COULD FORCE BACK BY BURBANK PASTORS

Ministerial Union Goes on Record in Favor of Law Enforcement

The Ministerial Union of Burbank went on record at a meeting held Saturday afternoon in the Methodist church, as resenting "any movement that would seek to undermine the influence of our Board of Trustees."

Thomas E. Stinson, of Presbyterian church, president of the Union, presided over the meeting, which was summarized as a result of the resolutions adopted the night before by a group of Burbank merchants and club members, at a meeting held at the Good Fellowship club rooms, the resolutions being for dismissal of Police A. A. Crawford, dismissal of roadway motor-cops, abolition of speed regulations and cessation of arrests of violators of the road act.

Text of Letter

The following is the text of a letter drafted by the Ministerial Union and forwarded to the Board of Trustees of the city of Burbank:

"The Honorable Board of Trustees—The Ministerial Union of Burbank met to consider the status of law enforcement in our city.

It was the unanimous conviction of the ministers that we have no movement that would tend to undermine the influence of the city Board of Trustees, in its efforts toward law enforcement for the protection of our people and girls.

We hereby pledge our hearty support to any effort you may make for the enforcement of our laws and the safety of our children.

We have five members of the Ministerial Union who attended the meeting and drafted the communication: Rev. Thomas E. Stinson, president, Presbyterian; Thomas E. Allen, Methodist; Ernest Main, Baptist; Rev. J. Parker, Christian, and Rev. W. H. Hennessey.

Held by Bandits For Big Ransom

Major Robert A. Allen, of the Medical Corps, U. S. A., and J. P. Powell, correspondent for a Chicago newspaper and editor of the Far East Review, of Shanghai, were among the eight Americans captured by Chinese bandits, near Tien-Tsai, and held for ransom.

The bandits in the Shantung hills are expected at once as the result of an agreement reached with the brigands by representatives of the Peking government, said a dispatch from Linchong today.

The Peking government agreed to withdraw the troops and to enroll the bandits in the national army. The bandit leaders said they were satisfied, but wished to see the agreement signed before the captives were liberated.

There are still two women among the prisoners, one of them being the wife of Manuel Veren, a wealthy resident of Guadalajara.

Japanese brands the international attitude towards the bandit situation as "reactionary."

There is a persistent rumor here that Japanese were really responsible for the raid, although there were no Japanese upon the train.

Chinese officials say that the Japanese governor general of Saghalien was to have traveled on the raided train, but cancelled his ticket upon receiving warning.

J. P. Powell, one of the Americans held by the bandits, sent word out to friends:

"Tell wife I am O. K."

BIG PROPERTY LOSS FROM TERRIFIC STORM

Twenty-five Killed, Scores Hurt, Many Farm Houses In Ruins, Reported

MANY persons were reported killed and injured and heavy property damage caused by a violent tornado which struck in and near Mitchell county in western Texas today.

Telephone and telegraph communication with the scene was interrupted but best available reports put the dead at twenty-five and the injured at 200 or more.

The target of the storm was a strip of territory between Loraine and the Texas & Pacific railroad.

DALLAS, Tex., May 14.—Over long distance telephone, W. H. Hooper, president of the Chamber of Commerce at Colorado, Tex., said, according to the best information obtainable there that fully twenty-five persons had lost their lives and 200 more or less seriously injured in a tornado which struck near the Texas & Pacific railway west of Loraine, Tex., this morning.

All wire communication is interrupted and it will be several hours before the loss of life and property damage is definitely known. Two miles of telegraph wires on the Texas & Pacific railway has been blown down and the storm may have covered a wider area than is now known.

"No accurate estimate of the dead and injured can be made until a complete check is possible late today," Hooper said. "The Colorado sanitarium is filled with dead, dying and injured. Property loss will run into hundreds of thousands of dollars."

Homes in Ruins

"The cyclone was a mile in width and extended over an area of fifteen miles from the vicinity of Richardson, six miles west of Colorado."

"This is the section formed of the vicinity of Colorado and Loraine. All telephone communication to communities in the strike-district is destroyed.

"Many of the best farm homes in Mitchell county have been reduced to debris.

"The section through which the cyclone passed is one of the most densely populated rural districts of the county. The cyclone was accompanied by a severe rain and hail storm. Damage to crops over the county will be heavy. In some of the farm homes destroyed, two or three members of a family are reported as having been killed, while others were seriously injured and may die. Debris is scattered over the countryside for miles."

TRIM AGED MAN IN HIGH FINANCE

Women Said to Have Been Leaders of Band Who Sought Victims

NEW YORK, May 14.—"I was trimmed by a slick crowd," Charles B. Manville, 89 years old, the wealthy founder of Johns-Manville, Inc., made this statement in revealing how he said he had been worsted in a game of high finance by Mrs. Myrtle Bowman Hayes, and others.

Mrs. Hayes is the woman who was carrying on negotiations in her hotel here for the erection of a $5,000,000 apartment house in Brookline, Mass., until she was arrested on the charge of forging the name of Charles M. Schwab, multi-millionaire steel manufacturer, to a note for $25,000.

Today the authorities are checking up Manville's remarkable story in the belief that it might lead directly to a band of confidence men and women preying on rich business men.

Women wearing exclusive gowns, bedecked with diamonds and living at the best hotels in this and other cities, lunge for people to invest in worthless "business" enterprises, according to Manville.

Accuses Two Women

In an interview at his country home in Pleasantville, N. Y., Manville charged that Mrs. Hayes and another woman lured him into doubtful ventures with a group of whom six are now under indictment, awaiting trial on charge of using the mails in an oil stock fraud. He said he had been stung and stung had.

One of their schemes, he alleges, was an oil deal; another an automatic slot machine.

Manville identified Mrs. Hayes as one of the prime movers in a big oil swindle which was unloaded on the public from coast to coast. It was exposed in April, 1922, when the local federal grand jury indicted six individuals. They are now awaiting trial. They are: Mrs. Cora Stetson Butler, Walter B. Clarke, of Boston and New York; Ernest E. Phillips of Kansas City, Mo.; Dixie L. Peters of Los Angeles; Benewitz X. Dawson, of New York, and Mark S. Mathews, of New York.

The "sing" is open to the general public and all music lovers are urged to take advantage of the splendid opportunity. There will be no admission charge but a silver offering will be taken to defray the expenses of the glee club.

Birthday Dinner

The members of the choir of the Casa Verdugo Methodist Episcopal church entertained at luncheon yesterday, following the close of the morning service, in honor of one of their number, Mrs. Edward Durrant of 320 North Adams street, who was celebrating her birthday anniversary. The affair was a complete surprise to the honoree, who was invited to the basement dining room on a slight pretext, and found the banquet table, decorated with beautiful pink roses with covers laid for a large number of guests, and herself, the guest of honor.

A delicious luncheon was served with coffee and a dessert course of home made ice cream, with a handsome birthday cake, decorated and bearing lighted candles.

After dinner speeches were made by Mrs. John W. Cotton, Rev. J. E. Eckles and Dr. J. E. Eckles. Mrs. Durrant was presented with a choice plant, a General McArthur rose, for their grounds at their new home which they are improving, and expressed her thanks and appreciation of the happy occasion, in a few well-chosen words.

Women Home Guests

Among the philanthropic interests of the Tuesday Afternoon club is the aid of the Florence Critchdon home for women and girls in Los Angeles. On Wednesday of this week the club has been invited to send a delegation to have lunch and spend the day at the home as guests of the Women's Work auxiliary.

The home, which houses 100 girls and women and seventy babies annually, has at present fifteen babies in its nursery.

Women spending Wednesday at the home will hear a talk by Mrs. Henry M. Hurd, president of the board of directors, who will speak on the work, aim and purpose of the home. Sewing will occupy the afternoon. The auxiliary invites each month to luncheon one or more of the women's clubs, which aid its work.

Mrs. William Hunter, philanthropy chairman of the Tuesday Afternoon club and a group of members will attend on Wednesday.

Perry of Los Angeles, manager of the Protected Investment Company for Southern California, are going ahead with plans for organizing a local branch of this company. They have met with encouragement on all sides.

The money raised by the issuance of certificates of this company on monthly payments will be used to finance builders who wish to take advantage of this service. They will endeavor to sell at least 100 of these certificates and they may be had on monthly payments of $7.00 and up. Mr. Perry promises that he will bring in dollar for dollar from the outside for every one subscribed here, to be used for local investment the same as the local money. The plan includes organizing a board composed of local men to supervise the loans.

E. L. Sweet, a member of the committee appointed by the Realty Board two weeks ago to investigate the building and loan association subject, reported at the last meeting of the Realty Board. His report was to the effect that an association could be organized with a capital stock of $25,000 and a $10,000 guarantee. Less than this amount would not suffice for the organization of this particular kind of an association, but an investment company could be organized under the general corporations act, but Mr. Sweet stated that he thought it best to organize under the regular building and loan laws.

It was the unanimous opinion that some means of financing building in Tujunga is urgently needed. No further action was taken at this time.

Figures received by the National Association of Real Estate Boards show that building and loan associations all over the United States increased $370,849,650 in assets and $47,000 in membership during the past year.

Through the efforts of the California Real Estate association a law has been adopted whereby colonization projects will be certified by the state. The law empowers the state real estate commissioner to investigate all colonization enterprises in the state and to issue a certificate setting forth his findings concerning the enterprise, covering all phases of mortgage or bond indebtedness, access to water, and the character of the soil.

Plan Fire District

At Thursday's meeting of the Verdugo Hills Business Association the chief topic of discussion was the formation of a fire district. Suggestions were made by Millet Smith, of the Tujunga Electric Shop, for flood lighting the business houses and he pointed out the best locations for houses and also to the town as advertising and safeguards against burglary.

The Association went on record as being in favor of the principle of the Tujunga fire and police patrol. Some of the members of the association have joined the patrol protection service.

It has been suggested that a fire alarm system be inaugurated and fire districts be laid out. This would greatly facilitate the handling of fires, which has been sometimes hampered by the inability of the volunteers to find the exact location or the conflagration in time to do much good.

One plan suggested is to use the bell on the Community church and to follow by a signal giving the exact location of the fire.

Strict warnings have been issued by the county fire warden as to fire permits, now that the danger season is on. Campers are warned to get fire permits or they will be summarily dealt with.

Open fires are prohibited. Rubbish must be destroyed in an incinerator, otherwise a permit must be secured from the local fire warden. Burning of rubbish must be done between the hours of five a. m. and eleven a. m. Strict observance of this law will be insisted on and failure to comply with it will result in the offender being either fined or imprisoned, or both.

A letter from the department of forestry of Los Angeles, sent out to deputy fire wardens, contains much valuable information and reads as follows:

Notice to Wardens

To all Deputy Fire Wardens: Once again I wish to call your attention to the fact that the fire season is at hand. From May 1st to January 5th, 1924, inclusive, it will be illegal to do any burning in your district without your written permit. If you should receive any such burning, you should prosecute every violation of this law where sufficient evidence is available. Report all fires to this office immediately so that we may investigate at once.

"We are stamping out permits" "good only for date issued" and you will refer anyone seeking an extended permit to this office. This has become necessary owing to misunderstandings as to the length of time a permit was good and which resulted in the loss of several cases in court.

"Vegetation in the hills was started afresh by the late rains but it is now drying down and will make a serious fire hazard. We must therefore require that every precaution be taken to make burning absolutely safe. It is always best, if possible, to inspect the area to be burned before granting a permit, and if in doubt

LA CRESCENTA SUNDAY SCHOOL STUDENTS PICONIC

Teacher Is Hostess to Her Class at Affair in Eaton's Canyon

Mrs. Burkey of Los Angeles avenue entertained her Sunday school class on Saturday. The picnicers motored over to Eaton's canyon which is out of Pasadena, on the Mt. Wilson road. Mrs. Renaud of Tulsa, Oklahoma was Mrs. Burkey's guest of honor and all voted the day an immense success.

Five automobiles were counted passing the intersection of Los Angeles and Honolulu today with yucca blossoms on their running boards. The residents of the valley are very averse to these beautiful plants being spoiled.

The grocery store at the corner of Michigan and Los Angeles avenues has changed hands. The Steele family will no doubt return to Idaho upon the completion of the sale.

Mrs. Currie, who owns a home on Los Angeles, back of the Collins and Tillinghast real estate office has returned home from her trip to New York City and other eastern points.

Purchases Lot

Mrs. Biggs of Sycamore avenue purchased a lot this week on Manhattan street. The deal was made through Tallmadge & Peterson realty office. Mrs. Biggs is a well known insurance business woman who formerly resided in Glendale.

Mr. and Mrs. McCoy and Mrs. Mary B. Darrow visited Glen Eyrie Chapter O. E. S. on Friday night, the occasion being Brothers' night and the completion of the evening's work, races of different kinds were run by the brothers. Refreshments served consisted of strawberry shortcake and coffee.

Cline & Romo, realtors, report heavy business for the past week.

Mrs. Helen Brown and son Jack of West Monroe avenue attended the dance in Los Angeles Friday evening. They saw the "Little Church Around the Corner."

Mr. and Mrs. Steere, the first owners of La Crescenta drug store were visitors in town on Sunday. They moved to Los Angeles on selling out here, but now reside in Glendale.

Dr. and Mrs. Harold Fairbanks and daughter Helene motored up to the Partridge estate Sunday for a chicken dinner picnic. They entertained as their guests, Mr. Barringer, Mrs. Burkey and son Ted, all of La Crescenta.

County Fire Warden.

Open Recreation Park

R. J. Smith and W. C. Allardice, proprietors of the Garden of the Moon, Tujunga's popular recreation center, have announced that they will not charge for dancing between the hours of 8 and 8:30 on Wednesday and Saturday nights. This is something new and is proving popular with the dancers.

The 1923 season opened at the Garden of the Moon Saturday, May 5, to a large crowd of dancers and spectators, and the attendance since has been such that the management anticipates a busy and prosperous season. The addition of extra floor space was a wise prediction, as the crowds are increasing each night the pavilion is open.

Jake Wescher's jazz-phonists, the same who played last season, are still furnishing a high standard of dance music. Picnic accommodations are being added to the park adjoining the pavilion, and with the opening of Wildwood Lodge, the third limit has been caught there already, near the camp. The man's name was not learned, but he rushed to B. H. Dyas's store in Los Angeles and found that he was third.

According to a check of traffic by one of the rangers, Ted Montt somery, who has been assigned to the territory formerly covered by H. H. Milton, close to a thousand automobiles entered the Big Tujunga canyon on a recent Sunday. Most of them carried four passengers at least, and some carried more. Using these figures as a basis, this would make close to five thousand people in the canyon on picnics. Big Tujunga's canyon on picnics. Big Tujunga's increasing every year.

Deputy Sheriffs Moody, Stensland and Stevens made the arrest of a man who gave the name of William Hartson and another man and woman giving the name of Coke, on a charge of larceny, and all were lodged in the county jail.

ASSEMBLY BILLS ARE CLEANED UP

Senate Measures Are Now Up for Consideration in Lower House

By GIL A. COWAN
Specialist to The Evening News
SACRAMENTO, May 14.—Seven bills from the town clock and all is well under the capitol dome. The assembly Saturday completed its record-breaking night and day session in which more than 100 bills were given final consideration before the house turns to the senate file.

Of utmost importance to Glendale and its airport is the Bromley bill, which was among many passed. It provides for the regulation of aircraft and the appointment of a director of civil aeronautics. Under the terms of the measure pilots must be 18 years old, examined and tested. Planes will be registered, fees charged and rules established to control aviation.

Assemblywoman Eleanor Miller succeeded in getting her measure providing $80,000 for Sonoma Industrial Farm Home passed during the night, but Governor Richardson assures the writer he will veto such a bill.

Halt Insurance Frauds

As cold gray dawn spread over the capitol the assembly of the California legislature in extended session Saturday refused passage of the Davis bill, which would have repealed the Saylor act prohibiting hanging of youths under 18 years of age. Among the many measures passed was one by Edward Baker, Los Angeles, designed to prevent accident insurance frauds such as was perpetrated in the southern metropolis by Weep-Eyed Wilson. Assemblan Spence related how this fellow had mulcted insurance companies with his changeable countenance. Baker's bill creating a fishing preserve in the Angeles national forest also won out in the last minute legislation, as did Otto Emme's bill calling for a survey of old-age pensions systems in California. Pennsylvania only Friday appropriated $2,000,000 for the assistance of the aged, he reported. His measure calls for $2,500,000, assisting the state board of charities to investigate.

Chester M. Kline's bill, uniting the drainage, water and levee districts of Palo Verde valley into one irrigation district which will assume the burden of $3,000,000 bonded indebtedness also passed the house.

Food for Children

Food for undernourished children in elementary schools will be provided by a penny tax if Baker's bill passes the senate with an affirmative vote. Twenty-five thousand dollars is appropriated in a bill by Edgar Stow of Santa Barbara to investigate the financial condition of the state. The bill provides for a survey of old-age pensions systems in California.

The administration measure by Clavin Morris appropriating all special funds to the general fund of the state, in compliance with the budget act provisions also passed, 42 to 34. During the debate on the latter a near riot was quelled by Speaker Frank Merriam when he discovered playful members of the assembly endeavoring to turn the fire hose on Dr. Ernest Dozier of Hidding.

One of the last acts of the senate last week-end was to pass a bill permitting the state to manufacture its own cement for highway purposes. This is a stab at the alleged cement trust.

The Morris bill, which provides for absorption into the general treasury of all of the revenues of the so-called self-supporting commissions of the state was passed also.

The McPherson bill providing for the reversion into the general fund of the sum of $600,000 in unexpended appropriations made by the last legislature for various state departments, institutions and development projects, was acted on favorably.

ANGLERS THROUGH AROUND BIG BEAR

Vacationists at Lake Enjoy Early Summer Weather At Gray's Camp

News of early summer activities at Big Bear lake was brought to The Glendale Evening News office this morning by W. R. Phelon of Gray's camp in the valley, who was in Glendale on business.

Mr. Phelon states that the trout are running large in the lake and that the banks are lined with hopeful fishermen, who are enjoying the wonderful late spring weather in the mountains.

As for roads to the lake, Mr. Phelon says the desert road is in fair condition; the crest road has just been opened for travel; and the Mt. Baldy road is open, but is in poor shape.

TELLS ORIGIN OF DAY FOR MOTHERS

Old English Custom Said to Have Started Tribute Now in Vogue

Mrs. Elmer E. McQuivy, 451 Ivy street, has compiled the following information, relative to "Mothers' Day" and its origin, following the annual tribute to mothers, is expected to prove of interest. The article:

"To the old English custom of giving recognition to Mother or Mid- Lent Sunday is credited the origin of Mothers' Day.

"In Northern Scotland and in England, a rural custom, on that day, was family reunions. Mothers were presented with tokens of appreciation by those near and dear to them, who in this act of gratitude were said to 'go a mothering.'

"Like many of our customs, the recognition of mother love and devotion rests upon an ancient foundation. It strikes deep roots into universal truth and emotion. Mother worship reaches back into pagan times.

"In America, Mothers' Day was first suggested by Miss Anna Jarvis of Philadelphia, and in 1908, the International Association for the observance of the day was organized by Miss Jarvis.

"The second Sunday in May was chosen as most suitable for universal recognition of mother love and sacrifice. Public response to the heart appeal in Mothers' Day was immediate.

Act of Congress

"Mothers' Day now has an international recognition. Wherever civilization has moulded mind and heart, men, women and children unite in gratitude to the best woman in the world.

"In 1914 the United States Congress requested the president to publicly proclaim the day for what every mother means to the home in religion, for moral uplift, good government and humanity itself.

May 8, 1914, by a joint resolution designating the second Sunday in May as Mothers' Day, and for other purposes, President Wilson issued a proclamation calling upon the government officials to display the United States flag on all government buildings, and the people of the United States to display the flag at their homes or other suitable places on the second Sunday of May, as a public expression of our love and remembrance for the mothers of our country.

Throughout human history, sacred or temporal, the memory of mother has been a sacred thought in the minds of great as well as of humble lives. The outward expression manifests the heart-felt love and tenderness toward the best friend—mother.

A portion of a letter written by America's beloved Longfellow to his mother hangs on the wall of the poet's home in Portland. It reads:

"To hear from you is my greatest joy. Your ennobling influence seems to penetrate the very atmosphere and encircles me with a loving affection that is indescribably wonderful."

To the writer, no name on earth sounds more sweetly, no name so sacred than mother, no name so long before the natal hour "until death do we part," does the loving, anxious mother faithfully watch over those entrusted to her care and guidance.

Symbolism of Carnation

How fittingly does the carnation symbolize motherhood. Carnation signifies flesh tint. As I pick the emblem of motherhood, petal by petal from its sacred cup, a mother's influence surrounds me and all past unjust thoughts banish.

The green calyx of the carnation conceals within it the bud of youth. As the sepals of the calyx gradually expand the sacred petals burst into full bloom, still clinging firmly, to the stem of life by their silvery threads.

The broad, almost transparent, petals, signify the expansion of mothers' experiences, the saw-tooth edges, the various perplexities which daily confront her.

Fragrance—the soul of the flower—signifies the cheerful, spiritual atmosphere which she extends to all about her.

Color—red, the life and power manifested by her in the home.

White flower, purity; when life's duties are ended, the faithful soul leaves the carnal body, enters her home for deeper spiritual experiences.

Commission to Insist On Phone Efficiency

SAN FRANCISCO, May 14.—Development of telephone services in California on an unprecedented scale, calling for a construction program throughout the state by telephone companies aggregating $30,000,000 during 1923, has caused the railroad commission, through its telephone department, to inaugurate a statewide investigation into the telephone situation with the view to making service at the highest possible state of efficiency.

Under the direction of Walter J. Deague, telephone and telegraph engineer of the railroad commission, a careful check will be made of conditions in the northern and southern sections of the state with the view of ascertaining whether it will be possible to reduce the number of delayed installations, and the number of service complaints, made to the commission and to the companies by patrons.

REVIEW SUCCESS ON ANNIVERSARY

Pendroy Store Celebrates End of First Year's Service Here

Anticipation of success in a business venture can only be surmised by celebrating the first anniversary with the happy realization that the goal has been reached and that the success attained is the inspiration for congratulations from fellow business men and loyal patrons and friends.

It was Mr. and Mrs. Earl C. Pendroy who, over a year ago, were inspired with the business possibilities of Glendale and made plans for opening a modern apartment store in the new building erected at the northeast corner of South Brand boulevard and Harvard streets through the efforts of J. G. Huntley and W. Evans, local capitalists.

On May 13, 1922, the Pendroy store was opened and Mr. and Mrs. Pendroy were the recipients of the good wishes of Glendale merchants and residents, and telegrams of congratulation from numerous associates in Kansas, Illinois and New York.

Success Predicted

Pendroy's opening, after all is done, is going to be considered an achievement. It is going to be one of the memorable events in the city's life," said The Glendale Evening News in heralding the opening of the store.

And so it has proven to be. The business, enterprise and interest of Mr. and Mrs. Pendroy, and the wishes of fellow merchants of Glendale residents have combined reflection in the success of the first year and they were showered with congratulations today upon the first anniversary.

We have enjoyed 25 per cent more business than the goal we set for Mr. Pendroy sums up a year's activities on the store's birthday.

Outstanding developments of business brought about by increasing trade and demands have increased the sales and earning force 25 per cent; the establishment of a modern basement store, handling crockery, linens and house furnishings; the opening of an attractive art department on the mezzanine floor; the opening of a perfectly equipped beauty parlor on the second floor; and the installation of a furniture department on the first floor.

City Store Service

Service of a city store was one of the promises of the Pendroy store upon its opening a year ago. The splendid trade they cater to is the best proof of how they fulfilled that promise.

Buyers from the store replenish the stock each season from

OPEN FURNITURE HOUSE ON BRAND

Half Million Dollar Corporation Starts Glendale Store With Immense Stock

The opening of the New England Furniture company's large store at 229-231 South Brand boulevard brings to Glendale a house-furnishing organization that sells high-class furniture on credit, without interest charge, an innovation said to be new in the business.

Royal M. Sawtelle, manager of the store, states that this generous co-operation with the buying public is made possible by the gigantic purchasing power of a $500,000 corporation with several other branches.

"We went into the local situation thoroughly before establishing a store in Glendale," states B. L. Gates, president of the New England Furniture company. "We found it to be a city of very promising outlook, certain of large expansion."

"We concluded after careful investigation that Glendale would be the first point outside of Los Angeles to get one of our branches. Within sixty days there will be branches in Long Beach, San Pedro and Alhambra, in addition to our three Los Angeles stores."

"Credit without interest is at the basis of our business, a basis we have proved to be sound and to meet a decided need. We are able to operate on this basis by reason of our large resources and tremendous purchasing power."

"We have taken a ten-year lease on these premises, negotiated through A. L. Baird of the Roy L. Kent company, and are here to stay, confident that in Glendale our investment is secure and our future guaranteed."

The premises occupied by the New England Furniture Company at 229-231 South Brand boulevard cover in excess of 10,000 feet of floor space. The main floor is 50x150 feet, with a mezzanine 50x50 feet and a storeroom 50x50 feet, next door.

The building was constructed by the Roy L. Kent Company for the express use of the tenants and contains numerous very advantageous features, among them eight large skylights that permit of all furniture on display being examined under natural light.

New York markets and the opportunity for the shopper to be satisfied in Glendale has been made an established fact by the Pendroy store.

Upon occasion of the celebration of their first anniversary Mr. and Mrs. Pendroy are inviting their many patrons and friends to visit them this week for the interest of mentally comparing the store of a year ago and the store of today.

KLAN VICTOR IN INJUNCTION SUIT

Publishers Forbidden to Use Records Stolen From Organization

CHICAGO, May 14. — The Ku Klux Klan has won a clean-cut victory over the organizations and individuals connected with the publication of Tolerance, an anti-Klan weekly, when Judge George A. Carpenter in federal court granted the Klan an injunction restraining the publishers of Tolerance from publishing lists of Klan memberships including a list of 12,200 alleged Indianapolis Klansmen.

The court ruled that the lists had been obtained by theft and fraud and also ordered the publishers to return to the Klan all records, regalia and other secrets of the Klan secured by the publishers.

A full line of the highest class furniture is carried, the product of large Grand Rapids and other eastern factories, supplemented wherever possible with locally made stocks, period furniture being a specialty.

Mr. Sawtelle states that any home, large or small, can be thoroughly equipped from the floor of the South Brand boulevard store of the New England Furniture Company, and that in addition a bungalow court and apartment house business will be solicited.

Population Grows

Four families will immediately be added to the population of Glendale, as the result of the establishment here of a branch of this large company. And Mr. Sawtelle states that he will move to Glendale with his family in the fall, when his present lease in Los Angeles expires.

The three salesmen who will represent the new company on the floor are C. A. Handyside, A. H. Greenberg and Lloyd Martin, all of them men of wide experience in the furniture business.

In addition, stenographers and bookkeepers will immediately be installed, and a delivery service will be inaugurated at once.

B. L. Gates, president of the New England Furniture Company, is planning to close out his interests in Seattle, Wash., and move to southern California with his family. Mr. Gates is president of the Seaboard Securities Company of Seattle, a director of a Seattle bank and president of the National Finance Corporation of Los Angeles.

The general manager of the New England Furniture Company's chain of stores is S. F. Smith, of Los Angeles.

ARTIST TO GIVE SPECIAL DANCES

Kathleen Woods to Appear in Pasadena Show in Spanish Costume

Miss Kathleen Woods of 122 West Milford is to appear in dance numbers this week in a production given by the Pasadena Community Players. In a Spanish dance that she is to give Miss Woods will wear as part of her costume a Spanish shawl of pure white silk, embroidered with red roses, valued at $1,000.

The Pasadena Players have their own little theatre, and are planning to build a new playhouse this year. According to Miss Woods the Pasadena people have highly complimented the recent Fun Revue given by the Glendale Players.

Miss Woods has trained the players for the present production. She also trained the students of the California Institute of Technology for the production of a comedy last week.

TWO INJURED IN AUTO COLLISION

Crash on Montrose Street Causes Excitement on Sunday Morning

Two automobiles collided at the intersection of Verdugo road and Honolulu avenue about 1:20 a. m. Sunday morning, and caused considerable excitement in the heart of Montrose.

A sedan was being towed up the hill. It contained J. Y. Sands, Mrs. Elizabeth Sands, Mrs. Mary Cupps and Miss Caroline Cupps, all of La Crescenta.

As it turned the corner to go west on Honolulu avenue, it was struck by a before-the-war car which was coming down the hill. This was driven by K. Webber of 955 South Los Angeles street, Los Angeles. Jack Mayner of 914 Lincoln way, Los Angeles, took Mr. Webber and Joe Bragdon of 837 Figueroa street to the Glendale Sanitarium & Hospital. Mr. Bragdon is still there and is believed to have concussion of the brain. The other three occupants of the car went to their homes. They were C. L. Davis of 824 Golden avenue, Fred Wilcox of 842 Bixel street and H. L. Floyd, 1811 West Eighth street, all of Los Angeles.

Blotting out Felix

TODAY'S SHORT STORY BY Ad Shuster

Casper Lund wore a flower in his coat. His shoes were shined until they were like mirrors, and his mind was fortified with a great resolution. He would call on Marian Gray, the elusive and provocative Marian, and propose. She would find out he would not be kept wondering whether her soft smiles meant love or amusement. He was a man, Casper told himself, and one who would not be trifled with. So he set off on foot for the home of the lady.

Under an arc light Casper looked at his watch. It was only 10 o'clock. He had been so excited, so nervous under the strain of his resolution, that he had timed the matter of dressing to the exact beat as that in which ran the rapid flow of his thoughts. The lover turned and entered the hotel. In Wardtown there is only one hotel and it is the pride of the city. Casper sat in a large chair, hid his flower and his face behind a newspaper, and waited for the minutes to pass.

"I'll wait at least an hour," he said, "but it is going to be difficult."

The waiting was not so hard as was the bolstering of the resolution. Casper tried to think what he would say. He had never proposed before. He wondered if Marian were trying to lead him on to propose or if she would laugh at him.

"Sometimes when she smiles at me that way out of the corners of her eyes, I just know she thinks a lot of me," Casper said to himself. "Then, again, I think maybe she doesn't like the looks of my necktie. Gee, I'd give a lot to know."

Casper peeked around his newspaper and saw Marian herself. She was seated at a writing desk, sending off a note. The young man saw that she was hastening, then fell again in mental debate. Would he walk home with her or stay hiding until she had gone? Casper did not want Marian to know he was all dressed up an hour before time to call. He held the paper up and pretended to read. In a few minutes she left.

"I'll just go over and write a letter myself," he said. "There ought to be somebody I owe a letter to."

He reached for the pen Marian had used and started a note. Then he picked up the blotter which had been used but once. Across its face, in reverse order, was one sentence, or a part of a sentence.

"She wrote this," Casper thought. "Maybe I'll surprise her by showing it to her tonight and warning her to be careful. A person could make it out by holding it up to a mirror." Casper held it so the words were reflected in the polished surface of the desk.

"I love Felix Robinson," There were four words on the blotter, and those four enough to crush the hopes of the young man.

"Mighta known it," Casper lamented. "That is why she always acts like she has a joke she won't share. She looks at me and smiles and all the time is thinking about this here Felix. Women are deceitful creatures and I am going right out and tell her so!"

Casper rose, straightened his shoulders, and walked to the home of the girl. More than ever he was resolved he was not going to let her play with him. He could not propose now, but he would let her know he knew all about this other man. He would show her he wasn't so stupid.

"Glad you didn't come early," Marian said, "as I just returned. I had to get a letter off on the evening mail."

"Important letter?" Casper questioned.

"Not very, but I've owed it for a long time," Casper was sitting very straight. Marian winked at the new dignity. She sought to break the tension.

"Why, would you like to know what I wrote?"

The affected indifference of Casper was a triumphant histrionic effort.

"Oh, no, I just wondered if you mentioned Felix Robinson," Casper's eyes were on the piano. How would she take this? Was she floored? He did not dare look.

"Felix Robinson? How did you know I mentioned him? Let's see. I said, 'I love Felix Robinson's latest story in the...'"

But Casper listened no further. He reached into his pocket for a flower which he returned to his buttonhole, then voiced his proposal with a spirit which carried the day.

BEAUTY CHATS

DRY SHAMPOOS

If the hair is too oily it is not a bit of use to wash it every week or so. Too much oil shows a somewhat unhealthy condition of the scalp and should be cured by proper use of tonics and massage. Curiously enough, oily dandruff can only be cured by the liberal use of oil, thoroughly rubbed into the scalp.

Meantime, while the woman is doing all these useful things to her scalp, she wants her hair to look pretty and fluffy. As a weekly shampoo is harmful, she must use powder shampoos, or the gasoline shampoo which I will talk about later.

Most of my readers know how to make the colored shampoo powders for blonde and dark hair. The basis is powdered starch, wheat, rice or potato starch if you wish, but ordinary cornstarch such as is used for laundry purposes if you want to be economical. Personally, I think the cornstarch is just as good.

If your hair is dark the starch is melted in coffee as strong and black as you can make it, of course cold when the starch is added. If it is for blonde hair, soak the powder in strong cold tea. After the powder is thoroughly mixed and colored let it settle, pour off the liquid and let dry. If it is on large platters, so only a thin coating of starch settles on each platter, it will dry more quickly and powder again without any trouble.

In any case put all the colored powder into a little cheesecloth bag and sift it into a jar. The bag can be pounded to get out all the lumps. This sounds like a great deal of work, but it is really quite simple and very easy. Scents it by adding a little perfumed sachet powder.

Side Talks by Ruth Cameron

THE PATH YOU DIDN'T TAKE

As a rule I don't like parodies. They hopelessly spoil the thing they parody. You can never hear the original again without having the parody try to thrust its insistent meters into your brain in its place. Witness the wedding march and those idiotic words of the parody. (I will not quote them because I would not impose them upon your memory if you do not already know them.)

But there is one parody I like and that is the one that pictures Maud Muller and the Judge taking the opposite paths from those they do in the poem. They marry an extract by chopping fine or putting through a grinder several of these vegetables, adding a little water and boiling until they are reduced to a pulp. A small cupful of this every day might help prevent goiter and cure it. Fresh air, balanced diet, exercise and other hygienic measures have to be part of the regime, of course.

In the goiter belts there apparently is a deficiency of iodine in the soil or water or both. The vegetables grown there may be deficient in iodine also. So in these regions it is advisable for adolescent girls and pregnant women to take some iodine in the form of medicine. A tablet containing a very small amount of iodine taken once a week will prevent and cure simple goiter.

In the goiter regions of the United States and Switzerland a certain form is being used very successfully. They will have to be prescribed by your physician, who will first determine whether or not you need them. If he does not know of them, I will gladly give him the name if he will write me on his official stationery.

each other, find out that they are not so congenial after all, and years afterwards we find them saying "It might have been" of the paths they didn't take.

The Thorns in Our Present Path

I like that parody because it brings home a thought that is always interesting to me—that the reason the "might have been's" often seem the better way and bask in a rosy light is because we don't know their disadvantages and do know the disadvantages of the path we are taking.

I was thinking of this the other day in relation to the question of marriage.

I know an unmarried woman who is successful in business, has a comfortable little apartment and would be reasonably happy (and how many people are more than that for any length of time?) if she did not feel sure that she would have been perfectly happy married.

Personally, I don't think she would have been, for she is one of those strong individualities that do not fit easily into double harness. I rather think she would have been very unhappy. But the thought that she is missing so much spoils for her what she has. If she could only know the disadvantages that marriage might have brought her I think she could be happy in her present state.

If She Had Not Married

Again, I know a woman who is terribly restless and resentful of her condition as a married woman. She feels that the exchange of freedom for companionship (which is what most marriages represent) was not the wisest barter after all. She is abnormally sensitive and thinks she would have been better off unmarried.

When I picture her as unmarried I see her as very lonely. If she could realize how hard it Chicken au Gratin—(Last Sunday's menu called for roast chicken. I assume that the housekeeper still has a few chicken leftovers on hand for tomorrow night's dinner. If she has only a very small amount of the cold chicken she may fix it with a can of boxed chicken in this recipe.) Dice cold cooked chicken finely then weigh it. There should be one-half pound. Cook three tablespoons of rice in boiling, salted water till tender and drain. Butter a medium-sized baking dish and put a layer of chicken in the bottom. Spread over it a layer of the cooked rice; cover the rice sparingly with tomato catsup and season well with a little salt and pepper. Repeat these layers till the dish is full, having the final layer of bread crumbs and cheese. Brown in a hot oven and serve at once.

Baked Parsnips—Peel and wash six parsnips and cut them in half lengthwise. Now stem them for one hour in the top of your double boiler (adding only a very little water to them, and having the water in the lower pan boiling rapidly). Remove from range, put them in a buttered dish, sprinkle with salt and pepper and pour over one-half cup of melted butter. Place the dish in a moderate oven to bake for forty minutes, when they should be tender and brown. Serve very hot.

Strawberry Shortcake—(See a full article on this dessert, which will be published on Wednesday, May 16.)

Venetian Eggs—(This is one of the most useful dishes I know of. It is nourishing, easily prepared and delicious.) Put three eggs into the top of your double boiler and beat well; add either one quart of canned tomatoes (both juice and solid parts) or the same quantity of stewed fresh tomatoes. Mix well, then season with one large onion finely minced, one teaspoon of salt, one tablespoon of sugar and a dash of pepper. Cool over boiling water till thickened (the eggs thicken the mixture), then serve on toast.

Stuffed Peppers—Cut a slice from the stem end of six large green peppers; remove seeds and partitions, and place these scooped-out pepper cups in boiling water for ten minutes (off the range), then drain well. Mix together four cups of chopped cooked ham, four tablespoons of dried bread crumbs, one tablespoon of chopped parsley, one-half of a large onion finely minced, and one-half cup of tomatoes; season with one teaspoon of salt and a dash of pepper, and stuff the peppers with this mixture. Cover the opening with a slice of bacon, and bake in a pan for fifty minutes in a moderate oven.

Diet and Health

By Lulu Hunt Peters, M.D.

Author of "Diet and Health, with Key to the Calories"

Phosphorus and Iodine

We must give a little thought to phosphorus, for it has been shown that in our ordinary mixed diet we do not always get enough phosphorus. Phosphorus is just as necessary for the living cells as protein. It has to do with the multiplication of the cells, and it is necessary in the bones and teeth and the nervous and reproductive system. It also helps the system in its normal slightly alkaline state.

Most of the insoluble phosphorus is in the bones. With the calcium, it helps to give them hardness and solidity. Even though the system were to be supplied with plenty of calcium, unless the phosphorus is sufficient the calcium cannot be used properly, and rickets may result. (There are other factors that help to cause rickets—a lack of certain vitamins, sunlight, etc.) I shall talk more on rickets later.)

Investigations have proved that if sufficient phosphorus is not supplied in the diet of growing animals, the bones are spongy and weak, and there is also a direct and harmful effect on the nervous system.

So—a little thought to the phosphorus, mothers. Luckily the milk which we are giving the children for their calcium and protein also has a good supply of phosphorus. But, in order to be sure they get enough phosphorus, let's give them egg yolks two or three times a week. Bottle-fed babies can have almonds, walnuts, lean beef and baked beans. These foods are all high up in the phosphorous-giving scale.

Iodine and Goiter

We have long known the necessity of giving special thought to calcium and iron, but it is only in recent years that we have realized the importance of the element iodine. The study of the goiter problem has brought iodine's importance to the front.

It is known that simple goiters are due to deficiency of iodine in the thyroid gland. Adolescent girls are particularly prone to simple goiter, especially if they live in one of the so-called goiter belts. I will discuss iodine again when I tell you more about the prevention of goiters.

Every day the daily diet of an adolescent child should contain foods which have an appreciable amount of iodine in them. Fortunately, most of these foods are the foods that have iron and other needed elements and the vitamins. The foods which have iodine in them in measurable quantities are sea fish, lettuce, beets, turnips, green peas, radishes and tomatoes. Carrots, parsley and potatoes do not contain as much iodine as the others listed, but they do have some.

Kellogg thinks that a concentrated extract prepared from a combination of several vegetables might be of value. You can make

To Be Happy Though Human

I think unmarried women are particularly prone to this kind of idealization. They have missed marriage and motherhood, the crown and fulfillment of woman's life, therefore they cannot possibly be happy. It is true that a thoroughly successful marriage is an ideal life. But how many of them do you know? And in the rest are there not quite as many marriages and disappointments as in single life?

How to be happy though human is the problem—not how to be happy though married, or unmarried.

Some people would be happy in either state and some would be happy in neither.

Owing to her very serious illness, Ruth Cameron has been able to write her daily Talks this week. We are, therefore printing six of her Talks, which have appeared during the year and for which many readers have written to Miss Cameron copies, in the hope that all our readers as well as those who asked for them will enjoy seeing them again.—The Editor.

"Am I Heavier Since I Had the 'Flu'?"

Weekly Health Talk No. 20
By Drs. Eble & Eble, Ds.C.

"My feet are so heavy and it is so hard for me to get up enough ambition to move, that I just wonder sometimes if my body isn't heavier? I don't mean on the scales, I mean heavier to lift?"

"After the 'flu' the body is heavier—to lift. The 'flu' to give it the current name, steals most of the energy producing power of the body. The lungs, the heart and the kidneys have more than they can do to rid the body of the 'flu' poisons because, in the beginning they were subnormal or the disease would not have been held. By chiropractic spinal adjustments the natural vigor of the lungs, the heart and the kidneys, is restored, and the waste poisons are rapidly eliminated. By chiropractic we can prevent 'flu' by practicing we rid you of it, and by chiropractic you can overcome and get rid of that 'heavy' after feeling."

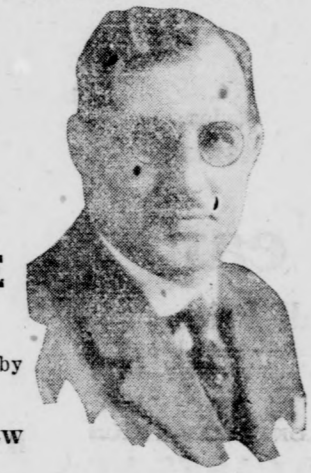

UNCLE BEN SAYS:
"Honesty is not a virtue, Nevvy, it is just an expedient and a necessary part of any normal human being—like eyes and teeth and legs."

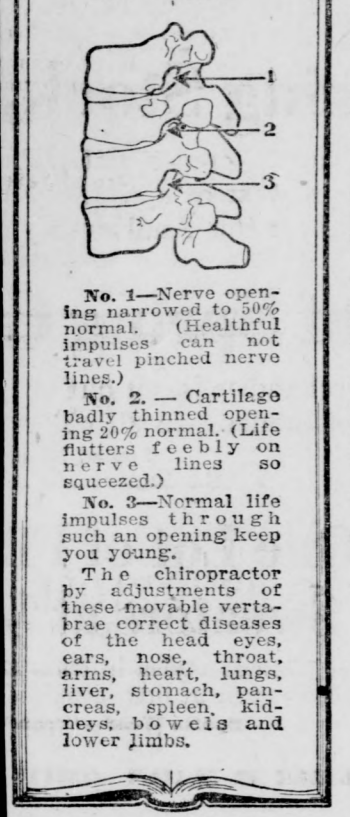

"FLU" AFTER-EFFECTS GONE

"I was left in bad condition by an attack of influenza. I coughed much and felt all wipers out all the time. As I am naturally active this condition troubled me. During my attack I had only medical attention. I was told my trouble was only the after-effects of the influenza virus, which had struck me, and I was told to get up and get on with my life. I felt like doing things once more. It is now several years since I recovered and I have had no return of it."—Thomas Carr, Chiropractic Research Bureau, Statement No. 1291F.

Sermon Excerpts And News Notes From Local Churches

CHURCHES of Glendale held solemn, impressive services yesterday, attended by large crowds. Pastors preached on varied topics and special music was provided by soloists and choirs. Herewith are presented brief excerpts from sermons, and, too, other church news:

Dr. Fareed Contrasts Idealism and Realism

Sunday morning Dr. Fareed, speaking on "Idealism and Realism" in the Tuesday Afternoon Clubhouse, said in part: "The subject of idealism and realism has engaged the thinkers of the world through all ages. Idealism and realism are two wholes of the self-same fact. The greatest idea of idealism is the thought of God, to which the philosopher refers to as the Infinite Self, the Divine or Universal Self. Idealism depends upon the faculty of imagination, while realism has to do with realism. They are the two tools with which all the great edifices of life are built. Man was not intended to fly, yet, through the power of the imagination—the mind, he has been able to build aeroplanes with which he can fly. He could not travel submarine, but through the power of the mind he built vessels that enable him to travel under the sea, thus bringing his vision into form, or transmuting his idealism into realism. In the past the race made the mistake of thinking it was only an appendage of the Infinite, while now we know God is within all His creation. Imagination and reason must be developed simultaneously. That is why religion and science must be brought together, because religion represents idealism, while science is the child of realism. Poets have dreamed dreams, but because they did not understand the power and action of the mind they were unable to bring into manifestation their visions to the world. People are bankrupt spiritually because they are not conscious of this great heritage of the God within them. They lack the awareness which this spirituality should give. There is no such a thing as the fall of man. It is the rise of man and the goal is the realization of the Divine Self. Mr. Keamoku A. Lewis, the popular Hawaiian baritone of Glendale, sang in a very pleasing manner 'Aloha,' which was inspiring to the audience. He will sing again at the services next Sunday. Dr. Fareed will speak next Sunday on 'Prayer and Fasting.'

"Thank God for good mothers!" exclaimed Dr. James C. Winnard yesterday morning at the Tropical Presbyterian church. "To raise a child for God, to bring him up in the nurture and admonition of the Lord—nothing should have a stronger appeal to the true mother. 'You need only to study the street life of your neighborhood to understand why so many children are bad. They do not get that way in the homes. And the mother that turns her children into the street while she takes an afternoon off' is sinning deeper than she thinks. Mothers, there is no call more imperative than that of your child. You are, indeed, its 'guardian angel' and to you it seems as though by special design God has very largely committed the welfare of your offspring. And this is a call that is more sacred than lodge or club or church. 'Samuel was presented to the Lord in early infancy, Timothy knew the Scriptures from his youth up. What say you of the charge that is yours? What consideration has the baptismal vow? 'There are those today who are wearing the white flower of remembrance to whom 'Mother' is more than a memory, but an influence potent for righteousness.'"

'Ideal Woman' Is Theme Of Lutheran Pastor

"An Ideal Woman" was the subject of the sermon yesterday morning at the First Lutheran church. "Ideals of women differ according to location and education," remarked Dr. H. C. Funk, "but this is evident: where woman is exalted, honored and revered, there we find the most ideal social conditions. 'God never makes a half hinge. When the Lord made man He also said, 'It is not good for man to be alone,' so He made the other half of the hinge. These two are perfect, each imperfect without the other. It is true to say that man has priority over the woman, but not superiority. 'There are young women who must go out into the world and help make a living. All honor to them for the woman in the office, the factory and the store may be just as pure as the girl who has never been away from her mother's apron strings. But there are perils attending this equal footing and common mingling with men. The danger lies in the disposition to lose the modesty and womanly reserve that will always be her strongest safeguard.'"

Pastor Preaches on Debt of Motherhood

"Our Debt to Motherhood" was the subject of the sermon yesterday morning at the Central Christian church. "Love is what humanity needs more than anything else," asserted Rev. C. A. Cole. "Here is where motherhood expresses divinity. Study the love of God, who loved us when we were unlovable because we were his children, revealed in a hundred ways in the Scriptures and then you will confess that there is no human love like His so much as the love of a mother for her children. 'Our mothers first of all! To them most of us owe more than to any other human being on earth. They were the first persons with whom we had anything to do in this world and for long years were the most important persons in our lives. He, who honors his mother, is likely to honor others who deserve it. 'We speak of service to the nation, to the race. The service upon which all development and progress depend is the perpetuation of the race. Therefore, the biggest desire and quest of womanhood should be motherhood.'"

Sunday Observance Is Urged by Pastor

Mothers' Day was observed yesterday morning at the First Congregational church. "As we honor our mothers on this day dedicated to their memory," remarked Rev. C. M. Calderwood, "we honor all the high and noble principles for which our mothers stood. We honor them for their love of God and their obedience to his holy laws. We cannot, for a moment, think that mothers would sanction their sons holding an industrial exposition and carnival on Sundays as the Chamber of Commerce of Glendale is planning to do the next few weeks. Our mothers believed and obeyed the fourth commandment; these men do not. Sons of holy mothers should oppose and condemn this insult to God, this affront to the church, this outrage of Commerce of Glendale cannot expect the support of the churches nor of the men and women of conscience unless they rectify this matter immediately and apologize to the Christian people of Glendale.

PASTOR LECTURES

An illustrated lecture on Switzerland was given last night by Rev. C. M. Calderwood at the First Congregational church. The morning solo, which was sung by Howard E. Cavanah of 130 North Orange street, was "Mother o' Mine" in honor of Mother's Day.

TO DEMAND INQUIRY

WASHINGTON, May 14.—The United States, Great Britain and Italy will join with the Chinese government in a sweeping investigation of the attack on the Shanghai-Peking express and the kidnapping of Americans and other foreigners, the state department has announced.

Need of Courage in Warfare Against Sin

"Society does not want to be disturbed by teachings that convict men as sinners," Rev. Keith L. Brooks yesterday morning in the council chamber at the city hall informed the men's brotherhood of the Presbyterian church. "It is a big service to the devil when the mouth of a Gospel preacher can be silenced." "The word that convicted of sin must be quieted. 'But Peter and John answered: 'Whether it be right in the sight of God to hearken unto you more than unto God, judge ye. For we cannot but speak the things which we have seen and heard.' 'It is such words as these that make history. There is a time to be stubborn—when we know we are doing right and God is on our side. A man in the right, with God behind him, is always in the majority. We need more men like Peter and John who have convictions and stand against all comers. It may be a bad thing to parade religion but it is a base thing for the Christian to be ashamed of it, failing to stand by his colors by his silence, denying his Master and sneaking away like a coward out of the fight.'"

Christianity Offers Solution of Problem

"The difficulty that a rich man experiences in entering the kingdom of heaven has its root in the natural selfishness of mankind," declared Rev. H. O. Kringle in his Sunday morning sermon at the Concordia Lutheran church. "The division of property on the earth, chiefly the relation between capital and labor, is becoming the burning question of the day all over the world. Man is selfish by nature and is inclined to look only to his own advantage. The rich have gone to extremes and so have the poor. 'A preventive of calamity and a solution of the problem of capital and labor would be to make Christians of both the rich and the poor. Filled with the spirit of Christ, the rich would no longer despise and oppress the poor, and the poor would no more envy the rich, and brotherly love would take the place of selfishness. All should repent of their sins and should believe in Jesus Christ as the Savior of the world.'"

Will Start Jewelry Plant in Glendale

Oscar A. Whitaker of 1244 Justin street has announced that he will establish a manufacturing jewelry establishment in this city upon the completion of the Lawson block on Wilson avenue and Brand boulevard. Mr. Whitaker, who has been in the business a number of years, is at present an instructor of manufacturing and repairing jewelry in the ex-service men's vocational training school in Los Angeles.

Occult Science

Occult Science sessions were held yesterday afternoon and last night in the assembly room of the Citizens' building at 150 South Brand boulevard, under the direction of Rev. Jennie McHenry of Los Angeles.

CROSS OF CHRIST MOTHERS' EMBLEM

Power of Christianity in the World Is Strengthened By Mother Love

"The Protestant Madonna" was the sermon theme of Rev. W. E. Edmonds at the Glendale Presbyterian church yesterday morning. "He spoke in part as follows: "The Protestant Madonna is not the Virgin Mary, but, one's own mother and in celebrating Mothers' Day we are strengthening the grip of Christianity in the world. Since we have ceased to talk about the weakness of womanhood it is time to commemorate her heroic and divine qualities. The cross is also a mother's emblem. Whatever of beauty and blessing is in the life of the mother is all due to the Christ of the cross. 'Paul tells us that Timothy's faith was made possible by a mother's example. The home was in Lystra, where, with an unbelieving father, a city steeped in idol worship, Timothy's mother held to the faith of her fathers. What a task for a mother. What a power her example had over her boy. In spite of the sarcastic sneers of her husband, the stinging cuts of her social set, and the heathenish atmosphere of the whole city she remained true to her faith. 'Mothers of America, your children's future depends on you. If you live the outstanding Christian life your children will follow you. Young men and young women, remember that mother of yours today. 'O, mother, when I think of thee, 'Tis but a step to Calvary. Thy gentle hand upon my brow Is leading me to Jesus now. 'Timothy's faith was made by a mother's instruction. No instructor of holy truth can take the place of a mother. Timothy's faith was the same brand as his mother's. Today his mother, Eunice, would be considered old-fashioned. God gives us more such today. This mother of God doing more for the world than the emperor of Rome. Moulding Christian character, she was kindling a fire of faith which would never die. O, mothers of men, this is the day when religious instruction is so sorely needed. If our mothers fail may God have mercy on our country. 'Timothy's faith was made by a mother's love, which is nearest to the love of God. Mother love has been the genius of poetry and music and eloquence, yet these fail to tell its source if it be not ascribed to God in Christ Jesus. Love is of God, for God is love, but love is not God, for God is a person and love is an attribute. The very thing which makes a mother what she is of God and apart from God woman becomes a mere chattel. Young man, young woman, that love of God manifest through your mother is a great anchor in face of weakness and temptation. It will change weakness into a strong Christian character growing ever stronger as the years go by.'"

Week of Prayer for Church Unity Urged

"The Church Unity Movement" was the subject of the sermon yesterday morning at St. Mark's Episcopal church. Rev. Philip Kemp stated that a request had been made that next week should be used as a period in which to pray for the visible unity of Christendom. "That this is a real need of Christian people, few will deny," he remarked. "How can we believe in the work of Christ and refrain from praying for it? The church has often aimed at unity but seldom for any great length of time achieved it. 'We want the right kind of unity. Without this, all will be in vain. Our great desire must be for that which will give most impetus to the work of Christ. 'Many people think of unity either in terms of uniformity in organization or doctrine. This has been, I believe, the mistake of the past because a very superficial observation makes us see the futility of expecting people to think or act alike. The unity of the future, I believe, will take the form of unity of action.'"

Bible Offers Great Field for Research

How to get an understanding of the Scriptures was the theme of a Sunday night discourse by Rev. C. S. Prout, at the Seventh Day Adventist tabernacle, in Eagle Rock. "There is no higher education in the world than that which gives us a knowledge of spiritual truth contained in the Word of God. The Bible is entirely unlike any other work." Reverend Prout said, "in that we cannot take it and study it as we would any other book and be able to comprehend the things of which it speaks. God must open our understanding. We find a remarkable statement on this point in the last chapter of Luke, v. 45. The apostles had been with Christ for three years and a half, and had listened to his teachings and seen his mighty miracles; but after all this their eyes were still blinded to a comprehension of the truths of revelation. But we read that when Christ met with them after his resurrection, then opened he their understanding that they might understand the Scriptures. We cannot have a knowledge of the Scriptures unless God opens our understanding in like manner. 'We are all of us in danger of being in the class of people of whom it is written, 'Hearing, ye shall hear, and shall not understand; and seeing, ye shall see and not perceive.' Acts 28:26. There may be wonderful exhibitions of the working of divine providence and the fulfillment of inspired prophecy taking place in the earth, and we will not perceive it unless our minds have become enlightened by the Spirit of God. The Bible affords the greatest of all fields for research and study. The greatest of all sciences is the science of the plan of salvation.'"

'Mother,' Keynote at Casa Verdugo Church

"Mothers' Day" was observed in a most fitting manner at the morning service of the Casa Verdugo M. E. church. The pastor, Rev. J. C. Livingston, delivered the sermon, taking as his text the words, "Woman, Behold Thy Son," and weaving around his subject many beautiful facts and thoughts, appropriate to the occasion. The choir rendered the anthem "Awakening Chorus" (by Gabriel). Mrs. R. D. Jones sang a soprano solo, "My Mother's Song," with chorus by the choir. The church was decorated with red and white carnations, red and white roses and Shasta daisies. Carnations were distributed to every member of the congregation at the close of the service.

G. S. LECTURE

"Adam and the Fallen Man" was the subject of the lecture yesterday morning at the Christian Science church. "Adam and the Fallen Man" was the subject of the lecture yesterday morning at the Christian Science church.

Vanished Forests Supply Varnish

TODAY, in New Zealand, prospectors are digging nuggets from the earth. Not nuggets of gold, but of Kauri gum—the fossilized resin of the Kauri trees. Excavations have uncovered three strata of earth rich in Kauri gum, indicating three ancient forests, the oldest of which preceded the Christian era. This Kauri gum hardened by time under layers of lava and soil, is shipped to San Francisco, where it is used as the foundation for the finest of General News and Gossip from Staff Writers at Home and Abroad.

TODAY—William G. Cayce, Los Angeles, quotes a New York financier who sees a great future for the southern California city.

TOMORROW—Duke N. Parry writes of riotous scenes and physical encounters in the Forty-sixth district in Tokio.

By WILLIAM G. CAYCE For International News Service

LOS ANGELES, May 14.—There is virtually no limitation industrially and commercially to the growth and development of Los Angeles.

The city is destined to be one of the world's greatest ports. If the people of the United States really understood the true worth of a just ship subsidy, there would be no hesitation in passing such legislation.

The labor situation is better in Los Angeles today than in any other city in the United States.

Bank here are thriving beyond the conception of any elsewhere.

Such are a few of the tabloid observations of S. J. Joyner, international known financier, student of shipping and authority on merchant marine. Joyner is an officer of the New York Shipbuilding Corporation, with probably the largest plant in the world. He has affiliations with the American International Corporation and the Dodson International Company, a coal corporation, and is a member of the Beaumont Constructing Company of New York and the Cleveland Dock and Engineering Corporation.

While discoursing on the Los Angeles harbor and its possible future it was apparent that Joyner has made a keen study of world shipping. His visions tremendous manufacturing plants at the harbor, where facilities for handling either raw or finished materials are available. He sees in the Orient a great market of the future, with the western shores of South America as a fruitful field to be developed to commercial advantage.

Having such a strategic location, possessing such assets as climate, cheap hydro-electric power and satisfied and efficient labor, the possibilities for Los Angeles cannot be calculated, Joyner said.

"I was here last fall," he said, "and my observation of the harbor situation is that it is the best in the world. There are no serious labor troubles here—which means everything in the upbuilding of industries. I have talked with many laborers and find them the most contented in the world."

"The Boulder dam project is the greatest thing in the west today."

"The unparalleled growth of Los Angeles is not a boom. It is solid, substantial, conservative. You are not dependent on all of the three sources which heretofore have been associated with your development—the tourists, citrus crops and oil. Without any one of the three the growth of Los Angeles would continue unabated."

"In the matter of naval and military defenses for the Pacific coast there should be no sectional differences. All communities should uphold the various naval boards in their decisions."

Should the United States engage in another war, we probably will have to fight our battles on foreign lands and in alien waters. Joyner said. Then ships will be the backbone of the nation and we must not be caught sleeping. The United States must be prepared, and a first-class merchant marine is the greatest factor in the preparedness program of a nation like ours, the financier claims.

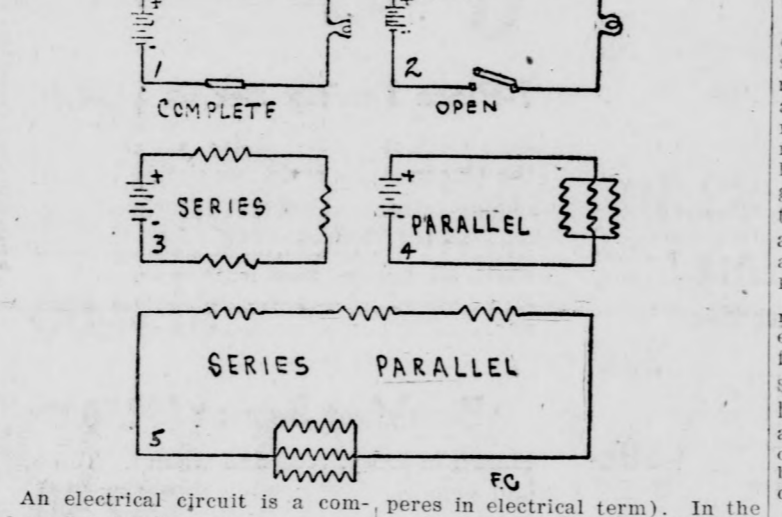

MAKES WOOD FROM CORNCOBS Scientist Gets Articles From By-Products

Professor Elton R. Daring, of Millikin university, Bloomington, Illinois, has produced synthetic wood, sugar and other valuable products from otherwise wasted corncocks. The wood, which will not crack, can stand a strain of 10,000 pounds to the square inch. He also makes xylan from the corncocks. This gummy substance is used in the manufacture of dyes and can be converted into syrup, which, when mixed with alfalfa, becomes valuable as a food for cattle. Furfural, which he also extracts, was hitherto produced at a cost of $35 a pound, but it will now cost only a few cents. It is used in the manufacture of vulcanized rubber.

RADIO BY FRANK CHAPMAN

A COURSE IN RADIO—Chapter 6 Electrical Circuits

An electrical circuit is a complete path for the flow of electricity and consists of various conductors such as wires leading to electric lamps, heaters, vacuum cleaners, etc. It consists of the source of electricity through the conducting wires and the lamp back to the source of supply. An open circuit is where the current is shut off, which can either be a switch, a blown fuse or a broken wire, and is shown in Figure 2. A short circuit is where the current gets back to the source of supply by a shorter method than originally intended, and usually consists of two wires of opposite polarity touching, such as happens when the insulation is burned off or worn off, in electric irons. Where the wires touch each other, it affords a very low resistance path for the current to flow through, and as the laws of electricity are that the current flows through the path of least resistance, no current will flow through any other part of the circuit, and, due to its low resistance and consequent high current, the fuses will burn out or the wire itself will melt. In the case of your door bell, that circuit is an open circuit until the button is pushed, when it becomes a closed circuit, but is intermittently interrupted by the make and break of the buzzer which rings the bell. Series and Parallel Connections. If we have three coils of wire each and six ohms resistance and connect them to a storage battery having six volts, the current flowing through them would depend on how the coils were connected, that is, series or parallel (shunt). When connecting in series, the amount of current passing through each coil is the same. Compare this with three lengths of water pipe connected end to end, or in series. If they were connected to a water tank the same amount of water would flow through the last as the first pipe, and the flow of current through wire is just like it. In other words, the flow of current in amperes is the same in all parts of a series circuit. In the case of the three coils of six ohms each in series and a pressure of six volts, the current flowing in that circuit would be, referring to Ohm's law, six divided by eighteen, or .33 of an ampere. If these same coils were connected in parallel as shown in Figure 4, we have a divided circuit, and we would then have the same effect as if we connected the three pipes in parallel to offer less resistance to the flow of water and deliver more gallons (amperes) of the local battery station of the ones who registered the battery might be of some service in determining the date of delivery.

Uncle Wiggily Bedtime Stories BY HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE RAGGED DOLL. Once upon a time, as Uncle Wiggily was hopping through the woods, wondering what sort of an adventure he would have, suddenly the bunny rabbit gentleman heard a voice sighing: "Oh, dear! Oh, dear! Oh, dear!" Uncle Wiggily stopped short and glanced around. "Wonder if that can be the Fuzzy Fox?" he whispered. But when he had waited a moment or two, and there was no sign of the Fox, the bunny gentleman looked about among the trees and bushes. Lying on a green, mossy log, not far from Mr. Longears, was a poor ragged doll. Her dress was full of holes, her shoes were a mass of patches and her bonnet hung by one string. "Dis you call me just now?" politely asked Uncle Wiggily of the ragged doll. "Yes," was the answer, "I did, Oh, Uncle Wiggily, I'm so miserable and unhappy!" sighed the ragged doll. "Nobody loves me!" "But, tut! Nonsense!" laughed the bunny gentleman. "Aren't you one of Susie Littletail's dolls, and doesn't Susie love you?" "Yes, I belong to the little rabbit girl," was the answer, "but I'm sure she doesn't love me. If she did would she let the Woozle Wolf carry me off and lose me in the forest. I would she?" "Don't mean to tell me that the Woozle Wolf caught you here, do you?" asked the bunny gentleman, looking anxiously around. "That's just what happened," sighed the doll. "Oh, I am so poor and ragged and miserable; Nobody loves me!" "Excuse me, but I love you!" said Uncle Wiggily kindly. "Oh, do you? I'm so glad!" exclaimed the ragged doll, blinking her shoe-bonnet eyes. "But I don't see how anyone can love a doll as ragged as I am."

"Nonsense!" laughed the bunny. "Rags are only an accident, after all. I can soon change them. But tell me about the Wolf. How did he happen to carry you to these woods?" "It is a sad story. You must excuse me if I cry a tear or two," sobbed the doll, who was no longer ragged. Then she cried "Boo hoo!" and told her story. "I am the raggedest of all Susie's dolls," she related, "and I think she loves me least of all. At any rate she never gave me a play party or took me to the movies. And as I grew more and more ragged none of the other and better dressed dolls would play with me. "Well, I didn't mind that so much, for there was an old, broken jumping jack with whom I had fun. But today the Woozle Wolf sneaked up on the porch. I was lying there, ragged and forlorn, and before I could move the Wolf caught me in his teeth and carried me off to the woods, and he dropped me here."

SCIENCE and INVENTION By Arthur Budd

ORIENTAL AMERICANS. AMONG the antiquities found in southern Mexico are many sculptured human figures the faces of which are remarkably Asiatic, suggesting the Mongolian type, with eyes which are decidedly oblique. This, in a way, seems to tend to confirm the theory that middle America was originally settled and its wonderful civilizations built up, by people who came in ships clear across the wide expanse of the Pacific. It is known that the natives of southeastern Asia made long voyages in fleets of trading ships 2000 years and more ago. They may well have reached America by New Zealand and Easter Island; or it is entirely conceivable that they may have come to the New World by sailing around Africa and across the Atlantic. It is within the limits of likelihood that the energetic shipbuilders of Java, Cambodia and India, twenty centuries ago, had sea-going craft staunch enough to encircle the world. We know that in the seventh century there was an active sea-borne commerce between the Persian Gulf and the ports of China and Japan, the trade routes covering distances of more than 5,000 miles. There are striking resemblances between the architectural and sculptural remains of middle America and those of southeastern Asia. In both regions the chief structures of the ancient cities, built in prehistoric times, are pyramids ascended by four steep stairways of stone bordered by balustrades carved in the likeness of enormous serpents and surmounted by temples. The stoned masks of the prehistoric Maya sculptures in Yucatan suggest the trunk of the elephant, and the upturned jaw of the mythical serpent, carved in stone, recalls sculptural representations of the cobra's jaw in the Far East. Ancient temple walls in middle America are surmounted by roof-crests and cupolas of pagoda-like design, very Oriental. Specially noteworthy is the fact that some of the stone figures in Yucatan are of whiskered men. Pyramids of the kind above mentioned are as a type vastly ancient. The famous Tower of Babel was a "step pyramid"—though whether it was ascended by stairs on the outside nobody knows. It was customary to crown such pyramids with temples for religious worship into which the priests of old "went up" to perform rites. It was so in Babylonia and Assyria; likewise in middle America. Later, the Egyptians seem to have abandoned the surmounting temple, and to have hit upon the idea of filling in the spaces between the steps with masonry, so as to give the sides of their pyramids a smooth slant. Baseball is becoming very popular in Mexico.

GREAT THEATRE DEAL. LOS ANGELES, May 14.—One of the biggest theatrical deals on the Pacific coast was consummated here late yesterday. It has been announced, when the West Coast Theatres, Inc., through one of its heads, Joseph M. Schenck, became affiliated with the Marcus Loew enterprises on the west coast. The West Coast Theatres, it was announced, will be operated jointly with Loew's Warfield theatre in San Francisco and Loew's State theatre here, two of the largest playhouses in the west.

HINTS FOR THE MOTORIST BY ALBERT L. CLOUGH

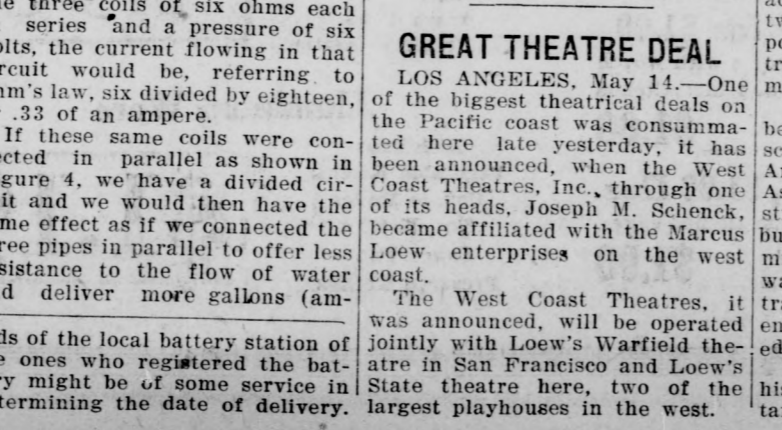

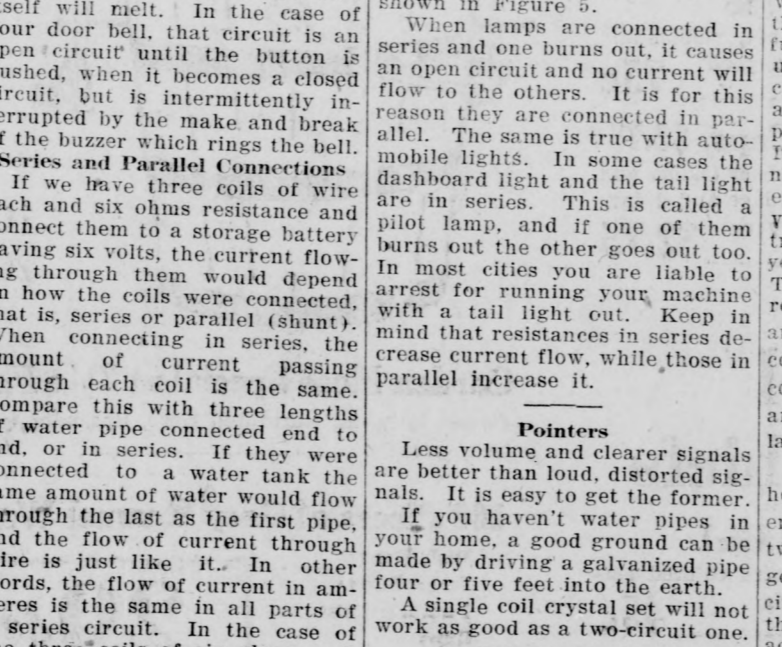

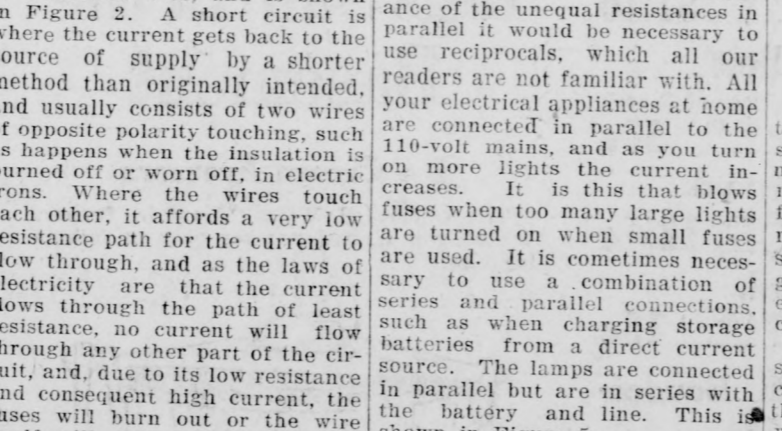

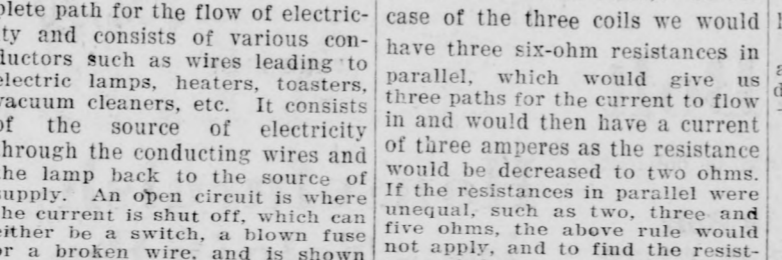

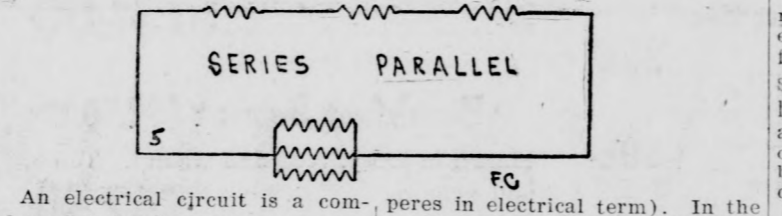

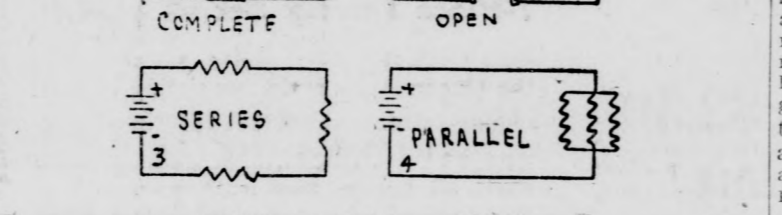

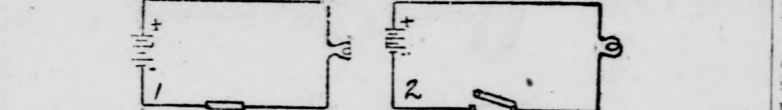

Copyright, 1923, by the International Syndicate. Questions of general interest to the motorist will be answered by Mr. Clough in this column, space permitting. If an immediate answer is desired, enclose self-addressed, stamped envelope.

THE GAS WE THROW AWAY. It is not always realized that the gasoline fed through the carburetor not all is burned. Especially when both the circulating water and the intake system are cold, a very considerable proportion of it, comprising its less volatile or "kerosene" portions, does not enter into combustion at all, but escapes through the exhaust, sweeps into the crankcase or drips back through the air intake. At starting and until the whole engine becomes well heated the loss is large and is substantial at all times in engines which have no thoroughgoing means of heating the intake. In other words, a large part of the heavier constituents of gasoline, for which good money is paid, is thrown away terminal posts, if the sealing in of the cover has not been thoroughly done. You should avoid overfilling, and protracted overcharging, see that the sealing compound is perfect around the terminal posts, and you should wipe off the whole battery top, with waste moistened in ammonia water, at short intervals.

JUDGING CONDITION OF TIRES AND BATTERIES. T. S. asks: How can I determine the condition of the tires and battery on a used car, which I am thinking of buying? Answer: You can examine the tires as to the following points, but even then, predictions as to the service they will give will be found quite uncertain. See that the maker's name and the serial number is on each, for their absence indicates that the tires are "seconds."—Examine the treads as to the extent to which they are worn, loosened or cut and as to whether the rubber is fresh and lively or hard and full of cracks. Weigh the tires themselves for evidence of repairs. Serial numbers usually convey something as to the age of tires to one who is in the business. You can tell practically nothing about the condition of the battery by inspecting it and you will have to depend upon the integrity of the seller of the car for such matters as this. The looks of the battery may give you some indication of its age, but appearances are deceitful. Of course you will see that it operates the starter energetically and brings your lamps to full brightness before you accept it. The rec-

CAUSE OF CORRODED TERMINALS. S. W. asks: What makes the connections of my storage battery become covered with green corrosion so frequently? I clean them thoroughly but they keep on gathering this substance. Answer: There is an escape of acid which "eats" the metal of the connections. This acid may be stopped out of the vent-holes in the filler-caps, because the cells are filled too full and perhaps because the battery is so placed upon the car as to be joined unusually hard. It may be sprayed out-of-the filter-vents in case the battery is overcharged for long periods, or it may creep up the filters having spread out and largely shut off the flow. If your radiator front does not become hot all over, but has cool spots in it for a time after starting, it is still partially clogged. We suppose that you used sal soda (washing soda or sodium carbonate) as the cleaning solution. Some motorists have made the mistake of using baking soda, which is useless for this purpose. Are you sure that your mixture is not too rich, that your oil quality and distribution are such as to give the pistons perfect lubrication and that the spark is set early enough and advances properly?

SPORTS

CALLS MAKE IT FIVE STRAIGHT

'Slim' Harris Puts Bee on Sixteen of Pasadena Stick Artists

Glendale made it five straight Friday afternoon, grabbing its fifth successive win in the Fernando Valley league series, at home grounds, against the team nine, by the score of 10 to 0.

"Slim" Harris goes the honors today. He had the visitors' hand and forefinger start to flash, fanning out the opposition and along but three hits, while coming for a mighty three-sack that brought the crowd to its feet.

Walt Flanders, studying the fight in horticultural terms, made the most sensational catch of the game, racing turning neatly and picking up the other a long, hot drive otherwise would easily have scored for three bases.

An estimate of 500 Glendale fans saw the home lads play Friday afternoon, and a crowd of "going great," "wonderful" and "appearance perfect" were heard on every hand.

Manager Walt Heidler wishes to thank the Bentley Lumber company a vote of thanks for great help in solving the problem on the home side. And he also wishes to thank the business men of Glendale for their support they have shown in helping to provide the teams that made possible the "appearance perfect."

Sunday afternoon the Glendale team will meet Lankershim Parkershim, in the sixth contest of the series.

Wringing It Out Of Him

By Wood Cowan

If there is one Fan in all the land who is getting unmercifully trimmed it's the Fight Bag.

The promoters trim him, the fighter cheats him, and the ticket scalpers rob him.

There has been "built up" such a list of weight splitting titles that nearly every bout is advertised as a championship affair, or it is claimed that the fighters are leading contenders and the winner is to meet the champion. This is done merely as an excuse to tack on a little extra tariff at the gate.

The winner nine times out of ten knocks over a "set-up" and boosts his price for his next performance.

"Set-ups" are the fight game's greatest evil.

The Fan pays his good dough to see one boxer lay down to another so that the winner's prestige may be enhanced thereby to the extent of more dough for his next bout, or to build up his K. O. record so he may be billed as the contender for some title.

The "Set-up" oftentimes gets more money out of that particular bout than the winner.

The Fan turns away from these affairs disgusted and resolves never to patronize the game again.

But the clever promoter soon "builds up" his next big show, and the Fight Bag, deluded, returns again and again.

Dempsey has not fought in two years—not because he had no opponents, (don't let them kid you that way, gentle readers, but because he couldn't get his price.)

It would take $1,000,000 to put over a heavyweight championship bout with Dempsey getting what he demands. That is almost as much money as football fans paid to see all the games played by conference teams last fall.

And that price has to be paid by the Fan.

Johnny Coulon fought for fifteen years and earned about $30,000. Joe Lynch, his successor today, wants that much money to risk his title in just one fight.

Take your hand out of the Fan's pocket, Joe.

Kilbane will be built up by clever publicity and, although he has not fought for three years, the bugs will be called upon to dig into their pockets and fish out no small fortune to see him put up about such a fight as Carpentier did against Sik.

The prize fighters' motto seems to be to squeeze the Fan to his last dollar. And the Fight Bag, being an enthusiastic creature, hollers, but pays—and pays—and pays.

Never a popular champion, "Souls for Sale," Rupert Hughes' story of film life in Hollywood, that ran serially in the Red Book magazine and was a best-seller as a novel, has now reached the screen, through Goldwyn, where it was made by Mr. Hughes himself.

One of the spectacular scenes is where a great circus tent catches fire and is burned down, right over the heads of the terrified audience and troupe.

"Souls For Sale" contains a great theme and is easily the best picture Mr. Hughes has turned out to date, in his history as a novelist-director.

The splendid cast includes Richard Dix, Frank Mayo and Lew Cody.

The World Over

By FRANKLIN B. MORSE. PACIFIC SPORTS SERVICE

There has been considerable discussion among the golfers of California as to whether or not, in view of the fact that the game can be played all the year round, there is not being a surfeit of competition with the result that players tire of the sport and are not keen to enter the various tournaments. That there is some reason for this thought is found in the fact that in a few instances there have been championships played which were considerably lacking in high class entries.

California has its northern, southern and state championship amateur, open and professional, besides scores of more local tournaments plus hundreds of club and inter-club matches. The probabilities are that the present schedule will be adhered to for the time being but if it is found that entries are falling off, some of the championships are likely to be dropped off the annual program.

California's championships, except the state event, are over with by the time the east is beginning to get out on the links. The indications are that from now on there will be an increasing number of far westerners included, in the various national tournaments, so this will be a still further addition to the already crowded program of play. It would seem inevitable that, sooner or later, some change would be made.

The Sport Crucible

By Davis J. Walsh International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, May 14.—Jess Willard and Luis Angel Firpo, being the only heavyweight championship contenders who contrived to remain in a vertical position for the duration of the "Milk fund show," will be asked today by Tex Rickard to embellish the dotted line of a contract, calling for them to meet in the ring on June 30.

The match, of course, is on but whether, for June 30 or later is a question. Rickard has both men in his vest pocket, so far as negotiations are concerned, and the interest of the highly important public is ready-made.

Willard convinced even the most skeptical by his knockout of Floyd Johnson at the close of the eleventh round. Firpo is now accepted with even greater spontaneity because of his quick and impressive victory over Jack McAuliffe II.

In the Broadway cafes after the bouts, wine-inflamed men shouted the Argentine's name in piercing, lingering shrieks and loudly proclaimed their opinion that the senior is the next heavyweight champion of the world.

A Willard-Firpo bout, therefore, will be worth a cool million at the box office and cannot be left to grow cold. That is the reason the worthy Mr. Rickard calls hastily for a conference even while the fighters collect their thoughts, to say nothing of guarantees, after Saturday's excitement. The writer, however, has good reason to seriously doubt that Willard will be amenable to a date as early as June 30.

The former champion has earned a vacation and certainly he is no young, enthusiastic come-on to be rushed from fight to fight at a promoter's whims.

Willard, it is understood, plans to leave for Los Angeles within a few days to join his family and enjoy a rest. If so, the June 30 date is a bit premature, if, indeed, it was not already so even if Willard jumped back into training tomorrow.

No one now doubts that his come-back was successful, least of all the writer, but there is every reason to believe that no middle-aged citizen can hope to stand the strain of training so soon after his first fight in four years. It is reported that the name of Harry Wills, the well known stevedore, will be entertained as a substitute in the event that Willard declines so early an issue. We are pleased to disbelieve this. In the first place, a mixed heavyweight bout is not Rickard's idea of a good time. In the second place, Firpo will fight just once more for Rickard before returning to Argentina to await the coming of Dempsey. That bout will be with Jess Willard and strictly at the latter's convenience.

TAGGING ALL BASES

By International News Service. Hugh McQuillan shut the Pirates right out, 9 to 0, only two Pirate runners getting as far as third base. Pittsburgh mustered only a pair of hits and Grimm got one of them, thus saving his consecutive hitting streak, which has now reached 23 games.

Dazzy Vance dazzled the Cubs for six innings but blew up in the seventh and the Dodgers lost, 5 to 2.

The Indians took due advantage of Warmouth's generosity and beat the Senators, 5 to 2. Coveleskie was hit well, but not too wisely.

In the presence of a record crowd of 40,884 semi-lunatics, the Detroit Tigers scored over the league, leading Yankees in the second game of the series, 4 to 1. Danas outpitching Sam Jones Heilman, hitting safely in consecutive games, drove in the winning runs with a double in the fourth.

BURBANK
BURBANK'S RAPID GROWTH IS TOLD

Farmlands Converted Into Homesites as Though by Magic Touch

A tour of the city of Burbank will afford ample proof of the exceedingly rapid growth of this whole section.

Residence, business, factory districts—all are in process of expansion. Where the blocks have not already been built up, the observer will find numerous houses being erected, houses of many styles but all attractive in design and homey in appeal.

To visualize the long lists of building permits that grow monthly at the city hall, it is necessary to visit the various sections and take in with the eye the significance of all this expansion.

Hillsides and valleys of green pastures and farmlands become subdivisions, subdivisions become streets curbed and lighted and laid out in neat rows of lots, and houses go up on the lots—all with such amazing rapidity that it seems, sometimes, almost as though some magician stood above the scene and waved a magic wand.

One would like to give credit to all the elements that go toward transforming green pastures or brown hillsides into winding avenues of artistic homes. Such credit would have to include the mind that conceived the enterprise, the great-jawed steam-shovel that tears out the earth by wagon loads, the ponderous road-making machinery, the concrete-mixers, the planing mills, the forges, the power houses, dynamos, wells, mines and in fact almost every element of our modern civilization.

So complex is the structure of twentieth century life that a major enterprise of almost any sort involves practically every device and facility the mind of man has developed.

Working in Burbank, this spirit of progress and expansion is converting a little town into a big city, almost overnight, almost as though a spell of witchery had come down out of the sky.

Cannery Opens Soon

The buildings of the McKeon Cannery Company are now nearly completed and work of installing machinery is under way. It is expected to have the plant equipped and ready for business by the time the apricots are ripe, which will be around June 1, it is announced.

The capacity of the cannery will be 2000 cases daily. An output of 100,000 cases for the season is anticipated.

Close to 200 people will be employed at the plant during the busy season. It is being reported that many are already registering for positions and the management suggests that others who would like to do this sort of work apply without delay.

The wareroom is already filled with sugar, cans and boxes, ready for the opening of the season, it is reported. Millions of attractive labels, ready to stick on the cans, announce to the world that these apricots were grown and preserved at Burbank.

A very successful season is expected by the officers of the company. They feel that the development of a successful cannery in this locality will benefit the growers of fruits and vegetables and the public at large, bringing increased prosperity to the entire city.

EAGLE ROCK TRUSTEES HOSTS TO CITY COUNCIL

L. A. Officials Will Visit Eagle Rock Tonight to Meet Citizens

Several members of the Los Angeles City Council will be present at tonight's meeting of the Eagle Rock Board of Trustees, in the city hall, and an invitation is extended to all residents of the community to come and get acquainted with their future governing body.

The visitors plan to be present at about 8 o'clock and are desirous of meeting personally as many of the people of Eagle Rock as may find it possible to attend the meeting.

The councilmen are the guests of this section tonight as a result of an invitation extended by the local Board of Trustees, and for the prestige of the community it is desired that a large and representative audience be on hand to welcome the visiting legislators.

The regular meeting of the trustees will be shortened as much as possible, it is announced, in order that the councilmen may have as much time as is needed to greet the citizens of the community and outline to them, in a general way, something of the attitude of Los Angeles toward Eagle Rock.

The Eagle Rock Community Players will present "Clarence," the amusing Booth Tarkington play, at the Central school auditorium, Tuesday and Wednesday nights, May 15 and 16, under the direction of Mrs. Elgie Lowry Fischer.

Following is the cast, in order of appearance: Mrs. Martyn—Esther Smith; Mr. Wheeler—Samuel Ratliff; Mrs. Wheeler—Elsie Davis; Bobby Wheeler—Harwin Mann; Cora Wheeler—

The furniture for the play is loaned by the Eagle Rock Furniture & Hardware Company, the piano by the Eagle Rock Music Store, and the saxophone by Clayton Schuler.

Rugs, draperies and other needed properties are being loaned by local organizations and individuals imbued with the community service idea, which stresses service and is unselfish in its application.

Free Picture Show

The Central school Parent-Teacher Association has decided to give the boys and girls a free picture show this year, instead of the usual picnic. The date of the affair is set for Saturday, May 19, and it is believed the children will enjoy this more than a picnic, which involves such expensive and complicated transportation problems.

Miss Emily Young, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Young of 909 Rock Glen avenue, was hostess to the members of the B. K. M. sorority, Alumni chapter, University of Southern California, at a recent brilliant reception held at the house and on the grounds at the above address.

The young ladies were accompanied by escorts and enjoyed dancing on the first floor, while cards were played in the pergola.

The extensive grounds were beautifully illuminated, and the bright colors of the girls' dresses, added to the white trousers and blue coats of the men, made a charming setting. The color scheme was lavender and pink, carried out in a variety of novel ways.

Ladies' Aid Meets

An all-day meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Congregational church will take place the first Thursday in June, at the home of Mrs. Maud B. Lewis, 165 West Park avenue.

Mrs. Lewis is chairman of the apron committee for the bazaar. She will be assisted by Mrs. Hoyt.

Each woman is expected to bring an apron or the goods to make one, together with a silver offering for the building fund. Luncheon will be served at 1 o'clock, it is announced.

A special meeting of the Junior Music Club was held Saturday, May 12, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, at the Women's Twentieth Century clubhouse. The members of the chorus from the "Chimes of Normandy" held a rehearsal.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Clark of 134 East Eagle avenue are en route by auto for Modesto, where they will attend the fifty-sixth annual encampment of the Department of California and Nevada, G. A. R., which meets Monday, May 14.

Mrs. Flora Pixley, president of N. P. Banks post, W. R. C., Glendale, is a guest of the Clarks on this trip. They are visiting with friends at Bakersfield and Visalia, on the way up.

BENEFIT IN AID OF GIRL SCOUTS

Fairy Pageant Chosen for Play at Wilson Avenue School Friday

Troop 4, Glendale Girl Scouts, will present a two act play "Moth and the Princess Moonbeam," at the Wilson avenue school auditorium Friday night, May 18, at 7:30 o'clock. The benefit is to help outfit the troop with scout uniforms for the Memorial Day parade.

Preceding the play a Scout ceremony will be presented and the new troop flag dedicated.

Ruth Berndt, La Verne Wolfgram, Ruth Benner and Rose Bagley will take the leading roles as Queen Titania, the fairy princess, Moonbeam, King Pluto and the Elf Prince. Leading fairy characters will be portrayed by Beatrice Smith, Catharine Doll, Betty Heustis, Dorothy Chappius, Peggy Brennan and Helen Houde.

The girls of troop H have built their own stage setting and designed the costumes for the play and invite all friends of Scouting to be their patrons on Friday night.

Tom Skeyhill, Soldier And Poet, Chautauqua Tonight

Those who have heard Tom Skeyhill, the young Australian soldier-poet, author and lecturer, need not be told of the fire and eloquence of this brilliant young orator. Indeed, fortunate are those who will hear his latest lecture, "The New Renaissance of European Civilization." Skeyhill has just returned from Europe for the second time within the last two years. He spent the latter part of last summer and the fall in Russia, the Near East, the Balkans, Italy, Germany, France and Great Britain, and from these recent experiences and out of his great knowledge of European affairs he has woven a masterly message, undoubtedly the greatest lecture of his career.

Chautauqua Artists Stage Special Numbers at Sunday Show

Mothers' Day was celebrated at the Chautauqua tent at Orange and Harvard streets by a most enjoyable musical program, given jointly by Charles Mitchell Mixer's Orchestral quartet and James Hamilton, lyric tenor. This program was a combination of the afternoon and night programs and those attending complimented the artists on the delightful entertainment.

This afternoon the Chautauqua fans were entertained by Beatrice Stuart Weller, who gave a rapid fire lecture, demonstrated with cartoons.

At the meeting tonight Tom Skeyhill, recently returned from a year in European countries, will lecture on "The New Renaissance of European Civilization."

Glendale children will be specially interested in the Tuesday afternoon program, when the Winifred Windus company will present a thirty-minute play to the children's Magic Lunor circus. The circus will be produced by Edna Belle Kuhn and the boys and girls of Glendale will be trained by Edna Belle Kuhn, junior supervisor.
