonstration" in the shape of refreshments followed.

More leisure for Mother! Most of us are ready enough to think of leisure for ourselves. But how often do we think of leisure for Mother? We see Mother's busy fingers always doing something. We're used to seeing Mother busy—we never think about it. That's why so many Mothers lose touch with their growing children. It should not be. Mother should have leisure like and with the rest of us.

Why should she be always doing needless tasks like baking? Why insist on her baking when Shelly's 4X Bread can be delivered to her daily—sweet, fresh, light and even, with thin, crisp crust uniformly golden brown?

VICTORIA TENOR IS WARMLY ACCLAIMED

Edmund Petch Meeting With Much Success on Concert Tour

Victoria has always shown a keen interest in the progress of her sons and daughters after they leave her for the larger world outside, and a host of music lovers will learn with pleasure of the success being achieved in concert circles by Edmund Petch, the well-known tenor.

On the advice of Signor Morando, the eminent maestro of Toronto, Mr. Petch left Victoria last year to continue his vocal studies in the East, shortly after his reaching Toronto, he was appointed tenor soloist at the Brewer Street Presbyterian Church. Many tempting offers for concert work, reached him but he refused, preferring to conserve his voice until study had perfected his art.

A short time ago, however, Mr. Petch accepted an engagement for a western tour, travelling under the name of Victor Edmunds and the following critique from the Winnipeg Tribune proves the measure of his success.

"Without prejudice it can be said of Canadian audiences that there seems a charm to them when confronted with a name, the pronunciation of which is only attempted in whispers. A man or woman going by the name of Smith, Jones or Thomas or something of that plain sort, must have abundance of super talent before convincing their hearers that they can possibly attain to continental ability in the musical line.

"At the Capitol Theatre this week a Welsh singer, Victor Edmunds, has sung in a manner more than pleasing. Blessed with a voice of purity, fine range and temperament, indicating the musician, he has only to be better known to rank as one of Canada's favorite vocalists."

"Mr. Edmunds was a visitor to the Winnipeg Oratorio Society's rehearsal on Tuesday evening, and in response to a voice of purity, fine range and temperament, indicating the musician, he has only to be better known to rank as one of Canada's favorite vocalists."

OVER six thousand Canadian Overland owners have driven their cars hundreds of thousands of miles—proved the cars exceptional economy—approved of its unusual riding qualities—

Now you can get Overland cars at prices even lower than when they were first offered in Canada—

One Canadian owner says of his Overland, "I get 30 miles to the gallon. I have absolutely cut my gas bill in two."

Another writes: "I don't profess to know much about motor cars in general and find that I do not need to, to get from the Overland all that I expect in a car."

The strong recommendations for quality and economy, as well as the new reduced Overland prices, merit your immediate investigation. Let us show you this economy Sedan.

ELECTRIC FLAT IRON TO HEAT CARBURETOR

A new use has been found for the electric flat-iron. Attached to the light socket in a garage, it serves as an ideal means of warming the carburetor of the car on cold mornings and making a quick start possible. The only one who objects to its use is Mrs. Housewife, who avers that it soon destroys the smooth surface of the bottom of the iron. That's a trifle, however, when compared to getting a stubborn car started.

It is estimated that 155,000 motor vehicles are used every day for the transportation of freight and passengers from the surrounding country to New York city.

CLUB WISHES EARLY START ON PAVING

Victoria Automobile Executive Presses Government Street Work

The early paving of Government Street and improving of the Esquimalt Road on the west side of Point Ellice Bridge to the Silver Spring Brewery, are matters that will be pressed by Second Vice-President G. D. Christie, according to a decision of the directors of the Victoria Automobile Club, who met in the Club headquarters, Winch Building, Thursday night. These matters were taken up at a former meeting of the Club and since then information has been obtained on the subject which will serve as a guide to Mr. Christie in approaching the authorities in the matter.

The Membership Committee has been appointed by President Norman Yarrow, and the membership drive is now well on its way. Already the membership has reached 200, and when the drive is in full swing every present member will be on the canvassing list. Satisfaction was expressed at the co-operation built up between the Club and the Good Roads League of British Columbia, the local organization having been well represented at the League held here during the week. The Club brought before the League, and subsequently to the attention of the Government, four resolutions dealing with roads on Vancouver Island, namely: The extension of the hard-surfacing of the Island Highway each year according to the funds available; extension of the road via Cowichan Lake to Port Renfrew; the Ladysmith to Extension road and a direct connecting link between Cumberland and Meriville, the soldier settlement on the Island Highway north of Courtenay.

FAULTY ALIGNMENT OF WHEELS CAUSE LOSS

Millions of Miles of Tire Service Lost Annually From This Cause

Millions of miles of tire service are lost annually through misalignment of automobile wheels. Faulty alignment can rasp away, before the owner realizes it, half to two-thirds of the service that is in a tire.

Although extreme cases are easily detected by the way the car steers, slight cases are almost unnoticeable to the ordinary driver, even though they may be stealing hundreds of tire miles.

This condition is not always the fault of bent axles, of broken springs, loose spring shackles, and sprung zation having been well represented at the League held here during the week.

Any part of the running gear which has become worn or out of shape, is bound to cause friction on the tires. Frequent examination of car wheels for alignment will prove exceedingly profitable to the car owner.

The wheel alignment proposition has come to be of such vital importance in the tire industry that service stations are putting in machines to test alignment while the car owner is getting gas or air. The day is not far distant when this service will rank with air service in the tire shop.

is estimated that there are now about 430,000 automobiles and automobile trucks that have an average mileage of 5,000 for their tires, and the present mileage could be increased to 12,000 if the roads were well paved. With tires at 25c each, there would be a saving of more than $17,000,000 a year on tires alone. "One-third of the present amount of gasoline would be saved on good roads and assuming this to be only one-third of a gallon a day for each automobile, it would amount to $10,000,000 a year. The saving on repairs and upkeep of cars would reach nearly $7,000,000 more, which with the additional sum derived from the auto tax, is sufficient to build three roads across the full width of the state at a cost of $40,000 a mile."

A broken spring plate should be repaired or replaced at once by a skilled springmaker, not by any chance a blacksmith. If the intermediate plates should break at the centre bolt, the spring clips should be tightened down until it is possible to have the break repaired. Very often rebound clips are loose or broken. Missing rebound clips may result in broken main plates.

"The most important features that go to make the work successful, in commercial aviation, are, Safety in Flight, Reliability of the Machine, Economy in Manufacture, and Operation, Expert Pilots, and efficient out-of-the-main Efficient Ground Organization, including Meteorological Forecast Stations," said Norman A. Yarrow, A. M. E. I. C., of the advisory council of the Air Board in British Columbia, today at a luncheon of the Engineering Institute of Canada at the Dominion Hotel, at which he read a paper on civil aviation, from which the following abstracts have been taken:

Air craft in Canada will be used very extensively for the opening up and surveying of comparatively unexplored territories. Reference to the standard maps will show the development in this country extends mainly by East and West, along the international frontier, and that the development north of the boundary is comparatively recent, and therefore much exploration work with the camera will be done, and forest protection cruises carried out.

"We must not lose sight of the fact that in many of the northern parts of this country, and in Eastern Canada, snow and ice prevail for many months each year. It is therefore necessary that if air craft is to operate all the year round, provision must be made for aeroplanes, seaplanes and flying boats to land on snow and ice.

This is not a difficulty that cannot be readily overcome, and has been, to a certain extent, by means of skids fitted to the under carriage of the fuselage, but there is a period in the Spring, and similarly in the Fall when it will be difficult to find suitable open water for amphibious machines to land on, or yet ice of sufficient strength to bear the weight of the machine at rest.

These climatic conditions must be carefully considered, when regular transportation services are to be introduced.

"It might be interesting to know that the Canadian Air Board, with which I have the privilege to be connected, as a member of the British Columbia Executive, has issued statistics covering a six-months period, between May 1 and October 31, 1920, that show there are thirty firms engaged chiefly in operating air craft in Canada, and to give you some idea as to what has so far been accomplished, you might be interested to hear that approximately 422,000 miles have been flown and over 15,000 passengers carried, and an amount exceeding three tons of freight has been transported by air," said Mr. Yarrow.

Her Baby Girl Had Fearful Eczema "If mothers only knew the value of D. D. D." writes Mrs. A. Ashby of 532 Yonge St., Toronto. Why not get a bottle of D. D. D. today and see how a case of eczema that completely covered the head and neck.

Most Crashes Avoidable. "Many of the crashes that have occurred have been traced directly to adverse weather conditions, and when an adequate meteorological organization is established, accidents resulting from ignorance as to weather conditions, will be greatly minimized. Then, again, many accidents have happened through inefficient and inexperienced piloting, and unnecessary aerial acrobatics.

Ground Organization Necessary. A section requiring much development, is that of the ground organization, including a series of aerodromes throughout the country, which should, where possible, be located near the centres of population, and that provision for night flying, as well as day, should receive its share of consideration.

HOW MR. BOWSER ANSWERED THE MODERATIONISTS

Capt. Ian MacKenzie has presented to the Legislature the answers to W. J. Bowser, K. C., leader of the Opposition, to questions submitted to candidates in Vancouver by the Moderationist Party.

Question 1.—What are your views as to the Constitution of the New Act? Answer (W. J. Bowser)—I have an open mind, but am strongly of the opinion that the Government should have control, as final responsibility must be left to the Attorney-General.

Question 2.—How do you propose to deal with Near Beer Saloons? Answer (W. J. Bowser)—Details would have to be worked out later, as property rights and vested interests would have to be considered.

Question 3.—What provision would you make for the accommodation of the homeless working man? Answer (W. J. Bowser)—The present Act is a mistake. Bachelors should have the same rights as householders.

Question 4.—What are your views on the question of private importation? Answer (W. J. Bowser)—Do not agree with raising the question, as Provincial Government would conflict with Federal rights.

Question 5.—What are your views on the Permit System? Answer (W. J. Bowser)—Some system of permits will be absolutely necessary to insure real Government Control.

Question 6.—What do you think the age limit should be? Answer (W. J. Bowser)—Twenty-one years.

Question 7.—Are you prepared to keep this issue out of politics? No Answer.

Question 8.—What are your views regarding the distribution of Revenue to be derived under the New Act, as between the Province and Municipalities? Answer (W. J. Bowser)—Will not express an opinion until Tuesday.

Question 9.—In carrying out the mandate of the electorate will you, if elected, give due consideration to the suggestions put forward by the Moderation and Liberty Leagues? Answer (W. J. Bowser)—Yes. Also those of the Prohibitionists.

Question 10.—Should Legislation be final, tentative or provisional? Answer (W. J. Bowser)—Would give wide powers to Boards of Control.

Question 11.—A number of rabid Prohibitionists hope to make the Act a failure. There are certain to be some defects in the Act, and the Moderationists are anxious to see the right to assist in carrying out the principles of the Act. How would you accept this offer of assistance? Answer (W. J. Bowser)—Failure to enforce the Act must reflect upon the Attorney-General, and he would not want the weight of the Moderation Party completely to control his actions.

Praises Water Controller. Dealing further with the amendments to the Water Act, in moving the second reading of the bill, Hon. T. D. Pattullo, Minister of Lands, published the statements given out in class before the Legislature, work should be a burden upon the whole of the Province. This could not be permitted, said the Minister, who felt that the Government's irrigation policy was one of the outstanding blessings which had come to the residents of the province.

Hon. Mr. Pattullo made tribute to Water-Controller Cleveland, a man, he said, who was doing splendid work for the public. Every day when the dry-belt were well pleased with the Government's policy.

"They didn't endorse it at the last election by electing me. If I were elected I would get free water so much the better. But we are all right anyway."

"Robust and bonny." BABY ROBINSON. Dear Sir, I am convinced that my baby's robust and bonny condition is due to Virol, which I commenced to give to him at the age of two months, as he did not seem to be thriving.

I nursed him myself for a few months, but I was obliged to wean him. He had no trouble in teething and at 10 months had eight teeth and he could pull himself up on his feet without help.

He is now one year old, weighs 27 lbs., and is a thoroughly good-tempered boy.

Yours faithfully, (Sd) Mrs. M. H. ROBINSON. 3, Fairleigh Street, Holderness Road, Hull.

Virol is invaluable for the expectant and nursing mother here, whilst for children it supplies these vital principles that are destroyed in the sterilising of milk; it is a bone and tissue-builder, and of immense value. Virol babies have firm flesh, strong bones and good colour.

KING EDWARD HIGH SECURE KER CUP Fast Game Staged by High School Lads

One of the fastest games ever played by a junior hockey team was exhibited at the Arena this morning, when the Vancouver King Edward High School secured the Ker Cup from the Victoria High School with a score of one to nil.

The first two periods proved to be very hard, both teams checking their opponents with great skill. McGibbon, Victoria's centre, has "Moque" Johnson's hook check down to a "T," and it was through his hard and fast skating with the help of Moody that Vancouver did not secure more goals.

No Score in First. In the first period McGibbon obtained the puck but failed to take it up the ice. Patrick, Vancouver's centre soon had it and took it up the rink in fine style, but goalie Campbell proved to be one too many for Patrick and nearly passed the puck to Moody who journeyed up the ice, centred it to McGibbon, who shot, but could not score. For the next ten minutes the puck consistently stayed round the centre of the rink until Gyles secured it from a penalty and took it down to the Victoria goal where a hook check from McCannel saved the centre of the rink from passing to McGibbon who shot but did not touch the goal. The second period opened up as fast as the first. Moody's combination proved to make him one of Victoria's popular players. It was during the middle of the period that the game became look dangerous. Russel, Vancouver's left defence, secured the puck from Drennan and passed to Gyles who carried the puck up the ice, then centred to Patrick who took the puck right up to the net. There followed a scrimish in which the puck was shot out from in under some one, and taken down the rink by Moody, who took a long distant shot, but failed to net it.

The goal which proved to be so fatal to the game for the Victorians was secured in the third period, which was a repetition of the first. Patrick got away with the rubber as soon as the whistle was blown, but the playing all took place in the centre of the ice until McLean secured the puck and shot from the corner. Goalie Campbell pushed the puck behind the goal, but Gyles was there to get it and slipped it into the corner of the net. From then on Victoria rallied up, but could not get the game, although they had some good shots. The Vancouver's defence proved to be all in their goalkeeper, who saved the rubber up the ice, their side. The line-up is as follows: Victoria Position Vancouver Campbell Goal Drennan Claman McCannel R. Defence McLean Straith L. Defence Russel Webster Rover Gyles McGibbon Centre Patrick Moody L. Wing Bowen Drennan R. Wing Angus Rowland Utility Utility Law

A Truth Tells Why You Enjoy Blue Ribbon Tea

THERE is no need to acquire a taste for the pure and natural quality of Blue Ribbon Tea—the desire for it is a part of you, a craving of physical and mental health—because Blue Ribbon contains not one atom of artificial substance. In its irrefragable blend of flavor and aroma is the refreshment nature alone put there—the strength to invigorate, the contentment to relax. YOU can see the truth in the cup. Examine the Blue Ribbon tea leaves—note the clean, natural way they lie in the cup—pure and wholesome—of matured size. Inferior teas leave grains of sediment, short ends, flax, discolorations. You enjoy Blue Ribbon because of its purity—rare fragrance, rich flavor and constant strength are scientific results.

ALDERMAN TODD CONTRASTS FIGURES

Mentions Premier's Own Assessment, in View of Recent Delegation

Alderman Todd will make the following report to the City Council on the recent deputiation of the Union of B. C. Municipalities' delegates to the Government:

"Under instructions from your Council, I attended the recent convention of the Union of B. C. Municipalities in Victoria and with the delegation waited upon the Provincial Executive re taxation relief. I think it unnecessary to go into particulars of the delegation's efforts, for though details were somewhat different, the outstanding result, as far as we could judge, was that the Premier and his Executive gave no more encouragement than on previous occasions.

Situation Here.

"I think it well, however, to report that, concerning Victoria, the Premier made the following plain statement: 'Now, in regard to the situation in Victoria, which has been described to us here this morning, while it is true in Victoria that a large number of lots are reverting to the corporation, it is also true that many millions of dollars of taxable property are on your assessment roll upon which you levy no tax—roughly, $35,000,000. I may be wrong, but I think that one man's dollar should be considered as another man's in regard to taxation. I don't care whether it is yours or his property. So, Victoria is not in the desperate condition your remarks would lead us to believe.'

The Personal Standpoint.

"I have found from experience that a man dealing with public questions often, unconsciously and unintentionally, argues from the standpoint from which he personally is affected by the problem under discussion.

"As far as I can gather, Premier Oliver owns no property in Victoria. Mrs. Oliver, however, owns a comfortable house property; total assessment, land and improvements, $4,050. Last year's taxes amounted to $50.50. 'These taxes are undoubtedly moderate and reasonable. I doubt if there is any city in Canada or the United States—of a similar size and with similar public services, to Victoria's—that can boast of lower taxes on a property of this nature. Probably in the majority of such cities the annual taxation on any such properties is higher, and, in some cities, much higher.

Reaches Certain Conclusion.

"Viewing the problem from a superficial standpoint—or being shrewd enough to use the argument—the Premier, knowing that he is not overtaxed, and presuming that everybody is being treated alike, appears to have concluded that nobody is being overtaxed on improved property and therefore that a small tax upon improvements would bring in the increased revenue desired, and that no one would really suffer thereby."

GRANDMA NEVER LET HER HAIR GET GRAY

She Kept Her Locks Dark and Glossy, With Sage Tea and Sulphur.

When you darken your hair with Sage and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it's done so naturally, so evenly. Preparing this mixture, though, at home is messy and troublesome. At little cost you can buy at any drug store the ready-to-use preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning all gray hair disappears, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully darkened, glossy and luxuriant.

Gray, faded hair, though no disgrace, is a sign of old age, and as we all desire a youthful and attractive appearance, get busy at once with "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound and look years younger.

WANTS TENDERS FOR BRIDGE STEEL WORK

Specifications for Johnson Street Structure Ready in Few Days

Tenders for the steel work in connection with the construction of the Johnson Street Bridge will be called for within the next ten days, according to a decision reached at the meeting of the Streets Committee of the City Council yesterday afternoon.

City Engineer Preston was authorized to call for the tenders, and it is expected that a month or six weeks will be given contractors to make up and submit their estimates on the work.

The tenders will cover two branches of the work, and separate contracts will be given for the highway work and the bridge work.

Work is proceeding satisfactorily on the excavation for the piers and the Dominion Government rock drill is again at work. It is estimated that 2,650 cubic yards of rock and 2,000 cubic yards of earth must be removed from the Discovery Rock section.

The Committee recommended yesterday that an application should be made by the Council to have the Private Bill amended giving the city power to regulate the speed of vehicles passing over Point Ellice Bridge.

Engineer Preston reported that the bridge stringers were light for modern traffic, and no notice is taken of the notices warning drivers to go slowly.

In answer to an application from a number of ratepayers, the Committee recommends that $400 be spent on improving Lerwick Street. It was also decided that $227 should be spent on relaying the walk on Beau Street.

Says They Are The Best on the Market

STEPHEN McLEAN'S TRIBUTE TO DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS

Novo Scotian Who Has Tried Dodd's Kidney Pills and Found Them Good Recommends Them to All Who Suffer From Kidney Ills

Whitney Pier, Sydney, N. S., March 5.—(Special)—"Indeed I did find Dodd's Kidney Pills beneficial, so I recommend them as the best on the market."

This whole-hearted tribute comes from the lips of Mr. Stephen McLean, who resides at 1424 Victoria Road, this city. He is just one of the thousands of Canadians who have tried Dodd's Kidney Pills for the kidney ills and found them good.

"Any sufferers who want to recuperate their original health I recommend them to use Dodd's Kidney Pills," Mr. McLean states further.

There is no disease so common in Canada as kidney disease. The kidneys are the sentinels of the body. Their work is to strain all the impurities out of the blood. It is easy to see how neglecting them may be the cause of serious illness. Rheumatism, dropsy, urinary troubles, diabetes and heart disease are some of the penalties that follow neglecting the call of sick kidneys.

Ask your neighbors if Dodd's Kidney Pills are not the remedy sick kidneys are crying for.

DUNCAN BOARD OF TRADE HEARS REPORT

Annual Meeting Hears Optimistic Address of President Hugh Savage

Duncan: "We Lead, Others Follow," was the suggestion of Hugh Savage, president of the Duncan Board of Trade, when reading his report at the annual meeting of that body on Wednesday evening.

An Aggressive District.

He congratulated the Board on its public spirit in the voluntary work the Board is carrying on. It was in Duncan that the Farmers' Union was born and fostered; here the District Representation system found its first advocate in British Columbia; here the committees advisory to the legislative representative was initiated and here we have a Board of Trade whose personnel includes men from all walks of life, and its aims and activities represent, therefore, the whole of the community and not one particular class.

"The Duncan Board of Trade has worked hard to bring about better conditions throughout the reconstruction period and its members gave of their best in time and money, he stated.

"The Board during the past year has had the honor of entertaining numerous important personages and public bodies."

In all its endeavors the Board felt that it had the support of the people themselves, this being proved by the subscribing of $600 in two weeks for the purpose of extending the Board's work, the president said. Though in some cases results may be slow in attainment, yet there is always the satisfaction that the Board is making progress year by year and that it is not going backward.

No Report Yet.

Mr. Savage outlined the various railway, road, shipping, fisheries, mining, lumbering and other topics which had been dealt with throughout the busy year and expressed his gratification that the Federal Government had not yet complied with the Board's request by having Mr. Justice Eberts hand down his decision on the inquiry which closed some eighteen months ago.

"The Board is co-operating with other district organizations, and in this way good work is being accomplished. Farmers' Unions and the Board have had welcome support from the Board, which was grateful for the co-operation of the Councils of Duncan and North Cowichan," Mr. Savage stated.

"The outlook for the future is bright. Our lumber mills are reopening and it is ultimately inevitable that obstacles to the profitable development of our immense timber resources will be overcome," said Mr. Savage.

"Press in mining may be looked for during the year," he continued. "Squid settlers are making progress in the undertakings and are making the mines a success. Farmers generally were looking for better times as a result of a new era of co-operation which would develop rapidly when its benefits were realized."

The Board had done a great deal in attracting people to the district as tourists and permanent settlers. There were many openings for investment with steady returns, it was pointed out.

"There are two local matters which I would particularly commend to your serious consideration and support: The proposed district War Memorial, whatever form it may take, and your aid in promoting the development of the Boy Scout movement and Girl Guides organizations," Mr. Savage continued.

"The scope of the Board is unlimited and its achievements rest largely with the individual members. That so many have cheerfully volunteered their services in the past is the best assurance that we may face with confidence the coming year's work," concluded Mr. Savage.

Mr. Savage is entering on his third term as president of the Duncan Board of Trade and his work is greatly appreciated by the Board and the residents of the district. He is also ex-president of the Associated Boards of Trade of Vancouver and has declined to assume office in that position for another term, as he felt that the office should be passed around. His predecessors in office on the Board were W. J. Jaynes, J. Ilay Miller, T. Pitt, S. W. Carr Hillon, K. F. Duncan and A. Peterson.

E. W. Neal, the secretary, is an M.A. of Oxford. He served in the British consular service and at Delagoa Bay for some years. He was private secretary to Lord Milner when High Commissioner of South Africa. He was the secretary of the Imperial Munitions Board at Ottawa during the war and is prominent in the affairs of the United Farmers of British Columbia and a director of the Cowichan Creamery. He has been in the district for twelve years and farmed at Cowichan Station.

WILL HOLD MEETING FOR PURPOSE OF NEW PUBLIC HALL

Miss Pugh gave a very interesting demonstration on "bandaging" before the members of the Garden City Women's Institute, whose meeting was held on Thursday at the home of Mrs. P. C. Coates.

Little Eleanor Smith consented to become "the patient" for the afternoon and submitted herself with childish grace to the bandaging of "broken" limbs and bones, and cut fingers and so forth.

Many useful hints were also given by Miss Pugh as the work proceeded.

The Home Economics Committee reported that various firms had quoted prices of raw wool and it was decided to purchase for the use of individual members and for the Institute, 100 pounds of raw "Island" wool to be made into comforters. A working day will be announced at a later date.

The Educational Committee reported that the dressmaking class, under the supervision of Miss Ethelridge, was still making very satisfactory progress, the average attendance being well sustained, and all members engaged in the work.

Mrs. Nix gave a report for the Building Committee, and four other members were appointed to work with that body.

It was finally decided that a public meeting be held on Wednesday next, 7.30 p. m., at the McKenney Avenue school, when all people of the district interested in the building of a hall are cordially invited to attend.

"Stranger Than Fiction" is the title of the Vitaphone production which Ernie Williams started at Hollywood this week. The star appears as an author who is accused of writing wildly improbable stories that his critics claim could never happen in real life. The author proves that such action can and does happen, for he actually lives a story to the satisfaction of his readers. There are many melodramatic scenes and startling pieces of action.

Women directors of art museums draw salaries ranging from $2,000 to $6,000 a year.
