A BRIEF HISTORICAL RELATION

OF

STATE AFFAIRS,

Tuesday, 1 Januar.—On Sunday, about 10 at night, the duke of Marlborough, the duke of Shrewsbury and his dutchesse, the earls of Sunderland and Rochfort, the marquesse D'Allegre, a French general, and some other officers, with 36 colours and standards taken last campagne in Flanders by forceing the lines, as also monsieur Buys, the Dutch envoy, arrived here: they bring account that the ratification of the treaty with the elector palatine for sending 7000 of his troops for Italy was concluded; as also that with the king of Prussia for continuing 8000 of his men one year longer in Italy. That the French have agreed to the treaty for exchange of 8000 prisoners with the Dutch; and that the states have sent monsieur Geldermalson to the princes of the empire to be ready with their quotas early in the feild next spring, that the English general may not meet with any more disappointments; which if they doe, Germany must defend it self.

A commissioner of the navy is gone for Portsmouth to pay off the seamen of capt. Price's squadron, designed to convoy our regiments to Lisbon.

Cloaths for 20,000 men are making here by order of the king of Portugal for his army; and accoutrements for 1000 horse are also getting ready to be sent our forces in Catalonia.

This being the first of January, the lord keeper has refused taking new years gifts from the officers in Chancery and counsellors at law, which has been usual for them to present his lordship with on this day, amounting to at least 1500*l.*, his lordship looking upon it to be an ill custome.

Thursday, 3 Januar.—Yesterday the duke of Marlborough ordered coll. Durell to carry 4 French generals and as many colonels taken in forcing the lines in Flanders to Nottingham, and the colours to be put up in Westminster hall.

The other 12 prisoners have leave to come on shore a days, but at night to return on shipboard, until a place for their imprisonment shall be appointed by the queen.

Same day our Jamaica merchants received letters from thence, that one of our men of war had taken a French ship coming from the Havana worth 40,000*l.*

A great fleet of ships are lading corn to be carried to Spain and Portugal, and will take the benefit of capt. Price's squadron for their convoy.

The queen has given to the officers and soldiers who lost their horses last campagne by mortality, 30,000*l.* to recruit them.

The battle reported to be fought in Italy is contradicted.

The merchants of Geneva have wrote to their correspondents here to forbear sending them any commodities from hence, the emperor having resolved to cause the same to be stopt, passing thro the empire as contraband goods, by reason of the late treaty between the duke of Anjou and the Switzers; of which last the republick of Geneva is an allie: but application is made to our court to remove that obstruction to our trade with that citty, which contributes very much to the exportation of our woollen manufacture.

Saturday, 5 Januar.—The duke of Shrewsbury since his arrival hath been to wait on her majestie and kindly received; the lord treasurer and most of the court have been to visit him and his dutchesse, who have taken a house in St. James's street, and some say he will be made lord chamberlain.

We hourly expect to hear of our fleet's being sailed from Torbay.

It's said the states general, having sent no men of war upon the descent, have agreed with the queen that their ships shall guard the coasts of England, and convoy all vessels to and from Holland.

Sir Cloudsley Shovell's fleet consists of 19 large English men of war, 10 frigats, 120 transports, and 28 Dutch transports, besides fireships, bomb vessels, tenders, &c.

To morrow will be due 3 Holland mails.

Saturday, 24 August.—Yesterdays letters from Ostend of the 27th, N. S., advise that the governer of Menin beat a parley the 22d, and the 25th the garrison (which from 4000 men was reduced to 1700) march't out for Dovay with their arms, baggage, colours flying, 6 cannon, 2 mortars, 40 waggons, whereof 6 covered; the taking of which place (which opens a way into France,) it's said, has cost the allies above 1000 men killed, and 2000 wounded.

That great number of pioneers were employed in levelling the works and repairing the fortifications.

That general Fagell, with 25,000 men, was detach't to invest Ipres, the reducing whereof will facilitate the attacking of Dunkirk.

That brigadeer general Cadogan was exchanged for brigadeer general Pallavicini, taken at Ramellies.

That the French are retiring towards Labasse, not able to make a stand against the duke of Marlborough; and some letters say Vendosm has putt all his troops into fortified towns, and gone post to Versailles.

From Paris of the 23d, that a general fast is appointed there the 27th, to implore a blessing over the French kings arms.

That the seige of Turin is carried on with vigour.

And that it's confirmed from Spain that king Charles and the earl of Peterborough have joined the earl of Galloway; that the two armies were in sight, and king Charles was preparing to attack the duke of Anjou, who was intrrenching himself at Marchinello.

Phillip Hungate, esq., convinced of the errors of the church of Rome, in which he was bred, and renouncing the same the 11th instant before the archbishop and clergy at York, was at the minster received into the communion of the church of England, and took the sacrament from the archbishops hands.

We want 3 Dutch posts.

Tuesday, 27 Aug.—On Sunday came in 3 Dutch posts, which advise that in Menin we found 118 brasse cannon, (4 of them, with English arms, taken at the battle of Landen, and ordered to be sent hither,) 59 mortars, 4668 musquets, and abundance of swords, ammunition, and provisions; letters say 'twas the strongest and best fortified place in the French kings dominions: one great advantage of its surrendring so soon is, that we have saved the works, which otherwise must have been ruined.

That our troops detach't, suppos'd to invest Ipres, march't and set down before Dendermond; which seige is to be commanded by general Churchill.

Duke of Marlborough continues near Menin till the breaches are repaired.

The lord John Hay, collonel of the royal Scotch dragoons, is dead at Courtray of a feavor.

The report of Vendosme's retiring is not so, his army being strongly intrench't behind the Deul, where he pretends to cover Lisle, Ipres, and Tournay.

There is advice from France, that prince Eugene had gained 2 days march of the duke of Orleans, and was hastning, with 30,000 men, to join the duke of Savoy; and letters from Genoa of the 14th say, Feuillade was wounded as leading on his men to retake the covered way of the cittadell of Turin, and beat off with the losse of 2000 men killed and wounded.

Serjeant Monday, judge of the sherifs court, is dead; as also is Mr. Nelson, philazer for Devon, his place worth 2500*l.*, in the disposal of the lord chief justice Trevor.

Our fleet continues in Torbay, and the 1st and 2d rates are ordered to be laid up, except the Barfleur and Association, and their men put on board the other ships design'd for the descent.

Thursday, 29 Aug.—Foreign letters say that prince Ragotzi has wrote to the states general, entreating them to assist again with their good offices to procure a peace for the malecontents; it's said he has also wrote upon the same subject to our queen, and the king of Prussia, and the Dutch minister at Vienna; having likewise assured them that the chiefs of the Hungarians and the whole nation were desirous for an accomodation; but the imperial generals having disswaded their master from prolonging the cessation was the reason of the negotiation being broke off: the states have sent to the emperor pressing that the treaty may be again renewed, military operations suspended, and that he withdraw no more troops on any pretence from the Rhine, but return those recalled; from whence Villars has sent another detachment to join Vendosme in Flanders.

Our homeward bound Barbadoes fleet, 45 sail, are come into the Downs.

This day's Dutch post advises from Paris, that the duke of Savoy had got a party of horse, with ammunition, &c., into Turin, and that Feuillade was march't with a great detachment to Stradella, to dispute that passe with prince Eugene.

From Switzerland, that the latter is at Tortona, within 4 days of Turin.

From Venice, that a body of Germans have invested Modena, and another gone towards Mantua, expecting that duke will declare for us.

And from the Hague, that the bishop of Paderborn is chose bishop of Munster.

And that the king of Sueden is marching with his troops into Saxony.

Mr. Pierpoint, member for Nottingham; the late lord chief baron Montague, aged 89; and Mr. Atkins, a commissioner of the navy, are dead.

Sir John Leake has taken the town of Alicant by storm, killing 300, but the cittadell still holds out.

A patent is passing for creating the lord Walden a baron of England.

Our fleet continues still wind bound in Torbay.

Saturday, 31 August.—The last letters from the Hague advised they had an expresse from Munster, that of 35 cannons of that cathedrall, 20 had chose the bishop of Paderborn for their bishop, the other 15 absenting, which had caused great joy in Holland: but we are since told 'twas abated, by letters which came by the ordinary post, giving an account that the canons, who had made the election, afterwards had the weaknesse to publish a placard importing that they referr'd it to the pope to decide the validity of their proceedings; and in the interim all things to remain in statu quo.

And that after the reducing of Dendermond, 'twas expected our army would beseige Aeth, the taking of which will in a great measure cover the Spanish provinces.

Our fleet at Torbay continues in a sailing posture; several hoys with provisions and stores are come to them from Plymouth.

The 6 first and 2d rate men of war are returned to St. Helens; and yesterday the admiralty ordered 6 lesser to sail and join the fleet, which it's generally said is designed towards Spain.

Her majestie intends for Newmarket the 25th Sept., and to stay a fortnight there.

Sir Richard Blackham, formerly a merchant, was at the sessions house in the Old Baily this week found guilty of misprision of treason, for melting down the coin of England, and making foreign coins of it.

Our outward bound Russia fleet, upwards of 60 sail, are by contrary winds forced back to Sheilds, and being now late in the year, it's beleived they will not sail again this season.

The Ormond galley, capt. Smith commander, is taken by the French off Algiers.

It's said a complaint is made to her majestie against the East India company, several of their ships breaking bulk in Holland, which lessens the customs here.

Sir John Key, knight of the shire for York, is lately dead.

We want a Dutch post.

Tuesday, 3 Sept.—The Fox frigate of 28 guns, capt. Roch commander, which usually cruiz'd between England and Ireland, having Wensday last landed 40 passengers, was afterwards drove from her anchors off Holyhead and cast away; the captain, lieutenant, with 35 men drown'd.

The bench of justices at Hicks hall have granted a warrant against Handsome Feilding for beating a person since he was bound over.

The countesse dowager of Dorset is dead.

We hear the king of Poland having written to the queen, signifyeing that his country of Saxony lay exposed to the king of Sueden, whose troops were marching that way; her majestie has thereupon sent to the kings of Denmark and Prussia, elector of Hanover, &c. representing to them the danger, and assuring that she will assist them powerfully to stop that ambitious prince; and that the states of Holland have done the like.

Sir John Stonehouse, knight of the shire for Berks, is married to a daughter of sir Robert Dashwood.

Our fleet lies still in Torbay waiting for a wind to proceed on the expedition: their delay has occasioned great alterations in our designs, as well as in the 6 French regiments of foot; that of count Nassau being compleat is kept up, but the other 5 being very weak are incorporated into the regiments of brigadeer Veymar and Sybourgh, which are to be but one regiment double officer'd, commanded by Veymar as first collonel, and Syburgh as the second; the officers of the other three are set on shore; the marquesse de Guiscards regiment of dragoons being near full is kept standing, but he has left the fleet and come to Windsor.

No Dutch post.

The 28th past the sessions began at the Old Baily, and held the 29th for the city of London and county of Middlesex, where several criminals were tryed, of which 2 received sentence of death, 4 were burnt in the left cheek, 4 ordered to be whipt, 3 fined; and the next sessions ordered to begin on the 16th of October next.

Thursday, 5 Septemb.—Yesterday the duke of Queensbury, her majesties high commissioner for Scotland, went hence for that kingdom; letters from thence give great hopes of their parliament (which are to sitt in October) agreeing to the union with England; the temper of the people there being much altered since the return home of their commissioners.

Mr. Hart in a sermon lately preacht at Oxford spoke against the union, of which the duke of Ormond, chancellor of that university, being informed, sent to the vicechancellor to examine into it, who has since expelled him for the same.

Yesterday Mr. secretary Hedges had a letter by a ship from Ostend, that Dendermond was capitulating; same day came letters from Bristol, which say that a merchant ship, arrived there from Bilboa, gives account that at their coming away from thence 'twas reported that there had been a fight between king Charles and the duke of Anjou, and the latter routed.

It's said the queen has sent orders to the lord Raby, her ambassador in Prussia, to go to the emperor's court with the character of envoy extraordinary, in room of Mr. Stepney coming home; and that her majestie has given leave to the marquesse Croissy, one of the French prisoners at Nottingham, who is to be exchanged, to carry over with him 8 fine English horses.

The archbishop of Canterbury has ordered a prosecution to be made against Dr. Tindall, author of a book called the Rights of the Christian Church asserted, which reflects upon the clergy.

The earl of Rivers is speedily expected here; lieutenant general Earl being to command our forces on board the fleet, which are now ordered for Spain.

No foreign post.

Saturday, 7 Sept.—Captain Cannon of the Worcester has brought into Plymouth a French privateer of 16 guns and 80 men, which he took after a sharp fight on the coast of France.

The report of the earl of Rivers leaving the fleet proves a mistake.

Count Guiscard whilst he was here received a considerable sum of money out of the treasury for the use of the expedition, and return'd again yesterday to Torbay; which in some measure makes us think the first project of a descent upon France may still goe on.

Two more French general officers, prisoners at Nottingham, are to be exchanged for 2 German officers that were under the command of prince Eugene, taken some time since in Italy.

Thursday next her majestie comes to Kensington, where a great council will be held.

Dr. Harwer is chose president of Magdalen colledge in Oxford, in the room of Dr. Bailey deceased.

George Dashwood, esq., lieutenant collonel to Soame's regiment, is dead on board the fleet at Torbay.

A patent is passing the seals to create the electoral prince of Hanover (aged about 22) earl of Kendal and duke of Cambridg.

It's said the earl of Manchester is to goe her majesties ambassador to the republick of Venice.

This day the dutchesse of Marlborough went hence for Woodstock, where her grace will continue the next week to see the horse races.

We have yet no foreign post.

Tuesday, 10 Septemb.—Sunday came in 4 Lisbon mails, but bring no news from the army in Spain, the passes being stopt by the parties of the duke of Anjou; the last letters were dated the 7th instant, which say they had advice that day by a Danish ship, which left Cadiz the 28th past, the master whereof reported that the governor of Cadiz had received an account from the marquesse de Villadarias, commander of the duke of Anjou's forces in Andalousia, that there had been a battle between the 2 armies near Madrid, and the French entirely routed.

That there were letters from Albuquerque with the same advice, and these further particulars, that the horse of the French gave way and abandoned their foot, who were most of them cutt off, their cannon and baggage taken, and the duke of Anjou retired with a party of horse towards Navarre.

A warrant from the treasury has been sent to the jewell office, for making a new sett of plate for the earl of Manchester's embassy to Venice.

Coll. Soame, who has a regiment on board the fleet, is dead at Torbay.

This day Mr. Eyre (a considerable merchant here) received a letter from a friend at Calais, brought yesterday to Dover by the Jersey transport vessell with exchange'd prisoners; which says all the news there was, that prince Eugene, having join'd the duke of Savoy, fell upon the French army in Italy and routed them, taking their baggage and cannon; the duke of Orleans wounded, marshal Marsin killed, with 7000 men, upon which the French drew off from before Turin.

We want 4 Dutch posts.

Thursday, 12 Sept.—The foreign posts are not yet arrived, which we impatiently expect, in hopes they'l confirm the accounts we have lately had of king Charles beating the duke of Anjou in Spain, and prince Eugene the duke of Orleans in Italy; which latter the exchanged prisoners, who came to Dover on Monday, and several of them since come hither, affirm was the current news at Calais the day before they embark't on board the Jersey transport: they likewise say they were informed that Dendermond had surrendered, and Aeth was beseiged.

The Scotch parliament are to sitt the 19th.

Capt. Vernon, who lately came hither from the Streights, is returning with fresh instructions to sir John Leak, and letters to king Charles.

The lord treasurer has given orders for remitting 150,000*l.* to Portugall for paying our troops.

Wm. Bull, esq. is nominated the English consul to Smyrna, and is preparing to goe with speed.

The earl of Rivers is come on shore to Mr. Blount's house near Torbay till the wind be fair; his lordship has given the regiment of coll. Soame, deceased, to lieutenant coll. Watkins, of Faringdon's regiment; and a reinforcement of 300 men out of the lord Paston's regiment is ordered from Plymouth on board the fleet.

Yesterday her majestie came to Kensington, and this day declared in council our parliament should be farther prorogued from the 17th instant to the 22d of October, and to morrow returns again to Windsor.

Our common council have chose Mr. Lightfoot judge of the sherifs court, in the room of serjt. Monday deceased.

Saturday, 14 Sept.—Major Keymish of Hill's regiment succeeds lieutenant coll. Dashwood of Soame's, (but now Watkins's;) and major Monday is made major to Hills, in room of Keymish.

Upon enquiry I don't find the report true of the archbishop ordering a prosecution against Dr. Tindall for being author of the Rights of the Christian Church asserted.

Yesterday morning a fire broke out in the pallace of Windsor, which burnt the queens side kitchen, lord treasurers, and another.

Last night came a mail from the West Indies, which brought advice that commodore Kerr, with 10 men of warr and two fireships, was arrived there, and having joined admiral Whetstone were gone to intercept the French squadron, who have attempted nothing since they were at St. Christophers.

Lord Manchester intends for Venice by the way of Holland, and designs to take the advantage of the convoy which goes for the duke of Marlborough.

We want 5 Dutch posts; but this day arrived an expresse with a confirmation of the victory in Italy the 7th instant (N. S.), that great numbers of the French were killed and taken, (among the latter marshal Marsin, mortally wounded,) with their baggage and cannon: the duke of Savoy joined prince Eugene before the fight; after which the enemy quitted the seige of Turin: upon the receipt of this news at Versailles, Catinat was immediately sent to command in Marsin's room; the 9th, count Medavi surprized the prince of Hesse, and took 6 cannon.

Dendermond surrendered the 5th, and Aeth besieged.

And from Spain, that the lord Galloway having sent away his heavy baggage, the two armies being near, a battle was expected: for this news the Tower guns were fired, and in the evening bonfires.

Tuesday, 17 Sept.—Yesterday came in 5 Dutch posts, which say that prince Eugene and the duke of Savoy attackt the French (much superiour) in their trenches before Turin, and after 3 repulses forced the lines and entirely defeated them, wounded the duke of Orleans, took Marsin (since dead), 2 lieutenant generalls, 2 major generalls, 5 collonels, 300 other officers, among them Paul Diack, and 5400 soldiers, 158 brass cannon, 55 mortars, 40 standards and colours, with all their pontoons, baggage, tents, ammuniton, and provisions, and horses for 10,000 men, which were dismounted; the number of the slain not yet known: the Germans had about 2500 killed and wounded, and since the battle above 2000 French had deserted from the remains of their army, which retired to Pigneroll.

That Dendermond surrendered to be prisoners of war, and most of the garrison, except the French, listed in the service of the allies; and brigadeer Meredith is appointed governer thereof.

The trenches before Aeth are to be open'd the 20th, and in 10 days 'twas expected it would be taken.

The king of Sueden, with 15,000 men, has enter'd Saxony, declares will content himself with raising contributions, if the inhabitants don't oppose him, and has cut in poices 2 regiments of horse which disputed a passe; some letters say he demands the dethroning king Augustus from that electorate, but will sett up his son.

There is great talk of a triple alliance between England, Holland, and Denmark, the two first to send a squadron of ships to the Baltick, and the latter to invade Schonen, belonging to the Suedes.

We expect by the next post the particulars of the action between prince Hesse and count Medavi.

Coll. Stringer, member of parliament for Clithero, and philazer of Yorkshire, a place worth 4000*l.*, and in the gift of the lord chief justice Trevor, is dead in Flanders, and his regiment given to the duke of Argyle.

The master of a Portugueeze vessel, arrived at Torbay, has made affidavit that the French are routed in Spain, and retired towards Navarr.

Thursday, 19 Septemb.—Yesterday came in a Dutch post, which advises from Italy, that 2 dayes before the fight a party of imperialists took 1300 mules goeing from Susa to the French army, laden with ammunition and provisions; 6 of them with money: that on the day of battle the Germans marcht to it with great eagernesse, the enemy firing upon them from 40 cannon, and being advanced to the foot of the intrenchment began the fire of musquets. Our left wing, by reason of the unevenesse of the scituation of the ground, sustaining wholly the resistance of the French, stopt a little without giving ground; but prince Eugene coming drew his sword, put himself at the head of them, and in an instant forced his way into the enemy's intrenchments, as did his royal highnesse in the center: by noon the victory was entirely on the German side, the enemy retireing, and in the evening the duke of Savoy enter'd triumphantly his capital city of Turin, where was not left 1000 weight of powder, and designed immediately to attack Chivas and Ivrea, and then to enter the Millaneze. Paul Diack was not taken prisoner, but deserted, with several officers and 70 of his hussars, to prince Eugene.

The states of Holland have wrote to the prince of Hesse to acquaint him how well they are satisfied with his courage and conduct in the battle between him (9000 strong) and count Medavi, double the number; the 1st, it is said, had near 1800 killed and wounded, and the cannon he lost were those he took at the beginning of the fight from the French, who also sustained great losse; however, that prince's small army diverted Medavi's 18,000 men from joining the duke of Orleans.

Tuesday last Mr. secretary Harley and the Dutch envoy had a long conference about the Suedes invading Saxony, and it's said her majestie and the states general have resolved to put a stop theretoo.

Saturday, 21 Septemb.—Yesterdays Dutch post advises from Genoa of the 12th, that it was scarce possible to expresse the great joy the dutchesses of Savoy shewed upon the news of beating the French and raising the seige of Turin; as likewise that city for the delivery of an oppress'd prince, who for his firmnesse to the common cause was so near being brought under the yoke of France.

That the prince of Anhalt, detached with the Prussians towards Fignerol, had defeated 8000 of the enemy near that place, giving no quarter, remembring how their country men were served at Calcinato.

That general Visconti with 4000 horse had surrounded 2500 French near Casall, which in probability could not escape.

That 'twas computed the French have had killed, deserted, and taken prisoners from the 6th of June, when first besieged Turin, to this time, near 30,000 men; and that the horses taken from them, ready bridled and saddled, had mounted the duke of Savoy's troops.

The 27th, a general thanksgiving was observed in duke of Marlborough's camp for the said victory.

From Hamburg, that the king of Sueden is master of all Saxony, except the fortified towns; it's said, letters have been intercepted going from him to prince Ragotzi.

The Scotch parliament is farther prorogued to the 3d of October.

The lord Dalruple is made a brigadeer general.

Letters from Torbay of the 17th say, the fleet was unmooring in order to sail.

Yesterday one Mr. Lowen, a German merchant, having invited to dinner at Turnham Green Mr. Richard Lloyd, an attorney in the office of pleas in the exchequer kept at Lincolns Inn, basely murdered him, by running a sword thro' his back; for which he is committed to Newgate.

Tuesday, 24 Sept.—Letters from Brussels say that the states of Brabant have resolved to raise 20 battallions and 30 squadrons for defence of the Spanish Netherlands, which levies will be made this winter, a sufficient number of officers having quitted the French service.

From Hamburgh, that the regency of Saxony, before the Swedes invaded that electorate, caused above 300 soldiers to be executed, and 400 to run the gantlope, for not doeing their duty the beginning of this campagne in the battle against the Swedes at Frawstadt;

And that the king of Sueden seems to reject all proposals for an accomodation with the king of Poland, designing to winter quarter in Saxony, to deprive the latter from receiving any further succours from that country, to enable him to carry on the war in Poland against Stanislaus.

The Amsterdam and Rotterdam fleets are come into the river Thames, and report that Aeth surrendered last Thursday.

Lord Hatton, governer of Guernsey, and custos rotulorum of Northamptonshire, is dead.

Our fleet remains still in Torbay.

Mr. Chetwind, our envoy in Savoy, writes hither that the difference between the French general officers before Turin was one cause of their losing the battle, which was not made up till the Germans were upon them.

It's said, her majestie has ordered a sum of money to be sent to the poor Vaudois in that country.

Silesia stock, upon which fund the 250,000*l.* was lent to prince Eugene, is fallen 5*l.* per cent. since the irruption of the Suedes into Saxony.

No Dutch post.

Thursday, 26 Septemb.—The last Dutch letters advised, that the states have sent orders to their deputies at the army to concurr with the duke of Marlborough, if he thinks fitt, to goe upon any other enterprize after the taking of Aeth.

That 25,000 of the allies are to winter quarter in Brabant, and 36,000 in Flanders, to be ready upon occasion.

And that Vendosm is not to hazard a battle, but take all possible care to secure Mons and Namur.

Mr. Tempest, son to the late Prothonotary, has purchased the philazer's place for Yorkshire.

This days letters from Spithead say that the Fowey Pink was arrived there, sent expresse from sir John Leak, whose squadron he left in Altea bay homeward bound; he reports that the castle of Alicant surrendred 14 dayes after the taking of the town; and that sir John Jennings, with 12 men of war, is sailed for the West Indies to reinforce admiral Whetstone.

The Scotch regiment, which the duke of Argyle lately commanded, is given to the lord Tullibardin, son to the duke of Atholl.

The lord Arundel of Trerice is lately dead; as also is Mr. White, coroner for Westminster, haveing enjoyed it in 7 reigns, being about 100 years old.

Yesterday the East India company held a general court upon a difference about their stock, and the general sale is put off till the 8th of October.

This afternoon the queen came from Windsor to Kensington, and goes on Wensday to Newmarket.

One of our outward bound Russia ships, venturing to sail without a convoy, was 3 days after taken by the French.

No Dutch post.

Saturday, 28 Septemb.—Letters which came by the Fowey Pink from Alicant confirm that the castle had surrendred, and the garrison, 600 men, conducted to Cadiz; that 13 men of war were sailed for the West Indies, 10 to remain at Lisbon, 17 coming home under sir John Leak, and 6 to attend the orders of the earl of Peterborough, whom they left at Alicant, said to be going for Genoa.

They also add, that the armies in Castile are in their former camps, striving which should subsist longest; the duke of Anjou is superiour in horse, but we in foot; the peasants in Castile are most in his interest, but all the rest of Spain are generally on the other side.

That all the mismanagement in Spain is owing to king Charles and his German council, who lost 30 days by taking a different rout for Madrid, by way of Saragosa, and stayeing there to be crown'd king of Aragon, contrary to the rout by way of Valencia, before agreed upon in 3 several councils with the earl of Peterborough; which obliged the lord Gallway to make a movement to favour king Charles his joyning, which occasioned the losse of Madrid, and the lives of several persons who had declared for him.

It's said, after all our troops had join'd, the earl of Peterborough was present in 2 councils, and delivered in writing the methods he thought best to pursue, which were complied with; and in his passage back towards Alicant threatned the inhabitants of Requena with fire for embezelling his baggage, to prevent which they offer'd him 10,000 pistolls, which he refused, but obliged them to bring double the value in provisions, which his lordship conducted to the earl of Gallway's camp.

Sir Robert Beddinfeild is chose lord mayor of London.

A warrant is past for Mitford Crow, esq. to be governor of Barbadoes, in the room of sir Bevil Granville recalled.

No Dutch post.

Tuesday, 1 Octob.—From Edinburgh they write, that the clergy of the kirk of Scotland have lately held a general assembly, wherein duke Hamilton's chaplain moved, that they should associate against the union for better preservation of the church of Christ established there; and upon a division carried against it. After which he moved again, that they should appoint a day to seek the Lord by prayer and fasting, to know his will in this important affair; but rejected.

Yesterdays Lisbon mail advised that they had letters of the 26 Aug. (N. S.) from the lord Gallway at Colmener, that the duke of Anjou's army, being so advantagiously posted, could not be attack't with any hopes of successe, therefore he was putting his troops into quarters of refreshment near Valentia; and that a body of Portugueze had retook Salamanca, (who after their submission to king Charles had revolted to duke of Anjou,) with all the horses, mules, arms, ammuniton, and provisions there, making the garison prisoners at discretion, and the inhabitants to pay 200,000 peices of eight, to prevent being plundered and burn't.

This afternoon came in a Dutch post, but the letters being of an old date say little more than from the duke of Orleans's camp of the 20th past (N. S.), that prince Vaudemont was putting Medavi's troops into the strongest places of the Millanez.

That the duke of Savoy had beseiged Chivazo, and prince Eugene marched towards the Millanez to attack Pavia, having left a detachment to beseige Ivrea.

Another Dutch post arrived since says, that prince Vaudemont retired from Millain the 18th, and prince Eugene took possession of it the 25th; and that Cazall, with several other places, have also submitted.

That Aeth, in which were 2100 men, surrendred the 4th prisoners at war; before which count Maurice, son to the lord Overkirk, was killed.

Thursday, 3 Octob.—The last foreign posts brought an account, besides the taking of Casal and Millain by the troops of prince Eugene and duke of Savoy, that Chivas, (in which were 1300 men,) Trino, Crescentino, Novarre, Mortare, Ivrea, &c. had submitted, and 'twas expected the whole Millaneze will in few dayes follow their example; monsieur St. Remy having possest himself of the valley of Aosta, which cuts off all communication between them and the French.

From Paris, that 1000 mules are ordered with all expedition to carry money, ammuniton, provisions, &c. to the duke of Orleans, who has put his shattered troops into quarters on the borders of Dauphiny, whither 8000 tents are also sending.

That a cessation of arms for 10 weeks is agreed upon in Saxony between the kings of Sueden and Poland.

And that there was another election at Munster the 30th; where the bishop of Osnaburgh's party, being 15, chose him; and the bishop of Paderborns party, being 19, elected him again bishop of Munster, and both proclaimed.

Mr. Stepney, our late envoy at Vienna, is daily expected at the Hague, being to succeed Mr. Stanhope there, who is coming home.

This day a gentleman arrived here from Rumford in Essex, who says the duke of Marlborough had forced the French lines and defeated Vendosm; and that coll. Moor, who came with the expresse, being informed there her majestie was gone to Newmarket, went directly thither.

Saturday, 5 Octob.—The report of coll. Moor's coming, with an expresse of our forcing the French lines in Flanders, proves false; but letters from Brussells, dated Monday last, say the duke of Marlborough was advanced with his army to Cam-bron, within 2 leagues of Mons; that great numbers of pioneers were summon'd in, and bread baking night and day for the army: it's said his grace is resolv'd if possible to give the French battle; if not, to hinder them from making any detachments to the Rhine or elsewhere.

Baron Hohendorf, who came hither from prince Eugene with an account of the late victory near Turin, (to whom her majestie gave 1000 guineas,) design'd to have treated the trustees for the loan of 250,000*l.* to his highnesse; but those gentlemen excused themselves, and 12 of them splendidly entertained him last Monday.

Yesterday Handsom Fielding was taken out of his coach by baylifs, near Temple Bar, and carried to Newgate for debt.

Same day we had letters from Torbay, that our grand fleet and transports sailed thence on Tuesday morning; but the wind continueing only 2 dayes easterly, it's feared they will be forced back.

An eminent merchant here has an account from his correspondent at Lions, that they are under great consternation, fearing both an invasion from the duke of Savoy, and that mint notes will be imposed upon them for their ready money by the French king; which apprehension has so far ruin'd trade, that they give 10*l.* per cent. discount for a quarterly payment, which amounts to 40*l.* per cent. per ann.

No Dutch post.

Tuesday, 8 Octob.—Last night came in two Dutch posts, which say, the duke of Savoy and prince Eugene made their publick entry into the city of Millain the 26th past: the citadel next day submitted, and the garrison made prisoners of war: since which prince Eugene was gone to attack Pavia, and after reducing it design'd to march towards Cremona, where count Medavi's troops are posted; that the prince of Hesse Cassel had block't up Mantua, whither prince Vaudemont was retired, so that he and Medavi are in danger of being made prisoners.

Tuesday, 30 August.—Yesterday came an expresse, that the garison of the cittadel of Tournay surrendred prisoners of war last Thursday: 'twas agreed that the officers and soldiers therein be exchanged for the like number of the allies, and begin with those taken at Warneton, and in case there are not enough, then the overplus not to act till they are exchanged; the marquesse d' Surville and the other general officers to continue as hostages till the same be performed; and if there be no generals of the allies to be exchanged with them, they shal have passes to goe for France, on condition they don't serve until they are redeemed.

That on the 4th our army decamp't from Orchies towards Mons, which was invested the 6th by the prince of Hesse Cassel and general Dedem, with 4000 fuzileers and 40 squadrons, the elector of Bavaria being gone thence 2 dayes before for Namur; upon which news the Tower guns were discharged.

This morning came in 2 Ostend mails, which advise, from Genoa, of the 22d, that 2 of our men of war arrived there from Barcelona, and say general Stanhope, having caused a regiment of foot to goe on board sir George Bing's squadron, was imbarcking himself on some secret expedition; and that an expresse was come thither from admiral Whitaker, that he had taken 30 vessells in the Bay of Roses, laden with corn, meal, and other provisions for the French army.

From the camp at Linkenheim, that on the 26th count Mercy being informed the enemy were about to surround him near Newenburgh, resolved to attack them first, which he did with great bravery; but the French being sustained by fresh horse fell upon the Swabian regiment, who flying, put the other troops into disorder: count Mercy did what possible to rally them, but his horse being shot, and himself wounded, was obliged to retire over the Rhine: tis said he had about 400 killed, and 1800 taken prisoners, and the losse of the French is reported to be near as great; upon which the elector of Hanover with his army return'd into the lines of Etlingen.

The Amsterdam fleet is arrived here from Holland, and with them the Howland and London, two very rich East India ships.

Thursday, 1 Sept.—Yesterday came in 2 Dutch posts, which advise,

From Germany, that the elector of Hanover's design miscarried by general Mercy's not well executing his orders, which was to passe the Rhine near Strasburgh, retrench his troops, and send an account of his successes; but instead of that, being elevated by the terror he had struck into the enemy by his sudden passing that river, resolved to advance and fight them; so was beat before the elector, who was in full march with his whole army, could join him, and fall into Burgundy, as was intended, which would have been a powerful diversion in favour of the other armies of the allies.

From Copenhagen, that 10,000 soldiers were expected from Norway, and a camp mark't out near that city, to review the troops of the kingdom.

The czar has ordered prince Mentzikof, with 40,000 men, to march into Livonia, and beseige Riga; also the equipping 55 men of war, 7 bomb vessells, 2 fireships, with several gallies, and is arrived in Poland, where tis said king Stanislaus has signified to his adherents that he will leave that kingdom, and persuades them to make the best terms they can for themselves.

From Hamburg, that the imperial commissioners, since the defeat of the Swedes, have shut up 3 Lutheran churches in Silcsia, oblige the protestants not to open their shops on popish holydaies, and several, who profest the reform'd religion for 40 years, are summoned to renounce it.

mons, is to be a prebend of Canterbury, in room of Dr. Robinson, made dean of Windsor, and now coming from Sueden, where he has resided above 25 years as envoy from the crown of England.

Saturday, 3 Sept.—The last foreign letters advised, that king Augustus arrived at Branst [Bomst, in marg.] in Poland, the 27th past, that the nobility unanimously came in, and meets with no opposition in reassuming that throne.

That a letter, dated the 22d of July, wrote by the king of Sueden, was brought expresse to the queen mother, that he was safe at Oczakow, and in good health; but letters from the Muscovite head quarters, of the 13th of August, say he was blockt up there by their troops; and that the Turks and Tartars had received him with due respect, but kept a watchful eye over him till the return of a messenger they had sent to the grand seignior to know his pleasure; and that since his defeat two armies are raising in Sueden, one to oppose his Danish majesty's designs, the other to protect Livonia.

Yesterday came advice, by way of Ostend, that Boufflers arrived the 6th in the enemies camp, and told Villars he came to serve under him, tho eldest marshal, and communicated to him the kings orders.

On the 9th, all their forces being joyned, advanced towards us, whereupon our army immediatly moved to receive them: about 2 they began to canonade each other till evening, when both lay under their arms; in the night the French cast up some lines to cover them from our cannon; they play'd all next day, and continued in the same posture as before: on the 11th, (which was last Wensday,) about 7 in the morning, the canonading was renewed, which continued some time, and we being joyned by our forces from Tournay, the duke of Argile began the attack at the wood of Sars on the enemies right, where we forced them from a strong intrenchment, and took 4 cannon; the prince of Orange, with the Dutch infantry, did the like at the wood of Jamsart, on their left, after a great resistance, whereupon our army march't between the woods, behind which at some distance their whole army was drawn up: the engagement was very sharp for some time, but by noon the French began to give way; and that night an expresse was brought to Brussells they were totally routed, a confirmation of which we hourly expect, and 'tis beleived the expresse from the duke of Marlborough comes by the way of Holland, which is the reason 'tis not yet arrived.

Tuesday, 6 Septemb.—Sunday morning lieutenant collonel Graham arrived here expresse with the confirmation of the victory in Flanders, upon which the Tower guns were discharged.

And this days Dutch post brings letters of the 13th, from our camp at Belian, near Mons, that the troops being returned from the pursuit of the enemy to the feild of battle, our army left the same yesterday, and returned hither in order to carry on that seige, it being very ill provided, which place we must take before we can prosecute the advantages of the victory, otherwise 'twill be difficult to preserve our communication with Brussels, from whence we are to be supplied with provisions.

We can't yet give you the particulars of our losse in the late battle, nor that of the enemy, we having many French officers prisoners, most of them wounded, but the number of soldiers not so great as beleived, our men having given them little or no quarter: their army, which was dispers'd, is assembling again between Quesnoy and Valenciennes under Boufflers, Villars having received a musquet shot in his knee, and obliged to keep his bed.

Of the English, brigadeer Lalo, sir Thomas Pendergrasse, with some other officers of note, are killed, lieutenant general Webb dangerously wounded, and prince Eugene slightly; but the duke of Marlborough, who went from rank to rank to encourage the soldiers, receiv'd no hurt; some general officers reported to be killed are very well, and our losse not so great as apprehended. We have taken many colours, standards, and kettledrums; the losse of the enemy, it's said, is very considerable, and the way from the feild of battle to the defile of Bavay, whither we pursued them, was covered with dead bodies: their army was paid, and 4 dayes provisions delivered them before the engagement, and Boufflers brought with him 200 officers and 400 volunteers, which much contributed to the vigorous resistance the French made, he promising them preferment if they behaved themselves well; besides, 'tis said, they were 20,000 stronger than we, having drained all their garrisons.

On Thursday arrived at Falmouth our homeward bound Turkey and Lisbon fleets, being upwards of 150 sail.

Thursday, 8 Septemb.—Yesterday's Ostend mail says, that in pursuit of the French we took Bavay sword in hand, and in it 1500 wounded officers and soldiers left there in the battle, which we have not the particulars of; the English and Dutch foot guards suffer'd most: tis reported that above 20,000 men were slain on both sides, some say 30,000; that the allies lost 8 or 9 generals, and about 300 officers, among the English the lord Tullibardine, son to the duke of Athol, colonels Rivet, Arundel, Bethel, and captain Phillips, which last belonged to the house of lords; duke of Argile had 7 shots thro his clothes, yet escaped unhurt; prince Eugene commanded the right wing, count Tilli the left, and the duke of Marlborough the center: at the beginning we were twice repulsed, during which Villars sent an expresse thereof to Versailles and other places, and did not doubt of an entire victory, which caused them to make publick rejoycings; but upon a fresh onset we routed them; that our attacking the enemy in woods, where they had 3 intrenchments and platforms, was as bold an attempt as ever made, but were forced to it to preserve our parties goeing and comeing from the seige of Mons: some letters say the duke of Marlborough sent to that governour to surrender in 10 dayes, or expect no quarter, but others, that he will block it up, and besiege Mabeuge: the Germans gave little or no quarter, of which the French complain, saying they might have made several other batallions prisoners of war, whom they cut to peices.

Our common council of London having agreed upon an ad-dresse to congratulate her majestie on the victory obtained by her arms, and those of her allies; yesterday Charles Hopson and Richard Guy, esqs. waited on her to know when she would receive the same, on whom she conferred the honour of knighthood.

Thursday, 12 Januar.—An abstract of the articles against Dr. Sacheverel:

1st. In his sermon preached at St. Pauls doth suggest and maintain, that the necessary means used to bring about the happy revolution were odious and unjustifiable, and that his late majestie in his declaration declared, that to impute resistance to the revolution was to cast a black and odious colour upon him and the revolution.

2. In his sermon doth suggest and maintain, that the toleration granted by law is unanswerable, and the allowance of it unreasonable; and asserts, that he is a false brother with relation to God, religion, or the church, who defends toleration and liberty of conscience; that queen Elizabeth was deluded by archbishop Grindall, whom he scurrilously calls a false son of the church, and a perfidious prelate, for the toleration of the Genevians.

3. In his sermon doth falsely and seditiously suggest and assert, that the church of England is in great danger and perills under her majesties administration, and arraigns the resolutions of both houses of parliament, approved by her majestie, and in opposition doth suggest the church to be in danger, and as a parallel mentions a vote, that the person of king Charles the 1st was voted to be out of danger at the same time his murderers were conspiring his death; thereby wickedly and maliciously insinuating, that the members of both houses were then conspiring the ruin of the church.

4. Sir Humphrey Mackworth is chose member of parliament for the town of Cardigan.

Yesterday the commons took their places in Westminster

Hall, where Dr. Sacheverell and his council were; after which came 132 peers in their robes: the doctors sermon at St. Pauls, as also the dedication to that at Derby assizes, the articles against him, and his answer, and the commons reply, were read; Mr. attorney general opened the case against him, seconded by Mr. Lechmore, who made a long argument; after which both lords and commons withdrew to their respective houses. And this day they met again about 11 in Westminster Hall, the queen present, where after the first article was read, and the managers heard thereupon, the doctors council would have replied thereto, but the lords withdrew to their own house, debated the same, and carryed it by 27, 72 against 45, that no reply should be admitted till all the articles were gone through; so they came back and heard one article more, and withdrew again to their own house, where they debated the insolence of the mob attending him to and from his tryal to his lodgings in the temple, but came to no resolution thereon: the managers against him this day were, sir Joseph Jekyl, Mr. solicitor general, collonel Walpool, general Stanhope, sir John Hawles, sir Peter King, lord Wm. Pawlet, and Mr. Spencer Cowper.

Thursday, 2 March.—Yesterday both houses being seated in Westminster Hall, the queen present, the managers for Sacheverels tryal, Mr. comptroller, lord Coningsby, Mr. Dolben, Mr. Smith, and sir Thomas Parker, went thro the two last articles: sir Thomas made an argument, part of it to this effect, That the Dr. must own he did not know the Scriptures, but took it upon hearsay, or else knowingly perverted the sense thereof, and made false quotations, and inserted words which were not there. At his return from Westminster to the Temple, he was followed by a great mobb, who last night attacked Mr. Burgesses meeting house there, pulling down all the pews, wainscot, &c., making a bonfire thereof in Lincolns Inn Feilds, one being killed in the tumult: thence they went and did the like in many other places, but the horse guards coming on them, took some and dispersed the rest; and 3 regiments of the train'd bands are now up to prevent such disorders.

This morning the commons considered the insolence of the mob, and resolved on an addresse to the queen, to issue a proclamation to prevent such tumults, they being set on foot and fomented by papists, nonjurors, and other enemies to her majesties title and government, and promising a reward to the discoverors of such incendiaries as have been the abettors thereof; and a motion being made to insert the word republican after nonjurors, it passed in the negative, 79 against 114: which addresse being presented to her majestie, she answered to this effect; That she was sensible of the great concern they had for the publick on this occasion, and as she had a just resentment of such tumultuary proceedings, so she would take care to suppress and prevent the same, and would accordingly publish a proclamation to that end.

After which both houses took their places in Westminster Hall, where Mr. Lechmore summ'd up all the arguments, and told the lords that he hoped they had made good their charge against Sacheverell.

Then sir Simon Harcourt for him acquainted them that what he had to say by way of reply would be long; so they withdrew to their house, and he is to be heard to-morrow.

Saturday, 4 March.—A proclamation is published offering 100*l.* reward to such as shal discover or seize the incendiaries concerned in the tumult on Wednesday night.

Yesterday and to day Dr. Sacheverels council have been arguing that passive obedience and non resistance has been the constant doctrine of the church of England, and proved the same from the Homilies.

A Dutch post says the French plenipotentiaries arrived on our frontiers last Sunday.

This morning the commons agreed to the following addresse:

Most gracious sovereign, We your most dutiful and loyal subjects the commons of Great Brittain in parliament assembled, out of a deep sense of the repeated instances of your majesties unparalell'd goodnesse, beg leave to return our most hearty thanks for your most gracious answer to our late humble addresse, and for your effectual care in suppressing those rebellious tumults set on foot by papists, nonjurors, and other enemies to your majesties title and government, in defence of the just proceedings of the commons against Dr. Sacheverell; and we most humbly beseech your majestie to beleive, that as this prosecution proceeded from the indispensable obligation which your faithful commons look upon themselves to lye under, they could not sitt still to see the justice of the late happy revolution and the glory of our late deliverer reflected upon, your majesties undoubted title struck at, and your administration, by which so many blessings are derived unto us, and endeavoured to be rendred odious to the people, and reputed as destructive to the present established government of the church of England and constitution, and protestant succession undermined, the resolutions of parliament and your majestie as supreme aspersed, the toleration vilified as wicked and seditious in the pulpits; having at heart the maintenance of your majesties rights, and safety of your majesties person, the succession and honour of the church of England established by law, with the toleration which is by act of parliament allowed, shal be our constant care and concern; and we will upon all occasions venture all that is dear to us in defence of such invaluable blessings.

Saturday, 11 March.—Yesterday both houses of parliament having taken their seat in Westminster Hall, her majestie present, the managers of the commons, viz. Mr. Cowper, Mr. Thompson, and sir Thomas Parker, replied to the answer of Sacheverels council and himself, as to part of the 2d and to the 3d and 4th articles: sir Thomas closed with saying to this effect; That the commons of England had fully proved the articles of impeachment against the prisoner at the bar, and hoped their lordships would give judgment accordingly.

After which their lordships withdrew to their house, where, upon the earl of Nottingham's motion, 'twas proposed to the judges whither by the laws of England, and the constant practice in all prosecutions by indictment or information for crimes and misdemeanors in speaking or writing, the particular words supposed to be criminal must not be expressly specified in such information or indictment; to which the judges replied, it was so in the common law.

This day the lords debated whither 'twas so in the proceedings of their house, her majestie present, and resolved, That they would proceed against Dr. Sacheverel according to the lawes of the land, and the law and usage of parliament.

On Monday will begin with the same, and proceed with the 1st article, no other businesse to intervene till finished the whole; and it being requisite to have the judges present, the two first places in every circuit are postponed for the two last, so that the judges goe first to the 3d place mentioned in the Gazett.

The lords also ordered the decree of the university of Oxford in 1683, in favour of passive obedience and non resistance, to be burnt by the hangman.

And such persons to be taken into custody who have publish't any thing relating to Dr. Sacheverells tryal, except those authoriz'd by either of the two houses of parliament.

Saturday, 25 March.—Yesterday the commons resolved upon an addresse to the queen to issue a proclamation for a publick fast to deprecate the Divine vengeance, which we have just reason to fear on account of those horrid blasphemies vented and printed, notwithstanding the several proclamations for putting the laws in execution against the authors; many of which blasphemies have now again in a most irregular and insolent manner been publish't and dispers'd throughout the kingdom, to the scandal of all good Christians, by Dr. Sacheverell.

Ordered, that the book entituled, Collections of Passages referr'd to by the said Doctor in his Answer to the Articles of Impeachment, be burnt by the common hangman.

This day complaint being made to the house against the book, entituled, the Rights of the Christian Church Asserted, and the two defences of it, and Mr. Clendon's of the word person, Resolved, That the said books are scandalous, seditious, and blasphemous libells, highly reflecting upon the Christian religion and the church of England, and tend to promote atheism, schism, and immorality, and create factions and divisions amongst her majesties subjects.

Ordered, that the said books be burnt by the common hangman; and that the queen be address'd to direct the attorney general to prosecute the authors and publishers thereof, as also all other authors and publishers of such scandalous libells; and that next session he acquaint the house how far he has proceeded therein: and accordingly at one a clock this day the aforesaid books were all burnt in the Old Palace Yard, Westminster.

Sir Richard Kennedy was some days since killed by one Mr. Dormer, in a quarrel at Woodstock.

Last nights letters from the Hague, of the 11th, say the Dutch deputies were return'd thither, and acquainted the states the French plenipotentiaries insist that their master can't oblige king Phillip to quitt Spain; upon which they told them the allies were tired with this way of proceeding, therefore 'twas necessary to break off the conferences; which declaration surpriz'd them, and they have sent another courier, which 'tis said will be the last, to Versailles, for further instructions.

And that prince Eugene was expected at the Hague as Sunday last, who with the duke of Marlborough would sett out for Flanders a day or two after, when their troops will rendezvous the end of this week between Aeth and Tournay.

Thursday, 6 April. — Yesterday her majestie gave the royal assent to 9 publick and 11 private acts, that against sir Humfry Mackworth had only past the commons; after which she made a speech to both houses of parliament to this effect:

She thank'd them for their speedy and effectual supplies for the publick service; was confident that no prince that ever sat on the throne has been more sincerely kind to the church than herself, and tender concern for its prosperity, and should always continue so to be.

That 'twas very injurious by the many wicked libells that came out, (which she would be glad were suppress,) to insinuate that the church is in any danger from her administration; could heartily wish men would study to be quiet, rather than buisy themselves in disputes which must be with an ill intention, since it only tends to foment and not heal our divisions; for her own part, as God has pleas'd to give successe to her endeavours for uniting the two kingdoms, so hop'd would still continue to make her the happy instrument of uniting the hearts of all her subjects, that there may remain no other contention among them, but who shall exceed the other in advancing the present happinesse and security of our protestant succession: and finding that our army has not yet taken the feild, and the French plenipotentiaries still in Holland, thought it proper to make only a short prorogation;—which the lord chancellor did to Tuesday the 18th instant, when 'tis not supposed they'l sit, unlesse the proposalls of peace should be finished, of which we have but little hopes.

John Prowse, esq. knight of the shire for Somerset, is dead; as is also Mr. Tench, who several years since fined for alderman of this citty.

Edward Ash, esq., member for Heytesbury, is made store keeper of the ordnance, in the room of Mr. Lowther, who goes governour of Barbados.

Yesterday our lord mayor called a common council, where 'twas carried by 19 to addressse the queen much in the same nature as those which came lately from Gloucestershire and Monmouthshire; the latter of which is not yet presented.

Last night the sherifs waited on her majestie to know when she will be attended therewith, who appointed this day 7night.

Saturday, 8 April.—Yesterday came in a Dutch post,

From the confederate army at Anderlecht, 3 April: this afternoon bread was distributed to all the troops for 4 days, and to morrow we shall break up to march towards Tournay, the army being to be form'd by the 20th between that place and Lisle.

From the Hague, of Tuesday last, that on Saturday prince Eugene arrived there, next day had a conference with duke of Marlborough, count Zinzendorf, lord Townsend, and the grand pensionary, wherein he declared, that the emperor cannot consent to any partition of the Spanish monarchy, and thought it for the common interest to dismiss the French plenipotentiaries, who were sent only to create jealousies among the allies.

Munday evening his highness with the duke of Marlborough went for Rotterdam, next morning sailed for Antwerp, from whence they'll goe to Ghent, and should reach the army as yesterday, and 'twas expected by the end of next week would attack the French lines; notwithstanding their generals have done their utmost to secure them, and their troops are very numerous, but the confederates before hand with them in provisions and forage.

The lord Mordant, only son to the earl of Peterborough, and colonel of the Scotch fuzileers, is dead; as is also sir Charles Hopson, last year sheriff of this city.

A patent is past to make the earl of Orkney governour of Virginia; his lordship has constituted collonel Spotswood his deputy governor, who embarks next week.

Yesterday the duke of Argisle, lieutenant general Rosse, &c. went for Harwich in order to goe to the army in Flanders.

The lieutenantancy of London have agreed upon an addresse to the queen, (different from that of the common council,) wherein they declare they'll stand by her majestie, the present government, and the toleration; and 'tis said the queen has appointed next Tuesday to be attended therewith.

Tuesday, 11 April.—The last foreign letters advised, that the elector of Hanover had given orders for his feild equipage to be got ready, from whence 'twas conjectured that his highness will command the army on the Upper Rhine.

From Warsaw, that the prince of Muscovy had received advice, that the serasquier of Bender had by direction of the grand seignior sent the Zaparow Cossacks that were with the king of Sueden to the frontiers of Budziack, to be delivered as rebels to the czar.

At the assizes in Rutlandshire, a constable was tryed for killing one George Gade, who made a ryot by drinking Dr. Sacheverels health, &c. and opposed him in his office, for which he struck him on the side of his head, so that he dyed next day; and after a long hearing the constable was acquitted.

At Shrewsbury assizes, a nonjuror with several other persons being assembled in a riotous manner, insulted some of the council goeing that circuit, and committed other disorders, for which, 'tis said, they'l be prosecuted; they also attempted to get an addresse of the same nature as that from Gloucestershire, sign'd by the grand jury, but 'twas rejected.

We have an account of the like attempt, and with the same successe, at the assizes in Surry, where the addresse proposed was rejected by 16 out of 21.

Saturday last dyed monsieur Leyencroom, envoy from Sueden, who has resided at this court several years.

This day a special commission of oyer and terminer was open'd in Westminster Hall, where serjeant Bennet gave the charge to the grand jury; and Mr. Borret, the queens sollicitor, presented bills of high treason against one Damary, her majesties waterman, Purchase a baylif, and one Willis a papist, which were found; as also a bill against 29 others for misdemeanors and a ryot, and, 'tis said, they'l be tryed the 19th instant.

The queen has appointed the lieutenancy to-wait upon her next Thursday with their addresse, being the same day our lord mayor and common council. present theirs.

No Dutch post.

Thursday, 13 April.—Yesterday came in a Dutch post, which advises,

From Italy, that sir John Norris with his squadron was come to Final, where 2 Imperial and 3 Neopolitan regiments were embarking with all expedition to reinforce king Charles in Catalonia; and that the pope had sent him a brief to raise money on his clergy, as he gave king Phillip leave to doe.

From Paris, that on the 12th and 13th instant the king reviewed his guards, which with the rest of his troops were to begin their march the 16th for Valenciennes, and marshal Villars was to follow soon after.

From the Hague, of the 18th, that the Danes and Suedes have both a squadron of men of war at sea, so that action is speedily expected between them.

That the regency of Sueden have actually agreed since the expulsion of the Danes out of Schonen to the neutrality proposed for the territories of that crown scituate in the empire, and offer to put into the service of England and Holland the body of troops commanded by general Crassau in Pomerania.

That the allies had by assault taken the post of Mortagne, at the head of the enemies lines on the scarpe, but the day following 6000 men from Conde retook it, forcing the garrison of 60 men to surrender at discretion; that the earl of Albemarl was marching with 10,000 men to endeavour if possible again to possess himself thereof; and that the whole army would be form'd as Tuesday last, and divided into 2 bodies, one to be commanded by the duke of Marlborough, and the other by prince Eugene, who, as 'tis said, is to attack the French lines on the side of Maubeuge.

Tuesday the assizes ended at Kingston, where several hatters apprentices, &c. in Southwark where fined for a ryot on account of Dr. Sacheverel.

This day the lord mayor and common council attended the queen with their addresses, as also did the lieutenantancy with theirs, both which her majestie received graciously.

Saturday, 15 April.—Yesterday came in an expresse from Holland, and yesterday a mail, advising that the French were not many hours in possession of the post of Mortagne after they had retaken it from the allies, a detachment from the garrison of Tournay arriving before it the 18th, soon after which made themselves once more masters thereof with little losse; of the enemy 40 were killed, the remainder of the garrison, being about 300 granadeers, made prisoners of war, and 2 of their gallies sunk.

That Sunday last at 6 in the morning the duke of Wirtemberg and lieutenant general Cadogan, with 15 batallions and some horse, entred the French lines at Pont Vending, those who guarded them retireing without firing a shot.

That we were busied in levelling the same, and about 40 batallions and some squadrons of the enemy, which were near Lens and Bethune, fled, part towards Doway and part towards Arras: for which good news the Tower guns were yesterday fired, and in the evening bonfires, &c.

That the states deputies were preparing to sett out again for Gertruydenberg to conferr once more with the French plenipotentiaries, who have desired to communicate to them the orders they have received last Saturday by an expresse from Versailles.

It's said most of our army had past the lines when the letter came away, and if it be not found practicable at this time to penetrate further into France, we shal besiege Doway, in order to have a magazine there to supply our army while in the enemies country.

The baron Swazzoo, a rich Portuguese Jew, is dead here, leaving an estate of 400,000*l*.

William Mildmay, esq., son of the late sir John, is allso dead, leaving John Shut, one of the commissioners of the customes, his executor, and an estate of 10,000*l*.

Last night the queen was pleased to make the duke of Shrewsbury lord chamberlain of her household, in the room of the marquesse of Kent, who resigned the same.

Tuesday, 18 April.—Yesterday came in a Dutch mail, as also one from Ostend, which advises,

From our camp at Goulezin, of the 23d, that the duke of Marlborough and prince Eugene having intelligence the French troops under marshalls Artagnan and Luxemburgh were assembling near Vitry, upon the scarpe between Doway and Arras, to dispute their passage over that river, resolved, notwithstanding the great fatigues our army had undergone, to proceed while the enemy were in confusion, and dislodge them from that post; accordingly the 22d marcht towards Vitry, which place the enemy abandon'd upon our approach, leaving part of their tents and baggage behind, and retir'd towards Cambray; they also quitted St. Amand, Marchien, and their other posts on the lower scarpe; immediately we laid bridges over at Vitry; the prince of Hesse, with 12 squadrons, pursued them till night, and took several prisoners. The duke of Marlborough's army encamp't with the right at Vitry, and the left at Gouge; prince Eugene's remaining on the other side of Doway; which place is actually invested on all sides; in it is a garrison of 22 battalions under mounsieur Albergotti: and that the deputies of the states of the province of Artois had been with the duke to desire his protection, which was granted. The enemy are so affrighted, that they retire to places of strength, not daring to make a stand, and in great consternation to see such a successful opening of the campagne on our side, since in all probability they can't possibly be in a condition to disturb the seige of Doway.

A patent is passing the seales to create the marques of Kent a duke, who has also the promise of a garter, upon resigning his place of lord chamberlain.

Last week dyed sir Richard Bulkley, one of the modern prophets; as also did Mr. Thacker, clerk of the bails in the court of queens bench, and his place worth 1500*l.*, in the disposal of the lord chief justice Parker.

This day the parliament met, and by commission further prorogued to this day fortnight, by which time 'tis probable we may guesse whither any likelihood of peace.

Thursday, 20 April.—Four Indian sachems, or kings of the 5 Indian nations, lately arrived here, offering their services to assist her majestie against all her enemies in those parts, and secure her from the French in and about Canada in America, had yesterday audience of the queen, and accepted very graciously: her majestie ordered them presents, the lord chamberlain to entertain them at her charge, and that they be shewn what is remarkable here: 'tis said they'l goe over and have a view of our army in Flanders.

The last letters from the Hague advised, they had an account from Lisle, that the French had ruined a sluyce between that place and Doway, with design to retard sending from Lisle stores of ammunition, &c. for the seige, but the same was repairing with all expedition.

And that the states had received a letter from their minister at Constantinople, importing, besides the offer made to the king of Sueden by the Ottoman Port, to furnish a squadron of ships of war to carry him to his own dominions: a like offer by sea had been secretly made him of the part of one of the potentates in the grand alliance; but that prince had excused himself from accepting it, alledging he could not bear the sea; and that he would take his time to goe home by land, without saying which way.

We have advice from Curassao in the West Indies, that the French had made a descent upon the island of St. Eustace, but several of their ships, which were in quest of some Dutch vessels, were attacked by 3 English cruizers, who killed a great number of their men.

This day Damary, one of the queen's watermen, received his tryal at the Old Baily, which lasted 7 hours, lord cheif justice Parker, lord cheif baron Ward, Mr. justice Tracy, and Mr. baron Bury present, for heading the mobb, which lately pulled down the meeting houses; the evidence was full against him, and the court declaring their opinions that crimes of this nature were high treason, the jury (sir Edward Gould foreman) brought in their verdict guilty: Purchase the bailif and Willis will be tryed for the same to morrow.

Saturday, 22 April.—The earl of Sunderland has by order of the queen sent a letter to the justices of peace for Middlesex, commanding them to doe all they can to prevent seditious libells being cryed about the streets, which stirr'd up the mob; upon which the justices have ordered the constables to take up all those that cry such libells.

The archbishop of Canterbury has made Dr. Betsworth his vicar general and dean of the arches, in the room of sir John Cook, deceased.

Yesterday Willis was tryed at the Old Baily for high treason, being active among the late mob; but the evidence against him not being clear, the jury brought him in not guilty.

And this day came on the trial of Purchase the bailey for the like crime committed about the same time; council for the queen were, the attorney and solicitor generalls, with Mr. Thompson; and for the prisoner, Mr. Major and Mr. Darnell: the evidence was full against him, and the judges present, viz. lord chief justice Parker, Mr. justice Tracy, and Mr. baron Bury, declared the fact to be treason, so left it with the jury, who at 10 this night brought in the verdict speciall.

Tuesday, 25 April.—On Sunday came in a Dutch post, and yesterday another, with advice,

From Genoa, that they had letters from Port Mahone, of the 15th, intimating that sir John Norris and sir Edward Whitaker with their squadrons, as also another of Dutch, were taking in provisions there, in order to sail for Barcelona, as also the whole fleet, consisting of 40 men of war: they will be masters of all those seas, secure Sardinia from all attempts of the enemy, and convoy safely from Final the succours designed to reinforce the army of the allies in Catalonia.

From the camp before Dovay, 1 May. We have invested this place on all sides, and our troops having provided a great number of fascines, intend to morrow to open the trenches: the town will be so vigorously attacked, that we hope to be soon masters thereof, the taking of which will enable the allies to penetrate into France.

Lieutenant general Cadogan is gone to mark out a fit place on the plains near Lens, for drawing up the army in battallia, in case the enemy, who we have little apprehension of, should attempt to disturb the seige.

Letters from Cambray say, that 6000 French are to work on the fortifications of Peronne, as being the key of Picardy, and even of France on that side.

From the Hague, May 2d, that on the 26th the states return'd from Gertruydenburgh, and having made their report of what passed in the late conference between them and the French plenipotentiaries, which was to no better effect than the former, 'twas resolved that [if] the courier, who they since dispatch'd to Versailles, don't bring back a positive and satisfactory declaration by 7th of May, our stile, from the French king, the deputies will goe no more to Gertruydenburgh, and the plenipotentiaries shal be ordered home.

Henry Thynne, esq., nephew and heir male to the lord viscount Weymouth, and who some time since married the lady Mary Villars, daughter to the earl of Jersey, is deceased.

As also are the lord Lumly, son to the earl of Scarborough; and Lytton Stroude Lytton, of Hartfordshire, esq.

Thursday, 27 April.—The last foreign letters advised, that the czar had ordered a church to be built at Pultowa, dedicated to St. Peter and St. Sampson, in memory of the victory obtained there over the Swedes by Peter, (whose name the czar bears,) on the festival of Sampson.

From Norway, that 2000 Swedes attempting to build a fort near Swinsund, to cut off the communication with the town of Fredrickshall, some Danish troops were detach't that way to attack them, which they did with so much successe, that abundance of Swedes were killed, with 20 officers, and 300 soldiers taken prisoners.

Saturday, 29 April.—By an Holland mail yesterday arrived, it's advised,

From Copenhagen, that his Danish majesty, being informed of some reports in foreign parts, as if he intended to turn papist, has publickly declared 'twas an artifice of his enemies to make him odious to the protestants, or a stratagem of the papists to create jealousies among the reformed princes, that they may not take unanimous measures to prevent and oppose their encroachments.

From Flanders, that on the 20th a party from Namur stopt the common passage boat between Antwerp and Brussels, and carried off prince Eugene's plate, and 2000 ducats in gold.

That on the 4th at night a French party attempted to burn some ships with hay, near Ghent, but prevented.

From the camp before Doway, May the 5th: last night the trenches were open'd on the north side of the scarp with so much order, that the beseiged did not perceive it till 3 this morning, by which time our approaches were considerably advanced, and our men covered; then they made a terrible fire, but killed us only 3 men.

One of our parties met with 100 of the enemies horse, and having at the 1st discharge killed 15 of them, made all the rest prisoners.

Our artillery arrived yesterday morning at Oudenard, and we expect it here in 2 or 3 days.

The rector of the English college has obtained leave of the duke of Marlborough to retire with 60 students during the seige to Lisle.

We have advice, that the enemies troops are drawing together on the other side the Soame; that Villars was daily expected at Cambray, and the French king is much concerned that all his generals seem unwilling to goe to their posts.

From the Hague, that the French plenipotentiaries were preparing to return home.

Yesterday the New England and New York merchants treated very splendidly the 4 Indian kings, to each of whom the archbishop of Canterbury has presented an English Bible, and they will speedily return home.

From the Hague, that the states deputies are goeing again to Gertruydenberg at the request of the French plenipotentiaries, who have received new instructions from Versailles.

Saturday, 1 July.—Letters from Dublin of the 24 past say, that in the act for preventing the growth of popery in Ireland is a clause against papists frequenting their saints wells on particular patron days, as well on account of the superstition, as that the concourse of such numbers might endanger the publick peace: they forbore this practice from the time that law was made till 2 years ago, (the time of the intended invasion,) when incredible numbers, above 40,000, repair'd to St. Johns well, in the county of Meath, within 12 miles of Dublin, for which several of them were convicted: last year they were quiet; but that morning these letters came away the house of commons was acquainted that great numbers were gathering together from several parts, by the best information could have, at least 10,000: this, added to the insolence of those and other disaffected persons which has of late appear'd, so alarmed the commons, that they immediately address the earl of Wharton, their lord lieutenant, to have a watchful eye over them, who directed a proclamation and orders sent to the sheriff of Meath, to take to his assistance (if need require) 2 troops of horse quarter'd in that neighbourhood, and disperse those rebellious assemblies.

Yesterday John Clendon, esq., who was ordered by the commons of England to be prosecuted for being author of a book about the Trinity, entituled, A Treatise of the word Person, was found guilty of writing the same; but some objections being made to the indictment, 'twill be argued by council.

To morrow will be due 2 Dutch posts.

Saturday, 8 July.—Yesterday came in the mails due from Holland and Flanders, which advise,

That the duke of Tursis, with his own 6 gallyes and 2 of Sicily, was come from Port Finio to Genoa, much indisposed, which may be attributed to the miscarriage of his attempt on Sardinia: he lost 1500 men in the expedition; viz. 400 who landed, and 1100 taken by sir John Norris in 10 transports, on board of which were 900 barrels of powder, 4 large cannon, several mortars, great number of bombs, saddles, ammunition, &c. which he took with him for Barcelona, where king Charles's affairs have a good aspect.

From our camp at Villar Boulin, of the 14th, that Villars being join'd by some detachments, and several garrisons, had encamp't behind the new lines near Arras, which rendred it hazardous for us to invest that place, or attack him; upon which the duke of Marlborough had ordered Bethune to be invested, the taking of which will open a way to the seacoasts, towards which 'tis conjectured our troops at Spithead will speedily sail.

From the Hague, of the 15th, that the states deputies having had another conference with the French plenipotentiaries were returned, no further progress being made touching the peace, but the French had again sent to Versailles for fresh instructions.

That 14 homeward bound Dutch East India ships and 5 English were arrived in the Tessell.

Yesterday one Russel, beadle of Christs Hospital, was convicted at the Old Baily for ravishing a girl of 12 years of age.

Nine of the judges being of opinion that Purchase the bailiff was guilty of high treason, the other three, viz. lord cheif justice Trevor, Mr. justice Powel, and Mr. baron Price, that 'twas only a ryot, he was brought to the bar to know why judgment should not passe on him: his council mov'd in arrest of judgment, by reason no overt act was laid in the indictment; which will be considered next Fryday.

Tuesday, 18 July.—This morning came in a mail from Ostend, which advises,

From Marseilles, that 5 British men of war have taken 2 French ones of 60 guns each, with 2 or 3 merchant ships bound for the Archipelago, the rest of the fleet making their escape during the fight.

From Genoa, that a ship arrived there in 4 dayes from Barcelona reports, that general Staremburg, having been reinforced by the troops which lately landed there from Italy, was again broke up and marched towards Monson to endeavour to take that place; and that several parties were already in Arragon and Valentia up in arms in favour of king Charles.

From the camp before Bethune, of the 24th, last night the trenches were open'd without any damage, and carried 200 paces: this day the garrison made a sally, but repulsed with great losse: the beseigers have diverted the course of the river Brett, which will facilitate their approaches.

The pretender has caus'd medalls to be struck, on one side whereof is the kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, with Reddite above it, and on the other side his effigies, with Cujus est, that is, Restore Great Britain and Ireland to whom it belongs; and they are industriously dispers'd, in order to make proselytes.

From the Hague, of the 25th, that Wednesday evening the states held an extraordinary assembly upon the negotiations of peace; all the ministers of the allies present; who were so well convinced of the insincerity of the French king relating to that affair, that his plenipotentiaries were ordered to return home: and from Brussels, of the 26th, that that day at noon they went thro that citty for Versailles.

Purchase the bailif, condemned for high treason, is reprieved; but the 2 Irish men who robbed Mr. Hallom at the Meuse Gate (after he had treated them with a supper at a tavern) are ordered to be executed: they were both prisoners on their parols, being taken some time since on board a French ship, and each of them had 1s. a day allowed them by the queen for their maintenance.

This day the parliament were further prorogued to the 1st of August.]

Sir George Thorold and Mr. Eyles, chose sherifs of this citty for the year ensueing, have given bonds to hold that place.

Thursday, 20 July.—There being little news stirring here, I send you the copy of a letter from our camp at Villars Brulin, of the 23d instant, viz.

Sir, Ever since we quitted our long camp before Douay, we came into this country, which is the granary of this part of France for corn, and the most plentiful that I ever yet saw. In our last camp we foraged all before us, which was to hinder the enemy from having it, and 2 days ago we made a motion backwards into fresh forage, which will putt us in such a stock that may very well last us the whole seige of Bethune, which has been invested 6 dayes, and every thing for the same getting up with the utmost application: there is a good garison in the place, and the governour is Vauban, nephew to the famous engineer, notwithstanding which it can't hold out long, by reason of the smallnesse of the fortresse, unlesse any mistakes of our engineers contribute thereto. I am told that we are preparing for the seige of St. Venant and Aire, both on the river Lys, but of no great strength; after which there will be nothing to hinder us from goeing into the Lower Picardy and the Bolonois, and putting the Isle of France under contribution. The French have made detachments to goe and guard the same, and don't seem at present disposed to give us any disturbance in what we are going about. I am very well assured that if they march toward us, we shall give them a meeting, and in the plains decide the matters fairly. Whilst the French kings affairs are so bad, and ours so prosperous, one would be in a maze that he should not be brought to reasonable conditions of peace. At the beginning of this campagne they paid their soldiers some money, but all the deserters assure us that there is none now in their army, which occasions more desertion than usual. From whence then does that kings hopes proceed? Our affairs here (thanks be to God) are in so prosperous a condition, that we could not well have expected them in better: on the Rhine they make a stand, which was more than was thought of from them, and in Spain things don't go amiss. From what sudden cause does this come? If from the heats and animosities that are now in England, he may be deceived, as he has been before; for reason and honesty will prevail with the honest minded people, so soon as they have time to look thro' the frauds and sinister practices of designing men. But this I can assure you, that the people at St. Germain are very uppish at this time. There is a medal struck lately, with the pretenders effigies on one side, and the 3 kingdoms on the other, with this motto, Cujus est, reddite, and industriously dispers't, without all doubt to make proselytes. We are very well informed by the Paris Gazett of Sacheverels progresse, where he lies every night, and who it is that treats him: why so inconsiderable a man should find so much room in that famous Gazet, unlesse it be to keep up the spirits of the people, and encourage them to hold out the war one year longer, I can't comprehend; but if 'tis so, I think that the nation in general has reason to curse him, for without that hurly burly you had had peace before now.

Saturday, 22 July.—This days Flanders mail advises,

From Paris, of the 25th, that the negotiations of peace being broke off causes great discontents there.

That the king has sent from his seaports to Bayonne 2,000,000 weight of gunpowder, 80,000 cannon balls, besides a vast quantity of bombs, granados, &c., from whence 'twil be conveyed by land to Spain, to fill the duke of Anjou's magazines; and that a fleet of 100 ships, laden with corn for their army in Artois, was arrived at St. Vallery from Bretagne and Normandy.

From our camp at Villars Brulin, of the 28th, that on the 24th the besieged in Bethune made a sally with all their cavalry and part of their infantry, who killed and wounded between 2 and 300 of our men, but were afterwards repulsed.

On the 25th the heavy cannon from Douay arrived at Camerin, about 3 miles from Bethune, and will be ready to fire on that place as to morrow; the lines of circumvallation, which are extended about 5 or 6 leagues, are finished.

A detachment of our army has taken the castle of Anequin, situated between that place and Lens, the garrison of 5 companies surrendring at discretion; and that the duke of Marlborough and prince Eugene have mark't out a feild of battle, in case Villars should attempt to relieve the place, who is encamp't over against Arras, whither he has sent his heavy cannon and baggage.

Next week the publick lottery will begin to be drawn at Guildhall.

The regiments on board the fleet, I am told, are ordered to encamp in the Isle of Wight.

Last week Dr. Brown (son to the late Dr. Edward Brown) fell from his horse and broke his neck.

This morning died sir Edward Hanns, one of her majesties physitians.

A warrant is out for apprehending Mr. Lesly, (the nonjuror and author of the late Rehersalls,) upon account of a pamphlet newly publish't, by him called, the Good Old Cause, &c., in which he exprest himself that no laws made for 20 years past are good.

Tuesday, 25 July.—Sunday and yesterday came in 2 Dutch posts, which advise,

That Riga being in great want of provisions, and the garison from 8000 reduced to 1800, capitulated and marcht out the 18th, and as soon as the Muscovite army appears before Pernaw and Revel, 'tis expected those places will doe the like, so that the affairs of Sueden have but a bad aspect in Livonia; on the contrary, they write from Constantinople, that the grand vizier has been deposed for opposing the mufti or chief priest, who, in consult with others, advis'd sending back the king of Sueden with 40,000 Janizaries, Tartars, and Spahis, into his own country, alledging that 'twas necessary to curb the growing power of the czar, and for the honour of the Port to protect that king from his confederate enemies, against whom, tis said, king Stanislaus will speedily march with the forces under Crassau in Pomerania and invade Saxony, which the kings of Prussia, Poland, and elector of Hanover, are preparing to oppose.

From Flanders, that the French at Namur and Charleroy seeming to have a design upon Brussels, that city had sent to our generalls for a reinforcement of troops.

From our camp at Villars Brulin, of the 31, that that morning the duke of Marlborough and prince Eugene, having advice that Villars was marching towards Avene le Compte, they ordered all the detachments which were abroad, as also 10 squadrons and 12 batallions from the seige, to join them; and by the next we may expect to know whither the French will engage us.

The earl of Portland having purchased of the earl of Albemarl the post of captain of the queens first troop of guards, has kist her majesties hand for the same.

This day was a general council at Kensington, where the bills brought hither from the parliament of Ireland were approved of.

To morrow the state lottery will begin to be drawn at Guildhall.

Mrs. Mohun, one of the maids of honour to the queen, and sister to the lord Mohun, is dead.

Thursday, 27 July.—Yesterday was executed at Tyburn one Macknamare, an Irish man, lately condemned at Hicks Hall, for robbing one Mr. Halon at the Mews gate.

A Flanders mail arrived advises,

From Turin, of the 16th, that the troops from Savoy are marching to Saluzzes, and from thence to Coni and Trada, so that general Thauin will probably force the intrenchments along the river Varr, in order to attempt something of moment with the assistance of the confederate fleet dayly expected on the coast of Genoa.

From the camp at Villars Brulin, August 1st: our army continued last night in order of battle, expecting an attack from the enemy ; but upon the duke of Marlboroughs viewing them this morning, he found they were entrenching themselves from the source of the Scarp to the source of the Canche.

The besseigers of Bethune have finish't two batteries, and the approaches are carried on with such successe, that we hope to be soon masters of the place.

The French lately took several Germans, who without leave went from prince Eugene's army in quest of booty, barbarously used them, forcing them into a morass and stoning them to death ; upon which that prince ordered a patrol of 30 hussars to seize all stragling soldiers as they found, and immediately hung them.

General Hompesch is moving with a body of horse about Ayre, to prevent the enemy from throwing in provisions or men into that place, which gives ground to believe that after the reduction of Bethune, that place will be next attack't.

Collonel Codrington, who has been for many years general of our forces in the Leeward Islands, is dead, and has left 10,000*l.* of his estate to All Souls colledge in Oxford.

The first ticket of the state lottery, drawn yesterday, entitled the fortunate to 50*l.* per ann., fell upon Mr. Walter Cock of Camberwell, who so generously supported the Palatines last year, and has this year the best crop of corn for quantity in all the county of Surry.

Mr. Crescet, who was goeing envoy extraórdinary to the court of Hanover, is dead.

The discourse of dissolving the parliament begins again to revive, and several gentlemen, who design to serve therein, are gone down to secure their interest.)

Saturday, 29 July.—Last night came in a Dutch post, which advises,

From Copenhagen, of the 25th, that a camp is mark't out near that city, for the Danish troops designed for another expedition against Schonon, which are said to be more numerous than last campaign ; and that the duke of Mecklenburgh had lent the king of Sueden 300,000 crowns at large interest.

From Paris, Aug. 10th, that on the 25th past, 5 men of war, crowded with soldiers, sayled from Brest, as given out there, for the West Indies.

That the king is resolved to raise 50 regiments more, and that 4000 men were put into Antibes, and the militia of Provence in arms to guard the passes of the river Varr, against the duke of Savoy's army.

From our camp at Villars Brulin, Aug. 4th: on the 1st instant the garison of Bethune made a sally with 300 men, but were soon repulsed without damaging our works; our batteries are now firing against the place, and the workmen advanced within 30 yards of the counterscarp: the troops ordered from the seige for our army are countermanded, upon the French beginning to entrench themselves: 3 officers endeavouring to gett into the town are taken.

From the Hague, of the 5th, that the Suedish envoy there has offered to put the troops under general Crassau in Pomerania into the confederates service, and assures them that the regency of Sueden will exactly observe the neutrality for preserving the peace of Germany; which has given great satisfaction to the ministers of the allies.

That count Thauin was marching for Provence, the British squadron cruising on that coast having been obliged to go to Vado for fresh water; the French corn fleet having the mean while got into Marseilles from the Levant.

Yesterday Mr. Dunning, a cheezemonger in Thames street, had a benefit ticket in the lottery of 400*l.* per ann.

Tuesday, 1 August.—This days Holland mail advises,

From Lyons, of the 27th ult., that the confederates are in motion on the frontiers of Dauphiny and Provence, and have taken the castle of Arches, the garrison of 150 men surrendring themselves prisoners of war.

Letters from Paris, of the 4th, say they were marching towards Provence, and abundance of their troops actually arrived in the valley of Barcelonette; and an expresse from Montpellier had brought news, that the confederate fleet, after landing their forces at Barcelona, came upon the coast of Languedock, and surprized the harbour of Sette, where they landed about 1800 men, with a great number of arms and ammunition to join the Camizars and other protestants; had already made themselves masters of the town of Adge, took hostages for the payment of 150,000 livres contribution, and are buisy in digging a canal from the sea to Lestant, near that place, which when finish'd 'twill be very difficult to dislodge them by land; to prevent which monsieur Roquelaer, who commands in Languedock, is raising the bann and arrier ban of that province; and an expresse is sent to the duke de Noyelles to march from Spain thro Rousillon with 8000 men to his assistance; as also another to the duke of Barwick to detach 4 regiments from his army thither.

Tis said mareschal Villars has requested leave of the king for his health to goe and drink the waters at Aix la Chapelle, and that the duke of Orleans, with Vendosm under him, will command the army in Flanders.

From the Hague, that general Schulemberg is come to the glacis of the counterscarp, and raising batteries to fire on the walls of Bethune: general Fagel, being on the side where the mines are, carries on the seige by sapping.

This day the parliament mett, and were by commission further prorogued to the 26th of September.

Thursday, 3 August.—The last foreign letters advis'd,

From Vienna, of the 26th ult., that the king of Sueden and han of Tartary were at Bender the 24th of June, and beleiv'd would procure a rupture between the Ottoman Port and the Muscovites, being seconded by the new prime vizier, as also the mufti and the bashaw who constantly attends the grand seignior; these being his principal ministers, endeavour to persuade him the czar has no real design to keep the late treaty for prolonging the peace, therefore at this juncture 'twould be for the interest of the Turks forthwith to declare war against him: and several letters say, if he'le not consent theretoo, his forces and the common people threaten to depose him; which news occasions some umbrage at the imperial court.

Advices from France mention, that they are in a great consternation for the taking of Settee in Languedock; private letters assuring that king, that general Thau with his army will force his way into that province, and join the Camisars with the troops lately landed there; upon which orders are sent to the intendant to imprison all the new converts and others whom he shal suspect to be dissatisfied with the present government of France.

The dutchesse dowager of Devonshire, who was daughter to the old duke of Ormond, dyed Monday last.

Saturday, 5 Aug.—The last account from the Hague advised, that the imperial resident there had letters that the disturbances at Constantinople dayly increase; and it's to be feared that the peace of Carlowitz will be of short date, the aga of the Janizaries, who is for breaking both with the emperor and the czar, lately encouraged the Janizaries to insult the baron Dalman, the emperors envoy there, which occasioned bloodshed, several Germans and Turks being dangerously wounded; upon complaint to the new grand vizier, no redresse has been yet given to the said envoy.

That the confederate generals have ordered some regiments to march to Louvain, for fear of another surprize by the enemy, and the like precaution taken for the security of Brussells, upon advice that the garisons of Namur and Charleroy have formed designs against those places.

Yesterday the duke of Ormond reviewed the horse guards in Hyde Park, and presented the earl of Portland as captain to the 1st troop; after which his lordship treated all the officers.

There have been no counccills this week, her majestie being ill of the gout; count Gallas the imperial envoy here has lately delivered in a memorial from his master relating to the publick affairs, which, among other things, seems to favour our present ministry and parliament, the dissolution whereof is not yet known.

The regiments in the Isle of Wight are ready to embark upon the intended descent, so soon as Bethune is taken.

The stormy weather has hinder'd the Holland mail due yesterday from coming in, so that we have no fresh news from thence, or our army in Flanders.

Tuesday, 8 Aug.—One Holland and 2 Flanders mails arrived here.

The last advises from Madrid, of the 28th, that the marquess de Bay had laid several leagues in Portugal under contribution, and received 160,000 patacoons in part; and that count Staremberg had sent a private detachment towards the mountains to endeavour to retake the castle of Avens and Estadilla, which if accomplished will hinder the duke of Anjous troops from winter quarters in Arragon.

From Paris, of the 8th, some letters say from Italy, the confederate troops, who were landed in Languedock, and took Fort Cette, upon advice that the duke de Noailles, with a private detachment, was marching towards them, retired thence, carrying off a large sum of money, which they took from the receivers of the farmes, and embarkt again; others say they were repulsed with considerable losse.

From our camp before Bethune, the 5th instant, our batteries have since fired against that place with 70 cannon and 30 mortars, and the attacks carried on so successfully, that we expect in a few days the garrison will be forced to capitulate.

The French continue to intrench themselves, and in our camp provisions are so plentiful, that an ammunition loaf of 6 lb. weight is sold for 5*d*.

This morning Mr. Collins, the messenger, arrived here expresse from the duke of Marlborough, with an account that on Thursday last the governor of Bethune beat the chamade, next morning the capitulation was sign'd, by which we had a gate delivered us that night, and on Sunday the garison were to march out with the usual marks of honour; Mr. Collins says, that several French deserters report there has been a 2d battle in Spain, which terminated in favour of king Charles.

Thursday, 24 Aug.—Yesterday came in 2 mails from Holland, with an account,

From Vienna, of the 20th, that an expresse was arrived there from Constantinople, advising that the grand seignior had caus'd the horse tail to be hung out, and that a rupture with the Muscovites was as good as resolved on; the czar having absolutely refus'd to comply with the demands of the Ottoman Port in favour of the king of Sweden.

From Madrid, that the marquesse de Bay, having left the command of his troops on the borders of Portugal to the marquesse de Risburgh, who was about besieging Braganza, arrived there the 9th in his way to Lerida, being to command the duke of Anjou's horse, Villadarias having refus'd the same, the officers in the late battle not obeying his orders.

From Arragon, that general Staremborg has taken Moncon and Balbastro, and caus'd the castle of Estadilla to be attackt, and publish'd circular letters, requiring the subjects of that country to submit to their lawful prince.

From our army at Villars Brulin, Aug. 29th, that Bethune having capitulated, our troops were to decamp as Tuesday last towards Aire and St. Venant, in order to invest both places at once; and the French being so very near us as we now lye, 'tis probable on our decamping they'l attack our rear, which may bring both armies to a general battle.

On the 25th, the right wing of prince Eugene's army foraged near the enemy, which they having notice of the night before, sent out a strong body of horse to fall upon them, but were so well received that we beat them back with great slaughter, and took about 300 prisoners with many horses.

We want 2 Dutch posts.

Thursday, 31 August.—The last foreign letters advise,

From Turin, of the 23d, that the ill successe of the campagne on that side is imputed to the difference between the generals of the confederate forces and those of the duke of Savoy; but to prevent further disputes among them, his royal highnesse has ordered the count de Rocca to retire from the army to his government of Alexandria; and to remove all suspicions which might be occasioned to the allies, and give them a fresh proof of his steady zeal and firmnesse to the common cause, offers to deliver up to the Germans the towns of Cuneo, Susa, and Ivrea.

And that they had advice from Venice, that the senate, being alarmed at the military preparations of the Turks by sea and land, have ordered a body of troops to be sent from terra firma to such places as they are possess of in the Levant, and making all other preparations for their security in case of a war with the Ottoman Port.

From Vienna, of the 26, the differences between the duke of Savoy and that court remain unadjusted, the former insisting on having the district of Vigevano, and refusing an equivalent for the same.

From the Hague, of Sept. 2d, that the seige of Aire is resolved upon, and, if the weather favours, our generals intend to extend their conquests as far as Bologna to cut off the communication by land of all places between that and Newport yet in the enemies possession; and some letters say, the chevalier St. George has left the French camp on pretence of sicknesse, and not known whither he is gone, but suppos'd for Dunkirk.

From Vienna, of the 23d of last month, that they had an expresse from Hungary, that the malecontents in Newhausell had capitulated, and the imperialists taken possession of one of the gates.

Brussels, Sept. 6: our freshest advices from Madrid are of the 19th, so could bring no account of the 2d battle in Spain, which, according to the marquesse de Mirabilla's letter, was fought the 20th: they confirm count Staremburg's taking of Moncon, Huesca, Sarinnena, and Estadilla, making the garrisons prisoners of war, and that all Arragon had submitted to him.

From our camp at Lillers, Sept. 3d: this day 8000 men were detach't to secure the places about Aire and St. Venant; that party which went towards the former seized a post within a league thereof, in which were 200 men: 'tis said the duke of Marlborough and prince Eugene will command the two attacks against Aire, in which is a garrison of 14 batallions, and 2 regiments of dragoons.

There are letters of the 29th of August, which came by a ship arrived last Monday at Bristol in 9 days from Bilboa, which say, count Staremburg on the 20th attack'd and defeated the duke of Anjou's army in sight of Saragossa; that his Walloon foot, about 5000 men, threw down their arms, and the rest of the foot, being near 8000, were killed and taken, 3000 horse were likewise destroyed, and about the same number fled, part to Tudela and the rest to Teragona, by which way the duke of Anjou made his escape, and on the 22d past thro Agreda in great hast for Madrid; all which the Paris letters of the 1st seem to elude; but the hasty reinforcements they are sending to Spain, Vendosme gone post, and Berwick ordered from Dauphiny, with other precipitant measures they have taken, sufficiently evidences the truth of the former.

In order to a new parliament, the duke of Bolton is removed from being lord lieutenant of Hampshire, warden of New Forest, and governor of the Isle of Wight, and is succeeded in the two former by the duke of Beaufort, and in the latter by lieutenant general Webb; and the earl of Rochester is made lord lieutenant of Cornwall, during the minority of the earl of Bath, in the room of the lord Godolphin.

Tuesday, 5 Sept.—On Sunday came in 2 Holland mails, which confirm,

From Paris, the defeat of the duke of Anjou 20th past, of his arrival at Madrid the 24th, and the remains of his army, not thinking themselves safe at Tudela, were marching to Burgos on the borders of Navarre; that general Staremburg has made himself master of all the magazines and corn in Aragon, and pursues his victory with all successe, at which the courts of Madrid and Versailles are in the utmost consternation, as being apprehensive that many of the grandes will join king Charles: an expresse from general Stanhope is daily expected, with a particular account of the battle, and what done since.

From Flanders, that when we quitted our old camp at Villers Brulin, the French kept close in theirs, but sent 6 officers to observe our march, and bring them intelligence; whom some hussars having taken brought to our camp, and being askt why they were out without a party to secure them, answered frankly, that they durst not trust any troops abroad, for fear of desertion.

The towns of Aire and St. Venant were invested the 6th, prince Anhalt, general of the Prussians, commands the siege of the former, and prince of Orange the latter; so soon as the great convoy with artillery, ammunition, &c. which is coming up the Lyss arrives, we shall break ground; a field of battle is marking out for our army, in case the enemy should attempt to relieve either of those places.

Wm. Freeman, esq., brother to the knight of the shire for Hartfordshire, is made a commissioner of the stamp office, in the room of justice Dyot.

No Dutch post.

Thursday, 11 Januar.—Yesterdays Dutch and Flanders mails advise,

From the Hague, that they had received the account general Staremburg sent to king Charles at Barcelona of the late battle in Spain, which is quite contrary to what the French gave, viz. That his army being forced to march for Arragon in columns, and by different ways, the better to get forage and provisions, so soon as he heard the danger the English were in, march't night and day to releive them, and drew up his forces of 29 squadrons and 27 batallions within a league of Balaguer, where the enemy began to attack him, being superior in number, having 32 batallions and 80 squadrons, who routed his left wing, but the right stood firm: soon after, part of the left wing rallying again, the Spaniards were repuls'd and totally defeated, and pursued half a league, leaving behind all their cannon, a great number of colours and standards, 6000 killed on the spot, with losse of 2000 on our side: most of his horse on the left went off on the first shock of the enemy, with 7 batallions: the fight lasted from 3 till night: we turn'd all their cannon upon them, and staid next day on the place, and understanding the English were made prisoners of war, and we wanting provisions, retir'd, nailing up their and our own cannon, not being able to carry them off, those belonging to the train having run away with the horses during the action.

The earl of Orrery is appointed her majesties envoy and plenipotentiary to the states general and council of state at Brussels, in the room of general Cadogan, Mr. Hill having declined the same.

Tuesday the lords satt till 10 at night on the affairs of Spain, when upon a division it was carried, 59 against 45, that the account given by the earl of Peterborough concerning the council of war at Valentia was just, faithfull, and honourable.

This day were again upon the affairs of Spain, and divided upon 2 questions; first, whither the earl of Gallway and lord Tirawley should give in their answer in writing relating to the battle of Almanza; the 2d, whither they should be heard by council; and both carried in the negative, 57 against 44.

The commons agreed with the committee, that the lord Wm. Pawlet and Mr. Burrard were duly elected for Limington, sir John Thorold for Grantham, and William Hickman and Bryan Cook, esqs. for East Retford.

Saturday, 13 Januar.—Thursday the house of peers sat late, debating the affairs of Spain; the majority seem'd to be of opinion, that the losse of the battle of Almanza and the ill successe since was occasioned by the earl of Gallway, lord Tirawley, and general Stanhope's giving their opinions in a council of war to act offensively, contrary to that of king Charles and the other generals, and making use of her majesties name and authority contrary to the power given them. The lords Gallway and Tirawley insisted they had orders from the cabinet council to act offensively; and yesterday the earl of Sunderland's letter to them for that purpose being read, after several hours debate, (the queen present,) they divided and carried it by 20, 68 against 48. That it appears by the earl of Sunderlands letter, that the carrying on the war offensively in Spain was approved and directed by the ministry, notwithstanding the design of attempting Thoulon, which the ministers knew at that time was concerted with the duke of Savoy, and therefore are justly to be blam'd for contributing to all our misfortunes in Spain, and to the disappointment of the expedition against Thoulon.

Resolved, That the earl of Peterborough, during the time he had the honour of commanding the army in Spain, did perform many great and eminent services; and if the opinion he gave in the council of Valencia had been followed, it might very probably have prevented the misfortunes that have since happ'ned in Spain.

Ordered thanks to his lordship for the same, and this morning he embark't for Holland, in order for Vienna.

This day the commons agreed with the committee, that a supply be granted her majestie to enable her majestie to make all non specie exchequer bills specie, which has already reduced them from 3*l.* to 30*s.* per cent. discount.

Tuesday, 16 Januar.—The underwritten lords have enter'd their protests against the resolution of the house of peers about the affairs of Spain, which is, viz.

To the question upon rejecting the petitions,

Because that when a question was stated in the house, which seem'd to us to import a censure on the conduct of the earl of Gallway, lord Tirawley, and general Stanhope, the two lords being now in town, should (we conceive) have been heard in their defence before the question past, tho they had not petitioned to put in their answers, much lesse ought the said petitions to have been rejected; and we think that their having been before examin'd only as to what they remembred concerning the council of Valencia, when they did not know that any, much lesse what censure was intended upon the opinions given at that council, is not sufficient to satisfy what we apprehend to be the rule of natural justice, that every one should have an opportunity of answering for themselves, at least upon their humble petitions, before what we take to be a publick censure should passe upon them.

To the 2d main question, first, because we conceive that the proofs which have been before the house were not sufficient to warrant the facts, as they are stated in the question.

2d. Because we conceive that the said proofs do not support the consequences drawn from the fact stated in the question, especially the disappointment of the expedition against Thoulon, which, as we humbly apprehend, was clearly occasioned by other causes, and not by the cause assign'd in the question.

3dly. Because we conceive it may be of dangerous consequence, if those who may have the honour to serve the queen in Spain should from hence have reason to apprehend that they may be censured for presuming to insist on such opinions as shal appear to them to be most for the queens service and the common cause, if contrary to the king of Spain and his ministers.

Bedford, Devon, Marlborough, Kent, Dorchester, Leicester,
