

EDUCATIONAL NOTES

GLENDALE'S INTEREST IN EAGLE ROCK SCHOOLS—BAND CONCERT

By Walt. Le Noir Church
Glendale has special interest in the Eagle Rock City schools, because they are in the same High School district, and their pupils attend the Glendale Union High School. On my return from a trip to the Pacific Chicago yesterday, I came by way of Eagle Rock City, which also is long on children and short on school facilities. They have two grades (7th and 8th) under one teacher, in one room of the Central school, which is an injustice to both pupil and teacher. From that Central school come the pupils that enter the Glendale Union High School, which is some compensation for previous lack of educational facilities.

The class in manual training has to go to an uptown store room for their work because no room is available in the school house. It is taught one day in the week by W. D. Harkness, now of Glendale. He teaches in Tropic also one day. But on March 2 a vote will be taken to decide whether they will issue school bonds and get the required educational facilities. It is a lively campaign, and as the bonds are strongly fought for by three vigorous organizations: the Chamber of Commerce, the Parent-Teacher association and the Woman's Twentieth Century club, it is thought they will win out—even if the election does fall on Friday, for that hoodoo day should defeat the obstructor to educational progress, not those fighting for positive beneficent necessities.

Eagle Rock City merges into Glendale on the east as does Tropic on the south. Their interests are naturally largely identical. A curious coincidence happened to-day. As I went into Los Angeles on the P. E. I sat in the same seat with a Tropic man, a stranger to me. Coming back on the other road through Eagle Rock City I sat with another stranger. In each instance the talk turned on educational matters, finally focussing on our Union High School, always an interesting subject to me. In differing words each of those two expressed the wish that as Glendale, Tropic and Eagle Rock City all have the same High School and are included in the same High School District, to the manifest advantage of all, then those three places ought all to be included in one municipality and have a common government. Then, said one of those men, if the time comes when it seems best for us to become merged into Los Angeles, we would have a solidarity which would command political respect and municipal consideration. We three, with Crescenta, would make a strong combination and we already have a common interest in our High School, a good nucleus to gather around.

After all, that might not be a bad idea. The area included in those four municipalities is immense. If consolidated under right conditions, and the common and particular advantages were well advertised, we would have a great city in a few years, which Los Angeles would make concessions to absorb, such as she would not even consider now. Stranger things than that have happened in municipal evolution without revolution.

Benefit Concert of Glendale Municipal Band

Yes, that is an educational factor and so has proper place in educational notes. The concert has been in preparation for some time, and the anticipation of the large audience which filled our beautiful Palace Grand theatre was no more pleasure-giving than the realization. The thirty-two performers and their accomplished director, Philip M. Hicks, made a fine stage effect with their white uniforms and their shining instruments. The audience was in a receptive mood, ready and willing to be pleased, and they were not disappointed. Mrs. William Herman West shared the honors with Director Hicks. Her first Italian solo was made more understandable, and therefore more interesting, by first telling the story. Young sentimental girl. Moonlight balcony. That lone-some feeling. Romeo not here. Memories. How he who had been so long immune, fell at one shot of Cupid's deadly arrow from her girlish eyes. Moral: let him who boasteth that he stands, beware lest he falls, when the Rosy God once gets busy. Told both in song and story, it brought great applause; rewarded with Annie Laurie, which dear old heart song was chorused as one by the few hundreds of Highlanders starting homeward from the bloody Crimean war, soon after the great, splendid charge of the Noble Six

MUSICAL TREAT

BENEFIT CONCERT GIVEN BY GLENDALE MUNICIPAL BAND GREAT SUCCESS

A musical organization that has not half been appreciated, that has received comparatively little support from the community at large, revealed its real merit at the Benefit Concert given by the Glendale Municipal Band last evening at the Palace Grand Theatre.

The improvement in the local band the past three years has been as truly marvelous as the progress of the city itself.

From the time the curtain went up at 8:20 revealing the band in its full numerical strength of thirty-two pieces, the appreciative audience was charmed by the unusual excellence of the program offered.

Director Philip M. Hicks certainly is to be complimented on securing such an able organization together and being able to so direct the band that each individual member has the opportunity to reveal his latent talent for music.

From the start of the first number on the program, March et Cortège, "La Reine de Saba" by Gounod, the audience realized the rare treat in store for them.

In selections such as the descriptive composition of "The Forge in the Forest" by Michaelis, did Glendale people realize in what a truly masterly way the Municipal Band could delineate difficult compositions which are popular concert numbers of the best bands in the United States.

Another enjoyable feature of the evening's entertainment was the superb assistance given the band by Mrs. William Herman West, who possesses a soprano voice of wonderful tone and whose years of appearance on the concert and opera stage have given her the poise and control of the finished artist. Of the selections with which she favored those present, particularly pleasing was her rendition of "Standchen" by Schubert.

Should the local band boys ever decide to favor the people of Glendale with another benefit concert, there should be standing room only, as this able musical organization is indeed a credit to the city and fully deserves all the support that it can possibly secure.

AMENDING GOD'S LAW

LAST NIGHT'S SERMON THEME AT FIRST METHODIST CHURCH

At the First Methodist church special meeting last night Mr. Snudden spoke on "Amending God's Law." He took the scene of Eve and the tempter as the lesson for the hour. He said: "What an intensely personal matter is this old story of good and evil. It is as personal as friendship or enmity. Good and evil are always personal. Material things cannot love or hate. A stone, a tree, a house, the corpse of a man, or the living body of a man cannot love or hate. Evil or good is in the activity of a person. The tempter tried to persuade the woman that he would amend God's law.

"A law always implies a law giver. The authority of a decree depends upon the power of the lawmaker. A man may legislate for his home, but he cannot do so for the community, nor the community for the state, nor the state for the nation. Man cannot legislate for God, neither can he pass laws for his own soul. He may determine upon certain rules for his life, but that does not change the laws governing his being.

"The farmer is among the wise men of the world when he acts as a farmer. But when he acts as some other men he is as foolish as are they. As a farmer he knows that he cannot trifle with the laws of God. He knows that 'whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap.'

"Efforts to amend God's laws belong to the modern world, even as to the ancient world. I shall not enter into an argument concerning the fall of man as told in Genesis. This thing I do know, that men fall now, and do not fall upward.

Can you amend God's law of creation? Can you amend the law of gravitation? Can you amend the law of life? Life says men must have air to breathe. And when an accident, a fire or disaster in a mine, seems in fair way of trying to amend the divine law by cutting off the air from men, men hasten to range themselves on the side of law. If you cannot do that which is least, how can you expect to amend or overthrow God's spiritual laws?

"Some men seem to have a private collection of amendments to the divine decrees. Men say: 'I have plenty of time to settle the matter of my relation to God.' 'I will take the risks.' 'I shall do as I please, God or no God.' 'Do your neighbor before your neighbor does you,' and a few try to dismiss the whole matter by saying, 'I don't believe in God.'

With argument and illustration, wit and logic, the speaker enforced his message. Mr. Guice sang two solos with great effect.

Mr. Snudden will preach both morning and evening on Sunday.

DEATH OF GEORGE LUEDKE

George Luedke of Tujunga passed away Monday morning at the home of his sister, Mrs. E. C. Young, 1557 Pioneer drive, Glendale. He was a native of Healdsburg, Cal., and was 41 years of age. He had been ill at the home of his sister for the past five weeks. He leaves a wife to mourn his loss and Mrs. Luedke is at the present time visiting at the Smith residence. His mother is also in Glendale, being the guest of her daughter for several months past. Mr. Luedke was in the grocery business with his father-in-law, Mr. Johnson, at Tujunga, and was in Glendale for a time before going to Tujunga. The funeral was held Tuesday from the undertaking parlors of Scovren-Letton and Frey, Tropic, with interment in Forest Lawn cemetery.

SWELL CLUBHOUSE FUND

The home of Mrs. Stephen Packer, 1462 Riverdale Drive, was the scene of a representative gathering of club women on Friday, the occasion being a benefit luncheon for the building fund of the Tuesday Afternoon club. About ninety ladies were present and after all were seated a delicious luncheon was served on trays. At the conclusion of the luncheon an interesting talk was given by D. M. Plunkett of Los Angeles on the foods used in preparing the luncheon the ladies had just enjoyed, and Mrs. Plunkett gave the recipes used, telling the secrets of the success of each part of the menu. Mrs. Killfoil of Los Angeles gave a number of enjoyable readings. Besides spending a very delightful afternoon a nice little sum was realized to add to the building fund. The Packer home was attractively decorated with acacia and Mrs. Packer was assisted by Mrs. J. F. Hearnshaw and Mrs. Von Oven.

GOD AND MOTHERS

FIDELITY AS POWER, SERMON THEME AT METHODIST CHURCH

Thursday night was "Mothers and Daughters Night" at the special services at the First Methodist church. The interest in this service was even greater than that in the "Fathers and Sons Night," the previous evening. There was a large and intensely interested congregation.

Mr. Guice, soloist and musical director, was in fine spirit and voice. He led the congregation in an enthusiastic service of song. His solo numbers were an inspiration.

Mr. Snudden preached on the words, "Thy people shall be my people, and thy God my God." Ruth 1:16.

"The perfect beauty of womanhood is in character. She may have everything else, but if she fails here she fails miserably. Women are not remembered simply for physical beauty. You cannot name a dozen historical characters who are remembered for their beauty alone. You mention Cleopatra. But she is remembered for her shamelessness as much as anything else. The beauty of a counterfeit coin does not give it value. 'A woman that feareth the Lord shall be praised.' She shall be praised by her husband, by her children, by her friends, by all who come under her influence.

"Beauty is more than skin deep. It is heart deep; it is soul deep. The artists who sought to paint a portrait of the Christ knew that and so they sought everywhere for faces through which strong, godly souls looked.

"The lesson of Naomi and Ruth calls attention to a mother's influence. It is one of the greatest dynamics in the world. The Germans have a cannon which will hurl a shell twenty-odd miles, but its power is as nothing to a mother's love. The wireless telephone will carry a message half around the world in a few seconds. A mother's influence reaches around the world. A mother's prayers and teachings will hold a son in his wanderings, even as the magnetic pole pulls on the magnetic needle. John Wesley, Washington, Lincoln, were moulded by godly mothers. Naomi's fidelity to God won her daughter-in-law Ruth, the Moabitess, until she cried, 'Thy people shall be my people, and thy God my God.' She held fast her religion in the midst of the heathenism of Moab. The people of Moab practiced the degrading rites of Chemosh, their god. These services were defiling to human nature. But the quiet, consistent, persistent godly life of Naomi finally won the daughter of Moab for the Lord.

"The religious indifference of parents will ripen into godlessness in the children. The Christ speaks of personal influence in the words, 'He that is not with me is against me.' Only absolute, positive living counts for God. You say you believe in the Christ. Have the children ever heard you read the Book? Have they ever felt your deep interest in them through your heart to heart talk about the deep things of life? Duties toward God in the family are just as sacred as duties toward the house. Take time to dust the cobwebs of doubt from the minds of the young people. Take time to burnish their characters by the touch of your Christlike personality.

"A young woman wrote to Paul Brown, State Christian Endeavor worker, just before she committed suicide. She said, 'My mother's religion was a sham. She never told me the things I ought to know. She never told me the sacredness of my body.' Mothers, your influence should be dedicated to God.

"Modern society is trying to wreck womanhood. Its attitude toward masculine, moral degenerates is a disgrace. It welcomes them to its parlors and social functions and then educates its young womanhood to dance with these lecherous lepers. Married women condone the triangle play at our picture shows. But if a young woman who has been taught to think lightly of the sacred marriage vows by reason of the triangle play, and who has been thus taught to treat with unconcern the sacredness of love, should make a misstep, these same giddy, frothy, frivolous, goddess society women would kick her into the gutter. They would welcome the moral leper, laugh at the triangle play, and then backbite and sting and stab the girl they were responsible for. They need to learn the meaning of the words, 'Am I my sister's keeper?' Before God you are your sister's keeper. Before God you are your daughter's keeper.

"A man presented to a Los Angeles judge a letter from his wife, when he asked a divorce decree. In the letter she said, 'I guess I'm not a woman; the devil just laughed and I'm what came of the chuckle.' What was her mother's influence over her? I know a little woman

BRITISH AMBULANCE SOCIETY

The regular meeting of the Glendale branch was held as usual last Monday afternoon in St. Mark's Guild Hall. There was no work done as this was a business meeting and the reports on the Carnival in Shrine Auditorium last week were read by the secretary and treasurer. This Carnival was given by the British, French and Belgian Red Cross Societies and the Glendale branch of the British section had a booth and took a leading part in the pageant and grand march. St. George and the dragon were well represented by a knight in armor followed by the conquered dragon, loaned by the Keystone Film Co., and a train of pretty girls dressed as roses, shamrocks, thistles, sweet lavender and daffodil. A feature of the Glendale booth was the "Goose," which required constant feeding and was kept busy all the evening by a crowd of interested children. "Father Christmas," represented by Mr. Malley, was very popular, and the costumes of the Glendale girls were admired and noticeably pretty, even amongst the hosts of other gay and brilliant merry makers. The candy donated by various people was all sold and a goodly sum netted thereby, also by the "Goose." The entire proceeds of the Glendale booth amounted to over one hundred dollars which was turned over to the treasurer of the Carnival.

The management wish to thank most heartily all those who so kindly co-operated and assisted in this undertaking and enabled the Glendale contingent to make their part the great success it was. Those in costume and helping in various departments were as follows: Mesdames Walters, England, Malley, Dell, Blue, Arthur Campbell, Bannock, R. E. Whitaker, Arthur Smith, Helen Campbell, Hutchins, Harrower, Delgado; Misses Katie Walters, Ina Whitaker, Loraine Mitchell, Barbara Mitchell, Jeannie Mitchell, Mackenzie, Hutchins, Egan, Wagner, Jamieson, Delgado, Iris Bannock, Eva Gosden and little Lois Naudain and Master Lawrence Smith, who gave a very pretty dance in Irish costume.

At the regular meeting of the society next Monday at 2 o'clock in St. Mark's Guild Hall, work on hospital shirts and bandages will be resumed and tea will be served, the hostesses for the afternoon being Mrs. Reginald Whitaker and Miss Ina Whitaker. A large attendance is hoped for as there is important business to discuss and plenty of work for every one.

THE WORLD'S CITRUS

The citrus fruit crop of the world is equal to 95,000,000 to 105,000,000 boxes of California capacity or from 240,000 to 260,000 carloads of California size. The five most important countries in the order of their production are: The United States, Spain, Italy, Japan and Palestine. The United States produces approximately 33 per cent of 80,000 carloads, Spain 28 per cent, or 68,000 carloads, Italy 24 per cent, or 58,500 carloads, and Japan and Palestine each less than 5 per cent of the world's production.

Potentially the United States is of more importance as a producer of citrus fruits than any other country in the world. The acreage is increasing steadily in both California and Florida. The normal production of the United States is now over 80,000 carloads. There are over 200,000 acres of orange and lemon trees in California, approximately two-thirds of which are in bearing and one-third of non-bearing age. When the lemon acreage now planted in California is in full bearing it will produce more lemons than are consumed in the country at the present time.

Bearing the above figures in mind, the producers of oranges and lemons should consider the position which the United States holds in the citrus fruit commerce of the world. Oranges, lemons, limes and grapefruit and their products are now imported into the United States from Porto Rico, Cuba, Jamaica, Honduras, Japan, Italy and other countries. The consumption of citrus fruits throughout the world has kept pace with the increase in the production and citrus fruit growing the world over as an agricultural industry is one of the most substantial and prosperous of the agricultural industries in the countries in which these fruits are grown.—The Sunkist Courier.

who is the companion of her daughters. Their pleasures are hers. She has lived such a sweet, winsome, wholesome, Christlike life before them that the three daughters have said, 'Thy God shall be our God.' Godliness compels respect and honor. Christlikeness in a human gives a glimpse into heaven. A mother and daughters following the Christ is one of the beautiful sights of the world."

STUDIES IN PERSONAL DEVELOPMENT

By Walt. Le Noir Church

STUDY XX: GLENDALE DEVELOPMENT

But what about that dear old lady who stopped to rest in the Glendale Chamber of Commerce office, while waiting for a Montrose car.

She had been shopping in Los Angeles, testified to by more than one package showing the name of some well-known emporium in the Pacific-coast Chicago.

"What Glendale needs," she blandly observed, "is for all these small merchants and shopkeepers to consolidate in one big corporation, each taking stock, and being employed in whatever department his or her ability and experience may qualify for rendering the most efficient service to patrons.

"Such a concern might be aptly named GLENDALE STORES. They would not need to be all under one roof. They might be in as many scattered buildings as now, or more. Much larger floor and shelf and counter space would be required for the greater aggregate business that would be done in Glendale. The same buyers could purchase for all. The same delivery wagons or trucks could be used by all, according to the daily requirements. The best is none too good for Glendaleans. Better goods could be sold here at less prices, for the customers also would get the benefit of such betterment. Employees also could be shifted as needed, and so save much time. The largely increased profits would remain in Glendale and could be shared with patrons. In a word, everyone interested in Glendale would profit largely by such consolidation and co-operation; and Glendale would at once begin to be a great mercantile center which would sell to a largely increased territory; and again begin to grow rapidly and keep on growing on its merits, and—but there's my car. Yes, I'm from Chicago—but I am coming here to live."

Such unanimity on the part of small merchants is quite unlikely—but there may be points in the lady's suggestion that are worth consideration. She evidently has had some mercantile experience in Chicago.

If such a consolidation could be effected, it would draw more incidental trades and vocations than we have buildings to accommodate. There may be others, but thus far I have learned of one Glendale store to which Los Angeles citizens send special orders, as do people from Burbank, Verdugo, Eagle Rock and all over the county. That is The Irish Linen Store, on Brand avenue. Mr. W. L. Moore, the buyer, was educated in the linen business at Belfast, Ireland, where linens are manufactured. He imports direct from factories he personally knows. He has sold linens all over the west, visiting every town of any size. Of Glendale he said that, comparing it with any other place, it is an ideal home city. "And," he added, "were I a married man, I could not ask a more delightful place for my home. The very best of every necessity, and most of the luxuries can be enjoyed right here."

(Any young man who remains single in Glendale surely deserves it—but it is hoped Mr. Moore will make Glendale his permanent home.) Mr. Fred Wilkinson, on Brand boulevard, said he and his wife came from Kansas a few years ago and, after traveling all over this coast seeking the place to live, they settled in Glendale as much more pleasing to them than any other for all the conditions which make life agreeable. He thinks that if a small leaflet which would go in an ordinary letter were sent all over the country and Canada by thousands, and kept in hotels, the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce and many other places where they might be seen by homeseekers, giving them the simple facts, we would have many tourists visiting us to see if there really is such a place as the alleged facts would show. Then the facts themselves would be the drawing card.

Charles Nagel, at the telephone in the Gas Company, happens to reside in Hollywood at present. But in talking about the many pleasing things which make Glendale so desirable, he somehow gave the idea that Glendale would be good enough for him.

S. M. Simon, local agent for the Los Angeles Times, says there are three distinct climates in Glendale, quite noticeable about 5 o'clock in the morning, while he is delivering papers. Over the extreme southern part the west wind comes through the gap in the mountain, and is very much more in evidence than it is further up in this city. Then comes the perfect climate, a winter resort in summer and a summer resort in winter, till the northern part of the city is reached in the foothills, where the climate again changes, not being so good in winter, but ideal after the rains are over.

The point is that in Glendale one must be more than difficult who cannot find a climate to suit him; even if asthmatic, neurotic, or any other abnormal "fit" which heredity or personal violation of health rules may have entailed.

Quite a number of citizens are mentally condensing their statements of Glendale's advantages as a place of residence, to be given later. Quite a number of others are yet to be seen. The object of this inquiry is to get the best possible statement of desirable conditions here, to embody in a pamphlet for broadcast circulation—so as to let those thousands who really seek a good home, know just the simple fact that it is here in Glendale waiting to welcome them.

LABORATORY DETECTION OF CRIME TO BE A SUMMER SESSION COURSE

Would-be Sherlock Holmeses are to be aided by the University of California. How science can aid in the detection of criminals is to be taught in the Summer Session. Co-operating with the Berkeley Municipal School for Police Officers, Dean Walter Morris Hart has arranged for a Summer Session course, from June 25 to August 4, on "Field and Laboratory Methods for Criminal Investigation." It will be given by Edward Oscar Heinrich of Tacoma, Washington, trained as a chemist at the University of California, who since then has achieved reputation as an expert examiner of questioned documents and as an authority in poisoning cases.

Ten members of the San Francisco detective and police staffs are to be detailed to attend the Summer Session and to take this course. The Berkeley policemen will join the class and the University expects representatives of police departments from all over the Pacific Coast, as well as attorneys who specialize in criminal law, social workers, bank officials and others interested in ways of detecting forgery, and students of criminology.

C. E. CONVENTION

Have you heard the news? Why, there is going to be a convention here in Glendale next month. What convention? Why, a Christian Endeavor Convention. Los Angeles county is going to send thousands of visitors to our city.

Have you done anything for the reception of these friends? When we have company at home, as far as possible, all must be spick and span. Two thousand of these people will be guests in our homes, for Glendale doesn't boast of a big hotel, and any way the folks are coming to visit us. The big tent is going to stand at the corner of Sixth and Louise streets.

If you want to see a good natured, happy, enthusiastic bunch, just look for the Intermediates. Christian Endeavor hasn't made them look sad. Los Angeles has furnished Paul Brown for an Intermediate Superintendent of the United Society. He travels all over the U. S. and represents the California Intermediates. And the Juniors too. On Sunday afternoon, March 18th, the Presbyterian church will be full of little men and women getting their start in the work.

Christian Endeavor is thirty-five years old and some of the founders are looking for volunteers to carry out their plans. Dear Old Father Endeavor Clark. May he be spared many years to us yet.

SURPRISE MRS. BERRY

Mrs. J. H. Berry of 537 Orange St. was the most surprised and delighted little woman in Glendale on Friday afternoon when the members of the Woman's Bible class of the Christian church invaded her home. The occasion was the regular monthly social meeting of the class and it was decided by the members to show their love for Mrs. Berry by meeting at her home and preparing some extra features for the meeting. A splendid program had been prepared and after a most happy afternoon, a delicious supper was served, quite elaborate in comparison with the simple refreshments usually served. The hostess, who is a most hospitable little lady, was very happy in thus entertaining her guests and appreciates the love and esteem that prompted the act.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

The home of Mr. and Mrs. O. S. Palmer of 116 E. Colorado boulevard was the scene of a merry social event Thursday evening, the occasion being the birthday of their daughter, Miss Ruth, who claims the same natal day as that of the illustrious father of our country. About twenty friends gathered to assist this gracious young lady to celebrate the anniversary of her birth. The house was very beautifully decorated with golden acacia and violets. The evening hours were spent in various games and contests with readings and music. A delicious two-course luncheon continued the violet and gold color scheme. At a late hour the guests departed wishing the young hostess many happy returns of the day.

MAXWELL WORTH HEARING

Having heard Hon. Geo. H. Maxwell on the subject of "National Defense," I bespeak for him a large hearing on next Monday evening at the High School. His remarks will appeal to both those who are for and against preparedness. He has a unique solution for this great problem that should appeal especially to all who would preserve this coast against invasion by a foreign foe. J. F. LILLY

The Ontario Report says: Sounding a warning to orange growers who are desirous of sparing their groves from infection from the dread mealy bug, which is said to have gotten such a foothold in some groves in the Upland section as to seem almost impossible of extermination, H. A. Spies, deputy horticultural commissioner for this district, is out to-day with an earnest recommendation that citrus men insist that the pickers going from one grove to another have their picking sacks and other equipment thoroughly fumigated before being allowed to go to work in groves which are free from infection.

The State Commission of Horticulture will establish a branch of the state insectary in Alhambra about March 1. H. S. Smith will be placed in charge temporarily of the branch insectary, which will investigate and cultivate parasites to fight other parasites that destroy fruit, and special attention will be paid to citrus fruit pests.

THE DE MARCUS CASE

ARRINGTON AND HOLLENBECK WORKING ON MURDER MYSTERY

Officers H. W. Hollenbeck and C. V. Arrington have been working continually on the De Marcus murder case since Wednesday morning when the crime was discovered. They have learned that De Marcus spent Tuesday evening up to 6:30 in the Reliable garage making repairs on his auto. After completing his work there he took Mr. Hammond, proprietor of the garage, to his home. Just after this he was noticed by Officer Arrington driving through the streets. This is the last anyone is known to have seen him alive.

Officers Arrington and Hollenbeck interviewed a man who passed along the state highway about 8:10 p. m. and saw De Marcus' car standing in the road where it was found Wednesday morning. He says he saw a man apparently asleep in the car. Evidently the murder was committed between 6:30 and 8:10 p. m. Tuesday evening.

The officers will be glad to receive any information from anyone who saw the murdered man between 6:30 and 8:10 Tuesday evening.

Coroner Hartwell will hold an inquest Monday at 10 a. m. at the Pullman Undertaking parlors where the remains are being held.

Arrangements for the funeral have not been made yet, but it will probably be held Tuesday.

JOINT MEETING

The all-day meeting of N. P. Banks Post, G. A. R. and W. R. C. was held Friday with the usual noon lunch of beans and other good things to go with them. This lunch served by the ladies each month is appreciated by our boys in blue more than the ordinary person can imagine. They look forward to this meeting as much as a young child would look for some promised toy or visit. They will never grow old to us, though feeble and tottering as some of them are, so let us continue to do all for them we can, not only this one day but every day in the month. The program that always follows the luncheon was unusually good, and was opened by Dr. Henry, who sang a song as only he can sing it. This was followed with an address by Rev. B. Dudley Snudden on "The Nation Standing at the Cross Roads of Destiny," which was well delivered and very appropriate at this time of our Nation's crisis. Mrs. Priscilla Howdyshel gave original jingles and rhymes, followed by Comrades Clarke, Parker, Goss and Sanford, all with verses and reminiscences of Abraham Lincoln and the days when they were at the front in service for our country's freedom. The meeting closed by all singing "America," led by Dr. Henry. Later a meeting was held by N. P. Banks, W. R. C., and after business was dispensed with Miss Cora Hickman gave a very interesting talk on Wm. McKinley's life, both as a private citizen and as a leader of our nation. Mrs. Keziah Sterling spoke on Lincoln and Mrs. Flora Pixley made a little talk on Washington, after which she gave a beautiful eulogy to the flag.

ILLINOIS SOCIETY PICNIC

Illinois people will gather from all parts of the Southland at Eastlake park on Saturday, March 10, for the all-day picnic reunion to be given under the auspices of the Illinois Society of Los Angeles. If rainy on that date it will be held Saturday, the 17th, at the same place. There will be county registers so you can find your old home neighbors. A brief program of music and greetings from Illinois speakers will be given, but the main object will be to have a good time. Bring your lunch baskets. Coffee will be served free to all who buy the new badges. Further information may be had from Secretary C. H. Parsons, at the California Savings and Commercial Bank, Spring and Fourth, Phones 10459, Main 5635.

VETERANS PLAN FOR ENCAMPMENT

The Council of Administration of the Southern California Veterans Association held a meeting Friday afternoon, February 23, in Patriotic hall, South Figueroa street, Los Angeles. Comrades T. M. Barrett, a member of the Council, and Rev. C. R. Norton, Chaplain of the association, both of N. P. Banks Post, were present at the meeting.

By unanimous vote Huntington Beach was selected as the place of the next annual encampment, which will be held August 7 to 17. It will be known as Frank Hobart encampment in honor of Past Commander Hobart, now deceased.

N. P. Banks Post, Corps and Sons of Veterans will be expected to give an entertainment one evening during the encampment.

LUTHERAN CHURCH

There will be a special service at 11 o'clock Sunday morning with the presence of Rev. Pederson, a former missionary in Liberia, Africa. He is a "real live" missionary. Come and hear him. All welcome.

ART AND TRAVEL SECTION IN ROME

Monday, February 26, will be the last day the Art and Travel Section of the Tuesday Afternoon club will spend in the city of Rome. The morning will be given to a visit to the Vatican, that wonderful palace of more than 1000 rooms, containing such marvelous treasures of art. The afternoon will be spent in visiting places of minor interest, the famous rag market, flower markets and shops on the Corso, then a drive on Pincio hill. Then on to Pratepere, an interesting suburb. Upon their return, dinner will be taken at the restaurant on the Piazza Colonna. Our baggage having already been taken to the station, we are free to enjoy our last hour in Rome. Each of us having thrown a penny into the fountain of Travi, insures our return. We shall leave at 10:30 p. m. for Florence, with pleasant memories, few regrets and delightful anticipation.

The meeting is called for 2 o'clock at 521 North Glendale avenue, and Mrs. Turck, the curator, desires a large attendance.

A MASTER OF HEARTS

Charles Frohman was not only a master showman, but was, using the phrase of Mark Twain's, "A master of hearts."

Sir James Barrie says that he was known as "the man who never broke his word." His squareness was a quality which came straight from the heart. To him the phrase "business is business" meant nothing. It was not necessary for him to have contracts with his stars, because every one of his stars knew that Frohman would give nothing but the squarest kind of a square deal. Even when he had a chance to make money by doing the unneighborly thing he refused to do it. He was too big a man to profit by the bad luck of others.

In his biography which has just appeared the story is told that there was once a well-known English author who was in great financial need, and he cabled his agent in America that he would sell outright for two thousand dollars all the dramatic rights to a certain play of his that Frohman and an associate had on the road at that time. The associate thought it was a fine opportunity and personally cabled the money through his agent. Then he went to Frohman and said, with great satisfaction:

"I've made some money for us to-day."

"How's that?" said Frohman. Then his associate told the story of the author's predicament and what he had done. He stood waiting for commendation. Instead, Frohman's face darkened; he rang a bell and when his secretary appeared he said:

"Please wire Blank that the money cabled to him today was an advance on future royalties."

Then he turned to his associate and said:

"Never, so long as you work with me in any enterprise, take advantage of the distress of author or actor. This man's play was good enough for us to produce it, and it is still good enough to earn money. When it makes money for us it also makes money for him."—Thomas Dreier in Editor and Publisher.

LA CANADA

Mysterious whisperings have been floating about the valley for the past week.

What about? Well, everybody is wondering how everybody else is going to dress at the La Crescenta masquerade dance Saturday night, February 24.

A few years ago the La Canada Valley club gave regular dances at their club hall. The great dance of the year was always the masquerade.

But recently financial difficulties and lack of interest have caused discontinuance of the dances. Recently a club was organized in La Crescenta under whose auspices dances have been held monthly at the La Crescenta school house. Only members of the club attend the dances.

The dance Saturday night is the annual masque. A number of the young people from La Crescenta are raking together some kind of a costume to attend.

Here's hoping it doesn't rain.

Placing passengers entirely at their own risk, the county supervisors have opened traffic over the old Arroyo Seco bridge between La Canada and Pasadena. The limited capacity of weight is four tons. Four miles an hour is the speed limit. Few machines have traveled over the bridge, but heavy teaming has found it a great relief. One man who has been hauling between La Canada and Pasadena while the road was closed across the bridge, said that being able to cross the bridge again has made nine dollars a day difference in his expenses.

Max Green, La Canada dealer in Ford Motor cars, has recently made a deal with Dr. Smalley of Texas avenue for a new Ford.

As a representative of the B. O. Kendall Investment Co., bankers and brokers, T. F. Knight, son of Mr. Jessie Knight of Pasadena, has recently purchased $25,000 worth of bonds from the Valley Water company. This money comes as a timely fulfillment of necessity to the Valley Water Co. Plans have been made by the company to build a new reservoir. It is to be located just north of the Dr. Salsbury ranch. The money raised by the bond sale to the B. O. Kendall Co. will be used not only in the construction of the reservoir, but also to extend and improve the company's distributing system. Within the territory of the Water company all places below an elevation of 1500 feet will be supplied hereafter. An entirely new pipe line will be laid to connect the new reservoir with reservoir No. 2, which is situated on the Lanterman estate. Bids have been opened for the construction of the reservoir.

An overwhelming majority in favor of the flood control measure, voted upon at the county election last Tuesday, was the result in the La Canada precinct. Out of 131 votes cast 100 were in favor of the bonds and 31 against. This is one of the largest votes ever cast in La Canada in favor of a non-local bond issue. The judges of the election were Mr. Brigham Dutoir, Mr. Jamison, Max Green, Messrs. Lea and Slutman. For the past few months citizens of La Canada have been listening to local lectures on this question, both pro and con. The regular Improvement association of four weeks ago was taken up with talks and discussion on the subject. Mr. Ashley and Mr. Rowley of Sunlands gave strong arguments for the bonds. Two weeks ago several citizens from La Canada heard a lecture at the La Crescenta school house against the bonds. At the last Foothill Federation meeting at the La Canada club hall the audience listened to intelligent remarks concerning the benefits of the flood control issue. After weighing the question considerably the voters of La Canada felt that their vote in favor of the bonds would at least be a step toward progress. That whatever came of the election, it would show that La Canada was in favor of taking care of the yearly overflow of water.

The salvation of man is work. Nothing worth while in your whole life can be accomplished without concentrated work. If you have an ideal in life, which we hope every man has, the only thing that can possibly bring you nearer to that ideal is your own effort.

It matters little in which direction your work lies. It matters little whether you are working for yourself or for another. It is your own effort, it is what you do that counts.

If you think you are beating the other fellow out of an hour's labor you are mistaken. Every minute of effort that you put forth is first done in your own interest. It is a self-developer.

Is not your own development far greater than some petty mechanical work you do for your employer?

Don't be afraid to work overtime. Whether or not you receive material recompense for the extra hours spent it matters not. You are getting something far greater than man can give.

Work hard, concentrate, think and act. Then as time rolls on you will find yourself not the crabbed, pinched, narrow-minded drudge, but you will be striving onward with your ideal raised still higher and a true devotion to the best that God and man can give.

SELF MASTERY

The penstroke of ability—not fate—remember that—divides the page of human life into two great classes of workmen: leaders and followers. And the leaders are few and the followers are legion.

Every ambitious man desires to be a leader. Leaders have been made leaders by accident, yet the quality of leadership must necessarily have been there. The only claim to accident lay in its discovery.

By some strange and unforeseen turn of circumstance that quality sprang to the fore—and the man was made to stand out in strong relief against the colorless background of followers.

But more often leaders have risen to their heights of command by climbing the long, steep road of logical progress. Their powers gradually have been demonstrated, recognized, until at last they have stood apart from and before their followers. Their leadership has been self-created. It has been earned, not given.

And the day the first step upward toward the goal was taken was that day in which they obtained the mastery, not over some of their fellows, but over themselves.

For a great leader must first of all be in command of himself. If he is not fit to be his own director he is not fit to direct the destinies of others.

Self-mastery, then, is the first requirement. Be so strong in your personality, your own judgment, your own control, that your personal qualities attract attention and create confidence.—Builder and Contractor.

DISPENSING CHARITY

The method of dispensing charity in most counties of the state is severely criticized by the state board of Charities and Corrections in a report today.

This method, which consists of relief being given directly by the county without other investigation or supervision than that of the supervisors, is followed by these counties:

Alpine, Amador, Butte, Calaveras, Colusa, Del Norte, El Dorado, Fresno, Glenn, Humboldt, Inyo, Kern, Kings, Lake, Lassen, Madera, Mendocino, Mariposa, Merced, Monterey, Nevada, Placer, Plumas, San Benito, San Bernardino, San Mateo, Santa Cruz, Shasta, Sierra, Siskiyou, Stanislaus, Sutter, Tehama, Trinity, Tuolumne, Yuba and Yolo.

"The studies made," says the state board, "show that this method is thoroughly unsatisfactory, because relief is too often given without complete and accurate knowledge of the facts of the case. Supervisors are busy men. Obviously, they cannot secure intimate knowledge of the details of each poverty case. This method is a failure not only from the viewpoint of the proper treatment of the poor, but because it is wasteful—both of money and of human life. County funds are expended without exact knowledge of the real circumstances of the cases aided. Relief is frequently given to those unworthy of it, while the worthy are overlooked. Investigation shows that many of the supervisors know nothing of the people whom they were helping. Cases have been found of persons drawing aid from the county when they did not even live in the county helping them; other cases of shameful neglect of young children and infants have been located and brought to the attention of the county authorities. Frequently relief is given when there are relatives who are legally liable and able to provide for the care of the dependent.

"The records of relief cases in the counties using this method have been found chaotic and incomplete. In nearly 40 California counties today a taxpayer cannot find out how many people are being supported out of public funds. Relief procedure of this type, therefore, becomes stupid and unsatisfactory. It is subject to all manner of political abuses and is not infrequently used to further personal and political ends."

Commenting on the method used by ten counties—appointment of an agent to investigate all cases—the board says: "For small counties having relatively few cases, this 'investigating agent' method is perhaps fairly satisfactory. In larger counties, however, it has been found that a single agent for the whole county is able to do little more than investigate cases. The work of supervision is necessarily slighted." The counties using this method are Contra Costa, Imperial, Tulare, Ventura, Napa, Santa Clara, San Diego, Sonoma, Orange and Marin.

The method used by four counties—Los Angeles, Riverside, Sacramento and San Joaquin—under which relief is administered through a county charities office, is approved by the board, which says: "Los Angeles county particularly has started this method on a solid foundation. In the other counties the work is not yet so well developed but the hope that the future will see progress under the system is well founded."

The best method, the board says, is followed in Alameda and Santa Barbara counties, through which relief is administered by private charity societies acting as paid agents for the county.

San Francisco grants no public relief to adults. These cases are either relieved by private agencies or in public institutions, the county concerning itself only with aid for children through a widow's pension bureau. The work of this bureau is highly praised by the state board.

The following program is set forth by the board as a means of correcting present weaknesses:

Relief officer or officers definitely appointed to administer relief. Adequate supervision and investigation of every case.

Proper supervision so that aid will not be given after the need of relief has passed.

In the past year California spent $8,600,000 for the public relief of dependents. Of this amount $3,750,000 represents the expenditures of counties, and $4,850,000 was the amount spent by the state. The state takes care almost exclusively of the blind, insane, feeble-minded and also helps orphans, half orphans and abandoned children. The responsibilities of the counties in poor relief is that of the care of all other dependent classes not cared for by the state, and in addition cooperation with the state in the care of orphaned children.

In most counties, the board reports, dependent children are inadequately cared for, the authorities being lax both in supplementing the state aid for orphans and in providing for dependent children not eligible for state aid. However, the board commends the work of Alameda, Los Angeles and San Francisco counties in this connection.

DASHEEN FINDS FAVOR

The dasheen, a root crop introduced into this country from Trinidad within recent years by the United States department of agriculture, is now grown by a considerable number of farmers and truckers in the south, and promises to become a valuable member of the group of domestic vegetables, such as the potato, which furnishes starchy foods. The new vegetable is closely related to the taro, which is an important factor in the food supply in portions of the Tropics. The dasheen is itself primarily a tropical plant. It can be grown successfully, however, not only in the warmer portions of Florida, but in other sections of the south as far north as South Carolina. The edible portion of the plant includes a large central corm and a number of tubers, of much smaller size, attached to and around the corm.

The value of the dasheen, it is believed, will be as a crop supplemental to rather than a substitute for the potato. The fact that the dasheen matures in the fall when potatoes must be obtained from northern producing sections should make the new plant especially valuable in the economics of the southern farmer.

In food value the dasheen is comparable to the potato, though it contains a smaller proportion of water and a greater proportion of protein, starch and sugar than the latter. The new vegetable may be prepared for the table as potatoes usually are, or may be made into flour and used in baking. The tender shoots forced from the large corms may be prepared like asparagus and make a pleasing dish in that form.

The dasheen is grown from whole tubers weighing a few ounces. They require a frostless season of at least seven months, with plenty of moisture. A moist but well-drained, rich, sandy loam has been found to be a satisfactory soil for dasheen culture. A large proportion of either clay or muck in the soil produces strong-flavored, tough corms, which are often unfit for table use. Large crops are produced under such conditions, however, and make excellent stock feed.

POTATO CLUBS

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Feb. 24.—Potato, onion and other vegetable clubs will replace social and so-called "frat" organizations in the high schools of California through a plan launched today by C. H. Snyder, state commissioner of vocational education. His object is to convert the vacant lots of a city into vegetable gardens through the work of high school students, thus taking a smash at that grim old specter, "High Cost o' Living."

vegetables that the people of the community would consume." Snyder plans to make vacant lot gardening compulsory upon all students enrolled in the agricultural course of the high schools. He will have such students organize vegetable clubs, believing that such organizations would encourage students other than those enrolled in the agricultural course to take up the work. A committee of the best gardeners and agriculturists in the community will be selected to lend aid and advice.

The plan, Snyder says, will give each student the practical side of farming, for each will bargain as to the land he is to take for cultivation and is to retain the money secured from marketing his products.

Now, all together, boys: Rub-a-dub-dub! Rub-a-dub-dub! We are the boys of the Onion club! Onions are strong—So are we! Onions! Onions! Hully Gee!

The Monrovia Welfare Association has been organized at Monrovia for the benefit of the Spanish and Mexican population of that city. Miss Isabel Burke, teacher in the Charlotte schools, will have charge of the first night school, which will be opened Monday.
