WOMAN'S CLUB GIVES FINE ENTERTAINMENT

BIG AUDIENCE ENJOYS THE PERFORMANCE.

SOME GOOD TALENT EVIDENT

Receipts Total $70.00; Liberty Bond Will Be Purchased; Large Number of Prominent People in the Cast.

The Woman's Club of Huntington Beach scored another big success Friday night of last week, to be added to its long list of achievements in the line of high-class entertainments.

The attendance was one of the largest in the history of the auditorium, there being several in the audience from Santa Ana who were friends of members of the cast.

The entire program was immensely enjoyed by the big audience, and nothing but commendation of the affair has been heard.

The program was given in two parts, the first being largely musical, being interspersed with readings and drills by the little folks from the kindergarten, the salient features being the appearance of Mrs. Clara Castleton Wolfe, a prominent soprano; Mrs. Clinton C. Newland with her violin, and Miss Marie Osterhaus as a reader.

It was the first public appearance of Mrs. Wolfe in Huntington Beach since June 21, 1914, when she sang at the pier celebration. Since that time she has been studying in New York, and her efforts Friday evening were highly appreciated, and she responded to an encore. "Gianinna Mia" from "Firefly" and "My Laddies" were her numbers, and were charmingly given.

The friends of Miss Marie Osterhaus were surprised at her classical work as a reader. She was dressed as a Red Cross nurse, and several children also appeared with her in tableau, making an attractive stage scene. Her readings consisted of "Rhymes of a Red Cross Man," Robert Service; "Hunker Tin," a parody on Kipling's "Gungo Din," and an imitation of George Cohen in his late war songs, being decidedly well rendered.

Mrs. Newland rendered "Meditation," Bach-Gonou; "Rooster and Hen," Leonard, and "Amoroso," Tirindilli. Mrs. Newland has always been a favorite with Huntington Beach audiences, as she was on this occasion.

Other good numbers of Part One were: "Legends," by the ladies' quartet, Mrs. H. A. Bowman, Mrs. Paul C. Einfeld, Miss Mary A. Turner and Mrs. Louis A. Copeland; readings, "Revelation," Robert Service, and "Red Flower," Van Dyke, by Miss Anita Hertel, formerly a member of the Grammar school faculty; folk drill by girls, and sailor dance by girls of the kindergarten, under the direction of Miss Price, with Miss Picknell at the piano. Miss Estelle Clough accompanied Mrs. Newland, and Miss Frances Douthit served in a similar capacity for Mrs. Wolfe.

The second section of the program was composed of vaudeville, and was under the direction of Mrs. H. V. Anderson, assisted by the famous, noted, eminent and distinguished Huntington Beach comedian, M. A. McCreery, Mrs. C. H. Thatcher and Mrs. D. W. Huston. Mr. McCreery is as much at home on the stage as he is in taking care of the agricultural department of the Holly Sugar Corporation.

The feature of this act was "School Days," with Mr. McCreery as the teacher, and the following pupils: Samantha Doolittle, Mrs. C. A. Johnson; Grace sisters, Mrs. H. T. Dunning and Mrs. E. A. Maher; Susan Simpkins, Miss Lucile Davenport; Reuben Perkins, R. C. Turner; "Skinney" Skinnem, F. E. Skinner; Sandy McPherson, John Kellie McDonald; Yura Heap, Will Gallienne; Sammie, Mrs. C. H. Endicott; Rosie, Mrs. Geo. O. Franklin; Senor Etta Spaghetti, B. T. Mollica. Members of the school board were: Mr. Bright, C. A. Johnson; Mr. Woods, H. T. Dunning.

Mr. McCreery was attired as a country schoolmarm, and was a stunning success. The teacher stated that she always gave the children a few minutes to rest, and asked them to dream for a short time, and then tell her what they dreamed about. Mr. McDonald dreamed that Lewis Bingle was mayor, and that Ed Frch had bought a peanut wagon; Mr. Skinner that Mr. McDonald went out riding it was an old hen when he returned; Mrs. Dunning that Arthur Morehouse was married, and Will Gallienne that Huntington Beach had a fire department.

The teacher announced that Samantha Doolittle intended to speak a piece about frogs, but it was so dry that the frogs had all left, so she would tell about a watermelon, and Mrs. Johnson acquitted herself with considerable credit in her role. Susan, "Skinney" and Reuben performed with their violins, and the Grace sisters played a piano duet in their usual high-class manner. Yura sang a solo, and Senor looked for a hand organ but, unable to find one, played on the one on the stage in an interesting manner. Mr. Spaghetti passed around the hat in the school room and got a big wad of "money" for the Woman's Club to buy bonds with. There was no small change in that school—everybody had bills of large or small denominations. The amount of the collection was not stated, but is supposed to have been about $750.

Something that was not in the rehearsal was a "dance" by Mr. Skinner, whom the teacher called upon unexpectedly, and the burlesque shows that he is a natural entertainer. A juvenile reading by Mr. Skinner was also exceptionally well rendered.

Sammie and Rosie entered the school room as colored waifs looking for a school home, and the teacher asked what they could do, and Sammie said they could can the Kaiser, and Mr. McCreery said there was a big place for them, and the way in which Mrs. Endicott performed the part of a colored boy was surprising, denoting finished stage ability.

The teacher asked the honorable members of the school board if they had anything to say, and each of them made a few interesting remarks. To use stage parlance, Mr. Johnson understands the art of letting go of himself in a manner that interests his audience. So far as the audience is concerned, it is not so much what the speaker says as the manner in which it is said, and the natural and easy attitude of the performer. Mr. Johnson asked the children to all impress on their parents what an awful calamity it would be if he was not re-elected as a member of the school board. Mr. Dunning also asked the students to put in a good word at home for his re-election. From present indications there appears to be but little doubt but what both Mr. Bright and Mr. Woods will be retained as honorable members of the school board.

This was followed by a pantomime, "Women of the Past, Present and Future," the first scene being an old-time dance by Mrs. S. A. Moore, Mrs. D. W. Huston, Mrs. C. W. Spottle, Mrs. C. E. Swift, Mrs. William Hedges and Mrs. A. C. Bullen, costumed to represent a preceding generation.

Mr. McCreery introduced Mrs. Alex. P. Nelson as the future mayor of Huntington Beach, and she delivered an address of welcome, and was attired in a man's dress coat and silk hat.

Mrs. F. H. McElfresh was attired in a band uniform and was introduced as the future band leader of Huntington Beach, and used a toy cornet to good advantage. Jas. J. Hunt and Mrs. H. V. Anderson were introduced as the future father and mother, and Mrs. W. H. Taylor and Mr. Nelson as children of the coming generation, being all dressed in a highly amusing manner. Mrs. G. A. Shank was dressed as a Red Cross nurse and carried a sign, "The Best Dressed Woman of Today;" Mrs. Alexander Osterhaus, "Modern Business Woman;" Mrs. A. W. Griffith, "Hooverization, Eatless."

There was a great noise of a child crying behind the scene, and then "Pop" Endicott appeared on the stage dressed as a child, and the crying infant was pulled from the stage by several women, much to the delight of the audience. The big kid was dressed in white stockings, and some have wondered "where on earth they could have ever got those stockings." While there may be no truth in it, there is a story being told that it required 11 of those big flour sacks from Eader's bakery and two women three days to make the huge stockings for "Pop." However, Mr. Endicott states that the tights were used by him when on the stage a few years ago.

A cabaret scene followed, in which H. V. Anderson, Mrs. H. A. Benning and Mrs. W. T. Newland, Jr., in addition to those already on the stage, entered. Miss Marie Frenger of Wintersburg was the singer. Here Mr. McCreery gyrated, rotated, whirled and revolved as a Chinese waiter in a highly entertaining manner.

SUMMER PRICES FOR COAL ESTABLISHED.

ADVICE IS TO BUY NOW IF ROOM TO STORE.

At a meeting of the fuel dealers of the Los Angeles district, held Friday of last week, prices on coal to comply with the regulations of the California fuel administrator were fixed.

The ton price for Los Angeles delivery is as follows: Utah and Wyoming, $14; Colorado, $16.40; Gallup, $14. Sacks, 85 cents. The differential for Huntington Beach will probably be about $2 per ton additional and 15 cents for one sack.

The fuel administrator is urging all who have the money and storage capacity to buy their winter's supply of coal before the close of the summer, as it may be very difficult to get coal during the winter months at any price.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

To the voters of the Second Supervisorial District:

At the request of my friends, I have decided to again ask your support for the office of Supervisor, believing that my record during the past nine years that I have held this office justifies my action.

I have worked as faithfully as I knew how for the very best interests of every section of the district, and, while some of my decisions may not have pleased everyone, they have been conscientiously rendered in a manner that appeared to me to be for the best interest of all concerned, and with malice toward none.

The best part of my life has been spent in this section of Orange county, and my constant aim has been to do something that would aid in the growth and prosperity of the district that has honored me; and many kind friends have assured me that I have succeeded, and asked that I serve another term.

Respectfully submitted,
T. B. TALBERT.

HOME TALENT NUMBER NEXT FRIDAY NIGHT

WILL BE MOST INTERESTING OF SERIES.

PURCHASE YOUR TICKETS NOW

Be Sure and Make Arrangements To Attend; Students Should Be Encouraged; Some Good Talent In Cast.

The Home Talent number of the High school lecture course will be given in the Grammar school auditorium next Friday evening at 8 o'clock, and everyone who can conveniently do so should attend.

The Home Talent number of the series is always of the most interest, for the reason that those in the cast are well known to the audience. A large attendance is expected, and the program will be worth much more than the price of admission.

Free busses will run from the bank corner.

SOME CHANGES IN SAFETY DEPOSIT VAULT.

SEVERAL NEW BOXES HAVE BEEN ADDED.

Some changes have recently been completed in the safety deposit department of the First National Bank. Under the old arrangement the boxes were down close to the floor of the vault, and those in the lower row did not rent on that account. This objection has been obviated by raising all of the deposit boxes so that they can be conveniently reached. Some new boxes have also been added, as the demand has increased in the past few months. The bank now has an up-to-date safety deposit department and invites inspection.

GOOD SHOWING BY RED CROSS OFFICIALS.

There has been a splendid showing made by the officers in charge of the auxiliary of the American Red Cross in Huntington Beach during the few months that it has been organized. A summary of the work is given in another column, and reflects credit upon Mrs. Chas. H. Endicott, chairman; Mrs. R. H. Chapin, secretary, and

BETTER FARMING FOLLOWS BEET CULTURE

IDAHO EXPERT WRITES ON THE SUBJECT.

BY-PRODUCTS ARE VALUABLE

Dean of College of Agriculture Says By-Products Worth More Than the Beet; Deeper Plowing Follows.

The following article is from the current issue of "Facts About Sugar," published in New York City, written by E. J. Eddings, dean of the College of Agriculture of the State of Idaho, and will no doubt be of interest to those who are interested in sugar beet culture in this vicinity:

The sugar beet is doing a great work in agricultural education. It comes bearing the message of better farming and is the primary incentive sooner or later in the development of a livestock feeding industry.

In order to be highly successful year after year with sugar beets the farmer must employ cultural methods that are essential to maximum production and must plan definite measures for retaining soil fertility. Soon after the arrival of the sugar beet, therefore, comes almost invariably deeper plowing, more thorough cultivation, more careful use of irrigation water, careful conservation and application to the soil of farm manures, and the seeding of legumes, not essentially for hay, but primarily for fertilization as a part of a well planned and balanced system of crop rotation.

Ordinarily, we think of the sugar beet as grown for its sugar yield alone. From this point of view it is now a very definite and highly valuable contribution to the needs of America and her allies for the period of the war. From the standpoint of good farming, however, the by-products of the industry are of greater importance to a sugar beet growing district than is the sugar itself. These by-products, which are of chief value to the livestock man, are the beet pulp, the molasses, and the beet tops.

Sugar Beet Pulp. Sugar beet pulp is a highly valuable succulent feed used in fattening beef cattle and sheep, and has been found, when properly handled, to be of value in milk production. Pulp, when given ample time to go through the siloing process, furnishes quite cheaply a large portion of the bulky livestock ration, is succulent, and, in fulfilling that function in the ration, carries with it much of value that the chemist does not find upon analysis. It serves one of the fundamental needs of the livestock feeder by cheapening the ration and increasing the net profits. Higher appreciation is had, year by year, of the value of sugar beet pulp in animal feeding, and unquestionably further use can be made in the many fields of livestock husbandry as compared with the practice in the past.

The molasses may be utilized in many ways in animal feeding. Alfalfa hay, straw, and other roughages, when given a molasses coating, are rendered more palatable and the molasses adds to the carbohydrate content of the ration. Molasses may be fed with concentrates to steers and other cattle and gives excellent returns in comparison with its cost.

Another highly valuable product of the sugar beet growing industry is the beet top. The writer has seen hundreds of acres of tops in various beet growing districts handled in the usual careless way and thereby a large part of the real feeding value lost.

In a climate that can be depended upon for a large number of dry days in the fall, the tops give excellent returns when piled up and left for the use of cattle and sheep. The new plan with the beet top, however, is siloing. This results in little if any waste, is much more economical than the plan of past years, and its product is more highly relished than the raw tops as they come from the beet.

The siloing process results in a highly palatable feeding material that can be utilized for both sheep and cattle with but little waste. The beet growers tell us that each ton of beets has a by-product amounting to one-half ton of tops. Some feeders have claimed such returns from the siloed tops as to give them a value of approximately one-half by weight as estimate is correct, it means that the returns from the sugar beet tops of a heavy crop are almost equivalent to a full year's crop of the same acreage of alfalfa hay. If it is granted that it requires three tons of the tops to equal a ton of hay, still the showing is very satisfactory and the relative value of the by-product as compared with the main crop is very great.

Those interested in the future of agriculture, therefore, feel that the introduction of sugar beet culture always makes for good farming and for greater prosperity to the districts in which its development takes place.

Watch and clock repairing is one of our hobbies. We are really as particular about having you satisfied with a repair job as we are having you satisfied with the goods you buy from us.

To get the greatest amount of satisfaction out of either a watch or clock, it must be inspected and oiled every year or two—once a year is better.

You wouldn't think of buying a new automobile and then trying to run it without oil; neither should you think of letting your watch or clock run year in and year out without a drop of oil. Better let us look after it for you.

Says Names of Slackers Will Be Published; Most Everybody Is Loyal to Their Government.

The following statement has been issued by the committee having charge of checking up the citizens of this vicinity:

"The Liberty Loan Committee has carefully checked every name in this district, and finds that there are many who are willing but cannot afford to buy bonds, and some that can afford to purchase that decline to do so. HUNTINGTON BEACH ODD FELLOWS WIN.

BIG CONTEST AT LODGE ROOM WEDNESDAY NIGHT.

The members of Huntington Beach Lodge No. 183, I. O. O. F., are elated over the success of their degree team at the district contest in the lodge room, Wednesday evening, when a team from the Santa Ana lodge competed with the home boys.

About two years ago the lodge at Orange purchased a banner to be given to the lodge having the most efficient team for the initiatory work, and as it was generally recognized that the Huntington Beach team was the best one in the district at that time, the emblem was given to the lodge here.

The conditions were that any lodge could compete for the banner at any time, and Wednesday night was the first contest for its possession, and the victory for the home team indicates that they are exceptionally proficient in the work.

The following occupied the principal positions Wednesday night: J. B. Irwin, N. G.; Reuben Catching, V. G.; S. A. Moore, P. G.; Ed Manning, chaplain; I. C. Warner, inside conductor; Geo. O. Franklin, outside conductor; H. A. Gallienne, warden; W. R. Wharton, R. S. N. G.; Charles Burleycamp, L. S. N. G.; E. P. DeLapp, R. S. V. G.; E. E. French, L. S. V. G.; Andrew Given, R. S. S.; W. S. Waite, R. S. S.; Jack Given, inside musician. Chas. H. (Pop) Endicott, musician. Bonner R. Marsters sang the ode as a solo.

Two judges were from Los Angeles and one from Long Beach. There were visitors from Orange, Westminster, Fullerton and Anaheim.

GRUNION FISHING ENJOYED BY MANY PERSONS.

Many persons have enjoyed the spring run of grunion that came on the crest of the highest wave of the high tides, Saturday, Sunday and Monday nights, to spawn. Several of those enjoying the sport were from Santa Ana and other outside points.

Saturday night the high tide was registered at 10:22, Sunday night at 11:03, and Monday 11:45. To indulge successfully in this sport the fisherman should carry a lantern and wear either a bathing suit or some old clothing, as the waves must be encountered to snatch up the sprightly little fish before they are carried out in the surf again by the next wave that dashes up on the sand.

Just where the name "grunion" originated is a mystery, as there is no record of such a fish in any books that may be considered authority on the subject, so far as known. The so-called grunion are said to be a specie of smelt, and can be seen in the water around the end of the pier before they reach the beach.

WEEKLY GREETING.

There is no inspired title to this psalm and none is needed, for it records no special event, and needs no other key than that which every Christian may find in his own bosom. It is David's heavenly pastoral; a surpassing ode, which none of the daughters of music can excel. The clarion of war here gives place to the pipe of peace, and he who bewailed the woes of the shepherd tunelessly rehearses the joys of the flock. Sitting under a spreading tree, with his flock around him, we picture David singing this unrivalled pastoral with a heart as full of gladness as it could hold; or, if the psalm be the product of his after years, we are sure that he often returned in contemplation to the lonely water-brooks which rippled among the pastures of the wilderness, where in early days he had been wont to dwell. This is the pearl of psalms, whose soft and pure radiance delights all; a pearl of which Helicon need not be ashamed, though Jordan claims it.—C. H. Spurgeon.

PATRIOTISM BEFORE POLITICS.

It remained for State Treasurer Friend Wm. Richardson to remind the candidates for office that the United States is engaged in the most terrific war since man has inhabited this planet, and that it was no time to conduct long campaigns for political jobs, which should be secondary in the minds of all patriotic citizens. Mr. Richardson's advice was timely, and saved the voters of the state from being troubled with such candidates as placed their personal interests paramount to all other questions.

Mr. Richardson stated there was but one question, and that was to win the war; and that but little should be said about politics until the Hun was annihilated. Other candidates who were touring the state suddenly changed their plans, and Gov. Stephens followed with a statement similar to the one made by the patriotic state treasurer.

Mr. Richardson has been urged by friends from Siskiyou to San Diego to enter the gubernatorial marathon, but has continually declined to do so, from a patriotic sense of duty.

No man who has ever held a state office in California has a better record than the level-headed treasurer, and he is the man sorely required in the governor's chair, by the commission-ridden State of California, at this time. In the event of Mr. Richardson becoming the chief executive of the commonwealth, many of the forty fat commissions will go up in smoke, as he has an astonishing record for economy.

He was appointed superintendent of the state printing office in 1911, and actually reduced the cost of printing school books 52 per cent—considered to have been a remarkable achievement.

Mr. Richardson was elected treasurer four years ago by 526,713 plurality, the largest ever accorded a candidate for that office, and probably by any candidate for treasurer in any state in the Union. His conduct of that office has been along rigid economic lines, having been about the only official that did not ask the legislature for an increase in salary or additional assistants.

When executive ability is considered, there is but little comparison to be made with other candidates that have been mentioned or mentioned themselves for the governorship, as he stands head and shoulders above the field. If Mr. Richardson decides to enter the contest and the various candidates are sized up by voters as to their records qualifying them for the office, the odds cannot fail to be very largely in his favor.

It is doubtful if there is a voter in California today who has a superficial knowledge of state affairs but what knows that the state government is superlatively extravagantly administered, being with one exception—that of Nevada—the highest per capita in the United States; and a man like Mr. Richardson, who has a record for economical administration of public affairs, should be placed in charge.

Mr. Richardson is not an orator, but can make a good sensible talk on any and all occasions. If he enters the race it will be on his record as a public servant, and there will be no attempt on his part to talk himself into the governor's mansion.

He has been president of the California Press Association for the past sixteen years, and at one time owned and edited the San Bernardino Index, and is considered a Southern California man

PREPARE FOR HIGHER CHARGES.

The public has become so accustomed to paying high prices for almost everything that there will no doubt be but little surprise expressed when the fact becomes known that there will probably soon be material advances in the service furnished by all public utility companies, such as transportation, water, light and telephone.

The high cost of living affects corporations as it does individuals, and the only way that they can continue to operate, in the event of the war continuing many months longer, is to advance the cost of the service accordingly.

Material for construction and repair work and supplies has advanced from 50 to 200 per cent; therefore, it is nothing more than reasonable to expect an advance in price for that which the companies have to offer, in the near future. Of course, no advances can take place unless passed upon by the Railroad Commission.

He who knows only his own side of the case, knows little of that.—John Stuart Mill.

REDUCED WATER RATES FOR IRRIGATION.

WATER COMPANY ANNOUNCES NEW SCHEDULE.

The Huntington Beach Water Company has made application to the State Railroad Commission for reduced rates for irrigation purposes again this year, which will no doubt be granted in the near future.

The application asks that the rate apply from April 20 and continue up to October 20, the rate being four cents per 100 cubic feet of water; after the minimum has been used. This rate is the same as that which will prevail for war garden purposes in Los Angeles and one-half cent less than in Long Beach, and each of these cities operates municipally owned water systems. Therefore the Huntington Beach Water Company is to be congratulated upon the low rates it has applied for to be used for the patriotic purpose of developing war gardens.

There are, perhaps, few other small towns in Southern California that will enjoy such attractive prices for gardening, and it is to be hoped that there will be much activity in the gardening line.

SANTA ANA REGISTER SAYS IT'S SAME STORY.

MOORE HAS ALWAYS OPPOSED TALBERT.

The following appeared in "The Political Periscope" of the Santa Ana Register, Friday of last week:

It is a poor campaign that cannot put on exhibition a hot scrap out in the Second Supervisorial District. Tom Talbert is out for re-election and he is in to stay to the finish. Anyone who knows anything at all about Talbert knows that he is some campaigner when it comes to stirring up the far corners in search of the festive vote.

There has been a lot of milling around over in the Second in an effort to settle down upon a candidate, to make the race against the supervisorial chairman. The periscope could be turned over in that direction on any kind of a day, fair or stormy, the stormier the better, and gather into view a few bubbles about to burst.

For awhile it looked as though Edward Chaffee of Garden Grove was going to run. Chaffee was a candidate for the assembly here the first time Joe Burke ran, you will remember. Then we got a glitter of a white-cap on the Huntington Beach channel. It was Leonard Obarr, who has again and again in the last six months been a near-candidate and who has been even declared by some to be a candidate. Then we picked up sight of Sterling Price at Bolsa and George W. Moore with their heads together, each saying he was willing that the other fellow should run, and each saying he was willing to run if the others thought he was the man to run. Saturday night there was a get-together meeting at Smeltzer in which Chaffee, Obarr, Price and Moore were present, and the upshot of that meeting was that Moore was brought out into the open and declared to be a candidate, with Chaffee, Obarr and Price among his backers.

One can jog down through the political history of the Second Supervisorial District for some years past, and all along the line he sees the name of Talbert set opposite the name of Moore. This year's supervisorial scrap between those two men is no new thing in politics.

Way back yonder in 1906 Moore was elected supervisor. He served two and a half years and resigned to put more time in the celery business. Moore did not want Talbert appointed, and he did everything he could to keep Talbert from being appointed, but Talbert was appointed.

Talbert completed the term, and ran again. He was opposed by Sterling Price, and was elected. At the end of that four-year term, Talbert was out for re-election, and that time Moore was a candidate along with Talbert and L. E. VanWinkle. Talbert was elected at the primaries.

Now things are warming up for another heat, and if the periscope gets any true pictures in the section that lies between the river and the sea, they are pictures of a lively campaign. Evidently they are going to have a lovely time over in the Second. Talbert is all ready for the go, and has a bunch of friends back of him. Moore is getting together an organization. Rockets are in the air calling for shelling by the heavy artillery.

The vote when Supervisor Talbert was elected at the primaries in August, 1914, was as follows: Talbert, 841; Moore, 453; VanWinkle, 253; Winters, 50. Talbert's majority, 85.

CARD OF THANKS.

The committee having charge of the entertainment given by the Woman's Club desires to express appreciation to all who so kindly assisted in the work.

PARTICULAR AND IMPORTANT NOTICE.

Pop will change his mid-week show night from Wednesday to Thursday. You know it's mighty hard to run a hundred-dollar show on a seventy-five-dollar business; but that is just what I have been up against for the last three weeks. Now then, good people, I am showing you A1 first-class photographs, and I am giving you as good music as can be heard anywhere in any playhouse. I have installed an immense organ for this size theatre, and if I filled the house twice nightly I would not make any money from a showman's standpoint. All I ask is your support, and every dollar I make you shall have in value received, and more, for the more you support me the more I will give you in return.

Dates ahead, booked, signed and contracted for:

May 5th—"Fighting Trail" and "The Cave Man."

May 9th—"Little American," Mary Pickford, 28c.

May 11th—"Zeppelins' Last Raid."

May 12th—"Fighting Trail" and "What Happened to Father," Frank Daniels.

May 16th—"Forbidden Paths," Sessue Hayakawa.

May 18th—"Fringe of Society."

May 19th—"Fighting Trail" and a big comedy.

May 23rd—"Her Better Self," Pauline Frederick.

May 25th—"The Belgian." Only four weeks since its initial showing at Majestic theatre, and I can vouch for this as a beauty picture of Belgium, 25c.

"Great White Trail."

"Silent Witness."

"Marriage Bond," Nat Goodwin.

"Submarine Eye." Less than three weeks from the Palace theatre.

"Madame Sherry."

"Those Who Pay," Bessie Barriscale.

"Just a Woman." Less than three weeks from release.

"One Hour." Sequel to "Three Weeks." Absolutely clean, no question, or the Princess would not show it.

"The Flame of the Yukon."

Now, my neighbors, don't you think you should make a little extra effort to keep up and retain this establishment? Picture values run two ways: The drawing power of the star and the nearness of the release (first showing) date. So you may judge for yourselves, are you getting your money's worth? Is Pop worthy of your patronage? And last, isn't the Princess deserving of greater patronage than it gets?

I thank you.

C. H. ENDICOTT (POP).

MILDRED MOORE GIVES SUCCESSFUL RECITAL.

AT VALENTINE CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC.

Mildred Moore, the charming little pianist of Huntington Beach, was the center of attraction in music circles, Wednesday afternoon, when she gave the first of a series of Pupils' Recitals to be given during the summer at the Valentine Conservatory of Music and Arts.

Mildred is the daughter of Mrs. Ada Moore, and has always shown marked ability at the piano, and is improving rapidly under the able direction of Mrs. Cunningham, who predicts a bright future for Mildred. It is as natural for Mildred to play the piano as it is for a canary bird to sing.

She was assisted by Mrs. Ethel Insley Bliss of Pasadena, a relative, who is a former pupil of Mrs. Cunningham. Mrs. Bliss has a winning personality, is an accomplished pianist, as well as a vocalist of considerable ability. The recital was largely attended.

Some of these magnificent roses were placed on exhibition at the News office, Thursday morning, and have attracted considerable attention, being large, with fascinating colors, and imparting a delightful fragrance.

COMMUNITY DAY EVENTS ARE GOOD ADVERTISING.

LOS ANGELES TRADE PAPER MENTIONS THEM.

Those who do not think the Community events that have been given by the Chamber of Commerce for the past six months are not splendid advertising for the city of Huntington Beach, should read the following comment in a recent issue of the Apparel Gazette of Los Angeles:

Huntington Beach has gone after community upbuilding so effectively that, during the latest "trade-at-home" week, many merchants increased their sales forty per cent over their previous normal turnover.

The movement had its inception when a few leading spirits engineered the formation of a chamber of commerce. The fact that a million-dollar sugar factory employs over 700 people in the producing season, that there is an oil cloth and linoleum factory and that large quantities of brooms are made there, evinced the fact that the town was not getting all that was coming to it. So, after some preliminary investigation, the following facts were laid before the business men:

Was Not Getting Share.

Statistics show that any normal community can draw trade from its surroundings to an extent equal to forty per cent of its own population. Huntington Beach has 2000 inhabitants. It should sell supplies to 2800 people. "Are we doing that?" If not, why not?" was the question.

There are 560 families in 2800 people. Statistics further show that each of those families spends an average of $228 a year for groceries, or $127,680, and that they buy $86,800 a year worth of dry goods. "Is Huntington Beach getting that trade?" again was the question.

Finally, 560 families' total trade amounts to $443,050 a year. "Is our town doing that much business?" was the clinching inquiry.

Thereupon a grocer who had been figuring arose and said: "I find that $127,680 divided among our four stores would give each of us $31,920 business a year. That is over $100 a day. I know I am not getting that much. I do not think the rest are getting their share."

That started things on the move—and they have gone forward with accelerated momentum ever since. And perhaps the most convincing sign one can find, that there is united effort in which no personalities are permitted to obtrude and no man seeks unfair advantage nor thinks of himself before he thinks of his town, is that no one claims or even admits that he is the moving spirit.

Working on a Basis of Fact.

The studies of the leaders took in the accomplishments of Marietta, Ohio; Maryville, Missouri; Manchester, Iowa; Wakita, Oklahoma, etc. They followed those successful examples to promote the fundamentals of growth—good will, friendliness for their town, first among the residents of Huntington Beach, second among the farmers living near by. To evoke and foster this spirit of good will they co-ordinated every element of community life, educational, agricultural, musical, religious, commercial and social.

So there is a purely social event once each month, and such an event opened the campaign. That was a basket dinner to which everybody in the "back country" was invited, the community furnishing hot coffee with "trimmings" and music during the whole day, and there was no suggestion of business except what came incidentally.

The next big event was a fall festival; everybody invited to exhibit his produce of any kind whether of farm or home. So prize cabbage heads and other vegetables were brought; but there were also exhibits of home canned goods, preserves, needlework, knitting. What astonished the workers, and awakened them to a wonderful new angle of effectiveness in their work, was the real pleasure and delight the farmers and their wives evinced in being enabled to show what they had accomplished.

So great was the influx of people with exhibits that the space provided to house them was inadequate from the first day. Additional stores and even tents had to be requisitioned.

Music was provided by the town band, which, by the way, is trained and directed by a paid leader, who conducts public concerts every pleasant Saturday evening. There were also free lectures and stereopticon slide talks.

Some of the Attractions.

Prizes were awarded and pictures taken of the winning exhibits which were given without charge to exhibitors. Those prizes and pictures are in many cases framed and hung on the home walls, "pointed to with pride," and thus constitute permanent bonds of good will between the families and the town.

In February, there was a poultry show, following hard on that held in Los Angeles; and it was as big a sucwho had managed the Los Angeles show tendered their voluntary services when they were told of the plan; and, since all the volunteers would accept was bare expenses, the whole show cost inside of $100.

"Trade-at-Home" week was characterized by a baby show, which ran constantly throughout the week, in charge of a woman doctor assisted by a skilled judge of babies on scientific lines, from Los Angeles. Thus measurements, weights and all other baby "points" were recorded with scrupulous impartiality. The data was forwarded to headquarters, each record identified merely by a number, and, on receipt of the verdict from the judges, an equal prize will be awarded to the prize boy and girl, the same being a Thrift Certificate with a $5 stamp attached as a beginning for a savings account. This links patriotism with civic pride—a combination always suitable, in good taste, and effective.

Educational Features Please.

A contest was run in co-operation with the educational authorities. This was a prize essay on "What I Owe My Home," the prize being a $5 bond-stamp. Obviously, no one could write such an essay without ascertaining every valid reason why he should trade at home.

Classes in sewing and dress making and a business course have been arranged in the high school for women whose husbands have been or may be called to the colors, so they can increase their income or even support themselves. Those women are picked up by a community bus for the morning and evening classes and they are taken home after class the same way. The service is all free, furnished by the chamber of commerce.

There are other features—many of them—but space is limited. You can write to the chamber of commerce of Huntington Beach for full information and it will be furnished most gladly.

It must not be imagined that any of the results indicated just happened. The chamber of commerce uses the local newspaper, mails circulars, sends out post cards, folders and other reading matter; distributes and posts hand bills, personally solicits attendance and exhibits, and passes information everywhere orally; uses slides in the picture houses; and even uses the telephone to promote home loyalty.

The organization plans to spend $100 to $150 per month—not a small sum for a town of 2000 people,—and already a suggestion has been made that a community building be erected, a large hall with anterooms and other offices, where gatherings and events can be housed suitably.

Saturday Night.

"Who Goes There?" by Robt. W. Chambers will be the attraction at the Princess Saturday night.

Kervyn Guild, an American of Belgian parentage and a former officer in the Belgian Guards, a regiment of nobility, is brought with other Belgian refugees before General Von Reiter.

The latter is in love with Karen Girard, who is in London, and he offers Guild his liberty and amnesty for the refugees, thousands of whom are being slaughtered, if he will go to London and bring Karen safely to him.

Guild, to save the helpless Belgians, agrees. In London, Guild is at once aware that he is being protected by German agents and dogged by British secret service men. He meets Karen, and after difficulties, gets on a channel boat. She carries a satchel which Guild suspects contains secrets of value to the Germans, but she swears the documents are not of a military character.

The boat is held up by a British warship and Guild is saved from apprehension only by a torpedo which destroys the cruiser.

Landing in France, they make their way within the German lines, where Guild determines to obtain possession of the satchel. He leads a band of Belgian peasants in a fight against Uhlans and is preparing to flee when Karen admits her love and determination to go with him.

Their flight is intercepted by the arrival of General Von Reiter, but Guild disposes of him in a duel, and the General furnishes both with safe passage to the Belgian lines.

Thursday Night.

America's favorite artist in the silent drama, our own little Mary Pickford in "The Little American." This is a very expensive booking, and is an Artercraft play. This picture will cost 28c for adults and 11c for children. A play worth your attention. Thursday, May 9th, doors open at 7:30, performance begins at 8 sharp—6 reels.

Sunday Night—"The Cave Man."

Madaline Mischief, a society leader, becomes tired of the ceaseless round of balls, parties and teas, and seeks real adventure. She makes a wager with Dolly Van Dream, her most intimate friend, that she can pick a man at random from the "submerged tenth" and make a social lion of him, without his being discovered. Carried away with the novelty of the idea, Madaline drops a letter from the window of her room in a fashionable hotel, that contains half of a hundred dollar bill and instructions should the finder be a woman to give it to the first man she meets, the man to call at her apartments and receive the other half of the bill.

The letter falls into the hands of Haulick Smagg, a coal heaver, as he is about to deliver a load of coal. He, with difficulty, deciphers the contents of the letter, but the torn money he understands at once, and, unconsciously grabbing his coal shovel, battles his way to Madaline's apartments, where he demands the part of the bill retained by her. She is overjoyed at the success of her experiment and although Smagg is anxious to return to his work, cajols him into putting himself unreservedly in her hands.

The ministrations of two barbers with the assistance of a haberdasher and gentlemen's tailor, transform him into a presentable personage. Madaline now begins his education and when Smagg has become somewhat familiar with the correct usage of knife and fork, has learned a few of society's pet sayings and can talk, in a way, about pictures and art, introduces him to members of the "400" at an afternoon tea given by Miss Van Dream. Smagg, now a good looking man and dressed in the height of fashion, is readily accepted by society because of his eccentricities, Madaline having introduced him to her friends as a sociologist and map of the world.

Smagg returns to his former haunts, but finds the polish acquired as a society lion does not find favor with his old associates. After a brawl in a cafe, he wanders forth until needs require he go to work. He is given employment in a steel mill, where his active brain and willingness to work soon advance him to a responsible position. His invention of a mechanical device brings wealth and place. Madaline, visiting the Bradfords, who reside in the city where the steel works are located, visits the plant and never quite forgotten. The two, renewing old acquaintanceship, find, now that Smagg has developed into a stable man of affairs, they have much in common and the picture closes as the girl, reared in the lap of luxury, willingly gives herself into the keeping of the man, her cave man, whom she had rescued from the "submerged tenth" on a wager.

"Fighting Trail," 13th Episode.

A big war aeroplane carrying bombs enough to destroy a city is seen sailing across the Mexican border in "The Fighting Trail." An agent of the Central Powers, bent on preventing the shipment of ore used by the U. S. Government in the manufacture of explosives, gets the plane, which in the thirteenth episode locates the mine and prepares with deadly accuracy to wreck it to the bottom of the deepest shaft.

William Duncan and Carol Holloway are stars in this great picture, essentially an all outdoor production, since ninety-five per cent of the scenes were filmed in the remote sections of the California Sierras or in the adjoining desert. Their constant struggle against the plotting of the outlaw band, hired by the Teuton agent, leads to an amazing series of adventures, including two big battles and the burning of a town before the outlaws are finally killed or driven away.

SUNDAY CROWD WAS SLIM.

There were but a small number of visitors along the beach Sunday, probably due to the fact that nearly all of the machines were headed for the earthquake towns of San Jacinto and Hemet. Another reason was that the weather was nothing like as warm as it was the Sunday before.

SOME BIG TIMBERS.

Some of the big timbers that were salvaged by citizens are still lying along the beach, being a part of the cargo of a wrecked lumber schooner. The pieces are 12x12 and 30 feet in length, and are from the forests of Western Washington.

JOE RODMAN WRITES FROM SOMEWHERE IN FRANCE.

HE MAY BE INVALIDED HOME IN NEAR FUTURE.

The following letter, written from "somewhere in France," March 31st, was received at the News office Monday morning, being 29 days in the mail. Mr. Rodman is well known in Huntington Beach, having been section foreman, with headquarters here, for several years prior to enlisting in the Engineers' Corps for foreign service, a few months ago. He is an author of considerable ability. His letter follows:

Dear Friend:

Lately I have been receiving the "News" with an unusual regularity—the "unusual" part being charged against our difficult mail distribution, and not to the "News"—for which I thank you, or some other equally kind person.

I have been in the hospital during the past three months from a recurrence of a hurt to my back and legs, sustained some time earlier during some difficult and hurried handling of supplies, etc.

I am unfitted to resume field work in an engineering regiment; so, if not invalided home, will be transferred to something lighter, probably transportation. I was to have been sent back some time ago, but after a few S. O. S.'s for further duty, I am being held until something develops—I suppose. I SUPPOSE; for in the army no one is a "free, moral agent." As Mulvaney said: "Orders is orders," and no one knows the whyness or the wherefore. Ours not to reason why, but just to root in and do her, as the poet said.

There is a great deal of excitement here just now. Wish I could tell you all about it. The new American hospitals are pretty well filled, and more on the way.

As in the States, the eternal question over here relates to the probable it that at least two more years will be required. But it is like prophesying the California weather—and, gee whiz, I wish we had it instead of the French variety of weather. It is especially hard on us thin-blooded Californians.

I hope to return to Huntington Beach, though I probably shall not be able to return to my old class of work. I never fully realized how fortunate I was with my little hurt until I came here to the hospital. Our skilled surgeons are performing daily miracles in making new men from old, but in some cases all the thaumaturgy in the world will only serve to prolong an agony that would be better stilled for all time.

Although men and their prototypes have been fighting for at least five million years; although war is necessary for the arrestation of degeneracy in a nation even so little effete as our own; although the resulting national stimulus, the advance in science and mechanics, and the cosmopolitan drawing together of peoples and national fiber, it is the most terrible result of all human impulse, evolution's most cruel tool. The lion and the lamb are not ready yet to camp on the same tarpaulin.

"Peace sitting under her olive and slurring the days gone by" is losing her cynicism and beginning to feel again that men, after all, are the big game worth gunning for.

Some day some of us will come back, and those who do will come with a new and fuller insight into life than they took with them. The phoenix is a bird that has been more over-worked than a scientifically raised hen, but he has now a bigger job ahead than ever before.

Sometimes this work—the most cheerless in the world—palls rather heavy. Nothing cheers more than letters from home. Some of our correspondents forget that. DON'T LET THEM.
