Thus have Reiman's Bronze achieved an almost unbelievable winning record, climaxing their more than 20 years of consistent progress in the science of producing better turkeys.

If a high winning record is proof of superior quality the continued winning record running for many years must be final proof sustained and constant quality that cannot be denied.

No other Bronze can offer you any more significant evidence of superior quality and yet Reiman's Bronze are priced at so reasonable a figure that you can hardly afford not to head your flocks with this splendid breed. The difference between the price of a Reiman bird and a mediocre quality is very little when you compare the superior results obtained.

THE ALL-AMERICAN COURT OF HONOR

Grand Champion, Yearling Bronze Tom in the center of the court, surrounded by 12 other high honor birds, representing class and sweepstakes awards, competed for at the 1934 All-American. This new arrangement brought forth many favorable comments.

All-American A Big Success

Goes Down in History as the Best Ever Held by This Famous Exclusive Turkey Show

By GEO. W. HACKETT, General Manager

As manager of this widely known turkey exposition, it is not my purpose to make a detailed report on the show just past. This must come from others less vitally interested, or be arrived at from comments and expressions from visitors and exhibitors.

The consensus of opinion will readily decree whether or not the All-American is doing the job it was established to do and further, whether it is doing it in the best and most satisfactory way. We shall accept that appraisal as being authoritative. But as to the functioning of the machinery which must be in operation during show week; to have every department working smoothly and expeditiously, no one is in so good a position to judge the pulse and the attitude of exhibitors and visitors as is the show manager.

While there has been considerable satisfaction in the reputation for smooth running accorded the All-American we have never felt puffed up about it, for we have known there is always room for improvement and it is through careful observation and study that we have been able to make each succeeding show a little better than the previous one.

From our office at the Auditorium, from observation and from the many expressions volunteered by exhibitors and patrons, we must conclude that we took a longer step ahead this year than in any one year before. Not a single error was made in the checking in or checking out of the birds and every bird was handled by the experienced men who have been at this job for some years. More sales were made this year than usual and every transfer was duely made through the office. Birds were delivered promptly from the express arrival, whether late or early and birds were cooped promptly.

In this group of toms, are some of the best we ever produced. They are mated to a number of prize winners and many as good or better that have not been shown. Shelton's won 27 awards at Chicago, 24 at the Los Angeles County Fair and 18 at the State Fair giving us a total of 69 awards for 1933.

The rearrangement of the cooping made the floor work easier, gave a better view of the show room and added to the capacity of cooping space. But the greatest improvement of all was the arranging of the "Court of Honor" on the Auditorium stage, which gave an effect, the equal of which is seldom seen at a show of this kind. This change in arrangement elicited more favorable comment than any other change we have made during the seven years we have managed the show.

With the twenty beautiful pottery vases, a half dozen fine silver cup trophies and a number of specially designed trays, all displayed in artistic arrangement in the center of the Court of Honor, it just had to be seen to be appreciated. It is possible this whole setting had much to do with the cheerful and friendly attitude that seemed to prevade the show room.

We were especially proud of our dressed turkey exhibit this year the quality of which was pronounced by Thomas W. Heitz, of the Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., who judged the exhibit, as the best he had ever handled. The Grand Champion dressed turkey was sold to Russell Whaley of New York City for $2.00 per pound.

Our educational program this year was unusually good and the problems discussed, Mr. Heitz's several talks on marketing and his demonstrations in the dressed turkey department were greatly appreciated by an eager audience. The talks on turkey diseases, sanitation, and the clinic held by Messrs. Potratz and Dibble of the Dr. Salisbury Laboratories were listened to by large audiences and were most favorably commented on. And Miss Clara Sutter, of the Farmer, St. Paul, always a favorite on our All-American programs did valued service at several meetings and entertainments.

The several get-together meetings were full of good fellowship and the big banquet and dance on Wednesday night was again the high spot of the whole affair and nicely reflected the good sportsmanship and friendliness of the show room.

But with all the improvements in arrangement, the great array of trophies, the numerous classifications and extensive cash and special prizes, together with much entertainment, the success of the whole affair depended on the loyal and liberal support of the exhibitors, patrons, and business interests, all of whom came forward with the support needed and with the cooperation for which we are most grateful.

We Met Them at the Show

The annual trek to the All-American Turkey Show brought many prominent turkey growers, and others interested in the turkey industry from far distances, many remaining throughout the week. It proved a regular "homecoming" and a jolly good time.

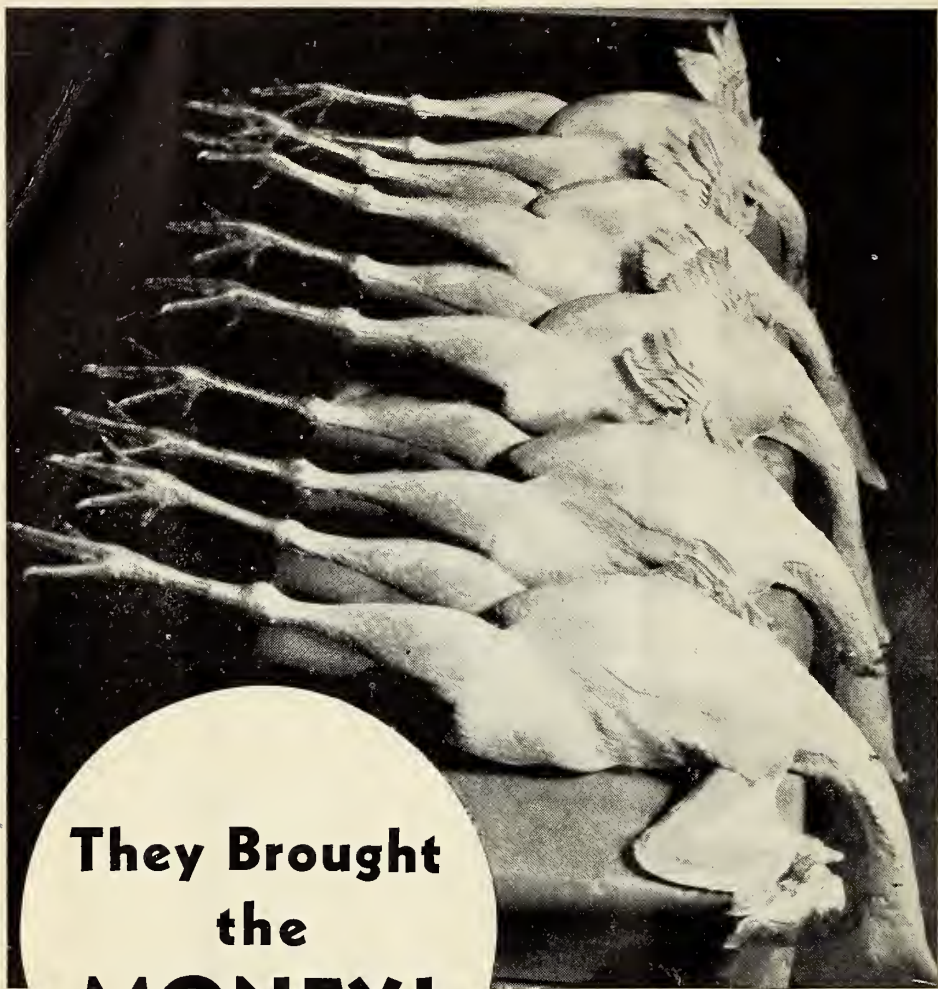

Miss Clara Sutter, representing the Farmer, Farm-Stock & Home, St. Paul was present most of the week and did we enjoy her! Ask anyone who attended the big banquet. Miss Sutter appeared on the educational program, over radio, at the get-together meetings and at both banquets. It would hardly be an All-American without Miss Sutter present.

Axel Hanson, of Minneapolis, representing the Minneapolis Tribune, attended the show this year for the first time. He had much praise for the show. Tom Pederson was also present with a fine exhibit of Wild Turkeys, Pheasants and other game birds from the Murphy Turkey and Game Farm at Battle Lake, Minn.. This farm is owned by F. E. Murphy, publisher of the Minneapolis Tribune. The exhibit was much admired by all visitors.

Mrs. Al C. Johnson, of Bath, S. Dak., outgoing president of the Turkey Hen Club was present all week and active both in Hen Club matters and in looking after a very fine exhibit of Bronze turkeys from their Willow Grove Farm near Aberdeen, S. Dak. She reported many good sales.

Narragansett exhibitors were pleased to see Mrs. Mabel F. Tuttle present at the show and to learn that she is back raising her favorites, the Narragansetts. She exhibited but two birds but placed on both.

Among the exhibitors who can always be

They Brought the MONEY!

IN 1933, as in years gone by, smooth, plump, well-finished turkeys sold for a premium over the average run of birds.

There's something you can do this spring about getting premium birds in 1934. Feed your poults Purina Turkey Startena for the first six weeks. You'll see a difference in size and number at the end of six weeks. Then switch to Purina Turkey Growing and Fattening Chow. You'll have birds big in frame, good in finish, straight-breasted and weighing extra pounds on market day.

depended on for an entry, and whose presence we can also count on, is Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Hoynes, Mapes, N. Dak. They were again present all week and enjoyed every function. They also won some of the coveted prizes that were hotly competed for.

Wearing a smile that never rubs off, and always busy with her fine turkeys on exhibit, helping in the social affairs, or following her hobby (boosting the All-American Bronze Club), Mrs. W. J. Janda was present and everywhere. Just say: "I raise Bronze turkeys" and Mrs. Janda will say the rest. She is sure one live Club secretary.

Mrs. Mack Burnett doesn't talk much unless you get her alone. But how she can work and in any spot or place. She is past President of the Hen Club and that is where she learned the "ropes." She was present all week.

Another past president of the Hen Club who is always much missed when not present, is Mrs. F. Bellamy. Sickness in the family prevented Mrs. Bellamy from spending the week at the show as she usually does but she did get down for a couple of days and was present at the Hen Club banquet.

For the first time in several years Mr. and Mrs. Ray Andrews were not able to attend the show for the full week but they did get down from Petersburg for some of the doings and also to spend some time at the show room. Mrs. Andrews was the first President of the Hen Club and has always been active in matters connected with the show and Ray has always been one of the staunchest supporters, both with entries and in official capacities. While not exhibiting this year, they want their friends to know they have not quit raising their quality "Copper Clad" Bronze and that they expect to be back at the show next year stronger than ever.

Geo. E. Lamm and his "All-American Express" again made the 600 mile trip from Philip, S. Dak., with a bigger cargo than ever before. Routed via. Aberdeen and Watertown, S. D., he brought birds for the Johnsons at Bath, for Miss Grace Baxter of Hazel and for Mrs. R. Egge, of Bristol. He also carried a consignment of dressed turkeys for the dressed bird exhibit at the show. But with it all he won Grand Champion of the show to add to his laurels of last year when he won Master Breeder Award. George's brother Gust made the trip with him again.

Mrs. C. H. Folz, one of the two exhibitors who has exhibited at each of the eleven annual shows, made her usual good entry of White Hollands and was present during the show. Mrs. Folz and Alfred were honored at the tenth annual show, by being presented a token of appreciation by the show association for their long and loyal support.

Otto W. Thieke, Beardsley, Minn., well-known breeder of Bourbon Reds is another loyal patron of the All-American who never fails with his entry and this year he came over to look the show over. He expressed much satisfaction with the progress the show has made since he first visited it.

J. M. Olson, White Holland breeder of Devils Lake, N. D., was a new exhibitor here this year and was present most of the week. He was delighted with his winnings and also with the show. He says he will be here "with bells on" next year.

Albin G. Mohn, Bronze breeder of Buxton, N. D., is another dependable supporter of the All-American and as usual had in a good entry, winning well. Mrs. Mohn came in to look the show over and Mr. Mohn was present most of the week.

At the Litchfield Turkey Farm, season 1933, Sterling Turkey Starter raised a higher percentage of poults with less Feed consumption—and at the same time produced birds with excellent frames, feathering, health, weight and vitality. WHY? Because over 60% of this feed is easily and quickly assimilated. Other large farms have had similar results.

Wallace Jerome, of Barron Wis., who came to the All-American last year for the first time, and made such a deep impression by winning Grand Champion, came back again this year with a much larger entry of his fine Bronze and made a still deeper impression by winning that most coveted of all turkey show prizes the "Master Breeder Award," and carried home the gold medal of exclusive design that can be won at no other show.

Another young man from Wisconsin made his initial entry at the big show this year and got well into the awards. He could hardly find words to express his impression of the All-American but says he will do so by bringing back a bigger and better entry next year. Look out for Irving Jensen and his fine Bronze. He comes from Amery, Wis.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Ellingson came back with a fine string of their high quality Narragansetts after remaining away last year. They not only won the lion's share in the live bird exhibit but also copped off the Grand Champion in the dressed bird division. This latter award is a boon to Narragansetts and no one questioned the award. Both Mr. and Mrs. Ellingson were present all week and made many sales.

Mrs. Wm. Eddie, Northwood, N. D., is another enthusiastic Narragansett breeder who broke into the high awards this year by winning champion of her breed on her yearling tom. She is secretary of the Narragansett Club and the newly elected President of the Hen Club. She is doing good work for the All-American.

Speaking of Narragansetts always reminds one of Harry Olin. But Harry had to have his hat stretched after all his winnings at the recent show. Look them up.

J. J. Quam, Beltrami, Minn., exhibited last year for the first time at the All-American but he came back strong this year and plucked off some nice plums in the Narragansett class.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Groven are also loyal Narragansett supporters of the show. They had a nice entry and made good winnings. They were in attendance several days as was Mrs. O. H. Groven of Hoople, N. D.

Mrs. J. D. Savage who won champion in the Narragansett class last year was present with her exhibit which made good winnings.

Carl Waag, Petersburg, N. D. one of the best-known breeders of Bronze in the Northwest came in with one of the largest entries of the show and made some very good winnings but his fine string of young birds lacked a little in development which proved a handicap. Mr. Waag was present all week and made many sales.

O. B. Skonnard, of Valley City, is another dependable breeder of Bronze in North Dakota who always brings out some high quality birds which usually land near the top. He spent most of the week at the show and was always ready to help out when needed.

Aitkin County, Minnesota, was again represented this year by Mr. and Mrs. Claude Wright and Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Williams. They made a long drive over very icy roads to get here but expressed themselves as being well repaid for making the trip. The Wrights entered four dressed turkeys topping two of the classes they exhibited in and came close to the top with the other two. Mrs. Wright is business manager of the Aitkin County Turkey Association which has been very successful with their turkey project.

Mr. and Mrs. Cleve Angen, Bronze breeders of Garfield, Minn., were among the new exhibitors at the show this year and were present all week. They were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. George Gilbertson of the same place. Mrs. Angen became a member of the Hen Club sextet and all expressed themselves as having a delightful week.

Mr. and Mrs. Ole Nelson of Oakdale Farm, Kensington, Minn., breeders of Black turkeys were present for the week with their entries in both the live and dressed departments. This was their first exhibit and first attendance at the show. They expressed much satisfaction with what they saw and learned.

Emil Johnson, of Kensington, Minn., is one of the old reliables who has exhibited at most of the annual shows since the All-American was instituted. He breeds Bronze and it takes the best to satisfy him.

Lewis Flatten is one of the floor crew who is a great admirer of good Bronze, will be heard from in the future. He has done pretty well alone but more progress may be expected in the future for Lewis took to himself a wife last fall who has had good training at turkey raising, so watch them.

Mr. and Mrs. John O. Allen, came back strong with entries in both the live and dressed department and made fine winnings on both. Having won Champion Dressed Turkey for the two past years they appeared happy and content to win the sweepstakes display in that department this year. They were present all week and added much to the show. Mr. Allen was elected Vice President of the All-American at the annual meeting.

Mrs. A. Swenson, well-known breeders of White Hollands, of Gilby, and now raising both White Hollands and Narragansetts had entries in both classes and was present every day of the show. The All-American would not be complete without her.

Mrs. Alvana Bernard, of Jefferson, S. D., made her fourth annual trip to attend the All-American. This year she drove her own car and brought with her, Mrs. F. L. Green, Mitchell, S. D., Miss Grace Baxter, Hazel, S. D., and G. P. Elliott, of Des Moines, Ia., whom she assisted at the Salisbury Laboratories booth. Mrs. Bernard is a member of the national committee on

Mr. and Mrs. R. Allen Nixon are temporarily out of turkey raising but could not forego the pleasure of attending the show and most of the events.

Miss Alma Larson, a new exhibitor of Bronze from Oslo, Minn., entered two birds and was thrilled to get in the winnings. Mrs. Leona J. Tomlinson was also a new exhibitor who was present with a winning Bronze entry. Mrs. Tomlinson is from Devils Lake, N. D.

S. Dolager, of Glenwood, Minn., came to the show to look after Mrs. Dolager's entry of White Hollands and to look the show over. Mr. and Mrs. Godfrey Morris, of Neche, were also in with an entry of Bronze and spent several days at the show.

Mrs. Hattie Browell, of Emerado, who can always be counted on for an entry and never misses attended the show.

Chas. Karschner, manager of the Feed Department of the Pillsbury Flour Mills Inc., Minneapolis, spent several days at the show and enjoyed meeting our northwest turkey raisers. He liked the show very much.

S. G. Rockstad, Narragansett breeder of Walcot, N. D., made a nice entry at the show and was in attendance two or three days. Most of his entries placed and he also won some valuable special prizes. He joined the Narragansett Club and was present at the annual meeting.

Mrs. Bertha Tarr, well known Bronze breeder of Milton, N. D., had a small entry at the show and said she planned to have more birds in but the snow was too deep for auto travel to town and the distance too far for team and sled. Mrs. Tarr was present all week enjoying all the social events.

All-American Show Notes

O. A. Barton, chairman of the Poultry Division, North Dakota Agricultural College, Fargo, had charge of the Dressed Turkey Exhibit this year and handled it to the entire satisfaction of the exhibitors and show management, alike.

A "Footlight Parade" in turkey movies was a new feature at the show this year. A number of "Turkey Queens" paraded proud birds of the various breeds about the "Court of Honor" while Lloyd S. Larson, of the Hubbard Milling Company took a shot at the procession with his movie camera. Other action pictures were also taken of trophy presentations, of the show officials and of a dressed turkey packing demonstration. These pictures will be widely shown by the Hubbard Milling Company and can be secured by turkey clubs or others interested in using them for entertainment.

Another new feature, this year, which met with marked approval, was the broadcasting of awards right from the show room each afternoon, supplemented with short talks commenting on the show, by exhibitors and visitors. This was done through the courtesy of KFJM set up at the Hubbard Sunshine Theatre at the show. Some of the addresses on the educational program were also broadcast by KFJM.

Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Johnson, Michigan, N. D., were visitors at the show and attended the big banquet on Wednesday night. Mr. Johnson is always a staunch supporter and live booster for the show.

M. J. Albjerg, Vining, Minn., spent most of the week at the show and purchased three fine breeding toms for his matings. He expects to be back at the 1935 show with a full string. He remarked: "You have a show here every turkey breeder should support."

A. VanOosting, one of the new directors of the North Dakota Turkey Improvement Association, Minot, was at the show all week. Says he will exhibit here next year.

Other turkey growers, former exhibitors, who visited the show were: Mr. and Mrs. Henry Halleck, Miss Minnie Halleck, Freeman Brenna, Grand Forks; A. Pulkrabek, Angus, Minn.; Eric Rio, Michigan, N. D.; Mr. and Mrs. A. Gray, Hannah, N. D.; Lars, Dallum, Oslo, Minn.; Miss Cecelia Reed, Clifford, N. D.; Mrs. E. Powell, Drayton, N. D.; Christine Gubberud, Portland, N. D.

Among the Commercial Exhibits

Northrup, King & Co., of Minneapolis, had an attractive booth at the show, in charge of C. J. Landberg, Alexandria, Minnesota. Sterling Turkey Feeds were the principal topic of conversation during the show week and hundreds of visitors to the booth were noted. A feature of this exhibit were several photograph panels of their experimental farm at Litchfield, Minnesota. One enlarged photograph of a beautiful flock of Bronze on this farm was the most effective flock scene the writer has ever seen. The many visitors and show officials, too, greatly missed the genial Neil Barrett, Manager of the Feed division who was unable to visit the show this year. Mr. Landberg, however, filled the bill of host in fine manner. He said: "I want you to know I have never had a booth at any poultry or turkey show where I was able to make so many fine contacts of real business prospects. I am sure my company will be well pleased with the results."

The T. R. Miller Milling Company, with the genial and agreeable T. I. Foster, of Chicago, Ill., in charge, was a center of attraction during the show. Manufacturers of the new light-weight shipping containers for both live and dressed birds the product of this company has become well-known to turkey growers far and wide. Mr. Foster, who was here last year also, entered into the spirit of show week and was in the middle of everything that was going on during the week. At his booth was published each day a "Scandal sheet" distributed daily throughout the show and contained highlights on all show events. His special edition on a newly-discovered Nudist colony which turned out to be the Dressed Bird exhibit brought many laughs. Mr. Foster is a definite and valuable addition to the All-American "crowd" and said on departing: "I came here last year a total stranger, but on returning I am received as one of the "bunch." I will be hoping throughout the year that nothing prevents me from returning to your 1935 show."

The G. E. Conkey Company, of Cleveland, with G. A. Harris, in charge, was a popular booth during the show and he extolled the merits of Conkey's feeds to a generous group of real turkey growers during the week. Mr. Harris said: "I made more valuable contacts and more sales at the All-American this year than ever before. I am highly pleased with results and would not think of missing the All-American." Mr. Harris was an interested and genial participant in all show activities during the week and will be more than welcome back in 1935.

Purina Mills, of St. Louis, with the well-known and popular Vic Cranley in charge is one of the "old-timers" at the All-American. His company has been a steady exhibitor for many years and the show would not seem right without Vic and his checkerboard booth. Said Vic: "I like the new booth arrangement on the ground floor this year and I think this last All-American one of the very best I ever attended. We contacted more feed prospects and made more sales than for some years." Purina products are popular throughout this territory and numberless exhibitors and growers called on Vic during the show week.

Iowa, had an attractive display of their varied medical products for the treatment of poultry diseases, as well as operating a very instructional turkey clinic which was one of the features of show week and is written up elsewhere in this issue. Garner Elliott, Des Moines, in charge said: "I have heard a lot about the All-American and it is better than could be told. It must be seen to be fully appreciated. Interest in our booth has been excellent."

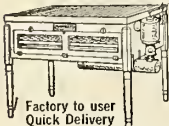

The General Box Company, Kansas City, Mo., and their local selling agents The Red River Produce Company, Grand Forks, occupied a booth together. Representing the produce company was the well-known Claude Sipple, president of the company and Kaylor L. Gaugh represented the General Box firm. On exhibit were many examples of the new light-weight shipping containers which are rapidly becoming so popular for shipping dressed turkeys. Mr. Sipple was in constant attendance renewing old friendships with the many growers whose birds his dressing plant has handled during the past year.

Hubbard Movies Popular Again

The Hubbard Milling Company, Mankato, Minn., was on hand again this year with bells on, as usual. Their booth was arranged in the form of an intimate little movie theatre seating about 30 persons and under the capable direction of the indefatigable Lloyd S. Larson, the movie impresario, a continuous performance of their motion picture features went on. Scenes from the All-American Show of 1932 and 1933 were shown as well as highly instructive scenes of noted flocks of Northwestern turkeys, illustrating feeding methods and improvements. In addition to Mr. Larson, who has become an All-American "regular" there were in attendance representing the company: P. L. Kimble, secretary, Harry Kelly, Dr. Haney, C. S. Jackson. Hubbard's Sunshine was the big featured item of the week and all members of the firm were well pleased with their week's results. The Hubbard company also purchased "time" on KFJM Radio Station and daily broadcasts of winnings and other show features were made during the week. Mr. Larson again became the demanding movie director for a time and took new scenes of all features of the current show which will be available to turkey meets at any time free-of-charge.

Turkey Disease Clinic Proves Popular Feature

Judging from the intense interest shown and the great number of questions asked, there has probably never appeared on the All-American Educational program a demonstration feature which was more eagerly followed through than the "Turkey Health and Disease Clinic," conducted at the recent show the talent from the Salsbury Laboratories, Charles City, Ia. M. B. Potratz in charge, ably assisted by Geo. C. Dibble.

The clinic was preceded by a lecture by Mr. Potratz in which he reviewed the origin of the turkey, discussed its traits and habits in its wild state and the changes that have been imposed upon it in the process of domestication, showing how many of the present day troubles were brought on through these changes. "Strong constitutional vigor and strict sanitation practices are the essential factors in warding off and combating turkey diseases" the speaker declared.

While Mr. Potratz was preparing to post diseased turkeys, Mr. Dibble gave a very interesting talk on turkey troubles and their treatments as he had experienced in his field work for the Salsbury Laboratories. Much valuable information was brought out through the questions asked.

The clinic consisted of the posting of two ailing turkeys taken from a flock where there had been much trouble and heavy loss. The trouble was pronounced cholera and the exhibits indicated how the disease could be detected and information was given as to how such a flock should be handled. The large lecture room in the basement of the auditorium was crowded during the entire program and many words of commendation were heard. There has already been requests that a similar clinic be held at the show next year.

"The AMERICAN TURKEY JOURNAL has been much help to me in the way of operating my incubator successfully; also feeding and much other useful information. We think it a fine journal. Herewith is renewal of our subscription."

SHALL TURKEYS GO UNDER A CODE?

Report of meeting held at Grand Forks during the All-American Turkey Show, for the purpose of formulating provisions to be included in the National Commercial and Breeder Hatchery Code, for the protection of the turkey breeders.

The All-American Bronze Turkey Club at its annual meeting appointed a committee of three, namely: Ray Andrews, Petersburg, N. D.; Wallace Jerome, Barron, Wis.; Mrs. Claude Wright, Aitkin, Minn. The Narragansetts (International) Turkey Club appointed: A. J. Burks, Midlothian, Texas; H. B. Olin, Grand Forks, N. D.; Geo. W. Hackett, Wayzata, Minn.; Mrs. Wm. Eddie, Northwood, N. D.

These committees met with Mrs. Alvana Bernard, of Jefferson, S. D., who is Hatchery Code Coordinator for North and South Dakota. Mrs. Bernard was instructed to secure from several sources, definite cost of producing hatching turkey eggs and to tabulate or compile same to be presented to the National Commercial and Breeder Hatchery Code Committee, together with recommendations for a minimum price set for commercial grade of turkey hatching eggs, as well as a minimum weight for these eggs.

Several other prominent turkey breeders were present at this meeting and all seemed to greatly favor united action on the part of all turkey breeders from various parts of the country for protection under this code. Commercial hatcheries who sell turkey poults are endeavoring to set the price for turkey eggs for hatching at a price which leaves the breeder no profit whatsoever. A great many turkey eggs of exceedingly small size are also set, being produced by small, immature hens, which tend to lower the grade of market turkeys.

In the formulating of the hatchery code provisions, none were made for the turkey breeders because there were no representatives of the industry. However, the Managing Agent of the Code stated that provisions would be included if the turkey breeders secured the cooperation of a representative group in formulating these provisions. Further information will be published in the AMERICAN TURKEY JOURNAL from time to time,

North Central Show Watertown, South Dakota

By JUDGE GEO. W. HACKETT

It was a fine show in both chicken and turkey entries, about 600 entries in all, and of high average quality.

The turkey entry consisted of 20 White Hollands and 45 Bronze. There were two exhibitors in the White Holland class, Mrs. N. R. Van Schoiack, Bryant and Rose M. Mollen, Watertown, the latter winning 2nd on old tom and 5th on young tom, all other awards to Mrs. Van Schoiack.

In the Bronze class competition was very keen between the following exhibitors: Miss Grace Baxter, Hazel, S. D.; Mr. and Mrs. Roy Utne, Ortle, S. D.; Mr. and Mrs. Al. C. Johnson, Bath, S. D. and Wm. Winger, Appleton, Minn.

Grand Champion turkey was awarded to Utne's yearling tom on a bird of most excellent type and color. The Utne's also won 1st and 2nd young tom and has several high placings on hens and pens. Miss Baxter placed 1st and 2nd on young hens, 1st on young pen and also placed well on yearling hens.

Mr. Winger placed 1st adult tom, 2nd yearling tom, 1st adult hen and had several other good placings. The Johnson's entered only 2 birds winning 3rd and 4th yearling toms. All the foregoing exhibitors were present and much interest was shown in this fine turkey exhibit, the best ever displayed at this show. It is probable that next year will find a real turkey show staged in connection with the Watertown show.

Mrs. J. B. Cooley, formerly of Grand Forks, well known to many of our readers, as the instigator of the famous Turkey Hen Club, was present at the show every day, reporting for the Watertown Public Opinion, and she covered the show in her characteristic thorough style.

The Watertown show was promoted and financed by local Fifiias club, a group of progressive young men bent on doing things and much credit is due them for the success they made of the show.

The local radio station, set up broadcasting facilities at the show room each forenoon and many of the exhibitors and others made brief talks giving their impressions of the show.

A banquet was held on Friday night which was well attended by both exhibitors and Watertown business men.

Good Marketing Advice From Colorado

By MRS. C. E. BROWN, Littleton, Colo.

We thought that a brief resume on the activities of the Colorado Progressive Turkey Club, for the season just past, and our personal views of the season to come might be of some interest to you and your readers.

Our monthly meetings have been very interesting and instructive and the attendance at all meetings has been from 60 to 90 per cent of the membership and new people have joined at each, until now we have considerably more than one hundred active and enthusiastic turkey growers on our membership roll.

We have held meetings at Littleton, Denver, Arvada, Brighton, Englewood, Greeley, and other localities, several turkey tours and a grand picnic at Eelitcher's gardens in July.

Our club took a very active part in the organization and sponsoring the Inter-mountain Turkey Show in Denver last January and also in the organization of the Denver Turkey Growers Co-operative, which is now functioning as an associate member of the Great North-western Pool but which I am sorry to say has not had the support and co-operation of ALL the turkey growers of this section which it deserves and whom it seeks to help.

For years we have been trying to get the turkey people together to try to eliminate some of the deadly cut-throat competition between them, and to effect some measure of solidarity in their groups. But just now I am beginning to believe that the only thing that will bring them anywhere will be under the compulsion of a code similar to those being put into effect by the government in other lines of agriculture.

By this I mean a code that will apply with equal effect, not only with the growers but with the packers and commission men and all other dealers in turkeys generally. A code that will insure a fair profit to the grower and a fair price to the consumers.

Many small turkey growers within a radius of one hundred to two hundred miles of Denver sacrificed their turkeys for almost any old price they were offered when, if they had been organized, they could have realized several times the prices they were paid; and which would have shown a small profit instead of a loss. Those are the people who are knocking the turkey business and its low prices when they are the very ones who are responsible for most of the ills of which they complain and too, we hope that those turkey growers who are planning on doubling or increasing their flocks this season will take warning of the evil of over-production such as has caused the ruin of the wheat, cotton, tobacco and live stock industries and on which too our government is now spending billions of dollars to try to rehabilitate.

Certainly restriction and a readjustment of the entire industry is bound to come unless the growers themselves show a more cooperative spirit and limit their production within a reasonable and measurable distance of consumptive requirements.

We raised 1250 turkeys this last season or about one-third less than our usual number. Our sales of market birds began in September and our prices have been much better than the average market. Many of our customers have been constant buyers for many years and are willing to pay a premium on fancy stock.

Sales of breeders have been quite satisfactory, a lot of our breeder business are repeat orders from old customers who also have dealt with us for many years and who appreciate a square deal, and the best of stock.

We are practically sold out of market birds and could have sold many more.

Starting the Season Right

Prominent South Dakota Breeder Discusses Early Egg Production

By AL. C. JOHNSON, Bath, S. D.

We are glad to again have had the opportunity of exhibiting at the All-American, the greatest turkey show in the country.

The arrangement and management of the show was wonderful, and now since the 11th Annual All-American is history, and folks are all talking about the great success of the show, one might ask, why is it such a success? My personal opinion is: because the breeders realize that they owe the All-American their support. They know that the All-American has built up the Turkey Breeding Industry and the show supports them in the degree that they support the All-American.

It is the place to measure the progress you make from year to year. It might be called a Guide to the Turkey Breeder, not only is this true of the All-American Show but also of the AMERICAN TURKEY JOURNAL as well, which gives you valuable information every month to guide through the year.

At this time we are receiving a few inquiries concerning early egg production. Last season we started to gather eggs the 12th of February and hatched the first poults April 9th. Likewise do we expect the same results this season as the same care is again given. In fact this is our third year that we use the brooder houses for our pens.

We mate our pens right after the All-American show and should the weather become severe as it usually does in February, here in the Dakotas, we build a fire in the stove. We use the regular brooder stove without the canopy. We think using the brooder house has many advantages with very little extra work, that of keeping it clean. We use about 6 inches of straw on the floor for litter which should be changed every week or 10 days.

Set the stove up on a box about a foot from the floor to prevent the straw being scratched against the stove and put a wire mesh around the stove to keep the birds from scorching their tail feathers.

We put up roosts full length across the room and in the corners we put barrels or boxes for nests. Not much heat is required, just enough to take the chill off and to avoid any read sudden changes in weather such as we have seen, for instance a change of 70 or 80 degrees in 24 hours. This is very hard on birds and causes a set back. Another advantage is, we move the brooder houses out on the green, when the weather permits, put up a fence and let the birds out, but they will continue using the brooder house for laying quarters and the eggs will not be chilled.

Don't forget the cod liver oil in your laying mash. This is what we feed our hens: a mixture consisting of, 40 lbs. coarse ground corn, 20 lbs. wheat, 10 lbs. heavy oats, 20 lbs meat scraps, 5 lbs. dried buttermilk, 4 lbs. bone meal, 1 lb. fine sifted salt. To this add 1 quart cod liver oil. This mash and whole cleaned oats we keep before them all the time. So are grit and oyster shells always available; milk is very good and of course always fresh water. We also feed alfalfa in a rack or set some corn bundles in the corner for them to pick on.

We haven't had soft shelled eggs for years and hatchability has been very good since following this method.

Quality vs. Big Production

By GEO. W. HACKETT, Editor

By QUALITY, as we here use it, we do not necessarily mean turkeys that will win at the shows or the kind that would satisfy our leading turkey breeders, but rather, the market quality of the great bulk of turkeys that are to go on the market next fall and winter.

Careful observations show that, as applied to the general farmer and average turkey grower, there is a marked relation between the size of the flock and the condition in which it is marketed. While there are many exceptions to this rule the comparison holds true, nevertheless. Good crops of grain and low market prices for it, induces better feeding throughout the summer and fall and the turkeys go on the market in much better shape than when the reverse of conditions is true.

This is especially true of the smaller flocks but in the larger flocks the less likely is the market condition to be satisfactory, and the larger the percentage of the birds unfit. Of this no better demonstration could be had than this season's experience in early marketing. It was very largely due to the shortage of feed in some sections and the reluctance of most growers to feed freely of the higher priced feeds which they had to buy. A checkup on turkey receipts at several of the larger produce receiving stations in the northwest prove every statement before made.

A larger percentage of the birds brought in from the smaller flocks for the Thanksgiving market graded very well; from the larger flocks there was often 50 per cent or more number twos and, in some cases, a great many actual culls. Had the owners of large flocks sorted their birds over carefully and taken only those which were in market condition for the early market, and fed the balance until ready for market, everyone concerned would have been better satisfied and have realized much better profits, or the difference between loss and profits which was the case in some instances.

In other instances, after growers had taken some loss on a portion of their flock, they saw the wisdom of finishing the balance of their turkeys for the later market with the result that the quality of the Christmas birds averaged very much higher with only a small percentage of number two birds.

The seller, the buyer and the receiver in the east were all well pleased and the grower had no fault to find with the returns on these later sales. The conditions mentioned applied alike to the veteran grower and to the beginner. The conclusion is that it is much better and more profitable to raise smaller flocks and put them on the market in prime condition, rather than a larger number of birds and rush them all to the market regardless of condition, glut the markets with a product nobody wants, and at prices absolutely ruinous to the turkey business. Right now is the time to "regulate" turkey production by the grower himself, as he makes his plans for the seasons crop.

Idaho National Makes New Record

Fourth Annual Show at Nampa Very Successful and Bids Fair to Become One of Leading Shows

Idaho's fourth annual all-turkey show was held at Nampa, January 3rd to 6th inclusive. It was the largest and most successful show ever held in Idaho. The ground floor of a large business block, centrally located, provided ample room and good lighting. The cooping was well arranged and the decorations denoted pride on the part of those in charge, and the fine exhibit of 150 high quality turkeys fully justified the enthusiasm shown by both exhibitors and towns folk. Although January by the calendar, it was more like April or October as we are accustomed to it up here in the northwest. The attendance was very good and interest intense.

A Well Balanced Show

For a show of this size it was better balanced between the four most popular breeds than is usually seen, the Bronze predominating, of course, but Narragansetts and White Hollands were good-sized classes and a fair entry in Bourbon Reds. No blacks or Slates were entered.

Henry Domes, well-known White Holland breeder from Oregon, was there with a good string which added much to the general aspect of the show. Most of this string came direct from the Oakland, Ore. show but, with the exception of broken plumage on the male birds, were put down in fine condition and won the lion's share of the prizes in that class.

The Bronze Class

There was a large entry, a good deal of quality, and close competition in this class. Tony Koprocona again carried off Grand Champion on his adult tom, the same bird that won this high honor last year as a yearling. "Tony" also won firsts on yearling and young tom, the latter an especially promising young fellow that will be heard from later. The second prize young tom was a close contender for the place, having a little deeper bronze of excellent quality but was wild in the coop and would not "type up," and lost on that account.

First and second yearling toms were both of excellent type, 1st going to Koprocona's tom on quality of bronze. I thought the hen class of Bronze much higher in quality this year than last and the winning birds in each of the three individual classes were all very good ones. Champion Bronze female went to Mrs. Keith's yearling hen, a very fine specimen, but Koprocona's young hen was of equally high quality lacking only in development. She would be hard to beat a little later.

Competition in the Bronze class centered in the entries of two exhibitors, Tony Koprocona and Mrs. Linnie Keith, but Warren McDonald came in with a small entry, winning 3rd on young tom and 4th on young hen where competition was the hottest. Hoot Nanny Ranch, another, placed 2nd on adult hen and 4th yearling hen and other good placings. Other exhibitors in the Bronze class who secured good placings were R. G. Robinson and G. A. Koger, both long time breeders and exhibitors of Bronze turkeys.

White Hollands

The White Holland class was second in point of entries, the female classes showing the high quality. Dome's 1st adult hen won Champion of the class. This hen has true White Holland type and was shown in excellent condition. Is not the hen that won the championship at the Oakland show. A number of locally-owned birds in the White Holland class had plenty of quality but were poorly fitted to meet show competition.

Narragansetts

The championship in this class went to McDonald's adult tom, a fine bird that won the same honor as a yearling at this show last year. A yearling tom exhibited by Mrs. Ulrich was a strong contender for the honor this year. The young tom class was not quite up to the quality of last year. But in this class as in the White Hollands, the average quality of the hen classes was very good.

Bourbon Reds

This was rather a small class with most of the quality in the young hen class where the color was quite uniform and of good shade. The young toms lacked development but showed good quality. First young hen was made champion of the class.

The Annual Banquet

The annual banquet took place on Friday evening, January 5 at the Dewey Hotel. There were nearly 100 present and A. T. Bullock, President of the Turkey

Show Association and likewise President of the Nampa Business Men's Association acted as toastmaster. Music was rendered by a local orchestra and some splendid local talent rendered vocal solos. The presentation of trophies won at the show included the Governor Ross Cup and the Senator Borah Trophy, and a Silver Trophy by Senator James P. Pope. Also other beautiful trophies and prizes given by local citizens and a $10.00 cash prize donated by Joel Priest, Railway Express Agent at Boise. A number of exhibitors were called on for short talks, followed by others including: Judge Chas. Brewster of the Hodgson-Brewster Milling Co., Portland, Ore., and by Judge Geo. W. Hackett who judged the show. The annual business meeting was held following the banquet, Directors and officers were elected for the coming year and plans were laid to make the next Idaho National still bigger and better.

R. N. Gilbert, Secretary-Treasurer, was right on the job with records up-to-the-minute. He was writing premium checks the last day of the show.

J. H. Sparks, general show manager, was always on the job and had the show well arranged and with most classes cooped in classified order. All the officers and exhibitors gave good cooperation and everything worked smoothly. The show was a great improvement over last year and a good future for it seems assured.

GLIMPSES OF SOCIAL LIFE AT THE ALL-AMERICAN

It was my pleasure to be able to attend the different social affairs at the All-American Show this year and I'm passing it on to some of you who were not there, and were greatly missed.

The Business and Professional Woman's Club of Grand Forks were hostess to officers and past presidents of the Turkey Hen Club, Monday evening at a banquet at the Ryan Hotel. Dr. Ruth Mahon of Grand Forks had charge of arrangements.

Guests who attended were Mrs. Janda of Mahnomen, Minn.; Mrs. Wm. Eddie, Northwood, N. D.; Mrs. Burnett, Cummings, N. D.; Miss Grace Baxter, Hazel, S. D.; Judge and Mrs. Weisner, Brookings, S. D. and Mr. and Mrs. Hackett, Wayzata, Minn. Pep songs were sung during the courses and later two vocal solos by a member of the B. P. W. Club, followed by short talks by Mr. Hackett and others representing the All-American. This banquet given annually by Grand Forks ladies makes a very pleasant contact with All-American ladies and is a real pleasure to attend.

Every evening some get-together was arranged at the Hotel Dacotah. Monday evening in the Flickertail room was held the first of these meetings a 6:30 dinner and all reported a good time.

Thursday evening in the same place the different turkey breed clubs held another dinner and business meeting. Miss Nell Garvick leading in the pep singing at both of the above meetings. Much credit is due Miss Garvick for her kindly, able assistance with the music all through the week.

Wednesday evening the Homecoming Banquet, which will be mentioned in another writeup, but I'll just note in passing that this event adds much to the social life of a week spent at the All-American and leaves something pleasant to think about after we have returned home to the usual round of duties.

Thursday evening the 7th annual banquet of the Turkey Hen Club was held in the Flickertail room at the Hotel Dacotah, Mrs. Ann Johnson of Bath, S. Dak. presiding.

Miss Nell Garvick led in the assembly singing and also the singing by the Hen Club sextet composed of Mrs. Wm. Eddy, Miss Grace Baxter, Mrs. Alvana Bernard, Mrs. Cleve Angen, Mrs. Browell and Miss Josephine Andrews. Mrs. Bernard also sang a solo with Miss Baxter accompanying.

Those who spoke briefly in response to the President's introduction were: Miss M. Beatrice Johnston of the North Dakota University, Miss Clara Sutter, Poultry Field Editor of the Farmer, St. Paul, Minn. and Mrs. Hackett.

Other entertainment features were dances by Betty Zejdlik and Margaret Ann Lukkason of Grand Forks and two dramatic readings by Miss Josephine Andrew, of Rockford, Ill., niece of Mr. and Mrs. Hackett who has been with them during their stay in Grand Forks.

Members from four states attended. A business meeting was held immediately after the banquet. Mrs. Wm. Eddy, was elected president for the coming year. Mrs. John O. Allen, Radium, Minn., secretary and treasurer.

Members voted to hold the Annual picnic in June at Grand orks as in former years.

ALL-AMERICAN BRONZE TURKEY CLUB

MRS. W. J. JANDA, Secretary, Mahnomen, Minnesota

WHO'S WHO

James A. Sylling, Spring Grove, Minnesota raised 625 Bronze turkeys the past season but expects to increase the flock to 1000 the coming year. His flock is state accredited.

C. Dyke Page, Grand Forks, North Dakota needs no introduction to the turkey growers of the northwest. He is the president of the All-American Turkey Show and publisher of the best turkey paper in the country (Namely the AMERICAN TURKEY JOURNAL).

Rose Foss, Hoople, North Dakota, has been an enthusiastic grower of Bronze turkeys the past several years. She was present at the All-American greeting friends.

Mrs. Karl Krause, Morris, Minnesota, will be remembered as one of the four who came the longest distance to attend our club picnic two years ago. She is very enthusiastic about her Bronze beauties.

Mrs. F. L. Green, Mitchell, South Dakota is another of the state growers who attended the All-American. We have heard a lot about her work among the turkey growers of South Dakota.

Harry Nelson, Hallock, Minnesota also was boosting for the Bronze and attended our club meeting.

Mrs. George Kirk, Niagara, North Dakota is another new member who has been with us several years at the All-American. She exhibited one of her fine birds this year.

Mrs. Edgar Case, Benzonia, Michigan is known by all breeders of the Bronze. Besides having some of the best Bronze turkeys in the country, she is Secretary-Treasurer of the International Turkey Association.

Carl Waag, Petersburg, North Dakota, is an old exhibitor at the All-American. He has some extra fine Bronze birds and always gets his share of the top winnings.

Albin Mohn, Buxton, North Dakota, is a well known Bronze breeder. He always has extra fine birds in the show rooms.

We were sorry to hear of Mrs. Jno. W. Walker's (Williamstown, Mo.) serious accident. She was struck by a truck.

Several ribs were broken and she was otherwise seriously injured. At this time we are pleased to say she is able to sit up and we hope she will soon recover entirely.

Mr. and Mrs. Godfrey Morris, Neche, North Dakota attended the Winnipeg show December 13 to 15. It was held on the seventh floor of Eaton's store. Mrs. Morris was fortunate in winning—2nd and 4th young toms, 3rd yearling hen and 6th pullet. A Bronze again was chosen Grand Champion of the show. During the show week, Mrs. Wm. Dumbrell Charleswood, Manitoba the vice president of our club for Canada, celebrated her birthday anniversary. Mrs. Morris and several other lady exhibitors entertained at a luncheon in her honor at the "Kopper Kettle" tea room. The event was reported as one of the high lights of the show week.

The third annual meeting of the club was held at the Dacotah Hotel, Grand Forks, North Dakota on January 23rd. Fifty members and breeders attended. Ray Andrews, Petersburg, North Dakota, was re-elected president; Wallace Jerome, Barron, Wisconsin, executive vice president and Mrs. W. J. Janda, Mahnomen, Minnesota, was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

After the election of officers new members were introduced.

Reports from the committee appointed to meet with the committee of the Narragansett Club, in regards to express rates were received. The express rates on breeding stock have been cut one half also on exhibition stock. The committee made up of Wallace Jerome, Geo. Lamm and Frank Moore to work on the Revision of the Standard of Perfection as relating to Bronze turkeys gave their report. They recommended a new scale of points for the Bronze breed as follows: Symmetry, 4; Weight, 10; Condition and Vigor, 4; Head—shape 5, color 2-7. Eyes: shape 2, color 2-4. Throat and Wattle 2. Neck: shape 3, color 2-5. Wings: shape 4, color 6-10. Back: shape 7, color 6-13. Tail: shape 4, color 8-12. Breast: shape 8, color 5-13. Body and Fluff: shape 6, color 5-11. Legs and toes: shape 3, color 2-5. That the cockerels and pullets shall be termed as young toms and young hens. That 1 point be deducted on black or part black key feathers. That 1 point be deducted for the lack of black bands on the backs of hens. That the American Poultry Association be requested to make a special Turkey Standard as soon as possible. The recommendations were adopted by motion duly passed and recorded.

A committee of Mrs. Alvina Bernard, Mrs. Claude Wright and Wallace Jerome was appointed to meet with a like committee appointed by the Narragansett Club to form a turkey code.

Ray Andrews, Petersburg, North Dakota, is offering an AA tom to the member or person getting the most new members for our club in 1934.

Irving Jenson, Amery, Wisconsin is offering an AA tom to the person turning in the largest number of paid up old and new members during 1934. I have a list of our last year's membership and will be pleased to send them on request.

I am pleased to state that Mrs. Frank Johnson, Excelsior, Minnesota (formerly of Mora, Minnesota.) won the double A tom given by George Lamm for getting the most new memberships during 1933. She sent in 18 new memberships. We wish to thank her for her help in securing so many new members. Also Mr. Lamm for his donation of the tom. Our contest was a decided success and I hope we have even a better one this year with two excellent AA toms for prizes. Lets get busy.

NARRAGANSETT CLUB NOTES

By MRS. WILLIAM EDDIE, Secretary
NEW OFFICERS

George Gilbertson.....President
Mrs. Mabel F. Tuttle.....Vice President
Mrs. William Eddie.....Secretary-Treasurer

Back from the All-American Turkey Show and it is hard to get in the harness again after a week of banqueting and entertainment. It was a lot of enjoyment packed into one week and enough to last me until the next All-American. Of course I have to take a day off for the Turkey Hen Picnic next July.

When I went to the show I fully intended to pass this office on to someone else but such is not the case. Never-the-less I will do my best and I expect a lot of help from every member. So start now and think of something to write me to make our club notes better.

The All-American was a huge success, and the same congenial group of turkey breeders were present. The atmosphere of good fellowship prevailed at all gatherings. Our judges some new and some old, were very thorough in their work. We Narragansetts were very happy to have Judge

Birks with us again. He is always willing to give us a helping hand and we all need information concerning turkeys as there are new things cropping up all the time.

There were 10 Narragansett exhibitors at the show and have the honor of winning the Grand Championship in the Dressed Department. The bird was a 15 1/4 lb. hen owned by Mr. and Mrs. Ellingson of Evansville, Minn. The other winnings will be published in another section of this issue.

A new member joined us at our annual meeting, Mrs. E. G. Law, Beltrami, Minn. Other new members are: S. G. Rockstad, Walcott, N. D.; Ole Nelson, Kensington, Minn.; J. H. Nelson, Fergus Falls, Minn. and J. J. Quam, Beltrami, Minn. Welcome to our club and I hope to hear from each one of you during the coming year. I met all these new members and know they will be loyal supporters of our club. Those who have not sent in their 1934 dues, please do so as soon as possible. Dues $1.00.

A Full Report of Our Annual Club Meeting

The International Narragansett Club held their meeting Tuesday, January 23, 1934, at the Hotel Dacotah. The meeting was called to order by the President, H. B. Olin. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved.

Mr. Hackett reported for the committee on the type of emblem to adopt for our club. A committee was appointed and given authority to go ahead and choose the emblem. The committee appointed are Mrs. Tuttle, Mr. Hackett and Mr. Gilbertson.

The annual meeting place was then discussed. It was finally decided to hold the next annual club meeting at Alexandria, Minnesota.

A motion was made by Mr. Hackett, seconded by Mr. Burks, that we issue club ribbons at any show having five members in good standing. The Secretary was instruct-Club Specials for shows were then discussed. And it was decided that all Specials contributed by members should be sent through the Secretary.

Motion was made by Mrs. Tuttle seconded by Mr. Gilbertson authorizing the Secretary to pay the bill for club ribbons.

A motion was made by Mr. Hackett seconded by Mrs. Tuttle to appoint a committee to confer with Mrs. Bernard on the Hatchery Code Committee. Appointed were, Mrs. William Eddie, George Gilbertson and Mr. Burks.

A motion was made by Mr. Hackett seconded by Mr. Burks to appoint a committee to confer with the Bronze committee on the revision of the Standard of Perfection. The President appointed Mr. Hackett and Mr. Burks to act on this committee.

Mr. Hackett suggested we encourage the use of the terms, young tom and young hen in place of cockerel and pullet, and that such recommendation be made to the Standard Revision Committee. It was moved and voted this recommendation be adopted.

Officers were elected as follows, George Gilbertson, president; Mrs. Mabel F. Tuttle, vice president; Mrs. William Eddie, secretary and treasurer. Directors appointed are: A. J. Burks, Midlothian, Texas; E. J. Strong, Oakland, Ore.; Edna Sheckler, Nevada, Ohio; Mrs. Denny Johnson, Fayette, Mo.; Martin Ellingson, Evansville, Minn.; Cecil Laughman, Dunraven, N. Y.; Mrs. A. Lawson, Wilder, Ida.; Mrs. Harold Davis, Russellville, Ky.; H. B. Olin, Grand Forks, N. Dak.

Dues were paid by all present. The meeting adjourned.

CENTRAL TURKEY ASS'N

By MRS. CECILE DAVIS, Secretary
Richland, Missouri

The Central Turkey Association held its regular meeting January 9, 1934, in spite of the terribly cold night, snow on the ground, and temperature around the freezing point. The Secretary failed to attend, so Mrs. Grace Bryan, a Bourbon Red breeder, acted as secretary.

A large crowd was there which showed the enthusiasm in which these association people are facing the economic troubles of today by trying to learn how to raise better quality turkeys instead of quantity.

Two county extension agents were also there and offered to give their hearty cooperation to the association, and to talk for the good of the association in their respective counties at their hog-corn meetings.

Our agriculture teacher gave a short talk on widening out and the prices we could get through co-operation and being able to sell a stamped product.

The subject: "Care of Breeding Pens" was discussed from various angles.

Next meeting will be February 13. Subject: "Incubation and Brooding."

By MRS. HARRY ZUMWALT

The object of the Central Turkey Association is to promote the breeding of all varieties of turkeys, to urge the adoption of true type and color of the various varieties, and to encourage the exhibition of turkeys at shows.

During the past year we have been trying to build up better turkey flocks, judging from the fine quality of turkeys that were on exhibition at the Central Turkey Show 1933, our efforts have not been in vain.

A few years ago you could scarcely find a flock of standard quality turkeys in this section, but today, the Central States take their place along with the turkeys from the Eastern and Western States at the largest shows in the world, winning their share of the honors.

To those who do not care to be bothered with breeders during the winter months and spring, there is an opportunity to secure eggs and day old poults from flocks that are known for quality, at reasonable prices.

The shipping of day old poults has developed into an important phase of the turkey industry. They will stand shipment equally as well as day old chicks.

The idea of having all the birds the same age, only one feed formula, all in the same rearing pen and in the same roosting quarters, saves so many steps especially for the farmers wife that the idea of forgetting about baby turkeys until the next brooding season is an appealing one.

Which ever way you plan to enter the turkey business, I would urge that you get the best and then give them the same intelligent care you would any other quality stock.

By MRS. FAY BRACKETT

How is This for Production?

Last year I kept 10 Bourbon Red hens and one tom, they began laying March 6th and by June the 10th they had laid 625 eggs. I set 225 of these eggs and raised 152 turkeys to market.

Sold to a neighbor 214 eggs, she raised 148 to market. Sold 180 to another customer and can give no account of them. So you see, we feel pretty well pleased, with this record. But that is just like "Bourbon Reds."

Marshall Co., (Minn.) Show

The Marshall County Poultry and Turkey Association always holds a good show at Warren, usually in the high school building, but this year they secured an empty store building, centrally located, and of ample capacity but the almost impassible roads prevented many from getting in with their birds and the entry was somewhat smaller than usual. There were about 40 turkeys. Prof. A. C. Smith, of University Farm, St. Paul, judged the show.

North Dakota Show at Minot, January 2-5

By A. Von Oosting, Hensler, N. D.

The North Dakota State Turkey Show which was held in Minot January 2-5 came through with flying colors. Ribbons were given up to 7th place and prize money was paid to 10th place in classes of 15 or over.

We were very much handicapped by so many roads leading to Minot being blocked the first day of the show and to the absence of our secretary, J. M. Olson who after working all one day to get there had to give up, and most of the work fell on our president, Mrs. Lovig who is always on the job.

For a while it looked as though it would be a ladies' show, as none of the men came in till late afternoon when A. Van-Oosting arrived, followed by Mr. and Mrs. Zimmerman, Mr. Odland and a new exhibitor Mr. Boutlier.

The number of birds shown this year was about half what it was a year ago but Judge Moore said the quality was better and competition was keen.

At the business meeting and supper held one evening the Palm room of the Grand Hotel it was decided that the show should be held early in December the dates to be announced next summer. The business men of Minot who have helped so much in the past are working with the turkey folks and we are planning on a big turkey celebration with many special features in the show. We also plan on a dressed division.

After business was over we were entertained by Mrs. Wilcox, a friend of President, Mrs. Lovig. Mrs. Wilcox has a fine voice and is an excellent pianist. Her daughter is very able on the violin and accompanied her mother. Then of course as all turkey folks do we just had to talk shop or turkey which ever you like but the subject was changed to prosperity and the "corner" we have just turned so every one left feeling better and having a brighter outlook for 1934.

The last day of the show quite a number of sales were made and the people in general are looking for better quality birds than a few years ago, proving they are learning that raising quality and not quantity, turkeys still pays better than most farm products even at Thanksgiving's low price.

The awards were as follows:

COMMENT ON THE 1934 ALL-AMERICAN

Dear Judge Hackett:

Possibly you folks, who are responsible for the staging of the All-American Turkey Show, have worked so diligently for months in preparation that you too have to depend on the appraisal of others to realize success in preparation that you have to depend on imposing my impression of the show on you, I as representative of those who stood on the sidelines.

As an exhibitor we feel very well repaid. The attendance gave us ample interviews with shippers of both live and dressed birds, for us to know what kind of packages will best serve their requirements next year. The arrangement whereby we had our display booth on the main floor gave us a better opportunity to meet all those attending the show, and was very much appreciated. Last year we had 99 interviews with shippers, that we thought of sufficient value to make complete notes on. This year we had 110 such interviews.

The educational program drew many favorable comments. I was especially pleased to see you add "marketing" to the list. Please go further with this. By doing so you should draw the interest of the shippers, large and small, as well as the principal receivers in the big cities.

As to the social side of this affair I can only say my feet are completely danced out and it will take me a month to catch up no sleep. So long until next year.

TOM FOSTER,

Representing T. R. Miller Co.

Shipping Crates and Packages.

Dear Mr. Hackett:

After spending the week of January 22 to 27 at the All-American Turkey Show in Grand Forks, North Dakota, feel I would be a piker if I did not drop you a few lines and tell you what I observed at the All-American Turkey Show.

First the management of the show is outstanding, everyone is given a square deal, regardless what state or section they come from with their birds.

Never before have I seen a group of exhibitors accept high, low and intermediate honors with such friendly spirit. All having the same thought in mind of making the All-American Turkey Show the outstanding show of its kind on the North American continent.

The birds exhibited at the All-American are the finest I have ever seen.

It may interest you to know that I traveled over 1,500 miles to attend your show at Grand Forks, and I am glad to report that I feel well repaid for my efforts and hope to be with you again every year here after.

M. B. POTRATZ, Somner, Ia.,
Service Director, Dr. Salsbury's Labs.

"Customers for my poults have also reported splendid results with HUBBARD'S SUNSHINE Feeds. I expect to use HUBBARD'S SUNSHINE CONCENTRATE for a laying mash this season and will feed the starting and growing mashes.
