PUBLISHER'S NOTE.

In putting forth this directory of Hillsdale the fact is fully realized that the work is in a measure, imperfect; the changing of residences in the city, the removing of some from the place as well as others taking up their abode within its limits, all of these constant movements make it impossible for a directory of this place, as of any other, to be absolutely correct in its directing ability.

The Illustrated City Directory of Hillsdale, however, is in the opinion of many who have expressed judgment, practically correct; the list of additions and corrections help in making the work more complete, there being some errors in the general list that have been corrected under this head.

If there are any serious errors, they have crept in almost unavoidably; the publisher sincerely hopes that none of these will be discovered until all collections have been made and he has departed for other points.

Aside from the city directory proper, there have been inserted sketches, in some instances, illustrated. This feature of the work may not at the very present be especially valuable. Yet as time wears on and the ranks of the professional and business men change, these illustrations and portraits will prove to be relics of a very interesting nature. Therefore, combining the two parts, the illustrated and directory, one will be valuable at first and for a short time in directing the public and by the time this feature has become useless, time will have rendered the illustrations peculiarly attractive and valuable. Thus will this work be for some time to come, an interesting if not particularly a valuable one.

THE PUBLISHER.

AUGUST 20, 1894.

P. S.—Owing to the constant changes taking place among residents, an extra sheet will be issued later, probably by September 20, 1894, giving all the latest changes in the city's populace as well as the locations of students during the year '94-95.

The price of this addendu will be 50 cents.

THE CITY OF HILLSDALE.

To give anything like a complete historical article on the development of Hillsdale would require space many times the size of a volume such as this; and to undertake it would be practically impossible in this work whose main feature is merely that of a directory, rather than a historical write-up.

The apology offered for inserting it is not that it is the first and original nor that it fills a long felt want in any manner whatever; for the facts have been related heretofore in various articles and publications and in this respect have already become well familiarized; but owing to its concise and limited review of the several industries, business pursuits and professions of the place, with their particular historical data given, it becomes a story giving more completeness to the publication. And perhaps by the way of presenting the facts, it may lend to the subscribers some information worthy of memorization and a better (historically speaking) idea of this very good city of Hillsdale.

The city in size comprises about six square miles, its location being upon what was once a heavy timbered forest; within its limits lies the rising head of the St. Joseph river; the natural water supply lies in a bed of gravel from twenty to sixty feet deep.

Hillsdale long years ago took its name from the condition of the surface of the country, which is hilly and rolling. The first white settler within the present city limits was Jeremiah Arnold, who erected a wood shanty for occupation during the winter of 1834-35. Adam Howder, whose name stands conspicuous as the first permanent resident, was delegated by Hiram Greenman, of Utica, New York, Salem T. King and Alonson G. Budlong, land owners, to look after their interests; this was in 1835, and at about this time the original hamlet had its beginning. Previous to this time the country for miles around was little more than a wilderness, no other mark of civilization being apparent than the turnpike leading to Chicago, which was the only thoroughfare.

The original site of the city was located on the present fair grounds, but owing to chancery proceedings between Budlong and Greeman it made it impossible to give a perfect title to the land and the present location was substituted. In December, 1835, Greeman sold his interest to Rockwell Manning and George C. Gibbs, the latter gentleman soon after selling his portion to Chauncey W. Ferris and John P. Cook who came early in 1836 and made Hillsdale their residence. Charles Gregory and William E. Boardman purchased interests here at this time and the owners of the property were known as the Hillsdale Company; this unincorporated company had for its principal object to make the young and thriving town so inviting as to be able to contest with Jonesville in competition for the county seat; Jonesville became the headquarters for the county in 1835, the records and business having been transacted previously at the seat of Lenawee county. Jonesville remained the county seat until 1843.

The first effort towards the establishment of the county seat at Hillsdale was made in 1839. It met with much opposition from the north part of the county; a counter-effort, as it were, was made by some Jonesville parties who succeeded in obtaining an act of the legislature by which the county seat was established at Osseo, March 31, 1840, with the provision that county buildings be erected there. No steps having been taken to comply with this requirement, the legislature passed an act in January, 1843, permanently locating the county seat at Hillsdale. A small building was immediately erected for the habitation of the county officials, where the present building stands. Later in the same year, there being no suitable building in which to hold court, an edifice was erected for the purpose of making it a house of worship, and also a place for holding the courts. The present courthouse was erected in 1850-51 and has done good service for Hillsdale county these many years; its external and internal appearance being now far from modern, however the building has been the mark for much derogatory comment for some time past. An effort has been made to vote an appropriation several times, but the rural element has always voted down the question.

Soon after the arrival of John P. Cook and Chauncey W. Ferris, and during the same year, they built a saw-mill and a frame house; the water-power had its source in Baw Beese lake, which partly lies now within the city limits. (A sketch illustrative of Baw Beese lake appears elsewhere.)

In the spring of 1837 Joel McCollum came from New York state and together with Messrs. Manning, Cook and Ferris purchased lands lying north of the original plat, the present Bacon street of the city being the south line of the purchase; this purchased may be regarded as the initiatory step towards the laying out of the city.

Adam Howder, hale, hearty and hospitable, was the first landlord in Hillsdale. Finding his first log house incapacitated, a new structure 28x40 feet in dimensions was erected in '38. This building was two years later abandoned by Landlord Howder, who finding his old location too far away, erected a new tavern here in 1841 and christened it the Hillsdale House. (A more complete enumeration is made of hotels of the city in another place.)

The first flouring mill was erected here in 1838 by Messrs. Cook and Ferris; this plant absorbed most of the milling patronage of the county and was an important element in the business development of the locality. Other mills located in Hillsdale since then are F. W. Stock's City Mills, purchased of Cook & Ferris; Elliott's City Mills and Freed Bros'.

The Lake Shore (then known as the Michigan Southern) railroad was constructed and trains run through Hillsdale in 1853.

Henry Waldron, who was a civil engineer of ability, settled here in 1838 and was employed in the construction of the new road.

In ten years after the first settlement had been made Hillsdale had made a phenomenal stride and presented a remarkable example of prosperity.

In 1855 Messrs. Charles T. Mitchell, Henry Waldron and J. P. Cook embarked in a private banking enterprise with a capital of $17,000, opening on Broad street and continuing business until 1864, when Messrs. Mitchell and Waldron purchased the whole interest. It afterwards was merged into the Second National bank.

At this time (1864) the village became involved in litigation with Joel McCollum, of Lockport, New York, who laid claim to that portion between Howell and Broad, now covered by the Waldron block, and brought suit to establish his claim arguing that the ground was private and not owned by the village. McCollum placed a building upon it and the village authorities tore it down; he then began suit in the United States courts, and the case is a memorable one from the interest it excited and the array of legal talent employed on both sides; by consent of both parties a judgment was obtained, and Henry Waldron purchased the disputed ground for $1,500 and erected upon it, the present Waldron block.

The first village election was held the 12th day of April, 1847. The following gentlemen were elected: President, Patrick McAdam; assessor, Chauncey Stimson; trustees, Harvey A. Anderson, Elijah Hatton, Henry L. Hewitt, Thomas Bolles and Isaac VanDenbergh.

The first city election was held in April, 1869, the city having obtained a charter at that time. Those elected were: Mayor, George W. Underwood; treasurer, Henry King; clerk, S. Chandler; aldermen, Samuel J. Lewis, Edwin J. March, Jas. G. Bunt, Benj. Fisher, Wm. Wilson, Wm. Pettis and Spencer O. Fisher.

One incident in the city's history since the early period, worthy of noting, was the artesian well project begun in 1872. A committee of three were appointed in April, '72, to solicit subscriptions; an appropriation of $1,500 was made, and the location having been decided, it being on court house square, work was begun; funds having been expended another appropriation was made of $5,500; after boring to a depth of nearly 1,500 feet the undertaking was abandoned.

The first newspaper published in the county was the Hillsdale County Gazette; politically it was an adherent of the Jeffersonian Democratic school. The first number was issued at Jonesville, April 13, 1839. In May of 1843 it was removed to Hillsdale. The paper passed through several hands until 1855 when the office and appointments were purchased by N. B. Welper who removed it to Three Rivers and remained until 1859; he then returned to Hillsdale and established the paper again under the name of the Hillsdale Democrat, which title it bears at the present time. H. B. Andrews and Wm. H. Tallman purchased the sheet in 1866; Mr. Andrews retired from the firm in '67 and the paper was conducted by Mr. Tallman until 1886, he then disposing of his interest to E. A. Blackman. After Mr. Blackman's death in May, 1892, the management fell into the hands of the present editor, H. C. Blackman.

The Whig Standard was first issued June 30, 1846, by J. G. Clark and H. B. Rowlson. In 1850 Mr. Rowlson became sole editor and proprietor; its name was changed to the Hillsdale Standard, in 1855, the year of the organization of the Republican party. The paper is now owned and published by H. B. Rowlson & Son.

The Hillsdale Leader was first issued September 29, 1882, by Ackerly, Bowman & Co. The ownership of the paper finally fell into the hands of Col. E. J. March, who now together with Geo. K. March conducts the sheet under the firm name of E. J. March & Co. Its politics have since the first number been Republican.

The Telephone-News was established in the summer of 1893 by A. H. English and W. H. Bowman. The paper is the result of the combination of the Reading Telephone, formerly conducted by Mr. English at that village, with the North Adams News, the property of Mr. Bowman. The paper is without political affiliations.

The College Herald, a weekly college paper, the only college sheet in the world issued every week in the year, is published at the Commercial department of Hillsdale College by the College Herald Co. Alex. C. Rideout is the editor and publisher.

The Collegian, a bi-weekly sheet, is issued by students of Hillsdale College during the academic year. The paper was first issued during December of 1893. It will be published during the coming year by the faculty and students of Hillsdale College.

HILLSDALE COLLEGE.

Amid the December snows of 1844, in an old deserted store at Spring Arbor, Jackson county, Mich., with one teacher and with four boys and one girl as undergraduates, was opened the institution which has since become Hillsdale College. This institution owes its origin to the efforts of a few Christian men who deeply felt the need of a school where young people could receive a Christian education. This led to the erection of two new buildings costing about a thousand dollars each, and to an increase in the teaching force. As there were at this time but few union schools and only one college in the state, it is not surprising that a large number of young people eagerly availed themselves of the educational advantages thus furnished. It soon became evident that more room would be needed. This forced upon the trustees the question as to where the institution should be permanently located. It was decided to remove from the site then occupied to some town which was situated on a railroad. Propositions were received from several places, but the one from Hillsdale was accepted by the faculty. The people of Spring Arbor were greatly incensed, and did all in their power to prevent the execution of this plan. Some threatened the teachers with violence, and concealed books and apparatus, while others served injunctions to prevent the removal of the college charter. Hence, but little more of the college was removed than its prestige, students and faculty.

Forty-one years ago the eminence of the village of Hillsdale, now known as "College Hill," was alternately crowned with waving grain and used a pasture-ground for the cattle of its owners. Here rose, in 1853, the walls of Hillsdale College, the corner-stone being laid July 4th of that year. The twenty-acres, which constituted the college grounds, were the gift of Esbon Blackmar. The proposition of the town to the college authorities included the gift of $15,000 for building purposes, provided, that an equal sum be put into endowment by the trustees. The proposition was accepted, on condition that said amount should be raised in the county, which was done, and the subscription of citizens were even increased to $35,000. The first college edifice consisted of five adjoining buildings, four of them 40x60 feet, and one 60x60 feet. They were so far completed that the school was opened November 7th, 1855, with four professors besides a principal of the ladies' department. These were Rev. Edmund B. Fairfield, A. M., president; Rev. Ransom Dunn, professor of Mental and Moral Philosophy and Natural Theology; Rev. C. H. Churchill, A. M., professor of Latin and Greek Languages; Rev. H. E. Whipple, A. M., professor of English Literature and History and Mrs. M. G. Ramsey, preceptress.

The objects sought by the founders of the college will be seen by the following extracts from the constitution and articles of association:

"The object of this institution is to furnish to all persons who wish, irrespective of nation, color or sex, a literary and scientific education as comprehensive and thorough as is usually pursued in other colleges in this country and to combine with this such moral and social instruction as will best develop the mind and improve the hearts of the pupils. * * * A majority of the board of trustees, not less than two-thirds nor more than three-fourths, and a majority of the faculty, in which majority the president shall be included, shall always be members in good standing in the Free-Will Baptist denomination."

The school at the time of its opening at Hillsdale was composed of two departments—the academic and the preparatory. The first contained three courses of study, the classical, the English and the ladies', each of which included the studies which are usually found in a four years' course in American colleges. The last two were united in 1872 and called the scientific and ladies' course. The same year an academical course was arranged to meet the wants of those pupils who wished to complete some regular course of study, but who could not devote the full time required of candidates for degrees. A philosophical course was added in 1878 and the scientific course somewhat changed. Both of these omit the Greek and retain but little of the Latin, in order to give more prominence to the modern languages, mathematics and elective studies.

In 1876 an English and Normal course was established, which in 1878 was made a Normal course of two years, and which in 1884 was made a four years' course. In 1893 a special course in the Science and Art of Teaching was arranged for in accordance with the statute which provides that those who pursue any of the regular four years' and take this special course as an elective may receive the state teachers' certificate.

In 1884 F. B. Dickerson, of Detroit, having pledged five hundred dollars towards the erection of a gymnasium, the subscription for its construction and equipment was carried to about twenty-five hundred dollars, and a tasteful building 40x70 feet was dedicated in 1885, the first one in the state.

Since the opening of the institution a number of changes have been made in the board of instruction. The College has had six presidents, Rev. Edmund B. Fairfield, D. D., LL.D., elected 1855; Rev. James Calder, D. D., 1869; Rev. Daniel M. Graham, D. D., 1871; Rev. De Witt C. Durgin, D. D., 1874; Rev. R. Dunn, D. D., 1884; Geo. F. Mosher, LL.D., 1886 to present time.

The endowment since 1856 has been increased as follows: In June, 1862, the paid up endowment was $16,448.87; the invested fund in 1877, $93,295.45; in 1884, $137,802.69; in 1888, $159,987.65 and in 1894 it amounts to $217,395.23.

In the fall of 1862 the Free Will Baptist General Conference voted to appropriate $3,000 towards the endowment of a chair of theology to be known as the Burr professorship. In 1863 Rev. R. Dunn was transferred to this new department. Additions were made to this endowment till it now stands at $10,000.

Ever since 1855 instruction has been given in vocal and instrumental music; it was very irregular and varied in degree of excellence until 1863 when Fenton B. Rice took charge of the department. In the fall of 1869 Professor Melville W. Chase succeeded Professor Rice; subsequently Professor Chase was transferred to the Pianoforte, Harmony and Theory department and succeeded by Professor Graves in tone culture, who in turn was succeeded by Professor Dixon J. Churchill, who now has charge of the instruction given in Voice Culture.

The early history of the Art Department relates incidents of hard struggling before it could support a thoroughly competent teacher. In 1867 George B. Gardner took charge of the department and it is still under his supervision.

Early in the morning of March 6, 1874, three of the five college buildings burned, causing a loss of some $10,000 besides much valuable apparatus. Steps for rebuilding were immediately taken. The plan which was finally adopted for the new arrangement of the buildings embraces four disconnected buildings, which occupy the center of a park of twenty-five acres, adorned with well grown shade trees and evergreens. The buildings are of brick, three stories high beside the basements, and are arranged on three sides of a quadrangle with the principal front to the south. The building in the center is known as College hall; the west building, Knowlton hall; between Knowlton and College halls is Griffin hall; the east building, Fine Arts hall; between Fine Arts and College halls is the ladies' dormitory, which is what remained of the old building. The College library contains nearly nine thousand volumes.

The college societies that have been formed are: The Amphictyon and Alpha Kappa Phi organized in 1857; the Ladies' Literary Union and the Germanæ Sodales organized at the close of the same year. The Theadelphic was organized in 1867. All are still flourishing and form an important feature in the social life of the college. The college fraternities having chapters here are the Delta Tau Delta, established here in 1867, the Alpha Tau Omega in 1888 and the Phi Delta Theta somewhat earlier. The sororities are Kappa Kappa Gamma and Pi Beta Pi.

The last step forward taken by the College and worthy of especial note was the establishment in the winter term of 1894, of a military department. Lieutenant E. A. Helmick, of the 4th Infantry, was detailed by the United States government to give instruction in military science and tactics and this detail was accepted by the College. This department has proved very popular and the beneficial effects of the military drill has been remarked by many observers. The cadet gray uniform has been adopted and the students already carry themselves with quite a soldierly bearing. Cadet army rifles and two rifled cannons have been ordered, and arrangements are being made for target practice the coming year.

Hillsdale College has always been progressive and aims to do honest, thorough work in the class room, and its influence is wholesome and far reaching.

GEO. F. MOSHER, PRES.

THE COMMERCIAL DEPARTMENT.

The school known as the Commercial and Telegraphic department of Hillsdale College was opened in September, 1866. It occupied the third story of Union block, and was owned and managed by Calkins, Griffin & Co., Hon. Charles P. Griffin, now of Toledo, O., principal. The building was wrecked by falling soon after the opening, the school suffering loss of all its furniture, apparatus and supplies. Temporary quarters were occupied at the corner of Howell and McCollum streets, until Union block was rebuilt, the following year. In 1868 the school was transferred to Griffin, Drake & Co., and the same year was sold to A. C. Rideout, the present owner and principal. Early in 1870 the location was changed. Apartments were leased of Hillsdale college, and remodelled to suit the needs of the school, which became associated under a special contract with the college, nominally as a department, but having no organic or real connection.

When the college buildings were burned 1874 Professor Rideout, under agreement with the college authorities, erected Griffin hall for the special use of his school. It cost, with its equipment, about $20,000, and is the best building on the campus. No commercial school in the northwest, perhaps in the whole country, is provided with more commodious and convenient apartments, and better facilities for carrying on the work of commercial education than are here afforded. The building is of modern design, 72x52, four stories, brick and stone. The two upper stories are divided into twenty-seven dormitories. The lower stories are used for lecture and practice purposes. Throughout, the structure is admirably adapted to the uses for which it was designed. Every practical facility is provided for giving instruction in all the branches of commercial education. The commercial course, perpetual scholarship $30, books and blanks $10, embraces practical book-keeping, penmanship, business arithmetic, political economy and commercial law. All the work is practical. The graduate from this course is competent to keep accounts in any branch of business. In the actual business department the drill is most painstaking and thorough. Over forty sets of stock and partnership books are opened, the transactions recorded in all their details, analyses made, settlements effected and the ledgers closed. Students receive constant personal attention, and all work is closely criticised and corrected. The most thorough drill is required in all forms of commercial paper, and business correspondence. Stenography and type-writing are also taught, but for these branches extra tuition is charged. A practical course in telegraphy is a prominent feature of the institution, perpetual scholarship $35, books $3. The best modern apparatus is provided, and students are drilled in all the details of operating until well prepared for office work. Instruction is also given in all branches of electrical science. Hundreds of practical book-keepers and telegraph operators have gone out from this school. Students are never drilled in classes. The work is entirely personal from the beginning to the close. No piece of work is ever allowed to be the result of joint efforts. Each must master the work for himself, and become independent in the application and practice of principles. Much stress is put upon practical execution. It is a school where the student learns to do, as well as to think and plan. The plan or scheme that he cannot execute in practice he learns to regard with disfavor.

In the management of this school Professor A. C. Rideout has always been alone and independent. He has provided wholly for its support, and has been financially responsible for all of its affairs. Its business has always been transacted in his name and upon his credit. He has always prescribed the studies, employed his assistants and directed the work for the school. Into this work he has put twenty-eight years of his life and more than $25,000. Aside from his own school, he has accomplished much in other lines, having been identified as a successful worker in many community enterprises, the details of which cannot be given in this limited sketch, but are well known by the local public. His age is fifty years. He was born in Ohio, and was educated at Brilliant and Oberlin. The last year of the late war he served as a private in the 110th O. V. I. in the Valley of the Shenandoah. In 1876 he received the honorary degree LLD. from Muskingum College.

HILLSDALE PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

The history of the schools of Hillsdale seems to begin back in the early 30's. A school house was first erected within what is now the city limits in 1835. It was located on Bacon street east, on the site now occupied by G. L. Segner's residence. Another building was constructed for school purposes at the same time that the court house was built, and like the present "palace of justice," its walls were of stone. This building was torn down (it occupied the present jail site) in 1868. The present central building was erected in 1868. It is a model three-story high school structure. Within its walls have been educated many of Hillsdale's professional and business men besides many others who have departed for other fields of labor and study.

The school consists of twelve grades, each grade requiring one year of work. Those holding diplomas from the English, Scientific or Latin courses are admitted to the courses corresponding in the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor without further examination. The average attendance of the high school is about 130. The number in the graduating class this year, '94, was 19.

There are four ward buildings, instruction being given at these buildings up to the 8th grade. The pupil is then transferred to the central building to complete the other four grades.

The total enrollment of pupils in the public schools during the year 1893-94 was 896. The total number of those of school age in the city last year was 1,182.

The officers and instructors for the ensuing year are:

THE HILLSDALE FAIR.

The Hillsdale County Agricultural Society was organized in February, 1851, at a meeting of farmers held in what was then Underwood's hall, where the Woltmann block now stands, in Hillsdale village, in response to a call made through the public press. A constitution and by-laws were drawn up, presented and adopted at this meeting. The officers elected at this first meeting were: Hon. Henry Packard, of Jonesville, president; three vice presidents; Hon. J. P. Cook, treasurer; Isaiah H. McCollum, corresponding secretary; Henry H. Ferris, recording secretary and an executive committee of one from each township in the county. The first fair was held in October, 1851, on the court house square in Hillsdale village, the square being used as a show ground and the "temple of justice" itself being taken for an exhibition hall. The show was not very extensive either out or in doors; the number of entries in all departments was less than a hundred, and the sum of the premiums less than eight dollars. This amount and the expenses were raised by subscriptions, no admittance fee being charged.

In the fall of 1852 the second fair was held on the public square in Jonesville, around which a high board fence was constructed, and to which an admission fee was charged of half a dollar for annual family tickets and ten cents for single ones. Both the number of entries and the amount of receipts were nearly double those of the previous year. In 1853 for the first time the society had what might be considered as its own grounds; about an acre of space was secured on the corner of Vine and Union streets (Hewitt's grove). This was surrounded by a factory cloth fence, wherein was held the third annual fair.

The next year, 1854, land was leased of Jonathan B. Graham at Jonesville and fitted up for fair purposes. This year a catalogue was published, a short track was prepared for exercising horses and posters sent throughout the country. The result was a spirited county competition in cattle and horses, and the addition of swine, sheep, poultry and a few mechanical and agricultural implements to the list of exhibits. There were nearly 500 entries and $400 taken for dues and admissions. In 1855, the officers procured the use of a part of the land now occupied by the association. In 1857 the exhibition was held at Jonesville; the entries numbered 968 and the receipts $700.

Down to 1859 the society had no permanent grounds; in that year a committee was appointed to take steps regarding a permanent location. On their report the board decided to locate the grounds within a mile of the court house. Accordingly, a contract was made with Cook & Ferris to purchase seventeen acres constituting a part of the present grounds; seven acres on the south end for $50 per acre and ten on the north for $100 per acre. All subsequent fairs have been held on this ground. There was some ill feeling in the north part of the county regarding the permanent location at Hillsdale and the fair for 1860 was not as successful as some of its predecessors. On this account, too, the Farmers', Mechanics' and Stock Breeders' Association was organized, which held meetings annually in Jonesville and only existed a few years. At the end of that time the stockholders sold their land for railroad purposes and since then the Hillsdale County Agricultural Society has received the warm support of all who are interested in institutions of this nature. During the war years, 1861-64, the attendance and exhibits were small, but in '65 after the peace proclamation, the soldiers back, generally with plenty of money, the fair was a success, the receipts reaching the enormous sum of $1,550 and placing the society out of debt except for its land. In 1865 $2,000 was expended in fencing and otherwise improving the grounds. In 1866 the receipts swelled to $3,300, which went in part payment on notes amounting to $2,500 that had been given out a short time previous.

In 1878 the society was entirely free from debt and after paying every indebtedness had $302 left in the treasury.

The Hillsdale Fair is no longer a "county fair." It is the largest fair held in the state at the present time, its total number of paid admissions being more in one day (Thursday) than the state fair was during the entire week of the same year. This was the red letter day in the history of the fair, there being on that occasion 35,000 people being upon the grounds at one time. The accompanying scene gives a fair representation of the crowd on that day.

The society now has 60 acres of land all fenced in and equipped with the best of buildings requisite for purposes of a fair. There are seven halls, a mammoth tent, three-quarters of a mile of sheds, two barns, a grand stand and one of the best judge's stands ever built. The first racing course was constructed in 1853 and was a half-mile "kite shaped track," it being the first track of that description ever constructed; this was merely accidental, however, as the lay of the grounds compelled them to build a track kite shaped. Little did the fathers imagine they were laying out the first, to be afterwards famous, kite shaped racing course.

Another feature of these grounds is the perfectly shaded grove of native oaks, maple and evergreens and other ornamental trees.

The entries of late years have averaged 4,000 annually and the receipts between $11,000 and $12,000. The largest day of the fair was Thursday in 1892, there then being 35,000 people on the grounds. The large days of other years have been close to 30,000 admissions.

The success of the fair in late years is due in great part to the hustling and energetic secretary, John F. Fitzsimmons; under his management the fair has gained an almost national popularity and a credit and financial condition such that the society has not had to ask for a guarantor in order to induce exhibitors to make displays and compete for premiums.

BAWBEESE LAKE.

Baw Beese Lake together with four other lakes and their surrounding parks form a picnic and excursion resort of no small reputation. Away back in the early days it took its name from a Pottowatomie Indian chief who was a "big injun" about here in the 30's and early 40's. About 1870 was the first that this now celebrated place became a popular excursion ground.

Its reputation extended far and wide; this happy chain of circumstances existed until the year 1876; on August 1st of that year occurred a drowning accident which completely put a stop for a time to any further excursions and picnics to Baw Beese Park. Although the lake or park management of that time were entirely blameless and faultless as regards this event, yet the superstitious and even those who never admitted such weakness, gave Baw Beese a wide berth. Of late years however, this drowning incident has begun to assume a less vivid aspect and now picnics are again being held there. Consequently the pristine popularity is once more returning. In 1891 the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Railway company purchased Baw Beese park. Through the efforts of this company large excursions have been and are now being run to this point. The grounds have been improved, summer resort paraphernalia, such as bathing houses, water-toggan slide, row boats, dancing pavilion and other appointments, go to make up a very convenient summer resort for picnic and excursion parties. The Lake Shore company have announced that a large and commodious hotel building will be established at this park and be ready for the 1895 business. If this be the case the only lacking necessity will have been supplied and Baw Beese will be one of the swell summer resorts of Michigan, for which this glorious commonwealth has a national reputation.

The park is this season under the personal management of N. J. Widger, a successful manager, whom the Lake Shore people were fortunate to secure to superintend the grounds and take charge of the management in general. Through Mr. Widger's efforts every excursion or picnic that has held forth at Baw Beese this summer has received most courteous treatment and the best of everything the place can afford.

CHURCHES.

FREE WILL BAPTIST CHURCH.

A. T. SALLEY.

This church was organized Nov. 24, 1855, Hillsdale College being under the control of the Free Will Baptist denomination. The membership is and always has been, largely made up of the faculty, students, friends and supporters of that institution. At first services were held in the College chapel, but in 1867 the large edifice was constructed at the corner of Fayette and Manning streets at a cost of $30,000. For the first sixteen years the preaching was done by members of the faculty, Rev. E. B. Fairfield, H. E. Whipple, R. Dunn and J. Calder having served as pastors. Rev. R. Woodworth, of Greenville, R. I., was chosen pastor Sept. 30, 1871, remaining two years. Rev. A. A. Smith began his pastorate May, 1874, and served till January 1, 1878; Rev. DeWitt C. Durgin, D. D., from 1878 to 1883; Rev. Ashum T. Salley and C. D. Dudley were associate pastors until 1884; at that time Professor Dudley removed, since which time Rev. Salley has very ably and acceptably filled the pastorate of this church.

METHODIST CHURCH.

P. J. MAVEETY.

The organization of the Methodist church in Hillsdale dates back to 1842. The first regular services began in that year, being held in a school house with Rev. Thomas Jackson as pastor-in-charge and Rev. G. H. Shurtliff as assistant. In 1845 during the pastorate of Rev. Wm. Pitt Judd a plain, but commodious house of worship was erected. This building was destroyed by fire in 1863, in the second year of Rev. Thomas Comfort's ministry; the present edifice was built two years later in 1865; Rev. Thomas Lyon was then pastor. The church is now in a prosperous condition, being practically free from debt and growing steadily in its membership. The number of names now on its rolls is 400. The Sabbath school has an equally large membership, with an average attendance of nearly 300. It has a library of 400 volumes.

The pastors that have served and date of pastorates are: Rev. Thomas Jackson, 1842-44; Adam Minis, 1844-45; Wm. Pitt Judd, 1845-47; Wm. Kelly 1847-48; Henry Worthington, 1848-50; Rev. Crozier, 1883-85; M. D. Carrell, 1885-87; G. C. Draper, 1887-90; A. E. Craig, 1890-93. P. J. Maveety is the present pastor.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

J. A. CRAWFORD.

A meeting for the organization of a Presbyterian church was held in the village school, July 22, 1843, presided over by Rev. William Page, of Jonesville. At this meeting "Articles of Faith and Covenant" were adopted and a deacon and three elders were elected; William Cross and Allen Hammond were elected elders, one for two years the latter for one year; Thomas Bolles was chosen deacon. The church started out with fourteen members, the first Sunday service being held in the village school house, July 23, 1843. The school room was occupied for some months, when a building used for court purposes was used as a worshipping place. The present edifice was erected in 1853. The church was received into the Presbytery of Marshall at Albion, January 30, 1844. It subsequently joined the Presbytery of Monroe, with which it is now connected.

The pastors in their order since the organization of the church are: Rev. Elijah Buck, 1843-45; Thomas P. Emerson, 1845-46; Philip Titcomb, 1846-47; William Page, 1847-48. Rev. William S. Taylor, the first regularly installed pastor, 1850 to May, 1853; Calvin Clark, February 1854 to July 1858; James Knox, October, 1858, to October, 1861; Frederick Gallagher, 1861-69; Volney A. Lewis, December, 1869 to December, 1872; Samuel B. Bell, January, 1873 to 1875; Leroy V. Lockwood, February, 1876 to 1879; Charles N. Waldron, 1879 to 1882; James M. Barkley, 1882-85; Rev. Mr. Millham, 1885-87; Rev. Mr. Sexton, 1887-91. John A. Crawford came in 1891 and has been pastor since.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH.

E. M. GRIFFIN.

The Baptists of Hillsdale organized a church on November 11, 1848. The young church flourished for four years; then followed a season of discouragement and decline which culminated in the granting of letters of dismission to the members January, 1855. For nearly fourteen years thereafter the Baptist church was practically dead. Some of the members joined neighboring churches. Subsequently a branch of the North Adams church was organized at Hillsdale, which became an independent church the next year.

The present church was organized October 1, 1869; the church was organized by an ecclesiastical council February 2, 1870; A. B. Prentice and A. G. Stewart were ordained deacons. The pastors have been thus far: Rev. H. Gallup, 1870-71; then followed a period of relapse until April 1, 1875, when A. E. Stone was ordained as pastor and remained as such until April, 1878; A. J. Furman, October, 1878-80; B. E. Hutchinson, January, 1881 to June, 1884; E. F. Osborn, July, 1885 to September, 1886; J. C. Rooney, May, 1887, to September, '88; Rev. H. Burns, October, '89 to '93. Rev. E. M. Griffin who became pastor in '93, still presides over the congregation.

ST. ANTHONY'S ROMAN CATHOLIC CHURCH.

FR. P. J. SLANE.

This parish was established in 1853. Rev. Father Kendrick, a native of Belgium, who first settled at Monroe came as frequently as his pastoral duties would permit, which was seldom oftener than once in two or three months, and said mass at private houses in the village. A society of this denomination was finally organized; an edifice of the Presbyterian society was purchased and converted into a Catholic church. Rev. Charles Rychart took charge of the parish and was resident pastor fourteen years; Rev. Father Dreesen succeeded him and remained two years; after a short interval Rev. Father Duhig came, staying five years. His successor was the present pastor, Rev. Father Slane. Since Father Slane's advent, a new church edifice has been erected as well as a commodious parochial residence.

GERMAN LUTHERAN CHURCH.

REV. F. C. BAUER.

The German Evangelical Lutheran Trinity congregation of Hillsdale, Michigan, was founded in the year 1849 by Rev. W. Hattstaedt, of Monroe, Michigan, and organized in 1854 by Rev. Ph. Trautmann, of Adrian, Michigan, who supplied the congregation until 1860. The church which is still used as a house of worship was built in 1854. Rev. H. Speckhardt, Sr., was the first pastor residing in Hillsdale. He was called in 1860 and stayed till 1863. The following ministers have served the congregation: Rev. W. Hattstaedt, 1849-54; Rev. Ph. Trautmann, 1854-60; Rev. H. Speckhardt, Sr., 1860-63; Rev. J. Hahn, 1863-73; Rev. J. A. Schroepel, 1874; Rev. G. Schieferdecker, 1875-77; Rev. M. Toewe, 1878; Rev. Halboth, 1880; Rev. H. Speckhardt, Jr., 1882-85; Rev. F. Dryer, 1886-88; Rev. F. C. Bauer, the present pastor, entered his duties in October, 1888, being called from Greenville, Michigan. The congregation has seen many a trying day and was on the verge of ruin, caused mainly by too frequent changes of pastors. It is doing quite well at present showing a steady gain of membership. The present membership is about 200. There is a ladies' society with thirty-eight members, a young people's society called "Der Jugendbund" with forty-four members and a choir of eight members. All the societies are under the supervision of the pastor. The parochial school, Rev. Bauer, teacher, averages fifteen pupils. The property consists of church, school-house and parsonage (free from debt) and is located on Griswold and South streets, east. The services are conducted in the German language.

ST. PETERS' PROTESTANT EPISCOPAL.

The Protestant Episcopal church in Hillsdale in the early days was under the fostering care of the mother church at Jonesville. Rev. Darius Barker, rector of Grace church, Jonesville, held the first service in the village of Hillsdale, in the hotel of Adam Howder, one Sunday in November, 1839. The reverend gentleman often visited the place for the purpose of holding services after that. Further missionary work was done by successive rectors from Jonesville during the following twenty years. Removals of church families from Jonesville to Hillsdale increased the number of workers so that a mission was established in Hillsdale, September 10, 1844, under the title of St. Peter's church. In March, 1858, a reorganization of the church was effected under the revised statute of 1857. The present church building was erected in the summer of 1858.

The first resident rector was Rev. Gilbert B. Hayden, of New York, who served in 1859-60. Others in their order are: Gerret E. Peters, 1860-67; John W. Buckmaster, 1868-69; Henry H. DeGarmo, 1869-70; Wm. W. Raymond, 1870-79; William J. Lemon, 1879-83; Theodore L. Allen, 1883-86; F. W. Bayley-Jones, 1886-89; Robert C. Wall, 1891-93; the rectorship at present, is vacant.

SEVENTH DAY ADVENTISTS.

The rise of this denomination is comparatively of recent origin, dating back not to exceed thirty-five years. Believers in the new advent of Christ have existed since about 1834, when under the preaching of William Miller from that time till 1844, many thousands in the country embraced his views and fully believed the advent of the Lord would take place in 1844. Without stopping to discuss the correctness or incorrectness of his position or in any way explaining the causes of the disappointment that overtook the believers, we will simply say that from that time till now there has existed a people known as Adventists.

Soon after 1844 a few persons who had previously expected the advent of Christ in their study of the Scriptures became fully convinced that it was their sacred duty to keep holy the seventh day of the week instead of the first, and immediately began its observance and to teach others their views. This was done by preaching and publishing. In the course of ten or twelve years the number of seventh day observers had so increased that they numbered thousands, but as yet had taken no denominational name.

In October, 1860, at a conference of leading men in Battle Creek, Michigan, who observed the seventh day, they voted to adopt the name of "Seventh Day Adventist" as a denominational name. They also legally organized a conference, publishing association and other organizations for the transaction of business.

The Seventh Day Adventist church of Hillsdale, Michigan, was legally organized in November, 1860, by Elder J. H. Waggoner, and articles of association adopted and trustees elected. They also elected a local elder and two deacons. The first meeting house was erected in 1857 by the company of believers who had previously embraced the Advent doctrines under the labors of Elders Waggoner and Cornell. This house stood on Oak street on a corner of the premises owned by A. F. Fowler. Services were held every Sabbath (Saturday) at 10:30 and Wednesday evening prayer meeting. The number of charter members who first signed the covenant was thirty-seven. The congregation continued to worship in the house first erected until 1886, when the growth and needs of the congregation demanded a larger structure, and they purchased a lot on the corner of Oak and Vine streets and built a more commodious and substantial frame building with a seating capacity of about 250.

The membership of the church numbers about seventy, most of whom reside in and around the city. There is a Sabbath school with a membership of about fifty, also a missionary society having for its object the dissemination of denominational literature, and charitable and benevolent purposes.

There are no settled pastors with a fixed salary permanently or temporarily hired by any organized church of Seventh Day Adventists, but all the ministers of the denomination are evangelical in their labors, carrying the gospel into new fields and establishing new churches, and are supported from a fund created by the tithing system, so that the church of Hillsdale has no settled pastor. However, it frequently enjoys the labors of ministerial brethren who often visit them, as well as the labors of Elder D. H. Lamson, an ordained minister of the conference who permanently resides in the city.

This people being a prophetic people raised up to do a special work of giving the last message of warning to the world before the coming of Christ, are necessarily aggressive in their work, and are so organized that nearly every one takes an active part in extending the work.

The church doors are always open to welcome all who may feel disposed to come in and worship.
