Taxpayers Entitled to Know All Facts About City Printing Contracts

THE news article in today's issue regarding the city authorities having given the city legal printing to another publication, when according to contract it should have been given to the official paper, which up to October 1, 1923, was the Glendale Daily Press, should be carefully read by all.

It is of interest to you as a taxpayer for it gives an indication of the way some of your representatives have been spending your money.

It further shows that on account of this lack of knowledge or appreciation of duties the city is liable to become involved in a legal tangle by the manner in which some officials are handling the city's business. We do not want to convey to you the meaning that we think all of our officials are incompetent for we know quite a few whom we have all confidence in but sometimes, as in private business, a few incompetents assume control and handle affairs in such a way as to cause trouble.

SPECIALLY is this true in a political position where not enough remuneration is paid to justify full time being given to the work.

We have hesitated some days about giving publicity to this matter for we recognized the seriousness of it. But in justice to the public we felt it our duty to publish it.

WE recognize that now, with the sewer coming up, no one should rock the boat, but after thinking it over our conclusion was that it might be better to rock it now than to let it sink later on.

This city printing proposition means only a few thousand dollars but the sewer will cost near a million, so it behooves us to have city officials at the helm when it comes time to let the sewer contract whom we can put full confidence in. Better be safe than sorry.

We do not believe that we will be awarded any city printing this year as there are too many in the city government against us. The reason for this antipathy is the stand we have always taken for the people's interest. As taxpayers, however, we do take exception to the paying of such an exorbitant price for city legal printing.

WAGE INCREASES FOR RAILROAD EMPLOYEES

[By Associated Press] CHICAGO, Oct. 22.—Wage increases totalling $3,500,000 a year and affecting approximately 100,000 railroad employees, were granted to clerks, stockmen, train engine callers, station employees in general, truckers and common laborers in a decision just made public by the United States railroad board.

THERE'S A REPUBLIC ON THE RHINE

[By Associated Press] PARIS, Oct. 22.—Proclamation of an independent Rhenish republic has been made at Duren by Joseph Matthes, separatist leader, says a dispatch to the Temps from Coblenz. The proclamation is quoted as follows: "In order to save the Rhineland at the last moment from complete ruin, due to the fault of Prussia, and in order to preserve it from a communist revolution, independent Rhinelanders have taken possession of the civil power."

TWO BURGLARIES LAST NIGHT

There were two burglaries early last night in Glendale. Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Sadler of 1447 Ardmore avenue reported the theft of two men's suits, five dresses and a silver wrist watch. Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Rittenhouse of 1125 East Maple street reported that their home was entered through a bedroom window and the intruders left through the French doors, taking with them several articles of value.

LOUISE DRESSER APPEALS TO THE CITIZENS

Interesting Facts Come to Light Regarding City's Legal Printing

CITY'S LEGAL PRINTING HAS BEEN GIVEN OTHERS THAN OFFICIAL PAPER

Although Daily Press Has Been Awarded Contract for Past Two Years on Lowest Bids for City Advertising and Printing, None of Latter Has Come Here

New bids for city printing were opened at last Thursday's council meeting.

There were two bids submitted, one by the Glendale Evening News and the other by the Daily Press.

A study of these bids in comparison with those submitted by the same bidders two weeks previous proves interesting and we are giving it for your information.

Table with 4 columns: Bidder, Bid Date, Bid Amount, and Bid Type. Includes entries for Glendale Daily Press and Glendale Evening News.

You will notice by a study of these figures that the Glendale Daily Press was consistent in its bid while the News, on learning what the bid of the Press had been in the first instance, reduced its second bid enough to bring it below ours.

In submitting our bid of 40 cents for the first insertion and 35 cents for subsequent ones, we did it only after making a careful check of the actual cost of production, no guesswork. The News probably took a wild stab in making the first bid and the second was figured in order to be the lowest, regardless of cost.

We cannot understand why the News submitted a bid of 43 cents the first time if it could afford to do the printing for 35 cents, which was the second bid.

It is true that our last year's bid was considerably under our this year's bid but the reason is apparent and the increase justified.

In October, 1922, the six-months average circulation of the Glendale Daily Press was 4955, while in October this year the average for the six months preceding was 6008, and the actual circulation on October 1, 1923, was over 7300.

As we have mentioned several times, circulation is the only agency that should affect the price of advertising. It is the only thing of value the advertiser gets for his money.

We admit that the News, on account of its circulation being so much less than ours can afford to sell its advertising space for less than we can ours, but it is worth much less.

With this in mind, if the News had been conscientious in its first bid, it would have been as low as the second one was.

But the "nigger in the wood pile" does not happen to be in the bid the News submitted for the legal advertising, but in the bid it submitted for the legal printing.

For the last two years the Glendale Daily Press has been awarded the contract for the city's legal advertising and printing and has in accordance been named the "Official paper for the city of Glendale."

In the face of this knowledge the city officials have given to the Glendale Evening News all the city legal printing and at its own price.

All the Glendale Daily Press has been permitted to do during the past two years has been the legal advertising, although the contract specifically mentions not only legal advertising but also legal printing, which should have come to it for the reason that its bid was the lowest. This action of the city officials in giving the legal printing to a paper which was not the official paper and in violation of a contract held with us, is liable to be pretty far-reaching in its effect.

That the price paid the Glendale Evening News for this work was probably out of all reason can be assumed if the bid it submitted for the same work this year is to be accepted as a just comparison, which it surely should be.

In talking with city officials they admitted that the printing given the News was legal printing and legal authority gives us the same report. This means that for the last two years legal printing has been given to a newspaper which was not legally authorized to receive it.

A comparison between our bid and the one submitted by the News for the city legal printing proves very interesting reading.

Table titled 'Comparison of Bids for City Legal Printing' comparing Glendale Press and Glendale News bids for various poster sizes.

By checking over carefully you will notice that in some instances the News' bid is over two and one-half times more than ours. In other words, it looks very much as if the News bid low on the legal advertising in order to get the contract, figuring on pulling up in the profits by making an exorbitant charge for the legal printing.

To show the absolute unreasonableness of the bid we might say that the cost of 100 7x10 tag board posters only figures $1.42, while the cost of 100 9x18 posters is only $1.96.

Any company trying to sell a commodity costing $1.42 for $7.75, or one that cost $1.96 for $9.25 could be accused of profiteering.

A price such as the News makes would figure high even if the type had to be set, but in this work all that is necessary is to take the type from the newspaper form and transfer it to another for the job—a five minutes' job.

The worst part of the matter, however, rests in the fact that the Glendale News has been permitted to do this printing for the past two years, although not the official paper, and the Press, if given the chance, would have been glad to have done the work for as low a figure as our present bid.

This action has undoubtedly cost the taxpayers many thousands of dollars. The exact amount we will give as soon as we can secure it.

If the Glendale city council was justified in rejecting the first bid it is a thousand times more justified in doing it again. In fact, if it does not it will look very much like collusion on the council's part with the News. This belief might to some extent be substantiated by the fact that the city officials would give no details as regards the legal posters and known by the News and on our second bid we used the same sizes as specified in the first bid of the News.

FAMILIES OF FIRE VICTIMS THANK GENEROUS PUBLIC

The Daily Press is pleased to give space to the following expression of gratitude from the families of Glendale's fire victims:

For the interest the public has taken in our bereavement, the death of our loved ones who died while fighting the recent forest fire in Glendale, we wish to extend our heartfelt thanks.

Our sorrow has been deep, but the many expressions of sympathy have sustained us in bearing up under our burden. Mr. and Mrs. A. W. McGahan, Mrs. Myrtle McGahan, Mrs. J. C. Craigmillie, Mrs. J. E. Tarr and family.

MANY COLLISIONS OF AUTOS BUT LITTLE DAMAGE

Glendale and vicinity witnessed a number of automobile collisions over the week-end in which only one person is reported to have been seriously injured.

A moonlight hayride of young people from Los Angeles on a truck owned by the Consumers' Milk company, piloted by Albert Roth of Los Angeles came to grief, about 11 o'clock last night, on Michigan avenue near Dryer lane in the vicinity of La Crescenta.

A dense fog led George B. Cady of Montrose, who was driving east on Michigan at a speed of about 25 miles an hour, to believe that he was on the right side of the road. His car side-swiped the truck and went 342 paces before stopping.

Roxi Perri of Los Angeles, who was sitting on the side of the truck with his legs hanging over the side, was thrown off by the impact and dragged 100 paces. He was taken to his home in Los Angeles with a broken leg.

The truck was being driven west on Michigan avenue about 6 o'clock Saturday night stepped in front of an automobile driven by William P. Murphy of 214 West Palmer avenue. Her chin was struck by the fender of the machine but she was not injured. The accident occurred near the intersection of Irving and Tenth.

Other collisions were as follows: Police Officer A. D. Armer of 132 North Everett street received a painful fall early Saturday night near the northeast corner of Brand boulevard and Broadway when his motorcycle skidded in a puddle of water. He was unable to return to duty yesterday or today.

Geraldine Bissinger, small daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Bissinger of 1370 Irving avenue, about 6 o'clock Saturday night stepped in front of an automobile driven by William P. Murphy of 214 West Palmer avenue. Her chin was struck by the fender of the machine but she was not injured. The accident occurred near the intersection of Irving and Tenth.

A collision occurred about 7:20 p. m. Saturday at the intersection of Central avenue and Cypress street between two trucks. One was driven by James H. Little of 121 1/2 East Lomita avenue for the Glendale and Los Angeles Transportation company; the other was driven by E. Reek for the Tropico Ice delivery. Both machines were damaged.

Herbert Lalley of 600 North Glendale avenue was going north on Central avenue about 7 o'clock last night and had given the signal to turn into Riverdale drive. His machine was struck by a machine being driven south on Central avenue by H. F. Harrison of Los Angeles.

"I was driving south on Louise street," reported John H. Zweifel of 718 South Glendale avenue in regard to another collision. "I tried to turn out to avoid a car, and couldn't turn sufficiently to keep from hitting it."

S. F. Bacon of 461 Myrtle street owns the other car which was parked. It was not badly damaged.

G. A. C. TEAM BEATEN BY OWENSMOUTH, 6 TO 4

The Glendale Athletic club team went to Owensmouth yesterday and went down in defeat by a score of 6 to 4. This was the second game lost out of 17 played during the season. Morgan pitched a great game, allowing only five hits, but still his team lost.

SEWER PLANS AND ESTIMATES TO BE READY IN 30 DAYS

The Burns and McDonnell Engineering company of Kansas City, Missouri and Los Angeles, this afternoon was appointed by the city council to prepare plans and estimates of costs for the local sewer system. The appointment of this firm was made after a number of applications has been considered in the committee of the whole. In a brief session the appointment was endorsed unanimously.

"I want to thank you for the contract," stated Mr. McDonnell at the close of the session. "We will show our appreciation by doing the work as quickly as possible."

This firm, which was established 25 years ago, specialized in surveys and the preparation of plans and specifications for sewer and water systems. It has prepared plans for systems in over 512 cities in 34 states. Among the cities in which it has operated are Riverside, California; Flagstaff, Arizona; Omaha, Nebraska; Springfield, Illinois; South Bend, Indiana; Council Bluffs, Iowa; Des Moines, Iowa; Everett, Washington.

This company now has $3,000,000 surveys under way at Lincoln, Nebraska, and Okmulgee, Oklahoma, and a $600,000 survey under way at Port Angeles, Washington.

Chester Smith of Los Angeles, member of the firm, will be in charge of the local survey. He attended the session and declared afterwards that he would use all possible speed in getting an office established in Glendale. He expects to keep ten or twelve of the engineers employed by this company busy on the local survey.

The contract calls for a comprehensive survey of the entire city and the preparation of plans and specifications for the installation of a complete sewer system. In addition, statistics will be compiled and submitted for use in the promotion of the bond issue.

"We will make every effort to complete the work in 30 days," asserted Mr. McDonnell. "We will get through just as fast as we can. We will get wires out tonight so that we can organize for the work without any delay."

Whoopie! Three Big Pages Classified Last Saturday

Say, chile, would you believe it? Three pages of classified ads in Saturday's Glendale Daily Press, isn't that going some for this lousy infant in less than three years? Why, Zev is nowhere in the race. We've left him many, many lengths behind.

Are we satisfied? We guess not? We're headed now for four pages and going some. Just watch our smoke!

Just Off the Wire From Here and There

PARIS, Oct. 22.—Two great goblin tapestries, each valued at one million francs, were stolen during the night from the walls of the Versailles palace. The tapestries were made in 1674 and formed part of Louis XIV's collection. One of them represented the siege of Douai and the other the entry of the king into Dunkirk.

MERCED, Cal., Oct. 22.—Five are dead as the result of automobile accidents on the Merced-Snellling road Saturday afternoon and early Sunday morning. Antonio King, 58, Merced river dairyman, with his son, Tony, went into the ditch Saturday receiving injuries from which they died this morning within a few minutes of each other. Three were killed in another accident at 8 o'clock Sunday morning when an automobile with a party of five, four boys and one girl, returned from a dance at Snelling to Merced, overturned at a sharp turn in the road.

REDONDO BEACH, Oct. 22.—A bootlegger ran off with a prohibition agent yesterday. Jack Dillon, in jail here as a dry law violator, stepped on the gas when J. W. Kelly, enforcement agent, stepped on the running board of Dillon's suspected liquor transport. Kelly climbed into the rear seat, jerked Dillon from behind the wheel and a struggle followed which landed the automobile in the middle of rough field, Dillon in jail and three gallons of wine, found in the car, in the city's collection of illicit liquors. Kelly has been a policeman in the Long Beach department.

CHARGED WITH SWINDLING IN STOCKS

A swindle, promising the exchange of stock in the Southern California Edison company for worthless oil stock and cash, was brought to a close this morning when John E. Mitchell of San Francisco, alias A. L. Atkins, and D. Gordon E. Reveley of Los Angeles, alias L. Bradley, were taken into custody by the police department.

Mrs. Olive A. Stowe of 422 Pioneer drive, alleges that she was victimized to the extent of $350 in cash and a note for $250, and Hamilton No. 3, which had a par value of $2400 but is now worthless. In return she was given a receipt and promised $3000 worth of Edison stock as soon as it could be delivered, she says.

The arrest was made this morning at 434 West Harvard street, in the home of Mrs. Mary T. Artwiden. She says she had been promised $900 worth of Edison stock for a block of stock in this oil company, which had a par value of $600, and $400 in cash.

While negotiations were in progress, Col. J. B. Fraser, chief of police; W. J. Royle, detective sergeant, and W. W. Raney, representative of the H. L. Bentley company of Los Angeles, walked in from an adjacent room and made the arrest.

The case is being turned over to the district attorney's office for investigation. An attempt will be made to recover the $350 which Mrs. Stowe says she paid in cash.

A list of prospective local victims was found in the possession of the two men, say the police. At first they denied that there was anything irregular in the proceedings. They were locked up in the headquarters jail.

Cooperation in the making of the arrest was given by the H. L. Bentley company of Los Angeles fiscal agents for Hamilton No. 3. They admit that this stock which covers a dry well which was abandoned over a year ago, is worthless. It is being transferred for stock in the Snowlene Oil company.

Louise Dresser Broadcasts Message to Citizens of Glendale Full of Sweetest Womanly Sentiment and Stirring in Its Appeal

SHE PROMISES EVERY AID IN HER POWER

Now Let Every Citizen of Glendale Show the Same Noble Spirit and the Benefit Performance Will Net An Undreamed of Sum

Preparations for the big benefit entertainment to swell the fund to aid the families of Glendale's fire victims are going forward gratifyingly and a program is promised that has never been approached for real merit and charm.

No one asked to take part is making excuses—all are eager to aid. In order to show what one big-hearted woman is doing in this noble cause, we print below the text of a letter she is sending out by thousands:

To the Men and Women of Glendale: For the first time since the heartbreaking days of 1914-18 I am taking active interest in one of the most worthy benefits I have ever known of.

A great many of you may know that I have not lived in Glendale a great while, and although forest and mountain fires have been talked of and read about, never have I seen one or realized the tremendous danger until I saw the fire of October 13.

Two men, real red-blooded men, gave their lives to these flames, striving in their own brave way to shield each and every one of us, our lives and our homes, from danger. Heroes, I'll say, if there ever was one.

Their families need help, and we are going to give it to them—aren't we?

I am going to do my best to bring some of the people you have seen and enjoyed to Glendale on the night of November 6. The price of the tickets is not the benefit may seem high, but it isn't the amount of the money that counts, it is the One Great Cause I want you to keep in mind when you buy that ticket.

Actor, actress, entertainment, all go for nothing when we realize that a full house at $5 a ticket will assure one little mother of a comfortable home her boy was trying to give her; another little woman whose husband's life was lost in the fire, and her babies will know that Glendale is with her 100 per cent and while our dollars will not ease the heartache, or make up for the loneliness, they will help over the rough places.

With my personal appeal to you, I am, Earestly and sincerely yours, LOUISE DRESSER.

THE LITTLE WELSHMAN? NOT AN ENGLISHMAN?

Our good friend, R. C. Morgan of 805 West Elk avenue, who has taken the Daily Press from its very first issue, gives us a mild scolding for referring to David Lloyd George as an Englishman, for says Mr. Morgan, he is a Welshman, from his remotest ancestry, not a Saxon, Dane, Anglo, Norman, or any of the barbarian tribes that fought so many years for possession of the southern half of England. It would be just as proper, argues Mr. Morgan, to speak of an Irishman or a Scotchman as an Englishman, which is never done, as we all know. However, Lloyd George is referred to far oftener as "the little Welshman" than an Englishman. And, anyhow, he was England's prime minister even if not an Englishman.

Caltech and Pomona Show Fans a Sleepy Game; Engineers Cop

Fox Stanton's Caltech Engineers nosed out Pomona by a count of 13 to 0 at the Pasadena Stadium Saturday, but won the game on misplays of the Sagehen eleven rather than of any real football of their own.

For some strange reason Pomona seemed overconfident. The Blue and White warriors had not the slightest reason in the world to feel overconfident except that they won the championship last year.

Both teams played exceptionally ragged football, fumbling the ball time after time. The Engineers won, but made a mighty poor showing for an eleven that was at the first of the season held up as a potential pennant winner.

POSTMASTER AND FAMILY HOME FROM EAST

Have Wonderful Trip, Fine Time and Meet the President

Postmaster and Mrs. D. Ripley Jackson and daughter, Miss Grace Anna Jackson, of 1800 South Brand boulevard, returned last night from a six weeks' trip to the Atlantic coast.

The destination of the journey was Springfield, Mass., where Capt. Jackson was a delegate to the annual convention of the National Exchange club. He is president of the Glendale Exchange club and expects to give his official report Wednesday noon at the luncheon in the Egyptian Village cafe.

"It was a wonderful convention," asserted Mr. Jackson this morning. "I enjoyed every minute of it."

While in Washington, D. C., Mr. Jackson happened to find a postmaster's convention in session. He paused long enough to have his photograph taken with President Calvin Coolidge. He was present in the headquarters of the postoffice department while the document approving a new postoffice at 312 East Broadway was signed.

Specifications for the new building will be prepared at once, according to an announcement by Postmaster Jackson this morning. He added that it is unlikely that it can be occupied this year.

Verbal approval of the employment of eighteen additional carriers and eight additional clerks was given Mr. Jackson while he was at the national capital. These men are now on duty.

Mr. and Mrs. Jackson and daughter proved to be good sailors. While en route by steamship from New Orleans to New York city they passed through a hurricane off the coast of Florida.

Before leaving New Orleans upon the return trip the family enjoyed a feast of oysters—stewed, fried and raw.

P. E. O. CHAPTER L LADIES HONOR HUSBANDS

Members of Chapter L, P. E. O., entertained their husbands at their annual B. I. L. party on Saturday. During the early part of the evening dinner was enjoyed at the Egyptian Village cafe. Marguerites, the P. E. O. flower, were used in decoration. The Halloween motifs were used on the place cards. Mrs. Genevieve Goss, president of Chapter L, gave a few words of greeting to the B. I. L.'s. A toast to the B. I. L.'s was given by Mrs. Charles H. Temple and was responded to by Frank Weller.

The party then adjourned to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Roberts. There initiation was held for Jack Eaton, Mr. Reed and Albert Pearce. The initiatory work was put on by Mrs. Genevieve Goss and Mrs. Dorothy Weller, assisted by Warren Roberts, E. U. Emery and Charles H. Temple. The remainder of the evening was spent in playing "bunko." The Halloween motifs were used on the score cards and bouquets of dahlias from the gaudes of Mrs. Frank Chambers, made the rooms very attractive. The committee in charge of the affair included Mrs. C. H. Temple, Mrs. H. E. Bartlett, Mrs. Reed, Mrs. Albert Pearce and Mrs. Warren Roberts.

LEGION TO GIVE HALLOWEEN DANCE

On Saturday evening, October 27, the members and friends of Glendale post, No. 127, American Legion, will enjoy a Halloween masquerade dance to be given at the Legion hall, 610 East Broadway. Leroy Fortier and his committee are busy planning features to add to the fun of the evening. Music for dancing will be furnished by Ichabod Crane and his Sleepy Hollow orchestra. Halloween decorations will be used and prizes awarded for the best costumes, although it is not compulsory for those attending to be attired in fancy costumes.

MAY JANES TO MEET TUESDAY NIGHT

Regular meeting of Mary Jane Gillett tent, No. 18, Daughters of Veterans, will be held on Tuesday night at 8 o'clock at the American Legion hall, 610 East Broadway. The Nimble Finger club will hold an all-day session on Wednesday with Mrs. Susie Peck, 116 East Cypress street.

MRS. CAMP TO MEET COMMITTEE AT CLUBHOUSE

Mrs. F. S. Card, chairman of the local relief committee of the Tuesday Afternoon club, has called an important meeting of her committee to be held at the clubhouse at 1 o'clock on Tuesday.

MRS. C. H. TOLL IS SURPRISED BY CLUB WOMEN

"Bless me, this is a surprise," were the words of Mrs. Charles H. Toll, president of the district federation of women's clubs, as she stepped into the banquet room of the Tuesday Afternoon club on Saturday, October 20, and, standing at beautifully appointed tables she discovered the entire advisory board of the club awaiting the opportunity to do her homage. Mrs. Toll, together with a committee of five, composed of Mrs. Daniel Campbell, Mrs. A. H. Montgomery, Mrs. H. E. Bartlett, Mrs. E. W. W. Hayward and Mrs. J. E. Sargent, had been conferring in the morning relative to the arrangement of plans for the district convention which is to be held in Glendale April 8, 9 and 10, at which time thousands of club women will be guests of the Tuesday Afternoon club.

Mrs. Daniel Campbell, president, conceived the idea of the pleasant surprise and extended an invitation to the advisory board, composed of the ways and means committee, the curators of sections and chairmen of committees, to meet Mrs. Toll. Seated at the president's table, besides the guests of honor, were Mrs. C. E. Hutchinson, Mrs. Mattison B. Jones, Mrs. H. E. Bartlett, and Mrs. R. A. Blackburn, all former presidents of the club, and Mrs. A. H. Montgomery and Mrs. C. W. Houston, vice presidents. Mrs. Campbell introduced the club members by name in an official position to Mrs. Toll, while the delicious luncheon was being served by the hospitality committee, of which Mrs. Homer Lockwood is chairman.

The luncheon speakers were Mrs. Mattison B. Jones, former district president; Mrs. C. E. Hutchinson, Mrs. H. E. Bartlett, Mrs. R. A. Blackburn, Mrs. A. H. Montgomery, Mrs. A. A. Barton and Mrs. Charles H. Toll, who in her speech, "My heart is so full, I have not had a surprise party since I was ten years old." Continuing her talk Mrs. Toll said: "The Tuesday club is an unselfish force of influence behind me. A club is not for pleasure or profit, but for a much larger work. It is one for the larger sphere of spiritual life." The women responded with a song of praise for Mrs. Toll, after which they adjourned to the foyer, where a pleasant hour was spent in conversation.

OHIO FOLK FORM BUCKEYE CLUB

Over sixty people from Glendale, Burbank, Montrose and Los Angeles, responded to an invitation to attend a get-together meeting of former residents of Ohio now living in this vicinity, that was held on Saturday afternoon at the Newport Grove in Verdugo Woodlands. At that time a temporary organization was effected, to be known as the Buckeye club, with headquarters at Glendale, and C. N. Wilder was chosen as temporary chairman and Mrs. Harry Greenwalt as temporary secretary.

Many old acquaintances were renewed and mutual friends discovered. As the guests arrived each was tagged with his or her name and former place of residence in Ohio. Plans were made for a Halloween party to be held on October 30, place to be announced later, when a permanent organization will be formed. The remainder of the time will be spent in dancing, card and music and Halloween refreshments will be served. An invitation is extended to all former residents of Ohio to attend.

RETURN FROM EASTERN STAR CONVENTION

Miss Mildred Irene Lyon, worthy matron of Glen Eyrie chapter, Order of the Eastern Star; Mrs. Jennie Phillips, associate matron; Harry L. Redd, worthy patron; and Mrs. Orma V. Naudain, past worthy matron, have returned from San Francisco, where they had been attending the annual convention of the grand chapter of California. The convention this year which was attended by about 3500 delegates from throughout the state, was the golden jubilee in celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the grand chapter of California.

Los Angeles had the honor of having two of its residents elected to the highest offices of the state chapter. Mrs. Maude Bigelow Sibley of Los Angeles was elected worthy grand matron and Guy Brundage was elected worthy grand patron.

BUSINESS WOMEN ARE PROMOTING A LA CARTE LUNCH

Business under sealed envelopes and bearing 2c stamps have been sent to members of the Business and Professional Women's club to the addresses on file with the membership chairman, announcing an a la carte dinner to be served at the C. & S. cafeteria, 222 North Brand, at 6:45 Tuesday evening, October 22. Any member who sees this announcement and who has failed to receive the notice is urged to present herself at the cafe and if possible to telephone it (Glendale 2696-W) for reservations. Mrs. McKay, a well-known instructor of physical culture, will be present and give a talk on the forms of exercise especially needed by business women. Miss Jane Barlow, a newcomer in Glendale, who has had wide experience in Y. W. C. A. work in the east, will also be a guest and speak.

Tables for club members will be set on the south side of the cafe and each member will order what she wants from the regular bill of fare.

Matters of interest to the club will be discussed and it is hoped all members will respond and if possible notify the cafe of their coming that proper preparation may be made.

CONGREGATIONAL MISSIONS SCHOOL HELD SUNDAYS

Beginning at 5:45 p. m. every Sunday a school of missions is being conducted at the Congregational church, lasting for six weeks. Lunch is served at the church and a peasant meal on the missions. Then those attending adjourn to the various departments for study. There has been an average attendance of 100 at the school.

On Tuesday evening, October 23, the monthly meeting and dinner of the Men's club of the Congregational church will be held at 6:30 o'clock. E. B. Clark of 1090 South Adams street will give an illustrated lecture on the construction of the Panama canal.

Thursday afternoon the ladies of the church will have a silver tea at the home of Mrs. Gerhart Kaemmerling, 1235 North Louise street at 3 o'clock. These monthly teas are planned so that the new people may come and get acquainted. There will be an interesting musical program and all friends of the church are invited to attend.

On Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock the Mayflower section of the Women's auxiliary will meet in the church parlors. A full attendance is desired as important business is to be taken up.

SIR KNIGHTS TO WELCOME GRAND COMMANDER

Tonight the knights of Glendale Commandery will welcome in the formal manner prescribed by their ritual, Right Eminent Sir Robert E. Boynton, Grand Commander of Knights Templars of the State of California. The Hollywood Commandery will also participate in the ceremony.

It will be preceded by a dinner served at 6:30 in the banquet hall for knights, their families and guests, at which covers will be laid for about 200. Charles Malcolm, Department Commander, of Long Beach, Aubrey Parks, Department Inspector, and other guests of distinction will be present. Grand Commander Boynton is a resident of San Francisco. The program which will follow his reception into the temple, will include a short address which he will make, and several musical numbers. Commandery members, headed by Commander Roy V. Hogue, will be in full uniform.

CHANGE PROGRAM FOR TUESDAY CLUB MEETING

On account of the death of the son of Mrs. Robert J. Burdette, who was to have been the speaker at the regular meeting of the Tuesday Afternoon club on October 23, it has been necessary to change the program for that date. Miss Ida Mae Adams, head of the Indian Welfare Bureau of California, will talk on that work. This was the only organization that had been consulted by the government on Indian Welfare work. There will be community singing led by Gage Christopher from 1:30 o'clock until 2:30, a short business session from 2:30 until 3 o'clock. Mrs. Lockwood and her committee will be on hand to conduct a food sale.

MUSICAL TREAT BY KNIGHTS TEMPLAR

A rare musical treat is being provided for Glendaleans by the Hollywood Commandery, Knights Templar, which has engaged the Orpheum Club of Los Angeles, a well-known organization and favorite with music lovers of this city, for a concert to be given in the auditorium of the Tuesday Afternoon club, Thursday evening, November 1, at 8:15. Tickets will be on sale in several places and the proceeds will be used to carry on Masonic work.

TREND OF FASHION

By Helen Merrill Emery

Navy Twill and Red Crepe Attractively Combined

They are not so easy to wear, these new beltless frocks, but their chic is undeniable and every woman is more than willing to bant and diet and exercise for the sake of acquiring the slim lines so essential if one wishes to achieve a correct silhouette.

It goes without saying that the foundation must be right, in other words that some sort of a support is necessary to the great majority of women whose figures are not those of slim seventeen.

Any suspicion of a corseted look is, of course, out of the question but it is fatal to smartness to protrude in unexpected places or to flaunt the wide settled look which is so apt to be the penalty of going without stays. However, even for the most athletic girl it is not a hardship to put on the modern girdle or corset. They are cleverly designed to mold the figure into lines of charming svelteness which show off to perfection the unbroken silhouette of the smartest frocks.

As an illustration of the chic of absolute simplicity an extremely effective costume is shown.

Developed in navy blue twill and undeviatingly straight in line, it opens over a slip of lacquer red crepe de chine, which material also lines the sleeves. Loops of black silk cord and buttons of silver add a distinctive note and there are tiny slash pockets bound with black satin. If one desired, the foundation slip might serve as a one-piece frock, the overdress of twill being removed when indoors, thus making a costume as practical as it is attractive.

OMAR TENT HAS HALLOWEEN MASQUERADE

Originality of costumes was a marked feature of the Halloween masquerade dance given Saturday night at Masonic Temple, Glendale, by the members of Omar Tent No. 9, White Shrine of Jerusalem, of which Mrs. Evelyn Pierce is worthy high priestess. First prizes for the best costumes were awarded to Mrs. Porter Custer and Fred L. Wenzel. Mrs. Custer was attired as a Bowery belle of twenty-five years ago, while Mr. Wenzel was dressed as a "bum."

Corn stalks, lighted pumpkins, witches, black cats and black and white streamers were all employed in the general scheme of decoration. Appropriate Halloween favors were distributed during the grand march and later in the evening hundreds of colored balloons were released. During the party the guests were serenaded by the Scouts' band, headed by Toparch Harry Bennett, and it marched around the hall several times. Mr. Bennett then announced the Scouts circus that is to be held this week.

Mrs. Evelyn Pierce gave two very clever humorous readings by request, "At the Ball Game" and "The Frog." Miss Hester Hoffman of Los Angeles gave a group of two vocal numbers. Roy Biddlecom, member of the Scouts' band, directed a Paul Jones dance. Music was furnished by a three-piece orchestra and continued until midnight. At a late hour refreshments of doughnuts and coffee were served. Punch was dispensed throughout the evening. The committee in charge of arrangements for this very pleasant evening included Mrs. Libbie Cutting and Mrs. Luella Emerick.

JUNIOR AUXILIARY OF MUSIC CLUB MEETS OCT. 27

Members of the junior auxiliary of the Glendale Music club will hold their first meeting of this season on next Saturday evening, October 27, at 7:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Nathan Rigdon, 224 West Doran street. The junior auxiliary will this year take up the study of opera and devote one-half hour of each meeting to this study. There will be a short paper and the story of the opera chosen for the meeting, together with selections of same played on the Victrola.

Mrs. Dora Gibson will give a review of opera up to the time of Rossini, and his opera "Barber of Seville" will be the one studied at this first meeting. The operas most interesting and appropriate to the young members will be chosen.

Mrs. Spencer Robinson has consented to study a soloist to give an act from the opera whenever it is possible to do so.

Mrs. Gertrude Champlain Erb has charge of a miscellaneous program that will follow the study of opera at each meeting. This miscellaneous program will be presented by members of the junior auxiliary. At the first meeting, the games and refreshments during the social hour will be suggestive of the Halloween season. All young people over 14 years of age who are interested in music are invited to join the auxiliary. Junior auxiliary membership entitles them to attend all the Glendale Music Club concerts.

The officers of the junior auxiliary include: Lucille Allen, president; Warren Rigdon, first vice-president; Ethel Burke, second vice-president; Winifred Parker, recording secretary; Jannette Luc, corresponding secretary; Thomas Wood, Jr., treasurer; Henry Grace, chairman usher committee; Beulah Dunbar, chairman entertainment committee; Irma Lucas, chairman hospitality committee.

ART ASSOCIATION IN SOCIAL MEET AT CITY LIBRARY

Mrs. Roy Ballagh, president of the Glendale Art association announces that it will hold its regular social meeting Friday evening, October 26 at the public library on Harvard street, and that John W. Cotton of this city will be the speaker. Of him Mrs. Ballagh says:

"He is internationally known as an etcher and painter and this address will be the first of a series of lectures on 'American Art and Artists.' It will be illustrated to some extent and is of special interest at this time because November has been named as 'American Art Month.' Every American home is going to be urged to buy an American painting. American artists of today will be the masters of the future. They already excel in many lines, especially landscape work. John Noble, the well-known European painter, has come to America and 25 years abroad. We should learn to appreciate our own artists and help sustain them by buying their paintings."

"The Glendale Art association will hold its November exhibit at the Tuesday Afternoon club and will offer about 35 small canvasses to the highest bidders.

"High school students will give an exhibit of their work in the Glendale library during the month of November. An unusually interesting exhibit of juvenile art work is now in the juvenile room of the library and will remain there during October.

"In connection with the exhibit an offering at the Tuesday Afternoon club, the P. T. A. organizations are urged to offer paintings for the schools in which they are interested. Pictures are just as important as music."

SOFT TIRE ADVANTAGE
Knowing that soft tires are a slight waste of power in ordinary running the motorist will perhaps be surprised to learn that in hill climbing tests professional drivers usually make the grade with comparatively low tire pressure. The theory of it is that with the tires soft there is a greater tire area in direct contact with the road and thus more traction for the wheels. The tires, in other words, afford a sort of clawing action. Unquestionably a certain amount of power is lost through the flexing of the softer tires, but this is considered preferable to the bouncing of the wheels over road inequalities, which is the case when the tires are pumped up to the required pressures for normal driving.

ATHLETIC CLUB RAISES $175 FOR RELIEF FUND

In spite of the fact that the dance given by the Glendale Athletic association in Hahn hall Saturday night as a benefit for survivors of the victims of the mountain fire was a hurry-up proposition, without time for a widespread notice, it was well attended, 150 to 175 being present. The amount realized over and above expenses was $67.95, which was turned over to the fund.

On the previous Tuesday evening $97 was collected from boxing fans, which was also turned over to the fund.

Besides the regular dancing program there were special entertainment numbers by Dorothy Woods, who recited: "Fish, Fish, Fish," and an exhibition waltz by Kathleen Woods and Robert Stevenson of Chicago, who is a newcomer in Glendale. Both of these were donated, also the hall rent by Mr. Hahn and the tickets by the Glendale Press.

An active week is in prospect for the club. Tuesday night it will have a boxing contest at Hahn hall and on Saturday night a dance at the same place for which the "Black and Tan" orchestra will provide the music. The association is made up of young business men interested in athletics of one sort or another.

It has a baseball team which played Sunday at Owensmouth and was defeated with a score of 4 to 6. It was a close and interesting game, however, in which the boys lost, they say, through ill luck. Charles Brice, Jr., is president, Gordon Kingsley secretary and Mr. Jensen treasurer.

Truths in Epigram

To treat a poor wretch with a bottle of Burgundy, and fill his snuff-box is like giving a pair of laced ruffles to a man that never had a shirt on his back.—Tom Brown.

THE FOUR-HOUR DAY

Edison shares the opinion of Steinmetz that electricity ultimately will reduce the working day to four hours. He dissents from the assured belief that a four-hour day would be a good thing for the nation. Both men are counted as great in scientific knowledge. Edison, often termed "wizard," probably would yield to Steinmetz as an authority concerning electrical research. Each man has accomplished wonders, and from each new and greater discoveries and attainments are to be expected. This does not, however, constitute them authorities outside their special fields. Concerning problems affecting the whole of society, their opinion may be as good as that of other thoughtful citizens. There is no particular reason for regarding it as superior.

There are many activities that are touched by electric methods only in a general way. The citrus grower may light his buildings with current brought from afar; may move his machinery by power brought the same way. But oranges are picked by hand, and the worker of the future will not be enabled by inventions, to pick in four hours as many as now he picks in double that time.

No one could imagine a condition that would cause either Edison or Steinmetz to lay down his instruments and chemicals at the end of four hours and call it a day's work. Men of mental capacity, engaged in abstract investigation, or other useful endeavor not actually manual toil, would resent such limitations. The artisan, laying a brick wall, erecting the frame of a building, constructing a locomotive, is aided by electricity only as an incidental convenience. To do his work he must still use hand and brain; and to cut down his working time by fifty per cent necessarily would be to cut his product fifty per cent. Electricity cannot eliminate the human equation. Very useful to intelligence, it is not intelligent; it is a mere agency.

That Edison should entertain doubt as to the benefit of so much leisure as contemplated, is not strange. It is possible to work too hard and too long. Many individuals do so under the spur of necessity or ambition. It also is essential that work be done, not all for the sake of the work, but partly for the good of the worker. Mankind has not reached the point at which it may fold its hands and think great thoughts for the benefit of the world. Idleness still represents the potency of mischief. People have to play in order to keep sound of mind and body. There is no desire to have playtime take so large a proportion of the twenty-four hours.

Electricity has lifted many a burden. How great may be its future benefactions is conjecture. But to expect it to bring a time when men shall earn their livings without sweat, probably is to expect too much. Nor is there aught to show that the coming of such an era would be a blessing.

JUSTICE FINDS A PUZZLE

The mechanism for administration of justice is puzzled by a case now before the authorities. The difficult of determining the course to pursue is recognizable to any observer.

Several years ago a girl gave testimony against her foster-father, a minister, and by reason of it, he was convicted of a crime against her that led to a sentence to prison of one year to life. In many instances such a sentence means little more than the minimum, but clemency would be likely to be withheld from an offender of the type in question.

Now comes the girl proclaiming that her testimony was a base lie, that she had perjured herself on the witness stand. She says that her purpose in perjuring herself, and in inducing a sister to do likewise, was to avoid being sent to a juvenile school. The problem is to find in which relation she told the truth. If she is telling it now, the wrong for which she is responsible is beyond reparation. Even the proved innocence of the prisoner could not give him back his wasted years. And if she is telling it now, there would be a hard task in establishing belief in her verity and good purpose.

She kept silence for three years. Legal opinion is that though she had committed perjury, the lapse of time has caused the offense to become outlawed; therefore she, certainly more dangerous to society than a mad dog loosed, could not be penalized. The allegation is made also that she is mentally deranged, this but adding to complications. Should this be confirmed, her testimony could not be sufficient to release the unfortunate man, however competent it had been to make a felon of him.

THE "FOOT-LOOSE TOURIST"

The statement comes from Chicago that "foot-loose" members of the I. W. W. have been ordered to come to California for the general purpose of kicking up a bobbery. The particular object is to promote repeal of the criminal syndicalism law. An observer naturally would think that an incursion of the undesirable, against whose presence and activities, the law was devised, would be potent in giving the statute the element of permanency. Still, if the foot-loose or the light-fingered, wish to take the chances, that is their affair largely. It is not to be denied, however, that the police will manifest an interest in it.

To travel, even in the guise of a tramp, in quest of work, is permissible oftentimes. To travel in search of trouble is deemed a less worthy diversion. Anybody so anxious to find trouble as to wear out his unhampered feet on the highway stretching half way across the continent, or to ride the brakebeam for such distance, may be virtually certain of finding exactly that which he seeks at the end of his journey.

It is but fair to inform the prospective pilgrims that the jails here are overcrowded now, but that in an emergency the accommodations may be stretched. The effort to subdue crime is quite marked in all coast cities, this militating against a friendly reception to travelers intent upon joining the criminal throng. More likely than not the loose-footed folk, if they come, will be disappointed, probably realizing soon after arrival, that the law has not been repealed, but that, on the contrary, it has enmeshed them.

A Japanese about to return to his native land was asked if he was not fearful of earthquakes. His reply showed that he did not regard them as comparable in horror with the display of lightning that had appalled him in this country. People living in southern California almost forget at times that there is such a phenomenon as lightning. If they happen to encounter a thunderstorm when they are traveling they are frankly scared unless too much impressed by the novelty to be afraid.

Los Angeles courts convicted a woman of murder, but failed to give her her due which was a sentence to the gallows. Thereafter the woman was permitted to wander at will. She elected to go to a foreign country, and there was some difficulty and expense in inducing her to come back. Now there is protest over the cost. The time for protest was much earlier. It should have been directed not against the cost of bringing her home but against letting her go away.

It is not surprising that Los Angeles county's fair should be a big event. When the fact is considered that the county in question, measured by the value of soil products, is the richest in the United States, it may be assumed to have much worthy of being exhibited.

CONCERNING ACCURACY

By ESTELLE LAWTON LINDSEY

Accuracy should rank as a virtue of the first magnitude.

But if you tell the average person to be accurate he will probably reply that he does not intend to follow book-keeping or any form of accounting and that, in consequence, accuracy for him, does not matter.

Just the same it does matter. Basically gossip and all the agony and tragedy that follows it is nothing but a manifestation of a community genius for inaccuracy. Somebody hears something and immediately, without verifying it, passes it along with such trimmings as the circumstances seem to call for.

That is why the world is full of confusion and misinformation and superstition and misery.

Here is a case in point; the intentions of the woman who broadcasted the inaccuracy were of the best; but intentions cure no heartache; and heart-aches and consternation followed a newspaper story given out by a woman just returned from the desert and bringing with her a story that sounded—and, alas, was indeed too good to be true.

She said that she KNEW of a hospital in Arizona that took consumptives for $10 a month; and she wanted the gladsome tidings spread abroad. The papers spread them and the sick folks migrated to that community only to find that the sanitarium charges were $12 a WEEK and not $10 a MONTH.

Naturally the lady, enmeshed in the confusion which the circumstances caused, was deeply grieved. Being fine and fair she at once sent a check to the sanitarium to help meet the expenses of the people who had gone to the desert without proper means because of her story. And she explained the inaccuracy by saying that a woman, currently reported to be reliable and who ran a curio store near the hospital, had given her the figures.

"Did you verify them?" she was asked, and she replied with a bit of hauteur: "Why no; I was certain that the curio store woman knew what she was talking about."

One gathered that she held the opinion that any effort to verify the figures would have been a reflection of the dispenser of rumors. An appreciation of the value of accuracy would have changed her point of view.

No one who actually desires to help others will ever object to having his statements confirmed at the fountain head of information; and it is well to remember that unintentional lies have wings just as strong as those that are created by malice of forethought.

Be accurate; it pays and it saves and it helps. In the last analysis truth is nothing but accuracy, which sounds statistical.

This, however, is a statistical age.

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

We've never known, down at the club, just how much of a pugilist our physical instructor may be. He has no nose, for one thing and his nose is just a nose, and not an inverted arch. Therefore we do not value him very highly. We like our wares well advertised. We only keep him on because he's a nice little chap, who makes some of our grouchyest members laugh, and because he seems to know his business. But we would prefer his face more lopsided. Three or four weeks ago he spoke to the club manager.

"I'm afraid I've got to give this job up," said Tommy—that being his name—"because I've got a bad hoof. I can't do my work."

One, Iowitz, the major toe on his right foot had a striking resemblance to a ripe tomato, it appeared. Chiropractors worked on it but Tommy's morning walk to the club invariably ruined it again. Doc Henneberry said he couldn't understand it.

"It must be your shoe, Tommy," said he. "Buy a new pair."

"Nix, Doc," said Tommy. "These here shoes I've got are brand new themselves."

So for six weeks Tommy clung to a new pair of twelve dollar shoes. He wore them with all the courage of an early Christian martyr entering the arena to play with the tigers. He said that he was going to be married and didn't have the money for another pair of twelve dollar shoes. Therefore he spent dollars and dollars on soothing ointments and bandages and toe-sharps. When he could not stand it any longer he traded the shoes for an air rifle and bought a new pair. The toe has been the blithest, happiest, most care-free toe in the universe ever since.

There's the finest example of jack-ass economy that has come my way in a long time. Ever since, in fact, I tried to make the roof on my house do one more winter. The spending of several dollars to save one dollar isn't economy. It's damn foolishness.

THE LISTENING POST

CHAPTER IX

Outside the "light" house was a blackboard and on that under the heading "Dirty Coal" were posted a series of numbers. That meant that miners having those numbers had loaded tons of coal with rock in them, along with the coal, for there is a seam of rock through the coal vein, and it is to be removed and clean coal only loaded.

The first instance of loading dirty coal may result in a day's suspension from work. The second instance results in a longer suspension and the third instance in discharge. As one of the men in the office said to me, "it may be just carelessness sometimes, but rock weighs pretty heavy."

The coal is drawn from the mine to the mouth by low lying electric motors, of enough power to draw twenty-five cars each carrying from thirty to forty hundred weight of coal. The motors run with a low trolley, and stand only a couple of feet high, but are fairly wide and long.

The mine at Frederick is producing some fourteen hundred tons of coal a day. That means a good many trains of empties in and of coal out. There is a lot of cutting and charging and dynamiting and loading and hauling in fourteen hundred tons of coal.

I asked one of the officials whose experience has been wide as to whether coal miners were money savers. He told me that they were perhaps like other men of the same education, environment and opportunity. Some of them, as with some of us others, were thrifty. But in many cases money went pretty rapidly as it came, even where the necessities of living did not press upon the total income. In some camps there are half-a-million-dollar-worth of automobiles owned, or partially owned, by miners.

In many cases half or three-quarters of the total sum represented was yet to be paid. The miner likes to ride to and from his work, as well as any one else, and is luxurious when he can find the means to gratify his tastes, or can find even part of them. Many of the Italians make a "stake" in flush times and then it is off to Italy for them, since what is a "stake" here is something of a fortune there.

Living conditions are as good as the man wants to make them. There is healthful climate, fresh air, good water, comfortable cottages, cheap fuel, good schools. Food is as elsewhere, not cheap, but not unreasonably high. Opportunity is not wanting. The men holding high official and executive positions have worked up from the bottom. The superintendent of one mine is an Italian, quick, alert, efficient, and he has had little or no "schooling." But he had native initiative, a willingness to work and a desire to advance.

Miners become assistant foremen, foremen, assistant superintendents, superintendents and officials of the company. Thrift, industry, hard work, initiative, study, loyalty, all these things make for progress and success.

There is no system in a free country that will keep the individual back if he has the spirit to go forward. And there are some systems that will help him along faster, of course. But it is very largely true that "the fault, dear Brutus, is not in our stars but in ourselves that we are underlings." And often the fault is farther back than ourselves.

Songs of the Poets

Death—By John Donne (1573-1631)

Death, be not proud, though some have called thee

Mighty and dreadful, for thou are not so: For those whom thou think'at thou dost overthrow

Diet not, poor Death; nor yet dost thou kill me. From Rest and Sleep, which but thy picture be,

Much pleasure, then from thee much more must flow;

And soonest our best men with thee do go—

Rest of their bones and souls' delivery!

Thou'rt slave to fate, chance, kings, and desperate men,

And dost with poison, war, and sickness dwell; And poppy or charms can make us sleep as well

And better than thy stroke. Why swell'st thou then?

One short sleep past, we wake eternally,

And Death shall be no more: Death, thou shalt die!

WHO MAKES THE STYLES

By DR. FRANK CRANE

I AM NOT complaining of them. I know that when they are once started there is no use trying to stand against them. But when I want to know who started them?

I have a friend, for whom I once did a great favor, and who promised that any time I wanted anything done in his line he would be glad to be of service to me. His line particularly is beating people up. He is a large and vigorous gentleman, and is now engaged in the business of piano moving. His name is Bill, and he is known among his friends as Bill the Bruiser. If I could find the person who started all these crazy styles, I think I might make use of Bill's services.

For instance, they used to have in haberdasheries nice, soft shirts, white with broad black stripes on them. About two or three years ago they suddenly disappeared. I have gone into shops, not only in America, but in Europe and in the Orient, and inquired for such a pattern; either in made up shirts or in the raw material, and have been informed by suave clerks that "there was no demand for that sort of thing."

What was the matter with them? Wasn't I demanding them? It was terrible to realize the depth of my inconspicuity.

I wear union suits. There is no reason for this except that I like them. Every union suit that is offered for sale has somewhere around two thousand buttons on it. Now buttons may have some value on the outside of a woman's dress where they look like a string of beads and serve as ornaments, but what the mischief anybody wants with a row of buttons on so intimate a thing as underwear, is past my comprehension.

Another illustration. Some years ago they used to make window shades that would stay where you put them. One fine morning they all disappeared. Their place was taken by the kind of a window shade that you had to jiggle and cath. All window shades are now of this variety. If you happen to let them slip, they fly out of your hand and pop up to the top of the window, as though they were shot out of a gun. Who was it banished all the sensible window shades, and compelled the whole world to buy the trick window shades?

I know that according to the Scriptures we are all like sheep. If one old weather jumps the fence every other one in the flock follows him. I do not blame the flock, but I certainly would like to find that wether.

When I was a boy in the country we used to have religious debates. I have driven many a time along with the family in the spring wagon for ten miles to the school house to hear a debate on the mode of baptism between two champion preachers, picked out by their respective sides as the longest and loudest arguers in the country. I haven't heard a theological discussion for years. Who was it made that mode of amusement go out of style and give way to baseball and prize fights?

Some years ago the A. P. A. fever raged hotly through the country. A little before that there was a tremendous scare about the Masons. It was feared that the secret societies were going to take the country, subvert the constitution, and swipe all of our palladiums. Those manias seem to have left us and given place to the Ku Klux Klan.

For that matter, who was it started the fashion of wearing hats? Notwithstanding the fact that the Lord provided men, and more particularly women, with abundance of natural head protection, billions of dollars are annually spent in hats. If all this money could be saved you might have enough to start another war.

You never can tell what is going to happen next. The glory of a woman used to be her hair. Now she glories in bobbed hair. Maybe in a year from now they will all be shaving their heads, as they do in some parts of China.

Now it is the custom to stand up when ladies enter the room. Who knows? Perhaps tomorrow it may be the custom to get down on the floor and roll over, or stand on your head.

Our only hope is to find the guy that starts things.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

There is a man under arrest in Oregon for the murder of his sister-in-law. He is said to have caused the woman's death through hypnotizing her step-son, a lad of sixteen, and forcing him to commit the actual crime.

It turns out that the accused, a cripple, is an astrologer. This indicates that he is crippled mentally also. Doubtless by showing that he has firm faith in the portents of the stars, he will be laying ground for a defense based on insanity. It is quite possible that all his astrological flub-dub was indulged in with such end in view.

One of the most singular weaknesses of human nature is shown in adherence to the ancient superstition voiced by the student of the heavens whose studies are based not on physical phenomena and relationships, but on the heavenly bodies as holding specific influence over individual human destiny.

Astrology is no more a science than is voodooism. It is less convincing than palm-reading. It can't portray fate for shucks when compared with a dirty deck of cards often employed for the purpose. The derivation of prophetic vision from gazing at the grounds in the bottom of a cup is far more convincing a feat. Astrology's gravest claims have a basis as frail as that upon which rests belief in the power of a toad, slain by violence, to cause the family cow to give bloody milk.

Anyhow, an astrologer who commits a crime and gets caught has let his stars fool him.

The little French "sheik" who assumed the role before the title had been applied to it, is about to perpetuate his "Confessions." He was supposed to be without shame, but that he could be induced to sell an unclean record at space rates, places him on a lower plane than ever.

Reference is had, of course, to Boni de Castellane, who was purchased in open market by a daughter of Jay Gould.

Truly "all things are relative." Here comes the captain of a Long Island rum schooner, talking of "honest" bootleggers, among whom he has the honor to class himself. But some of his associates fooled him by pretending to be honest.

Two fishermen approached the schooner and were received with the courtesy due customers, having, as the captain remarked sorrowfully a little later, "seemed honest bootleggers." Probably they were as honest as the average. They poked a pistol into the captain's ribs and made him poorer by $6400 cash and $30,000 worth of whisky.

"Coal Operators Reject Pinchot's Demands." Headline. Perhaps there will come a time when there shall be some authority capable of making a demand on these gentlemen, and not asking their pleasure as to obeying, but merely enforcing obedience.

Somebody in Chicago laughed scornfully at poor players on the public links, was arrested for disturbing the peace, taken to court and sternly admonished.

There is no ground for calling this the land of the free if the amateur golfer can't tear up a little turf without being subjected to humiliation.

A Seattle policeman has resigned, greatly to the promotion of public safety. In undertaking to arrest a shoplifter, he shot two innocent bystanders, neither in any sense belligerent, and one of them a lady. Somebody else caught the shoplifter.

The policeman kept his job for the time that it took him to get to headquarters.

For a long time there has been a grand jury study of the confession of Herbert Wilson, a life term, who gave his pals away. Now comes the announcement of indictments and pending arrests of more than a score of confidence operators, robbers and bandits.

All of them having been amply warned by the enterprising press, it may be supposed that they are standing still, awaiting arrival of the warrants, hands outstretched for steel cuffs.

One doctor with a large practice suspected now of being nefarious, has been arrested on the charge of selling illicit drugs. Of course he is entitled to trial, and may be innocent, despite the apparently damaging indications the other way. But if he is guilty, he is just the sort of cheap the authorities have been looking for.

All right to catch the small fry, but there is greater cheer in the occasional landing of a big fish.

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

THE OUTDOOR BOY

The half grown boy must be kept moving. He must be taught to use his rapidly accumulating energy. Outdoor sports are the best outlet for the boy who lives in a town. He must play ball and swim and hike and camp out week-ends whenever possible.

That sounds like the luxury of the idle rich, but indeed it is nothing of the kind. It is the right and proper procedure for any parent who has a son and desires to have him grow up into clean and healthy manhood.

The energy of youth must be used wisely, and sitting about the house, shivering if a door is left open or a window lifted, going to dances with girls and taking them home in heated cars, is not the right way to grow a healthy, vigorous boy (or girl).

"I can't see why Fred doesn't take to the outdoors any more!" He would certainly be a lot better off if he did. Doesn't seem to have it in him. "Too bad," and Fred's purple-faced father leaped back in his padded chair, wheezed like a pair of leaky bellows and lit another cigar.

"Why don't you take him out yourself?" "Who? Me? Say, man, I weigh a good two hundred and eighty. My hiking days are over. He'll have to find somebody else. He would, if he was any good."

The trouble is the boy won't know how to look for someone else. He will accept father's leadership and sit in an easy chair growing purple in the face, wheezy in the chest, and follow his heavy front about the world on a pair of wobbly ankles.

If you want the boy to take to the outdoors and keep himself fit, you will have to persuade his father that his leadership here is what counts. To be sure such leadership is costly in terms of self-denial. It won't do to sit around too much, or eat too much, or drink too much.

But whoever said that being a father was a happy holiday? It isn't! It is entering on a lifelong apprenticeship. Fathers are tied to their sons as long as they both shall live and they will live more contentedly and much more happily if they understand that from the start.

Mothers can go but a well defined distance with the boys. Father must step in and take charge when the young cookery's pin feathers begin to show. He has to play ball, he has to tramp the fields and streams, cast a fly and build a fire. He must be ready to sleep on the sand under the sky or in damp blankets under a dripping tent. He does these things so that his son may not grow up with that purple shade across his face and the leaky bellows effect in his chest.

Hard on father? Not too hard. Before father knows it he will have renewed his own life and acquired a paying share in another's.

DO YOU KNOW THAT—?

ALL SET FOR BIG SCIOT CIRCUS NEXT WEEK

Live Animals, Really for Sure Clowns in All Their Glory

The big tent is now up on North Brand boulevard between Milford and Doran for the Glendale Sciots circus. Activity is running high, tickets are being sold by the bushel and up and down the valley nothing is heard but circus! circus! circus!

This energetic and liveliest of organizations, the fastest-growing order in the fastest growing city in America is going to give to the citizens of Glendale and surrounding territory the finest show for the money ever brought to our fair city.

It is a home organization and the profits are to stay at home for the most worthy of purposes. The Sciots are going to outfit their wonderful concert band with real uniforms and send their music-makers to the Sciots' state convention at San Diego in November. All the balance of profits will be used for public charitable purposes. Such a worthy proposition is surely deserving of the support of Glendale citizens.

When the old calliope comes wheezing down Brand boulevard, drawn by several beautiful ponies, and the ballyhoo artists begin to shout, Glendale will wake up to the fact that the circus has started and the pink lemonade and peanuts are awaiting customers.

Real live animals and real clowns will fill up a program of entertainment for old and young. Grandpa will forget he is old and rheumatic, will throw away his cane and hop down to the tent to have the time of his life.

No circus is complete without a wild man, and one of these famous Barnum characters, picked up from the shores of the wild island of Catalina, will be imported at great expense. Fed on raw meat and raised under special instructions of the Sciots' committee, he is going to be the wildest wild man ever trained for this stunt.

The Sciots' band will be on the streets this evening, and many Sciots know what it is all about. Balloons will be given away to the children this evening, as a circus is a child's paradise.

Everybody come out tonight and hear the Sciots' band. This band is going to be a real asset to Glendale and a matter of civic pride.

REV. CALDERWOOD TELLS "DANGERS IN PROGRESS"

Rev. C. M. Calderwood's sermon subject Sunday morning at the Congregational church was "Dangers in Progress." He said in part: "We believe that the world is growing better. We want progress, but a better day. But may there not be evils with the good in the numerous movements which we call progress? Some of these movements may be in the wrong direction and may not be progress at all. All movement is not of necessity progress.

Perfection is the goal of the human race, and it is a most worthy goal. But we must not think that we have attained it. Our confidence in progress is so sure that it has become an opiate to the mind, lulling us to sleep and indifference while we are in the midst of gigantic evils. Our cocksureness about progress has dulled our sense of sin. We are thankful that we have swung away from the morbid extremes to which our grandfathers went in their sense of sin. Now we take a jaunty attitude toward sin and we are quite cheerful about it. This does not mean progress, it means retrogression.

Progress is not inherent in the universe. God will allow us to devolute as well as evolve, if that is what we choose. All the power of God is on the side of genuine progress and we are not progressive unless we avail ourselves of that power. Our world is not fool-proof for debased souls.

"Newness and progress are not of necessity the same. There is good in the present which others did not have and there was good in the past which we have lost. Progress and chronology are not identical."

"In Quest of Souls" Is Dr. Funk's Theme

In discussing the great reformation, while speaking to the subject "In Quest of Souls," Dr. Funk, stated that the committee on war and religious outlook, recently published a book that ought to make every Lutheran proud of the work of his church. The writers declare that the average young American knows very little about God, faith or prayer, and that most men know nothing at all about Christian dogma. Chaplains of other denominations hold, however, that among Protestant churches there was no notable exception. The writer says: "My own personal experience was that the Lutherans had a good hold on the training in the service. Their training was definite and they were clear in what they believed." The war has proved the value of the conservative, scriptural and educational methods of the great church of the reformation. Martin Luther made his larger and smaller catechisms the text books for the private and public instruction; and the greatest universities of education with the highest percent of educated people in the world today, are found in Lutheran lands. But what does the catechism contain? Briefly stated, God's plan for the salvation of sinful men. Here you will find an answer to the question, "How may a man be just before God?"

Here a man will find adequate and an admirable system of winning souls for Christ. Yes, more; he will be constrained to confess: "I believe that Jesus Christ, true God, begotten of the Father, from eternity, and also true man, born of the Virgin Mary, is my Lord; who has redeemed me, a lost and condemned creature, secured and delivered me from all sin, from death and the power of the devil, not with silver and gold, but with His holy, precious blood, and with His innocent sufferings and death; in order that I might be His own, live under Him in His Kingdom, and serve Him in everlasting righteousness. This is most certainly true."

phenomenon, one of the many factors in human life, but it is the motive power of the world, the one organization from which and because of which the world exists. The greatest events of history are fashioned for its benefit. Everything, the mutations of times, the conquests and accomplishments of nations, were shaped and moulded with the one end in view that the church might grow and prosper.

What is true, then the individual in the church is a person of great importance in the world. There is no more distinguished position in the world than that of being a Christian. All temporal affairs of man shape themselves toward temporal ends. The spiritual affairs of man have to do with the issues of eternity.

What is a man profited if he shall gain the whole world and lose his own soul? If you are a Christian you are an important person in the world, you are an implement of God for the carrying out of His world purpose.

KEITH L. BROOKS CONTINUES HIS TALK ON GENESIS

The study of the six days' reconstruction work described in the first chapter of Genesis was taken up by Keith L. Brooks before the Presbyterian brotherhood Bible class at the city hall on Sunday morning and there was a lively interest in the subject. In part he said:

"The world before Adam is described in the first two verses. There were terrific convulsions of the earth causing the surface to be completely inundated by ocean waters. The earth's crust everywhere bears witness to such an upheaval and the perishing of some former creation by tremendous forces. Beginning with the third verse we have a story of reconstruction. It begins with the words 'And God begins with the Spirit of God. On the first day God divided the light from the darkness. It was concentrated at a given point so that day and night began at once even before the preparation of the sun. The earth being round, light fell on one half of it at a time. The roundness of the earth and its rotation upon its axis is here clearly implied. Otherwise we cannot account for the alternation of day and night.

On the second day, described in verses 6-8, God brought in the atmospheric heavens to divide the water of the earth and the water above. Dense vapors had rested on the waters, obscuring the light. This enormous quantity of water was to be suspended in the air.

On the third day (verses 9-12) the waters upon the earth were gathered together within certain bounds and the dry land appeared in sections.

REV. EDMONDS ON WORLD UPSETTERS

Rev. W. E. Edmonds, pastor of the Presbyterian church, spoke at the morning service in the Glendale theater yesterday. The audience listened with close attention to the sermon on "Farming the World Upside Down." The message was based on Acts 17:6, "These upsetters of the whole world have come here too." (Moffat translation.)

The speaker said that these words give us the first impression which early Christians made upon the world. "There is nothing weak about this picture. It is a resistance march of power and victory. There is nothing compromising or neutral about it."

"Paul's message in the synagogue at Thessalonica started an uproar. The gospel creates a disturbance internally, a social disturbance externally, in man's relations. Its object is not subversion but conversion, not destruction of the world but its salvation. Sin makes the world upside down. Christ comes to upset sin and make the world right side up."

"Christianity revolutionizes man's relations to God. The first message is reconciliation through Christ's atonement. No wonder when men first this message that they said, 'These upsetters of the whole world have come here too.'"

"Christ revolutionizes man's relation to his fellow men. By the old law might makes right. But Christ's law is one of love and the golden rule.

"If the world is to be turned upside down we must not be afraid of the world. The disciples were come-outers, upsetters, men of conviction. Men who are to turn the world upside down must believe in the Divine remedy for sin, the old sword of the spirit. To many the old weapons are obsolete. God, make us such men as Paul, daring Christians, even if it turn us upside down and use us in some small way to revolutionize our little world and bring it back to God."

FACTS ABOUT FEAR

By H. ADDINGTON BRUCE
Author of "The Riddle of Personality," "Self-Development," Etc. (Copyright, 1923, by The Associated Newspapers)

In a current magazine I find a full-page advertisement leading off with the large type declaration, FEAR IS MAN'S WORST ENEMY. It is a declaration with which many, at first thought, will be in agreement.

But is it true? If it were not for fear how would man have contrived to survive to the present day against the hazards of disease, of accident and of animal foes? If fear had not stimulated his thinking, would he have attained anything like his present mentality? If it were not for fear—the fear of dependence in sickness and old age—whence would the virtues of effort and thrift have derived sufficient stimulus? Nay, in the absence of fear what would have led men to combating with fellow-men to the gradual shaping of what we term civilized society?

Decidedly there are circumstances under which fear may rather be described as man's best friend than as his worst enemy. Fear, as a matter of fact, becomes man's enemy only under special conditions, of which the following is a good account:

"The effects of fear are of two kinds: There is the fear that paralyzes and the fear that inspires. The difference between the fear in these two cases is that fear paralyzes when it offers no way of escape; it inspires when it is associated with hope.

"A hare, suddenly surprised, is either temporarily paralyzed by fear, or stimulated to its topmost speed. If escape is possible the fear no longer paralyzes, but is expressed as that tension of muscle, that alertness of mind, which make swift and effective action possible.

"Fear which includes a large element of hope passes into confidence, and this is the first essential of power. But this transformation takes place only when we have confidence that we can come through, and that the struggle will issue in victory."

The fear-oppressed, that is to say, are simply people who refuse to entertain any hope that things may in the end turn out well for them. Consequently what they need is not so much a direct abolition of their fear as persuasion to the belief that the outlook is not necessarily so gloomy as they imagine.

Such persuasion, to be sure, may lead indirectly to the complete abolition of special fears—as in the case of persons obsessed by unreasonable fears of crowds, of open spaces and so forth. But it cannot and should not lead to the abolition of the fear impulse, which, as just indicated, has been implanted in man for his good, not for his harm.

So let us not be misled by loose statements implying that fear is necessarily and always an evil. It has a function to perform as useful as the function performed by its opposite, courage. Trouble results only when it is permitted to function to excess or with reference to objects for which it is inappropriate.

Then of a surety, but only then, it may be termed man's worst enemy.

UNCERTAIN WHETHER WIFE WOULD APPROVE PLANS FOR HOME, TOOK MODEL TO HER ON FLIVVER FOR O. K.

Ernest Sergeant of Los Angeles, Calif., is a careful husband. When he and Mrs. Sergeant decided that they must have a new home, they discussed plans in the most minute detail. But Sergeant wasn't exactly certain that he thoroughly understood what she wanted. So he built a model, complete to the last bathroom fixture, loaded it on his flivver and took it home. Sergeant reports that the new home is to be built exactly like the model.

HALLOWKIWANIS MEANS MUCH TO KIDDIES

Ghosts and Witches, Eats and Big Bonfire Some of Features

This new coined word will mean a great deal to the young people of Glendale on October 31. A big celebration is planned for the people of Glendale by the Kiwanis club, under a committee with William A. Bode as chairman, and A. L. Baird and Ray Galvin as associates.

On this occasion the ghosts and witches will stalk forth in their legendary costumes and take part in a mammoth parade which will be formed at the High School grounds and march up Brand boulevard to California and back down to Colorado, thence into the athletic field at the High School.

Boys and girls, men and women, folks of all ages are invited to get into the fun. Prizes are being secured by the committee and will be offered in several different classes, so the children of all ages may have fair competition.

Special prizes will be given for the most appropriate floats entered by any group in the city. Floats must be appropriate to the Halloween season.

The members of the Kiwanis club will be marshals of the parade and will see that every youngster has a good time.

Following the parade, a huge bonfire will be lighted on the High school grounds where many weird stunts will be worked out.

One big feature of the evening will be push ball contests, arranged by Coach Hayhurst. This will give all the boys in town a chance to have all the fun they want.

This is a big gala occasion when the Kiwanis club is host to the whole community. The occasion promises to be the finest of its kind ever staged in this part of the country.

All clubs entering floats are asked to register at the Community Service office, 150 South Brand.

Foley's Friendly Fancies

EVERLASTING

The builder set a temple proud
Upon a mighty hill;
And there it stood and there it stands,
And there for years it will,
But sometime it will fall in dust,
And lie in ruins there,
A thing of wreck and ash and rust,
That once was nobly fair.

The singer wrote him down a song
A thousand years ago,
And through the ages grim and long
In laughter and in woe,
That song has come from him to us
To lighten griefs and fears,
The ages pass and touch it not,
It grows more sweet with years.

The dreamer dreamed a noble dream
In centuries gone by,
And sent it forth into the world
When in His agony,
The ages touch it not with dust
Or ash or mould, but fair
And fairer yet the hope and trust
That dreamed, and set it there.

The stones will crumble, rocks be rent,
The temples be o'er thrown,
Kings die and kingly power be spent,
The sceptre and the throne
Be wrecked and rust, but still shall live
The dream and song, and still
Sound sweeter, through the ruined walls
Of temples on a hill.

AT THE THEATRES

"HOLLYWOOD" AT THE T. D. & L. IS THE REAL THING

Photoplay patrons everywhere are going to be greatly interested in "Hollywood."

Imagine getting an intimate glimpse of behind-the-scenes at the big studios, seeing all the noted stars and directors at work, viewing the familiar scenes of the western film capital—the hotels, the boulevards, studios, bungalows, bowl, etc.

That's what "Hollywood" which is showing at the T. D. & L. theater today bring to the screen and with it a very enjoyable tale of a middle western family which goes to Hollywood and gets entangled with the great industry that has made the community as famous as Paris itself.

There's a fine romantic strain, love interest in plenty and an abundance of comedy of the best quality.

Several faces unfamiliar to the screen public will appear in leading roles, which adds zest to the whole thing, but the "support" includes many screen notables of international prominence.

"MERRY-GO-ROUND" FEATURE TODAY AT THE GATEWAY

"Merry-Go-Round," the Universal Super-Jewel spectacle feature which was in the making for many months and comes to the Gateway theater again today, tells of the love between a peasant girl of the district of Vienna, Austria, and a young count of the Emperor's highest staff.

In real life a successful consummation of that love in happy marriage would be absolutely impossible, and "Merry-Go-Round" is not a fairy tale.

But the recent world war knocked the foundation out from under Austria's proud aristocracy and to Hollywood and gets entangled with the great industry that has made the community as famous as Paris itself.

There's a fine romantic strain, love interest in plenty and an abundance of comedy of the best quality.

Several faces unfamiliar to the screen public will appear in leading roles, which adds zest to the whole thing, but the "support" includes many screen notables of international prominence.

YOU'LL SEE WALLY, NOT THE HAY CART, AT THE GLENDALE

In "The Drivin' Fool," the scheduled six reel feature coming to the Glendale theater today, Wally Van, the star, makes a cross country automobile drive from San Francisco to New York. Many times while going over the snow-capped Rocky mountains, Wally, with the help of Horatio St. Albans, his dusky partner from a south sea island, was forced to cut his way through heavy snow drifts which had completely covered the road. While on the Lincoln Highway, about the half way mark, Wally was humming along between fifty-five and sixty when just beyond a turn in the road he spied a hay wagon which made it impossible for him to pass. It was useless to apply the brakes and wally's only alternative was to drive off the road. He did, but he didn't notice a ditch and a few hours later when Van and Horatio regained their senses and started their journey once more, they found the same hay wagon "filling" the road some hundred feet ahead of them, ignorant of the misfortune it had caused them. We feel safe in saying that Wally waited for it turn off the highway before he attempted to pass it again.

SPECIALTY BOOT SHOP CLOSING OUT WOMEN'S WEAR

The Specialty Boot Shop at 126 South Brand is putting on a sale that is a sale. This is to be an exclusively men's shop hereafter, so the large and well-selected stock of ladies' shoes is being entirely closed out. This has to be done quickly as the mammoth addition to the men's wear lines are arriving daily and room must be made for them quickly. So ladies' shoes are being sold at startling reductions. In this stock that goes at such low prices are all sizes of the celebrated arch-preserver shoes that have proven such a boon to women. Be sure you get yours, but you'll have to hurry, for this is no stock-reducing sale. It is a genuine close-out and everything goes.

The Specialty Boot Shop has enjoyed a gratifying trade in both men's and women's wear, but it was thought best by the proprietor to concentrate on the men's line in the future, hence this wonder low-price sale of women's wear.

MRS. L. E. SWANEY PREACHES FOR THE NAZARENES

The services at the first church of the Nazarenes were well attended on Sunday, beginning with the session of the Sunday school which was in charge of Superintendent Mrs. Evans. A very deep interest was manifested in all the services. The sermon in the afternoon was preached by a young man from Pasadena. The meeting of the young people at 7 p. m. was in charge of a student from the Pasadena university. Mrs. L. E. Swaney of Tujunga preached the evening sermon. After reading Genesis 19:1-15, Mrs. Swaney announced as her text, Luke 17:32, which reads, "Remember Lot's Wife." Mrs. Swaney said that it was an awful thing for one to go back into the world after starting to live the Christian life. She urged upon the young people the necessity of going all the way with the Savior.

The Tuesday evening meeting this week will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Rambo, 4140 Parkdale, while the Friday night service will be held at the church.
