It is said that Senators Harrison and Ingalis will lead the fight against the confirmation of Governor Ross. The Journal wishes to remind these gentlemen that Ross is really better than the average democrat, and it is better to let him hold the office than to run the risk of putting some pestiferous eastern ward politician in his place. Ross is not a mean sort of man except in his political predilictions, and can do no harm to the republican party in New Mexico .- Albuquerque Journal,

The Tombstone Epitaph makes the Journal say Governor Zulick's proclamation was necessary. This paper said that proclamation was unnecessary, and it should have added at the time that it was an insult to a sorely tried, law abiding people.-Albuquerque Journal, Our morning contemporary made the item appointed upon the recommendation of read the same way the Epitaph did.

THE DEAD YEAR.

The parting day is done, Another year has gone-Gone forever! Gone from futurity

Into obscurity-

'Iwill pass away.

Aye, forever! Right and wrong it has wrought, Joy and pain it has brought Thee constantly; Still, bow with reverence,

Knowing kind Providence Dealeth with thre. If fortune's winning smile Charm our weak hearts awbile,

True happiness is found Not in the wide world round, Seek where we may. Has your heart had its sorrow

Without hope in the morrow

To quiet its strite? Your life love its trial, Which you hide with a smile Poor wounded life!

Is the way oft dreary, And are stout hearts weary In the fierce strife? Or has the icy breath Of the buge monster, Death,

Taken a life! And with an Angel bright Sorne upward in its light. Beaching its goal;

Leaving a life lesson With its burning impression Deep in the soul? What matter how pass'd it,

If fate has o'ercast it With grief and gleom? Merrory will treasure Not its woe nor plessure in the dark tomb.

"I ask thee, O, God-" Let your hearts feel the word As spake he-"Not thy gifts to multiply, Worthier make me."

But, of the least before I die,
