WORK OF COMMISSION, ERECTION OF MEMORIAL AND TRIP TO COLD HARBOR, VA.

DURING the session of the Pennsylvania Legislature of 1907, the following act was passed, authorizing the erection of a monument to commemorate the services of the Pennsylvania troops in the battle of Cold Harbor, Virginia; also, for the appointment of a Commission, by the Governor, to carry this act into effect.

The act is as follows, to wit: "Section 1. Be it enacted, &c., That immediately after the passage of this act, the Governor shall appoint a Commission of five persons, from among the survivors of the Fifty-fifth Regiment of Pennsylvania Volunteer Infantry, or survivors of other Pennsylvania Regiments of the Union Army, engaged at the battle of Cold Harbor, the services of which have not been commemorated by a monument on any other battle field. That the said Commission shall be known as the "Cold Harbor Battle Field Commission," and shall serve without compensation, except actual necessary expenses incurred in the performance of its duties. That the Governor shall fill all and any vacancies that may occur in said Commission. The duties of said Commission shall be to select and decide upon location, design, material and inscription for one monument, to commemorate the services of all Pennsylvania Regiments engaged in the battle of Cold Harbor, Virginia, which occurred in June, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-four, and to enter into a contract for the construction and erection of said monument: Provided, said monument shall not exceed in cost the sum of five thousand dollars; and when such monument shall have been completed and erected, the Auditor General shall, upon proper and specifically itemized vouchers, duly verified, draw his warrant upon the State Treasurer, in favor of the said Cold Harbor Battle Field Commission, for the sum of five thousand dollars, or so much thereof as may be necessary, for the payment of the expenses of the said Commission, upon filing with the Auditor General proper and specifically itemized vouchers covering such expense.

For the purposes herein mentioned the following sums, or so much thereof as may be necessary, are hereby specifically appropriated.

For the erection and completion of a monument, as aforesaid, the sum of five thousand dollars, or so much thereof as may be necessary.

For the payment of all necessary and proper expenses of the said Commission, the sum of one thousand dollars, or so much thereof as may be necessary.

Approved - The 13th day of June, A. D. 1907.

EDWIN S. STUART.

In compliance with the foregoing act of Legislature, his Honor, Governor Edwin S. Stuart, appointed the following, to be known as the Cold Harbor Battle Field Commission, and commissions therefore were duly issued.

Commission.

Captain P. F. Hodge, Company "A," 55th Regiment Pennsylvania Volunteers, Swissvale, Penna., (Died November 25th, 1909).

Captain Josiah Hissong, Company "H," 55th Regiment Pennsylvania Volunteers, Point, Bedford County, Penna.

Captain W. S. Underwood, Company "K," 97th Regiment Pennsylvania Volunteers, West Chester, Penna.

Captain C. F. Gramlich, Company "B," 2nd Pennsylvania Heavy Artillery, 112 Regiment, Pennsylvania Volunteers, Philadelphia, Penna.

Captain P. D. Bricker, Company "F," 13th Regiment Pennsylvania Cavalry, Jersey Shore, Penna. (Died Jan. 5th, 1913).

On 17th day of April, 1908, the Cold Harbor Battle Field Memorial Commission met at the Lochiel Hotel, Harrisburg, Penna., and held its first meeting. At this meeting of the said Commission, they organized for business, and the following officers were elected:

President, Captain P. F. Hodge.

Secretary, Captain Josiah Hissong.

Treasurer, Captain P. D. Bricker.

Captain Bricker and Captain Hissong were also elected by the members present, to form a committee of selection, whose duty it would be to select a suitable site for the erection of the monument, on the battlefield of Cold Harbor, Virginia.

After duly organizing, as aforesaid, on the 13th day of April, the committee left for Washington, D. C., to interview the Quartermaster General, as well as Arlington Heights, and the President of the United States. The Commission finally reached Cold Harbor, about noon on the 22nd of April, and proceeded to the National Cemetery at once, where, after much trouble a satisfactory site was selected for the erection of the monument. The site selected is on an avenue, next to the wall on the south side of the cemetery, and a distance of about 13 feet to the line of the soldier's lot; and a distance of 34 feet eastward from the west wall of the cemetery.

The site having been selected, the committee on inscription, consisting of the whole Commission, met, and after reading and revising the many, which were presented, all of which involved much labor, finally selected the following:

TABLET—NO. 1.

On the EAST side—

Artillery--Batteries B and F, Light Artillery; Second Regiment, Pennsylvania Heavy Artillery, and Second Regiment, Provisional H. A. (112, Pa.)

TABLET—NO. 2.

EMBLEM—Keystone in Granite, and Pennsylvania Coat of Arms in Bronze.

INSCRIPTION—Erected by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, to the Fifty-fifth Regiment of Pennsylvania Veteran Volunteers, and to all other Pennsylvania Regiments in the Battle of Cold Harbor, Virginia, June, 1864, which have not been commemorated by a monument on any other battlefield. Act of Assembly approved June 13th, 1907, P. L. 594, by Hon. Edwin S. Stuart, Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Commission appointed by the Governor:

Captain P. F. Hodge,	}	55th Regiment.
Captain Josiah Hissong,

Captain W. S. Underwood, 97th Regiment.

Captain C. F. Granlich, 112th Regiment and 2nd Artillery.

Captain P. D. Bricker, 13th Regiment Pennsylvania Cavalry.

The next step taken by the Commission, was to instruct the Committee on Design, to invite the prominent granite, marble and bronze monumental contractors, firms and sculptors of the country to submit models and drawings of designs, as well as estimations for furnishing materials, erecting and completion of same. Many responded to this call, and many drawings and models, as well as estimations were submitted, the examination of which involved some considerable time, as the committee had determined before hand, to give their most careful consideration to all who should respond. Finally, on the 13th day of July, A. D. 1908—the Commission having decided upon the drawings, specifications, et cetera of J. Henry Brown, an architect and builder of Richmond, Virginia, a contract was duly entered into between the said Commission and J. Henry Brown to furnish the materials and erect a monument in the National Cemetery, at Cold Harbor, Va. A partial description of the monument is as follows:

Partial Description of Monument.

Material—Gray Richmond Granite.

Dimensions—Bottom base, 7 to 3. 4—Die. 3x3. 4 Plinth 3. 2x2—7—Shaft 2x86. Cap. 2.5x1 8—Statue, seven feet in height. Infantry Soldier at parade rest, facing southward.

Total height of monument, 30 feet, 3 inches.

Inscription reported by Captain Joshia Hissong, Sec'y.

The total of Regiments is as follows:

Artillery, 3 Regiments.

Cavalry, 11 Regiments.

Infantry, 65 Regiments.

Total, 79 Pennsylvania Regiments.

Owing to the fact, that the contract called for the completion of the monument on or before the thirty-first day of December, A. D. 1908, work was begun immediately and progressed rapidly, as well as very satisfactorily, as will appear more at large upon the minutes of the daily record of Captain Hissong, who was delegated by the Commission to remain on the ground and report the progress of the work. As the monument neared completion, and after the Commission had viewed same, all was pronounced as being quite satisfactory, as well as to the entire expectation of the Commission, and the work being just about finished, it was accepted, on the 20th day of March, A. D. 1909, by Captain Underwood and Captain Gramlich, on the 5th day of April, A. D. 1909, upon the recommendation of the Commission, a warrant for the balance of the payment was drawn on the State Treasurer, by the Auditor General, check being mailed April 7th, 1909, and a release in full of the sum of $4,050 was received from J. Henry Brown, the builder.

On the 8th day of June, A. D. 1909, the Commission met at the Eagle Hotel, Gettysburg, Penna., there being present: Captain P. F. Hodge, Captain W. S. Underwood, Captain C. F. Gramlich, Captain P. D. Bricker and Captain J. Hissong, and upon a motion duly made and seconded, Wednesday, October 20th, 1909, was fixed as of the date for the dedication of the monument, subject, however, to the approval of his Honor, the Governor, Edwin S. Stuart, who, upon notification of the action taken by the said Commission, acquiesced fully and in accord with the desire of the Commission, set Wednesday, October 29th, 1909, as the day for the dedication of the Soldiers monument in the National Cemetery, at Cold Harbor, Va., which monument was erected by the State of Pennsylvania, to the memory of her sons, who participated in the Battle of Cold Harbor, Va., June, 1864, and it was further decreed by his Honor, the Governor, Edwin S. Stuart, that this day should be known as Pennsylvania Day at Cold Harbor, Va. It was also further decreed by his Honor, the Governor, Edwin S. Stuart, that in pursuance with the act of Assembly, approved the 13th day of May, 1909, that the transportation for the survivors of the Regiments, to which the said monument was erected, should be procured and all arrangements should be taken care of by the Commission, in order that all might be in accord with the act, as made and provided: which said act is as follows, to wit:

No. 552.

To provide transportation to and from the battlefield of Cold Harbor, Virginia, at the time of the dedication of the monument in commemoration of the services of Pennsylvania troops engaged in that battle, which occurred in June, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-four, and which have not been commemorated by a monument on any other battlefield, to the honorably discharged survivors of said regiments, and also to State officials and guests, to attend the unveiling of said monument, and making the necessary appropriation therefor.

Whereas, the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, by an act approved the 13th day of June, Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred and seven (Pamphlet laws five hundred and and ninety-four), authorized to the Governor to appoint a commission of five persons, from amongst the survivors of the Fifty-fifth Regiment of the Pennsylvania Volunteer Infantry, or survivors of other Pennsylvania regiments of the Union Army, engaged at the battle of Cold Harbor, the services of which have not been commemorated by a monument on any other battlefield. That the duties of said commission shall be to select and decide upon a location, design, material and inscription for one monument, to commemorate the services of all Pennsylvania Regiments engaged in the battle of Cold Harbor, Virginia, which occurred in June, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-four, not having monuments on any other battlefield.

And whereas, the Governor appointed upon the said Commission P. F. Hodge, Christian F. Gramlich, P. D. Bricker, Josiah Hissong and W. S. Underwood, who have selected and decided upon the location, design, material and inscription of such monument, and entered into a contract for the construction and erection of same.

And whereas, it has been officially ascertained that seventy-two Pennsylvania Regiments—infantry, cavalry and artillery—were engaged in said battle of June, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-four, the names and numbers being inscribed on said monument. All of the above regiments and batteries have monuments and markers upon other battlefields, except the following sixteen, as nearly as can be ascertained: Batteries B and F Light Artillery; One Hundred and Twelve, or Second Regiment Heavy Artillery; Second Regiment Provisional Artillery; Thirteenth Regiment Pennsylvania Cavalry, and the Fifty-fifth, Fifty-eighth, Seventy-sixth, Nine-seventh, One Hundred and Fifty-seventh, One Hundred and Eighty-third, One Hundred and Eighty-Fourth, One Hundred and Eighty-seventh, One Hundred and Eighty-eighth, One Hundred and Ninetieth and One Hundred and Ninety-first Regiments of Infantry.

And whereas, the monument is nearing completion, being located within the National Cemetery at Cold Harbor, Virginia.

And whereas, the people of the Commonwealth have not only commemorated the brave and valorous deeds of her loyal volunteer soldiers, who fell a sacrifice in the defence of their country, but also are willing and ready to honor those who yet survive that great struggle; therefore

Section 1. Be it enacted, &c., That the Governor of the Commonwealth shall, at such time as he shall deem best, appoint a day for the dedication of the aforesaid monument, to be called "Pennsylvania Day."

Section 2. That the said dedication shall be under the control and direction of the present Commission, who shall also take charge of the ceremonies on the field.

Section 3. That there shall be provided and furnished by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, to such State officials and guests as the Governor may designate, and to all surviving honorably discharge Pennsylvania soldiers who were members of any of the above sixteen regiments and batteries of the Pennsylvania Volunteers who took part in the said battle, transportation for the nearest railway station of the residence of such State official or guests, or any Pennsylvania soldier, to Richmond, Virginia or the nearest railroad point to the battlefield of Cold Harbor, and return; to enable them to be present at the dedication of said monument, allowing six days to visit Richmond, Virginia, and the several battlefields in proximity thereof.

Section 4. The said Battlefield Commission be and is hereby authorized, directed and empowered to provide transportation for such State officials, guests and the said surviving soldiers, by railway, aforesaid, to and from the nearest railroad station to Cold Harbor, Virginia, and return, and care upon the battlefield on the day of the dedication; and the aid Commission is further authorized and empowered to provide such blanks and establish such rules for the reception of such applications as may be deemed proper, and to give publicity of the requirements under this Act, in order that the surviving soldiers entitled to transportation may secure same.

Section 5. That any person who shall personate or attempt to personate any soldier entitled to the provisions of this act, in order to secure transportation under this act, or shall use or attempt to use the transportation provided for any such soldier, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and, upon conviction thereof, shall be fined not more than one hundred dollars, or be imprisoned not exceeding one month, or either or both, at the discretion of the court before which conviction is had.

Section 6. That the sum of fifteen thousand dollars, or so much thereof as may be necessary, be and the same is hereby specifically appropriated out of any money in the Treasury, be the same not otherwise appropriated to defray the expenses of the transportation; and the further sum of five hundred dollars, to pay the necessary expenses of the Commission incident thereto. Said appropriation to be paid on the warrant of the Auditor General upon a requisition of the Battlefield Commission drawn in the usual manner, filing specifically itemized or satisfactory vouchers showing in detail the disbursement under the act, which requisition and vouchers to be filed with the Auditor General within sixty days after the dedication of such monument.

Approved - The 13th day of May, A. D. 1909.

EDWIN S. STUART.

In compliance with the fourth section of the foregoing act of Assembly, the Secretary of the Commission, Captain Josiah Hissong was instructed to comply therewith, and immediately issued the following circular of information:

Headquarters of the Cold Harbor Battlefield Commission, Point, Penna.

CIRCULAR OF INFORMATION.

Cold Harbor Battlefield Commission,
Point, Pa., July 6th, 1909.

The General Assembly of Pennsylvania, by an act approved June 13th, 1907, provided for the erection by the State of Pennsylvania, upon the battlefield of Cold Harbor, Virginia, of a monument to commemorate the services of Batteries B and F, Light Artillery; One Hundred and Twelve, or Second Regiment of Heavy Artillery; Second Regiment Provisional Heavy Artillery; Thirtieth Regiment of Pennsylvania Cavalry, and the Fifty-fifth, Fifty-eighth, Seventy-sixth, Ninety-seventh, One Hundred and Fifty-seventh, One Hundred and Eighty-third, One Hundred and Eighty-fourth, One Hundred and Eighty-seventh, One Hundred and Eighty-eighth, One Hundred and Ninetieth, and One Hundred and Ninety-first Regiments of Infantry, and appropriated the sum of six thousand dollars for the purpose.

The Act of May 13th, 1909, provides:

Section 2. That the said dedication shall be under the control and direction of the said Commission, who shall also take charge of the ceremonies on the field.

Section 3. That there shall be provided and furnished, by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, to such State officials and guests as the Governor may designate, and to all the surviving honorably discharged Pennsylvania soldiers who were members of any of the above sixteen regiments and batteries of Pennsylvania Volunteers who took part in said battle, transportation from the railway station nearest the place of residence of such State official or guest, or any such Pennsylvania soldier to Richmond, Virginia, or the nearest railroad point to the Battlefield of Cold Harbor, and return, to enable them to be present at the dedication of said monument, allowing six days to visit Richmond, Virginia, and the several battlefields in proximity thereof.

Section 4. The said Battlefield Commission be and is hereby authorized, directed and empowered to provide transportation for such said State officials, guests, and the said surviving soldiers, by railway, aforesaid, to and from the nearest railroad station to Cold Harbor, Virginia, and return, and care upon the battlefield on the occasion of the dedication of said monument, and the said Commission is further authorized to provide such blanks, and establish such rules for the reception of such applications as may be deemed proper, and to give publicity of the requirements under this act, in order that the surviving soldiers entitled to transportation may secure same.

Section 5. That any person who shall personate or attempt to personate any soldier entitled to the provisions of this act, in order to secure transportation under this act, or shall use or attempt to use the transportation provided for any such soldier, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and, upon conviction thereof, shall be fined not more than one hundred dollars, or be imprisoned not exceeding one month, or either or both, at the discretion of the court before which conviction is had.

The Governor of Pennsylvania, in accordance with the provisions of the act of Assembly, has fixed Wednesday, October 29, 1909, as the day on which the monument will be dedicated, and the Cold Harbor Battlefield Commission, in pursuance thereof, will issue transportation to honorably discharged Pennsylvania soldiers who were members of either of the above named regiments to permit them to attend the dedication of the aforesaid monument, under the following regulations:

1.—Transportation will be issued only to applicants who were members of either of the above named regiments, and honorably discharged therefrom.

2.—Application must be made on blank form to be procured from Josiah Hissong, Secretary Cold Harbor Battlefield Commission, Point, Pa. No application will be considered unless made on proper form, and no transportation will be issued except upon proper application, and to persons legally entitled thereto.

3.—Transportation will be issued only from railway station in Pennsylvania nearest to residence of applicant, good from that point to Richmond, Virginia, and return, and by the shortest available route.

4.—No payment or allowance is made by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania for subsistence, carriage hire, wagon transportation or Pullman car or sleeping car fares.

5.—The time limit of tickets will be so arranged as to permit persons using same to start sufficiently in advance of date of dedication to visit the battlefield.

6.—The transportation issued will be good going and returning by the same route, and will not permit of going by one road and returning by another, either wholly or in part.

7.—In order that transportation may be issued and reach applicants in time, applications must be filed not later than October 1st, 1909.

8.—When order for ticket is issued by the Commission all further information will be given as to the use of same, the hour of dedication, and special train from nearby point, should be arranged for by the committee in charge of dedication.

Prompt application should be made for blank form of application, by addressing Josiah Hissong, Point, Pa.

JOSIAH HISSONG,
Secretary Cold Harbor Battlefield Commission.

ROSTER OF APPLICATIONS FOR

Transportation from the various residences of the survivors of the Pennsylvania Regiments, that took part in the battle of Cold Harbor, Va., to Richmond, Va.

UNDER THE PROVISIONS OF THE ACT OF ASSEMBLY, APPROVED MAY 13, 1909.

Note: The State of Pennsylvania only furnished the transportation for the above from their residences to Richmond Va., and therefore the Commission appointed Captains W. S. Underwood and C. E. Gramlich, to furnish the transportation from Richmond, Va., to Cold Harbor. This the Captains did in a most commendable manner, as well as with a most motley array of conveyances which presented a sight never to be forgotten. Part of the survivors were transported by way of Fair Oaks, Va., and some by Mechanicsville, Va., but regardless of the transportation, they all arrived at the ceremonies, and it is to be hoped, enjoyed the same.

187th Regiment,	85
188th Regiment,	72
190th Regiment,	48
191st Regiment,	36
Total survivors present,	859

All the foregoing having complied with the rules for transportation as laid down by the Secretary of the Commission, Captain Josiah His-song, having received the transportation as provided by the Commonwealth through Captain P. D. Bricker, treasurer, were present at the dedication of the Pennsylvania Monument on the Battlefield of Cold Harbor, Wednesday, October the 20th, 1909, and participated in the exercises there held, which order of exercises were as follows:

COLD HARBOR, VIRGINIA.

Taken from the Century Dictionary and Cyclopedia, Vol. IX, page 265.

"COLD HARBOR—A place in Hanover County, Virginia, 9 miles east—northeast of Richmond, situated near the Chickahominy. It was the scene of two battles during the Civil War; the first fought June 27th, 1862, is better known as the battle of Ganle's Mill; (which see); the second was fought June 3rd, 1864, and the Confederates (50,000-69,000), under Lee defeated the Federals (150,000), under Grant. Losses—(June 1-12) of Federals, 14,931; of Confederates, 1,700.

Relying upon the correctness of the above quotation, it will prove that the above battle was one of the most sanguinary of the whole Civil War.

PARTIAL HISTORY OF COLD HARBOR BATTLE.

June 3rd, 1864.

THROUGH the courtesy of John McElroy, editor National Tribune, ginia, which lasted from the 3rd day of June, to the 15th day of the following bit of the history of the battle of Cold Harbor, Vir-the same month, A. D. 1864, with reference to the number of soldiers lost is had, for which the Commission is very grateful.

"The official reports show that at Cold Harbor there were 143 officers killed, and 1,702 men. There were 443 officers wounded, and 8,614 men. There were 35 officers and 1,781 captured or missing, making a total loss of 12,738."

"Several days of the organizations in the Army of the Potomac, such as the Egyptian Corps were engaged, and substantially all of the Army of Northern Virginia took part in the fight. The fight lasted from June 30th, to July 1st, when the greater part of the losses occurring in about one-half hour on June 30th, when the charge was made."

It is thought by some, that the losses were reported as far too small, and it is believed by these, that the total loss probably ran as high, and possibly higher than 17,000. The fight was one of the most terrific as well as sanguinary of the whole Rebellion so much so, that it has been estimated that in the fight of June 30th, when the fortifications of the rebels were stormed, that as many as 10,000 men lost their lives in less than 20 minutes.

OPENING PRAYER.

By Rev. John W. Sayers, Chaplain Department of Pennsylvania, G. A. R.

Our Father who art in heaven, we would in all our ways acknowledge Thee, and have Thee always direct our path. May whatever we do at this time be pleasing in Thy sight and rebound to Thy honor and glory.
As we are assembled in Thy presence, and humbly worship before Thee, may Thy blessings rest upon us. We acknowledge Thee to be our Supreme ruler. Thou didst make us, and not we ourselves. In Thee we live and move and have our being. From Thee cometh every good and perfect gift; Thy favor is life, and Thy loving kindness is better than life.

We thank Thee for life in such an age of progress; we thank Thee for such a country as that which we possess; and we thank Thee for the grand opportunities it affords. We thank Thee for past and present prosperity, and especially for its government in which the political and religious rights of the people are recognized, and which is mighty to defend the right and crush the wrong.

We thank Thee, Thou God of battles, that from the beginning, Thou hast raised up men that were willing to lay down their lives for liberty and just government; and that Thou gave our armies brave commanders, who led the armies from victory to victory. We thank Thee that Thou hast brought us through many a weary campaign, and out of the deadly strife. We thank Thee that Thou hast permitted us to accomplish something for our nation and humanity; and that we are permitted to see this hour so full of vivid memories of marches by day and by night, of camp and hospital, and defeat and victory, and memories of the noble dead, who, hearing Thy command, have advanced to the front which is beyond our sight, and beyond the line of death.

O Thou who art a father to the fatherless and better than a husband to the widow, bless the widows and the orphans of our fallen comrades who are with us in spirit, but cannot appear with us to-day. May they have prosperity and happiness in this world and in the world to come, share in the glorious triumph of the soldiers of the cross.

We beseech Thee, O God, to bless Thy servant, the President of the United States, and all who bear authority throughout the length and breadth of our land. May no sectional issue weaken the bonds of fraternity which makes of our individual Commonwealths a glorious Nation.

And now, O God, bless this moment, bless it in honor of mothers who gave their sons; bless it in honor of wives who wept for husbands who never returned; bless it in honor of children whose heritage is their fallen father's heroic name. But, chiefly, O God, bless it in honor of men, who counted not their lives dear, when their country needed their service. Protest it, and let it endure unto the latest generation. May its influence be for the education of the citizen, for the honor of civil life, for the advancement of the nation, for the blessings of humanity, and for the furtherance of Thy kingdom.

Keep us all loyal to our country, to the right, and above all, to Thee; and after the warfare of life is ended and we are called to sleep by the tattoo of death, may we all in the morning of the resurrection be awakened by the reveille of angels.

We ask it in the name of Jesus Christ, the great Captain of our salvation. Amen.

REMARKS BY CAPTAIN C. F. GRAMLICH, OF PHILADELPHIA, PENNA.

MR. CHAIRMAN, Comrades, Ladies and Friends: In pursuance with a general act of Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, a Commission was appointed by his Excellency, Governor Edwin S. Stuart, consisting of B. F. Hodge, Josiah Hissong, P. D. Bricker, William S. Underwood and C. F. Gramlich, for the purpose of erecting a monument to commemorate the services of the Pennsylvania Regiments, that participated at the battle of Cold Harbor, and have no monument on any other battlefield; the Commission having completed their labors, we are met on this hallowed ground, to dedicate this monument in honor of the veterans living and dead who participated here—therefore, as the representative of the Commission, I take great pleasure to introduce Mrs. Juliet Watson, daughter of Colonel Richard White, late Colonel of the 55th Regiment of the Pennsylvania Volunteers, who will unveil this monument.

*Unveiling of the monument, while the Richmond Blues, a celebrated band of that old historic Richmond, Va., who gave a beautiful rendition of that patriotic air "The Star Spangled Banner."

Note: On Oct. 19th, 1909, at a meeting held in Richmond, Va., the Commission appointed Capt. C. F. Gramlich, President, pro, tem., Capt. P. F. Hodge, being absent through illness. Also, Capt. W. S. Underwood, was appointed Master of Transportation of the survivors from Richmond, Va., to Battlefield of Cold Harbor, Va., a distance of about 12 miles.

UNVEILING OF MONUMENT

By Mrs. Juliet Watson, Daughter of Colonel Richard White, Late Colonel of the 55th Regiment Pennsylvania Volunteers.

THE remarks made by Mrs. Watson, while meager, yet were very impressive, and uttered with much feeling, so much so, that they impressed all within hearing, that while they were extemporaneous, that they were remarks of true feeling, and patriotic sentiment, and it is to be regretted that the speaker did not speak longer; however, let what was said suffice:

"Greater love hath no man than this—THAT HE LAY DOWN HIS LIFE FOR ANOTHER—lest we forget the many sacrifices here made, we now give this memorial to the world."

ADDRESS AND PRESENTATION OF THE MONUMENT AT COLD HARBOR, VA., BY P. D. BRICKER, ESQ.

HONORABLE Edwin S. Stuart, Governor of Pennsylvania:
In pursuance of An Act of Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, approved of by you June 13th, 1907, you were authorized to appoint five persons, whose duty it was to select and decide upon a location for one monument to commemorate the services (of the 55th Regiment of Pennsylvania Volunteers) and of all Pennsylvania Regiments engaged in the battle of Cold Harbor, Virginia, which occurred in the month of June, 1864, the services of which have not been commemorated by a monument on any other battlefield; which persons so appointed by you were to be known as the "Cold Harbor Battlefield Commission."

The Commission upon whom you bestowed this honor, and in whom you reposed this confidence were Captain P. F. Hodge, Co. "A" 55th, and Captain Josiah Hissong of Co. "H" 55th Regiment of Pennsylvania Volunteers; Captain W. S. Underwood, Co. "K" 97th Regiment Pennsylvania Volunteers; Captain C. F. Gramlich, Co. "B" 2nd Pennsylvania Heavy Artillery, 112th Regiment Pennsylvania Volunteers and Captain P. D. Bricker, Co. "F" 13th Regiment Pennsylvania Cavalry.

The Commission met and organized promptly thereafter, and discharged its duties faithfully and to the best of their knowledge, judgment and ability.

It was considered impracticable, if not impossible, to select a prominent site for the location of a monument upon any particular place, upon the line of battle, extending in length for several miles, and punctured, as it were, by rapid marches; fierce fighting; desperate charges and countercharges and skillful maneuvers, as could only be displayed, by veteran troops, in the field of battle, of equal valor, courage and bravery.

To avoid placing the same where the natural conditions of things would make the site one almost of exclusiveness, with great inconvenience attending future visitations; your Commission succeeded in obtaining the consent and authority of the War Department to place and erect the same within the enclosures of the National Cemetery, controlled by the authorities of the United States Government.

Having thus secured the site, your Commission entered into a contract for the erection of same, the Government, however, reserving the right to pass upon its location, and to examine the inscriptions and designs proposed to be placed thereon.

It was advised by the Quartermaster General, that the whole number of the various regiments from Pennsylvania, which were present at this battle should be placed thereon this suggestion was favorably acted upon, and the names of the seventy-nine Pennsylvania Regiments and Batteries, thus participating, were inscribed thereon.

After careful consideration and from the best information officially obtained, and from the records of monuments erected upon other battlefields and in other cemeteries, only sixteen were found to have no monuments upon other battlefields; namely—Batteries B and F Pa. Light Artillery, which since that time have a monument at Gettysburg, thus leaving to-day but fourteen, as follows: The "2d Pa. Heavy Artillery, 112th Regiment; the 2d Pa. Provisional Heavy Artillery, 112th Pa.; 13th Regiment Pa. Cavalry, and the 55th, 58th, 76th, 97th, 157th, 183d, 184th, 187th, 188th, 190th and 191st Regiments of Infantry.

The Commission erected the monument, within the amount appropriated for same and the expenses incident thereto, turning into the State Treasury the unexpended balance of $1,371.85.

Personal care and supervision of the erection of the monument was given, and we desire to say that J. Henry Brown, of Richmond, Va., architect and contractor, did the work well, and furnished the best materials obtainable.

We trust that you will inspect and examine the work of your Commission, and that it will meet with your approval.

The Commission, therefore, with a high degree of pride and satisfaction, present to you, the Governor of Pennsylvania, who on behalf of the people of the grand old Commonwealth, will accept and receive the same, entrusting it into the care, control and custody of the proper authorities of the United States Government.

ACCEPTANCE OF MONUMENT, HON. EDWIN S. STUART, GOVERNOR OF THE COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA.

OWING to the lamentable fact, that the stenographer which was employed by Captain W. S. Underwood on behalf of the Commission, and supposed to be present at the dedicatory exercises, failed to be present, as well as the fact, that his Honor, the Governor, spoke extemporaneously, the Commission is unable to here print his speech. However, let it suffice to say, that the speech of the Governor of Pennsylvania, in which he accepted the monument erected and so dedicated, in behalf of Pennsylvania, and gave same into the care and keeping of the United States, was a masterful and deep meaning speech, full of feeling and one that will be long remembered by all those who were within his hearing.

By the Commission.

RESPONSE—GEN. GEORGE B. DAVIS, JUDGE ADVOCATE GENERAL, U. S. A.

MR. CHAIRMAN, Survivors of the Regiments of the Pennsylvania Volunteers, Ladies and Gentlemen: It is proper that the great State of Pennsylvania, the Keystone of our constitutional edifice, should be efficiently represented upon this occasion by a generous delegation of her citizens: some of whom took part in the operations in this vicinity in the early part of June, 1864, and participated actively in the important battles at Cold Harbor, Bethesda Church on the 1st and 3rd days of June of that year. The participation of the Pennsylvania troops in those battles was numerous and important and included 65 regiments of infantry, 11 regiments of cavalry, 2 light batteries and 2 regiments of heavy artillery, which were distributed through the five corps which formed the armies of the Potomac and James.

Some of the Pennsylvania regiments that took a distinguished part in these obstinately contested engagements had participated in the Bull Run campaign of 1861, and the Peninsular, Virginia and Maryland campaign of '62: they had surged back and forth in the cornfield at Antietam: had breasted the formidable heights at Fredericksburg, and had rendered yeomen service at Chancellorsville. Their steadfast courage and splendid endurance had contributed powerfully to the decisive success at Gettysburg, and after three years of eventful and memorable services, they had again shown their quality as soldiers in the desperate undertakings in the Wilderness, at Spotsylvania and the North Ann River, of which the operations which we to-day commemorate were the natural and inevitable outcome.

A sure and certain measure of the work done by the troops in battle and campaign will be found in the list of the losses sustained. From this test, the Pennsylvania troops at Cold Harbor emerged most creditably, the official record showing their loss in killed and wounded and missing to have been 2,785, including 48 commissioned officers, being over 15 per cent. of the losses sustained by the armies of the Potomac and James during the operations in this vicinity in 1864.

That the Pennsylvania troops fought well—here as everywhere—the reports of their commanders bear generous and abiding testimony.

General Grant says:

"During three long years, the Armies of the Potomac and Northern Virginia had been confronting each other. In that time they had fought more desperate battles than it probably ever before fell to the lot of two armies to fight, without materially changing the vantage ground of either. The battles of Spotsylvania, Wilderness, North Ann, and Cold Harbor, bloody and terrible as they were on our side, were even more damaging to the enemy, and so crippled him as to make him wary ever after of taking the offensive. His losses in men were probably not so great, owing to the fact, that we were, save in the Wilderness, almost invariably the attacking party, and when he did attack, it was in the open field. The details of these battles, which for endurance and bravery on the part of the soldiers, have rarely been surpassed, are given in the report of Major General Meade, and the subordinate reports accompanying it. Official Records, Union and Confederate Armies, Volume 36, Part 1, page 200."

General Hancock's distinguished son of Pennsylvania is readily warm in commendation, and says:

"The setting of the bronze upon my country at the battle was given by Governor of the Commonwealth, and delivery of the money which it cost them." The distinguished son of Hancock was also present." (Ibid., p. 102)

General John Gibson, in speaking of the loss of 46 per cent, which the division had suffered during the operations of May and June 1863, says:

"The officers were all of the best families of the State and had been, and I believe, all of them, in the army since the beginning of the war, and were, therefore, well acquainted with the duties of the office and the responsibilities of the position. They were all of the best families of the State and had been, and I believe, all of them, in the army since the beginning of the war, and were, therefore, well acquainted with the duties of the office and the responsibilities of the position. They were all of the best families of the State and had been, and I believe, all of them, in the army since the beginning of the war, and were, therefore, well acquainted with the duties of the office and the responsibilities of the position." (Ibid., p. 102)

The great Commonwealth of Pennsylvania does not fail to pay this appropriate and enduring tribute to the memory of her heroic dead. The material prosperity which so generously adorned their graves, is in no small measure due to the devoted and sacrifice of her sons, who were paid

"The last full measure of devotion" for the preservation of the people, for the people, and for the people which are paid from the State.

To their valor is it due that the abundant prosperity which the war confers was possible, that her northern boundary separates her from an equal prosperous Commonwealth; that the lines established by Gibson and Biron is not a customs barrier or a hostile boundary, but simply serves to define the governmental activities of two friendly states, looking in aiding peace and harmony following the same flag members of the same Union, cherishing the same history, memories, and pursuing the same glorious destiny.

It now becomes my duty to accept from the hands of your Excellency, the Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, in behalf of the War Department and the Governor of the United States, this treasure and enduring monument to the memory of the soldiers of Pennsylvania who here gave their lives for their country. As the ages pass it will continue to tell story of steadfast bravery of unflinching courage of boundless devotion to the State and to the Union which their lives, their service and their sacrifices have made illustrious. The general government cheerfully shares itself with the custody of this noble and enduring memorial to their valor and fortitude, and equally charges itself with the preservation of the story of their heroic deeds, which has been made the subject of staid record in the annals of this Commonwealth; there to remain I trust until the earth and the sea shall give up their dead.

General M. Kerwin, Colonel 11th Pennsylvania Cavalry was to have spoken, but he being unable to attend the exercises, the oration was delivered by the Honorable Henry M. Fenton, who was a member of the Pennsylvania Volunteers.

ADDRESS OF HON. HENRY M. FOOTE.

MR. PRESIDENT of the Monument Commission, the Governor of the State of Pennsylvania, Ladies and Gentlemen:

After General Grant and General Lee had arranged the terms of surrender, and the men of both armies were preparing to return to their homes, it was interesting to listen to the conversations which were carried on between those who only a short time before were facing each other in deadly conflict.

There was a tall, wiry fellow, who had belonged to an Alabama Regiment, that seemed to be the center of attraction in one groupe, and he became somewhat excited as he gave an account of some of his experiences, and finally wound up, by saying: "Well, I just don't care. I'se going back to my old home which they tell me has been destroyed; but I'se got the satisfaction of knowing that I killed just as many of you as you did of me."

That sir; was but an expression that seemed to animate the brave men of both sides as they were peacefully separating for their homes. They met as enemies and killed just as many of each other as they could. It could not have been otherwise because both armies were composed of Americans, and had the best fighting blood in their veins of any nation on earth.

I do not feel entirely comfortable on this occasion, because I fail to see the faces of some of my friends whom I expected to see and whose presence would be an inspiration to me, I feel in that respect, very much like the widower who lived up in Vermont, and who got married the second time to a lady who was a stranger in the town. After the ceremony was over he thought he would make a few remarks to the company present and so he said: "That being a mere man, he thought he needed the help of those present to make his new wife feel at home, and that he was going to depend upon the women folks there to do it. That he knew they would do just as his first wife would do if she were alive. That he missed her presence awfully at times; but more than usual on this occasion."

Barring the presence of those friends, I have been asked to tell something of the story of this monument which we are here to dedicate and the stand we took here which makes such dedication possible, and this reminds me of an incident that took place when both armies were facing each other in the first peninsular campaign. The 11th Pennsylvania Cavalry was entrenched in close quarters to some command on the other side near where an old negro had his habitation and where he had lived for many years. One day a pretty sharp fire was opened by the Confederates and one of the cavalymen asked the old darkie what he thought about them making an advance. The old fellow after looking wise for a minute, replied: "That they needen't have any fear about their coming any further, kaise they wouldn't dare come. But the old fellows predictions did not come true because the very next day they advanced some distance and took possession of some abandoned works which the Federals had built. The old colored man could not stand those tactics any longer and so he began to gather up his things preparatory to making a hasty retreat when the cavalryman to whom he spoke the day before said to him—"I thought Uncle John, that you said yesterday, that the Confederates wouldn't come this way any further?" The old fellow who was rolling his eyes over in the direction where the Confederates were, replied—"Well I've changed my mind, and I've come to the conclusion that it's a heap better to make a good run, than it is to make a bad stand" And so we thought as we followed the suggestion of the old darkie and marched back to safer quarters.

We have met here upon this historic spot, this ground consecrated by service and by sacrifice, to the cause of that which is the highest conception of human thought.

Here, amid the sound of clashing steel, and the deafening roar of musketry and cannon, was shed the best and bravest blood that humanity can give. It was here upon that fateful day in June, 45 years ago that those regiments from Pennsylvania which are inscribed upon this monument, together with others from different states, met the valorous hosts of Lee, and in that fearful carnage scores of those heroes on both sides gave to the cause, which each beheld as right, full measure of their heroic devotion.

All things which are of human origin and are the products of conflicting minds bear the stamp of imperfection. The product of ideas always carries with it the impress of honest controversy, and so long as human life exists, and this conflict is carried on, just so long will there continue to be honest differences of purpose and opinion.

There are times in the history of a nation's progress and development when appeals in the forum of public debate serve only to arouse and intensify opposing and conflicting thoughts, and questions which may have been considered of no serious consequence at first, may become of such absorbing interest as to arouse bitter feelings of antagonism and great popular concern.

In such a contest of ideas there can be no final settlement of that which was the cause of the controversy except in the highest tribunal on earth—the arbitrament of arms.

For many years the wisest men of both sections, North and South, had waged a contest of fierce debates over an important national question, and it became a matter of supreme importance to determine just how far the powers and authority of the State had been surrendered by the adoption of the Federal Constitution.

The political success of Lincoln, served only to intensify the popular trend of thought of those who had been successful at the polls upon this question; and that this political discussions and elections could not solve was submitted to the court of last resort.

The men of the North engaged in that contest imbued with the thought that the union which our fathers established had been threatened with destruction. They had the inspiration of the immortal Patrick Henry, that to preserve the Union was the best and noblest purpose on earth, and that to die in its defence was but the crowning act of a patriotic service. The men who marched away into this southland to maintain the integrity and perpetuity of that union, stepped to the martial strains of the Star Spangled Banner and were moved in their devotion to principal by the inspiring sentiments—"The union now and forever, one and inseperable."

The men that carried that flag, did not enter this fair land for the purpose of waging a war of conquest in order to settle some territorial dispute, or for the purpose of levying tribute upon its people, in satisfaction of some real or fancied wrong. They came here to preserve and defend that which had been the ark and the covenant of our national hope, for nearly one hundred years, and so their zeal for the preservation of the Union, became a national sentiment, and every life that went out, and every drop of blood that was shed in its defense, served only to arouse a more strong and more intense determination, that those sacrifices should not have been made in vain.

And so, our armies came here, upon this sacred soil of this imperial state, not as invaders for the purpose of depriving a person within its borders of a single personal or property right. Our columns marched along these valleys and over these hills, carrying with them, the flag of the union, which the State of Virginia helped to establish. And it was that emblem which they followed in victory or defeat.

It was that patriotic zeal which led them on, because they could not endure the thought, that in that conquest, they should live to see—"The sun set upon the broken fragments of a once glorious union." And it was that thought, that sentiment, which caused them to march across your border and accept the challenge given them by that fearless and intrepid army of the "Stars and Bars."

That enthusiastic desire to preserve the union of the states was quite enough to atone for all the sacrifices which our armies made; but when the proclamation of freedom came, there was added to that desire, a further sentiment, that back of that seemingly was involved in that contest, Almighty God, who holds the nations, as it were, in the hollow of his hand had issued his decree, that this republic could only be perpetuated by being reestablished upon a foundation of univarsal peace and liberty.

To you men of Virginia, who so bravely faced our onward march with these sentiments inscribed upon our banners, we have no expression of regret to make, because we invaded the sacred precincts of your historic state, you met us like foemen, worthy of our steel, and by the blood of your comrades, mingled with that of ours upon this, and a hundred battlefields helped to cement this Union together forever and ever more.

It is but proper, it is but fitting, that here upon this spot which has been made sacred as a battle ground in defense of the cause of the union, that I should speak with warmest praise of the men who not only met brave Americans upon this field; but crimsoned this soil with their blood that the principles for which they fought might forever endure. I am not here upon this eventful day to detract from the honorable record and patriotic service of the men in whose honor we dedicate this monument, by admitting that the result of that bitter contest was a mistake, because I believe, sincerely believe, that the progress of our civilization during the last two decades has demonstrated, that from every consideration which not only involved the welfare of the south: but also that great world-power Republic as well, that it is better, far better, that this union should have been preserved than that it should have been destroyed. And I know that the man that followed the fortunes of that brave and gallant leader—General Lee, and who now have a patriotic veneration for the union, would hold me in most contemptuous disregard if, here upon this occasion I should even by insinuation admit that the men who met them on this historic spot, and who here laid down their lives, did so fighting for an unjust and unholy cause.

But sir, that fierce and sanguinary conflict for the supremacy of ideas was a demonstration to the whole civilized world that there was at stake honest differences of opinion respecting the powers and limitations of our constitutional government. You men of the south had challenged the exercise of some of those powers, and had inexorably defined some of those limitations. The issue was no longer one of debate. You had taken appeal to that court of last resort and had assumed the affirmative side of those questions and there was nothing left for the people of the north to do, but to join issue with you there.

That man would be unfit to assume the duties and responsibilities of an American citizen who imputed to the brave men of the south anything but an honest purpose and a patriotic desire to maintain the principle for which they fought. The men who framed that historic issue sacredly believe that they were right, in the method adopted, in resisting what they honestly considered was an encroachment by the Federal Government upon the rights reserved to certain states, and they were imbued with an impulse just as strong and just as patriotic to resist such encroachments as that which prompted those on the other side to risk all that was dear to them in that contest. And to you men we extend the hand of friendship and express to you our unbounded admiration for your valor and your sacrifices in the defense of those principles which you believed to be just and sacred.

And as we meet here to honor the men who met you on the battlefield, and who made the greatest sacrifice possible to maintain the principles which they also held to be just and sacred, we do so without the revival of a single bitter memory, or any feeling of animosity towards those who gallantly opposed our onward march. Differ as we always may upon political questions, still there shall never be any difference of opinion between those who faced each other in that conflict, that each with the blood of Puritan or Cavalier in his veins, had the courage and patriotism to do or die in defense of the principles which he held to be sacred.

The onward march of time has happily healed the differences of opinion which each has maintained of the other. And as we witness the progress which this Republic has made in the last quarter of a century we have cultivated a stronger feeling of pride that we are bound together in indissoluble bonds of union than we ever had before. We have come to understand and fully realize that this government of ours is not sectional but national, and that whatever effects the well fare of one state, effects equally as well the well fare of all states, and taking a just pride in all these things, and realizing that in union there is strength, all sections of our common country stand ready, should the necessity occur, to defend, at whatever cost, the integrity and perpetuity of this glorious union.

Since those great Generals of the war—Grant and Lee, shook hands at Appomattox, and bade each other Godspeed in their efforts to bind up the wounds made by that great struggle, this Republic has made greater strides of progress than ever before. We have lived to see it expand from a union of 34 States with 31 millions of people, until it is now a union of 46 States with 90 millions of people. And we have seen the boundaries of nation enlarge so that it can now be truthfully said that the sun never sets upon the flag of this union and this great Republic.

We glory in the thought that we have the best country that can be found anywhere upon the face of the civilized globe, and that it has been dedicated to the sublime cause of liberty and equal opportunity. That here the pathway of success is unobstructed and stands open for every child of toil, and that the invitation is extended to all to enter into the rich fields of honest industry which our common country affords where the only qualifications for success which are required are, a sincere purpose, unceasing toil, a patriotic devotion to the institutions and laws of our country, and a profound and never faltering reverence for its flag.

Yes, we glory in the thought that the foundation was laid here for the greatest republic on earth. That under the providence of God and the patriotism of our people there has been established upon these shores the full realization of civil and religious liberty. It took the sacrifice of Lexington and Valley Forge, to print the stars upon our flag, and the best and bravest blood of both sections of our country to forever settle a great national dispute in order that the republic should live forever and remain a union of States one and inviolate.

We have reason to enjoy a greater pride in our country than ever before. During the last decade this nation has demonstrated to the powers of the earth, that American skill, American progress, American ideas, are bound, in the not far distant future, to dominate the protects where'er it waves, and that wrong, tyranny and oppression protects where'er it waves, and that wrong, tyranny and oppression can not live and flourish upon any soil over which it floats. And as we look upon it, all its glory and all that it represents we feel a sense of unbounded pride that it was given to us by men who dared to act, to suffer and to die, that generations yet unborn would under the shadow of its ample folds defend the liberty vouchsafed to them by the toil and sacrifice of their fathers.

Fellow citizens of Virginia, our beloved old Commonwealth of Pennsylvania—the keystone of our Federal arch, has generously appropriated a sum of money to erect this monument in commemoration of the service and sacrifice of her sons who met the chivalrous hosts of Lee upon this historic ground. And while it serves to tell the story of a service well and patriotically performed, it can not add any honor to the memory of the men, whose regiments are inscribed upon it, beyond that which history and the development of time have already accorded them. Their services and their sacrifices here are written upon the pages of our nation's history where the record will remain long after this granite which testifies to their valor shall have perished and crumbled into dust.

We welcome here you men who so nobly followed the leadership of your great General whose statue adorns the public park of Virginia's most beautiful capitol. And we accept the tribute of your presence at the dedication of this monument as a most conspicuous proof that the era of friendship, and a patriotic desire for the welfare and progress of our Republic, now animates the people of all sections. And that peace and prosperity now rests, like a general benediction from heaven upon our happy and reunited country.

ADDRESS BY DR. THEODORE A. WORRALL, PRIVATE CO. "B," 97TH REGIMENT, PENNSYLVANIA VOLUNTEERS.

MR. CHAIRMAN, Governor and Comrades: I, a private soldier, have handed my hat to a colonel—a medal of honor man, to hold—it could not be done in any other country on God's green earth.

I want to say that there is not or never was a nation that produced soldiers better than those who wore BLUE and GRAY in our Civil War—and each man of those armies honestly believed that he belonged to the best regiment in the service, why only this morning, in Richmond, I met a 55th Pennsylvania man, and I asked which was the best regiment, and he replied—"Why the 55th, of course." A 76th man told me it was the 76th Pennsylvania,—A 44th North Carolina man assured me his regiment was. I concluded to leave it to the 13th Pennsylvania Cavalry, and when I put the question to one of the members, he paused a moment, and said, "it laid between the 97th and the 13th, but he thought the 97th had it," and as the 97th was my own, I shall fall upon that cavalryman's neck, and weep in my dreams. It was this pride of the men of the BLUE and the GRAY. in their respective commands that made the American Volunteer the best soldier known. Is this assertion true? Let us see—what history and statistics prove: The Federal army and the Confederate army as well, were longer in the field, under greater hardships, than any other armies of modern times and lost a greater proportion of their numbers in battle or disease. Let us look for a moment, and see if figures will not bear me out in this matter. The Germans put in the field, 1,124,000; the war lasted seven months and seven days, during which time they lost in killed and wounded, 127,000 men. General Grant had in the final campaign against Richmond, including the columns under Generals Butler and Sigel, 200,000 men, about one-sixth the German force that moved against Paris. His losses were 115,000. Thus in eleven months of fighting, 200,000 of the Union Army lost nearly as many as 1,124,000 Germans in the seven months it took them to conquer France. The Union Army had four years of this awful fighting while the Germans got off with two-thirds of a year. At Waterloo, England's boasted battle, the loss was less than 12 per cent. at Magenta and Solferino, both armies lost less than nine per cent. At North Granelot and Ledan, the loss was 12 per cent. All bloody and desperate battles to which the nations of Europe point as brightest examples of the courage of their soldiers. At Gettysburg and other battles of the Civil War, the loss was 24 per cent. or one in four. Thus the trained soldiers of Europe suffered in comparison with the American Volunteer. Pennsylvania's soldiers, to whom this monument is erected did their share in the making of this great record; on every battlefield of importance, from the Revolution on, Pennsylvanians have died at the post of duty. It was Wayne and his Pennsylvanians, who held back the flanking column and gave Washington time to save his army at Brandywine. Cross into Mexico with the American Army—follow its sanguinary march and you will find the fields of Palo Alto (Monterey), Buena Vista, dotted with her dead. Her sons moistened the Saltilli road with their blood and at last choked Belan Gate with their dead. Yes! they bled and died in every battle field from the Rio Grande to the halls of the Montezumas—

Now let us examine their record in our Civil War. Colonel Fox after six years of careful research, discovered that Pennsylvania lost more men in proportion to the number of its troops than any other State. me it was the 76th Pennsylvania—a 44th North Carolina man assured ago, the only one of your great number with whom I am acquainted

There were forty-five regiments which lost during the war, 200 men in action; of these forty-five, Pennsylvania furnished eleven, a greater number, than any other State. Colonel Fox in his statistics, calls those regiments that lost in action over one hundred and thirty men. Fighting Regiments. There were 300 of them, and of them Pennsylvania furnished fifty-three. You may trace the war record of this nation and it shows that the sins of Pennsylvania, on every field of carnage, went down to the bloody burial of battle with their faces towards the foe. The men who fell on this, and other fields died, that we should have the Union. The Union means peace. We owe it to their ashes to perpetuate harmony and peace. The proudest Americans that went down in that whirlwind of strife, never dreamed of such a Republic, as now spreads from the St. Lawrence to the Rio Grande. The war gave us one flag, the emblem of the Republic; and the sword and mind of all to defend it. That Civil War gave us the National sentiment, the imperial thought, that above every other sentiment, there was AMERICA, and that America, an invocation to universal freedom or a standard of National Sovereignty, meant more than Rome in her loftiest days.

This monument is dedicated to Pennsylvanians who fought on this field. Somehow, Nature by some subtle alchemy gathered the elements from the dark recesses of the earth, and fashioned this seeming imperishable stone; but it will disintegrate and crumble to dust under the ever changing seasons, as summer sunshine follows winter storms, but as long as history is written, the deeds of the Pennsylvanians on this field will not be forgotten.

ADDRESSES AND RESPONSES.

HIS Honor, the Governor of Virginia, together with the Mayor of Richmond, the Mayor of Petersburg, and members of the Robert E. Lee Camp of Confederate Veterans of Richmond, Va., were invited and expected to make addresses, by the commission, but at the time of the dedication, all of the above, through sickness, et cetera, found it impossible to be present in person, and in every instance sent their regrets to the Commission, as well as some one to fill their place.

The Governor of Virginia, sent his entire staff, in full uniform, and delegated Colonel Eugene Carter Massie, Chief of the Governor's staff, to represent him, and voice his sentiments of the grand old Commonwealth of Virginia. This was done in a most masterful manner, and by means of a most excellent oration, one that will be long remembered; but again the Commission has experienced one of their very few misfortunes, in the nature of their inability to catch the words of Colonel Massie in writing, owing to the fact, that a stenographer engaged for the occasion, had in this regard, as well as in others, failed to make his appearance, and hence the loss of this most excellent speech. It might be added, that the Commission has tried to obtain a written copy of the Colonel's speech, but like most fine orations, same was uttered extemporaneously, and the Colonel was unable to add to this memorial, in the nature of his written sentiments. Therefore, much as we regret it, we can only say, that Colonel Eugene Carter Massie, Chief of the Governor's Staff, of Virginia, did all honor to his grand old State, and his utterances were most masterful; full of sentiment, and true Virginia patriotism.

Commission.

THE SENTIMENTS OF THE ROBERT E. LEE, CAMP OF CONFEDERATE VETERANS, OF RICHMOND, VA., WERE VOICED BY THE HON. COLONEL JOHN LAMB, MEMBER OF CONGRESS, RICHMOND DISTRICT.

His remarks are as follows:

MR. CHAIRMAN, and Survivors of the Pennsylvania Troops who engaged at Cold Harbor in June 1864:

Responding to the eloquent and suggestive speech of Governor Stuart, of Pennsylvania, let me say that he has correctly voiced the sentiments of the Virginia people today. This monument that you here dedicate to the valor of your troops on the fateful day inscribed thereon will be as safe and as free from vandalism as if erected any where in your splendid Keystone State.

We welcome you to this historic soil, made famous by the heroic deeds of your Pennsylvania troops. We are glad to know that so many of you escaped the awful carnage of second Cold Harbor. Some Virginians think you all were killed that bloody day. Not all of you, I am sure, safely viewing these fast fading redouts, and recalling the memories and associations of forty-five years ago share the feeling of the Union Irish soldier, who was recounting the scenes at the first Manassas, and telling how he escaped death that day; one of his hearers said: "Why, Pat, sure you did not run?" "Run," he said, "why, faith, and let me tell you, all who did not run are there now."

I did not meet you personally on this particular field, for my former colleagues in Congress, whom I accidentally fell in with a few minutes ago, the only one of your great number with whom I am acquainted then in a Pennsylvania Cavalry Regiment had put me temporarily out of commission a few days before, at a place near here, known as Haws Shop.

I am glad to meet him here to-day, for we served together ten years in Congress, and he has more than once served me good turns; although he has not yet apologized for coming down here into my own State and shooting me, as if I were a rebel and a traitor.

I congratulate your speakers here to-day: I might well claim your sympathy in having to respond unexpectedly to these eloquent addresses, several of which smell of the midnight oil. I am speaking from the heart as well as from the shoulder to you brave Pennsylvanians. We Virginians believe that you were as honest and as loyal as we are in that struggle. Like the VIRGINIANS, you not only felt, but you knew you were right. The best of Virginians feel that it was worth all the bloodshed and sacrifice of war, to have two questions—Chattel Slavery and the Right of Secession—put behind us forever. We also feel that in time these questions would have been put behind us had the God of battles decided for us instead of for your side. But we are not here to speculate on what might have been. The facts are apparent to all discerning minds, and the Virginians you have met in the city of Richmond as well as those hardy yeomen scattered over these battle scarred planes, are as loyal as you can be to the Government and flag of a reunited country. Within a few miles from where we stand I know of many youths who enlisted in and fought through the Spanish-American War.

Your last speaker has encouraged me to remind you of Virginia's contribution to our history, for he boasted somewhat of Pennsylvania's exploits.

Why, gentleman, if it had not been for Virginia, there would have no United States, and you would not be here to-day. Some of you may have been at the Yorktown celebration yesterday. If so, you saw on the splendid monument, erected by the United States Government, that Virginia had 3,300 of Washington's 10,000 in the Continental Army. At the same time, she had 2500 with Green in the South, and 750 soldiers defending the frontier along the Ohio. You need not wonder that the sons of the shires of 1776, inheriting the love of liberty and self-government, defended manfully on these bloody fields around Cold Harbor the rights their fathers had wrung from King George on the plains of Yorktown.

If time permitted, I could tell you a story of sacrifice and toil, of courage and endurance on the part of the people in lower Hanover County that would thrill your souls with admiration for as noble a people, who in all the tide of time, have met defeat and disaster. From the desolation and ashes of war they have built comfortable homes; have erected schoolhouses and churches; have defied the very fates and laughed at impossibilities. This sand soil has not been watered with State or Federal Pensions, paid out quarterly, nor have these industrious citizens, braver in peace even than in war, asked anything of legislation save the proud privilege of paying into the State Treasury their quota of the taxes.

Again permit me on behalf of the Lee Camp of Confederate Veterans of Richmond, to welcome you in your pious duty of guarding the memories of your fallen comrades. The survivors of these terrible conflicts should unite and see that this battle ground, twice watered with the blood of brave men who exemplified all the heroic qualities of American soldiers is marked, and preserved as well as Antietam and Gettysburg.

Here the faith and endurance of the Union soldiers was tried as never before. Their long and persistent struggle came near ending in despair when they failed, after repeated and well directed efforts in forcing back the Confederate lines. Nowhere in the long and bloody strife did Southern valor shine out so gloriously as on these fields, where so many brave men, on both sides, sacrificed their lives for their convictions.

We are glad to know that you brave, loyal men, are trying to do your duty in this direction. Some of us tested your bravery at Sharpsburg, and we felt your loyalty at Gettysburg. As you have lived brave lives, may you die worthy patriots, dear to God, and famous in all ages.

ADDRESS OF THOMAS A. STUART, COMMANDER-IN-CHIEF, PENNSYLVANIA G. A. R.

In this, as in other instances, Mr. Stuart having spoken extemporaneously, and the stenographer being absent, the Commission is unable to print Mr. Stuart's speech, a fact which is to be regretted for the reason, that this speech was one of the most ardent of the day—full of pathos and tender memories, being a speech that will linger till the end in the minds of those who were so fortunate as to hear it.

Commission.

BENEDICTION BY REV. L. C. EDMONDS, AT COLD HARBOR.

BRETHREN DEAR: Realizing that ours is God's country in a pre-eminent sense, for the uplift of all mankind—and that we all are his children needing his constant loving care, let us not leave this sacred place without invoking his fatherly benediction upon us:

"The Lord bless thee—keep thee; the Lord lift up his countenance upon thee and be gracious unto thee. The Lord make his face shine upon thee and give thee peace, through our Lord, Jesus Christ. Amen."

THE Commission sent out many invitations to the dedication of this monument at Cold Harbor, Va., and to many of the most noted, as well as greater statesmen of the country. They also sent invitations to the various heads of the State and National Departments, and to the President of the United State, to many of which they received replies, expressing the regrets of the receiver, that they would not be present—Among some of the most prominent are the following:

THE WHITE HOUSE, WASHINGTON.

The President regrets his inability to accept the courteous invitation of the Cold Harbor Battlefield Commission to be present at the dedicatory ceremonies of the monument to commemorate the services of Pennsylvania Troops at Cold Harbor, Wednesday, October twentieth, nineteen hundred and nine.

FOLLOWING is the response received from the Secretary of War, to the invitation of the Commission to the dedicatory services, Cold Harbor, Va., Wednesday, Oct. 20th, 1909.

The Secretary of War regrets that previous engagements prevent him from accepting the kind invitation of the Cold Harbor Battlefield Commission to attend the dedicatory ceremonies of the monument to commemorate the services of Pennsylvania Troops at Cold Harbor, on Wednesday, October 20th, 1909.

Washington, D. C., October 13th, 1909.

AN INVITATION to the dedicatory services of the Cold Harbor Monument, in memory of the Pennsylvania troops that took part in that engagement, June 1864, erected by the State of Pennsylvania, and which was dedicated October 20th, 1909, was sent to the Hon. Boies Penrose, Senator of Pennsylvania, to which he caused the following reply to be made:

UNITED STATE SENATE.

No. 329 Broad Street,
Philadelphia, Penna., October 12th, 1909.

Captain P. D. Bricker, Jersey Shore, Penna.

Dear Captain: I am directed by Senator Penrose to acknowledge receipt of invitation of the Cold Harbor Battlefield Commission to be present at the dedicatory ceremonies of the monument to commemorate the services of Pennsylvania Troops at Cold Harbor, Wednesday, October the twentieth, nineteen hundred and nine, and to state that, on account of prior engagements, he will be unable to attend which he very much regrets.

Yours truly,

W. R. Andrews.

ON RESPONSE to an invitation to the ceremonies, sent his Honor the Mayor of Petersburg, Va., Mr. Jones made the following answer:

MAYOR'S OFFICE,

Petersburg, Va.,

William M. Jones, Mayor.

October 12th, 1909.

Mr. P. D. Bricker,

Jersey Shore, Pa.

Dear Sir: I desire to thank you and through you, the Committee of Cold Harbor Battlefield Commission, for your courteous invitation to be present at the dedicatory ceremonies of the monument to commemorate the services of the Pennsylvania Troops, on that bloody field.

If it were possible, it would afford me much pleasure to attend, with sincere regret that I cannot do so, I am

Cordially yours,

WM. M. JONES.

Of course, the Commission sent out many invitations to other notables of which there will be no mention made at this time, owing to the fact that in most instances, the invitations were accepted, and those accepting were present, and will be found and made mention of somewhere on the program, a copy of which will appear later.

Commission.

IN MEMORIAM

PATRICK FRANCIS HODGE.

Captain 55th Pennsylvania Infantry, Died, Swissvale, Pennsylvania, November 25th, 1909.

PATRICK FRANCIS HODGE:—

Private 14th Pennsylvania Infantry, April 24th, 1861; mustered out August 6th, 1861.

Private 55th Pennsylvania Infantry, September 14th, 1861; sergeant, November 1st, 1861; first sergeant, January 1st, 1863; discharged for promotion August 8th, 1863.

Second lieutenant, 55th Pennsylvania Infantry, August 8th, 1863; first lieutenant, November 9th, 1863; captain, April 1st, 1865; honorably mustered out August 30th, 1865.

Elected October 16th, 1889, Class 1. Insignia 7337. M. O. Loyal Legion.

Born, November 1st, 1839, in Blair Co., Penna.

Died, November 25th, 1909, at Swissvale, Penna.

COMPANION Patrick Francis Hodge, for ten years previous to his death held the responsible position of tax collector for Swiss-borough, the second largest borough in Allegheny County.

Companion Hodge spent his early days upon a farm, and the rugged life led by the mountain boy stood him in good stead for the stirring times so soon to follow in the War of the Rebellion.

In response to the first call for troops to preserve the Union, Companion Hodge promptly enlisted in the 14th Regiment of the Pennsylvania Infantry, (three months service). At the expiration of this term he immediately re-enlisted in the 55th Regiment Pennsylvania Infantry; serving during the entire war, he stood with his regiment in the front line at Appomattox, and was finally mustered out, September 30th, 1865.

Companion Hodge was twice severely wounded, once at Pocotaligo,
South Carolina, October 22nd, 1863, and again at Drury's Bluff, May 16th, 1864, where he was also taken prisoner. After eight months' confinement he escaped and joined the army under General Sherman.

He was commander of the Major Keenan Post, G. A. R. at Jersey Shore, Pa., as well as a member of the Military Order of the Pennsylvania Commandery of the Loyal Legion of the United States of America, being elected to membership, October 10th, 1894.

Captain Bricker was a man of sterling worth, and a benefactor to his fellow man. He was much interested in the affairs of the community in which he lived, being burgess of the above named residence at the time of his death. Too much cannot be said of the qualities of Captain Bricker that so endeared him to all who were honored with his acquaintance, and of the many acts of kindness that will ever link him in the memories of his host of friends. When others were involved, he forgot self, and was a friend to the rich, or poor; the unfortunate, or oppressed, alike, so much so, that, as was said by Antony of Caesar, so may it be truthfully said of Captain P. D. Bricker—"He was my friend, faithful and just to me."

Compiled by M. Edward Toner, successor to late Capt. P. D. Bricker, Jersey Shore, Pennsylvania.
