

HARDING WILL BE HERE ON AUGUST 3; PLAN BIG WELCOME

Arrangements Under Way to Greet Chief Executive on Arrival in City

THE schedule of President Harding's itinerary, as received this morning by Secretary E. F. Sanders of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce, shows that the presidential party will be in Glendale on the afternoon of Friday, August 3, reaching here at 11:30 a. m., before going on to Eagle Rock and Pasadena. The details of the executive trip were received from Ralph Arnold of Los Angeles, who, with Walter Brown, the president's advance representative, is in charge of the program for this section of the state.

President Harding will visit Hollywood on the morning of August 3, leaving there about 11 o'clock, and reaching here about 12:25 or 11:30 o'clock. His suite will be along Los Feliz road, coming north on Brand boulevard to Broadway, east on Broadway to Eagle Rock and on Pasadena.

President's Route It is requested that the people of Glendale assemble along the Brand boulevard to Broadway, and from Broadway east to the high school, in order to get the best view of the president and his party, who will travel in open cars, permitting the populace to obtain an uninterrupted view of the nation's chief executive.

The Glendale Chamber of Commerce is extending an invitation to all of the Chambers of Commerce of the San Fernando valley to be represented here on the day of the Harding visit, and a committee of fifty is now being selected to greet the president at Los Angeles on his arrival there, company with the Los Angeles committee. This committee will consist of representatives of the city government, the Chamber of Commerce, the Commercial and Industrial organizations, and after sharing in the reception to the president at Los Angeles, the committee will escort the party through Glendale.

Will Declare Holiday The city authorities are already planning to handle the crowds that will be here on that day and to make all necessary arrangements to police the route to be followed by the presidential party during the visit.

Mayor Spencer Robinson will request that the merchants close their places of business on that day in order to make the visit of the president a holiday and to give the residents of Glendale an opportunity to celebrate the occasion in a fitting manner.

20 IMMIGRANTS REJECTED BY U.S.

Grecian Quota Exhausted as European Flood Reaches American Shores

NEW YORK, July 2.—Tears mingled with laughter—coupled in tragedy, on Ellis Island today. Of the 2,448 liberty-seeking immigrants who yesterday arrived aboard 12 liners, choking the sieve of the nation's melting pot, 420 have already been rejected. All are Greeks, or natives of other Asia—the tiny dots on the map. The Grecian quota of 83 admissible aliens was exhausted before the Panania, which reached quarantine at 12:02 o'clock Sunday morning, had discharged two-thirds of its human cargo into the crucible of nations. By nightfall the admissions will total 4000. This will leave $500 of the first arrivals still to be examined. Today 4000 more immigrants are due on five liners. A total of 20,000 will dock during the remainder of the week. The bulk of the arrivals have already been listed at 50,000 passages booked from foreign shores.

President Rides In Locomotive On Own Train

VERY, Idaho, July 2.—President Harding became the engineer of his own train today. He arose early at Salmon, Idaho, and for more than an hour rode the cab of the engine that pulled his train toward the Pacific coast, chatting with the train crew and viewing the magnificent scenery along the route.

The President descended at Avery somewhat dirty, to greet the large crowd that had gathered to see him. The president left his train at Avery and climbed the side of a mountain to visit the forest ranger station here.

Refreshed by his rest in Yellowstone park, the only real rest he has had since leaving Washington, President Harding started today on the last lap of his leisurely journey across the continent.

Four more speeches will be made before the president sets sail for Alaska, and he is looking forward to that with keen zest. He went into the mountains of the Yellowstone, fired from ten days' incessant speech-making and crowds, but he came out today wholly rested. The two days of quiet in the mountains gave him the time needed for reflection and recreation.

Mr. Harding is highly pleased with the results of his trip thus far, he told friends here.

No Longer Necessary for Divorced Couples to Wait Year to Wed

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., July 2.—Many wedding bells were expected to ring in Illinois as the result of Governor Len Small's signing of the Thon marriage and divorce bill, which repeals the section of the present law which prohibited marriages within a year after divorce decrees were granted, and also makes legal such marriages. The Thon measure also legitimizes children born of such marriages and provides that vested property rights shall not be affected.

According to Secretary of State Emerson, numerous queries have been received from county clerks inquiring on behalf of divorced couples contemplating matrimony, when the new law becomes effective, so they could issue the marriage licenses.

FISCAL YEAR OPENS WITH 3 BILLIONS Uncle Sam Starts Off in Great Financial Shape; Surplus Is Large

By H. K. REYNOLDS For International News Service WASHINGTON, July 2.—Uncle Sam started off today, the beginning of the fiscal year, with a little over three billion dollars to spend during the next twelve months.

That is the amount appropriated by congress to carry on the business of the federal government, provided for the maintenance of army, navy, and pay interest on the public debt, until June 30, 1924. It means that for the next year the treasury will be handing out cash at the rate of $3,500,000 a day.

All Figured Out The bureau of the budget, acting under the direction of President Harding, decided months ago where every cent would go. This was done so there would be no deficit.

The treasury begins the new year with a surplus of $300,000,000. To give a better idea of just how this money will be spent, the budget bureau has figured out receipts and disbursements in terms of the average dollar.

Of every dollar received, by the treasury during the next year, 72.75 cents will come from internal revenue, and 65 cents from customs and 15.25 cents from miscellaneous sources, such as interest, sale of property, fees, fines, gifts, and the like.

Over Wide Area The expenditure of the average dollar, however, scatters it over a wide area. The treasury gets the biggest slice—39 cents, but 25c of this goes to pay interest on the public debt. The war department gets 3.4c and the navy 8.5c, though it is figured that the government spends 32c out of every dollar for military functions, of which 12c is for the national defense.

Under the head of military pensions, payments to world war veterans, and similar fixed charges, 19c is set aside. The postoffice department will receive 15.5c, but this is usually balanced by postal receipts.

Britain Not Ready to Discuss Disarmament

LONDON, July 2.—Premier Baldwin announced in the House of Commons today that England is not prepared to cooperate with the United States in calling an international disarmament conference. Such a move at the present time would be premature, Baldwin said, and unlikely to succeed until the outstanding European problems of the moment are satisfactorily settled.

DYNAMITE IN DEATH CAR FAILS TO EXPLODE

Brother of Victim, Also an Occupant of Machine, Not Badly Hurt

LIVES of passengers on the Southern Pacific's Sunset Limited train were imperiled today when the train crashed into an automobile containing a quantity of dynamite at the Park avenue crossing, the car being almost completely demolished, but the dynamite failing to explode.

David A. Young, 4006 Sequoia avenue, Los Angeles, driver of the auto, was killed, and his brother, A. T. Young, of the same address, miraculously escaped injury.

The dynamite was in the rear of the automobile, where it was struck by the limited's locomotive, yet it did not explode. The car was made a mass of wreckage. Even its motor block was cracked by the impact.

J. W. M. Burton of 125 West Broadway, who happened to be near the crossing at the time, was a witness to the accident. He hurried A. T. Young to the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital, where it was found that he had no broken bones and nothing more serious than bruises. He regained consciousness about an hour and a half after the collision.

Tools Scattered F. R. Currier of 4015 Eucalyptus street, Los Angeles, arrived on the scene shortly after the accident. He picked up a large number of tools which were in the automobile and had gotten scattered over the right of way.

The occupants of the car were cesspool diggers and were on their way according to report from a jobber's haul to another one in Los Angeles.

Kiefer & Eyerick, local undertakers, notified Coroner Frank A. Nance of the fatality. He has not set the time of the inquest yet.

David Young, who was killed, was 17 years of age. He came to Southern California about five months ago from Phoenix, Ariz.

Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Shaw of 1107 East Colorado street are reported to be parents of A. T. Young's wife.

Demand Protection Residents of the Parkdale addition are expressing indignation at the fact that the crossing where the fatality occurred today is not protected by an electric wig-wag and bell. Recent development in that section has made it a most perilous grade crossing, according to H. C. Swartz, who resides in the vicinity.

Enjoyable Affair
The dance and card party given Saturday night at the Masonic Temple by Omar Shrine, No. 9, of the White Shrine of Jerusalem was, indeed, a delightful social event. Elaborate schemes of decoration and entertainment had been worked out by Mrs. William McMillan and Mrs. Warren Roberts, chairman of the committee and their assistants.
A grand march led by Mrs. Porter M. Custer and Warren Roberts was the opening feature. This was cleverly directed by Mrs. Warren Roberts, who guided the marchers so that at the culmination of the march a cross was formed. Favors for the march were colorful crepe paper parasols for the women and canes for the men. Six children presented the favors on long poles.
Another favorite dance was the balloon dance, when countless bright colored balloons were released from a flag in the center of the room.
Mr. Sawyer was the fortunate person winning the big yellow and white cake decorated in yellow roses and gold letters, and the $2.50 gold piece.
There were also prizes given awarding three favors. Kelly's Shrine Club orchestra played for dancing.

JAM AT CITY HALL
Glendale's city hall this morning seemed the scene of an incident riot. In addition to the usual riot of Monday morning traffic law violators paying tribute to the motorcops' week-end work, a crew of twenty men are building a new jailhouse in the airway between the police department and the public service offices. Several hundred taxpayers also made their way through the blockade to the city treasurer's office to settle for street assessment work.

MRS. TOLL TELLS OF AIMS OF CLUB
Actuating Idea of Leaders in Work of Women Is World's Happiness
An added pleasure to the banquet and program of the Glendale Music club last week is a letter received by Mrs. Mattison B. Jones from Mrs. Charles H. Toll, who with Mr. Toll was to have been a special guest at the annual affair.
Mrs. Toll, who is president of the Los Angeles District Federation of Women's club, is in San Francisco attending the international conference under the auspices of the National Education association. She was unable to be present at the Music club affair, but wrote Mrs. Jones the following letter:
"That I am unable to accept the honor of being with you at the delightful closing function of the club year is a matter of great regret to me. However, life has compensations and I am now privileged to meet with educational delegates from more than fifty countries, each bringing a rich contribution of thought and experience to offer in the attempt to solve some of the perplexing problems that are vexing the minds of world leaders.
"The object of the conference is, that these nations so represented, shall be brought into a harmonious attitude towards one another, that all shall unite to stamp out war and substitute brotherly love and friendship.
"Actuating Thought
"Perhaps there are those who think that your club has worked but for the pleasure of the senses and the perpetuation of art as expressed by music, but I know that behind and back of these quite proper aims there has been a larger and more benevolent thought actuating the leaders; in fact, the same thought that has brought all these various peoples of many lands together; and this is, that the spirit of harmony and sympathy shall permeate the whole group, and add to the sum total of beauty and happiness in the world.
"And so, while you may measure your success before your townsmen in the growth of membership and in the interest you have roused in musical artistry, it is given only to the Father of all to know now you have strengthened the courage and the vision and the ideals of all your members and emphasized the beauty of harmony, not only among your own townsmen but among all peoples.
"May you continue to function and spread the gospel of 'Peace on earth, good will toward men.'"
MRS. TIGHT TO REST
Mrs. M. L. Tight, well known Glendale realtor, with offices at 612 East Broadway, has leased her established location to Philip & Horn of 116 West Wilson avenue, who take possession today. Mrs. Tight expects to enjoy the summer at her beach home, resting after having materially aided with a number of civic improvements for Glendale during the past year.

THEATRES
THE GLENDALE
"Down to the Sea in Ships," the Hodgkinson production showing at the Glendale Theatre today, has been described by one critic as "the most marvelously amazing attraction ever brought to the screen," and by another as "probably one of the most beautiful photoplays ever made."
It is a whaling story—and, it might well be added, a whale of a story! Elmer Clifton, the producer, braved death with his cameramen to secure the scenes where the great school of giant whales are sighted and harpooned before your eyes.
Certainly no more thrilling escapade has ever been caught by the eye of the camera than that where a group of men in their whale-boat, being pulled for miles over the sea by an eighty-foot whale which they have harpooned, are flocked into the shark-infested waters by a whisk of the monster's tail.
"Down to the Sea in Ships" is a majestic film, worthy to be seen by every man, woman and child in America.

DEATHS--FUNERALS
VICTOR L. RICKETTS
Victor L. Ricketts of Delphi, Indiana, whose death occurred last week at San Jose, was accorded the final honors of the Knights Templar this morning at the Little Church of the Flowers in Forest Lawn.
The ceremonial was conducted, and attended by the Glendale Knights in uniform. Right Emancipator Charles Day of the Hollywood commandery and a past grand commander of the state of Indiana, was in charge. Mr. Ricketts was a member of the Delphi Commandery No. 40.
Following the service Mr. Ricketts' body was placed in a vault until interment. The L. G. Sovern Company was in charge.
Mrs. Ricketts and son and her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Carpenter of Tipton, Indiana, are at the Hotel Gray.

YOUNG 'BANDITS' ATTEMPT HOLDUP

Woman Foils Two Boys in Their Effort to Get Money by Demand

Two child bandits attempted to burglarize the A. T. Dobson residence, 309 North Melrose avenue, at 10 o'clock Saturday morning, but were thwarted by Mrs. L. M. Judd, who is looking after the house in the absence of Mrs. Dobson, now on a visit in San Francisco.

Mrs. Judd reported the affair Saturday afternoon, stating that the elder of the two boys appeared about twelve years of age and that the younger, who could not have been much more than nine, wore a black mask over his eyes and had a white handkerchief tied about his head, thoroughly disguising him.

Demand For Money
She was in the back yard, she said, when she saw the two boys turn in the walk of the Dobson home. She hastened into the house and found them in the living room. She asked them what they wanted and they said: "We want money!"

To which request Mrs. Judd did not accede, but made a move as though to detain this pair of young Jesse Jameses, when the younger broke down and began weeping copiously. Mrs. Judd hissed a warning and the lad froze into silence. Then, thinking better of her momentary impulse to detain them, Mrs. Judd opened the door—and, sniffling, the youth in the mask departed, followed by his surly senior partner.

She did not learn if either of them was armed. Mrs. Judd stated, admitting that this thought had not occurred to her until after they had taken their departure.

Need Good Spanking
When asked if she thought she could identify either of them, she expressed confidence in her ability to pick the elder of the pair from any group he might be in.

She feels that this chap was the leader of the party, having put the little fellow up to it.

Mrs. Judd expressed the opinion that a good spanking, taken in time, might save that boy, whoever he is, from a criminal career and make him a good American citizen. She hopes this description of the whole affair, as published in The Glendale Evening News, will help the parents of that child and of his little companion to take the necessary corrective measures.

The plant purchased by Mr. Springer, known as the Glendale Laundry, is stated by the new owner as being modern in every respect, fully equipped with the most advanced devices known in the business, among them an $8500 American floating-roller flatwork ironer and an all brass motor-driven cascade washer valued at $5000. A 100 horse-power boiler has also just been installed.

The Glendale Laundry has a payroll of between sixty and seventy workers. Mr. Springer states, and increases will be made as volume of business warrants, it being the desire of the new owner to have a plant that is the last word in laundry efficiency.

Mr. Springer has been in the laundry business practically all his life, serving for ten years in Southern California with the Southern Service Company of Pomona. He recently managed Dannel's Laundry, Los Angeles, and for seven years previous operated the Monrovia Laundry, Monrovia.

Russian Refugees to Face Immigrant Test

SAN FRANCISCO, July 2.—A mere handful of the 14,000 Russian refugees who fled Vladivostok when "red" rule engulfed the last "white" stronghold in Russia, 526 men, women and children, remnants of Admiral Starck's famous "fleet without a home," today gazed longingly on their land of promise. The United States transport

There they must pass the regular civil and medical examinations for entrance as immigrants. Should any fail to pass the tests, they will again be wanderers without a country.

AN OFFER TO THE CITY COUNCIL:

If you think the Cerritos street lots NECESSARY for the depot site, let our association help pay for them, so they will not cost the taxpayers a penny.
But the opening of Cerritos street, to the depot grounds, the street widening, the corner buying, that is part of that plan recommended by the Chamber of Commerce, may cost the taxpayers hundreds of thousands of dollars, before the scheme of diverting traffic from Los Feliz road, and attention from the present use of Railroad street, is finished. And it would principally benefit the value of certain corner lots, and other holdings in that locality that have lately changed hands.
The part of the scheme which would make Glendale the laughing stock of Southern California is the abandoning of Railroad street to the continued use of a lumber yard, though it is the direct road to either of the depot sites planned. (They are only about 250 feet apart).

If Railroad street were now open, and in proper condition, 90 per cent of the depot traffic would probably go straight down that street to the depot. For over thirty thousand automobiles a day pass this "front door" to the depot grounds, while probably, less than a hundred pass the Cerritos street lots, it has been proposed the city buy, as an entrance to the depot grounds.
It has been claimed that because the largest theatre in Glendale has been planned to be erected on Los Feliz road, between Central Avenue and San Fernando Avenue, that was the reason for the fight for restoring Railroad street to the public. This is not so, as the building of this theatre has been postponed because of the present high cost of building material. Meanwhile the splendid new Gateway theatre will supply the needs of this neighborhood.

OUR OFFER:

The above offers are subject to the provision, that the opening of Cerritos street will not be a blind for the continued closing of Railroad street, and whatever plans are adopted must be passed on by a committee of disinterested taxpayers, who will place the good of Glendale above every other consideration, and work in harmony with the city planning commission's report of June 29, 1923.

EAGLE ROCK

FORBID PARKING AUTOS AT NIGHT

L. A. Ordinances Prohibit Car Owners From Leaving Cars in Streets

Sergeant "Jud" Cornwall of the Eagle Rock police department issues a warning to residents of the district that cars may no longer be parked all night in front of homes, as the Los Angeles traffic ordinances preclude such an arrangement.

In one night as many as forty-eight Eagle Rock citizens were apprehended as violators of this ordinance and were dealt with leniently but impressed with the fact that such parking is against the law.

The local police department wants to be a good fellow, but must carry out the laws of the city, Sergeant Cornwall says, in cautioning residents to become acquainted with Los Angeles ordinances and obey them.

BURBANK

CITY SHARES IN MONROE EXHIBIT

Huge Sphere Shows Products of Local Firms at Big Exposition

The Monroe Centennial Exposition opened today at Exposition park, Los Angeles, and tonight great crowds are expected to swarm to this giant historical revue.

Of particular interest to Burbank is her booth with the unique exhibit of a revolving sphere, showing in rotation some of the typical products of this city. Final details have now been worked out for presenting the vast pageants commemorating the hundredth anniversary of the Monroe Doctrine, and contracts have been signed with scores of noted singers, actors, impresarios and producers of pageants, many of which latter will be under the direction of Theodore Kosloff and Emil de Reat.

Show Indian Life One of the tableaux will depict the primitive life of the American Indian. Kosloff's ballet will portray "The Fall of the Aztecs," "An Easter Night in Russia" and "A Ballet of the World's Nations," showing characteristic dances.

The Aztec city that has been built to house the exposition blends the atmosphere of old Spain and Latin America. The most spectacular feature of the exposition will be the picturization of "Montezuma, or the Fall of the Aztecs," in which over 500 persons and tons of fireworks will be employed, it being prophesied that this display of fireworks will be the largest and most spectacular ever produced in the world. It will be staged in the new coliseum, seating 80,000 people.

Burbank Day The date of Thursday, July 26, has been set apart as Burbank Day, at the Monroe Centennial Exposition, and will be a red-letter day in the history of this city.

Should the program planned by the Realty Board be carried out, it will also be a red-letter day for the exposition! For the plan proposes to move Burbank bodily "from here to there"—in short, everyone will shut up shop on that day and go on a crusade to Los Angeles, to remind the world that some few miles out, along the San Fernando road, lies a city that is growing so fast it is "fairly busting" out of its clothes.

It has been estimated by the estimating department that should everyone go—which they certainly should, the department feels!—the resultant parade will be long enough to reach practically from Burbank to the exposition grounds.

Band For Burbank! The Community Band of Burbank has been organized, with $20 left over in the treasury of a former organization as the financial nucleus of the new melody-makers and wind-shakers.

E. J. Jackson was elected president of the organization, while F. R. Losee was named treasurer and secretary.

It is the plan of those back of this movement to put the band on a real business basis.

Among those active in organizing and pushing forward this latest community project are Judge Crawford, Professor White and Secretary Colburn of the Chamber of Commerce.

Last Friday night's meeting brought forth the spirited endorsement of many leading citizens, the opinion being unanimous that Burbank has needed a band on many occasions and that the possession of one will be a real civic asset.

Expect Guests From Michigan for Summer

Dr. and Mrs. James A. Belyea of 920 South Central avenue are looking forward to the arrival about Thursday of Mrs. Belyea's parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Buckley of Ann Arbor, Mich. They will spend the summer in Glendale.

Dr. "Jim" Belyea of 111 East Broadway has been a Glendale booster ever since his arrival about two years ago and has succeeded in interesting his own parents in southern California to such an extent that they are expected to come here from Toledo, Ohio, to make their home as soon as arrangements can be completed. Dr. Belyea intends to make just as strong an effort to "sell" California to Mr. and Mrs. Buckley.

Demands Jury Trial On Dry Law Charge

A. A. Baines, shoe repairer, with a long established business at 312 East Broadway, this morning pleaded not guilty in Police Judge F. H. Lowe's court to two alleged liquor law violations. He asked for a jury trial which was granted, the date set being July 10 at 10 a. m.

Police officers charge that Baines had nineteen pints of booze stored in his home, which was seized under a search warrant as not being registered. They also claim to have witnesses who will testify that Baines sold them part of his private stock. The defendant's plea of not guilty indicates that there is considerable question as to the strength of the case, and a jury will be called upon to decide the issues involved.

Alleged Violators of Mann Act Are Held

A new angle has been placed on the Mann act by a woman who recently moved to Glendale, Mrs. Julie B. Hewitt, wife of a Kansas City traffic engineer. She claims to have brought O. J. McCart, for whose love she is fighting, to California. He is being held by federal authorities on suspicion of violating the Mann act after being arrested here at 525 Salem street by Chief of Police J. D. Fraser. The couple had contracted to buy the home and moved in a few days before the arrest. Mrs. Hewitt is said to be the mother of seven children, and gave as cause for her action the fact that her husband "is so good he has forgotten what love is."

POSTPONE RACES, BICYCLE PARADE

Events Down on Schedule For July 7; Arrange Playground Hours

R. Ernest Tucker of the Community Service announced this morning that the bicycle parade and races for boys and girls scheduled for July 4, have been postponed to Saturday, July 7.

A canvass of a great many of the boys showed that the majority of bicycle enthusiasts would be out of the city on the Fourth. Mr. Tucker also announces the beginning of the summer playground programs today at the three centers located at the high school, Cerritos Avenue and Central Avenue schools. Mr. Tucker's announcement follows: The high school grounds will be in charge of Normal Hayhurst and Miss Shattuck. Miss Shattuck will be in charge from 1 to 4 p. m. Mr. Hayhurst from 4 to 7 p. m. The Central Avenue grounds from 2 to 7 p. m. each day and Edward Bremer will be at the Cerritos Avenue grounds during the same hours.

For Boys and Girls
The program this summer will have activities of interest to both boys and girls. Miss Shattuck will be on the campus in front of the high school each afternoon and invites the smaller children, boys and young women to attend and take part in the play program, consisting of various kinds of activities. The playgrounds will be conducted throughout the summer and the general public is invited to make use of the grounds at any time the directors are on duty.

Prison Morale Better As Lash is Abolished

ATLANTA, Ga., July 2.—Abolition of the lash, a move recently made by the Georgia prison commission, has improved the morale and has not decreased work in Georgia prison camps, according to a statement of Judge F. H. Johnson, of the prison commission, who recently completed a tour of inspection. "I found only one camp where the inmates for the lash had been very solitary confinement. In the other camps, dress and period of visitation were improved. A better spirit among the prisoners and among the wardens and the men are going ahead with their work with better grace, in full time and giving service. I believe I heard complaints on this inspection on any previous one."

CAMPERS WARNED OF FIRE HAZARD

Heavy Grain and Grass Crop Constitutes Menace to Forest Reserves

SACRAMENTO, July 2.—Declaring that there is an unusually great fire hazard this summer because of the great abundance of dry grass and grain, State Forester M. B. Pratt has issued a warning to campers and the general public that extraordinary precautions against fires must be taken if serious losses are to be prevented.

Late rains, the state forester said, have resulted in an unusual amount of grass in the foothills, and a large yield of grain in the valleys. Pratt's warning follows: "Reports from district fire rangers of this board indicate that the fire hazard during the summer months will be unusually great. This situation developed largely from late rains which resulted in heavy crops of grain in the valleys and a great abundance of grass in the foothills regions."

Wants Public to Help
"The board will exert every effort possible to avert serious fires, but it must have the co-operation of the general public. Especially must it have the assistance of campers and tourists. "As head of the forestry office, I most urgently appeal to the people of California to take unusual precautions in guarding against fires. Camp fires should be extinguished carefully and care should be taken in discarding cigarettes and cigars. Unless these precautions are taken great damage may result to the forests and grain fields of the state, and it is the duty of every citizen to assist the state fire-fighting organization in this critical period."

Posses Comb Country For Sheriff's Slayer

ALBANY, Ore., July 2.—Citizen posse groups continued today to comb the country surrounding Albany in search of Rulie Johnson, who, in company with George Parker, escaped in broad daylight yesterday afternoon from the county jail here. Parker was captured a few minutes after he got out. Both were held for the murder of Sheriff W. J. Dunlap.

Jacques Fournier did more to defeat the Giants than his eight teammates. Jacques knocked a home run—his ninth of the season—scoring Brooklyn's two runs, and saved the game by miraculous stops of wild throws.

$100,000,000 Yearly Saving In Cost Of Fuel For Railroads Of Country

One of the great strides made by the railroads during the past seven or eight years has been along the line of fuel economies, and it is estimated that thirty percent of the locomotives in use are now equipped with heat saving devices. It costs an average of about $12,000 a year for fuel for each of the 50,000 locomotives in service and the tremendous sum involved, approximately $600,000,000, has led to the use on an increasing number of locomotives of means to reduce the outlay.

Based partly on figures of the Interstate Commerce commission, partly on experimental data and the figures of the American Railway association, the research department of a machinery corporation has just completed a study showing the possibility of saving in this way at least $100,000,000 yearly. That would amount to about a dollar's worth of coal for every man, woman and child in America.

One of the ways many of the roads are taking to save fuel is through the use of the feed water heater which uses the heat of the exhaust steam to raise the temperature of the water entering the boiler, thereby making it unnecessary to use so much coal to create steam. In other words, more steam can be generated from a pound of coal, which, of course, gives the locomotive more power.

SENATOR GATES DIES
State Senator Egbert J. Gates of South Pasadena, will know in of Grand Island, N. Y., yesterday. He was a victim of heart disease, at the age of 54 years. His body will be shipped west for interment. During the legislative session he served as chairman of the senate finance committee. He was a lifelong Republican and an influential factor in the oil, mining and cattle industry of the southwest. A widow and four children survive.
Chicago dropped back to the second division when the Cards downed them 8 to 7.

MARKETS

NEW YORK, July 2.—The stock market closed firm today. The stocks were stimulated in closing deals by the reductions in the call money rate from six to five per cent. Stocks forged ahead with some degree of vigor, net advances of 2 to 3 points registered by Baldwin at 110, Kelly Springfield at 33, U. S. Rubber at 41½, Studebaker at 101½ and American Can at 87½. The recovery was less marked in the railroads although most issues were advanced to above their previous closing prices. New Haven showed a loss of one point at 133½.

Government bonds unchanged; railroad and other bonds were steady. Stock sales today totaled 904,800 shares; bonds $11,692,000.

In Grain Markets
CHICAGO, July 2.—Grain prices, after displaying strength early in the day, eased off slightly toward the finish today and closed weak. At the opening prices showed an appearance of strength, particularly for wheat and corn, but toward midday the buying let up and a moderate reaction set in. News in general was colorless, both foreign and domestic. The higher Liverpool market was a factor in the early strength locally.

Closing prices were ¼c to ½c lower than the finish of Saturday for wheat; corn, ¼c to ½c off, and oats, ¼c to ½c down. Provisions closed steady for lard, a shade easier for short ribs.

Old Soldier's Regret

Beautiful Glendale, fare thee well!
Fate has decreed that we must part,
No longer on thy charms to dwell,
To say goodbye near breaks my heart.
I had hopes with thee my days to spend
"Mid scenes that I love so well,
Where nature and art in harmony blend,
A Paradise, where a saint may dwell.
Nestled in the bosom of a lovely vale,
From hamlet to city I saw thee grow,
Tourists, from thy gates, will never fail
To tell of thy beauties, wherever they go.
Crowned with a circlet of bonnet braes,
Visitors pause to view with amaze
When they enter the dale where you gracefully lie
In enchanting repose to greet every eye.
This beautiful valley was created for rest
By the Great Architect's kind hand;
Old and young are equally blest
Who dwell in this Beulah land.
For a score of years I have noted with pride
Homes erected for comfort and ease,
Where the Home-seeker can serenely abide
"Midst scenes of nature, the heart to please.
How can I say "Farewell, Farewell,"
To fondest hopes bid adieu,
Like the mournful note of a funeral knell,
When taking a last sad view of you?
Three thousand miles will hold us apart,
By memory's throng, clear and bright
Your picture fondly enshrined in my heart
Till the coming of the endless night.
—Octogenarian.

BULLETIN, TRAINING CAMP.—Since the last rain the streets have been so muddy that newspaper correspondents go to and from the pugilistic training quarters tied together like Alpine climbers in order not to be drawn down into the morasses.

It is probable that Dempsey and Gibbons will meet in the ring shortly.

One sports writer at Dempsey's camp stated that the champion had "gone back" because he did not show up so well "today as he did yesterday."

In view of the variations we have seen in the various tabulations of the measurements of Dempsey and Gibbons, we are forced to the conclusion that these men are prone to shrink and expand.

Latest reports are that roads are impassable about Shelby, Mont., and one disinterested person who thinks more about the comfort of the prospective visitors than he does of the pecuniary gain from the promoters sent out a tip to refrain from trying to make the trip into town by automobile.

Sir Thomas Lipton again is nibbling at that irresistible (or him) bait known as the America's cup. The venerable sportsman probably there is a hen-hill he could annex this trophy, in the quest of which he has spent the best part of his life and in the process of which he has spent several big fortunes.

With the National, American and Pacific Coast leagues having public auction to the highest bidder for cash, the following described person, to wit: On 1918 Dodge touring car bearing license No. 194230, motor No. 175286, that there is a lien held by me against the above described car for storage and repairs amounting to $285.35.

Is there about to dawn on the athletic horizon a track star who will supersede such world's champions as Dan Kelly and Charlie Paddock? Little has been heard of a New York youngster who has been starting the sports critics.

Francis Hussey is a lad in his teens and a member of the Stuyvesant high school. At the Public Schools Athletic League High Schools Outdoor Track and Field Championships, held June 9, this young prodigy won his trial heat in 10 seconds flat, and the final heat in 9 3/5 seconds.

McHugh says he is willing to predict that Hussey will be one of the sprinters selected to represent America in the next Olympic games, and, further, he feels sure the boy will be the next Olympic sprinter champion.

SUBMITS REPORT ON POSTAL MEET

Postmaster Jackson Gives Details of Conference Held in Bay City

Postmaster D. Ripley Jackson has made the following report of the recent postal conference that was held at San Francisco, for submission to the members of his staff and for the information of the people of Glendale.

The postal conference convention, held in San Francisco, was, in my opinion, a great success. While this is a new departure in the postal department, I feel that it should continue and is commendable.

There seems to be a little misunderstanding as to the direct object of these state conventions. One of the objects of the conference convention, and the main object, is to bring into personal contact the department officials, the field officers and the postal workers of the state with the large users of the mails and representatives of the business organizations in the state.

Group Meetings
Various group meetings are planned to embrace all branches of the service, such as group meetings for postmasters, others for supervisors, others for carriers, clerks, rural route carriers, railway mail service and, in fact, all branches of the great postal system. In these group meetings the matters brought up in the form of recommendations, and a committee is selected to condense them and place them before the convention proper. They are of particular interest to the postal workers, more so than the business men, as matters entirely foreign to the ordinary patron of the postoffice are discussed from every viewpoint with those thoroughly familiar with postal conditions and who come in daily contact with problems of the government that require careful study.

The representatives from this office were as follows: Myself, as postmaster; George Hallett, assistant postmaster; Mr. Hunt, foreman; and Mr. Woods, representative of the carriers. Through the co-operation of our Chamber of Commerce, Mr. Hallett was also sent to the convention to represent the Chamber of Commerce.

When we entered the convention, Glendale was a small spot somewhere in California, but when we left it was a great big splash, observable from all parts of the state of California. I feel that our office was very well represented; in fact, we had the largest representation on the percentage basis of any office in Southern California and received the recognition due us.

Glendale Praised
It was very gratifying to hear the name of Glendale mentioned several times in the address of John H. Bartlett, and in a highly favorable manner. This was due in a great extent to the fact that your postmaster had the honor and privilege of an afternoon's visit with our honorable chief, at which time it was his honest endeavor to thoroughly introduce him to the "fastest growing city in America" and acquaint him with its various necessities.

It was also my pleasure at the convention to be personally introduced to Irving H. Glover, third assistant postmaster general, a wonderfully witty and creditable representative of the department, who, by the way, came from my home city in New Jersey.

There will probably be a report published in the Bulletin shortly, so I will not go into detail concerning various recommendations made to the department of various conditions not pertaining particularly to Glendale but to the general betterment of the service, especially on the Pacific coast.

It was my endeavor to have representation at every conference held, which was rather a difficult matter, but we feel that the most vital and important points were thoroughly covered and that the results of this convention will be felt and appreciated throughout California and the west.

We have been authorized, as you know, to obtain bids for new desks. This authorization was due to the untiring efforts of our supervisors, and the matter was thoroughly from every viewpoint, endeavoring, if possible, to obtain a federal building. When we were thoroughly convinced that same was not possible at this time, we exerted our efforts in the direction of new leased quarters. Our efforts were finally crowned with success.

The federal building coming of the U. S. Building Commission and I feel that we will get early consideration when the federal buildings are awarded. According to the personal statement of the first assistant postmaster-general, there are two locations that are at the present time to receive federal buildings, and they are the Perry station at San Francisco and Oakland, Calif.

COMMENT

That's All

Glendale Keeps Building Elements Here Peaceful Development In Mexico Recognition Of Mexico

By Gil A. Cowan

JULY has begun in Glendale with $5,000,000 in building permits written on the books for the first six months. January proved to be another record breaker in making close to a million dollars, not so far behind January, February and March, which made the million mark.

It was the biggest June building in history, according to chronologers. And it is predicted that July will keep the pace. What fine news that is for the people who have held faith with Glendale's future.

One of the most favorable indications among the permits issued Saturday is the construction of an $80,000 store and office building at the corner of Broadway and Maryland avenue.

Tornadoes tearing up things in Kansas, according to reports over the week-end. Thank heaven Glendale hasn't any twisters to torment it. We can just imagine what a mess a cyclonic disturbance would make with all the wooden bungalows here to uproot.

Builders here have to make very little allowance for climatic conditions. Broad gables for shade and good roofs for protection from rain are two essentials, while pergolas and other effects designed to protect the living-room from the midday's warmth are much sought for.

In Kansas, Oklahoma and some parts of Texas, however, one must have a house built to withstand snow, wind and rain, not to mention heat. In addition to this, there should be a cyclone cellar, lightning rods and furnaces to protect against the elements.

Radio development of the last year has been nothing short of marvelous. The other evening the writer "listened in" on one of the concerts, and the feat being performed would have seemed impossible five or six years ago.

"Uncle John" got a party at Bear Lake on the telephone wire, switched the conversation onto the radio and had his friend sing into the telephone, which was transmitted from Bear Lake to Los Angeles by telephone wire, then broadcasted over the ether and heard by thousands more clearly than had they been crowded into range of the singer's voice.

Another unusual feat is for some one at a distant place to call the radio broadcasting station by telephone and tell them how clearly the program is heard. And this conversation is picked up by the radio and returned to them through air almost instantaneously.

Great stuff, we'll say!

A masterful report was rendered by the city planning committee of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce in advocating a great park to surround the Southern Pacific depot site in Southern Glendale. Expensive as the project might seem, there is no question but it would be invaluable as a favorable advertisement to this city.

The proposition to make a park from Brand boulevard to Eulalia street, west of Cerritos, is not too large to think seriously of—and ways and means should be found to get it before the people of Glendale at an early date. They are the ones who should decide whether Glendale is going to meet the Southern Pacific half way in making the Glendale station the most beautiful outside of any of the larger coast cities.

Speaking on the subject of recognition for Mexico, the Pasadena Star-News says editorially: "The International Recognition Commission has reached agreement in the City of Mexico, according to reports which seemingly are authentic. Details are not made known. Apparently, however, every important point on which there has been difference of opinion has been worked out satisfactorily. Should these optimistic reports prove to be correct, full recognition of the government of General Obregon by the government at Washington may be expected soon."

"This will be a consummation that should gratify the governments of the two countries and their respective peoples. The recognition will bring about more cordial feeling. It will promote commercial intercourse between the two countries. It should foster relations of the friendliest nature. Great benefit to both countries should result from this."

Everything possible should be done on both sides of the border to remove all sources of friction between the two countries."

GAS HOUSE GANG HAS MERRY TIME

Kangaroo Court Hears Case Of Booze; Evidence Is Quickly Swallowed

Seventy-five gallons of ice cream consumed—
One hundred gallons of lemonade drunk—
One thousand toy balloons burst—
One million smiles cracked—
By the "gas house gang."

That is the record of the picnic held Saturday by the Southern California Gas Company employees at Glendale-Verdugo Park last Saturday, according to Louis Dell, general chairman of the arrangements committee. It was "some day" in the annals of the growing utility concern and everyone from the "big chief" to lowliest member of the pick and shovel crew were present to enjoy the merry-making.

The feature of the day, perhaps, was kangaroo court over which "Judge" Morse presided. A. B. MacBeth, vice-president and general manager, was tried for having a bottle of "bootleg." Prosecutor Reynolds made things warmer for him than the gas to be had on a cold morning. Defense counsel S. C. Singer of Glendale and R. N. McAllister of San Bernardino proved, however, that the bottle was the property of F. J. Schafer, assistant general manager. The jury in its deliberation considered the evidence by consuming it with the result that "not guilty" was the verdict.

Evidence Disputed
"Judge" Morse overruled a motion for trying Mr. Schafer, declaring there was not sufficient evidence left, an empty bottle being only a small part of a case. More than 1800 spectators howled with glee at the witticisms and the 800 employes congratulated Mr. MacBeth on establishing his innocence.

Later in the day every sort of novelty stunt was staged, including a safety first exhibition, athletic events, pie eating contest, a scramble, etc. Two special electric trains returned visitors from out of town at 20 p. m., but those coming in their own cars remained for dancing which continued throughout the afternoon and evening.

L. A. Team Winner
In the morning the Los Angeles division team won a seven-inning baseball game by a score of nine to three from players picked from the other divisions which included Glendale, San Bernardino, Colton, Downey, Redondo, Van Nuys, Lancaster and other points served by the Southern California Gas Company.

At noon basket lunches were served under the live oak trees and a mad scramble for free ice cream featured the close of the meal. Considerable credit is due members of the Glendale office for arranging the park and signing the highways. As a result nothing was left undone to make it a most happy day.

BOOTH'S HOLIDAY TRIP CONCLUDED

Local Insurance Agent and Family Return From Journey East

Mr. and Mrs. Clinton I. Booth and daughter, Miss Josephine Booth, returned Saturday night to their home at 123 West Lomita avenue, after a month's trip east.

During their journey the family stopped off at Chicago, visiting at Franklin Grove, Ill., for two weeks, where Mr. Booth has a piece of farm property.

They also had a pleasant time at Denver, where they visited for a while, but were glad to be back in Glendale. It had been their original intention to be away much longer than a month, Mr. Booth explained, but they found the nights in Illinois so excessively humid and conditions elsewhere not to be compared with those in this section, that they concluded to cut short their trip and return.

The Booths have lived in Glendale for ten years and consider it their permanent home. Mr. Booth's office is with the local Dodge Brothers automobile agency at 116-120 West Colorado street, where he deals in automobile insurance.

SOLDIERS LEAVE FOR CAMP JULY 7

Local Guardsmen Will Train At Salinas With Other Detachments

Company M and the 3rd battalion, Headquarters Company, of the California National Guards will represent Glendale at the big guardsmen's encampment near Salinas, July 7 to 22, announces J. H. Wittmeyer, commander of Company M, who states that Lieutenant Hooper will command the 3rd battalion, Headquarters Company.

The local detachment will leave here Saturday afternoon, July 7, and will arrive at Salinas Sunday morning, where they will be welcomed by the townspeople with a barbecue breakfast, after which they will be conveyed to their camp by auto, a distance of some five miles.

Among the organizations making up the encampment will be two regiments of infantry, an artillery regiment, a unit of the California Signal Corps, one or two batteries of the regular army and a battalion of regular army infantry, together with army instructors.

Compete For Prizes
Drill will be in the mornings, it is announced, with afternoons given over to athletics and rifle practice. There will be many competitions, with cups and other adequate awards for military excellence.

It is understood that entertainers from the Orpheum circuit will stop off at the encampment twice, on the way down from San Francisco to Los Angeles, to provide the soldiers with high-class vaudeville.

Local guardsmen are all looking forward to a thoroughly good time and a period of valuable instruction at the Salinas encampment, Commander Wittmeyer states.

SWING TO SPEAK AT VETS' PICNIC

Congressman to Lay Stress On Need for Dam at Boulder Canyon

Congressman Phil D. Swing of Imperial Valley is scheduled to be the speaker the afternoon of Imperial Valley Day in Verdugo park, at the picnic of the Spanish War Veterans. His address will be of a patriotic nature, laying especial emphasis upon the importance of the Boulder Canyon dam.

Dr. William C. Mabry of 206 South Brand boulevard, commander of the local camp, this morning predicted an attendance of several hundred at the celebration. He called attention to the fact that large delegations are expected from Los Angeles, Pasadena, Long Beach and other communities.

Monologue Artist to Start Lecture Tour

Mr. and Mrs. Harry James of 1558 East Broadway have closed out the James Phonograph Shoppe at 117 South Brand boulevard, in order that Mr. James may be free to make lecture tours. He has accepted a contract with the Star Piano company of Richmond, Ind., and will lecture upon the manufacture of Genett records. For the summer most of his lectures will be given in this vicinity. In the fall he will make a regular lecture tour.

"In the northwest end of the city, out near Burbank," commented A. Dubb, "there should be located a round house for craps games by the 'stingers,' who are also known as switchmen when they work. Then, down along where the wash meanders under the tracks, a fuelling station should be placed for the convenience of the engines."

First Call to Dinner
Mr. Dubb was quite complete in his think tank. I decided, even though he was unable to say much about it. So giving him another "shot" of the truth serum to hasten things he wound up his plans, as near as one could get them, like this:
"The express offices and railway mail station should be located at the foot of Broadway." Bag-

All Settled, Folks! Depot Will Be Located On Some Stationary Site Everywhere

By GIL A. COWAN
(With apologies to Damon Runyon, et al.)

HEARING so much about the site of the Southern Pacific's new $80,000 station in Glendale from one side and another, it was determined by myself, as committee of one, to interview the "peepul". Not wishing to waste words, it was decided that it would be unfair to call on anyone known to be interested in either Brand boulevard, Cerritos avenue, Eulalia street, Los Feliz road, or any other proposed location. Very simple, I said to myself, to let a lot of disinterested folks decide this question, all the same as a jury.

So the first question I "shoots" to a half hundred people, just like a lawyer, was:
"Are you interested in the proposed site for the Southern Pacific depot?"

And would you believe it, no less than forty-six inno cent sleepers at Eulalia street and first class Pullman patronage ought to be put off at Cerritos avenue, unless they hopped from the rear end of the long trains at Brand boulevard."

Would that satisfy everyone, I queried.
"No," concluded Dubb. "It's impossible to satisfy everyone! Goodbye."

TWO APPROACHES TO DEPOT URGED

Editor The Glendale News: I have read with considerable interest the various pros and cons of the proposed Southern Pacific passenger depot for Glendale. I myself am in favor of the Eulalia street site with entrance also on Redford street from Los Feliz Road. This, in my estimation, will take care of the most for the least. My policy has always been for improvements with economy, and had I been favored by being elected at the last election, I should have fought the unnecessary expenditure of the taxpayers' money, tooth and nail.

I have before me at the present time, the platform card put out by the two elected candidates. It reads: There is no need for any so-called Blue-Laws, Efficiency and Economy in City Government, a lowering of the present tax rate etc., but why on earth the powers that be want to expend city money to open up a new street, or encourage the building of a depot, when we already have one, and which the officials of the Southern Pacific Railroad Co. will improve, without any expense whatever of Glendale's money, is beyond comprehension.

Would Be Costly
The suggestion put forward by a committee of the Chamber of Commerce is rather a tall order and would cost at present prices in the neighborhood of a half a million dollars, and would provide a free park at our expense for the Los Angeles residents just over the railroad track which forms the dividing line of Glendale and Los Angeles. My suggestion is, to remove the lumber yard from the railroad siding and have the railroad company make a double entrance, one from Los Feliz Road, taking care of Hollywood and Pasadena patrons, and Eulalia street entrance would take care of Glendale's quota, coming down on the electric cars. Glendale avenue, a well lighted thoroughfare without any break, would be a safe and very much traveled street to and from the Eulalia street entrance, relieving much of the congestion on San Fernando Road.

Yours Truly,

Speed Test Observer Back From Salt Lake

Hill McGillis of 1093 East Lomita avenue returned Sunday from Salt Lake City, where he had spent the past two weeks following his arrival there on a record speed run from Los Angeles to the Utah metropolis. The record, which cut fourteen minutes from the fastest train time, was made in a stock rock car. McGillis accompanied the party as newspaper observer and timekeeper.

Unaccompanied, Mrs. Brundage alighted from a northbound street car and started across the street when a southbound car struck her. Her left ankle was fractured, her left wrist dislocated, and her right leg so badly crushed that amputation was resorted to in an attempt to save her life.

N. C. Brossius of 122 Palmer avenue, Glendale, is in a Pasadena hospital suffering with probably fatal injuries, received when the automobile he was driving was struck by a Pacific Electric train on Huntington drive.

PLUMBERS STAGE ANNUAL OUTING

Picnickers at Pasadena Hear Reeves Plea for City Park in Glendale

The Glendale, Burbank and Eagle Rock Master Plumbers' association joined hands with the Journeymen Plumbers' local, No. 761, at Brookside park, Pasadena, Saturday, in the second annual Merchant and Journeymen Plumbers' picnic, over 600 plumbers, with their families and friends, enjoying a delightful all-day outing.

City Manager William H. Reeves, of Glendale, addressed the gathering in a plea for a city park, pointing out that at the present time we were forced to impose upon the hospitality of individuals or neighboring cities, whenever we wanted to hold picnic or a large public gathering.

President Sands, of Local No. 761, delivered a short address on co-operation, after which a series of keenly contested athletic events were run off, under the supervision of John G. Pridley, chairman of the entertainment committee.

Boss Plumbers Win
Among the winners were the following: J. H. Johnson, men's free-for-all, who received as a prize a beautiful leather card-case; Mrs. C. E. Mayo, women's free-for-all, the lucky recipient of an elaborate vanity-case with an electric light for the mirror; and Mr. Cassitas, salesmen's race, recipient of a handsome leather brief-case.

The master plumbers distinguished themselves in the arena, winning tug-of-war events from both journeymen and salesmen.

Bert Lance, chairman of the "eats" committee, was most liberal when he measured the crowd for their appetites, providing 300 pounds of barbecue meat, 50 gallons of ice cream, 1200 bottles of Green Hill ginger ale and 1200 buns, in addition to many other details of nourishment.

Then entire day, from the 9 o'clock morning parade to the return at sunset, was voted an outstanding success from every angle.

Eagle Rock, Burbank And Glendale People In Crash; Four Dead; Two Others Hurt

SUNDAY motor accidents in and near Los Angeles resulted in deaths of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Morgan of 1554 West Elmwood avenue, Eagle Rock, Mrs. Emily A. Brundage of Burbank, and in the serious injury of N. C. Brossius of 122 Palmer avenue, Glendale. The accident in which Mr. and Mrs. Morgan were fatally injured occurred in Whittier and Mr. Morgan's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Morgan of 336 North Newlin avenue, Whittier, were both instantly killed. This morning David Young, 4006 Sequoia, Los Angeles, was killed and his brother, A. T., same address, slightly injured, when their auto was struck by a train at Park avenue and the Southern Pacific crossing. Details of the accident are given elsewhere in this issue of The Evening News.

Disaster overtook the Morgan family when the automobile in which they were riding collided with a Union Pacific gasoline motor interurban car at the Hadley street crossing in Whittier. It was said to be the maiden trip of the gasoline interurban. The crash occurred at 2:10 p. m., as the Morgan family, in a light sedan, were crossing the Union Pacific tracks.

Didn't See Warnings
Apparently Mr. Morgan did not see the oncoming train nor did he see the warning wig-wag signal. A witness stated that the light car drove upon the tracks, and that the Union Pacific car, going at high speed, struck the automobile fairly on the side, lifted it and carried it some distance down the track.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Morgan, Miss Morgan and Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Morgan were thrown out of the wrecked machine and fell along the right of way.

Hurried to Hospital
They were picked up by passing motorists and hurried to a Whittier hospital, where it was found that the elder Morgans, father and mother, were already dead, but that life still remained in the younger couple. Their injuries, however, were fatal, and they died within an hour.

Miss Morgan was cared for at the hospital, where it was stated that her wounds were dangerous, but not necessarily fatal.

Another accident victim was Emily A. Brundage, 72 years of age, of Burbank, who was run over by a street car at Avenue Twenty-six and Siebel street, Los Angeles, receiving injuries which caused her death a short time later.

NOVEL SCARECROW WILL SAVE FRUIT

Small Pieces of Glass, Hung To Vines, Drive Birds Away From Garden

T. W. Preston, Glendale resident of 330 North Jackson street, who is the owner of one of the most beautiful and productive gardens in the city, is offering a valuable suggestion to owners of fruit trees and berry vines.

Like many other Glendaleans and Californians, Mr. Preston has lost a great majority of fruit and berry crops to the birds. Finally a friend from Iowa told him to take small pieces of glass and suspend them from limbs and branches by long pieces of string. The glass dangling and shining in the sun frightens the birds.

Mr. Preston found the scheme most satisfactory and is passing it on to other Glendaleans through the columns of the Glendale Evening News.

NEW YORK, July 2.—“New York bootleggers are the most accommodating in the world,” says J. Arthur Grady, Pueblo (Colo.) police chief, Gotham visitor, studying metropolitan law enforcement. “I see ‘em give a tin cup ‘n’ six pencils with every drink sold on Broadway—no delay in case you go blind. But,” Grady adds, “the stuff they sell here as potent liquor wouldn’t even pass for a chaser” out in his home town, where the West begins. Grady sat with municipal judge while 100 users of “Bovary Smoke”—New York’s strongest hooch—passed for sentence. “They’re all alive,” said Grady in wonder. “Out in my town we give ‘em to the coroner—not the court.”

This is a place I feel like exploring,” said Stubby. “You go downstairs and I’ll go up, and we will meet in the courtyard in half an hour.”

“But how are you going to get upstairs, when you don’t know where the stairs are?” asked Button.

“I’ll find them. Do you see that arched doorway in the middle of the door, leading to those great iron doors behind? Well, to one side of them I bet I’ll find a pair of stairs if this house is built on the plan of most Spanish houses. I am going to try, anyway,” which he did.

And, as he surmised, Stubby found the front stairs of the house to the right of the door. From here he could hear the peculiarly sweet tones of a woman’s voice as she sang a sad, Spanish song to the accompaniment of her own guitar.

Not seeing anyone, Stubby crept up the steps softly, and when he reached the top found himself facing a long veranda, which was fitted up with all kinds of divans, swinging couches, low stools, roomy wicker chairs, and taboretts on which were smoking sets. On tables were baskets of fruit, fancywork books and papers, and hanging from the ceiling were swinging baskets of flowers and trailing vines interspersed with gilt cages in which were all kinds of songsters and birds of bright plumage.

On a stand, fast asleep, sat a gorgeous red, green and yellow parrot.

Opening on this veranda were French glass doors. Stubby crept on and took a peep into the first one, but could see little for the front windows were shut, but from the dim outlines and the size of the room he judged it must be a reception or ball room. The floor was highly polished, and all the chairs and couches were arranged around the room close to the walls, under long glass mirrors in gold frames that reached to the high ceiling.

Stubby decided that it must be

If Exhaust Odors Are Noticeable Within a Car Look Out for Gas Leaks

Newspaper accounts of ill effects suffered by persons driving in closed cars and ascribed to the presence therein of exhaust gases have recently been going the rounds, and it is to be feared, may have created an exaggerated idea of the danger arising from this source. No doubt, if exhaust gas is allowed to enter the body space of a closed car, in large volumes, when inadequate ventilation is provided, especially when the engine is operating without complete combustion of its charges, a passenger who remains in the car for a considerable length of time might be seriously affected by carbon monoxide gas. Fortunately, the occurrence of

A REAL CURE FOR “MUSIC”

A New York judge has invented a cure for “music” which comes to fill a long-felt want. A man with the phonograph disease Made the night hideous in a certain neighborhood. And nothing seemed to stop him. He preferred jazz, which is music’s most objectionable form. He was arrested and fined. But he just couldn’t stop. Then he was arrested again. And the magistrate fined him. All the money he had. It seems a pity that this cure cannot be tried, for instance, in our neighborhood, where we have nine sopranos, five pianos, comb, under one corner of which was stuck a drooping red, red rose. Her gown was of yellow satin, cut with low neck and short sleeves, from which fell ruffles of lace, and on her hands many rings sparkled.

Uncle Wiggily Bedtime Stories

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY CUTS SOME WOOD

“You ask him, Floppy.”
“No, Curly, you said you’d ask, and if you don’t I’m going back home and ask mother to give me some sour milk pudding.”

Uncle Wiggily Longears, the old rabbit gentleman, heard these words one day as he sat on the front porch of his hollow stump bungalow.

“I should know those voices,” said Mr. Longears to himself, smiling the least little bit and twinkling his pink nose. “They belong to Curly and Floppy Twistytail, for none but little pigs would talk of sour milk pudding. But I wonder what it is they are after.”

Uncle Wiggily stood up, looked over the hedge and saw the two piggie brothers rooting their way along through the clear sand.

“What is it you want of me?” asked the rabbit.

“We came over to get your axe,” grunted Curly, “and Floppy said he would ask you for it, but now he’s afraid and he wants me to ask you for it and—er—now—and—”

Curly was getting very bashful and blustered, but Uncle Wiggily smiled in a jolly way and said: “I understand. You little piggies want to take my sharp cutting axe. But what for? I’m afraid you might hurt yourselves. Why do you want the axe?”

“If you please,” grunted Floppy, who didn’t wish his brother to do all the talking. “If you please, Uncle Wiggily, we want to help old Poppy Chat by cutting his firewood for him. We want to help Poppy Chat get in his wood for the winter, as Sammie and Susie Littletail last week helped Mommy Bunch dig a well so she could get water.”

“Oh, so that’s the idea, is it?” laughed Uncle Wiggily. “And a very good idea it is, too. But as it is dangerous for you little piggie boys to use the axe, I’ll go along with you and help cut the wood. Only who is Poppy Chat? I don’t believe I ever heard of him.”

“Poppy Chat is an old squirrel gentleman who lives down the road,” explained Floppy. “He lives all by himself and he was once partly shot by a hunter man, so he is lame and he couldn’t get in his winter wood very well. So we’re going to help him get a lot of sticks and chips to keep him warm when it snows.”

“That’s fine!” exclaimed Uncle Wiggily, “and I’ll help you.” So the rabbit gentleman took his sharp cutting axe from the shed, and he and the little piggie boys were soon on their way to the nest house in the old tree where Poppy Chat lived. He was called Chat because, when he was a young squirrel, he used to chatter like Billie and Johnnie Bushytail.

“Hello, who goes there?” called Poppy Chat when he heard the feet of Uncle Wiggily and the piggie boys rustling in the dried leaves. “Who goes there?” he called Poppy Chat, for once he was a little squirrel.

“Friends to cut your firewood,” answered Uncle Wiggily. “Curly, Floppy and I are going to chop

DINNER STORIES

A stranger visiting a little village in a Scotch settlement for the first time was surprised to find two large Presbyterian churches facing each other on the main street. He sought enlightenment of a passing native, rectes Judge.

“What was the reason for building two big churches of the same religion in a place this size?” he asked.

“Surely, one would accommodate the entire village.”

“Yes, you’re right,” admitted the stranger. “One would be plenty big enough, but there’s two, different classes of Presbyterians in this place and so they had to have two churches.”

“What’s the difference in their religious views?”

“Well, so far as I can find out,” drawled the native, “one church believes that Adam got bad after he ate that there apple while the other bunch is convinced he was a darned rascal from the start.”

When the door bell rang the second time Mrs. Jones, thinking that the servants had not heard, answered herself. She was surprised and delighted to find her brother, whom she had not seen for two years. She threw

Tapped into Shoe Leather

TODAY'S SHORT STORY, BY Ad Schuster

"You here again?" Jud Corlett, cobbler, drew down his ash-gray eyebrows and stared mock ferocity at a pale little girl who had sidled in the door. "Looking for buttons to make necklaces? Want a little blacking for your eyebrows? Don't you know children are nuisances?"

Instead of pretending fright and carrying out the game that had been theirs so long, Nellie fingered a piece of shoe leather and summoned courage to such a serious subject. "I'm not making necklaces any more," she said. "I am a big Aunt says I am big enough to help earn my keep. I am going to quit school and go to work. Perhaps, she just said perhaps, you could find me a job."

"What are you going to do about school? How about the singing lessons? How about geography and arithmetic? Whatcha going to do, to wash and scrub or study, you know enough to make money? How can a little girl like you work?" Jud asked the questions fiercely. "Now, listen, Mr. Corlett—Miss Corlett!"

"Uncle Jud, then. You know I'm crippled and can't walk. I'm here because I can't get the house. She won't take care of me and I guess she's dead. She has taken care of me, and now, I guess, it's time to look care of her, or helped me to look for a job. That's what I wanted today." The girl but to leave the old man with a problem.

Ma Mason making that kid. The cobbler emphasized the comment with blows upon leather. "Bet she has ten in the bank. Doesn't she touch her principal, that's what she can't live for, can she?" she knew an education was the girl a real chance to get out of here. "And she gets old enough?" And Nellie grumbled and swore she would work, just as if the trouble was hers.

Nellie, now she could walk, had visited the old man's house and had been smart enough to see his gruff manner was pretense, and was the one child in the neighborhood to win his love. Perhaps it was because she was used to getting people, or because her lonely spirit sensed the companionship of another equally lonely. Jud scolded and scowled, but Nellie laughed and played with the shoe buttons and scraps of leather. She came to mean more to him than anyone else!

The children in the school ought back work that Nellie quit her classes to go to work. It was said she made $12 a week. After a few days of discussion the neighborhood decided it as settled. Each morn-

Prepared Especially for The Glendale Evening News

1552

The lovely model to the left provides a distinct accent to the vogue of soft, frilly frocks. It is fashioned of almond green voile and has a deep yoke with kimono sleeves, which may be lengthened to a dozen or so of frills to achieve the smartness the skirt demands, but they are not difficult to make, as their edges are picoté. Medium size requires 4 1/2 yards 36-inch material.

1579

The French voiles lend themselves to the most fascinating draped effects. To the right is a frock in sandalwood voile, with a closing at the left side. The waist has an oval-shaped neck and distended shoulders, so that the sleeves may be short or long. The attached one-piece gathered skirt has lapped fronts, the right front hanging free to form a cascade. Medium size requires 3 1/4 yards 40-inch material.

DON'T FIDGET

It's easy enough to tell a girl to sit at ease, to stand quietly, to talk readily to old or new friends, but it's hard advice to follow. After all, there's something to be said for the old-time schools for girls, before the so-called "higher education" became common. They taught a little drawing—romantic landscapes with mills and running water, or flowers minutely drawn; they taught a little singing and playing, without giving much knowledge of real music; they taught embroidery, which no one wants nowadays, and fine sewing which no one has time to do, and they taught grace and social ease. Some one has wittily said that they never taught a woman anything to say, but they did teach her how to say it.

I'd very much like to see some of the old "educational frills" introduced into our public schools. It's not that I want to sacrifice higher mathematics or advanced languages (we all know we don't pay enough attention educationally to other languages), it's only that so many girls leave school able to speak Latin with greater fluency than their own tongues. They're well developed mentally, but tongue-tied socially. They can pass exams easily, but fidget in company, avoid making new friends because they're self-conscious, or because they're not sure how they should act, so whatever their brilliancy is, they're hopelessly overlooked.

I'd like to see girls have more classes in gymnastics to build them straight and strong; in voice development, so they would speak softly and with proper accent; in social mannerisms, so they would not be self-conscious. That sort of thing can be taught. Our old-fashioned finishing schools proved it.

Now add a dressing by combining 1 cup of stale bread crumbs, 2 tablespoons of melted butter, 3 small onions finely chopped and peeled, one teaspoon of salt, a generous dash of pepper, two tablespoons of beef drippings melted, and one-third teaspoon of sage. Mix this dressing well together and add a very little boiling water—enough to moisten slightly. Spread the dressing over the meat, then roll the slice of meat up like a jelly-roll, and fasten it in its rolled shape either with skewers or with string. Brown this meat-roll on all sides in your frying pan, in beef dripping, then transfer it to a baking dish, sprinkle more chopped onion around it (about six more onions, minced), add boiling water to half cover the meat-roll, and bake for two hours in a moderate oven with the dish tightly covered. Serve with a gravy made from the liquid left in the casserole (that is, simply thicken this liquor with a little flour).

Chicken-Pea Ramekins—Open one can of boned chicken and discard the jellied portions, using only the firm small meat pieces. Season to taste with salt and pepper, then moisten well with a simple cream sauce made by heating milk to the boiling point, then thickening it with a little flour-and-water paste till the consistency of corn

THE RIGHT TO BE HAPPY

Youth expects a perpetual banquet of happiness, and at the first disillusionment charges the universe with falsehood and ingratitude.

Where do we get that idea that some one has promised that we should be happy? That it is our right to be happy, and that if we aren't happy, we have been somehow cheated.

What is happiness, anyway? It doesn't bear thinking about too closely, does it? It's like beauty, if you try hard to define it, and understand it and analyze it, you drive it away. "If you touch them, they vanish."

Are You Happy?
Ask anyone if he is happy and he will have to stop and think. Ask him if he is perfectly happy and you will get a positive answer from one in a thousand.

symp; add a generous piece of butter to this hot sauce and turn it at once over the chicken and peas in the ramekins. Sprinkle buttered bread crumbs on top of each little dish, and bake for twenty-five minutes in a good oven—or until the crumbs are brown and the dish hot and well cooked.

Salmon, European Style—Buy from the fish market a two-pound slice of fresh salmon. Put this slice into boiling water with two teaspoons each of vinegar and salt. Let simmer for thirty minutes, or until the fish is soft. Then remove it to a serving dish and pour over it the following dressing: Boil one-half cup of vinegar with a tiny piece of bay leaf and two whole cloves for five minutes, and turn this hot vinegar over the fish at once. Let the dish cool, then chill it. Serve garnished with lemon, beets and pickles. (This is an excellent dish to serve when the housekeeper must be away till almost dinner time, for it may be prepared early in the day and kept in the ice chest till night.)

Auto-Intoxication and the Intestinal Flora

"The term 'auto' means self-antibiotography, a biography written by oneself; automobile, a machine that runs by itself; auto-intoxication, the intoxication or the poisoning produced in oneself.

The term "auto-intoxication" is applied to a poisoning of the system due to the over-development of harmful putrefactive bacteria in the intestines. This is brought about when excess amounts of food are taken in general or in particular, such as excess of protein or carbohydrates or fats, thus causing an improper balance in foods.

Under these conditions the foods are not properly digested, the proteins putrefy, the carbohydrates ferment, and the fats become rancid. This forms a mass in which the putrefactive bacteria predominate excessively in the intestinal flora. I shall have to explain about the intestinal flora.

Germs, as I have explained to you before, are microscopic plants and they live everywhere except on things that are sterilized by boiling or sterilizing.

I would urge people not to expect too much happiness. And yet how often the party we have planned and looked forward to proves a disappointment because of the intensity and height of our expectations. Whereas the little impromptu party from which we expect little brings us much pleasure.

"Life is full of sweet savor to those who do not expect what it cannot bring."

I cannot remember who it was said that but he, too, plainly believed that one can heighten one's enjoyment of life by controlling unreasonable expectations as well as by trying to control events.

the putrefactive bacteria and fermentation and decomposition of food, are absorbed into the blood, producing the condition we call auto-intoxication, or self-poisoning—probably combined more or less with acidosis.

This self-poisoning may be mild or severe, and if it continues for any length of time it produces a diminished vitality in the tissues and the foundation is laid for many diseases. Bilious attacks, all sorts of aches and pains, gout, rheumatism, sick headaches, nervous exhaustion, constipation, excess gas, finally anemia and numerous other disorders may result.

On a too high animal-protein diet—especially the proteins of meat and fish—the putrefactive bacteria are very prone to become excessive. In these cases the intestinal flora must be changed. An exclusive fruit diet for two or three days will do this or an exclusive milk or buttermilks diet. Buttermilk artificial-ly made of the Bulgarian or Acidophiles types is especially effective. The lactose or milk sugar of the milk encourages the growth of the harmless lactic acid germ and discourages the growth of the putrefactive germs. Kellogg advises milk sugar, two or three ounces, to be taken during the day also.

If you are suffering from auto-intoxication, correct your condition and don't let it happen again. Avoid excess animal protein; have a properly balanced diet containing a large element of the green leaf vegetables and milk—the protective foods; and get some good, vigorous exercise every day, especially of the trunk. Prevent constipation by exercise and by fruits and cellular vegetables in your diet and the addition of agar or bran or mineral oil, if necessary.

A large amount of the stock, although registered in the names of stock brokers, is actually owned by a great many different individuals, clients of such brokers. Furthermore, many of the registered stockholders are executors, trustees, guardians, etc., representing individuals who are the beneficial owners. If, therefore, a list of the actual owners could be compiled, it would greatly exceed 51,016, and the average holding would be considerably less than 63 shares. Again, large amounts of the stock are owned by life insurance companies and savings banks, who, though actually owning the stock, really hold it for the benefit of vast numbers of life insurance policy holders and savings bank depositors.

Union Pacific stock, like the country's trade, follows the flag. Stockholders are found in every state of the Union, and in Alaska, the Canal Zone, Guam, Hawaii, Philippine Islands and Porto Rico.

Were these 51,016 Union Pacific stockholders assembled at one place, they would make a population as large as that of Lincoln, Butte, Topeka, Long Beach, Pasadena or Pueblo. They represent a greater number than the combined populations of Colorado Springs, Boulder and Greeley in Colorado, or Ogden, Provo and Logan in Utah.

This widespread distribution conclusively answers the statement that the railways are owned and controlled by a few persons. To an extent not generally recognized, the railways are owned by the public. The subject comes home to every household when it is considered that life insurance policy holders and savings bank depositors are partners in the operation and development of our railways.

The public and our employees should know that we are working, not for a few wealthy men, but for an army of more than 50,000 persons, almost half of whom are women and most of whom are persons of moderate means.

To serve well the public and these shareholders is the highest ambition of the 46,555 officers and employees of the Union Pacific Family.

The Union Pacific's constant effort is to furnish its patrons and the general public with the best brand of transportation that can be manufactured.

Constructive suggestions are always welcome.

C. R. GRAY, President, Omaha, Nebraska.

Sermon Excerpts And News Notes From Local Churches

CHURCHES of Glendale held solemn, impressive services yesterday, attended by large crowds. Pastors preached on varied topics and special music was provided by soloists and choirs. Herewith are presented brief excerpts from sermons and, too, other church news:

Liberty Comes From Allegiance to Law

"The Declaration of Independence" was the topic of the sermon yesterday morning at the First Congregational church.

The text was taken from the thirty-second verse of the eighth chapter of St. John: "Ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free."

"Eighty years ago Thomas Carlyle said that freedom needed new definition," declared Rev. C. M. Calderwood. "It is still true. The average man mistakes license for freedom. All of us need to remember the words over the court-house door of Worcester, Mass.: 'Obedience to law is liberty.'"

"Liberty is a precious work, but it means vastly more than the exercise of civil rights. Liberty of speech, press, petition, suffrage, worship and thought are guarded by the Constitution of the United States. These are the priceless possessions of our day. They are worth fighting for and dying for, and men have fought and died for them."

"The highest liberty comes through allegiance to highest law. Perfect liberty is perfect obedience to perfect law. 'No art, no science, no life can be perfectly free without knowledge of the truth. It is frequently said that creeds enslave, sense do. But the proper creed properly used is a declaration of independence. The man who disobeys the ten commandments is more of the slave than the man who obeys them.'"

God Ever With His People, Says Pastor

"Under the shadow of the Almighty" was the subject of the sermon yesterday morning at the First Lutheran church.

"God is ever with His people," said Dr. H. C. Funk. "He does not need to be brought down from Heaven. Nor yet does He need to be brought out of the depths beneath. He has not gone off on a journey or on a vacation that we must await His return."

"God is possessed of unlimited power and pervades all being with His presence. And yet, although He is ever near, how little do we seem to realize it. We call upon Him in the sanctuary, and we go to and from the House of Prayer, but even here to many He is only a shadow—the tradition of one who once communed with us."

"The condition for securing the abiding presence of our Lord is a life of holy communion with Him. Thus we say in the third article of the creed: 'I believe in the communion of saints.'"

"His that dwelleth in the secret places of the Most High"—that is to say, he who acquaints himself with God, who, through faith by an act of decision, chooses God for his guardian, will find in Him all that he may desire. Yea, verily, God himself will be his continual habitation, a place where he may always find rest for his soul."

The basement of the capitol at Washington served as a military bakery during the civil war.

VOICE OF SPIRIT IS LOVE MESSAGE

Power of Gentleness Shown In God's Treatment of Troubled Prophet

The message at the Glendale Presbyterian church yesterday morning was a continuation of the popular "Summer Sunday Sermons" and the title was "The Still Small Voice" (a sound of gentle stillness) from the two Old Testament texts, I Kings 19:11-13 and 19:1-8. In part Rev. W. E. Edmonds said: "In this subject we have a beautiful expression and it has almost come to be recognized as one of the names of the Holy Spirit. The whole scene occurs at the climax of Elijah's marvelous ministry. The whole nation has been swayed at his will, even the king is helpless as a child at his bidding. He is easily the most talked of man in all the kingdom. But there is another heart in Israel as thoroughly possessed of the devil as the heart of Elijah is possessed by the Holy Spirit. When Jezabel hears of Elijah's wonderful doings on Mt. Carmel she threatens his life. Then Elijah flees to the utmost confines of the kingdom. Lying down under the juniper tree he cries out, 'Lord, take away my life for I am no better than my fathers.' But God touched His weary prophet and he slept and when he awakens God feeds him by angel hands until he is strong enough to go forth and stand upon the mount before he had felt his life a failure."

"The Lord passed by in a great and mighty wind. Then the rocks are rent asunder. This is followed by a wonderful fire from the Lord. But the Lord was not in the wind or the earthquake or the fire. Then comes an awful, yet gentle stillness, a strange stillness, sweeter than a mother's lullaby, gentler than music's tenderest notes. Elijah creeps into a cave and falls upon his face before God. The stern prophet of Carmel is like a little child. What is the meaning of all this drama, 'Elijah's lesson was that he needed to be quiet, he needed to know the mighty power of gentleness. God cannot speak to us amid the noise and turmoil of life. His voice is the still small voice of the Holy Spirit in the soul.'"

"Holy Spirit Speaks"

"A further lesson to us is that we are no longer under the law of Sinai. The law made nothing perfect. The whirlwind, earthquake and fire are gone but the still small voice of Calvary and Pentecost is speaking to millions of hearts. The Holy Spirit is speaking to our conscience, the still small voice of the soul. 'The winds are carnal and fire have their parallels in our lives. Tempests rend our hearts and crush our spirits. Suffering has a wondrous saving power in itself. This old willful heart needs the quiet Divine influence of the Holy Spirit. Suffering apart from the Holy Spirit is the saddest thing on earth. Trials and unsanctified are like lightning strokes, they blight but they cannot bless.'"

"The keynote of this story is the voice after the fire. To us it is a personal message of love. There is a special voice for every one of His children, and it is our privilege to know His voice. 'How great the power of gentleness. Gentleness, meekness, lowliness, humility are among the greatest of Christian graces. If we are to imitate His gentleness we need the wisdom and guidance of the Holy Spirit.'"

"How great the power of stillness. In the busiest life there may be a place where we dwell alone with God in eternal stillness. This is the only way to know God. God is waiting in the depths of every believer's soul to talk with him if he will only be still enough to hear His voice. This is the solution to many trials and burdens and the cry of war and fret and doubt. We must have quiet hours and secret places. We must wait upon the Lord and renew our strength. 'Another kind of stillness. The enemies of Christ did their worst. His power was silence. In stillness God gives us this silent power, this mighty self-surrender, this conquered spirit. Like us, Elijah was looking forward to better things. The crowning day is coming. Heaven is not far away when believing hearts fellowship together. O, that marvelous moment when the dead in Christ shall rise first.'"

Los Angeles Pastor Fills Local Pulpit

Rev. B. C. Cory of Atwater park, Los Angeles, was in charge of the service Sunday morning at the Casa Verdugo Methodist Episcopal church, taking as his text the words "For He Endured, Seeing Him as Being Invisible" and dwelling upon the vision that has led to great results, notably in modern as well as ancient history. Taking the Bible as a photograph of character, he drew remarkably beautiful illustrations, emphasizing his theme. Mrs. Waldo Winger sang a beautiful soprano solo, "My Redeemer and My God."

Conversion of Saul Bible Class Theme

"The Conversion of Saul of Tarsus" was the subject of the address yesterday morning in the council chamber of the city hall before the Men's Brotherhood of the Presbyterian church.

"No journey was ever taken on which so much interest has concentrated as that of Saul from Jerusalem to Damascus!" said Rev. Keith L. Brooks of Eagle Rock. "His conversion on the road was like the call of a second Abraham."

"Paul later described his condition prior to his conversion. He was the greatest moralist and religionist in the whole land but he had to climb down the ladder of self-righteousness and accept Jesus Christ before God could do anything with him. If he had to climb down, it is no use for anyone else to climb up."

"We have in Saul one grand proof of the fact that a man may be conscientious and absolutely wrong at the same time—both the chief of moralists and the chief of sinners. He saw the glorified Christ and was regenerated by the Holy Spirit."

John S. McGroarty at First Congregational

John Steven McGroarty, of Tujunga, author of the Mission Play and a history of California, occupied the pulpit last night at the First Congregational church.

Special music was provided by a men's choir, which sang "Mighty God, While Angels Bless Thee" and "Evening Star," both by Bernard.

A male quartet sang "The Shadows of the Evening Hour," by Bernard. This was composed of Julian S. Hayward of 428 West Lexington drive, E. P. Hayward of 513 North Isabel street, K. M. Payne of 343 Pioneer drive and R. Dale Crampton of 600 West Broadway.

Henry Cantor of Los Angeles sang as a tenor solo, "Cujus Animus," from Rossini's "Stabat Mater."

Organ numbers played by Miss Lilla Litch of 424 North Louise street included "Adoration" by Borowski, and the finale from Guileman's "Fourth Sonata."

Sermon Stirs Hearers At Evangelistic Meet

Rev. Swaney preached a powerful sermon last night at the Nazarene tent on West Harvard street, on the theme, "A Mighty Savior." The evangelist took his theme from Isaiah, 63:1, delivering as gripping and eloquent an address as any he has offered since the opening of the campaign.

The musical program included a selection by the Scheidegger Hull quartet and a duet by Mr. and Mrs. Hull.

Rev. Swaney states that there will be services every night this week but Saturday, the meetings opening at 7:30 o'clock, preceded by a nightly prayer service at 7:15 o'clock.

Minister Starts on Vacation in Canada

Rev. J. C. Livingston will leave today, via Southern Pacific, for an absence of several weeks. His destination will be Port Dover, on Lake Erie, Can. He spent Sunday morning in San Pedro where he was one of the speakers at the dedication of a new Methodist church, just completed by the congregation of which he was pastor for four years. He delivered his farewell sermon last night to his congregation at the Casa Verdugo church. His text was "To Whom Shall We Go?" His sermon centered on the personality of Christ. Robt. D. Jones sang a solo, "What Would You Have Done?"

Rev. Rasmus Preaches At Methodist Church

Rev. Henry L. Rasmus, Jr., occupied the pulpit at both services yesterday of the First Methodist church.

"The Great Adventure" was the subject of the morning sermon, while in the evening he had as his topic "The Flag and the Cross."

Music of the morning included a duet by Dr. P. O. Lucas of 115 South Verdugo road and Glenn Dolberg of 206 1/2 West Broadway: Bassford's "My Faith Looks Up to Thee," Mrs. H. W. Randall of 44 North Kenwood street played the organ numbers "Andante," by Silas, "Grand Offertory," by Batiste, and "Postlude," by Lemaigre.

WORLD COURT, THEME

"The World Court as Set Forth by President Harding" was the subject of the sermon by Dr. V. Hunter Brink yesterday morning at the Central Avenue Methodist church. He took as his evening topic, "Christian Citizenship."

Dr. W. L. Y. Davis of Pasadena, district superintendent of the Methodist Episcopal church, occupied the pulpit last night at the Pacific Avenue Methodist church.
