

WOMAN'S FEDERATION

RECENT CONVENTION OF CLUBS IN SAN FRANCISCO MARKS NEW ERA

There is little difference of opinion among the many Southern California women who attended the convention of the Federation of Women's clubs in San Francisco that the gathering marked a new era in the history of the federation. It will be remembered that there was much talk of dissatisfaction with certain proposals that were to be presented to the federation and it was feared that they might occasion dispute. That fear was never realized. All was harmony from the beginning.

"From the very outset," said Dr. Jessie A. Russell, 343 N. Maryland street, who was a delegate, "there was not the slightest disagreement. Harmony was the keynote of the gathering. The obnoxious motions were voted down and the atmosphere cleared for better and more valuable work. The convention was progressive and most of the older members, who have seen a number of conventions agreed that it was the most epoch-making convention ever held."

"For the first time in the history of the convention were the members given an opportunity to cast their individual ballots. The old 'nomination committee' found its occupation gone."

"It was at first thought that the presidency of the federation would go to the northern states section. The north had two candidates—Mrs. Jones and Mrs. Hoppin of Yolo county. Mrs. Jones had wealth and dress and appearance; Mrs. Hoppin had intellect. Intellect won. Mrs. Hoppin, the newly elected president, is a woman of broad views, a veteran in the service of the federation, popular, earnest and with an entire absence of self-consciousness. Her policy will be the developing of the clubs in the country districts. 'We women of the country districts need you women of the cities,' she said in one of her addresses. 'You need us also. You have the role of activity and social work; we have the time for study and reflection in our country quiet.'"

"Five hundred delegates were present, the largest attendance ever known. Rules and regulations were adhered to strictly. The Los Angeles delegation did much excellent work in furthering the business of the convention."

ENTERTAINS GERMAN CAST

Miss Edith Watanen, 240 Central avenue, entertained at her home Monday evening of this week her German teacher, Miss Darsie, and a number of her classmates who took part with her in the recent production of the German play, "Die Meisterschaft," at the Union High school. The entertainment was a very successful affair. The young people enjoyed themselves immensely and had a most delightful evening.

Those present were: Miss Darsie, Mildred Lyon, Julia Ehmke, Cecilia Peterson, Ruth Myers, Basil Boone, Montgomery Coole, Owen Dibbern, William Bode and Wayne Smith.

ROBBINETTE RECEPTION

Mrs. Louis C. Sherman, president of the Robbinette club, appeared before the ladies of the Tuesday Afternoon club at their last meeting and announced to the club that they were invited to attend a reception to be given June 4 at the Masonic Temple in honor of Mrs. Evelyn Fletcher Copp of Boston, the originator of the Fletcher system of musical kindergarten work. Mrs. Copp will give a short talk illustrating her methods. Preceding the talk there will be a program, including a group of songs by Mrs. Norma Rockhold Robbins.

MEMORIAL SERVICE

The Rev. C. R. Norton, chaplain of the Southern California Veterans' association, will preach the Memorial day sermon at the First Methodist church Sunday morning, May 30. All old soldiers are invited to be present.

In the evening of the same Sunday a special service of song will be given. The service will include "The Star Spangled Banner," "The Red, White and Blue" and "America," illustrated with stereopticon slides. The whole service will be patriotic.

SMALL BRUSH FIRE

This morning a small brush fire broke out at 1453 Oak street, in a vacant lot. The alarm was turned in to the fire house and the engine and crew were on the spot in record time. It was ascertained that the fire was caused by the burning of some rubbish. No damage was done. Glendale has been reasonably free from fires. The last alarm was turned in April 20.

SAW THE SHOOTING

Another witness has turned up in the case of Gonzales and Torres. This is William Kinser, cement contractor, 913 Maple street. Mr. Kinser says he was not far off when the affray began and that he saw the whole encounter. His evidence will be of much value, as the only witnesses available hitherto cannot speak English and will have to be examined through an interpreter.

Gonzales and Torres quarreled in the course of a wine party and after the lie had passed Gonzales rushed to his cabin for a rifle with which he shot Torres in the knee, completely smashing the bone. Torres lies in the hospital in a very critical condition and Gonzales is in the county jail, awaiting the outcome.

CHAPTER L, P. E. O.

Chapter L of the P. E. O. met Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Lawrence Ellis, 541 S. Kenwood street. The guests of the afternoon were the mothers of the members. A very interesting program was given, consisting of various appropriate recitations concerning mothers, a "Pagan of Nations" and a piano solo by a member. In the course of the afternoon refreshments suitable to the season were served. The colors of the P. E. O. being white and yellow, the room was beautifully decorated with white carnations and yellow coreopsis.

FRUITS AND FLOWERS

SPLENDID DISPLAY OF LOCAL PRODUCTIONS ATTRACTS CROWDS

Before preparations in the floral exhibit had actually been completed the crowd began to arrive. The double halls that contain the exhibit at the corner of Brand boulevard and Colorado street are resplendent with a wealth of floral treasure that reflects high credit on Glendale's enterprising horticulturists and floriculturists.

In the front hall stand the decorated tables that are engaged in competition. They are three in number. Mrs. David Black has a table that is a symphony in green and gold. The bonbonnières are made out of grape leaves and the place cards out of ivy leaves. The silver candelabra ornamented with crystal lustres, hold green candles. The roses partaking of the color scheme are W. Allen Richardsons.

Mrs. Clem Moore has the table in the center, the color scheme of which is pink. One beautiful feature out of many is the crocheted bonbonnières and the crocheted nut baskets. The foot of the table is decorated with asparagus ferns. The centerpiece is a unique and beautiful silver cake basket, fifty years old. The pedestal of this basket is formed of three miniature silver rifles, under which a hunting dog stands. It holds pink Cecil Brunner roses.

The third table is that decorated by Miss M. Irene Muller of the Union High school art department. It takes the form of a mountain pool. In the center is a large crystal bowl with gold fish. Round this center are wreathed a wonderful collection of such flowers as might be supposed to be growing about a mountain pool—wallflowers mignonette asparagus ferns, maidenhair ferns, Boston ivy and many others. The candelabra are tiger lilies. So are the bonbonnières and place cards. The table is bright with silver and cut glass.

At one side of the hall stands the Sparr Fruit company's exhibit of citrus fruits—a wonderful display of large and symmetrical oranges and lemons.

Morris and Snow, the Los Angeles Seed company, have a large and varied exhibit.

Kelley and McElroy of Glendale have erected with much care and taste a large booth filled and adorned with ferns of many varieties and roses of rare species. One of the latter is the "Thousand Beauties," a rose which produces a vast number of flowers, some white with pink centers and some pink with white centers. They have also on exhibition the Australian staghorn fern, the Australian Bird's Nest fern and other curious plants.

G. B. Woodberry shows a remarkable honeycomb, which measures 18x18 inches. The honey is of the very finest variety.

In a large glass case J. H. Badgett shows "The Latest Thing in Photography"—photographs on wood for souvenirs or for decoration.

Thornycroft hospital has a large table with specimens of rare colored sweet peas, purple candytuft, lobelia, variegated poppies and double Shasta daisies.

Howard and Smith of Ninth and Olive, Los Angeles, show a remarkable collection of sweet peas, hybrid gladiolus, hollyhocks and an interesting collection of herbaceous and perennial plants.

The San Fernando chamber of commerce has a large exhibit of citrus fruit.

Among the interesting and artistic exhibits is a mantelpiece decoration, the work of Mrs. Anderson.

Miss Hyde, 912 Colorado boulevard, shows a striking exhibit of the white lily. The stems are five feet long and are literally covered with the flowers, which show a remarkable purity of white luster.

The Floral shop, Glendale, has a remarkable funeral wreath on exhibit. The groundwork of the wreath consists of the firm fleshy leaves of the magnolia, which gives a peculiarly and effectively sombre appearance to the whole effect. The "Shop" also has an effective floral American flag of everlasting.

Mr. H. Armstrong of Pasadena is in charge of the "Pacific Garden" table. This is the only magazine devoted solely to floriculture and horticulture on the Pacific Coast.

The other exhibits consist of entries in the various classes. The rooms literally blaze with bougainvillea, acacia, begonia and other striking productions. Coreopsis, delphinium and lobelia lend color to the scene. Cinerarias and Boston fern mingle their fronds. Some fine blossoms of the night-blooming cereus (cactus) spread their fine red flowers in view.

FINE ART EXHIBIT

HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS SHOW MARKED TALENT IN COLOR AND DESIGN WORK

No department in the Union High school shows more marked progress on the part of the students than the art section under the charge of Miss Muller. Four rooms are devoted to the minute task of training the varied talents of the students. Yesterday the four art rooms were the center of attraction to the crowds that thronged the corridors of the building.

The high character of the work displayed was commonly commented on. On the walls were excellent specimens of drawings of various kinds. Statuary lent an air of dignity to the scene; nor was there wanting the purely feminine touch that showed up in the tastefully designed and decorated individual tables laid with fine linen, chaste dinner service, polished glass and shining silver. Those tables are entirely the work of the girls and they all showed marked taste and individuality.

Block printing is another of the arts taught in this department of varied accomplishments. Specimens of this work were much admired. Stencil work for curtains and ciphers of original design gave evidence of excellent training.

The students of the High School are getting out their own magazine, "The Stylus." This will exhibit the many talents that are budding in the school precincts—poets, humorists, essayists, historians, and not least, illustrators. It is to be noted that the pen and ink designs in the Stylus are the work of students of the art department.

Some excellent costume design work is to be seen on one of the tables. Those who have a talent in that direction are making apparent progress in this field, which offers a good living to those who excel in its details.

Among other parts of the art training of the students is that which treats of color schemes and color analysis, a practical knowledge of which is necessary in all kinds of modern decoration work and in art work of every description.

Some excellent original charcoal and pencil work is on exhibition and as showing the versatile training given in the department map work shows up among elementary craft work and efforts in the direct of the new concrete pottery.

Altogether the work shown is evidence of careful training and faithful study and Miss Muller is to be congratulated on the results of her teaching.

FROM PENITENTIARY TO CANDIDATE FOR GOVERNOR OF OKLAHOMA

This is the remarkable career of Al. J. Jennings.

Readers of the Glendale News will be interested to know that on Sunday afternoon and evening, May 30, Al. J. Jennings himself will give his interesting lecture at the Majestic theater. Mr. Jennings has had a remarkable career, in fact one that has not been equaled by any man in recent years. Once having been an outlaw, then sentenced to life imprisonment, and finally pardoned by ex-President Roosevelt, then "coming back" to society as an honorable citizen, and finally running for governor of Oklahoma. Mr. Jennings has given his lecture, "Beating Back," before many of the Y. M. C. A.'s throughout the country, as well as many of the prominent churches, and is a very fine speaker. His life story was published in the Saturday Evening Post and has been read by more than a million people. Perhaps no other person in the United States has had the obstacles to contend with and won out in the end as has this man.

SPECIAL FLOWER SHOW PRIZES

In addition to the prizes already announced, flower lovers will be interested in special prizes being offered by Glendale ladies who are enthusiastic growers, but who are unable to exhibit and who wish to show their interest in the show in some way.

Mrs. Frederick O'Brien of 785 Pacific avenue has one of the largest rose gardens in Glendale, if not the largest, and is intensely interested in growing roses. Mrs. O'Brien has not been able to give her roses the usual attention this spring on account of being laid up for the past four weeks with a crippled wrist. For this reason she feels that she cannot exhibit, but lends encouragement to the show by offering two orange Cecil Brunner rose plants for the most perfect yellow rose exhibited. Mrs. O'Brien is especially interested in yellow roses and has recently added more than two hundred yellow varieties to her large collection.

Mrs. A. E. Ditch of 318 N. Louise is also an amateur grower of considerable local reputation and knows how to produce the best and most perfect blooms. Her choicest blooms came earlier in the season and for that reason she will not exhibit. Mrs. Ditch is a lover of Delphiniums and offers for the best dark blue double Delphinium a climbing striped La France rose plant and a Frau Karl Druski (white American Beauty).

Y. W. C. A. GRADUATION

In the midst of thousands of roses, fleur de lis and ferns, sixty-eight young women graduated from the various schools of the Young Women's Christian association last night.

This is the largest class ever graduating from the association and the girls presented a charming picture in their white gowns on the stage of the auditorium. The various departments of the educational work of the Y. W. C. A. are yearly increasing in importance, and with the employment of the best instructors the organization is achieving a distinctive importance in educational circles.

The graduation exercises may be said to have begun at noon yesterday afternoon, although the pretty girl graduates did not appear until 8 o'clock last night.

The graduation exercises included an entirely new departure from the usual program of these events. The girls provided the entire graduation program, with the exception of the welcoming address given by Miss Helen Babson, educational secretary, the presenting of diplomas by Mrs. Thomas B. Stowell, educational chairman of education, and music by the Academic Glee club.

The interesting young graduates of the various schools were represented by a senior member, who gave a five-minute talk on the work of the department from which she was graduating.

Mrs. Laura Owens gave a talk for the commercial department—a talk which proved of vital interest to the business girls. She told of short-hand dating back to the time of the old Egyptians and brought the curves and pot hooks up to their commercial relation with the work.

Mrs. Katherine McInterney gave a pleasing address for the expression department, in which she told of the good she has received in her work and of the benefits to be derived in various ways in the expression course.

The exercises closed with the class song.—L. A. Tribune.

INTERMEDIATE P. T. A.

The Parent-Teacher association of the Intermediate school will hold its regular meeting in the school on Third street this afternoon at 3:15. There will be a short session with election of officers and routine business. Installation of officers will take place in connection with the general installation service of the federation.

GOOD TEMPLARS BUSY

LOCAL MEMBERS OF TEMPERANCE ORGANIZATION MEET WITH NEIGHBORS

Pasadena lodge, No. 299, of the International Order of Good Templars, held a gala affair Tuesday night at their hall, 34 E. Colorado street, Pasadena lodge is always doing something out of the ordinary. They pave the way and others follow and a good example they set. Ten members were taken into this good and beautiful order, some by readmission and others joining for the first time. The Hon. J. Clay Needham, who joined the order forty-five years ago, and was active for many years in organizing, has now placed his card with this lodge. Mrs. Charles Randall, wife of Congressman Randall, joined, the Rev. Emerson, Mr. Jackson and others prominent in temperance work.

There were speeches by Charles H. Randall, J. Clay Needham, Charles R. Burger, Rev. Emerson and Miles Burger, son of Charles Burger, and selected by Mr. Randall for appointment to the United States naval academy at Annapolis. There were remarks by J. P. Jensen, Mrs. Hamilton, Mr. R. Taylor, Mr. Nelson, C. T. of Svea lodge; Barbara Askeland, Mrs. May and the Rev. Wilson, returned missionary from India.

There were 28 Glendale members present as the guests of this lodge, which is ranked with the leading lodges of the state. Delicious fruit and home made cake were served after which a grand march brought all together in a whirl of pleasure till a late hour when the Glendale guests were cheered as they started homeward and bade to come again.

The Ninth District lodge, I. O. G. T., held its 121st session in the Good Templar hall in the Burbank building Monday, May 24th.

Business of the quarter was transacted. There was a debate in the afternoon, the subject being "Resolved that a Good Templar can consistently support the two amendments offered by the committee of 33." Prof. A. Dobbins and L. A. Swan of Merrell lodge took the affirmative, Charles R. Burger and Vernon Lilly of Pasadena lodge took the negative.

District lodge endorsed an amendment submitted by Pasadena lodge, 173. Z. P. M. Jensen and Robert Taylor were elected to represent the Ninth district lodge at the Grand lodge sessions.

All lodges having delegates present reported great progress and much work accomplished. Lodges represented were: Svea, No. 2, of Pasadena; Glendale No. 46, Pasadena No. 173, Santa Monica, 292, and Merrill, 299. The following lodge visits will be made during the coming quarter: Oscar II. to visit Merrill, Merrill to visit Glendale, Glendale to visit Pasadena, Pasadena to visit Oscar II. All lodges will spend a day and evening at Santa Monica lodge.

A great union picnic is to be held in Brookside park in Pasadena, July 4, this being an annual outing. Children were appointed from each lodge to plan with Pasadena to make this a never to be forgotten picnic and reunion.

The district degree was conferred on six members. The evening was spent enjoying a fine program. Hon. Theo. Kanouse, O. W. Blaine, Prof. A. Dobbins and many others helped to enlighten as well as entertain the many Templars and their friends. Delicious refreshments were served, after which the usual good time was enjoyed by old and young alike.

THE MISSION PLAY

The beautiful and picturesque fiesta scene in the Mission Play has had two delightful numbers added to it. The Castillo sisters are singing an old Spanish song called La Espanola, while Juanita Vigare and Juan Zoraquinos are dancing the La Jota. The song is sweet and taking and the audience have expressed their approval of it in no unmistakable manner.

Harry Haskins, who recently took a trip to Monterey, the scene of the fiesta, discovered the song in the old Spanish settlement there. He heard two Mexican girls singing it. On making inquiries he found that it had been sung in the days of Junipero Serra and had been especially popular with the Spanish singers and dancers. Around it is woven an early California romance, one of the most delightful of all the Monterey stories.

The La Jota was found by Mr. John S. McGroarty among the Mexican families who lived on the ranches near the border. They told him that there was a legend which said that one of the Spanish soldiers who came over with the padres taught it and danced it with a beautiful Indian girl at the first fiesta in California.

MODERN VIEWS OF CITY GOVERNMENT

Modern experience with civic government tends to favor the placing of such government in the hands of a few experts. The tendency in first-class municipalities is toward concentration of administration in the hands of those who have made a thorough study of city government and then a holding of them to strict account of their stewardship.

That seems a reasonable view of the matter. It seems an act of folly to intrust civic interests that sometimes involve millions of dollars to the hands of men who have, in some instance at least, been failures in their own lines of business. In times not yet removed from us men who have made a failure of everything to which they have laid hand turn to the city government and seek to find office there "that they may eat a little bread."

That may be a species of charity; but it is fatal to good city government. A modern city is a complicated machine and it requires first-class men to run it. Those men must have special qualifications for their posts. No one would think of intrusting a modern, high-powered automobile to the care and management of a complete novice. Should that be done the machine would be a wreck in short order.

The reason that so many cities are head over ears in debt and that so many businesses are bankrupt is because men who have no business knowledge have been at their head, intrusted with their management.

The ideal city government, as some see it, is that where a first-class expert is at the head of the whole and has the appointment of his own assistants. If it were possible to get a man who would be at once capable and of the highest integrity, with vast experience and the capacity for handling men and getting the best from them, the greater number of citizens in any city would feel vastly relieved to turn the whole management over to him and go about their own affairs, confident that the city was not only not being robbed, but that every department was being handled on the most effective and at the same time economical scale possible.

The difficulty, of course, lies in getting such a man. When Chicago was dallying with the subject of municipal ownership of its street railways some years ago it sent to Glasgow, Scotland, for James Dalrymple, a Scotch expert, head of the Glasgow municipal railways, to advise it how to municipalize its roads. Dalrymple came, was feasted and feted; and the advocates of municipal ownership braced themselves to hear him bless their cause and speak the words that would convince all and sundry that the railways should there and then be taken over by the city.

Dalrymple held his peace until the last night of his visit when, at a mighty banquet that had been organized in honor of the event, he told them what he thought. "You have feasted me," he said. "Your hospitality has been unbounded. I have been aroused in the morning at 9 to go to this place and that, to this dinner and to that, and I have not been taken to see what I wished to see most. But while you thought I slept I went forth to see the city for myself. I visited your system incognito. I talked with motormen and with conductors and I have come to this conclusion—that municipal ownership will not do for Chicago. To run a municipal railway system you need men of strict honesty and integrity at the head. Ask yourselves where you are going to get them. No, I advise strongly against municipal ownership at this time."

Dalrymple was right and proved, amply proved, to be right afterward. With honest men and men of capacity a municipality can do anything; without such men its last state is worse than its first under the charter or commission system.

EVILS OF CYCLE SPEEDING

In the days when bicycles first came into common use in the United States, not so very long ago, accidents from speeding with the wheel were frequent and fatal. Then the streets and roads of every city were filled with patrons of the wheel. Its praises were sung and its merits spread far and wide. Such excessive use of the wheel inevitably led to accidents and the introduction of speed laws.

This, however, is the day of the auto; and the plain, old wheel has been relegated to the use of newsboys and for home purposes, and the streets are now the property of every one who can own a cheap auto or purchase a second-hand car on any terms. The consequence has been that the growth in the use of the motorcycle has developed unobserved and practically unchecked.

Not a week passes without a report of an accident from the excessive speeding of motorcycles. The motorcycle is so handy, so easily started; its speed is so gratifying and exhilarating that owners of those useful machines are invariably tempted to speed up whenever they find a smooth road beneath their well-tired wheels. Is there any wonder that occasionally they knock down the innocent citizen who is exercising his undoubted right to cross the street. The wonder is that any citizen who rashly attempts to cross the street in a large, modern city ever succeeds in the attempt. Dead Man's Corner in New York City is as fatal to longevity as the trenches in Belgium.

While, however, we do not wonder at the frequency of accidents in a city like New York it must be maintained that there is no excuse for them in Glendale. A recent motorcycle accident in this city, an account of which appeared in yesterday's Glendale Evening News, gives point to this comment. It will be well for owners of motorcycles to put restraint on their speed in the city as Chief Herald is determined to put an end to the practice.

There seems to have been a general relaxation of all speed laws recently on account of the decision of the state's attorney general regarding the fines collected from auto and other speeders. This, however, has come to an end and motorcycle speeders had better look out for themselves and slow down to the regulation speed when passing through the city. Chief Herald says that an example will be made of the first motorcyclist "caught in the act."

That should be warning enough, as the Chief means what he says. Delivery boys and delivery wagons of all sorts are included in this warning and the provisions of the city ordinances will be put into effect without fail. In this way it is hoped to see Glendale living up to its reputation as a city of homes where children and women are as safe in the streets as in their own houses.

BRITISH CABINET CHANGES

Nothing is more significant in the recent changes that have so altered the complexion of the British cabinet than the appointment of David Lloyd George as minister of munitions. This is a position created in answer to the demands and exigencies of the situation at the front.

When the war began no one seemed to have much perspective on it unless, perhaps, the secretary of state for war, Lord Kitchener, who prophesied that the war would last three years. That he was not mistaken in his estimate is becoming more clear every day. The Germans are so far from being beaten that in answer to Italy's declaration of war they have called an additional 2,000,000 men to the colors. They also seem to have abundance of ammunition.

On the other hand, the British, who have been supplying not only their own men but also the Belgians, French and Russians with ammunition, have had some difficulty in obtaining sufficient supplies of that necessary element of war. Blame has been thrown on Lord Kitchener for that shortage, but it is apparent that he has done what was right and that the only fault that could be laid to his charge was that of trying to do single-handed what is the work of several men.

To handle this entirely novel situation the British have created the new position of minister of munitions and have appointed David Lloyd-George, the chancellor of the exchequer, to the post. Lloyd-George is a fiery Welshman, full of energy and vigor, a reformer and a man of vision. It is likely that under his democratic direction the British will have ample ammunition for army and navy alike, and that the Russians will get their share.

The new coalition ministry is strong and manned by able men of all shades of opinion. It is not expected to do anything more than last through the war period and bring success to British arms. That done, it will break up, and each man go his own way. Coalition ministries have seldom lasted long. It is, however, interesting to see such men as Bonar Law, Arthur Balfour, Premier Asquith and Lloyd-George on the same side of the fence. War like poverty makes us acquainted with strange bedfellows.

THE COMING AEROPLANE

Russia has been experimenting on a large scale with aeroplanes. Sikorsky, the Russian inventor and aeroplane expert, recently designed an aeroplane called the "Iliia Muramet," which is capable of carrying several men. This is a great advance in aeroplane construction and marks a new development.

Grahame-White, the head of the British aeroplane department of war, has always believed that it would be possible to construct a huge aeroplane of this kind. His experiments in this direction were brought to an end when the British requisitioned his services as head of the flying machine department. He believes that in the course of a few years machines of this type, driven by motors developing 3000 horsepower and carrying eighty passengers, will be making regular trips between Hendon and New York, covering the single distance in fifteen hours.

There is, of course, nothing impossible in such a feat. It is merely a matter of time. If it is possible to carry one passenger safely in an aeroplane it is also possible to construct a machine in which 100 or more passengers can be carried in safety.

It is not to be imagined, however, that the development of the aeroplane will be confined to the present type of flyer. There are hints in ancient books, echoes from a world more ancient than any we have ever had suggested to us in the orthodox accounts of the beginnings of human activity on the earth, that the people of an older race than any of which we have cognizance manufactured and used flying machines. It is also hinted that older civilization had attained to a knowledge of the powers of negative electricity and were able to construct aeroplanes that possessed a stability that made it possible for them to stand perfectly still in the air.

When the day comes, as come it well may, when such stability is attained along with the highest rate of speed, aeroplanes will be as large as first-class Atlantic liners and as full of comforts and an air voyage will be a "trip de luxe," which will undoubtedly have extraordinary charms even if it will have occasional air tragedies of the magnitude of that which ended the Lusitania the other day.

At any moment the world may be startled by hearing of a new departure in the conquest of the air. Unfortunately, like all other great discoveries it will but serve, in the first instance, to increase the destructive powers of man in warfare. Ultimately it will aid in bringing the time when "the kingdoms of this world shall become the kingdom of God and he shall reign forever and ever."

FRANKLY ANSWERED

The teacher in a public school was instructing a youthful class in physiology and when the interval of questioning came she turned to a bright-faced girl at the head of the class.

"Now then Mildred," said she, "can you tell me what the cuticle is?"

Mildred couldn't. First she stood on one foot, then on the other, interspersing the act with many facial contortions, but the answer was not forthcoming.

"Let me put it to you in another way, Mildred," continued the teacher, encouragingly. "What are my face and hands covered with?"

"Oh, I know, Miss Mary," exclaimed Mildred, with a brightening expression, "Freckles!"

PAGEANT OF NATIONS

The Pageant of the Nations, which was presented by the departments of music and physical training of the Glendale Union High school Wednesday afternoon was an affair resplendent in color, movement, beauty and music. The work of both departments was excellent and each and every pupil carried their individual parts out to perfection. A great deal of the music was composed by the students of the harmony classes of the local school. Following is the story and program of the affair:

All the great nations of the world come together to choose a queen of the May, but since each wants the queen from his own country they cannot agree. They decide to summon before them the most likely maidens from each nation and to make their choice from among them. But the maidens come and go and still they cannot agree.

The spirit of Gloom enters and surrounds them. The spirit of Childhood pleads with them, but to no avail. Gloom, convinced that all will end in war and disaster, begins to stir her attendants to a rejoicing, when the Spirit of Peace comes to announce that she knows of a queen from the Palace of Love situated in Every Nation. She is fairer than all others and is waiting to be crowned Queen of the World. The nations decide to let her come before them and when they see her they immediately prepare for the coronation.

PROGRAM

Enter the Nations.
Overture, International Fantasia, (Rollinson). Introducing national airs of America, England, Germany, Scotland, Ireland, France, Austria, Italy, Turkey.) By orchestra.

Exit and pageant.
Miss Mopa Butler of the class of 1917 was crowned queen. Mrs. Doris L. Gibson had charge of the music, while Miss Katherine M. Turner had charge of the physical training departments.

NEW DAUGHTER

A baby daughter arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul C. Butterfield, 815 South Louise St., Wednesday, May 26. This lady is too young to be entered in the Better Baby contest now being conducted in connection with the Festival of Fruits and Flowers, but doubtless she will take all of the honors next year.

All babies can be in the parade whether registered or not. A prize for the best decorated go-cart and a prize for the most original will be given.

TROPICO

The Woman's Home Missionary rally of the Pasadena district was held in the Tropic Methodist Episcopal church Tuesday, with an all-day meeting.

Dr. R. T. Smith, pastor of the local church, opened the morning session with devotions. Mrs. E. W. Hoskyns of West Glendale presided.

A very able address was given by Mrs. M. Northrup, district president, who reviewed the general work of the district. Mrs. L. Knox of Glendale contributed a reading. Mrs. Eustace Benton Moore of the local society rendered a delightful solo, which was followed by an earnest appeal by Dr. Byron Wilson for the support of the magnificent new Methodist hospital in Los Angeles, which will be dedicated upon its completion in August. A number of the auxiliaries pledged themselves to furnish rooms and beds in the wards or nurseries of the hospital and new interest was awakened in this much needed enterprise by Dr. Wilson's able presentation of the work and its needs.

During the noon hour an informal reception was held and all visitors warmly welcomed by the courtesy committee, consisting of Mrs. R. T. Smith and Miss Elsie Anderson.

The Ladies' Aid society of the church had arranged the luncheon for the guests and a most excellent one it proved to be, which was served in the social hall, which had been profusely decorated in Shasta daisies and the long tables daintily trimmed in carnations and trailing greenery and ferns. The afternoon session opened with devotions by Mrs. E. L. Miller of Burbank.

Mrs. Libbie Allen, national secretary, reviewed the national work of the society. Miss Blanche Hoskyns of Boyle Heights rendered a pleasing solo, after which Mrs. A. Jones of Casa Verdugo gave a reading. Then came the crowning number of the afternoon program, when Miss M. Mathias, presented five of the girls from the Francis De Pauw Spanish school. Their songs, recitations and piano selections were enthusiastically received and greatly enjoyed, giving real proof of the efficiency and actual results of the work in this school, located in Hollywood, and which is supported by the Home Missionary society.

The benediction by Rev. Hoskyns closed an enjoyable day and each one returned home feeling it was good and profitable to have been there.

The following resolution was submitted by Judge Benjamin F. Bledsoe at the grand lodge of the Knights of Pythias lodge that but recently closed a most successful meeting in San Francisco:

"Each succeeding reference to the unspeakable horrors of the conflict across the seas brings to mind with increasing vividness the comforting recollection of the fact that we in America are at peace—at peace with ourselves, at peace with our neighbors and friends, at peace with all the world.

"The American nation was conceived in the spirit of armed insurrection, was born amid the carnage of revolution, and was then born again into a newer and truer national life out of the travail of a most sanguinary civil war, but we venture to voice the hope and aspiration of the American people, as we sense it, that America is to work out its marvelous destiny among the nations of the world, in peace—the peace that is the hand maiden of true civilization, the peace that should ever distinguish and characterize the conduct of a sentient, sober-minded, upward-looking humanity.

"As a stout champion of peace—not only for its own sake, but also because of its ennobling and uplifting influence—the President of the United States has rendered conspicuous and lasting service to mankind. In this present turmoil he is meeting with grave responsibilities, the magnitude of which has not been equalled since Lincoln himself strove so patiently with the forces of disruption. It is our confident belief that our president will meet these responsibilities in a manner not only creditable to himself, but with completest satisfaction to the American people.

"Therefore, be it resolved, that we, in behalf of the Pythians of California, hereby express our confidence in the wisdom, foresight, poise and decision of our Chief Magistrate, and we hereby pledge to him, in whatever exigency the logic of events may lead us, the loyal, enthusiastic, whole-hearted and abiding support of this fraternity, whose prayer is peace, but whose goal is justice.

(Signed) B. F. BLEDSOE,
Supreme Representative.

Unanimously adopted by rising vote.

YES, SAME SIZE

He felt it would be extravagant to call in a man for a little job like replacing a broken windowpane, so he took the measurements very accurately and went to the hardware store to buy the glass.

"Quite a simple job," he explained to the storekeeper. "In fact, a child could do the thing in a few minutes."

An hour later he presented himself once more at the store, the proprietor of which greeted him cheerfully with the query:

"Same size, I suppose, sir."—Exchange.

DOPEY BENNY'S "EMPLOYERS"

As gang leader, according to his confession, "Dopey Benny" had a regular schedule of rates for committing crimes ranging from murder to mayhem and terrorism. Under his contract system he hired his own men and fixed their pay. For raiding a small shirt waist factory the charge was $150; for wrecking a larger establishment, $600. For purposes of intimidation, to have men shot cost from $60 to $600, according to the victim's relative importance. The gangster was even guaranteed his doctor's bills, regular wages for time spent in jail and attorney's fees.

EXPOSITION NOTES

SAN DIEGO, May 25.—The official women's board of the San Diego exposition is taking up plans for an Ellen Beach Yaw day at the exposition that the southland may send a great crowd to honor California's great singer. As yet no date has been set, but it will be within the next month. On Ellen Beach Yaw day one of the largest musical programs of exposition year will be given and the famed California singer will be heard in concert at the great outdoor organ.

Meeting with such popular endorsement the plan of the San Diego exposition to have Spanish troubadours entertain on the grounds has been broadened and the troupe has been doubled so that now about 20 singers, dancers and musicians are on the daily programs. These make merry in the flower gardens and balconies of the buildings and add much to the charm of the exposition.

As a prelude to the summer school which will be maintained at the San Diego exposition Dr. A. L. Kroeber of the University of California faculty, one of the leading anthropologists in the west, will give a series of lectures at the exposition near the last of May. With plans well in hand those in charge of the summer school expect a large enrollment. Applications are being received by Dr. Edgar L. Hewett at the exposition. The school will be opened July 5 and in session six weeks. One of its big features will be the Montessori school for children which will be established in a wild flower field in rear of the California building. This school will be taught by Dr. Maria Montessori and her assistants.

Definite announcement that the historic Liberty Bell will be exhibited at the San Diego exposition can now be made. This was made possible by word which Exposition President G. A. Davidson has just received from Mayor Rudolph Blankenburg of Philadelphia stating that the Liberty Bell will come to California over the northern route and return via the southern route and will be exhibited at both the California expositions.

The great relic that sounded forth independence will leave Philadelphia July 5. It will be escorted across the country by a heavy guard and will first be seen at the San Francisco exposition. After its exhibition there it will be sent south that the people of Southern California may see it at the San Diego exposition. It is expected to arrive here about August 1. The exhibition of the bell here will be marked by a series of patriotic programs in which the school children will play an important role. Already an organization of 5000 school children is being formed to act as an honorary guard to the Liberty Bell in the parades. These will be dressed in white and each will carry a small flag. During its exhibition at the exposition the bell will be guarded day and night by heavy detachments from the United States Marine Corps battalion and the First Cavalry squadron which are encamped on the grounds.

From far away Hawaii a distinguished person is coming to visit the San Diego exposition. He is Governor Lucius Pinkham of Hawaii and he will arrive at the exposition June 13. Shortly after the exposition was opened it was visited by Secretary Wade Warren Thayer of Hawaii. Secretary Thayer promised that Governor Pinkham would be here later and now this promise is about to be fulfilled. Even though the date is late it is expected that Governor Pinkham will attempt to make arrangements for a Hawaiian exhibit here.

Marshall Field & Co. have made the following announcement with reference to Profit Sharing Coupons: "The wholesale and retail buying organization of Marshall Field & Company has been in the process of building for fifty years.

"It has been trained to study the many intricate phases of merchandising to the end that the buying public could obtain the highest degree of service in the merchandise purchased.

"Its ideal has always been the best possible service in merchandise. The fulfillment of this ideal for so many years has developed the great confidence that the public has in the ability and integrity of this organization. "Coupons packed with merchandise does not in any way add to the value of such merchandise.

"We have, therefore, decided that after our present stocks containing profit-sharing coupon are exhausted our retail and wholesale business will not carry any merchandise that would involve us in the distribution of profit-sharing coupons, as the principle would be contrary to the long-established policies and ideals that have built up our institution.

"We recommend that every retail merchant give serious consideration to the question of taking action along similar lines, as we believe that it will be decidedly in the interest of better merchandising."—Judicious Advertising.

SPEAKING OF ANIMALS

Before kindness to animals week comes to a close the Outlook wishes to make an appeal on behalf of two animals who in the rush of life receive scant consideration. They are the "order man" and the newspaper editor. What some of the tender-hearted housewives, who would lie awake nights if they thought the neighbor's cat was hungry, won't do the order man for the grocer and the meat shop, by way of making his lot a hard one beggars description. In their ambition to keep down the high cost of living and provide their home tables with the best possible service these good women keep the poor order man on the rack of dissatisfaction, sap his self confidence and make him the "goat" between seller and buyer.

With amazement and sorrow the editor of this paper has seen some of his own female relatives give order men the third degree of "humility treatment" without of course resorting to any but polite language and manners above comment. But enough, let us turn to the other animal—the editor. Less need be said for him as his lot in life, in a way, makes him the target for more or less attack, but even at that, soft-hearted women, who suffer at the thought of poor lame "Robin," who "pulls such heavy loads," seem to look upon the newspaper editor (we mean those on the Atlantic coast) as a person who to say the least needs careful watching and frequent "bringing to time," with the icy glare or the poisonous dart of insinuation. Probably though, those Atlantic coast fellows richly deserve it.—Santa Monica Outlook.

IF I KNEW YOU AND YOU KNEW ME

If I knew you and you knew me, 'Tis seldom we would disagree; But never having yet clasped hands, Both often fail to understand. That each intends to do what's right, And treat each other "honor bright."

How little to complain there'd be If I knew you and you knew me. When'er we ship you by mistake, Or in our bill some error make, From irritation you'd be free.

If I knew you and you knew me, Or, when checks don't come on time And customers send us "nary a line, We'd wait without anxiety If I knew you and you knew me.

Or, when some goods you "fire" back Or make a kick on this or that, We'd take it in good part, you see, If I knew you and you knew me. With customers three thousand strong Occasionally things do go wrong— Sometimes our fault, sometimes theirs— Forbearance would decrease our cares.

Kind friends, how pleasant things would be If I knew you and you knew me.

Then let no doubting thoughts abide Of firm good faith on either side; Confidence to each other give, Living ourselves, let others live, But any time you come this way, That you will call, we hope and pray, Then face to face we each shall see, And I'll know you and you'll know me.

FOR THE SLAUGHTER OF MEN

Even warfare has been brought to a high state of efficiency. The number of rounds that can be fired by means of various guns during an ordinary battle can only be imagined. Statistics from the Russo-Japanese war show that at Lajaopan one battery fired 2600 rounds in one day, while another fired 3,304 rounds, making for each gun about 413 rounds in one day. This was not an uncommon occurrence, and it shows the expense involved in carrying on a modern war.

The most common projectile of the three-inch caliber is the shrapnel, which is in itself a gun, arranged by time fuses so that at the desired height it is made to burst, shooting forward out of a shell 250 lead balls.

QUICK CHANGES

"At 10 o'clock tomorrow morning I will be prepared to answer your proposal of marriage."

"Why this delay?" "It gives me time to play fair with another suitor. If he doesn't come across when he hears of your offer I'll take you."

"Under the circumstances I must withdraw my offer." "Must you? Then under the circumstances I waive the other chance and take you."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

SUDDEN END

"Whar's Red Face?" asked Four Finger Hogan in the hotel bar at Tin Can. "I haven't seen Red Face around for some time." A general laugh went up. Then Shotgun Simpson shook his head and said:

"Poor Red Face! He got loaded the other night and rode into Cemetery Gulch, stuck his head in the window of the Crimsons Arms hotel and yelled 'Fire!' Everybody did."—Exchange.

STILL RECRUITING

"What is that army officer who had charge of the enlistments doing on sick leave?" "Still working on his job." "How's that?" "He's recruiting his health."—Baltimore American.

When it really gets warmed up to fighting, probably Italy, too, will mount the water wagon.

ACROSS THE CONTINENT

That an automobile trip from San Diego to New York City has been made in eleven days and seven hours is a circumstance of more than ordinary interest, says the Long Beach Telegram. First-class passenger trains consume half this amount of time between the two points. It is to be remembered that there is no cross country highway yet, that while there are strips of good road, there is more bad road, and long stretches hardly deserving the name of road at all. And an automobile takes this route, one man at the wheel, for the entire distance, in twice the time required by steam, with frequent changes of engine and engineer. Some day there will be from coast to coast a highway as nearly perfect as men have learned to construct. Meanwhile, automobiles are steadily being improved as to strength, speed and compactness. It is natural to suppose that in the future the trip that now seems a remarkable feat will be a common experience. Of course comparatively few who make it will be after a record. They will move along as their tastes may direct, stopping at will. In such a journey they will learn more about the country and the people than they could know after years of crossing by Pullman. It is a very pleasing thought that before long the owner of an automobile may set out from this coast and go to the other without suffering a single hardship by the way, but have throughout the smooth and easy going to which the superb roads of California have accustomed him. It means much to all who use the automobile, and much also to the manufacturers of the machines.

Washington and Lincoln never had such prompt and inclusive registration of public opinion to aid them in shaping public policy as it has been the fortune of President Wilson to fall back upon. Facilities for such swift expression of the public thought and intent to a high servant of state did not exist in their day; and credit for the new situation must be given to the inventors, mechanicians and transmitters of news who have made it possible for a twentieth century president to know literally what all his countrymen wish to bring out as their formal action, when given certain circumstances of state. Entirely apart from any other aspect of the matter than this, the events of the last few days have been illuminating. Public opinion has come into a new era of power, at least of power to make itself fully known.—C. S. Monitor.

Obviously "Dopey Benny" as an east side gang leader could not have done a business of $10,000 a year unless there was a steady demand for his criminal services. He would not have paid money out of his own pocket, even if he had it, to gangsters to wreck a manufacturer's plant, or beat a foreman, or knock out non-union workers. He and his gang of thugs and gunmen were not working for fun. Somebody paid them.

It was not by chance that large sums of money continued to be paid to "Dopey Benny" by his "employers." It was not by accident that they called on him to do jobs in which they did not care to figure. If well-known labor leaders and union officials were his clients, they did not hire him out of their own earnings. What have the hard-working members of east side unions to say as to the use of their funds for the hire of criminals like "Dopey Benny's" gangsters? Did they sanction it? Do they propose to defend it? Is that what their unions were organized to accomplish?—New York World.

BOILED ONIONS

Small onions boiled in meat stock boiled away and reduced to glaze, are delicious, but some butter and bacon with a little sugar and water may be used instead, just enough liquid to cover, so that it will all be boiled away. Cooked in a plain salted water and served in a little hot cream, they are delicious, but cannot so well be used as a garnish. Small onions will cook in from twenty minutes to half an hour as follows: Remove the thin paper skin so as to leave them as comely as possible, cover with a little cold water or meat stock, boil up, then cover cooking vessel closely, and finish over the simmering burner. The steam generated helps to cook them better than in an open vessel. By all means have some onions on your menu.

MASHED POTATOES

There is one essential thing to remember about mashed potatoes which we so universally serve; it is that they must not be left to stand after being mashed and seasoned. They lose all their quality by so doing. So true is this that thousands of people do not know what true mashed potatoes are. If they must be prepared beforehand, pack into a hot earthen dish, brush the top with butter or egg and put into the oven for ten minutes. A tablespoon of cream to each two potatoes and an ounce of butter to four medium potatoes seasons them well, with the salt and perhaps pepper. It is best to have the cream hot, or milk may be used instead with a little more butter.

The popular belief that birds under ordinary circumstances find ocean flight wearisome and that after laboring with tired wings across the seemingly endless waste they sink exhausted on reaching land, is disproven by facts. It seems rather that the powers of locomotion with which nature has endowed many birds are so wonderful that under normal conditions they can easily cross the Gulf of Mexico at its widest point and even pass without pause over the low, swampy coastal plain to the higher territory beyond. So little averse are birds to an ocean flight that many fly from eastern Texas to the Gulf coast of southern Mexico through this 400 miles of water journey hardly shortens the distance of travel by an hour's flight. Thus birds avoid the hot, treeless plains and scant provender of southern Texas by a direct flight from the moist, insect-teeming forests of northern Texas to a similar country in southern Mexico.

For generations Europeans will groan under impossible taxes to pay interest on war loans. There can never be any question of paying the principal.

The man who stops this war is going to be the one to get the glory.
