CITY NEEDS BETTER RAIL FACILITIES

Steps Taken to Compel Adequate Accommodation for Community

CONDITIONS ARE BAD

Council Will Fight for New Station and Better Service on Southern Pacific

Steps were taken Thursday night by the Glendale city council to endeavor to compel the Southern Pacific Railroad company to provide this city with an adequate railway station and train service, and one that is in keeping with the remainder of the city of Glendale.

It is the opinion of the city council as well as of a majority of the citizens living here that the present Southern Pacific railway station is anything but a source of pride to Glendaleans, and that something in the way of a suitable station should be provided as early as possible.

The following resolution, presented by Councilman Kimlin, was adopted by unanimous vote:

"Whereas the population of the city of Glendale now exceeds thirty thousand (30,000) citizens; and

"Whereas, the main line of the Southern Pacific Railroad company to San Francisco passes through the western portion of the city; and

"Whereas, the only depot maintained by said railroad company in the city of Glendale is entirely inadequate to properly serve the needs of persons traveling to and from the city of Glendale and said depot is inconveniently located; and

"Whereas, train service provided for persons desiring to board or leave trains in the city of Glendale is inadequate and inconspicuous in view of the needs of the public to and from the city of Glendale; and the growth and development of said city is retarded and the citizens, therefore, are duly inconvenienced and not properly served by said railroad;

"Now, therefore, be it resolved by the council of the city of Glendale,

"That the city of Glendale institute proceedings at once before the railroad commission of the state of California to compel the Southern Pacific Railroad company to furnish adequate depot facilities and train service at a point along the right of way of said railroad company most convenient to a majority of the citizens of said city; that the city attorney be instructed to file the necessary complaint to obtain adequate facilities and train service for the city of Glendale."

Wash. Your Garbage Cans, Pleads Vissman

"People of Glendale, please wash out your garbage cans as soon as they are emptied," pleads Sanitary Inspector Paul Vissman.

Inspected Vissman declared unwashed cans are not only a menace to the public health, but the life of the garbage can is lengthened by a bath.

SPRINKLING OF SIDEWALKS IS PROTESTED

Some Glendaleans Complain Against Having to Walk in Streets

Several property owners living in the western part of the city protested before the Glendale council Thursday night, against the law sprinkling practices on West Down street. It was stated that on many occasions people who wished to pass along West Down have been compelled to walk out into the street and thereby run the chance of being injured by automobiles.

After considerable discussion it was decided to request the offending property owners to desist in this practice, rather than pass an ordinance prohibiting sprinkling in this manner. If, however, these property owners continue to use their sprinklers in an offending manner, an ordinance prohibiting sprinkling of lawns in this manner would have to be passed.

CHANGE PARTY HOUR

The time at which the party to be given by the Junior Music club Monday evening next has been changed from 8 o'clock to 7:30.

First Rain of the Season Falls in Verdugo District

"Get out the old family bumbush, 'cause the rains is here."

The first rains of the season fell this morning, notwithstanding the report from the weather bureau to the effect that it would be fine today and tonight. Latest reports are (since it started raining) that we are liable to have a "right smart" sprinkle before sundown.

The people, generally, are glad to see the rains come. Glendale has had a long dry spell, which, in connection with the Volstead act, made a person naturally think of that little ditty, "How Dry I Am."

Healthfully speaking, this rain is a Godsend. The colds that have been going the rounds resulted to a great extent from the dust that was in the air and that could not help but find its way into a person's lungs. It is believed that now the atmosphere is a little more moist the colds will "dry up."

But watch your step, people of Glendale. During rainy weather some of the streets are "slipper than nanner peelin's."

DAVIS SEEKS TO LIFT TAX FROM SERVICE METERS

Ordinance Lifting 35c Surtax Is Prepared in Council

An effort was made by Councilman Davis at the meeting of the Glendale council Thursday night to remove the 35 cent meter tax that was placed against every electric consumer in the city several months ago, for the purpose of raising sufficient funds to carry the city over the financial crisis that existed at that time. It was the belief of Councilman Davis that the people should not be compelled to pay that additional 35 cents per month, now that the time of the financial stringency had been passed.

While the subject was under discussion City Manager Reeves stated that the city's budget for this year was made with the expectation that this tax would be continued, and that if it was removed, some other means of raising the money that this tax would bring in would have to be provided.

On motion of one of the councilmen the city attorney was instructed to draft an ordinance repealing the ordinance which created the 35 cent emergency tax. In voting "yes" on this motion, Councilman Stevenson stated that he would not bind himself to vote for the ordinance when it is presented by the city attorney, but he simply took this action to bring the matter to a head.

Several months ago it was voted to place a tax on all lines of business in Glendale in order to create funds to carry the city over the financial crisis. This proposed ordinance was so bitterly contested that the 35 cent tax on lighting meters was substituted.

The ordinance repealing the 35 cent tax ordinance should, according to last night's action of the council, come up for hearing next Thursday night.

COMMUNITY SERVICE IS CONSIDERED

Representative of National Organization Addresses P. T. A.

RECREATIONAL NEED

Aim to Meet All Ages and Conditions of Citizenship Here

"Community Service" was the subject of an interesting talk given Thursday afternoon by Don Orput, official representative of the National Community Service, Inc., at the first regular business meeting of the Glendale Avenue Intermediate P. T. A.

Mr. Orput was an interesting speaker and his subject was one that everyone in Glendale is hoping will come true in the near future. Community service will tend to take care of so many leisure hours when children might be led into mischief. It is the lessening of delinquency and building of citizenship through a practical program of activities.

Before his talk, the business of the association was taken care of. Miss Sharpe, patriotic chairman, led the meeting in the salute to the flag and the singing of one verse of "America." Mrs. William C. Wattles, president, took charge of the meeting.

It was decided not to serve refreshments at meetings, unless by special suggestion of the executive board. Room mothers will be announced today.

The two intermediate schools of the city have been asked to take care of the Thanksgiving offerings in the form of money this year. This request came from the federation.

The organization voted to furnish $5 to buy sheets and pillow slips for the local welfare bureau. To assist the association in raising money, the Brand Central Market at 207 North Brand boulevard has offered to give 5 per cent of its gross sales on Saturday, November 4.

Professor Whytock spoke regarding the 27th amendment on the ballot and explained it in detail.

RUNAWAY HORSES STIR EAGLE ROCK

Team Turns Over Cart and Gallops Into the Scenery with Speed

With a resounding crash and thud, a runaway team of horses hauling a load of dirt from North Sierra Vista completely overturned a cart and broke loose yesterday afternoon. One of the horses led a chase down East Colorado boulevard, the other wrenched off a hind hoof in crossing the car tracks at Colorado and Sierra Vista. According to the driver, a Mr. La Rue, the team started away when he was stooping to shovel dirt while working along the parking on North Sierra Vista.

The team sped south on Sierra Vista and in making the turn at Sierra Vista and Colorado the wagon overturned, the horses breaking away. The team is owned by C. C. Ramsay of 544 East Sycamore, who purchased the mare that lost its hoof.

Deputy Marshal Charles L. Gales, who witnessed the accident, went at breakneck speed for Mr. Ramsay. Not knowing why, both Officers Williams and McMahon chased Gales, who stopped to let them know who he was.

The wounded animal was taken to a veterinary doctor. No great damage was done to the wagon, but a huge pile of dirt was deposited on the pavement and the city street force was called out to remove it.

The other horse continued in mad flight as far as Kenilworth.

A. S. D. Fulton, a Burbank man, served on the election board of the first election ever held in America under the Australian ballot system. That was in 1872.

He has been in Burbank 30 years and no one here can remember a single local election during which Mr. Fulton did not serve as a member of the election board.

LET THE YOUNG PEOPLE HELP

By JOHN H. GERRIE Civic Development Expert

How can we interest high school graduates and the younger men of Glendale in political and civic affairs, community welfare and the higher things of life? How can we enlist their support for good government and at the same time encourage loftier aims in life than driving high powered cars, going to parties and having a "good time?"

This unusual question has come to this writer by a reader of this column who seeks some way to make high school boys and those just about to enter business a greater asset to the community as well as to themselves.

"A large percentage of high school boys of graduating age seem to have no other ambition than to have what they call a good time," asserts the local citizen who shows such interest in the future welfare of the youth of this city. "Even those with more or less well defined ideas of careers for themselves take little, if any, interest in the things going on around them. Why couldn't they be taught or coaxed to take some part in the upbuilding of this splendid community that we love to call home?"

The question is timely and deserving of considerable thought. There is no good reason why the boys, and the girls, too, for that matter, should not be given a part in civic development and expansion. Their enthusiasm, optimism and fresh viewpoints might be very helpful to this city, while their activities in municipal affairs would be excellent training for larger parts in state and national affairs.

Quite in line with this thought, Horace M. Rebok, superintendent of schools for Santa Monica, and one of the most noted educators in Southern California, recently advocated, in an interview upon modern forms of education, that high school graduates be given the franchise immediately after graduation. He pointed out that while their high school lessons in government are still fresh in their minds they would be better fitted to vote conscientiously and wisely than they could possibly be under the present system which allows them four years to become absorbed in something else.

Perhaps the simplest and most effective plan for enlisting the services of the youth in the upbuilding of the community would be the formation here of a young people's civic club. It ought to be organized by the young people themselves, with possibly some assistance from older persons who thoroughly understand them.

The young people must be permitted to do their own thinking, their own planning and their own organizing. They should be given the opportunity to express their opinions and to act upon them. They dislike compromise and are quick to praise and equally quick to condemn. Such a club here might become a great power in the life of the community. If it be affiliated with the local chamber of commerce or perhaps be made a "junior chamber of commerce," it might be of great service in supporting the older chamber in its campaign work. In any future drive for high school bonds or for any public welfare cause the junior club might easily render such assistance as to turn the scale of victory.

This thought, prompted by the inquiry of a local citizen, is commended to the local school authorities, the local chamber of commerce and to the high school boys and girls of Glendale.

SECRETARIES SPEAK

Secretaries Rhoades and Sanders of the local chamber of commerce report a very interesting gathering at Sierra Madre in the Women's clubhouse, Thursday evening, where they were speakers at a meeting intended to explain the purposes of a chamber of commerce and the activities of the chamber to citizens ignorant or indifferent who had been specially invited to attend. It was called to order by President Hawkes, who set forth the accomplishments of his organization and then introduced the Glendale visitors. Mr. Rhoades spoke on chambers of commerce in general and of what Glendale's organization has been doing. Mr. Sanders tried to make it clear why everybody in Sierra Madre should be a chamber member.

Previous to the public meeting the directors and guests were entertained at a dinner served at the "Venture Inn."

LAND BUYING BY THE CITY IS OPPOSED

Definite Attitude Is Taken Before the City Council

HALT MUST BE MADE

"Let's Improve What We Now Have," Say Property Owners

Protestants against the purchase of the proposed 13-acre addition to the Patterson Avenue park attended the meeting of the Glendale city council Tuesday night in force, and there was a regular merry-go-round of protests against this property being purchased.

"We think it would be a better plan," said one of the protesters, "rather than to buy more land, to improve what we have. We should enlarge the duck pond, plant more trees, make lawns, put in plenty of seats. Let us improve what we have rather than buy more land."

"It is the consensus of opinion of the property owners in the west side of town," said another protester, "that the present park be improved instead of buying more land. We want our park improved right now and do not want to wait five or six years for the 'improvement of the Patterson park.'"

"A lot of improvement work could be done for $10,000, the amount which it is proposed to pay for the new land," said another owner.

After the protesters had presented their views, Mayor Robinson thanked the speakers for voicing their opinions and stated that the council is always glad to hear both sides of every question so that it can take the action required by the property owners. He explained that the council was favorable to buying the property because it is considered a good buy. However, if the people on the west side want the present park improved rather than the other land purchased, the council will be glad to take their requests under consideration.

BURON FITTS IS INJURED IN FLYING

SANTA BARBARA, Calif., Oct. 27.—Burton R. Fitts, injured in an airplane crash last night at Carpinteria beach, owes his life to the fact that the plane fell in the water, it was said at the St. Francis hospital today.

Fitts, who was former state commander of the American Legion, is suffering mainly from severe nervous shock, so far as surgeons have been able to determine.

There is no indication of internal injury, it was said, though it will be some time before this can be definitely determined.

The nurse in attendance said there was no doubt but what he would recover.

Superintendent Richardson D. White was made chairman of publicity.

The committee decided that in the school programs and the publicity the work of pupils would be emphasized rather than theories and methods of teaching.

JUDGE CRUZAN TO DECIDE QUESTION OF VERACITY

Two Interesting Cases Due Before Speed Judge at Eagle Rock

Two cases of interest will come before the Eagle Rock court Saturday, that of Richard P. Sims, buslines manager of the Pasadena theatre, charged with reckless driving, and of W. L. Greene, to be tried on three charges.

A subpoena was served yesterday upon J. Wilkinson of Pasadena, who is to testify for the prosecution in the Sims case. J. H. Harper of East Colorado filed the complaint against Sims last week.

When Marshal Bramble went to Pasadena to make Sims' arrest last week, Sims told him that he had been on the verge of bringing a charge against Harper for the same offense. As Sims told of the collision to Bramble, he was driving east on Colorado and Mr. Harper was coming into Colorado from North Salsuma. Mr. Sims claims that the Harper machine stopped and backed before going across. He claims that this was the cause of the collision.

Harper denied this to Marshal Bramble, saying that at Colorado he was shot to death. He admitted slow speed, but denied stopping or backing. Harper also mentioned the possibility of calling as witness a woman who witnessed the accident who was sitting in her car, parked near the corner of Salsuma.

In the case of W. L. Green, the charge most likely to prove interesting, is that of giving fictitious addresses to the arresting officer. He is also charged for speeding on two occasions, the first charge dating back to June 2.

When Mr. Green was arrested on October 8 he gave his address in the Marsh-Strong building, Los Angeles. He failed to appear for trial October 13 and when the officers endeavored to locate him they were told that there had never been a W. L. Green located in the building. He was finally found at 1134 Central building last Saturday and brought to Eagle Rock for trial.

Faced by five charges, Green pleaded guilty to only two, charging failure to appear for trial. He paid a $50 fine on the two charges. He will answer to the other three Saturday.

POSTOFFICE DISAPPOINTS EAST SIDERS

Glendale Advancement Association Stage Meeting of Plain Speaking

BONUS LINE SOON

New Glendale Sanitarium Plant Construction Soon to Begin

The meeting of the Glendale Advancement Association Thursday noon, was not quite as enthusiastic in tone as some that have preceded it, and disappointment over failure to secure a classified branch postoffice was the reason.

Also, as work has not started on the hotel building there was some murmuring over the procrastination of the company. Herman Nelson, who reported for the hotel committee, said he was not familiar with all the details and therefore not in a position to make a statement except to say that a meeting of the full committee would be held Friday morning to decide upon a definite policy.

Dr. Stuart reported for the supplementary postoffice committee that he had been able to secure but one bid for the contract office and that from Mr. Whitaker of the Broadway Pharmacy; that if the association wished to do so he would put in a bid himself after he had learned what changes it would be necessary to make in his drug store.

A resident Ingledue said as far as he was concerned if the postoffice could not get a classified office he would not see the matter.

A motion by Mr. Nelson that the chairman of the postoffice committee be instructed to write Congressman Lieberberger an open letter, asking him what efforts he had put forth to get the branch postoffice, carried unanimously, and Mr. Stanley said he was not through yet, that he would write direct to Washington.

Relative to the passenger railway on Glendale avenue, Mr. Hayselden reported a few details to be straightened out, but assured members the project was a certainty, and he hoped to have an announcement to make next Thursday.

Dr. Russell was asked to provide a speaker from the state department to talk on sewers at the next meeting.

Maurice Hartman, who recently returned from Panama, was welcomed and gave a word of greeting.

Dr. Lieuwelling of the Harrower laboratory, was introduced as a new member, also Mr. Burton of the Burton Real Estate company.

Clarence Kimlin responded to call and told something about the plans being prepared by Architect Alfred P. Sims for the new Glendale sanitarium plant, on which the builders will soon begin work. He stated that 100,000 feet of lumber was on the ground which had been purchased from the Pageant of Progress and which would be used for forms. The board of trustees would probably give their final approval to the plans next week, he said.

$50,000 PERMIT FOR EMERY-WEBB BUILDING ISSUED

$69,645 in New Buildings Authorized on Thursday

Building permits to the amount of $49,645 were issued by the Glendale building department Thursday. This is as much as have been taken out in some eastern cities during the past year, and some good-sized cities at that.

The permits of yesterday bring the total for the month up to $581,060.50, which is something to boast about. They bring the grand total for 1922, thus far, up to $5,336,281.50, against a total of $5,099,381 for the entire of 1921.

The largest permit taken out yesterday was for $50,000, which is for a new store that will be constructed just south of Wilson on Brand on the west side of the street. The permit was issued to E. U. and Mary M. Emery and H. S. Webb.

Another permit for a store building, with apartments above, was issued to M. J. Gillispie. This building will cost about $10,000 and will be constructed at 107 West Doran.

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. McKee of El Paso, Tex., were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. Loren Mitchell, 1241 South Boynton street on Wednesday evening.

New Styles in Watch Chains

Don't overlook the growing custom among well dressed men of wearing several different styles of watch chains. A plain chain of strong construction for everyday business wear, a more delicate, unobtrusive, but often more fancy chain for wear with formal dress, and for use in summer when the waistcoat is discarded, or with sports clothes, the belt chain is coming in again, and coming in strong.

PROTEST HEARING ON PATTERSON POSTPONED

Arguments Against Improvement to Be Heard Nov. 16

The hearing of protests against the opening and widening of Patterson avenue from San Fernando to Brand boulevard, will be heard on Thursday night, November 16. Protests against this work were filed last night and were referred to the city engineer by the council for checking and report at the next meeting. Next Thursday night the hearing of the protests will be set for two weeks, which will bring it on November 16.

A large number of protesters were present at last night's meeting of the council, expecting that protests against the proposed work would be heard at that time. They were disappointed when it was announced by Mayor Robinson that a delay would have to be made.

As a result of a query as to why the hearing could not be held last night, Councilman Stevenson explained satisfactorily why the delay was necessary.

SOUTH PASADENA TACKLES HIGH IN GLENDALE

Most Grueling Game of the League Series to Be Staged Here

One of the hardest grid games of the season will be played today when Coach Hayhurst's heavy-weight squad meets the South Pasadena aggregation on Myrtle field at 3:30.

The South Pasadena eleven is considered to be one of the strongest contenders for the Central league pennant. All the teams, with the exception of Monrovia, have a zero percentage thus far, due to the fact all games scheduled last Friday ended as a tie. Notwithstanding the fact that Monrovia has a thousand per cent. due to her victory over Citrus, one of the weakest squads in the race, fans believe that if Glendale succeeds in capturing today's game she will not have any serious opposition for the rest of the season.

The lineup as announced by Coach Hayhurst yesterday is the same as last Friday's game and places Gieb at left half instead of Stott.

Stott was on the bench last Friday because of a bruised hip, but the injured member has sufficiently healed to permit him to practice the past week. It is rumored around the school that Hayhurst will put Stott in after the first quarter. Coach Hayhurst would neither deny or confirm the rumor.

"Some Service," Says H. M. Porter

"Some service," said H. M. Porter of 1343 East Harvard, Thursday in regard to the public service department. EDITORIALS BY THE PEOPLE

October 25, 1922. Editor, Glendale Press, Glendale, California.

Dear Sir: I am one of those who have been enjoying the use of the tennis courts on the Glendale Union High School grounds, and since my work keeps me indoors the entire week, including Saturday afternoons, Sunday is the only day it is possible for me to play tennis. I feel quite sure there are a number of others who are similarly situated.

Therefore, I am registering a protest against the action of the Board of Trustees in closing these courts on Sundays. With all due respect to the Ministerial Association, I believe we taxpayers, who have only one day in the week in which to enjoy outdoor recreation, are entitled to some consideration. Let me suggest that the courts be opened at least after 1:00 P. M. on Sundays.

Respectfully,
H. J. MILLER.

COMMUNITY-WIDE RECREATION IS SOCIAL WORK

Agency of Good Citizenship in Solution of Problems That Face Glendale

Community-wide recreation, such as promoted by Glendale Community Service, is an agency for good citizenship, said Don Orpat, "When grown-ups, it aids to unite them for solution of many social problems which face them as residents of Glendale. With boys and girls, it awakens them to perception of their obligations as citizens and induces juvenile delinquency."

The program of Glendale Community Service is to be what the leaders of the various interests in the city determine shall be best for Glendale. The temporary program committee, headed by Mr. R. D. White, has already submitted a suggestion for a general program which will be passed on by the permanent community-wide organization that is now taking form. The actual task of carrying on is an obligation assumed by the participants themselves for the good of all Glendale.

"Play space for old and young is vital in any recreation program. Community Service believes in the maximum use of Glendale's existing facilities for both indoor and outdoor recreation and will develop a program that will make the most use of these facilities."

"Cooperation of all interests is needed to put over any citizenship program. All over the United States, democracy and citizenship have developed through united efforts in promoting Community Service programs."

"Typical of the things accomplished in this direction occurred in the Mill Valley section of San Francisco, when 160 men and boys spent a day cleaning the lot around the school building for use as a lawn and a play field. Every one in the neighborhood was there—laborers, professional men, week-enders, commuters, Americans, Japanese and citizens of other lands. Flies, teams, traps and a road roller were donated by the city for the heavy work. The end of the day found the lot two-thirds done, with nearly $300 worth of grading accomplished. The women of the Parent-Teacher association served a hot dinner which made the day a real success."

"Getting folks together is an important objective in Community Service. It includes games, parties, home play activities, field days, picnics and general gatherings for sports and contests, in which fathers and mothers can take part with their sons and daughters, as a necessary media in the birth of real civic morale and patriotism."

"Regardless of the broad scope of Glendale Community Service it must be remembered that it exists to supplement and stimulate the leisure time programs of Glendale's existing agencies as well as to promote new activities not at present enjoyed."

MRS. R. L. YOUNG HONORS DAUGHTER'S BIRTH

Mrs. R. L. Young of 1007 North Brand boulevard entertained Thursday afternoon with a "Hallowe'en" party in honor of her seventh birthday of her daughter, Jacqueline Young. The guests included a number of her school friends.

Festoons of orange and black crepe paper were draped from the inverted chandelier coming down to a cut glass bowl filled with large golden dahlias. There were two birthday cakes in the black and orange colors and streamers ran from these to the places at the table and were fastened on the end with a favor for each guest.

Other favors were caps and black masks and pumpkin tiles with black and orange jelly beans. Refreshments consisted of orange ice cream served in individual cups covered with orange paper and birthday cake.

One of the games played was that of pinning the tail on a large black cat. Susan McCurdy won first prize for this; Alfred Buck, second prize, and Joanne Harris, third.

The next amusing feature was throwing jelly beans in a cow's mouth. Alfred Buck got first prize for this, second going to Jean Letts and third to Richard Lewelwy. A fishbowl also added much jollity to the affair.

Easy Lessons in Auction Bridge

Article No. 5 Original Suit Bids by First or Second Hand

The best theory of Auction yet developed by the best players is to give exact information whenever possible. An original suit bid by first or second hand always conveys the information that the bidder has two quick tricks in the suit bid or else one quick trick in that suit and one in an outside suit. The requirements, therefore, for an original suit bid by first or second hand, are: first, a five card suit; second, with two quick tricks, such as A, K, Q, J, or A, Q, J, in the suit bid; or, third, one quick trick in the suit bid, such as Ace, or K, Q, and an outside quick trick, such as an Ace or K, Q.

With such a hand, the hand is worth at least four tricks with suit bid as trump. With the three requirements above noted kept in mind, the following hands illustrate the principles involved:

- Hearts—10, 9
- Clubs—A, K, 7, 6, 2, (2 quick tricks)
- Diamonds—4, 3
- Spades—8, 7, 6, 2

REPRESENTATION AT DISTRICT P-T. A. MEET

Glendale was very well represented on Thursday at the First District Conference of Parent-Teacher associations, held in the new auditorium of the South Pasadena high school.

Those who attended from the Glendale associations were Mrs. Wilson, Mrs. Cashatt, Mrs. Goldsborough, Mrs. O. W. Essetman, Mrs. Martine, Mrs. Oldham, Mrs. H. V. Henry, Mrs. P. S. McNutt, Mrs. Wickert, Mrs. E. B. Moore, Mrs. Lucas, Mrs. Pierson Hanning, Mrs. Mae Rosenberg, Mrs. R. C. Horner, Mrs. Doty, Mrs. Sebastian, Mrs. Croft, Mrs. Grant, Mrs. E. B. Wyman, Mrs. Brown and Mrs. Bird.

The conference opened at 10 a. m. with a presidents' council. This was followed by a very instructive parliamentary law drill, conducted by Mrs. E. B. Wyman of Glendale, district parliamentarian. Mrs. Kite, legislative chairman of the district, introduced Judge W. H. Thomas, who spoke on the Wright bill. He is a very fine speaker and his talk was greatly enjoyed.

The school boys' glee club sang three negro spirituals, "Trials," "Rain" and "Gospel Train." They also sang "Shanton Bells" by Nevin. They did splendid work.

Mrs. Pierson Hanning, membership chairman for the district, gave a short talk and introduced Mrs. C. C. Noble, state chairman of membership. The first district has the largest membership in the state.

At this time, everyone retired to the gymnasium where a delicious luncheon was served to about 300. In the afternoon, the program opened with a talk by Mrs. Eaton, national chairman of literature. The emblem and magazine chairman, Mrs. Wyal, introduced Mrs. Archibald, who talked on the work and good of the magazine. The legislative chairman again introduced Prof. George C. Bush of Pasadena, who spoke on amendments 26 and 27. There were two speakers on the water and power propositions also. Mr. Hamilton, representing the American Legion, spoke on amendments 1 and 3, and urged the co-operation of all present.

Mrs. Moulton, chairman of thrift, introduced Mr. Myers of Los Angeles, who spoke on "Thrift—Its Influence on Character." This was a splendid address.

A CAVELAND MOLLYCODDLE Mrs. Dogfang—Dogfang isn't in just now. He's down in the cattle pen milkin' the aurochs. Skinpants—He always was effeminate. I wouldn't be surprised to see him cutting firewood.

GLASS OF SALTS CLEANS KIDNEYS

If your Back hurts or Bladder bothers you, drink lots of water.

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore, don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which helps to remove the body's urinous waste and stimulate them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in urine so it is no longer a source of irritation, thus often ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink, which everyone should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this; also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache.—Adv.

COUNCIL SEEKS VOTES AGAINST AMENDMENTS

Asks Citizens to Oppose
No. 10, 11 and 30

The city council of Glendale is asking the voters of the city to vote against Amendments Nos. 10, 11 and 30, that will come before them at the general election in November. These measures, it is claimed, if enacted into laws, will work a great hardship on all the municipalities in the state and will give more power to the railroad commission.

At the request of the city council former City Attorney Bert Woodard has prepared a letter which has been signed by all the councilmen and which will be placed in the hands of the voters of Glendale before election day.

Oct. 26th, 1922.
To the people of the City of Glendale:
There are three proposed amendments to the constitution of the State of California which will appear upon the ballot at the November election, to which we, the members of the Council of the City of Glendale, deem it our imperative duty to call your attention. They are propositions numbered 10, 11 and 30.

Proposition No. 10 is an initiative measure appearing on the ballot under the caption "Taxation of Publicly Owned Utilities," and proposes to change the constitution so as to tax all public utilities owned and operated by a municipality. If this amendment becomes a part of our constitution, publicly owned public utilities would pay the same tax as those privately owned; that is, the same percentage of the gross receipts as follows: 7 1/2 per cent if the utility is operating gas or electric properties; 5 1/2 per cent if the utility is operating street or interurban railroad properties; 5 1/2 per cent if the utility is operating telephone properties. It is fundamentally wrong for the public to tax itself, as it would be doing if this proposition passes. It is just as reasonable to tax public school property because private school properties are taxed.

Proposition No. 11 is an initiative measure which proposes to give the railroad commission jurisdiction over, and the right to supervise and regulate publicly owned public utilities; that is, publicly owned utilities supplying the public with light, power, heat, transportation, telegraph and telephone service. This amendment to the constitution deals with an affair which is purely a local municipal affair, and would deprive all cities of the state of control over their own public utilities and vest that control in the Railroad Commission. Every city in the state would be constantly before the commission as they could not install a public utility, nor could they fix the rates to be charged by them, without the approval of the Railroad Commission. The Railroad Commission has already determined that it will refuse to allow competition in a territory already served by a privately owned utility and it would, no doubt, reach the same conclusion as to public utilities and absolutely prohibit a municipally owned utility from competing with a privately owned utility.

Proposition No. 30 on the ballot grants to and vests in the same Railroad Commission, the power to grant franchises, determine or prescribe the terms and conditions of such franchises, and to accept the surrender of all such franchises heretofore granted by any city or political subdivision of the state. This measure would vest the Railroad Commission with power to accept the surrender of every franchise heretofore granted by any city within the state, and the commission could also grant indefinite franchises upon any terms and conditions it deemed advisable. This would absolutely deprive cities of the control of their own streets. The cities open, widen and improve their streets at great local expense, and if the right to grant franchises over these streets is taken from them, about all the cities would have left would be the right to pay for the opening, widening and improvement of its streets, and the right, of course, to use them, subject to any franchise or right granted in, under or upon them, by a commission, none of whom would reside within the city or know its local conditions. The amendment would give the railroad commission the power to nullify every safeguard heretofore written into a franchise, and to grant new franchises to suit itself. It would nullify article XVII of the charter of the city of Glendale, which provides that franchises shall not be granted for a longer period than 25 years, and also that the city council may submit an ordinance granting a franchise to a vote of the electors of the city.

Propositions Nos. 10, 11 and 30 are companion measures and should be studied together. They are aimed at publicly owned public utilities, and particularly municipally owned public utilities. If these measures become a part of the constitution of the state of California, it will be but another step in a concerted effort to put such utilities out of business. Such a thing as reducing rates by acquiring or installing municipal plants would be a thing of the past, and in our opinion, it would be unwise to either tax such utilities or place them under the control of a commission. The railroad commission has an ample field for a good work in its power and jurisdiction over privately owned utilities, particularly in fixing the rates to be charged for the service rendered, without infringing upon matters of municipal concern. The proposed amendments grant too much arbitrary power to be vested in any man or set of men, it matters not how honest they may be.

We, therefore, respectfully urge that every voter study these measures carefully, and before casting their ballot, that he or she read the arguments against these measures prepared by the officers of the League of California Municipalities, and by Hon. Jess E. Stephens, the city attorney of the city of Los Angeles, all of which are against the measures, and appear in the printed pamphlet each voter will receive before the election. Vote NO on Nos. 10, 11 and 30. Respectfully submitted:
SPENCER ROBINSON,
S. A. DAVIS,
C. E. KIMLIN,
A. LAPHAM,
DWIGHT W. STEVENSON,
Members of the city council of the city of Glendale.

GOOD MORNING, BROTHER SUNSHINE (By Request)

Good morning, Brother Sunshine,
Good morning, Sister Song,
I beg your humble pardon
If you've waited very long.
I thought I heard you rapping,
To shut you out were sin,
My heart is standing open,
Won't you
Walk
right
in?

Good morning, Brother Gladness,
Good morning, Sister Smile,
They told me you were coming
So I waited on a while;
I'm lonesome here without you,
A weary while it's been,
My heart is standing open,
Won't you
right
in?

Good morning, Brother Kindness,
Good morning, Sister Cheer,
I heard you were out calling
So I waited for you here.
Some way I keep forgetting
I have to toil or spin
When you are my companions,
Won't you
right
in?

California Forest History

A Survey of More Than Seventy Years of Progress

By CHARLES H. SHINN
(Forest Examiner)

Forestry has always begun in love and study of trees. In reality this brief sketch goes back to David Douglas who found the first sugar pine almost a century ago, and also to such men as Dr. Coulter, Thomas Nuttall, Prof. Blake and Dr. Anderson of Santa Cruz. It has been largely because of the work done by men who were here before 1849 that the growth of public faith in conservation of natural resources of California has been on the whole so persistent. Its great start was when the Whitney Survey began in 1850. The reader can study those volumes and the reports of the early forest commissions and in the observations of early botanists such as Dr. Albert Kellogg, one of the seven men who founded the California Academy of Sciences in 1854. The only trouble is that all these publications are now so scarce that no library has complete sets, and several libraries must be consulted by students in order to cover the whole ground.

It is not only reports and books of travel which contain bits of the story; it is in the early files of such papers as the California Farmer, the Cultivator, the Golden Era and even the long forgotten Heperian.

Numerous were the efforts made by public-spirited citizens between 1854 and 1884 to secure some system of protecting our forests by having state or county fire wardens and by arousing the national government to a sense of its responsibilities for the care of timber on public lands. Said the "Lake Bigler Commission" of 1884, of which report hardly five copies now exist: "The subject of forestry affects the whole state * * * it seems, but a waste of time to bring forward the oft-repeated statistics in evidence of the danger threatening us."

A few years later that old-time newspaper writer, the late Allen Kelly of San Francisco, and Los Angeles, wrote articles on the newly established Yosemite park, on the hoped-for forest reservations and on the rapid destruction of the and on the San Joaquin river. This fine old prospector was one of the best men of the pioneer period, a born explorer and lover of the wilderness. He died in the Inyo county hospital at Bishop in 1920.

Mr. Dale was given authority to abate such nuisances. The new work is to be in addition to his regular duties as building inspector. The new inspector has been authorized to notify the owner of the property on Central avenue of the condition which exists there.

The city attorney will draw a necessary resolution of intention for the improvements proposed.

Cypress Bids Opened

Bids for the improvement of Cypress avenue were opened. Three bids, one by Baum, Bryant and Austin of Santa Monica accompanied by a bond of $7000, another by Peter L. Ferry, accompanied by a bid bond of $5000, and a third by George R. Curtis, accompanied by a bond of $8000, were submitted. They were referred to Engineer Curt Miller for report.

Heavy Traffic Ordinance

The city attorney, under instructions from the board, is to draw up an ordinance prohibiting heavy traffic on Elmwood avenue between Tenth street and the easterly city limits, on Providencia avenue between San Fernando boulevard and Tenth street, and on Santa Anita avenue between San Fernando and Eighth street.

The public service department was instructed to investigate the water conditions of the northwesterly part of the city, following a petition submitted by Garo and others to the board.

Other business which came before the board appears in the complete minutes of the meeting, which follow:

X-RAY ENTERS THE MOVIES

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 27.—An undreamed of scientific feat has been accomplished in motion pictures in Los Angeles, it was revealed today by the Famous Players-Lasky company, by which scenes have been photographed through an X-ray for the first time.

Paul D. Perry, American Society of Cinematographers "cameraman," did the filming.

A "fiorescope" or human C-ray machine, such as is utilized to search persons for stolen gems at the great Kimberley diamond mines in South Africa, was used by Perry after many experiments,

PILGRIMS TO HARTE'S HOME

STOCKTON, Cal., Oct. 27.—Pilgrimages to Bret Harte's old country are becoming increasingly frequent.

The Stockton chamber of commerce, which furnishes maps of the "Bret Harte trail," is receiving an increasing number of comments. Requests for this map have been received by people as far away as London.

Finally synchronized both "fiorescope" and camera.

As a result it is believed possible to film the human body and plants, and project them on the screen and thus show the various organs of the body and cells of plants functioning in motion as in life.

Truths in Epigram

The fear of some mighty and supreme power keeps men in obedience.—Robert Burton (1576-1640)

Absence of occupation is not rest, a mind quite vacant is a mind distressed.—William Cowper (1731-1800)

In every matter that relates to invention, to use or beauty or form, we are drawers.—Wendell Phillips (1811-1884)

A THRIVING BUSINESS

With the year having several months remaining, the automobiles stolen so far in Los Angeles alone, have a value of $2,071,000. It is believed that by January 31, the record will have become impressive. Cars are taken at the rate of 13 a day. The falling off in the industry is expected, since the automobile thieves that operate in the east during the summer, invariably find California a better winter field.

The assumption is natural that the thieves actually taking the machines are not alone to blame. I must be that there is an underworld organization for handling such a volume of booty. The carelessness of owners is a contributory element in the transactions. They leave machines unguarded. Any respectable-looking person may walk up to any machine parked along a city's streets, and provided he has a key fitting that type of machine, take the automobile, and go unquestioned.

Another type of carelessness is manifest in the freedom with which second hand machines are purchased from parties unknown. The reputable dealer always is ready to tell where he got the machine he offers, and if necessary, to prove his statement by documents. The stranger who happens along with an automobile to sell, and a cock and bull story to state, escapes being questioned, if the machine happens to suit the customer. Many an honest citizen goes in a stolen car utterly unconscious of having been the passive accessory to a crime.

Police and private agencies are doing all they can to defeat the automobile thief, but at present the latter has made by far the larger score in the game. Nobody seems to know what to do about the situation. If anybody does know, it would be a favor to the public to be permitted to share the secret.

SOME REAL NEWS

In Utah there are mountains of iron. In proximity to this vast deposit are great measures of coal. Both have been kept inaccessible by the absence of railroad transportation. Now the missing link is to be supplied by the building of a line only thirty-two miles long. That so simple a method of promoting industrial growth should have been neglected so long is peculiar. Perhaps there is small utility now in seeking the reason. The new line will connect the mineral and fuel with transportation facilities already in service. Coal and iron will be available in southern California soon. Neither will have to be brought from Pennsylvania or China. They virtually are home products. They easily may be the foundation of a new and unprecedented development and prosperity. The deposits, from their location, become intimately connected with the future of this end of the state, and perhaps to less degree, with that of the entire state. This is real news, with that a meaning, and it conveys a definite promise. Possibly the account of it is less alluring to the eye of a casual reader than the account by a sob sister of one of the prevalent murder trials, but it is real news.

It is possible that the time is not far distant when the coal will be far less essential than now. The power of mountain streams may be employed as its successor. This in turn, having had its day, may be superseded by power derived more directly from the sun, snatched out of the atmosphere. But the mind fails to conceive of a period when iron shall no longer be an acute human need. The Utah store of it means riches untold. Formerly there was a railroad policy that sought to keep back the development of the coast. Manufacture was deliberately discouraged, and when possible, was prevented. There seems to be in vogue a different and far wiser policy. It is to help and not to hinder.

THE PRACTICE OF HAZING

Between the students of the University of Southern California and those of the southern branch of the University of California, there has been waging a veritable war. Not only is this contention brutal and useless, but an appalling phase of it, is its stupidity. Because students feel a sense of loyalty towards the institution they attend, there does not follow the slightest reason why they should act in the manner of hoodlum ruffians. If one set of students is unable to enter the grounds of the other set without precipitating a fight, the only decent course is for the two groups to remain apart. The clashes in which heads were frankly broken, have been marked by a certain animal courage, but they have been followed by acts of wanton cruelty and cowardice. One student, overpowered by numbers, was branded by the application of acid. Doctors state that the resulting scars may be permanent. The offending, and highly offensive students, were thus guilty of a crime. They are not naughty children, but deliberate malefactors, mature enough to be penalized. To say that they merit expulsion is to name far too mild a punishment. Students who attend a university for the purpose of study are entitled to protection. It is not right that they should be called upon even to associate with the notorious wasters of time and opportunity. A first duty of the student is to be a gentleman. If his choice is the role of bully and fighter, an institution of learning is no place for him. The universities involved in this particular instance, the instance itself being one of many, are entitled to high rating. They cannot afford to harbor in their student body an element manifesting a taste for rowdiness and outlaws.

For reasons they do not define, and probably would shrink from defining, were they asked about it, certain individuals are trying to kill the initiative. This is at once the weapon and the armor of the public. The citizens of this state have no desire to lose the power that the initiative bestows. No set of men could have the effrontery openly to request them to do so. Therefore the matter is approached in a different fashion. The voter is informed that there are no hostile efforts being directed against the initiative; that on the contrary it is to be made more potent. The only change is in the per cent of registered voters who must sign a petition. The per cent is to be raised from 8 to 15. How innocent! The change would do nothing but render the initiative an idle and useless and wholly impossible agency. In other words, the proponents of the change hope to kill the initiative. This is their single aim.

It is frequent to learn that a movie actor has been knocked out temporarily by the fierce glare of the lights employed in the making of pictures. The glare is sufficient to be a threat to the vision. It would seem that some inventor might think out a method of overcoming this condition. A blind film star would be under lasting disadvantage.

IDEALS AND INTERESTS

By DR. FRANK CRANE

Ideals and interests, intelligently conceived, are not necessarily incompatible. A man can work to better his condition, to get on and to make money, and at the same time be true to the loftiest ideals.

To believe the country is to indict civilization. Of course, the roaring pessimist who thinks everything is wrong and that this is the worst possible world accuses everybody of materialism, selfishness and hypocrisy who makes a living and thinks every one who gets rich is an arch-criminal.

But, as a matter of fact, people get along better who use ideals, for it is a good, though imperfect, world, and most people are decent.

The same thing holds true to countries, for, after all, nations are governed by the same ethics as govern individuals.

The mad idealist, who opposes all counsels of prosperity, and the mad materialist who denounces all idealists, are both wrong.

This was brought out the other day in a striking way by Eugene Meyer, managing director of the War Finance Corporation, in a speech before the Southern Commercial Congress. The recent discussion as to why America entered the world war was definitely settled by President Harding when he made clear, in his speech at Arlington, that we fought to defend both our interests and our ideals, declared Mr. Meyer. "American interests and ideals," intelligently conceived and wisely pursued, demand leadership in the world's economic restoration. Narrowness, self-sufficiency, or greed will never promote the interests either of an individual or of a nation. On the other hand, sentimental and impracticable conceptions of international relations will never serve to promote human progress. He works most soundly for the betterment of international relations who endeavors to build upon a basis of mutual interest and common advantage, but does not try unduly to accelerate changes that require gradual growth and development if they are to endure.

The possession of the greatest material resources, the greatest financial strength, and a great power of organization, remarkably demonstrated during the war, justifies the expectation, from an ideal point of view, that we make those resources, that strength, and all our power of organization, the world's economic reconstruction at this moment of economic disorganization.

The right balance between Ideals and Interests demands a judicious mixture of Conscience and Common Sense.

Our ideals demand we should do what is absolutely right. Our common sense tells us that when what is absolutely right is impossible, or when the judgment is unable to decide exactly what is right, we should do as near right as we can.

To be of help to others we need to be strong ourselves. A man who cares for his own body and keeps strong is better able to help his weaker neighbors. And a country that conserves its own resources and increases its own intelligence and prosperity is better able to cooperate with other nations helpfully and unselfishly.

America was of assistance to the other nations in the great war not only because of her ideals but because she was powerful and wealthy.

THE RIGHT WORD

By W. CURTIS NICHOLSON

The Wrong Word

- I asked he to go with me.
- Who did you ask to go with you?
- It seems to be him standing over there.
- Whom does it seem to be?
- It appears to be her.
- Whom does she seem to be?
- You thought the intruder to be he?

- I should not want to be him.
- Whom would you like to be?
- You say they thought this man to be I?
- Who did you say they thought this man to be?

The Right Word

THE LISTENING POST

By James W. Foley

There was one time a humble woman. Blest with no great fortune and living simply, humbly and doing her work in the world with patience and courage. She had no great dreams of fortune or fame. The wife of a humble man. Life in her days was hard. Woman toiled and labored and worked through the day unremittingly. There was little of what is today known as amusement. There was no provision in the family budget for music and art and theater. Indeed, there was probably no family budget at all.

There was little money. There was an exchange of products perhaps. The fruits of the loom were exchanged for the fruits of the nets. And for the fleece of the sheep. Living was primitive. And not much was to be expected from so primitive a condition.

The woman had little perhaps of wealth. Knew little perhaps beyond the horizon of the place in which she lived. The distance of her life's travel had probably not exceeded a few miles. We know that at one time she went down to a neighboring city on a mission with her husband. Or so the legend of her goes.

Yet, without wealth, travel, great education, large vision, she gave to the world its greatest gift.

A gift besides which all others pales into insignificance.

Songs of the Poets

Song to the Evening Star—By Thomas Campbell (1777-1844)

Star that bringeth home the bee,
And songs when toil is done,
From cottages whose smoke unstirred
Curls yellow in the sun.
If any star shed peace 'tis thou
That sendest it from above,
Appearing when Heaven's breath and brow
Are sweet as hers we love.

Come to the luxuriant skies,
Whilst the landscape's orders rise,
Whilst far-off lowing herds are heard

A gift besides which the galleries and castles and towers of the world are secondary. It was not a gift of money. Nor was it a rare work of art. It was not a gift of silks or laces or jewels. For these are things temporary and fleeting and trivial. Passing soon away.

The humble woman in the far country gave the world the gift of a son. A man with vision and sympathy and understanding. A man who looked into the hearts of people and read them as though they were books printed with large type.

The man was her son. And at an early age he went forth into the world to teach and to preach. He brought a new gospel and philosophy. He taught kindness and benevolence and charity and patience and tolerance and kindness and forgiveness and all of the gentler things of the spirit.

He cast down greed and temporal power and gaudy raiment and tinsel and gew-gaw and crown and he raised up love and tenderness and humility.

He walked with simple men and women and talked to them of universal brotherhood, of the Fatherhood of God and the scheme of the human race as a family of brothers and sisters, who should love each other.

The woman's name was Mary. She lived at Nazareth. She did her daily tasks humbly and courageously and she gave the world its greatest gift.

FISH MUST KEEP FIT TO FIGHT OFF GERMS

The poor fish! Now it is discovered that the finny inhabitants of our fresh waters are subject to attack from a deadly germ disease. H. S. Davis, U. S. Fish-pathologist of the Fairport, Iowa, Biological station has found evidence that this bacterial infection is the most important agent in the destruction of fishes which have become injured in any way. Most of the small fish caught on the angler's hook and thrown back to grow up into sizableappers, Mr. Davis believes, probably succumb to the germs. If a fish is injured or its vitality lowered in any way, the bacillus columnaris gets in its work. The young of any species are likely to suffer more than the adults.

contract the disease from one of its own kind than from other species.

An epidemic spreads better in warm water, but it is doubtful if the germs can live for any length of time off the fish. The bacteria grow only on the surface of the body or the gills, the infection of the gills being much more quickly fatal than on the body surface. Rescue treatment worked out by Dr. Davis, consists in placing the infected fish in a one to 1000 solution of copper sulphate for one to two minutes.

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

THE LAWYER CRIMINAL

Officials of the Chicago Bar association have offered to the criminal court the cooperation of that organization to the end that there may be more certain and more efficient administration of justice in Cook county. Chief Justice Michael L. McKinley of the criminal court has accepted the offer.

There are endless ways, of course, in which the members of the bar association can assist in the better administration of justice. They can help greatly, as many of them now propose to do, in giving their services gratis to the defense of indigent prisoners who too often fall to get justice for want of proper defense. But for the present the members of the bar association can perform for the community no greater service than in ridding the courts of the lawyer criminal who has played so dangerous a part in recent months in defeat of justice in this city.

Members of the bar association know what judges on the bench have frequently asserted, that there are in Chicago lawyers who are in virtual partnership with criminals and have a recognized place in organized crime; lawyers who resort to any trick and subterfuge, from forging a bond to bribing a jury, to keep criminals out of the courts or to get them free when brought to trial.

Nobody is better qualified than are the members of the bar association to hunt out these lawyer criminals and put an end to their activities. Such malefactors are not only a menace to the community at large but they disgrace an honorable profession which the members of the bar association are interested in keeping above reproach.

The class of people clamoring for release of political prisoners is such as to cause even a clement executive to hesitate.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

A expedition into the heart of the Sahara is being planned on a large scale. Only a few years ago this would have been impossible. Nothing but the triumphs of invention and science have made it possible now. There are methods of locomotion that a few years ago were unknown. The sands that used to be disturbed by the padding foot of the camel soon will be pressed by caterpillar wheels. The camel at its best was a creature of limitations. With nothing better to depend on, civilization could know only the edges of the desert. Its interior remained a vast storehouse of secrets. The expedition will be able to carry ample supplies for sustenance, for travel and for defense. It can drag tanks of water and all the food necessary. With a flying machine it could scout far ahead. With the radio it could keep in touch with the outer world.

It will be a matter of surprise, perhaps, to realize that much of the mysterious area never has been explored. The fiction writer has peopled it with strange folk and told of their grotesque activities, but the veil never has been lifted. The story of the geologist and naturalist remains to be told; it will be a strange and fascinating tale. It may even be that a race of people wholly unknown is to be discovered. There may be treasures found beyond computation as to value. Perhaps the rim of the desert safeguards an interior rich in potential wealth. Anyhow, civilization, curious always, restive when kept within rigorous bounds, is determined to find out.

When Bonar Law made his first speech as premier, he expressed a warm regard for Lloyd George, who had been ousted from the position. There is no reason to doubt his sincerity. Real statesmen do not squabble in the manner of peanut politicians. It is possible for them to uphold a set of principles, and yet to have a genuine personal respect for the men on the other side.

The other night three robbers raided an oil station in Los Angeles. So far the incident was nothing out of the ordinary. But the keeper of the station merely had been overpowered and not conquered. As the thieves fled, he grabbed a gun, and a bullet overtook, and completely settled the activities of one of the miscreants. Thus was the marauding social minority reduced and a fine example set.

France has decorated the mother of fifteen children, fourteen of whom are farmers. It is natural that France, in view of the falling birth rate, should regard such a bunch of sons as an asset, and their mother as a benefactor. Still, motherhood, as a rule, is not practiced with a view to winning a colored ribbon.

Pools of gasoline are likely to be seen in any street that is used by automobiles. Hence the rashness of tossing burning matches into such a street is plain enough. A man tried it the other day, with the result that a large truck and its load went up in smoke and flame. Nobody of real good sense ever throws down a lit match. It is not much trouble to blow out the blaze after using. There are many inflammable substances within reach of the hot match, even if no gasoline is accessible.

There are fourteen in the jury that will hear evidence in the Burch case. Two of these are alternates. They will have no office beyond that of listening, unless one of the regulars should become incapacitated or die. It is a common practice to have one extra juror. The court in this instance seems to have established a precedent. It is to be hoped that the unusual precaution does not indicate such a prolonged trial that any of the participants is likely to pass away of old age before the end of it.

Among the faults of the American criminal courts cannot be counted that of convicting the innocent. On the contrary, there is frequent protest that they throw too great a protection about those known to be guilty. Often the guilty are permitted to go free and unpunished in spite of facts and the spirit of the law, getting out by means of a technicality devoid of all merit.

Vollva, apparently head crank in a community of his kind, is difficult to keep out of print. The fellow has such an unparalleled abundance of ways of making a spectacular fool of himself. People living so far from Zion City as to be unaware of its method of organization, can't help but wonder why the state authorities do not build a fence around it and call it a lunatic asylum.

One of the large American insurance companies has made a survey as a result of which it announces that men in this country are getting fat. The company objects. Its theory is that the fat man pays out prematurely, necessitating the too early payment of his insurance policy. It happens that just now there is a fad for leanness. To be scrawny, so that ribs suggest a clothes rack, is said to be the sign of longevity. Perhaps it is. Nevertheless, the living skeleton never makes a hit in a bathing suit.

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

If I were to name him Paul and say that he is a bond salesman that would make no difference to any one. His name might not be Paul and he might be a bond salesman. But he gave me something to think about.

"What a runt!" said my undeviating wife, in the moments of marital confidence. "What a hopeless little mut!"

Between us, I think she described him accurately. He is a thirty-third degree runt. He is unimpressive to exaggeration. He is weak-eyed, fussy, a physical coward, a braggart, well dressed, and has a bad digestion. Also he is not out of college long enough to have overlaid what might be called his collegium. But he is a success.

"From the first I determined to accept every responsibility I could," he told me one night. "I hunted for responsibilities. I tried to pry others out of their responsibilities. Time after time have I risked my immediate future on my decision. Because of this I have managed to get ahead."

That he has managed to get ahead is a fact. I checked up on that. He is a super-bond salesman. He has no graces and no magnetism and no social qualities, and if I were asked to walk into a crowd and pick the worst salesman I would pick him if he were strangers. But he has made good. If he can make good, with his meager social equipment, any decently intelligent boy in the world can make better. Paul's plan is a good one to follow.

Of course, something besides a willingness to take a risk is implied. He found himself compelled to get up information on everything connected with his business. He trained a naturally poor memory so that it obeys. He so fortified himself with facts that he can speak with confidence. He never says "I think" or "I believe," or "It ought to be a good buy," or "The market promises." He says "I know." And he usually does.

"Didn't you find it hard at first?" I inquired during our talk. "You are not much more than a kid and not—if you don't mind my saying so—a frightfully impressive kid at that. Did it come easy to get with assurance toward bank presidents?"

"I was scared to death," he said, frankly. "But bank presidents are like any one else. If you put it over hard enough they'll fall."

DO YOU KNOW THAT—?

It is estimated that the quantity of fish caught annually in the North sea would fill a procession of two-ton trucks reaching from New York to San Francisco by way of New Orleans.

Marked changes in the brightness of Betelgeuse suggest astronomers that there are also variations in the diameter of that giant star.

South America and Africa were connected by land in the prehistoric past, some scientists say.

RADICALS FAIL OAKMONT GOLF CLUB FOR THE TO UNITE FOR ELECTION CLUB FOR THE GLENDALIAN

By LAWRENCE MARTIN (Copyright, 1922, by United Press). WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—Effort to unite the forces of radicalism, liberalism, unrest and protest into a cohesive political unit appears again to have failed.

In the November 7 election, as in previous ones, the forces will divide their strength among a large number of candidates. This year an early start was made in the attempt to bring the radicals and liberals of all shades under one leadership, so that they would all vote for one set of congressional candidates and make a stronger showing.

Socialists, socialist labor groups, farmer-labor parties, progressive and others who have broken away from the two major parties, were urged to agree locally on candidates to be selected by all the liberal or "protest" voters of that congressional district or state. It was suggested that where the farmer-labor party was strongest it pick candidates, that the socialist pick them where they were the strongest. Everybody else who did not want a republican or democrat elected was to rally around the third candidate.

It now appears that much in their usual style the minor parties have gone their separate ways, nominating their own candidates, and thus have split their strength.

In Illinois, for example, where the labor, farmer and socialist groups combined could make an impressive showing, they have failed to unite, and in nearly every congressional district of the state there was a socialist candidate for congress and a farmer labor candidate.

In New York state some progress has been made towards uniting the various groups.

In a great many districts the socialist and farmer labor groups have united on a common candidate, although it is not totally the case.

Liberal leaders have for months predicted that the two major parties would be shocked at the size of the protest vote this year. Labor, it has been promised, would jolt the Daugherty injunction and the decisions of the supreme court after the status of organized workers.

Labor's protest, however, seems unlikely to advance greatly the cause of radicalism in this country, principally because the workers, except those who are socialists or active members of one of the radical groups, are inclined to conservatism politically.

CARMEL BY THE SEA LOSES ITS OLD LANDMARKS

CARMEL-BY-THE-SEA, Oct. 27. Many of the old landmarks of Monterey, first capital of California, are being pushed aside to make way for business buildings. Many of the old adobe houses have been sold and converted by artistic people into private residences. One of the most recent landmarks to pass on was the Sherman Rose Tearoom, for many years associated with the romance of Dona Maria Ygnacia Bonifacio and Gen. William T. Sherman.

It is now announced that the first wooden house to be built in Monterey is to be torn down and replaced by a filling station.

The house, an old ramshackle affair, has stood in Monterey since 1850-72 years. It is constructed of oak lumber that was brought in the ship's hold from Australia. The 1849 Mrs. Jane Bush-ton. The house was built among the old Spanish adobe, the only kind of residence that Monterey people at that time were familiar with. Although gradually falling apart, the old timber of which the house is built still retains in many places the brand "B. & H.," which Bush-ton & Hansen, the builders, stamped upon it. The house has been occupied by the son, grandchildren, great-grandchildren and great-great-grandchildren, occupied the house.

COCONUT PUDDING. Scald two cups of milk, one-third cup sugar, one-fourth teaspoon salt, when quite hot, add the yolks of four eggs. In two minutes remove. Beat the four whites very stiff. When custard is nearly cold, fold into whites one-half teaspoon vanilla and sprinkle through the custard about four tablespoons of shredded coconut.

New Organization to Establish Links on Sparr Tract

Every city of any importance has its golf club and Glendale will be ably represented by the Oakmont Country club which has recently been incorporated under the laws of the state of California and which has purchased from Francis Barnum and Walters an ideal site comprising 108 acres of the finest land obtainable lying west of Verdugo road, south of Montrose, and in the corporate limits of Glendale.

In making this selection the rolling nature of the land, its accessibility to Glendale, and its wonderful scenic advantages, all come in for careful consideration and it was selected in competition with a number of other available locations as offering the greatest possibilities for development.

The work of laying out an 18-hole course embodying many novel features holes will be under the supervision of Max Behr, a nationally known golfer with a reputation as a golf architect second to none. Architects are now drawing plans for a commodious clubhouse and locker building, with appointments in keeping with the high-class nature of the enterprise.

H. M. Parker, general manager of the Hollywood Country club, and one of the ablest country club executives in California, will be at the wheel, which is ample assurance of the club's success. Associated with Parker are Ralph Lindanger, western representative of the Pennsylvania Mower company; Charlie Playfair, the well-known oil operator; A. J. Bolger, a successful Hollywood merchant; Dr. George R. Diven, prominent surgeon and capitalist; Noel C. Edwards, attorney of Los Angeles; and B. J. Lynch, who will preside over the Glendale office as assistant secretary and treasurer.

The club has taken a lease on office in the Monarch building, Glendale, and will be open for business about November 1. In bringing this club to Glendale, Parker is assured of the support of all Glendalians and the $200,000 investment, exclusive of the purchase price of the land, will all be spent in Glendale, outside of some equipment which can be obtained only in the east.

Commercially and socially Glendale has taken another forward step in its march of progress.

Georgia Governor Calls Senator Names

Governor Thomas W. Hardwick, who was soundly beaten in the primaries to select a successor to the late Thomas E. Watson, junior U. S. senator for Georgia, has issued a statement denouncing Dr. William J. Harris, senior senator from the state, as a "liar" and "coward" and offering him "any satisfaction" he wishes. The controversy arose over the election.

The grand opening of the Monarch block, corner Harvard and Brand, will be held between the hours of 7 and 10 o'clock Saturday night. It is the plan of the various stores in this block to have everything in connection with their establishments finished and ready for display, with the exception of the Greenleaf Drug company, which will open shortly.

The firms located in this building are the Monarch Auto Supply company, which is at 204 South Brand; the Greenleaf Drug company, 200 South Brand; the Fashion Center, 202 South Brand, and the Tregea's Gift shop, which is situated at 102 East Harvard. Each of these establishments is right up to the minute, being among the foremost stores in Glendale in their respective lines. In addition to the stores the offices on the second floor will be formally opened. On this floor there are 19 offices, all of which have hardwood floors, southern gum finish and many other attractive features.

On Saturday evening music will be furnished by one of the leading orchestras of Glendale, the players being located on the mezzanine floor of the Monarch Auto Supply store, and during the evening several vocal solos will be rendered by Ole Andresen, one of the leading vocalists in this city.

The Monarch building was constructed and is owned by the Monarch Building company. Its cost was $60,000, and it is modern in every sense of the word, being a valuable addition to the business life of the city.

A number of pleasing features are being arranged for those who attend this opening Saturday night. All of the stores will be "dolled up" in their best clothes. Refreshments will be served and the people of Glendale will be given the "glad hand."

OBSERVATIONS

BY A GLENDALE OLD TIMER

Thomas Lee Woolwine made the fatal mistake of judging that the Democratic party, whose candidate for governor he is trying to be, was wedded to booze and willing to defy the constitution of the United States in favor of the same. But he sadly misjudged the caliber of his supposed adherents, who declared themselves to be American citizens and upholders of the constitution first, and Democrats last. The leaders of the party are probably mighty sorry now that they did not select as standard bearer a clean, upright citizen and true patriot like Mattison B. Jones of Glendale for their standard bearer. They had ample warning of Woolwine's attitude of mind, for in both his canvasses for district attorney he made no secret of his bias in favor of booze.

Glendale got away from the duplication of street names when Oak drive was re-named Windsor road, Vine street was changed to Western street east of Verdugo road, Maple street, a Vine street and an Oak street, a Vine street and an Eighth street, elsewhere. But, we are getting back into the old rut, for we now have a Virginia place, and a Virginia avenue, and a Chester place and a Chester street, a Vassar street and a Park avenue in Glendale and a Park avenue in Casa Verdugo, every district. Such duplication of street names inevitably leads to confusion in the delivery of mail.

The automobile manufacturers of the country have set a wonderful example to other business men of the nation. Almost invariably it is the custom, when goods of any kind are in great demand, to increase the price. But the automobile manufacturers did just the opposite. With every factory running full time and most dealers unable to get enough machines to supply demands, the manufacturers have reduced prices hundreds of dollars, thereby saving purchasers many millions.

Glendale still has some street numbering inconsistencies that ought to be corrected at once. For instance, a new store building at the southwest corner of Doran and Commercial streets is numbered 901 West Doran, but every house west of that on Doran has a number in 800. The 901 is correct but all the others are wrong. And on Kenneth road old and new numbers are strangely commingled. Thus 835 which is in accord with the new city numbering is next to 2061, which is the old North Glendale style, following the plan when Adams street was the base line, and there are other such incongruities. As nearly all of Kenneth road is now a part of Glendale, the new numbers should be used by all residents.

I don't claim to be an infallible "predicter," by any means, but I want right now to register a prophecy that I confidently believe will be fulfilled. It is this. In less than three years, maybe two, there will be a great market for the sale of groceries, vegetables, fruits and the like, at Brand and Lomita, or either the north or the south side of Lomita. As the big chain stores, which are able, by their great buying power, to sell some goods cheaper than can the little stores, become congested with customers, people who do not want to wait to receive attention transfer their custom to stores further away from the business center. Already there has been a decided drift that way and stores several blocks from Brand and Broadway are coming into their own. There is no large market for the sale of food commodities in the section named, though there are several excellent stores of medium size. Someone will seize upon some such location as the logical one for a large market to catch the overflow from the business center.

The first rain last year was on September 30 and it was .32 of an inch. The year before the first storm was on October 1 and the precipitation was .95 of an inch. The record early rain storm was that of October 11, 12 and 13, 1889, when more than 6 inches of moisture descended from the clouds.

Some of the old-timers who, after enjoying many delightful years in balmy California, go back to the old home town in the east, feel as did Nehemiah of old when he lamented to King Artaxerxes, whose trusted cup-bearer he was, "The city of my fathers is in ruins and its walls broken down." They find, in some cases, the little towns whose streets they roamed in happy, care-free boyhood, now grass-grown and desolate; the residences they knew so well, some of them in ruins by fire or decay; and the "old swimmin' hole" a mere mudhole. Such in part was the experience of Dr. J. D. Cameron, 319 West Garfield avenue, when he went back, last summer, to the home of his boyhood and later years, Kinmundy, Illinois, where, by the way, I lived for two winters, 1867 and 1868. This little town is in Marion county and was once quite thriving, but many of its influential citizens have sought sunnier climes in recent years and Kinmundy is decidedly on the down grade, much to the sorrow of us old-timers who once knew it so well. One solid block of three large 2-story houses, built on an insecure foundation, had collapsed a few years ago, and the ruins, untouched, still remain, a mute reminder of business sloth and decay. With two high-class railroads, the Illinois Central and the C. & E. I., running through it, there seemed no excuse for this backward motion of the old town, but the departure of substantial citizens and the paralyzing effect of recent droughts on the farming industry, could not be withstood.

I am not one of those who wish they could live their lives over and constantly lament the good times they can have no more, I wouldn't live my life over, with all its mistakes and sorrows, even if I could, but my memory does turn often and fondly to the scenes and joys of other days. When I was a boy of 15 I worked for a farmer whose holdings were mostly in the Wabash river bottoms. I spent my Sundays at home, generally, riding the ten miles in on horse-back Saturday evenings and returning early Monday morning. Those rides in the springtime through the forest were occasions of supreme joy. The greater part of the way was through the woods and the air was fragrant with the sweet odors of wild plum, crabapple, red haw and dogwood trees. Along the mossy banks of gurgling streams were carpets of violets, sweet William, blue bells and many other wild wood flowers. No perfume ever made can surpass the fragrance of wild plum and crabapple blossoms, and none of the score or more varieties of the plum can match in toothsome sweetness the wild variety, now, I fear, extinct. In those days we went to the woods and open fields for our plums and blackberries, our hickory nuts, butternuts, beechnuts, walnuts and hazelnuts. We'd haul in the fruits by the tubful and nuts by the wagon loads. Those dear old golden days of happy youth! Their memory will be a sweet incense until the end of our days.
