"NAGGING" A CORPORATION

After stating that the Claiborne avenue power house and the Edison plant in Union near Dryades street were maintained by the New Orleans Railways and Light Company, as emergency plants and were promptly switched into service when a break occurred at the main plant Sunday night, one of our trio of illustrious contemporaries exposed a fatal weakness in the system by saying:

President Curran would not comment on what would happen if the Claiborne or Market street power-houses were to break down.

This is inferentially a shocking disregard of the public convenience. The Railways and Light company should have emergency plants scattered over the city as thick as blackberries in Barataria with crowds of workmen standing around idle and waiting so that if one, or two, or a dozen emergency plants break down, another may be chucked into the breach.

One presumes that it would have no bearing on the case to plead that the New Orleans street railway system is one of the most convenient and well operated in any large city; that the company's light service is reliable and well maintained and that the necessary increase in expenses during the past year has deprived the company's stockholders of their usual dividends.

Those who are experts in the art of spending other people's money and managing other people's business could not be expected to take such trifles into consideration.

Neither is it any excuse for the company to state that any vital portion of its machinery had broken unexpectedly. The company should employ prophets to peer into the future and foretell just when the machinery will break, so that the emergency can be warded off.

No wonder, lacking this corps of soothsayers (by its own negligence, of course), the company at times is obliged to leave outraged and indignant citizens standing at the street corners for fifteen or twenty minutes waiting to spend a nickel for a five or six mile ride!

For bitterly objecting to good service because it is not made better, and for meekly enduring bad conditions that should not be tolerated for a day, the New Orleans kickers are in a class by themselves.

The war department started out a month ago with the announced determination to spend 600 million dollars and build 35,000 airplanes. It seems to have settled down last week to the plan of spending 640 million dollars and building 22,000 airplanes.

ITEMS OUT OF THE ORDINARY FROM THE DAY'S COURT GRIND

The rules of the district court have been announced by the civil judges so as to prevent the withdrawal of documents from the vault at the clerk's office, except where they are to be used in a case on trial. Where papers are required in a courtroom, they are to be taken out on requisition from the minute clerk of the court, where they are to be used, and returned the same evening.

It has been the custom heretofore to permit attorneys to take papers from the clerk's office and use them at their offices, but the papers in a number of suits have been lost in this manner, and the privilege has been withdrawn. In cases where it is necessary to obtain documents from the clerk's office to effect a settlement in a case, the documents may be withdrawn permanently upon a court order, providing certified copies are made and left with the clerk.

FILES RULE FOR ACCOUNTING

Administrator Is Cited by Receiver for a Creditor of Paterno Estate. Arthur Barba, administrator since November 30, 1915, of the succession of Philip Paterno, must appear in the civil court Thursday to answer a rule and show cause why he should not file an account of his administration. The rule was filed by M. Sansovich, receiver for a concern to which the Paterno estate is alleged to be in debt. Sansovich asserts that Barba has never filed an accounting, despite numerous requests and rules on him, and that it is necessary for such an accounting to be made in order to conserve the interests of the firm he represents.

SEYMOUR ESTATE IS $22,083

LINN SUCCESSION AT $40,531. The estate of the late Mrs. Jeanne Thompson Seymour is valued at $22,083 in an inventory filed yesterday. Real estate comprises $9,700 of the total. Other items are: eight New Orleans bonds, $7,700; four Louisiana bonds, $4,570; cash, $253; Bernard Benson, administrator of the estate of Marseville Linn, filed his final account with the court. It shows that the property of the estate is valued at $40,501, with liabilities of $92,49, of which $50 represents the cost of administration.

The following actions have been instituted in civil court: Succession of Mrs. Tassie Evans, possession; Alex Fouldier vs. Leonie Albovine, divorce; Succession of George F. Beaumont; Gladwyn H. Bell vs. His Creditors, respite; Miss Anna A. Rice vs. Peter Farrugia, provisional seizure, $655.

May Play His Part In The Great War

Major-General John F. Morrison was born in New York, December 25, 1867, and appointed to the Military Academy from that state in 1887. In 1891 he was made a second lieutenant and assigned to the infantry. He is an honor graduate of the Infantry and Cavalry school, and was a member of the general staff from 1907 to 1911.

General Morrison is considered the greatest expert in strategy and tactics in the army to-day. Until his recent promotion from a brigadier-generalship he was in command of the Army School of the Line and was a lecturer on strategy and the art of war and has done wonderful work there. He is an officer of exceptional force, particularly in specialization.

During the Spanish-American war he saw active service in Cuba and in the Philippine Islands. During the Russo-Japanese war he was assigned as military attache with the Japanese army.

CAREFREE GUAM MUST WORK U. S. ORDERS

By International News Service. San Francisco, July 17. After nineteen years of occupation by the United States, the real Americanization of Guam is about to begin, according to the local marine corps headquarters. The island congress, which met recently, considered this its greatest duty, and word has been sent out that the Chamorros, the natives, will have to attend the public schools and engage in a half-hour conversation in English twice daily.

In an effort to make an agricultural race of the carefree Chamorros, each of the congressmen, who are the landholders of the island, has been directed to develop his place into a model farm, where the natives may be instructed in farming and stock raising. Seed and plants will be supplied free by the government and live stock and implements at cost.

TRUE WAR DOG IS THIS PUP OUT IN DENVER

By International News Service. Denver, July 17. Army recruiting headquarters here has a real dog of war. His name is Corporal Riley. He came from somewhere around Bunker Hill, at least he admits a Boston affiliation in his pedigree. He stations himself in front of headquarters and when some well-built specimen of humanity that looks as if he might have fight in him, hesitates as he passes the door, Corporal Riley seizes him by the trouser leg and takes all the hesitation out of the man who thinks of enlisting.

TEXARKANA IS DRY, TOO

Texarkana, Ark., July 17. "Hurry quick, he'll broke loose in here," was the shrill cry coming from the baggage room at the depot today. Thorough investigation led to the discovery of a crate of one hundred Mexican parrots. One nearly famished for water, was making known his misery. The parrots were being shipped from Laredo, Tex., to Des Moines, Ia.
