POETRY.

Be A Woman.

Oft I've heard a gentle mother,
As the twilight hours began,
Pleading with a son, on duty,
Urging him to be a man.
But, unto her blue-eyed daughter,
In love's accounts with accounts

In love's accents, quite as ready, Points she out the other duty— "Strive, my dear, to be a lady!"

What's a lady? Is it something
Made of hoops, and silks, and airs,
Used to decorate the parlor,
Like the fancy rugs and chairs? Is it one that wastes on novels Every feeling that is human? If 'tis this to be a lady,
'Tis not this to be a woman.

Mother, then, unto your daughter Speak of something higher far Than to be mere fashion's lady— Woman is the brightest star. If ye, in your strong affection, Urge your son to be a true man, Urge your daughter, no less strongly, To rise up, and be a woman.

Yes, a woman—brightest model
Of that light and perfect beauty
Where the mind, and soul, and body, Blend to work out life's great duty-Be a woman—naught is higher On the gilded list of fame;

On the catalouge of virtue.

There's no brighter, holier name. Be a woman! On, to duty! Raise the world from all that's low! Place, high in the social heaven, Virtue's fair and radiant bow! Lend thy influence to each effort That shall raise our nature human; Be not fashion's gilded lady—
Be a brave, true, whole-souled woman

The Anglo-Saxon Race.

In 1620 the Anglo-Saxon race numberered about 6,000,000, and was confined to England, Wales and Scotland; and the combination of which it is the result was not then more half perfected, for neither Wales nor Scotland was half Saxonized at the time. Now it numbers 60,000,000 of human beings, planted upon all the islands and continents of the earth, and increasing everywhere by an in-tense ratio of progression. It is fast ab-sorbing or displacing all the sluggish races or barbarous tribes of men that have occupied the continents of America, Africa, Asia, and the islands of the ocean. If check its propagation, it will number 800,000,000 of human beings is less than one hundred and fffty years from the present time-all speaking the same language, endeared to the same literature and religion, and exhibiting all its inherent and inalienable characteristics.

Thus the population of the earth is fast becoming Anglo-Saxonized by blood. But the English language is more self expansive and aggressive than the blood when a community begins to speak the English language it is half Saxonized, even if not a drop of the Anglo-Saxon blood runs in its veins. Ireland has never colonized from England like North America or Australia, but nearly the whole of its 7,000,000 or 8,-000,000 already speak the English language, which is the preparatory state to being entirely absorbed into the Anglo-Saxon race as one of its most vigorous and useful elements. Everywhere the English language is gaining upon the languages of the earth, and preparing those who speak for this absorption.

The young generation of the East Indies is learning it; and it is probable that within fifty years 65,000,000 of human beings of the Asiatic race will speak the language on that continent. So it is in the United States. About 50,000 emigrants from Germany and other countries of continental Europe are arriving in this country every year. Perhaps they cannot speak a word of English when they first land upon our shores; but in the course of a few years they master the language to some extent. Their children sit upon the same benches in our common schools with those of native Americans, and become, as they grow up and diffuse themselves among the rest of of the population, completely Anglo-Sax onized. Thus the race is fast occupying, and subduing to its genius, all the continents and islands of the earth.

The grandson of many a young man who reads these lines will probably live to see the day when that raae will number its 800,000,000 of human beings. Their unity, harmony and brotherhood must be determined by the relations between Great Britain and the United States. Their union will be the union of the two worlds. If they discharge their duty to each other and to mankind they must become the united heart of the mighty race they represent, feeding its myraid veins with the blood of moral and political life.
Upon the state of their fellowship, then more than upon the union of any two nations on the earth, depends the well being of humanity and the peace and progress of the world.—Washington States.

Mr. Ward at the Opera.

The incorrigible "Artemus Ward," of the Cleaveland (O.) Plaindealer, thus dishes up a critique on Strakosch's Opera Troupe, recently performing in that city:

"The moosic which I'me most use to is the inspirin stranes of the hand orgin. SENSIBLE TO THE LAST .- It has long been observed by medical writers that death is frequently preceded by insanity. This reminds us, says an exchange, of a case which occurred many years ago in a Philadelphia court, where a pretty young widow was in danger of losing two thirds of her husband's estate-his relations grounding their claims upon the alleged insanity of the defunct. It may as well be premise that the presiding Judge was not only convivial but gallant. "What were your husband's last words?" inquired the attorney. The pretty young widow blushed, and looking down replied: "I'd rather not tell." But, indeed you must, ma'am. Your claim may be decided by it. At last, a direct appeal from the heads elicited the claim may be decided by it. At last, a direct appeal from the bench elicited the information. "He said, "Kiss me, Polly, and open the other bottle of champagne." We know not whether it was admiration for the deceased husband or the living wife that inspired the Judge at that instant, for he at once cried, with all the enthusiasm of conviction, "Sensi-ble to the last.!"

FOOLS are ruled by their humor, but ise men by their interest.

A Very Common Thought,

An English journalist says: "Is there anybody above an idiot, who has not, at some time or other, thought, with a strange internal thrill, while contemplating a crowd, 'How all these people die?" The thought comes when the Queen is opening Parliment, amidst the most gorgeous assembly that this country can show. It comes in the midst of the village fair, when the drums and trumpets, and the shouts of the showman, and the great laughs of the rustics, are loudest. It comes when, in war time the troops march forth through thronged streets, and climb into the transports on the crowded sea. It comes when, in the time of peace, the first sod of a great rail-way is turned, or the first stone laid of a building which will be a benefit to successive generations for a thousand years. We know how something very like it occurred to the poet Gray, and Mrs. He-mens, at evening prayer in a girls' school; and a few of us can have been present to any celebration in any of our public schools without being visited by that 'In seventy, or say eighty years from this day, every individual in this great crowd will be dead.' One would like to know how each one will die; by accident on land, some of them no doubt; by a gun going off in getting through a hedge, their owngun, or some comrade's who will never be happy again; some by drowning in bathing at home, or by foundering at sea; some by fire in the dressing room, or in their beds; one or two by suicide in disease of brain or agony of mind; some of the youths, years hence, by appoplexy, brought on by intemper-ence of some kind or another; some of the young women in the most pathetic possible moment-mothers for an hour or a day, but prevented faom rallying by previous violations of the laws of nature; some few, very few, from mere old age, when they remember this day, but nothing of a then recent date; a large prostomach complaints of our own day. But all this last class together will not carry off as many as consumption, if we hope she likes it] and left the perfeshun, Adeliny Patty is the championess of the opery ring. She karries the belt.—

Young Familiarity.—Sidney Smith was complaining of a young gentleman who, although many years his junior, was in the habit of addressing him by his christain name, a privilege which, as Sidney Smith remarked, he only allowed his most intimate friends. Shortly after, the gentleman in question entered the room, and familiarly addressing Smith as "Sidney," inquired how he thought of passing the day. "For my part," he added, "the Archbishop of Canterbury (the then Dr. Howley) has often invited me to pay him a visit at Addington Park, and I think I shall drive down and return in the cool of the evening." "Ah," returned Smith, "then let me give you a word of advice: I know something of the Archbishop; he is a very excellent man but rather proud; don't call him 'William,' he might not like it." A roar of laughter followed this significant speech, and, as the discomfited youth left the room, Sidney Smith turned round ang quietly remarked, "I think I have settled the cool of the evening at last."

SAVE YOUR STRAW .- The season of harvest is near at hand; already it has commenced. We therefore call the atfention of all grain-growers to the fact that a large saving can be had by securing all the straw, both wheat and barley. Barley straw is all wanted for "sheep-corrals," and cattle-yards, and stable uses, for manure is soon to be valuable. Wheat straw is most excellent food for sheep, and if farmers will take pains to get a straw-cutter and save their bran and shorts, a great gain will be had in fattening sheep or cattle. The wheat straw will be worth as much for sheep as ordinary hay. Within the past few years tens of thousands of tons of wheat straw have been burned upon the wheat fields, while cattle and sheep have both suffered for want of food.—Cal. Farmer.

THE TOMATO.—ITS PROPERTIES.— Dr Bennett, a professor of some celebrity, considers it an invaluable article of diet. and ascribes to it very important medical properties:

1. The tomato is one of the most powerful aparients of the Materi Me and that in all those affections of the liver and organs where calomel is indis-pensible, it is probably the most effective and least harmful remedial agent known in the profession.

2. That a chemical extract pill can be obtained from it which will alto supercede the use of calomel in the cure 3. That he has successively treated diarrhœa with this article alone 4. That when used as an article of diet, it is almost a sovereign remedy for dispensia and indigestion.

5. That the citizens in ordinary

Latest News of the Murderer Wells.

A person answering the description of of the murderer Wells crossed at Brown's Ferry and was traced by Mr. C. F Reed of this place to Gray's ranch, thence to Mrs. Posseys, thence to this place, where he stopped at the Hotel on Friday night of last week. He talked and acted in a very mysterious manner and slept out under a buggy, and at 4 o'clock in the morning of Saturday was not to be seen, having left. C. F.Reed and S. R. Smith started in pursuit, and after hard riding all day were unsuccessful in tracking him and returned, when they found officers C. P. O'Neil and McClory of Sacramento, who immediately started for Vaca Valley thence to Suisun. Mr. Reed and Jack Stewart started again and got track of him on Grand Island, just below Colusa, unable to go further without change of horses, they returned and Mr. Stewart and Clark left the next morning, and following his trail back of Colusa, heard of him at Princeton. Two gentlemen who came here last evening met them on Thursday morning about 3'oclock on the old desert road, back of Colusa riding towards Stony creek, their horses were completely worn out as they had rode all the previous night, and said they were certain they were on his track. Clark and Stewart had a likeness of Wells and description, and being resolute and determined men and of good judgement, we hope and expect to hear of his capture in a day or two.

Horrible Catastrophe.

On last Thursday morning Wm Cox, a young man of this place, whilst tam pering with rattle snake that had been recently caught, was bitten upon the fore finger of the right hand, between the second and third joint of said finger. The virus appears to have been almost instantaneously absorbed and taken up in the system. The presumption is that a fang penetrated one of those small veins that ramify even the ends of the fingers. ed it as a matter of but little consequence, but in a few minutes the wound comexcruciating pain, after some 30 or 40 man, the virulence of the poisonous snake had already penetrated his vitals; the seeds of death were soon throughout his whole system. He died in some four or ceased came from Missouri, and was about 20 years of age. By what a slender thread does man hold on to this mortal tenement? This young man rose on Thursday morning in blooming health, and up till 8 o'clock A. M. no one would have thought that ere 2 o'clock P. M. he would be a corpse. Truly, the dealings of providence with man are strange and mysterious, and pasced finding out; but, from all such providential visitations we can learn a lesson that should make us better and wiser.

Fatal Shooting Affair.

We learn that on Saturday last Thomas Lofton, formerly of this place, killed a young man in Beryessa Valley, under the following circumstances: It seems the young man (whose name we do not know, but formerly lived in Cayote Valley) was hauling a load of lumber on to a tract of land, where he contemplated building a house, when Lofton, with two others, armed, appeared and objected to his hauling the lumber on his claim; the young man replied that "he had asked Lofton if he had any objections to his taking the claim, some time before, and that Lofton had said 'no that he did not own it or want it," whereupon Lofton said: " you are a dam liar," when the young man struck him and clinched, Lofton succeeded in pounding him pretty severely, when a man who accompanied the deceased, named Thomas Adams, interfered and Lofton raised his pistol on him and immediately turned and shot the deceased, the ball entering the left eye and passing quite through, and coming out at the back of the head, killing him instantly. Adams endeavored to raise him up, when the two who accompanied to let him alone. Adams got some brush to cover him up with, as the sun was to make things "turn un" at all pouring down directly in his face; the two men, as above indicated, told him to let him be or they would kill him. Lofton and his companions returned to their the third one he had killed and life was nothing to him, and he defied any one to take him." Lofton is a desperate character. It will be recollected that he killed a negro at this place in an affray, after which he took him up the Sycamore slough and sunk him; he was indicted by the grand jury and a warrant issued for him, but was never taken. He has been herding sheep in Beryessa Valley, for one Campbell, for some time. Lofton was from Mississippi, where he killed a man just before leaving for this State, in '49. The deceased is represented to be a very worthy young man, only 21 years old, with a mother in indigent circumstances. He had about $1,500 with him and a few head of cattle. The citizens of Cayote Valley turned out immediately on the reception of the sad intelligence and are now scouring the country, but we fear they will be unsuccessful, as Lofton is perfectly well acquainted with all the private nooks of the coast mountains, and has some friends in the neighborhood who will probably screen him if possible. The two brutes who accompanied him, at last accounts were in the neighborhood, and it is to be hoped that they may be taken and receive that punishment that their fiendish exhibition of malice so well merits.

LETTER FROM SACRAMENTO.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.]

SACRAMENTO, August 1, 1860.

The best commentary which can be made on the inefficiency of our State in the detection and punishment of crime is the simple statement of the fact that William Wells, the murderer of four men, is still at large, with no officer in pursuit of him. That he may be captured is possible, and that, too, before this gets When he first received the bite he treat- into print; but if such is the case it will be more the result of accident than of any well-laid plans for his capture .menced swelling, attended by the most | Sheriff Marshall and Officer Deal returned to town last evening, after an absence minutes he called on Dr. Pickett, at his of four days in search of Wells, but office, who gave him every attention in without any success. All they know is his power, but, alas! for the poor young that they got upon the trail of a man who may, or may not have been Wells, but they lost the trail, and know as little now of the whereabouts of the murderer as they did when they went out four five hours after being bitten. The de- days ago. Last Saturday, Charles Duret, living about nine miles from this city, came into town and recognized the photograph of Wells as being that of the man who had called at his house on Thursday morning last and called for a drink of water, whereupon the Sheriff and Officer Deal went out with the result above mentioned. In the meantime rumors continue to come into town to the effect that a man has been seen, first in one and then in opposite direction, supposed to be Wells. Information was received at the Police Office, yesterday, that a man answering the description of the fugitive, was seen ten miles down the Sacramento river, both on Sunday and Monday last. It is said that on both these days he made a visit to a dwelling occupied by a woman, and asked for food, after getting which he returned to the tules. Should this rumor prove true, and the individual turn out to be Wells, it would seem as though he might easily be captured. A reward of five hundred dollars, offered by the Governor, and possibly another thousand dollars will belong to the individuals who succeed in capturing this bloody villain. Since my last, the weather has been oppressively hot in this city until yesterday, when it became more comfortable. The principal topic of conversation in quiet nooks is political, and in every group of individuals one sees may be found representatives of the quadrangular Presidential fight, now fairly opening. It is generally admitted on all hands that "Old Abe" has the inside track, and that, unless something, Micawber like, "turns up," he will be our next President. But all our politicians who wish Lofton drew their pistols, ordering him to avoid such a result are veritable to make things "turn up" at all, and look alone to accident to bring about such consummation. The fight which has been going on among the State Central homes, Lofton declaring that "that was | Committee at their sessions is proof conclusive that two Democratic tickets for Presidential electors will certainly be run in this State this year. I heard a lady, whose husband is a member of the State Central Committee, express herself in a very piquant manner the other day. She said her husband was engaged in fighting in the State Central Committee, and that if he consented to yield anything to a miserable little squad of secession bolters, she didn't ever want him to come back to her! She's got the pluck for a

> It is a source of congratulation to the people of the whole State that our best 'institution," the Pony, is now making his regular trips across the continent, and doing it, too, twice a week! Such a blessing seems not to be properly appreciated, except in the quiet satisfaction with which the details of the latest news is devoured by the public. The Pony cannot, of course, half pay his expenses. Then how thankful we ought to be to the self sacrificing gentlemen who are giving us this grand mode of communication. The names of Russell, Majors & Co. deserve to be enbalmed in the hearts of all Californians. The Sacramento Union is our next best institution. Always the best newspaper in the State, it is, of late, throwing its old reputation into the shade. An English Bishop on Chinese Testimony in California.

There appears to be a good deal of false sympathy and uncalled for meddling manifested by a portion of the press of this State, and by some individuals of some notoriety, upon the Chinese question. A person unacquainted with the moral and social depravity of the Chinese might be led to believe that they were oppressed and cruelly treated by our State laws, when, in fact, they have any and every shield and privilege thrown around them, and granted them that is consistent with a well regulated government in any civilized country in either

The great hobby is "the legal disability act," that is the inadmissibility of Chinese testimony against white people. Well, does the free negro have that privilege? Which stands the higher in the moral and social scale, a John Chinaman or a negro? What white man of either sense or shame, propriety or good breeding, would be willing to permit either an African or Chinaman to give in evidence against him? No one would submit to it except an abolitionist of the first water and deepest dye. A negro would be American people. The christian religion is taught him from his infancy.

But, turn your eye to the Chinese, what is their system of morality, at home? Thieving and perjury, lying and cheating are not even considered vices in China. Their religion is a tissue of injustice and obscenity. They care little what they swear whilst they have Josh for their god. Moral obligation is a term that their corrupt and depraved natures could not ever be brought to appreciate. Talk of Chinamen being permitted to swear in courts of justice against pure anglo-American b.ood. Bishop of Victoria and Hongkong has much respect, addressed a letter to the Hon. M. Hall McAllister, L. L. D., Judge of the Circuit Court, U. S. Districts of California, in which he condemns our laws, which do not allow of the receipt of a Chinaman's oath in evidence against a white man .-He glorifies the character of the Chinese to an extent that seems laughable to a Californian, who knows them to be the most expert thieves and consumate liars upon the face of the earth. He says: "I exhort and entreat the christian citi-·obnoxious act." The Right Rev. Mr. Smith appears to think that no one, but himself, knows anything about this question !!!

The class of Chinamen that are sent to this country are of the very lowest order, as the Right Rev. Mr. Shuck can testify, and by the bye he has had as good an opportunity to study the Chinese character as the Right Rev. Mr. Smith, Bishop of Victoria Hongkong and "the rest of San Francisco, July 30, 1860. MY DEAR SIR :- Until my arrival in this city I had never become cognizant of the fact that by the legislative action of this State every individual among the 45,000 Chinese immigrants in California, incapaciated in giving evidence in your courts of law; and under no circumstances of cruel oppression, injustice or violence, is the possibility of redress open to Chinese in this State, unless he be so fortunate as to have a European eye-witness to bear testimony to the facts of his wrong.

Chinese merchants in this city, of the highest respectability, who received their education under my roof at Hongkong, have called my attention to this exceptional legislation, and have feelingly de tailed to me cases of almost unparralleled hardship to which their fellow countryhardship to which their fellow countrymen are exposed, as long as this enactment retains its place in the statute book of your local Legislature They are pillaged, plundered, assaulted, and even murdered, by European and American miscreants in your gold-fields; and in the absence of European witnesses, there remains to these poor Chinese no alternative but that of helplessly and hopelessly submitting to the oppression caused by submitting to the oppression caused by this unequal law. A hundred Chinese may have witnessed the deed of violence, but their united testimony is deemed worthless and inadmissible against a European or American evil-doer within the limits of this State.

In the name of all that is just, equitable, and humane—in the name of the Christain Missionaries, who are endeavoring on the soil of China itself to impress the Chinese people and rulers favorably respecting the equal toleration and beneficient laws of Christain lands—in the name of your American Plenipotentiaries, who, in China and Japan, are demanding for American citizens equal privileges, immunities, and rights from the Governments of those pagan lands—in the name of our common Christianity, to whose, merciful and tolerant spirit your institu-tions and laws are professedly conformed —I exhort and entreat the Christian citizens of your great and powerful country arouse themselves to a consideration of this Chinese grievance, and to apply themselves vigorously to a repeal of this obnoxious Act. An intelligent American jury might doubtless be permitted to hear Chinese evidence, and left to weigh for themselves the real value to be attached to the statements of individual Chinese witnesses. At all events, an exception might and ought to be made in favor of those Chinese who profess the Christian religion. It is better that the exclusion of Chinese from the witness-box in your Courts of law should be based on objections to the defective character of Pagan morality, than on invidious distinctions calculated to depress the Chinese as a race, Sixteen years experience of the Chinese as a people, and a personal observation of their character and pursuits in cities of the Chinese continent, and as settlers in Singapore, Java, Australia and Japan, have led me to the belief that, as a body, they are an industrious, orderly, peace-ble and well disposed race, and that no danger to your institutions or commercial prosperity need be feared from the Chinese immigrants attracted to your shores.

Many an aged parent in China itself much more likely to understand the moral obligation of an oath, as he has imbibed, at least, a portion of the ethics of the the broad Pacific on the errnad of filial piety, and are helping to shed a ray of joy and comfort around the native domestic hearth.

During my stay under your hospitable roof you have been yourself an eye-witness of scenes in which individual Chinese in this city have afforded substantial and munificent proof of their gratitude towords their former benefactors and instructors in China. On their behalf I raise my voice in earnest depreciation of that system of legislation by which they are exposed to the suffering of injury without remedy of redress.

In the hasty preparations for my speedy departure from this city, I have taken the liberty, without previous consultation with you, of addressing to you The Right Rev. George Smith, D. D., this letter, and remain, my dear sir, with Yours, very sincerely, GEORGE SMITH, D. D., Bishop of Victoria, Hongkong. To Hon. M. HALL McALLISTER. LL. D., Judge U. S. Circuit Court of California.

Little Willie.

BY REV. E. H. SEARS

Some have thought that in the dawning.
In our beings freshest glow;
God is nearer little children Than their parents ever know;
And that, if you listen sharply,
Better things than you can teach,
And a sort of mystic wisdom
Trickles through their careless speech.

How it is, I cannot answer-But I know a little child, Who among the thyme and clover, And the bees, was running wild; And he came one summer evening, With his ringlets o'er his eyes, And his hat was torn in pieces, Chasing bees and butterflies

"Now I'll go to bed dear mother, For I'm very tired of play!"

And he said his 'now I lay me—" In a kind of careless way; And he drank the cooling water From his little silver cup,
And said gaily, "When it's morning
Will the angels take me up?"

Down he sank with roguish laughter, In his little trundle-be And the kindly god of slumber Showered the popies o'er his head.
"What could mean his speaking strangely?" Asked his musing mother then-"O! 'twas nothing but his prattle; What can be of angles ken?

There he lies! how sweet and placid; And his breathing comes and goes Like a zephyr moving softly; And his cheek is like a rose: But she leaned her ear to listen If his breathing could be heard:
"Oh!" she murmured, "if the angels Took my darling at his word!'

Night within its folding mantle Hath the sleepers both beguiled; And within its soft embracings, Rest the mother and her child. Up she starteth from her dreaming, For a sound has struck her ear; And it comes from iittle Willie, Lying in his trundle near!

Up she springs, for it is striking On her troubled ear again; And his breath, in eager fetches, Travels from his lungs in pain; And his eyes are fixing upward
On some face beyond the room; And the blackness of the spoiler
From his cheek has chased the bloom.

Nevermore his "Now I lay me" Will be said from mother's knee; Nevermore among the clover Will he chase the humble-bee. Through the night she watched her darling,

Now despairing, now in hope! Did the angels take him up!

Pay-Day.

FROM THE FRENCH.

It was pay-day, and a journeyman carpenter, Robert by name, having just received his fortnight's wages, had emptied some pint measures with his comrades, so that he was, if not completely drunk, at least "half-seas over," as they say. Returning home, our friend perceived in the window of a junk-shop a figure turned in wood, with a grotesque face, such as they make at Nuremberg, and which grimaced in such a stugated manner that, after having examined it manner that, after having examined it orders from the country solicited—prompt attention paid to Repairing, Painting and attention paid to Repairing a will you sell him?"

To tell a pawnbroker that you envy him his goods, is not the means of get-ting them at a fair price; therefore this man hastened to offer the soiled and blackened figure for six francs, which in reality was not worth fity centimes.

"Six francs; so be it," replied the carpenter; "it isn't a question of life and death." And he took the object, for which he paid the last farthing.

On arriving at home he gave his money to his housewife, a superior woman, who at first was indignant at seeing him enter in such a state, and much more excited upon finding a deficit of more than seven francs in the fortnight's wages which he brought her.

"Come, come, Mother Tantripe," said the carpenter, smiling, "dont be so angry -I have not drunk it all; I made a purchase on the way which will please you." Saying this, he drew from his pocket the little figure, which he placed on the mantle shelf with a satisfied air.

"What! is that the purchase in question? Beautiful filth. my faith!" And the woman, in the height of her exasperation when told that it cost six francs, seized the wooden image and threw it on the floor with such force as to break it in pieces; but judge of the astonishment of the carpenter and his wife on seeing in the midst of the ruins a little folded paper, and in soon recognizing it as a note for one thousand francs!

The figure was nothing but a box, bought without doubt in some executory sale, and perhaps the note for one thous-and francs had passed unconciausly into many hands since it was thrust into its hiding-place.

A Young lady, fond of dancing, traverses in the course of a season about four hundred miles. Yet no lady would think of walking that distance in six months.

TALLEYRAND, when asked by a lady famous for her beauty and stupidity howshe should rid herself of some of her admirers, replied: "You have only to open your mouth, madam."

It is very well for children to be 'little abs," but a bad plan for them to grow to be sheep.
