The Sheik We Wink.
If you and I only
Should say and say
Our little down, and let our hands fall where they will—
Fall down to let us see—And if some other hand should come and step in to help—
The threads we carried, so that it could beginning where we stopped; if it should come to help—
Our little work, we'll
To carry out the good design,
Distinctively yours or mine,
What would it find?

Some work we must do, true or false;
Some words we must say, some purpose so exists
That we look up to it, or down,
To bow before, and we weave through
Of different length and thickness—some mere shreds—
And wind their way
Till all the skin of life is bound,
Sometimes forgetting all the time
The value of the threads, or choosing
A strong suit to use.

No hand but winds some thread;
It cannot stand quite still till it is dead
But what it spins and winds a little skein, God made each hand for work—not to stain
It is required, but every hand
Spins, though but every hand
That we look up to it, or down,
To bow before, and we weave through
Of different length and thickness—some mere
shreds—
And wind their way
Till all the skin of life is bound,
Sometimes forgetting all the time
The value of the threads, or choosing
A strong suit to use.

you are no mistake, Martha Jane, commented Mrs. Perky, when Aunt Peggy's letter had been duly received and read. "A mighty good ketch, an'
you must do your best to ketch him, Tain't often a gal has such a chance thrown at her head, an' if you've got a mite of pluck about you, you won't let 'em stack-up Brigges give her ears to git ahead of you, I'll bet a button!"

To which bit of logic Martha Jane answered, with a toss of her head, and the assurance that Millah Briggs, no one else, wasn't a-goin' to git ahead of her.

Consequently, when farmer Perky drove his gray team to the gate, with Hiram Honeydew on the seat beside him, the necessary preparations had already been made—fours, scoured, baking done, and a substantial country dinner, with a dessert of apple-dumplings and sweet-cream sauce, ready to be served.

When Martha Jane, in a pink plaid frook, with dried raffles, stood waiting to welcome the expected guest,
"She's mortal handy," thought Hiram, as he sat smoking, after dinner, on the porch, and mentally reviewing Martha Jane's narrow forehead, hard black eyes and high-colored cheeks. "But, then, I ain't a-lookin' out far beauty, an' if she suits me outer ways, I reckon tain't no great matter how she looks. A girl with them kind of eyes an' a mahogany color in her skin, she's good as gold if she had blue eyes an' golly-golly hair, like that girl that kilt Hitty, that brought in the dumplin' an' passed round the dip fur 'em at dinner-to-day.
She's the hired girl, I reckon. 'T y rate I ain't got time to hunt round much, an' I reckon Martha Jane won' mind changin' her name to Honeydew afore long, I've got to hurry up Tain't got no time to waste a-courtain'.

I reckon if nuthin' happens we kin be married in a week, an' git back home.
I don't like to stay here a-settin' round doin' nuthin', with all the fall work a-gittin' behind at the farm."

"Oh, dear!"
Down through the long grass and crimson clover-beds, under scrubby haws and tall persimmon trees, went Hitty Mavis, a deep-deep sunbonnet shading her violet eyes and tangled yellow curls.

She was after the cows, standing knee-deep in the tall aftermath, where they had been turned for pasturage after the meadow hay was cut.

"Oh, dear!" said Hitty again, "I'm so tired, and here's the cows to drive home, milking to do, sponge to set for the baking to-morrow, and goodness knows what else, and—Oh!"

She started back, with a little scream, for seated on the fence, under the shadow of a crimson-leaved sassafras-tree, sat Hiram Honeydew, coolly watching her.

Hitty's cheeks turned from pink to scarlet as she met the admiring glances of his frank, brown eyes, and her heart beat fast for the common.

But Hitty was a sensible girl, so she said, "Good evening, Mr. Honeydew," quite coolly, and began driving home the cows.

But Hiram sprang down from his perch on the rail fence and followed her.
"Let me help you, Miss Hitty," he begged. "I ain't used to loafin' around, doin' nuthin', like I've been for some days now, an' I'll be a treat to drive home the cows, even."

So they walked together through the velvety aftermath, dotted with scarlet butter-beds, and crimson-petaled
"nigger-heads," the lowing cows dling slowly home, lazily chewing their cud, and switching their tails at the flies.

Hiram led down the bars, and turned the cows into the yard, while Hitty brought out the milk-pails from under a bunch of burdock-leaves, where she had left them.

And somehow, in spite of the milking and setting the sponge, and doing up the chores, Hitty's heart beat more lightly than it had for many a day.

And instead of one week Hiram Honeydew stayed two, but still Martha Jane had not been invited to change her name.

"She's a mighty good housekeeper," thought Hiram, meditatively. "If little Hitty could only cook an' house-keep as good as her. I don't—know."

He ended by building a castle in the air, where Hitty Mavis, with her violet eyes and "golly-golly" colored hair, was the chief figure.

"Hitty Mavis!"
Martha Jane's hard, black eyes looked harder than ever, and her sharp features seemed sharper still as she bounced wrathfully into the kitchen where Hitty sat slicing a bowl of yellow Crawford peaches for supper.

"You kin peck up your duds and go! You a-settin' up to ketch a beau, as if Hiram Honeydew would look at you!"

"—Martha Jane, what on earth do you mean?"

Hitty's eyes expanded, and the pink in her cheeks deepened to a glowing scarlet.

"You kin well enough what I mean!" sneered Martha. "You needn't look so innocent, like a butter wouldn't melt in your mouth, an' you restrain every nerve to ketch Hiram Honeydew—a-cowlin' him to help you milk, an' drive up the cows, an' the like. It's just like your owlish doin's, an' you kin peck up an' leave—right away, too!"

"Hitt I don't know where to go, Hitty's heart beat like a frightened rabbit at the thought of being driven friendless into the world, but Martha Jane was implacable.

"It's nuthin' to me where you go, so you leave here," she snuffed, as she glanced angrily away.

"Go with me, Hitty!" said a tender voice into the little kitchen. "Go with me, Hitty, and be my wife." Hitty's cheeks grew redder than before, but she did not draw away from his offered embrace.

"Not gone yet?" cried a shrill voice,
as the door was jerked viciously open.
"Didn't I tell you to pack up—Oh, Mr. Honeydew, you here? Come and have tea—we're a-waitin' fur you."

"Excuse me!" was the cold reply.
"I shall just have time to take my wife—ah! it is to be—over to the parsonage. Will you come to the wedding?"

But, with a scornful sniff and toss of her head, Martha Jane flounced again.

"An' so you didn't marry Mahala's darter, after all?" cried Aunt Peggy, who was waiting to receive them.

"N-no!" stammered Hiram. Hitty learned to keep house, I reckon—"
"Learn?" cried Hitty. "Why, I did all the housekeeping at Aunt Mahala's.
She is my aunt, though they wouldn't let me call her so. Martha Jane never did a lick of work in her life."
And so Hiram Honeydew got a wife and a housekeeper all in one, after all.

TOPICS OF THE DAY.
The immense crematory in Rome is in almost daily use. Cremation is daily becoming more popular, and Italy fair soon to dispose of more corpses in the Italian capital than old-fashioned burial.

The real cost of the enormous increase in pension payments is brought out in the statement that they will equal this year "the earnings of 1,000, 000 laboring men for 100 day." The sum disbursed—$1,000,000—amounts to nearly one-half the entire expenses of the government.

"The fact is," says the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, "the average tea-drinker does not know a genuine, pure and coked-over tea. The American taste for tea has become vitiated. So has our taste for coffee. The effectiveness of the inspection law may therefore be doubted."

It is stated that Senator Edmunds will, at the next session of Congress, introduce a government postal telegraph bill, and ask for its immediate consideration. The object will be the establishment of a system of government telegraph lines for the transmission of private messages at much reduced rates, as compared with those now charged.

There is a society for the prevention of blindness in England. It is calculated that blindness annually costs Europe no less a sum than $7,000,000, and England alone no less than $900, 000; so that by removing the causes not only will a large amount of acute suffering, as well as deprivation from the pleasure of sight, be prevented, but a great financial gain will result. As yet, the operations of the society have been mainly confined to London, but the offer of a substantial prize for the best essay on the causes of blindness and the most practical means of preventing it will doubtless lead to the dissemination of much valuable information on the subject.

The National Yellowstone park embraces in its limits 3,575 square miles —more territory than Rhode Island and Delaware combined. It is sixty-five miles wide and sixty-five long.
It lies mainly in the northwestern corner of Wyoming territory, but includes a thin strip of Idaho on the west and Montana on the west and north. The body of it is between 110 degrees and 111 degrees west longitude, and 45 degrees north latitude. The lowest elevation in the park is 6,000 feet above sea-level, and its highest (mountain peak) from 10,000 to 12,000 feet. It is, therefore, an immense tableland, with a surface broken into mountain ranges, valleys, etc.

In the spring of 1880 the ground
upon which Albuquerque, New Mexico, now stands was a marsh intersected by irrigating ditches. To-day there stands on this ground a bustling city of over 9,000 people. It is in Bernalillo county, about 350 miles from Kansas City, Atlantic and the eastern terminus of the Atlantic and Pacific railroad. The city is named in honor of the Duke of Albuquerque, and the old town, old Albuquerque, situated about one mile and a half distant, was one of the early Spanish settlements. The proper pronunciation is Albuquerke, but the natives and the people of this part of the country call it Albuquerque. No town in the West, except Leadville, has developed more rapidly. The county has 3,000, 000 sheep, and in 1882 Albuquerque shipped 2,500,000 pounds of wool.

The proposed cotton exposition in New Orleans in 1884 gives promise of large success. The amount proposed to be raised as a fund for the exposition is $500,000. Of this amount $250,000 has been already subscribed in the north, and New Orleans has subscribed $140,000, and proposes to raise the remaining sum of $110,000.
Major Burke, of the Times-Democrat, has been chosen director-general, and has gone vigorously to work. It is proposed to have complete exhibits of the Latin-American nations. The president of Honduras, who has been on a visit to the country, has tendered the position the use of his valuable archaeological specimens, other residents of Central and South American states have expressed great interest
and promised needful aid.

A Fruitless Search.
One day there visited Buddha a woman who had lost her only child.
Wild with grief she begged the proprietor to give back the little one to life.
He looked at her tenderly for a long while, and then said, "Go, my daughter, bring me a mustard seed from a house in which death had never entered, and I will grant thy wish." The woman at once began her search. She went from house to house, saying,
"Grant me, kind people, a mustard seed for the prophet to bring back my child to me." And when they had granted her request she asked, "Are you all here under the hearth—father mother, children—none missing?" But the people shook their heads with signs and looks of sadness; and far and wide she wandered there always was a vacant chair by the hearth. Then gradually, as she passed on, the waves of her grief subsided before the sight of sorrow everywhere; and her heart, ceasing to be occupied with its own yearning sympathy with the worldwide suffering. Tears of anguish were changed to tears of pity, passion melted into compassion; she forgot her own sorrow in looking upon that of others, and in losing herself for others' good she really found herself.

THE FAMILY DOCTOR.
What with a stimulant the Medical Record says: "Milk heated too much above 100 degrees Fahrenheit loses for a time a degree of its sweetness and density. No one who, fatigued by over-exertion of body and mind, has ever experienced the reviving influence of a tumbler of this beverage, heated as hot as it can be leveled, will willingly forego a resort to it because of its being rendered somewhat less acceptable to the palate.

The promptness with which its coralative influence is felt is indeed surprising. Some portion of it seems to be digested and reappropriated almost immediately, and many who now fancy that they need alcoholic stimulants when exhausted by fatigue, will find in this simple draught an equivalent that will be abundantly satisfying and far more enduring in its effects."

Humorous.
Green corn—a young union.
High-toned—The screech of an eagle.
When does a tree feel contented?
When its sappy.
The only difference between one yard and two is a fence.
Just so long as woman retains her maiden name, her maiden aim is to change it.

"Emile," asked the teacher, "which animal attacks himself most to man?" Emile, after some reflection—"The leech, sir."
The tailor's apprentice, when commencing his trade, finds there is truth in the text that "What a man sews he shall also rip."
Simpson says that when he asked the girl who is now his wife to marry him, she said, "I don't mind," and she never has minded.

A Lowell man had his head fractured by a bath tub falling upon it.
This will teach him hereafter not to fool around a contrivance that he is not familiar with.

"Yes," said the father, "I like to have my daughter have a bean on the score of economy. If she didn't, some one of the family would occupy the parlor and burn the gas."
A young man who went into the kitchen, where he saw his girl baking, and inadvertently sat down on a hot pie just from the oven, now boasts that he is "descended from the upper crust."

"What are you going to do when you grow up if you don't know how to cipher?" asked a teacher of a slow boy. "I'm going to be a school teacher, and make the boys do the ciphering."
The Popular Science Monthly asks:
"What are crows?" It is not quite certain how science will handle this question, but the average common sense educated man knows that under some circumstances three is considered a crowd.

Petted to Death.
The poor little baby is gone! What ever the doctor may have written upon his certificate, there are some friends of the family who are sure that the little object was fairly petted to death.
It was a forlorn, thin baby—bright and brave, but excitable, and, unfortunately, the only one in a large family.
Grandpa and grandmama on both sides, the bachelor uncles, and two vicious young aunts in their teens were all ready to assert their rights to take care of baby and to "nurse her." Hardly had the delicate baby an hour's rest in the day. She was tossed in the air and trundled over rough pavements, and carried in arms, and made to smile and give her attention to whomever demanded it; that most fatiguing mental exercise. When she was sick the family were doubly attentive. She grew more and more languid, though everything was done.
Everything, indeed! Was ever baby loved more, and more judiciously treated by well-meaning relatives? It has its just rest at last.

The Grave of Mary Washington.
A Fredericksburg, Va., letter to the Richmond Dispatch says: "Just above the plain in the suburbs of Fredericksburg is the grave of Mary Washington, marked now by an unimpaired marble monument. It is strange that the tomb of the mother of the Father of His Country should be allowed to stand in a position the use of his valuable archaeological specimens, other residents of Central and South American
states have expressed great interest
and promised needful aid."</

Advertisement Special Town Meeting - The Weymouth Gazette.

Twenty evening last the voters of Weymouth assembled at the town hall to further consider the subject of obtaining a water supply from Great Pond.

The East and North nine were composed of J. Mahoney, pitcher; J. Quinn, catcher; H. Gardner, 1st base; W. Tirrell, 2d base; T. Lott, 3d base; G. L. Newton, short stop; Geo. Mitchell, center field; B. S. Lovell, left field; Henry Stoddard, right field, and like positions in the South and Landing were taken by W. Holbrook, pitcher; Geo. F. Cushing, catcher; W. Tobin, short stop; J. Woodruff, 1st base; A. Stoddard, 2d base; H. Pratt, 3d base; K. P. Vining, left field; C. Stetson, center field; W. Bouldry, right field; W. J. McCarty acted as scorer, and C. Barrell as umpire.

The South and Landing nine came to the front about 2 1/2 o'clock. For the first inning Stoddard and Cushing each made a run, and Woodruff and Holbrook made two runs, and the game was tied.

The third inning Cushing was out at bat and Woodruff and Stoddard were caught out at 1st base with two runs, Holbrook and Pratt for the S. & N. T. E. & W. then made some lively scoring, bringing their record 31 to 6.

The fourth inning the S. & W. were awfully skunked, Bouldry being out on 1st base, and Stoddard and Thomas caught out on the fly.

The E. & W. then sailed in for victory, Quinn and Mahoney making a run, with Woodruff out at 1st base and Newton and Lott out at bat.

The fifth was the closing inning, and only one inning was scored for the S. & L. that of Tobin, Holbrook, Vining and Woodruff being out.

Lovell then took the bat, but went out at 1st base, followed by Gardner and Quinn, runs being made by Mitchell, Stoddard, and Mahoney.

The score at the close stood East and North nine, 31 runs, 10 hits, 10 errors; South and Landing, 6 runs, 10 hits, 10 errors.

Comrades Charles Hawes next proposed to the introduction of a tug of war, in which 12 East and Northland 12 South and Landing comrades pulled against each other, breaking the rope twice.

A stouter one was procured and a tug of war was commenced, the E. & W. pulled the S. & L. from their position-time a rather short minute.

This was adopted under Art. 5, and the subject proposed some debate pro and con, of a character much like that of the previous meeting. An amendment offered by Mr. Wm. Dyer to have the meeting called in the daytime, was voted down.

As it was necessary to appropriate money for the expenses of the survey, etc., on motion of Mr. E. P. Wurster $1,000 was voted for the same, and the meeting was dissolved.

The gathering of the comrades of Post 28, G. A. R., at the Weymouth Fair Grounds last Saturday for their first day was an event of much interest and pleasure.

The exercises of the day closed with a dress parade, 117 men being in line. Col. Ordway, of Quincy, being reviewing officer, and as the four companies under command of Capt. Bicknell, Mr. French and Mr. Nelson, passed the review as perfect as though they had been in active service ever since they laid down the panoply of war.

The parade was a very fine ending of the first day of Post 28, and its scenes and enjoyments will long be remembered by those who witnessed the spectacle.

Wedding. About eighty relatives and friends from South Weymouth, Neponset, Holbrook, Randolph, Abington, Rockland, Hingham, and Quincy assembled at the residence of Mrs. Henry M. They were united in the bonds of matrimony by Rev. F. A. Warfield, D.D., assisted by Mr. J. W. Vining and Miss Hattie Lewis acting as bridesmaids.

Treas., John Burns. A lecture will be delivered in Williams' hall tomorrow evening, by J. W. Walsh, Esq., of Fitchburg, on the present condition of Ireland, and her future prospects, with addresses by others. Admission free, and all are invited.

A pleasant occasion. About 7 30 o'clock last Friday morning the Weymouth Belle drew up in front of Dyer & Co's factory, where it was soon filled with baskets, clam digger, etc., and 15 treasurers who were bound for Fort Point, for the purpose of a clam-bake and chowder. They arrived at about 8 o'clock, and the men went to digging clams, while others prepared the fire-places and started the fire. The day being a little cool, base ball and quoits was started by some, and Mr. Alonzo Tirrell carried off the honor at quoits. At about 12 o'clock Mr. W. Binney, foreman of the room, who had the clam bake in charge, sounded the gong for dinner. The bake was opened, and if one can judge of the goodness of things by the way they disappear before hungry men, we should judge that the bake was successful. About two bushels of clams and 10 lbs. of sweet potatoes disappeared in short time, as everybody was feeling well except our venerable treasurer, Mr. James Doran, (who only ate about two water pails full) and our poet, Mr. Peter Jacobs, who generally is the most joyful of the crowd, but who while digging the clams was so busy that he did not get to the dinner table, but picking out a half dozen of the largest of the raw clams sat down on a rock and proceeded to eat them, being so busy engaged in the effort to swallow that the tide, which was coming in, surrounded the rock and dived into the tops of Peter's shoes.

After dinner a game of ball was started, and showed that there is material for good players in some of the trees, especially the catching of Mr. T. Noonan and the base running of Messrs. Wilder and Hobson. While the game was in progress some of the men started to visit Great Pond, among them being Capt. Ford, our well known clam waterer. They had enough, such as it was, but Peter said it was very weak, not near as strong as that in the bottle picked up by Austin in the sea-weed, labeled Bourbon. By the way this happened in the forenoon, and some thought they had found a prize, but on being opened it was found full of water. In spite of all draw-backs the chowder was served at 4.30, and with milk, hot coffee and pickles, was enjoyed by all. At 5 p. m. Mr. Nickerson arrived, and brought with him a filled full of chowder, which he said went right to the spot. We all got into the coach, feeling that the first clam bake of the treasurers was a success, notwithstanding that the finishers were off out.

A course of entertainments has been planned for the coming season, which will be given in the village if the citizens offer such encouragement to the management as will enable them to carry out the program without financial loss to themselves.

The course proposed includes Henry Ward Beecher, Helen Potter, Weber Male Quartet, Mrs. Mary A. Walsh, G. N. Allen Concert Co., Rev. Ross Thomas and the Temple Quartette Concert Co., with Miss Nellie soprano and Miss Lillian Chandler violinist. The course is an expensive one, and first class in every respect, and two hundred seats at three dollars each should be subscribed for in this village before it would be safe to go ahead in the matter. One hundred have already been secured, and by vigorous canvassing it is hoped that the number can be doubled. With help that is expected from surrounding villages the course can then be made successful. An enterprise of this kind demands work, and while the managers are anxious to give the time and efforts freely, in the hope of providing good entertainment for the people, they expect the most liberal co-operation from all the citizens.

By invitation of Mr. William Dyer, the choir of the Second Congregational church passed a very pleasant evening at his house last Monday evening. Mr. Dyer, with ladies and gentlemen were present, the rain preventing some from attending. The early part of the evening was taken up with choruses singing, after which the company were treated to choice refreshments, including fruit, cake and other delicacies. Pleasant enjoyment and mirth making conversation the hours passed rapidly away, and like other annual occasions of this character, this one took its place among the pleasant recollections of the past.

Although a meeting of the ladies of the improvement society was held on Monday last Monday evening, the rain and cold prevented their attendance. The rain was needed much more than the meeting however, and we have no regret to offer. Each time notices have been sent to seventy-five ladies, which is of course a rather expensive method. The committee deem it best to appoint another meeting for next Monday evening at Rogers hall, and if none of the ladies are present it will be considered as sufficient evidence that no interest exists in the society, and the same will be present. No notices will be sent this time, but it is hoped that the ladies may feel interested enough to meet on Monday evening, rain or shine, and organize the different committees necessary for the beginning of the work. The meeting is a very important one, and every dollar raised would be used to enhance the beauty of the village.

The Congregational Engine Company took that machine to the Hingham muster on Tuesday, and although she played a good stream, 100 feet, failed to secure a prize. The Butler Boy of Braintree carried off the first prize contrary to the expectations of many present. The God's Patience took the 5th prize, playing 197 feet.

Water meetings are at an end for the present, the initiatory steps having been completed last Tuesday evening for the introduction of water through the town from Great Pond. The Water Commissioners now rest the responsibility of making a careful and thorough investigation into the probable cost of such an undertaking. When this has been done the citizens will again be called together to decide whether or no bonds shall be issued by the town for the purpose of carrying out the work. This question, involving as it does an expenditure of several hundred thousand dollars, is probably the most important that has ever come before the town.

It is reported that the residence of the late Joseph Lott, on Commercial street, is to be occupied by Mr. Cassett, of Dorchester.

Mr. Lewis Hart has commenced the erection of a skating rink on Vine street, the dimensions of which are 100x50 feet.

A good coating of gravel has been spread on Front street, between Station street and Garfield square, by Surveyor Ford.

Mr. Josiah Davidson has sunk his well to great depth, to ensure him a constant supply of water.

Mr. B. F. Smith has put in a Bell telephone at the Weymouth Drug Store, his number being 9346.

The fair of the Catholic Society is stated to have opened Monday evening.

John Foster Gray, of Weymouth, spoke in the Constitution Engine Hall, last Tuesday evening, on the Grand Fireman's Muster.

The following officers have been elected by the Irish National League for the ensuing term: President, Patrick Whelan.

Vice-Pres., Thomas Egan, and Thomas McDonald. Treasurer, John Coffey.

Treas., John Burns. A lecture will be delivered in Williams' hall tomorrow evening, by J. W. Walsh, Esq., of Fitchburg, on the present condition of Ireland, and her future prospects, with addresses by others. Admission free, and all are invited.

A pleasant occasion. About 7 30 o'clock last Friday morning the Weymouth Belle drew up in front of Dyer & Co's factory, where it was soon filled with baskets, clam digger, etc., and 15 treasurers who were bound for Fort Point, for the purpose of a clam-bake and chowder. They arrived at about 8 o'clock, and the men went to digging clams, while others prepared the fire-places and started the fire. The day being a little cool, base ball and quoits was started by some, and Mr. Alonzo Tirrell carried off the honor at quoits. At about 12 o'clock Mr. W. Binney, foreman of the room, who had the clam bake in charge, sounded the gong for dinner. The bake was opened, and if one can judge of the goodness of things by the way they disappear before hungry men, we should judge that the bake was successful. About two bushels of clams and 10 lbs. of sweet potatoes disappeared in short time, as everybody was feeling well except our venerable treasurer, Mr. James Doran, (who only ate about two water pails full) and our poet, Mr. Peter Jacobs, who generally is the most joyful of the crowd, but who while digging the clams was so busy that he did not get to the dinner table, but picking out a half dozen of the largest of the raw clams sat down on a rock and proceeded to eat them, being so busy engaged in the effort to swallow that the tide, which was coming in, surrounded the rock and dived into the tops of Peter's shoes.

After dinner a game of ball was started, and showed that there is material for good players in some of the trees, especially the catching of Mr. T. Noonan and the base running of Messrs. Wilder and Hobson. While the game was in progress some of the men started to visit Great Pond, among them being Capt. Ford, our well known clam waterer. They had enough, such as it was, but Peter said it was very weak, not near as strong as that in the bottle picked up by Austin in the sea-weed, labeled Bourbon. By the way this happened in the forenoon, and some thought they had found a prize, but on being opened it was found full of water. In spite of all draw-backs the chowder was served at 4.30, and with milk, hot coffee and pickles, was enjoyed by all. At 5 p. m. Mr. Nickerson arrived, and brought with him a filled full of chowder, which he said went right to the spot. We all got into the coach, feeling that the first clam bake of the treasurers was a success, notwithstanding that the finishers were off out.

Court Record. The following cases have been before the Superior Court of Norfolk county from Weymouth since our last issue.

Edward Frazer, 24, for keeping a liquor nuisance, $50 and costs and three months imprisonment in the House of Correction.

John Hayes, for keeping a liquor nuisance pleaded guilty, and was fined $50 and costs, amounting to $108.

John T. Gallagher, for keeping a liquor nuisance was fined $50 and costs, and for assuming to be a common victualer, $100 and costs.

Seth Richards, for keeping a liquor nuisance, had his case continued to December.

Business men of the Landing have urged upon the management of the Old Colony R. R. the need of stopping the 9 a. m. express at that station, as well as at East Weymouth, as the mail arrives at the 8 o'clock train, and they would thus have an opportunity of sending their letters before leaving for the city.

The annual fair of the Weymouth Agricultural and Industrial Society commenced yesterday, on their grounds at South Weymouth, and the fine weather which prevailed presage a good attendance, about 1200 people being gathered there during the day, and the receipts were larger than on the first day of the fair last season.

The Weymouth Band opened the fair with a musical entertainment at 9 a. m., and an exhibition in the hall having been arranged in the afternoon, the fair continued through the labor of the various committees the show of fruits, flowers, vegetables and fancy articles, etc., was soon the centre of attraction. The lack of pluvial supply this season has a decided effect upon the productions which it was feared would make ahead in the matter. One hundred have already been secured, and by vigorous canvassing it is hoped that the number can be doubled. With help that is expected from surrounding villages the course can then be made successful. An enterprise of this kind demands work, and while the managers are anxious to give the time and efforts freely, in the hope of providing good entertainment for the people, they expect the most liberal co-operation from all the citizens.

By invitation of Mr. William Dyer, the choir of the Second Congregational church passed a very pleasant evening at his house last Monday evening. Mr. Dyer, with ladies and gentlemen were present, the rain preventing some from attending. The early part of the evening was taken up with choruses singing, after which the company were treated to choice refreshments, including fruit, cake and other delicacies. Pleasant enjoyment and mirth making conversation the hours passed rapidly away, and like other annual occasions of this character, this one took its place among the pleasant recollections of the past.

Although a meeting of the ladies of the improvement society was held on Monday last Monday evening, the rain and cold prevented their attendance. The rain was needed much more than the meeting however, and we have no regret to offer. Each time notices have been sent to seventy-five ladies, which is of course a rather expensive method. The committee deem it best to appoint another meeting for next Monday evening at Rogers hall, and if none of the ladies are present it will be considered as sufficient evidence that no interest exists in the society, and the same will be present. No notices will be sent this time, but it is hoped that the ladies may feel interested enough to meet on Monday evening, rain or shine, and organize the different committees necessary for the beginning of the work. The meeting is a very important one, and every dollar raised would be used to enhance the beauty of the village.

THE TEXAS RANGERS.

How they came out in the...

A correspondent of the St. Louis...

Louisiana has but an adequate knowledge...

of what a thorough bred Texas ranger...

is, or what he looks like, and so I applied...

the syphon to Captain McMurtry...

and learned the following facts: Adjutant General King, of the United States...

army, whose headquarters are at An-sonville, is the commanding officer, and has...

for subordinates six captains, who are...

appointed by the governor. The captains of rangers are paid $100 per... month, and are furnished by the state...

with yearly appropriate $80,000 for...

the service. They appoint and enlist...

their own men for a term of one year...

ending September 1, each company...

comprising twenty-five men. The privates are paid $30, corporals $35, sergeants $50, and lieutenants $65 per... month. No uniform is worn, and the...

men look like cattlemen, as they spend...

most of their time on the plain, or in...

camp. They are accomplished and daring riders, intrepid and dauntless in...

action, and are armed with Winchester...

carbines and Colt's improved forty-two...

being experts in the use of these arms.

The duties of the rangers are to protect frontiersmen and cattlemen from...

raids of horse-thieves, cattle-thieves...

and border rangers, but they do not interfere with smuggling unless called...

upon by the United States authorities.

They are for the most part in the saddle, except such as board the trains... of the New York, Denver, and Grand...

Central, and the Denver, in which their...

ride between Fort Worth and Colorado...

City, armed to the teeth and prepared...

to resist all efforts of train robbers...

or hilarious cowboys. The United States...

does not own land in the state of Texas...

and one of the best known tracts of prairie...

land is the "Llano Estacado," or staked...

plain, which is 120 miles wide and extends...

from the northern boundary of Texas...

to the tracks of the Texas and Pacific...

railroad, all guarded by rangers. While...

sheriffs may only make an arrest in his...

own county, the ranger may apprehend...

any person in any part of the state...

and arrest in any number of citizens as...

specials to aid him in refractory cases...

One of the most interesting fights was...

that at Ranger station with a gang of...

train robbers, who are now serving...

terms in the state prison. The captains make their regular monthly reports to General King, giving the number of miles covered by their companies, the number and character of the...

arrests effected, and a general resume...

of the work done. Captain McMurtry...

is one of the most popular men in...

Texas, and his powerful form is well-known to the patrons of the Texas and...

Pacific railroad, which his men patrol...

day and night to guard against train...

wreckers. He was born in Franklin...

Tenn., and was a confederate captain...

under General Walker, after which he...

THE HUMAN PULSE.

The human pulse is rather a wide...

range, but the general average may be...

put about as follows: At birth, 140; at two years, 100; at from sixteen to...

nineteen years, 80; at manhood, 75;

at old age, 60. There are, however,...

great variations consistent with health.

Napoleon's pulse is said to have been...

only 44 in the minute. A case is also...

related of a healthy man of 87 whose...

pulse was seldom over 30 during the last... two years of his life and sometimes...

less than 26. Another man of 87...

enjoyed good health and spirits with...

a pulse of 29, and there is also on...

record the curious instance of a man...

whose pulse in health was never...

above 10. It is consistent with health...

if his pulse fell to forty, instead of...

rising as usual.

Peasant Flour.

The despised peasant promises to be...

of a very important product of the...

country. It yields a return already of...

over $2,000,000 per annum, and its...

growth is rapidly increasing. It is...

not only eaten in the shell roasted, and...

fed to baby, but it recently has been...

ground into a flour which makes a peculiarly palatable biscuit. It is also...

being used in pastry, where it takes...

the place of cocoanut, and is not only...

oilier and richer, but healthier and better every way. The peasant is easily...

grown, produces an immense crop, and...

is destined to be widely consumed, not...

only for cattle, but in the form of...

flour and taffy for human beings.

Chances for Expansion.

A commercial traveller dropped off...

the train in a small, weathered village, and on going into the "luis,"... driven about three miles to the hotel...

"Is this town incorporated?" he inquired of the hotel keeper. "No, it is...

not," he replied. "I wish to know if...

you would like to incorporate?" "No,"...

he replied. "Why don't you incorporate?"...

"Why don't you incorporate?" "If you...

did you would have a
