CAMPBELL EXPLAINS

Controversy Started in the Glendale Daily Press Wages Hotly

Discussion of the necessity for a special session of the legislature for the re-apportionment of representation, started by the publica tion of an interview with John Robert White, Jr., in the Glendale Press, followed by a retort from Governor Stephens, has progressed so far as a second letter from Mr. White and the issuance of a statement by Kemper Campbell of Glendale, supporting the position of Governor Stephens.

Following the sequence of Mr White's first interview, which started the controversy, there is given here, Governor Stephens' re ply, Mr. White's second letter, and the comment of Mr. Campbell.

Undoubtedly there will be other communications The Governor's letter to Mr. White follows: 'Hon. John Robert White, "Glendale, California,

"Dear Mr. White: Your letter of March 6, written evidently in carping, if not in ugly spirit, has been received, and I am very glad indeed to have the opportunity of answering such unrea sonable statements as are set forth therein and as others besides yourself have made to the public.
"In the first place I call your at tention to the fact that it is the constitutional duty of the legislature and not of the Governor to pass a reapportionment measure. The legislature has all the legal power—the governor has none.

"Section VI, Article IV, of the constitution says: "'The census taken under the direction of the congress of the United States in the year 1880, and every ten years thereafter, shall be the basis of fixing and adjusting the legislative districts and the legislature shall at its first session after each census adjust such disriets and reapportion the representation so as to preserve them as near equal in population as may

World Adolescent Slowly Coming to Adult-Mindedness

Every sign in the sky of today is that of dawn and not of twilight, says Dr. Frank Crane, in his article on the editorial page tonight. He says that in inventions we have only begun and that the world is in adolescence and slowly coming to adult-mindedness, "All we have to do," says Dr. Crane, "is to learn to keep out of each other's way, help each other, learn the infinite value of team work and the world will bound on the way toward the Golden Year like a thoroughbred touched by the spur." James W. Foley in "The Listening Post" writes of faith, hope and charity. Henry James in his column comments on the widening sphere of woman's influence, and draws a picture of a young woman who heads and inspires a band of thieves and thugs. The "she scoundrel" engineered the robberies and just recently led her gang to rob a man of a $10,000 diamond which prompts Mr. James to say that such a valuable gem should be kept in a safe place.

In "Watching the Parade" this evening you will find some terse remarks on the folly of going wrong and upon the advisability of helping the wrongdoer to go right.

Own Your Own Home

So the thought of home building comes direct from nature to human folk and the dream of owning a cosy home is never more real than today.

Glendale people boast proudly that theirs is a city of home owners, meaning a people that. have gone through the anxious period of figuring by the night light with wives, sons and daughters, poring over maps and figuring income budget as against rent.

The long streets of pretty little homes tell of dreams come true in a community gifted with human understanding, aid and unity. To those who can read the story of constructive effort these homes must ever talk in words whose import cannot be evaded. Each home tells that today it stands a complete unit in civilization marking the evolution of one human family from rent serfdom to the free soil home owning substantial citizen against whom the storms of adversity will ever be imposed a sheltering roof and tight walls.

Further that the value of each lot and each home in cash has advanced from 50 to 100 per cent since the evolution occurred. That each home built here automatically advances the value of each other.

With aiding hands, sympathetic ears, wide credit based on your character and earnestness, Glendale invites you to trust to those who have come before youand to build YOUR home here.

POLICE Dodge Auto Magnate's Son Washes Dishes

Detroit, March 18.- John Duval Dodge, millionaire son of the automobile manufacturer, had his first workout at dish washing in the house of correction today.

Dodge, after spending the night on a bunk in the corridor of the prison where he is serving a five-day sentence for speeding, was assigned to the dish washing corps temporarily. Early in the morning, Dodge was placed in the line of incoming prisoners, his civilian clothes taken away, and a prison suit of blue denim given to him.

Although Dodge was in the custody of the sheriff yesterday while efforts were being made to obtain freedom for him by his attorneys, it count-ed as the first day of his sentence.

Dodge was assigned to shoveling coal. He heaved the black diamonds into wagons to be distributed to the various buildings in the prison.

The crowds began to gather about 8:30 and at 9 o'clock, one of the season's jolliest social affairs was in full swing.

Dancing and cards occupied the evening, and the music for dance ing was furnished by the "Galety Four" which includes Myrle Budd saxophone; Phil Dillinger, drums Miss Marion Jones, piano, and Mr. Gare, violin. This orchestra cer tainly did their best in furnishing the right sort of "jazz" and every one remarked how much they en joyed it.

In the card room, numerous card tables had been set up and a great many who did not dance or care to spent a pleasant evening playing bridge and "500"

Own Your Own Own-a-Home Week Own Your Own

This is "Own-a-Home" Week

The day of the renter is rapidly passing. This naturally comes as a result of the rent payer seeing the folly of having everything going out and nothing coming in. Renting is such a one-sided game. After the renter has paid in his little (or big) rent check for ten long years he has nothing to show but pretty little pink receipt slips. Oh, yes, he has something else—regrets and usually an empty pocketbook.

Part of this fellow's payments have gone each month to cut down the principal. Year by year this principal has decreased. As time went on the percentage that was clipped from the principal became larger and the amount eaten up in interest became smaller. The result is that at the end of ten years the little home is free and clear, and there is a little bundle of spare change in the bank for the "rainy day" which generally comes as a thief in the night.

ANNOUNCEMENT

J. P. Lampert and John Young wish to announce that they have opened a Real Estate and Insurance office across the street from the Glendale City Hall at 622 East Broadway, which will be known as the GOLDEN RULE Real Estate Office.

Our aim will be to get the buyer and seller together on a basis which will be fair to both.

If any one has property of any kind to sell at a fair valuation, it will please us to have you list it at the Golden Rule Office, and we will make an honest effort to sell it for you quickly.

· Come in at any time; it will be a pleasure to us to show you the property we have to offer for sale.

We now offer for sale seventeen lots in a tract which we have recently subdivided on East Wilson avenue near the foothills, on the Glendale-Eagle Rock car line, just six hundred feet north of the New Broadway Union High School

These lots will be sold very reasonable. They are only from $1050 to $1750 per lot, and every one of them will make a beautiful place for a real homelike home; sidewalks and street curbing are in and paid for, with water and gas on all the streets.

and on Sinclair and Richland avenues $3000 Make your choice of these lots early; they will not last long at these prices.

Restrictions on Wilson avenue are $3500

MRS. GLEN CRAIG

A shadow of sorrow was cast over the many friends of Mrs. Glen Craigupon learning of her death. Friday night at her home in Exeter, Callf. Mrs. Craig is the eldest daughter of W. A. Hough, 303 North Maryland avenue, and was a resident of Glendale for about 15 years, having lived on West Garfield avenue. Mrs. Craigwas formerly Miss Mabel Evans Hough, was a graduate of Cerritos avenue school, and later attended the local high school. The announcement of her death comes as a great shock to her relatives and many friends, as she had been ill only a short time. Mrs. Craig was active in church and social circles and dearly loved by all who knew her.

She leaves her husband, Glen Craigand two children, Mary Pauline and Glen Craig, Jr., her father W. A. Hough, of 303 North Maryland avenue, a sister, Mrs. Louis Coole of Exeter, who was formerly Miss Mary Jane Evans Hough; an aunt, Mrs. R. S. Todd of 416 North Maryland avenue, and other relatives in Los Angeles.

The body is being shipped to the estate in all its branches.

MRS. GLEN CRAIG

A request has been received by the city council from the Master Painters of Glendale, requesting that body to adopt an ordinance regulating the business of painting contractors within the city of Glendale. The object of this request is to raise the standard of the Balaters working in Glendale and painters working in Glendale and to insure the people of Glendale etter painting work on the part of rived guest.

William Allen White, the Kansas editor, was talking about droughts. "One summer during a terrible drought," he said, "a tourist was through Arizona. He put up one night in a town so dried up that even the trees had yellowed and withered. 'Does it ever rain here?' the tourist said to the landlord of the hot, dusty hole.

"How could it have been worse?"
"Why, the governor or a congressman might have come and took charge instead of the mayor, and it might not have rained."

Along with its perfectly balanced motor-which is in itself a large element of driving comfort—the New Series of the good Maxwell is a remarkably easy car to drive. Steering, clutch, brakes, gearshift, all operate with the minimum of physical effort. The nice adjustment of the exceptionally long springs to the weight of the chassis effects a riding ease that is decidedly unusual in a light

$1465 Here

No man can help being impressed by what Hupmobile owners say about their car. It is not merely that the Hupmobile Owner gives remarkable facts and figures of performance and economy.

It is not only because of his contagious enthusiasm over the Hupmobile's get-away, its power, its gas and tire mileage and its visible savings in repairs.

What convinces most is the belief that the Hupmobile gives a degree of service, coupled with a degree of economy unequalled by any other motor car built today.

You never hear anything but "Good Things" about a Hupmobile.

Empire China Factory Is Starting Its Output to Market

BURBANK, March 18.—The Emire China factory is turning out ishes by the thousands of dozens, beautiful white dishes, some of them plain and some in patterns, and this week saw the first snipment from the factory, and from this time on, there will be a constant output. More kilns are being fired; more help is being hired and more shipping is being is be-ing done. The plant is now running about sixty percent capacity and employing over one hundred

This factory is an especially in-teresting place to visit. Some fac-tories are interesting to the layman and others are not; this is one which, in a general way, at least, can be understood and enjoyed by even the most dense. The rocess of dish making begins in this factory from the powder form of the ingredients which go to make up the ware. In the future he company expects to do even its own grinding, but at present this is done in Los Angeles. This powder is mixed with water and put through agitators and run over very fine meshed screens to take particles too large to be de sirable: it goes through a process in which the water is squeezed out, most of it, leaving it in a puttylike state and in the form of large round slabs. The next process liminates the air and this puttylike substance emerges from the air-eliminating machine in derical form and is cut off into certain lengths and carted away to the work tables of those who take portions of it and slap it over the molds, shaping it into saucers, plates, platters and other shallow dishes. Deeper receptables demand and will move in as soon as it is a treatment somewhat dissimilar in process of molding. After a ew hours in the drying ovens, this

News of the death of Samuel Silas Curry, educator of voice and mind and soul, must have brought to thousands of people scattered through the United States and Canada a poignant sense of personal loss. For in his long career of useful effort thousands had been in close contact with Dr. Curry, and the lives of every one of these had been enriched by the contact.

It could not have been otherwise, so radiant was he of vitalizing thought. The finer realities were unmistakably his possession, and both consciously and unconsciously he labored all his days to help others gain possession of them likewise. And he labored tirelessly. No man among all my acquaintances

When the institution which he had created in Boston-the School of Expression—was not in session, Dr. Curry traveled far to teach in other schools.: He conducted summer schools in various cities. At different periods of his life he taught in some of the largest of American universities. When not teaching he was writing. A score of help-can universities. When not teaching he was writing. A score of helpful books remain to perpetuate his name.

Their dmoinant note is a stressing of the basic truth, "As a man thinketh, so is he." This also was the dominant note in all of Dr. Curry's educational endeavor. Unceasingly he warned his pupils:

"If you really wish to speak well, think well. Expression must always be from within out. Voice training can do much for you. But it cannot do all that is possible unless there is cultivation of the mind and spirit too.

'Without such cultivation there are sure to be defects in expression, no matter how carefully the voice is trained. The mind always governs, and is revealed through the voice. The more generously, the ore courageously, the more sympathetically, the more graciously and intelligently one speaks, the finer the expression will be."

This being his educational creed, Dr. Curry strove to make, and notably succeeded in making, his School of Expression something more than the conventional school for voice training. He made it a school wherein young men and women were exceptionally well prepared for

His pupils gained more than a surface acquaintance with the best in art, in literature, in philosophy. Their esthetic taste was developed, their moral sense quickened. They learned, that is, not only how to express themselves well, but how to be worthy of expression.

Is it any wonder that, long before they graduated, they came to look upon Dr. Curry as one of America's truly great educators? He was that, beyond the slightest question. And his influence, it is equally certain, will not cease with his departure from earth, but will continue through those whom he taught.

Whether his School of Expression will survive as a source of illuments.

Whether his School of Expression will survive as a source of illumination and inspiration for young people is, of course, another question.

There are many among its graduates well qualified to conduct it in complete accordance with the principles of its founder. It would be a real loss to Boston, a real loss of the country, if the passing of that founder were permitted to mean also the cessation of the school so effectively carried on by him for nearly thirty-five years.

UNAPPRECIATED BLESSINGS

Londoners are being warned not to waste water. All the country tributary to the great city has experienced an unprecedented drouth. The official request points to the grave danger of being left without any water. It tells people that instead of the shower bath, or the plunge, they must learn to get clean by the use of a quart of water, and plenty of soap. The habit of washing the hands at a running spigot is condemned. On the contrary there must be only a trifle of water in the bottom of the bowl. The love of the English for splashing around in an abundant measure of water is well known. With many of them the bath is almost a ceremonial rite. It is the starting point of the day's routine, essential at least, as the morning meal.

In this section of a favored country there has been grumbling at the abundance of rain. It has fallen in volume seldom equaled, and in instances has caused inconvenience. Pedestrians have been known to get their feet wet. Dampness has seeped into base-maturity and all the indications ments, and the imperfect roof has permitted water to of amazing possibilities. drip upon the place beneath. Faith, hope and charity. These three.

And the greatest of these is charity. As was said by a dynamic and forceful individual two thousand years ago.

These are spiritual attributes of living. It is necessary that we have faith in existence. In the worth-whileness of things.

In the doing of tasks. In the ultimate vindication of our endeavors.

And hope goes hand in hand with faith. For without hope there would be no light. Many times we would travel in utter darkness. Without illumination.

Faith is the belief in progress. Hope is the light or torch bearer.

And then there is charity. Which is a broad term. Sometimes interpreted only to mean the giving away of bread and raiment to the poor.

A narrow interpretation. Charity signifies tolerance.

Friendliness and sweetness and forgiveness and helpfulness. It is the mellowing of the spirit. Faith and hope deal more with the individual.

Charity is the spirit that articulates the individual with the mass of individuals. It is a kind of cement that binds individuals together in a solid structure.

And then aside from faith, hope and charity, we need other trinities of attributes in life.

In work for instance. We need three principal things: Patience. Perseverance. Purpose.

They might be termed the faith, hope and charity of endeavor.

The men and women who have achieved have

They have had purpose in view. A clear conception of the thing to be done.

Have you mapped out your desires and hopes and wishes into a pattern of purpose? Try it some time. Just as you map out the day's work.

And with purpose we need perserverance. The work of a lifetime cannot be done in a day. Or in a year.

Or in ten years. Perseverance is a kind of cement again that binds the work of the days together.

Then perseverance is the cement that knits the pages of the story together.

And patience is the kindly, illuminating and tolerant spirit that colors and beautifies the story. Faith, hope and charity again. What it meant in purpose, patience and perse-

SONGS OF THE POETS

The Shrine-By Digby Mackworth Doblen (1848-1867)

There is a shrine whose golden gate Was opened by the Hand of God:

It stands serene, inviolate, Though millions have its pavement trod; As fresh, as when the first sunrise Awake the lark in Paradise.

'Tis compassed with the dust and toil Of common days, yet should there fall A single speck, a single soil

Upon the whiteness of its wall, The angels' tears in tender rain Would make the temple theirs again. Without, the world is tired and old, But, once within the enchanted door, The mists of time are backward rolled, And creeds and ages are no more; But all the human-hearted meet In one communion vast and sweet.

I enter-all is simply fair, Nor incense-clouds, nor carven throne; But in the fragrant morning air A gentle lady sits alone;

My mother—ah! whom should I see

Within, save ever only thee?

I was sitting in Joe Baggott's office the other day, smoking his good cigars, listening to his good stories and interfering with the orderly conduct of his good business when the outer door of the office burst open. A large man burst in. A good deal of white was showing in his eyes and he was pale and thin and shaky, and Joe Baggott's secretary was making motions as though he would like to throw the big man out, but did not know where it was safe to take hold.

"I've got to have a job," said the large man, almost breathlessly. One would have said he was on the verge of hysterics.
